ANNA DICKINSON AGAIN.

THE PUBLIC TO HEAR HER STORY FROM THE PLATFORM.

She Considers It Her Duty to Tell the People About the Danville (Pa.) Insane Asylum's Methods—Her Sister, She Says, Has Been "a Semi-Mad Woman for Years."

NEW YORK, April 15.—Anna Dickinson came to town again to-day to prosecute her plans for bringing retribution upon those who secured her confinement for five weeks in the Danvile, (Pa.) Insane Asylum. She still makes her home voluntarily at Dr Seward's private sanitarium at Goshen, and she will remain there for the present.

She spent an hour or two this afternoon with Abe Humell, her lawyer, and while there she described with characteristic vigor some of the iniquities which she says have been heaped upon her. She has apparently regained her bodily health, which she says was much impaired at the time of her committal to the asylum. There was nothing in what she said in the course of a long conversation which suggested any change mentally from the Anna Dickinson of 10 or 15 years ago.

She insists that she was dragged from her home and imprisoned without any shadow of justification, and she has lost none of her bitterness against her sister, Susan, for her course in the matter.

The two physicians who certified that she was insane, she says, saw her, one of them for a moment at the door of her room, the other not until she had been an inmate of the asylum for five days. Neither of them made an examination, either physical or by conversation.

Miss Dickinson describes her experience while an inmate of the institution as horrible. She was placed in what was called a mild ward, but it was impossible to rest with the other inmates. Anodynes were regularly administered to patients at nightfall, but soon after midnight the effect wore off, and then there was more or less disturbance, which made rest impossible till morning.

"I never had the remotest suspicion that any one considered me insane," she said today. "I thought, perhaps, the attendants would think I was some one who imagined herself to be Anna Dickinson but who was not, and whose illusion in that regard was the manifestation of the insanity. So I showed my watch to the matron and my monogram on the back, with the seal and other trinkets, in proof that I really was the person I imagined myself to be. Dr. Schultz, the superintendent, is wrong in saying I refused to take medicine. None was offered me. The reason I didn't eat more was because the food was not fit to eat."

Miss Dickinson was asked what motive her sister could had in causing her incarceration.

"I don't know, the trial will develop that. I will tell you one thing, however, and that is my sister has been a semi-mad woman for years."

"What symptoms of insanity has she shown?"

"The trial will show. I'll prove it then. I suffered enough in those five weeks to drive most people insane. Now I want retribution and a reform of the system which makes such outrages possible.

"I made my escape finally by finding a friend where I had expected to find a new enemy. My sister decided that the Danville asylum was too large a cemetery in which to bury me. She thought Dr. Seward could furnish a small private graveyard, which would be better suited to my case. But Dr. Seward speedily found that I was sane and gave me my liberty."

Miss Dickson will remain for the present at Goshen, bnt she expects within a fortnight to tell the story of her wrongs on a public platform.

"I consider it my duty to let the light into the dreadful place in which I was imprisoned," she declares. "Light must be admitted from the inside, as one in my position can do, No other way will suffice to expose the horrors of such a place."

Howe & Hummel have sent a demand for Miss Dickinson's property to her sister. They have not decided yet what form the proceedings against those who were instrtmental in imprisoning Miss Dickinson will take.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The Herald this morning says Francesco Aita the feather-duster manufacturer, at third avenue, has been warned by the Mafia he must die at their hands. Aita testified in the Italian murder case a year ago. He thus gained the enmity of this murderous organization. He has made a veritable fortress of his little shop and is always armed.

A VIOLENT SCENE

BETWEEN ATTORNEY GENERAL MARTIN AND MR. ROBLIN IN WINNIPEG.

Mr. Martin Accepts Mr. Roblin's Proposal to settle a Dispute Outside the Legislature—A Successful Affair. The National Policy Approved.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

WINNIPEG, April 17.—In the legislature yesterday during the debate on the Hudson Bay Railway, a violent scene occurred between Attorney General Martin and Mr. Roblin, leader of the opposition. Mr. Roblin challenged Mr. Martin to go outside and settle the matter and both started to leave the chamber, but friends prevented them from leaving. It is expected the house will be prorogued to-day.

A Successful Affair.

