THE GERMAN DOMINIONS IN AFRICA

The Germans in Africa. By Evans Lewin. London: Cassell and Co. 10s. 6d. net.

THE paper cover in which Mr. Evans Lewin's excellent historical account of The Germans in Africa is sent out is adorned with a map of Africa on which there are four black blots, so arranged that the three largest of them form an approximately equilateral triangle. These blots represent the German colonies in Africa—German East Africa, German South-West Africa, the Cameroons, and Togoland. All four have recently been the scene of some vigorous fighting, but it is practically certain that one of the results of the present war will be to change their colours on the map. Togoland was conquered without much difficulty in the first month of the war; it was hemmed in on three sides by French and British territory, and it would have been impossible to defend it for any length of time. The Cameroons were practically captured by the end of September, the chief towns being then in our hands, the wireless stations destroyed, and the German trooops being reduced to defensive warfare in a difficult hinterland. The conquest of the other two colonies—each of which is of considerably greater extent than the German Empire in Europe—has presented much greater difficulty. The task of subduing German South-West Africa was left to the forces of the Union of South Africa, under the capable and determined leadership of Gederal Botha—a fact which is alone sufficient to show how hopelessly the Prussians miscalculated in supposing that the better elements amongst the Boers were still disaffected to the British Empire. There was, however, some local and internal trouble, so that it was not until last month that General Botha was able to announce the surrender of Windhoek. German East Africa, which is even larger, and has a native population of some eight millions, is still holding out, and has already cost us many valuable lives; but its ultimate subjection to the Power which has command of the sea, and so is alone able to obtain supplies and reinforcements, can only be a question of time. We can now realize what a grave mistake was made by the statesmen of the later Victorian age in permitting Germany to establish herself on the flank of our South African possessions and astride of the Cape to Cairo route. It is quite conceivable that a little more firmness and foresight on our part, at the time when Bismarck originated his "world-policy," might have spared us a great deal of hard fighting to-day. It would have been easier to prevent Germany from obtaining these colonies than it has proved to turn her out of them. As Earl Grey says in his brief but extremely interesting introduction to Mr. Lewin's book, "unstatesmanlike lack of foresight, apathetic indifference to the requirements of the future, and a timid reluctance to seize the opportunities brought within reach by individual effort appear to have been the distinguishing features of the Government action recorded in these pages." Earl Grey gives some striking examples of the way in which the late Cecil Rhodes interfered to prevent German diplomacy from securing strategical positions which would have made our present task of conquest even more difficult than it has been proved to be. Mr Lewin describes the acquirement and administration of the German colonies in Africa with great clearness and the detailed knowledge which is reasonably to be expected in the Librarian of the Royal Colonial Institute, and we have no hesitalion in endorsing Earl Grey's recommendation of his valuable book to the British public.—The Spectator.

 An earlier review of this book, reprinted from The Times Literary Supplement, appeared in the BEACON of June 24. Since the above review was written the German forces in South-West Africa have surrendered to Gen. Botha; and the recent capture of Ngandere in northern Cameroon by British forces, means the practical conquest of that German colony. —Ed.

MAZZINI ON NEUTRALITY

A CONTEMPORARY calls attention to the words of the great Italian patriot Mazzini (1805-72) on the subject of neutrality, which are to be found in one of his essays. They are as follow:

A law of Solon decreed that those who in an insurrection abstained from taking part on one side or the other should be degraded. It was a just and holy law, founded on the belief—then instinctive in the heart of Solon, but now comprehended and expressed in a thousand formulæ—in the solidarity of humanity. What? you are in the midst of the uprising, not of a town, but of the whole human race; you see brute force on the one side and right on the other; you march between proscription and martyrdom, between the scaffold and the altar; whole nations are struggling under oppression; generations are proscribed; men slaughter each other at your very doors; they die by hundreds, by thousands, fighting for or against an idea; this idea is either good or evil; and you, continuing the while to call yourselves men and Christians, would claim the right of remaining neutral? You cannot do so without moral degradation! Neutrality—that is to say, indifference between good and evil, the just and the unjust, liberty and oppression—is simply atheism.

BRITAIN IN WAR A YEAR ON AUGUST 4

As the memorial fourth of August approaches, plans are being made for a fitting observation of the anniversary of the day on which the British Empire threw down the gage of combat and declared war upon Germany in the interests of liberty and the rights of the smaller nations.

