NOTICES OF 'THE WISDOM OF THE KING'

BY

Rev. James Bennet,

ST. JOHN, N. B.

"EVIDENCES of deep and serious thought throughout the volume."—Belfast News Letter, Jan. 24, 1871.

"Succeeds well in seizing on the salient points of the words of the Royal Preacher, and in bringing them home to present duty."—Glasgow Daily Review, Feb. 6, 1871.

"Characterized by directness of aim, sound sense, and right appreciation of the sacred writer's meaning."—The Preachers' Lantern, (London), Feb. 1871.

"It is a good book of sterling value."—The British and Foreign Ecclesiastical Review, April 1871.

"His Book may be recommended as worthy to take a place in the Homiletical Literature of Ecclesiastes."—British Quarterly Review, April 1871.

"The production of a highly cultivated mind. . . . We have read several works on Ecclesiastes, and well remember the pleasure with which years ago we perused the 'Royal Preacher,' but for fine criticism, comprehensiveness of thought, striking illustration and unostentatious, yet eloquent and forcible style, THE WISDOM OF THE KING, we think, surpasses them all."—St. Croix Courier, March 6, 1871.

"The volume is not an unworthy companion of Dr. Buchanan on the same book."—The Homilist (London), April 1871.

"A series of charming Essays. . . . Each chapter branches out into innumerable topics of a secondary and collateral nature, giving to the work a boundless diversity, enriched with stores of ethical as well as of spiritual wisdom, evincing at once acute observation of social life and of human character, and containing the noblest lessons for practical guidance. Our author's style is remarkable for its free, unconstrained flow, almost colloquial at times, but invariably signalized by elegance, force, adaptation to the subject, and not seldom by originality of thought in combination with terseness and beauty of expression. . . . There is about it a freshness, as well as a fullness of practical teaching, rarely to be met with in ordinary Biblical commentaries."—Londonderry Standard, Feb. 15, 1871.

"This is a bright, breezy book, both interesting and instructive. We can most conscientiously commend this book generally, as one of the most sprightly, attractive and instective works of its kind that has fallen under our observation."—Boston Evening Traveller, May 6th, 1871.

"Every portion of the work indicates extensive scholarship and mature thought."—Belfast Northern Whig, April 8th, 1871.

"The force, raciness and robust manliness of Mr. Bennett's style and mode of treatment will arrest attention and excite interest in quarters where preaching or writing of the average quality would fall flat and dead."—Home and Foreign Record, March, 1871.

"So plain yet so suggestive, so practical yet so profound are these Lectures that while you read them you feel their deep truth and reality; that you are in contact with realities both visible and invisible; that you are in close contact with the beating heart of nature and humanity, and that all their life and hope flow full and free from God alone."—Fredericton Head Quarters, March 1st, 1871.

"The writer is evidently well acquainted with the literature of his subject, and that acquaintance reveals itself almost unconsciously in every page. There is no ostentation of reading or learning, but there is everywhere the gleaming forth of light which cannot be hid. . . . The style is simple, intelligible, graceful. It shows at once that Mr. Bennet is a man of literary culture, who can express his thoughts with scholarly chastiness and good taste. We could not open a page without meeting some thought vigorously expressed. The work is eminently fresh and readable."—Free Witness, Halifax.

"He reveals in the treatment of his themes strong common sense, a firm grasp of thought, a logical acumen and a clear insight into human character. Even when dealing with trite ideas he imparts to them a novelty and interest by which they are lifted into an importance they scarcely deserve. The style throughout is lucid, pure, compact, forcible.—and it is his own—the garb of his own thinking. We have met in our perusal of the book with numerous paragraphs of finished and brilliant rhetoric—fine specimens of pulpit oratory. He is never tame nor tiresome. We have not found one slip-shod sentence in the volume."—Christian Visitor, (Baptist) March 6th, 1871.

