Got One Month

The trial of Byam Rowcliffe, the Usborne Township farmer charged with theft and with conspiracy with James Chapman, his hired man, came to an end Friday night in Goderich, after four days hearing. At the conclusion Judge Doyle sentenced him to one month in jail on the charge of harboring stolen goods.

Most of the time was taken up in an effort to bring home the charge of conspiracy with Chapman to rob the neighboring farmers of harness, robes whips, grain, etc., which was found in various places on the Rowcliffe farm. Notwithstanding the fact that Chapman pleaded guilty of conspiracy and swore that Rowcliffe and he had conspired, the charge against Rowcliffe fell through.

The Advocate has already given the details of the case, which came out at the preliminary hearing some months ago, and were practically the same as came out at the trial in Goderich.

About 60 witnesses were heard in all. The young man, Chapman, had just completed his term at the time of the trial and was discharged.

Messrs. Dickson of Exeter and Proudfoot of Goderich appeared for the defence while Crown Attorney Bridger prosecuted.

LOCAL ITEMS

Mrs. D. A. Ross was in Clinton this week.

Ed. Westcott has recovered from his recent illness.

Social fame lasts as long as the possessor is present.

There are a lot of people in business who have no business in it.

Mr. A. Allen has taken up his residence with Mr. Jas. Dennis.

Success often comes from knowing what to expect and when to expect it.

There is a lot of difference between making good and making others good.

Nearly all the Xmas and New Year visitors have now returned to their various homes.

A man with a family can live in the city on less than he can in the country—if he tries so.

Mr. James Walker of London Road South, we are sorry to report, is at present in very poor health.

The several teachers, who are taking the Normal course, and who were home for the vacation, have returned to their studies.

The friends of Mr. Hiram Shapton of Stephen will learn with regret that he is confined to his bed with an attack of rheumatism.

The bell-ringers of the Trivitt Memorial Church were entertained to an oyster supper on New Year's Eve at the home of Mr. N. Dyer Hurdon.

Mrs. Thos. Allen of Farquhar, who recently underwent and operation for appendicitis, has sufficiently recovered as to be able to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fletcher, in town.

Congratulations are due Geo. Bawden and Wm. Dignan of Lucan, Exeter Old Boys, on their being elected to the municipal Council of that village. Mr. Bawden has been a member for several years.

Mr. Macdonald, student of Queen's University, preached in Caven Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Miss Dundass of Ingersoll sang a very pleasing solo at the same service. Mr. Art. Seldon of Ingersoll sang an appreciated solo in the evening.

Friends and relatives here will regret to learn that Mrs. Fred J. Hill of Toronto, daughter of Mrs. James Ford of town, fell while skating at the park in Toronto on Saturday last and broke one leg at the ankle. The injured member was immediately attended to, and the patient is doing nicely.

AN ENQUIRY

To the Editor of The Advocate,—

Is it legal for a council to meet on the evening of the nomination, when two of the councilmen and reeve have resigned their different positions in the council, and to do business of such nature as they would not do before nomination to be criticised? RATEPAYER.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING

A meeting of the Conservative association of Exeter is called for Friday evening, Jan. 6th, in the Town Hall, to take into consideration the advisability of holding a mass meeting here in the interest of the party in the near future, such meeting to be addressed by one or more of the leading lights of the party.—T. B. CARLING, President.

Municipal Elections

IN EXETER

The municipal election in Exeter on Monday last resulted in John Taylor being re-elected Reeve by a majority of 36. The following were elected councillors, Wm. Rivers, Wm. Walper, Wm. Lovett and Louis Day. The former School Trustees were re-elected, Messrs. T. B. Carling, S. Martin and F. Wood. The by-law for Water Commissioners was defeated, and consequently the election of Water Commissioners is of no effect. A detailed statement of the vote by polls is given below.

The contest for the various offices was of the mild kind, with the exception of that of Reeve, which was keenly contested, and was considered by everyone as an uncertain quantity. The result was a close vote, Mr. Taylor winning by only a small majority. Both are good municipal men, have had good municipal experience, are good fighters, but both could not win. With such a few votes as a margin both aspirants should be as well satisfied as it is possible for a winner and loser to be.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE;

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER IV.

"Nancy, come out at once!"—imperiously.

"I can't."

"You must!"

Nancy came to the window and looked down at her sister by adoption, a world of love shining in her magnificent eyes.

"Who dares say must to me?" she demanded, with a smile.

"I do," Dorothy answered, lazily; "you have sat over that Italian stuff quite long enough; I do not intend to let you sit any longer on such an exquisite day."

"It is lovely," agreed Nancy.

The two girls were standing at the back of the Hall. Dorothy outside on the grassy lawn, and Nancy inside her room, a delightful, picturesque apartment, which she adored.

It was summer; the stately trees moved faintly in the soft breeze, the scent of the lilies mingled with the roses, the old-fashioned sweet-william and carnations pranked the garden plots. Nancy's heart thrilled with the sense of peace and happiness that was her daily lot now.

"Why on earth you work so hard I can't think. I don't bother myself about it."

"You are not me, Dolly," answered Nancy, ungrammatically.

"It is too hot to puzzle that out," Dorothy laughed, and then she flung up a dewy fragrant rose to the girl leaning out of the window. "Come along, darling, I am so lonely," with an artful little wail in her voice.

That was quite enough for Nancy. The next instant she was on the lawn and had slipped her hand through the other girl's arm.

"Now, then, my fair one with the golden locks," she asked, playfully, "what are we going to do?"

"Get into our hammocks and go to sleep."

Dorothy suited the deed to the word by flinging herself down on the swinging net and cushions. Nancy pulled up a low chair and sat beside her, and gazed at the lovely little face, with its golden locks and sweet eyes, thoughtfully.

"What are you staring at?" asked Miss Leicester, lazily. "How dreamy you eyes are, Nancy."

"They are great goggles," observed our heroine, putting one hand over the orbs in question.

"Merefield! you again!" exclaimed Dorothy.

"I only came yesterday," Lord Merefield said, apologetically, and looking rather hurt.

"You will live here next."

"Dolly, you are rude!"

"Oh! it is all right, Miss Hamilton, I don't mind what she says; in fact, I—I rather like it."

And Lord Merefield drew up another chair—sat down by the hammock, too, endeavoring to seem as if he did not mind his cousin's ungraciousness in the least, and failing miserably.

Nancy Hamilton leaned back and smiled; this was a daily occurrence, and she knew it by heart.

"How is Aunt Priscilla?" snapped Dorothy, after a pause. She always spoke of his mother in this way, although Lady Merefield was only her father's cousin.

Then there was another pause.

"Well, haven't you any news, Merefield? You are the dullest person I know," was the next remark.

"Oh—yes. I—I quite forgot—you were asking me the other day, Dolly, if any one ever lived at the manor, that queer old place near us. It has been empty a long time, but it is let now up to next winter to a very rich man—a Mr. Crawshaw, I think."

"How delightful—we shall have some one worth talking to at last!"

Nancy rose.

"You are two silly children," she declared, laughing, "and I am not going to sit here and listen to your squabbling. The first of our guests arrived to-day, and I promised Sir Humphrey to help him. So au revoir, and don't—please don't come to blows."

"Merefield is capable of any enormity," Dorothy cried, promptly. "I fully expect I shall be black and blue when you see me again, Nancy."

She had grown very nearly accustomed to her new and luxurious life now, and was almost beginning to forget the bitterness of the one she used to live. Contrary to all expectations, Dorothy had not tired of her new companion, but seemed to grow fonder and fonder of her each day; while Sir Humphrey boldly declared he could not do without his Nancy now.

She had dropped into her pleasant position both naturally and gracefully, and no two people rejoiced more over her phenomenally good fortune than her old friend Dr. Grantley and Nurse Wortley. Both Sir Humphrey and Dorothy knew everything about her, and they loved her none the less because of her former menial duties and vulgar surroundings; and the fact that her father's relations had so cruelly deserted her only served to endear her still more strongly to them. Of course her presence at Ripstone Hall had given rise to great and much discussion, in which Lady Merefield, the young earl's mother, participated vigorously, but no amount of argument or persuasion could move either Sir Humphrey or Dorothy from their determination to keep Nancy Hamilton with them.

"She saved my darling's life, and she makes her happy, that is enough for me," Sir Humphrey always answered his cousin; "even if she were all you try to make out, Priscilla, I should love her still, but Nancy is just the sweetest and best girl in all the kingdom."

"She belongs to us now and shall never leave us!" Dorothy declared, pugnaciously, "and if Aunt Priscilla can't come here without being disagreeable, why she can stay away, that's all. Nancy is my own dear friend and sister, and I won't have her insulted."

All this was declared over and over again to Lord Merefield, who protested in return that Dorothy was quite right and his mother quite wrong, and that he loved Nancy very much, as he would have protested he loved a scorpion if his cousin Dorothy had wished it, though, as a matter of fact, he did like Nancy immensely, and he was not too simple-minded to see that her companionship was an excellent thing for the beautiful, spoiled little heiress.

With her Uncle Henry, Nancy held no communication, though she got occasional news of him from Dr. Grantley; and gradually the past, with all its miseries, its bitter despair and drudgery, faded into oblivion.

Now, as she walked back to the Hall, she was busy thinking about the guests who were to come to-day. Dorothy had determined on having a lawn-tennis tournament, and, of course, it was decided at once this was to take place.

"It will be a good opportunity to introduce Nancy to the county, papa," she had said, and Sir Humphrey quite agreed with his darling.

"Let me see, one—two," Nancy mused to herself, "Capt. and Mrs. Fairfax, four, and—and I wonder if he will come."

"He" was Derrick Darnley, whom she had not seen since that memorable evening in Sir Humphrey's den; perhaps it was because his name was so often on Dorothy's lips that Nancy remembered him; but most certainly he rose to her mind with wonderful persistency.

The housekeeper was waiting to receive all her orders, and Miss Hamilton was very busy for the next half-hour; she found that all the servants waited on her with great deference and respect with one exception, and that exception was a footman named William, whose manner sometimes had the effect of making the girl most uncomfortable, though she could scarcely have told why. She said nothing about it, however, for she knew that, had she complained, the man would have been dismissed at once, and she had too kind a heart to desire this; besides, he never ventured to show any disrespect before Sir Humphrey or his young mistress; it was only when she happened to see him alone that she experienced a disagreeable sensation in his presence, and even then she was tempted to laugh down the feeling as being ridiculous and beneath her notice. It is wonderful, however, how small things affect us; on this morning, for example, as Nancy left the housekeeper's room, and, passing through the wide hall, met the footman William, she was made quite uncomfortable by his insolent stare at her, and she resolved to bring him to task for his offensive manner at once.

"William," she said, sharply, "carry those chairs out onto the lawn."

The servant took no notice, only smiled; he was quite safe, there was no one near.

Nancy repeated her command, the color mounting to her cheeks.

"I don't take no orders 'cept from the mistress of the house," the man answered, insolently.

Nancy stopped and looked at him for an instant, then said, slowly: "You are quite right, I am not the mistress of this house; but there is a master, and he shall deal with you."

"Don't you go and get me my notice," William muttered, putting himself before the girl; "don't, I say, or it will be the worse for yer, Miss Nancy Hamilton. D'yer understand?"

Before she had time to utter a word he had removed it, and was slipping quickly away, when Sir Humphrey's voice said, in a deep, determined way:

"Stop!" Then looking at him sternly, he went on: "Nancy, what is this—did I hear that man threaten you?"

Nancy hesitated; she had felt very angry for a moment, but there was not a grain of malice in her nature.

"It is nothing; he meant no harm," she answered, hurriedly.

Sir Humphrey kissed her gently.

"Go away, my dear, and leave me to deal with this fellow."

Nancy paused for an instant, then seeing that no word of hers would do any good now, turned and walked away.

She never knew what passed between Sir Humphrey and the man; but she learned from the housekeeper, a few hours later, that William had been summarily dismissed, and had already left Ripstone Hall for ever.

After a momentary sensation of regret that she should have been the unwilling cause of depriving the man of his livelihood, she could not help feeling reieved that he was gone. It had been very absurd, of course, but William's persistent insolence had been the only dark cloud on the horizon of her present great happiness.

When her household duties — at Dorothy's particular request she had taken them in hand — were done, she returned to her old love, her studies. She had shared with Miss Leicester during the last few months all the benefits that the best masters could give, and with her natural aptitude and love of learning she had made gigantic progress. Dorothy, on the other hand, was neither clever nor desirous of being so.

"Derry always calls me a dunce," she would say to Nancy, "his lovely little dunce; and you know I really don't [illegible]re to be anything else."

It was an undoubted fact that Dorothy kept religiously to this resolution, and succeeded admirably.

"But with such beauty, such surroundings as hers, what does she want more?" Nancy would think to herself, "and her nature is none the worse for her literary defects."

The only thing for which Nancy was sorry was the way in which the little heiress treated her kinsman, the Earl of Merefield, for already she knew that it was the dearest wish of Sir Humphrey's heart that his daughter and this young man should make a match of it. Nancy was only too anxious for anything that would give the genial, kind-hearted father happiness.

"They are only two children," she said, as she heard their voices come toward her on the breeze—Dorothy's shrilly indignant, and Merefield's beseeching—"and will get wiser each day. I—I wish Mr. Darnley would come home; I fancy he has more influence over her than any one else."

EXIT.

"Do you know what my father would have done if he had caught me doing such a thing?" asked an irate father of his youthful son; and then he went on to describe the penalties and pains that would have been inflicted.

The latter did not consider the situation at all alarming, and said in a jocular manner: "You must have had a pretty bad father."

This cool, sarcastic manner nettled the parent all the more, and he exclaimed: "Well, sir, I want you to distinctly understand that I had a better father than you'll ever have."

Then he felt that he had some[illegible]

NO INTERFERENCE.

"Now, children," said the teacher, "supposing a big, fierce tiger were to seize one of your playmates in its hungry jaws and carry him off, what would you do?"

There was no reply. Half the youngsters were wishing it was dinner-time, and the other half wished for nothing more fervently than that such a tiger would devote its attention to teachers who asked foolish questions.

"Come, Thomas," she said. "Wouldn't you cry for help?"

"No, mum," said Thomas promptly. "Please, mum, mother always says we shouldn't never speak at mealtimes, please, mum."

On the Farm

WORD WITH DAIRY FARMERS.

The outcome of every man's business, his profession and finally himself individually, depends very much upon how he looks at himself, says Hoard's Dairyman. What are his standards in the conduct of his work? How does he honor himself and his life work in his mind? We do not know how much conceit or vanity he may have, but rather how much honest pride does he take in the profession he follows? There is a most powerful influence for good or ill in this question. One of the most powerful causes for poor, shiftless farming, miserable, low-grade cattle, run down farm, and all the long train of evils that attend in the wake of such things is to start with a low-down standard of what the farmer ought to be.

There is the beginning of the trouble. "He takes no pride in his farming," is the verdict. Go where you will that sort of a farmer barely exists. He never makes money in farming nor does he win credit. That is the reason why we have to ask the question that stands as the caption to this short article. Depend upon it, that the outcome of every farmer's life either in riches, or honor, or respect among his fellow men, will hang very largely upon the way that question is answered. Human nature is very queer. We have known some very unworthy, shiftless farmers who talk loudest about the rights and the honor of the farmer. It was to be found in their case in what they said, not what they did. One of the surest ways to make money in farming is to take an honest pride in the conduct of the farm.

SETTING MILK FOR CHEESE.

The proper method of setting the milk after it has been ripened to the necessary degree of acidity depends upon the temperature of the milk and the strength of rennet used. The ideal temperature seems to be from 84 to 86 degrees, preferably the former; too high temperature causes the curds to harden too quickly with loss of fat, and low temperature requires longer time for a proper degree of hardness or a soft cheese or curd will be the result. It must be borne in mind that we must have a uniform temperature throughout the vat of milk.

The amount of rennet to use depends upon its strength, the temperature and acidity of the milk, and the kind of cheese to be made; from 2 to 4 ounce per 1,000 lbs. of milk may be used; it should coagulate the milk sufficiently for cutting it from 20 to 35 minutes after adding. The rennet should be diluted with about forty times as much cold water before adding to the milk; this allows it to be well stirred into the milk before coagulation begins. Always use a rake to stir rennet in with; a dipper can be used and is preferred by many makers. After stirring the rennet in, it is wise to keep the surface of the vat gently agitated to prevent cream rising, being sure to stop all motion before coagulation begins. Whenever possible, it is wise to cover the vat to exclude cold air, flies and dust. Close watch should be kept to note the condition so that the cutting may be begun at the proper time.

Great care should be taken to stir the rennet evenly throughout the whole vat, as uneven coagulation causes excessive loss of vat and casein as well as imperfect texture and body.

No maker should ever attempt to stir the rennet in the vat when he has other work that calls his attention before the stirring process can be completed; it would not cause so much loss to leave the vat and delay the adding of the rennet until such time as he can give the vat the necessary time and attention. More loss of fat and casein is caused by the makers in this stage of cheese making than any one is aware of. The temperature at which the cheese may be cured should also be considered and the amount of rennet to use; for a quick ripening at high temperature more rennet may be used, but for ripening at about 55 degrees to 60 degrees, use not more than 2 1-4 ounces of rennet.—R. C. H. Fowler in the New York Produce Review.

WELL-KNOWN EXPRESSIONS.

"Honeymoon" Came From a Loong Session of Drinking.

The honeymoon: For thirty days after a wedding the ancient Teutons had a custom of drinking a mead made of honey.

The bridegroom: In primitive times the newly wedded man had to wait upon his bride and the guests on his wedding day. He was their groom.

Sirloin of beef: King Charles I. being greatly pleased with a roast loin of beef set before him, declared it "good enough to be knighted." It has ever since been called Sir Loin.

A spinster: Women were prohibited from marrying in the olden times until they had spun a full set of bed furnishings on a spinning wheel; hence, till married, they were spinsters.

Cabal: This word was coined in Charles II.'s reign and applied to his cabinet council. It was made out of the initials of their names, which were: Clifford, Arlington, Buckingham, Ashley, Lauderdale.

THE UNION BANK OF CANADA

The 46th Annual Statement the Best in Its History.

The 46th statement of the Union Bank of Canada, submitted at the annual general meeting of the shareholders, held on Saturday, December 17th, was a most satisfactory one. It shows a very liberal margin of profit over the amount required for dividends. In fact, the bank earned at the rate of 14 per cent. on the average paid-up capital, and as a result of the satisfactory earnings increased their dividend from 7 to 8 per cent. The net profits for the year, after deducting expenses of management, interest due depositors, etc., etc., amounted to $451,620. During the year $800,000 of new stock was issued at a premium of 25 per cent., amounting to $359,810. Those two sums, together with the balance at the credit of account on November 30, 1909, amounting to $28,000, made a total of $840,107 available for distribution. This was apportioned as follows:

Three quarterly dividends at the rate of 1¾ per cent. and one at the rate of 2 per cent., a total of $500,000 transferred to the rest account, this sum being made up of premiums on new stock and $140,000 from the ordinary earnings; the sum of $10,000, transferred to officers' pension fund, leaving a balance of $80,000 to be carried forward. The paid-up capital now amounts to $4,000,000, being increased by $800,000 during the year and the rest account now stands at $2,400,000, being also largely increased during the same period.

An examination of the statement shows that the deposits not bearing interest amount to almost $15,000,000, having increased by over $3,000,000 during the year. This increase in the deposits not bearing interest indicates an increased capacity for profit earning on the part of the bank. The statement shows the bank to be particularly strong in cash reserves in gold and Dominion notes, which amount to nearly 13 per cent. of the total liabilities, and also that the assets immediately available, including stocks, debentures and call loans, are very nearly $15,000,000, or over 37 per cent. of the total liabilities.

The net profits for the year show a gain of $44,000 over the figures of the previous year and the total assets of the bank an increase of $5,000,000 during the same period. The total assets now amount to the large sum of $47,455,000, indicating that the Union Bank has become one of the larger of our financial institutions. That it is serving the needs of the business community is shown by the fact that it has loans to business houses of over $30,000,000. Another indication of its growing importance in the country is the fact that during the year 37 branches or agencies of the bank have been opened. Altogether, the showing made by the bank is the best in its history and reflects the highest credit upon the president, board of directors and general manager.

It's always the bottom dollar that counts.

"But, dad," pleaded the son, "she's a nice girl. What's your objections to my marrying? You were young yourself once." "Don't remind me of it," said the father, overcome with emotion. "It was then that I met your mother."

LIGHT UP HUMAN HOUSE.

Cineamatograph Performances By Human Stomach.

The human stomach in action—cineamatograph performances by the stomach—may be classed as about the latest and most brilliant accomplishment in the lighting up of the human house, with its most important occupant as the star actor in the scenes.

It is called "bionroengenography" and is the invention of two Munich physicians, Drs. E. Kaestle and H. Rieder, in collaboration with Dr. Rosenthal, a civil engineer. It is the cinematograph method of photography applied to the X-ray process, and gives moving pictures of the body's internal organs as they do their work.

The stomach, which can be made resistant to the X-ray by coating its interior wall with some chemicals—oxide of zircon is what these Germans use—is the one organ which most readily adapts itself to the X-ray processes, which is a mighty fortunate thing, because it is also the one on which the nourishment of everything else depends.

Discoveries of the utmost importance in diagnosis have followed, instantly, on the use of bionroentgenography. The prevailing opinion regarding the movements of the stomach was found to be wrong. It was taken for granted by many physicians that a portion of the stomach contracted in rhythmic intervas, dividing itself into six separate parts. The moving X-ray pictures show that such a separation doesn't take place, nor is there any strictly local end-piece to the stomach.

The contents are contracted and pushed forward; then, immediately before exit from the stomach, a portion of the mass in process of digestion returns to the stomach and goes through the movement again.

Of course, diagnosis of the graver stomach troubles is vastly helped by such a process; but electricity has gone a good deal further than the mere seeing of the shadow of the stomach's inner wall.

NOT MUCH SURPLUS WHEAT.

It is estimated that the world used a little over 3,000,000,000 bushels of wheat each year, on an average, since 1900; that the average is now nearer 3,500,000,000, and may soon be 4,000,000,000 bushels; that there is very seldom now any very large stock in reserve, so that a bad harvest in any one year in several of the large producing countries is sure to send the price skying, and that the average consumption per head of population is steadily increasing in bread-eating countries, while rice-eating countries are beginning to use wheat. Moral—Grow wheat.

IN THE KING'S SERVICE

SOMETHING ABOUT HIS MAJESTY'S HOUSEHOLD.

Salaries and Expenses Alone Amount to Considerably Over $1,500,000 Per Annum.

King George's Household is divided, for purposes of convenience, into three principal departments, the provinces of which may be described as "below stairs," "above stairs," and "out of doors." The first of these is presided over by the Lord Steward, who receives a salary of $10,000 a year; the second by the Lord Chamberlain, also with $10,000; while the Master of the Horse, to whose care the third department is entrusted, draws an annual stipend of $12,500.

The Lord Steward is the first dignitary of the Court, and presides over the hall, kitchen, ewry, pantry, wine, beer, and coal cellars, and almonry. As emblem of his authority, he carries a white staff, and he is chairman of the Board of Green Cloth. The Board of Green Cloth is where all the Household accounts are examined and passed, and on this the Treasurer and Comptroller of the Household, who are the officers next in rank to the Lord Steward in his department, also sit.

It is not these three, however, who bear the real brunt of the work. The scapegoat, upon whom devolve the duties theoretically belonging to them, is the Master of the Household, who resides in the Palace itself, investigates all accounts, maintains discipline among the ordinary servants, and presides at the dinners of the suite in waiting on King George. He is also personably responsible for the accommodation of foreign monarchs who visit England.

"KING'S PAINTER."

The department of the Lord Chamberlain, who must be a member of the Government, a Peer, and a Privy Councillor, includes the bed-chamber, privy-chamber, presence-chamber, wardrobe, housekeeper's-room, guard-room, the metropolitan theatres, and the Chapels Royal. He has control over a vast number of appointments in the Royal Palaces, from those of the King's physicians down to that of the charwoman who sweeps out the servants' rooms. He it is who gives the various tradesmen the right of calling themselves "purveyors" to the King and Queen, arranges all the Courts and Levees, Coronations, Royal marriages, christenings, funerals, etc.

There are many curious offices in the Lord Chamberlain's department. The duties of the King's poet, or Poet Laureatte, are well known; but not many people realize that there exists a parallel office in Art. The King's Marine Painter is Mr. Edward de Martino, and, just as the Poet Laureatte is expected to commemorate great events in verse, so Mr. Martino is expected to commemorate great naval victories on canvas. The King's Bargemaster is Mr. W. G. East, who has control of his Majesty's "barge"—it more closely resembles a magnificent gondola—on the Thames; while a special officer is appointed to look after the King's swans—the Keeper of the Swans, he is called.

Another strange office in this department is that of his Majesty's Armorer. Kings, of course, no longer fare forth to wield their battleaxes in hostile lands, so that the duties of this gentleman have developed along very peaceful lines. His special care is the King's collection of armor, and the detection of "faked" articles offered for sale. When a piece of armor is offered to his Majesty, the would-be vendor first sends a photograph of it to the King's Armorer, Mr. Guy Francis Laking, who then shows it to the King. If it appears genuine, and is approved, Mr. Laking inspects it personally; but how rarely purchases are made may be gauged from the fact that in six years 1,080 pieces were offered to King Edward, of which only three were bought."

"OUT-DOOR" DEPARTMENT.

The "out-of-doors department of the Master of the Horse includes the stables and coach-houses, the stud, mews, and kennels. He is always a member of the Government of the day, as is also the Master of the Buckhounds, whose duty it is to attend the Royal Hunt, and lead the procession of Royal equipages at Ascot, where he may be seen on horseback in a gorgeous uniform of green and gold, wearing, as the insignia of his office, the couples or noose which holds two dogs, of a hound. The real management of the Royal stables and studs, however, again falls on the shoulders of a lesser official—the Crown Equerry. He has plenty to do—quite unlike the ancient, hereditary office of Grand Falconer, held by the Dukes of St. Albans.

Quite outside of these great departments are his Majesty's purely personal attendants, such as his private secretary (Sir Arthur Bigge), the Keeper of his Privy Purse, the Superintendent of his Wardrobe, etc. Each of these deserves a special article; but it is interesting to note that King George will never draw or sign a cheque himself, this duty being always performed for him by the Keeper of his Privy Purse.

KING'S REMEMBRANCER.

One quaint legal office in connection with his Majesty is that of King's Remembrancer. The nomination of sheriffs, the swearing-in of the Lord Mayor of London, the acknowledgments of homage for Crown lands, the recovery of legacy and succession duties, and the Trial by Pyx, all fall to his lot. The Trial by Pyx, which takes place annually in June or July at the Goldsmith's Hall, is to determine the fineness of the materials of the coinage bearing the King's head in relation to the standard specified by law. The King's Remembrancer presides at the swearing-in of the jury, and receives and records their verdict. Gold coins must be eleven-twelfths of fine gold and one-twelfth of alloy; while silver coins must contain thirty-seven-fortieths of fine silver, and three-fortieths of alloy.—London Answers.

CAUTION NEEDED.

It was in the wild and woolly West, and Slimy Sam, the crafty cowboy, suddenly bethought himself of a plan for obtaining a suit of clothes from Ikey Mosenthal's store.

"Say, Ikey, there don't seem to be much color in this yer one," as he tried on a fourth coat and vest.

"Aw, my boy, that'h a thplendid color that ith," said the tradesman anxiously; "git out in the sunlight and thee."

No sooner had the artful one got outside the door than he started doing a ten-mile-an-hour sprint for home and beauty.

"Hi, hi, stop thief!" yelled the Hebrew, and gave chase.

But suddenly, to Sam's dismay, a policeman hove in sight, and, taking in the situation at a glance, drew his "shooter," after the gentle fashion "out West."

"Boss, boss," yelled the elo' man, with the frenzy of despair, "for the love of goodneth, shoot 'im in the pants. He's got my coat and vest on!"

THE POSTMASTER JOINS THE ARMY

WHO ARE SHOUTING THE PRAISES OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS IN THE WEST.

A Neighbor advised him to take them for his Rheumatism and Gravel. They cured him.

West Gravelbourg, Sask., Jan. 2 (Special). — Alexander McCarter, the postmaster here, has joined the great western army that has for its watchword, "When ailing, use Dodd's Kidney Pills." And like all others he has good and sufficient reasons.

"I was laid up with Rheumatism and Gravel," Mr. McCarter states, "and was also troubled with my bladder. I was so bad I could not do much work. A neighbor came along who had been troubled the same way, and advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I did it. I bought two boxes, and, using them according to directions, was soon able to go to work."

Notice one thing: It was a neighbor who had been troubled the same way who advised the postmaster to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. He also had been cured by them. That's why he recommended them.

If you're troubled with Kidney Disease in any form—Backache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Gravel, Dropsy, Diabetes, or Bright's Disease—ask your neighbors. You'll soon find one who has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Well, this morning when I came to put on my slippers I got one on and I couldn't find the other, and I looked and looked and looked and looked just everywhere for that other slipper, and where do you think I finally found it? Why it was on my other foot, where I had put it and forgotten it.

So assured are we of the result that we will send you a free trial box if you send to our Toronto office full name and address and a one cent stamp to pay return postage.

Mr. F. Astridge, of 3 St. Paul St., St. Catharines, Ont., says: "For five years I have suffered untold agony with protruding piles. The pain was so great at times I would almost scream.

"I lost weight and had no appetite. I tried everything I ever heard of for piles, as I was willing to take anything to get relief. It was useless, however, and I almost gave up in despair.

"One day a friend gave me a sample of Zam-Buk, and told me of a friend of his who had been cured. I decided to try Zam-Buk, and the relief I got was encouraging. I used three boxes, and at the end of that time I was completely cured."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bites, ulcers, blood poison, varicose sores, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations and substitutes.

THE TUNE OF THE ENGINE.

Engineers, both locomotive and stationary, judge of the condition of their engines largely by their "tunes" when running. Every engine has a tone of its own, and an experienced engineer, with bandaged eyes, could unhesitatingly pick out an engine to which he was accustomed. As a locomotive roars along the rails, the engineer is always listening, though subconsciously, to its familiar tune, and if there comes the slightest discord, or if the tone changes, he knows instantly that something is wrong, and makes an investigation at the earliest opportunity. He may have no ear for music, but the change in the tone of his great machine will be at once noted.

A certain married man was in the habit of troubling his father-in-law with complaints about his wife's behaviour. "Really, this is too bad!" cried the irascible old gentleman one day on hearing of some of his daughter's delinquencies. "If I hear any more complaints I will disinherit her."

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The exorbitant charges made by the Canadian Express Companies received a sore check last week when the Railway Commission handed out a drastic criticism of their relations with the public. The companies are ordered to prepare and submit within three months new tariffs giving effect to the specific and general conditions enunciated in its judgment, which was prepared by Chief Commissioner Mabee, and covered 114 pages. The decision reached upsets the whole fabric of express tariff in Canada, and orders that reductions be made all around. This will be good news to the general public, as the charges at present made are a disgrace to Canada and the wonder is that they have been so long tolerated.

The announcement made a few days ago in London by the Minister of Power for Ontario, that arrangements are under consideration for supplying electric power to the farmer, will be welcomed by agriculturalists living within the power zone. Cheap power is of as much importance to the farmer as it is to the average citizen in any town. Electricity on the farm is not a new thing. In the little republic of Switzerland the farmer is the one who benefits most from electric power development in that country. With electricity to light his buildings, to drive his machinery and to do many other things for which power is needed on the farm, the farmer's position can be greatly improved and his business made more profitable. Much will depend, however upon the cost of the power. But if it can be supplied as cheaply as the promoters of the hydro-electric scheme say it can, then there are some good things coming to those who live within the power zone.

It is not advisable to look backward on the past too much—to brood over its failures, or to gloat over its successes. Yet it is not well to ignore the past altogether. There are valuable lessons to be learned from past failures as well as successes. Many men who are successful to-day have profited from the failures of the past. They have analyzed the reasons for their failures made a close study of the conditions that have brought them about, and have thus been able to build up on a sounder and surer foundation. The man who has been successful in the past, always looks forward with hopefulness, and he has every reason so to do. Past successes make him stronger for future work, and he pushes forward with confidence in himself to accomplish still greater successes. There are many, however, whose past failures loom up larger than their successes. To these a little closer study of the conditions which have brought about the failures will be helpful. The closing year is the time to take stock of the past. After the Christmas festivities are over, and the holiday spirit has abated somewhat, is the time to do a little reflective thinking, though one should not dwell too long upon it, just enough to go over the ground carefully, to size up the situation, learn what is to be learned from the past, and then press forward to greater achievements in the future. There must be no brooding over past failures. The man who broods over the past, soon becomes discouraged, which bars his progress towards success in the future.

Mr. Ray Fanson and family of Abernethy, Sask., are visiting with relatives in Exeter. Ray is much pleased with the west and he certainly looks as if the country agrees with him.

Mr. Sam. J. Latta of Govan, Sask., a former Exeter boy, succeeded in capturing single-handed one of the worst criminals in the West, Bill Watson. It was a nervy piece of work, but Sam. J. was equal to it. Watson had blown open the P. O. safe and Mr Latta found him at a farm house, and had him hand cuffed before he could make an effective resistance.

He will pay you a lump sum every year for your orchard,—apples or no apples. If you would like to develope your own orchard and bring it up to the proper standard, call and see Mr. Ryckman at the Central Hotel. He will be able to give you some valuable information.

Local Items

Mr. W. J. Baker of London visited with his father here over the holiday.

Mr. J. W. Hogarth of Avon visited his brothers in Stephen during the holidays.

Local Option carried in 19 out of 85 places tried on Monday. The repeals all failed.

The teachers, who have been visiting at their various homes, have returned and school re-opened on Wednesday.

Exeter and Hensall Juniors played a game of hockey at Hensall Tuesday evening, resulting 5-0 in favor of Hensall.

The sermons of Rev. Livingstone in James Street church on Sunday were greatly appreciated. The pastor, Rev. Hobbs, preached anniversary sermons in Mitchell.

A fellow that has located in the far west says,—"This is a wonderful country. Every hamlet is a town, every town a city, every farm a ranch, every mound a mountain and every man a liar."

Residents of this vicinity deeply sympathize with the family of Mr. and Mrs. M. Finkbeiner of Stephen in the serious illness of a son and daughter. They were taken to London for treatment on Wednesday.

Bertha, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Russell, unfortunately broke her left leg below the knee on Tuesday while playing about a snow mound the children had built. After being attended to the little one is now doing as well as can be expected.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the manse here on Tuesday evening last by Rev. S. F. Sharp, when Mr. Alexander Dow was united in marriage to Mrs. Jennie Miller, both of Exeter. Mr. and Mrs. Dow will make their future home here and all will join in wishing that adversity may never cast a shadow across their pathway.

Mr. Jos. Lambrook of Fort Wayne, Ind., was married at the home of his father, Mr. Harry Lambrook, on Saturday evening, Dec. 31st, to a young lady from the same city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. W. Collins. Mr. and Mrs. Lambrook will reside in Fort Wayne, for which place they left Tuesday. They will have the best wishes of their Exeter friends.

FORMER EXETER BOY WEDS.—The following from the Swift Current (Sask.) Sun will give the particulars of the marriage of a former Exeter young man:—"The marriage of Will Yager to Miss Mabel McEwen took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Yager on Wednesday, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. G. McKechnie beneath a bell of white flowers, after which wedding breakfast was served. The bride looked beautiful attired in white messaline silk and was attended by Miss Annie Jackson of Medicine Hat, the groom being supported by Reg. Hodgson. The presents testify the esteem in which both young people are held, and while the wedding was attended only by immediate relatives and a few friends, there were many at the train to see the happy couple off on a trip to Winnipeg and St. Paul. On their return they will make their home here." Will will have the best wishes of a host of friends here for a happy and prosperous wedded life.

BEEBE—PRIOR.—A very pretty house wedding was solemnized at the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Prior on the East Side, on Tuesday last when their eldest daughter, Miss Cora, was married to Mr. Ernest C. Beebe, a popular young man of Dunnville. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only a few of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties by the Rev. Richard Hobbs, and took place at high noon. The bride, who was given away by her father, and was unattended looked charming in a dainty cream gown, carrying a shower bouquet of cream roses. The ceremony over, and congratulations extended, all sat down to a well arranged wedding dinner. The wedding presents formed a magnificent array, and comprised many articles of beauty, value and usefulness. The happy couple took the evening train and will spend the honeymoon at London, Hamilton and Brantford, after which they will reside in Dunnville, where they will be at home to their friends after January 23rd. Thus Exeter loses another of its popular young ladies and the heartiest congratulations and best wishes for future happiness and prosperity will be the wish of all.

DEATH OF THOMAS HARTNOLL.—Death has removed from our midst another old resident, a man noted for his strict integrity, good living and a familiar character on our streets. We refer to the demise of Mr. Thos. Hartnoll, who passed away on Monday last at the age of 73 years, 1 month and 10 days. The deceased was always robust and hardy and scarcely knew what a day's sickness was until he was stricken down a few weeks ago with a stroke of paralysis, which performed its deadly mission, gradually sinking until the end came. Mr. Hartnoll was born in Weirgifford, Devonshire, England, November 23rd, 1837. About twenty-five years ago he came to Canada with his family and settled in Exeter, where he has continuously resided ever since, proving himself a most worthy citizen, and his death will be regretted by a large circle of friends. Mr. Hartnoll was a faithful and devout member of the James street Methodist church and has been for many years a local preacher. In this capacity he possessed more than ordinary ability and his discourses were always practical, deeply spiritual and interesting. For many years Mr. Hartnoll has been engaged in the wood business, buying blocks of timber, having it cut into wood and supplying the residents of Exeter and community. In this capacity alone he will be much missed. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Bessie, who lives at home; also one sister, Mrs. James Beer of town, both of whom will have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends. His wife predeceased him about five years. The funeral took place to the Exeter cemetery from his late residence, John street, yesterday. (Wednesday.)

Mr. and Mrs Jones of London have been visiting friends in our midst this week.—Mrs Garnet Baker of Woodstock is visiting her sister Miss Ella Beaver.—The Municipal elections passed off quietly. There were some surprising results. However the newly elected men are of good calibre and with the old members should make a splended council. On Nomination night the rate-payers met in the Town Hall to await the arrival of the candidates. Only two put in their appearance, W. D. Sanders the newly elected Deputy-reeve and Wm Yearley one of the re-elected councilmen. Mr. C. E. Bluett, B. A. was appointed Chairman of the evening and after a brief and witty speech, called on Mr. Sanders, who was received with loud applause. His speech was an excellent one, in which he thanked the people for their hearty support and promised to give Municipal affairs his best and careful attention. Mr. Yearley was greeted with cheers. He thanked the people of the municipality and felt sure he was very grateful to all for the handsome vote polled in his favor during the day. He explained to the people that they should not expect pay from the council for keeping the roads open when blocked with snow on the concession lines as each division was under the jurisdiction of the path-master who was obliged to credit the person who worked on his statute labour. All that the council would pay was the expense of keeping the side roads open for the public. The meeting was then left open for general discussion. Gravel pits, Noxious weeds on the highway and particularly the cow-tag by-law came into discussion of which many arguments were heard pro. and con. Council meets next Monday for its first meeting.—The sudden thaw on Monday caused the collapse of a number of of buildings. Jim Lawson's woodshed at the rear of his Jewelery store fell in and on Sunday night a number of church sheds collapsed. But for the timely arrival of Ed. Fahner, Fred Haist's horse might have been killed. Ed didn't hesitate to run into the shed, when the roof in, Ed. deserves to be complimented for his bravery.—Joshua Brown and David Finkpeiner of Sebewaing, Mich., spent New Year's day with their brother Samuel.—1911 was ushered in with the ringing of the bells but one thing was noticable there was no shooting. This is as it should be since a lot of timid and delicate people are often badly frightened by the boys shooting at the late hour.—A large number of our people are ill with the Grippe. Some have worse attacks than others. No matter what form they get it, a person would sooner do without the pest. George Mantle of Exeter was in town on Monday.—Charles Hoffman of Saskatchewan is spending a few weeks here with his parents and other relatives. Charles is looking fine and from all accounts is doing splendidly in the West.

It has been announced that Rev. Chr. Staebler, D. D., of Cleveland, Ohio, will give a lecture on his trip to the Holy Land on Friday, the 15th inst. Rev. Staebler was a former pastor here and his many friends will be pleased to have the opportunity to hear him lecture as he is an eloquent speaker and is considered one of the best orators across the line.

The annual election of officers of I. O. F. Court Crediton, No. 14, which took place in the lodge room last Wednesday evening, resulted as follows—C. R., Geo. Hirtzel; V. C. R., W. H. Wenzel; R. S., Alonza Hodgins; Treas. Ezra Falet; Orator, Mathew Ginter; S. W., John Wein; J. W., Paul Shenk; S. B., Wm. Yearley; J. B., Walter Clark; Marshall, Henry Beaver. The next meeting of thel odge is to be held on the 30th inst. A good attendance is requested, as the matter of having an oyster supper will be discussed.

A Happy and Prosperous New Year to all the readers of The Advocate.—Christmas Day passed off quietly. The majority of our people had their family reunions and dinner on Monday.—The weather prophets who said we would have a green Xmas are down and out. Snow is piled up in immence drifts everywhere. Travelling on the high-ways is not only slow but dangerous in places. Since writing the last budget of news, our city fathers got together and made a snow plough. It is doing splendid work and their afforts in giving it the first trial last Monday was appreciated by all.—Daniel Oestreicher has been confined to his bed for the past week on account of an attack of the grippe but is now improving in health.—Mr. and Mrs. George Pefry have returned to Pontiac, Mich., after a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Wind of town.—The following visitors were in town during the Holidays Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bertrand and daughter Thelma, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bertrand, Misses Tillie and Millie Bertrand Mr. and Mrs. Frank Banke and Miss Clara Wenzel of Detroit, Frank Finkbeiner of London, Chas. Brown of Pittsburgh, August Kuhn of Dunnville, Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Clark and family of Ailsa Craig, Fred Harris of St. Thomas.—The following of our citizens visited out of town Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sweitzer in Brantford; A. R. Graham in Hamilton, Elvin McMurray in London, A. Hewett in Ridgetown, Miss Wallie Hill and Miss Rose Roeszler in Detroit Ira Brown in Toronto.—The many friends of Mr. C. E. Bluett, B. A., will regret to learn that he has handled in this resignation as principal of our school Mr. Bluett has been offered and has accepted a position as teacher of the Public Schools in London, at an increased salary. At present it is not known when he will give up his teaching here but he will probably be relieved as soon as his successor can be engaged. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bluett will be missed very much as they have won many friends while residing here amongest us. We wish them continued success in their future home.—The Nomination for Police Village Trustees took place last Monday evening at 7.30 p.m. Harry Beaver acted as returning officer. The following nominations were received. Thomas Trevethick, Joseph Haist, Geo. Holtzman, and James Lawson. Mr. Trevethick resigned which left the remaining three elected to serve as our city fathers for 1911. They are all good men and will do their best to keep oil flowing on the municipal machinery so that all will be plain sailing.—The Township Nomination which took place last Monday after-noon was largely attended by the rate payers of the municipality. Quite a number of candidates were nominated but all resigned with the exception of the following who will be balloted for next Monday; Deputy—Reeve William Anderson, W. D. Sanders and Fred Wuerth; Councilmen, Mich Finkbeiner, Geo. Kerman, John Love, David Webb and William Yearley. Reeve Samuel Sweitzer was re-elected by acclamation. Mr. Sweitzer makes a good official and is very popular with the masses. All the candidates are good and strong men.—Last Wednesday, the 21st inst. the Methodist Church Sunday school gave their Xmas. Program in the Town Hall. The interior of the building was beautifully decorated for the occasion and was well filled with an appreciative audience, Rev. Hicks, pastor of the church, acted as chair man. A Cantata "What happened to Santa" was rendered. In Spite of the fact that the children were handicapped with severe colds, the singing went fine. Elmer Gower as Old Santa Claus and Natham Sambrook as the Little Rag Doll made the hit. The committee deserve credit for the excellent program rendered in such a short time.—The Evangelical Church Sunday School gave their annual Xmas. entertainment in the church on Christmas eve. The altar was beautifully decorated with Xmas trees and streamers with bells intertwined. A very large number were in attendance The program consisted of anthems by the choir, choruses by the school and dialogues and recitations by the children. A special feature "The Ten Virgins" was the last number on the program. This part of the evening's entertainment was THE principal feature. and was exceptionally well rendered. After the program had ended a package of candy and nuts was distributed to each member of the Sunday School. During the evening, the pupils who had secured the required percentage to entitle them to a diploma were presented with the certificate by the pastor. The following were the recipients,— Evelyn Bluett, Vera Holtzmann, Lorne Brown, Edgar Treitz, Elsie Gaiser, Lauretta Holtzmann, Viola Gaiser, Melvin Brown, Pearl Gaiser, Myrtle Lawson, Lodema Bean, Adelina Gaiser Gladys Bluett, Emmerson Bean, Cecelia Lamport, Herbert Haist, Matilda Oestreicher, Pearl Haist. Evelyn Bluett received 97 per cent and Vera Holtzmann 95 per cent. of the grand total.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS

Time in its rapid flight has brought us to the end of another year; so we pause our humming machinery and the click of our busy hammers, just for a moment, for the annual pleasure of greeting you.

In review of our cordial business relations with you we are pleasantly reminded of the valued favors received from you. We extend to you our hearty appreciation and thank you for your kindness. We know we have impressed you with our unremitting efforts to please, and believe our workmanship and value for value methods fully merit your future business.

Soliciting your further valued favors, and wishing you a Happy and Prosperous New Year, we remain,

Yours very truly,

RESOLVES FOR 1911.

To make this a bigger, better business by bettering our service.

To be courteous and pleasant with our customers at all times—even though we have to "bite our tongues" once in awhile.

To MAKE the shoes we make, MAKE us friends.

To repair our business ways as they need it; and to make our repairs LAST to the last.

To make our work, WORK for new customers.

To give value for value and to make no promises we cannot fulfil.

To be fair; to get something out of our business by putting only our best into it; to render a REAL SERVICE and to pull for progress.

To hustle six days of the week—every week—and to do our best every day.

Verily, it seems fitting to us to resolve to make this a cash business for 1911. This will help us to help you.

And, above all, we solemnly resolve to do our best to keep our "resolves" to the dot. Will you aid us?

WATCH US GROW.

DR. LEACOCK, HUMORIST

It is a far cry from lecturing on economics and political science in McGill University, Montreal, to writing humorous sketches for Toronto Saturday Night. However this is the dual occupation of Stephen Leacock at the moment.

Educated at Upper Canada College, Dr. Leacock was on the staff of this educational institution from 1891 to 1899, and is consequently well known in Ontario. In the years 1907 and 1908 he toured the British Empire, lecturing on Imperial problems under the auspices of the Rhodes Trust. It was after his return from this mission that Leacock began to be known as a writer of humorous sketches, some of which appeared in Canadian Journals, including Toronto Saturday Night, as far back as 1898.

Toronto Saturday Night has begun a new series by Dr. Leacock, "Novels in Nutshells," he calls them. They are ten in number, and one is being published each week. Everybody loves good, clean humor. Everybody is attracted by it, for the real humorist is a rare bird, and it is rarer still that one is captured on the nest right here in Canada.

Dr. Leacock's series on Practical Political Economy are also published weekly in Toronto Saturday Night. Economics are things that make the civilized world move on. In the days when the science was not understood and appreciated by at least a fair portion of the world's inhabitants, we wore skins, carried clubs and traded goats. Now we do better than that. Every man, and every woman for that matter, should understand something of the science of practical political economy, and this knowledge can be gained in no better way than by reading Dr. Leacock's series from week to week. As a matter of fact they are not half as dry as they sound; and as the Professor's style is always clear and concise, and as sprightly as the subject will permit, they are well worth the perusal, even if you don't expect to become a bank president.

DEATH OF RICH. BLATCHFORD.

Another of the oldest residents of Exeter and pioneer settlers of Usborne has been called to his reward, having passed away at the family residence, Andrew street, on Tuesday of this week. For some time past deceased has been in a rether enfeebled condition from the infirmities of old age, but he enjoyed his usual health until Thursday of last week, when sitting and chatting at his home his speech suddenly failed him, and on examination it was found that he suffered a stroke of paralysis, and gradually weakening the end came Tuesday. Mr. Blatchford was born in Devonshire, England, on April 4th, 1832 consequently was 78 years and 9 months of age. He left his native land about 60 years ago and came to Canada, settling on a farm in the township of Usborne, where he continued to farm up to within about 20 years ago, when he retired and moved with his family to Exeter, and where he has continuously resided since. The deceased was one of the sturdy men of the district, a successful farmer and was highly respected and esteemed for his many good qualities as a neighbor, citizen and friend. His word was as good as his bond, and to know him was to know a man of principle and honor. Deceased was a valued member of the James street Methodist church and when health permitted could always be found at his place of worship. He is survived by a sorrowing wife and one son, William, at home; also one brother, Mr. Geo. Blatchford of Usborne. The funeral takes place to-day (Thursday) to the Exeter cemetery.

