NINTH YEAR. SATURDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 15, 1888.—EIGHT PAGES. PRICE ONE CENT

THE SON OF HIS FATHER.

MR. "BOB" WHITE CHOSEN BY THE CARDWELL CONSERVATIVES.

The Work of the Packed Convention All Undone—How Mr. G. T. Blackstock Got Left Out—A Demonstrative Gathering at Mono Mills—Mr. Stubbs Still a Kicker.

They have been having fun up in Cardwell over the choice of a representative for the House of Commons. This much we have learned casually, but the extent of the exhilaration can only be appreciated by a visit to the riding. During the years that the constituency has sent "outsiders" to the Dominion Parliament aspiring politicians have been breeding until the death of the late Hon. Thomas White left the seat vacant there were party pushers at every concession line resigned to cast themselves on the shrine of duty and sacrifice themselves for their country, a sessional indemnity and railroad passes. There has burst out among the aspirants an intense desire that Cardwell should show the Commons the stuff her men are made of, but they each had a distinct conviction as to who should fill legislative halls with Cardwell echoes. Hence the fun.

Last May the Conservatives called a convention at which there was plenty of zealous manoeuvring between the various local men. But the years of party service—some of it showing more devotion than scruple—of "Bob" Evans, V. S., carried him to the head of the ballot, with R. S. White, son of Cardwell's late member, second, and William Stubbs, V. S., third. "Bob" Evans had the nomination, but the convention refused to make it unanimous, and dispersed with ominous grumblings. Evans declared he would run and Stubbs expressed his unalterable determination to stay with him. This was the way the thing stood, and the Liberals, with hungry eyes, watched the fray while they nominated Henry Bracken, the well known miller of Boston Mills, who in 1876 had gone over to the enemy from the Conservative ranks and was now to receive his reward.

The Warring Factions.

At the annual meeting of the Conservative Association, held shortly after the convention, Mr. Evans made a diplomatic stroke by offering to again trust his candidacy to a vote. This appealed to the honest yeomen, and by a vote of four to one he was supported. But Stubbs was not of the four and was still in the ring. Matters were no better and the disruption of the party was threatened by the rival factions. Then Evans, after a few weeks of this unsettled state of affairs, came to the rescue. He offered to resign his claim and a meeting was called for yesterday—a public meeting of Conservatives—to consider the situation.

This meeting one of The World's young men attended. And on the train that took him out to Mono Mills was Mr. George Tate Blackstock, who went on the invitation of Mr. Dalton McCarthy, to break the deadlock that it was afraid would result. Mr. McCarthy, too, was to have gone up, but as the 7.55 C. P. R. train pulled out of Union Station he came driving down the street like a zephyr, but too late. Mr. Organizer Birmingham was also to have formed one of the oil-pouring brigade, but did not connect. However at Cooksville Mr. N. Clarke Wallace, M. P., was on the platform, and in a pink shirt was going to attend the funeral of the hatchet.

From Orangeville it is a pleasant drive to Mono Mills over hills and through valleys profile of undulged statesmen. Mono Mills, a central point where the political pulse of the riding is counted, is many years older than the surrounding towns and villages, having been settled away back in 1818 or 1819. It is an old settlement, and candor compels the acknowledgment. Many decades ago it boasted large mills, a record of drinking many whiskey than is consumed in a Scott Act county and later still a telegraph office; now the glory has departed except the record.

In the Hall Room of the Allison House.

The meeting which was to consolidate the Conservative forces was held in the hall-room of the Allison Hotel. At this meeting appeared Mr. "Bob" White, who on invitation sent him had arrived in the constituency on Thursday morning and had spent the intervening time through the four townships of Albion, Adjala, Caledon and Mono, that make up the riding. His presence was a surprise to Mr. Blackstock, and the young Toronto of three sacrifices felt that he had come on a needless errand—that another sacrifice was not required of him.

There were about 150 staid yeomen of Cardwell present, each determined to uphold the integrity of the party, but all the same to have his say. President James Snell, Reeve of Mono, a small man of kind but impatient temper, occupied the chair, and Secretary James A. Patterson tried to write resolutions that unseconded were shovered upon the meeting. In the hall were the most prominent men in the constituency.

A Meeting as was a Meeting.