"We were not prepared to find him writing in such a finished style and issuing such a volume as the result of certain preparations made for an evening lecture to his congregation. If all his pulpit performances are equal to these, his people have reason to rejoice in the Providence which guided his steps to them."—Evangelical Witness, May 1st. 1871.

"This is a remarkably thoughtful, solid book. Mr. Bennet is evidently at home in Metaphysics and Ethics, and he is a shrewd observer of human nature in its ordinary manifestations; consequently he ranges over the lessons of the Preacher with a power of illustration which shews his mastery of the subject. The style is close and direct, and yet so lucid, that any reader may understand every sentence in the volume. . . . It will, we doubt not, take its place, as it ought to do, among our household expositions of this treatise of observation and Jewish wisdom."—The Presbyterian (Philadelphia), May 20, 1871.

"The lessons to be learned are drawn with a master's hand, and are expressed with a combined force and beauty that we have rarely seen surpassed in the production of any author. The ordinary reader will find nothing that is above his comprehension, and yet it would be difficult to find a common-place thought or form of expression. A combination of these requisites we deem the highest merit a writer can possess.

"We will be much disappointed if the book do not command a wide circulation. Wherever a sound literature is felt to be a desideratum, THE WISDOM OF THE KING has but to be known to be prized as a work that the world will not willingly let die."—Saint John Telegraph and Journal.

"THE WISDOM OF THE KING is well worth careful reading. Indeed you cannot read much of it at once. There is a constant play of fancy about the thoughts, and often the very words, that is admirably suited to the Scripture book, of which this is an exposition, but which demands such constant attention on the reader's part that he gets tired, for he does not know where it is to end. The style is compact, lucid, often sparkling and epigrammatic, the sentences cut sharply, but with a poetic fullness of original illustration that redeems them from all hardness."—Halifax Monthly Record, (Church of Scotland).

"Each chapter is so well done, so lucid, yet concise in its exposition, that it is sometimes difficult to determine which is the best and most interesting.—Stewart's Quarterly, St. John.

FROM Yesterday's Edition!

In Memoriam.

Yesterday morning Rev. James Bennet, in the course of a very able sermon, delivered in his best style, made appropriate allusion to the recent death of Mr. Robert Kedey, an esteemed citizen, and for many years an active member and leader in the St. John Presbyterian Church. Mr. Bennet said:—

I wish to-day to present you with a view of the character and work of another good man full of the Holy Spirit and faith who has just passed away from us. Coming from the same land of nativity with most of us he was associated with the people of this church in various ways since its commencement, and shared with it its various fortune. At the age of 21 years he landed on these shores, and soon became noted for his industry, probity, and piety. For many years, prior to the erection of this Church he was a regular attendant at St. Andrew's Church. Upon the purchase of this Church, he threw in his lot with the people composing this congregation, and since then has ever remained faithful to their interests.

