Three Stanzas

Of peace and abundance
Let every one sing!
Of warehouses and granaries
Let every one fling!
I hear of all love from
The wave that roars thunderous!
Th the whirling wind's roaring
The whole year, or the mountain,
And the billow of the rain.

What say you, O storm wind?
And what say you, O sea?
Angel on the land, O drops of rain
That so sweetly sing?
Is you my heart has studied
Your ever-loving song,
Its cadences of mercy,
Its mentions of wrong.

Yet still ye keep repeating
In such an earnest way
Your tale of some disastrous year,
Of some unhappy day,
The wild winds signal, it seemed,
The sea back to the land
The rain affirms the story,
Yet I cannot understand.

There are tears for some great sorrow,
There are sighs for some great woe,
And sobbings for bereavement of things
That happen'd long ago,
With hinting of the future,
And some long-waiting soul
Of grief and fearful wonder
To the shuddering heart of man.

So I listen to the singing
Of these weird singers three—
The shifting wind, the crooning rain,
And the angry-shouting sea;
But so cunningly the Master
Hath made their music flow,
That we never till the ending
Shall the mystic meaning know.

The Turks, Turks Beware.

Portuguese journals are discussing the necessity of a revolution. They threaten to overturn the dictatorship, and declare they will not permit the sale of their country.

A 'Note of Warning' from India.—For the last two months a circular from the Mahommedans has been passing from village to the Jullunder Doab. The paper is called a 'Darshutnama,' or 'Note of warning.' It is principally religious, but there are a few sentences that imply sedition in it, warning people that there will be a complete change in the rule during this year. The paper professes to come from Mecca, but it has not been traced further than Delhi or Mynpooric, and there seems every reason to suppose that it has emanated from one of those places. The objectionable feature in the case is the way in which it has been copied and silently passed from village to village, reminding us forcibly of the chuppatie distribution before the mutiny.

Belgium, a little kingdom of 11,328 square miles—about the size of Maryland—gives comfortable support to over 5,000,000 people, or about 500 to the square mile.

Literature, science, and art already suffer from the disturbed state of Europe. In Paris the demand for art workmanship has almost ceased; and the war threatens the great Lyons exhibition, the first stone of the building for which was to have been laid about this time. The German universities are closing, and as many of the professors will follow the students the various branches of study will be interrupted.

In 1800 there were not one hundred native Protestants in all India and Burmah. Now there are not far from eighty thousand church members.

A conference of Bishops at Fulda, Germany, has unanimously resolved never to assent to the Infallibility dogma.

A telegram from Constantinople brings the news that the sea-port town of Samsun in Asia Minor has been burnt; causing the destruction of 500 houses, 6 churches and many lives.

The first newspaper in Central Africa has just been issued in the city of Tashkend, in Turkestan. It is called the Turkistanskaja Viedemosit.

A Turkish Pasha recently caught a rebel, nailed horse shoes to his bare feet, and then gave him half a minutes start before the soldier fired on him.

The eminent physicians in attendance on the Empress of Mexico determined to try the effect of the war crisis in France upon their unfortunate patient, and, as they anticipated, the sudden shock of the communication to the Princess Charlotte of the late Prussian victories, and the approaching collapse of the French empire, has had a wonderfully salutary influence on the state of the Royal patient's mind. The interrupted thread of her ideas has been restored.—She reads with avidity the news of the day, and sees in the retribution which has over-taken the present occupants of the Tuileries the avenging hand of Providence, and the fulfilment of her warning to the Empress Eugenie, when frantic with grief, and nerved with the courage of despair, she told the latter, if Napoleon broke his solemn promises and abandoned Maximilian, to his fate, the Emperor of the French would incur the curse of Heaven. The physicians are now confident of the complete recovery of the Princess Charlotte.

The Pumpkin.

