RECRUITING FOR THE NEW CORPS THURSDAY

Arrangements for Transporting the Men—No Fixed Quota for Any One Center.

Ottawa, April 9.—The British Government has been asked to send three transports to take the next Canadian contingent to South Africa. The first one is expected in three weeks, and leave during thee first week in May. The other two will probably leave within a week or two of each other.

It is expected that the four re[illegible]ents tingent will be called the 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th Battalions, Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Recruiting will probably commence tomorrow (Thursday) for the next Canadian contingent. It has been decided not to fix any quota for each recruiting center, but to take all the men offering who possess the necessary qualifications.

In addition to Toronto, London, Guelph, Kingston and Ottawa, the the usual recruiting centers in Ontario, enrollment for the latest Canadian contingent will take place at Port Hope and other points.

KRUGER'S SON STILL FIGHTING.

Amsterdam, April 8.—The statement published in Europe that the eldest son of Mr. Kruger had taken the oath of allegiance to the British Government in the Transvaal is positively denied by the Boer colony here. The Caspar Kruger mentioned must, they say, be a man of that name who is an inhabitant of Rustenburg, as Kruger's son is still in the field with the Boer commandos.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" at the Dundas Center Church.

The spacious auditorium of the Dundas Center Methodist Church was found all too small last night to comfortably accommodate the throng who desired to hear the production of Mendelssohn's grand oratorio, "St. Paul," given under the conductorship of Mr. W. H. Hewlett. The size of the audience was a pleasing testimony to the reputation Mr. Hewlett has gained as a musician of exceptional ability, whose connection with any musical event is a sufficient guarantee of its excellence and artistic quality.

The oratorio "St. Paul," acknowledged to be one of Mendelssohn's finest creations, deals with the central episodes in the great apostle's career. In the first scene, that of Stephen's martyrdom, at which Saul of Tarsus looks passively on, the opening chorus, "The Heathen Furiously Rage," explains the need of vigilance on the part of the Church. Then the Church sets forth her faith and trust in a chorale, "To God on High Be Thanks and Praise," the calm beauty of which must needs dispel all fear for the future. Then follows the martyrdom of Stephen, illustrated in a series of movements, the most noticeable of which are the angry chorus, "Now This Man Ceaseth Not," the beautiful and highly-wrought scena sung by St. Stephen himself, the reiterated comminations of the Jews, the heavenly note of warning, "Jerusalem, Jerusalem," interposed between two violent outbursts of fury; and the most characteristic chorus of all, "Stone Him to Death," after which the Church again breathes forth a sigh of hopeful submission in the chorale, "To Thee, O Lord, I Yield My Spirit," followed by the melodious chorus, "Happy and Blest Are They." Then comes the entry of St. Paul himself, with the fiery bass solo, "Consume Them All." In spite of threatenings and persecutions and slaughter, the Church still sings of comfort—this time through the medium of a solo voice in "But the Lord Is Mindful of His Own." Then follows the conversion, in which the expedient of assigning our Lord's words to a chorus of four treble voices, though not altogether new, introduces a well-conceived effect, in which a long and skillfully managed crescendo leads into the fiery chorus, "Rise Up, Arise! Rise and Shine!" The light has broken in upon the soul of the future apostle,and again the Church speaks to him, and indicates his appointed work in the fine old choral, "Sleepers, Awake." He cannot at once realize the great things that have been done for him. The light has blinded him for the time; and he must needs crave forgiveness and mercy until they are assured to him by the mouth of Ananias. Then it is that he expresses his unbounded joy in a great cry, "I Will Praise Thee, O Lord, My God," while the Church watches over him, still speaking words of comfort. The first part concludes with the grand and contemplative chorus, "O, Great Is the Depth." The conception of the second part is really grander than that of the first, though it is less forcibly dramatic, and even keeps the epic element in the background, except when it is needed for the purpose of bringing the personality of St. Paul into sufficiently strong relief. The second part opens with the preaching of Paul before the congregation. With Barnabas, he goes to preach to the Gentiles. At Lystra they heal a cripple, and the Gentiles, thinking them gods, hail them as Mercury and Jupiter. The apostles refuse the homage, and try to turn the people to the living God. The angered multitude threaten to slay the apostles, but they are saved by divine strength. Paul convenes the elders at Ephesus and takes leave of them, telling them he shall see them no more, and expressing his willingness to die for the faith. The magnificent chorus, "Not Only Unto Him," closes the oratorio.

