GENERAL NOTES AND NEWS.

The Northern Pacific branch will reach the Manitoba boundary next week.

From a Grateful Mother.

"My little child suffered from a severe cold upon the lungs, until she was like a little skeleton before she took Burdock Blood Bitters, after which she became fat and hearty, and was cured of weak lungs, constipation and debility or wasting of flesh, from which two doctors had failed to relieve her." Mrs. Samuel Todd, Sturgeon Bay, Ont.

The Federal Government will not send a representative to the conference at Quebec.

Certain Cure.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS.—A positive cure for this dangerous complaint, and for all acute or chronic forms of bowel complaint incident to summer and fall, is found in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, to be procured from any druggist.

Polydore de Keyser, a Roman Catholic alderman, has been elected Lord Mayor of London.

Grand Results.

For several years R. H. Brown, of Kincardine, suffered from dyspepsia, he says he tried several physicians and a host of remedies without relief. His druggist recommended B. B. B. which declares produced "grand results," for which he gives it his highest recommendation.

Navigation on the St. Lawrence is completely stopped by smoke and fog, to the serious detriment of trade.

An Old Time Favorite.

The season of green fruits and summer drinks is the time when the worst forms of cholera morbus and bowel complaints generally prevail. As a safeguard Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry should be kept at hand, For 30 years it has been the most reliable remedy.

The Co-operative Wholesale Society of Manchester has been discussing a proposal to build or rent a cheese factory in Ontario.

A Severe Attack.

"I never felt better in my life than I have since taking Burdock Blood Bitters. I had a severe bilious attack; I could not eat for several days, and was unable to work. One bottle cured me." John M. Richards, Sr., Tara, Ont. For all bilious troubles use B. B. B.

Watchman McGuigan, of the Hotel Lafayette. Philadelphia, caught a thief at work in that hostelry and effected his capture after a desperate struggle, in which he was shot twice.

Be Prepared.

Many of the worst attacks of cholera morbus, cramps, dysentery, and colic come suddenly in the night, and the most speedy and prompt means must be used to combat their dire effects. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the remedy. Keep it at hand for emergencies. It never fails to cure or relieve.

Baird's French Ointment will cure the Itch in a few days, cures Salt Rheum, Chapped Hands, Scald Head, Obstinate Sores and Wounds. Sold by dealers.

Children troubled with Worms will find sure relief by using that pleasant and efficient remedy McLean's Vegetable Worm Syrup. Sold by all dealers. Price 25 cts.

Bishop Ryan, of Buffalo, denounces Dr. McGlynn as a disobedient priest and an enemy of the Church.

For Rickets, Marasmus, and all Wasting Disorders of Children

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is unequaled. The rapidity with which children gain flesh and strength upon it is very wonderful. "I have used Scott's Emulsion in cases of Rickets and Marasmus of long standing. In every case the improvement was marked,"—J. M. MAIN M. D., New York. Put up in 50c and $1 size.

Charles Litchman, the acting general secretary of the knights of labor, is charged with irregularities in the conduct of the office.

Michael Davitt, the famous Irish agitator, arrived at New York by the Britannic on Friday last. Mr. Davitt says he is in search of rest and recuperation, and will make no public appearances in New York.

Col. Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, recently in charge of the British Commission on the Afghan boundary question, will succeed General Sir Redvers Buller as under Secretary for Ireland.

Vital Questions.

Ask the most eminent physician

Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike refreshing sleep always?

And they will tell you unhesitatingly "Some form of Hops!"

CHAPTER I

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, detention or inability to retain urine and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women

"And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically. Buchu."

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malarial fever, ague, &c.," and they will tell you:

"Mandrake! or Dandelion!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable

And compounded into Hop Bitters, such a

The Legislative Council.

Some of the papers are recommending candidates for the vacancy in the Legislative Council of the province caused by the death of the late Mr. Hamilton of Dalhousie, and among these are papers favoring the local government. It is just such friends of the government as these that cause it to commit mistakes by which it is deservedly weakened. The policy of the government led by Mr. Blair is to abolish the Legislative Council, and it seems inconsistent for it to fill up vacancies as they occur. If we are not mistaken, no less than four vacancies have been filled since the present administration took office, and it does not appear that the upper house is any nearer being abolished than ever it was, although we were told, when the new appointments were made, that the men thus honored were pledged to vote for abolition whenever opportunity came. Indeed, some of the new appointees have voted squarely against abolition, and it may be assumed that there will always be sufficient men in the Council to stand by its existence in such an emergency.

The policy of filling vacancies as they occur is, therefore, wrong, and those who profess to wish the Council abolished will the better prove their sincerity by discountenancing new appointments. It is claimed that the policy of non-appointment would work the desired end, if both government and opposition parties in the Assembly could be pledged to it. It appears, however, that the opposition will not give any such pledge, and the government fears that every vacancy it might leave unfilled would add a new danger to its own existence, inasmuch as men are found attached to both sides—and they are especially among the least pronounced ministerialists—to whom the bait of a seat in the upper house would be quite sure to allure them from their allegiance to any party. The practical working of the policy of non-appointment would be, according to the present government's views, a number of vacancies left for a few years which would be turned to account by their opponents in the work of overthrowing them, by and bye. This view of the matter, however, seems to indicate a want of faith in public opinion, which is manifestly for abolition. Suppose, for instance, the present government had refused to fill the vacancies that have occurred since it came into power. Would not that course, by this time, have fixed itself upon the public mind, as a policy not to be departed from? And, admitting that the opposition were to succeed in ousting the government, in a few years, and were so short-sighted as to reverse their predecessors' policy in that respect, would it not, at once cause them to be distrusted by the people? It seems, therefore, that expediency, rather than principle has led to the filling of council vacancies by the present government, and, in view of results, it is to be hoped that principle and consistency will now assert themselves. As Northumberland has only one representative in the Council we might fairly nominate a man for the vacancy, but we prefer to give the government a chance to take the only course by which its avowed policy can, at last, succeed.

What We Are Annexed To.

Nationality is a powerful factor in the Canadian Confederation, and it appears to have its influence in more ways than that of holding "the balance of power" at Ottawa. An English speaking thief is generally punished. No National plea is raised for him. The law specifies what crime is and provides its punishment, but as the country is under British rule it would, of course, be wrong to apply British law to Frenchmen, so we learn from a despatch of 29th that—

"An employe of the Montreal post office named Lesuier has been on trial for several days for stealing money letters. The evidence in the case was clear against the prisoner. The counsel for the defence, in their address to the jury, which consisted of six Englishmen and six French Canadians, urged the latter to discharge the prisoner as he was a compatriot. The jury were locked up all night, but announced yesterday they could not agree on a verdict. The six English jurors, in view of the undoubted evidence against the prisoner, were for conviction, but the six French Canadians, although admitting the case was very clear, were for acquittal, simply because the man was a French Canadian. When this fact became known Judge Baby very indignantly and strongly censured the jury. The action of the jury has occasioned a great deal of comment, and the general feeling is things have come to a pretty pass when an offender is to be discharged simply on the ground of his nationality."

When we are so peculiarly situated with this privileged nationality idea intruding itself into our affairs, it is not to be wondered that those who find their profit in pandering to and making merchandise of it are seen raising their loyal British hands in holy horror at the prospect of either a commercial or political alliance with our blood relations over the border. Ordinary, every-day people, however, have a preference for plain going British methods and practices, which provide one law for all, and are not afraid to enforce its administration. The Americans are following the traditions of their ancestry and are sending their thieves to prison. Canadians are mixing British jurisprudence with the code Napoleon, and are becoming——What?

Judge Burbidge.

Mr. G. W. Burbidge, who is appointed Judge of the new Exchequer Court of the Dominion, is a New Brunswick barrister of fifteen years standing. He was educated at Mount Allison, Sackville, and before entering upon the practice of his profession did some journalistic work on the St. John press. He was associated with Mr. Wm. Pugsley—now Speaker of the New Brunswick Assembly—as one of the first official legislative reporters at Fredericton and afterwards as a Supreme Court reporter. While the law partner of Mr. L. R. Harrison, the present deputy of the Minister of Justice at St. John, he was Secretary of the commission for the codification and consolidation of the Statutes of New Brunswick, after which he succeeded Mr. Lash, in 1882, as Deputy Minister of Justice, Ottawa. He has held the latter position since that date, and earned his promotion to the new Judgeship. His salary will be $6,000 a year, besides an allowance for actual travelling expenses and five dollars a day for time spent in holding Courts in places outside of Ottawa. Mr. Burbidge is only 40 years old. We heartily congratulate him on his appointment, believing that he is well fitted for the position by natural gifts, sound training and practical experience.

How They win Elections.

