WIND UP HAVANA RACES NEXT WEEK

Bert Collyer Says Curly Brown's Meet Has Been a Bloomer—Air Tight Ring

The Havana Jockey Club yesterday decided to call off the program at Oriental Park. It further was decided to wind up the present season next Wednesday. There will be racing Saturday, Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Pity the sorrows of poor old Havana has become one of the catch lines in the sporting columns, and not one of the least of her woes has been brought about by the winter race meeting at Oriental Park, of which Curley Brown has been promoter and sponsor. Most of the winter the weather man has been the goat for Brown every time a cupful of rain having descended from the heavens being the signal for Curley to declare all racing off "until next Thursday." A letter, however, just received from a follower of the sport, who proved his valor by taking a whirl at the Oriental Park game, puts a different aspect upon the matter, writes Bert E. Collyer.

"Fine sport here, but the racing has been a bloomer," writes Collyer's correspondent. "Brown's methods of conducting the sport have not appealed to the Cubans and the meeting is fizzling out for want of patronage.

"The words "Brown's methods" are a whole volume in themselves, and apparently the sportive Cubans disliked them as much as did the racing fans of this country. The aroma of Curley's tactics at Jacksonville, Fla., seems to have followed him to Oriental Park, and with the betting ring there an air tight affair, and bookmakers in the United States unwilling to take a chance with the commissions, it's no wonder the game is slowly expiring of inanition.

"The recent victories of Mariano and Kazan, both on the same day, over which bookmakers in Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburg and Detroit were handed solar plexus wallops by the manipulators, put up the bars, with the result that one cannot place a five-dollar bet with a layer in any of these cities tho he were to use a jimmy in the attempt.

WOODSTOCK Y. COMING.

The Baptists are running their second Belgian relief fund night on Royal Templars floor Saturday at 8 o'clock sharp. The Woodstock Y. are sending their seniors down to play the Baracas, this year's Baptist champions, a return game. Baracas visited Woodstock a week ago and piled up a nice lead. The Woodies say that on this floor they will surely win, so watch out for some grand ball. It is some years since Woodstock journeyed this far for basketball, so this will be a grand chance to see them in action. A fast preliminary has been arranged between two of the Baptist leading teams, and will surely be a hummer. Beverley, Dovercourt, Baraca and College are not quite sure which has the best relay team, and have promised to fight it out on Saturday between the two games.