SEAFORTH—An interesting event occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Soole, on Dec. 28, when their daughter, Sarah Belle, was united in marriage to Frederick W. Brophey of Winnipeg, Man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Berry, in the presence of immediate relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Brophey will take up their residence in Winnipeg.

CLINTON—Mr. William McTaggart Secretary-Treasurer of the Gordon MacKay & Co., Limited, died at St. Michael's Hospital early Tuesday morning following an operation. He had enjoyed the best of health until two weeks ago. He was 42 years of age, and had lived in Toronto, about twenty years coming from Clinton, He was the second son of the late Malcolm McTaggart a banker of Clinton. He was unmarried, and is survived by his mother, two brothers and a sister.

MITCHELL.—In the death of Mr. Wm. Porteous, which occurred at his residence on Sunday, a notable figure has been removed. He was born July 15th, 1824, in the township of Dalhousie, Lanark County, and came to Fullarton at the age of 21. He moved to Mitchell 15 years ago. He was twice married, and leaves two brothers, James of Stratford, and John of Fullarton. Although in his 87th year deceased was as straight as a whip, and walked with the alertness of a middle-aged man.

TUCKERSMITH

With the closing of the school for the Christmas holidays in the brick school house on the Mill Road, Tuckersmith, Mr. Andrew Scott completed his twenty-second year as teacher of the school. The pupils and parents availed themselves of this notable event and gave additional evidence of their appreciation of the long and efficient service of the teacher by presenting him with an address and handsome presents.

AN ENJOYABLE HOLIDAY NUMBER

The large firms of heavy-draft horse breeders in our leading cities find that the price of horse flesh has been on the upgrade for the past twelve years. Attention is drawn to an article published in the Christmas Number of that reliable agricultural journal, "The Farmer's Advocate and Home Magazine."

The article referred to is the outcome of a personal inquiry by the horse editor of "The Farmer's Advocate" into market conditions in our leading centres of population, and show that city prices of this favorite line of farm horse stock have risen about thirty five dollars in the last decade, with prospect of further advance. This same special number gives the results of the second year's operations in the "Farmer's Advocate" demonstration orchard at Lambeth, which, even in the exceptional "off" season of 1910, has yielded a net return equal to very near 3 per cent on a valuation of $1,000 per acre despite a severe local hailstorm and an early autumn freeze, which ruined $50 worth of Spies.

Sentiment, humor and reminiscence, expressed in prose and verse, abound throughout this number which will be voted, we feel confident, easily the most enjoyable holiday issue ever turned off the presses of a Canadian agricultural journal. The price to non-subscribers is 50c. a copy. New subscribers receive it as a premium while the supply lasts. The subscription price of "The Farmer's Advocate and Home Magazine" is $1.50 a year. MEN-YOU NEED NERVE

Wonderful Nervous System

EARLY INDISCRETIONS AND EXCESSES HAVE UNDERMINED YOUR SYSTEM

The nerves control all actions of the body so that anything that debilitates them will weaken all organs of the system. Early Indiscretions and Excesses have ruined thousands of promising young men. Unnatural Drains sap their vigor and vitality and they never develop to a proper condition of manhood. They remain weaklings, mentally, physically and sexually. How you feel? Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes with dark circles under them; weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, debilitating dreams, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, etc.

A FAR-REACHING PROGRAMME

The British Government Will Introduce Many Reforms.

A despatch from London says: It is learned on good authority that the Asquith Government, feeling that the result of the recent general election justifies them in the belief that they have received a mandate from the people to carry out far-reaching measures of reform, have decided to introduce the following programme:

1. Veto Bill.
2. Local government for Ireland, and possibly home rule all around.
3. Electoral reform, including
   (a) Re-distribution according to population. The basis will be about 12,000 voters for one member.
   (b) One man one vote.
   (c) Elections on one and the same day. (Elections now last three weeks.)
   (d) Payment of members—£300 a year.
   (e) Reduction of the legal expenses of elections.
   (f) Stringent regulations as to voters.
   (g) Three months' residence to qualify for a vote. (It now takes about 18 months.)
4. State insurance against
   (a) Unemployment.
   (b) Sickness.
   (c) Invalidity.
5. Disestablishment of the Church of England in Wales.

RAILWAYS RESPONSIBLE

Locomotives Start Thirty Per Cent. of the Forest Fires.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The Conservation Commission has issued a statement in regard to the starting of forest fires by locomotives, and the proposed legislation on the question.

The Commission declares that it has had investigations made by competent men and finds that thirty per cent. of all forest fires have been started by locomotives, and that they have caused enormous loss. The legislation will hold railways responsible for damage caused by fires started by locomotives unless it can be shown that all reasonable precautions have been taken to prevent such fires.

The precautions will include the best possible spark-arresting devices, efficient fire-fighting staffs to check fires which have been started, and the companies will have to show that there has been no negligence on the part of their employees in allowing fires to start or spread.

NEW BOATS FOR ALLAN LINE

Two Monster Steamers of the Speediest Type Ordered

A despatch from Montreal says: The Allan steamship company will add two new large steamers to its Canadian service in 1912. The company has had tenders before it for some time past for the construction of the boats, and news was cabled to the city on Wednesday from London stating that "the Allan Line had just entered into an arrangement with a large shipbuilding company for the construction of two new monster steamers of the speediest type."

The contract provides that the ships shall be of the highest class in every detail and their proportions will be as great as safe navigation of the St. Lawrence will permit. They will have a length of about 600 feet, a breadth of 70 feet, with 20,000 tons displacement and will be capable of developing a speed of from twenty-two to twenty-three knots an hour.

Mr. Geo. Hannah, to whom the matter was referred for further information, stated that negotiations had been going on in England, but he could not give any of the details of the transaction. He thought it extremely likely, however, that the cable was correct.

CRUELTY TO STEP-SON.

Father and Step-mother Locked Up For Maltreating Child.

A despatch from Montreal says: Locking her step-son in a woodshed, whipping him when he cried from the cold, and only bringing him into the house to be fed, then sending him back into the woodshed again—these are details of the charge of "cruelty" made on Wednesday against Mrs. Phileas St. Jean of Chabot street. "Horrible, horrible," exclaimed Judge Lanctot. "This is simply barbarous." His Honor promptly ordered both father and step-mother to be locked up, without the option of bail, pending preliminary investigation into the case.

ASSASSIN GANG IN LONDON

The Police Suspect a Plot Against King George at the Coronation.

A despatch from London says: The Daily Chronicle states that one of the theories that is being considered by the police regarding the discovery of a bomb factory in the East End on Tuesday is that it is connected with a plot intended to develop at the time of King George's coronation.

The police attach the greatest importance to their latest discoveries in connection with the Houndsditch crime, in which three policemen were killed. They claim to have found documents proving that the assassins belong to a desperate, highly organized international gang.

Among the documents found are said to be letters revealing a sensational plot, and containing a great mass of other Anarchists in London and in continental capitals.

Danish Resident of Montreal Had Been Given Up as Dead.

A despatch from Montreal says: Sophus Hansen, a Danish resident of Montreal, disappeared from this city mysteriously in November, 1904, leaving a wife and daughter, who had long since given him up for dead. At the time of the visit of the western farmers' delegation to Ottawa recently a group picture of its members was published in a Montreal paper, and the wife and daughter of Hansen claim that they recognized his picture among the party, and now they are making enquiries to ascertain where the man is living in the west. Hansen went out with an old country friend one evening, and never came back, and this man told confused stories of what became of his companion.

EARL GREY'S TRIP.

Cruiser Rainbow to Meet Him at Mouth of Mackenzie River.

A despatch from Ottawa says: It is intended that the cruiser Rainbow of the Canadian navy will be sent from Victoria to the mouth of the Mackenzie River to meet Earl Grey in the trip which he has planned for next summer to the Arctic. The time of starting will likely be in June, and will be made from Edmonton, but whether the Peace River route or another will be followed to the Mackenzie River is not yet determined. The governor-general will be escorted by a detachment of the Northwest Mounted Police, and it is stated that the trip from Edmonton to the mouth of the Mackenzie can be covered in the space of three weeks. The sea trip by the Rainbow would be four thousand miles, and would be the farthest north that a warship has ever gone.

Toronto, Jan. 3.—A few loads of the better stuff brought prices that were a good average in comparison with the normal prices previous to the ante-Christmas market. The light and rougher cattle were very much easier. Sheep and lambs were slightly off, but hogs remained unchanged at $6.75 f.o.b. and $7 fed and watered.

CANADA AND UNITED STATES

Railway Commission to Have Authority in Both Countries

A despatch from Washington says: As a result of conferences between Judge Martin A. Knapp, Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the Hon. J. P. Mabee, chief of the Railway Commission of Canada, an agreement has been reached to recommend to the Governments of the United States and Canada the creation of an International Railroad Commission, which shall have supervision over the railway rates between the two countries.

Mr. Mabee arrived in Washington from Ottawa on Tuesday night to discuss the details of an agreement he had reached with Judge Knapp last August, and on Wednesday the two officials who were designated by their respective Governments to consider the subject and make a report upon it were in conference.

No details of the report are yet available, beyond the fact that it recommends the establishment of the International Commission, upon which shall be conferred certain defined regulatory powers. Whether the Commission is to be created by treaty between the two Governments or by joint legislation cannot be announced at this time.

For a considerable period it has been realized that the increasing traffic, both passenger and freight, between the United States and Canada was likely to render control over rates in the future difficult, unless some international action were taken.

The acquisition by American railroads of Canadian terminals and by Canadian railroads of American terminals and lines present increasing difficulties. In the existing circumstances it is not possible to compel either railways or express companies to establish joint through routes and rates to and from points in the two countries. In other words, neither an American nor a Canadian carrier may be rekuired to furnish to a shipper a through bill of lading to any point in one country from any point in the other.

The reasonableness of the international rates, which ordinarily are a combination of the rates local to each country, can be determined only by a circuitous proceeding instituted before the commissions of both countries. No power at present exists that can require carriers engaged in international transportation to establish what may be regarded officially as reasonable through joint rates, and to apportion those rates among the participating carriers in the event of not reaching an agreement among themselves.

SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKES.

Inhabitants of Greek Villages Flee in Terror From Homes.

A despatch from Athens says: The earthquakes in the Elis district have been continuous for five days. The Villages of Lechaena, 36 miles from Patras, and Andravida, about 33 miles from Patras, have been destroyed. The inhabitants of these villages, who number about 2450 and 1800 respectively, have fled to Pyrgos. Their distress has been increased by heavy rains. The full extent of the damage is not known.

CARPET FOR CORONATION

Looms at Glasgow Will Soon be Busy on the Task.

A despatch from London says: Scotland is to have the honor of making the carpets which will cover the floor of Westminster Abbey for the coronation next June, and the looms of a great carpet factory at Glasgow will shortly be busily engaged upon the important task. The floor-covering has from earliest times been a specific feature in the preparations for the stately ceremony, and in the Liber Regalis prepared for Richard II., a copy of which is in the safekeeping of the Deans of Westminster, there is a definite order as to the "Ray cloth or Burrell" to be placed under the "King's feet as he goeth."

At the later coronations the carpet has been of a rich and beautiful character, with as lustrous a surface as possible, and from the quantities needed in the more recent times it is one of the first requirements to be set in hand. The new carpet will follow very closely upon the lines of that ordered for King Edward's crowning. Then as now, the color was a singularly soft, rich blue. The design was symbolical and embodied the badge and motto of the Order of the Garter and the Tudor rose, with the thistle, shamrock and lotus connected with festoons of bay leaves and ribbons. These were effectively shown in a rather lighter shade of color, and the whole formed an admirable background to the magnificence of the state robes, the ecclesiastical vestments, the crimson of the peeresses' dresses, and the military and diplomatic uniforms.

It is not yet known how much carpeting will be required, as this will depend upon the seating arrangements, which have not been finished. For the last coronation 725 square yards were made.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

WITH CORN MEAL.

Corn Meal Dodgers.—Two cups fine white corn meal, one tablespoonful sugar, two eggs, one teaspoonful butter or lard, half teaspoonful salt, three tablespoonfuls rich milk, boiling water. Mix and sift corn meal, salt and sugar; add sufficient boiling water to wet the meal, but not to make it soft; add butter and milk; when cold add the yolks beaten very light; then cut and fold in the whites beaten stiff. The batter should drop readily from the spoon, but not thin enough to pour nor stiff enough to be scraped from the bowl. Shape in oval cakes, and lay in a hissing hot, well greased dripping pan, and bake in a very hot oven until brown and puffed; split, butter and serve with fried salt pork with cream sauce.

Rice Corn Cakes.—Three-fourths cup corn meal, one cup white flour, four teaspoonfuls baking powder, four tablespoonfuls sugar, one teaspoonful salt, one cup thin cream, two eggs, one tablespoonful melted butter. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, add cream slowly, beating continually, add melted butter and eggs beaten very light. Pour mixture into a shallow well buttered pan and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Spider Corn Cake.—Three-fourths cup corn meal, fourth cup flour, two tablespoonfuls sugar, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful soda, half cup sweet milk, one egg well beaten, half cup sour milk, two tablespoonfuls melted butter, half cup sweet milk. Sift together, corn meal, flour, sugar, salt and soda. Add half cup sweet milk and egg well beaten. Add sour milk and butter. Mix thoroughly and pour into well buttered hot spider. Pour half cup sweet milk carefully over the top of corn cake. Cook 10 minutes on top of range and 20 minutes in the oven.

Corn Meal Sponge Muffins.—Half cup corn meal, one cup scalded milk, one tablespoonful butter, half teaspoonful salt, four tablespoonfuls sugar, one-fourth cup flour, two tablespoonfuls baking powder, two eggs. Add corn meal to scalded milk, add butter and salt, let cook until thickened; cool; add sugar and eggs beaten very light, flour sifted with baking powder; beat 2 minutes. Pour into hot buttered iron gem cups and bake 20 minutes in hot oven.

"Pete's" Corn Meal Griddle Cakes.—Two cups corn meal, one cup flour, two eggs well beaten, one teaspoonful salt, one and a half teaspoonfuls soda, two and a half cups buttermilk or loppered milk. Mix and sift corn meal, flour and salt, add eggs, mix well. Dissolve soda in milk; add to first mixture. Beat thoroughly and fry at once. If allowed to stand too long mixture thickens; may be thinned by adding more milk. The sour milk must be rich. Buttermilk is best for this purpose.

Dainty Spoon Corn Cake.—One-fourth cup corn meal, one teaspoonful butter, two teaspoonfuls sugar, one-half teaspoonful salt, three eggs, two cups scalded milk. Stir meal into scalded milk, add salt and let cook until mixture is slightly thickened, add butter and sugar; add yolks beaten very lightly, lastly cut and fold in the whites of eggs beaten stiff. Pour into buttered pudding dish, bake thirty minutes in hot oven. Serve from baking dish with spoon.

Southern Spoon Corn Bread.—Pour two cups boiling water over one cup corn meal, cook five minutes, stirring continually. Add one tablespoonful butter, two eggs well beaten, one cup milk, one teaspoonful salt; beat thoroughly, pour into well greased baking dish and bake thirty-five minutes in hot oven. Serve from the dish in which it is baked.

CANDY.

Corn Taffy.—Take a 10 cent can of syrup, one cupful brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls vinegar, one tablespoonful butter; boil until it snaps in water. Pour on to a buttered platter and pull.

Vanilla Cream.—Break into a bowl the whites of one or more eggs, as the quantity you wish to make will require; add to it an equal quantity of cold water, then stir in powdered sugar until you have it stiff enough to mold into shape with the fingers. Flavor with vanilla to taste. After it is formed into balls, cubes, or lozenge shape, lay them upon plates or waxed paper and set them aside to dry. This cream can be worked in candies similar to the French cooked cream.

THE LAUNDRY.

To Whiten Linen.—Linen that has become yellow with age may be made beautifully white by boiling it in a lather made of one pound of white soap to one gallon of milk. After boiling rinse in two waters, add bluing to the last water.

Ironing Hint.—While ironing stand on a piece of old carpet or folded comfort and the feet will not get so tired.

Ironed Clothes.—Stretch a wire line across your clothes closets and across your kitchen; purchase a lot of coat hangers. On ironing day put the baby's freshly ironed petticoats on a coat hanger and a dress the same length over it, and hang it on the wire. In ironing grown folks' clothes do the same way, and push them along the wire out of your way. When through ironing remove and hang in your closets on the wire, which is a space saver and prevents rumpling, and you have a complete suit without hunting out the two garments. It also saves so many handlings of the clothes.

WORTH KNOWING.

Toast water is a soothing and healing drink during bronchitis.

After trimming, turn the wick of a lamp below the burner or the oil will ooze.

A sick room should never be made a thoroughfare or gathering place for the family.

One teaspoonful of lemon juice in a small cup of black coffee will help a bilious headache.

Dried lemon peel sprinkled over coals will destroy any disagreeable odor about the house.

Paperhanger's paste is made by adding a teaspoonful of powdered alum to every pound of flour.

Matting may be cleaned with salt water, applied with a small brush. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

If the handle of the spoon used for basting meats and fowls be bent close to the bowl of the spoon it will "dip up" easily.

If you will bend the point of your paring knife you will find it much easier to remove eyes from potatoes, pineapples, etc.

If a little baking powder is sifted with the flour of which pie crust is made it will be more healthful and require less shortening.

Most efficient and serviceable dust cloths may be made from stockings that are no longer mendable by splitting and sewing together.

To remove a glass stopper which has become fixed in a bottle plunge the bottle into hot water for a short time. The glass will expand and release the stopper.

To make soup meat balls, put cooked soup meat, cold boiled potatoes and onions in the food chopper, add pepper and salt to taste, form into balls, press flat and fry brown.

Keep gelatine covered when you are soaking it for a sweet; a piece of glass makes an excellent cover, and quite prevents any dust or garms settling on this tempting surface.

In a convenient spot in the kitchen keep a box of new wood toothpicks for use in testing bread and cake when baking. The old way of using a broom straw is, to say the least, unsanitary.

When boiling something which boils over easily, place a stick of wood across the top of the vessel, and it simply can't boil over; try it and see. Exceptionally large vessels use two sticks.

If you object to the thick, hard crust on baked potatoes, put a dish of cold water in the oven when they are being baked. The moisture will do much toward keeping the skin of the potato soft.

Bathe chilblains in very hot water, as hot as can be borne, and rub well with paraffin and mustard, and they will soon disappear. This remedy has been tried with success when other remedies failed.

In making sandwiches, bear in mind that all crusts are removed with a sharp knife, and that butter just melted but not piping hot, can be spread with a fine paint brush much better than firmer butter with a knife.

Hard water is rendered soft and pure, rivaling distilled water, by merely boiling a two ounce bottle say, in a kettle of water. The carbonate of lime and many impurities will be found adhering to the bottle. The water boils much quicker at the same time.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, JAN. 8.

Lesson II.—Jeroboam Makes Idols for Israel to Worship, I. Kings 12. 25 to 13. 6. Golden Text, Exod. 20. 4.

Verse 25. Penuel—The name means "face of God," from Gen. 32. 30. The place is connected historically with the three names of Gideon, Jacob, and Jeroboam. Its chief feature was a strong tower (Judg. 8. 8-17), and it was this that Jeroboam rebuilt. His purpose in doing so was to strengthen himself against a possible invasion from the desert tribes on the east.

26. Now will the kingdom return—He apparently forgot, or placed little reliance in, the promises which Jehovah had made to him (I. Kings 11. 38). A fear arose in his heart that his people, attracted by the glories of the house of Jehovah at Jerusalem (27), might at last, from going three times a year to the feasts, turn again unto . . . Rehoboam, king of Judah. His fear was also personal, as well as patriotic, for he saw that, if the people turned to Rehoboam, he himself might be the victim of some treacherous assault such as was made upon Ishbosheth (2 Sam. 4. 7)).

28. Made two calves of gold—"He broke the second commandment under pretense of helping the people to keep the first." His motive, despite his plea that he wished to relieve the people of the burden of the long journeys to Jerusalem, is evident in what he said in his heart (26). Political ascendancy and personal safety were his first concern. We are compelled to detect, under all his outward activities in behalf of the religious needs of his people, the shrewd devices of worldly policy.

Behold thy gods—Doubtless he had no desire to establish an idolatrous system. He seems to have been a believer in a personal activity of Jehovah. The calves, or young bulls, would serve as symbols and reminders of the strength of their God, and were perhaps copied from the calf set up by Aaron in the wilderness. They would hardly come from Jeroboam's residence in Egypt, as some suppose, inasmuch as the bulls worshipped were alive. The two images were alike and represented, of course, only one God. They were really intended to encourage the worship of Jehovah, the sin of the king being the substitution of political expediency for faith in God.

29. Beth-el—An ancient sanctuary of the Israelites, connected with the names of Abraham and Jacob, and with the capture of Ai (Josh. 7 and 8). The importance of this shrine increased with the advance of the northern kingdom, reaching the zenith of its greatness under Jeroboam II, when it is called "a royal house and sanctuary of the kingdom" (Amos 7. 13).

Dan—As Beth-el was at one end of the kingdom, only twelve miles from Jerusalem, so Dan was at the other. It had been, from earliest times, "the seat of a chapelry and ephod served by the lineal descendants of Moses in unbroken succession." It does not reappear in the Bible after the invasion of Benhadad (I Kings 15. 20). Its history thereafter is obscure.

30. This thing became a sin — It resulted in a lowering of the religious ideals and worship of Israel, a gradual degeneracy which at length comes in for the sternest reprobation on the part of the prophets, particularly Amos and Hosea. "The whole subsequent history is a record of the mode by which, with the best intentions, a church and nation may be corrupted."

31. Houses of high places—Both the Canaanites and early Israelites used to worship on hilltops, probably as bringing them nearer the supposed dwelling place of Jehovah. Though the law prescribed a restricted form of worship, the use of high places for burning sacrifices and other religious rites was continued till the time of Hezekiah.

Priests . . . not of the sons of Levi—According to the Deuteronomic law, the priesthood was restricted to the Levites. Jeroboam may have felt that he was acting from necessity, because of the migration, in large numbers, to the south, of Levites who preferred to abide by the worship of Jerusalem. At any rate, both David and Solomon, before this, had treated somewhat indifferently the matter of priestly rights.

32. A feast in the eighth month—This irregularity, according to the law, was an act of arbitrary willfulness, as the set time for observing the feast of the tabernacles was the seventh month. But, as the vintage was later in the north, the condemnation of Jeroboam ought not, perhaps, to be too harsh. It only goes to show, that, having adopted a wrong policy, a man becomes involved in other sins as a consequence

Chapter 13. Verse 1. Jeroboam was standing by the altar—He was himself officiating as priest.

2. He cried against the altar—He said nothing about the other forms and signs of religious degeneracy. Who he was is not recorded, perhaps because his name had been forgotten after the lapse of so many years. But he was the first stern voice of disapproval, coming from across the border, and, by denouncing the altar, showing the divine disfavor against the entire new system of worship established by Jeroboam.

Josiah—For the fulfillment of this, read 2 Kings 23. 15-20. It is unlike the regular method of Hebrew prophecy to mention a name in this way. The theory is that this name was added many years after, when the prophecy had come to fulfillment.

AN ANTISEPTIC HEIRESS.

Extreme Care Taken of Girl Who Will Have $25,000,000

Betty Tanner, daughter of John S. Tanner, artist, and grandfather of Abraham Archibald Anderson, is being reared in a thoroughly antiseptic manner in Los Angeles, Cal. It is most essential that she reach womanhood, because she will inherit a fortune of $25,000,000. At present, however, she doesn't know anything about cents or dollars. She is versed only in antiseptics. Everything she eats or drinks, touches or smells is thoroughly sterilized before it is put near her. Even the air she breathes in her bedroom is filtered. The toys she plays with are antiseptic, and if she wants to make mud pies, why, antiseptic mud is put before her. Her play books are fumigated and she has been taught to study the thermometer, to be assured that when she goes out for a walk or a ride the temperature is adapted to her condition.

BELGIUM'S DRUNKARDS.

One Drinking Place to Every Thirty-four People.

Statistics just published show that there are in Belgium 211,617 "estaminets," or places where drink is sold, averaging one such place to every thirty-four inhabitants. Every year 200,000 cases of illnesses are occasioned by excess of drink, 2,000 of which result in death. There are from 600,000 to 800,000 beggars — brought to that state by intemperance.

Fifty per cent. of the suicides and seventy-five per cent. of the cases of imprisonment can be attributed to alcohol. In twenty-five years the consumption of alcohol has increased fifty-four per cent. The record for "estaminets" is held by the small hamlet of Sivry, with 2,600 inhabitants, there being 163—all doing excellent business—or an average of one to every sixteen inhabitants.

BLOWN UP.

Meekly made up his mind that he was not going to be dictated to any longer by his wife, so when he went home at noon he called out imperiously to the servant: "Laura! Laura!"

Mrs. Meekley came out of the kitchen.

"What do you want with Laura?" she asked.

Meekly staggered, but braced up. "I want you to understand, madam"—and he tapped his breast dramatically—"that I am the engineer of this establishment, that I am——"

"Oh, you are, are you? Well, Joseph, I want you to understand that I"—and she looked dangerous—"I am the boiler that might blow up and pitch the engineer over into the next street. Do you hear the steam escaping, Joseph?" Joseph heard, and quickly got out of the way.

DREW THE LINE.

Pat had been at work for three days digging a well, and as the foreman wanted it finished within the week he had promised Pat another man to help him. It was getting on for 11 o'clock, and Towser, the foreman's bulldog, was looking over the edge of the pit, when Pat said to himself, "I'll have a smoke."

He had just filled his pipe, and was about to light it, when he glanced up and beheld Towser's handsome features.

Slowly removing the pipe from his mouth, he said, "Be-e-egorra, Oi 've wor-rked wid Germans and Hengar-r-rians, and Oi've wor-rked wid Oitalians and Niggers, but if a man wid a face like that come down here to work beside me, Oi gets up."

Returning from school the other afternoon, little Edith proudly informed her mother that she had learned to "punctuate." "Well, dear," said mamma, "and how is it done?" "You see, mamma," explained Edith, "when you write 'Hark!' you put a hatpin after it, and when you ask a question then you put a buttonhook."

LIKE TO WALK IN PUDDLES.

"It may not be a matter of grave moment," said a grown up man, "but I would rather like to know why small boys like to walk in mud puddles.

"I don't refer now to the boy in rubber boots; his motives in wading in puddles and in deeper water I can understand. He is proud of his waterproof boots and he likes to surfeit himself with the delightful consciousness and proof that they are waterproof; he likes to brave and pass unscathed the perils of the deep waters of the gutters after a heavy rain; though with his first boots anyway he is likely to overdo this a little, to keep on trying to see how deep he can go till at last he steps into a place a little deeper than the rest and gets his boots filled.

"Still, I can understand the boy and his rubber boots, but I don't quite see through his fancy for walking or stepping in puddles generally when he has leather shoes on. Maybe here too it is because he likes to take risks, or perhaps it is because of his innate defiance of rule and convention.

"A bunch of small boys will one after another try jumping over a puddle to see if they can clear it, and then sooner or later one is sure to come down within the edge of the water. But that doesn't disturb him; on the contrary he rather enjoys that experience, and then you may see the bunch wind up by all running or walking through the water. Why do they do this, getting their shoes wet and muddy and getting them wet causing them to wear out the sooner, to say nothing of causing their mothers care and worry not only over shoes and stockings. But all boys like to slush through mud puddles, and for that matter so do some older people, too.

"I like myself when I have on rubbers to walk right ahead regardless of the pools of water on the sidewalk. In fact, I am likely to step in them deliberately if they are not too deep, so that I may get the water over my rubbers to wet my feet. I like to slash ahead unhampered and really in doing this simple little free action I find enjoyment. And I guess it is a sense of this sort that makes the boy find a pleasure in scampering or stamping or walking through mud puddles; he likes to take the risk and see how much water he can get into without getting his feet wet, but the thing he likes best about it is its defiant unfettered freedom."

SENTENCE SERMONS.

AN AWFUL CALAMITY.

Willie had tried by various means to interest his father in conversation.

"Can't you see I'm trying to read?" said the exasperated parent. "Now, don't bother me."

Willie was silent for almost a minute. Then, reflectively:

Father looked up with interest.

"What's that?" he asked.

"Why," replied Willie, edging towards the door. "A woman had her eye on a seat, and a man sat on it."

"There's no use trying to deny it," remarked Mrs. DeFlatt, "this is the worst cook we've had yet. There positively isn't a decent thing to eat on the table." "That's right," rejoined DeFlatt. "But," continued his wife, "there's one thing in her favor. She can't be beat when it comes to washing." "Pity we can't eat the washing," sighed the hungry husband.

KING GEORGE'S CORONATION

Some of the Ancient Customs Which Survive to This Day.

The crowning of the King of England has usually been accompanied by what was regarded as the still more solemn rite of anointing with oil, which dates from the days of the ancient Hebrews. And in England, before the Norman conquest, the term used was "hallowing," or consecration, rather than that of coronation.

But from old records it seems that the ceremony as then performed at Winchester was in all essentials the same as that which now takes place in Westminster Abbey. Few people seem to be aware, says the Queen, that the coronation ceremony was the only religious rite of the Anglican Church which escaped the pruning policy of the Reformers. Hence its impressive ritual and gorgeous pagentries.

The last coronation at which every Old World ceremony was duly performed was that of King George IV. At his crowning a coronation banquet took place, there was a procession of peers, the herb strewer scattered flowers and the challenge of the champion of England was included in the ceremony. But at the coronations of William IV., Queen Victoria and King Edward these old customs were for various reasons omitted.

However, much remains that is of deep interest and stately splendor. The dean and chapter of Westminster claim the right to instruct the sovereign in the duties of this solemn service, and on coronation day the regalia are delivered into their custody.

According to old records £100 is paid for the anointing oil supplied by the royal apothecary. The coronation chairs are of interest. That of the King is the chair of Edward the Confessor, used by every British sovereign since the time of Edward II. It is of oak, and is recovered with fresh crimson velvet on each occasion. Beneath it is placed the stone of destiny, an ancient relic which came originally from Ireland.

NO DREAMS FOR MANDARINS.

Awakening of China Has Brought Great Changes.

The reforming of the political aspect of China has brought with it some changes in social conditions and it seems as though many more were to follow. Among those who have felt these changed conditions are the mandarins, whose altered official routine is described by the North China Daily News. The old dreamy days when a mandarin spent hours in dolce far niente, "a demigod amid subservient crowds, delighting himself with the philosophy and poetry of his land," are all gone since the introduction of telegraph, telephone and railways.

The national awakening, bringing with it the reorganization of the army, the introduction of occidental sanitary systems, of modern prisons, and other reforms, has made mandarin life not what it once was. Now that official has to raise regiments of modern drilled soldiers and find the money to equip and maintain them; has to build expensive barracks and hospitals, erect model prisons, and must refrain from old time punishments and find the money for all these bothersome novelties. He is bombarded with telegrams from Peking and has to withstand attacks by the reform party and the free press.

Poppy growing is forbidden, but he must compel the reluctant agriculturist to raise cotton and other products. Licensed gambling has been suppressed, but he must raise the revenue thus lost by increasing the tax on salt and other necessities. This causes riots, and he must put these down. The enraged and harried taxpayers no longer are in fear of the once revered mandarin, and they do not hesitate to attack his person when he appears on the streets. It requires the wisdom of a Confucius for a mandarin to maintain his dignity under the new order of things.

BLACK CARPET IN VOGUE.

Queen Mary May Thus Furnish Her Boudoir at Buckingham.

Rumor says that Queen Mary is going to have a black carpet in her boudoir in Buckingham Palace and if the rumor is true black drawing rooms will speedily become the fashion in England. Some fifteen years ago, there was a temporary liking for black carpets, and smart people fitted up rouge-et-noir salons in their houses, but the fashion quickly died out.

It was found that black as a background for certain varieties of furniture or pictures only appealed to certain tastes. Although gilt furniture goes very well with a black carpet, it is next to impossible to have any light or delicate colors in the room where the floor is dead black, and the effect in a small house is apt to be depressing especially in London.

Besides, a black carpet wears very badly, the lightest speck of dust or footmark shows. It is a carpet to look at, not to walk on.

"Keep Smiling" is Good Advice,

But this is the day of the optimist. The "Don't worry" man is a genial, smiling chap who looks forward to a bright future of health and happiness,-and wealth too, of course

The pessimist is scorned. He is blamed for a surly and gloomy disposition and receives no sympathy for his morbid forebodings.

It isn,t altogether right.

Many a man gets the reputation for having a sour disposition, when the truth of the matter is that he has a sour stomach. Nyals Dyspepsia Tablets will help that man.

They contain pepsin and diastase in scientific proportions. He can eat what he likes and what the pepsin fails to digest the diastase will take care of.

Mr. Thos. Welsh of Stephen is having a sale to-day, Thursday, of his household effects, and will move to town, residing with Mr. Wm. Collingwood. He may possibly move to Hamilton later on.

At a meeting of the Chapter of Rural Deanery of Huron held in Clinton on Monday, Jan. 2nd, in St. Paul's church. The Rev. W J. Doherty, B. A., of Hensall was elected Rural Dean, and his name will be forwarded to London for the approval of the Bishop.

George Baird has completed his fiftieth year as teacher in one school section in Stanley Township. He commenced to teach at 19 years of age in that section. During all this time he has resided two and a-half miles from the school and rides a bicycle to and from in summer, and walks in winter. He has had a marked degree of success.

Mrs. (Dr.) McGillicuddy was taken suddenly ill with appendicitis on Thursday morning last, and was that evening taken to London where she was operated on about 9 p.m. the same evening. She rallied nicely after the operation and is now thought to be progressing favorably toward recovery. Her many friends will be pleased to know that an early recovery is looked for.

Mr. McMurray of the Bank of Commerce staff, Crediton, narrowly escaped a bad runaway accident near the Main Street Methodist Church Sunday last. He was driving along the road when a dog scared the horse, which ran away. Mr. McMurray had the presence of mind to pull the horse into a snow bank and thus brought it to a standstill. In the mix-up, however Mr. McMurray had one of his shoes badly ripped by the horse's hoof, and the hardness was slightly broken.

A very pleasant gathering took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hodgert on Thursday last, the occasion being the celebration of the 25th anniversary of their wedding day. Quite a number of friends and relatives gathered and spent a most pleasant evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hodgert proving themselves excellent entertainers. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hodgert will wish for them continued happiness and prosperity, and that they may be spared to enjoy many more anniversaries.

Mr. Ed. Sanders, of Rainy River formerly of Exeter, being a son of Mrs. Thos. Sanders, Huron St. was married the other day in Winnipeg. The Rainy River Gazette says.—Ed. Sanders, our popular contractor and builder, who has been in Ninette, Man., working on the big sanitorium finished his contract there and returned as far as Winnipeg, where he sojourned for a few days. His friends wondered why he was not getting home, and some of them were commencing to worry lest he had been murdered in this wicked metropolis. However, Ed. was completing the most important contract he has ever taken in his life, having been married to Miss Milda McKenzie, daughter of David McKenzie. Both the Bride and groom are well known and popular, and their return was the signal for showers of congratulations and well wishes. They have taken up the residence in Rainy River. Ed's many friends here will join in hearty congratulations.

HICKS' FORECASTS FOR JANUARY —A regular storm period is indicated up to the 7th, January will open cold and fair in western and central parts, with low barometer and winter storms disappearing in eastern extremes. During the 4th to the 7th, rain and snow will visit most parts of the country, passing from west to east. Electrical manifestations to the southward will culminate on and touching the 7th, after which, high barometer attended by fair and much colder weather, will prevail generally for three or four days. A reactionary storm period will bring change to warmer weather, attended by falling barometer, cloudiness, rain and snow, passing eastward during the 10, 11, and 12. Each section, — western, central and eastern—will get these changes first in the order named, and in the same order, behind the storms; each section will get change to rising barometer and cold, fair weather. Fix this periodic order of things in your mind, arrange your business accordingly, and you will be the winner.

"Terrible Run-away Accident"

How often do we read this heading in our daily papers and yet nine times out of ten it all begins from some small defect in the harness; a trace cracked, a thin place in the breeching that for probably as little as 5 or 10 cents You could save a spoiled or dead horse, or worse still the danger of yourself and friends. It doesn't take much time to look your harness over, if you find a weak spot, bring it to us we'll fix it for you and while you're in, take a look at our stock, you will find it complete and a comparison of prices will convince you that our prices are right.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of THE EXETER AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY will be held in the TOWN HALL, EXETER, on TUESDAY, JANUARY, 17th, 1911, at one o'clock p.m., for the purpose of electing President, Vice-President, and Directors for the ensuing year and transacting other important business

All members and interested parties should attend the meeting.

The DIRECTORS are particularly requested to attend a meeting at TEN o'clock a. m. onthe above named date.
E. Christie, Pres.
N. Dyer Hurdon, Treas.
A. G. Dyer, Sec'y.

COUNCIL'S INAUGURAL MEETING.

The newly elected Council of Exeter held their inaugural meeting in the Town Hall on Monday at 11 a. m. After Reeve John W. Taylor, and Councillors W. H. Levett, W. W. Walper, W. C. Rivers and Louis Day had been duly sworn in by Clerk, Jos. Senior, the Reeve called upon Rev. Mr. Powell to open the meeting with religious exercises. After congratulating the members who had been elected to the municipal board and extending to them the well wishes of the citizens generally, Mr. Powell read a portion of scripture and offered a prayer for divine guidance to the members of the Council in the performance of the duties that would devolve upon them as the people's representatives at the municipal board.

Reeve Taylor then extended congratulations to the several members on their election and trusted that their meetings would be a pleasure to them and a benefit to the town. In all probability this year would be one of the most important for the town. Certain works had to be completed. He then gave a forecast of the work that would probably be before the Council. Since the water-commission by-law had been defeated the looking after the waterworks would be left in the hands of the Council. In all probability a by-law would have to be passed, fixing the rates, etc. The mains would probably be extended. He considered it advisable to approach the G. T. R., and if satisfactory arrangements can be made to extend a main to the station. He advised the appointing of two assessors to adjust the assessment of the town which was not now satisfactory, they to assess in wards and cofer when necessary. He thought it advisable to change the polling subdivisions—No. 1, as at present; No. 2, to extend as far as the river; No. 3, all north of the river; No. 4, from Huron street to the river. It would be well to have a street foreman appointed to look after the men employed during certain seasons of the year, when it was impossible for the street commissioner to look after the work. The release of the Canning Factory mortgage would perhaps have to be dealt with, and the electric lighting would need some attention. The by-laws were now in a bad condition, and consolidation, or re-actment would be necessary to get them into shape for the proper protection of the town. Sewerage and the heating of the Town Hall would be up for consideration. He advocated a by-law to regulate the construction of boulevards to secure uniformity, and allow for proper roadbeds, and warmly commended the citizens for the interest they had already taken in the beautifying of the streets.

On motion of Messrs. Levett and Day Rev. Powell was extended a vote of thanks for his services at this session, to which Mr. Powell made a fitting reply.

Per Levett and Walper—That Joseph Senior be re-appointed clerk. Mr. Senior, however, wished to withdraw and asked that a new one be appointed. The councillors expressed their regret at his decision to retire and asked Mr. Senior to reconsider the matter. Mr. Senior, however, stated that he had thought the matter over carefully and could not see his way clear to retain the position under any circumstances.

Per Levett and Rivers—That S. Sanders be continued as Treasurer at the same salary, $75.—Carried.

Per Levett and Walper.—That R. E. Pickard be an auditor.—Carried.

Per Rivers and Day—That Jos. Davis be an auditor.—Carried

It was decided to meet regularly on the first and third Fridays of the month.

The Clerk was instructed to advertise for applicants for Clerk, Street Commissioner, and Assessors, and for tenders for the weigh scales, bell ringing and printing.

Adjourned to Friday, January 13th.

HOTEL BURNED AT PARKHILL

Parkhill, Jan. 9,—Fifteen persons had a close call from being burned to death in their beds in a fire which early this morning completely destroyed the big three-story frame hotel known as the Hastings House. The fire was discovered at a quater to 2 by Tom Bloomfield, the night porter, and within twenty minutes the building was a soothing furnace, with flames shooting from every window in the place. Within three quarters of an hour so furiously did the building burn that the roof crashed in. Thos. Newell, proprietor of of the hotel, and his wife were sleeping on the third floor and both escaped in their night clothes. His brother and his wife were sleeping on the second floor and they also got out in their night clothes. The only thing that prevented a big loss of life was the fact that the building was splendidly equipped with fire escapes. Only a few of the guests escaped by way of the stairs.

The fire department did excellent work, and soon had three strong streams playing on the flames. The direction of the wind was all that prevented the flames from spreading to the adjoining stores. So fierce was the heat that windows in the Bank of Commerce across the street, were cracked, and the building took fire, but the blaze was extinguished. Fires also broke out in the store of Simon McLeod and the house and stables of John Laughton, more than 100 feet away, were set on fire. All the fires were extinguished without difficulty.

The fire in the hotel was caused, it is practically certain, from the furnace, which was located in the front part of the house. The loss will be $15,000, on which there is some insurance.

DASHWOOD BOY KICKED BY HORSE

Willie Bender, the seven-year-old son of Mr. John Bender, who resides a mile west of Dashwood was terribly injured on Thursday morning as a result of being kicked by a horse. There is a slight chance of his recovery. The boy had stayed home from school owing to the deep snow, and when his father went to the barn to look after the stock he accompanied him. In playing about he got too close to a horse which kicked him full in the forehead. The skull was completely caved in and presented a terrible appearance. Dr. McLaughlin of Dashwood saw at once that the case was a serious one and had the boy taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, London, where he was operated upon and the broken bone and clotted mass of brain and blood removed. The little fellow never lost consciousness, and he is said to have a slight chance of recovery, unless complications set in.

SMALL POX CASES IN LUCAN.

For several weeks a number of cases of what was supposed to be chickenpox existed in Lucan, and it was not until last week that they were diagnosed as smallpox. The local authorities immediately established a rigid quarantine, and every precaution is being taken to prevent the disease spreading.

ONLY TWO WERE KILLED

Russian's Death Trap Searched for Other Possible Victims.

A despatch from London, Eng., says: No other bodies have been discovered by the police and firemen woh searched the ruins of the house in Stepney which was burned down on Tuesday during the battle between the police and firemen and supposed Terrorists. The police found two Mauser revolvers and a number of cartridge boxes in the debris.

The coroner of the Stepney district states officially that only two bodies have been found in the ruins. All that was found of one of the bodies is contained in a handkerchief.

There was almost as much excitement in the East-end on Wednesday as there was during the siege of the Russians' death trap. Great crowds pushed against the police lines, striving vainly to get close to the ruins of the house and see for themselves when the firemen and police found any gruesome traces of the dead defenders. In addition to keeping the crowds away the police had to clear the streets for traffic, and the two tasks kept them on the jump.

It is believed that the house which the Russians made their fortress, was set on fire by them when they found that the ammunition supply was running low and that their capture was inevitable. After the flames had broken out fiercely there was a lull in the firing for a few moments and then two shots were heard. It may have been that the Anarchists reserved their last two bullets for themselves. The story which was circulated Tuesday that the house had been fired by the order of Home Secretary Churchill is positively denied by the authorities.

In the search for the Russians particular care had been exercised to discover any receptacle which might contain papers throwing light on the plans of the gang. If any such existed they were either totally destroyed with the house or were burned by the Anarchists during the siege.

HARD TO GET SUPPLIES.

Section on Transcontinental Most Difficult.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The hardest section of construction in the eastern section of the Transcontinental Railway is at the headwaters of the Gatineau River, according to a statement made on Wednesday night by Mr. Gordon Grant, chief engineer. The actual construction may not be any harder than the rest, but the section, number 13, is the hardest to get at. As a consequence the work is retarded. It is very difficult to get in supplies, and this section will be the last finished.

By the end of 1912, with the exception of this stretch of 100 miles, rails will be laid accorfding to Mr. Grant's estimate. The following year will be taken up in ballasting and finishing up and the line will be ready.

NATURAL GAS RUNS SHORT.

The People of Niagara Falls Have Trouble.

A despatch from Niagara Falls says; Hundreds of families were forced to eat cold meals on Thursday because of the almost total failure on the natural gas pressure. Nearly every house in the city is equipped with gas ranges, many having no coal or wood stoves. Many also use it for heating purposes. For the past two years the gas pressure has been low during the very cold snap.

THE FAITH CURE FAILED.

Doctor was not Called in Time and Child Died.

A despatch from Detroit, Mich., says; Attended by only a "faith cure" doctor, Hazen McWain, aged nine, daughter of William McWain, a signal engineer on the Pere Marquette Railroad here, literally choked to death on Thursday while her parents stood helplessly by. The little girl contracted a severe type of diphtheria four days ago, and the mother at once summoned a Christian Science "healer," who gave the patient "prayer treatment." She failed to improve, however, and a regular practitioner was called in, but the child was already dying, and he was powerless to do anything.

10 LASHES FOR WIFE BEATER.

Edward Garrison Sentenced at Belleville.

A despatch from Belleville says; Edward Garrison, a man about fifty years of age, was on Thursday found guilty of an assault upon his wife by beating and biting her. Judge Deroche sentenced him to six months in the Central Prison and to receive ten lashes. Five out of nine of Garrison's children are at present wards of the Children's Aid Society of this city. Garrison's home is in Elzevir township. The Judge, in pronouncing sentence, characterized Garrison's actions towards his wife as most shameful.

NOTHING TO EAT BUT RABBITS

Indian Woman and Five Chilnren Found Starving--Husband Badly Frozen.

Port Arthur, Jan 5.—Left alone by her husband with five small children and nothing to eat but rabbits, which she had caught as best she could, a squaw was found on December 27 wandering around in a starving condition, while the temperature hovered between twenty and thirty degrees below zero, by Contractor Mercier near his camp at Owl Creek, between Jackfish and Long Lake. Mr. Mercier took her and the family to Jackfish, where another family of Indians took care of them.

On Monday night last the husband of the woman arrived at Mr. Mercier's camp with both feet and hands badly frozen, and nearly exhausted from starvation. He said he had had nothing to eat for seven days. His supply of matches had given out, and his clothing was quite insufficient to protect him from the cold. He was suffering intense pain, too, from a deep cut in the leg from the axe he was carrying. It is not expected the man will recover. The snow is over three feet deep in that section.

A RECORD IN YUKON.

Last Season Best in Dredging Gold from River.

A despatch from Ottawa says: F. T. Congden, M.P., says a record was made last season in dredging on the Yukon. It extended over 233 days. It is remarkable that a gold dredge can work to every advantage there up to two weeks of Christmas. There are difficulties in the Yukon not experienced in other countries, but it is being proved that they can be overcome.

CARNIVAL IS OFF.

Montreal Citizens and Council Failed to Give Support.

A despatch from Montreal, says: The "week of Winter sports" it was proposed to hold here in February was called off at a meeting of the committee on Thursday morning. The reasons given are that while the railways finally consented to help the plan along, they took too long to make up their minds, while the City Council refused to contribute and citizens were backward in coming forward with financial assistance.

PANIC FOLLOWS EXPLOSION

Employees of Department at Ottawa Had Narrow Escape.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Sixteen employes of the analyst's and methylated spirits branches of the Department of Inland Revenue, including two women, made wild dashes for safety on Wednesday, when a barrel, out of which was being pumped wood alcohol, exploded with terrific noise and impact, overturning an electric motor, and causing a dangerous fire to the building occupied by these two Government departments, at 317, 319 and 321 Queen Street. The building was practically destroyed, with heavy loss. The manufacture of the methylated spirits was in charge of Mr. Walter Armstrong. All were on the floor when the explosion occurred, and at once gave the alarm to those who were in Mr. McGill's branch upstairs, and then made their escape. Mr. Parent got out with some difficulty, dashing right through a room enveloped in flames, but without any injury. The total value of the stock of wood alcohol, grain alcohol, methylated spirits, and other ingredients for its manufacture was about $15,000.

FATAL TRAIN WRECK.

Fifteen Killed and Forty or Fifty Injured in South Africa.