Our Dominion Postmaster-General McLellan is no longer a member of Parliament, having being unseated for bribery. There was evidence of personal bribery on his part, but he swore he did not say what another witness swore he did and the court accepted his version of the matter. His brother-in-law and business partner, however, testified that it was he who was the chief briber and, incredible as it may seem, his sworn opinion was that McLellan's votes cost about $5 apiece. Here's a specimen of this gentleman's testimony:—

J. M. Blaikie sworn; Remember paying money to McKenzie; I think it was one hundred dollars. I supposed part of it was to be paid to voters; I paid ten dollars to John W. Giddens in same way; also eighty dollars to L. B. Carr, one hundred dollars to T. D. Crowe, and one hundred and twenty dollars to Alexander Crowe. George Lewis' son also got one hundred dollars, and I paid to Geo. Reid and John A. Cook and others. Altogether I paid out from twelve to fifteen hundred dollars. It was my own money. Mr. McLellan knew nothing about it. I should say the average price of votes last February was five dollars. I was not limited as to amount. I got thirteen hundred and fifty dollars from Mr. McLellan in the first part of February, seven hundred and fifty on the 10th February, and six hundred on the 13th February. It was in payment of an amount due me about which I had written him in December. I paid the money into my private bank account, and from this account I drew the money paid during election. All the money I paid out was to parties in Londonderry districts.

No wonder the government was sustained.

FISH-PROTECTION;—An Ottawa despatch of Monday says that "A number of orders-in-council for the further protection of fresh water fish have recently been passed. Among them is one putting a stop to the practice of fishing through holes in the ice in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick The order in reference to salmon fishing has been so changed as to absolutely prohibit Sunday fishing."

The portion of the order referred to relating to fishing through holes in the ice appears to be general, and if it means what the despatch says will put a stop to our winter bass fishing. A few years ago this fishery was so restricted in the rivers entering tide water on the Miramichi as to be practically prohibitory, and it is to be hoped that this new order will not have a similar effect on the Northwest. If so it is an outrage. The order prohibiting Sunday salmon fishing is a good one.

THE EXHIBITION TAX:—"Mr. Bairnsfather was very much aggrieved at the conduct of one of our town officials who refused to allow him to proceed with the entertainment, until he, Mr. Bairnsfather, had paid him a $2 license fee."

The above is from the Chatham correspondence of the Gleaner and implies that the official referred to did something unusual or wrong. In order that that impression may be removed and the correspondent better informed than he appears to be, we quote the Municipal By-law under which the official acted. It is as follows:—

1. That before any circus, show or menagerie, or other public exhibition of which the managers or proprietors are non-residents, at which an admission fee is charged, be allowed to exhibit they shall pay to the collector of rates in the district as follows:—

Circus and Menagerie combined	$20 00
Circus or Menagerie	10 00
Other outside show	5 00
Any show or exhibition in a public hall, for first exhibition	2 00
For each subsequent exhibition	1 00

2. That it shall be the duty of the Collector of Rates in the District in which any show or exhibition is held, to collect the aforesaid fees, for doing which he shall be entitled to a commission of 10 per cent. on amount collected, and should he refuse or neglect to perform the duty he shall be liable for the amount of the fee, and may be prosecuted thereto.

3. That any person or persons aforesaid who shall hold, give, or attempt to hold or give any such exhibition or performance, before paying for liberty to do so, shall be liable for each offence to a penalty not exceeding twenty dollars, to be levied by summary distress, by any Justice of the Peace upon his or their goods and chattels.

Perhaps the correspondent will now let the public know the reasonableness of the grounds on which Mr. Bairnsfather claimed to be aggrieved. If we mistake not Mr. B. is one of the class who think they are entitled to different treatment from their fellow-men and have the faculty of impressing their views on the "other half of the world" that is a "little soft."

He is Contented.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Judge Batcheller, of Saratoga, who, for ten years was the American judge in the international tribunals of Egypt, has just arrived here from Carlsbad. While at that watering place Judge Batcheller met Nubar Pasha, the Egptian Prime Minister. In speaking to him of the Stanley expedition Nubar said: "That Stanley should go to the relief of Emin Pasha is ridiculous. Emin, who is an Austrian has turned Mohametan and has a comfortable little kingdom of his own, a harem and all things necessary for the welfare of an Eastern potentate. He is perfectly satisfied. There has been no discord in his kingdom except on the part of the Abyssinian Christians, who objected to Emin Pasha on principle. Messengers have been frequently sent to Emin and if he were in any danger he would have returned with them. But Emin would seriously object to leaving his present snug quarters."

THANKSGIVING.—The Governor-General has proclaimed Thursday, November 17th, a thanksgiving day through out the Dominion.

The Fisheries Commission.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THE AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS AND THE CONFERENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 1.—Secretary Bayard, President Angell of the University of Michigan and Hon. William Putnam of Portland, Me., will conduct the negotiations with the Chamberlain commission for the permanent settlement with Great Britain of the disputes growing out of the differences as to the rights of our fishermen in the territorial waters of Canada. The president, at the suggestion of Secretary Bayard, personally invited Messrs. Angell and Putnam to act with the secretary of state. Both gentlemen accepted.

The colleagues of the secretary of state are men of approved fitness for the work to be done. President Angell showed his diplomatic ability by the negotiation of our latest and best treaty with China in 1882. Mr. Putnam has been principal counsel for the United States for the past two years in all cases arising out of the seizure of our fishing vessels by Canadian Cruisers. He is thoroughly familiar with the facts as well as the law, in every disputed case, in addition to his knowledge of the general subject. President Angell is a Republican, and Mr. Putnam is a Democrat. Secretary Bayard desired that one of his associates in this negotiation should be a Republican, in order that the result might not be regarded as partizan. There was no such difficulty in securing two gentlemen to aid the secretary of state in this work as has been represented. The gentlemen selected accepted as soon as the invitation reached them.

It is expected that the conference between the English and American commissioners will begin about Nov. 1 at the department of state. The position to be taken by the American commissioners was outlined at the cabinet meeting today. It is precisely the same position which the department of state has held throughout the negotiations thus far; it is, in brief, that fishermen have the right to do anything but fish or prepare to fish in the three-mile limit, the three miles to be measured from the shore in all cases. The English will contend that our fishermen have only the rights in Canadian waters specified in the treaty of 1818, and will maintain the headlands theory of the three-mile limit. Probably the negotiations will widen so as to take in all vexed questions pending between the United States and Great Britain touching Canada. The ultimate outcome will probably be a commercial reciprocity treaty. It is, apparently, well settled that Mr. Chamberlain's colleagues will be Minister West and Sir John Macdonald.

A Thriving Northern Town.

THE CHANGES OF A FEW YEARS; LAYING THE CORNER STONE OF A NEW CHURCH EDIFICE.

On Sept. 22nd the writer was privileged to witness one of the most interesting and important events in the history of Weldford Station. Not many years ago this thriving little village on the I. C. R. consisted of only a few houses. Since then many changes have taken place; and the large number of neat dwelling houses which one may see from the train in passing, speak of an industrious and cultivated people. It would be interesting to trace the history of the growth of Weldford to its present position; but it affords the writer much greater pleasure to notice the religious element manifesting itself creditably in a much needed work. A village is not worthy of the name, humble though it is, unless its inhabitants have a building set apart for worship, where they can assemble without having their attention diverted from things divine by secular associations.

The Presbyterians of this place, who have been worshipping in the Hall, began to realize the desirability of having a place dedicated to His service, when they might worship the Lord. So they said, "Let us go up and build a house to the Lord God of Israel." As is common in any good work, the ladies took the initiative, and, aided liberally by those of sister denominations, they with commendable zeal provided a bazaar and tea meeting, which would be a credit to a larger and more wealthy settlement. In a short time after the scheme was formed the men had laid the foundation and had raised the frame of the new church, so that by the day of the bazaar the building, boarded in and shingled, was ready for the ladies to show their skill and earnestness in the good cause and they improved the opportunity of making the edifice the scene of delight to the eye and of satisfaction for the "inner man." What added greatly to the interest of the occasion was the laying of the corner stone. The wise men had come from the north as well as from the east, and by their sayings, wise and otherwise, did much to increase the pleasure of all who enjoyed the felicitous circumstances. The service connected with the laying of the corner stone was conducted by the highly esteemed pastor, the Rev. J. H. Cameron, who has completely won the affections of his people in the short time during which he has been among them. After singing a suitable hymn and reading well selected portions of Holy Writ, the pastor called upon the Rev. Wm. Hamilton to lead in prayer. The Rev. J. D. Murray of Buctouche, who was in his usual witty humor, seasoned with grace, was followed in speaking by Revs. Wm. Hamilton, Bell and Smith, and by Mr. Phinney, M. P. P. Rev N. McKay of Chatham proceeded to lay the corner stone, prefacing its performance by a suitable and eloquent address, which showed his right to his previously won laurels. He spoke of the honor of laying the corner stone of a church. He said he would be thoroughly ashamed of himself if he were about to lay the corner stone of a "liquor saloon" where the bartender would thrust a dagger to the heart of his customers—yes, of his own wife and children—that he might fill his coffers with the "blood money" that deluded men would pay him to make them fill a drunkard's grave. The corner stone of the buildings erected for amusements could hardly be laid without the fear that some precious souls might there be led astray. But in placing the corner stone of a building to be dedicated to the worship of the living God, one may with joy think of the many souls that may be born into the kingdom in the House of its King and of the blessings to be received by the true worshippers of Him whom men ought to "worship in spirit and in truth." Space will not allow us to follow the address. Beneath the corner stone were placed the Moncton TIMES, the Presbyterian Witness of Halifax, and other papers which with the Presbyterian Hymnal may testify to the future ages the time and the circumstances when the first Presbyterian church was built at Weldford Station. The doxology fittingly concluded the service. A little later the well-spread tables were speedly despoiled of their beauty; but abundance replenished the emptied platters until the void was filled. The sale was ably conducted by Mr. Bailey, who was heard above the din of many voices. At length the work of the day was ended; and beneath the bright stars of heaven, which twinkled at the sight, might be seen many happy couples who on their way homeward (?) enjoyed the cool of the evening. The ladies who had borne "the burden and heat of the day" should be encouraged "not to be weary in well-doing," when they know that by their efforts $244,50 has been realized for such a noble object. The sum was not as large as some of the more sanguine anticipated, yet considering the large number of similar attractions in the near neighborhood, it was a credit to those who were the means of making the bazaar what it was. It is to be hoped that the snug little church thus begun under such auspicious circumstances may speedily be pushed to completion and that soon there may be heard within its walls the declaration of the truth, for the defence of which the Presbyterian body has already become famous.

