POOR COPY

[illegible] passed in Ireland, which [illegible] any military, naval or civil officer of the government of Canada, or any province of the Dominion, to deny secret information in his possession to a power with which Great Britain may be at war.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—In the commons, after routine, Dr. Bergin brought up his motion of censure on John Page, chief engineer of canals, for an abusive letter from that officer included in the return laid before the house.

Sir John Macdonald said the letter was a private one, not intended for publication, and was included in the return by mistake. As minister of railways and canals he was responsible for the return and he desired to apologize to Dr. Bergin for the mistake and to ask that the matter be withdrawn.

The motion was withdrawn accordingly.

Mr. Hall moved that machinery for use in mining operations should be placed on the free list.

Mr. Mulock moved in amendment that only such machinery not manufactured in Canada be so included.

Mr. Wiser, in amendment to the amendment, moved that inasmuch as the subject is now under the consideration of the government the debate be adjourned until after the tariff changes are announced in the budget.

This was carried by 110 to 77.

After a few more private bills were read a third time and passed, including the bill respecting the Northern & Western Railway Co. and to change its name to Canada Eastern Railway Co., and the bill respecting the New Brunswick Railway Co.

The debate on the motion by Dr Wilson of East Elgin for the repeal of the Franchise Act was then resumed.

NOTES.—Notices have already been given notice of to make amendments to the Canada Temperance act. Mr. Dickey intends to introduce a bill this week which will remove any doubts as to the act being in force in a country where there were no licenses at the date of its proclamation. The doubt arose by a section being omitted when the statute on the subject was revised and it is proposed to insert the section again.

Senator Boyd's bill regulating the sale of [illegible] and other weapons was passed by the senate today and went to the commons.

OTTAWA, Feb. 27.—In answer to Mr Blake, Sir John Macdonald said correspondence had been going on with Newfoundland respecting the relations of that country with Canada, but in its imperfect state it could not be brought down without the consent of the Newfoundland government. There had been no recent correspondence on the subject of the relations between Canada and Jamaica.

Hon. Mr. Mitchell having inquired concerning a despatch stating the Russian ambassador at Washington was to take part in the negotiations respecting the close season for seals in Behring Sea, inquired whether that signified the abandonment by the United States of the contention that it was a closed sea.

Sir John Macdonald said the subject should not be discussed here from day to day, but he could say everything was looking as satisfactory as Canada would wish for.

Mr. Jones of Halifax inquired concerning the part Canada would take in the Jamaica exhibition.

Sir John Macdonald replied that the government had referred to the ministers of agriculture the invitation received to take part in the exhibition.

Consideration of reciprocity in wrecking vessels was deferred, Sir John stating that negotiations on the subject were pending between Her Majesty's government and the United States.

Mr. Brown moved the second reading of his anti-pigeon shooting bill, and Mr. Tisdale moved the six months hoist, which was lost by 81 to 91 and the bill read a second time.

Mr. Taylor moved the second reading of his bill to prohibit the importation of contract labor. He said this had become necessary in consequence of the harsh manner in which the United States had enforced a similar law against Canada.

Sir John Macdonald said he had no objection to the matter being discussed, but thought it better that the bill should not be put to vote at present.

Mr. Launer favored immediate decision, and blamed the government for not having hitherto made strong representations on the subject.

Sir John Thompson said within the last few months strong representations had been made by two members of government to Secretary Blaine, whose answer was that the law having been passed by congress the administration had no power to prevent its enforcement. Representations by Canadians had been made to at the instance of the Washington Government but at the instance of residents adjacent to Canada who considered it in their interest to keep out Canadian workmen.

Sir John Thompson said the knights of labor were interesting themselves to secure the rigid enforcement of this law and in the present state of the labor movement here, it was hopeless to expect that Canada could secure exemption.

After further discussion, Sir John Macdonald moved the adjournment of the debate, and at 11.15 the house rose.

