LOSS OF THE LYONS.

Conneaut, Ohio, Sept. 13.—The tug Day went to the supposed scene of the steamer Lyons disaster at daylight today, and steamed about four hours, without finding any trace of the vessel or her crew. Eleven persons are believed to have gone down with the steamer in the great storm of Tuesday night. Five survivors, two women and three men, drifted ashore near here yesterday afternoon, lashed to a mast. They had been in the water 15 hours. The Lyons carried a crew of 16.

—Mr. Thos. Herald, of Mosa township, some time ago found on his property the jaws of a monster animal. Reading in the press that a museum would likely be started at the Public Library, he brought two small portions of his find to the city yesterday, and showed them to Mayor Rumball.

FELL FROM CHURCH ROOF.

A carpenter named J. McLaughlin, living at 25 Cartwright street, this morning fell about 20 feet from the roof of the Memorial Church, on which he was working. He sustained a fractured arm, a cut head and a severe shaking-up.

HORSE AND BUGGY STOLEN.

A brown mare attached to an open buggy, the property of Robert Raison, agent for the Strathroy brewery, were stolen about 8 p.m. yesterday by an unknown man, for whom the police are now looking. The animal was left tied on Talbot street, near Queen's avenue, during Mr. Raison's absence in a nearby residence. A lady saw the thief untie the horse and drive away, and she describes him as being dressed in a light suit and a light-colored felt hat. The mare was a dark brown one, with white patches on hind feet, while the rig was an open black buggy with yellow stripes, and having no back.

STRUCK BY A TROLLEY.

Reginald Tansley, one of the returned Yukon soldiers at Wolseley Barracks, was struck by a street car yesterday afternoon at the corner of Dundas and Wellington streets. He was riding a wheel, and crossed behind an east-bound and also a west-bound car, but he did not notice a second car coming west. The injured man was removed to Victoria Hospital. He was found to have sustained a slight concussion of the brain, a badly bruised face, and other minor injuries. No bones were broken. The patient is somewhat better this afternoon.

APPEAL DISMISSED.

Mr. Justice Osler and Mr. Justice MacMahon held a sitting of the court of appeal this morning to dispose of the petition against the return of Capt. T. E. Robson as member for East Middlesex in the Legislative Assembly. T. H. Purdom, Q.C., appeared on behalf of the petitioners, and announced that he had no evidence to offer, and no particulars to put in. Hume B. Elliot appeared for the respondent, and said he had been instructed to not ask for costs. The appeal was accordingly dismissed. In doing so Mr. Justice Osler took occasion to remark on the needlessness of his learned brother and himself being brought to London, when application could have been made to change the venue to Toronto.

THE LATE MRS. MEREDITH.

At the family residence, Talbot street, the death occurred yesterday of Mrs. Sarah Meredith, relict of the late John C. Meredith. Mrs. Meredith had reached the advanced age of 81 years, and had lived most of her life in London. She was a woman of much ability and force of character. She leaves a family of seven sons and four daughters, they being: Chief Justice Sir W. R. Meredith, Toronto; John Meredith, manager Merchants' Bank, Montreal; H. V. Meredith, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Montreal; Charles Meredith, of C. Meredith & Co., brokers, Montreal; Mr. Justice R. M. Meredith, London; Ed. Meredith, Q.C., London; Thomas G. Meredith, city solicitor, London; Llewellyn Meredith, real estate agent, London, and the Misses Meredith, London.

MR. HEWLETT'S RECITAL.

The large audience which completely filled Dundas Center Methodist Church yesterday afternoon was a sufficient testimony to the favor in which Mr. Hewlett's afternoon organ recitals have come to be held. Those present were treated to the enjoyment of a thoroughly artistic and delightful programme, the numbers being as follows: Gavotte, in B flat (Handel); Andante, from Mendelssohn's violin concerto; Passepied (Delibes); March Militaire (Schubert); A Village Harvest Home and A Royal Procession (Spinney), and the intermezzo and march, from Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Henry VIII." Mr. Hewlett was assisted by Mr. Harold Jarvis, always a favorite with Londoners. Mr. Jarvis' solos were Rodney's "More Like Jesus," and Luzzi's "Abide With Me," and in response to determined encores he rendered Kipling's "Absent-Minded Beggar," and "Some Day the Silver Chord Will Break."

BAD SMASH

Three Trolley Cars Come Together With Great Force.

One Completely Wrecked—A St. Mary's Man Injured—Car Crowded With Fair Visitors.

