This Company has confined its business to taking risks on non-hazardous Property, viz., Farm Property and Detached Residences in cities, towns and villages, and the out-buildings and their several contents—thus securing to the Members Cheap Insurance. No Profits are required—sufficient only to pay expenses, and to secure prompt payment of losses. By the watchfulness and care of the Managers, the Company has been enabled to reduce the Premium Note Raise, in many cases nearly one-half. Cash Policies for one or three years are now issued. The Company insures against loss or damage by lightning; Horses and Cattle in the fields of the owners will, when insured as contents of Barns and Stables, be covered against lightning to a limited extent.

KINGSTON

A Postmaster in Trouble.

Post Office Inspector Barker has been at Cornwall investigating the postal irregularities. On Tuesday last he caused the arrest of John Morrisette, Assistant Postmaster there, on a charge of robbing letters. Some of the stolen letters were found in Morrisette's possession. He was committed for trial.

The Rev. J. H. Johnston, of Toronto, is collecting here for the Victoria College Endowment.

TORONTO

Juvenile.

Toronto, June 2.—The third detachment of Miss McPherson's juvenile emigrants are expected to arrive in this city next week.

Yesterday afternoon two men and a boy were out in a boat fishing by Ashbridge's bay, and, by some mishap, they capsized the boat. Their cries when in the water attracted Mr. A. Dixon, of the Mail, who was out fishing, and he came to their rescue.

ENNISKILLEN

Serious Accident.

Enniskillen, Ont., July 2.—Yesterday whilst Jacob Stalter and James McFeeters were driving in the country a wheel came off the carriage, frightening the horse and precipitating the occupants on some stones, badly bruising Mr. McFeeter's face and producing a fracture of the Temporal bone, necessitated the removal of from 10 to 15 fragments of bone by Dr. Laughlin, who was called on to dress the wounds.

OTTAWA

Lumber.

Ottawa, July 2—The amount of lumber exported for the month ending 30th June, 1874, was 21,180,904 feet, and for the same period last year, 28,541,740 feet, showing a decrease of over seven million feet.

The number of American boats employed in freighting lumber the past month, and which left the Chaudiere, are 154, against 92 for the same period last year. They carried over thirteen million feet. Only 54 Canadian vessels have cleared this month; carrying 7,940,944 feet, against 154 for June, 1873. It will thus be seen that the American boats are fast securing a monopoly of the freighting business.

MONTREAL

Found Dead.

Montreal, July 2.—The body of an old man, named Edward Fagan, was found in the river yesterday.

Conservative Club.

A Conservative Club, under the caption of the Cartier Club, was formed here a short time since, and held its first annual dinner last evening. There were present the Hon. Premier Ouimet, Hon. Messrs. Archambault, Chauveau, and Messrs. Mousseau and Alderic Ouimet, M. Ps. The Club is largely composed of young advocates, law students, &c.

From Lake Superior.

The Manitoba will leave again to-morrow (Friday) night, at 10 p. m., on arrival of trains from Toronto and Hamilton.

HARRISBURG

Sad and Fatal Accident.

Harrisburg, Ont., July 2.—This afternoon a sad fatal accident occurred at this station by which an old gentleman, Mr. Henry Smith, of Brantford, lost his life. The deceased and his wife were on their way to visit some friends in London, and while waiting for the train going west had occasion to cross the track, not noticing a train, and before he could be made to realize a sense of his danger was knocked down, receiving injuries from which he died in about an hour and a half afterwards. The remains were conveyed to Brantford this evening, where an inquest will be held to-morrow. No blame can be attached to any of the company's employes.

BRANTFORD

Fire by Lightning.

Brantford, July 2.—A heavy thunder and lightning storm passed over this place. The lightning set fire to a large frame building used by Wm. Hunter as a carpenter shop, completely destroying it.

RONDEAU

Fatal Shooting Affray.

Rondeau, July 2nd—In a brawl amongst some negroes at Shrew's Bush yesterday evening, William Custard was deliberately shot by another negro named James Smith, instigated by his brother, Joseph Smith. Both prisoners are awaiting the decision of an inquest now being held by Dr. Vanvelsor, coroner. The origin of the quarrel was of the most trivial character. Two shots were fired within six feet, blowing away the top of the skull and all the brain, presenting a most ghastly appearance. Custard leaves a wife and three children. Both prisoners are young men, being about 17 and 21 years of age.