In company with Messrs. W. Parks, R. Richey, and Geo. Hutchinson, he was ordained an Elder of this Church, and previously he had been elected Superintendent of the Sabbath School. The office of Elder he held till the day of his death, and that of Superintendent of the Sabbath School for a period of twenty years—indeed, till the coming infirmities of old age admonished him that his work was done. His life was thus intimately associated with the beginning and history of this Church. It owes to him much of its prosperity, and nothing of its adversity. Had his counsels always been followed, this house would not hold the congregation assembling here. Peace was his motto, and mutual love his admonition. He worked with a will, and he gave with all his heart. Abundant in personal labors, he yet more abounded in liberality. Never absent from his post in the Sabbath School, frequent in his visits to the sick and afflicted, he upheld the hands of the Minister, raised the status of the Eldership and the good name of the Church to which he belonged. He was a man of labor and industry, and God prospered him, and as he prospered he gave to the cause of God. His subscription was largest, freest, most spontaneous. I never yet saw a cause which had a show of worth to which he did not liberally give. I do not believe that there is one in this City who has given more largely in proportion to his means. And then, how kindly with it all! How often does one who has occasion to ask of wealth for the cause of God feel the almost degradation of asking—of the patronage of pride—that seems to think you under an eternal obligation of a miserable subscription given more as a sop to quiet the asker than as a duty owing to God? But nothing of this ever with him. Knowing his spontaneous kindness, I have sometimes done him the injury of keeping away applications to which he would too readily respond. And withal he scarcely let his left hand know what his right hand was doing. Especially was this the case with the sick and poor whom he visited. Hundreds of them will remember him in life, and will be his evidence before Christ at the judgment that he was a true follower of the Saviour. Nor was he one of those who made a shew and a name upon the wealth of others. He was first just and then generous. He owed no man anything. His word was worth the bonds of other men. Nor was his piety only of a public kind, or his virtue for the eye of man. He carried his devotion into the family and the chamber where he sought God with all the fervency of his nature. Long will he be remembered by the poor, by the Church, by those who received his instructions and admonitions in the Sabbath School; and I think it is not too much to say that this Church should erect a tablet to his memory. I tell you, brethren, such men are rare, very rare, and of great worth, and ought to be honored and their memory cherished. I would earnestly desire to see this Church shew their appreciation of worth whose like we shall not soon look upon again.

I can only wish that God would of his mercy raise up such another in this Church. I do not think this a vain aspiration. We need the blessing, and, as has well been said, the time of man's extremity is that of God's opportunity. Might we not expect that he would, out of the young who have been taught in the Sabbath School, out of those whose lives his influence may have touched, out of those who, springing from his loins, have all along beheld his pious conversation in the family, select one who would take up his standard and go out and in among us as examples to the flock. Nay, not one alone, but many, who shall more than supply his place, and who shall aid in establishing this our Zion till she shall become a praise in the midst of the Earth.

GOING FOR THE MILLIONAIRES.

A SYSTEMATISED BURGLARY—ACIDS, GOUGES, KNIFE EDGED FILES, AND GUNPOWDER—BUTTING AGAINST A GRANITE WALL FIVE FEET THICK!

Heavy burglaries have been scarce of late. Since the great Central Bank robbery at Fredericton some years ago, all the thieving has been monopolized by the bankers themselves, and now the professionals have been coming to the surface again. The heavy business operators of the various firms in which Messrs Bradshaw, Henry, Thomas and James Gilbert are concerned, and Henry Wilson & Co., all occupy a two story wing of the brick building on Water St., the main building of which is occupied by Thomas McAvity and Sons as a hardware store and Brass Foundry. This two story brick wing has its entrances and windows

FACING GILBERT'S ALLEY.

On entering, to the left a flight of stairs leads to the offices of H. W. Wilson & Co. on the second floor; to the right on the first flat is the door of Gilbert & Co's outer office, and beyond that is the private office. This room is about twelve feet square, and the vault is about twelve by fifteen feet. The walls of the vault are

FIVE FEET THICK,

and are brick and granite. The outer door is the size of an ordinary house door. After the thieves opened the outer door they would find an inside vault and another door. Last week Mr. Henry Gilbert saw a man looking in the window at the open vault, but he went off; he was a black moustached, stout follow. On Saturday night the workmen in Messrs McAvity's engine room, which is adjoining the vault, were repairing the vault and heard a noise on the opposite side, as if

CUTTING INTO THE WALL.

Some of the firm of McAvity & Sons went around to the alley way, and saw two men leaning up against the shutters. One of the men pretended he was drunk, and the other acted as if to get him away. "Come to blazes out of this, you're drunk," the sober one said to the other. That was the signal for the inside ones to STOP THEIR WORK!