Sir John Macdonald was this afternoon presented with a handsome portrait of himself in Windsor uniform, painted by Sheffham, R. C. A. The portrait is an excellent likeness of the chief and has been warmly admired. It was presented by Senator Ogilvie, who read an address of congratulation in behalf of the conservative senators and M. Ps., a large number of whom were present. Sir John warmly acknowledged and replied with his accustomed felicity.

Dominion Parliament.

OTTAWA Feb. 25.—Bills to incorporate the Inverness railway company and Louisburg and Richmond railway company were introduced and read a first time.

On motion of Sir John Macdonald Tuesdays were appointed as government days after this week.

The government bills amending the patent trade marks and copyright act were read a second time and accepted in committee.

House again went into committee on Sir John Thompson's bill relating to bills of exchange, cheques and promissory notes, and strong exception was taken to the proposition to relieve the banks from the responsibility for the payment of cheques payable to order, and on which the payee's endorsement is forged. Sir John Thompson finally received the clause for further consideration.

NOTES.—Mr. Guillet, M. P., had an interview with the minister of finance today to urge upon him the question of the passage of an insolvency act. In order to relieve honest incumbrances, it is suggested that such an act should be in force for a term of years only, in order to prevent the tendency which might arise under a permanent measure to encourage speculation and extravagant business methods. Mr. Guillet represented, however, that an act based on the lines as suggested would afford relief to a certain number of insolvents who are hopelessly insolvent through misfortune and otherwise, and who, in consequence, might have to leave the country to avoid the persistent persecution of their creditors.

It is understood that the budget speech will not be delivered for at least a fortnight. It is probable that the day selected will either be the 11th or the 14th of March.

Mr. Blake so far this session has taken quite an active part in several discussions which have been before the house. He intends to make inquiries whether there has been any correspondence between the government of Canada and the government of Newfoundland respecting the relations between Newfoundland and Canada, and whether any such correspondence will be brought down, also for full correspondence between the government and imperial authorities on existing relations between Canada and Jamaica.

Senator McDonald (Pictou) introduced a bill in the senate this afternoon that the house of commons had passed to amalgamate the provisions of the bill to amend the act respecting offences against the marriage law in the government measure now before the house of commons, to amend criminal law. This is a measure which aims at stamping out polygamy, as it exists among the Mormons of the Northwest. The senate went formally into committee on the measure and eliminated the clause imposing offenders against the act the civil and political privileges of British subjects.

The bill respecting the New Brunswick railway, introduced by Mr. Weldon of St. John, was passed by the railway committee without any amendments.

Sir John Macdonald will be presented with an address and oil painting of himself on Tuesday afternoon by the senators, members of the commons.

Sir John Thompson has introduced an act to prevent the disclosure of official documents and information. This bill is [illegible] he referred to the great part the conservative party of Canada had had in building up confederation. He looked back to the time of Baldwin in Upper Canada and Louis Lafountaine in Lower Canada. When the liberal party was fighting for responsible government, they got it to the fullest extent and then in 1854 the Baldwin party joined the great liberal conservative party. In Lower Canada the followers of Sir James Lafontaine, and his great lieutenant Sir George Cartier, joined the party and had remained with it ever since. They had referred to confederation. He could remind them that they were not alone in that. He then rapidly and with vigorous words sketched the history of confederation and the Hon. George Brown's connection therewith. But he had retired before the structure was complete and it had been the conservative party who had the sole responsibility of carrying out the project and they were proud of the result. "I may say to you that I look back with great pleasure and great admiration to the single hearted and earnest way in which the delegates from the maritime provinces addressed themselves to that great project and how much they sacrificed of personal ambition, of personal status in consenting that these provinces, formerly equal in rank and status with Canada, should be merged to a great extent, and their personal ambition to a great degree unsatisfied, by a confederation act. They have got their reward, because looking back at a list of those gentlemen who united with us in 1867 in carrying confederation, you will see that very many of them—some of them have gone to join the great majority—have been honored and respected by those whose counsels they guided and steered into confederation; while others have held high positions ever since and are now in their old age enjoying the reward of seeing United Canada a great and prosperous country. (Loud cheers). Let me thank you very much indeed for this growing proof of your kindness and confidence. At the dawn of life, which I can now descending, it is a gleaming to know that I have that of which Shakespeare speaks as accompanying old age "honor and respect and troops of friends," (loud cheers,) and if I have been successful in my efforts I have any way aided in the advancement of our great country I love it to the brave men, to the stout hearted men both loyal and true hearted men who stood at my back through good and evil report ever since I entered political life. (Loud cheers). I am proud to feel and to know that here in the 75th year of my age, surrounded as I am by the representatives of the people from all parts of the Dominion I can confidently and without flattery tell you that in no single parliament that I have sat in could I reckon upon a greater number of able men, of earnest men, of honest men, more truly loyal and patriotic than in this one. (Cheers). On resuming his seat Sir John was loudly applauded and shook hands heartily with many of those present.