The little daughter of Mr. R. W. Ross, of Harwich, was drowned yesterday afternoon, while bathing, a short distance up the harbor.

The Cat out of the Bag

From the Mail.

The Canadian importer is satisfied that the Government have done him a gross wrong, and the whole country an injury, in making it impossible for him to import his teas direct from China. The Reciprocity Commissioner's newspaper, which is also the subsidized organ of the Mackenzie Government, says the Canadian importer who talks in this way is a fool. Hear the oracle:—

"What is all this fuss about? What in the world is to prevent the Canadian merchant and the United States merchant buying in the same market and on the same terms as heretofore? A Canadian importer at Montreal or Hamilton buys a [illegible] York as the me[illegible]

Berlin, July 2.—It is stated that the German Squadron will be immediately despatched to the Spanish ports.

Mr. Disraeli.

From the Irish Times.

Mr. Disraeli is again indisposed. Another attack of gout now prevents his attendance in Parliament or at Downing street. On Monday he came down to the House looking wretchedly ill, and wearing, on much swollen feet, a pair of black cloth slippers. It was pretty evident that he ventured out much sooner than he ought to have done, and when he returned home, which he did early, leaving the Secretary of War in command at St. Stephen's, he discovered that he had made a mistake in disregarding the advice of his physicians and most intimate friends.

The Frenchman at sea is certainly a very curious person. It now appears that the difficulty with the American was that the French engineer did not understand how to manage the new English pump that had just been put into the ship. When he started this he did so in a way that brought [illegible] instead of pumping it out. Mourning for Concha.

Havana, July 2.—Funeral honors were paid to Gen. Manuel Concha to-day by firing fifteen minute guns from the flagship of the Spanish fleet in the harbor, and from the forts, tolling of church bells, and flags at half-mast on all public edifices and foreign consulates.

To-morrow religious ceremonies will be held in the Cathedral, at which the Captain-General will assist. After religious services the entire military force in Havana will march past the Cathedral, and later a reception will be held at the Palace.

ATCHEEN

Dutch Repulse and Great Slaughter.

New York, June 30.—A letter on the coast of Sumatra, under date of April 10th, states that the Atchenese on the night of March 30th, made an attack on a Dutch fort, captured it and overwhelmed the garrison. The loss of the Dutch is placed at 1,000 killed and 4,500 wounded, the greater number being laborers employed to work in the fort and colonists dwellings outside. Eight ships were required for the wounded, whom the Malay chiefs permitted to be removed from the shore, as much to embarrass the navy as to do an act of humanity. The letter adds that the news of the complete annihilation of this second Dutch expedition is known in official circles at Singapore, and is purposely withheld from the press.

About Dresses.

THE LATEST NEW YORK STYLES.

The fashionable country shoe is an Oxford tie; the bridal shoe is a tie-to.

The sword umbrellas being an indispensable part of the street costume, ladies are obliged to resort to shade hats or a walking-stick to protect them from the sun.

There is a new hat for rainy days, which simply consists of a frame with a handkerchief tied over it. Gentlemen can't get a silk handkerchief out of the wash since this style came in vogue.

Bathing suits in Broadway stores are only $5 each and very pretty at that. A gentleman who saw them wished his wife would stay in the water all summer—it would be so much cheaper to dress her there than on land.

The girls with bright blue eyes and rosy cheeks (are there any such?) object to the absence of color from the costumes of the period, and say they desire to wait until they are married before turning into "grays and browns."

Pretty hat bonnets are made of black rice straw, and trimmed with either currants or cherries, with their respective leaves, the fruit falling like large beads on the back hair. The flowers, fruit, and leaves of the cactus plant are used in a similar manner.

A quite new bonnet worn at Jerome Park recently attracted attention. It was very large, in the Louis XVI. style, of rice straw, and turned up at the back; it was lined with turquoise blue silk, and had an agrafe of Bengal roses without foliage, arranged as a large tuft at the side of the brim where it turned up. The front lay close upon the hair, and a band of black velvet surrounded the crown.