Cold, quiet type cannot do justice to that meeting. Mr. Snell opened with an appeal that they have no quarreling and Mr Evans, who is a rattling speaker and an aggressive fighter, who does not wait to hit, and gets himself into a row on every occasion, immediately got up, and after remarking that the White and Stubbs factions had sneaked out of a fight at Bolton, said they wanted to pack that meeting "for heaven's sake let us walk out." This got the heathen afire and the fun began. Squire Wallace, Squire Wilson, the irrepressible Bob Evans, John McBrien, an old white whiskered, ruddy-faced man, who wanted to know what they would do without Mono and threatened that Mono would stop out; Richard Allen; Wentworth Willoughby, a young member of the Toronto firm of barristers, Macdonald, McIntosh & Willoughby, who is a native of Cardwell; John Kelly, J. L. Alexander and William Henry Hunter, the most popular man in Centre Wellington, who is a prospective member of Parliament there, besides the other hundred and fifteen or twenty in the room, took a hand in the settlement of what the meeting was to do. Someone suggested that Mr. N. Clarke Wallace be heard, and McBrien wanted to know if Cardwell couldn't manage her affairs without the assistance of outsiders. During the uproarious babel of voices the President kept shouting "Order! order!" until he lost his temper. Then he mounted on the stove, and in this towering vantage of elevation showered reproaches after reproaches on them all collectively, varying them by some such enquiry as the following, aimed at an individual: "Have you got no sense?" "Are your brains in your boots?" interspersing them with stentorian bries of "Order!"

But They Wist Him Not.

But they heeded him not. They were there with a purpose. They were determined there would be nothing but the fairest of fair play.

After a ten minute communion of this unrestrained character it was decided with many protests to adjourn for half-an-hour, during which time the representatives from the four townships and Bolton Village should meet separately and choose from their number twenty from the townships and five from the village, and that these 85 delegates should form themselves into a convention to choose a candidate. This was done and the 85 assembled. Then there was more pandemonium. The men seemed to be the most independent minded class to be found in Canada.

Names Before the Convention.

The nominations they had succeeded in making were:

R. S. WHITE, Montreal.
J. G. ALEXANDER, Mono.
GEORGE TATE BLACKSTOCK, Toronto.
WENT. WILLOUGHBY, Toronto.
W. HANNAH, Albion.
W. F. WALSH, Orangeville.

But this done the further conduct of the convention aroused vehement discussion. Men stood up, calmly at first, then doggedly and finally excitedly determined to be heard and hold the floor against all risers. The President got into difficulty again. A white-eyed man with red hair, wearing carpet slippers, had crept into the hall and would not keep his seat. He would not down. A motion was advanced and amendments were made until the President got lost and refused to put them further along than the third. At last the delegates decided to go out and listen to the nominees before doing any voting, the white-eyed man protesting energetically; and the announcement of the depositing chairman that they would go out and listen to the nominees who would speak from the hotel balcony put a stop to the interchange of such courtesies as "shut up", "sit down" and "keep quiet" in a sort of obligato part to the chorus of "Order!" "Order!"

Speeches were delivered by Bob White, Mr. Blackstock, Mr. Willoughby, Mr. Hannah, Mr. Walsh and Mr. Clarke Wallace; all the nominees retired but Messrs. White, Blackstock and Willoughby. The latter, as a kind of local man, had a strong following and the others were about equally well supported. It seemed a pretty even thing between them with the advantage if anything with Mr. White. Mr. Blackstock said he did not want a nomination unless he got it unanimously, and he did not wish to be a rival of Mr. White. He only came that a dead-lock might be prevented. Mr. Willoughby took a firmer stand, and was going to stay as a protest against an outsider.

The Son of His Father Gets There.

The delegates filed back into the hall in answer to their names called out by three tylers at the door. The ballot papers were distributed for the first vote, when Mr. Willoughby and Mr. Blackstock entered and put an end to the exciting contest by withdrawing, the former explaining that he did so on the understanding that he would present himself at the end of the present term for their support. The nomination of Mr. White was then made unanimous, amid cheers.

Again the delegates adjourned to the room beneath the balcony, and the candidate elect thanked them for what he called a tribute to the memory of his father.

Mr. Stubbs Still a Kicker.

