SLUGGED BY HIGHWAYMEN CAPTURES ONE OF THEM

Fred Porteous Attacked Close to His Home by Mark Tompkins and An Unknown Pal.

HAMILTON, July 18.—(Special.)—Fred Porteous, butcher, was slugged by two highwaymen after midnight Saturday. Mark Tompkins, who spent about eleven years in penitentiary for clubbing and robbing Jack Cauley, cashier for the Tuckett Company, was arrested as one of the assailants, but the other got away. Porteous keeps a store at the corner of York and Bay-streets, and his residence is on Bay-street, the second door from the rear of the store. As usual on Saturday night, he left the store shortly after midnight, with the day's receipts, and crossed an alley way and entered the back yard of Webster's house, the backyard of which adjoins his own. Just as he entered the yard, one of the thieves struck him a vicious blow with a scantling that was used as a prop for the gate. The blow landed on his shoulded and knocked him to his knees. As he struggled to his feet, the other man tried to strike him on the jaw with a billy, but Porteous managed to regain his feet altho blow after blow was showered on him. He struggled back into the alley and a few steps took him to the street where he shouted for help. The highwaymen took to their heels, one running up Bay-street and the other up York, Porteous in hot pursuit. At York and Caroline-streets, the thief tripped and fell, and Porteous jumped on top. They had a fierce struggle, Porteous trying to choke his assailant, who did his best to fight himself free by means of his billy. Porteous' cries aroused the neighborhood, and two men came to his assistance. While they were struggling with the fugitive, the police came along and not being clear as to which was the highwayman and who the victim, one of the constables clubbed Arthur Clark, a market butcher, who had come to the rescue. Constable Barrett, who knew Porteous, happened along and straightened the tangle out. A murderous looking billy made of hose and loaded with a big chunk of lead was found on Tompkins. Tompkins, who with Mike Horn, clubbed Jack Cauley a short distance from where he was captured on Sunday morning, was sentenced to 12 years. They got some $1400 from Cauley, but most of it was recovered. They did this job in broad daylight. Tompkins was released two years ago, and has been working steadily in a brick yard, and his record since he got out of prison has been so good that the detectives say that had he not been caught he is about the last man in the city they would have looked for. He was only 18 years of age when he was sent to the pen. Mike Horn is now in Chicago.

The attempt Sunday morning took place only a couple of hundred feet away from the Napier-street patrol station, where several constables were at their midnight lunch.

Brevities.

Edward Williams, contractor, Nightingale-street, died Saturday night.

The police have a warrant for a man named Kent on the charge of clearing out with $40 of the receipts of the old mill at the Maple Leaf Park.

Stations for the distribution of pure milk for infants will be opened this week in the butter hall on the central market and at the City Hospital.

Murray Neil was acquitted in police court Saturday morning on charge of selling liquor to an "Indian," and after the court adjourned License Inspector Sturdy consulted Magistrate Jelfs as to the preparation of a brand new list.

Claude Cook, 112 North Wellington-street, is under arrest charged with attempting to steal a horse and rig belonging to Dr. Little.

Arrested For Kidnapping.

Child stealing is the unusual charge registered against Thos. A. Coates, a man of 45 years of age of no address, who was locked up Saturday night. It is charged that he picked up the little daughter of Harry Kempf, proprietor of the Germania Hotel, at the corner of John and Main-streets, and carried her off. A passerby saw the occurrence and took after him, holding him until Constable McLean arrived.

The public raided a house on John-street last night and arrested Annie Lenstein, a Polack, as the keeper, and Wm. Arnold, 622 East Main-street, as a frequenter.

David Mulvale, Stony Creek, was arrested Saturday night on the charge of drunk and disorderly. He bit the thumb of Constable Duffy, who made the arrest and will be charged with assault.

There were 17 prisoners in the cells at No. 3 police station to-night, three of whom were Sunday drunks.

FRENZIEO'S DIVING FEAT

Falls Fifty Feet on Breast and Slides to the Ground.

A very busy man this morning will be Frenzio Desperado, late of Naples and now of New York, who first set foot on Canadian soil on Sunday afternoon. The gentleman with the melodramatic name is a Scarboro Beach performer, and the occasion of his visit tto Toronto is ito introduce, perhaps, the most extraordinary performance which the public craze for sensational entertainment has yet produced. The bills describe him as a "daring diving dervish, who leaps from a tall mast positively twice daily." An inspection of his equipment, which was erected on Saturday at Scarboro Beach, did not furnish the curious people, who inspected it, much clue. The principal part of the apparatus is an incline projecting into the air like the quarter section of a wheel rim. Some 50 feet away there rises a slender tower. Frenzio stands on top of the tower, dives between 40 and 50 feet thru the air and lands on his chest on the upper end of the incline, shooting down until he is within a mere 20 feet of the ground, and then turns several somersaults in the air. The remarkable feature of the performance is that Frenzio dives so accurately that he never fails to hit the narrow incline, and the swift slide that he has drum its polished surface doesn't seem to jar him in the least. The performer has a corps of carpenters with him, and his apparatus is set up with the greatest care. Frenzio first performed this feat in a permanent circus at Naples, and he has been doing it less than a year.

A splendid program of sports, games, fencing and dancing contests, band concerts, vaudeville entertainment has been arranged. In addition there will be a number of fun-making pastimes, such as climbing the greased pole, catching the slippery pig, sack racing, etc. A number of handsome prizes will be awarded the fortunate competitors. All the events will take place in the athletic oval and can be seen without charge.