Josh. Billings, in imitation of Greely, is writing a series of articles entitled, 'What I Know of Farming.' Here is what he says:

'Concerning the Pumpkin.—This berry is a favorite with the natives of the interior of New England, who prefer it to the gooseberry for the making of fruit cake, and who likewise give it the preference over the raspberry for feeding cows, as being more filling, and fully as satisfying. The pumpkin is the only esculent of the orange family that will thrive in the North, except the gourd and one or two varieties of the squash. But the custom of planting it in the front yard with the shrubbery is fast going out of vogue, for it is now generally conceded that the pumpkin, as a shade tree, is a failure.

The Fisheries.

Our American cousins are at length beginning to feel the inconvenience of the prohibition regarding their fishing in Canadian waters, and call loudly upon their Government to interfere and obtain a mitigation of the restraction place upon them. We are glad to see that our Government is pursuing so firm a policy, and we, we trust, they will continue. A resolute policy will make the Dominion respected in the States. Secretary Fish intends to apply to the British Government (believing they will be more pliable than the Minister at Ottawa) for some relaxation of the so-called hawk measures. Whenever Uncle Sam is prevented from encroaching on the property of his neighbors, he at once gets up a cry of interference with their rights, and calls upon their Government for redress.—Sunday Journal.

According to Gladstone the wealth of England increases $200,000,000 every year.

Navagh's Speech

The following is the speech of John Savage, the Fenian leader, to the Fenian Brotherhood, at a festival held in Jones' Wood, New York, last Wednesday:—

Citizens and Soldiers,—Although I do not think that speech-making at any time is of much value, I bow to the good intentions of the committee of arrangements, and will for a few moments address you. It is nearly one year ago since I had the felicity to meet so great a gathering on these grounds. I had just then returned from that great country now in the throes of agony for victory and life. I brought you then great news from your compatriots in Ireland. The factions which have existed for years exist no longer. It was welcome then; the news has not lost its effect now, because in the face of the world the union of Ireland must be a grand point. The union then cemented has been most beneficial to the cause which you all have at heart. (Cheers.) It would be impossible in the short time to review what has transpired in Ireland since. You have been kept in good acquaintance with the general outline of affairs. In conjunction with the united Irish in Ireland, I represent the men who endeavored to make united Irish in America. (Cheers.) The union of the Irish in Ireland is paramount of their union here. Some men are carried away foolishly by personal ideas. Still our common sense will help us to scatter and ignore their endeavors. I bring back from the Irish of Camorna their hearty felicitations. I have noticed in the papers a great deal of space devoted to the factions which the Irish have imported here. Unfurl the flag, and let me see the orange—the orange and green, which you see united by the pure white have been the subject of a great deal of criticism. I am sorry a riot occurred, but I cannot refrain from the remarks it suggests. It is a noticeable fact that while the stupid quarrel was being carried out in New York, the orange and green were fraternising in Ireland. Since the disestablishment of the church they have found their occupation gone, and their eyes have been opened to the faithlessness of seeming friends. If there be such people here as Orangemen, they must be little posted with the news from Ireland. Orangemen and Catholics were at that time fraternising for the cause of Ireland. Men had better listen to reason, and not perpetuate these factions. Cannot an Orangemen become a patriot? Yes. The very people who wear the green and fight the orange scarcely know what they are fighting for. I will give you my opinion as to our duty in America. Our duty is not to evoke, to awake, or cultivate anything that may cause a disturbance between citizens of the United States. While awaiting events in Europe, we must be sedulously careful not to promulgate unnecessary sentiments that may cause trouble between German and Irish. When England takes sides in the war, then nobody will blame you for taking sides also. You must never forget your object—Ireland.

Col. Robertson Ross's Tour of Inspection.