HOW DO YOU DO EVERYBODY.

Its a very contented, good natured firm which salutes you. Contented because of a steadily growing business, and good natured because it has always paid its way. Not that we have always had our own way unopposed. Far from it. But we have ever sold good honest goods in a straightforward way, doing business to make money and knowing that the best way to succeed was to deal with others as we would like others to deal with us. That means to give good value for the money we get.

Well, we are in better trim to do business this year than we have ever been before. For we are into our own new brick building 40x75 feet, which we built in Moncton last year, directly opposite the market. Behind the brick building and connected with it by a bridge ten feet wide, we have another warehouse 40x44, two stories high and use it and the upper stories of the front building exclusively for our business. Here we receive CAR LOADS of Ploughs, Harrows, Mowers, Rakes, Carriages, Churns, etc., and re-ship to local agents in Westmorland and Kent Counties, as well as sell them to people direct.

In Newcastle we own and use another warehouse on the Public Wharf for supplying all our customers and agents north of that.

At Woodstock we own and use a fine building on Main Street, next above the F. C. B. Church, in just the same way, to supply the upper St. John River trade, and have another building at Bath Station on the N. B. R. for local business on that side of the river.

Lastly we own and occupy a substantial warehouse just opposite the Post Office at New Carlisle, P. Q., from which point we distribute machinery and carriages to customers in Bonaventure and Gaspè counties on the Bay of Chaleur.

☞ With these facilities and buying in very large quantities at rock bottom prices we believe we can outsell everyone else in our line at lower prices, and intend to try and prove it to every buyer this season.

ON THE USE OF CAMPBELL'S WINE OF BEECH-TREE Creosote.

IN DISEASES OF THE LUNGS AND THROAT.

MANY years have elapsed since the Medical School of Paris, as well as Dr Gimbert of Cannes, called the attention of the Medical Board to the use of the Creosote de Hêtre (Beech-Tree Tar) for the cure of Phthisis, Pulmonary affections, Catarrh, Congestion of the Lungs and other diseases of the Respiratory Organs. Several experiments have been made, and all have given unexpected results.

In the South of France, where all persons threatened by Phthisis go to be treated, where doctors are hard and number, the most specialists so highly recommended by public opinion, have experimented with all the proprietary medicines against pulmonary Tuberculosis, it is the one prepared today and that which for ten years past, they have finally adopted, after many comparative experiences, based upon the antiseptic method, having specially in view the destruction of the Bacilli.

After a few days' use of the remedy, the expectoration diminishes, and very soon one is pleased to witness the gradual disappearance of the Bacilli, the breaking off of the fever and the rapid recovery of appetite and strength.

When instead of confirmed Phthisis, Catarrh, or Chronic Bronchitis have to be dealt with, the different forms of which may sometimes give rise to an apparent in diagnosis, they have always been cured. These excellent results need not astonish us, if we consider the lucky natural associations of complete antiseptic and Balsamic principles in the compound we now describe. When our Wine shall have restored health, it will be well not to discontinue its use at once, and, at all events to use it again about a fortnight before winter sets in and at every change of season followed by damp weather.

N. B.—The use of Cod Liver Oil, as a powerful assistant to the remedial properties of the Wine, is recommended. Campbell's "SERE" Oil, being the best, is the kind which should be taken. Sold by