In closing, as a native of "the fair Province by the Sea," which true to her name loves to cherish the truth so dear to Scotia's noble sons, the writer rejoices that the same gospel is set forth in the sister Province and that there are those who have love and zeal enough for the Master to erect a suitable House where they may worship Him. When one remembers that in the same congregation, six or seven miles away, another church is now being constructed, one is tempted to hold up the people of Weldford as an example, at least in this respect, to others who although more able are willing, while they themselves dwell in houses of cedar, to allow the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord to remain under curtains. Their conduct is certainly to be commended; and to others we would say in the words of our Lord, "Go and do likewise."

Loyalty.

Are not the monopolists, protectionists, and boodlers who are making "disloyalty" a shibboleth in their desire to do something to oppose commercial union ever haunted with a fear that the people will begin to examine this "loyalty" question from the standpoint of common sense? It is "disloyal" to denounce the manufacturers for plundering the people; 'disloyal' to prove that the Canadian Pacific Railway makes full use of its monopoly privileges and charges all the traffic will bear; 'disloyal' to attack the Government for boodleism; 'disloyal' to denounce its treatment of the Indians and half-breeds, which caused a war; and now it is worse than disloyal, it is a traitor's act to propose that the legitimate end and aim of the national policy, reciprocity with the United States, be brought about. Is there not a danger, and a serious one, that if this goes on the people may be led to believe that 'loyalty' means plunder and 'disloyalty' means freedom and the guardianship of their rights? How many times do these 'loyalists' need to be told that loyalty means respect for the law, but it does not mean that it is unpatriotic to labor to bring about changes in bad laws?—Montreal Witness.

Volunteer vs. Thistle.

Friday last witnessed the second, and what proved to be the closing race between the American Sloop, Volunteer, and the Scotch Cutter, Thistle, for the America's cup, The first race was sailed on Tuesday, 27th ult over the New York inside course—from Owl's Head, south, around buoy No 10 inside of Sandy Hook, and thence east around Sandy Hook Lightship and return over the same course, The Volunteer beat the Thistle in the first race by about nineteen minutes. The next race was one of 20 miles windward and back and sailed outside of New York Bay. It did not come off on Thursday last, as appointed, because there had been a storm and there was rough water and fog, with insufficient wind. The following day—Friday—was more favorable, although it did not promise to be so early in the morning. There was a good breeze outside, however, and about ten o'clock there were about fifty excursion and other steamers at Sandy Hook. A despatch says:—

The contestants were at the starting point in good season, as was the Electra, the flagship of the New York Yacht club, with the committee of judges on board. It was precisely 10.30 a. m. that the preparatory signal was given. That was the time stated in the circular formally issued by the committee. At that time the excursion boats and steam yachts had gathered about the line formed from the Electra and anxiously awaited the starting signal. The prospects for a race were good, but still far from satisfactory. The fog had thinned out sufficiently to render starting through it safe enough and a 15 mile breeze challenged the cup contestants to test their mettle, but sight-seers would have to keep up close and use their best eye-sight in order to keep track of the skimming yachts. The wind being from the east determined the course. It was 20 miles to windward and lay out to sea. At 10.40 the gun to start was given. At that moment

THE THISTLE AND VOLUNTEER WERE

on the east of the line not 200 yards apart, each working gradually to the line. The Thistle was nearer and went away on her trip nearly four lengths ahead of the Volunteer. The yachts started as follows:—

	H. M. S.
Thistle	10. 40. 21
Volunteer	10. 40. 50

They went over on the starboard tack the Volunteer at once began to outpoint and outfoot her opponent. The course was north-northeast for 20 miles to windward and return before the wind. The weathering qualities of the yachts were seen at once. The Volunteer outpointed the cutter by nearly two points, and won the race by the masterly manner in which she went to windward. The first tack which was a long one, 7 miles, virtually decided the race. The Volunteer ran to windward of the Thistle in a way that satisfied all the spectators who knew anything about it that the American boat would win. On each tack that followed, the Volunteer continued to get to windward, and ahead as well. Tack after tack showed up the same thing, and tack after tack showed that

THE SLOOP WAS BEATING THE CUTTER.

The Volunteer took five tacks in reaching the outer marks. The Thistle required six. This is remarkable, inasmuch as every time the cutter went about she did it in quicker time than the sloop, and in that it has always been claimed that the cutter could point closer than the sloop. But the fact remains, and a careful estimate of the time each boat took to go in stays was made, and this was the result in seconds:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6
Volunteer	25	25	22	25	25	x
Thistle	20	22	22	21	22	22

The wind at the start was blowing about 20 miles an hour. It maintained that velocity all the way out except during a period of perhaps 20 minutes when it let down considerable, during which time the Thistle people claimed that they were becalmed while the Volunteer held the wind. Really the contestants were equally affected. The yachts rounded the outer mark like this:

	H. M. S
Volunteer	2. 26. 40
Thistle	2. 41. 00

The boats set spinnakers coming home and the question as to whether the broad cutter could go fast enough before the wind to make up the latter's gain in windward work was soon to be decided. The Volunteer had a lead of fully 2½ miles when the Thistle rounded and that was not diminished very much on the home run. The Thistle was the first to take in her spinnaker, but the Volunteer followed suit immediately. This move was occasioned by the fact that neither boat could make the lightship with the wind aft and a haul up was necessary on the run home.

THE WIND LET UP AS WELL—

It dropped to 10 miles an hour, yet the Volunteer got there all the same. The accompanying boats tooted their horns in grand style at every possible opportunity, and the spectators, by cheering and waving of handkerchiefs, evinced their delight at the result. The steamboats had much trouble in getting back to the finish line in time to see the Volunteer successfully defend the American cup. Most of them wanted to see the Thistle round the outer mark. This detained them nearly 15 minutes, but once under way for home they maintained a jolly good speed and leaving the Thistle far astern, they got there in time to see the American sloop cross the line a winner by 11 minutes and 48 seconds. The following table gives the figures, including the six seconds allowance that the Volunteer had to give the Thistle on a 40 mile course:—

Yacht	Start.	Finish.	Act'l time	Cor. T.
Volunteer	10.40 50	4.23 47	5.42.56	5.42.56
Thistle	10 40.21	4.35.12	5.54.51	5.54.45

In the windward work the Volunteer beat the Thistle 14m. 49s. On the run before the wind

THE THISTLE BEAT THE VOLUNTEER

2m. 54s.

After the race Mr. Bell admitted that the Volunteer with her centreboard had fairly beaten the Thistle in the racing to windward. He was rather inclined to the opinion that a centreboard was a pretty useful thing.

"Is the Thistle for sale?" "Yes she is. She can be bought for $50,000. If a purchaser is not found quickly she will be sent home.

Mr. Bell was asked if the New York Yacht Club or any other club offered a purse for an extra class of sloops and cutters from $2,500 to $5,000, would the Thistle be entered?

"Certainly," was the prompt reply. "It is at least a satisfaction to be beaten by such a boat," said Mr. Bell. I do not feel that it is any discredit.

Mr. Bell, correspondent of the Glasgow Herald, says that a challenge for the cup will surely come next year.

A London despatch says: "There is little excitement over the race, except among Americans." The despatch does not intimate that the British would not have been more demonstrative had the Thistle won.

British Subjects and Naturalization.

A New York despatch says that several of the more prominent Englishmen residing in New York have for some time past been quietly preparing a plan for the purpose of perfecting organization for political purposes and as a result of their deliberations have issued a call for a meeting to consider the project formally. The circular convening the meeting has been sent to nearly all the English residents of the city, and states that "the question of the naturalization of British residents having become from the very force of circumstances of vital interest to Englishmen who have made this country their home, we believe that New York should remain no longer dormant in the matter." The present intention is to form a branch of the "Sons of St. George," who claim to have over 10,000 voters in their ranks. There are 57,000 British subjects in New York and Brooklyn who have not been naturalized, and it is believed a large percentage of them will join the new organization. The constitution will favor home rule for Ireland, but not dynamite.

GREAT GOOD LUCK OF SAMUEL W. BARRETT.

Melbourne Avenue, North Toronto, has for the past few days been a scene of intense excitement. It was whispered that one of the residents held a lucky ticket in The Louisiana State Lottery drawing on the 9th ult. The News found the fortunate man to be Samuel Ward Barrett, 105 Melbourne avenue, foreman bookbinder at Gage & Co's, Wellington street.