Col. Robertson Ross left Ottawa on the 1st on a tour of inspection, proceeding first to Montreal. On Monday he will be in Kingston inspecting the depot companies of the Red River Battalions. In the afternoon he will take over the military stores now in Fort Frederick. On Tuesday he will inspect the cavalry at Adolphustown, and in the evening will inspect the 16th Battalion, near Picton. On Wednesday, the 15th and 49th Battalions will be inspected near Belleville. On Thursday Col. Ross will be at Prescott, when five battalions will be inspected and exercised in field movements. On Friday, 9th, he will proceed via Toronto to Goderich. On the following day he will sail in one of the Dominion gunboat for Sarnia, with forty gunners, who will go through their annual gun practice. At Sarnia there will be the 7th, 22nd, 24th 25th, 26th and 27th Battalions, together with three troops of cavalry and one field battery, nearly 3,000 men in all, who will remain eight days in camp, and have a field day, the gunboat taking part in the movements. On the 16th, the 32nd and 33rd Battalions will be inspected in brigade at Goderich, and on the 17th Col. Ross will be present at the inspection of another body of troops encamped at Oakville. On the 17th he will inspect another force encamped at Barrie. On the 21st and 22nd there will be an inspection of the brigade, consisting of four battalions and some cavalry encamped at Cobourg. On the 25th Colonel Ross will return to Montreal. On the 28th he will inspect three battalions of infantry at Sherbrook At all these inspections field days will be held, and all requisite arrangements have been made for enabling the men to go through their target practice. The best shots among them will be selected to receive the annual prizes, recently granted by the Government. Detailed instructions for establishing uniformity of drill, &c., in their camps, have been prepared by the Adjutant-General, and will be published this week in the general orders.

A Warning to Sunday School Teachers.

'How do you do, Miss Mary?' said a child, running up to a lady on the street.

'I am well, I thank you. How are you?'

'I'm well, but father is sick, and so is little Jess, and that is why I did'nt come to Sunday school yesterday.'

'Ah! I'm sorry you could'nt come W hoseclass are you in?'

The child opened her eyes with surprise and a disappointed look came upon her face, 'Why, I am in your class!' she said, and it was all she could do to keep from crying. Her teacher had never missed her, did not even know her, for she had not called her by name.

Miss Mary saw her mistake in a moment, and wanted to make it up. So she said.

'Excuse me, my dear, I see who you are now, but you have not been long in my class, you know, and I have so many, You are.'—

'Florence McVay,' said the little girl.

'I'll come to your house, and see you and Jessie this week,' said Miss Mary.

She went, and carried custards and jellies to Jessie, and a nice book for Florence, but it was some time before she felt quite sure that the sensitive child had forgotten the knowledge that her own teacher did not recognize her on the street.

'Why, I'm in your class! echoed reproach fully in her ears for many a day.—

At the late thirty-fifth annual meeting of the London City Mission in Exeter Hall the Earl of Shaftesbury is reported to have said—"If his holiness the Pope had a wife, she would not allow him an hour to remain in the belief that he was infallible."

The Merry Mood.

It is a somewhat queer fact, that a compositor takes most o'an when he is hardest at work.

A young man at a recent fire threw away a pail of water because it was too hot to do any good.

A manufacturing wire-worker, in an advertisement, invites the public to come and see his invisible wire fences.

'Jack, your wife is not so passive as she used to be' 'No, she has left off that, and turned expensive.'

When may a man be said to be truly in advance of his age? When he's knocked into the middle of next week.

A facetious doctor at Fort Wayne, Ind. having been applied to for advice the other day, by a young bachelor, who suffered from the 'blues,' gave a Latin prescription which was translated by the druggist as follows: 'Provide yourself with seventeen yards of silk, with a woman in it.'

An old tover being requested to define hard drinking, said, it was sitting on a rock and sipping cold water.'

Young men can hardly hope for any commercial advancement until they get 'infirm.'

An American editor recently said to his correspondents, 'If we should desire stupid articles we can write them ourself.'

A humane farmer in Indiana recently procured a divorce from a sick wife and married a blooming maiden of nineteen. The divorced wife lives in the house with her successor, and is treated with great kindness and consideration.

The following arithmetical table is becoming very popular.