A despatch from Queenstown, Union of South Africa says: Fifteen persons were killed and forty or fifty injured in the wreck of a passenger train near Cathcart, Cape Colony, early on Thursday. The train, which was loaded with holiday makers from East London, left the rails, and, turning over, rolled down an embankment.

CONSTRUCTION IN THE WEST.

C.P.R. Staff is Putting Finishing Touches to Programme.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: The engineering staff at the C.P.R. headquarters here is busy putting the finishing touches to the construction programme for the current year, which Vice-President Wm. Whyte will present to the president next week.

REVENUE OF THE DOMINION

Statement for December Most Satisfactory for Long Period.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The financial statement of the Dominion for December, published in the Canade Gazette, is one of the most satisfactory for a very long time. The revenue for December was $9,790,387.13, an increase of $1,056,861.09, while the expenditure for the month was $5,355,268.13, an increase of $683,26.

For the nine months of the fiscal year ended with the last day of the calendar year the revenue was $85,665,833.83, as against $73,390,080.97, a betterment of $12,275,752.86.

The expenditure for the nine months shows an increase of $5,596,003.53, the figures being $52,994,133.07 for 1910, as against $47,398,129.54 in 1909.

The expenditure on capital account during December last was $3,680,305.47, as against $3,379,270.77; while for the nine months it was $22,804,247.33, against $24,026,137.22 in the corresponding period of last year, nearly the whole of the amount being expenditure on the National Transcontinental Railway.

AN ANARCHIST CONSPIRACY

Plot to Blow Up City Hall and the Archbishop's Palace, Montreal.

A despatch from Montreal says: An Anarchist plot to blow up the Montreal City Hall and the Roman Catholic Archbishop's Palace is alleged to exist by a man named Therien, who has written letters both to Mayor Guerin and Archbishop Bruchesi, warning them of the danger which he alleges threatens them.

The Mayor received a letter a few days ago containing information of the alleged plot, and giving the names of some of those who were stated to be mixed up in it; and since then the Archbishop has received a letter, apparently from the same party, declaring that it was proposed to blow up the palace during the month of January.

Both letters have been handed over to the authorities to investigate. Whether the letters are the work of a madman or not has not as yet been established. Since the large influx of dangerous characters that has taken place into this city the police have been on guard, but it is not thought that such violent measures would be resorted to.

CAKE.

Sunshine Cake. — Ingredients: Whites of seven eggs, yolks of five eggs, one cup granulated sugar, scant cup of flour, saltspoon of cream tartar, pinch of salt, one teaspoon of vanilla or one-half teaspoon each of vanilla and lemon. Separate the eggs and put the whites in a large mixing bowl, and the yolks in a small bowl. Measure and sift the flour seven times and set aside; then sift the flour five times; have cream of tartar and flavoring on the table, then beat the whites five minutes, add salt and cream of tartar; beat some more, then add slowly the sugar, then the beaten yolks; then add the flour. Do not beat, but fold this in with a spoon. Add the flavoring. Put in an ungreased tin, sprinkle a little flour in the tin, and shake around; then take a teaspoon and remove all the air bubbles, place in a moderate oven, and bake from thirty minutes to one hour. A great deal depends upon the fire. The first twenty minutes the oven should be real warm; then slowly decrease the heat. When baked turn upside down and place a wet cloth on the tin for a few seconds, then with a knife the cake may easily be removed.

Mock Angel Food.—One cupful of sugar, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of shortening, one-half cupful of milk, one heaping cupful of flour, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder. Stir all together, then put the whites of two eggs into a bowl and heat until stiff. Then gently fold the whites into the batter; do not stir them in. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla. This is an original recipe, and if correctly made it will be hard to distinguish it from the real angel food cake. But be careful not to stir the whites of the eggs into the cake, but fold them in carefully.

Orange Tea Cake—This recipe makes eighteen delicious, inexpensive and quickly made little tea cakes: Cream one tablespoonful of butter and the same of lard with one cupful of sugar. Add two well beaten eggs, three-quarters of a cup of milk, pinch of salt, one teaspoonful of extract of orange, three-quarters of a cup of washed currants, one and three-quarters cups of flour, and two teaspoons of baking powder. Bake fifteen minutes in muffin pans in hot oven.

Nut Loaf—Four cups of sifted flour, four level teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful salt, one-half cup of sugar, one cup nut meats chopped fine, two cups sweet milk, and two eggs. Stir the dry ingredients together, then add beaten eggs and milk. Bake in moderate oven about forty-five minutes. This makes two loaves. I find that this bread is fine for the lunch box just buttered, or lettuce with salad dressing may be placed between two thin slices for a change.

J. F. C.

SALADS.

Novel Mayonnaise.—Take three fresh eggs, three tablespoonfuls of pure olive oil, three of vinegar, three of thin bouillon or water, a saltspoonful of salt. Beat all this well together with an egg beater. When thoroughly mixed, put the pot into a larger one holding boiling water, and beat with the egg beater until the mayonnaise has the right consistency. Take the pot out of the boiling water and stir for a little while until cooled. Be sure the water is boiling hard in which the mayonnaise is cooked or it will not get thick. This mayonnaise is simply delicious and much more quickly made than the usual way.

Potato Salad.—Six cups cold boiled potato cubes, one tablespoonful or more grated onion or onion juice, three or four tablespoonfuls parsley finely chopped, one and one-half or more teaspoonfuls salt, one-half teaspoonful pepper. Turn ingredients over until well blended. Let stand in a cool place until ready to serve. To one pint double cream (sweet) add four tablespoonfuls of tarragon vinegar and beat until thick to the bottom of bowl. Mix the prepared potato with the dressing and serve at once.

RELISHES.

Red Cabbage Relish.—Remove all the loose leaves and the hard white part of a red cabbage, divide into fourths, and run through a meat chopper. Wash in a sieve and put in a granite kettle with one pint of water and two heaping tablespoonfuls of nice bacon fat. Add one-half cupful of white wine vinegar, three heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar, a pinch of pepper, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, salt to taste, and three or four good sized tart apples. Cover and cook about two hours. Stir often to prevent burning. It must not be moist. This is nice to serve with roast goose or turkey.

Stuffed Celery.—Make a paste of rich cream cheese, seasoned highly with salt, paprika, a few drops of Worcestershire sauce and made soft enough to spread with olive oil. Fill tender stalks of celery with this mixture; chill and serve with your dinner. A delicious relish and a little out of the ordinary.

HINTS FOR THE HOME.

To clean pewter wash in hot water and fine silver sand, then polish with a leather.

Warm the dish covers as well as the dish, or you will often spoil a carefully prepared meal.

Fireproof paper can be made by dipping paper in a strong solution of alum, and then drying it.

Fill pin cushions with thoroughly dried coffee-grounds, for the needles will not rust in them.

The dustpan after use should be emptied into the kitchen fire, and not into the dustbin.

Waterproof Glue.—Take some glue, soak it in cold water, and then by heat dissolve it in linseed oil.

Grease spots on a wall may be removed by putting blotting paper on the spot and holding a hot iron against it.

Waste buckets should have boiling soda water and soap stood in them at least once a week, brushed round thoroughly and dried in the air.

Children's hair should never be strained tightly off the forehead if you wish it to grow thick. Receding hair in later life is often caused in this way.

When making whitewash for your pantry, larder, etc., add one ounce of carbolic acid to every gallon of whitewash. This will effectively drive away any insects, and make every place healthy.

To restore ebonised wood, rub all spots the way of the grain with powdered pumice stone and oil. Then polish with a dry, soft cloth. If this is carefully and thoroughly done the effect is most excellent.

Oil castors of chairs and sofas at least once a year, and they will not break off, but last nearly a lifetime. At the same time that the castors are oiled, it is well to think of locks and hinges.

Eggs are most easily digested when eaten raw. If this is impossible, place them in a pan of nearly boiling water, and stand at the side of the stove for seven to ten minutes.

Hot water is a simple drink that ought to be more popular, for it promotes secretion better than cold, and is at all times a stimulant of no mean nature. Taken the last thing at night and in the early morning this beverage is a boon to gouty people.

To cleanse a mattress remove the hair from the tick, pick it apart, then wash it in a lather, rinse in cold water, wring in a thick cloth, and dry in the sun. Either wash the tick, or make a new case to hold the hair when perfectly dry.

The oven in every kitchen does not get the attention it requires, considering what an important cooking vessel it is! Many who are particular as to every pot and pan being scalded and scoured forget this small iron room, which has the power of absorbing and holding so many odors and grease. Every part of the oven, not forgetting the roof, should be scrubbed out at least once each week, a long brush and plenty of soda water being used for the purpose.

A LIFE FOR A LIFE.

Custom in New Guinea Which Causes Frequent Murders.

Everywhere in New Guinea the traveller is continually brought face to face with death, and the natives are devoid of the slightest pity or respect for the dead or dying, although after a death they will often wail and mourn for a considerable time.

Murder is an everyday occurrence, and nothing could be worse than the morals of the natives. In fact, they have none, they thieve and lie with a persistence and cunning which are surprising.

The Papuans have a cheerful custom which demands a life for a life. Should any one die, at the first opportunity they kill some one—they are not very particular whom—to make up for it. "While we were at Humboldt Bay," says Prof. Pratt in the Wide World Magazine, "a Malay died of dropsy; he was the first Malay who had ever come to that part, and the Papuans greatly respected him.

"'Very well,' they said, "we must shoot a Malay with our bows and arrows to pay for his death.' And sooner or later some innocent person would be killed to square the account, when everybody—except, presumably, the victim's friends—would be satisfied."

DODGES WORKMEN USE

STRANGE EFFORTS MADE TO SECURE DAMAGES.

Curious Facts Regarding the Working of the English Compensation Act.

During recent law proceedings it was alleged that some medical men were drastic in their examination of workmen seeking relief under the provisions of the Compensation Act, and that not a few while testing the men resorted to the use of powerful electric batteries, and applied other severe treatment, such as extensive "needle-pricking," etc., to those parts of the body said to be affected.

Most doctors having to deal with workmen will admit that since the advent of the Act the medical inspections have had to be carried out more stringently than hitherto. The reason is not far to seek.

In his annual report, a medical officer of health in a Midland mining centre wrote: "The Compensation Act has had a curiously curative effect on lumbago."

Conversing with other medical men, the writer learns that this "curious curative effect" referred to by the miners' doctor is not confined to "colliers," nor to the disease of "lumbago." Practitioners in all parts of the country find that, since the operation of the Compensation Act, kindred ailments like rheumatism, sciatica, etc., are

Briefly, it is implied that when a workman feels pains of the rheumatic kind giving trouble it is open for hm to inform a mate that he has strained himself while working, report himself to the doctor, and then go "on the box." Thus the "disease" becomes an "accident," and the man draws compensation allowance for a period, unless the employer's doctor be able to prove conclusively that he is really suffering from disease. As it is not an easy matter to promptly diagnose an internal defect or strain it follows that in the majority of such cases the sufferer draws his compensation allowance, and, if a member of a sick benefit society, club money also.

It should not be inferred that all workmen are malingerers, nor that employers of labor are altogether free from corruption in the matter.

Many cases before County Court judges in England reveal clearly that, while some men are obviously malingering, a goodly number of employers are also endeavoring to shirk their responsibilities under the Act. So that it is rather a case of diamond cut diamond.

The writer was present when a County Court judge directly charged one man with shamming and nonsuited him. This man had received compensation allowance for sevone eye had become affected owing to

A SLIGHT ACCIDENT.

When informed that ophthalmic surgeons were agreed that he was fit to resume work, the man suddenly found that his other eye was affected. He was put through the usual tests and, according to his answers, the optic nerves were seriously impaired. But he had not reckoned with certain secret tests which specialists now apply.

To prevent hardship being inflicted, a judge has power to refer such cases to a medical referee—always a specialist.

In this connection a very unsatisfactory state of affairs is about to be remedied. In a certain district complaints have been made that some medical referees are also acting for one or other of the parties concerned. This is so; and the writer knows of an instance in which an official referee was paid several guineas for certifying a workman as "fit to resume work," and several guineas for certifying the same man as "unfit to resume work," the injury being one and the same at both examinations.

In fairness to the surgeon concerned it should be stated that the injury was of an unusual kind, and in the hurried examination on behalf of the employers he had overlooked a certain feature. The trade union doctor noticed the oversight and cleverly called in the same specialist for consultation. The latter saw the difficulty when it was pointed out. But he had already received his cheque

FROM THE OTHER SIDE.

There are curious differences of opinion during the legal proceedings. An eminent specialist will tell the judge that in his opinion the man is quite able to resume work. An equally eminent specilist called by the other side will then declare that the man is not yet able to resume work. Meantime the works medical officer, the man's club doctor, and possibly the hospital surgeons have given their different views.

On some circuits the judge has his own ideas, and the writer knows of one who is himself fond of putting injured persons through practical tests, and frequently he gets the experts to demonstrate with the patients in his retiring room under his supervision.

A solicitor to a trade union controlling thousands of workmen admitted to the writer that many men were better off financially when drawing compensation allowance and club moneys regularly than when employed.

Surgeons complain that during convalescence patients will not give injured limbs sufficient exercise, with the result that adhesions form, the joints become abnormally stiff, and unless drastic measures be adopted the patient is likely to be for ever at least partly incapacitated. This means that, although possessing all his faculties, and, practically speaking, able-bodied, he crawls about for the rest of his life drawing compensation money.

Specialists declare that before the advent of the Act very little was heard of nystagmus, which affects miners. One curious description of it is, "a discoloration of the optic nerves owing to long periods of working in coal pits."

The writer knows of two miners who, after working below in a certain colliery for twenty years, became unemployed, the pit being closed. After being out of work several weeks, they complained of their eyesight. Their trade union had them examined. "Nystagmus" was the doctor's verdict, and they claimed compensation from their old employers. They had worked in the pit for twenty years without making any complaint. The case was settled out of court, each man accepting $150 and costs.

A similar case was that of a cute Irishman. Extremely distressed, he reported he could not see—both his eyes having become affected. The solicitor to the trade union suspected something. But the man was sure he would "never be able to work in the pit again, his eyesight being ruined." Negotiations resulted in his accepting $150 in full settlement. He was an expert workman, and the colliery proprietors intimated their willingness to take Pat back again when he was fit. Shortly after receiving his substantial cheque the Irishman went back to the same work.

Most of the men will persist in fighting a case out instead of accepting substantial offers of settlement. The writer was recently in court when a partisan's solicitor urged the man to accept $250 offered. He declined and the case proceeded. The artisan lost, got no compensation, and his trade union had to pay heavy costs. Later he lost his job.

RAPACITY OF THE PIKE.

Other Sea Fish That Will Attack and Eat Their Own Species.

The pike has the repuation of being particularly cruel and voracious, hence one of its appellations the "water wolf," but the probability is that many of the sea fish are equally if not a good deal more rapacious and fond of attacking, causing pain to and making a meal of their own species, says the London Globe.

Large dogfish (they of course are related to the shark tribe), congers, pollack, cod and bass are especially ferocious, while halibut will frequently seize and kill other large fish, as anglers can aver from personal experience. It is only a few weeks back that while a London angler was "playing" a large conger a huge hallibut swam up to and savagely bit at it, an operation which eventually cost it its own life, for on making for the wounded conger a second time the boatmen contrived to gaff and haul it aboard.

There have been many instances of pike being found dead, choked by their own species, and these fish not infrequently attack another pike which has been hooked by an angler. The action of a pike at times closely resembles a cat when it plays with a mouse. The pike seizes the angler's bait and keeps dropping and allowing it to escape—one can picture its delight in the terror of its victim—but does not forget to leave the marks of its teeth behind when it eventually makes off.

Lately many fine cod hooked on the long lines off Deal and Dover have been found bitten in half, while only the heads of some have been left, thus showing that they have been preyed upon by some cruel and voracious fish, only too glad to have such a favorable chance of killing and eating them.

A special providence is that agency which causes misfortune to befall our friends instead of ourselves.

The White Star-Dominion Line will run the steamer Teutonic to Montreal next season, and may also put the Majestic on the St. Lawrence route.

THE TROOPSHIP SAILS

PICTURE OF BRITISH SOLDIER'S FAREWELL.

Vivid Scenes When He Takes His Departure on Foreign Service.

A dull morning, a wet morning, and dirty. The harbor shows grey and ugly in the half light. That huge outline heaving out yonder on the slowly rising rollers seems deserted.

But fussy tugs haul her great shape round, busy boats come and go in the greyness. A white jet of steam shoots up, trails away; black figures can be seen working furiously amidst a rattle of chains and blocks.

A clatter of hoofs, and then a dozen troopers rattle up with half a hundred horses: a confused mass, struggling, cursing, stamping, they crowd the long quayside. Then they ease up; somehow they look long at the miserable scene—the drifting mist, the bare, grey outlines.

Then the waiting crowd thickens. A faint echo of martial music, growing stronger—a tramp of feet—a hoarse cheer. Someone roars, "Here they come!"

ONE OF THE OLD BRIGADE.

And here they do come! Column after column, with swinging step, heads erect, a huge drummer's arms whirling fearfully, pipers playing furiously at fear of being out-rivalled.

See that old man marching so proudly, eyes lit up, lips tight pressed! He's one of the regiment, one of the old brigade, living over the glorious past again.

"That was fifty years ago!" he murmurs sadly. But he grips a lad's hand—his "boy"—holds up his head, and marches with the best.

And other hands are being held this dark morning. Here one tanned private sadly eyes the white face at his side. She's only a shop girl—a slim, little, shabby figure—but her eyes are moist as she squeezes his hand tightly, and trudges silently, uncomplainingly, in the rowdy rabble and sludge, just to be at his side. They don't say anything. There's nothing to say. He doesn't ask her to wait, doesn't swear his love; but he gazes fiercely ahead, and curses fate.

Then a shrill bugle-call. Men break rank, swarm up the gangways; the crowd surges forward, privileged friends crush aboard.

Here, under a sheltering funnel, is the last farewell—a tender parting, amidst shrill whistles, ringing bells, hoarse voices.

You hear a faint, "You'll wait, lass? You mean it? Promise!" see a pale face, blue eyes, looking up pitifully. A long comforting arm goes round a slim waist, and —— Well, it's getting very dark in that corner. We'd better leave that picture.

"ALL ASHORE!"

Now a loud clang, clang, and a hustle of seamen—men who gaze on such weaknesses scornfully. They leave the missus at all seasons. They've just left her now—comforting thought: gone back to get the lodger his tea! But "Tommy" is going to a strange clime, and as a hoarse roar of "All ashore! All ashore!" swells up, a silent officer wonders how many will return to these dull-grey shores, how many will see that white-haired father, that sadly weeping mother, who would always die cheerfully for her weakest—the black sheep.

But he's listed now; he's resolved to do well—to turn over a new leaf.

A roar of haste, a shrill, warning whistle, and the crowd is fairly heaved over the side. Someone's promising to write every week. Someone's comforting: "Don't take on, mother! Come, I'm not blubbering!"

And as the screw fast churns the water there's a waving, a cheering, from the lessening crowd; then the sea mist floats across; the picture fades—is gone.—London Answers.

CHINESE TAKE TO BAGPIPES.

Consul-General Knabenshue reports from Tienstin that the only foreign music the Chinese masses have ever shown any interest in is the skirling of the bagpipes of the Cameron Highlanders when they were in garrison there a couple of years ago. He advises piano firms that the market for their instruments is practically confined to foreign residents. Some instruments have been sold to wealthy Chinese, but simply as pieces of furniture, there being no teachers of instrumental music for Chinese women and no demand for them.

The late John Feeny left $250,000 for the building of a picture gallery in Birmingham, on a site to be provided by the corporation, and also a collection of casts, etc., subject to the corporation providing the necessary accommodation.

THE S. S. LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, JAN. 15.

Lesson III.—Asa's Good Reign in Judah, 2 Chron. 15. 1-15. Golden Text, 2 Chron. 15. 7.

Verse 1. The Spirit of God came upon Azariah—Often spoken of as the method of prophetic equipment, the Spirit clothing the prophet as with a garment. Azariah is not mentioned elsewhere.

2. Went out to meet Asa—Upon his return from the successful contest with Zerah, the Ethiopian.

Jehovah is with you—This had just had illustration and confirmation in the decisive victory of Asa over the invading army of Zerah. It was a general truth which found support in all the history of both Judah and Israel, as did the opposite truth, If ye forsake him, he will forsake you.

3-6—This section has been variously interpreted as referring to the northern kingdom of Israel, to the entire previous history of the Hebrew people, and to the period of the Judges. The language fits in well with this last view. The lawless, lax times of the Judges is reflected in verse 3. The distress (4), and calling upon Jehovah, and consequent deliverance from their troubles, reminds one at once of that troubled epoch. The want of peace and the continued vexations (5), and the wrangling between different tribes and different cities (6), is characteristic of the Judges (compare chapters 5, 6, 8, 9, and 12 of the book of Judges).

3. Without a teaching priest and without law—The two things amount to the same thing, inasmuch as the giving of instruction in the law was one of the offices of the priesthood (Deut. 33. 10).

5. No peace to him that went out—It was unsafe to travel.

Lands—Districts of the country of Israel.

6. Nation against nation — One tribe against another is meant.

8. Oded the prophet—It is evident here that the words "Azariah, son of," which are found in the Vulgate, have accidentally dropped out in the Hebrew text from which we have our translation.

Cities which he had taken—As no reference has previously been made to conquests of this kind on the part of Asa, it is supposed that this means the cities captured by his father, Abijah (2 Chron. 13. 19).

Renewed the altar of Jehovah—No record has been handed down of the implied desecration of this altar.

9. Them out of Ephraim and Manasseh—Adjoining tribes, many of whose members lived in Judah after the disruption (2 Chron. 10. 17), and many more of whom came thither because of the belief that the pure worship of their God was in Jerusalem, a belief that was reenforced by the idolatrous practices of the northern kingdom and the marked successes of Judah's kings.

Simeon—Although this small tribe was reckoned as one of the ten, it can only have been partially so, because it was, at the time of the separation, absorbed into Judah (1 Chron. 4. 24).

10. The third month—Corresponding to our June, and the appointed time for the feast of weeks, when the first fruits were offered.

11. The spoil—This was presumably taken from the Ethiopian king, and may have been considered as a kind of first fruits, or pledge of loyalty to Jehovah in the future.

12. The covenant to seek Jehovah—Following the prophecy of Azariah (verse 2). Asa's work, therefore, was both destructive and constructive. After casting out the disreputable reminders of his people's unfaithfulness, he proceeds to renew the neglected altar, and then to make provision for a nobler devotion to the Lord in the future. The covenant was made by the taking of a binding oath (2 Chron. 34. 31), which in this case was emphasized by the blowing of trumpets (14).

15. Jehovah was as good as his word. It was no doubt arduous business casting out the corrupting emblems of a false worship, but all were glad when it was finally accomplished and they had entered upon a new era, which, under the gracious guidance of the Lord, was a time of peace, until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.

SOME STRANGE CRADLES

In Lapland a new-born baby is cradled in its mother's shoe, a big object covered with skin and stuffed with soft moss. In India the baby rides in a basket which hangs from its mother's head, or in a hammock hung from her hips. The Chinese baby is tied to the backs of an elder child. Strangest of all, the mother in Guinea buries her baby up till its waist in sand, and that is the only cradle the baby ever knows.

RURAL DEPOPULATION

Those who look to protection or free trade, to good roads, radial railways, educational systems, or the carrying of city conveniences into the country, would do well to consider the figures recently published in the Boston "Globe" regarding the depopulation of the rural districts of Massachusetts.

That State is one of the smallest and at the same time one of the wealthiest of the Union. During the past decade the population increased 20 per cent, yet it appears that the increase was confined to cities and towns of over 10,000 population, while fifteen rural counties show decreases of from 17 to 47 per cent.

The cure will not be found in roads or railroads, though these may be good in themselves. The cure is to be found in a system of taxation that will encourage the improvement of every acre to its maximum of productivity. This can be easily done by reducing all the taxes on buildings and improvements, and raising the rate on the value of the land apart from the improvements.

Such a policy would stimulate intensive cultivation of land in the neighborhood of large centres of population, creating an increased demand for labor. At the same time the stimulus to improvements throughout the country following the reduction of the improvement tax would mean an increased demand for labor of all kinds, and would result in an increase of rural population and the building up of small hamlets and villages throughout the country.

The result of the extremely opposite policy, that of taxing only improvements and leaving the land value free, is seen in England and Scotland, where whole sections have been depopulated, and valleys that once supported prosperous communities have become a wilderness.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The man who makes money in a community has a duty to perform to that community. It may be that he made his money by his superior business ability and that he would have done as well anywhere. That does not alter the case. If his gifts are great his responsibility is equally as great. No man was placed on earth for the sole purpose of making money and the man who has this as his ideal had better never been born. It is not an act of charity, but the performance of a simple duty for the man who has made money to pass a little of it on for the community, even though he never expects to see a dollar of his contribution back.

Another New Year has come and gone How have we entered it and how will we live through its coming days? Putting new calendars on the walls, and changing the date at the head of our letters, is not enough to make a new year. There are some people who seem to be living to a time old year over again, and have been doing so the larger part of their lives instead of taking advantage of the first month in the year to make a change. Make this year, 1911, a new year in very truth. Unload the old worries, the old quarrels, the unpleasant things handed down from somewhere in the past. Put into it brand new ambitions, hopes as fresh as unopened rosebuds, purposes as unmarred as a newly minted gold piece. If you haven't started already, start now as if you were beginning life over again, unhampered by past mistakes, and full of splendid enthusiasm for the future.

CHURCH PROPERTY EXEMPT.—The question has many times been asked and often discussed as to whether or not the parsonage, the rectory, or the manse in connection with their respective churches are exempt from taxation. We have always contended that such property is exempt according to the Municipal Act of the Ontario Statutes, and we are borne out in this contention by Edward Meek, K. C., who answers the legal questions asked through the Mail and Empire. The following is the question asked and answer given;—'If a parsonage stands on church property, is it exempt from taxation? (2) If taxes have been paid on the parsonage in the past, can the church demand a refund? Ans.—The Statute says;—'Every place of worship and the lands used in connection therewith, churchyard and burying ground, shall be exempt from taxation.' As the parsonage is 'used' in connection with the church I should think it would come under the exemption. But there is no decision upon the point that I can find. (2) The church cannot recover the taxes that have been paid in the past. Some churches refuse to accept the exemption and pay the taxes like any other business institution. Where taxes are voluntarily paid they cannot be recovered."

Constant worry and fretting about little things will do more to seam the face with lines than any amount of massage cream will remove. Life is beautiful if we make it so, and the happiest lot is sometimes the lowliest. Happiness does not consist in possessions or position or external luxuries; rather it is a state of mind that makes happiness a part of life and eliminates all the elements from the mind and heart which make for inharmony and discontent. Fill the heart and the mind with love, and you will find happiness and harmony in every hour of the day.

More attention should be given to the care of horses' teeth. Often an animal is punished for some infirmity of temper, or dosed for some ailment, when the whole trouble lies in an ulcerated tooth, or in teeth no longer articulate, that is, no longer come together so perfectly that they will properly grind the animal's food. Often this latter defect produces indigestion and other internal disorders. Have a competent veterinarian go over a horses teeth any time you suspect they are causing the horse trouble.

SAINTSBURY

A pleasant gathering took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Davis Thursday, when a Re-union took place of many of the relatives and all enjoyed a pleasant evening in dancing and other harmless amusements. An oyster supper was served at 6 o'clock and Mr. and Mrs Davis proved themselves excellent entertainers. Miss. A. McDonald of London visited with her brother Alex. last week.—Mr. Frank. Smith has returned from a visit with friends in Arthur.—Miss Vera Davis returned Sunday from a visit with her aunt Mrs. G. Needham, at Bryanston. Her aunt accompanied her and spent a few days with her.—Misses Bella and Alice Davis are visiting their sister, Mrs. Edward Hotham at Delware.—Mr. Frank Davis was called to London Saturday owing to the illness of his father, who is very low.—Mr. F. J. Davis lost a valuable mare by death, dying while in Lucan.

CHISELHURST

Death of Mr. McTaggart.—There passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Ryckman, North boundary of Usborne, on Sunday last one of the best known and most highly respected residents of the community, in the person of Mr. Horatio N. McTaggart, at the age of 77 years and 9 months. Mr. McTaggart suffered a stroke of paralysis about five years ago and as a result has not enjoyed good health since. As is usually the case another stroke followed about three months ago and his condition has been critical ever since, death coming as a relief to his suffering. Deceased was born in the County of Hastings in 1833, and moved with his parents to the Township of Usborne about 19 years later where he has continuously resided ever since, twenty years of which time he conducted a general store here. As a business man he was upright and honest and by his courteous and fair dealing numbered his friends as many. As a friend, and neighbors he was kind and obliging, and his demise will cause regret and sorrow to all who knew him He was a consistent member of the Methodist church and was a staunch Reformer in Politics. His wife predeceased him about 12 years. He is survived by one son and three daughters —M. O. McTaggart, member of the Board of Education, Toronto, Mrs. Thos. Ayr of Detroit; Mrs. Hugh McDonald of Hensall and Mrs. Frank Ryckman with whom deceased has been living in Usborne; he also leaves to mourn his demise two brothers Messrs Peter and Leonard McTaggart of Town. The funeral took place to McTaggart's cemetery on Tuesday.

Harry Fahner, returned last week from a trip to Saline, Mich., where he visited his brother, Chas. Fahner. He reports a pleasure trip but very little snow in the country.

Mr. Christopher Rau has erected a fine building on the lot he recently purchased.—Mr Eli Lawson has started his incubator. He looks very much worried. We guess he is anxiously waiting to see what his luck will be.—Frank Taylor recently purchased a fine team of horses.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adair have returned home after spending a couple of weeks in Parkhill, with their daughter Mrs. Volk.—Mrs. J. Motz is confined to her room with an attack of La Grippe.

Quite a number of our people are sick with the gripe. The changeable weather has caused it and as a result our Doctor is a busy man.—The first meeting of the Council was held last Monday. On account of a petition being presented to the Council for hotel reductions in the township a large number of people were in attendance for and against the measure. After considerable discussion and delay the motion finally passed that the licenses be limited to four in the Township after the first of May next. The question now is; Who gets the axe? Reeve Sweitzer looked quite at home in his chair as reeve. He could take life easy this time as he was re-elected by acclamation. Sam makes a good official and under his guidance municipal matters receive just and prompt attention.—A. R. Graham of the Bank was obliged to leave for home on account of illness. Mr. Wilson of the London branch is relieving him at present.—Miss Rose Roeszler has returned after a brief visit with friends in Detroit.—We regret to state that two of Mr. Mathew Finkbeiner's children, Bertha and Henry, were removed to the Alexandera Sanatorium in Byron for treatment last week. Their many friends trust the illness will not prove serious and that they will be greatly benefitted and finally cured of that dreaded disease in a short time.—The skating rink is working fine. Frank Snell, the manager, is a busy man and after a great deal of work has made a splendid rink for the skaters.—School re-opened last Tuesday with two new teachers, Miss Snider and Miss Watson of Bayfield for the junior rooms.—Mrs. Jos. Haist has returned home from Reed City, Mich., where she visited relatives during the holiday season. —The sad intelligence was received the other day that the eldest son of Levi Haist of Elkton, Mich., had been killed in the sugar beet factory in Sebewaing on Monday. A number of relatives from here attended the funeral on Wednesday. The deceased visited here last summer and was in the prime of life. So far details of the accident have not been received. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the vicinity.—Hilda, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sims is ill with la grippe and bronchitis.—Rev. Chr. Staebler, D. D. of Cleveland, Ohio, will give an illustrated lecture in the Evangelical church on Thursday night of this week on "A Pilgrimage through the Holy Land". All should come as there is a treat in store for those who attend.—Remember the meeting in the Fire Hall on Friday evening of this week to elect officers of the Fire Dept. and discussion of other important business. Our city fathers have awarded the contract for cleaning the sidewalks to W. B. Galser. The winter can be as severe as it likes, we are now assured of decent walks.—Mr. and Mrs. Siebert of Kansas are visiting their neice Mrs. Samuel Brown.—H. Eilber, M.P.P., attended the annual insurance meeting of the Hay Ins. Co. in Zurich on Tuesday. The company is in splendid condition, having only sustained $1680 in losses the past year and still have a surplus of $9400 on hand. The amount at risk has passed the four and a quarter million dollar mark.

TEACHER AND TEACHING

The first thing to be done in teaching is to get up interest. Without interest there will be little attention, and with out attention there can be but slow progress. To make a machine of a child will not do, though there is much of the mechanical in learning the rudiments. But all the more it is necessary to awaken an interest. But to interest a child, is to enlightened its mind, to make it active, in other words easily retained, and may be made indelible; otherwise they are fleeting and soon forgotten. Another thing is emulation; a desire to be as good as your fellow—to excel him. This is laudable and we find it to some extent in school We are not of those who approve of renumerating merit, offering rewards, using flattery and reproaches. There may be use of these means, but they should be sparingly indulged in. Another grand essential is to get up an honorable ambition. If possible. This is worth all the rest, which at most are but expedients. Begin on a good foundation and build as the material requires. Here the discernment of the teacher comes in; he must know his scholar. He must measure his capacity note his weakness, and get on the right side of the pupil. A teacher beloved is half the battle won; hated or feared there is little progress. A soft word turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger, even in a child, and fear, which is worse than anger. Love does wonders with a child. It is what the mother has, and the teacher but takes the place of mother. The teacher's moral quality therefore is of account as well as his intellectual attainments If he has no government over himself, how can he be expected to govern others. We therefore insist that the qualifications of a teacher should consist of good morals, and be well disciplined; having a knowledge of human child-like nature, possessing patience tact and a ready delivery; impressive and winning in his speech if possible willing to sacrifice, in love with his calling, interested himself in it; patient, happy, cheerful and hopeful.

THOROUGHBRED ANIMALS AND PLANTS

Their Great Commercial Value

"There is as much difference between thoroughbred and ordinary plants as between thoroughbred and ordinary animals." This statement is made by D. M. Perry & Co., of Detroit, the greatest flower and vegetables breeders in the country and appears in their 1911 Annual Catalogue just issued. They argue for the great value and economy of Thoroughbred seeds. "Any foundamental natural law which appeals equally to plants." A good cow (i. e. a thourghbred)eats no more than a poor one, but may give twice as much butterfat. "Good blood" makes als much difference with corn as with cows. But thoroughbred animals, are not produced in one or two generations, for no matter how superior an individual of common origin may be its progeny are as a rule like the general run of its antecedent. Hence the need for seedmen like D. M. Ferry & Co., They have in experience, the best plantbreeding equipment in the United States, and the business acumen to sell only such seeds as have been bred from the choicest stocks for many generations.

D. M. Ferry & Co's Seed Annual for 1911 may be had free of charge by writing to them at Windsor, Ontario It contains much of interest for those who think.

Farm Sod—The 100 acre farm owned by Mr. Jerry Barry, Lot 12, Con. 12, Stephen, was last week purchased by Mr. Levi Hamacher. The price paid was $6100. This is one of the best farms in Stephen and the purchaser can consider he has a bargain. It was owned for many years by Mr. W. H. Hooper of Exeter.

GREENWAY

The local elections went off quietly. Mr. John Love, our local man for Stephen, was re-elected as councillor. W. T. Ulens was elected by a handsome majority of 130, as reeve of McGillivray. C. H. Wilson of S. S. No. 18, was re-elected trustee for 3 years and R. Webb for the same term in S. S. No. 10.

LONDON THEATERS.

At the London theaters when the young woman shows you to a seat she asks if you wish a program. If you do you pay sixpence in the orchestra or dress circle for a program handsomely printed on fine paper. The price ranges down through "thrippence" and "tuppence" as the galleries ascend to a penny in the cockloft. The quality of paper and the general artistic merit of the program decline with the price, but exactly the same information is conveyed for a penny as for sixpence. The fastidious theater goer might prefer to pay a dime for a neat and simple program rather than to have a bulky bunch of advertisements gratis, as in New York, but these London programs, although not so thick as those of New York, are not devoid of advertisements. This gives the purchaser the feeling that he is being worked at both ends. A lady reminds me, however, that a program in a New York theater costs her 10 cents, as the smeary printing rubs off on her white gloves, the cleaning of which costs a dime.

The quality of the performance at the better London theaters certainly averages no higher than that at similar theaters in New York. The music halls are the resort of the great middle class. These are great auditoriums with tier on tier of galleries, the seating capacity ragging perhaps from 3,000 to 5,000.—London Letter in New York Sun.

The Roman Tribune.

The tribunes in ancient Rome represented the people in much the same way that the house of commons does in England and the house of representatives in this country. For a long time the patricians or aristocrats of Rome had everything their own way. But when the plebeians (or, as we would say, the "plain people") got their tribune the reckless tyranny of the patricians ceased. The tribune had great power. He could veto almost any act and nullify almost any law passed by the Romans. Liberty among the Romans dates from the time they first secured their tribunes.—New York American.

Friendship's Tribute.

Gladys—Did you see what the society column of the Daily Bread said about Nin Gillard the other morning? "She moves with ease and grace in our most exclusive circles." Maybelle—Yes, I read it. It's dead certain that the editor who wrote that had never seen her on roller skates.—Chicago Tribune.

Against His Convictions.

"Have some of this Welsh rabbit, Bjouson?" asked Bjones as he stirred the golden concoction in the chafing dish.

"No, thanks, Bjonesey," returned Bjonson, patting his stomach tenderly. "I am unalterably opposed to all corporation taxes."—Harper's Weekly.

Off Again.

"I met your husband in town. He was very much elated"—

"The villain! He told me he would never take another drop."—Houston Post.

He who would do a great thing well must first have done the simplest thing perfectly.—Cady.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reichard returned last week to their home in Port Huron, after a pleasant visit with the latter's sister, Mrs. Bowey.

BRUCEFIELD—We regret to learn of a serious accident which befell Mr. Charles Wright, of Tuckersmith, near Brucefield, one day of last week. Mr. Wright was in his barn and threw the wind mill into gear. His sleeve got caught in the machinery and he was wound around the shaft so quickly and so tightly that he was unable to free himself. He suffered a badly dislocated shoulder and a fractured rib and was otherwise severely bruised. Fortunately the wind was not very strong at the time or he would certainly have been crushed to death. As it was, his body acted as a break and prevented the mill from revolving until his son came to his relief and throwing the mill out of gear relieved his father from the perlious and painful position.

BLAKE—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Geo. Sparks when their eldest daughter, Margaret, was made the life partner of Dr. Kemp lately of Toronto. About 50 guests were present.

CLINTON—A wedding of much interest to Clinton was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Wiseman, when their eldest daughter, Clara L. Kilbough was married to John G. Robertson, of Lethbridge, Alta., The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alex Stewart, D. D., in the presence of immediate friends and relatives. The bride was assisted by Miss Annie McCorvie who was gowned in pintaninor de soie over silk. Mr. Jno. Crooks supported the groom.

BLANSHARD—The death occurred in Blanshard of Mrs. Abigail Wood, relict of the late Wm. Wood, who predeceased her 17 years. She was in her 69th year and was almost a life long resident of the township. Three sons and three daughters survive.

SEAFORTH—An interesting event took place, Stratford, on Dec. 31st, when Mr. Archibald Middlemost, of Chatham was united in marriage with Miss Roberta Johnston, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. Robert Johnston, of Seaforth.

CLINTON—Last week Mr. John Ransford left for Halifax to sail per S. S. Corsican for England. This will be his twenty-seventh voyage over the big pond.

PARKHILL—A quiet wedding took place at the Methodist Parsonage Sarnia Dec. 27th, when Miss Lydia J. Vanalstine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G Vanalstine, of Parkhill, was united in marriage to Albert Burling, a merchant of Parkhill. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Barraclough.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE;

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER IV.—(Cont'd)

Derrick Darnley had been abroad ever since March. Neither Dorothy, Lord Merefield nor Sir Humphrey had the smallest idea where, but by long custom they were never surprised at anything he did; and when they were all out on the lawn having tea in the afternoon, and the omnibus from Ripstone disgorged the guests, no one—except Nancy—was at all astonished to see Mr. Darnley's tall, well-built form saunter across the lawn, chatting lightly to Mrs. Fairfax, also newly arrived.

Dorothy was supremely delighted at his coming, and showed it. Nancy, too, was strangely pleased, though why, she hardly knew herself, but her face wore nothing but the ordinary smile and expression of everyday greeting.

Lord Merefield looked rather glum; lovers' senses are keen, and he knew that Dorothy Leicester thought far more of Darnley than she did of himself.

Sir Humphrey was loud in his demonstrations of pleasure at welcoming his sister's son back to the Hall.

"Here is some one you know, Derry," he said, turning to Nancy.

"How d'ye do?" inquired Mr. Darnley, leisurely.

And after he had shaken Miss Hamilton's hand, he dropped into a chair and commenced talking busily to Dorothy.

"A cup of tea for Derry, Nancy, darling," cried Dolly.

Nancy bent over the tray.

She felt disappointed and angry.

What did it matter to her what he said or how he looked?

Dorothy's eyes were glowing, her pretty cheeks were flushed with delight, and she hung on her cousin's every word; while he in his turn was feasting his eyes on that girlish form by the tea table.

"She is magnificent," he said to himself; "she eclipses Dorothy with all her dainty loveliness. I would far sooner look at that irregular face with those wonderful eyes, that colored hair, than at the most perfect feautres possible. How these few months have changed her!"

There was a dangerous attraction about this protegee of Sir Humphrey's, the fair sex declared at once, and with great determination.

As the conversation became general, the name of Mr. Crawshaw, the new tenant of the manor, arose.

"Can you tell us anything about him, Mrs. Fairfax?" asked Dorothy, still sitting by Darnley's side.

"I met him only the other day. The man is a boor."

"But we must make allowances for him," interposed Lady Burton. She had two unmarried daughters, who were to follow next day, and so she spoke diplomatically. "Dear Lady Lorrimer met him in Paris the other day and thought him most original."

"Do you know him, Derry?" she asked.

"Yes," he replied, quietly. "I know him. I, too, had the misfortune to meet him in Paris. The fellow is a low, vulgar brute. He comes from the gutter. Even his thousands—and he has many thousands, my pretty cousin—will never be able to gild him, or make his society palatable for an hour."

"He made his money with patent pills, didn't he?"

This from Lord Merefield, in a gloomy tone.

"No; varnish," from Capt. Fairfax.

"I heard, from dear Lady Lorrimer, that it was not in trade at all."

"Quite right, Lady Burton; trade had nothing to do with it. Crawshaw has only just come into his money, by the merest fluke; he has literally had no hand in amassing it."

"Oh! tell us all about it, Darnley!"

Mr. Darnley smiled at Dorothy, but his eyes still lingered on Nancy at the tea table.

"Once upon a time," he began, in the most approved fashion, "there was a publican in the East End of London, who married a wife; in due course of time flourished bought another public house, still another, and then another; in fact, developed into a purveying publican, if I can use such a word; then he died, leaving his widow childless, and worth at least twenty-five to thirty thousand a year. This widow happened to have had a sister, long since dead, and it was to the son of this sister that Mrs. Crawshaw resolved to bequeath all her fortune. She placed the matter in the hands of a good firm of solicitors; her nephew was sought for, was found, and behold him now the temporary owner of the manor, and the friend of that most delightful being, Lady Lorrimer."

There was a supreme touch of sarcasm in Mr. Darnley's voice at the last; but Lady Burton did not seem to notice it.

"Ah!" she said, blandly; "brewers are quite the rage just now. Look at Sir Mulberry Hopkins! No doubt Mr. Crawshaw will be knighted before the year is out."

Darnley's eyes met Nancy's, and they both smiled; both, for some indefinite reason, felt pleased the next moment; but they had no chance of becoming more friendly then, for the dressing gong sounded, and there was a general dispersing of the party to the house.

CHAPTER V.

They were two good-natured, plain girls, with any amount of freckles, lung power and healthy vigor. They had a reckless habit of pouncing on their unwary friends, and submitting them to a rough and hearty embrace.

Nancy was in the garden, culling flowers, when they arrived, so she missed the sight of Dorothy being enveloped in this bearlike hug.

She was humming to herself a little French song she had just learned, and was sauntering away from the house, when she came upon Derrick Darnley, in a cool and comfortable array, lying full length on a grass plot, smoking like a furnace.

Nancy colored and h-sitated; but seeing that his eyes were closed, she resolved to steal past and leave him undisturbed.

As she put this resolve into action, however, the handsome gray eyes opened to their fullest.

"May I not have a rose, Miss Nancy?"

She turned.

"Twenty, if you will."

She threw him a cluster as she spoke.

"Ah!" sighed Mr. Darnley, inhaling the sweet perfume. "How delicious! Oh, by Jove!"

"What is it?" asked Nancy.

"Only a thorn!—a very spiteful one!"

"Let me look," she said, dropping her basket, and kneeling down beside him. "Remember I am a nurse, and know all about these things."

The young man relinquished his well-shaped hand to her soft fingers, and Nancy examined it carefully.

"Where does it hurt you?" she asked.

"Nowhere, now," was his answer, given quietly.

Nancy blushed, but still bent her head over the hand.

"I don't see any scratch."

"And I don't feel one," confessed Mr. Darnley, coolly. "It was an artifice to lure you to sit here. I knew I had only to rouse your womanly sympathy, and I should get my way."

Nancy dropped his hand, and would have risen; but his fingers closed on her wrist, and he drew her gently on to the grass again.

"Don't go!" he said, pleadingly. "I want to talk to you. I want to know all about yourself. If you repent your promise to me? If you are happy?"

"Happy? I never knew the real meaning of the word till now; my life is so beautiful!"

"I am so glad!"

Then there was a slight pause.

"And you forgive me for those disgraceful words I said to Merefield before I——"

"I have forgotten all about them," she answered, truthfully.

There was another pause, and a longer, this time. Mr. Darnley had thrown away his cigarette, and pushed himself on his elbow, so that he could see into the girl's face.

"I have thought about you so often," he said, after a while.

"Of me!" Nancy exclaimed, just lifting those blue eyes of hers, and then dropping them again. "How—how funny!"

"Wasn't it?" very dryly. "I wonder if you have ever bestowed a single thought on me?"

"Dorothy is always talking of you," Nancy replied, evasively; "and, of course, I——"

The broken sentence was most eloquent to the man. He looked as if he would say more, and then he checked himself.

"I met some relations of yours in Paris the other day," he said, instead.

Nancy turned a puzzled face toward him.

"Sir John Hamilton and his family."

She grew a shade paler.

"You have made a mistake; they are not my relations, Mr. Darnley; nor do I desire to claim them as such."

"Are you so proud and unforgiving, Nancy?"

"I don't know. But I cannot forget that they disowned both my mother and myself. You did not tell them I——"

"Do you think I—I mean we—are in such a hurry to lose you?"

She looked at him questioningly.

"Of course they would want you to leave us."

"And you think I would go?" she asked, with quiet reproach.

Darnley drew a shade closer.

"I don't know what I think. I only know what I wish, Nancy."

"Here comes Dolly!" Nancy cried, hurriedly.

With deeply flushed cheeks she rose to her feet, accidentally kicking her basket over as she did so.

"With the two cubs," Darnley observed, lazily, pulling himself into a sitting position, so as to pick up the scattered roses, and wishing vaguely that he could banish everybody and everything from the world except this girl, with her wondrous eyes and splendid face. It was a face to die for, he too himself in that moment, he had never met its equal.

"Please don't bother, Mr. Darnley," Nancy said, hurriedly, her cheeks still glowing, like the innermost heart of the exquisite flowers she was engaged in replacing in their basket; "you look so comfortable, and I can manage quite easily;" then, with a shy, nervous laugh, as if she were eager to get on to another topic; "Why do you call them cubs? It is very rude; they look very nice from here."

"Yes, from here," Mr. Darnley agreed, languidly; then he shivered with mock dismay. "Heavens! do listen to their voices. What lungs! what chest notes! Nancy, you are not going?"

"I must set the flowers, and——"

But before she got any further Dorothy came round the corner with a Miss Chester hanging affectionately on either arm.

Miss Leicester's lovely face flushed as she beheld her cousin, and then she smiled in response to his comical glance.

"Don't go, Nancy," she said, affectionately; and then, after Darnley had greeted Lady Burton's daughters, Miss Leicester introduced her new friend and companion to them with an air of pride and love.

The Hon. Ella and Maude were by no means jealous girls, yet they could not prevent a distinct feeling of depression and disappointment from stealing into their breasts as they realized the full strength of Miss Hamilton's fascination.

However, they shook Nancy's small hand in their vigorous manner; and as Lord Merefield came up attired in tennis garments, they forgot their momentary discomfiture in the prospects of an exciting and immediate game.

