LOCAL MARKET.

Wednesday, July 11.

There was not much business transacted at the market today, as there was very little stuff offered. Old hay sold at $10 per ton and new hay at $9 per ton.

Oats were in light supply at $1 20 and $1 21 per cwt.

One large load of raspberries sold at 11c per box. The load contained 700 boxes. The owner has a load sold for delivery on Thursday at the same price.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The amount of business transacted at the market here the past six days was fully up to the average for this time of the year. Farmers are busy at their hay, and until the crops are harvested there will not be much hay, oats or straw brought to the market. For the next two or three weeks the supply of small fruits will be the feature of the markets. Prices in almost every line were higher than in the previous week.

Grain.—Oats are in good demand. The supply is light, especially the past two or three days. Sales were made at $1 18 to $1 20 per cwt.

Hay and Straw.—Not many loads of hay are offered at present. For old hay $9 50 and $10 per ton; new hay sells well, if properly cured, at $8 50 and $9 per ton. At this price it is equivalent to $12 per ton for old hay. The supply of straw is light; sales were made at $5 50 per ton.

Butter and Eggs.—The high prices paid for cheese has curtailed the output of butter. The farmers say that there is more money sending the milk to the cheese factories than making butter, hence the small supply. Sales were made at 18c to 20c for crocks, and 19c to 21c for pound rolls. Eggs were firm at 16½c to 17½c per dozen wholesale.

Poultry—Spring chickens are the principal supply in this line; sales are fairly brisk, at 45c to 60c per pair alive, and 60c to 75c per pair dressed; old fowl sell at 60c to 90c per pair dressed, and 60c to 75c alive; ducks are in demand, at 75c to $1 20 per pair dressed; most of the sales are made at 80c to $1 per pair.

Fruits—Strawberries are about done; the few loads offered at Tuesday's market sold at 7c per box; raspberries are selling well at 11c per box wholesale; black currants are in fairly large supply, at 10c per quart wholesale; red currants, 6c to 7c per box; gooseberries, 6c to 7c per box; cherries are selling well, considering the quantity offered; sales are brisk, at 90c for pails supposed to hold 10 quarts; the same pails sell at $1 10 retail; by the box, 10c to 11c.

Dressed Hogs—Very few offered at present; prices are higher, at $10 25 per cwt.

Live Hogs—The price for next Monday's shipment will be at least $7 50, and if the market warrants it, $7 60 will be paid; small pigs are selling at $7 to $9 per pair for pigs 6 to 10 weeks old.

Butchers' Meats—The trade has improved a little; sales are made at the following prices: Beef, $5 to $7 per cwt, and occasionally $7 50 for choice meat; veal is in fair demand at $7 to $9 per cwt; mutton, $8 to $10 per cwt; yearling lambs, 10c to 12c per lb; spring lambs, $5 to $6 50 each.

Wool and Hides—Prices are steady.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

TORONTO.

Toronto, July 10.—The run at the city cattle market today was 53 loads, with 779 head of cattle, 830 sheep and lambs, 345 hogs and 172 calves.

There was a very light run today, due in part to the stormy weather. The market generally was dull and slow, and prices were from 10c to 20c below last week's figures. There is not a very active demand for export cattle, and there were not many offering. The local butcher trade is very quiet, the wholesalers reckoning that the probable hot weather for the next week or two will result in a small demand for butchers' meats. Already the retail men complain that the demand has fallen off very considerably. Choice butcher cattle were wanted in limited quantities, but rough and heavy cattle were not in demand.

For heavy feeders and good quality light stockers there is a fair market at steady prices.

Sheep are steady and spring lambs are a little firmer this week. Calves are about steady and in fair demand.

Hogs are steady to firm, with no change from last week's advance.

Exporters—Market steady; extra choice, $4 75 to $5; medium export, $4 60 to $4 65.

Good short-keep feeders, $4 60 to $4 80; market steady; good heavy feeders at $4 60 to $4 75.

Butchers—Steady for good quality, but weak on common; choice picked butcher cattle, $4 50 to $4 70; medium heavy butchers at $4 to $4 35; mixed lots and cows at $1 75 to $2 50; fat cows, $3 50 to $3 60.

Light stockers steady, $3 25 to $3 50.

Sheep and Lambs—The market is steady at $4 25 to $4 40; spring lambs are slightly firmer, at 6c to 7½c per lb.

Calves—Market firm and unchanged; prices range from $4 to $7 each.

Hogs—Market firm and unchanged; selects, $7 60; lights and fats, $7 35.

WOOL MARKETS.

TORONTO.

Toronto, July 10.—Wool—The trade expects that at today's London sales at least some check in the advancing tendency will appear. Meantime the local market is dull, because of the high prices asked by holders. Last year country dealers paid high prices, and few are believed to have made much profit on the turnover. ISOLATION HOSPITAL GREATLY NEEDED

Dr. Arnott on Infectious Diseases —Bacteriologist Necessary, But Wouldn't Stop Diphtheria.