Mayor Frink has received from Lieutenant Governor Wood a communication announcing that steps are being taken all over the empire to hold public meetings of a patriotic and Imperial character on that day, and asking the mayor to consider what part St. John might take in the anniversary. His Worship has received the proposal favorably, and will consult with His Honor regarding the matter when the latter is in the city, as he expects to be in a few days.

A central committee in London is promoting the idea, and has drawn up a resolution which they suggest might be adopted at each meeting. The resolution reads:—

Resolved, that on the anniversary of the declaration of a righteous war, this meeting of the citizens of (———) records its inflexible determination to continue to a victorious end this struggle in maintenance of those ideals of liberty and justice which are the common and sacred causes of the allies.—

UNITED BAPTIST TENTH ANNUAL MEETING SEVENTH DISTRICT

ST. GEORGE UNITED BAPTIST CHURCH
JULY 9–11, 1915

At a meeting of the First Session held at 2.30 p.m., Friday, July 9, about 50 delegates gathered, representing all parts of Charlotte Co. from St. Stephen, to and including St. John West, and Grand Manan Island.

After devotional exercises, the Roll of Churches was called, various committees appointed, communications read and referred to their various committees, and the yearly letters read from the churches. Several matters arising from these items were partially discussed and opportunity for their further consideration later on in the programme.

The second session opened at 7.30 p.m., on Home and Foreign Missions, with Rev. W. R. Robinson, chairman.

The Rev. Dr. Hutchison, in his pleasing remarks, was listened to with great interest; also Rev. W. S. Tedford, a returned missionary, being well known in this locality. We regret to report that although Mr. Tedford is a willing and experienced man in this calling, the board find it impossible again to send him to India on account of insufficient funds.

The 3rd session held Saturday at 9 a.m., was opened with a conference meeting led by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Johnson. At 10 a.m. a business meeting was held, consisting of report of summarizing committee by Mr. D. C. Clark, which caused considerable comment. Report of Sunday School committee, written by Mr. A. A. Hovey and read by the district clerk. Report of Obituary committee by Rev. A. F. Brown and read by Mrs. Brown.

The fourth session at 2.30 p.m., was also of a business nature. The report of Education committee, by Rev. W. H. Johnson, resulted in an interesting discussion lasting about 2 hours. The following officers were elected:

Rev. P. R. Hayward, B.A., B.D., of Fairville, Chairman.

Rev. W. R. Robinson, Ludlow Street, Vice-Chairman.

Mr. D. C. Clark, Clerk.

The Executive committee to consist of the above officers, together with Rev. A. J. Archibald, and W. H. Johnson, and Mr. Belyea.

The fifth session on Temperance and Education convened at 7.30 p.m., opening with an address on "Ministers' Annuity," by Rev. Dr. Crowell. Following this was an address on Education by Mr. D. C. Clark, an address on Temperance by Rev. P. R. Hayward, B.A., and a report of Temperance committee by J. E. Gosline, B.A. In supporting this report Rev. W. R. Robinson gave a stirring address.

The sixth session held Sunday, July 11, at 9.30 a.m., commencing with a prayer and social service, led by Rev. H. A. Bonnell.

At 10.30 the annual sermon was delivered by Rev. J. E. Gosline, B.A., B.D., taking for his text, Matt. 28, 18-19-20. "Go ye therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, and Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." Following this, communion was conducted by Rev. Dr. Crowell.

Sunday School was next held at 2.15 p.m. with Rev. J. B. Ganong as superintendent; Rev. W. R. Robinson, teacher adult; Rev. P. R. Hayward, teacher intermediate; Mrs. Ham, teacher primary.

At 3.30 p.m., a meeting on Home and Foreign Missions was held, with an opening address by Rev. J. B. Ganong on Home Missions, followed by the Report of Foreign Missions Committee by Rev. W. C. Goucher, D. D., and an address by Miss Patton, a returned missionary, which was very pleasing. A collection was taken for mission funds amounting to $13.77.

The eighth and last session was held at 7.30 p.m. The minutes of the various meetings were read and the report of committee on Resolutions was heard, when very kind thanks were tendered to the entertaining church and congregation, also to the choir for the magnificent music rendered. Then the congregation listened with great interest to a most elequent sermon by Rev. W. C. Goucher, D. D., on "The Gospel of the Extra." Following this was a short testimonial meeting which showed the deep interest taken, and benefits received during these very enjoyable meetings.