Nancy could not resist a hearty fit of laughter at poor Merefield's miserable face, as he saw his dainty lady-love comfortably ensconced on the grass with Mr. Darnley, while he himself was forcibly carried away to the tennis court by the Misses Chester.

"Won't you come, Darnley?" he cried, feebly, as he went; but his invitation was drowned in a chorus of "Oh, Capt. Fairfax is going to join us; come along;" and so, like a lamb to the slaughter, he was borne away.

A WONDERFUL FLOOD.

The French country stationmaster was walking up and down the platform with the air of a director.

"Wonderful floods!" he exclaimed, as he lifted his hat to an extra jaunty angle.

"Beats the record in two ways."

"In two days?" queried a dripping passenger.

"Washed over the level crossing for the first time in living memory, for one, and made the 5.21 late for another," came the explanation.

"That is only one way," growled the passenger. "Nobody ever remembers the 5.21 to have been prompt."

"Very likely, very likely!" agreed the proud official, resuming his strut, "but this is the first time we've been able to find a decent excuse!"

It is useful to remember in cooking potatoes that, after the water has been strained off, the pot should be given three or four sharp jerks so as to toss the potatoes. This has the effect of making them white and floury.

AMOUNTS TO FEED.

Every cow has two limits with regard to feeding. First, there is a limit of capacity; that is the total amount of feed the cow can possibly eat. Second, there is a limit to the amount of feed eaten that can be made use of in keeping up the energies of the body, and in producing milk. All food supplies between these two limits are worse than wasted; because they not only give no return whatever, but once in the stomach it requires extra work for the cow to rid herself of the excess, thus using time when she could otherwise be at rest.

On the other hand when we consider that about sixty per cent. of the food eaten goes to carry on the workings of the different parts of the animal body, and that only the remaining forty per cent. is available for milk production, we see how necessary it is, in order that the cow should do her best work, that the food should be just enough to reach the limit where economical production stops. This limit varies with every cow; for no two cows fed the same amount will both give the most economical returns.

One of the cows, if fed a few more pounds a day, will give larger returns, but this might not be the case with the other cow. Suppose you are feeding each cow 25 pounds a day, one cow giving two and one-half gallons of milk, and the others two gallons; you may find that if you give 30 pounds of feed to the first cow, she will then produce three and a half gallons, while if you increase the amount of food given the other the flow of milk will not be increased. Hence, there may be a considerable waste in feeding for milk.

This brings us to an important point. The dairyman should keep a complete record of each cow in his herd, including both a feed record and a milk record. Then only is he in position to find the standing of each cow and tell which cows are profitable and which are unprofitable. Then only can he know how much feed he can afford to give each cow to make the highest profit. There's a whole lot in knowing what we're doing.

COW A BENEFACTOR.

As population grows, more food is required to sustain it, of which a considerable portion will always consist of animal products of some kind. These would include milk, butter and vegetables as a meat substitute. One pound of nutriment from milk, can be produced more cheaply than one pound of nutriment in meat. The pound of nutriment from milk, however, requires an expenditure of more labor.

Somewhere in the history of man there was formed a lasting friendship between man and the cow. She has ever since been his faithful friend and benefactor. That man was early impressed with the value of the cow is indicated by a discovery of a recent date of a perfectly preserved shrine of the ancient Egyptian goddess Hathor. This shrine dated probably 1500 or 2000 year B. C. History also tells us of ancient Egyptians placing gold leaf on the horns of their cows; and this agrees with the fact that the cow was a great wealth-producer at that early date and has always been man's best friend, feeding motherless children and rewarding her owner. Is this not a truthful representation of the modern cow in her relation to man?

Man has developed the cow by a system of selection, feeding and training for a special purpose. It is the law of nature for all animals to revert to their original type and characteristics, and as the cow is subject to this law, we can keep her up to the standard and steadily improve her offspring only by the most careful selection, feeding and training for higher development. No other animal known to man responds so quickly to his efforts as does the cow, and no animal will record bad treatment like the cow, for she is naturally, and will always remain nervous, as she is never idle in trying to produce for her owner.

SACK FULL OF MONEY.

An aged Ulster (Ireland) farmer staggered into a Belfast bank the other day under the weight of a burden contained in an old potato sack slung over his shoulders. He said that he wanted to lodge some money in the bank. The amazed officials on opening the sack found that it contained 1,200 sovereigns which the old man said were a portion of his life savings he had kept hidden under the floor of his cottage. He has been told by a lawyer when getting his will made, that the money would be far safer in the banks, and that he would get interest on it. The old man also said that he had $2,500 more which he would lodge later.

LONDON'S MILK SHORTAGE.

Owing to a shortage in the produce of milk, English dairy farmers are finding it hard at present to meet London's huge daily consumption. As a result, milk is coming each day from Ireland to help to satisfy the demand of the metropolis. Every night from 250 to 300 churns, each containing about seventy quarts, are being shipped from Ireland by the Fishguard route, and brought by the Great Western Railway to Paddington for distribution in London the following day.

Mrs. Artless—"The Billoughbys have a grandfather clock that's been in the family for more than 150 years." Mr. Artless—"Humph! They didn't have it a year ago." Mrs. Artless—"Oh, no; but, you see, it was stolen nearly fifty years ago, and Mrs. Billoughby tells me it was by the merest chance they discovered it last week in a second-hand shop."

PRAYING ALWAYS.

Ephesians 6: 18, 19.

Father, we come with one accord
And breathe in faith our earnest plea,
While we according to Thy word
Commit Thy messengers to Thee.
We plead in our Redeemer's name
For all who do Thy truth proclaim.

Through them reveal that grace supreme,
Which more than meets the law's demand:
May "Jesus only" be their theme
Which they proclaim in every land:
In His most precious name we pray
For all who preach Thy word this day.

When dangers threaten make them bold;
Discernment to their spirits give;
And may Thy peace their lives enfold
While in Thy cause they work and live:
With grace and strength and wisdom gird
All those who preach the living word.

The heights and depths of truth divine
Enable them to clearly see;
If foes against their work combine
Give them the strength to stand for Thee;
And let Thy saving grace be shown
Through those who make Thy message known.

Coworkers with their risen Head
May all Thy ransomed children be;
May all Thy hosts on earth be led
To join in one unceasing plea:
Inspire in every heart a prayer
For all who do Thy truth declare.

Those who to cultured thousands preach,
And those who for the needy care;
Those who in distant regions teach
The way of life in faith and prayer;
For such may this request be heard:—
Bless all who preach Thy gracious Word.

Do You Realize the Advantages of Concrete?

THE rising price of lumber has compelled the farmer to look for a suitable substitute.

Concrete, because of its cheapness, durability and the readiness with which it can be used for every farm purpose, has proven itself to be cheaper than lumber and far more durable. Our Free Book—shows the farmer how he can do his own work without the aid of skilled mechanics. It demonstrates the economy of Concrete construction as compared with lumber, brick or stone.

"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete"

AGE LIMIT FOR DOCTORS.

Paris Court Thinks They Should Retire at 66.

The Paris Court has just given a decision which will be of interest to medical men as it raises the question of the age at which doctors ought to retire.

At the beginning of last year a well known Paris physician, Dr. Eugene Cheuriot, 66 years of age, was the victim of a serious automobile accident, which prevented him from following his practice for nine months and necessitated a long stay in the South of France. He brought an action against the owner of the automobile which overturned his coupe, claiming $2,400 for medical treatment and his stay in the South; $12,000 for loss of practice and $30,000 for "diminution of clientele in the future because of the time during which he was away from his consulting rooms and of the loss of strength which will for the future prevent him from performing the same amount of work as before the accident."

The Court expressed the opinion that "at the age of Dr. Cheuriot, the greater number of medical men aspire to a well merited repose," and considered therefore that damages to the amount of $12,000 would meet the case. From this it would seem that the Court thinks that doctors are too old at 66 to practise.

COALING BIG WAR SHIPS

HIS MAJESTY'S SAILORS DRESS ANY OLD WAY.

Every Man Takes His Position Just as If the Battleship was in Action.

Twilight has just given place to dawn as the grimy, blunt-nosed collier comes gingerly alongside. As she makes fast a motely crowd hurls itself aboard, swarming all over her, reeving whips and outhauls, and flinging sacks and shovels into the holds.

Hardly two men are dressed alike, for on a "coal-ship" day the uniform regulations of his Majesty's fleet are relaxed—indeed, they are disregarded entirely—and the utmost latitude is allowed in the matter of dress.

The forecastlemen and foretopmen, each under their own officers, attack the foremost holds of the collier, the maintopmen and quarterdeckmen the after-holds; while the donkey-engines have been hastily overhauled by stokers, with a view to getting the best possible work out of them.

EACH PART OF THE SHIP

has two whips for hoisting the bags of coal inboard, and they must keep them well supplied.

A bugle sounds the "Commence!" and as the first hoist—five sacks of coal, weighing 2 cwt. each—swings into the battleship a cheer goes up fro mthe men.

As soon as a group has five sacks filled, a hemp strop is passed through the beckets at their mouths and one of the whips is hooked on. "Heave up, two!" yells a voice. An officer standing by the coaming of the hatch holds up a small flag. There is a rattle from the donkey-engine, and up goes the hoist, amidst shouts of "Stand from under!" as the men dodge the loose lumps of coal that fall from it. The hands on the hemp outhaul ease it away, and the hoist swings over the deck of the battleship. The officer, seizing the right moment, slaps the flag to his side, and down go the bags of coal on the deck, where a party of men spring on them to get them out of the way before the arrival of the next hoist.

DOWN AMONG THE DUST.

On board ship the Marines, each armed with an iron trolley, rush the full sacks one by one to the appointed coal-shoots. Here they are tipped up, and the coal pours down into the bunkers, while the empty bags are passed back to the collier to be refilled.

But the matter does not end with the disappearance of the coal from on deck. Down below in the bunkers are the men who have the least pleasant part of the work to do—stokers, who trim the coal as it comes in, working in enclosed spaces, in which the atmosphere is thick with the fine flying dust. Manipulating weird-looking rakes, and dodging the descending avalanches, they distribute them to the corners so as to get the bunker evenly and completely filled, and to keep a clear space beneath the shoot to prevent it from becoming choked.

Except for half an hour's interval for breakfast, and the same for dinner, the work

CONTINUES INCESSANTLY.

Every hour a midshipman chalks up the results on the sides of the hatchways, so that the shovellers in each hold can compare their efforts with those of their rival parts of the ship. The band plays lively airs on the shelter-deck, and nearly everyone smokes. Mess-kettles of lime-juice-and-water are passed down, and the seamen wash the coal-dust from their parched throats. All the officers who are not required for special duties shovel coal with their men, and the commander and first lieutenant are everywhere at once, full of encouragement, and dealing with any mishap that may occur. Perhaps towards the end speed decreases as the bunkers become congested, and the coal on the decks cannot be disposed of so quickly; but at last the bugle sounds "Cease firing!" and a mighty cheer goes up from the collier with the final hoist.—London Answers.

TAPERS?

Recently a mistress was showing her new servant how to prepare dinner. All went well until the macaroni for the pudding was produced. The servant was surprised when she saw the long white sticks. When they were placed in water she looked astonished.

"Did you say, missus," she said, "that you are going to make a pudding of that?"

"Yes, Molly," was the reply. "Have you never seen macaroni cooked before?"

"No, ma'am," answered Molly. "The last place I was at we used them things to light the gas with."

FOUND QUICK CURE AFTER EIGHT YEARS

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS TRIUMPH WHERE BELTS AND PLASTERS FAIL.

Poodiac, King's Co., N. B., Jan. 9 (Special).—After suffering for eight years, while all the time the remedy was right at hand, Mr. Moses Sherwood, a well known farmer living near here, tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and is now as well as ever he was in his life.

Mr. Sherwood's experience is similar to that of thousands of other natives of New Brunswick. "About eight years ago I hurt my back from lifting," he states. "I used liniments and plasters and wore a wide belt, but in two years my trouble had developed into Kidney disease.

"My back was so sore I could not lift any weight, when reading a Dodd's Almanac led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before the first box was finished my backache was gone and I have never been troubled with it since."

Belts and plasters may give temporary relief in cases of Backache or Rheumatism, but the only way to cure them is to go to the seat of the trouble. Cure the Kidneys and the Backache or Rheumatism will disappear. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure the Kidneys.

It may not be so bad if your views are one-sided—providing you always look upon the bright side.

While more prevalent in winter, when sudden changes in the weather try the strongest constitutions, colds and coughs and ailments of the throat may come in any season. At the first sight of derangement use Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. Instant relief will be experienced, and use of the medicine until the cold disappears will protect the lungs from attack. For anyone with throat or chest weakness it cannot be surpassed.

Perhaps you have observed that spiritualistic mediums do not seem to care a rap for each other.

THE LIMIT.

A Toronto man who visited Britain last summer appears to think that country the champion tip-taker.

He says: "Well, I had tipped every man, from the swell gent who seemed to own the House of Commons down to the hireling who gummed the wrong labels on my luggage, and I went into the waiting-room on the landing-stage at Liverpool to wash my hands, and what do you think stared me in the face, when I had finished? A placard, 'Please tip the basin.' I'll be hanged if I did!"

PERUVIAN RAIN TREE.

Power of Collecting Dampness in Atmosphere and Condensing It.

The rain tree of Peru grows very large, is rich in leaves and is called by the Indians tamaicaspi. It has the power of collecting the dampness of the atmosphere and condensing it into a cantinuous copious supply of rain.

In the dry season when the rivers are low and the heat great the tree's power of condensing seems at the highest and water falls in abundance from the leaves and oozes from the trunk. The water spreads around in veritable rivers, part of which filters into the soil and fertilizes it. These rivers are canalized so as to regulate the course of the water.

It is estimated that one of the Peruvian rain trees will on an average yield nine gallons of water per diem. In a field of an area of one kilometer square—that is, 3,250 feet each way—can be grown 10,000 trees separated from each other by 25 meters. This plantation produces daily 385,000 liters of water. If we allow for evaporation and infiltration we have 135,000 liters or 29,531 gallons of rain for distribution daily. The rain tree can be cultivated with very little trouble, for it seems indifferent as to the soil in which it grows. The tree increases rapidly and resists both extremes of climate.

IMPOSSIBLE.

Bobby's father is not a brilliant sort of man; it has been said in fact, that he errs decidedly in the other direction.

He took Bobby the other day on a short visit to some friends, and, thinking to make a good impression, he started a conversation.

"I had quite an adventure the other evening," he said. "At the corner of a dark street a man suddenly sprang out on me, and said that if I didn't give him my watch he'd knock my brains out. Fortunately, a policeman came along, and the man took to his heels!"

"And weren't you afraid?" asked his hostess.

"Afraid!" echoed Bobby's papa modestly. "Well, I hope not."

"But," went on the lady, "if he had carried out his threat?"

"Well," answered the visitor, "if he had——" And then the loyal little Bobby struck in.

"I'll bet there's nobody who could knock any brains out of father!" he said proudly.

Employer—"Mr. Tops, I have long observed with approval your assiduity and devotion to business, and I am now about to test your abilities in a new capacity, in which I feel sure, you will acquit yourself with credit to the house and—er——" Mr. Tops (highly delighted)—"I—I—I shall do my best, sir!" Employer—"As I was about to say, Mr. Tops, the porter is ill this morning, and I shall have to ask you to sweep out the office."

WHAT A C.P.R. FIREMAN OWES TO ZAM-BUK

"George H. Duffus of Robertson St., Fort William, a C. P. R. fireman, says: "The water gauge of my locomotive burst and scalded the whole left side of my face terribly. I had a box of Zam-Buk in my pocket, which I was using for a sore on my lip, and when I had recovered from the first shock of the accident, I produced the balm and had it applied freely to the scalded parts. I was suffering acute agony, but within a wonderfully short time Zam-Buk gave me ease. I was able to continue my journey and upon reaching home, I obtained more Zam-Buk and continued the treatment. Zam-Buk acted wonderfully well, and in a few days had the wound nicely healing. I don't know anything so fine as Zam-Buk as a healer of burns, scalds, cuts, and similar injuries, which workers are so liable to, and, in my opinion, a box of Zam-Buk should be kept handy in every worker's home."

* Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

HICKS' FORECASTS FOR JANUARY —A regular storm period will be the order from the 14th to the 19th, central on the 16th. This period promises two distinctive storm paroxysms, the first on and near the 14th—the second on and near the 19th. Low barometer, threatening cloudiness, and rains turning to snow, will pass eastwardly across the country during this period. A very marked high barometer, and change to severe, cold, fair weather, will follow these storms. Plan for these changes, accordingly as you are located along the line from west to east and thus outwit the inconveniences and danger of storms and weather. A seismic wave will pass through the Earth during a period of six days, central on the 14th.

SUDDEN DEATH—Residents of Exeter were surprised and shocked on Sunday morning to hear of the sudden death about midnight of Jane Corbett, beloved wife of Mr. Henry Lambrook, Laughall St., Exeter. Deceased had suffered from a heavy cold for several days, but was thought to have been in no especial danger. She, however, had been more or less troubled for sometime with an affection of the heart, and on Saturday evening she became much worse, passaway as above stated. Born in Kingston, Ont., seventy-six years ago, she later moved to Hay Township and there married her now bereaved husband in October, 1855. Five years ago last October the aged couple celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day. They resided in Exeter practically ever since their marriage. Besides the bereaved husband, who is now confined to his bed through illness, deceased is survived by one son, J. H. Lambrook of Fort Wayne, Ind., one daughter, Mrs. Dennis Halloran of Brantford, and one sister, Mrs. James Sweet of Exeter. The late Mrs. Lambrook was a member of The Trivitt Memorial Church, faithful and devout in her religious exercises, and respected by all who knew her. The relatives have the sympathy of their many friends in the hour of their bereavement. The funeral took place to the Exeter cemetery on Wednesday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. D. W. Collins.

Just now we are experiencing our third January thaw.

Mr. Jos. Senior is confined to his home, suffering from a heavy cold.

Mr. (Dr.) McGillicuddy is progressing nicely, after her recent operation for appendicitis in Victoria Hospital, London. She will probably return home the latter part of this week.

Mrs. Chas. Knight, who has been suffering from an attack of pneumonia and who it was feared would not recover, is considerably better and is now on a fair way to recovery.

Mr. Robb, Inspector of Public schools for East Huron, has resigned and the appointment of a new inspector will be made at the January meeting of the County Council. The name of Mr. Weldenhammer principal of the Exeter, school, has been prominently mentioned in connection with the position. Should he received the appointment there is no doubt of his being able to perform the duties satisfactory.

The resignation of Mr. Jos. Senior as clerk of the municipality was received by the council on Monday last, and applications are now been received for a successor in the office. During the five years that Mr. Senior has been clerk he has performed the duties of the office in a careful and painstaking manner, but in doing so he has found it necessary to neglect his own business somewhat, as well as causing him much extra work, with the result that his health has suffered accordingly. The office is no sinecure at the salary paid, as the work is yearly becoming heavier.

LICENSES TO BE REDUCED TO 4.

As the result of a largely signed petition which was presented to the Council of Stephen Township on Monday a motion was passed to reduce after May next the number of licenses in the Township to 4. The present number is 6, the hotels being at Centralia, Crediton, Khiva, Dashwood, Grand Bend and Mount Carmel.

R. S. LANG SCORES ANOTHER VICTORY OVER OTTAWA GOVERNMENT OFFICIALDOM.

It will be remembered that in May last Mr. R. S Lang was charged before Magistrates Kay, Sanders and Moir with a violation of the Inspection and Sales Act. The charge was dismissed by the magistrates, and thereupon the Government Inspector appealed, claiming that the decision of the magistrates was contrary to law. The appeal has been twice argued before His Honor Judge Holt, who has now delivered his judgment upholding the magistrates' decision upon all points, and ordering the appellant to pay all costs.

This is the fourteenth case in which Mr. Lang has succeeded in his fight with the government regarding apple packing and apple inspection.

Big Moving Sale

Being compelled to move from our present place of business we have decided to do so on Feb. 1st. After that date you will find the harness shop just two doors South of where it now is in store now occupied by Miss Morlock. As we desire to move no winter goods we will make it worth while to buy them before Feb. 1st even if you do not need to use them until next winter and will give 10 per cent. off all Mitts, and gloves, blankets, robes and bells. This to-gether with free Oil offer, makes these goods cheaper than you will ever be able to buy them again Do not forget that our repair department is up-to-date and we always try to let you take repairing home with you the same day as brought in, and also save you money on it. Rev. Hobbs on Tobacco

The pastor of the James street church on Sunday evening delivered a long and strong sermon on "The Tobacco Habit" to a large congregation, in the course of which he made some very strong and astounding statements.

The sermon was the last of a series on "The Chariots of Iron," or the hindrance to the progress of the Christian religion.

In part he said.—

It seems to have been a startling announcement that I should put the tobacco habit as the greatest hindrance to the work of the Lord. I am not going to quarrel with the indulgers. They have my profoundest sympathy. I wish to do them good. But I may become your enemy by telling you the truth. I should show disrespect for myself if I made the sacred desk a thrashing stock for any poor sinner, but we must proclaim the truth. I state that tobacco is the greatest hindrance on the experience of thirty years. I am dealing with nicotine the most virulent poison, save prussic acid. From the standpoint of poison it is more dangerous than alcohol. Here he stated that he had received a note through the post office asking him to go for the sellers as well as the users, and enclosing a newspaper clipping from Paris which stated that tobacco aids digestion. Against this he quoted from the speech of General Baden Powell it proves that it was injurious to the sight and not a preventive of fever in West Africa, also from Dr. Gibbons to prove it is injurious to the salivary glands and stomach; from Dr. Glenn to prove injury to nerves; from Dr. Prout to prove that it stupifies; from T. B. Torry to show that a wife has been killed by a husband using tobacco, and that flies have died after lighting on the body of a man who had been steeped in tobacco. It grieved him to think that military colleges, banks, etc., were ahead of the church in forbidding the use of tobacco by boys. No tobacco user is fit to room with one who does not use it Tobacco is a nuisance. You cannot get away from it even on the street. It should be prohibited on the street the same as spitting is prohibited. Girls, don't get tied up to a human smokestack for your own sake and the sake of offspring. Dr. Lavell of Kingston Penitentiary says that tobacco, not drink, is the fountain head of crime. Science is opposed to tobacco as it destroys the land and nothing but the tobacco worm will eat it. Don't be a tobacco worm. Nine out of ten boys fall into drinking by using tobacco. It does more harm than rum. 20,000 die annually from the effects of tobacco in United States. Eighty-seven diseases are traceable to tobacco. Nothing can be said in favor of it. Against it we can say it is a bad habit, a filthy habit, an expensive habit, a selfish habit, a public nuisance, disqualifies for service, causes loss of time. Some of the excuses offered are that it quiets the nerves, is a sedative, aids digestion, it safeguards from malaria, a helpful stimulant, my father used it—all of which he said were only excuses.

He closed by an earnest appeal to Canadians to preserve our great inheritance by safeguarding the boys. It should not be found in a provision store or a butcher shop. Don't have it used or sold in your store. I would no more deal out tobacco than whiskey. I would sooner that my boy was given a drink of whiskey than a cigar. Go out of the business. Clean out the traffic. I would rather follow my daughter to the grave than see her marry a man who used tobacco. He said he had designed a pledge card against tobacco and proposes to get all he can to sign it.

A little friendly advice generally costs all it is worth.

Don't be a grouch. There is too much competition for you to hope to be a great success at it.

HUGE CANAL PLAN TO BE LAUNCHED.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—The latest canal scheme, and probably the most ambitious which has been listed for the consideration of Parliment, is that of the Great Lakes and Atlantic Canal and Power Company, a charter the present session.

The Company asks power to construct a canal from some point on the eastern shore of Lake Huron, in the county of Huron, to the Northern shore of Lake Erie, in the county of Elgin and another canal from some point on the Northern-eastern shore of Lake Erie, in the county of Haldimand, to the western shore of Lake Ontario, near the county of Lincoln; to improve and deepen if necessary a channel in Lake Ontario, and also in the River St. Lawrence, to a point in the county of Grenville; also to construct a canal from Grenville to the city of Ottawa; to deepen a ship channel in the Ottawa River, from the canal to its Junction with the Riviere Des. Prairies; to deepen the channel in the said Riviere Des. Prairies to join the "St. Lawrence ship canal" below the island of Montreal, or by an alternate route, from St. Ann's in the county of Jacques Cartier, through Lake St. Louis to Montreal.

This would make and complete throughout the entire distance from Lake Huron to the St. Lawrence ship channel, or the port of Montreal, a navigable canal and ship channel of a depth of not less than twenty-eight feet and not over 33 ft. and of such width as may be found necessary to enable ocean going vessels to meet and pass in safety at any point in the canals, lake or river channels.

COMMUNICATION

RE- LICENSE REDUCTION IN THE TOWNSHIP OF STEPHEN

To The Exeter Advocate

Mr. Editor.—Will you kindly allow me a little space in your valuable paper to express my opinion upon one thing which was enacted by our municipal Board at its first meeting—that of license reduction. No doubt the Board has jurisdiction in the matter, but it seems a very bold step to take, in view of the expression of the vote cast by the electorate of the municipality one year ago. But if the license are to be reduced it ought to be done in those sections of the township where the people are calling out for such and then only after the hotel men have been fully compensated for their property, which would certainly depreciate in value, for according to the rule as we have it in the Book of all books the best, we must do unto others as we would that others should do unto us. This shutting a man down completely will not, in our opinion, aid the cause of temperance—quite the opposite, for there are those, who, as ourselves aren't favorable to the liquor business, yet we believe in British fair-play. There are other features too, such as the loss in revenue, only a small trifle, no doubt, spread over the entire municipality, but the people who want to be rid of the hotels should be willing to pay the very last cent of the same for all time to come. I close with the wish that the measure does not become law.

TRAVERS GETS SIX YEARS.

W. R. Travers, late General Manager of the Defunct Farmers Bank, on Friday last pleaded guilty of wrecking the bank—on three separate charges, making false returns to the Government as to the assets of the bank, the theft of $190,000 of the banks funds, and making false entries in the minutes of the Board of Directors.

On Monday he was sentenced to six years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Travers is 57 years old.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, the first president of the bank, and it is supposed that others also are implicated in the stealing.

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

SELECTED RECIPES.

Sweet Potatoes with Peanuts.—Cut cold boiled sweet potatoes in slices and place them in a shallow pan. Pour melted butter over them and sprinkle with peanuts chopped rather fine. Brown them in a hot oven.

Apple Stuffing for Game or Fowl.—Take one pint of tart apple-sauce, or thin sliced raw apple, mix with one small cupful of bread-crumbs, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of powdered sage, a small onion sliced fine, and season with cayenne pepper.

A New England woman's way of improving winter vegetables. — Beets: Boil the beets until almost done. Put them in a pan, coat each beet with a little melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, and bake till brown. Squash: Boil and mash and beat until perfectly smooth. Put in a baking-dish with pieces of butter on top and bake.

Carrot Jam.—To three pounds of carrots add two and one-half pounds of sugar, the grated peel of six large lemons and two ounces of almonds. The carrots must be baked until tender in an earthen jar containing sufficient water to cover them, then smashed and passed through a sieve. The almonds should be cut very fine. Boil all together twenty minutes. The jam will keep for a long time.

Buckwheat Johnny-Cake. — Use two cups of fresh, rich buttermilk, —if it is not very rich, add two tablespoonfuls of cream,—one cup of maple-syrup or melted maple-sugar, two teaspoonfuls of soda, one heaped teaspoonful of ginger, enough flour—equal parts buckwheat and common wheat—to make batter as for griddle-cakes. Bake in a long tin and cut in squares. India wheat flour is even better in this receipt than the buckwheat, but in most districts it is not easy to procure.

Peanut Soup.—Into a double boiler put one tumblerful of peanut butter, one pint of water and one quart of milk. Add two teaspoonfuls of salt, a slice or two of onion, according to size, and one cupful of chopped celery, or one saltspoonful of celery seed. Moisten two level tablespoonfuls of cornstarch in a little cold milk. When the mixture in the double boiler reaches the scalding-point, add the cornstarch and stir for five minutes, after which the soup is ready to serve with croutons or crackers.

A German Receipt for cooking peas, beans and lentils.—Because of their nutritive properties and their cheapness these vegetables are highly esteemed by Europeans. In Germany this is a favorite method of preparing them: Cook the peas —or beans or lentils—in water until they become a pulpy mass. Season them with butter and salt and press them through a fine sieve. They should be of the consistency of mashed potatoes. At the last moment, before serving, put over them two or three tablespoonfuls of fried onions.

Chop-Suey.—Boil separately one-half pound of pork, one-half pound of veal and one small chicken. Fry quickly in butter and oil three large onions and three stalks of celery. Slice the meat, onions, celery and one-half pound of fresh mushrooms, and mix thoroughly, adding the stock of the meat. Cook all the ingredients together for half an hour. While cooking, add two teaspoonfuls of Chutney sauce and season with pepper and salt. Serve in bowls. Sometimes a sauce, made of equal quantities of Chutney and Worcestershire sauce, is served with this dish.

A New Meat Pudding—Ever since the times of which Chaucer wrote, English people have been fond of meat pudding. Only recently has it been discovered, however, that the substitution of corn-meal for white flour makes a much more delicious dish than the time-honored pudding. The receipt requires two pounds of round steak, or other lean beef, two cups of corn-meal, one cup of flour, one-half pound of suet and one tablespoonful of salt. Chop the suet fine; mix it thoroughly with the corn-meal, flour and salt and add enough water to make a stiff dough. Roll out the dough to a uniform thickness of a little less than half an inch, and place it on a cloth. Cut the beef into small pieces and season with pepper and salt. Put the meat on the dough, draw the cloth together and tie it tightly, so that the meat will be completely enclosed by the dough. Boil for five hours.

Two Kinds of Filled Cookies. — For the fig filling put one-half pound of figs into a saucepan with three or four tablespoonfuls of water, and place over a slow fire. Cover the saucepan and let the figs simmer until the water is absorbed. Then chop them very fine, return them to the fire, with one-half [illegible] of water and the juice of [illegible] lemon, and cook to a smooth paste. If raisins are preferred, use one cup of chopped raisins, one-half cup of sugar, one-half cup of water and one tablespoonful of flour. Boil the mixture until thick, being careful to watch it, as it burns easily. While the paste is cooling, make the cooky dough by using one cup of sugar, one-half cup of shortening, one egg, one-half cup of milk, three and one-half cups of flour, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one teaspoonful of soda and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Roll the dough out in a thin sheet; spread the paste on one-half of the dough, fold over the other half and cut in squares. Bake the filled cookies in a moderate oven.

USEFUL HINTS.

Verdigris may be removed by rubbing with liquid ammonia.

Mahogany or any other colored wood may be darkened by polishing with cold drawn linseed oil.

Feathers uncurled by damp weather are quickly dried by shaking over fire, in which salt has been thrown.

Metal kitchen spoons should be washed to get rid of the grease, and then scoured with salt and sand.

Meat should be hung in a cool, airy place, but not in a strong draught, for that makes it dry and unpalatable.

A pinch of salt on the tongue followed 10 minutes afterward by a drink of cold water often cures sick headache.

To improve pork chops add a teaspoonful of finely chopped onion to a beaten egg and a good pinch of sage.

Pure glycerine is a wonderful stain eradicator. Smear a coffee or tea stain with it, and then rinse in warm water.

The best way to learn dresmaking is to begin by unpicking old dresses. This discovers how they are put together.

When roasting meat in the oven put a small basin of water into it to prevent any disagreeable smell, or the oven getting overheated.

Dusters can be made out of old cotton dresses, and chintz covers. These are nice and soft, and better for use than new material.

Pieces of newspaper soaked and squeezed out in water and sprinkled over a carpet before it is swept will keep down the dust.

Milk will clean piano keys satisfactorily. It will take out ink spots of long standing. Used in starch, it will give a satisfactory gloss.

A little fine cornflour mixed in before cooking helps to keep custard from curdling, and also absorbs the water that comes from over-baking.

If a vanilla bean is kept in the sugar jar, it will give the sugar a very delicate flavor. This is especially desirable for sugar to be used in cake baking.

When boiling a pudding put a saucer at the bottom of the saucepan in which the pudding is cooked, and there will be no danger of its sticking.

If potatoes are rubbed with butter, lard, or olive oil before baking the skins will be found to be thin and soft after baking; olive oil is less liable to burn.

If a pair of shoes has become stiffened with walking in the wet, they should first be washed with warm water and then have oil well rubbed into them.

White floor matting may be scrubbed with bran water. Put two pints of bran into two quarts of water and boil it. Strain, and, when cool, use for scrubbing the matting.

The yolks of eggs will not turn dark when hard boiled if they are put in boiling water rather than cold at first. Half an hour is not too long to cook them to acceptable hardness.

Keep bedrooms sweet by admitting plenty of fresh air. Avoid woollen curtains, and, above all else, an old carpet. Nothing is more likely to give a close smell to a bedroom.

When two glass tumblers or dishes stick together so that there is danger of breaking in getting them apart, put cold water in the inner one and hold the outer one in warm water, and they will separate at once.

Flour should always be kept in a cool, dry place, well protected from dust. It should be sifted before baking, as this helps to make it light. Half a teaspoonful of salt should be sifted with every pound of flour in order to bring out the flavor.

When potatoes promise to be watery, cook them in the following way: Scrub them, and score the skin with a knife lengthwise and across all the way round, but not deep. Then boil in salted water. The cracked skin lets out the water and renders the potato dry and floury.

Hands roughened by housework can be much improved and softened by the use of the following mixture: Take equal parts of olive oil and glycerine and mix well together. Apply as follows—Wash and cleanse the hands thoroughly before going to bed with good soap and warm water, when partially drp, rub the mixture thoroughly into them.

THE HOLY CITY.

Returned Tourist Complains of "Biblical Travesties."

The "brutal exploitation" of Jerusalem by its inhabitants for the sake of getting money from the tourist is complained of by a recent and evidently pious German traveler.

The road to Cavalry, along which Jesus bore the cross, for example, is pointed out, although in fact the ancient city with its streets lies buried many a yard beneath the surface. The marks of His footsteps, the impression of His hand, the site of the Ascension and many other fancied historical remains are used for the purpose of extracting backsheesh.

At the same time Dr. Richard Linde, the traveler in question, admits that not all he saw in the Holy City aroused such feelings of indignation. He was particularly and earnestly impressed by the scene that takes place each Sunday at the old wall of the Temple, three yards high and five long, where since the Middle Ages the Jews are wont to bemoan the vanished glory of their city. One nears the touching litany in the form of a dialogue between the leader of the lamentation and the wailing congregation around him.

"On account of the Temple which has been destroyed," begins the leader, and his song is taken up by the crowd with "sit we here solitary and weep."

"On account of the walls which have been destroyed, on account of the glory which has passed away," continues the leader, and again the crowd wailingly replies, "sit we here in solitude and weep," just as the daughters of Zion sat and wept by the waters of Babylon.

Or a prayer is put up to heaven. "Have mercy on the people of Zion!" sings the leader and the crowd continues, "Reassemble the Children of Jerusalem!"

"Haste, haste, Thou Saviour of Zion!" and the crowd continues, "May the empire of Zion be again established!"

Such scenes as this, Dr. Linde says, suggest the true atmosphere of Jerusalem to the Christian, not the reliques and Biblical travesties which are palmed off on the merely curious tourist.

MASONWORK IN WINTER.

Chief Engineer Rabut of the street department of Paris has demonstrated by a long series of experiments the efficiency of anhydrous carbonate of soda as an agent permitting the preparation of mortar for building even in the coldest weather. The results are said to be superior to those obtained by the use of warm water, of alcohol, of sea-salt, or any other mixture hitherto employed. Not only does the addition of the soda prevent the ill effects of low temperatures upon the mortar, but causes it to set and harden more quickly than it otherwise would. The masons employing this process wear rubber gloves to prevent inflammation of the skin.

CUT OFF 11,000 QUEUES.

Hong Kong has just witnessed a remarkable queue-cutting demonstration. Six wealthy elders, the aggregate of whose ages is 49 years, set an example to their fellows on the platform of the Chinese Club, while an Indian military band played selections from Gilbert and Sullivan operas. Hundreds of other men followed their lead. The promoters of the movement had effectively cited the case of an oiler who was killed when his queue became entangled in some machinery. The movement has become so widespread that in Hong Ko g alone within three days 11,000 men voluntarily discarded their queues. No change in the national costume is contemplated.

MUST GO TO SCHOOL UNTIL 18.

Munich is said to be the cleanest, best-governed city in Europe, to all appearances. It has women street cleaners, and they keep the asphalt as clean as a ballroom floor. But it is in its conduct of education that Munich excells. Education is compulsory until 18 years of age. The pupil may attend "half time" after a certain age, but attendance until the age of 18 is compelled. Technical training is given in school in almost any vocation you can conceive. If you have decided to be a bath attendant, you can take a course in that or in barbering, if

CHEAP PHONES IN SIGHT

NEW DEVICE WILL SAVE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

American Officer Has Given Multiplex Telephone Invention to the Nation.

Patents have just been issued to Major G. O. Squiers of the United States Signal Corps, for his multiplex telephone system by the adoption of which millions of dollars in tolls is expected to be saved in telephone tolls. The inventor dedicates his invention to the people of the United States so that any one can make use of it, free of all cost of royalty, license or rent. It cannot be appropriated by any one corporation or individual or trust. It is the invention of an army officer and belongs to the people of the United States.

MANY TALK ON ONE WIRE.

The discovery may be described as wireless telephony guided by a wire. As many as ten conversations, or more, it is said, may be held over one wire. The theory is that the vibrations of the ether surrounding the wire became the vehicle by which conversation is held, not by the wire, as in ordinary telephony. The instruments to be employed are those now commonly used in ordinary wireless telephony, and may be bought of almost any electrical supply establishment. There is, as in wireless telephony, a use of "tunes" for each conversation.

Major Squiers believes that general use will soon be made of his discovery by private individuals and by telephone companies. He expects that one result will be a general reduction of the cost of telephone service and possibly its more widely distributed use. The machine is regarded of special value for long distances. It gives a clear and audible tone and will probably be first applied in that direction.

EDISON PREDICTED IT.

This discovery was predicted thirty-five years ago by Thomas A. Edison, when the prediction was regarded more as a dream than a possibility. One feature of the new telephone is its success in transmitting music over the wires. The strains of a band, violin, or of an organ are distinctly heard. It is believed that long distance transmission of opera music, sermons, and lectures is possible by this means.

The new system of multiplex telephony it is said, may be applied to all local telephone exchanges without any modification of the present installation, and could conduct a telephone system without the use of two wires, as now.

The superposition of numerous conversations on one wire will not in any way interfere with the present use of the telephone by the apparatus now in use. The multiplex may be used with one wire or two, and can be accommodated to the simplest or to the most complex installation.

The telephone companies will derive immediate benefit from the invention, but in time it is expected that there will be a reduction in tolls of all kinds as the system becomes generally adopted. In the cost of wire alone, of which there are many millions of miles in the United States, there will be marked saving, and the annual expenditure for new equipment will be much reduced.

OVER ICE IN CHAINS.

Convict Escapes From Island Fortress of Schlusselburg.

For the first time in living memory a convict has escaped from the island fortress of Schluesselburg, in the Neva, Russia.

While working in the afternoon in the open air the convict scaled the wall with the aid of a rope and subsequently, though chained, walked all night across the ice of Lake Ladoga toward the Burgrovsky Lighthouse. Early on the following morning the man was discovered by some peasants and was seized and taken back to the prison.

The Schlusselburg fortress, rich in memories of the battles between Russians and Swedes, is seen from the river, a place of old walls, and low, round watch-towers. Among the famous political prisoners who spent years there was Biron, the Empress Anna's favorite. The Schlusselburg prisoners nowadays are treated with no little consideration. The cells are lighted with electricity and heated by hot water radiators. The prisoners are allowed to smoke, and there is a good library. Every man sentenced to more than eight years' penal servitude is during the first two years chained on the feet.

To keep outdoor brass bright, clean the brass as usual, then rub it carefully over with a soft cloth dipped in vaseline, and afterwards polish with a dry duster. This will keep it from tarnishing quickly, even in the dampest weather.

THE GREAT HAVE FALLEN

ARISTOCRATIC ENGLISHMEN DOWN AND OUT.

Noblemen Have Taken Humble Positions When Fortunes Were Squandered.

There are many stories of downfalls of aristocratic Englishmen which only a few people ever hear about, because they are always cleverly hushed up.

How many, for instance, are aware that in Florida an English baronet is working as a day laborer for five dollars a week? He hopes to be able to go home again some day and marry a wealthy lady who is "waiting" for him. His career has been a strange one and not altogether creditable. Cheating at cards was the cause of his downfall.

COUNT IN PAUPER WARD.

Many Europeans will still remember that a famous count died in the pauper ward of one of the New York hospitals. He was the son of a prince, and a grand-nephew of that great German Field-Marshal who helped the Duke of Wellington to win the battle of Waterloo. Another count, a man who left England because of the bitter opposition of his relatives to his marriage with an actress, is now acting as hotel manager in one of the small hotels in San Francisco.

There is a remarkable hotel in Chicago. The proprietor is an Englishman who has been officer in a crack cavalry regiment, and the manageress is the widow of an English clergyman, while the bookkeeper is alleged to be Count Szechenyi, the nephew of one of the Austrian Ambassadors at Berlin; and to crown all the hall porter of this exceedingly aristocratic hotel is a real live baron—once a cavalry officer in the Austrian army.

RIDING MASTERS.

A nephew of a Prussian Cabinet Minister, and a cousin of Princess Bismarck, has been a member of the Salvation Army in New York. Before finding a refuge among the followers of General Booth he had experienced all the bitter miseries of poverty. His career has been a very strange one, and before departing for the States he had some exceedingly interesting adventures in South America.

Quite a number of noblemen are to be found employed as teachers at the New York riding academies. Some years ago it was said that a cousin of the late Prince Consort was the chief instructor at one of these schools near Central Park, though why he occupied the post has never been explained. Teaching the art of riding seems to be a popular profession for aristocrats down on their luck; even to-day two barons and a count hold similar posts.

AN EXTRAORDINARY SCHOOL.

Where Chinese Ladies Smoke, but Study Not.

A. S. Roe, in his book called "China as I Saw It," gives an odd pen picture of a school, many of whose pupils, from 8 to 40 years old, were the wives of high officials.

"Eager to display her knowledge of Western customs," he says, "the principal, a Chinese lady of rank, herself well educated, dressed herself a l'anglaise in a purple, sack-like tunic, belted in at the waist, a shiny black sailor hat lined with flannelette and trimmed with real flowers that had withered away, and lastly, brown boots on her poor little misshapen feet.

"'What do you teach them?' asked my friend.

"'Oh,' whispered the little lady, confidentially, 'they don't really learn anything, you know, but they like to come and their husbands like them to come.'

"'What do they do, then?'

"'They just talk, and play, and smoke their water pipes, and if there is any matter of dispute their husbands sit in committee and decide the question.'

"'But what a pity,' said my friend. 'Could you not urge them to make better use of their time?'

"'Well, there was one,' said the little lady, sadly, 'who had plenty of ability, but when I pressed her to study, she complained to her husband that she was being ill treated and that was an end of it.'

"There is certainly a pathetic side to this new craze in China for education and Western knowledge in any shape and form. Even the man who advertised that he could 'teach the English language up to the letter G' probably did not lack for pupils."

THE S. S. LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, JAN 22.

Lesson IV.—Omri and Ahab Lead Israel into Greater Sin, 1 Kings 16. 15133. Golden Text, Prov. 14. 34.

Verse 15. Zimri . . . seven days in Tirzah—He had slain not only the drunken king, Elah, but all the male members of the house of Baasha, according to the word of Jehu the prophet. His crime and terrible fate became a byword in after years (2 Kings 9. 31).

Gibbethon—See above. There had been an intermittent siege of this place for twenty-seven years, with no apparent success.

16. Made Omri . . . king — The army, which had not been taken into the counsels of the headstrong Zimri, refused to accept the new order of things, and hailed the more powerful military rival of Zimri as their king.

18. The castle—A fortified stronghold attached to the palace.

19. His sins—The words used to describe the misdoings of Zimri are the customary words, which came to be a kind of formula for the misconduct of the kings of Israel who did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah. In a short regency of one week it is hardly probable he would be able to promote to any extent the calf-worship of Jeroboam.

20. The rest of the acts of Zimri—This is also a stereotyped expression. His acts must have been few. The book of the chronicles of course is not our First and Second Chronicles, which were written much later, and whose author had no interest especially in apostate northern kings of Israel, but was one of the sources, now lost, from which the author gained his information.

21. The people . . . divided — Omri's immediate suppression of the revolt under Zimri did not save the kingdom from civil strife. Though first with the army, Omri seems to have lacked full popular support. A certain Tibni, whose brother Joram exercised a strong influence, backed by a large following, successfully disputed the right of Omri for four years, at the end of which time the two brothers were killed, and Omri reigned.

23. Six years reigned he in Tirzah—The palace had been burned, and Omri must have been impressed with the weakness of a city which could be taken so easily. This fact made him look about for a capital more central and impregnable, with the result that Israel was given a great and permanent centre of government.

24. Samaria—Besides the natural beauty of its position, which made Isaiah refer to it as Ephraim's "crown of pride," Samaria possessed a great advantage from its natural strength. As its name signifies ("watchtower"), it stood on a lofty hill, and was sufficiently isolated to make strong outworks possible, so that it was able to hold out for three years against the powerful armies of the Assyrians under Sargon and Shalmaneser. Its fall in B. C. 721 involved the entire kingdom in disaster. Nebuchadnezzar, in B.C. 554, required thirteen years to capture it. Under the name given it by Herod the Great, who rebuilt it, it still exists.

25. Omri—Though he dealt wickedly above all that were before him, he was, nevertheless, "a sovereign of far greater eminence and importance than we might suppose from the meagerness of his annals here preserved." He was unsuccessful in his wars with Syria, but was victorious over the Moabites to the southeast, the record being found on the famous Moabite stone. He gave his people political ascendency and is the first Jewish king whose name is recalled by the Assyrian inscriptions.

26. Walked in all the way of Jeroboam—The prophet Micah speaks unsparingly of "the statutes of Omri," as if his influence upon the religious life of the people had been particularly pernicious.

30-33. Ahab the son of Omri—His reign is studied in detail in the lessons for February. The particular offensiveness of his acts, recorded in this lesson, consisted in his marriage with the heathen princess Jezebel, and, through this alliance, the introduction of Baal-worship, together with the sins of Jeroboam. The alliance was probably a popular one, inasmuch as it strengthened Israel and brought wealth to the crown and a certain prestige. But it was mockery of the true religion. Jezebel's father, besides bearing the name of Baal, and giving his daughter the same name, had been the high priest of the great temple of Ashtoreth in Tyre, and was not satisfied until Baal-worship was established in Israel.

31. Baal—The supreme deity of the Phoenicians; in this case, Melkart, the Baal of Tyre.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE;

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER V.—(Cont'd)

"You may fan me if you like, pretty coz," he observed, languidly; and Dorothy, eager to obey him, took off her broad-brimmed hat and waved it to and fro.

She was not very sorry when she saw Nancy turn and move away; but Darnley, who had caught a glimpse of those wonderful blue eyes, with something very like contempt for him in their gaze, at once roused himself.

"Oh! do be sociable, Miss Hamilton," he pleaded; "it is too hot to do anything industrious, and the shade is delicious here."

"Many thanks, but I must go. Dorothy, I think I shall walk down to the village, if you don't mind; I want to see Mrs. Wortley."

"In all this heat," Darnley began, but Nancy had already disappeared, and with a slight contraction of his brows the young man resigned himself to circumstances.

The smiles and flush had died away from Nancy's face as she walked slowly back to the house. It pained her to see the wealth of love and attention pretty, spoiled Dorothy lavished and wasted on Derrick Darnley—yes, wasted was the right word, for her woman's quick wit showed her that he cared for Dorothy only as a child, and with just as much affection as a brother gives to a sister; while she, who reigned as queen over the hearts and lives of all around her, would have willingly crouched at her cousin's feet if by so doing she could have won a look or word of deeper regard. The proud spirit that was so pre-eminently one of Dorothy Leicester's characteristics, seemed to vanish altogether when she was near Darnley as the snow melts beneath the sun.

Nancy had often wished during the last few months—though the feeling had been more or less vague—that Dorothy had been more guarded in her admiration for her cousin; but she had never experienced the decided sense of pain and annoyance such as came to her now as she left them alone together.