The discussion over the question of appointing a public bacteriologist, and the necessity for greater precautions against diphtheria in the city, has aroused keen interest, and the subject is not one that can be dropped.

Dr. David H. Arnott, in conversation with an Advertiser reporter today, said he considered a public bacteriologist a great necessity in this city. "He would be useful in a great many ways. For instance, being here in the city, he could give a proper examination to any milk whose source was supposed to be unsanitary. Water of doubtful purity could be delivered for proper scientific examination, and as impure water used to wash cans will infect milk contained therein, you can see that this is an important branch of work for a public bacteriologist. Every doubtful case of consumption could be diagnosed frequently with more certainty if the help of such a man were easily obtained by the local physicians. Tumors requiring operation could be examined in a laboratory of this kind, and a better forecast of the result of an operation could often be readily obtained. In many other ways a skillful public man would be of use to the community, and in any case all preventable disease should be combated with the best scientific help which can be obtained."

"Will a bacteriologist stamp out diphtheria?"

"No, because the effect of the bacillus of diphtheria in the throat of an individual is a question of degree. Just as all apples on a tree are not of the same size, so these cases of diphtheria vary in severity. Some healthy persons go around with the contagion in their throats, and others exhibit only slight sore throat and do not call in a physician, and consequently while these may convey diphtheria of more or less severe type to others, yet under the circumstances, bacteriologist or no bacteriologist, there is no way of preventing the spread of the disease through such cases. The culture has nothing to do with the treatment of diphtheria of moderate severity. A case of diphtheria of moderate severity usually can be told by its appearance and be under correct treatment 24 hours before a diagnosis would be made by the use of a culture. In my own practice I treat all doubtful cases as diphtheria. To wait for the result of a culture before beginning treatment for diphtheria would endanger the lives of many who otherwise would receive prompt proper help. Should a case of tonsilitis be mistaken for diphtheria and treated as such it will get the tonsilitis treatment anyway with the addition of anti-toxin, which, no doubt, would be only beneficial."

"Should every medical man not have a culture oven?"

"No, because it takes a great deal of study to master the science as it is known today, and a man to be skillful enough to pronounce with authority upon these questions would have to be constantly employed at the work. Just as the possession of a splendid gun will not make a man a good shot, so the possession of a culture oven will not make a man a safe bacteriologist. The man with the gun would be of less danger to the community. Besides, as I have said before, a culture has nothing to do with the care of a case of diphtheria of moderate severity."

"Did you see an interview on this subject which appeared some time ago?"

"I saw the report of an interview which was largely a self-glorification of the doctor interviewed, and which cast reflections on the rest of his medical brethren which were unnecessary, unjust and untrue.

"What would you consider the best means of stamping out infectious diseases.?"

"A commodious isolation hospital, with a well-ventilated pavilion for convalescents, and sufficient grounds for the proper out-door exercise of patients recovering from the diseases. With good equipment and a willingness on the part of everybody to submit themselves to a routine of treatment they wish applied to their neighbor, a great deal of infectious diseases could be prevented.

KICKED IN THE HEAD

Affray at Hamilton Ends Fatally and May Be Murder Charge.

Hamilton, July 10.—Andrew McGarvin died at the hospital today as a result, the police allege, of being kicked in the head by Alex. McDonald. Both men worked at the Norton Canning Company. A warrant has been issued for McDonald's arrest, and an inquest opened.

An ancient beggar woman, known to her neighbors as "Old Mother Snuff," was found dead in her house in Paris. A search of the place revealed $16,000 in bank notes and $2,000 in gold hidden in a mattress.

FIERCE AFFRAY IN GALT HOTEL

Hostler Stabbed Six Times by a Friend, and May Not Recover.

Galt, July 10.—William West, hostler at the New Royal Hotel, was stabbed six times by a clasp-knife, in a quarrel, in the kitchen of the hotel, at 6 o'clock tonight, and may not recover.

West's assailant was J. J. Groves, a gasfitter. He is still at large.

The police were not notified of the stabbing for two hours after its occurrence. They believe an effort was made to hush up the affair, but the serious character of West's wounds eventually compelled bringing the matter to the notice of the police.

By this time Groves had put miles between Galt and himself, the police think.

The stabbing was the result of a quarrel that broke out unexpectedly. Groves is a boarder at the hotel, and was in the kitchen peeling an onion with his pocket-knife, when West came in.

The men were friends. It is alleged that West had been drinking some. He shoved Groves, who quickly lost his temper.

Raising his knife Groves plunged the blade into West's chest. The hostler fought him off. The struggle appeared to increase Groves' anger, and he struck repeatedly at West, every blow with the knife telling.

West cried out that he was stabbed, and sank to the floor.

Groves escaped out of the rear door of the hotel.

The wounded man was found to have been terribly cut. Medical assistance was called, and the knife-wounds dressed. One thrust had gone perilously close to the heart. West's clothing was cut into shreds in places.

It was reported tonight that West is in a precarious condition. The police information is that unless blood-poisoning sets in, the man will recover.