TORONTO, April 17.—At the annual meeting of the Manufacturers association, resolutions were passed declaring the association was opposed to any change in the policy of the Dominion government, which would have the effect of subjecting the Canadian manufacturers to unequal competition with foreign manufacturers or of discriminating against Great Britain. The National policy as now existing, was approved as being "well suited to the needs of the country" and unrestricted reciprocity with the United States in natural products, was condemned.

TOOK THE "QUEEN GOODS" HOME.

Victimized Deacon and an Alleged Accomplice Released from Custody.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

NEW YORK, Apr. 17.—Thomas Clarkson, who was arrested on Monday in an express office in East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, as he was about to help Farmer Darling of Connecticut ship home a box of green paper which had cost $650, was in the Harlem police court again today.

His counsel said that Clarkson was an honest printer, who had come to Harlem to look for a job on a local paper, and had wandered into the American Express office, to look up the address of the paper in a directory. He happened to be standing near Farmer Darling when the detectives entered in search of green goods, and pounced upon him.

Farmer Darling, who is a shining light in the West Hartford (Ct.) Baptist church, stood by with his lips quivering with excitement. He was not so nervous however, that he could not parry every question asked him by Justice Divver so skilfully that he never once admitted he had come to New York to buy counterfeit money.

He had sworn on Tuesday that Clarkson was the man who had accompanied him to the express office. Today he said he was not able to swear that Clarkson was the man. He signed an affidavit reciting these facts and the additional statement that he had no complaint to make against Clarkson, who had to be discharged.

Darling was permitted to take his bundles of green paper and the notes on top back to Elmwood in his little black gripsack.

THEY ADMIT THEIR MISTAKE.

Thomas Meadows & Co. Explain that Their Slander on the Ports of Canada was a Clerical Error.

The following letters have been received by the Secretary of the Board of Trade:—

LONDON, April 8th 1891.

IRA CORNWALL Esq, Secretary to the St. John Board of Trade, St. John N. B.,

Dear Sir:—Mr. Christopher Furness, having sent us your letters of the 19th and 20th of March last, regarding Messrs. Thos Meadows & Co's., circular letter therein referred to, we have much pleasure in handing you herewith their reply to us on the subject, and, have no doubt you will personally be glad to find that their Liverpool houses communication as it appeared before the public, on your side was entirely a clerical mistake, and that you will under the circumstances be only too pleased to give the matter as it now stands quite as much publicity as seems to have been given to the original communication.

From our long and intimate business connection with Messrs. Thos. Meadows & Co., we know that there is no firm in this country that actually does more or is more desirous than they are to promote the interests of Canada or her Maritime Provinces.

Yours faithfully,
THOS. RONALDSON & Co.

London, April 4, '91.

T. Ronaldson, Esq., 34 Leadenhall st.

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of yours inclosing a letter from Mr. Christopher Furness with the enclosure to him from the St. Johu Board of Trade. The error made in the letter to the British Trade Journal of March 1st by my Liverpool House, evidently arose through the words must being used instead of frequently. It had no bearing whatever, such as that attributed to it, or desire to divert goods or ignore the claim of such important ports as Halifax and St. John. In fact had the authorities, who raised the question looked in the manifests of ships arriving at those ports they would have seen the name of our firm to the front, and about the principal general shippers to the interior via those ports.

I regret very much that so much publicity has been given to a purely clerical error, as it must be evident to all who know our firm, that we have every desire and that it is to the interest of every firm to foster the friendship, which has existed for many years, with the Canadian trade.

No doubt my Liverpool House will receive a communication from the Board of Trade from St. John and will reply direct; in the meantime please inform Mr. Christopher Furness that the error was purely clerical.

Yours faithfully,
THOS. H. WYE.

There Would be no Trouble with Newfoundland if Lord Salisbury had Treated France as America.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE GAZETTE.

LONDON, April 17.—Mr. Morine, one of the Newfoundland delegates in an interview yesterday declared that if France declined to submit the whole Newfoundland questions to arbitration England would be justified in enforcing a proper interpretation of the treaty.

"Why" he asked "should France alone choose points for arbitration? There is no real fear of war. If Lord Salisbury had treated France as he had treated the Americans in the Behring sea question all the present trouble would have been saved."

Both Mr. Morine and Mr. Emerson admitted the present anomalous position in Newfoundland was bound to lead to annexation to America.