"It will mean grief to her some day," she said, regretfully and tenderly to herself, "and, oh! I cannot bear to think that she should rush blindly forward to meet it. Yet what can I do? She is such a child, she hardly knows herself the truth of her heart; it would be cruel and worse to speak bluntly to her, and, after all, she is not so much to blame; he has no right to accept her adoration in that languid, selfish, conceited manner. I—I did not think he would act like that."

She stopped when she passed the tennis court, and half smiled as she saw Lord Merefield's woe-begone face.

"Why cannot that be?" she thought, half sadly; "it would make Sir Humphrey radiant with happiness and Lady Merefield would be overjoyed. He is a nice boy, too, but——"

And here, be it said, Nancy colored vividly, as she suddenly realized that in that eloquent pause she had contrasted Lord Merefield with Derrick Darnley, very much to the former's disadvantage; and that, finding the young barrister so fair and manly herself, it was no wonder that Dorothy did so also.

"I will not bother my brain about it," she determined; "the future will shape itself whatever I may do to prevent it."

And with this philosophical reasoning she went indoors, and, putting on her hat and gloves, started for her long walk to the village.

She never neglected to pay a visit twice a week to Nurse Wortley, whose kindness to her when she most needed it she was never likely to forget.

As she walked slowly along, her thoughts flew to her uncle, and the wretched, sordid place which for so many dreary years she had learned to call home. Sometimes the past returned so vividly that she would start and look round affrighted, fearing that her happiness was only a dream, and would presently roll away; but these moments were not frequent now, far more keen was a gratitude to her Heavenly Father for having guided her into such a haven, and given her such treasures as undoubted love, appreciation and trust as her own.

She rarely thought of Henry Chaplin without pain. She could not forget that he was her head mother's most beloved brother, that he had done all in his feeble power for her good. It was always a bitter mortification to Nancy to think that her father's relations had practically disowned her. It made her blood boil to remember that Sir John Hamilton had curtly and coldly informed Henry Chaplin that the family did not intend to recognize the broken-hearted widow of Bernard Hamilton, when she came back from that Indian grave, only herself to weaken and die.

"If she had committed some crime—been even of humble birth—they might be forgiven," the girl would say, passionately, to herself; "but her only fault was poverty, and because my father married secretly and against his parents' wish, they vent their displeasure like this on her and on me; but I do not want them—it is I who do not own them of my own free will—I am too proud."

Of course Nancy was not blind to the fact that her uncle's position had materially added to the difficulties which her mother had had to contend against when she wrote her story to her husband's family. Scholar, student, philosopher, gentleman as he was, Henry Chaplin still ranked as a petty tradesman; he had gradually sunk from his proper place, dragged by a rash and unfortunate marriage, into the very gutter of life. It was hardly likely that Sir John Hamilton, proud, haughty, aristocratic to the backbone, would be more easily appeased when his daughter-in-law wrote imploring aid from such a place; it was nothing to him how, by a series of misfortunes, Henry Chaplin had sunk to this level; it was nothing to him that poor Nellie Hamilton had nowhere else to rest her broken heart; it was enough that she was residing at a small grocer's shop, in a fourth-rate London neighborhood; and, incensed and deeply grieved at his son's untimely death, he promptly and curtly cut off all further communication with that son's wife, bidding the rest of his children follow in his steps. He was faithfully obeyed, as we have seen. He had been dead for several years now, and his eldest son reigned in his stead; but he, too, was blind and deaf to the cause of his brother's child; and if he ever thought of poor Nellie Hamilton at all, it was with a sigh of relief that she would trouble them no more in this life.

Was it strange, then, that our heroine, warm-hearted, impulsive, generous, as she was, should have grown to hate the name of her father's people with a hatred foreign to her nature, and to regard her poor, weak Uncle Henry with a still greater affection than she would have bestowed on any relation of her father's?

She had stray news of him now and then from Dr. Grantley, and somehow she felt intuitively that things were not going well with the shop or household, though nothing definite was told her. The doctor never mentioned either her aunt or Thomas Moss; and if Nancy ever permitted them to enter her thoughts, she was not long before she chased them away, supplanting their hideous memories with some fresher sweeter ones.

Deep in her thoughts, Nancy had walked some way before she became fully aware of the intense heat and fatigue of the journey she had undertaken.

"Not halfway, and tired already!" she observed, ruefully, coming to a standstill, and drawing a deep breath. "I wish I had waited now, and come this evening, or taken Dorothy's ponies. The exercise would have done them good," with a smile, as she remembered the two fat, sleek, handsome creatures, metaphorically and actually eating their heads off in their luxurious stalls.

"Just half-past four," she continued, looking at a toy watch hanging from a dainty chatelaine, one of Sir Humphrey's many gifts to her. "I have a very good mind to retrace my steps. It is ignominious, but immeasurably more pleasant. Meanwhile, until I have determined, I will rest me a little. This stile looks comfortable."

She gave another sigh, this time of relief, as she sank back against one of the broad upper posts. Her little hands lay ungloved on her lap, and as she glanced down at their soft, smooth white surface, she smiled.

"How different!" she mused. "They are a fit emblem of the change in my life. Who would think, to look at them, that they have peeled many hundreds of potatoes, scrubbed a few floors, and served out soap and soda behind a counter? Well, life is funny!" She leaned her arms on her knees, and put her fresh young face into her open palms.

"I hope," she thought, soberly, fixing her glorious eyes on a huge stag-beetle, as it ran swiftly through the parched grass below, "I hope I am not growing too proud of myself. I want to remember that I have done nothing to deserve all the marvellous good fortune that has come to me. I want to remember that I am guarded and cared for by One who has never yet deserted me. I feel I am not half grateful enough. I must not grow idle and luxurious. I must never forget that.

"Dorothy is different from me. This life is hers by right. It has come to me as a gift—maybe as a loan—and as such I must value it. Oh, if I had only voice enough," the girl murmured, passionately, yet with true religious fervour, "to sing out all the gratitude and happiness in my heart, I could fill the whole world!—yes, the whole world!"

A glow, born of the emotion within her, flitted across her face and made it beautiful.

In her graceful attitude, unconscious of all but her deep thought, Nancy made a pretty picture enough to satisfy any eye; and yet there was one, who stood a little distance off, looking at her with anything but pleasure or good-will written on his pale, unwashed face.

"Yes, she's alone, sure enuf. Now, to 'ave it out with 'er; and quick, too. I'll let 'er know what she's got to deal with in me."

Still intent on the beetle, and lost in her musings, Nancy did not hear the soft, hasty footsteps come toward her, and she started with something like fear as a shadow fell across the sunlit path, and, raising her eyes, she saw William the dismissed servant, before her.

In a moment, however, her sense of vague fear and aversion vanished in pity for the man's poor-looking condition.

"I am sorry to see you like this, William," she began, gently, gathering together her gloves and sunshade, and stepping to the ground.

The man interrupted her angrily.

"Here, stow that!" he said, insolently. "Sorry, indeed, Miss Upstart, when it was you as got me the chuckout! Sorry, indeed! I ain't to be won over by soft-sawder like that; not me. You've done me a jolly bad turn, and I'll be even with you!"

Nancy drew back, not alarmed, but indignant, at the man's injustice and insolence.

"You do not know what you are saying," she answered, very quietly, but with a full measure of cold haughtiness in her voice. "Let me pass!"

THE GARDEN OF THE LORD.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Before our eyes God's garden lies,
He bids us share its fruits so rare.
The Day of Rest yields fruit the best,
The day of pain may yield large gain.
The day of loss leads to His Cross.
The day of toil is fertile soil.
The day of prayer makes sweet the air.
The day of need brings power to plead.
The frailest flower reveals His power.
Of darkest night He is the light.
While nature sleeps, His own He keeps.
The pruning knife brings larger life.
The day of peace makes joys increase.
The day that frowns may win some crowns.
The day of wrong may make us strong.
The day of grief may bring relief.
The lonely day may show His way.
The day well spent brings sweet content.
The wasted day drives bliss away.
Vexation's hour may bring us power.
Temptation's stress our souls may bless.
The day's calm close brings sweet repose.
With power alone sad hearts may moan.
A lack of power is evil's hour.
The power that feels upholds and heals.
Selfseeking strength grows weak at length.
Pity and power are fruit and flower.
To hoard and hold makes hearts grow cold.
To earn and give is just to live.
To get and share drives out despair.
The words that please may cause disease.
The words that sting may healing bring.

MADNESS FROM HYOSCINE.

In Twelve Hours Effects of the Drug Wore Off.

Dr. Philippi, a well-known German physician, has just published, in a medical review, some extraordinary details of the effects upon twenty-five men and women visitors at Davos pension of some henbane root accidentally introduced into their horseradish at dinner.

Henbane is the plant from which hyoscine, the drug used by Crippen in the murder of Belle Elmore, is extracted. But in this instance there were no fatalities.

Dr. Philippi states that the poison commenced to act two hours after dinner, and the ladies especially were affected. But all the men and women suffered from hallucinations.

One lady thought herself a living statute and refused to move from her pose. Another went on her hands and knees searching for an imaginery object. An English lady wanted to teach her language to everybody present in turn. A Russian lady, who always spoke German, entirely forgot that language.

Another lady ran to the telephone and put out her tongue at the receiver as though exhibiting it to a doctor. A chambermaid carried away twenty-five hot water bottles in succession to her own bed.

When a doctor was hastily summoned one of the lady patients, to whom he was an utter stranger, insisted that he was an old and dear friend, and would not allow him to leave her.

The men were also caught in the brainstorm. One of them started out for a chemists, but never reached there, forgetting his purpose, and bought quantities of useless things at other shops.

Twelve hours later, having been promptly and carefully treated, the patients had all recovered, but they could none of them remember their extraordinary behavior.

THE POWER OF COMPOUND INTEREST.

Here is a simple rule for finding the number of years in which a sum of money will double itself at compound interest. Divide 69.3 by the rate per cent. and add to this .35. Thus at 3 per cent., we ing 69.3 by 3, which yields 23.1 to find the number of years by dividwhich we add .35 years making the time 23.45 years.

At 3 per cent. simple interest it takes 33 1-3 years for money to double itself. And so you will find that compound interest has a very great advantage over simple interest in doubling power, the ratio of one force to the other being for all ordinary rates of interest about as 10 to 7.

This power of compound interest may be illustrated in another way. Three young men save $50 each a year for 40 years.

A, being a very cautious youth, puts his money in a strong box at home. At the end of 40 years he has saved $2,000.

B places his money with a banker who says he will allow him simple interest at 3 per cent. At the end of the 40 years he has at his credit $3,230.

C deposits his money in the Post Office Savings Bank at 3 per cent., compound interest, and at the end of 40 years he has $3,883 at his credit.

But D has discovered a still more excellent way. He pays his money to the Dominion Government for the purchase of a Canadian Government Annuity. He is now aged 20, and the Government say to him that if he dies during the 40 years of saving his estate will be as well off as C's estate, for it will receive back all that he has paid in with 3 per cent. compound interest, and if he survives to age 60 he will receive from the Government an income of $500 as long as he lives.

At 3 per cent. C's $3,883 would, if he spent a portion of his capital each year, give him $500 a year for less than nine years, and if at 70 he would find himself without a penny and in debt if he had no other means of support. This is worth thinking about, and you may obtain further information on the subject of your Postmaster or by addressing the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa.

ALAS, POOR EXPLORERS!

MEN WHO HAVE PERISHED IN "DARKEST AFRICA."

The Greatest of All Was David Livingstone, Who Spent 33 Years in Africa.

We still call Africa the "Dark Continent." We might equally well term it the "Fatal Continent," for it has claimed the lives of a greater number of explorers than all the rest of the wild regions of the earth put together.

The latest victim of the African savage is an Englishman—Lieutenant Boyd Alexander, murdered by natives in the rubber country of the Wadais. Wadai is the last stronghold of the slave trade, and is controlled by the dangerous Mohammedan secret society known as the Senussi. Lieutenant Alexander knew the risk he ran. His death adds one more to the long list of British martyrs to the cause of civilization.

"I mean," wrote Mungo Park, more than a hundred years ago, "to sail east with the fixed determination to discover the termination of the Niger, or perish in the attempt. Near Broussa the natives made a fierce attack upon his expedition, and Park was obliged to fly down stream, taking the risk of shooting the dangerous rapids. His canoe struck a rock, split in pieces, and flung him and his companions into the raging waste of foam. Park made a desperate effort to swim ashore, but was swept away and drowned.

TWENTY YEARS AFTER.

Twenty years later, in 1826, Major Alexander Laing, another hardy Scot, made a successful attempt to visit the mysterious city of Timbuktu. Before he reached it he was set upon by Tuaregs—those masked bandits of the desert—who left him for dead. But though covered with wounds, he pulled through, and reaching Timbuktu, stayed there for some months until the fanatic inhabitants drove him forth into the desert. He reached El Aruan, a small oasis in the Sahara, and there was literally cut to pieces.

Captain Clapperton was another victim, but his death was due, not to savage spears, but to the fever-laden mists of the Niger. His servant, Richard Lander, tended him to the end, and carried his papers safely to the coast. On his journey, Lander had many thrilling adventures. In one place he was caught by natives, and subjected to the ordeal by poison—that is, he had to eat a portion of the deadly Calabar bean. By a miracle he came through it unharmed, and afterwards, in company with his brother, conducted a fresh expedition, which solved the puzzling problem of the mouth of the great Niger.

HOW LIVINGSTONE DIED.

The greatest of all African explorers was David Livingstone, whose experiences of the "Dark Continent" began in Bechuanaland in 1840, and extended over thirty-three years, during which time he walked tens of thousands of miles over the bush paths of Central Africa.

His last journey was through the upper part of the Congo Basin. He describes the country as "one vast sponge, intersected by countless streams." The blazing sun beat down, and raised a constant stream of mist, and being the rainy season everything was saturated day and night. Under these awful conditions even Livingstone's iron physique broke down, and his devoted servants made a litter, and staggered on through the deep, sticky clay. On April 27th he made his last entries in his notebook; on the 29th he was hardly conscious. On that day they carried him into Chitambo's village, built a bed for him, and aired the hut with a good fire. He revived a little, and lay peacefully all the 30th. In the evening he called to his body servant—Susi—to bring his medicine chest, and from it took a dose, and then dismissed the boy. His pupil—Jacob Wainwright, a colored man—slept in the hut with him, and woke early in the morning to attend his master. He found him kneeling by his bedside. Wainwright waited a while, then, growing uneasy at his absolutely motionless attitude, touched him on the shoulder. The great missionary was cold and dead. He had passed from life in an attitude of prayer.

Wainwright and the others buried their master's heart under a great tree, then, after carefully mummifying the body, carried it to the coast. It was conveyed to England, and buried in the presence of reverend crowds in Westminster Abbey.

LAST OF THE LIEUTENANT.

What is perhaps the most dreadful disaster in all the records of African exploration befell the French expedition of 1881 under Colonel Flatters. After passing safely through the worst parts of the Sahara Desert, the treacherous Tuaregs swept down upon them, and killed nearly all his men, including his thirty camel-drivers, and drove off all the camels. The survivors, numbering fifty in all, started back across the sandy desert known as the "Thirst Country," pursued and harassed day and night by their Tuareg enemies. They met a tribe who professed to be friendly, and who sold them dates. The fruit was poisoned, and many died in agony.

At last they reached the wells, but these were held by the enemy, and in the fight that ensued all the Europeans but one—Lieutenant Polguin by name—were killed. He struggled on with a few native porters. But now there was no food. The starving men went mad, fell on one another, and the fate of poor Polguin is too ghastly to be here described. Eventually, four sharpshooters reached the town of Wargla, the sole survivors of eighty-eight persons who had set out full of hope a little more than five months previously.—London Answers.

CRUSHED.

They were a happy pair, bent on enjoying themselves, and they didn't much mind if the other passengers suffered in consequence.

Presently the girl started to criticize the clothes worn by an elderly woman sitting on the opposite seat, and the youth, wishing to please, entered into the thing heartily.

The old lady's last year's bonnet and cloak were fully critised with more or less giggling on the young lady's part; the cut of her skirt was condemned, and there is no telling what might have come next if the woman had not put a sudden stop to the conversation by a bit of clever feminine strategy.

She turned her head, noticed that the girl was older than the youth, and in the smoothest of tones said:

"Madam, will you please stop your son from staring at me? It becomes irritating."

Unshaven Person (entering barber's shop)—"I do not want a hair-singe, shampoo, electric massage, dandruff cure, or head-wash." Barber—"Well, what do you want?" Unshaven Person—"I want a shave." Barber (to assistant—"Shave him, Bill. There's no law to prevent these chaps wasting our time."

THURSDAY, JAN. 19, '11

The improvement of farming methods, the scarcity of farm help, and the use of heavier machinery has caused farmers to use heavier horses than formerly. The big plow, the heavy roller, and the manure spreader all call for the use of heavy horses.

Many of the towns are adopting the plan of one man doing the delivering of all store merchandise about town, instead of each merchant having his own delivery wagon. Regular hours are made for delivery, 9, 11, 3, and 5 o'clock, with an extra one on Saturday.

According to a recent decision of the courts, a man who wants to go faster than his neighbor who is ahead of him on the road, has a right to pass. If he is prevented by the other and an accident happens because of the latter's interference, the obstructionist is responsible for the damage.

If every business man in our town could do business on a strictly cash system it would be a blessing to us all. If we all had to pay cash we would learn to live within our means. It would save business men the expense of bookkeepers and the loss of bad debts all of which some one has to pay for. If our town could gradually work into a strictly cash system it would be better for us all.

The failure of the Farmers Bank is a heavy blow to many farmers in Ontario. In many cases they took large amounts of stock in the bank, and because they were interested in its success deposited their savings there. Now, unless the Keeley Mine proves to be a regular Bonanza, their deposits are gone and they may, be called upon to pay their double liability. It looks like the bankrupt court for many of the shareholders.

In these days of strife between two great political parties we must remember that after all we are just a band of brothers here on earth, traveling from the cradle to the grave. We live side by side, our children attend the same school and after the smoke of the battle has cleared away, we still will be friends and neighbors. Let the bitter things go unsaid. At best, life is short, and we get out of it a full measure of sorrow. Let us in our little city live as one big, good natured family.

A merciful man is merciful to his beasts. We like to see our farmers when they drive into town on a cold stormy day, put their team in a barn or cover them with blankets. In the heat of summer they can always find shade in which to leave the noble animals that brought them safely to town. There are many, however, who on cold days will rush for a stove themselves and leaves their horses in the storm while in the heat of summer they seek the shade and leave their horses in the sun. There is something wrong about the man who thus abuses his team. He may be a nice man, may belong to the church, may not swear, smoke nor have any bad habits, but we would not want to be his horse, no, sir.

While the modern system of school work may be deficient in some respects and no doubt the tendancy is to take on more work and too many branches of study for the pupil to master thoroughly in the time the average boy or girl is allowed for schooling yet there is a fault on the part of the parents which is persistently left out of account in the argument of the critic. The pupils especially in the higher grades, are allowed to spend the nights during the week in various amusements which and loss of sleep incapacitates them for good work during school hours. Distract their minds from school work.

Each year the poultry business is becoming more lucrative and now assumes proportions that will soon rival any branch of farm industry. Farmers are forced to acknowledge that the old hen can lift her own weight in raising a mortgage from the farm.

The so-called small-pox scare is now well under control, and the patients are doing nicely. It is a very mild type of the disease.

Atkinson—Neil—A quiet home wedding took place at "Maple Avenue," the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Neil, on Wednesday, 11th inst., at 11 o'clock, when their second daughter, Minnie L. was united in marriage to Mr. Harry Holmes Atkinson of Toronto. The bride who was very daintily attired in ivory charmeuse, trimmed with silk lace and applique, with tulle veil crowned with orange blossoms and carrying a bouquet of bridal roses, entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding march played by Mrs. (Dr.) Neil of Capac, Mich. She was attended by her sister Florence, wearing amethyst with cream lace and carrying pink carnations, while the groom was supported by his brother Frank. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace, to the bridesmaid a pearl brooch, and to the groomsman a gold scarf pin. During the signing of the register, "Because" was sung by Dr. W. L. Neil, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson left on the afternoon train for their home in Deer Park, Toronto, the bride travelling in a tailored suit of navy blue chiffon broadcloth with satin turban to match. All join in wishing the young couple prosperity and happiness.

ELIMVILLE

Mrs. Wm. Steamon is very sick with pleurisy, with but slight hopes of her recovery.—Mrs. Hodgson left on Friday last to visit her son in the west, who is at present seriously ill of pneumonia.—Horse buyers are very numerous at present and many horses are changing hands at high prices.—Mr. Walter Cudmore of Saskatchewan is spending a few weeks visiting relatives in Ontario at the home of his grandfather, Mr. Richard Johns.—Several from this vicinity attended the oyster supper at Centralia on Monday evening, and report a good time.—Mr Wilfrid Johns has returned home after spending a year and half in the west. He expects to remain at home and will commence farming again. Mr. Skinner's lease of the old home will expire on Mar. 1.— The new furnace recently added to the church and the new appliances added to the windows, are giving the very best of satisfaction, warming the church very satisfactory.

CREDITON.

(There inadvertently appeared under "Crediton" news last week several items not written by our regular correspondent, and which items were not in accordance with the truth. That these items should have appeared is most regrettable, but we wish it distinctly understood that there is no fault to be found with our regular correspondent. The writer of those items is the smallest kind of a person from the fact that he wished to convey a wrong impression to the public and let another take the blame. The matter is now being looked into very closely and we trust the guilty party will become known.—Editor.)

A bus load of our young people attended the oyster supper given by the Ladies Aid of Centralia Methodist church on Monday evening. All had a very enjoyable evening.—Frank Snell has his rink in great shape now and our skaters are making great use of it.—One of our townsmen left on Tuesday on an interesting mission. More particulars will be given next week.—Last Friday evening a meeting was called in the Fire Hall to elect new officers for the Fire Department. Quite a number were in attendance. The following is the result of the election,—Chief, Thomas B. Lawson; Assistant Chief, Christian Fahner; Captain of the Hose, Herb. Young; Hosemen, Harry Beaver, Godfrey Nicholson, Wesley Wolf, Everett Fahner, and Otto Brown; Tankman, Thos. Trevethick. A test was made of the fire engine on Monday and after making some minor alterations it was found to be in working order. A strong agitation is on foot to have an artesian well sunk in town and a tank erected for a reserve supply in case of a large fire. Better be safe than sorry.— Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Gintes of St Catharines are spending a few days in town visiting friends.—Miss Chrissie Brown has returned home from Chesley where she has been visiting relatives for some time.—The League of the Evangelical church, which is being held at the close of the evening's service, is being well attended.—Chas. All enjoyed themselves very much.—Mr. Fred Finkbeiner of Killarney, Man., who has been visiting his parents for the past month, has returned to the west. Fred intends taking up land in the Peace River Section next summer. We wish him every success.—The Lecture given by Rev. Chr. Staebler, D. D., of Cleveland, O., last Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Y. P. A. was well attended. Rev. Staebler's discourse dealt with a pilgrimage through the Holy Land. The reverend gentleman is a very fluent speaker and his discourse was very interesting throughout, especially when he brought in some appropriate witty saying or occurrence which took place when he was sight-seeing at a particular spot. He used steroptican views of photos taken himself to illustrate his trip. Rev. Staebler has many friends here who are always glad to give him the glad hand of welcome.

From another source.

Mr. Rich. Davey, of Stephen sold an eight year old colt to Mr. John Cornish of the same township for $115. Mr. M. Morrisey also sold one about 20 months old to to Mr. Desjardine of near the Bend for $165. Both colts were sired by Southport owned by Mr. J. Cockwell, and the latter weighs 1100 pounds. It pays to breed good stock.

CENTRALIA

FOR SALE—At a bargain, 8 roomed house and an acre of land with a fine orchard. Apply to Rev. W. H Butt, Centralia.

Mr. T. W Boyes, who has been in Denfield for two weeks, relieving the section foreman, returned home Saturday night.

The Ladies' Aid Anniversary on Sunday and Monday last was a great success. Rev. E G. Powell preached two practical and helpful sermons on Sunday The Oyster Supper on Monday evening was also largely attended, numbers coming from Exeter, Crediton and Whalen, besides other points. The program, tho' mostly of local talent, was a good one. Misses Vera Essery, Iva Essery, Winnie Essery, Edna Isaac and Lillian Elliot, and Messrs. Clarence and Harold Duplan, and Hector Millson furnished music. Revs. Powell and Hobbs gave excellent addresses, the former on "Man of Age" and the latten on the "Tobacco Habit." The Supper was all that could be desired, an abundance of oysters and other good things being provided by the ladies. The ladies of Centralia have made a reputation for themselves as culinary artists. Between $70 and $80 were taken in at the door. The pastor, Rev. W. H Butt occupied the chair. —Rev. W H Butt is visiting relatives near Goderich where he spent his boyhood days.—Miss Wood of London is visiting the Misses Wilson.—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hepburn, a newly married couple, are spending a part of the honey moon here among friends. Mr. Hepburn is a son of John Hepburn, a respected citizen of our community, and lives in the Northwest, but came to Ontario and got his new made bride from Guelph. We wish them long life and happiness.—John Wesley Butt, who had been suffering from an attack of pleurisy, is convalescent, and expects to return to his mercantile duties at Springfield next week.—Miss Lilian Elliott, who has been receiving instructions in vocal and instrumental music in Toronto the past year, is at home and is prepared to take pupils for instruction.

QUEER WEDDING GIFTS.

One Couple of Mature Years Received a Pair of Coffins.

An Englishman extremely fond of hunting received as a wedding gift from an anonymous person a complete set of false limbs a set of artificial teeth and a couple of glass eyes, to procure all of which the sarcastic donor must, of course, have put himself to considerable expense. Accompanying these strange presents was a note wherein the hope was expressed that, by reason of the recipient's many falls while following the hounds, some or all of these substitutes might ultimately prove of use. As the bridegroom had incurred much enmity while holding office under his government, it was supposed that these gifts came from a disappointed office seeker.

A well known American writer received from a rival man of letters a scrap book wherein were carefully pasted and indexed many hundreds of clippings containing adverse criticisms touching the former's work, and a popular artist was presented with a set of elementary works upon self instruction in drawing and painting.

Some years ago in the west an elderly, crusty merchant on espousing a spinster of mature age was presented by an undertaker with two coffins for himself and wife, a letter which accompanied these ghastly gifts stating that they would, unlike most of the other offerings received, be sure to be of service. Naturally enough the bridegroom resented this singular if useful gift, and it took all the efforts of mutual friends to prevent a breach of the peace.

Like vexation was no doubt felt by an infirm octogenarian in Ohio who wedded a pleasure loving woman more than fifty years his junior. The present in this case was a large brass cage "intended," so the inevitable accompanying letter stated, "to restrain the wayward flights of a giddy young wife who has married a decrepit old fool for his money."—Chicago Record-Herald.

PIRATES OF HONGKONG.

They Are the Real Old Fashioned Bloodthirsty Kind.

There are pirates in Hongkong—not the usual kind that greet the gentle stranger with an expansive smile and take what he has for worthless rubbish, nor yet the petty thieves that go by that name on our own water fronts, but the real old fashioned, murderous kind, who count not the victims as they reckon the spoils.

Of course they do not swagger in costume, as all real pirates should, or ply their trade in Hongkong's immediate waters, but among the thousands of fishermen, stevedores and coal handlers that crowd the harbor's edge they mingle and gossip water front news, knowing well when a particularly rich cargo is due from the interior.

And in the purple twilight a junk darts out of one of the many estuaries far up the West or Pearl river and swoops with the suddenness of a hawk on the heavily laden prize. The struggle is short. Over the hills on the naked backs of a swarming crew the loot disappears forever from a smoking hulk in the rice swamps, or, as happened in the case of the Sainam, half a hundred take passage in the crowded hold of a river steamer and when the handful of unsuspecting whites gather at dinner raise a heathenish yell on the startled air, and the ship is taken.

Rifles thrust through bolted doors subdue the pitiful fire that lasts a little while from behind the shot torn tablecloth, but the ship is already headed for the bank by the quartermaster with a rifle at his ear, and one more tragedy is added to the long list of crimes on the Siklang.—W. J. Aylward in Harper's Magazine.

Suicide by Swallowing Gold.

Suicide by swallowing gold is sometimes accomplished in China. The following is an authoritative account, written by a very learned Chinese for the Westminster Gazette, of how this much contested form of suicide is accomplished:

"In swallowing gold it is not loose gold leaf or gold dust that is swallowed, but a solid lump of gold, or even a gold ring, weighing about half an ounce. Gold is not at any time of a corrupting nature, but when a lump of it is swallowed and gets into the bowel it falls, on account of its intrinsic weight, to rise and surmount the convolutions of the bowels and can therefore never complete its passage. After two or three days it therefore sinks through the bowel and destroys life without any suffering."

An Unfortunate Response.

The problem of too many churches in a given locality is often a perplexing one. It is said that the churches in a certain village, on opposite sides of the streets, were so close that when the congregation in one church sang "Will There Be Any Stars In My Crown?" the congregation in the other church promptly responded, "No, Not One; No, Not One." Fortunate is it if the seeming contradiction is confined to the unintentional inharmonious responses in songs.—Lippincott's.

Table All Right.

"Do they have a good table?" asks the prospective guest.

"It is first rate," answers the man who has just returned—"solid oak, with heavy legs and a polished top."—Judge.

A Question of Gifts.

"Why did you deliberately make an enemy of your old friend Jinks?"

"Because he is to be married next month."—Lippincott's.

TRICKY ART DEALERS.

Astute Parisian Scheme For Booming a "New Master."

For the booming of a new artist an astute dealer is necessary. He catches his artist as young as possible, preferably as an exhibitor of crazy canvases at the autumn salon of the independents' exhibition, and commissions him to paint 100 pictures a year.

One by one, occasionally in twos and threes, at judicious intervals the dealer sends the pictures to the Hotel Drouot for sale by public auction. There he has confederates, who raise the price at each sale, and he buys them in himself.

After a few months the young artist's canvases have a certain market value, and the next step is taken to turn their painter into a modern master. The critics are attacked. One of them is asked to look at some daub, and when he cries out with horror the dealer says:

"What? You don't like it? Take it home with you as a favor to me, live with it six months and then"—

In due course an art amateur calls upon the critic and cannot contain his admiration for the new artist's picture.

"What a masterpiece! The most modern thing in art I have seen for a long time!" he exclaims.

Doubt begins to invade the critic's mind, and when one or two more enthusiastic amateurs have visited him he is worked up to writing a column of panegyric on the new master. The amateurs are, of course, sent by the dealer.

One or two articles and the boom is in full swing. Wealthy and simple minded collectors, remembering how other painters have been decried in their early days and how their works later have commanded fancy prices, rush in.

The new master makes about 10 per cent of the profit and the dealer the other 90 per cent. The new master is at the mercy of the dealer. If he grumbles the dealer floods the auction rooms with a hundred or so of his masterpieces and orders his agents not to bid, the result being that the canvases sell at rubbish prices, and the boom is burst.—Gil Blas.

McGILLIVRAY COUNCIL

The Council met last week pursuant to statute when the members were duly sworn in. The following appointments were duly made,—J. D. Drummond, Clerk at a salary of $225, without extras; A. F. Smith, Treasurer, $100; Robert Hutchinson, assessor $90; W. T. Amos and Geo. Hindmarsh, Auditors, $10 each; Geo. Saunders, Janitor, $15 A. H. Hodgins, member Board of Health James Sutton, M. D., Medical Health Officer. The clerk was asked to advertise for tenders for a Township shed at West McGillivray, provided a suitable site could be obtained at a reasonable cost, and the Reeve, John Robinson, and A. E. Rosser were appointed a committee with power to act. A number of accounts were passed. The council adjourned to meet on the 30th day of January.—J. D. Drummond, Clerk.

ZURICH.

Mr. Chas. Fritz has purchased the shoe stock of Mr. P. Bender and has moved the same to his shop.—Mr. Jacob Geiger of Pigeon, Mich., Mr. Elton Rannie of Indiana, and Miss Ella Rannie of Detroit attended the funeral of the late Alfred Geiger.—During the recent storm the roof was blown off N. N. Cantin's barn at St. Joseph.—Rev. W. M. Sippell of Rodney was assisting Rev. A. D. Gischler last week in the revival meetings.—Mr. and Mrs. Chas Siebert of Kansas, Mrs. S. Brown and daughter Erma, and Mrs. W. L. Siebert of Dashwood visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Freeter.—Rev. Joseph Umbach, one of the pioneer ministers of the Evangelical church, died at New Hamburg Jan. 9. The Rev. gentleman was well known in this district.—A quiet wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thiel, when the eldest daughter, Emma, was married to Herbert Bloch of the Goshen Line, South, Rev. Maass officiating.—Mr. Ed. Axt left for London on Wednesday, to assist his brother in-law, Mr. Kaiser, in his butcher shop.—Miss Susie Smith of the Goshen Line South, is visiting in Dunnville.

On Tuesday, at St. Boniface church, by Father Stroder, the marriage took place of Mr. Joseph Druar of St. Clement's to Miss Margaret Krauskopf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Krauskopf of the Goshen Line. After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the home of the bride's parents, where a bounteous wedding dinner was served to about sixty couples, after which the remainder of the day and evening was spent in various amusements.

Rev. Alfred Geiger Dead.—By the death of Rev. Alfred Geiger, the Evangelical church loses one of the most promising young ministers. The deceased, who was only in his 32nd year, was stationed at Pembroke for a number of years, and by his kindly manner had made many warm friends not only in his own church, but also the public generally, and his demise is deeply mourned wherever he was known. He is a native of the Township, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. Geiger of the Bronson Line, and his early death came as a great shock to his many friends in this section. The late Mr. Geiger was stricken with appendicitis early last week and an operation was at once performed in the Pembroke hospital. For a few days the case looked hopeful, and everything was done to save his life. He, however, grew worse towards the end of the week and passed away on Sunday. He leaves a widow, a daughter of the late Sam'l Rannie, besides two small children and a large number of relatives to mourn his death. The funeral took place from the residence of his parents, on Thursday afternoon, the interment taking place in the Bronson Line cemetery.

DISTRICT NEWS.

MAGUIRE—Mr. Wm Hodgson and family have moved to Ailsa Craig, where Mr. Hodgson is going into contracting in carpenter and cement work.

AILSA CRAIG—Thos Poole, who was for about 30 years a resident of Ailsa Craig was taken to Victoria Hospital, London, last week. He passed away on Saturday, Jan. 7th. The body was taken to Nairn cemetery for interment on Sunday. Since the death of his wife about five years ago Mr. Poole has resided alone.

KIPPEN—The home of Mr. John Stewart, Tuckersmith, was the scene of a happy event, when his sister, Miss Nellie, Stewart, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter McCully of the 4th con. Rev. J. Richarson performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. McCully have commenced housekeeping on their farm on the 4th of Tuckersmith.

PARKHILL—Dr. George Shoults, formerly of Parkhill, died of heart failure at Lisle, Ontario, Jan. 2nd, aged 51 years, 9 months. Dr. Shoults had been practicing his profession at Lisle for four months and was just recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia at the time of his decease. His remains were interred at Mount Pleasant cemetery, Toronto, Jan. 5th. Dr. Shoults was a graduate of Parkhill High school

TUCKERSMITH—It was with great regret and a sense of shock that the word was received that Mr. Frank Plewes, a prosperous young farmer of Tuckersmith, had passed away. Very few people had heard of his illness, which was of only forty-eight hours duration. Deceased was a young man in the prime of life, being in his 41st year. The primal cause of death was pneumonia, from which brain fever developed.

DAIRY INDUSTRY OUTLOOK

Mr. J. C. Ruddick Says the Home Consumption Is Steadily Increasing.

A despatch from Stratford says: Some very encouraging facts were laid before the Western Dairymen's Convention, held here last week, by Mr. J. C. Ruddick, Dairy Commissioner, in regard to the outlook for the industry. For the fiscal year ending with March next our dairy exports are estimated at only $25,250,000, as compared with $31,667,561 in 1903. Meantime, however, the home consumption is believed to have increased by $25,000,000, so that the production for the year about ending will really be $8,582,439 greater than in 1903. For the year ending with March next the production seems to have increased more rapidly than in the year immediately preceding, because, while the home consumption is still growing, our exports of dairy products for the current fiscal year will be $2,000,000 ahead of these of 1910. For the expansion that has taken place in the year near closing the partial opening of the American market to our dairy products is largely responsible.

In the month of August, 1909, as a result of the reduction of the United States duty on cream from five cents per pound to five cents per gallon, we exported 1,650 gallons of cream to the American market. In November of the same year this increased to 70,000 gallons. For October last the amount was 327,064 gallons. It is believed that the value of our exports of dairy products to the United States for the year ending March next will be $3,000,000 as against less than a quarter of a million the year before, and practically nothing prior to the change in the American duty. The total value of the milk production of Canada was placed at $100,000,000, and it was said that an addition of 500 lbs. of milk per cow to the average production, something easily possible, would add $10,000,000 to this.

The prediction was made that much more than this will be done; that in a few years a larger proportion of the two million odd cows in the Dominion will be made to increase their milk flow by fifty per cent. Even with this increase, Mr. Ruddick contended, there need be no fear of over-production. If the production remains stationary, the home market, if the expansion continues at the present rate, will absorb the entire output of the dairy industry ten years hence. In addition to this, there is the American market. Although the United States is the largest producer in dairy lines in the world, that country imported nearly $7,000,000 worth of butter and cheese in the calendar year of 1909, and will import larger quantities in future.

SETTLTRS' HARDSHIPS.

Roads Blocked by Heavy Snow in Saskatchewan.

A despatch from Moose Jaw, Sask., says: The first teams since Christmas to reach the city from Leeville and Dewdrop, 65 miles southwest, arrived on Friday evening. The six members of the party told a story of much hardship and suffering. They had made the journey in three days, which, considering the fact that they had to break through bad drifts in the hills, was fairly good time. They brought in two men who are badly frozen, one so badly that it is thought his feet may have to be amputated, and the dead body of a woman, who died southwest of Lake Johnston and was being brought to the city by her husband. He had made but slow progress on his melancholy trip, it having taken him five days to travel thirty-two miles, when he was picked up by the party. The men report much hardship among the settlers owing to the terrible cold and storms. One man is said to have carried a sack of flour six miles because he could not get a horse through. The party will take back with them four team loads of supplies.

FIGHT WITH HIGHWAYMEN.

Detective Sayers Fatally Wounded in British Columbia.

A despatch from Victoria, B. C., says: G. C. Sayers, said to be a detective, was brought here on Wednesday in a dying condition from Alberni, where he on Tuesday night had a desperate fight with two men wanted in Saskatchewan for highway robbery there and for breaking open box-cars on the Grand Trunk at Yorkton, Sask. The story is that he trailed the two men from the latter place and caught up with them in a camp near Alberni. He posted one of his men outside, while he himself entered the camp to make the arrest. A desperate fight ensued, in which Sayers was shot in three places, but with what strength he had left he backed up against a wall and there fought till he fell from loss of blood. The comrades he had posted outside, however, succeeded in arresting the men, who are held at Alberni. Sayers recently made several arrests single-handed in Edson.

SAFE AT CHURCHILL.

Dominion Geological Party, Given Up as Lost, Turns Up.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: J. M. Macoun, of the Geological Survey, who, with his party, was wrecked last September, in a gale off Wager Inlet, Hudson Bay, and given up for lost, is safe at Churchill and with his fourteen men, on a 1,000-mile walk, accompanied by dog trains, carrying outfits and supplies, headed for Gimli, whence this news comes by wire. The report arrived at Gimli by the first mail stage to reach there from the North this Winter. Macoun's party reached Fort Churchill about Dec. 1.

CORONATION PROGRAMME

Elaborate Tentative Arrangements Have Been Completed.

A despatch from London says: The executive committee having in charge the plans in connection with the coronation of King George, met on Thursday and completed tentative arrangements, which will, if anything, be on a more extensive scale than at the time of King Edward's coronation.

The route of the procession to Westminster Abbey on June 22 will be the same as on the last occasion, and the royal progress through the capital after the ceremony, which was postponed in Edward's time, owing to the King's delicate health, will occur on June 23. Still another royal procession to the guild hall for the coronation entertainment has been arranged for a subsequent day.

The coronation festivities will extend from June 19 to June 30, and will include a naval review at Spithead, at which the King will be present, probably a military review and a royal reception in honor of the colonial and foreign envoys.

$400,000 FIRE AT WINNIPEG.

Firemen Worked All Night With Thermometer at 30 Below Zero.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Winnipeg has had another midnight midwinter fire which will cost the insurance companies about $400,000, the building destroyed being the Kelly block on Bannantyne avenue east, in the very heart of the wholesale district. The firms suffering are: The Winnipeg Fur Company, $200,000, insured for $180,000; John Ezinger, tobacconist, $80,000, insured to 90 per cent.; Kilgour Bros., paper dealers, $25,000, insured to the full; the Wingold Stove Company, $25,000, insured to $16,000. The origin of the fire is still unsolved, but it is supposed to have started from an electric light in the fur company offices. It started about 11.30 on Saturday night, and the firemen were not through till 7 Sunday morning, with the mercury 30 below zero. There were many cases of frost bites, some of the firemen having to retire for treatment. The high-pressure service was in good working order, but the depth of the building—100 feet—rendered the streams ineffectual, whether from front or rear, on the fire in the centre of the building.

OLD MAN MURDERED.

Terrible Crime Committed Near Wellesley Village.

A despatch from Berlin, Ont., says: A terrible murder was revealed on Friday morning by the finding of the blood-covered body, frozen stiff, of an aged Pole named Franz Tobinski, tied to a post a few feet from the kitchen door of his house, two miles west of Wellesley village, near Berlin. Robbery was the motive of the crime, and it is known that the murderers got away with $130 in gold, which Tobinski had kept in a little tin box. This box was found lying outside in the snow. Fifty yards away from where the body lay was found a blood-stained hammer of medium size of a kind used by blacksmiths. There were tracks of two men in the snow and also of a team of horses, but the police have no clew as to the identity of the murderers.

PULP INDUSTRY OF CANADA

Quebec Province Leads All the Dominion in Production.

A despatch from Ottawa says: According to statistics collected by the Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior, there were 622,129 cords of pulpwood used in Canada during the year 1909. Of this the total value at the mill was $3,464,080. In spite of a decline in the price of pulpwood the value of the wood consumed increased more than $550,000 over that used in 1908, the quantity used being more than thirty per cent. in advance of that used in the previous years.

There are some sixty pulp mills in the Dominion, and of these reports were received from fifty. Half of these mills are in Quebec, one-fifth in Ontario, and the rest are located in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and British Columbia. The Province of Quebec furnished over half the pulpwood, Ontario gave one-third, while the rest was obtained from New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and British Columbia.

Two species of timber, namely, spruce and balsam, furnished ninety-nine per cent. of the wood used in the making of pulp. Poplar, hemlock and jack pine were also used. Three-fifths of the pulpwood cut in Canada during 1909 was exported to the United States for manufacture. Nearly all this wood went from Quebec. The average price received for it was only forty-five cents more than was paid at the Quebec mills. The pulpwood shipped from Canada in 1909 furnished 46 4-10 per cent. of the raw material used by the ninety pulp mills of the State of New York, and an appreciable portion of that used by the mills of New England and Pennsylvania. The manufacture of the pulpwood exported in 1909 kept 69 of the 251 pulp mills of the United States running at full capacity for the year. Had it been manufactured in Quebec it would have kept running 71 mills of the same size as those running in Quebec.

CAPITAL AND IMMIGRATION

Mr. White, Vice-President of C.P.R., Speaks of the Prosperity of the West.

A despatch from Montreal says: Mr. William Whyte, Vice-President of the C. P. R. at Winnipeg, who is here conferring with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, is enthusiastic over the prospects of the west. In speaking of the building of the new lines he said: "During the summer there have been constructed 609 miles of railway, including 56 miles of double track. We are now engaged on the programme for this year, and it is probable that as much construction work will be done in 1911 as was done in 1910. Labor for railway building was never so scarce as in 1910, and wages were never so high.

"During the year a determined effort was continued to turn back to various parts of the United States the American farmers who were removing to Canada. In spite of this campaign by interested people in the United States the movement of farmers from that country into Canada in 1910 was larger than ever. The increase in immigration from Europe has also been considerable, and there has been a steady increase in the amount of land under cultivation. Capital has come into the west in large volume. There never was a year when there were so many Englishmen in the country seeking renumerative investment for their capital, and there never was a year when there was so much money actually invested."

MOONSHINE WHISKEY.

Two Men Lose Their Lives Near Ste. Agathe, Quebec.

A despatch from Montreal says: Illegally manufactured whiskey, with poisonous elements in it, has caused the death of two men near Ste. Agathe, where "moonshine" liquor flooding the whole district. After taking the raw liquor the men were found unconscious, and never recovered. An autopsy on Gilbert Legare, one victim, proved that he had died from the effects of potash, mixed with the liquor to give it the flavor of matured spirits.

A CRIME TO SELL BAD EGGS

Boards of Trade of Montreal and Toronto to Ask Legislation.

A despatch from Montreal says: As the result of united efforts on the part of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association, the Montreal Board of Trade and the Toronto Board of Trade, an attempt will be made to secure legislation making it criminal to offer for sale bad eggs.

At a meeting of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association on Wednesday, the matter was brought up and President Gunn stated that figures prepared by the association showed that during last year 17,000,000 dozen of eggs in Canada were rendered unfit for consumption by late marketing. The loss by this was estimated at $3,400,000. Out of a total production of 120,000,000 dozes of eggs a year in Canada, it was estimated that fully seventeen per cent. was spoilt by delay in marketing. President Gunn announced that efforts were being made to secure a system of standardizing eggs and also to have it made a criminal offence to sell bad eggs.

AN OPEN LETTER

From a Baptist Clergyman Telling of Cures Wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co.,
Brockville, Ont.:

Gentlemen,—It has been my intention to write to you for some time, but being busy I have neglected to do so until now.

I am a Baptist minister. Was ordained June 14th, 1887, in Cramahe Baptist Church, Northumberland Co., Ont. I want to tell you in as few words as possible what I know about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was pastor of the Dalesville, Que., Baptist Church in 1891 and again in 1894-5. While pastor in 1891, the Rev. John King, a former pastor, aged 74, was stricken with paralysis so that he could not help himself. He had to, or did, take a tablespoonful of rhubarb every day to keep his bowels regular. I thought of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He began taking them and it was not long before he could walk again and his bowels were regular. The paralysis never returned and his bowels remained active. He died a few years ago practically from old age.

I went from Dalesville, Que., to Groton, Vermont, as pastor of the Baptist Church in that place. There lived a man about two and one-half miles from Groton by the name of Neil McCrea, a Canadian. I heard he was ill, and being a Canadian, I went to see him. I found him lying in bed. He said he had no pain, but was too weak to sit up. His lips were bloodless, in fact he was as white as chalk. I recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and gave him some. He began taking them and in a short time could see blood in the veins of his hands and in the course of a few weeks he was out watching men building a new barn for him, and shortly after that he came to Groton to church. Now, I ought to tell you that the doctor of Groton had given him up. The Ryegate doctor (a doctor in an adjoining village) could not help him and said so. The best doctor in the hospital of Burlington, Vt., came and saw Mr. McCrea, but said he could not help him. He did not get any help until Dr. Williams' Pink Pills put him on his feet again.

Later I returned to Dalesville, Que., as pastor. A young lady who lived about six miles west of Dalesville at a place called Edina, sent for me to come to see her, as she had been a member of my congregation in my former pastorate. I went to see her and found a similar case to that of Mr. McCrae, of Groton, Vt. This girl was so weak she could not sit up. She appeared to be bloodless. I said to her: "It will cost you $6.00 to get a doctor to come out from Lachine to see you, whereas you can get six boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for $2.50." She followed my advice, took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and when some time later I saw her in Lachute, she was as well as ever, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did it all.

I have given you the facts of these three cases which came to my personal notice and I think only just to other sufferers that these cures should be given the widest publicity. If you wish me to go before a magistrate and take oath to the truthfulness of the things mentioned above, I am prepared to do so. I am at present engaged in evangelistic work, and have therefore not at the present time a permanent address. I can, however, refer you to the editor of the Canadian Baptist.

(Signed), T. C. Sowter.

ABOUT PARLIAMENTS.

Facts That Are Especially Interesting Just Now.

The first parliament of Great Britain met in 1707.

Not until 1771 were the debates in Parliament allowed to be reported.

The "Parliament of Dunces," convened by Henry IV. at Coventry, in 1404, was so called because all lawyers were excluded from it.

