TISSOT'S GREAT PAINTINGS

Portraying the Life of Our Saviour Are Now on View to the Public in Massey Hall.

ARTIST TELLS WHY HE PAINTED

The Life of Our Lord Jesus Christ —Massey Hall Open All Day and Evening.

The great Tissot paintings of the life of our Saviour, which were viewed by thousands of people in New York are now to be seen at Massey Hall. A large gathering assembled in the big edifice last night to witness the handiwork of the great artist. The artist himself, James J. Tissot, tells why he painted the Life of Our Lord Jesus Christ in the following words:

I wanted to know the truth—to see Jesus of Nazareth as He walked and talked in His native haunts. And then to give back to the millions of my fellow-Christians this real conception of the Founder of the Faith. If I spent ten years in the Holy Land, treading in the very footsteps of the Saviour, it was only that I myself might better realize all that He was, all that He did, before I gave it to the world. Day by day, hour by hour, the facts grew dearer to me. I was moved profoundly by the consciousness that I was looking at the same rocks, the same trees that had been reflected in the eyes of the Saviour, and as I walked along those paths in which He must have trod I could not always restrain the tears. I had studied the Gospels until I knew them by heart, and had located as nearly as I might every act of that Divine One who came on earth to save mankind. It was necessary for me to restore the Temple of Jerusalem in order that I might place the Child Jesus there. To do this properly I had to study the Talmud of the Jews as well as the Old Testament, and examine the ruins of the ancient buildings found beneath modern Jerusalem. To understand the life of Jesus it is requisite to grasp the civilization of the Jews of His time. All of this I have tried to put into my pictures. Over and over again I visited each sanctified spot. I wandered along the banks of the Jordan, and saw the spot where John had baptized his Master. I walked around the shores of Lake Tiberias, seeking those rocks from which tradition said Christ had preached. I saw the spot where Peter's boat had been moored, and at last understood why he had "gone up into the boat to preach," for the shore was so level that there was no other elevation from which Jesus could have spoken.

I have grouped my pictures in several sections, devoted to the "Holy Childhood," the "Ministry," "Holy Week," "The Passion" and the "Resurrection," to avoid all confusion and present the career of Jesus on earth in its natural order. My desire was to make Him live again before the eyes of all men, in order that Christians might understand Him better and worship Him more truly.

I have found it necessary to put aside all the pictures of Jesus painted by the great artists of various ages, not because they were not great paintings but because they were not the Christ. It is impossible to go back 1900 years in the west and try to reproduce the life of that distant period with accuracy—but in the Orient, where customs change slowly, where progress has been almost entirely unknown, it was not impossible, having before me the very descendants of the people among whom Christ had lived, to paint the pictures of their ancestors.

There is not a stroke in my pictures, nor a color, which is not based upon good reasons. If I have painted Jesus in a flowing robe of white it is because He could have worn no other color, and the all-enveloping garb, tradition states, was necessary if the Christ was to avoid creating the sensation which His shining body would have brought about.

I have begun at the very beginning of that marvelous history when it was revealed to the parents of John the Baptist that he was to be the forerunner of the Messiah.

Jesus has been kept too far away from the minds and hearts of men. If by my pen and pencil I have made Him more real to the millions who worship Him from afar, I have accomplished my purpose.

The very thing which every Christian most desires—to know all he can about Jesus and His life—has been denied him heretofore. If all men could only know how great was the sorrow and suffering of the "Son of God," devotion to Christianity would be universal instead of partial.

It is in the hope that perhaps I may be the humble instrument to accomplish something of this work that I have sent my paintings, my Life of Jesus, into the world.

The pictures are on view at Massey Hall from 9.30 a.m. to 6 p.m. and from 7.30 to 10 p.m.

HORSE RAN AMUCK TO DEATH

Mr. Gray, sr., Had an Exciting Five Minutes at Toronto Junction Yesterday Afternoon.

ANIMAL DASHED INTO A WINDOW.

Thugs Attempt to Hold Up Robert Harrington of Lambton Mills—News of the Suburbs.

Toronto Junction, Sept. 21.—(Special.)—Mr. Gray, sr., of Gray's Cartage and Express Agency, corner of Western-avenue and Dundas-street, had an exciting five minutes this afternoon when going to the city to deliver a load of plow points and stoves. Without any apparent cause his horse began to be restless and it was with difficulty that he guided it through the large number of rigs which thronged Dundas street near Argyle. The horse had not gone far before the holdback strap broke and then Mr. Gray was at the horse's mercy. All attempts to stop it were in vain and it made one dash forward, ending up by thrusting its head through a five-foot square plate glass window in the grocery store of George Hall, corner of Bruce-avenue and Dundas-street, shattering it to pieces and upsetting the things in the window. The horse fell back to the sidewalk dreadfully cut, and its injuries were so severe that it had to be killed on the spot. Mr. Gray knew very little of what had happened until some time afterwards, for it took him a good while to get out from underneath the load, which fell over him when the wagon struck the boulevard. His loss is $150.