Then there were cheers for the Queen, Sir John, Mr. White, Mr. Blackstock, Mr. Wallace, President Snell, and everyone suggested. Everything seemed lovely and the reconciliation complete. But there is one man who says it is all wrong, and he is William Stubbs. Mr. Stubbs is Deputy-Reeve of Mono, a thin, florid-faced man, whose corduroy coat and horsey appearance proclaim his veterinary avocation, and standing at the edge of the crowd chewing a cigar stump he did not cheer. He would not let his name be brought up at the meeting because he would not abide by its decision, and there are rumors of trouble with him and the Mono men he can influence.

It is asserted that Mr. Bracken will not run against Mr. White his only hope having been that there might be two local men to split the Conservative vote. However, whether he does or not, Bob White will be the representative of Cardwell who will sit in the Commons next session. He went to Montreal last night and will remain until Monday, when he returns to the battlefield. He has made a very favorable impression and the indications point to a strong support being given him.

A RED HOT FIGHT IN PROSPECT.

Montreal East Liberals Choose A. E. Poirier As Their Standard-Bearer.

MONTREAL, Sept. 14.—At a largely attended meeting of Liberals and Nationalists this evening to select a party standard-bearer to contest Montreal East Mr. A. E. Poirier was chosen. It will be remembered that at the last session of Parliament Poirier was dismissed from the post of Commons translator, largely through the influence of Mr. Chapleau, for having insulted the French ministers in the previous election campaign. Now he thinks he has his chance to get even with the Secretary of State, and being backed by the whole force of the Liberal-Nationalist combination believes he will be elected. If he is there will be wigs on the green at next session.

Both Mr. Laurier and Mr. Mercier were at the meeting, which was a very enthusiastic one, and delivered ringing speeches on topics of the times. The fight is going to be short, but it will be red hot from start to finish.

OTTAWA ELECTION TRIAL.

Evidence Given Yesterday Which Looks Bad for Mr. Rochon.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—The Ottawa County election trial was continued to-day at Aylmer. W. C. Edward, Liberal M. P. for Russell, stated that he disbursed a fund of $1500 subscribed by the Chaudiere lumbermen, giving S. Jean, one of Rochon's agents, $1000 and a man named Prefontaine $500 for election expenses.

Dr. Aubry, a Buckingham physician, told the Court he had assisted in the personation of over 100 dead men, stating that he had experienced but little difficulty in securing substitutes. He also said that he knew of a great many illegal votes which had been cast for the Liberal candidate.

PROGRESS OF THE COURTS.

The Wilson-Jarvis Appeal Case—A Light Day in the Civil Assize Court.

Judge Morgan was occupied for the greater part of yesterday morning in hearing argument in the celebrated appeal case of the Rev. Mr. Wilson against Policeman Jarvis. Mr. N. Gordon Bigelow represented Mr. Wilson, while City Solicitor Biggar defended the officer. Mr. Bigelow raised the point in his motion to quash the conviction that the conviction and information were not sufficiently definite, in that they did not specify in what particular way Mr. Wilson had been disorderly. Mr. Biggar argued that the objection was not material, as the clause of the by-law under which the appellant had been fined distinctly provides that it is an offence to be either drunk or disorderly. His Honor took the motion in reserve, promising to give judgment thereon on Tuesday next, when, should he rule against Mr. Bigelow, the whole merits of the case will be gone into, and the evidence thoroughly sifted.

John Humphries, livery stable keeper, Sackville-street, was arraigned on a charge of fraudulently appropriating a goat-skin robe, the property of Mr. John Mitchell of Duke-street. The prisoner was defended by Mr. W. G. Murdoch. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty, coupling with it a strong recommendation for mercy. The prisoner was allowed out on bail pending the decision on several technical points, which His Honor proposes to lay before the Superior Court.

Ada E. Berkinshaw, a rather good-looking young girl, was placed on trial charged with having stolen several articles of dress and $5 in money from Mrs. Cowdy. Mr. Alexander McLean defended the prisoner, securing a verdict of not guilty.

The Grand Jury yesterday filed these true bills: John McGuire, assault on the police; R. McCance and S. Fraser, larceny of a buggy from Barnes Bros.; Thomas McCance and John McCance, larceny of a buggy from Jas. Brooks. No bills were entered against John Elliott, assault, and Arthur Dupresu, larceny.