In 1649 the House of Commons formally abolished the House of Lords, and in the same year a peer sat as a member of the Commons.

Prior to the time of the Stuarts, members of Parliament were paid a regular wage for their services by the constituencies returning them.

The present House of Commons and House of Lords were represented in Anglo-Saxon times by the Folkmoot or Council of the people, and the Witenagemot or Council of the Chiefs.

The shortest Parliament lasted for one day only, and decreed the deposition of King Richard II. The four next shortest lasted seven, twelve, fourteen, and twenty days respectively.

The "Parliament of Bats" assembled during the regency in the reign of Henry VI. Its members were forbidden to carry swords, so they came to the House of Commons with bats or clubs.

Parliaments have sat in strange places. One was held by Edward I. under an oak tree in Sherwood forest. Another, called the "Black Parliament," was convened by Henry VIII. in Bridewell Gaol.

So little was the right of returning members to Parliament esteemed in the days of the early Tudor Kings, that many boroughs paid considerable sums of money for the "privilege" of being disfranchised.

Now that Russia, Turkey, and Persia have each achieved or been granted constitutional government of a kind, there are only three countries in the world without a Parliament. They are China, Morocco, and the tiny principality of Monaco.

When the King opens Parliament in State the Crown and the Cap of Maintenance figures largely in the ceremony. Each is borne before his Majesty by a nobleman of high rank, the Crown on a cushion of crimson velvet, the Cap on the top of a short white staff, for these emblems of royal rank may not be touched by any hands but the hands of the Sovereign.

"Parliament Undertakers" was the name given to the little group of great nobles who, till William Pitt's administration, returned fully half the members of the House of Commons. More than sixty seats were in the hands of Lord Downshire, the Ponsonbys, and the Beresfords alone. They undertook to manage Parliament in their own way, on their own terms, and largely in their own interests.

STARTS THE NEW YEAR A NEW MAN

QUEBEC FARMER TELLS WHAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS DID FOR HIM.

They fixed up his Kidneys, made his blood pure, and made him feel young all over.

Franklin Centre, Que., Jan 16 (Special).—The only way to start the New Year right is to get the health right, and Mr. William Gamble, a well known farmer living near here is telling his neighbors how he got his health right.

"I am a farmer sixty-seven years of age," Mr. Gamble says, "And I suffered with a weak back and stoppage of water off and on for ten years. I used several boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and they made a new man of me. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best medicine I have ever taken."

Dodd's Kidney Pills will make a new man of you because they make the Kidneys strong and healthy and able to do their work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. Pure blood means new life. It means good circulation and renewed strength and energy all over the body.

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all forms of Kidney Disease from Backache to Bright's Disease, and they are also doing a great work by giving renewed health and energy to thousands of Canadians who are run-down, tired and generally feeling no good for anything. Start the new year by toning up the Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills. It will pay you.

NAMES IN SAMOA.

Travellers visiting Samoa are puzzled at first by the fact that many boys bear feminine names, while girls as frequently have masculine names. The visitor learns after a while, however, that this confusing use of names instead of being due to ignorance is in reality the result of a native custom which is highly poetic. Thus if a girl is born soon after the death of a brother the latter's name is given to her in the belief that his spirit and all his good qualities have been transferred to her. On the other hand, if a boy is born after the death of a sister he takes the latter's name and, as the Samoans believe, all her lovable traits become his.

STORMS AND THE RAILWAYS.

The barometer plays an important part in the operation of London's underground railways. In the traffic-controller's office close watch is kept upon the glass, and when it indicates the coming of bad weather, the effect upon the train service is immediate. When it rains on the surface, there is an instant rush of Londoners to the underground lines, and if such crowding is not foreseen in time to provide for it, there is great congestion at stations. Therefore train service is regulated with constant reference to the barometer, more trains being placed on the schedule for the hours of storm, and fewer when sunshine promises again.

BABY'S SPLENDID HEALTH.

Mrs. R. Yates, Montreal, Que., writes:—"Baby's splendid health was obtained through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. They are a grand medicine for constipation, as their action is easy and does not give baby pain. I would recommend them to all mothers; no one should be without them who have young children in the house." This testimony is similar to thousands of others sent us by grateful mothers. Every mother who has ever used the tablets for her little ones will tell you they are the very best medicine in the world. They not only cure the ills of the little ones, but they make them grow happy and strong. The Tablets can be given to even the youngest babe with absolute safety as they are sold under the guarantee of a government analyst to contain no opiate or other harmful drug. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good. Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A MODERN MIRACLE!

He Had Eczema 25 Years and Doctors Said "No Cure."

Yet Zam-Buk Has Worked Complete Cure.

This is the experience of a man of high reputation, widely known in Montreal, and whose case can readily be investigated. Mr. T. M. Marsh, the gentleman referred to, lives at 101 Delorimier Avenue, Montreal, and has lived there for years. For twenty-five years he had eczema on his hands and wrists. The disease first started in red blotches, which itched, and when scratched became painful. Bad sores followed, which discharged, and the discharge spread the disease until his hands were one raw, painful mass of sores.

Four eminent medical men tried to cure him, and each gave up the case as hopeless in the end. Naturally, Mr. Marsh tried remedies of all kinds, but he, also, at last gave up. For two years he had to wear gloves day and night so terrible was the pain and itching when the air got to the sores.

Then came Zam-Buk! He tried it, just as he had tried hundreds of remedies before. But he soon found out that Zam-Buk was different. Within a few weeks there were distinct signs of benefit, and a little perseverance with this great herbal balm resulted in what he had given up all hope of—a complete cure! And the cure was permanent. He was cured nearly three years ago. Interviewed the other day, Mr. Marsh said: "The cure which Zam-Buk worked has been absolutely permanent. From the day that I was cured to the present moment I have had no trace of eczema, and I feel sure it will never return. Having suffered for twenty-five years, I regard my cure as a modern miracle."

If you suffer from any skin trouble, cut out this article, write across it the name of this paper, and mail it, with one cent stamp to pay return postage, to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. We will forward you by return a free trial box of Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores sell this famous remedy, 50c. box.

NAMING THE BABY IN JAPAN.

Such lovers of picturesque ceremonies as the Japanese do not let an important event like the naming of the baby pass without proper observance. The infant's birth is immediately announced to the relatives and friends, who hasten to send congratulations and presents. Visitors used to insist upon seeing the mother and child, but the spread of medical knowledge is gradually changing this. On the seventh day after birth the child is named. The first born son is frequently called "Ichiro," which means "First." Others, as in Latin, are named "Second," "Third" and so on. Girls are more lucky, receiving picturesque names like "Snow," "Chrysanthemum," "Glory" and the like.

HICKS' FORECASTS FOR JANUARY.—A reactionary storm period will result in falling barometer, rising thermometer, cloudiness, rain and snow on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th. These disturbances will lead up to the beginning of the Mercury Period on the 24th, with the promise of a prolonged time of stormy, disagreeable weather. At most the interval of fair weather will be short after this period. A regular storm period blends with the Mercury disturbance from the 25th to the 30th. This period is central on the 27th. It will culminate on the 27th to 30th in fierce storms of rain, snow and sleet, amounting to blizzards north and west, and bringing in a general cold wave that will reach far into the south as we pass from January into February. This is a sleet period, that will give us a maximum fall of the barometer, sleet and storms that will destroy shrubbery and wires, and open the gates of the northwest for blizzard and cold wave. A seismic period covers three or four days before and after the 30th. The Mercury periods in the Winter, it must be remembered, call for prolonged periods of cloudy, threatening weather, attended as a rule, with destructive sleet storms, often beginning with high temperature, and rain, lightning and thunder, and culminating in blizzards and a final cold wave.

Mr. Geo. Pedler was obliged to undergo another operation for the removal of pus from his side last week, and since he seems to be improving somewhat.

In a letter from Dr. Rivers of Lethbridge, Alta., he states the weather is very cold in that locality the thermometer registering that day 25 below zero. The doctor is now associates with the firm of Drs. De. Veber & Campbell. The many friends of the doctor here and in Crediton will wish for him every prosperity in his new venture.

A horse belonging to Mr. H. F. Elber of Crediton, while left standing in front of Mr. W. J. Heaman's hardware, ran away yesterday (Wed.) and running down South collidied with the verandah in front of Dr. Hyndman's office taking out three of the posts. The horse was captured however before any further damage was done.

REGISTRARSHIP OF NORTH AND EAST MIDDLESEX.

An esteemed contributor writes; The registrarship of North and East Middlesex is vacant, and there are a number of applicants for the position. Among those who seem to have a prior claim is Col. K. Goodman, K. C., of Parkhill, who has been an influential resident of that village for over 36 years, and identified with every movement making for that place's advancement in the early days and who for over 35 years has done yeoman service in many a hard-fought political battle for the Conservatives in North Middlesex when he filled the position of revising barrister. Col. Goodman is a Fenian raid veteran, and was in active service during tose stirring times. His extensive knowledge and wide information, no less than his legal training would prove a great acquisition in that position. The appointment at Col. Goodman's time of life would be a fitting recognition of long and distinguished party service. Likewise, it would prove a sense of keen satisfaction to his numerous friends outside of the Conservative camp to see his appointment gazetted to a position he would fill so worthily and so ably.

Big Moving Sale

Being compelled to move from our present place of business we have decided to do so on Feb. 1st. After that date you will find the harness shop just two doors South of where it now is in store now occupied by Miss Morlock. As we desire to move no winter goods we will make it worth while to buy them before Feb. 1st even if you do not need to use them until next winter and will give 10 per cent. off all Mitts, and gloves, blankets, robes and bells. This to-gether with free Oil offer, makes these goods cheaper than you will ever be able to buy them again Do not forget that our repair department is up-to-date and we always try to let you take repairing home with you the same day as brought in, and also save you money on it. Sanders & Creech, Exeter.

Dear Sirs,—Enclosed find P.O. Note for $1.00 for The Advocate. You see that we cannot get along without it, as we all feel interested in the old town yet. We get six papers but The Advocate is always looked for more than any of the others.

I suppose you are having lots of snow up in that country. We had nearly enough for sleighing one week at Xmas., but it was pretty thin and soon went away again, and the dust is blowing here now. We are busy every day pruning trees and getting ready for next season's crop, although we don't expect quite as large a crop as we had last year, for that was by far the biggest crop that we have had since we have been here.

I will conclude by wishing you the compliments of the season. Hoping this will find you all well, as it leaves us as present, I remain,

Yours truly,
W. H. Trott.

THE EXETER COUNCIL

The council met in the Town Hall on Friday, 20th inst. Members all present. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Messrs. Bobier and Gidley waited on the council regarding a bond indemnifying the council in respect of certain taxes. They requested the council to strike out the word jointly as there were some that would not sign on that account. As there had been a number who had signed the bond the council thought it not wise to change it. Per Levett and Walper—That no action be taken.—Carried.

Messrs. Gladman and Huston, a deputation from the School Trustee Board, waited on the council regarding a certain balance of money due that had not been paid over to the board, and the same had been going on for years, and they thought that as the council was beginning the year's business it would be a good time to have this matter adjusted. Mr. Gladman said that there had been a letter written in one of the papers asking why it was that the school report had not been printed as in former years. Was it because they had something to cover up? He said that they hadn't anything to cover up, but explained why the board had not issued their annual statement was because that there was always a difference of some hundreds of dollars between the Town Treasurer's account and that of the Secretary of the School Board, and that the Board deemed it better not to do up as the report was so misleading, and only gave the people room to talk. The trouble arose from the way the Town Treasurer kept his books, and in order to have the two accounts balance a change should be made in the Town Treasurer's mode of book-keeping. The Reeve stated that now the auditors were about to audit the books they should go fully into the matter and find out if possible what balance does stand to the credit of the School Board, and after receiving their report he would call a special meeting of the council and with a committee from the Board go fully into the matter and try to effect a settlement The deputation thanked the council and retired.

Per Levett and Rivers—That the following accounts be paid,—J. Senior, postage, 4.00; Harvey Bros., coal, 10.55; John Harness, half year ringing bell, 26.50; Telephone Co., 50c.; Wright & Atkinson, repairs, 2.50; The Times, re by-law 29.42; The Advocate municipal world supplies, printing, etc. 22.68; Dr. Sweet, for service 1.50; T. PROPOSED CHANGE IN LICENSE ACT

Reference to an amendment to the Liquor License Act, believed to foreshadow the grading of License fees, whereby big hotels will be charged a license regulating to some extent by the volume of business done, while the smaller hotels will not have to pay so much, was one of the features of the speech from the throne read by Lieut-Governor Gibson at the formal opening of the third session of the 12th Legislature of Ontario on Tuesday afternoon.

THE VITALITY OF ANNUITANTS

The question if often asked: "Why do annuitants live longer, on the average than other people?" The great factor in the question of course is, that those people live the longest who have the least worries. It is a truism that worry kills more people than work does. Take from a man the primal worry of existence, the worry about his bread and butter, and you leave his mind free for more healthful activities. Burden a man with the fear of the poorhouse or a destitute old age and you cripple his right arm. A man who is ever saving against the evil days and the lean years, fearful that some storm may break at any time to destroy his hoarded grain, comes often to those lean years with some substance but with shattered nerves as well.

For all men and women it is well that the government has provided a means whereby savings may be laid aside for the future with perfect confidence that they shall be available when old age comes. "I am fearful," says one, "not that I must die, but that I may be a burden on others, in in my last days."

A Government Annuity will not solve all such problems, but it will solve, and is solving, many of them.

Ask your Postmaster, or write to the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa, for informations.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE;

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

"Oh! no, I don't; not just im-nedjet, my fine madam. Who are you, I'd like to know, as should order me about. I ain't no im-postor. I don't creep into peo-ple's houses. You ain't no better nor me, when all's said and done. You little think I knows so much but you see I does. Grocers' shops ain't quite as grand as Ripstone 'All, is they, my fine young lady. No, you don't pass," as Nancy made a gesture to wave him aside, "I ain't done with yer. I mean to be even with yer for the dirty trick yer done me—to make me lose my bread and butter, an I—"

"Tell me what you want me to do, and if it is in my power it shall be done," Nancy said, quickly, feeling a not unnatural sense of alarm and deep irritation at the man's vulgar abuse. She regretted suddenly that she had no money with her. "I had nothing to do with you losing your situation; you have yourself to thank for that, William."

"I want no lies," the man replied, brutally; "you can keep 'em for yer grand folk. I wants money, commensation; and money I mean to 'ave by 'ook or by crook, so I warn yer."

Nancy cast a hurried glance from right to left. She was alone—not a soul was to be seen; this man was growing worse, and she had not a soul with her. What was she to do?

"I tell you I am very sorry for you," she said, nervously; "believe me, it was not my fault you were dismissed; but, as you seem to blame me, I will help you till you get another situation. I can say no more."

"A very generous offer," sneered the coward, "but as you've made it, I accepts it. I don't see why I shouldn't live like a gennelman, as you are such a fine lady—come, hand us over some of the tin. Shall we say five pounds to begin with?—and look here, my young madam, hold a close tongue about this, or it will be the worse for yer. I ain't been a pal of Tom Moss' for nothing—ah—ah! I thought as that would change you a little," as Nancy started back with a sudden exclamation. "Didn't know as we were pals, did yer? Come as a sort of blow, ain't it? Well, it's gospel true, all the same, and you knows what to expect for 'aving done me as you did. Come," observed Mr. William, coolly, "out with the money, I ain't wishful to stay 'ere all day."

Nancy had grown pale as death; the very mention of Moss' name had fallen like a black shadow on the brilliancy of the sunshine around. She loathed, she feared this man so much, that the mere thought of him being leagued with the other blackguard against her seemed to sap all her courage. She did not trouble to ask herself what they could do; she only knew she feared Thomas Moss as the dove fears the eagle, and that this man had brought him up as a horrible threat.

"I will give you the money," she said, in faint, low tones, "but I have not got it here. I have not a penny with me."

"I don't believe you!" he almost shouted, "you've got your purse in your pocket, I know, so I'll look for myself. No"—as Nancy drew back suddenly with a wild, helpless longing for aid somehow or somewhere—"no, as you've no money, I'll take this—it u'll do just as well."

His large, coarse hand closed over the dangling chatelaine with all the costly appendages.

Nancy gave a little cry. She prized this most highly, not only because Sir Humphrey had given it to her, but because the only portraits she possessed of her mother and father hung in the little locket upon it.

"No—no!" she cried, eagerly, "do not take that—the money I promise. I—oh!" she was checked roughly and suddenly; her voice had been unconsciously raised, and the coward, fearing that its clear, musical tones might attract attention, covered her mouth with his other hand; despite her struggles he held a firm grasp on the watch and other hanging ornaments and had almost succeeded in jerking it from the slender waistband, when some one ran rapidly forward. A fist shot out against his shoulder, making him loose his hold, and as Nancy, with a cry of joy, clung to Derrick Darnley, the cur had time to pick himself together and run away down the lane at the top of his speed.

Darnley prepared to follow, but Nancy stopped him.

"No, no," she whispered, feebly, for her strength was almost spent, and her heart was beating like a sledge-hammer in her breast, "let—let him go."

"To return and insult you again," Darnley asked, his dark face fixed and stern. "Who is the man, Nancy; do you know him? This matter must be put in the hands of the police; such curs as this must be properly handled." Then he turned back to the girl; she had sunk against the stile, trembling in every limb, and had grown ashen white. Not until this moment did she realize how frightened she had been. "You are not hurt, dear?" Darnley asked, gently and tenderly. "By Jove! I was only just in time, then!" he added, as she shook her head; "it was by the merest chance that I came here. I suddenly took it into my head to walk along and meet you as you returned. Dolly told me you would be sure to come this way, and——"

"And," finished Nancy, with a faint smile, though something in his words and tone had brought the faintest tinge of color to her pale cheeks, "and so you are enabled a second time to come to my rescue in the most approved fashion. I am afraid, Mr. Darnley, you will think me an extraordinary person to be perpetually in need of your aid and protection."

"I think you——" the young man began very slowly; and then he checked himself. "Do you feel equal to walking back? I would run and fetch a trap, or something of the sort; but I do not mean to leave you here alone."

"I can walk quite easily," Nancy assured him; and, indeed, she looked her old self now. Not a trace remained of the disagreeable adventure she had just had, save that her pink waistband was almost torn in half by the rough treatment lavished upon the chatelaine.

"We will wait a little. Sit down. Stay, I will make you comfortable," and without any more ado Mr. Darnleey simply lifted Miss Hamilton from the ground to her old corner on the stile.

"Now, Nancy," he said, very quietly and determinedly, as her cheeks cooled slowly, and she wondered vaguely why her heart should beat so fast and nervously now, when all danger was gone; "to return to this man. Who was he? I seem to remember his face. Why would you not let me go after him and punish him, the brute?"

"Oh, please do not let us talk about him, Mr. Darnley," Nancy said, earnestly and hurriedly.

That one mencion of Thomas Moss had alarmed her beyond all description. The thought flashed through her mind that if she were to give the information Darnley asked, and so get William into more trouble, that he would be revenged on her in even a more horrible way than he had just attempted, and that he would be the means of putting Thomas Moss in her life again.

Of course it was foolish of Nancy. If she had been less nervous, she would have seen how foolish it was to think that these two men could affect her, situated as she was now.

If they dared to molest her, as William had done this afternoon, the matter would soon be settled by Sir Humphrey and the local police; but Nancy's mind had gone back in the last few minutes, to a certain extent, to the condition it was in the old life.

Then Moss' power had seemed to her illimitable; and so she had permitted herself to magnify this; and the probable evils that might arise to her through him, until he was a veritable nightmare to her whenever she permitted herself to think about him.

Darnley saw her hesitation, and was just a little vexed with her.

"Surely, you are not going to be quixotic enough to wish this fellow to go scot-free?" he said, with a shade of annoyance and impatience in his voice.

"If I like to be quixotic it is my own affair, Mr. Darnley," Nancy replied, a trifle hotly.

She was nettled at his tone, and her nerves and mind were so unhinged, she felt it almost a relief to be cross.

But Darnley did not know that. He could not see below the surface, and fathom the mental trouble with which she was struggling, and so he was hurt with her, and not unnaturally.

It would have been well for Nancy if she had there and then put the whole matter before Derrick Darnley, and solicited his aid.

She felt sorely tempted to do so; but pride and modesty, mingled, restrained her from letting this man—whom she already saw regarded her as something delicate and delightful—dive into the past, and know all the shame she had been called upon to endure through Thomas Moss.

She felt that Darnley would be visibly shocked were she to speak of that brutal kiss that Moss had dared to press on her face the evening of her flight from her uncle's home.

Had it not been for this, Nancy would have spoken freely, and told the young man exactly all she feared; but, knowing nothing, it was not strange that Mr. Darnley should be both annoyed and pained at her curious hesitation to hand over the miscreant who had attacked her to be dealt with by the proper authorities, for that she knew him he was quite certain.

He kept silent for a few minutes, occupying himself with chopping off the heads of the flowering weeds, bluebells and other pretty blooms growing near.

Nancy saw that he was annoyed, and felt a sense of depression steal over her as she glanced now and then at his moody, downcast face. Presently she roused herself.

"I—I think I must be going, Mr. Darnley," she said, almost timidly.

The young man turned at once.

"Allow me to help you; that stile is rather high," he said, with calm politeness; but he did not offer to lift her down, as he had lifted her up, and Nancy felt the chilly depression creep still closer upon her.

As she smoothed down her pink muslin skirts and began nervously to put on her gloves, something fell from her chatelaine.

"You have dropped something," Darnley said, quickly, and thereupon he stooped and handed her the little locket containing her treasured portraits, which must have been loosened during Mr. William's vigorous handling of the chain.

"Oh, my locket!" Nancy cried; then, with deep gratitude, "oh! thank you for telling me. I—I would not have lost that for anything!"

Derrick Darnley bit his lips suddenly.

What secret did that tiny gold casket inclose that made it so dear to her, or whose hand had given it, that it should be prized above all else on earth

"I am fortunate in having restored it to you," he said, curtly, but not discourteously.

Nancy's blue eyes went suddenly to his face. What had come to him? A chasm seemed to stretch between them and the pleasant, friendly footing of only an hour ago. He did not seem the same man as the Darnley from whose hand she had vainly tried to extract the imaginary thorn.

A mist of tears rose before her sight, and her lips trembled, but Mr. Darnley did not perceive this; they were walking slowly along the homeward road, and her sunshade carefully screened her face, while his head was carried haughtily in the air, the combined effect of indignation and something more disagreeable and indefinable.

He hated himself for doubting her even for an instant. Still, the unpleasant fact remained that very little was known about her past—only what she had chosen to tell them herself. Was it, then, impossible that she should have some friend whom she cherished, some lover? He ground his teeth, and at that moment he caught a glimpse of her face as she lowered her sunshade from the hanging boughs of a tree, and all his doubts went.

"I am afraid you are very tired," he was beginning, but as she turned to him, radiant to think that his anger was gone, he got no farther, but, with a quick smile, which transfigured his face, he drew her hand through his arm. "We are a pair of simpletons, aren't we, Nancy?" he observed.

MARRIED LIFE.

"No more twain." "Joined together." Mark 10: 6-9.

Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in wedded love;
The oneness of united minds
Is like to that above.

Before Thy gracious throne
We pour our ardent prayer;
And for the future yet unknown
We trust Thy tender care.

May faith and hope increase
And fervent love abound;
And with the diadem of peace
May all our days be crowned.

May we be one in heart
Alike in ease and pain:
While fleeting pleasures may depart,
May joy and truth remain.

And as we thus unite
To tread the perfect way
Upon us may there shine the light
Of everlasting day.

May we the grace obtain
With joy Thy face to see;
And may we with our Saviour reign
Through all eternity.

LIFE IN CITY OF B. C. 2000

OLD BABYLONIAN RECORDS OF CLAY DECIPHERED.

They Relate to the Everyday Affairs of the Citizens of Dilbat.

A correspondent of the London Standard gives some interesting details of a store of cuneiform written tablets recently discovered at the ancient town of Dilbat, near Babylon. The tablets tell in graphic manner the story of the citizens, their business transactions, disputes and everyday life.

They are not the usual royal edicts and records, but what may best be termed family archives. They relate to a very early period, being mostly dated in the reigns of the predecessors of that mighty monarch Hammurabi, who codified the Babylonian laws, and so were composed at the period of the first Babylonian dynasty.

From these newly found tablets and previously deciphered references in the records of Babylon we now know that Dilbat was a small Babylonian town on that great masterpiece of Mesopotamian engineering the Arahtu canal.

"The canal," says the correspondent, "must have kept near to the great river Euphrates, for it washed the southern face of Babylon's ramparts and upon it opened one of the great city's gates dedicated to the god Uras. It led away southward to Dilbat, which, as the newly found records inform us, was built between the canal and the Euphrates, for some of the tablets refer to pieces of property described as within the city or its suburbs, as bounded by the river, and others by the canal. As the present natives of the district will not reveal the site of their find we unfortunately do not yet know precisely where Dilbat stood.

"The Arahtu Canal not only watered the soil and so produced the crops but carried upon its surface the harvests it had created. Thus an old text says it was the 'bringer of life to Babylon.' Dilbat was probably the great southern granary for the capital, for Hammurabi, in his long autobiographical panegyric, boasts that he 'extended the plantations of Dilbat and accumulated corn for Ip.'

"When the Arahtu was first constructed it would be difficult to say, but its benefits to their people caused the kings always to keep it in repair, and vice versa, invaders of Babylonia in war time damaged it as a preliminary to starving out the capital.

"The special deity of Dilbat was Ip, probably a shortened form of Nimip, and his temple was called Imbi Anum, 'Proclaimed of Anu.' There was a city wall coeval with the foundation of the city, and restored by King Sumu-Abu, predecessor of Hammurabi. The town appears to have possessed three harbors or docks and a market, and one can imagine the busy hum of commerce upon

ITS STREETS AND WHARVES

"The documents rescued from its ruins almost all concern the sale, or renting of houses and lands and fields, or the hire and purchase of cattle and crops, Dilbat being the centre of a rich agricultural district. The terms employed are common to all the Babylonian cities. The ground and the houses are clearly defined by the enumeration of neighboring properties and the names of their proprietors.

"Frequently the boundary is a street, a canal, a pond or harbor. Then, in cases of real estate, follows a statement of value, the names of vender and purchaser, and at the end of the bargain, the deed discloses, comes the oath sworn before the god of the city in the temple and also an invocation of the reigning King. The Dilbat scribes also added a clause placing the onus of any subsequent dispute of the deed upon the seller. 'For all the contests concerning the property (A. B.) is responsible.' Finally follow the names of the witnesses, and often also of the scribe of the tablet, and generally several signets of the persons concerned.

"Legally the vender should always seal the tablet, but if he had not a signet, then some or all of the witnesses applied theirs. Properly speaking, also, the tablets should have been in duplicate. The first was inscribed and baked and copied; then a cover of soft clay placed over or around it, and the document re-engrossed upon this cover from the copy, so that it could be referred to at any time by paying the required fee at

THE RECORD OFFICE.

"In case of dispute as to its accuracy, for an extra sum the outer envelope was broken and compared with its interior duplicate text; and the litigant who proved to be in error in his allegation that the two versions were not identical paid a considerable forfeit, and a new outer case was placed over the original tablet and reinscribed. This procedure is mentioned in the Old Testament as inquiring of the outer and the inner tablet of a deed.

"The fellahin with their picks and shovels have, however, broken most of the outer covers of the Dilbat documents. These methods for the enregisterization of transactions necessitating legal formalities to enable them to be cited as 'evidence' in the law courts, or the municipal tribunal (for in one case, at least, the Mayor was the judge) were similar to those at other contemporary neighboring cities, but they possess their own peculiar phraseology, proving that Dilbat had his own type of citizen, though comparatively an insignificant town. So a flourishing school of scribes and solicitors doubtless crowded the shady corridors of its temple and the halls of the god's tribunal.

"Truly its prosperity was but a reflex of that of Babylon, but the city's existence was not ephemeral, for it commenced with the first regions of the great neighboring cities' kings and endured until

THE PERSIAN ERA.

"The majority of the tablets found often merely reregister plots, areas or locations, for mose of the litigation was about boundaries. Others, however, are for loans or hiring agreements, one being for a period of three months only. Huzalum hires a bull from the great temple gods of Sippara, Shamash and Aia for a year. Doubtless the joint deities had a shrine at Dilbat and a farm for sacrificial cattle and did a thriving trade in stud cattle and rams.

"People also hired out chariots and agricultural implements, but loans were mostly in money and seed corn. The interest for the latter sometimes amounted to 36 per cent., but it was payable in kind out of what it provided, and if the farmer had parted in the previous season with his reserve of seed, because of a specially high offer for it, he could afford to pay such interest to obtain a fresh supply.

"Some deeds concern the hiring of harvesters, and they were often registered before the engagement matured by the crops ripening. A clause was therefore inserted that if the men contracted for failed to appear the farmer could hire others at the price paid that season by the king for his own estates, and it may be presumed that the person who had promised to supply the men made up the difference if any.

"Such was life at Dilbat about 2,000 years before the Christian era, as revealed by the small clay tablets that the patient industry of many intellects have for the love of science enabled us to read."

THE AVERAGE WOMAN NEEDS MORE BLOOD

Nerves Easily Irritated, She Worries Over Little Things

To the woman in the home—the woman closely confined to the house either through household duties or the care of children, or both—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a positive blessing. The average woman has too little blood. Her nerves are easily irritated, she worries over little things, has severe headaches and backaches and is sick most of the time. With the woman who uses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the condition is different. She is always well and the care of her children, or her household duties, is a real pleasure. This is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood supply and bring bounteous health and strength. Here is proof. Mrs. Fanny Shepherd, Girvin, Sask., says: "I am the mother of a large family and was worn out, weak and irritable. I kept going to my doctor about every six weeks, and he would give me something "to keep me going a little longer." But it was like winding up a clock, I soon got run down again, and although life seemed hardly worth living, I did not wish to die because of leaving my little children. I continued like this for some years, but at last summoned up enough energy to strike out a new departure and got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I barely hoped they would help me, but to my surprise, before I had been taking them long I began to feel like a different woman. I still continued taking the Pills for some time, and they made me as well and strong as any woman need wish to be. Once more I would enjoy life thoroughly, and have done so ever since. I never need the doctor now, and everything seems bright and cheerful. I shall always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone who in my opinion needs a tonic of any kind."

A SURE WAY.

A certain learned professor enjoys a good joke, and his pupils often come to him when they have heard a new one.

Such was the case when one of the students came to him and said:

"Professor, wouldn't you like a good recipe for catching rabbits."

"Why, yes," replied the Professor. "What is it?"

"Well, you just crouch down behind a thick stone wall, and make a noise like a turnip."

Quick as a flash came the reply: "Oh, a better way than that would be for you to go and sit quietly in a bed of cabbage and look natural."

WHERE HE MADE IT.

"Hullo, Binks!" said Wobbles. "I hear you've been in the chicken business."

"Yep," said Binks.

"Made anything out of it?" asked Wobbles.

"Yep," said Binks. "Ten thousand dollars."

"Ten thousand dollars in the chicken business!" demanded Wobbles.

"Nope. Out of it," said Binks.

WILL TEST CAMORRA.

Thirty-two Members of Dreaded Band are in Prison.

The walls of the Prison Gardi at Viterbo, Italy, once a monastery, now hold with seeming security 22 members of the dreaded Camorra, whose trial next month for the murder of traitorous associates, is expected to test the strength and influence in high places of the most resourceful of criminal organizations. Since the prisoners were brought there from Naples, the officials have realized that comrades in the "honorable society" would not hesitate to adopt desperate measures to free Chief Enrico Alfano and his companions if they could foresee the slightest chance of success.

Detachments of carbineers surround the prison. Sunday passed without incident, but the stillness of the night was broken frequently by whistle calls, sounding at times as though from a considerable distance and again seeming to rise from within the dungeon enclosure. In these the guards recognized the familiar signals of the Cammorists, who thus sought to establish communication with their imprisoned friends.

According to the director of the prison the attempt failed. It had been anticipated and the criminals were purposely placed in cells opening on the cloisters of the ancient monastery and into which no sound from the outside world could reach. The prisoners are accused of the murder of James Cuosolo and his wife and have been awaiting trial for more than three years. On their behalf it has been boasted that such was the power of the Camorra that they would never be convicted in the courts of Italy. The Minister of Justice has declared that the band of assassins and robbers must be wiped out.

MOTHER'S APPRECIATE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Because they are the only medicine which gives the guarantee of a Government analyst to contain no opiate, morphine or other harmful narcotic. This means the mother can give this medicine to her youngest baby with absolute safety. Thousands of mothers know this and will give no other medicine to their little ones. The Tablets cannot do harm—they always do good. When the little one has a cold; baby indigestion; colic; when he has worms or his teeth are troubling him, Baby's Own Tablets will prove their worth. Concerning them Mrs. E. Merriam, Shetland, Ont., writes: "I use Baby's Own Tablets for my three little ones and consider them the very best medicine during the teething period. The Tablets are sold at 25 cents a box by all medicine dealers or direct from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SHE CURED HER HEART DISEASE

WHEN SHE CURED HER KIDNEYS WITH DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mrs. Henry J. Jacques found a speedy relief for all her troubles, and now enjoys the best of health.

St. Rose du Lac, Man., Jan. 23 (Special)—That Heart Disease is one of the results of disordered Kidneys, and is consequently easily cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, is the experience of Mrs. Henry J. Jacques of this place.

"My heart troubled me all the time," said Mrs. Jacques in an interview. "And I knew what terrible results might follow. The fact that my limbs would swell and my back ache led me to believe that I also suffered from Kidney Disease, so I determined to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I bought four boxes, and before I had finished the third box the swelling was gone, my back was well, and my heart no longer troubled me. I am now in the best of health, and I owe it all to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Heart Disease is one of the troubles that come from unhealthy Kidneys. They fail to strain the impurities out of the blood, and those impurities are bound to affect the heart, which is the engine that propels the blood through the body. To cure Heart Disease cure the Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills; to prevent Heart Disease keep the Kidneys toned up and healthy by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

HOME TRAINING.

When Mothers are Unconsciously Cruel to Their Daughters.

"All's well that ends well" is the most costly of mottoes, declares the author of "Neighbors and Friends," who adds that in her daily rounds the district nurse becomes convinced that laziness, mental and bodily, is at the bottom of most of the evils of life.

Mothers repeatedly argue when remonstrated with for allowing girls in their teens to spend their time in idleness, "I can do the work myself, and when the time comes for it, they'll do the same." They do not recognize how much easier life would be for their children if they did not allow habits of laziness and selfishness to take such deep root.

In the days when sewing formed a larger part of every woman's education and occupation than it does at present a mother was reproached for allowing her daughter to spend so much time over embroidery. In defending herself, she said, "I have had her taught sewing, and whether she makes shirts or tea cozies matters very little. What matters is the habit of industry. Provided she has that, she will always turn to any form of work that may be necessary."

It seems almost impossible for uneducated mothers to grasp the fact that although their children's assistance in the housework may be of little value, they must nevertheless exact it, and that the important point is the habit of industry, not the intrinsic worth of childish efforts. Even n the humblest forms of work it may be truly said, "Ease is the lovely result of forgotten toil."

Pills for Nervous Troubles.—The stomach is the centre of the nervous system, and when the stomach suspends healthy action the result is manifest in disturbances of the nerves. If allowed to persist, nervous debility, a dangerous ailment, may ensue. The first consideration is to restore the stomach to proper action, and there is no readier remedy for this than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Thousands can attest the virtue of these pills in curing nervous disorders.

NOVEL EYEGLASSES.

German Inventions for the Near Sighted and for the Police.

A German inventor has devised what he calls telescope eyeglasses. They are intended for the use of short sighted persons by the very simple means of enlarging the image on the retina. They are specially designed for that class of people who cannot wear the ordinary simply corrected glasses.

The monocle combination consists of two parts united in a single metal frame, a front objective lens or collector and a second nearer the eye to disperse the rays at the proper angle to make the correction for the degree of myopy in question. When properly prescribed and made, says the Scientific American, the two lenses have such relation to each other that there is no distortion, astigmatism or colored border to the image obtained.

Another German has invented what he calls police eyeglasses. On the side next the face they have tiny concave mirrors which may be extended sidewise or be folded back so as not to show. They give the wearer if he has normal sight an image of what is going on almost directly behind him. They are proposed for the German secret police. Whether adopted or not is not to be ascertained from headquarters.

ACHES, PAINS AND RHEUMATISM!

Zam-Buk will give You Ease.

Have you a bad attack of "general aching"? You know the feeling. Limbs ache, muscles seem to have become tired out, your back aches, now and again a twinge of rheumatism strikes you here and there. Your chest feels tight, there is a pain between your shoulders, and altogether you need toning up.

Cold is responsible for this condition, and a vigorous application of Zam-Buk will put you right. Take a hot bath, if possible, and then rub your chest and the aching limbs well with Zam-Buk.

Mrs. B. Gorie, 76 Berkley St., Toronto, writes: "A few weeks ago I was suffering from a bad cold, which had settled in my throat, chest and limbs. I tried all kinds of remedies, new and old, and found very little relief until I used Zam-Buk. On applying this to my throat and chest I found such ease and relief from the tightness and soreness I determined to use only Zam-Buk. I also rubbed it on my limbs where I felt the rheumatic pains. In three days from the time I first began applying Zam-Buk I was free from the cold in throat and chest, and also the rheumatism in my limbs."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, blood-poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

The women of this town have laboured earnestly and long in an endeavor to maintain truth and sobriety in the home, teaching their sons and daughters that these are cardinal virtues, and are to be prized far greater than rubies. They have recognized the fact that home-life is the foundation of all life, and that municipal, state and national existence is pure only as the home-life is pure. The women of this town have been the silent force the under-curent, that has been working so effectively through the years, the result of which has meant the ushering in of social conditions that are extremely wholesome.

The farmer, if he only knew it, is a little nearer the kingdom of heaven than anyone on earth. He is certain of three square meals a day and is the only man that can fence himself in, and live in spite of the rest of mankind. A few cattle and sheep and fowl provide him with food and clothing, while his fields yield him flour and a source of revenue. So generous are these provisions and so common that hardly one farmer in ten takes any account of them, although the ordinary business man thinks he has done well when he reaches the end of the year and find that he has a little more than made ends meet.

No man should be allowed to carry a revolver, dirk knife, or other weapon in this fair land where peace reigns, law and order is observed to a large degree, and justice is meted out to the wrong doer. Even with apparently careful handling of firearms there is frequently a sad toll of death, but in the hands of a half-drunken man or one demented by an uncontrollable temper, not only the party who has given the supposed offence but the public generally are endangered and often with little redress, if injured, owing to the too prevalent plea of temporary insanity. Put the ban on the use and consequent abuse of murderous weapons.

A local newspaper is absolutely necessary to any community. It is the home paper that keeps the people of the community in touch with each other by giving them all the news of their own neighborhood and county. For that alone they are of value and worth far more than the small subscription price. They keep the local pride and progressive spirit aroused and in various ways are worth far more to a community than a community overspend on them. The daily paper, with its large news service and quicker facilities, may, in some instances overshadow the weekly, but the weekly home paper fills a place in the hearts of the people that a daily cannot fill. It comes to your home as an old and tried friend, while the daily enters as a stranger.

Our attention has been called to a case which was decided by the Division Court at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, a few days ago under section 119 of the Criminal Code of Canada, by which it is declared to be a criminal offence for any person to sell or give a pistol or any air gun to a minor under the age of 16 years. In the case referred to a boy had purchased an air-gun, and while shooting sparrows, a shot accidently struck a women on the street in the eye. She brought an action for damages against the person who had sold the gun to the boy, and the High Court has sustained the verdict It is also made a criminal offence by the same statute for a person to sell a pistol or air-gun to anyone, whether a minor or adult, without keeping a record of the sale with the date, the name of purchaser and the name of the maker, or other mark by which it may be indentified. If there are local complaints, and we are told there have been strict attention should be paid to obeying the law in the future.

In this country the time has come when a change is necessary in the control and maintenance of roads. The statute labor system served a purpose in the early days, and may, perhaps, be useful still in keeping up roads on the side lines and in more remote sections. The county road plan has had a good trial, and has been productive of good in improving some of the leading roadways of the country. It is, however, not comprehensive enough to meet the needs of the country at the present time. Road making must be of a permanent character. The road built to-day should be a good road, no matter how well it may be built in the first instance It will not continue so for many years unless it is well looked after In other words the maintenance of a road after it is built is just as important as the building of the road itself. And this is one of the strong arguments in favor of government control of roads, or, at least, of the leading roads of the country system that is being worked out largely in Ontario is the maintenance part of it. A county with liberal government grants and with proper plans may be able to build a good road, though there must necessarily be a lack of uniformity as between the roads built by one county and those built by another. And this lack of uniformity will be more noticeable in the maintenance of the roads than in their building. Some more comprehensive plan is needed and that plan can best be worked out under government control and responsibility.

It is said that Huron County will have but two representatives in the Dominion House after the Redistribution Bill becomes law, and moreover that the London, Huron & Bruce Railway will be the dividing line. If such is the case we will have two long, narrow ridings, and those who study election statistics say that there will be a safe Liberal seat on the east and a safe Conservative seat on the west.

KIRKTON.

The entertainment in the Methodist church on Monday evening was first-class in every respect, and appreciated by those present. The program was furnished by the Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian Church of St. Marys and the Epworth League of the James street Methodist church of Exeter. Among those from Exeter taking part were Mr. Phillips, piano instrumental; Herb. Southcott and Miss Lulu Martin, duet; Miss Delight Hobbs, violin solo; Miss Thelma Connor, reading; Ed. Treble, cornet solo; Miss Edna Follick, solo; Melve Southcott, address. The St. Marys people rendered several choice numbers. After the program refreshments were served. The net receipts amounted to $25.00.

Once again the railway by-law has been quashed in Blanshard. It seems to be a difficult matter to get this village connected with the neighboring towns by a railway.—Albert Spencer of the 14th con., Usborne, has rented his farm for a term of years to Walter Ruston. Mr. Spencer will hold a sale in March.

The annual meeting of the Kirkton Agricultural Society was held on Thursday of last week in Aberdeen Hall. There was a goodly attendance. The President, Robt. Berry, occupied the chair. The Secretary-Treasurer's Report was laid before the meeting, and it was highly satisfactory. There is a balance on hand of $210. The following officers were elected for this year.—Pres., Robt Berry; 1st. Vice., Richard Paynter; 2nd Vice., John Atkinson; Directors John Kelland, Wm. Delbridge, Hugh Berry, David Paynter, A. Brethour, Geo. Bently, J. H. Robinson, Sam'l Doupe, John Cole; Hon. Directors, M. Y. McLean, M.P., G. H. McIntyre, M.P. V. Stock, M.P.P., H. Eilber, M.P.P., Wm. Hazlewood; Auditors, W. M. Leigh, R. N. Shier; Sec.-Treas., Amos Doupe. The fall fair will be held on the first Thursday and Friday in October. R. Berry and A. Doupe were appointed delegates to attend the Convention of the Association of Fairs held in Toronto in February. A short discussion took place as to the advisability of engaging expert judges for the Fall Fair, after which it was decided not to engage experts. It was also decided to erect a new secretary's office this year, which is badly needed.

McGILLIVRAY.

Owing to Small Pox being prevalent on the 2nd, con, the public school under the charge of Miss Gauld has been closed for two weeks by order of the Board of Health Officer. Christ church was also closed on Sunday until further notice, as it is thought to be unsafe to hold services there until such time as the disease has abated.

The Annual installation of McGillivray Home Circle, No 110 took place on Wednesday evening at the West McGillivray Town Hall. A goodly number were in attendance and partook of Oyster Supper which was provided. A short program of music singing and recitations helped to make it a very pleasant evening, after which, Mr. D. Robinson, who has been Financial Sec. for the above society for about 17 years, was presented with a gold chain and locket, and an address in recognition of his services and as a mome[illegible] on his retirement from that office

After a very brief illness, of only a few days duration there passed away at his home near Brinsley, Mr. John Gilbert, in his 50th year. On Sunday morning previous to his death Mr. Gilbert rose in his usual health and completed his chores. In the after-noon he took a severe pain in his bowels which the doctor pronounced appendicitis, but which was afterwards believed to be a knot in the bowel, from the result of which he passed away on Wednesday about noon. Mr. Gilbert has been a life-long resident of McGillivray township, having been born on the 8th con. near Moray. He moved to this vicinity about seven or eight years ago. He was married about 28 years ago to Maggie Boyce, who survives him, together with a family of two sons and three daughters, Jno of London tp and Melvin, Cassie and Gertie at home

We extend to the newly married couple our best wishes and welcome his bride into our midst.—Mr. Thiel of Pigeon, Mich., is visiting Mr. John Finkbeiner.—Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Eilber visited Mr. and Mrs. Brown of London over Sunday.—Mrs. Henry Sweitzer presided at the Pipe organ in the absence of the regular organist. —Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Ginter have returned to their home, after a week's visit in our midst.

A very pretty wedding took place at the residance of Mrs. Hugh Girvin of Lucknow, last Wednesday, 18th inst., at 11 a.m. when her youngest daughter, Miss Mary Lindsay, was married to Mr. Herbert K. Eilber, only son of Mr. H. Eilber, M. P. P., of Crediton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, B. C. L., pastor of the Meth. church, in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. While Mendelsohn's Wedding March was being played by Miss Lena Treleaven, the bride entered leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. T. A. Girvin of Saskatoon, Sask., who gave her away. The bride was beautifully attired in white satin, veiled in silk chiffon and wore a tulle veil with orange blossoms, and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. The bridal couple were unattended except by the flower girl, little Miss Helen Johnston of London, who wore white embroidered mull and carried a basket of pink and white carnations. After the congratulations had been extended the happy couple and wedding guests repaired to the dining-room, decorated in pink and white, where the dinner was served. The bridal couple left on the 2 p.m. train for Toronto, Hamilton and other points east amid showers of confetti and the best wishes of a large number of friends and relatives. The bride's going away suit was of navy blue broadcloth, with black plumed hat and mink furs. The presents were numerous and included several cheques. Special mention must be made of a beautiful silver baker presented by the Methodist choir to the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Eilber will reside in Crediton. We extend to them our heartiest congratulations and best wishes, and trust they may live long to enjoy married life.

Woods is teaming logs to Woodham sawmill to have them worked up into material to re-build the barn recently burned.—The Thames Road Beef Ring participated in an enjoyable oyster supper, in the Chosen Friends' Hall on Tuesday evening of last week, served by Mr. W. J. Statham of Exeter. Following the supper a program was rendered in the Town Hall, consisting of speeches, singing, recitations, readings, etc. The Centralia and Elimville quartettes contributed much to the pleasure of the evening. The song rendered by Mr. Thos. Smale, "mayor" of Elimville, entitled the "Barley Moo," brought down the house.—Dame rumor has it that wedding bells will peal forth in the near future in honor of one of our older residents.

Death of Mrs. Sleamon.—There passed away at her home in the village on Thursday last, Mrs. William Sleamon at the age of 62 years. Deceased had been confined to her bed for three weeks, suffering at first from what was supposed to be an ordinary cold, but which developed into pneumonia, and sinking daily passed away at about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. The deceased was born in Lower Canada, but had lived in these parts several years. She was married a little over a year and a half ago to Mr. Sleamon and has since proven to be a worthy citizen. Her maiden name was Margaret Lightheart and she is survived by her husband, two sons and two daughters—Messrs Morrison of Baden and Saginaw, Mich., respectively; Mrs. Adam Nichol of Goderich and Mrs. Elijah Harris of Camlachie. The funeral took place to the Elimville cemetery Saturday.

BIDDULPH

Golden Wedding.—One of those pleasant and not common events was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly of the Town Line on Tuesday last, it being the celebration of the 50th anniversary of their wedding day. This most important event in the history of such a worthy old couple was most fittingly celebrated and that binding ceremony which united them 50 years ago, and since which fifty years of unalloyed connubial bliss and happiness has followed in their path, they again renewed their vows Tuesday. A large number were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will have the hearty congratulations of their many friends and the best wishes of all for many years more of happy married life.

Retrospective And Prospective

As the year 1910 has gone, gone into the care-dimmed isles of the past, never again to return; gone with its hopes and its fears, with its joys and its sorrows, its strivings and aspirations, and only leaving behind the skeleton of high resolves, of good purpose formed; yet bequeathing to us a legacy of memories, which the mind being immortal shall ever retain. And as the new born year comes to us in a mantle of snow for swaddling clothes, we would wish to re mind you of its various necessities in the line of nourishing foods, and fresh groceries of all descriptions, and of our tenderest care and greatest solicitude for its substantial and per mananent development.