A dress for country wear is of écru linen trimmed with English embroidery. The skirt is bordered with a deep plaiting, edged with a band of English embroidery. This band is of the same material as the dress. The round tunic and the paletot are bordered with a similarly embroidered band. The paletot is double-breasted, and ornamented with two rows of mother-of-pearl buttons.

A charming new material has been introduced for summer wear. It is Algerienne, woven entirely with soft silk, and yet the result is a solid fabric; the stripes, which are always white, are covered with small loops of floss silk, either sky blue, pink, or straw color. These loops produce a brilliant effect, and are exceedingly novel and pretty. For fête polonaises these new Algerienne prove most effective.

For dressy occasions white polonaises have been very general during the recent warm weather. They are made of the finest white piqué and trimmed with stripes of embroidered insertion; a plaiting borders them. The exaggerated tournure, or "dress improvers" as they are facetiously named, have well nigh disappeared, and there is now no more fulness at the back of the waist than is produced by the loopings up of the drapery.

Bonnets to match the dress have become a necessity. So absolute and universal is this fashion that many ladies who desire to carry out more economy than a bonnet for every toilet entails manage in this wise—They purchase movable trimmings; the bonnet may be either black or white rice straw, and with this half a dozen wreaths for inside and bouquets for the turned up brim, all of different colors, are sent home so arranged by the milliner that changing them is easy enough.

Travelling costumes are now occupying the attention of dressmakers. Dust-gray and cigar-brown Indian cashmere are considered the most elegant costumes for the purpose, but serge de laine is far less costly and preferable, because it has more substance as material, and consequently less perishable. These woollen costumes are trimmed either with fine worsted guipure to match or with Castellane gimp. English embroidery is principally reserved for cambric and foulard costumes.

Low, square cut bodies are very fashionable for young girls, and with these chemisettes are worn, the great luxe of which are the extremely fine tuckings. The opened and flattened tuck out in once more exchanged for the very narrow tuck, the fine sewing of which remains visible. Twenty-five tucks to an inch is the proportion for this excessively fine lingerie. There is no other ornament upon the body of the chemisette, but a strip of embroidery and edging of Valenciennes lace is put on round the top and also round the wrists.

Livingstone's Family.

From the London Post, June 16.

Last evening, at a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, Sir Bartle Frere having gone to Cambridge to take an honorary degree, the chair was taken by Sir Henry Rawlinson, who, before proceeding to the papers of the evening, said the meeting would like to hear what the Government would do as regarded the family of the late Dr. Livingstone. Sir Bartle Frere had already informed the Society that the pension of £200 per annum would be continued to the family, and that an application had been made to the Government urging also a grant of money. The amount recommended by the deputation had been £10,000 or £11,000, but the Government, taking all the circumstances into consideration, had thought that justice would be done by granting a sum of £3,000, and Parliament would be asked to vote this amount. The Government had also undertaken to pay all arrears to the followers and servants of the Doctor.—About £1,000 had been due in this way when his followers reached Zanzibar, and the Consul there drew for that amount on the Royal Geographical Society. The council, though feeling the greatest interest in and honor for Dr. Livingstone, did not think they were fairly liable for these debts, and Her Majesty's Government had taken the whole upon themselves, so that now all pecuniary matters between the late Dr. Livingstone and the Geographical Society had been satisfactorily concluded.

An Anti-Crematonist's Invention.

The Pall Mall Gazette says:—"The advocates of cremation must look to their laurels, which appear likely to be wrested from them by a German savant. Dr. von Steinbeis. His proposed method of disposing of the bodies of the dead provides against injury to the living, while it offers no violence to the feeling which shrinks from "destroying the corpse of a beloved friend or relation. Decomposition is, of course, an innocuous process, provided its results cannot infect the air. Dr. von Steinbeis, therefore, proposes to cover the body with Roman or Portland cement, which hardens into a solid mass and renders the escape of noxious gasses impossible. According to this plan the corpse would be placed in a sarcophagus of already hardened cement, [illegible] in which it remains would [illegible] garden together [illegible] spreading [illegible]