Chief Justice Sir Thomas Galt held a short session of the Civil Assize Court yesterday, adjourning at 2.30 in the afternoon, on account of none of the cases being ready to be proceeded with. The only action heard was Daldry v. Crowe, to recover $237.90 for alleged wrongful possession. A verdict was returned for $212. Peremptory list for to-day: Wincup v. Wilson, Simpson v. Anderson, McQuaig v. Synod, G. W. SS. Co. v. Penn.

In Judge McDougall's Court, Moses v. Clarke, continued from the previous day, resulted in a verdict for $216.15. Gilmore v. Madden, to recover $118.36 for work done, was not concluded when the court rose. Peremptory list for to-day: Alden v. Sincolair; Playter v. Bell; Nicholson v. Kinnear.

Spread the Glad Tidings.

There is an ordered and ready-made clothing house, gents' furnishings, &c., in Toronto, which ought to advertise more. It is known they give better satisfaction than any house in the city, but for the benefit of the people it should be more largely known. The place is the British Arms Clothing Store, 221 Yonge-street, corner of Shuter-street. R. Baker & Company.

THE PLUMBING BY-LAW.

A Special Meeting of the Council Convened to Consider the Question.

The plumbers on strike are jubilant. There will be a special meeting of the Council to find out why the by-law is not enforced. The aldermen are being button-holed successfully, and the Examining Board is put all the New York men to a practical test on Thursday next. They have also succeeded in securing written agreements for sufficient work for over twenty men for twelve months, if they start a co-operative society, the money for which is already in their hands and all the arrangements complete for the wholesale houses to supply them with material.

Irish Mares at Auction.

The Irish brood mares are now on view at Grand's Repository. They are recovering rapidly from the effects of their long ocean voyage. It is within the mark to say that no previous consignment of imported stock equal in quality to this was ever brought to this city for sale by public auction. The breeding is unexceptionally good and the whole lot have been selected with great care as to soundness, etc. The sale will take place Tuesday next at 11 o'clock sharp. Mr. Grand will also sell the day following 30 horses and ponies from the Northwest ranches. These are also on show at the Repository.

A Great Rallying Time.

Many of those who come to town to see the fair do other business besides. For instance the offices of the loan companies, the insurance companies, wholesale houses and the like are all crowded with farmers during the Fair weeks. The farmers' storeroom reply is getting to be: "Oh, I'll be down to Toronto during the Fair, and I'll arrange with you then."

A TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT.

L'ELECTEUR'S LOYALTY QUALIFIED BY A "BUT."

A Significant Article in the Chief Mercier Organ Caused by the Imperial Government's Opposition to the Debt Conversion Scheme.

QUEBEC, Sept. 14.—L'Electeur, generally recognized as the chief organ of the Mercier Government, has a significant article this morning. After announcing that the Imperial Government has notified the provincial authorities of its discontent relative to the proposed conversion of the debts and desire that the Ottawa Government veto it, it adds:

"To what is this little conspiracy of annoyance at London and Ottawa tending? One thing may be taken as certain that these aggressions will finally open the eyes of our population in much less time than all the annexation speeches in the world, much less, indeed, than some people wish. We are loyal but we want to be left free in the exercise of our constitutional right."

Another local paper declares there is a movement on foot to shortly call a public meeting to consider the question of annexation, and that the idea takes like wild-fire, two-thirds of the population being for annexation.

This should be taken with a good many grains of salt, but is significant as showing that Mercier will stop at nothing to gain his ends.

Independent observers, however, will remark that this article of L'Electeur is just a little inconsistent with the demand of the Interprovincial Conference for the transfer of the veto power from Ottawa to London. If the mere expression of an opinion hostile to Mercier's pet projects by the Imperial Government arouses so much anger, what would happen if the Colonial Office was to take the Provincialists at their word and exercise the veto?

BURGLARS AT VALLEYFIELD.

One of the Thieves Leaves His Little Finger Behind.

MONTREAL, Sept. 15.—During the night from Saturday to Sunday last, some thieves broke into the store of Mr. John H. Wilson, in Valleyfield. They blew open the door of the safe with powder and made their escape with some $100 in silver and bills. The little finger of one of the thieves was blown off by the explosion, and found on the floor. It is the only clue to the perpetrators. The police of Montreal and Sorel have received instructions to watch the movements of a certain Sorel man who was in Valleyfield on the night of the burglary.

