THE LITERARY WORLD.

Choice Readings from the Best New Books and Critical Reviews.

Fortnightly. [Boston, Mass.: Edward Abbott, editor; E. H. Hames & Co., publishers. Quarto, 16 pp. Price $2 per year.]

This journal is becoming so well known for the excellent quality of its average make-up, that it deserves to become yet wider known, that its quality and amount of work may be even greater than now; and it is with the hope of introducing it to new acquaintances to this end, that we give it this general review. Established nearly fourteen years ago by the late Mr. Samuel R. Crocker, as a monthly literary journal, it passed in April, 1877, under the management of the publishers above-named, Edward Abbott, a widely-known writer, assuming its editorial control. In his hands it has continued to increase in public appreciation and literary value; and with the beginning of 1879 its publication was changed to a fortnightly issue, the same general form and appearance being retained.

It may be briefly described as a purely literary review. Each number opens with quite lengthy notices of the freshest and most important books, frequently from the hand of a specialist, followed by minor notices of works of fiction, or those of less importance. Editorials on a great range of current topics of literary interest next follow, succeeded by departments of Literary Personalities, sketches of noted authors of the time, News and Notes, etc. Of chiefest value among these departments, perhaps, are those of "Notes and Queries," upon a great variety of topics of interest to writers and readers, usually extending to two or three columns; and "Shakespeareana"—the latter edited by Mr. W. J. Rolfe, the eminent Shakespearean scholar, and frequently occupying a whole page.

Often articles of much historical value are given, as notably those by Mr. Justin Winsor, on the public and private libraries of the early days of American letters, of which several have appeared in late issues. The journal seems admirably well balanced in all its departments, and it is always a pleasure to open its bright, modest pages, so abundant of good scholarship, careful editing, a choice variety of contents, and with no sign of pedantry, no "slashing" criticisms, and no unkindly tone.—Maine Farmer.

WHAT IS SAID OF THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

"THE CENTURY has the effect of greater luxury in editing than any of the rival magazines."—The N. Y. Nation and Evening Post, Dec. 6, 1883.

"From the very start this magazine boldly took up a forward position, and it has boldly and splendidly maintained its place. With each number has been clearly manifested its aggressive and intelligent enterprise, and far-reaching have been the results. During the past year, THE CENTURY has outdone its former work in almost every one of its departments. Some of its engravings have been amazingly fine; several of those in the December number are particularly so—the portrait of Peter Cooper especially. And its reputation has been to our mind, as much widened by its improved excellence on the literary side as on the artistic. The time was when the illustrations were first and the letter-press second, if not third, in importance; but that time, for a year or more, has been passing surely away."—N. Y. Times, Dec. 3, 1883.

FORNEY'S PROGRESS!

PROGRESS is unique in journalism. No other publication in the world occupies a similar field. While it notes all social events of importance, at home and abroad, it is not a mere record of the movements in fashionable life. It treats pithily of all subjects of interest to educated and cultured taste. Literature, art, music and the drama have attention in every number. It is not a political journal, but it never hesitates to express its opinions upon political questions, and these opinions are strictly independent of all cliques and parties.

The aim of the management will be, as heretofore, to have PROGRESS a pleasant paper. It may be needed to make public the disagreeable happenings of life, but that PROGRESS leaves to others, and goes forth greeting everybody cheerily and happily, and with bright good nature.