Drunken men being an abundant crop on Water st. on Saturday nights, the Messrs. McAvity suspected nothing and went back to their shop. This morning the work was revealed; the whole plastering over the vault was torn off, and the granite around the edges of the vault door was cut away. The intention appeared to be to

BLOW OPEN THE VAULT,

if they could not succeed any other way. A quart champagne bottle, full of acid to use on the iron hinges, stood on the office table; a kerosene oil lamp which had been filled must have burned for some time; a candle also laid on the table, ready for use. They were evidently philosophers, as the porter who had cleaned the spittoon found it half full of tobacco juice. They wouldn't have got anything like for their trouble, either, for though mining stock, shipping stock, bank stock and real estate are owned in large quantities by the firm, they don't keep them in their vault. Their cash box is an old cigar box, and twenty dollars is as much as they ever keep in it at one time. The building is on the wharf, and a Saxby Gale or a Delissier Deluge would wash it away.

THE ARRAY OF BOLTS, BARS AND GRANITE

revealed to the burglar through the open window, excited his avarice; and if nothing else can be gained of a beneficial nature, the public will learn that there are thieves about and govern themselves accordingly. Bankers, ship owners and brokers generally visited the scene of the depredation to-day, to gaze on the sacrilegious innovation on the vested rights of an old and highly esteemed business house.

Temperance Lecture.

Rev. Mr. Cormier lectured last night before a large audience in St. Malachi's Hall, Sydney Street. The Rev. lecturer dwelt forcibly on the terrible evils of intemperance. These monthly lectures in the city and Portland are understood to be proving sources of great good among the laboring classes.

Personal.

Superintendant Carvell went up in the five o'clock train, on Saturday, to Sussex, and took a special train from there to Sackville, to the scene of the accident to the bridge over the Tantramar. This important and costly structure will be a source of great trouble and inconvenience for some time to come.

F. X. Perier, Esq., Inspector of Penitentiaries for the Province of Quebec, is at the International Hotel. Inspectors King, of Nova Scotia, and O'Neil, of Ontario, are expected here for the annual tour of inspection. Probably the bounds will be defined within which prisoners will be kept.

Shipbuilding in Carleton.

The keel for a barque of five hundred tons has been laid in the yard of Mr. Wellington Ring, Sand Point. She is to be built for Mr. Oliver Emery. It is some years since Sand Point has witnessed any shipbuilding of consequence going on.

Messrs. Scammell's Circular.

From this Circular, issued on Saturday, we learn that the shipments of shooks from 1st September to the 10th Feby., inclusive, were as follows for each of the last three seasons:—1870: 807,400; 1871: 693,534; 1872: 660,400. Nineteen vessels had cleared for Cuba with shooks and other lumber in the fortnight ending Saturday. These were in port "uncleared" on Saturday:—4 ships, 9 barks, 1 brig, 11 brigantines, and 65 schooners. Of the latter 2 are being repaired.

The Bishop of Fredericton—Lenten Services.

Bishop Medley will remain in town for a month, at the special invitation of some of his friends. He has, we understand, come for the purpose of giving his friends the privilege of more frequent association with him, and also to hold some special services for the members of the Church generally.

The Bishop preached yesterday morning in Trinity Church. Prayers were read by the Rector; and His Lordship the Bishop preached the sermon, which was a practical enforcement of obedience, based upon the words of St. Paul, taken from Heb. 5—7 and 8. His Lordship dwelt upon the necessity of the members of the Church being loyal and obedient to the Church to which, not by compulsion but by their own voluntary act, they belonged. He further spoke of the evil of sin which led to disobedience, its fearful and appalling character, and how in Christ's obedience mankind had both their example and their atonement. The close of his sermon was an earnest exhortation to a faithful and true obedience, both to the Church, the Gospel, &c.

