THE LIMEKILN CLUB.

BRUDDER BATES IS CALLED UPON TO TOE DE CHALK MARK.

The Presiding Officer Reasons With Him On the Prevalent Habit of Discussing Religious Subjects—Finally He Is Dismissed from the Club.

"Does I perceive Brudder Sunflower Bates ober dar by de woodbox?" asked Brother Gardner, as he arose and shaded his eyes with his hand and peered in the direction indicated.

"Yes, sah, I was perceived," answered the member, as he rose up.

"Werry well, Brudder Bates. Yo' will please step dis way an' stand on dat chalk mark while I ax yo' a few questions. De oddor night, when yo' war gwine home wid Samuel Shain, yo' got up a dispute 'bout de Garden ob Eden?"

"It was Brudder Shain who disputed, sah."

"Yo' told Brudder Shain dat yo' had seen a cucumber nine feet long which growed in dat Garden ob Eden, an' when he said he didn't believe it yo' punched his head."

"Yes, sah, but I'ze sorry."

"A few days ago yo' went ober to see Elder Toots. Yo' found de elder hoein' out his 'taters, an' yo' at once sot out an' told him yo' didn't believe de whale swallowed Jonar. De Elder differed wid yo', of co'se, an' what did yo' do?"

"Took him down an' sot on him, sah."

"Exactly—sot on him most all de arternoon—an' he's had such a lame back ever since he couldn't git outdoors. One day last week yo' called at de cabin of Brudder Bebee. Yo' didn't seem to have anything on yo'r mind fur a few minits, but all of a sudden yo axed Brudder Bebee if he believed in dreams. He said he didn't an' yo' got up a dispute an' knocked most ob his right eyebrow ober de back fence."

"But he called me a fool niggah, sah!" protested Brother Bates.

"Yes, I s'pect he did, an' nobody blames him! One arternoon last month yo' happened to meet Shindig Watkins in a grocery store. He was dar arter clothespins an' codfish, an' he greeted yo' in de most traceful speerit. It wasn't five minits befo' yo' put yo'r fist under his nose an' declar'ed yo' belief dat de sun moves around de airth, an' added dat yo' could lick any man who says it don't. Yo' was strikin' out to hit him on de chin when he run away."

"I'ze bin seein' de sun move around de airth all my life," replied Brother Bates in extenuation.

"Two or three weeks ago," continued the president, "yo' goes ober to see Brudder Whalebone Howker. Fur de last fo'ty y'ars Brudder Howker has been firmly believin' dat Cain killed Abel wid a hickory club. He has axed me 'bout it seberal times, an' as I doan' know whether it was hickory or oak I comforted him by sayin' dat it was probably hickory. Yo' purtended to him dat yo' wanted to borry a shovel, but yo' begun talkin' rou'nd an' finally got to dat club bizness an' said, yo' thought it was an elm club. Brudder Howker got excited an' begun to holler, an' yo' hit him on de nose an' knocked dat organ half an inch outer plumb."

"DE SUN DO MOVE."

"He was clawin' fur me, sah?!"

"Yes, I know. One mo' case, an' dat happened only to-day. Yo' met Brudder Sundown Jackson on de street an' talked 'bout de hard times an' de weather fur a few minits. Den yo' suddenly axed him if he believed dat de floein' children of Israel passed frew de Red Sea dry shod. He said he did, of co'se, an' yo' thumped him on de jaw, an' he 'pears here to-night wid a towel tied around his head to hold a poultice on de swellin'."

"He was reachin' fur my ear, sah!" replied Brother Bates.

"Yes, mebbe he was, an' he orter be fined $10,000 dat he didn't git dar! Brudder Bates, yo, sorter slipped inter dis club. When yo' had got in an' I turn to look yo' ober, I made up my mind dat yo' was pore timber. We hev rules an' regulashuns to govern our conduct. One of de strickest rules am dat no one shall dispute ober biblical questions. Disputin' would be bad 'nuff, but in yo'r case yo' go round thumpin' folks kaze dey won't agree wid yo'. I'ze feelin' mighty bad eaze yo' didn't cum ober to my house an' try to git up a dispute 'bout Noah's ark. Had yo' done so yo' would hev had reason to believe dat de ark and all de animals in it had suddenly bumped up agin de back o' yo'r head! As yo' didn't cum, I want to say to yo' dat yo' am no longer a member of dis club. Yo'r name has bin scratched off de rolls, yo'r account balanced, and yo' kin take yo'r hat an' walk downstairs!"

Ex-Brother Bates was evidently surprised and pained, but he neither protested nor appealed from the summary proceedings. When he had disappeared, Brother Gardner quietly said:

"If dar am any member of dis club who can't quite believe dat Lot's wife was turned to a pillar of salt, an' who has got a burnin' desire to argy an' dispute ober it, let him cum to me in de anteroom arter de meetin' adjourns! I hain't nuffin agin a man gwine back to de yo'r I to git knowledge, but when he picks up dis p'int fur de sake of argyment, an' den stands ready to thump de pusson who can't agree wid him, he's de gem'lan I want to see alone fur 'bout five minits!"