Mr. Barrett was found at his place of business, and in answer to the reporter's inquiries said, while a broad smile lighted up his whole countenance, "I had no faith in the lottery business; but four months ago one of the men induced me to invest a dollar in it. I sent to the New Orleans National Bank in New Orleans to find out how I could get tickets. The bank sent me blanks, and I enclosed a dollar for a tenth ticket in the May drawing. I got nothing then. Still in June I again sent a dollar for a tenth ticket, also in July, and also in August. I got the report of the August drawing last Thursday week on my way home, and carelessly jammed it into my pocket with the remark: "Well, there's another dollar gone." In my bedroom, however, I thought I would look at the report, and the first that met my eyes was the number 29,146, entitling me to one-tenth of the fifty thousand dollar prize. I immediately broke the news to my wife, and joy reigned in the family. I tell you," said Mr. Barrett with a wink "one does not fall into a small fortune so slick every day."

"How did you collect your money?" asked The News, when sufficiently recovered. "I received notice from the New Orleans National Bank that a draft for $5,000 in gold coin had been forwarded to the Central bank in this city, payable to my order."

"Did you call at the Central Bank and draw the money?" "No: I allowed it to remain there on deposit to my credit."

"Had you other tickets in the same drawing?" "No. I only had one. The whole business since I commenced cost me for tickets, postage, etc., $1 32, and I now stand in five thousand dollars ahead."

"I suppose you will go more extensively into lottery business hereafter?" "No, I will continue to send my dollar every month. But I tell you they are going to do a pile of business here now. No less than one hundred tickets have been sent for since I got the prize." He turned around, and pointing to the numerous employees, said: "Why these have sent for tickets, and they intend to continue as monthly subscribers."

How to Make Money.

The following statistics gathered from reliable sources are both interesting and instructive and may be turned into money, so to speak, by farmers and poultry raisers. The number of fowl has greatly increased in the United States during the last five years but this increase has been larger in the New England and Middle States than in any other. Twenty seven States report over one million each. Seventeen States report over two million each. Thirteen States report over three millions each while the States of Illinois, Iowa, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania report over five millions each. In eighteen of the States the annual average product of eggs per hen is as follows:

Me.,	7.5 Doz.	Penn.,	5.2 Doz	Ohio,	4.0 Doz.
Mass.,	7.2"	N. Y.,	5.0 "	Ill.,	3.6 "
Conn.,	7.1 "	Ind.,	5.0 "	N. C.,	3.5 "
N. H.,	6.7 "	Emp.,	4.7 "	Kan.,	3.2 "
R. I.,	6.4 "	Ky.,	4.4 "	S. C.,	3.1 "
Vt.,	5.0 "	Iowa,	4.3 "	La.,	3.0 "

It will be noticed that the average number of eggs laid per hen per year ranges from three dozen to over seven dozen and that those states which reported the largest number of hens did not make the most money because, as the figures show, they only got an average of four to five dozen eggs per hen per year while the New England States showed an average of from six to over seven dozen. The question arises then why do hens in the New England States average more than seven dozen eggs per year per hen, while in Louisiana they only average three dozen? The reason must be found in the fact that in the New England States, Sheridan's Powder to make hens lay is almost universally used, while in the West and South, it is not used much. Louisiana has not gone behind but the Northern States have gone ahead. There is no doubt at all but what the extensive use of Sheridan's Powder to Make Hens Lay, and for the improvement of poultry, has boosted the poultry and industry more than all other influences put together. The poultry industry of this country now amounts to between five and six hundred millions of dollars annually and the profits are said to be enormous. One man in Mass. near Boston has made twenty thousand dollars a year for STREET DISTURBING :—A number of Salvationists, sentenced to twenty-one days' imprisonment for street preaching at Stamford, England, have been conveyed to Leicester Prison. The army assembles and kneels at the prison gates every morning.

THE NEW PARK.—The opening Meeting of the new Fredericton Driving Park last week was a success. Excursionists from Miramichi report having had an enjoyable time and they think all the races were satisfactory save one in which a local horse was evidently favored.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL AND THE PRINCE OF THE CHURCH:—QUEBEC. Oct. 4.—On hearing of the fire at the Cardinal's palace here, Lord Lansdowne telegraphed Sir Hector Langevin asking him to tender his Eminence in the name of the Government the hospitality of the Vice-regal quarters on the citadel pending the repairs to the palace.

AT LAST:—The first copy of the new Sussex paper, The Weekly Record, that has reached us, is its fourth number, which presents a very fair appearance and is evidently managed by the editor, Mr. Spooner, with a determination to make it a good local paper. We hope it will be well patronised by both subscribers and advertisers.

TEMPERANCE MEETING :—An interesting temperance meeting—the second of the series—was held in Temperance Hall last Sunday evening. The chair was again occupied by Mr. Wm. Johnston, prayer was offered by Mr. Joseph Tweedie and addresses were delivered by Revd. Messrs. McKay and Waits. An efficient choir carried out the musical part of the programme.

SHOCKING DEATH.—An Edmundston despatch of 27th ult. to the Gleaner says: A horrible accident occurred at Baker Lake last week. A son of Joseph Michaud, (who owns a small mill there) was running a shingle machine, when he became unconscious, and falling against the saw, was almost cut in two. He only lived an hour.

POACHING:—The Gleaner's Blackvillle correspondent says:—

"Salmon are very plentiful in the main river, and as the fisheries officers are making an effort to stop the slaughter, there are lively nights on the river. The result so far has been that while the officers are getting some nets, &c., fishermen are having fair luck in getting salmon."

THE SLAUGHTERED CHILDREN:—QUEBEC Oct. 4.—The inquest on the bodies of the children killed by the explosion of a shell on the Island of Orleans concluded with a verdict of culpable negligence against the employes of Quebec Cartridge Works which were under control of the militia department. The father of the deceased will now take action for damages against the military authorities.

SHOT DEAD.—A St John despatch of Monday last states that Alex Vaughan, 53 years of age, who leaves a wife and six children went partridge shooting at Barnsville, Kings county, on Saturday. In dragging his gun over a stump it was discharged, and the contents entered his side. A nineteen-old son, who was with him, started for assistance, but losing his way it was four hours before he returned. The man was then insensible from loss of blood and died soon after.

FISH SLAUGHTER:—A gentleman resident on the Bay du Vin river informs us that the pools on that river have, this year, been dragged with smelt bag nets with impunity, and that for years salmon spearing has been regularly carried on. He has no doubt that the same destructive work will be engaged in this fall, unless better protection is afforded than the department has heretofore given the river. Nets are also set in the river at and near head of tide for salmon. Cannot something be done to prevent this illegal work?

REPORTED:—Capt. Mesano, of the Italian bark Emma D., which arrived at Bathurst on Saturday last, reports that in the middle of the gulf stream, about 400 miles from that port, on Sept. 20, he passed the American bark Oasis abandoned. She was not deep in the water. The fore and main masts had been cut off at the deck, but the mizzen was standing complete. The forward deck house was gone, but the after cabin was intact. They did not board her.

CATTLE SLAUGHTER.—The train hands on the Grand Falls branch, N. B. R. seems to have taken the contract to kill all the live stock along the road. Thursday evening they killed three cattle at the Rockway, Friday three horses at Green river, and the train was derailed and detained several hours. Saturday night a wrecking train ran over a cow breaking her leg. Sunday night she also ran over the same cow and the engine was derailed and almost totally destroyed and the line blocked until yesterday afternoon.—Gleaner.

THE FOLDING SAWING MACHINE, is highly recommended to us as truly a triumph of mechanical genius, and for rapid and satisfactory work, easy adjustment and ready portability, its equal appears never to have been invented. A man can carry it to the woods under his arm in the morning, saw down and trim trees, cut up the logs, and cut seven or more cords of wood before night. The firm, Folding Sawing Machine Co., 303 to 311 South Canal Street, Chicago, Ill., offer them at reasonable rates, and any lumberman or farmer with a few acres of timber can make one save its cost in a short time. Send for their circular. See their advertisement in another column.

DROWNED:—The brothers of a young man named Peter Bastarache, who was drowned off Richibucto Cape on Friday, 23rd ult., spent Sunday searching for his body along the shore, as it was expected the gale of Saturday night would have thrown it upon the coast, but they were unsuccessful. The body was found, however, on 27th ult., on the shore about a mile north of where the accident occurred. The deceased was eighteen years old, and was knocked overboard by the main boom of a schooner.

HYMENEAL.—An interesting event took place in St. Bernard's R. C, Church this morning at 7.30. John Sutton, Jr., son of John Sutton of the I C R Mechanical Office, was united in marriage to Miss Mary J Hogan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A. Meahan, The bridesmaid was Miss Annie McCann of St. John while the bridegroom was attended by Mr. John Hamilton. The bride wore a dress of pink silk bunting with white roses. The bridesmaid wore a dress of pure white with hat to match. After the ceremony, about 25 invited guests partook of a wedding breakfast in the Queen Hotel. The bride and groom, who were the recipients of many handsome and valuable presents, departed on the noon express for Halifax, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will probably return next Saturday. —Transcript.

