SCHNAEBELES!

All Europe Greatly Excited.

LONDON, April 23.—The Schnaebeles affair is exciting the whole of Europe and causing much anxiety as to the consequences. The reports of anxiety as to the consequences. The reports of the incident are still contradictory. The French Government is proceeding with the utmost circumspection. A full inquiry will be made into Sc masbeles' character and doings. He has held the appointment since the Franco-German war and a majority state that he has been a problem of the contract failed to the state of the contract failed to the state of the contract failed to the state of the contract failed to model official and has never failed to use tact and indigment in any emergency.

Lendon, April 23.—The French Government has accertained that Schnasbeles was arrested on German soil. The roports of the German police are to the same effect.

Beslin, April 23.—Numerous extra detectives have been sent to Metz and Strasburg.

BISMARCK WASTS TO GREATE WAB.
Paris, April 23.—The German Charge
d'Affeirs has informed M. Florens that Germany has not yet defined the ground of M.
Schnaebeles' arrest, except that it was effected by virtue of a judicial decree. He, however, reserves the right to examine the question in concert with the French Government. There is trem indons latent excitement here over the Schna-beles affair. The general opinion is that Bismarck wants to create a situation which will render war inevitable.

Nancer, April 23.—The inquiry in the matter of the arrest of Schnabeles has not shown whether he was arrested on French or German territory.

PARIS, April 23 -The Nancey Procurer's official report of the Schnaebeles outrage states that Schnaebeles advanced a few steps across the frontier and met an individual with whom he began to converse, when a policeman in disguise seized him. An assistant of the policeman then rushed out of ambush and a desperate struggle ensued. Schnaebeles succeed in escaping from his cartors and crossed to the French territory. But his assailants pursued him and dragged him back, despite his protests. They ther bound him and forcibly led him to prison.

It is reported that Prince Bismarck, in the ourse of a speech yesterday, said that it was impossible to foresee whether the bellicose French people, who used to make an onslaught on Germany three or four times every century, would keep or break the Frankfort treaty.

THE TIMES' OUTRAGE ON MR.
PARNELL.
The letter condoning the Phoenix park murders, which the London Times attributes to Mr. Parnell, carries the following evidence that it is a forgery:—(1) The body of it is not written in Mr. Parnell's hand. What could be more strange than for so cautious a man to employ another to write such a document. (2) The signature, said to be in his handwriting, is at the top of another leaf. The Times sugarther sugarther stranges are sugarther to the sugarther at the top of another leaf. The Times suggests that it was so written in order that it night be torn away. But the very object for which the letter is said to have been written was that it might be shown secretly to sympathisers with the Invincibles. What would be the use of showing them a letter not in Mr. Parnell's writing, and without his signature? And if the intention was that the signature should be detached, how extremely improbable that instructions to that effect would not have accompanied the letter, and been obeven, if it accompanied the letter, and been obeyed, if it reached its destination. If it did not reach its destination, but fell into the hands of a detective, where are the instructions, and where is the postmarked envelope? (3) How more than improbable that a highly educated many as Mr. Paruell is, would write "he How more than improbable that a nighty educated man; as Mr. Parnell is, would write "he and you" for "you and he;" in defiance of a ule the observation of which must be as natural as breathing to the alleged author.