BILL NYE'S FACE.

The Real, Right Down, Solid Truth About His Physiog.

E. W. Nye ("Bill Nye"), the humorist, asks the Illustrated American to publish the accompanying photograph of himself. He says the community has a depraved notion regarding his appearance, e. g.

EDGAR W. NYE.

the machinations of a certain artist who is jealous of Mr. Nye's personal beauty. Of the photograph shown herewith the subject writes: "It wears a Dutch cap and was taken in Yurrup. In the way of variety it offers a pleasing contrast to the regular bleak and desolate top-knot of my average portrait."

A Well-Intentioned Mistake.

The Well-Intentioned Man overheard two women talking together in the cable car and he immediately let down the portals of his ears, for the Well-Intentioned Man always goes about with a life-long hunger in his heart to insert himself into the affairs of other people.

"I tell you he is a perfect tyrant," said woman number one.

"I haven't a doubt of it," says woman number two.

"I will listen to this poor woman's tale," thought the Well-Intentioned Man "and perhaps I may be able to assist the poor soul."

"Yes, he is a regular tyrant and despot. He has no mercy on me whatever. He rules the whole house like a regular czar.

"Of course he does," said woman number two.

"I shall have to offer my services to this poor, down-trodden woman," thought the Well-Intentioned Man.

"Yes, he rides over the whole household. And sometimes, when he gets on the rampage, he breaks everything he can lay his hands on."

"Madam," said the Well-Intentioned Man, who could stand it no longer, "Madam, my services are at your disposal. Let me go to your home and intercede with your tyrannical husband."

"He isn't my husband at all, you simpleton," snapped woman number one. "He's my nine-months' old baby—bless his precious little soul!"

A Distinction With a Difference.

The young man had failed in securing the girl as his own for life, owing principally to the violent opposition of her paternal ancestor, and a friend of his was consoling him on his loss.

"By George," he said, "I don't see what you wanted to marry that girl for."

"That's because you don't know her."

"I know her father."

"But I wasn't marrying him."

"Perhaps not, but you would have to become a member of the family."

"I could have stood that for the girl's sake, too."

"Well, I couldn't. Why, I had some dealings with him in a business way and I found that he was a regular robber."

The disappointed lover sighed profoundly.

"I don't know but that you may be pretty near right on the old man," he said, "I had some dealings with him and I found him a free booter."

AN ARTISTIC COIFFURE.

AN ARTISTIC COIFFURE.

The slightly undulated hair carelessly droops at the side on the nape of the neck, and is skillfully twisted at the back. A feather aigrette is poised on the top of the head amongst the short, soft rolls and puffs.

How Troubles Are Divided.

Troubles are pretty evenly divided, after all, says the Philadelphia Times. A girl may go nearly distracted when she feels that the band of her dress skirt has come unfastened, but think of the misery of the man when the buttonhole in the neck of his shirt rips open and lets his collar and necktie slide up to his ears. A girl has to fold her hands and wait for a man to ask her to go the theatre with him, but when she does go she has the comfort of making the man spend a lot of money. That consoles her to a certain extent. A girl has to entertain stupid callers whether she wants to or not, because society demands it. A man has to dance with girls who can't even walk gracefully, because if he did not his hostess would consider him rude. A girl carries her life in her hands when she tries to get within a rod of a bargain counter, but she can walk along the street in peace. Half a dozen bootblacks don't yell, "Shine, sir; shine?!" at her. A girl has heaps of trouble with her complexion and her front hair, but she doesn't have to have a razor go traveling over her face every day. A girl is very likely to spend weeks in planning the construction of a new hat, but when she does get it people don't sit on it, as they always do on men's headgear. Perhaps that's because a girl doesn't leave her hat lying around on sofas and chairs.

Lots of men are glad they are married, because they are sure of having one listener to their bragging stories.

The meanest man in town, who cannot boast of a single friend, invariably has a wife and generally a good one.

No women is a natural liar. She only tells untruths when she thinks by so doing to please the man she loves.

Men and women waste half their lives in making each other's acquaintance and the other half in regretting having done so.

When a women ceases to dress and put on airs for a man, you may know that she is in love, and that he soon won't be.—Boston Home Journal.

"Seven years ago, my wife had a severe attack of lung trouble which the physicians pronounced consumption. The cough was extremely distressing, especially at night, and was frequently attended with the spitting of blood. The doctors being unable to help her, I induced her to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was surprised at the great relief it gave. Before using one whole bottle, she was cured, so that now she is quite strong and healthy. That this medicine saved my wife's life, I have not the least doubt."—K. MORRIS, Memphis, Tenn.

Visitors to our rooms often express surprise at the good order and quietness prevailing. Their surprise is increased when they understand that our Actual Business Course of Training requires that students shall not only be allowed but encouraged to communicate freely with each other.

Then, how is quietness possible? Just because our work is so interesting that each student's energies are absorbed in it; because each is treated as a gentleman (or lady) and, therefore, is one; because each realizes he is preparing for future success.

Our catalogue explains it. Send for one.
