THE TRUE WITNESS AND CATHOLIC CHRONICLE-MAY

To the Edutor of the Chronicle.

Sir,-The young men here in connection with St. Michael's Church, with the view of mutual and mental improvement, and a desire of devoting their leisure hours to the study of literature, established about six months ago, an association for that purpose, called 'The Young Men's Catholic Literary Association,' in the organization of which Society they had the warm and hearty approval of their pastors, both of whom have shown a very lively interest in its advancement. Their Reading room has been open every evening to the members and their friends during the past winter months, and numerous readings from s'andard authors, and debites on various subjects have taken place, affording the passing of many a happy hour to those engaged, and also a pleasant time to those of their friends who were kind enough to be present on those occasions.

The Rev. John Brennan, the Chaplain of the Society since its organization, has always taken a lively interest in its behalf, and has aided its advancement in zo small degree, not only by his presence at our meetings, but also by the Lecture delivered by him for its benefit. The Rev. Chaplain's Lecture was delivered about two months ago in St. Michael's Church, as the subject was a religious one, viz: "The Hospitable Spirit of the Irish Church ;' and I must say that those who were so fortunate as to be present in the church on that evening will long remember the z-al and spirit displayed by him in illustrating the truths of the subject of his lecture. So highly did the members of the. Society appreciate his kindness and z-al in their behalf, that they deemed it befitting to present him, as a slight token of their regard for him, spiritually as well as temporally, with a present of some kind, and accordingly on the second instant a beautiful work nurchased in Montreal, and entitled the Lives and Times of the Roman Pontifis, from St. Peter to Pius the Ninth,' was presented to him by a deputation from the Association,-at the same time the Secretary on behall of the Society read to him the following Address, to which the reverend gentleman replied as is also bereunder written : -

Belleville, 21d May, 1869.

To the Rev. John Brennan :

Rey'd Sir - We have been deputed by the 'Young Men's Cathelic Literery Argociation' to present you on their behalf, es a slight token by them of your invaluable services in favour of the said Association, with the accompanying Vo'umes containing 'The Lives and Times of the Roman Pontiffs,'

Since your residence amongst us and from the ability you have displayed as well towards the said Association as in forwarding the interests affecting Oatholicity, united with your incressant exertions in advancing Catholic education, we cannot permit the tide of time towell on without feebly giving expression to the sentiments which we enterting towards you in a spiritual and temporal manner.

We are quite aware of our inability to give proper expression to our feelings at this moment, but we feel nevertheless that you will ascribe to the head and not to the heart any imperfections of which we may be guilty in communicating our thoughts. It was we can assure you with a certain degree of diffifence that we first ar proached the ites of thus testifying our respect for you personally, as well as our "ppreciation of the talents with which you adorn your eacred character as a Prieat By your social and kindly qualities and the paternal care bestowed by you in your clerical caracity upon the C tholic body, you have won n place in their aff-otions which will never be obliterated. In the volumes we present, embracing as they do the lives of the Roman Pontiffs from S'. Peter, to whom the keys of the kingdom of heaves were committed by the Saviour of mankind to Pius the Ninth! there are many incidents which were it possible to do so, will tend to animate and enkindle your zeal in the intherance and eincidation of those catholic principles, which although attacked on every yourselves and your Society the choicest bene lictions our feelings both of joy and regret; of regret, of beaven. I have the honor, gentlemen, to remain with much Ver, sincerely yours. esteem,

JOHN BRENNAN, Priest.

The second Lecture for the benefit of the Association was delivered on Tuesday evening of last week by the Rev'd Henry Brettargh, of Treaton, in Neilson's Hall, the subject being "Galileo and Urban-a Viodication." The Rev. Lecturer, although almost a stranger to a majority of the members of the Association, was nevertheless greeted by a large audience, composed not only of members of the Saciety, but of parties of all denominations. His Lecture occupied about two hours in its delivery, and was very able, interesting and instructive, and during the course of which the lecturer was frequently applauded by the pudience, who will not soon forget the zeal and elequence displayed on that occasion by Father Brettargh in defending the acts of Pope Urban towards Gilileo.

Several talented and elegient divines have promised to deliver a series of lectures for the benefit of the Society during the ensuing summer and winter ; and it is to be hoped that the A-sociation will continue to progess as heretofore, as it is hoped it will have the salutary effect of bringing together young men of different talents, and enabling them to cultivate their minds for a sphere of usefulness to which hereafter any of them may be called.