The soloists were Mrs. Detta Ziegler-Boles, soprano; Miss Beatrice McDonald, contralto; Mr. J. M. Sherlock, of Toronto, tenor; Mr. George A. Fleming, of New York, baritone; Mr. W. H. Skinner, basso, and Mr. Ernest Sheldrick, basso. Mr. Sherlock has been heard here before, but never in such difficult composition. Yet his treatment of the portions of the oratorio which he sang strengthened the very favorable impression which he had previously created. Mrs. Ziegler-Boles' voice is delicately sweet and pure, and the charm of her singing is supplemented by her naturalness and composed presence. Mr. Fleming's interpretation, also, showed great care and an artistic conception of the possibilities of his part. The singing of the other soloists was delightful, the local soloists comparing most favorably with the visiting artists.

"Rip Van Winkle" at the London Opera House.

The Stuttz Theatrical Company presented "Rip Van Winkle" to the complete acceptance of the audience at the London Opera House last night. The title role was taken excellently by Mr. J. G. Stuttz, while George Olmi made a forceful and convincing Derrick von Beekman. The support was good. Tonight's bill is "Jack's Lost Paradise."

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

It was not until Al. W. Martin brought out his $30,000 production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" that the admirers of the play had the pleasure of seeing it put on the stage in a manner that they could appreciate. Taking the piece as it was originally, Mr. Martin gave it a dressing of complete and realistic scenery, put the principal roles into competent hands, engaged a number of negroes to add to the pictures and to sing and dance in the levee scenes—in fact, did all in his power to make the performance acceptable to the public. Mr. Martin's remarkable production will be at the New Grand next Saturday, matinee and evening.

Questions Answered.

DETROIT.—Can a minister regularly ordained in the United States, but living in Canada, perform legally a marriage ceremony in Canada, even while without a charge or being identified with any Canadian religious denomination as a minister of such, though being in good standing in his denomination in the United States as an ordained minister? Ans.—The question has never been judiciously decided. According to the letter of the statute law he could, but in our opinion he could not, as the evidence of his ordination would be outside this jurisdiction.

GOVERNMENT MAJORITY OF FIFTY-SIX.

Mr. Borden's Amendment on Budget Defeated.

Mr. Paterson's Speech the Feature of the Day.

Enormous Increase in Trade Under a Liberal Regime—Opposition's Inconsistent Attitude.

Ottawa, Ont. April 8.—At three o'clock this morning the house divided on the budget, when Mr. Borden's amendment was defeated by 61 for to 117 against—majority for the government of 56. The vote was as follows: Against Borden's amendment, 117; for, 61. Paired, 30. Absent, 3. Constituency vacant, 1. Speaker, 1. Total, 213

Mr. Calvin (Independent Conservative, voted with the government, and Mr. Jabel Robinson, who was present in the house, did not vote.

The pairs were as follows: Christie—Roddick, Cartwright—Tupper, Fraser—Bell, Dyment—McCormick, Charlton—McLean, Harty—Reid (Grenville), Bickerdike—Cargill, Sutherland (Essex)—Northrup, Gould—Smith (Wentworth), Cowan—Richardson (Grey), Maxwell—Gourley, Holmes—Robinson, (Northumberland), McCarthy—Hale, Tarte—Seagram, McColl—Ball.