MARRIAGE OF MISS MAGGIE MAHAR:—A Boston correspondent sends us the following: Mr. Leslie J Kendall, of the well known firm of Kendall Brothers', was married Thursday evening, Sept. 29th, to Miss Maggie J Maher, daughter of Mr Dennis Maher of Chatham. The ceremony took place at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Charlestown, Mass., and was performed by the Rev Father Powers. The bride was attired in a handsome suit of cream satin and lace, and was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie E Maher, as bridesmaid, who also wore the same. Mr, Frank F Grindell acted as best man. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs J Carey, where a wedding reception was held and quite a number of guests invited. The bride received quite a number of handsome presents, the groom being presented with a handsome gold plated marble clock from his many friends, which gave him quite a surprise. Mr and Mrs Kendall will reside in Charlestown, Mass.—Ex.

ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS:—The American edition of the Illustrated London News, published in New York at $4 a year and retailed at 10 cents a copy is rapidly increasing its circulation and becoming as popular and as indispensable in American and Canadian households as in British homes. The Illustrated News is printed on good paper and the engravings are excellent. Among the features of the issue before us is a large double page picture suitable for framing, drawn by Lucien Davies and entitled "The Thames Boating Season; the Market Day at Kingston." An eight page supplement beautifully illustrated, which supplements are being continued through a number of issues, contains an account of the visit of the British Mission to Morocco, and a number of full and half page engravings which are keenly interesting as depicting scenes in human life which are unfamiliar to English speaking people. Another page gives photographic views of the King country of New Zealand. The excellence of this number fairly represents the character of the whole.

THAT METEOR :—The Oakville California Graphic informs us that "A meteor weighing seventy tons is reported to have fallen at McAdams Junction on the New Brunswick side of the St Croix river, sixty miles south of Fredericton, the capital of the Province. Thousands of people have visited the Junction, but the meteor is still too hot to carry away. Two men saw the immense ball of fire coming, and declare that it illumined the landscape for miles, that it whirled and hissed, and threw off sparks of fire, that when it struck the earth it jarred the dishes from their table, set fire to a woodchopper's cabin, fused a pile of rocks near by, and buried itself deep in the earth."

A meteor might fuse a pile of rocks at McAdam Junction, but no one who ever saw the place will believe that it could find earth enough there to bury itself in. As the meteor fell at a large number of Places, however, it is probable that it found earth somewhere if not at McAdam.

HORSE SNOW-SHOES.—The customs appraiser showed our reporter Saturday morning a very curious set of horse snow-shoes. They are about the size and shape of a shallow basket. The bottom part is made of plated alder branches, over which are set two stays or handles between which the hoof is fastened. They came from England and are addressed to Geo. Moffatt, Dalhousie, N. B.—Halifax Recorder.

We have heard of things as heavy as a fish and as big as a lump of chalk, but always failed to determine their weight and dimensions. Couldn't the Recorder let us know what kind of basket the reporter had in his mind's eye when he was sizing up the horse snow-shoes? We fear his ideas are a little mixed, like those of the English colonel, who consulted a friend on his arrival in Halifax as to whether moccasins or snow-shoes would be warmest for winter-wear, but we will be satisfied on the basket question if the Recorder man will just say whether he meant a Hammond's Plains head express basket or just the ordinary city market article.

The Advocate of yesterday comes to us with the announcement that Mr. Geo. Moffat has imported a set of horse snow shoes and it, also, states that they are about the size and shape of "a shallow basket." This appears as an original item and as we see editorial correspondence in the same paper from Dalhousie, it is probable that the argus eye of the Advocate has seen and the controling mind thereof has grasped the "flat basket" shoes. It has done more than that. Said eye has, evidently, feasted on the Laurentian hills on the opposite side of the Bay, and, in wrapt admiration of their grandeur, perpetrated the following alleged sentence—"As you travel along "the high road and cast your eyes towards "the opposite bank of the Restigouche, to "the Quebec side, and behold the mountains, covered from base to summit with "an ever varying beauty which charms the "beholder and causes him to pause and wonder and admire."

We are, really, sorry the poor fellow got out of breath before finishing the sentence, for it isn't bad, as far as it goes, and it is seldom we see anything so sublime in the Advocate. He was thinking, no doubt, of the horse snow-shoes, and in the struggle between the shallow basket and everlasting hills, the basket won. We congratulate him, however, on striking the same simile as the Recorder man. It shows the affinity that exists between great minds, and also that though distance and local interests divide Halifax and Dalhousie, shallow baskets, like other shallow things, are the same everywhere.

Notice to Subscribers—$2 a Year.

Subscribers to whom we have sent bills and otherwise notified to pay up their overdue accounts, without avail, and who have, since, been notified by the Justice in whose hands their accounts are placed, complain, in some cases, because they are required to settle at the rate of $2 a year, and ask us to accept less. We have only to say to all such that in every issue of the ADVANCE for the last seven or eight years the following has appeared in its regular business notice at the top of the first column on the first page:

The "MIRAMICHI ADVANCE" is published at Chatham, Miramichi, N. B. every THURSDAY morning in time for despatch by the earliest mails of that day.

It is sent to any address in Canada, the United States or Great Britain (Postage prepaid by the Publisher) at the following rates:

One year, in advance, - - - -	$1.50
If not paid until after 6 months, -	$2.00

When subscribers who are even two or more years in arrears either remit or come personally to the office and pay, we generally settle at the rate of $1.50 a year, (and the address-slip on the paper each week shows exactly the date to which each subscription is paid, so that remittances can easily be made if the subscriber is only willing to pay up) but when people let their indebtedness run on until we are obliged to place their accounts out of our hands, they must expect to pay not only $2.00 a year, according to our published terms, but Magistrates' costs in addition. This notice must be accepted by all concerned, as we cannot afford to pay postage on letters in the interest of those who have so long neglected their duty to us.

Another I. C. R. Fatality.

On Saturday last Mr. David J Buckley of Rogersville and section foreman McPhee found the mangled body of Marcel Miller—a resident about 70 years of age—on the I. C. R. about half a mile west of Rogersville station. An inquest was at once held by Coroner M. O'Brien and the following jury, A A Richard, foreman; Joseph Poirier, Hypolite Robichaud, Sosime Richard, Cyril Thibedeau, Joseph Fournier and Andw. J. Arseneault. The verdict was that death of deceased was apparently caused by his being struck by a special train going west Oct. 1st. It appears that none of the train hands had seen the man on the track, or knew anything of is being injured.

N. B. Sunday-School Association.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

To the Editor of the "Advance:"

DEAR SIR :—Will you kindly permit me to call the attention of your subscribers who are interested in Sunday-School Work to the coming convention of the provincial association at St. Stephen on Oct. 10th—12th.

The executive committee have been very successful in making their arrangements, and a very large attendance is expected. We have secured the presence of two of the foremost Sunday School workers in the world; Mr. William Reynolds, of Illinois, the president of the International S. School convention, which met at Chicago last June, and Mrs. W. H. Crafts whose name is familiar to primary class teachers everywhere. The sessions will be of a practical character and will be largely under the leadership of Mr. Reynolds and Mrs. Crafts.

All pastors of Evangelical Churches and superintendents of Sunday Schools are ex officio members of the Convention and in addition one delegate may be elected from every Sunday School. But while this is strictly the membership, and the local committee cannot promise homes to any others, yet all the Railway and Steamboat Cos. will carry any one attending the convention at the same reduced rates and arrangements have been made with hotels and boarding houses in St. Stephen and Calais to give accommodation at from $1.00 to $1.50 a day. All who come will be accorded every privilege in the convention, no one who wishes to attend need stay at home.

Mr. Reynolds will spend the Sunday preceding the convention in St. John, and the executive of the county association are arranging for his reception. He will probably speak in one or more of the City churches and with Mrs. Crafts, will address a mass meeting of Teachers in the afternoon. Delegates who come from the east and north would find themselves amply repaid for their trouble if they would come to St. John on Saturday and attend these meetings on Sunday.

Not only Mr. Reynold's official position, but his ability as a speaker makes his visit a welcome one. All the Railways and Steamboat lines will carry visitors and delegates at half-fare. In every case but that of the N. B. R. R. full fare must be paid in going to the convention and a certificate of having attended, will entitle to a free return ticket. In the case of the N B R R this certificate is not required and will be of no value, but excursion tickets, at half-fare, will be issued at the office where the delegate takes the train. These are the only tickets that the company will recognize for the return journey. Those who come by the I. C. R. and N. & W. R. must purchase these excursion tickets at St. John and Fredericton respectively.

The International S. S. Co. will carry passengers from St. John to St. Stephen, via Eastport, for $1.50 and return them free on the certificate of attendance.

With such a rich treat at the convention, such liberal rates of entertainment, such low fares by R R and S S lines, and such glorious fall weather we expect to see a gathering of S. S. workers such as never before came together in New Brunswick.

Yours sincerely
T. F. FOTHERINGHAM,
President N. B. S. S. C.

Passing on the Sidewalks.