LETTER FROM THE FRONT

The following letter was received recently by Mrs. E. A. Cockburn, St. Andrews:

France, June 30, 1915

Dear Aunt Minna:

I was so glad to get your letter especially as I had only received one previously to yours since arriving in this country. I received two from mother the same day as yours, a good many of mother's letters to me have gone astray, those with the addresses of Douglas and Ned never reached me and I wanted them particularly as we may see the Second Canadian Division at any time, and I have no idea who they are with, except some Halifax battalion. I have been in the trenches four or five times, the first time was the liveliest, as we were shelled very hard by the enemy, but took one of their trenches. The last trench we were in was a pretty warm spot for a couple of hours, from shell fire, but in our first one we underwent a continual bombardment for eighteen hours. Since I received your letter we have marched about thirty miles, we made it in easy stages, marching at night and resting by day for three days, so we only made on an average of ten miles a day, the weather is so warm that unless it is very imperative we do all our marching at night. Of course my letters are necessarily pretty dry as I can't give any particulars on account of the censor, and in using these envelopes in which this is enclosed, we have to be very particular as they leave it to our honor not to mention anything we shouldn't, and these even are liable to be censored occasionally.

But I guess I won't be breaking any rules if I tell you we are now in Belgium. We came out of the reserve trenches last night, where we have been for two days, and expect to go in at some other spot again to-night.

This is a very pretty country we are in now, but as it has all been fought over it is pretty well torn up in places, and very few houses standing that have not some of the scars of war upon them, but some of the people still cling on to their old homes, for which we are very thankful as we can buy eggs and other luxuries.

We are fed very well by the army, and our company have very good cooks.

I have not had a photo of myself taken yet but will do so whenever I reach a good sized town and have the price, in the meantime I am sending a very poor snap which I had taken in Valcartier and printed in England.

Hoping to hear from you soon again as we all look forward to letters and parcels. I have had five parcels sent me which I have never received. My address is: No. 21286 Pte. E. R. Jack, No. 10 platoon, C. Company, 10th battalion, 1st Canadian Division B. E. F. France.

Mrs. (Dr.) Neville Parker sent me a parcel just as I was leaving England but it never reached me, it was to contain eats and smokes, we get plenty of smokes sent by different patriotic societies, but we go crazy over any eatables coming through the mail. I hope you can make some sense out of this scribble as I am not going to read it over.

With much love from,
Your affectionate nephew,
E. R. Jack

OF LOYALIST STOCK

To the Editor of The Telegraph:

Sir,—It may interest the descendants of United Empire Loyalists residing in Canada, and perhaps more especially those of the province of New Brunswick, to learn that the late Charles M. Street, who is reported to have been killed in action during April last while serving in France as a private of the 10th Battalion Canadian Infantry, came of united Empire Loyalist stock as his father's mother, the late Mrs. John Ambrose Street, of Fredericton, New Brunswick, was a daughter of William Hubbard, of Burton, Sunbury county, New Brunswick, who was one of the first batch of American Loyalists to settle in New Brunswick at the close of the American War of Independence. His paternal great-grandfather, Samuel Denny Street, served as a lieutenant in the Loyal Fencible Regiment against the rebellious American colonists, and when peace was proclaimed settled in Sunbury county, New Brunswick. He and William Hubbard soon came to the front in provincial affairs, and each was made a member of the legislative council of the province. The late Hon. John Ambrose Street, Q. C., of Fredericton, New Brunswick, was Charles Street's grandfather, and his name is still remembered as that of one of New Brunswick's most respected citizens. William Hubbard's grandson, Frederick Ambrose Hubbard, is still in possession of the property at Burton which was originally granted to his grandfather, and is proud of his United Empire Loyalist ancestor as is also his cousin.

H. A. STREET,
Retired Commander R. N.

Northwood, Middlesex, England, June 14, 1915.

 The above appeared in the St. John Telegraph one day week before last, and we have the pleasure to print it, as the several members of the Street family have been intimately connected with St. Andrews. The Hon. John Ambrose Street, Q.C., was an uncle of the late E. Lee Street, whose widow now resides here.

An advertisement is a beckoning hand, a token of invitation, a sign of welcome.

A business serving the public should most certainly advertise—beckon, welcome, and show an eagerness to serve.

The attitude of a business serving the public, yet which does not advertise, is not one of courtesy or appreciation.

A business which uses the expanding factor of advertising is on a fair way to reach its fullest possible potential development.
