Around the Ring.

Benny Yanger has been matched to fight Jack McClelland before the West End Club of St. Louis on Nov. 3.

Joe Bowker and Jabez White will not come to America. They declare Americans must go to England to fight them. Bowker will ignore Hughey McGovern's challenge.

Mike Ward of Sarnia, the lightweight champion of Canada, at Grand Rapids, won a decisive victory over Kid Farmber of Chicago, knocking him out in the sixth round of what was to have been a 10-round fight. Ward had the best of every round.

A Philadelphia despatch says Tommy Murphy, one of the best boxers of his weight in America, is likely to make a trip to England within a few weeks and prepare for a battle with Bowker. The National Sporting Club of London is anxious to bring the pair together, and negotiations are now under way toward the making of the match. Before going abroad, however, Murphy will engage in at least one more fight, that with Hughey McGovern. This city will be the scene of that contest, and it is likely to be decided within the next two weeks.

A despatch from Chicago reads: In hope of clinching a match between Jack Root and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Dr. Message, manager of the Blue Island Athletic Club, to-day offered a purse of $2000 for a meeting between the pair in the next three or four weeks. The offer was accepted by the local man, and now the matter is up to O'Brien. Message also agreed to let the men fight for 60 per cent. of the house if they do not want to battle for the purse. He also declares the offer stands for a meeting between Root and Ryan or O'Brien and Ryan.