In the afternoon the Bishop preached at St. Paul's to a congregation which nearly filled the Church. His discourse was chiefly directed against the apathetic condition of society, even of so called Christian society. He spoke at large of the spirit of worldliness warring against the law of Christ, which debased many noble characters, it might be in only one or two particulars, and restrained them from seeking God. He referred to the fact that the moral law was instituted before the ceremonial, and thence drew the conclusion that modern Christians should make of their bodies fit temples for the spirit before they paraded a false and hollow religion in attendance at the services and in participation of the rites of the Church. The besetting sin of the age, he said, was not intemperance, nor want of charity, nor irreverance, but should rather be included under the general head of self-indulgence, which debased even the finest intellects. The sermon exceeded the ordinary length, but would have commanded the fixed attention of the congregation for a much greater period of time.

The Lenten services this year will commence, as usual, on Ash Wednesday, on which day there will be services in all the English Churches at 11 a. m., and in Trinity in the evening.

Thursday, at St. John's (Stone Church) School house at eight o'clock p. m.

Friday, at St. Paul's (Valley) at half past seven p. m.

Saturday, St. John's Church School house, at eight p. m.

On Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday of next week and the following weeks of Lent, evening services will be held in St. John's Church School house; on Wednesday evenings services will be held at Trinity, and on Fridays at the Valley Church at half past seven p. m.

There will be services in the Sunday school room adjoining St. Jude's Church, Carleton, every Wednesday evening during Lent, after Ash Wednesday, at 7.30.

The Bishop's special services will be those of Tuesday and Thursday in each week, as long as he remains in the city. Next Sunday he will preach at St. James' Church in the morning and at the Stone Church in the evening.

How was it?

The Halifax Chronicle, religious paper, commenting on the accident to the Tantramar Bridge and the recent Sunday travelling of the Inter Colonial Railway Commissioners, remarks:—"It is not two months since their last Sabbath-breaking flight from Halifax, and this is the story that so soon follows them." We had supposed it was the ice that caused the disaster.

The Steamer "Prince of Wales" is lying at Reed's Point Wharf waiting for a fair wind to cross the Bay with the locomotive for the Windsor and Annapolis Railway. The wind has been from the North East for some days, but to-day shows some signs of a change.

Chartered.

At New York on the 7th inst., the schr. "Alba," Capt. Calder, was chartered for Grey Town, C. A., and return, the lump sum being $2,300, all foreign port charges paid.

The Play for To-morrow Night.

The "Flora Myers" troupe will open in the Institute with "Marble Heart," which is a popular favorite, and a piece that the company represent fully as well as any other on their list.

Temperance.

The sixth of the course of Temperance entertainments in the Temperance Hall King street, will take place to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, and will consist of a Temperance address by R. B. Weldon, Esq. and readings, music, &c. Chair taken at 8 o'clock; collection to defray expenses.

Fatal Accident near Yarmouth.

On last Saturday week, Benj. B. Moses, Esq., of Hebron, was thrown from his sleigh by a runaway horse, against a pile of cordwood, fracturing his skull, and resulting in instantaneous death. His son was severely injured in the knees.

Gold Exports.

$14,000 worth of Nova Scotia Gold in bars, has been exported by Messrs W. L. Lowell & Co., of Halifax, since the 1st of February.

Flour by Western Extension.

A large quantity of flour is taken up by the Western Extension Railway Company at the present time for lumbering parties.

Steamer "Scud."

The new steamer for the route between St. John and Annapolis should be here some time this week. She left London for St. John the 22nd of January.

BECAUSE.

A LOVE-BALLAD.

Because my lady's foot hath trod
Often the meadowy lapse between
Her lawn and yonder lake, the sod
Laughs into sunnier emerald sheen.

Because my lady's hand hath trained
Her reckless rose-vines how to grow,
A wealthier crimson, costlier stained,
Flatters her columned portico.

To warble in her stately trees.

Because my lady keeps by night
Long trysts within her spacious park
Near a vague fountain's looming white
That quivers in the balmy dark—

Because my lady does not scorn,
But here her priceless love hath owned
I, a poor singer, lowly born,
An as a sovereign crowned and throned