One of the goods we would recommend for the infant is Exeter Flour and is, we think, preferable to Robinson's patent barley, which we also sell, and as it develops it will no doubt join the ever-increasing army of those who bespeak the praises of this reliable Flour.

BROKE UP THE HABIT.

A Woman Who Found a Simple Remedy For a Big Annoyance.

"What has become of those two children who visited you so often?" asked one west side woman of another. The other smiled discreetly.

"They are the children of my niece, and she was making a convenience of me. Of course I love the children, but I never allow myself to become much of a victim of imposition. My niece is an extremely gay young widow, and she does not like to take care of her children. She is fond of shopping, matinees, afternoon teas and everything, in short, which takes her away from home, and she got into a habit of sending her children over to my house for me to take care of when ever she wished to gad about. I decided it was time to break up the habit, for her own good and that of the children, as well as mine, so I did."

"I suppose that made your niece angry?"

"Oh, no; it couldn't. I never said anything about it. The last time the children came over I spent the afternoon teaching them verses from the Bible, and they didn't find it sufficiently entertaining. They never came back. Just how they managed to work it out with their mother I do not know, but I suppose they struck or begged off. Of course she could not object to what I had done, and it proved a very simple solution."—New York Press.

AN ASTOR DEAL.

The Only Time That Old John Jacob Sold Real Estate.

"One of the most strugent real estate rules of the Astor family is 'never sell,' and only one sale is recorded in the entire life of old John Jacob Astor," said Niles F. Watkins, a real estate broker of New York. "In 1830 Astor tore down his house in Broadway, cleared the whole block from Vesey to Barclay street and built the huge Quincy granite hotel known as the Astor House, which was one of the first notable landmarks in New York and also one of the best paying pieces of property.

"A few days after it was finished the old gentleman and his eldest son, William, were walking through City Hall park, where the postoffice now stands, and stopped a moment to admire the building, the finest hotel in America at that time.

"'Pop, that's a mighty fine building,' said William. 'I wish to gracious it was mine.'

"'So?' answered the father. 'Well, Billy, give me $1 and you can have it.'

"Out came the dollar—a big silver dollar that is cherished by the family to this day—and within an hour the deed of the property was made out and recorded. This was old Mr. Astor's only sale of real estate in his life."—Washington Herald.

A Solomon-like Decision.

A Rhode Island justice was called upon to determine the ownership of a brood of turkeys. The flock, consisting of fifteen young ones, was mothered by two hens, a white one and a bronze, and had been running for quite a time over two adjoining farms. The owner of the white hen declared that the turkeys were his, while the man who owned the bronze hen asserted just as positively that they belonged to him. The justice was puzzled. At last a witness came forward who swore that he had seen a dog chase the flock; that at the dog's approach the young birds flew up into a tree and the bronze hen took to the woods, but the white hen turned and gave battle to the dog. The justice thereupon decided that the owner of the white hen was also the rightful owner of the brood of young turkeys.—New York Press.

A Woman's Wit.

The husband of Lydia Childs was an invalid for many years. He was not well off in this world's goods, and much of the support of the family was earned by the wife. Thinking of this and of his wife's many sacrifices for his comfort, Mr. Childs once said to her regretfully, "My dear, I wish I were Croesus."

Whereupon Mrs. Childs, with ready wit and gracious tact, responded, "You are Croesus, for you are king of Lydia."—Los Angeles Times.

Imaginary Pains.

Don't laugh at hysterical people with their imaginary pains, says a physician. A "delusion" is reality to the sufferer. When one believes one has a pain one has the pain. All pain is in the brain, and to believe one has it is to have it. It matters not a whit whether the message is sent by one's toe that some kind friend is treading on or whether it is sent from one part of the brain to another.—New York Tribune.

Unmoved.

"I understand your antagonist is calling you every name he can think of?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum cheerily. "But he hasn't much of a vocabulary."—Washington Star.

Odd Australian Animals.

Australia produces those lowest of the quadrupeds, the duck billed water mole and the echidna, or Australian porcupine ant eater. They, along with the kangaroos, may be described as the groundlings of the mammalian family, for in respect of their structure they are of a much lower grade than, say, a dog or a cat. This inferiority is seen not only in the brain, but in many other details of their bodily anatomy.

In zoological circles the prevalent opinion is that this mole is a link between birds on the one hand and mammals on the other. These "lowest" quadrupeds lay eggs like birds, the young being subsequently hatched from the eggs, whereas in the kangaroos and all higher mammals the young are born alive and nourished by means of milk.

Spencer's Love Affair.

Herbert Spencer never married. When he was twenty years old he had something like a tender affair, and he tells about it in his autobiography. The young lady's affections had already been placed elsewhere, and she was only playing with the budding philosopher. One day her "young man" called, and they all went out for a walk. Spencer says: "She, taking his arm, looked over her shoulder smilingly and rather mischievously to see what effect was produced on me, there being an evident suspicion that I should not be pleased. The revelation was not agreeable to me, but still it did not give me a shock of a serious kind."

Killing a Robin.

There are persons at the present day—and not all old women either—who believe that killing a robin will bring bad luck. According to ancient belief the stormcloud was a huge bird. The Arabians represented his wings as measuring 10,000 fathoms. This bird lived on worms, the latter being the streaks of lightning accompanying storms. The Germans remodeled the fiction by creating the god Thor, whose bird was the robin. Consequently to kill a robin first meant death by lightning, then bad luck.

An Enormous Sundial.

A curious phenomenon is reported in the columns of a geographical publication. It is a large promontory in the Aegean sea, known as Hayon Horoo, which extends 3,000 feet above the level of the water. As the sun swings around, the shadow of this mountain touches one by one a circle of islands separated by regular intervals, which act as hour marks. It is the largest sundial in the world.

Some Hope For Him.

Young Sorreltop—Then you utterly cast me off, Esmeralda? Miss Esmeralda (with great gentleness)—Why, no, Sylvester. But—but it would be so silly for a girl to say yes the first time. If—if you are of the same mind you might ask me again some day, you know.

Cut Off at Bargain Rates.

Percy—Young Rapidgait had hard luck. He was disinherited recently. Harold—Cut off without a dollar, eh? Percy—No. His mother did the disinheriting. He was cut off with 98 cents.

All the More Annoying.

"But his statement about you is a tissue of malicious lies, is it not?"

"No; it's a very substantial combination of malicious lies, with a tissue of malicious truth."

An acre of good fishing ground will yield more food in a week than an acre of the best land will in a year.

DEATH—In the death of Mrs. George D. Arnold Hensall loses the oldest person residing here. She departed this life on Tuesday after reaching the grand age of 87 years 8 months. Her death was simply the result of old age. She was born at Cape Diamond, but afterwards went to Montreal where she spent some years and then moved to Toronto where she was married to her now bereaved husband. They moved to Ailsa Craig where they spent several years. About 20 years ago they came to Hensall and have resided here ever since. She leaves three sons and one daughter, Mrs. J. Macarthur and Harry Arnold of town, G. F. Arnold of Buffalo A. Arnold of High River, Alta. The remains were taken by train to Ailsa Craig and interred in Nairn Cemetery.

The Old Way to cure a Cold

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, heartfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

BEFORE TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

TESTED RECIPES.

Bran Gems.—One egg beaten, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup sour milk into which dissolve one level teaspoon of soda, three tablespoons of melted butter, two cups of bran, about two cups of white flour with one heaping teaspoon of baking powder. This recipe makes two dozen small gems, but will keep for days and are fine cold. The bran gems or bread are recommended by physicians.

Baked Veal.—Buy two or more veal steaks or as manq as needed, and season with salt and pepper to taste. Have yolks of one or two eggs well beaten, and a crock of cracker crumbs ready for use. Dip veal in egg, then in crumbs, and fry until a golden brown. Have one or two cans of peas opened and drained, or use fresh peas in season. Put veal in baking pan and cover with peas. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Do not quite cover with water. Put into oven and bake for half an hour, basting at intervals to keep peas from hardening.

Celery Toast.—A dainty dish for Sunday evening is celery toast. For a small family clean one moderate sized stalk of celery, using all of the stalk and the tender leaves. Cut in small pieces and place in dish over fire, with just enough water to cook it. Add a generous pint of milk and let it remain over the fire until scalded. Thicken slightly with flour and add a small pinch of butter. Pour over slices of well browned toast.

Fricasseed Potatoes. — Place a small onion sliced in a saucepan. Add to it a dessert spoonful of butter, a dash of paprika, and salt, and fried a light brown. The potatoes cut in small squares are poured into the saucepan and covered with boiling water. When the water has boiled away the potatoes are soft and mealy and tinted a golden red from the paprika and butter. They are excellent.

CAKE.

Sponge Cake.—Three eggs, one cupful sugar, one cupful flour, six tablespoonfuls hot water, one teaspoonful flavoring. Beat eggs and sugar with wire beater until light, fold in sifted flour, add boiling water, and lastly any desired flavoring. This, if you notice, has neither shortening nor baking powder, yet is light, tender, and delicious.

Fruit Cake.—One cup butter, two cups yellow sugar, one cup molasses, five eggs, yolks and whites beaten separate, one jound raisins, one pound currants, one pound of figs or dates, half cup of brandy, one pound citron, one nutmeg, one cup of chopped nuts, one tablespoonful cinnamon, one teaspoonful each of all spice and cloves, one teaspoonful of soda in a cup of sour milk, flour enough to stiffen. Bake one hour and forty-five minutes.

Pound Cake.—Eight eggs, two cups of butter, four cups of sugar, one cup of molasses, two cups of milk, ten cups of flour, two and one-half pounds of raisins, two and one-half pounds of currants, two pounds of citron, two tablespoons cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice mixed, lemon and vanilla to taste, two tablespoons of soda. One large loaf will bake four hours with a slow fire, or four smaller loaves. You will find this an excellent recipe for special occasions. It is a regular wedding cake recipe.

Nut Cake.—Two tablespoonfuls of butter, one cup sugar. Beat together, then yolks of two eggs, one cupful milk, two cupfuls oflur, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, one-half teaspoonful vanilla, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of English walnuts. When all beaten together, beat stiff the white of one egg; bake in layers, and bake in slow oven. When cool cover with white or chocolate icing.

Mock Angel Food.—One-half cupful flour, one cupful sugar, three rounded teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and a pinch of salt. Sift all the above together five or six times and add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs with flavoring; bake in a tin with a tube. Do not grease the tube, but as soon as taken from the oven turn upside down and as the cake cools it loosens.

TWO NEW RECIPES.

Creole Salad.—Two cupfuls white grapes (halved), one cupful chopped celery, two cupfuls canned salmon, one cupful mayonnaise dressing. Shred the salmon with a silver fork and add grapes and celery; add dressing and mix thoroughly; garnish with lemon and celery leaves.

Lizette Wafers.—Mix a cupful of peanuts, ground fine, with enough mayonnaise dressing to spread easily. Spread on Saratoga flakes, cover with meringue made of beaten white of one egg and one tablespoonful of sugar. Place in oven and brown. Serve hot with creole salad.

PUDDING.

Banana Pudding.—Slice three large bananas thin. Make a custard of the yolks of three eggs, two cups milk, one-half cup sugar, small piece of butter, pinch salt, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a little vanilla. Beat all together and boil in a double boiler until it thickens, then pour over the bananas and serve with whipped cream. This is delicious.

Grape Pudding.—To one glass of grape jell yadd one quart of water and one-half cup of sugar. Put on the fire to boil. While boiling stir in one-half cup of cornstarch, which has been first mixed with a little cold water. Boil until it thickens, pour out in dish, and serve cold with cream. This is simple and nourishing.

PIES.

Pineapple Cream Pie.—Have your crust partly baked and add filling. Take two small cupfuls of milk, add a pinch of salt and a small lump of butter; set over a slow fire to scald then get a can of grated pineapple at the grocery and pour it out in a saucepan; just take a cup of the pulp and into this add the yolks of two eggs (retaining the white of eggs for the frosting), a cup of sugar and two tablespoons of cornstarch; mix this well and add to scalded milk; stir till it thickens; add all of this to the crust and also to the frosting. Place in oven till this is brown.

Custard Pie.—Two cups of sugar, one cup of new milk, three-fourths cup of melted butter, two tablespoons of flour, yolks of five eggs, any desired flavoring (if preferred, nutmeg). Stir flour in sugar, add milk, then well beaten yolks, then butter and flavoring. Whip whites of eggs stiff, add five tablespoons of sugar for meringue.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To remove black ink stains on children's colored frocks, etc., cover them immediately with red ink and then wash. In this way the damage may be made good, not a trace of either ink remaining.

Grape-fruit seeds, if planted in extremely rich soil, well watered when needed, will yield a pretty foliage suitable for a dining-room table decoration. It is interesting to watch the growth of the plants.

When ironing an embroidered article see how much better it will look if ironed on a Turkish towel. Place the right side of the article on the towel and iron on the wrong side. The pattern will stand out remarkably well if treated in this way.

The smell of paint may be taken away by closing up the room and setting in the centre of it a pan of lighted charcoal on which have been thrown some juniper berries. Leave this in the room for a day and a night, when the smell of paint will be gone.

One of the most handy things to keep in the kitchen soap rack is a piece of rough hearth-stone about one inch thick and three inches long. Stubbornly burnt saucepans will invariably yield to a little gentle rubbing with this, and it has the advantage of not wasting away when wet.

Never cover up nail or tooth brushes on the washstand. The bristles will soften and smell unpleasantly if not allowed fresh air. Sponges, also, should never be covered, and should occasionally be washed in strong soda, or ammonia and water, to extract any grease that may be in them.

To keep oilcloths looking well wash them once a month in skim milk and water, equal quantities of each. Rub them once in three months with boiled linseed oil. Put on very little, rub it in well with a rag and polish with a piece of silk. Oilcloths will last for years if kept in this way.

Ink spots may be removed from certain dress materials if moistened with turpentine which should be allowed to remain one the spots for five minutes or longer (half an hour, if necessary) before the material is rubbed between the hands, as in washing. Turpentine should never be used near an open fire or flame.

If when boiling or baking meat you find it is smelling somewhat tainted, take a small piece of stick, put the end of it in the fire, and burn it just enough to make it black. If baking, place the burnt end in the dripping pan. If poiling, place the end in the saucepan. The taint will be found to have disappeared.

IN A RAILWAY ACCIDENT

HOW TO AVOID MISCELLANEOUS FLYING ARTICLES.

One Man Says to Drop to the Floor and Cling to the Frame of the Seat.

What should one do when a train runs off the track? Fall on the floor and grasp the frame of the seat? Few would be able to act thus, and yet it is the proper and safe mode of procedure, we are told by a correspondent of Railway and Locomotive Engineering. Above all things," says the mentor, "don't stand up and scream. Most passengers leap to their feet and do not hold on to anything; consequently they are tossed about like peas in a bag, with what results may be imagined. The writer begins by narrating an experience of his own when a train left the rails. He says:

When the tumult began a passenger stood up and shouted at the top of his voice: 'What's the matter?' repeating the unanswered query several times. I knew what was the matter, but had no leisure to explain, and just dropped upon the floor and grasped the frame of my seat and held on.

TAKING THE JOLTS

as rigidly as possible. Hat racks, hand baggage, seat cushions, splintered head lining, and miscellaneous articles began to fly about, and I found the seat frame afforded comfortable protection from the missles that damaged some exposed limbs.

"The tumult could not have lasted half a minute, but it seemed a long time till the end came by the car turning over with a terrible jolt. At that instant the man who had shouted so vociferously 'What's the matter?' was shot through the window like a huge torpedo. Most of the people who had been on the upper side came down in heaps when the car turned over. I was on the lower side, and settled softly on the head lining when the car came to rest.

"I had been in a similar accident once before and knew, not only what to do, but kept my attention upon what the other passengers were doing. Most of them stood or sat without holding fast to the seats, so that they were thrown about by the plunging and jolting of the car. Then a seemed to drop from the higher to the lower level when the car went over. Many of them were badly bruised through being pitched about, pains that might have been avoided had they droped upon the floor and clung to the seat frames.

"It is difficult to instruct persons how to do in cases of the derailment of a train they are riding in, but sound advice is to drop upon the floor, preferably in the aisle, or cling to the seat frame. The impulse to stand up and howl should be restrained. In a former derailment accident that I experienced a woman on the seat opposite to me stood up and proceeded to scream. I shouted to her to sit down on the floor, but she paid no attention, and when the car fell over on its side she was projected upon me like a pile-driver weight. She was nearly as big as a cow, and the impact of her body almost finished my career."

PAPER TEETH NOW.

One of the oldest uses to which paper has been put is that which has resulted in the manufacture in Germany of artificial teeth. They are said to retain their color well, and are less likely to chip than ordinary false teeth. When the wine-growers of Greece were badly off for wood with which to construct their casks they used paper to make barrels. Out of the sheets of an Austrian paper, an ingenious engineer constructed for his own use a small yacht, 20ft. long. In the construction of the hull, deck, masts, sails, and rudder several thousand copies of the journal were used. Each plank required 2,500 leaves, and enormous pressure was used to procure the necessary solidity. Several countries have experimented with a view to utilizing paper for the paving of roads and streets, but the cost was prohibitive.

MISSED HIM.

"When I was in Europe this summer," said Gayman, trying to entertain the minister, "I got quite interested in some of them old churches."

"Indeed!" responded the Rev. Mr. Gassaway. "I suppose you know St. Paul's in London?"

"No! You don't tell me! What hotel's he stopping at?"

"Kind lady," he faltered, pointing to his dilapidated, soleless boots, "my feet are absolutely frozen. Have you a pair of boots to give a poor man?" She rummaged in a cupboard, and then remarked: "How you must suffer this bitter weather. I've no boots, but here's a pair of old skates ye can have and welcome."

FISH STOPPED STEAMER.

Huge Sunfish Became Lodged in Bracket of Propeller.

Few maritime experiences have been recorded stranger than that which, according to an Australian newspaper item, recently befel the Fiona, a twin-screw steamship belonging to the Colonial Sugar Refining Company of Sydney, New South Wales. When the Fiona was off Bird Island, about forty miles north of Sydney Heads, on her way from the Clarence River to Sydney, a little after 2 p.m., all hands were alarmed by a sudden shock, as though the steamship had struck a solid substance or wreckage. This result was strange and remarkable for the port engine was brought up "all standing." The starboard engine was quickly stopped and a boat lowered and sent to investigate. On getting under the steamship's counter, the boat's crew were astonished to find tnat a huge sunfish had become securely fixed in the bracket of the port propeller. One blade was completely embedded in the creature's flesh, jamming the monster firmly against the stern post of the vessel. It was impossible to extricate the fish at sea, so the boat was hoisted on board again, and the steamship proceeded on her passage to Sydney with the starboard engine only working.

On reaching Port Jackson the Fiona was anchored in Mosman Bay where all hands were set to work to remove the fish. After much difficulty and with the aid of the steamship's winch the sunfish was hoisted clear and swung on board. The Fiona then proceeded to the sugar company's wharf. The fish was put on the company's weigh bridge and found to weigh two tons four hundredweight. The measurements were: Length, 10 feet, across the body, 6 feet; across the body and fins, 14 feet; mouth, 8 inches wide; dorsal fin, 4 feet high and 2 feet 6 inches across; anal fin, 3 feet 6 inches; and the caudal or tail fin, 22 1-2 inches long.

LOVE-MAKING IN CHURCH.

Modern Students Want to See Wives Before Marrying.

Dr. Isaac T. Headland, president of the Pekin University, and a resident of the Chinese capital for many years, where he enjoyed the frindship of the late dowager empress, throws a new light on the new women of China. He repeats a conversation with a young Chinese who had recently become engaged to a Chinese maiden with whom he had never spoken.

"We students have a very great advantage over the old Chinese method of getting engaged," said my celestial friend.

"What do you mean?" I enquired.

"Well, you see, by the old method a man can never see his wife until she is brought to his home."

"And what advantage do you have?"

"We see the girls in church," he answered. "They can also see us. We have sisters in the girls' school; they have brothers in the college, and when we go home during vacation we can learn all about each other."

"This is an advantage?"

"In my judgment," he continued, "we have a better method than even you foreigners have. After we have selected the lady we want, we can have a middleman go and ask her for us, while you nave to go and ask the lady yourself."

"But," I objected, "we can get so much better acquainted by our method."

"Yes, that's true," he admitted, "but doesn't it make you awfully angry if you ask a girl to marry you and she refuses?"

It was necessary to admit that there were advantages in the middleman method, which had never occurred to me, and I could too see that the force which brought it about was bringing woman out of her seclusion and placing her on a level with her brother and her future husband.

WORK TILL NIGHT COMETH.

Oh, never say your work is done
 Until the day is dead!
For man can work although the sun
 Has vanished from o'erhead.
Press on with what you have to do
 Until the curtain falls,
And sleep, like Lethe, comes to you
 Within the silent walls.

It is when in the easy chair
 We let our missions die;
For while we sit and idle there,
 What chances may go by!
And when the wasted hours have gone,
 How bitterly we learn
No more on earth will ever dawn
 The day of their return!

Let not the anvil go to rust
 While there's a bar to beat;
Too soon the darkness and the dust
 Will fall where life's effete.
Use up the moments, every one,
 By which the days are fed,
And never say your work is done
 Until the day is dead.

Many a man has created a good impression by keeping his face closed.

PACKAGE FOOD.

An Innovation With a Great Deal to Recommend It.

Few things have done so much for the health and comfort of the family and economy in its care as the putting up of food in packages. From a sanitary point of view, says Leslie's Weekly, it is one of the great achievements of the age.

Under the old method of selling goods in bulk, the food thus sold was exposed to all sorts of contamination and infection, and in a large majority of cases to deterioration in quality. Almost all cereal foods deteriorate quickly when exposed to the air, and their food value as well as their palatability is rapidly reduced.

Any one familiar with the ordinary grocery store knows how goods sold in bulk are exposed in barrels or boxes to dust, flies and the constant handling by hands that are at best not overclean. If food thus sold could be bought at half the price of even the same quality of article carefully packed in airtight packages, it would be still more expensive than the package goods.

No method yet devised brings as much protection to the buyer of foods as the package system, which fixes the value of the package by a money rate rather than by weight. Food packages sole at five ten or twenty-five cents are measured by the buyer as to their worth in price, and the practical housekeeper knows whether a five cent package is worth its cost, and she also knows whether the size of the package has been changed, and if it has, whether it is still worth the price she has to pay for it.

THE S. S. LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, JAN. 29.

Lesson V.—Jehoshaphat's Good Reign in Judah, 2 Chron. 17. 1-13. Golden Text, Matt. 6. 33.

Verses 1-6—The pity and prosperity of the king. These verses, and those which follow, are additional material to the record of Jehoshaphat found in Kings.

1. In his stead—That is, in place of Asa.

Strengthened himself against Israel—Although he later made a firm alliance with Ahab, the relations between the two kingdoms had been troubled, and it must have taken some time to establish peace.

2. Which Asa his father had taken—See Word Studies for January 15, with comment on verse 8.

3. The first ways of his father—As David is wanting in the Septuagint, this seems to refer rather to Asa, whose early reign was characterized by devotion to Jehovah, in contrast with the faithlessness and cruelty of his last years.

The Baalim—A term for the various false deities, especially those of Canaan, each one of which was given the title of Baal, or lord.

4. The doings of Israel—A reference either to the calf-worship, or to the introduction of Baal-worship by Jezebel.

5. Tribute—To be distinguished from that paid over by the Arabians and Philistines (verse 11). In this case the money was probably a free offering and not an exaction.

6. High places—The word originally meant "heights," any outstanding elevation; then a place of worship, of Jehovah as well as other gods; later, after the Deuteronomic reform, not only an unlawful place of worship, but one entirely given up to the worship of other gods. In this sense it is frequently used in Chronicles.

Asherim—Wooden poles set up like stone pillars at sanctuaries, perhaps to represent the dwelling place of deity. By the Deuteronomic law they were forbidden (Deut. 16, 22), and commanded to be destroyed (Deut. 12, 3). These symbols had grown up probably during the later and more careless years of Asa's reign.

7-9—The king's provision for the promulgation of the law.

7. Princes—These are, historically, just so many names. It is mentioned that their work was done in the third year of Jehoshaphat's reign, to emphasize the fact that he began his reign with this purpose to instruct the people.

8. With them the Levites — The author himself was partial to the Levitical order, and magnifies them throughout his Chronicles. Hence it is natural for him to single out this fact of their performing the priestly duty of teaching the law.

Jehoram—He is to be distinguished from the king of Judah by the same name. Of this man all that is known is that he was a member of the royal commission. The priests were the guardians of the law, and hence its natural teachers.

9. The book of the law of Jehovah—This is the sole account of the general diffusion of a knowledge of the law through a mission, the other method (mentioned in connection with the reign of Josiah and the return from the Exile) being to read it aloud before popular assemblies.

10-13—The greatness of Jehoshaphat.

10. The fear of Jehovah—The marginal reading, "a terror from Jehovah," is better. The people neighboring upon Judah were visited with a supernatural dread of the growing power of this pious king. Compare 2 Chron. 14 13, 14. This fear was a reward, the chronicler would have us believe, for Jehoshaphat's zeal for the law.

11. Arabians—"People of the desert." Here, the powerful kingdom of Nabateans south and southeast of Judah. The tribute mentioned is very heavy (compare 2 Kings 3. 4).

13. Works in the cities—Perhaps "property" would be a better rendering, the meaning evidently being military supplies.

Mighty men of valor—The numbering of this vast army is given in the succeeding verses. There seems to be doubt as to the exactness of the chronicler's figures. Throughout he has a special interest in statistics, and his estimates are generally higher than those in the Kings.

HIS TROUBLE.

Medical Student—"What did you operate on that man for?"

Eminent Surgeon—"Two hundred dollars."

Medical Student—"I mean, what did he have?"

Eminent Surgeon—"Two hundred dollars."

The poorest way for the preacher to make sure of the love of people is to worry over whether they like his preaching.

FIRES CAUSED BY RAILWAYS

Questions Discussed at the Forestry Association Meeting in Quebec.

A despatch from Quebec says: Hon. Clifford Sifton delivered an excellent address at the recent session of the Forestry Association. He chose for this subject the question of "Forestry Problems and Forest Fires." At the outset he pointed out the early difficulties which beset the pioneers in forestry work. Despite the indifference on the part of the public, Mr. Sifton contended that no movement in modern times had made such genuine progress as the conservation of our forests. He told of the early struggles he had to obtain a vote of $15,000 for the establishment of a forestry school in connection with the Department of the Interior. Since the establishment of that school no less than 15,000,000 trees had been planted in the western provinces.

In connection with forest fires, Mr. Sifton showed that the railroads were the chief offenders. From careful investigation it was found that out of 171 fires in Quebec last year the railroads caused 75. In Ontario the railroads started 404 out of 432 fires, which took place in the Province. In the west the proportion was smaller, but even there it was shown that they were the chief offenders, causing 186 out of 1,226 fires. "We want them penalized for the fires they cause, and if this is done it will tend to make campers and settlers more careful," said Mr. Sifton. In conclusion he asked for the support of the convention in connection with the efforts being made by the Conservation Commission to penalize the railroads for the fires they cause.

Mr. Hall, Secretary of the Society for the Protection of the Adirondacks, told of their fight to secure freedom from forest fires. They had found after careful investigation, that the railroads were the chief offenders, and had passed laws compelling them to burn oil in their locomotives while passing through the forests. This policy, together with the cleaning up of the right of way and the establishment of watch towers, had made the Adirondacks practically free from fires.

Mr. R. D. Campbell, Dominion Superintendent of Forestry, gave an exhaustive report on the work carried on by his department. He pointed out the difficulty of properly patrolling large areas of forest, of getting trained fire-rangers, and of the need of educative work among the settlers. He concluded that a fire patrol was needed along the lines of railroad, no matter what other means of protection were adopted.

FOUR BURNED TO DEATH.

Mrs. Percy C. Brooks and Her Three Children, of Toronto.

A despatch from Toronto says: A fire that partially destroyed the frame house, 425 Indian Road, at an early hour on Saturday morning was responsible for four deaths in the family of Mr. Brooks. The fire apparently started near the furnace ond worked its way into the upper part of the house, cutting off all escape for the family. The maid jumped from a rear window and escaped. Mr. Brooks, Manager and Treasurer of the Fairbanks-Morris Manufacturing Company, is in Chicago on business. He was telegraphed to by neighbors immediately on the tragedy becoming known.

ONTARIO LIVE STOCK SHOW.

Results of the Year's Seed Grain Competitions.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The feature of Thursday at the Ontario Live Stock Show was the announcement of results in the year's seed grain competitions. The prize winners were: Oats, Wm. Lewis, Dunford, Siberian; Thos. Cash, Bobcaygeon, Yellow Russian; Peter Drummond, Keene, Irish White; S. W. Rilance, Beaverton; D. Coon, Frankford; H. W. Bernard, Billiboro; M. S. Campbell, Dominionville; W. J. Barber, Dossmore; Geo. R. Bradley, Carsonby; Andrew Knox, Norwood; spring wheat, W. J. Oats, Queen's Line. Thos. McMillan of Seaforth spoke on "The Beef Cattle Industry in Ontario," and Prof. W. H. Day of Guelph on undertraining.

LEAPED FROM CABOOSE.

Trainmen Hurt in Escaping From Burning Caboose.

A despatch from Portage La Prairie, Man., says: Conductor Howe and Brakesman John Alexander and Frank Moore, of the C. P. R., are in the hospital here, though not seriously hurt. The cause of the trouble was the explosion of a lamp, which set fire to a car, when the train was five miles west of this city. They were unable to open the door, but broke the window and leaped out into the snow.

ALL TO HAVE WIRELESS.

Government to Insist on Equipment of Passenger Steamers.

A despatch from Ottawa says: It was stated on Friday at the Marine Department that a bill was in preparation which would be introduced by Mr. Brodeur in the House of Commons requiring all vessels on the Great Lakes and in the St. Lawrence carrying passengers as a business to be equipped with wireless telegraphy.

MINERS LOSE SAVINGS.

Many at Keeley Mine Had Money in Farmers Bank.

A despatch from Cobalt says: The Keeley Mine is closed up as all the employes excepting two engineers and the cook refuse to return to work. Wages were cut 25 cents a day all round. Many of the miners had their savings in the branch of the Farmers Bank situated at the mine.

500 MILES OF NEW TRACK

Canadian Pacific Railway Plans Many New Lines in the West.

A despatch from Montreal says: It was stated on Wednesday evening by Vice-President William Whyte of the C. P. R. that the company will build 500 miles of track in the west during the coming summer, including the completion of the double-tracking of the line between Winnipeg and Brandon. In addition to this there will be a good deal of double-tracking around Moose Jaw, which is becoming an important shipping centre. In order to make the road through the Mountain section more secure, Mr. Whyte stated that it would be given a rock ballast, the ballast being made out of the mountains with two large crushers. In addition to this the western programme includes the strengthening of a number of bridges to keep up with the increasing weight of equipment, and a number of new steel bridges. The rest of the construction programme includes a number of short lines, from twenty to forty miles long, to connect newly-settled districts with the main lines.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY

G.T.R. Willing to Negotiate With Government Regarding Operation of Line.

A despatch from Ottawa says: A telegram was received on Wednesday by the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, from Charles M. Hays, President of the G.T.R. Company, making an offer from the G.T.R. to negotiate with the Government respecting the operation of the Hudson Bay Railway. While no terms were mentioned, it is surmised that the Grand Trunk Pacific would desire a lease similar to the one under which it will operate the eastern section of the National Transcontinental. A substantially similar offer, it is said, has already been received from the Canadian Northern, and it is hoped that better terms may be received from one of the other companies. The present proposition contemplates the construction of a line from the Grand Trunk Pacific from Saskatoon to the Pas Mission. This proposition follows on a conference held here recently in which President Hays, Mr. Wainwright and Chief Engineer Kelliher participated.

CANNED CHINESE EGGS

Seventy-Five Thousand Dollars' Worth Seized at Montreal.

A despatch from Montreal says: A consignment of canned eggs from China, valued at $75,000, has been seized by the city, and the Board of Control ordered on Thursday that not a single can must be sold in the city. The owners were afterwards given permission to remove the eggs from the cold-storage warehouse, but if there is any delay in removal every can will be destroyed. From the information given to the board it was shown that the eggs were dangerous to public health. In the analysis, which was made by experts, some surprising facts were brought out. The experts in their report say: "The eggs in the cans were found to be frozen, and are said to have come from China. The eggs, while in the frozen condition, had hardly any noticeable odor, as would have been expected. A small part of the eggs from samples were taken and placed in a warm temperature. Putrefaction of a violent nature resulted in about 24 hours, showing the presence of large numbers of bacteria. Such bacteria were probably introduced at the time of packing, the subsequent freezing checking their action."

An experiment was conducted to determine the effects of a small portion of the eggs, when inoculated into a guinea pig. On December 24, a sample of the mixture with sterilized water was injected subcutaneously into a guinea pig, the pig died in less than two days. The consignees were ordered to remove the stuff from the city, and some curiosity is exhibited as to who will finally get them.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER.

Man Found Strangled in Winnipeg-Soo Train.

A despatch from Thief River Falls, Minn., says: Soon after the north-bound Winnipeg Soo Line flyer left Erskine on Sunday, the conductor found a man dying in one of the coaches. Doctors were called at Thief River Falls, who pronounced the man dead as a result of strangulation, although no marks of violence were visible on the body. A quantity of whiskey and several empty flasks found show that he used a considerable quantity of whiskey on the trip. The man was travelling on a ticket made in favor of L. R. Lowes, Cannington, Ont. Relatives were communicated with, and in the meantime the local lodge of Oddfellows took charge of the body, the dead man having been a member of that organization. Upon the arrival of Glen Lowes of Morris, Sask., brother of L. R. Lowes, he declared the body not that of his brother, and wholly unknown to him.

CURES PARALYSIS.

Austrian Physician Claims Success With Tuberculin.

A despatch from Vienna says: After three years' experimentation, Prof. Wagner von Jauregg, of the University of Vienna, claims to have cured 23 per cent. of cases of progressive paralysis out of 1,500 patients by injections of Koch's tuberculin. The disease heretofore has been considered incurable.

BRITISH ATTACK ON DUBUYA.

A despatch from Frankfort, Germany, says: The Zeitung's Constantinople correspondent reports a serious collision between British sailors and Turks at Dubuya in the Indian Ocean. Several blue jackets were killed. The British, according to the despatch, afterwards bombarded Dubuya.

NEXT GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Duke of Teck Suggested in Case Duke of Connaught Cannot Come.

A despatch from Ottawa says: It is learned from high authority that his Serene Highness the Duke of Teck, eldest brother of Queen Mary, may be the next Governor-General of Canada. Although no official advices have been received here by the Government yet that the Duke of Connaught will be unable to come to Canada this year as representative of the King, owing to the need of his presence in England until the Prince of Wales is old enough to assume the duties of his position, present indications are that his Royal Highness will be prevented from coming for that reason. It is understood that the Imperial Government is now suggesting in an informal way that the Duke of Teck would be a suitable choice as successor to Lord Grey, in case it is found that the Duke of Connaught cannot be spared. The matter has as yet not got beyond the stage of tentative suggestion, but it is known that it is under consideration. His Serene Highness is a grandson of the first Duke of Cambridge, and the eldest son of the late Duke of Teck and of H.R.H. Princess Mary Adelaide. He was born at Kensington Palace on August 13, 1868, and saw service in South Africa as transport officer of a composite cavalry regiment. He was temporary military attache at Vienna in 1904.

January weather this year has been the most unpleasant we have experienced in years, owing to the frequent changes in the temperature. Nearly every day sees a thaw with fog and rain, followed with cold, frost and small blizzard. The result is heavy colds and sickness for many of the people.

Messrs S. Martin, H. E. Huston and P. W. Gladman went to Goderich Tuesday to wait on the County Council with a view to retaining the County Grant to the continuation class here as last year. The trustees of some of the High Schools in the County are objecting to the Exeter school getting so large a grant, but when it is remembered that the continuation classes here serve a large portion of the county it cannot be said that the grant is too large, as compared to the grants received by the High Schools.

A contemporary says that newspaper subscriptions are infallible tests of a man's honesty. They will sooner or later discover the man. If he is dishonest he will cheat the printer some way; says he has a receipt somewhere, or sent the money and it was lost in the mail, or he will take the paper and not pay for it on the ground that he did not subscribe for it, or move away letting it come to the office he left. Thousands of professed Christians are dishonest in this particular at least, and the printer's book will tell fearful tales in the final judgment.

A meeting of a number of the business men was held in the Town Hall, on the evening of the 16th to discuss the advisability of making Exeter a part of entry. Reeve Taylor was chairman, and John Grigg secretary. The matter was thoroughly discussed and a petition is being prepared for presentation to the government. The matter of a new post office and a Carnegie Library were discussed. Before adjourning the meeting resolved itself in to a Business Men's Association and agreed to meet for organization on the first Monday in February, when a full representation is earnestly desired.

Mrs. Bruce Cooper and her sister, Miss Wood, of Usborne met with a very unpleasant accident on Saturday evening last. They were driving home from town and when a short distance south of the Presbyterian church a horse going at a lively speed in the same direction caused the horse they were driving to run away, and turning the corner at Mr. Dr. Dauncey's both occupants were hurled out against the fence with considerable violence, with the result that Mrs. Cooper sustained a badly sprained wrist and was badly shaken up. The horse was captured in Mr. Simon Campbell's yard, with the shaft of the cutter broken. Miss Wood escaped injury.

The new marriage license, which came into vogue with the New Year is a decided change from the old one. This combines a short system of bookkeeping with all the statistical information necessary for the indentification of the parties from the cradle to the divorce. The face bears the usual form of license while the reverse side has an affidavit form, which the issuer must fill out together with about the same information usually found on a model lien note which the minister fills in, before receiving his fee. On the left end is a detachable slip for the names and residences of the contracting parties, to be filled forthwith, by the clerk of the municipality. The issuer retains no record of the license.

FAVORS CHURCH UNION.—At the meeting of the Presbytery of Huron in Clinton last week, a vote was taken on church union, and those present approved of the proposition, on the proposed basis, by 16 to 6.

BROKE RIBS.—On Friday night last when Mr. John Gillespie, sr. was returning home he slipped on the icy sidewalk and fell, breaking three ribs and fracturing two others. The injury will confine him to the house for a few weeks. In the meantime his son W. T., is driving the bus.

SOME PEOPLE NEVER THINK—Every line of printed matter in a newspaper costs its publisher something. If it is to benefit some individual, that individual should pay something for it. One would not go into a grocery store to ask the proprietor to hand out ten pounds of sugar for nothing, even though the gift may not be a large one. If the beneficiary of advertising does not pay for it the proprietor must shoulder the cost. People do not seem to understand that a newspaper pays its expenses by renting space, and that it is just as much entitled to collect rent for every day that space is occupied as a landlord is for the house he rents to a tenant.

Farmers Bank bills are cashed at par. A few of these notes are floating around town and many people have been wondering whether they are good. All bills up to $100 are good, but there are some $200 bills that have been stolen, and one should be careful in accepting them.

We want to thank the subscribers who have already renewed their subscriptions to The Advocate. And we are grateful for the many words of appreciation that have been given us on account of the newsiness of the paper. These we appreciate. But there is another class of subscribers, who put off the time of renewing, thinking that the newspaper people can wait for the dollar a little longer. They probably could if there was only one who delays paying. But when hundreds do the same thing, then the newspaper man lacks cash. And we must pay cash for help, paper, type, ink, etc. So we kindly ask early attention to the matter of renewing.

SISTER DEAD.—Mr. John McLaughlin received word on Monday morning of the death of his eldest sister, Mrs. Robt Turton of London, who died on Sunday at St. Thomas, aged 72 years. Deceased is survived by a husband and thirteen children. Mr. McLaughlin left Tuesday morning to attend the funeral.

A NOVELTY.—An impromption debate with only fifteen minutes preparation took place at the James st. League on Tuesday night on "Resolved that a cranky, clean woman is preferable to a good-natured, dirty woman" It was captained by Miss V. Miners and Miss J. Hardy, and resulted in a draw. It proved very interesting and some good arguments were advanced on both sides.

ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual meeting of the congregation of Caven Presbyterian church was held in the basement of the church on Monday evening, with F. W. Gladman in the chair. Reports of a most favorable nature were read from all the committees. The receipts for the year were $2615.50 and the expenditure $2663.11. The election of officers resulted as feollows,—Managers, J. G. Stanbury, W.D. Weekes, D. McInnes, Jos. Senior, Jas. Jeckell, R. G. Seldon; Trustees, J A. Stewart, John Rowcliffe, H. Smith; Sec-Treas., Jos. Senior; Auditors, W. B. Weidenhammer, Jas. Grieve. The duplex envelope was adopted for the ensuing year. At the close of the business meeting lunch was provided by the ladies.

WAR AND COURAGE.—Devotees of militarism glorify war on the ground that it cultivates courage. Never was there a more overworked delusion. Truly courageous souls rise to heights of bravery amid its carnage, but, as a rule, it is rather the animal courage of the horse rushing into battle, the blood-lust of legalized murder, inspired by the boom of guns and marshal music. On this place of developing bravery, does anyone condone the wars of Napoleon, that for twenty years drained the best blood of Europe, wasted its resources, relegated its cities to rapine, paralyzed its industries, retarded its agriculture for nearly half a century, and filled its homes with desolation; A spirit of courage purchased at so great a price is too costly. Bravery we need in the twentieth century, but the vicissitudes of the farm, the trails of home life, the assaults of the street, society and the market-place, on honor and virtue, are the things that demand and cultivate real courage, and fortitude, which is better.—Farmer's Advocate.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR GENERAL

At last the definite announcement has come that the Duke of Connaught, brother of the late King Edward, and uncle of the present King, will be the next Governor-General of Canada, coming here in September next. The appointment is for two years, which may be extended.

BRUCEFIELD DEPOSITORS APPEAL TO GOVERNMENT

A petition circulated in this community regarding the defunct Farmers Bank was signed by all from far and near. The petition was presented to Huron County Council at Goderich and will be presented to the Dominion Government at Ottawa, asking their assistance towards the welfare of the depositors, who placed their little all in the hands of the bank which recently suspended payment. The deposits at this branch alone range individually from $1 to $10,000, and in all are said to exceed $50,000, and the situation looks dark for all of them.

THE EAST HURON INSPECTORATE.

Last week the County Council reached a selection for the position of P. S. Inspector for East Huron, to be vacated March 31st by the retirement of Mr. D. Robb. There were four applicants, Mr. Weidenhammer of Exeter having withdrawn, viz., Messrs. J. C. Smith of Wingham, Dr. Field of Goderich, McVicar of London and McKinnon of Kincardine. The matter had evidently been well caucassed before hand, for on the first ballot Mr. Smith received 13 votes and Dr. Field 17, his appointment being afterwards confirmed by resolution.

IS YOUR SUBSCRIPTION PAID?

We must issue our subscription accounts to those who are in arrears. In case you happen to have neglected the little matter of paying up wouldn't it be nicer to hand us the amount before the dunner is presented. There are a few only who are a number of years behind. These must be settled very soon or the accounts will be placed in other hands for collection, at the rate of $1.50 per year. Save money by giving the matter early attention. We wish at the same time to say, that we appreciate the support of those who habitually keep paid up. We feel that with all our faults, these people are doing the best they can to make the path of the editor and staff a fairly pleasant one.

BUSINESS TALKS

One of the most notable facts connected with the country newspaper of to-day is the large increase in the amount of advertising of local business house. The change has taken place gradually, and has been marked especially during the past year or so. It is highly significant, and an inquiry as to the cause of it is of great profit, not only to those in the newspaper business, but to every business man and citizen of our town as well. The change in brief, means that local merchants have found it necessary to call attention to their goods, because of the immense competition they face—the most deadly element of which is that from the great stores of the large cities. The big establishments advertise their wares most lavishly, and the metropolitan newspapers which contain their advertisements are distributed over the country some one paper of which enters nearly every home. The result is that these metropolitan establishments have build up an immense mail trade. In our town, and indeed in most towns, there is no occasion for this out-of-town buying; but much of the trouble lies with the business man—simply because he does not yet advertise as he should, and some of them do not advertise at all. What can these men expect? The local newspapers are the mirrors, reflecting the business life of the community, and if your advertisement is not seen therein, many of the individuals who make up the great purchasing public will not buy at your store. And who is to blame? You are not doing anything to draw them to your store—the city merchant is—and whose fault is it if a man buys an express order and sends to the city for an article he sees advertised. Get on the Progressive Wagon, Mr. Business Man, and keep this business at home.

SMALL-POX VERY MILD

A family named Crunnican on the 15th concession of London Township, have been ill of smallpox, it was discovered the other day. The matter was not reported and the members of the family claim it was a mild type, and that they did not recognize the disease at the time. The home has now been disinfected. On the edge of Biddulph Township, to the east, another case has been reported in the family of Michael Blake. Cases are reported in the neighborhood of Mooresville and in McGillivray Township, being so light, however, as to be mistaken for chicken pox.

CANNING FACTORY PURCHASED

A deal was concluded this week by which the Exeter Canning Factory has become the property of a number of Exeter gentlemen, and it will be operated under the same management as last year, with but a slight change in the personel of the Board of Directors. Considerable speculation has been rife regarding the ownership of the factory for some months, and for a time it appeared that the Dominion Canners would acquire the industry. It will be a matter of satisfaction to the people of this community that the question is settled, and to know that the factory will be controlled by local men. The new owners will at once begin the work of modernizing the plant—increasing the capacity and a new storage building will be among the improvements.

Mrs. Martha Aikens, a widow, about sixty years of age, a much respected and life-long residence of Listowel, was found dead in her home Sunday evening, where she had lived alone for several years.

THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

Will Become Governor-General of Canada in September.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The Government has been notified of the appointment of H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught to succeed Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada. The announcement was made in a cable received on Saturday by his Excellency from the Colonial Secretary. It is further announced that H.R.H. will arrive in Canada to assume office in September next, and that the term of office is to be two years, with the possibility of extension. His Royal Highness will be accompanied by H.R.H. the Duchess of Connaught. The announcement was received with approvel by members of Parliament, irrespective of party. It is believed that the appointment coming at this time will do much to promote the unity of the Empire.

TWO MEN DROWNED.

Skated Into Open Channel in Hamilton Bay.

A despatch from Hamilton says: While skating on the bay on Sunday morning, Frederick Smith, aged 21, eldest son of Mr. Henry Smith, 80 Wood street east, skated into the channel that had been cut by the Dewey & O'Heir Ice Company, and was drowned before assistance could reach him. Albert Smith, whose home is at 156 Brock street, Brantford, with him at the time, is also missing, and it is feared he also went to death in the water.

THE RECIPROCITY TREATY

Live Stock, Fish, Fruit and Farm Produce on Free List---Cement, Coal, Autos, Agricultural Implements Reduced.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Before giving in detail the basis of the arrangement the Hon. Mr. Fielding, Finance Minister, on Thursday afternoon, asked those who had evinced opposition to the reciprocity negotiations to give the results fair consideration. "I am persuaded," said he, "that the gentlemen who on the public platform or in the press took such strong ground against our action did not give us the benefit of their well-considered judgment. I appeal to them to revise that judgment." The character of the agreement and its wide scope may be adequately appreciated when it is stated that the reduction in taxation effected amounts to $2,260,000. Large concessions are given by the United States. They provide for reciprocal free trade in wheat, barley, oats, hay, vegetables, dairy products, live animals, coke, fruits, eggs and poultry—these being of the utmost importance to the agricultural classes, who will benefit to the extent of millions of dollars annually. The duty on agricultural implements, such as harvesters and mowers, is lowered two and a half per cent., the present duty of seventeen and a half per cent. ad valorem being reduced to fifteen per cent. ad valorem, while on plows, thrashers and other classes of agricultural implements a reduction is made of five per cent.—namely, from twenty per cent. ad valorem to fifteen per cent. ad valorem. On farm waggons the duty is reduced from twenty-five per cent. ad valorem to twenty-two and a half per cent. ad valorem, and reductions are made on other items of special interest to farmers.

There is a reduction of eight cents per ton on bituminous coal. None of these concessions should excite serious opposition from the manufacturers of the country.

An important concession is that of free fish and free coke, which should prove of immense value to the Maritime and Pacific Provinces. It is further provided that sawn lumber will be admitted free to the United States, and an important feature of the arrangement is that pulp and paper will be placed in a similar position if the Provinces of the Dominion can see their way to withdraw their export restrictions on pulpwood.

MR. BORDEN'S VIEWS.