Three trolley cars came together at the corner of Dundas and Colborne streets at about 1 o'clock today, and one of the number was completely wrecked. Car No. 74 started the mixup by running into car No. 12 from the rear and forcing it on to the north track, where it was struck by a west-bound trolley, going at a pretty lively clip. Car No. 12 was crowded with passengers at the time, and that no one was killed or badly injured is considered marvelous, as the front of the car and one of the sides was smashed to kindling wood, and every pane of glass broken. The iron work was snapped like twigs.

A Mr. Johnston, of St. Marys, was badly cut about the face, as was another unknown gentleman, but fortunately no one suffered serious injury. Several ladies were badly bruised and frightened. The crash could be heard several blocks away. Car No. 12 was thrown several feet by the force of the jolt. The fenders on the other two cars were bent and several lights of glass broken. Traffic was not delayed, as the car was thrown clear of the tracks.

ANOTHER BIG DAY

WELL WORTH A VISIT.

All who have not yet visited the Gorman, Eckert & Co.'s attractive exhibit in the main building at the Western Fair, and sampled a cup of Capital Coffee, tasted the home-made Forest City brand of tomato catsup, or procured a sample of Mrs. Madden's Yeast, have missed one of the features of the Fair. In Capital Coffee, which is sold only in one-pound tins, at the popular price of 30 cents, quality is made the first consideration by its manufacturers. Every lady owes it to herself and her family to investigate the merits of this coffee. Busy housewives should be glad to learn that the necessity for utilizing valuable time in the making of catsup is now done away with since Forest City brand can be procured in pint bottles at 10c and in quarts at 20c. Every farmer or farmer's wife should carry home a sample of Mrs. Madden's Yeast, which makes the lightest, whitest, purest and most nutritious bread. The public will find an ample staff of bright and attractive young ladies in charge of the exhibits, and they will be pleased to serve samples of the various lines named above and give full information about them. An important particular to be remembered is that the public can leave their orders at the stand and have the goods delivered by grocers in any part of the Dominion, as these goods are now found on the shelves of every first-class merchant in these lines in Canada. Messrs. Gorman, Eckert & Co. extend a cordial invitation to all their customers and friends to visit them at their busy factory on Clarence street, near the G. T. R. station, and inspect the most modern and complete spice, coffee, extracts, catsup and yeast factory in Western Ontario. *

SPLENDID CIGAR DISPLAY BY McLEOD, NOLAN & CO.

This firm, though in business but a comparatively short time, has gained an enviable reputation among the lovers of good cigars, wherever their several brands have been introduced. The exhibit in the main building consists mainly of the two leading lines made by the firm, "David Harum," a ten-cent cigar, for which has been created an immense demand within a short period, and the "Uneda," without a doubt the most popular five-cent cigar on the market today. The products of McLeod, Nolan & Co. have earned the reputation of being always of uniform good quality. The neat exhibit also includes a fine display of choice Havana tobacco, which goves visitors an opportunity of examining the quality of stock used in the several brands made by the firm. The factory is a modern one in every respect, and the young men at the head of affairs well deserves the success that is attending their business venture. *

BLUE RIBBON TEA.

If the judgment of the crowds count for anything, Blue Ribbon Tea is undoubtedly the best tea on the market. The open spaces in front of the up-to-date company's exhibit have been jammed ever since the fair opened. It may be said that this doesn't count for much, mere curiosity may have caused such a condition; but when thousands of orders have actually been received since the show commenced, all intelligent people must acknowledge that nothing but true worth could have been the reason for it. There has undoubtedly been an immense demand for this best of beverages, the fragrance of which is noticeable immediately upon entering the main building. *

BUCK'S STOVES.

To say that the name of any article is a household word is considered nowadays to be the idle thought of advertisers, but in the case of Buck's "Happy Thought" range, fiction fades before facts, for the name of this wonderfully popular range is veritably a household word throughout the Dominion. Just as a little evidence of the lack of exaggeration in this statement, it might be said that more than 112,000 of these ranges are now in use in Canada. Taking an average of 5 to the family, there are 560,000 people enjoying the benefits of these thoroughly equipped ranges. This means that about one-tenth of the population is using a thoroughly satisfactory range, and the other nine-tenths are wishing they were. It might be mentioned that this widely known range is fitted with patent corrugated oven, a patent oven-damper, a patent reservoir damper, and a patent illuminated oven door, any one of these mechanical improvements tending to make it the most perfect cooking apparatus on the market. The names of all the Buck stoves are very well known, but they have been made more conspicuous than ever by the excellent display made this year. Among others, the "Radiant Home" baseburner, and the "Crown Brilliant" baseburner are prominent. The "Honor Bright" wood cook-stove and the "Buck's Welcome" are noticeable for their many good qualities. This excellent exhibit also comprises samples of the famous Garnet and Buck's Leader furnaces for coal, and the Atlantic wood furnace, which are all leaders, because of the easy manner in which they may be manipulated and their small consumption of coal. These qualities will appeal directly to all economically-inclined purchasers. Messrs. Parkinson & Co., 384 Richmond street, are the local agents for this enterprising firm. They courteously request inspection of their large and varied stock. *

