MANITOBA'S GRIEVANCES.

A Mass Meeting at Brandon—A Speaker Who Thinks Secession Inevitable.

"The Manitoba and Northwest Farmers' union" was organized at Brandon on Thursday last. It was a large, influential gathering. All political opinions were represented. Concerted action was taken to secure redress of grievances under which it is alleged the settlers are being crushed. The following extract of one of the speeches contains the substance of the discussion and appears to represent the feeling of the meeting:

"We meet together to make solemn, united vigorous protest against the high handed policy of the dominion government toward the provinces. When Manitoba entered the confederation it was upon the condition that she would enjoy equal rights and privileges with every other member of the dominion. Have we enjoyed, are we enjoying these rights and privileges to day? I answer, emphatically, no. Every province except Manitoba has control of its lands, timbers, and minerals, which are solely for the benefit of those provinces. This right is denied Manitoba alone. All she receives is a paltry subsidy, which is barely sufficient to pay the twentieth part of the cost of administering the affairs of the province. Again, a most grievous burden has been imposed upon us in the shape of increased duty on agricultural implements. If agricultural machinery is wanted in any part of the world it is urgently wanted here. Our paternal government has taken advantage of our necessity to oppress us with an iniquitous imposition. What is the result? The struggling poineers of this country are already on the verge of bankruptcy, if not utter ruin. Another form of torture which has been inflicted upon us is the hideous railway monopoly which is to bind us hand and foot for twenty years. The vetoing of a local railway charter is one of the most shameful instances of tyranny ever imposed upon a free people. What is the remedy for this disastrous state of things? We must have control of our trade relations with foreign powers, and crush out monopoly. It is all very well to talk loyalty to the dominion, but we must be loyal to ourselves and families, and I fail to see how we can be loyal to ourselves if we any longer submit to the arbitrary and despotic government by which we are at present controlled. I do not wish to be misunderstood. I am no annexationist. I should be sorry to see Great Britain despoiled of any part of her provinces; but if the oppressive rule of Ottawa is to continue longer, I fear that the secession of this province from the dominion of Canada will be inevitable.

The resolutions passed were similar to the platform adopted at the Manitoba Rights league meeting in Winnipeg. A committee was appointed to visit various points throughout the Northwest, and it is probable that all organizations will be affiliated with the Winnipeg league, which will lead to a representative convention.

ENGLISH LIBERALISM.

The Program for the Next Session of Parliament.

The Pall Mall Gazette thus foreshadows the chief points of the liberal program in the British parliament: "We have reason to believe that, although the government can not be said to have arrived at any definite decision as to the program of next session, yet it is probable that it will introduce at the beginning of the session a measure of electoral reform which will apply to all parts of Great Britain and Ireland, making household suffrage the uniform rule both in town and county. If so, this will entail a reduction of the Irish borough franchise, which at present is a £4-rating franchise, but which in future will be the same as in England. This household suffrage bill will have precedence of all other measures. Although temporarily dissociated from the franchise bill, the question of redistribution of seats will probably be declared by the government to be an integral part of the scheme of electoral reform, which must be dealt with before an appeal is made to the country. The details of the scheme of redistribution are as yet unsettled but it may be taken for granted that it will not embody the principle of minority representation, and that it will go on the same lines as those which have preceded it. An attempt will probably be made to make the settlement on a self-readjusting basis after each census, so as to dispense with the necessity for any further reform bills; but neither on that point nor any of the others on which definite statements have been set forth in some quarters have ministers arrived at any final decision."

The University Question.

From the Toronto Telegram.

The whole question seems to be whether the people desire to have a provincial university or not. If they do they must sustain it, in the same way as they sustain their other educational institutions. If not, then they must leave the work of educating the youths of the country to denominational colleges, which, we may be sure in such a case, would in a very short time come rapping at the provincial treasurer's office for assistance. The adoption of a plan of that kind would in the end be more expensive and would not produce as good results as the former plan.

A Great Pigeon Shoot on Deck.