2 glances I look.
2 looks make I sigh.
4 sighs make I waltz.
3 waltzes make I palpitation.
2 palpitations make I call.
2 calls make 1 attention.
3 attentions make 1 fool (sometimes 2.)
2 fools make 1 flirtation.
1 flirtation x 2 bouquets, =1 engagement
=1 marriage.

—A choleric old gentlemen, becoming enraged at the stupidity of an aged and faithful servant exclaimed, 'Zounds, you dolt, I shall go out of my wits at your dullness.' To which the honest old servitor replied, 'Well thare's one comfort, master; you won' have far to go.'

—'Aw!' exclaimed an English cockney to a Western traveller in England, speaking—aw—of the law of primogeniture, 'ave you hentail in Amewica!' 'Hentail!' said the American, looking at his interrogator with curiosity; 'no, sir, we have the cock-tail in America, and a very popular drink it is.'

—An inventor, named Joel Strong, has just been before the Courts of Cincinnati on a commission de lunatico, granted at the instance of his wife, who states thrt he claims to have invented a broom for sweeping the entire globe, through the aid of seven devils, by whom he believes himself to be possessed.

—A talented young African, of the bootblack persuasion, observed a neighbour poring wisely over a newspaper, whereupon he addressed him thus:—"Julius, what are you looking at dat paper for? You can't read." "Go way fellah," cried the other indignantly, "guess I can read. I's big enuff for dat." "Big enuff," retorted the other scornfull; "dat ain't nuffin. A cow's big nuff to kotch a mice but she can't."

—'If you do not close that window, waiter, I shall die from the draught,' said a lady dining at the Crystal Palace 'If you do close it, I shall die from the heat this hot weather!' exclaimed a stouter fair lady. Then there was a giggle amongst the diners at the dilemma of the waiter, when a literary gentleman present said, 'My good fellow, your duty is clear: close the window and kill one lady, and open it again and kill the other lady.'

—A worthy old Highlander went to his minister one night in great anxiety, and wished the man of consolation to come and see his wife, whom he represented as just at the point of death. The clergymen happened to be engaged with some friends, and told Donald that he could not get away at present, but that he would see Janet at early as possible next morning 'Very well,' said Donald, 'I'll just go home and tell Janet that she must not die before you come.'

Female! When I behold your skirt
Dragging behind you in the dirt,
How pleased and thankful, too, am I,
That I have not your clothes to buy!

—In the bull baiting days a blacksmith who was rearing a bull pup, induced his father to go on all fours and imitate the bull. The canine pupil punned the old man by the nose The son, disregarding the parental roaring, exclaimed, "Hold him, Growler, boy, hold him! bear it father, bear it! it'll be the making of the pup.

MOCK MODESTY.—In a certain pleasant town in the county of Surrey there is, or was, a cricket-ground nearly surrounded by houses. One fine morning, just after a great match had been played the secretary of the club received a letter from a lady of a certain age," the proprietor of one of the adjacent houses declaring that her delicacy had repeatedly been affronted by the sight of gentlemen "in every stage of nudity, putting on their cricketing flannels in the open dressing-tent just before her windows. Would the secretary, therefore, she entreated, make arrangements for ridding her of this disgusting spectacle! The secretary wrote an apologetic note to Miss Fiefye, and at the next match the dressing tent was placed at the the opposite corner of the cricket-ground, at least three hundred yards from the lady's windows. Imagine the secretary's astonishment at receiving the next morning a second letter, thanking him for his "obviously kind intentions," but regretting that they were of no avail, as she "could see the gentlemen's legs, with a telescope, just as plainly as before."

There is a decrease in the breadth of flax cultivated this year in Ireland. In 1869, the number of acres grown was 229,178, and the returns of this year's crop show a diminution of about 34,000 acres. The extent of land under flax this year is, therefore, less than in any year since 1862, when the number of acres was returned at 150,070.