A Train Wrecker's Confession.

CHATHAM, Sept. 15.—John McMaster and John Campbell, the two young men who were arrested last Monday charged with being implicated in the attempt at train-wrecking near Bothwell, were brought before the Police Magistrate yesterday morning. The evidence against young Campbell was his own contradictory statements which he made to the officer when first placed under arrest, and he was allowed to go under suspended sentence. The evidence against the half-witted McMaster was conclusive enough to warrant the Magistrate in sending him for trial. He afterwards confessed that he was going to drive some cattle home, when he observed a piece of rails lying on the side of the track, and the thought struck him that it would be fun to slide one of them across the track and see the train try to run over it. He carried this momentary resolve into effect, and had no sooner done this than the freight came in sight. His first impulse led him to regret his action, and he immediately set to work to remove the obstruction. But he found it a more difficult job than sliding it in on, and fear of detection made him give up the effort as the train neared and before he had removed the obstruction. The prisoner will most probably be removed to an insane asylum.

A VERY SILLY WOMAN.

Causes the Arrest of Two Innocent People on a Charge of Stealing Her Purse.

There was quite a sensation at the Union Station yesterday morning, caused by the senseless action of a woman. Her name is Mrs. Lyons, and she was leaving the city to go to her home in Uxbridge. She had been in the ladies' waiting room of the G. T. R. fixing herself up. After getting through she thought that someone had stolen her purse, and fired on as the guilty parties two poor women who with their two infants were going to their husbands in Barrie. She rushed out of the waiting-room, and making her complaint to G. T. R. Constable Healey asked him to arrest the women. He did so, and as soon as they heard what they were charged with they burst into tears and demanded to be searched forthwith. Healey took them to Mrs. Crawford's room in the station, and she searched them thoroughly, Mrs. Lyons standing by and watching the operation. No trace of the missing purse was found, and Mrs. Lyons bounced out of the room, and began pacing up and down the platform in a high state of excitement.

About this time Acting-Detective Watson came around, and learning what was the trouble interviewed the suspected parties himself. They were still under arrest, and ten minutes' conversation with them convinced him that they were innocent. He then put Mrs. Lyons through a searching cross-examination. She said that she had gone into the waiting-room to wash her face, and placed her purse on the stand. Meanwhile the two women came in, and she walked to the looking-glass. When she returned to pick up her purse it and the two women had disappeared.

"Now," asked the detective, "have you searched your own clothing thoroughly?"

"Oh, yes," replied Mrs. Lyons. "Those two women took it sure."

"Do you ever carry your money in your breast?" was the next question.

"No, I never do. I always have it in my hand."

"What is that sticking out there?" Watson asked, at the same time placing his finger on a point that stuck out of her corset. She felt the lump, put her hand in, and pulled out her purse. The officer without saying another word marched her out into the big waiting room, where the accused women were still under guard, and made her publicly apologize to them. He read her a lecture which she will probably never forget, and then told her to go. The two other women looked as if they would have liked to pull her hair, but contented themselves finally with giving Mrs. Lyons of Uxbridge a piece of their minds.

IN THE DARK CONTINENT.

Major Bartelot Shot by His Carriers—Has Stanley Been Betrayed?

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A despatch from St. Paul de Loanda states that Major Bartelot was shot July 19 by his Manyema carriers. The head Arab and his men thereupon ran off to Stanley Falls where Jamieson is making arrangements with Tippoo Tib for the organization of an expedition. He will proceed as quickly as possible.

The news of the murder of Bartelot, who was the leader of the expedition in search of Henry M. Stanley, has given rise to speculation regarding the great explorer himself. The London newspapers are unanimous in the opinion that Maj. Bartelot was betrayed by Tippoo Tib, who organized the native portion of the expedition, and the question is asked, Why may not Stanley have been also the victim of his treachery? Nyangwo, the home of Tippoo Tib, is 300 miles distant from Stanley Falls.

In a neighboring town a few weeks ago a balloon ascension and parachute was witnessed by some of the neighbors, to wit, a Dutchman and an Irishman. After the Dutchman left the balloon, the parachute, being new, did not open, and the descent was terrific. The Irishman, who was with excitement, exclaimed, "Mine Got, dat man ish ted shure." "Begorra," said the Irishman, "the devil a man is he got to hang on and be kilt. When he gets near the ground he'll jump."