The feature of the debate yesterday was a brilliant speech by Hon. William Paterson, minister of customs. He pointed out that the resolution of the leader of the opposition asked the house to affirm the principle that the operation of the present tariff had been unsatisfactory. Apparently the opposition wanted to go back to the old National Policy tariff, with which they had challenged comparison. The trade of the country was a factor with which the tariff had something to do. From 1897 to 1901, under the Liberal tariff, the aggregate foreign trade in Canada was $1,651,223,000, and for the five years ending 1896, under the National Policy, it was $1,193,453,000, an increase under five years of Liberal rule of $458,272,000. (Applause.) Was that the respect in which the operation of the present tariff was unsatisfactory to the opposition. Did they not want the foreign trade of Canada to increase by $92,000,000 a year For himself, Mr. Paterson considered it a good thing. Did they want to go back to the National Policy, under which foreign trade increased by $66,000,000 in eighteen years, while in the five years of Liberal rule it would increase $147,000,000.

The arguments of the opposition with reference to the preferential tariff were utterly inconsistent and contradictory, on the one hand asserting that the imports from Britain were injuring Canadian manufacturers, and on the other hand, that the preference was a fraud upon Great Britain.

Mr. Brock—Do you deny that it is injuring our manufacturers?

Mr. Paterson admitted he entertained a belief that one line which had been mentioned had been hurt somewhat, and he sympathized with it, but recognized that in framing any tariff there were a great many interests to be considered, and it was not easy to have the tariff right in every detail. With reference to the charge that Germanmade goods were favored under the preferential tariff, Mr. Paterson said that no concrete cases had been brought before him. He had been requested by the premier to investigate and ascertain the true state of the case, and when in London this summer he intended making a careful personal investigation to ascertain just how far the statements were founded on fact.

Mr. Clancy also spoke.

Suicide of an Old Soldier in New York.

Wm. Cruickshank, of Chatham, Took an Overdose of Laudanum—Hamilton Family Asphyxiated.

TOOK LAUDANUM.

Chatham, Ont., April 9.—William Cruickshank, a man living alone in North Chatham, died at St. Joseph's Hospital at 8:30 last evening from an overdose of laudanum, administered undoubtedly by himself. Joseph Northwood, a neighbor, in making his daily call on the old man, found the house fastened at noon, and, being suspicious that something was wrong, notified Dr. Rutherford, who had been treating him for insomnia, and also sent for a policeman, who forced entrance and found Cruickshank unconscious, with an empty ounce bottle labeled "Laudanum," by his side. He was removed to the hospital. Cruickshank, who lost his wife a year ago, was despondent. He has a son, W. E., a student in the medical school at Toronto. Another son, Ernest, is in Chicago.

KILLED BY COAL GAS.

Hamilton, Ont., April 8.—James Nehin, 161 Young street, who was asphyxiated by coal gas from the furnace in his house on Sunday night, died early this morning without having recovered consciousness, and his wife cannot recover.

Their 8-year-old son, who was also unconscious from the same cause, is now nearly recovered. Nehin was about 45 years of age, and was for many years employed as engineer in the Times Printing Company's establishment. He was a member of the C. M. B. A., and was well known here.

SUICIDE OF A VETERAN.

New York, April 8.—An old man, neatly clothed, and wearing a G. A. R. button, has committed suicide in a doorway on University Place, by shooting. From papers found it was learned that he was Oscar de Camp Taylor, discharged from the Union army at Murfreesboro, Tenn., May 18, 1863. He was mustered out as adjutant of the 110th Illinois Volunteers. A personal letter from President Hayes, praising his valiant services, was found in his pocket. Poverty evidently caused the suicide.

LINEMAN KILLED.

Brockville, Ont., April 9.—Ernest Nevins, a Bell telephone lineman, was working at the top of a 50-foot pole during a heavy gale yesterday afternoon, when it broke at the lowest cross-arm, and Nevins fell the entire distance to the ground. He was picked up and died within an hour at the hospital.

ENGINEER AND FIREMAN KILLED.

Cleveland, O., April 9.—An incoming Big Four train was wrecked last night within a mile or two of the station here. The engineer and fireman were killed, and several passengers, it is reported, were hurt. The wreck is believed to have been caused by a washout, which undermined the tracks.