THE DUC DE GRAMMONT.—Whose name has became so prominent recently, is well known in England. He married the daughter of a Scotchman, Mr. Mackinnon, who was the head of the clan, and died but a few weeks ago.

There is just this difference between a fule and a hen — the fule cackles before, and the hen not till after the egg is laid.—Billings.

—Crops in the Red River are looking very well, and the harvest will be unusually early. The grasshoppers have done very little damage so far, and it is hoped that we will almost entirely escape this plague this year.

General Rules to be Observed in Consulting the Barometer.

1. If the Mercury stays about 29 inches, or the word "Changeable," without moving much, either up or down the weather will be unsettled and changeable.
2. If the Mercury rises to or above the word "Fair," fine weather is at hand.
3. Should it happen to rain when the Mercury stands high, it will be local, and very little of it.
4. If the Mercury continues to rise slowly—say for eight or ten days—and arrives at or above the line "Very Fair," then in summer, look for drouth—if in winter continued frost.
5. When the Mercury falls, it indicates foul weather; if the fall be slow, it will rain; if quick it will blow; and if falls very low, a severe storm is sure to follow.
6. When, during a storm, the Mercury is seen to rise a little, then rest assure the worst is over.
7. When the Mercury moves quickly, either up or down, the weather that follows will be of short duration and vice versa.

STOP AND SEE.

THE following remarks on Testimonials of most wonderful and extraordinary cures in Canada by the GREAT INDIAN REMEDY. They are stern, undeniable and incontestible facts, sufficient to convince the most skeptical that the Great Medicinal Compound called after for ages is now accessible in the Great for Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Digestive Organs, Kidneys, &c., as well as Scrofula, the Various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from Impurities of the Blood, we boldly state that this great remedy has NEVER BEEN EQUALLED. Where was there ever such a cure as that in the person of Wilson Storms of Brighton, C. W., of Consumption; or that of Peter C. V. Miller, Lansdown, C. W., of Consumption, or that of Ambrose Wood, of Cosseton, C. W., of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, or that of John Hosey, of Saguaze, C. W., of Rheumatism, who had actually been on crutches for years, in spite of all treatment heretofore, and is now well. Scores of such cases might be mentioned had we space.

SHOSHONEES REMEDY

☞ Call at the Drug Store and get a Circular or unquestionable certificates on the GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY and PILLS, and satisfy yourselves.

MADOC, County of Hastings,
Province of Ontario, Feb. 9th, 1869.

THIS is to certify that during the winter of 1866 I was taken with a weakness of the ankles, which gradually, during the spring of 1867, extended to my knees, and on up to my hips, and I became so weak that I could not walk, but was confined to my chair. For about two years, while this weakness was coming on me, and afterwards, I sought medical advice, consuming, at different times, three doctors, and medicines of different kinds, prescribed by friends, to no avail. I continued to get worse and worse, until the summer of 1868, when I was induced to try the great Shoshonees Remedy, by reading the cures performed, in a pamphlet. At this time I had begun to feel the weakness in my hands; in fact I was getting almost helpless! I have taken two bottles of the Shoshonees Remedy and two boxes of the pills and I am entirely restored to health. I never expected to get better, but simply tried the medicine as a sort of forlorn hope. This case of mine was not a private one, but known to all my neighbors and friends; and to any one afflicted as I was, I have only to say try the Shoshonees Remedy; I believe it will cure you.

MARY ANN DOUGHTY.

Sworn to before me at Madoc, County of Hastings, this 9th day of February, 1869. A. F. WOOD, J. P. &c.

I hereby certify that I have known Mrs. Mary Ann Doughty for the last fifteen years; she is a woman of probity and truth. I have known her before, during, and since her illness. I believe her certificate to be true in every particular. I know that while illness was declared hopeless; and I know that she has since had recovery, always attributed her recovery to the Shoshonees Remedy. Whatever may be the peculiar properties of this medicine, one thing is certain, that in her case, it has acted almost like the performance of a miracle.
