County Court.

Harrigan vs. Fellows was continued this morning. The action was for labor in clearing up and draining the defendant's farm, and the defence was that it had not been performed according to agreement. The agreement was that the work should "be done to the satisfaction" of the defendant, and he claimed that the plaintiff failed to comply with this. The plaintiff alleged that the defendant had accepted the farm and pronounced himself satisfied. The action was brought for a balance of $66 due, some $760 having been previously paid on account.

The Jury retired this morning but were unable to agree upon a verdict and were therefore discharged.

George Morrison, Jr., vs. The Grand Trunk Railway Co., was taken up this morning. It is an action in which the plaintiff seeks to recover damages in consequence of the negligence of the defendants in allowing the transportation of a quantity of bacon to be delayed, and the meat spoiled. The plaintiff's case was finished, when at 12.30 the Court adjourned until Monday. Messrs. A. C. & G. E. Fairweather for the plaintiff. Mr. W. H. Tuck for the defendants.

Shipping Notes.

The Polynesian Safe.—Telegraphic advices to Messrs. Lansdowne & Martin, from Mr. D. Martin, report the safe arrival of the steamer Polynesian at Farther Point this morning, all well, having been 12 days in the ice. A dispatch to the Board of Trade states: Steamer Polynesian passed Farther Point at 4 o'clock this morning, all right.

The Tyrian of the Anchor Line, went into the stream at 2 o'clock and anchored. She sails to-night. She has on board one cabin and one steerage passenger for Glasgow.

The Flying Cloud was towed out of her mud-bed at Lower Cove, at noon to-day, and towed round to the Ballast Wharf to be burnt. Three tugs were employed for fully an hour before they could move her from her berth. Captain Betts wishes to secure the copper and iron bolts in her hull, as nothing else can be done with the old wreck.

Steamer wrecked — Over two hundred supposed to have perished.—A cable telegram to the Board of Trade from London dated this morning announces the wreck of the steamer Schiller, from New York for Hamburg, off Scilly Isle, at 10 o'clock last night. She had on board, besides her crew, 200 passengers, and up to 1 p. m., but two of the crew and five of the passengers were known to be saved. The captain and second officer are drowned. A dense fog prevailed at the time of the dreadful disaster, which, doubtless, prevented the prompt assistance being rendered that might have been done had the weather been clear.

Regarding Rogers.

The prevailing impression is that Rogers, the murderer of Seely, has made good his escape. The supposition of his having been in and around the city until Thursday night is generally accepted, and there is a general belief that it was he who took the boat from the Water street Slip. To-day it is reported that Rogers has been living in the woods near Lily Lake and that his friends have been supplying him with food. It is probable, too, that if he left in the boat he is well provided for the voyage. It is not thought he would go as far as the United States territory but would strike some of the numerous small harbors down the bay and take a line across the country. The Chief will, or has, probably put himself in telegraphic communication with all places where Rogers would be likely to touch. Rogers ought to have remained in St. John if he values his liberty and life. He appears to have been perfectly safe here, but there is no telling how soon he may be caught if he starts to travel

The report of Rogers having lived at Lily Lake is probably incorrect, as the woods in that vicinity were beaten by the police during the past week, a letter stating that Rogers was hidden there having been received by the Chief. No trace of Rogers was found by the searchers, who even explored a cave in the vicinity.

The Chief appears to have attempted to follow up every report as to the missing man, but somehow has failed to hit the right scent. It is said that he has offered $200 to any of the policemen who would find Rogers, and it may be imagined that this would lead the men to use their best efforts. Beyond this no reward has been offered by any of the authorities.

Mishap to a Sword Swallower.

Signor Wandana, who has amused the public by swallowing swords in Gibbs's Menagerie, is suffering from the effect of his practice. A few days ago, since he went to St. Stephen, he cleaned a sword with very coarse sand paper, leaving a rough wiry edge and point. On putting the weapon down his throat he accidentally scratched the coat of his stomach with the rough point. The injury would appear slight, but inflamation has set in and it is said the unfortunate man is not expected to recover.