People meeting each other on our sidewalks appear, very often, to hesitate, as if not knowing on which side they ought to pass. Those who know that the law requiries them to pass to the right, and that there is a penalty for not doing so, are frequently obliged to go to the left or come in collision with those who seem to care little for either law or public convenience. The Municipal by-law on the subject reads as follows:—

"Any person or persons walking on any of the sidewalks or public footpaths in the said County shall, on meeting any other person or persons, keep to his or their right hand side of said sidewalk or footpath, not occupying more than one half of the breadth of said sidewalk or footpath, nor shall any person or persons, by negligence or misbehavior, prevent or hinder any other person from passing him or them, under a penalty of one dollar for each and every violation of this section."

If the above provision were better observed than it is, there would be less jostling and inconvenience on the sidewalks on Saturday nights, when a greater number of persons than usual are out. It so happens, too, that a large proportion of Chatham churchgoers use the same sidewalks, and, on Sunday evenings especially, some of them are inclined to run over almost every third person they meet. If these uninformed and untrained beings would only remember that they are subject to a penalty for not keeping to the right they would save their long-suffering neighbors the exercise of a good deal of forbearance.

Rural Deanery Meeting and Choral Service.

The clergy of the Rural Deanery of Chatham, viz., the Revs. J. H. S. Sweet of Newcastle, A. F. Hiltz of Derby, W. J. Wilkinson of Baie des Vents, D. V. Gwilym of Richibucto, G. J. D. Peters of Bathurst, E. B. Hooper of Weldford and D. Forsyth of Chatham met in Chatham on Monday evening, Sept 26th. The Rev C. D. Brown of Dalhousie was prevented by parochial engagements from attending.

Evening Prayer was said in St Mary's chapel by the Rev. W. J. Wilkinson, the 1st lesson was read by the Rev. J. H. S Sweet and the 2nd by Rev A F Hiltz, and an eloquent and instructive sermon was delivered by the Rev D V Gwilym.

On Tuesday morning there was a celebration of the Holy Communion at 7.30, at which the Rural Dean was celebrant and Rev D V Gwilym server. During the day the Deanery Chapter met at the Rectory for the reading and discussion of portions of Holy Scripture, and the transaction of routine business. In the evening a service was held in St Paul's church at 7.30, the prayers being said by the Rev W J Wilkinson, the 1st lesson read by Rev J H S Sweet and the 2nd by the Rev E B Hooper. Able and interesting addresses were delivered by the Revs D V Gwilym and A F Hiltz—by the former on "Oneness of Principle," and by the latter on "The Book of Common Prayer."

On Wednesday, Morning Prayer and Litany were said by the Rev E B Hooper, the 1st and 2nd lesson being read by the Rev A F Hiltz and W J Wilkinson respectively. During the day the members of the chapter met again at the Rectory for the transaction of business, and in the evening the Annual Service of the Deanery Choral Union was held in St Mary's Chapel at 7.30. Very great interest was manifested in this service, and the church was crowded with worshippers before the appointed hour. The choir was composed of representatives from the various choirs of the Deanery and numbered about 50 voices. There were 15 surpliced choristers and nine other male and female voices from St Mary's Choir, Chatham, 13 surpliced choristers from St George's Choir, Bathurst, 10 male and female singers from St Andrew's choir, Newcastle, and 2 voices from the choir of St John Evangelist, Baie des Vents. Choral evensong was said by the Rev G J D Peters, Rector of St George's Church, Bathurst. Seven clergymen of the Rural Deanery and the Rev Canon Brigstocke M A, Rector of Trinity Church, St John, N B, who was the preacher on the occasion, walked from the Rectory to the west door of the church, preceded by the 28 Surpliced Choristers, singing as they entered the church and advanced towards the Chancel, the Processional Hymn 393 A. & M. The procession of clergy and choristers was a most interesting feature of the service and as the long line of white-robed choristers advanced in regular and reverent order, the scene was beautiful and edifying. Mr Geo Burchill played the organ with his accustomed skill, and Prof. Smythe, assisted as choir director with his usual ability. Barnby's Anthem, O how amiable" &c., was most creditably sung as was the whole service, including hymns 423, 303 and 30 A & M 423 being the Hymn for the Festival of St Michael and All Angels of which Wednesday Sept 27th was the eve, 303 was the offertory hymn, and 30 was sung as a retrocessional while the clergy and choristers left the church.

Canon Brigstocke delivered an able and appropriate sermon from the 150th Psalm, the 1st verse, "Praise God in His Sanctuary." The Reverend Preacher dwelt upon the importance of praise in the worship of God and showed that in all circumstances of life, whether adverse or otherwise, God's reasonable creatures can find room for the employment of this element of His acceptable worship. Canon Brigstocke proceeded to speak of the matter and manner of praise in connection with worship and eloquently pointed out the excellency of the Psalter as an inimitable model of sacred song, contrasting it with the style of certain modern hymns. He dwelt upon the wise provision the church had made for the constant and frequent use of the Psalms in her worship and said that it was one of the gratifying signs of improvement in her worship that there was an increasing employment of the chanting of these sacred musical compositions. The learned Canon pointed out how these divine songs were adapted to the needs of every worshipper in holding converse with God, and it is well that they are more and more recognized as the best and most acceptable means of singing His praises. In speaking of the manner of rendering the most effectual praise to God in His Sanctuary he referred to the care which was taken in the psalmists days in connection with the music of the Temple worship, and showed the importance and propriety of taking all pains in order to have God's praises well and reverently sung. He referred to the use and advantages of Surpliced Choristers among the improvements connected with the revival of the better attention to the details of reverent worship in recent times, and addressed some words of excellent counsel to those whose high privilege it was to sing the praises of God in His Sanctuary. Canon Brigstocke's able sermon was listened to with great attention and was altogether appropriate to the occasion.

On Tuesday morning, it being the Festival of St Michael and All Angels, there was a choral celebration of the Holy Communion in St Mary's Chapel at 7.30. The Rural Dean was celebrant, Canon Brigstocke Gospeller, and the Rev D V Gwilym Epistoller and Server. The Rev. G J D Peters played the organ and the choir was composed of choristers from Chatham and Bathurst.

During the day the visiting clergy and singers returned to their several parishes, carrying with them happy recollections of a most successful service and pleasant reunion.

One of Gen. Forrest's Old Men Lucky

As announced, Mr. W. A. Barnhill, of this city, held one-tenth of ticket, 29, 146, that drew $50,000 in the August drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, and received his money—$5,000—promptly through the First National Bank of this city. He is an old man, 55 years of age, and proposes to manage his fortune so as to live easy, and experience as few of the worries of life as possible. He served through the late war on Gen. N. B. Forrest's staff and made a good soldier. Persistent and patient investing of one dollar each month in The Louisiana State Lottery, and that the practice he has kept up so long, he proposes to continue. —*Jackson (Tenn.) Looking for the Tailors.

A cheap goods man went through the northern counties a few weeks ago and gladdened the hearts of many farmers and their wives with wonderful bargains in various dress goods. The farmers, from all accounts, grabbed eagerly at the cheap offerings and gave their notes in payment freely. On the Northwest the cheap goods man visited nearly every house and left his "blessing" upon many households. The only setback he got in his errand of good was the difficulty his buyers complained of in getting the goods made up. But that was easily gotten over. Eight tailors were coming a short distance behind, with trimmings and linings galore, and the clothes were to be made up in the best style, without any further expense except the board of the eight good men and true. The garments were to be made and trimmed in the height of fashion. One woman tells how she was promised eighteen inches of fur trimming on her cloak, and many an anxious look has she cast along the highway for the coming tailors. These tailors were to be at a certain house at an appointed time, and all who wished to consult them on the style and make of their garments were to go there on that day. The day came, and so did people for many miles around, one old couple driving all the way through from the Southwest; but no tailors. These gentlemen had apparently taken some other route. Up to date they have not arrived, though many anxious inquiries are being made for them, and it is thought probable that the time for paying the notes which the farmers gave the cheap goods man will get here ahead of the tailors. Farmers should be on the lookout for the man who tries to overwhelm them with bargains. They will find after all that the legitimate storekeeper is the safest man to purchase from.—Advocate.

In Brief, And To The Point.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

Poor Peter Mullarkey.

An item in one of our exchanges of Tuesday was to the following effect:—

"Peter Mullarkey, the well known boot and shoe traveller, is fatally ill in a hospital at Halifax."

And in the Sun's Halifax despatch of the same date was the following:—

A few weeks ago a well-known Montreal shoe man, arrived here on his annual trip. He was accompanied by his wife. A fortnight ago he went off on a drunk and was subsequently found on Water street dive, very ill. He was taken to the hospital and died. His body is being sent to Montreal for interment. During the time he was in the dive he drew $1,200 out of the bank. Most of the money was obtained from the unfortunate fellow by the inmates of the house. The police succeeded in recovering $750, which had been deposited in the Savings Bank by the woman who kept the house, in her own name and that of her mother and alleged husband.

