Xmas Will Soon Be Here.

Every year we offer to you the same good and valuable advice about attending to your Xmas Shopping early—and every year but a comparatively small number of people benefit by such advice—and presumably it will be so again this year.

The few—will begin shopping early—will see large assortments—complete assortments—will get all sorts of attention and the benefit of lowest prices.

The many—will rush around frantically during the busy days just preceding Xmas and buy up any old thing, and pay good prices for what the wise ones have wisely left behind for the unwise to buy.

Tickets for the Truro Conservatory of Music Concert, Dec. 27th, are for sale at Faulkner's and Odell's.

The pupils of the Wittenberg school will give an entertainment on the 15th inst.

They have had zero weather in New York, which is worse than 10 below zero here.

The Quebec Express was two hours late today; she was delayed up North by storm.

The Fossil Flour Co. of Bass River have asked for tenders for the delivery of a large supply of wood at their mill at Castlereagh.

H. F. Donkin, Esq., Manager of the Dominion Coal Co., passed through Truro today, en route from Boston to Sydney.

The great big tubers from the North West, mentioned in our yesterday's 'News,' weighed 4 1-4 and 4 3-4 lbs., and not 1 1-4 and 1 3-4, as there stated.

A Halifax paper says H. W. Williston, who has been farming near Truro, for some time, is home on a visit. He will return to his new avocation later on.

Principal T. B. Kidner, of the Truro Manual Training School, went to Antigonish today, where he will make arrangements for establishing a training school in that town.

Miss Bailey, of Messrs. Blanchard, Bentley & Co.'s staff, will sail on the Tunisian tomorrow for Liverpool, from Halifax, and will spend a holiday with relatives in England. All wish this very popular young lady bon voyage.

Hockey has got a great boom in town by the active steps already taken by the Truro Hockey Club. The Manager of the Metropolitan is delighted to know that his favorite winter game is in such good hands, and that so many first class matches will take place in Truro this season.

The Truss Stock Company in the Opera House tomorrow night, is universally spoken of as a first class dramatic company. The actors have given universal satisfaction wherever they have appeared. The press, without any exception, is loud in their praise.

The Morning Chronicle has two plump roosters this morning; one crowing over Keefe's election in Halifax by about 500 majority; and the other in fitful paroxysms of joy, over the return of Messrs. McKenzie and Gillis in Cape Breton, by some 700 majority.

Mr. W. J. Kent, the well-known and extensive lumber merchant of this town, has taken the store lately occupied by Mr. C. B. Lindsay. Mr. Kent is this season operating very extensively in the forests around Belmont, and this store will be a decided convenience both for the owner and his men.

Mr. W. A. Davis, of Moncton, has been in town for the last few days, superintending workmen who are engaged digging a large well near the Lepper Brook, from which the I. C. R. engines will be provided with water, until better arrangements for a supply can be secured.

Mr. I. Blair Fulton, after a faithful service of 23 years and six months with the well known dry goods men, Blanchard, Bentley & Co., has resigned his position as bookkeeper in that firm, and has joined the staff of the wholesale house of Messrs. Wm. Cummings & Sons. Mr. Fulton and his late employers part with mutual regret, and all Mr. Fulton's friends wish him continued success in his new position.

The Upper Onslow School intend holding their Annual School Concert in the school house tomorrow night at 7.30 o'clock. The very efficient teacher, Miss Nettie Archibald, has had prepared an interesting programme, and a very enjoyable evening will be spent by all who will patronize this affair. The sleighing is perfect from Truro, so any who go over tomorrow night, will not only enjoy the drive, but will have a good musical and literary entertainment provided for them.

Many of the young lads in Truro will remember John Burke, who was one time a faithful boy in the employ of Dr. Yorston. He is a son of Mr. A. Burke, of this town. He left Truro seven months ago, arrived in Dublin, his patronymic shows he should vegetate well on Irish soil, and there attended a military school. He grew tired of being an Irish soldier, so left Dublin and went to Scotland, and in Glasgow has joined the Highland Light Infantry, to which corps he still belongs, and likes his soldier life among the sons of the Gael amid the heather of Scotland.

General Buller, in a great speech in London, pays a high tribute to his men who were under him in South Africa. Every man was a true soldier. "The so-called 'uck of the British Army,'" was, he said, "that this army was the pluckiest in the world."

A lot of Americans from war vessels dined with the Sultan in Constantinople on the 11th. It was a very "swell" affair. The Sultan sat between the Grand Vizier and the United States Ambassador. Where the many "Mrs. Sultans" sat, the cables do not state; perhaps they were not allowed to be present, but were playing with the lots of "little Sultans" in the adjoining harem.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our correspondents.

Milford, Mass.,
Dec. 5th, 1900.

Editor Truro 'News.'

Why is it we do not hear from Chatterbox, Simple Jim, True Blue and all the rest of our friends in Hants?

I like to read the Truro 'News,' for I hear of friends I used to know when quite a small lad. All I see wrong with friends down east is that they do not elect the right men.

There are a great many of the down east people up here.

Miss Minnie Bond is living in Hopedale.

Mr. A. Abbott spent Sunday last with friends in Newton, Lower Falls.

Mrs. Mahoney is recovering from a severe illness.

Mr. Cook and daughter have returned home.

Mr. E. Brown is leaving this neighborhood, but he is not going out of town.

Miss H. Robison spent last Thursday with friends in Hopedale.

I wish the readers and editor of the home paper A Very Merry Xmas and Happy New Year.

Miss Burnetta Robinson spent Saturday afternoon with her cousin in Hopedale.

SWEET PINK.

Acadia Mines,
Dec. 7th, 1900.

Editor 'Truro News,'—

There is some indication of a revival of mining in this section. The visit of some experts in the matter of cutting down the blast furnaces, and converting them into coke furnaces, for the making of steel, gives the people, who are left here, a little hope as to the future.

Rev. Bro. Neish has been quite ill, and I regret to say that Rev. Mr. Ackman, who has La Grippe as well, and has been suffering from congestion of the bronchial tubes for some time, has been ordered down by Dr. Hills, who considers it necessary that Mr. Ackman takes a rest for the winter months, if he wants to do active work in the future. Both are doing well under Dr. Hills' treatment, especially the latter, whose trouble has been met as never before, which speaks well for the medico.