Mike O'Halloran and James Lennox have arranged for a pigeon shoot at Olcott's, Eglinton, on Thursday next, 10 birds each, $25 a side. Mike got several pointers in the match Tuesday last. He now knows which eye to close, the proper way to point his gun and when to fire—three things of which he says his competitor is entirely ignorant. Mr. Lennox, however, is determined to down him, and is practising daily in the back yard firing at a stuffed owl, which feels perfectly safe in his hands.

An Inauspicious Marriage.

A curious scene occurred lately at St. George's, Hanover square, London. A couple were about to be united in the bonds of holy matrimony; but as the lady had been defendant in a divorce suit, the rector was opposed to the marriage, entertaining conscientious scruples on the subject. The bridegroom had therefore secured the offices of another clergyman, the breadth of whose ideas on the marriage question is well known. He was present, and all promised to go smoothly, when obstacles suddenly presented themselves, owing to the fact that permission had neither been asked nor obtained from the rector of the church. When the gentleman who desired to officiate made his appearance, the loan of a surplice was denied him, but some one overcame that difficulty by rushing out and buying one. But the troubles did not end here, for two stalwart curates resolutely barred the passage of the reverend gentleman, preventing his entering the church, where the bride was anxiously awaiting her swain. Eventually the contest was abandoned, and the wedding party retired from the scene of action, the unwedded bride being carried away in a fainting condition.

THE WAYS OF WOMEN.

Ribbed silk stockings are cosy for winter, as they hug the extremities.

Silk cardigan jackets will be worn under dressy cloaks for extra warmth as the season advances.

Cloaks for children have the long, high-shouldered cape, or the long sleeve cape, as in former seasons.

Cuffs are worn by girls for school, also plain linen collars. Lace is not allowable except for very small girls.

Miss Emma V. Pitkin of New York, has youth, beauty and three-quarters of a million dollars, but all these could not keep her mind in balance, and she has become a raving maniac.

Dr. Mary Walker astonished a visitor to the interior department the other day by striking the cigar which he was smoking out of his mouth and delivering a lecture upon the enormity of the practice of using tobacco.

"My observation," says an old and confirmed bachelor, "leads me to the certain knowledge that up to twenty-five years of age a woman looks for her prospective husband with an expression of fear and tenderness, and from then until thirty with an expectant and anxious look; but after that a relentless, cruel determination haunts her eyes that bodes hardship and revenge upon him should the truant at last be found."

At a recent temperance meeting in Boston a thifty old lady observed that she knew something of the evils of rum. "I have buried three husbands and they were all hard drinkers. But I am glad to say that I didn't fight with them. As soon as I found they would drink I got them to insure their lives heavily and let them go ahead. Ah me! each one died from the effects of liquor, but, thanks, to a kind Providence, each death netted me a clear $10,000."

Under What King, Bezonian?

From the Rat Portage Argus.

An official communication from the department of agriculture at Ottawa was received by one of our citizens, addressed on both letter and envelope "Rat Portage, District of Algoma, Ontario." Last year the postoffice stamp here described Rat Portage as in Manitoba. This year it is Rat Portage, Keewatin. Next year it will undoubtedly be changed again in accordance with the provision of the department of agriculture which, being presided over by a Quebec minister, is unlikely to have any special affinities for Ontario in connection with the boundary question.

It is expected that Mr. Goschen will secure the speakership of the English house of commons.

TESTING ITS MERITS.

So much has been said regarding the wonderful cures made through the aid of the spirometer, the invention of Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris, ex-aide surgeon of the French army, that many eminent physicians have been induced to investigate the instrument, and also the scientific standing of the International Throat and Lung Institute. All who have so investigated express themselves satisfied that the physicians comprising the staff of the institute are thoroughly qualified medical men, that patients receive the latest and most scientific treatment, and that the spirometer is really a valuable addition to medical science.

One very prominent physician said: "If there is anything in inhalation it can be got out of the Spirometer. I am surprised at the powerful effects produced." Any one suffering from Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Consumption in its first stages or Laryngitis should consult the physicians of the institute personally and be examined; if not, write for list of questions and copy of "International News," published monthly. Physicians and sufferers can try the Spirometer free. Consultations free. Address