THE COX CASE.

The Broker is Again Remanded for a Week—Bail Bonds Renewed.

The charges against E. S. Cox preferred by the liquidators of the Central Bank were to have been investigated in the Police Court yesterday, the day to which Mr. Cox had been remanded. He duly put in an appearance accompanied by several of his friends. When the case was called Mr. Carson, for the Crown, stated that he was not ready to go on. He asked for a further remand for a week.

Mr. Murdock, on behalf of Mr. Cox, said that the defence was all ready. He asked that the Anderson case be disposed of at once, stating his belief that there was no foundation for any of the charges.

The Magistrate said the case must stand over for a week on the same bail.

After the lapse of an hour Mr. Cox gave bail for his appearance on the 21st inst., his bondsmen being Frank Baby and Frank P. Lee, whom County Crown Attorney Badgerow accepted. Mr. H. A Collins, who was originally on the bond for $5000 along with Mr. Baby, was out of town yesterday.

In the course of the proceedings Mr. A. C. Galt complained that the Central Bank liquidators had refused to allow him to examine the defendant's account with the bank, notwithstanding His Worship's order made a few days ago.

Mr. Carson, of the County Crown Attorney's firm, stated that he too had given Mr. Galt an order on the liquidators, so that no blame rested with his office.

The Magistrate advised Mr. Galt to serve a subpœna on the liquidators to produce the account in question.

THE ART OF EMBALMING.

Demonstrated at The Undertakers' Convention Yesterday—The Sessions Over.

The science of embalming is as old as death almost. The Egypsian mummies testify to the perfection the art attained in that wondrous nation. "The human ties that bind us" and which cause us to desire that our loved ones dying in distant lands be brought back and laid to rest in the "auld kirkyard" demands that modern science re-discover the art of embalming.

The whole of yesterday's session of the Ontario Undertakers Association was devoted to the study of the subject. The theatre of the Toronto School of Medicine in Gerrard-street was engaged and during the whole day was crowded by members of the Association. The demonstrator was Prof. A. Renouard of New York, who stands high as an authority on embalming. The whole subject was gone into in the most complete manner, a body being embalmed, which will be kept preserved, but the chemicals used were also fully explained. A number of the undertakers are entered as students and will at the next yearly meeting of the association undergo examination and those who qualify will receive diplomas as qualified embalmers. The process of embalming has now reached such a point of perfection that there is no mutilation of the body whatever, and it is performed at the home of the deceased without disturbing the body or shocking the feelings of relatives. The convention closed yesterday evening.

Instinct in Brutes.

Few things are more wonderful than the instinct that guides the brute in the choice of its food and medicine. In India the mongoose, when bitten by the deadly cobra, is said to seek among the grass for some unknown herb or substance which it swallows and is thereby enabled to counteract the effect of the poison. Man, when his system is deranged by the accumulated poisons engendered by constipation or a sluggish habit of body, should seek relief in Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which will at once establish a permanently healthy action of the liver, stomach and bowels.

Prof. Saunders' Estimate of the Loss Caused by the Early Frosts in Manitoba—A Schooner Seized for Smuggling—Notices from The Gazette.

OTTAWA, Sept. 14.—J. E. C. Bodley, formerly secretary to Sir Charles Dilke, is in the city. His visit to Canada is made with the view of studying our constitution in all its bearings. Mr. Bodley lunched with Hon. C. H. Tupper to-day and last evening dined with Sir John and Lady Macdonald.

Prof. Saunders of the experimental farm has made a careful enquiry into the damage done to the Manitoba wheat crop by the early frosts. After a careful estimate made from reliable data he says 50 per cent. of the entire product has been frosted, but the greater part of the affected grain will market at from 30 to 40 cents per bushel. It is conceded by prominent grain dealers in the west that the excess of export values this season will be something over $2,000,000, so that at the very worst the Manitoba farmers will have a good year. Experiments with the Ladoga wheat have been successful, and there is every prospect ere long the farmers of the Northwest will be relieved of a great deal of anxiety now caused by the action of early frosts.

A schooner has been seized off Nova Scotia by Special Officer Bogne for smuggling. The offence seems to have been committed when the vessel was owned in Picton, the present owners being entirely blameless.