Refugees From Galveston Seek a Haven,

Bearing Their Losses Bravely—Many Sad Scenes—Over 1,000 Dead Bodies on the Beach at Bolivar.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 13.—Houston now is the haven of many unfortunate people of Galveston. Trains have already brought in between 500 and 1,000 of the survivors, and a motley crowd they are. Men, bareheaded, barefooted, coatless, with swelled feet and bruised and blackened bodies and heads were numerous. Women of wealth and refinement, hatless, shoeless, gowns in shreds, were among the refugees. Sometimes there would be a man, wife and child or two, but such cases were rare, nearly all of those who came in having suffered the loss of one or more members of their families. Never were there so many sad hearts. Men bereft of their wives and children, women widowed, children parentless, it was enough to touch the stoniest heart.

Although a week ago these people had happy homes, and are now homeless and penniless, they

BORE UP BRAVELY.

Their faces were drawn from mental as well as physical anguish, but there was no hampering, no complaining. Everything for their comfort and welfare is being done. Many of the refugees had tasted little or no food since Saturday.

1,000 DEAD BODIES IN ONE PLACE.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 13.—B. F. Cameron, a lumber dealer of Stowell, Chambers county, says that the relief party which went from Stowell to Bolivar reported to him that there were over 1,000 dead bodies on the beach at Bolivar, in East Bay, and in sight of the salt marshes which line the bay.

SICKENING SIGHT.

The party succeeded in burying only forty. The others are lying in the water, and on land mixed with carcasses of animals, and all decomposing in the heat, and giving forth a stench which is horrible.

Many of the bodies were evidently swept across the bay from Galveston. Others are of people who lived at Bolivar. It will be necessary to collect the corpses and burn them to prevent the outbreak of an epidemic.

AWFUL WORK.

Galveston, Texas, Sept. 12, 8 p.m., via Houston, midnight.—Efforts were made this afternoon to pick up the dead bodies that had floated in with the tide after having once been cast into the sea. This was awful work, and few men were found with sufficiently strong nerves to continue at the work more than 30 minutes at a time. All the bodies are badly decomposed.

Every effort is being made to induce people to leave Galveston; and no one, unless in direct charge of a relief train, can gain admittance to the place. It will be at least a week before there is full and free communication.

The amount of food sent so far has been large, but there are still in the neighborhood of 30,000 people to be cared for on the island.

WRECKED FOR ALL TIME.

Austin, Texas, Sept. 13.—Ex-State Senator Wortham, who went to Galveston as the special aide to Adjutant-Gen. Schurry, says:

"The situation at Galveston beggars description. I am convinced that the city is practically wrecked for all time to come. Fully 75 per cent of the business portion of the town is irreparably wrecked, and the same percentage of damage is to be found in the resident district.

"The island, when I left it yesterday, was surrounded by a sickening odor that boded ill for the future."

A BIG MILL AND ELEVATOR BURNED.

[Special to Advertiser per G. N. W.]

Sarnia, Sept. 13.—McMorran's large flouring mill, at the entrance to Black River, Port Huron, caught fire at 11:30 this morning.

The elevator in connection with the mill is expected to be a total loss.

Amusements.

The Sault Ste. Marie News says of the "Breezy Time" Company which appears here tonight, tomorrow night, and Saturday matinee and night:

"Fitz & Webster's 'A Breezy Time' played to good-sized audiences at the Soo Opera House Thursday and last evening. The company is an exceptionally strong one. 'A Breezy Time' is a farce-comedy of a higher order of merit than the usual run of plays touring the country. There is not a dull line in the piece. The specialties introduced, and they are as plenteously interspersed as the strong cast will permit, are all new and up-to-date. Miss Cleo Benoir, who interprets the role of Daisy Lightfoot, is as dainty a little soubrette as has ever appeared on a local stage. She has voice and figure, and these qualifications, combined with a charming personality, easily win for her the way to the hearts of the most unsympathetic of audiences. Clair Annis, as Reuben Merrifield, a jolly, good-natured farmer from Vermont, came in for a large share of the honors of the evening. Accompanying the show is one of the best bands and orchestras ever heard here."