Later.—Two persons were killed and three others hurt. The dead: Wm. F. McGrath, engineer, Cleveland; Edward McNally, fireman, Cleveland. Injured: A. R. Edmunds, railway mail clerk, Indianapolis; Thomas Murphy, conductor, Cleveland; J. R. Carr, baggageman, Indianapolis. The wreck is believed to have been the result of a washout on the track, caused by hard rains. No passengers are reported to be injured.

THREE MEN DROWNED.

Halifax, April 9.—News was received here yesterday of the drowning of three lobster fishermen at Keddore, 45 miles from this city, on the eastern shore. The names of the unfortunate men are Stanley Baker, aged 26, leaving a widow and two children; Fred Baker, aged 21, unmarried, both sons of Enos Baker, and Edward Mitchell, about 16 years old, son of Martin Mitchell. They started out to haul lobster traps, and their boat was found bottom upward on the beach.

BULLET IN HIS HEAD.

Toronto, April 9.—William Ham, a laborer employed at Taylor's brewery, died at the hospital yesterday under peculiar circumstances. He was brought to the hospital on Sunday night, suffering with a pain in his side and lungs. He was treated for pneumonia. While he was being examined a blood-stained handkerchief was noticed lying loosely on the top of his head. Underneath, on the back of the head, was a small wound. Ham stated that he had fallen and struck a nail. He became delirious and died. On a post-mortem being made it was discovered that the wound was made by a small bullet, about 28-caliber, which was found imbedded in the skull.

OTHER CASUALTIES.

M. Lovegrove, a farmer, of Alexander, Man., lost an eye on Saturday. He was snapping a whip, when the lash curled back and struck the pupil, destroying the sight.

Four men now lie in the Winnipeg hospital who will never see perfectly again. They are St. Armand, Archibald, Spiers and Robinson, the poor fellows who were injured in the explosion in the big Master mine, near Gold Rock, Ont., some three weeks ago. Of these, St. Armand and Archibald will be entirely sightless, while the other two will have the sight of but one eye.

Poor Girl, Pity Her

Growing! Yes, into weakness, but not strength. Studies—plenty of them. Tired, of course she is, and weak, too. Does not get enough, and digests far less than enough. This condition is so frequent, but how seldom noticed even by fond parents. Give her Ferrozone, then watch her appetite improve, her cheeks and lips grow ruddy, her step elastic, her spirits buoyant. All this simply the result of eating and digesting enough, making blood, and thereby strengthening the nerve and brain power. Ferrozone gives a woman's strength to weak girls. Your daughter of wife needs Ferrozone. Get it today at W. T. Strong & Co.'s.

MICHIGAN'S FAT MAN DEAD.

Battle Creek, Mich., April 9.—John Taylor, who had the reputation of being the fattest man in Michigan, is dead. Prior to his sickness he tipped the beam at 420 pounds, but he became greatly emaciated during his sickness, and fell away to 250 pounds. He was 45 years old, and leaves a widow and two daughters.

Salt rheum, or eczema, with its itching and burning, is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. So are all other blood diseases.

Sometimes you get up in the morning and feel as though you weren't expected to live. Do you know the cause? If you are at home, the first thing to do is to square yourself. Some experts on squaring say that it is best to deny everything. Others advise a partial acknowledgment of the facts, together with a solemn promise that it will never occur again. We would respectfully suggest that you try the first. If unsuccessful, spring the second; and if both fail, be a thoroughbred, and take it like a man. You probably deserve it, but look at the fun you had the night before singing bass. Do not say that you missed the twelve o'clock car, and rather than wait you walked home. You may have arrived in a cab. Wonderful what a noise a small cab can make in the middle of the night. Well, the next thing is your physical condition. Your liver must be got going. Be wise. Take a pleasant-tasting Hutch Tablet that will put instant action upon your liver. Many a good fellow has his own troubes in the morning, and trying to find something that will stick. Hutch will stick, and what is more, will cool the blood, which naturally relieves the pressure on the head. For constipation, stomach and liver troubles, Hutch has no equal. It is probably the only remedy on the market today that will give relief in six seconds. Why subject yourself to possible salivation or calomel when Hutch is absolutely harmless and will give you better results. Keep our goods at your home, and when you are away from home, you can get them at any drug store.
