A NEW ACT OF PENALIZATION.—An Act of Parliament has just been printed to render personation a felony which, no doubt resulted from the trial of the Tichborne Claimant. It is now enacted that if any person shall falsely and deceitfully personate any person, or the heir, executor, or administrator, wife, widow, next-of-kin, or relation of any person, with intent fraudulently to obtain any land, estate, chattel, money, valuable security, or property, he shall be guilty of felony, and liable to penal servitude for life, or to not less than five years, or to imprisonment not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and without solitary confinement...

Case No. 2. Young Italian officer weds a maiden who reciprocates; maiden is found penniless, and officer declares that his pay is not sufficient to maintain two, hence withdraws; young lady pays the required $5, and dispatches poor officer to the same land of celibacy. Assassin is briefly imprisoned, and maiden looks out for another lover. This case is simpler than the other. Indeed, under the perfect system to which the assassination business is reduced in Rome, a first-class homicide is within the reach of the humblest artisan...

HOLLAND. Holland is one of the quietest countries of Europe and, as a rule, its existence is hardly noticed by the rest of the world. Still there are many things going on in the national life of that out-of-the-way country which cannot but interest outsiders to almost the same extent as they do natives. Among these is the discussion of the relative merits of religious and secular education now going on among the Dutch politicians and pedagogues...

GERMANY. The Prussian Government suspect that the Catholic clergy of the dioceses whose Bishops are in prison are being directed by a person or persons secretly appointed by the Pope. Great exertions are being made to discover this novel organization of the Papal Church. The Prussian Minister of the Interior has called for a return of all foreign Carmelite nuns resident in Prussia, it is supposed with a view to requiring their removal from the country...

THE CIVIL WAR IN SPAIN AND THE GAMBLERS.—"It is an ill wind that blows nobody good," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "and the Carlist war in Northern Spain has given a new lease of life to a moribund industry. The ethical austerity of the German Government swept the gaming-tables out of Ens, Homburg, Wiesbaden, and Baden-Baden, and Belgium followed suit by moralizing Spa. The bold proposal of the Figaro to resuscitate Frascati's was not favourably received by the French in that moral mood of theirs which followed the peace and produced the homilies of M. Dumas the younger. In all Europe, a year ago, only heated and crowded Manaco kept 'the tables' open. But one of the veteran speculators of the German casinos—the renowned M. Dupressoir, it is said—has accompanied with all his army of croupiers and battery of green cloth at Fuenterrabia. This little town lies on the Spanish bank of the Bidasoa, the neutralized stream that separates France and Spain at the south-eastern angle of the Bay of Biscay. It is of course very easy of access from the French side, and any Frenchman who cares to taste the thrilling delights of 'trente-et-quarante' or 'roulette' has only to run down by train from Bayonne or Biarritz, and take a boat chartered by the enterprising exploitateur of the Fuenterrabia gaming-table, to the scene of action. For most Frenchmen the banks of the Bidasoa are quite as easy of access as either the Rhenish watering places or the dwarf Italian principality; and while the Spanish Government or Governments are too much occupied with serious fighting to be rigorously moral, the speculators at Fuenterrabia ought to drive a prosperous trade."

ITALY. A German newspaper states that the Pope has peremptorily refused to join the European powers in the recognition of Spain. NATIONALISM IN THE PROPAGANDA.—The Propaganda is neither an Italian nor a Roman institution; it is the property of the Church universal, and the Government of King Victor Emanuel cannot claim a single subject within it. All the pupils are strangers from the most distant land. The College is directed by a rector, Father Gustavus Conrad; a vice-rector, Father Forti; a master of ceremonies, Father Veglia; a chief censor, Father Poggioli, and by twenty-six professors. In November last there were 102 pupils or seminarians, the elders of whom were born in 1842 in Norway, and while the youngest is a negro born in Abyssinia in 1862. The pupils belong to the following countries; Abyssinia, Albania, Germany, Armenia, Belgium, Cape of Good Hope, Constantinople, India, North and South America, Dalmatia, Denmark, Ionia, Greece, Egypt, Epirus, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Mesopotamia, Australia, New Zealand, Nova Scotia, Syria, and Newfoundland. There are already amongst them six priests and several deacons. The teachers used formerly to belong to the order of Theatines, afterwards that of the Jesuits, but at present they are all secular priests.—Catholic Review.

ROME AS IT IS UNDER VICTOR EMMANUEL.—The Chicago Tribune has an excellent article on the subject: "Charming place, Rome. Chivalric gentlemen on murder bent can obtain all the satisfaction they want from homicide, escape the danger of detection and brief imprisonment, lawyers, fees, and newspaper exposure, for the trifling sum of 25 francs. Three or four little transactions in gold, at $5 per transaction, have recently been brought to light, the prisoners 'moderately' punished, and their employers allowed to 'escape scot-free.' Here is an instance. Penniless young nobleman loves wealthy merchant's daughter; daughter loves nobleman; parents object; lovers elope; parent recovers his daughter but remains obdurate; daughter mourns; parent, in disgust, determines to banish nobleman to the land where there is no marrying or giving in marriage; arranges with his groom to hire a murderer; murderer (professional) demands $5, and receives it; nobleman stabbed in broad daylight and assassin arrested, red-handed; groom disappears; link wanting between assassin and accessory; assassin is sentenced to a brief imprisonment, and wealthy parent is happy. This is simple and inexpensive. Case No. 2. Young Italian officer weds a maiden who reciprocates; maiden is found penniless, and officer declares that his pay is not sufficient to maintain two, hence withdraws; young lady pays the required $5, and dispatches poor officer to the same land of celibacy. Assassin is briefly imprisoned, and maiden looks out for another lover. This case is simpler than the other. Indeed, under the perfect system to which the assassination business is reduced in Rome, a first-class homicide is within the reach of the humblest artisan. No family should be without one; fee after assassination, and newspaper publicity avoided. What with brigandage in the suburbs, malaria in the Campagna, and third-class artists from all countries wandering about the streets, the Eternal City offers romantic inducements to persons seeking a quiet residence unequalled in any other part of the world."

LYNCH LAW ON AN INNOVATION.—A tramp, named Westhall, was remanded by the magistrates at Blough, England, on a charge of having set fire to four wheat ricks, the property of Mr. King, farmer, on Friday last, doing damage to the amount of £800. The ricks were discovered on fire by one of Mr. King's men. An alarm was raised, and, although dark, the prisoner was found amongst some other ricks a short distance off. A number of people had assembled at the fire by the time, and the indignation was so great that some persons tied the prisoner's hands behind him and threw him into the flames. The police had great difficulty in rescuing him. He was burnt about the head and face, but not very severely. The prisoner stated that he had been in prison until a few days before for a similar offence, and that if he had not been found he should have set all the other ricks on fire.

A NEW ACT OF PENALIZATION.—An Act of Parliament has just been printed to render personation a felony which, no doubt resulted from the trial of the Tichborne Claimant. It is now enacted that if any person shall falsely and deceitfully personate any person, or the heir, executor, or administrator, wife, widow, next-of-kin, or relation of any person, with intent fraudulently to obtain any land, estate, chattel, money, valuable security, or property, he shall be guilty of felony, and liable to penal servitude for life, or to not less than five years, or to imprisonment not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour, and without solitary confinement. The offence is not to be tried at the quarter sessions.

THE NEGROES AGAIN.—SELMA, Ala., Sept. 15.—A despatch to the Times from Demopolis says a party of negroes was discovered yesterday armed and drilling 6 miles from that place. To the question what they meant, the leader replied that negro blood had been shed and they were determined to have white blood. Two unarmed white men who went to convince them of their mistake and make them disperse were fired upon and both wounded, one seriously and one mortally. This morning the whites, to the number of 30 or 40, went down and dispersed the armed negroes, killing and wounding several of them. The negroes numbered 200. They are the same negroes that stopped the Government rations and have since held armed possession of the public highway. When fired upon they dispersed, but they are reported to have re-assembled and declare that no white man shall pass that road on pain of death.

SUCCESS IN LIFE.—One of the most alarming signs of the times, is to be seen in the universal homage paid to success—regardless of the means by which it was attained. Success is the only criterion by which a man is to be judged, and attaining that, in any walk of life, he is a model to be commended and admired. If he succeeds in amassing wealth no matter how attained, the dead is not more free from criticism, than the puffed magrato who uses that wealth in ignorant pride, personal gratification, or the demoralization of the community in which he reside. If a man attains position and prominence in public life, wielding power and influence, he is frowned upon and followed by the needy and unscrupulous; courted or feared, the respectable masses, losing sight of the ignoble means, the dishonesty, fraud and corruption which cling like a garment about him, count his success a virtue, and he struts his day, poisoning the very atmosphere of political life with his corruption and vice. So in every walk of life, success is the criterion; and he only is successful who puts money in his purse, or elbows his way by fraud and cunning, to the front. This feeling and sentiment is spreading like poison through the national life. We are said to be a fast people—almost a law unto ourselves—and we have certainly reversed many old-fashioned ways and laws; first among them the true standard of success and manhood, and placed in its stead this modern "Josh" of gold; and honored its votaries, though their success was won by the loss of every virtue which God commands. The public sentiment is debauched, and we see its fruit in the low standard of public and private life which the pulpit and the press deplores. We are worse than in Europe to-day; for there they will not honor wealth dishonestly obtained, nor give high places to corrupt or designing knaves.—Boston Leader.