Peter Mullarkey was well known in Chatham. A few years ago he came here and, giving way to his unfortunate appetite for strong drink, frequented some of the places in town where the vilest liquors were sold, and became so run down in health that he was an object of pity to all who saw him. In this condition he happened to find the establishment of a dealer noted for his goodness of heart, who, instead of making money out of the poor fellow, took him to a room where he induced him to remain, giving him only such stimulants as he was advised he needed until he could, through friends, secure for him admission and treatment at the Hotel Dieu, where under the influences of that useful Christian institution he was so restored as to enable him to go home. For a long time thereafter he appeared to be reformed, but, it seems, his old enemy became too strong for him and the result is as recorded above. Poor Mullarkey's end, with its saddening surroundings, is another potent appeal against intemperance.

Tuesday's Halifax Recorder says:—

During the time he had been frequenting this house on Water street, he had drawn several sums of money from the bank, a balance of between $1100 and $1200 had dwindled down to $900, and one day last week the balance of $900 was drawn out. When taken to the hospital he had little money on him, and Detective Power set to work on Friday night last to locate and if possible recover it. On Saturday night the stranger's death took place, and consequently prompt measures were necessary. The detective on Saturday morning visited the woman who kept the establishment on Water street, and made a demand for the money. She at first denied the whole matter, but afterwards went with Detective Power to her mother's residence in the north-end, and after a conversation with that lady in Gaelic the old lady produced about $250 from one of her stocking legs. The daughter claimed it was given for safe keeping, and $40 by the stranger to herself for her trouble. The detective and the landlady then returned to her house, where Power wanted her husband's savings' bank book. She alleged that her husband had it with him, and he was away at sea; people as a rule do not take savings' bank books to sea with them, and the detective intimated that he would have to search for it; then she went up stairs and returned with a bank book showing about $300 in the savings' bank. Thus about $500 out of $900 had been recovered, and the detective then wanted her own bank book which eventually after much persuading she got for him; but they had to take another trip to the "old lady's" first, for it was there.

The two bank books show two entries each; the first entry in each having been made on 17th Sept., and the second entry in each being on 27th Sept., the one book showing about $300, the other $220. When the detective was done it was after 1 o'clock, and the Saving's Bank was closed, so the drawing of the money was postponed till to-day.

That Smuggling Case.

In the matter of the French barque Libertas, which was detained in port by the Collector of Chatham since 10th Sept., in connection with the smuggled brandy found in the house of Harry Brobecker, a settlement was arrived at on Saturday last and the vessel released on payment of a fine of $500. The vessel and all concerned had been led into a very bad position through the instrumentality of Brobecker, who, acting as interpreter for and in behalf of the captain, appears to have made a false customs entry on the vessel's arrival by concealing the fact that the brandy and some other articles were on board. Afterwards, by some process not easy to understand—intimidation, probably—the captain was induced to make an attempt to brave the matter out. Better connsels, however, prevailed and the fine above referred to was accepted, and the vessel liberated with as clean a record as possible. Brobecker, who appears to have bungled the whole transaction very badly, for both himself and the captain, is now in jail serving out the imprisonment portion of his sentence for smuggling the brandy.

Irish Affairs.

DUBLIN, Oct. 1.—William O'Brien, Lord Mayor Sullivan and Professor Stuart succeeded in holding a large League meeting yesterday on the estates of the Marquis of Lansdowne without the knowledge of the authorities and therefore without the interference of the police.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Tribune's London despatch says: The situation in Ireland is becoming distinctly more aggravated and the Government's supporters are demanding that there shall be no pause in the action of the Administration. It is pointed out that if the state of affairs ten days ago required the suppressing of two hundred branches, the root and stem of the League should now be struck down. The defiant speeches at Tuesday's central meeting and such incidents as the turning out of the Penderville family at Newbridge because they sheltered a boycotted laborer, the wrecking of railway and telegraph lines near Youghal, and the increasing spirit of resistance to the bailiffs have stimulated the Conservative press and clubs to demand that the law shall strike quick and hard. Some London and Irish Government organs ask for a check upon Radical emissaries, for Ireland, it is argued, is on the verge of an open rebellion, the only remedy for which will be a military regime. The cry among Unionists and Conservatives is louder than ever that the tyranny of the League must be squelched. Unfortunately for these demands, Mr. Balfour's methods have but increased the energy of resistance which is flaring up to such diminsions that the process of squelching will fill half the goals, and require the services of an army corps. It is now too late. It is impossible to padlock a nation and the Leaguers count upon the Ministry being afraid to impose that despotic rule which can accomplish what the supporters of the Government now demand. The eviction of one tenant this week required 80 soldiers and 150 policemen. It is reported that Mr. Balfour is determined to persevere to the extent, if necessary, of civil war.

DUBLIN, Oct. 3.—Several branches of the National League held meetings yesterday in Mitchelltown district. In one case hundreds of people evaded the police and went to a fortified house outside the town where a meeting took place. Mandeville who was tried with O'Brien for using seditious language and was sentenced to two months imprisonment but was released on bail, presided, and made a speech in which he said it was impossible to destroy the League. Resolutions were passed strongly condemning the Government's interference with public meetings and freedom of speech.

A Defeat for Prohibition.

REMARKABLE SCENES.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct 1.—The election Thursday was on the adoption of an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the manufacture or sale for use as a beverage of intoxicating liquors. It passed off quietly all over the state. In Nashville and Davidson county it was the most remarkable election ever held. The feature of it was the presence of ladies at the polls, working and pleading with voters to cast their votes for the amendment. Lunches, with hot coffee, were set at all the polling places, and whenever a man presented himself to vote the anti-ticket he was surrounded by the ladies, argued with, and, if very stubborn, prayed for and regaled with sacred songs. The voters showed universal respect for the ladies, and there is no doubt that to their presence is due the cutting down of the anti-majority in this county. The American figures which indicate that the amendment has been defeated by from 10,000 to 15,000. The antis claim 25,000 majority, but it will hardly reach that.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. Oct. 1.—Ladies took an active part in the election Thursday, and in all the cities and towns they were at the polls with free lunches and personally solicited the voters. At every polling booth there was a lavish display of banners, among them being "Vote for God, Home and Tennessee To-day;" "Vote for Mother, Wife and Sister, They Have no Defense;" "Save your Ballot;" "The Women and Children of Tennessee Appeal to the Manhood of the State;" "Yes, To-day, etc. The ladies were everywhere treated with respect. During the morning prayer meetings were held at the churches. At Athens, when the vote was counted and it was ascertained that a majority of 120 was obtained for prohibition, all the ward workers bowed their heads and sung the doxology.

POOR COPY

VERY PRECIOUS.

I did not give it to him. He stole it out of the mother's album He did! he did! he did!' The speaker's voice rose with each repetition, and her cheeks got redder and redder. 'I must know better than you, Rosie!'

'Oh of course, you do not call it giving, but I do. You were standing by, I suppose, when he took it? Your eyes were cast down, and you put your most becoming pout on? And now that Tom Crichton, with his ten thousand a year, falls in love with you and wants to marry you, you are afraid poor Cecil Hamilton will show him your photograph and talk about your silly letters and make mischief. You incorrigible little flirt! It would serve you right to be treated as you have treated others. How many men have you made fools of, I wonder? A dozen?'

The speaker spoke sarcastically; the hearer was beginning to cry. The girls were sisters; both young, both pretty and charming, but Letty, the younger, was a lovely, brainless little flirt. The elder, Rosalind, had plenty of brains, but scarcely experience enough to enable her to use them judiciously. She was a beautiful creature to look at; warm-hearted and impulsive to a fault. There was nothing she would not do or dare for one she loved, and she dearly loved her bewitching little sister, and rejoiced with all her heart when the genial, good-looking young 'Squire,' Tom Crichton, who came into the neighborhood to take possession of an unexpected inheritance, fell in love at first sight with Letty, and proposed to her after a week's acquaintance.

But Tom was a quick-tempered, jealous young fellow, and he had already spoken his mind to Miss Letty about her love of flirtation. She promised to amend her ways, but it was more than she could do to keep her promise when temptation came in alluring guise.

Mireford was a garrison town, and one of the gallant Dashshire Regiment, Geoffrey Hamilton by name, had quickly succumbed to the fascinations of the younger of the two daughters of the widowed Mrs. Maitland, who lived in a pretty cottage on the London road, about half a mile or so from Mireford. It was in vain that Rosalind warned the heedless young coquette that she was treating poor young Hamilton disgracefully. But in good truth the young man was very well able to take care of himself. He was not very deeply wounded; but as soon as Crichton appeared upon the scene, he made up his mind to punish Miss Letty, if possible, for her tricks, by pretending to be broken-hearted and desperately jealous.

He was, however, sufficiently in love to be able to put a fair amount of seriousness into his reproaches; and when he flatly refused to give up the photograph Letty had given him, and one or two absurd little notes she had written to him, and a glove he had purloined, the silly girl was thoroughly frightened, and firmly persuaded that "Tom" would hear all about it and break off his engagement. Had Rosalind but known how slightly Hamilton's heart was touched she would have quickly laughed Letty out of her fright; but when the girl solemnly assured her that Geoff was so much in love, and so angry and jealous that she knew he meant to have his revenge, the sensible elder sister forgot that she was not living in a melodramatic age; and, moreover, she quite overlooked the fact that Hamilton, being a gentleman, it was not likely that he would act as if he were a cad.