Robert Harrington of Lambton Mills is the latest victim of the holdup gang. He was returning home from the Junction and when between Jane-street and Lambton was confronted by two men, who demanded his money. He hadn't a cent in his pocket.

Thornhill.

Harvest thanksgiving services were held on Wednesday evening at Trinity Church. The building was very effectively and suitably decorated for the occasion, and the congregation was a much larger one than had been in evidence at the church for many years past. The sermon was preached by Rev. Canon Sweeney of St. Philip's, Toronto, and the rector, Rev. John Gibson, assisted in the service. Miss Effie Houghton presided at the organ and good selections were given by the choir. Mrs. Edwin Langstaff, Miss Paul and Miss Mabel Macdonald sang solos. PATER FAMILIAS STEPS IN

Miss Swift of Chicago Has a Live Prince on the Matrimonial String.

THE GIRL AGREES TO ENGAGEMENT

But Old Man Swift Scents Morganatic Marriage and Puts His Foot on the Scheme.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—The Times-Herald says: Prince Alexis Karageorivich of Servia is a suitor for the hand of Miss Mabelle Swift, only child of E. C. Swift, of the house of Swift & Company, the meat packers. While in Paris, Miss Reed, the sister of the late Mrs. Paran Stevens, introduced the prince and the heiress. The prince's wooing resulted in Miss Swift's consent to an engagement, pending the ratification of the match by her parents.

A radical objection by Mr. Swift, however, to ratifying the choice of his daughter's heart, is the danger at some future time of her being proclaimed merely a morganatic wife in case of the elevation of Prince Alexis to the throne of Servia.

He threatens to disinherit the daughter if she persists in her love for the prince.

Miss Swift is about 22 years of age. With her cousin, Miss Adelaide Murphy of San Francisco, she was presented at Queen Victoria's spring drawing room, and, it is said, was considered the handsomest young woman in that distinguished gathering.

Prince Alexis is over 40.

Honest Advice Free to Men.

All men who are nervous and debilitated or who are suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from overwork, excess or youthful errors, are aware that most medical firms advertising to cure these conditions cannot be relied upon. Mr. Graham, a resident of London, Ont., living at 437½ Richmond-street, was for a long time a sufferer from the above troubles, and after trying in vain many advertised remedies, electric belts, etc., became almost entirely discouraged and hopeless. Finally he confided in an old clergyman, who directed him to an eminent and reliable physician, through whose skilful treatment a speedy and perfect cure was obtained.

Knowing, to his own sorrow, that so many poor sufferers are being imposed upon by unscrupulous quacks, Mr. Graham considers it his duty to give his fellow-men the benefit of his experience and assist them to a cure by informing anyone who will write to him in strict confidence where to be cured. No attention can be given to those writing out of mere curiosity, but anyone who really needs a cure is advised to address Mr. Graham as above. 25

Friday Bargains—How They Happen.

Every once in a while some one sends us a letter or a postal-card asking that Gold Rings or Coal Scuttles or Silk Warp Henriettas or some other specified article be made a Friday Bargain right away. Usually we can't do it. Our Friday Bargains are not "made to order" by marking the values way up and cutting regular prices down just a few cents. The kind of Friday Bargains we present are born, not made. They are the result of some such condition or opportunity as these:—

1. Manufacturer's need for immediate cash makes him offer us regular goods below the market price.
2. We take all the mill has made up and save what it would cost the maker to send a traveller round the country selling it.
3. We want to close out what remains of some line of goods altogether and make quick work of it.

These and other contingencies will produce a Friday Bargain which will be so substantial a money-saver that it will be worth coming specially for. Hence this list.

BEERBOHM TREE AS KING JOHN.

A Successful Shakespearian Production at Her Majesty's Theatre.

London, Sept. 21.—At Her Majesty's Theatre this evening, Mr. Herbert Beerbohm Tree, the actor-manager, made an important addition to his former Shakespearean triumphs, by the production of "King John," before a brilliant and crowded audience, including Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, Gen. Lord Garnet Wolseley, field marshal; Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, member of Parliament for the City of York, and a host of persons prominent in literature and art. The play was superbly mounted, presenting a series of very beautiful stage pictures, including a tableau of the granting of Magna Charta. The performance was received with every mark of enthusiasm, the chief honors falling to Mr. Tree as the King; Miss Julia Neilson as Constance, and Mr. Lewis Walter as the bastard, Philip.

At the close, Mr. Tree, who was vigorously cheered on appearing before the curtain, made a brief speech in acknowledgment of the reception of the production.

He Bled to Death.

Halifax, Sept. 21.—While carding his oxen to-day at Rossway, near Digby, Kenneth Hatfield, aged 21, was attacked by bleeding at the nose, and died while attempting to reach his house. His little brothers and sisters, the only ones at home, were unable to tell the whereabouts of their father, who is a fisherman, and their mother is dead.