A SAILOR'S DESCRIPTION OF HIS BRIDE.—A seafaring man who has recently married gives the following description of his bride and her apparel:—"My wife is just as handsome a craft as ever left millinery dry dock, is clipper built, and with a figure head not often seen on small craft. Her length of keel is 5ft 8in., and displaces 27 cubic feet of air; of light draught, which adds to her speed in a ball room; full in the waist, spars trim. At the time we were spliced she was newly rigged fore and aft, with standing rigging of lace and flowers; mainsail, part silk, with fore-staysail of Valenciennes. Her frame was of the best steel, covered with silk with whalebone stanchions. This is intended for fair weather cruising. She has also a set of storm sails for rough weather, and is rigged out a small set of canvas for light squalls, which are liable to occur in this latitude sooner or later. I am told in running down the street before the wind, she answers the helm beautifully, and can turn around in her own length if a handsome craft passes her."

SQUEAKING BOOTS.—A Providence (Rhode Island) man who draws the price of squeaking boots from a shoe store always gets them on Saturday, and by the next day the full power of the squeak is developed. He arrives at church at the opening of a long prayer and is admitted by the sexton with admiring gestures of silence. The first step inside the door is followed by a sound like that of ripping a clapboard from the side of a barn while all the ladies on the right side of the aisle tip their top-knots to one side and squint from their left eye, those on the other side reversing the order. Balancing painfully on his worst corn, he makes a more gradual effort, and is rewarded by hearing the same harmonic reverberance like linked sweetness—long drawn out. Then he tries to navigate on the balls of his feet and waddles along on his heels. He clutches convulsively at the sides of the pews to lighten his weight knocks down a woman's parasol, and gets all the deacons to raising their heads and the skin across their foreheads, and scowling as they do the rest of the week. So he determines to mince the matter no more and trots along fast, jerking out spasmodic "shrieks of a soul that's damned" with a regularity that he never could attain at anything else, and reaches his pew with all his undergarments turned to porous plasters, and his face of colour to match the saint done in red glass in the principal window.

BREAKFAST—EPPE'S COCOA—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with Boiling Water or Milk. Sold by Grocers in Packets only, labelled—"J. Epps & Co. Homoeopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 170, Piccadilly; Works, Buxton Road and Camden Town, London; MANUFACTURERS OF COCOA."—We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs. James Epps & Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London.—See article in Cassell's Household Guide.

HAVE YOUR CLOTHING MARKED.—In a life time it will save you many dollars and afford much gratification. Payson's Indelible Ink is indispensable for the purpose; it needs no preparation, it will not injure the finest fabric and can be used with a common pen. INFLAMMATION OF THE LUNGS.—CLIFTON, N. B., 17th February, 1874.—Sir: In behalf of my family, I wish to acknowledge a debt of gratitude I owe Mr. James J. Fellows. My daughter had been ill with Inflammation of the Lungs, had raised large quantities of blood and purulent matter, attended with every symptom of Consumption. After obtaining the attendance of two eminent physicians, who afforded her no relief, she was persuaded to try Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. Upon taking two bottles we had every reason to believe she would be cured. Her physicians were surprised to find her improvement so rapid, and advised her to continue its use, which she did until her complete recovery. Two years have elapsed, during which time she has neither taken nor required any medicine, enjoying good health, and urges all who are afflicted with any Lung or Chest trouble to use the Hypo. without fail. My wife, also having been in bad fever for some time, and having had Typhoid Fever in December last, which left her much prostrated, was advised by the physicians to use this remedy to build her up. Before taking half a bottle she found herself much benefited, and still continues to use it. I believe, under kind Providence, Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites has been the means of restoring both my wife and daughter, and I hope the afflicted will avail themselves of its use, for although it is widely used, I think its value is not appreciated.—Yours truly, JOSEPH A. EVANS.