So, on the whole, things were looking very serious when, for the fiftieth time at least, Rosalind tried to make her sister confess whether she had given Geoff the photograph, or whether he had taken it from Mrs. Maitland's album. She had her own opinion on the subject; so it was really waste of time to cross-question the naughty little girl, who was anxious to keep the peace between the old love and the new.

'I think you are very unkind, Rosie,' she said at last; 'and if you do not believe me; how can I expect Tom to do it?

'I do not expect Tom to do it!' You talk as if believing in you was a gymnastic feat. I know what I should do in Tom's place, if another man told me he had a photograph of the girl I meant to marry, and gloves and things—'

'He has only one glove and no things!' interrupted Letty, whimpering. 'Don't exaggerate; and I gave Tom two photographs—one sitting and one standing—and he has heaps and heaps [of letters!'

'I hope the spelling is all right.'

'I hope so. He is not much of a speller himself.'

'He spelt 'adored, with two d's the other day. 'My addored one.' It looked so funny.'

'Mr. Hamilton is away just now, is he not?' Rosalind asked presently.

'Yes. He went to his sister's wedding. I wish it was to his own.'

'He does not live in barracks, I think?'

'No; he has rooms in Diamond Crescent, No. 15, and Gerard Townsend lives with him.'

'He is the woman-hating person who is reading for something and never goes out! . . . And now I suppose you are going to write to your adored Tom? I am going out for a walk.'

'And won't you advise me how to get back my photograph? I wish I had not given it to him.'

'Oh, so you did give it!'

'I am afraid I did, sighed Letty. 'But he begged so hard, and said he had never cared enough for any girl to ask for her likeness before.'

'Poor fellow! But he must give it up. Now go and write your letter.' And Rosalind ran out of the room.

About an hour later a young lady with a mackintosh on her arm knocked at the door of 15 Diamond Crescent. She had evidently been walking fast, for her cheeks were glowing and her eyes were bright.

'This is awful,' she said to herself, as she heard steps approaching the door on the inside. A civil-looking woman opened it.

'Are—are the gentlemen at home?' the visitor asked. 'I mean—is Mr. Townsend at home? I am his sister, and he expects me, I think.

'Oh. walk in, ma'am, if you please. Mr. Townsend told me you were not coming until to-morrow; he is out just now, but your room is quite ready. Have you no luggage, ma'am?'

The visitor muttered something about the station as she went into the hall, 'Please show me into the sitting-room,' she said; 'I can wait for my brother there. No, thank you; no tea Is this the room?'

'Yes, ma'am. The gentlemen has this between them. Mr. Hamilton is coming back unexpected this evening. He was telegraphed for, as there is some talk of the regiment leaving at once.

'What is that noise?' the visitor asked.

'Rain, ma'am. It's a thunder shower, I think. It always makes that noise on the roof of the verander. It's well you was under cover, ma'am.'

Rosalind gave a sigh of relief as the door at last closed behind the landlady. 'Now, if by a stroke of good fortune I can commit my felony and get away before—my brother comes in—what an extraordinary thing that he should be expecting his sister. I suppose' (glancing at a cabinet photograph on the chimney-piece) that is the man himself. Why, he must be forty at least! Now, I wonder where Mr. Geoff keeps his treasures? In a drawer, of course; but which drawer? I do not half like rummaging among the poor man's possessions, but he brought it on himself.'

She presently came upon a packet neatly tied up with red ribbon and sealed. She pinched it. It evidently contained a photograph, for she felt the cardboard, and there was something soft that might be a glove; and surely those were withered flowers that crackled as she pressed them? and the more lumpy enclosures must be letters. Should she untie the ribbon and break the seal? But time was passing, and there was really no necessity. Then she turned the packet over and found an inscription that settled the question. In a man's writing were the words: 'Letters and letters. Very precious.'

'Poor Geoff! Poor dear fellow! How devotedly he loves her! I am so sorry for him. 'Very precious' he calls them,' Rosalind murmured. 'But precious or not, I must rob him of them. We cannot lose Tom. I wonder what Letty will say when she sees them? Now, I wish I were safely out of this. I must write the tiniest scrap of a note and leave it for poor dear Geoff.'

She closed the drawer, put the packet in her pocket, and wrote hastily on a half sheet of paper, 'L's sister has taken what you have no right to keep against her will.'

She has just addressed the envelope when she heard steps on the stairs; in another moment the door was opened and a handsome young man came.

'How awkward!' thought Rosalind. 'But I must keep up the character of Townsend's sister. Who in the world is he?'

The newcomer stood still and stared at her. She was the prettiest girl he had seen for many a day. She made him a little bow. 'I am Mr. Townsend's sister,' she said, 'and I expect him every moment; he does not expect me until to-morrow. Did not the landlady tell you I was here?'

'She—she—she did!' the young man gasped.

'What a donkey he is!' thought merciless Rosalind, quite at her ease, although she had just been robbing a drawer. 'I wonder if you would mind going to look for my brother?' she said aloud in the sweetest manner. 'It would be so very kind. It is awkward to be here all alone with—people coming in.' She gave him a little smile to indicate that he was one of the people. I have to go to the station for my luggage'—('What dreadful stories I am telling!' she added to herself;) then aloud, "and, perhaps, by the time I come back he will be here.'

'Oh, you will come back, will you? But it's raining cats and dogs! you'll be drenched!'

'Oh, dear, no. I have a waterproof;' and Rosalind took up her cloak. 'Thank, you,' as the young man rushed forward and put it round her shoulders. 'And you will go and find—Gerard for me,' she said turning to him with the sweetest smile. There was the slightest possible hesitation before she said the name; he noticed nothing but the beauty of her eyes. Thank you very much!'

She was gone before he recovered himself, and when Geo. Hamilton came into the sitting-room at No. 15 a few minutes later, he found his friend Townsend hanging out of the window.

'Hello, Gee!' he said, 'what's up? You look dazed! Seen a ghost?'

'No, but the prettiest girl in the world. She was here. She said she was my sister. She asked me to go and look for—myself, while she went to the station for her luggage.'

'Then she'll be back.'

'Not she! She turned the other way.'

'Then who in the world is she, and what brought her here?'

'I suspect you know all about that, you rascal! She's one of your army of martyrs, I take it.'

'Rubbish! I am the martyr! What's this?' He had picked up Rosalind's note from the writing table. ''G. Hamilton, Esq.' Now for the heart of the mystery.' He opened the note and read it. Then he threw himself into a chair with a very red face. Then he laughed. Then I am afraid he swore.

Meanwhile Rosalind, with her heart thumping, half with fright and half with triumph, was speeding homeward. She flew into Letty's room, and found that young person on her bed, reading a novel.

'There!' Rosie cried, throwing down the packet, never say again that I am not your best friend! There are your letters and your photograph, and all the keepsakes you gave that poor dear man from time to time; and you ought to be ashamed of yourself!'

'What!' cried unabashed Letty. 'Did he give them up? He is a darling?'

'No,' answered Rosalind, calmly; 'I stole them.'

'Oh, you dear delightful darling How sweet of you! Poor boy, how sorry he will be! But what fun! What is this written outside? 'L.'s likeness and letters. Very precious.' Poor dear Geoff, how fond he is of me!' And she gave a little sentimental sigh.

'Had you not better open the thing and see if you have them all right?' said practical Rosie. 'Here, cut the knot.

No sooner said than done. A cabinet photograph fell out, then a piece of deep crimson ribbon, a few faded flowers, and two or three notes.

'This is such a good likeness Tom had better have it,' said Letty, as she took up the picture, which had fallen face downward on the bed. 'Look, Rosie!'

Rosie looked, and behold, it was a likeness of a tall, handsome girl, who bore not the slightest resemblance to winsome little Letty. Beneath was written in a firm and dashing woman's hand the one word 'Louie.'

The sisters looked at one another with blank faces. A glance at the notes revealed the same dashing hand. 'So you are not the only one, and I made a fool of myself and robbed the man's drawer for nothing!' cried Rosalind. 'O, if I had but known.'

'Never mind, dear,' said Letty; 'I am sure I don't. But I wish I knew what he sees to admire in that black woman. Just pack her up and send her back to him.'

A tap at the door interrupted them. It was a maid to announce that Mr. Townsend was in the drawing room. He wanted to see Miss Maitland for a few minutes on business. He had a message and a little packet to deliver.

'Tell Mr. Townsend I am coming directly,' said Rosalind.

'Oh, Rosie! do you mind?' cried Letty as the maid went out. 'He has sent my picture, I suppose, and he wants his black woman back. Tell him we think her frightful. Are you sure you do not mind seeing him?'

'Not in the least,' said Rosalind. 'I saw his likeness in their sitting room, and he is plain and elderly. Give me those things, and trust to my ingenuity to get myself out of the scrape They cannot say much when they know it was another girl's photograph I carried off.'

And just as she was—in her muddy little boots and with the wind blown untidy hair—she went downstairs; and it still is, and it ever will remain, a mystery what those two said to one another when they stood face to face.

But Geoff got back his precious packet and Letty got her photograph; she gave it to Tom forthwith and he was delighted.

She is now Mrs. Crichton. Hamilton was finally captured by a pretty young widow. I do not know what became of 'Louie,' but Rosalind married Gerard Townsend, and he still thinks she is the prettiest woman in the world. —London World.
