THE OLD CHURCH BELLS.

Ring out merrily,
Loudly, cheerily,
Pilled old bells from the steeple tower,
Hopefully, fearfully,
Joyfully, tearfully,
Move the bride from her maiden bower,
Cloud there is none in the fair summer sky;
Sunshine flings benison down from on high;
Children dog lead as the train moved along,
"Happy the bride that the sun shineth on."

Knell out drearily,
Measured and wearily,
Sad old bells from the steeple gray.
Friends chanting lowly;
Solemnly slowly,
Passeth the corse from the portal to-day.
Drops from the leaden clouds heavily fall;
Dripping over the plumes and the pall;
Murmur, old bells, as the train moves along,
"Happy the dead that the rain raineth on."

Tell at the hour of prime,
Matin and vesper chime,
Loves old bells from the steeple high—
Rolling like holy waves,
Over the lowly graves,
Floating up, prayers fraught, into the sky.
Solemn the lesson your lightest notes teach;
Stern is the preaching your iron tongues preach;
Ringing in life from the bud to the Bloom,
Ringing the dead to their rest in the tomb.

Peal out evermore—
Peal as ye pealed of yore,
Brave old bells, on each Sabath day,
In sunshine and gladness,
Through clouds and through darkness,
Bridal and Burial have passed away.
Tell as life's pleasures with death are still rife;
Life is our labor, and Death is our rest.
If happy the living, the dead are the blest.

ABOUT FISH AND FISHING.—Peter Gott, the Cape Ann Fisherman," an interesting work by Dr. Reynolds, contains some clever description of fishing in Massachusetts Bay. The following extracts comprise some curious facts about Lobsters and Mackerel:

"Lobsters are taken in a sort of a box called lobster pots. These are about three feet long and two feet wide, of semi cylindrical form, that is the bottom is flat, and the sides and top are in the form of an arch. At each end is an opening for the ingress of the lobster; around this opening, are placed short flexible pieces of wood, projecting into the basket, arranged, that they will easily separate and allow the lobster to enter, but their points close together after him and prevent his egress. They have a door upon the top, through which the lobster is taken out.

A long line attached to these pots; a heavy stone, sufficient to sink them, is placed in them, and they are baited with the heads and offal of fresh fish, and sunk to the bottom at about low water mark; the other end of the line is made fast to a block of light wood, called a buoy.—The fishermen go out with their whorries freighted with these pots, and drop them at short intervals along the shore. During the season of lobster fishing, which lasts from March to July, hundreds of these buoys may be seen bobbing up down like so many seal's heads. The fishermen visit them every morning draw up alongside of their boats, take out the lobsters, replenish the bait, and drop them again in the water.

The lobsters, when first taken, are very fierce and seize with their strong pinchers upon whatever may be within their reach. When thrown together in the boat they will grapple with each other, and tear off each other's feelers and legs. Without fishermen get many hard bite. To prevent them from injuring each other, the fishermen provide sharp pointed wooden pegs, which they insert into the joint or hinge of their pinchers, which prevents them from closing. When they have visited all their pots they row to their landing place. If they wish to preserve them for several days, they put them into a long box or kennel made of planks and bored full of holes, which is moored in the water at a little distance from the shore. If they wish to prepare them immediately for market, they are taken ashore in hand barrows and to a sort of shed, in which is fixed a large cauldron. This is filled with water. A brisk fire is kindled under this kettle, and when the water boils, the living, crawling squirming lobsters are thrown into it, and covered with a heavy plank cover. Here they are kept boiling until their color, which when taken out of the water was a dark green, becomes a bright scarlet. They are now for market. In this state we see them for sale on the stalls in our cities, and hawked about the street.

Recent Testimonial to the value of Keating's Cough Lozenges.
I cannot express what I suffered,—coughing, expectorating, and the respiration impeded. Strange to say, I gradually recovered, without any treatment, except by taking a few boxes of Keating's Cough Lozenges. My lungs were so much affected, and the general health so debilitated, that I had but little hopes of recovery.

A MEDICAL REVOLUTION!
THE WORLD UNANIMOUS!
HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.
THE GREAT COUNTER IRRITANT!
The virus of disease often makes its way to the internal organs through the pores of the skin. This penetrating Ointment, melting under the hand as it is rubbed in, is absorbed through the same channels, and, reaching the seat of inflammation, promptly and invariably subdues it, whether located in the kidneys, the liver, the lungs, or any other important organ. It penetrates the surface to the interior, through the countless tubes that communicate with the skin so rapidly rubs powder into the severed earth diffusing its cool and regenerating influence.
SKIN DISEASES & GLANDULAR SWELLINGS.
Every species of exterior irritation is quickly reduced by the anti-inflammatory action of this Ointment, Angry Erysipelas, such as Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Tetter, Ringworm, Scald Head, Nettle Rash, Scurvy (or Itch) &c., die out, to return no more under its application. Hospital experience in all parts of the world proves its infallibility in diseases of the skin, the muscles, the joints and the glands.
ULCERS, SORES, AND TUMORS.
The effect of this unrivaled external remedy upon Scrofula, and other virulent ulcers and sores, is almost miraculous. It first discharges the poison which produces suppuration and proud flesh, and thus the cures which its healing properties afterward complete are safe as well as permanent.
WOUNDS, BRUISES, BURNS, AND SCALDS.
In cases of the fracture of the bones, injuries caused by steam explosions, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Rheumatism, Stiffness of the Joints, and contraction of the sinews, it is employed and warmly recommended by the faculty. This marvellous remedy has been introduced by its inventor in person into all the leading Hospitals of Europe, and no private household should be without it.
UNDENIABLE TESTIMONY.
The Medical Staff of the French and English Armies in the Crimea have officially signed their approval of Holloway's Ointment, as the most reliable dressing for sabre cuts, stabs, and gun-shot wounds. It is also used by the surgeons of the Allied Navies.
Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:
