Burns' two sons, Nicol and James, are Colonels in East India—71 and 73 years of age respectively.

A poor man is generally happy as long as he is lying down: and fortunately he stands but about half his life time.

He who is good but wears a habitual frown upon his face, is like one who has an excellent dwelling house but sets up a death's head before it.

Break not a jest when none take pleasure in mirth. Laugh not loud, nor at all without occasion. Deride no man's misfortune, though there seems to be some cause.

WRITE upon a piece of paper with a certain kind of ink, and the writing will be invisible till brought out by being held to the fire. And thus a man may have secrets written in his bosom that can be read by no one till the pouring of a fiery liquid into his stomach exposes them to all.

A revolting incident is reported from the village of Darmsleben. A short time ago, a laborer had laid a wager that he would eat five pounds of raw pork at a single meal. When, however, he had consumed 2 lbs of it, his appetite left him The remainder of the food was divided among the spectators. Some time after this occurred, the whole of these persons were found to be suffering under an attack of trichine.

Some two or three months ago a smart Orange county chap went out to the Pennsylvania oil region, intent on speculation. He spent $4,500 in boring a well. His pumps gave no show of oil, all his capital was gone; and the Orange county man was ruined. A happy thought struck him. He bought five barrels of oil on credit, and carted it to his well at night, and poured the oil down the pipes. The next day he sold his well for $7000, and left.

☞ A Tory alderman got married the other day and had rather a thrilling time on his wedding tour. He was two days in getting to Buffalo on account of the snow, was in the American hotel in that city when it burned down, and on his way to Chicago was thrown over an embankment twenty feet high by a railroad accident, badly bruising him and his new wife. The couple are now in Chicago, recovering from their injuries and getting courage to try the return trip.

PRESENCE OF MIND.—Two or three years ago, Mademoiselle Titiens, enveloped in a cloud of muslin, advanced too much over the footlights. All were listening, but very few saw a circle of flame extending over her dress. Without a change of attitude, or a variation in her tones, she crumpled up the fire in her hands, and finished her song as if nothing had happened.

SELF-CANCELLING POSTAGE.—A self cancelling postage stamp has been invented in the United States. Instead of moistening the back of those stamps, the face being gummed is dampened and placed on the letter as usual, when such an impression is made on the face of the letter as renders their removal impossible. If by any process the stamps are taken off, it must be destroyed, while the impression remains plainly upon the letter. The self-cancelling operation will save a vast amount of time and labour in all post-offices, and insures security against being re used or picked off by thieves. The main point of inquiry now appears to be, whether these light and delicate stamps will be found able to resist the action of the heat in warm weather, and be as completely portable as the present issue; whether in folding them they would not adhere to each ther or break so as to disfigure the vignette.—Chicago Times.

DEATH FROM HYDROPHOBIA.—We regret to learn that Widow Cruikshanks, who was bitten by a rabid dog on Monday, 10th October last, died at her residence, Pilkington, on Sunday morning last, the 20th inst. At the time she was bitten. The unfortunate woman suffered much bodily pain and mental anxiety, but the wound healing up, her friends concluded that as time wore on her mind would become settled. On Sabbath two weeks, while attending church in Elora, a dog jumped at her, and so frightened was she in consequence that her mind became affected, and symptoms of hydrophobia became apparent. Mr. John Marriott had a heifer bitten by the rabid dog, which went mad last week, and had to be destroyed.—Mrs. Cruikshanks, on hearing of th circumstance, became alarmingly worse. A day or two previous to her decease she had to be confined in bed. The poor woman was unconscious, however, excepting when the spasms came on and then she barked like a dog, screamed loudly, and foamed at the mouth. Death, happily, stepped in and claimed her for its own. Deceased was in her 47th year.—Elora Observer.

Death of Hon. George Moffatt.

We regret to have to announce the death of the Hon. George Moffatt, of Montael, which occured on Saturday morning, in the 78th year of his age. The Globe says, that on Friday he was in good health, voted for the Mayor, and was late at busiuess. When he arrived home, he was seized with a shivering fit. It was thought he would have recovered, but he expired unexpectedly. He was one of those business men, whose word is as good as their bond In the war of 1812, he was one of the escort to General Scott. In religious and charitable movements he was ever zealous. He was an active politician, and was twice member for this city. He retired in 1848. The Board of Trade adjourned on account of his death, an appropriate resolution having been passed.

☞ The following is from the New York News:—With the fall of Charleston, commences the tug of war. The conflict is about to assume its fiercest, bloodiest, deadliest phase. There is no longer any doubt as to the temper of the South. In the ashes of the doomed city, the retiring footsteps of its proud defenders tracted their determination to conquor independence, whatever might be the sacrifice of comfort, property and life. Charleston was to the Carolinians what Moscow was to the Russians. Far beyond its material value they reverenced it for the sake of associations that linked it with their emotion of pride and affection. If they had obeyed their inclinations, they would have stood by the city to the last, spilling their life-blood drop by drop in its defence. But the hour had come for them to sacrifice all local prejudices, all passions, all sentimentality, all personal considerations to to the cause in which they had embarked. They did not hesitate. The appeal was made to their moral courage, and it was answered by a devotion like that which fired the sacred city of the Muscovite and gave to the invader a blackened ruin for his prize and a desert for his land of promise

Fecundity of the Cod-Fish.

The cod is one of the most prolific of fishes as may be supposed, when we call to mind the vast numbers which are caught at the principal fishing stations through a long successions of years, where one man in Newfoundland has caught 552 in a day, and upwards of 15,000 in a voyage. 10,000 codfishes were reckoned a proper yearly capture for a man. The fact is well borne out by an examination of the multitude of grains of spawn which have been counted in the mass of the ovaries. In a fish of 21 lb, the roe weighed 11 lb, or more than half of the whole bulk; but, in another which weighed 30 lb, the roe only weighed four pounds and a quarter; and yet, in this last instance, the following proportion was fairly calculated: in repeated trials, two grains in weight of this roe gave the number of over 423; so that making a full allowance for the member mingled with them, the number of living individuals which might have been produced from this fish in which this roe was of less then usual proportionate weight was little less than 2,000,000. That very many of those eggs never reach a useful size is highly probable; and yet it is to be remarked that a young cod is more rarely found in the stomach of other fishes than the generality of its fellow-natives of the deep.—Couch's Fishes of the British Islands.

STILL ANOTHER G. T. R. ACCIDENT.—The London Free Press heard on Saturday night that the Grand Trunk freight train, between St. Mary's and Sarnia, ran off the track, and eight cars rolled down the embankment. No particulars had come to hand at the hour of going to press.

A Chance to Make Money.

The New York Herald holds out the following inducements to greenhorns:

The New York Volunteering Committee have decided to give the State bounty to volunteers, and they add one hundred dollars hand money. This makes seven hundred dollars in all—a very large sum when the war is so near its ends. Our quota is about fifteen thousand men, and to fill it in two weeks we shall have to enlist about a thousand men a day. We believe that the war will be over before many months; so that a man can enlist, spend the summer in some pleasant camp, and be discharged with seven hundred dollars in his pocket to buy a farm or start in business.