The audience at the London Opera House on Saturday, Sept. 22, will, to a certain extent, be playing a part just as are the actors on the stage. The audience will, in fact, be at the old Drury Lane Theater in London, a century ago. In one of the boxes will be the Prince of Wales, afterward George IV., and several of his friends. On the stage, the chief character in the interesting story of "The Royal Box," supposed to be an actor at Drury Lane, while appearing in a scene from "Romeo and Juliet," will approach the footlights in a jealous rage and denounce the prince. The curtain will be rung down, the stage manager will apologize to the audience, and the orchestra will cover the seeming confusion by playing "God Save the King." All this is part of the play, but it is so real, so well done, that one imagines for just a second that he has actually witnessed a public quarrel between royalty and an actor. The scene is powerfully acted by Andrew Robson, and he is aided by the same magnificent stage settings used in the long run of this successful drama at the Fifth Avenue Theater in New York.

Conservative Attitude Towards Labor

[Hamilton Times.]

The Spectator, knowing that the appointment of Mr. Williams as special officer to enforce the alien labor law is in the interest of the Canadian workingman, and fearing that the Government's action may receive favor at the hands of the industrial classes, has atacked the appointment for the purpose of misleading the workingmen. These tactics on the part of the Spectator are perfectly in line with the systematic attacks of the Tory Opposition on the various movements by the present Government to advance the cause of labor. Three years ago the Government adopted the anti-sweating regulations in the manufacture of mail bags and militia clothing. Thereupon Mr. Bergeron, M. P., Hon. George E. Foster, Mr. Taylor, M. P., the Tory whip, and others on the floor of the House attacked the Government for their action, hoping thereby to prevent the Government pursuing its policy of standing by the cause of labor. Their tactics, however, failed to drive the Government from its fixed course. Later on the Government introduced legislation to establish a department of labor, to organize a labor gazette and to promote the settlement of trade differences by conciliation boards. Again Tory opposition broke out in violent denunciations in Parliament. Mr. Foster denounced the proposition for the establishment of the gazette, lashing himself into a fury of rage against the proposition. Mr. Beattie, M. P. for London, objected to the conciliation act. Sir Charles Tupper raved over an hour against the whole of these propositions, and the Tory Opposition by their obstructive tactics, delayed for a long time the passage in the House of the Government's fair wages policy.

When the Government submitted a resolution asking authority from Parliament to provide that all Government contracts should contain a provision requiring contractors to pay to workmen the fair current rate of wages for work performed on Government works, the Tory opposition seemed to know no bounds. Hour after hour they denounced the proposition. Again Mr. Foster, Sir Charles Tupper, E. F. Clarke, M. P., Mr. Taylor, and the whole rank and file of the Opposition railed against the doctrine, and for the whole of one day up to two o'clock in the morning the Opposition protested against the Government's fair wages policy for workingmen, and when at an adjourned sitting of the House the Government's fair wages motion came up for consideration, Mr. Taylor declared that the Opposition would obstruct the passage of the measure if it involved the keeping of the House in session until midnight, and until the next night. When the Opposition saw that their threats of obstruction failed to drive the Government from its determined position to stand by the cause of labor, they then began to plead wish the Government not to pass the resolution, that it was too late in the session, that the measure was too important, and it would be better to have it stand over for another year. To all these appeals the Government turned a deaf ear, for it had already begun to put the policy in practice by inserting in all Government contracts since the resolution had been brought before Parliament, conditions requiring public works to be performed by residents of Canada, requiring the contractors to pay to the workmen fair wages according to a schedule to be fixed by the Government's fair wages officer, and providing that the contractor cannot draw his pay from the Government until he has proved that he has paid his workmen their wages in full and at the stipulated rate as fixed by the Government officer.

Andrew Carnegie, Sir Edwin Arnold and John Philip Sousa are three men in widely different walks of life who will contribute to the Youth's Companion's September issue. Mr. Carnegie, who has a knack of making any topic interesting that he writes upon, will have an article on "Thrift" in the issue of Sept. 20. In that of Sept. 13, Sir Edwin Arnold will write upon "How to Understand China." To the issue of Sept. 27, Mr. Sousa, who is now winning new laurels in the old world, will contribute "Some Experiences of a Bandmaster," many of these, it is said, being highly diverting. The four September numbers of the Companion will be unusually rich in good stories.