Yours &c., P M. N., Secy. Belleville, 17th May, 1869

On Thursday, the 11 inst., the following Address was presented to the Rev Father O'Keane, by the parishioners of Bomanville :---

Rev. and dear Father O'Keane, - It is with sentiments of the most profound regret that we, the Catholics of this part of the mission, heard of your sudden departure from amongst us to labor in another portion of the Lord's vineyard. This sad intelligence rend our hearts with grief, each feeling personally the loss of a tried and cherished friend as a faithful and devoted pastor. Yet we would prove ourselves unworthy of you and lorgetful of your elequent instructions and heavenly admonitions, did we not receive with due submission the will of God in depriving you of bealth, which prevents you from being able to intensified when I know that I bear with me attend to your laborious duties : nevertheless, we cannot help deploring the necessity which deprives us of our beloved pastor.

In you, our parishioners ever found a z-alous laborer for the promotion of our eternal welfare. Your sympathy for the affleted and distressed lightened our griefs; while your words of encour agement and consolation proved a balm to our sorrowing hearts. Your voice and mediation were cheerfully tendered to lessen disputes, calm dissensions, disarm the effects of calumny, and unite your whole flock with the bands of mutual charity and Iraternal love,-together with your punctual attendance when called on.

Permit us, then, dear Father on behalf of those you have served as nastor for the past three years, to express to you the highest approbation of your services, and our unbounded sorrow because the golden links of mutual intercourse are so soon to be revered. Our best wishes and prayers for your happiness accompany you to your future mission; while your name and the remembrance of your virtues shall al ways remain enshrined in our hearts.

Requesting a continuance of your intercession

when we consider that soon, the ties of profound respect and sincere attachment which bind us so closely, are momentarily severed; of joy, at the day (Monday) he is supposed to have caught the cold thought that you will shortly be in the presence of the Vicar of Jesus Christ, that you will de- cian considered him out of danger, bit after a relapse pose at his feet the homage of our veneration, of our faith and love.

You will also revisit France, your beloved home, which you forsook for God's sake in your manhood's fairest days and your lamily to which you bid farewell, that you might consecrate your self to the far distant missions of America. The tearing of yourself away from objects so dear. the heartfelt anguish of separation, are memories too indelibly impressed to be obliterated, and we can therefore form an adequate idea of the 10y you will feel on revisiting 'votre belle France,' your native town, and your happy family. Be assured that our most ardent wishes and prayers will accompany you on your pilgrimage ; neither can we express them more truly than in borrowing that sublime prayer which the Church puts on the lips of the Catholic pilgrim:

"O God, who didst deliver Abraham, thy servant, from Ur in Chaldea and didst keep him from all danger throughout his journeying; O God, who didst make the children of Israel pass through the waters of the sea and didst show to the Wise Men, by the light of a star, the way which leads to Thee ; vouchsafe to keep thy servant, guide his footsteps, and be to him a protector and a consoler on the way; a shade dur ing the heat, a shelter a ainst the inclemency of the weather, a support in weariness, an asylum in danger, a staff in difficult paths, and a haven during the tempest ; that under the guidance of thy holv Angel, he may arrive happily at the term of his pilgrimage, and return to us full of life, of health, and hoppiness."

A. H. WAGNER, Chairman. Countersigned by FRANCOIS CARON, Secretary.

To which address the Rev. Father Wagner replied in substance as follows :

My dearly beloved Parishioners,-Your kind address fills me indeed with both joy and sorrow ; joy, that I shall once more, please God, see my native home and kindred. That joy is still more your kindest wishes and heartfelt prayers to God for my safety.

Beloved, - It will be an excess of 10y to me that I can lay at the feet of our Holy Father your substantial offering together with the homage of your veneration, your faith and your love .--Still sorrow fills my soul that I must even for a short time part with you. I love you indeed most succerely, for who could avoid loving you, knowing you as I do. But I go in order to help you bereafter if God spares me. What I have said is without premeditation. It is better it is so, because it comes from the heart.

I request that each family in the Parish will say every evening during my absence the beautiful prayer at the close of your address. That you will all love one another and that the grace of God may abound in you will be the constant prayer of your devoted priest-A lieu.

Kingston has been exporting a novel kind of live stock to the United States. Some parties there boxed up a live soldier of the Royal Artillery and shipped im to Cape Vincent. He somewhat astonished the United States Customs officials when they examined the chest containing him. Report says nothing as to whether they levied duty on him or not.