R. L. Borden said this question was one of the deepest moment to Canada, being practically a proposal for a new Canadian tariff. The agreement would affect many industries and trades, and especially the smaller trades of Canada. It would dislocate trade greatly, but no man could now say how far this dislocation might proceed.

The finance minister had spoken of the importance of cultivating trade with the hundred million people to the south. What about the trade of the three or four hundred million people under the British flag? Was not that trade the first consideration? If the past ten years' history were to be considered, the speech heard to-day and the announcements made were unnecessary, for the past ten years had been filled with the preaching of the finance minister and his colleagues, of Canada's winning world-wide trade, or Canada's winning imperial trade, and of Canada's independence of its neighbors. But now in a sweep the whole policy had been changed. Canada's trade was now made to swing on that of the United States.

And for this dislocation and adjustment, what assurance had we of permanancy. The finance minister told us that he hoped the agreement was cast for some time, but that it could be terminated at any moment by either country.

The minister was open to criticism for vagueness. What would happen if Canada deemed it wise to change half a dozen items in the agreement? Trade was to be dislocated without any assurances that this was to last for six weeks, or that long. If the government had stood firm last year to the United States, it would never have been forced into the position it was, of having to give these concessions now.

As to the reduction of agricultural implements, the farmer would not be the gainer by a cent. The manufacturer and the middleman would absorb the reduction entirely. The United States continued in the past, and in the future as well had and would frame their tariff in order that their own people would get the cream of the trade.

AT WASHINGTON.

A despatch from Washington says: The United States Congress can scarcely grasp it. Until the special message of President Taft, with which he accompanied the reciprocity agreement with Canada was read, no one had a very clear idea of the extreme length the President and his Secretary of State had gone in endeavoring to bring to a crisis the contention regarding the high cost of living. Certainly the President in his message makes it clear that the cost of the necessaries of the interior of American bodies, rather than the exteriors, was the prime motive in bringing about the conference with the Canadian ministers. Now, when the schedules are out in the light, Senators and Representatives alike are being dragged back and forth by the complaints that food is too high and by the fear that Canadian competition will ruin the farmers.

That there will be a contest over this matter and that President Taft will press it with vigor there is no doubt. It is impossible to get a good idea of what line the contest will take.

MORE IMPORTANT CHANGES.

The chief feature of the proposed tariff agreement with the United States is the removal of all duties on both sides of the border on the bulk of what is known as natural products. Among the items on which the tariff duties are to be swept away entirely are cattle, horses and mules, swine, sheep and lambs, poultry dead and alive, wheat, rice oats, barley, buckwheat, beans, dried peas, potatoes, butter, cheese, milk, cream, eggs, honey, fresh and salted fish, vegetables, fresh fruit and several varieties of dried fruits. This means in effect, if Congress accepts the view of President Taft and his advisers, that the United States definitely abandons the policy of protecting the food producers of that country, leaving the doors open to Canada, the only country from which foods of the sort mentioned can be obtained to supplement the home supply. In meats of various sorts, although the duties are not entirely removed, there are very material reductions, while flour will bear a duty of 50 cents per barrel on both sides of the line, and oatmeal 50 cents per 100 pounds.

Among the miscellaneous articles of importance other than foodstuffs on which duties are entirely removed by both countries are hay, lumber, coke, certain classes of steel rods, typesetting and type-casting machines, cottonseed oil, railroad ties, telegraph poles, wooden staves, pickets and palings.

Considerable reductions are made in the agricultural implement schedule, a uniform scale of duties on both sides having been arranged. Among the more important reductions in the Canadian duties are farm waggons, harvesters and mowers, 22 per cent.; plows, harrows, drills, horse rakes, cultivators, thrashing machines, hay-loaders, patent augers, feed-cutters, grain-crushers, fanning mills, hay-tedders and farm or field rollers, 5 per cent. reduction.

There is a lengthy list of reductions on various products of the mine, the most important being a decrease on the Canadian duty on bituminous coal from 53 to 45 cents per ton. The revenue loss from this will be large, over eight million tons of bituminous coal having been imported last year. This would mean about $640,000 in reduced duties on coal. The people of Ontario now pay most of the soft coal duties.

ENGLISH OPINION.

A despatch from London says: Speaking on Friday on the reciprocity agreement just made between Canada and the United States, Viscount Milner, former high commissioner for South Africa, said: "Nothing one says can make things better. It is idle to shut our eyes to the fact that the proposed treaty, like that already concluded with France, must tend to diminish British preference, and is, to that extent, detrimental to the policy of closer union."

The editorials in the London newspapers dealing with the proposed reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada are concerned more with its effect on the policy of Imperial preference than the merits of the agreement itself. The protectionist journals consider that the agreement if ratified will deal a serious blow to British trade and increase the cost of food in Great Britain through the diversion of Canadian supplies to the United States.

TO FIGHT FREE FISH.

A despatch from Gloucester, Mass., says: Special sessions of the Council, the Board of Trade and the Master Mariners' Association, the last two meeting jointly, were held on Friday, at which steps were taken toward a united opposition to that part of the proposed reciprocity treaty which deals with fish. The City Council adopted resolutions which declare that the proposed treaty is inimical to the welfare of the City of Gloucester and to other ports of the New England coast which depend upon the fisheries.

There is much feeling in South Africa because Viscount Gladstone reprieved the death sentence of a black man charged with assaulting a white woman.

MONEY ORDER BUSINESS.

Postoffice Sent Thirteen Million Dollars to Europe Last Year.

A despatch from Ottawa says: According to a return of the Postoffice Department on Wednesday, Canadians during the past year sent to Great Britain and its possessions and other European countries 750,000 money orders, representing upwards of $13,000,000, or an increase of 35 per cent. over the previous year. All this money passes through the department at Ottawa. Money to the United States and South America goes direct from sender to receiver, so no official record of the amount is kept at Ottawa. The money sent across the ocean is principally to relatives of immigrants.

RAISE FIRE RATES.

Western Underwriters Put Up the Price on Winnipeg.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Following a million dollar fire loss in Winnipeg last year, and $400,000 in January, the Western Canada Underwriters' Association decided on Friday to raise rates by ten to fifty cents on the $100. This will be partially offset by the increased reduction where signal services and automatic alarms are installed.

THREE MEN KILLED.

A Fourth Probably Fatally Injured at Helen Mine.

A despatch from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., says: News reached the Soo on Friday that three men, Jack Thompson, J. B. Mackie and Oscar Nantynan, were killed by a premature explosion of dynamite at the Helen mine, and another man, name unknown, was probably fatally injured. Coroner McLurg of the Soo has charge of the case and will make an investigation.

TRADE WITH MEXICO.

A despatch from Montreal says: The establishment of a direct steamship service between Canada and Mexico has resulted in a big increase in trade between the two countries. Mr. D. A. Ansell, the Mexican Consul-General, has just completed a statement of imports and exports for 1910, exclusive of goods shipped overland or via New York. According to this statement, the exports from Canada show an increase of $1,027,400, and the imports $710,500.

FINANCES OF ONTARIO

Provincial Treasurer Reports Balance of a Little Over $3,000.

A despatch from Toronto says: Colonel Matheson's surplus this year totals $3,484.59. The reduced surplus is entirely on account of the large sums paid on account of the Hydro-Electric Commission and to the T. & N. O. Railway. Payments totalling $2,130,456.78 were made to the Hydro-Electric Commission and an advance of $785,000 was made to the Provincial Railway.

Expenditures on civil government totalled $565,527.36; on legislation, $249,511.29; on administration of justice, $659,414.74; education, $1,700,797.48, public institutions maintenance, $1,076,042.35; colonization and immigration $75,196.57; agriculture, $621,514.94; hospitals and charities, $352,834.86; colonization roads, $452,745.33. For criminal investigations, $2,670.51 was spent.

Balances in the banks at the beginning of the fiscal year totalled $5,086,283.75. Subsidies from the Dominion totalled $2,128,772.08. The Department of Lands, Forests and Mines contributed $2,951,428.58; the Department of Education, $44,076.20; the Provincial Secretary, $243,109.36; game and fisheries, $126,866.61; agriculture, $122,088.60; under Supplementary Revenue Act, $752,338.76. Succession duties totalled $679,730.96; licenses, $580,162.43. The contribution of the T. & N. O. Railway to the provincial coffers this year was $420,000.

The total receipts of the Province amount to $8,891,044.68, and the total expenditures $8,887,520.09.

ON THE VERGE OF A BREAKDOWN

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the Only Hope for Weakened Nervous People

This warning will be read by thousands of people who only just succeed in getting through the day's work without a breakdown. If you feel always tired out, have but little appetite, and a poor digestion, cannot sleep well, suffer from headaches, backaches and nervousness, it may mean that you are on the verge of a serious breakdown.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure weak, nervous, troubled men and women because of their direct action on the blood. Every dose of these Pills helps to make new, rich blood, which tones the vital organs, strengthens the nerves and brings renewed health and strength. Mr. Geo. Johnson, of Lequille, N. S., suffered for some years as a result of overwork and strain, but found no help for his condition until he began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mr. Johnson says:—"While working on a railway handling heavy ties I hurt my back and had to give up work. Later I was able to do light work, but for about six years I suffered from dreadful pains in the back and down my legs. This condition became aggravated by indigestion and chronic constipation, and my life was one of constant misery. During those years I was treated by different doctors, but did not get any help. One day a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and proved his faith in them by presenting me with a box. It was more to please him than from any belief that they would be of service to me that I began taking the Pills. Before the box was finished, however, they seemed to be helping me; the pains in my back and legs grew less intense and the bloating in my stomach, caused by the indigestion, disappeared. I continued taking the Pills until I had used over a dozen boxes, when I found myself fully restored to my former health. I am now able to do heavy farm work, and for the past year have not lost a day, or had the least symptom of my former troubles, and I attribute it entirely to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THUNDER TERROR.

A great many people are much afraid of thunder and lightning, but an authority on the subject, D. C. Snafer, has been stating that it is not because lightning is so dangerous. It is not, he says, half as dangerous as going out of the house on an icy morning, walking down thecellar stairs, or a hundred other things, we do every day without a thought of personal harm. More people are killed each year by falling building materials, more die from fright than are killed by lightning. The United States Census Bureau shows only 169 people killed by lightning in the entire country during one year, and only thirty of these people were killed in the cities. Heat and the sun killed 763 during the same year, 203 died from cold and freezing, and 4,395 were drowned.

DEER AND EAGLE.

The Bird's Method of Forcing a Fall From a Steep Cliff.

There is a belief widely diffused among men who see much of deer and deer forests in the Highlands that the eagle will follow on deer for a long way until they get one of them more or less by itself in a path on the side of a precipice and will then dash at it with the aim, often successful, of forcing it off the path to a fatal fall down the cliffside, says the Westminster Gazette.

This is a common article of faith, but it does not seem possible to get any eye first eye evidence for the fact. This, however, the present writer has seen—three eagles "waiting on" over a hind and calf for several miles and until the whole cortege went right out of sight around thecorner of the hill.

The calf appeared to be the real object of the eagles' attack, and it may have been only fancy, but certainly it seemed to me as if there was a preconcerted or systematic method in the eagles' behavior, as if the bird or birds on the side of the hind further from the calf swooped at her with the idea of distracting her attention from it in order to give the one on the other side a chance to strike the calf; but the hind seemed almost as quick in her movements as the eagles themselves, now and then rearing up on her hind legs and stabbing at the birds with her forefeet whenever they swooped in front of her.

She would turn a moment to the bird at one side and then would be back again on the instant with her baby, which for its part appeared to realize the danger and did its best to keep close to the protection of its mother. So the running fight went on as long as my glass could show it and the end of it is conjectural; but it is obvious that if it is the habit of eagles thus to "wait on" the deer for a favorable moment for attack (and no doubt this is their occasional way) this would be quite good enough foundation for the theory that they wait deliberately till they have them on a steep cliffside in order to force and terrify them over and down it. That is the probable explanation and it comes to about the same thing as the theory of the stalkers and gillies as far as the physical features of the affair go.

AS GOOD AS HAVING A DOCTOR IN THE HOUSE

That is what thousands of mothers say of Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets promptly and surely cure all the minor ills of babyhood and childhood, and what is more they are absolutely safe—they have never been known to harm the youngest baby—they never will harm anyone—they are good for babies of all ages. Concerning them Mrs. Wm. Higgins, Karn, Ont., writes:—"I shall never be without Baby's Own Tablets in the house as long as my children are small. They are a wonderful medicine and are as good as having a doctor in the house. I gave them to my little boy for colic and they quickly cured him. I am always glad to recommend them to other mothers." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE REALM OF FICTION.

Mr. Graham threw down his newspaper with an expression of annoyance. "It's too much when the daily papers begin to print fairy-tales," he said.

"Let me see it," said Mrs. Graham. "Perhaps I could read it to the children at bedtime to-night."

"It's not that kind," said her husband. "This is the story of a young plumber's assistant who declared that he worked so fast that it was not fair to pay him by the hour, but that he should be paid by the job."

STILL ANOTHER POSTMASTER TELLS

WHY HE PINS HIS FAITH TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Doctors failed to cure his Bright's Disease, but he found relief in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Clam Point, Shelburne Co., N. S., Jan. 30 (Special).—Joshua Nickerson, postmaster here, is among the many in this neighborhood who tell of pains relieved and disease banished by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I am sixty-two years old," says the postmaster, "And I'll tell you why I think so highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Owing to a bad cold my Kidneys commenced to bother me, and the trouble developed into Backache, stiffness of the joints, and finally Bright's Disease.

"I was treated by a doctor, but that did not help me much, and it was six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills that brought me relief."

Everywhere you go in Canada people tell you of the great work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing, and everyone who tells you can give the reason why. That reason simply is that there is no case of Kidney Disease Dodd's Kidney Pills cannot cure. These people have tried them and proved this true. Backache, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Diabetes, Lumbago, Heart Disease and Bright's Disease are some of the more serious troubles that Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure, simply because these are all either Kidney diseases or are caused by diseased Kidneys.

"I tell you, my dear boy, I stand on my rights. I believe a man should be master in his own house." "Of course, that's all right. But what I want to know is if you are allowed to smoke in the parlor?"

Clear Stomach, Clear Mind.—The stomach is the workshop of the vital functions and when it gets out of order the whole system clogs in sympathy. The spirits flag, the mind droops and work becomes impossible. The first care should be to restore healthful action of the stomach and the best preparation for that purpose is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. General use for years has won them a leading place in medicine. A trial will attest their value.

The Oil for the Farmer.—A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the farm house will save many a journey for the doctor. It is not only good for the children when taken with colds and croup, and for the mature who suffer from pains and aches, but there are directions for its use on sick cattle. There should always be a bottle of it in the house.

CHILD LABOR IN JAPAN.

Two-fifths of the Million Factory Hands Women and Children.

According to Dr. Kuwada, a member of the Japanese House of Peers, more than two-fifths of the 1,000,000 factory hands are women and children. With no laws to fear or evade, says a writer in Success, the mill owners are employing 70,000 children under the age of 14. In the match and tobacco industries particularly the work is for the most part done by children, and of these many are under 10 years of age.

In the spinning mills these child workers are often compelled to continue at their tasks at night without receiving extra pay or chance of rest. For disobedience of shop rules they are lashed and fined, this latter imposition usually wiping out their meagre wages.

Most of the girls are recruited from the poor rural districts by agents who lure them on with fascinating tales of city life. The ignorant parents, persuaded that the city will afford their daughters greater opportunity for education and refinement, offer up their children to an existence from which few live to return, and these broken in health and morals.

BURNS CAUSED OPEN SORE

Zam-Buk Worked a Wonderful Cure

Mr. J. Nixon, of 901 William Ave., Winnipeg, a blacksmith at the C.P.R. shops, had his foot badly burned by some molten metal falling upon it. He says: "The burn was a very bad one, and after the first few days it left an open sore, which showed marked signs of blood-poisoning. It discharged freely and caused me terrible agony. For three weeks I suffered acutely and could get no ease. At last I obtained a preparation from the doctor, which seemed to stop the discharging and made me quite hopeful, but finally the wound became as bad as ever.

"I was then advised to use Zam-Buk, and from the first application the balm gave me relief. The inflammation was thoroughly checked, and the poisonous matter cleared away in a very short time after beginning with Zam-Buk. Healing then began, and in less than two weeks the wound was healed.

Zam-Buk is equally good for piles, blood-poisoning, festering wounds, chaps, cold sores, children's eruptions, scalp sores, varicose ulcers, chilblains, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. NOTE AND COMMENT.

A word to you sonny—you little 12 or 13-year-old boy who is smoking cigarettes on the sly. What do you want to be when you grow up—a stalwart, healthy, vigorous, broad-shouldered man or a little, puny, measly no 'count weak minded dude? If you want to be a man, strong like a man, with hair on your face, brains in your head and muscles in your limbs, you just let those cigarettes alone. If you want to be a thing, spitted by your folks, despised by the girls, and held in contempt by the fellows, keep right on smoking them and end your days in the asylum.

We like to work and we like to see others work, but we just arise to remark that when we get to be worth as much money as some we know, work with us will cease. We could never discover why men sixty and seventy years of age and worth from forty to one hundred thousand dollars should continue to toil, from early until late and in all kinds of weather. We like to see a man provide something for his family after he is gone, but the average boy is better off if not left too much property. You who have labored three score years should stop work, and enjoy life the few years you have left with us.

The Advocate would greatly appreciate the courtesy of its many friends in the country in sending in any news they may have. Visitors, social gatherings, etc., are always welcomed and with the large number of rural phones in this district there should be no inconvenience in calling up the Advocate and giving the news. We will do the rest. If you have results, or an experience, which shows how splendid a district this really is, send it in. If you have had special results in stock-raising, do not be bashful in letting others know of it. The Advocate is anxious that the farmers should make their own paper. We are greatful for the generous assistance in the way of subscriptions. The farmers stand by the Advocate and we would like to reciprocate by making it a paper which would voice the farmers' view and give the news of interest to all.

Every farmer could evolve a system of book keeping suited to his own conditions without much trouble. Still there is a need for some simple form of keeping track of the operations on a farm that will take as little of the farmer's time as possible, and at the time, of just how his business stands. Boys and girls have graduated from the rural public school into the high school and have got all the high school could teach them without learning anything about farm, book-keeping. Book-keeping has ben taught, it is true but it has been the kind adapted to conducting a business in the city. Like the arithmetics in use in the schools, examples in the book-keeping line have been drawn up with the idea that every pupil was being fitted for some other calling than that on the farm. It should not be difficult for the educational department to evolve a system of book-keeping suitable to the farm and to pass this on to the teachers in the public schools for use in teaching the older boys and girls from the farm how to keep an accurate account of the operations of their father's farms. It would be as good home training as a boy or girl could have to jot down in their proper places the various transactions on the farm during the day.

Mr. John E. Kerr of Outlook, Sask., who spent a few days of last week with Mr. and Mrs. Moses Amy and other friends in this vicinity, left on Thursday with Mr. Alvie Amy to spend a few days in Kirkton and Woodham.

PERT AND IMPERT.

Judge not, lest ye be judged—is good advice to some people who may not have heard of it before.

Most any coward will fight if there is a wall behind him so he can't run.

It is easy to please people if you first know what they want and then give it to them just as they want it.

It is a good thing to make hay while the haying is good.

A man sometimes gets pinched by getting into a place he is too small to fill.

It is hard to believe we are in the wrong, but sometimes our friends just won't let us believe anything else.

A reformer is a person who, not being able to have things his way, is trying to keep the other crowd from having theirs.

Protect us from those self righteous people, who believe no one is good but themselves.

We are pleased to see Mr. Conrad Kuhn on the street again after his illness. His many friends hope he will soon regain his old time vigor and strength.—The icy condition of our sidewalks makes it extremely dangerous to walk on them. Last Monday Jno Mitchell while entering the P. O. door slipped and fell, hitting his head severely on the stone blocks. Fortunately he was able to proceed on his way, but it might have proved serious.—Our Town Fathers have awarded Murray Holtzman the contract to light the street lights in town.—Herb. Eilber had a Bell Telephone installed in his residence last Saturday.—We are pleased to learn that Frank Sims, who has been seriously ill with appendicitis, is recovering.— Mr. G. R. Grice, optician, will be at Sam. Brown's Thursday and Friday of this week. He has been here before and has given good treatment to those afflicted with weak eyes.

KIRKTON.

DEATH—It is with deep regret that we are called upon this week to report the demise of one of our aged residents in the person of Mary Jane Prowse, wife of Mr. Thos. Elliott which occured on Monday morning at the age of 66 years, 10 months, and 29 days. The late Mrs. Elliott had been troubled with dropsy for some time but her suddenly dropping dead on Monday morning was the last thing expected. Mrs. Elliott was highly esteemed by all, and was a most affectionate wife and mother. Besides the husband three sons and one daughter survive, Thomas of Exeter, Samuel of Detroit, William of Flint Mich., and Mrs. Wm. Hill of Flint Mich., all of whom had been home within a week to visit their parents. The sympathy of the many friends is extended to the bereaved. The funeral will take place on Thursady to Kirkton cemetery, six grandsons being pall-bearers.

At the request of Mr. Thomas Dickins and son, Thos. B., a few of their friends assembled together on Thursday last for a shoot at pigeons and blue rocks. Sides were chosen by Thos. B. Dickins and Campbell Hodgins. A feature of the shoot was the fact that John Hunter of Exeter got a perfect score in each event. After the shoot all wended their way to the house where an oyster supper was provided by the ladies, and all made a perfect mark at the table if not on the grounds. The scores were,—

ELIMVILLE

Annual Meeting—The annual meeting of the Winchelsea Creamery was held on Thursday last in the Elimville Hall. The attendance was very large and the addresses given by Mr. J. Scott of Exeter and Mr. Collins of the Bank of Commerce, Exeter, were quite profitable and interesting. Mr. Medd, the proprietor, is to be congratulated upon his success, and the very large patronage he has goes to show that he does an upright and honest business. The auditors' report shows a large increase in the business during the past year. The amount of cream delivered at the factory for the year was 1045677 lbs. making 357761 lbs. of butter, which sold for $86039.65. The amount paid to the patrons was $73319.69 at an average selling price for the year of 24.04 cents per lb.

Retrospective And Prospective

As the year 1910 has gone, gone into the care-dimmed isles of the past, never again to return; gone with its hopes and its fears, with its joys and its sorrows, its strivings and aspirations, and only leaving behind the skeleton of high resolves, of good purpose formed; yet bequeathing to us a legacy of memories, which the mind being immortal shall ever retain. And as the new born year comes to us in a mantle of snow for swaddling clothes, we would wish to re mind you of its various necessities in the line of nourishing foods, and fresh groceries of all descriptions, and of our tenderest care and greatest solicitude for its substantial and per mananent development.

One of the goods we would recommend for the infant is Exeter Flour and is, we think, preferable to Robinson's patent barley, which we also sell, and as it develops it will no doubt join the ever-increasing army of those who bespeak the praises of this reliable Flour.

THE PONY EXPRESS.

Fearless Riders and the Dangers and Hardships They Faced.

Perhaps the most picturesque figure on the old trail was the pony express rider. The overland stage proved too slow for mail and express in its flight from the Missouri and the Pacific. True, it had cut down the months of the old ox team to twenty-five days, and still there was a clamor that the east and west be brought closer together, and it was done. The pony cut the time to ten days.

Those who were personally acquainted with the famous pony express of those days could never forget the intrepid rider who braved all peril, forgetful of self, intent only on the speedy delivery of his precious mochila to the next hardy borseman. Hard and fast he rode over mountain and plain, across scorching desert and icy snow, through sunshine and rain, past friend, away from foe, to the final achievement—the safe delivery of his charge.

Forty fearless horsemen in saddle riding west, as many more riding east—and this novel but useful enterprise was in motion. For two years the pony express carried messages of business and love across 2,000 miles of western mountains and plains, over a country peopled with a hostile race, destitute of cultivation or development, through a region wild, desolate and little known.

It was in 1859 that the pony express was established. The route, briefly stated, was due west from St. Joseph to Fort Kearney, up the Platte to Julesburg, thence, by Fort Laramie and Fort Bridger, to Salt Lake City, thence to Camp Floyd, Ruby valley, the Humboldt, Carson City, Placerville and Folsom, to Sacramento and San Francisco by boat.

The intention of the pony express was to carry letters only and not more than ten pounds at a trip. It was decided that the safest and easiest mode of carrying the mail was to make four pockets, one in each corner of the mochila, a covering made of heavy leather for the saddles and generally used by the expert Mexican and Spanish riders. The mochila was transferred from pony to pony and went through from St. Joseph to San Francisco, the pockets containing the mail being locked and opened only at military posts en route and at Salt Lake City. These precious letters were wrapped in oiled silk to protect them, but even this precaution sometimes failed. Rivers had to be crossed; horse and rider swam together.—W. C. Jenkins in National Magazine.

Grew Too Tall.

"I recall a case of genuine bonebeadedness, mixed with enthusiasm, that cost a great many people a bunch of money," said an oil operator. "It was during the time when a big strike meant a drop in the price of oil. The foreman of a drill crew had been instructed by the employers to use a code in the event of oil being found. If it was a big flow he was to wire, 'Pine trees grow tall.' If, on the other hand, the flow was small, 'Pine trees grow small,' was to be the code message. The drill struck a gusher, and the following message was sent by the ivory topped individual: 'Pine trees grow tall as hell, and she is flowing all over the derrick!' Of course there were a number of men about the exchange who could understand telegraphy, and the consequence was that the price of oil dropped about $2 a barrel in a few minutes."—Louisville Times.

Intoxicated by Tobacco.

Giving evidence against a man on a charge of disorderly conduct at Bow street police court, a constable said that the accused behaved in a very violent and disorderly manner in Leicester square on Tuesday evening. He quarreled with a cabman, and eventually the witness took him into custody, believing him to be drunk. At the police station the prisoner denied that he had been drinking, and the doctor who examined him reported that he had chewed tobacco to such an extent that it had had the same effect upon him as alcohol.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Real Laziness.

The Little Russians—those of the south—are said to be cleverer than the Russians of the north, but they are lazy—just how lazy may be gathered from this quotation from Mr. Maurice Baring's book, "Russian Essays and Stories:"

"The Little Russian," said a Little Russian gentleman to me, "is so lazy that he will say to his wife, 'Little wife, say whoa to my horse. I have a pain in my tongue.'"

Progressive.

"When did you commit your first fatal extravagance?"

"When my boss referred to my wages as my 'salary.'"

"And when did you perpetrate this latest folly?"

"The day my wife called my salary my 'income.'"—Cleveland Leader.

Not Worth While.

"I notice that you usually tell the truth."

"Yes; I found that telling lies gets you into almost as much trouble."—Kansas City Journal.

DISTRICT NEWS.

CLINTON—A double wedding took place on the 25th January, at the home of the brides' sister, Mrs. Whitehead, when the marriage occurred of Miss Louisa Little to Mr. S Cluff of Tuckersmith and of Miss Amelia Little to Mr. Chas. Glew of Hullett. Rev. Dr. Stewart performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives. A sumptuous supper was served after the ceremony, and at its conclusion the young couples drove to their respective homes.

CLINTON—Mrs. A. Barge of Clinton was on Wednesday afternoon last married to a prosperous farmer of near Lucknow, Roderick McKenzie.

SEAFORTH—James McLean of Tuckersmith and another man had a narrow escape from death on Wednesday last. They were driving into town leading a heavy horse and when about to cross the railway track their horse shied at an approaching train, just saving them from being struck by the train.

LIEURY—Mr. John Robinson is getting the material on the ground to build a new residence on the site of the old hotel at West McGillivray.

SEAFORTH.—John Turner, an aged resident of this town, died here on Sunday. Mr. Turner had been in poor health for some time, and his death was not unexpected. Prior to coming to town he kept a hotel for a number of years in the Village of Varna. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. H. K. Beattie of Winnipeg.

HULLETT—Miss Martha Clark, daughter of the late Reuben Clark of this township died at the home of her brother, Melvin Clark, Huron Road, on Sunday. Her death was particularly sad. About a week ago she ruptured a blood vessel in her head, which caused her mind to be affected. She was in her 48th year.

BIDDULPH—Several of the farmers in the neighborhood of Lucan have rented their orchards at a good rent to an experienced fruit grower. We hear of one farmer getting $40 an acre for his apple orchard. This should be an inducement to farmers to set out more fruit trees.

SEAFORTH—Mrs. John Abell had the misfortune to fall on the icy sidewalk the other day and break her arm at the wrist.—Jos. Dyson, an aged resident of Egmondville died Friday morning. He is survived by his widow, but no family.

FULLARTON.—One of the pioneers of of Fullarton passed away Friday in the person of John R. Roger, aged 80. He was a Presbyterian, and in politics he was a Liberal.—Ann Watson, wife of R. H. Dawson, died in St. Marys on Thursday, aged 83. She is survived by her husband and a family of two sons and two daughters.

Father Morriscy's Remedies

Now on Sale in Ontario

When Father Morriscy, the famous priest-physician of Bartibogue, N. B., died a year ago last spring, he left his prescriptions to the Sisters of the Hotel Dieu, at Chatham, to be used for the benefit of humanity and of the church.

Not being in position to make up and distribute the prescriptions themselves, the Sisters arranged with a number of gentlemen, who had been Father Morriscy's friends, to do it for them. These gentlemen working under the name of the "Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited," had by the first of the year placed the remedies in nearly every store in the Maritime Provinces.

So gladly were they received, and so satisfactory has been their record of cures, that the Sisters and the Company have decided to place them on sale throughout Canada.

Father Morriscy's "No. 7", for Rheumatism and the Kidneys—"No. 10", Cough Cure and Lung Tonic—"No. 11", Stomach Remedy—"No. 26", for Catarrh, and "Father Morriscy's Liniment"—can now be obtained from most dealers in this Province. If yours does not keep them write the Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited, Chatham, N.B.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE;

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

After that the walk home was delightful; no further mention was made of the man who had insulted and frightened her, or of the locket, though Darnley had not forgotten it; and the sky above was not clearer than Nancy's mind when she re-entered Ripstone Hall, not even aware of fatigue, heat, or discomfort in ony shape or form.

A very smart—rather too smart—dog-cart was waiting outside the great entrance when they arrived.

Derrick Darnley frowned slightly as he said:

"The millionaire has lost no time. Mr. Crawshaw is here, I see."

Nancy smiled.

"Aren't you jealous?" she asked, with a little laugh, as she threw off her hat.

"Do you care about money?" was the young man's reply, put abruptly and questioningly.

"I adore it!" she laughed back, and then the laugh died away, and a startled, fearful look came in her eyes.

"Who—who is that speaking?" she asked, hurriedly.

"Those refined accents," Derrick Darnley replied, carelessly—he was bending over one of the many dogs that came to greet him—"belong to Mr. Crawshaw, or, to give him his full title, Mr. Thomas Moss Crawshaw, late timber foreman, of the East End, London, but now owner of several estates, and occupier of the Manor House, situated about two miles from here."

CHAPTER VI.

"Oh, there you are, Derry—back already—and what have you done with Nancy, pray?"

There was a decided touch of peevishness in Dorothy Leicester's pretty voice.

Darnley was silent for a moment; he had been standing staring up at the broad staircase in a fixed, almost vexed way, when his cousin came out of the large drawing-room and put the above query to him.

He woke from his reverie with a start and looked down at Dorothy.

"Miss Hamilton is in her own room, I believe," he answered, in a curiously short manner.

"In her room; then I expect she is tired out, and no wonder, starting off to walk to the village in this heat. I mean to scold her well. Are you going in to say 'How d'ye do' to the great millionaire, Derry? You know it is your duty to pay court to all his wealth."

Dorothy's face had lost its cloud, and was as sunny and lovely as usual; she had been a little vexed that Derrick should have left her to go after Nancy; but now he was back again, and that was all she asked. Had she been a little less occupied with her own feelings on this subject, she must have noticed that Mr. Darnley was in anything but a pleasant humor.

"Mr. Crawshaw is quite prepared to receive any amount of homage, so come along," she laughed, slipping her dainty hand through his arm, and trying to pull him toward the drawing-room, whence issued sounds of a strong, loud voice, holding forth with much consequence and vigor.

Darnley's brows contracted in a frown.

"Many thanks, but I would rather be excused, Dolly," he said, curtly. "I have had one experience of Mr. Crawshaw and I am in no hurry to have a second. I think I will go and rescue Merefield from the cubs, he must have had about enough of them by now."

"You have only to utter the magical words, 'Crawshaw is here!' and Merefield will be free immediately," Dorothy observed, with a slight sneer, and then she gave an impatient little sigh.

"I should like to go with you," she said, "but I must remember my duty as hostess and return to my very unwelcome guest."

Darnley pulled a broad tennis hat low over his eyes, and, with a short whistle to the dogs, set off across the lawn towards the tennis ground.

He was both surprised and annoyed.

Why had Nancy suddenly flown away up the stairs, vanishing before he had time to draw breath, when she discovered that Crawshaw was in the house?

Darnley had been bending over the dogs, dispensing pats of welcome all round, and he had not seen the change that had come over the girl's laughing, happy face, nor the expression of something akin to agony which had flashed into her eyes. He had not seen the sudden terror, the exquisite fear, which had overwhelmed her at the intelligence that her dreaded foe was not only actually close at hand, but would be near her every day to torment and trouble her.

All that Darnley had seen was her hasty rush up the stairs, with an eagerness that as he remembered it sent a curious pang to his heart, which grew deeper and deeper as he walked across the grounds.

"My judgment has been utterly at fault, it seems," he said, bitterly, to himself, kicking savagely at a little daisy that was rearing its innocent and pretty head to greet the summer sun; "and she is no better than the rest. What was that she said just now, 'I adore money!' She said it laughingly, but it was the truth she uttered, all the same. Money!—money!—money!—and this brute, because he can boast of a gigantic banking account, is set up and worshiped!"

He turned aside moodily as he neared the tennis court, forgetful of poor Lord Merefield, who was almost reduced to a bundle of rags from the affectionate vigor of his partner, the Hon. Ella, and, reaching a shady and lonely corner, flung himself on the grass and gave way to his thoughts.

"Why do I let this girl vex me as she does!" he cried, impatiently, to himself; "is it not sufficient that I should have been foolish enough to have been bewitched by her face the very instant I saw it—that in one moment she should have scattered all my prudence and worldly wisdom to the four winds, without worrying myself over every little thing concerning her, as I have done these last two days? Would any man in his senses do as I am doing?"

He pulled a low easy garden chair close to him and flung himself into it.

"I'll have a smoke, it will clear my brain; I want to see into this matter rightly; I won't condemn her too quickly!"

So saying, he pulled out his silver case—a gift from Dorothy—and, having lit a cigar, he folded his arms and began to think.

Soothed by the fumes of the fragrant weed, his mood softened, and Nancy's face, with those wonderful eyes and tremulous, sweet red lips, returned to haunt, fascinate and torment him.

"Hang it all!" he mentally declared, with a sudden determination born of a variety of feelings, "I am a brute to judge the child so harshly; so much for my great theory of never going on anything like circumstantial evidence, when at the merest, the vaguest cause, I immediately begin to imagine all sorts of things. Now, why should I doubt her about that locket? What earthly connection can the dainty, beautiful, refined, intellectual—in every sense a thorough lady—what connection can she have with such creatures as this man whom she refused to let me follow and thrash—to-day? And why should she not treasure a little gold locket if she likes?"

He took his hat off, flung it away, and rumpled his dark, curly locks, his face growing shadowed and uneasy again.

"I wish, though, she had let me get at that fellow. I would have given him something to remember this day by. She seemed as if she feared to let me go after him. By Jove! I—if——" A flush rose to his face, and a smile came unconsciously to his lips, making him almost handsome in that moment. "What if she were nervous about me?" Then he frowned. "Pooh—bah! conceited ape that I am, why should she care about me? She has only known me about three days altogether, and doubtless doesn't desire to extend the acquaintanceship."

He flicked away his cigar ash rather moodily; but his thoughts soon went back to Nancy, and his heart beat in a strange, quick way, while his pulses thrilled as he remembered how she had clung to him in her fear, and how tempting and exquisite her face had seemed to him as she gradually grew calm and her smiles came again.

Look whichever side he would Nancy's face haunted him; if he shut his eyes, she laughed out of the darkness.

"She is a witch!" Darnley cried, suddenly, to himself; "she has charmed me."

He gave himself up to the enthralment of this conclusion, and gradually became quiet and contented.

"She is an angel," was his next verdict, as he leisurely finished his cigar; "and as for her thinking about money and that brute, Crawshaw, even for an instant, why the whole thing is a disgraceful libel, and I ought to feel ashamed of myself for letting it come into my mind for a single instant. How proud she is!" was his next thought. "She disowns the Hamiltons. Serve them right, too, if they could turn their backs on her when she needed them. They ought to feel that she despises them now, that she will never need their help. Thank Heaven that she will never come to want them now. How happy she is! Her face is like a flower bathed in perpetual sunshine; it is the reflection of her mind. Who could help loving her? It is no wonder Dorothy has not grown tired of her, for she is as sweet and rare as she is beautiful!"

"You are a nice fellow, Derry," he commenced, flinging himself on the grass, viciously. "I think you might have given me a hand."

"You have four such able ones near in those possessed by Misses Maude and Ella, that I don't think you can have needed mine."

Darnley lit another cigarette, and smiled while the young earl vented his feelings freely on his friend.

"I believe they would have gone on playing till doomsday if Fairfax hadn't suddenly espied Crawshaw about to depart, and the cubs, of course, fled to greet him. I hope to goodness he will carry one of them off—the two together are too much for me!"

"See what it is to have a coronet at your back," laughed the other man.

"The coronet may go down to the bottom of the sea, for all I care!" observed Lord Merefield, gloomily; then, with an assumption of indifference, "What have you done with Dolly?"

"Oh, we parted company hours ago. I fancy she is with the millionaire. Are you going in? Take care, Merefield, the cubs may seize you again."

But Lord Merefield was out of earshot, and Darnley laughed softly to himself.

"What a case that is; poor boy, certainly love is not altogether a paradise to him."

And then, left alone in the cool, soothed by the fragrant scent of his tobacco, he gave himself up to his thoughts of Nancy and her fascinations; while she, up in the seclusion of her dainty bedroom, was standing gazing out of the window, wondering in a blank, vague sort of way if her happiness and contentment had gone for ever, and what lay for her in the future, now that Thomas Moss had crossed her path again.

"It is like some hideous dream! Ah! I was right when I told myself I was too happy; yet, though I feared something might come to trouble me, I never thought of this—I never thought that he could come into this life, mix in this world, and now he has come, not quietly, but loudly and ostentatiously. Why has not Dr. Grantley told me about this? If I had been warned, I might——" but there Nancy stopped. Warned or no, the discomfort, the horror of meeting this man would have been just the same. She sighed a little, then sat down and thought it all out in her cool, commonsense way. "After all," she mused, "things are so changed that it may not be so bad. Thomas Moss, foreman of Yorrick's timber yord, is a very different creature from Thomas Moss Crawshaw, Esq., millionaire and great matrimonial catch"—her face lightened visibly. "Of course, he will consider me very much his inferior, doubtless in his heart he will rejoice that he escaped the folly of marrying me when he can now take a wife from any poor, aristocratic family he chooses; yes, yes, how silly I was; the difficulty will be infinitesimal"—the color had come back to Nancy's cheeks, the light to those marvellous eyes. "When all is said and done, he can only regard me as a poor dependent on Sir Humphrey's love and generosity, and so quite beneath the great Mr. Crawshaw's notice. Besides, I am safe now; if—if he should try to remind me of the past, I have one who will protect me now and always."

A long-winded, prosy counsellor was arguing a technical case recently before one of the Judges of the Superior Court. He had drifted along in such a desultory way that it was hard to keep track of what he was trying to present, and the Judge had just vented a very suggestive yawn. "I sincerely trust that I am not unduly trespassing on the time of this court," said the lawyer, with a suspicion of sarcasm in his voice. "There is some difference," the Judge quietly observed, "between trespassing on time ond encroaching on eternity."

ARE FAST WINNING FIGHT

DISCOVERY OF CAUSES OF SERIOUS EPIDEMICS.

Dr. Osler Tells of the Wonderful Work Accomplished in One Generation.

Preventive medicine, says Dr. Osler, writing in the American Magazine, was a blundering art until thirty or forty years ago, when it was made a science by the discovery of the causes of many serious epidemics. It is in connection with the great plagues that man's redemption of man may in the future be effected; at present we have only touched the fringe of the subject. He goes on:—

How little do we appreciate what even a generation has done! The man is only just dead (Robert Koch), who gave to his fellow men the control of cholera. Read the story of yellow fever in Havana if you wish to get an idea of the powers of experimental medicine; there is nothing to match it in the history of human achievement.

ONCE WHITE MAN'S GRAVE.

"Before our eyes to-day the most striking experiment ever made in sanitation is in progress. The digging of the Panama Canal was acknowledged to be a question of the helath of the workers. For four centuries the Isthmus had been a white man's grave, and at one time during the French control the mortality reached the appalling figures of 170 per thousand. Even under the most favorable circumstances it was extraordinary high.

GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

"Month by month I got the reports which form by far the most interesting sanitary reading of the present day. Of more than 50,000 employees (about 13,000 of whom are white), the death rate per thousand for the month of March was 8.91, a lower percentage, I believe, than in any city of the United Kingdom, and very much lower than in any city of the United States. It has been brought in a great part by researches into the life history of the parasite which produces malaria, and by the effective measures taken for its destruction. Here, again, is a chapter in human achievement for which it would be hard to find a parallel.

MOST DEADLY ENEMY.

"Man's most deadly enemy," the writer goes on to say, "is tuberculosis—one of the great infections of the world, whose cause it has been one of the triumphs of our generation to determine. With improved sanitation its mortality has been reduced since 1850 more than 40 per cent., but it still kills a larger number of people than any other disease—some 60,000 in Great Britain and Ireland in 1908, and 589 in London alone. Practically between 10 and 11 per cent. of all deaths are due to it." We read further:—

"A plain proposition is before the people. We know the disease, how it is caused, how it is spread, how it should be prevented, how in suitable cases it may be cured. How to make this knowledge is the prime thing. It is a campaign for the public; past history shows that it is a campaign of hope. The measures for its stamping out, though simple on paper, present difficulties interwoven with the very fabric of society, but they are not insuperable, and are gradually disappearing. Only prolonged and united efforts carried through several generations can place the disease in the same category with typhus fever, typhoid and smallpox."

A SUBSTITUTE.

"Good gracious, Willie, where did you get that black eye?"

"Johnny Smith hit me with his fist."

"And I hope you remembered what your Sunday-school teacher said about heaping coals of fire on the heads of our enemies?"

"Well, I didn't have any coal, so I upset the ash-pan over him."

A worthy and provident man went to his legal adviser to make his will. He gave many instructions, and it seemed that everything was arranged. The lawyer began to read over his notes, and put a point to his client. "Oh—you have made provision for your wife in the event of her surviving you. Does that remain unaltered if she should marry again?" "No, no," said the client, eagerly. "What am I leaving her? One thousand dollars a year. If she marries again make it $2,000." The lawyer thought there must be a misunderstanding, and pointed out that most men put it the other way about. "I know," said the client, "but the man who takes her will deserve it."

"Do you think a man should take his wife into his confidence regarding his business affairs?" asked the man who had just been married. "If he isn't making any money, yes," replied the experienced one, cautiously.

On the Farm

THE FEEDING LOT.

There is no good reason why the feed lot should not be kept in good condition, even if there is no hill on the farm. If the land is level and only a small bunch of cattle is to be fed, a good plan is to remove the top soil with a road scraper to the depth of six inches or more, and then cover the surface with smooth stones topped off with coarse coal cinders mixed with sand.

Of course, the best way to keep a small feed lot dry is to pave it with brick. This costs something at the start, but the investment will pay every time. The cattle are always on dry footing and no feed is wasted by being thrown on the ground.

If a large lot of cattle is to be fed, the cost of paving a large lot is out of the question; but it can be underdrained with success. Tile drain laid in the ordinary way, from ten to twenty feet apart, will keep any lot that is not located in a swamp in good condition, even in the rainiest part of the season.

Drainage will cost no more than sheds and unless the sheds are very wide they soon become soaked with the driving rains and mud is then carried into them by the cattle, and are little better than an open lot.

On our own farm we have two lots of ten acres each, which are perfectly drained. They are on a slightly sloping rise, and we placed the drains about twenty feet apart. Perhaps 40 feet would have answered the purpose, but we decided to take no chances, and we are satisfied with our investment. These two lots cost us $400 for tile and work, besides our own, but we think it has paid, because our cattle have been fattened in comfort.—C. M. Coulton.

WITH THE DAIRY HERD.

The fault of dairymen in general is not so much the lack of knowledge as the proper application of the knowledge they possess.

One thing that we ought to consider when we start out to buy breeding cattle is the fact that the knowledge, skill and character of the man we buy them of is about as important as the animals that we are buying.

Can a man sow poor seed and hope to get a good crop? Will Nature make any exceptions in one man's favor? These are questions which ought to interest the man who keeps on year after year breeding his cows to some scrub bull.

Too many farmers lack the push and energy required to build up a fine herd of dairy cattle. They are poor business-men.

The cow cannot turn all of her energy into the production of milk and still have enough to build up her offspring rightly. To raise good, vigorous calves, we must see to it that the mother has sufficient of the right kind of food and goes dry long enough to do the work rightly.

DEEP LITTER FEEDING.

A Western doctor who had a fine flock of hens, but whose hours were so irregular that he could not feed them at stated times, writes that he has found this method to give entire satisfaction.

For this sort of feeding a layer of litter is first spread over the floor and then a layer of grain such as cracked corn or wheat, then another of grain, alternating until the mass is from six to eight inches deep.

Young chickens attack this heap vigorously, and often dig out square holes clear down to the bottom in their search for grain.

This continual digging gives them plenty of exercise and, as a rule, they thrive excellently.

In some experiments made in this matter, litter-fed chicks actually gained much more than those fed by hand, although both lots were fed exactly the same rations, and the hand-fed birds received all they could eat and at all times.

If the litter is kept perfectly dry it does not become foul, because the constant movement of it by the chickens keeps it well aired and no unpleasant odor results.

UNDISPUTED WEALTH.

Savages Have Solved the Problem of Political Economy.

In a land where food and drink and ready-made clothes grow on trees and may be had for the gathering, it is not easy to see how a man can run very deeply in debt for his living expenses. But in "The Island of Stone Money," W. H. Furness, 3d, explains that natures ready-made clothes are not ornamental, and the soul of man, especially of woman, from the equator to the poles, demands personal adornment.

Like all adornments, polished shells, tortoise-shell, variegated beads, and so forth, demand labor in the making. Here, then, the natives of Yap, one of the Caroline Islands, have solved the problem of political economy, and found that labor is the true standard of value. But this medium must be enduring, and as their island yields no metal, they have to recourse to stone; stone, on which labor in fetching and fashioning has been expended, and as truly a representation of labor as the mined and minted coins of civilization.

This medium of exchange they call fei. It consists of large, solid, thick stone wheels, ranging in diameter from a foot to twelve feet, having in the centre a hole varying in size with the diameter of the stone, wherein a pole may be inserted sufficiently large to bear the weight and facilitate transportation.

These stone "coins" are not made on the Island of Yap, but were originally quarried and shaped in one of the Pelao Islands, four hundred miles to the southward, and brought to Yap by venturesome native navigators, in canoes and on rafts, over the ocean by no means as pacific as its name implies.

A noteworthy feature of this stone currency, which is also an equally noteworthy tribute to Yap honesty, is that it is not necessary for its owner to reduce it to possession. After concluding a bargain which involves the price of a fei too large to be conveniently moved, its new owner is quite content to accept the bare acknowledgment of ownership, and without so much as a mark to indicate the exchange, the coin remains undisturbed on the former owner's premises.

There was one family whose wealth was acknowledged by every one, and yet no one, not even the family itself, had ever laid eye or hand on this wealth. It consisted of an enormous fei, which was lying at the bottom of the sea. Many years ago an ancestor of this family secured this remarkably valuable stone, which was placed on a raft to be towed home. A violent storm arose, and the party was obliged to cut the raft adrift, and the stone sank out of sight.

When they reached home they all testified that the fei was of magnificent proportions, and lost through no fault of the owner. It was, therefore, conceded that a few hundred feet of water over it ought not to affect its market value. The purchasing power of that stone, therefore, remains valid.

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

NEW DISHES.

Delicious Winter Jam.—Here is a suggestion for replenishing the fruit shelf with a winter jam which is inexpensive and very good: Three pint cans pineapple, one pound of dried apricots, six cups sugar, juice of two lemons. Soak apricots over night and cook well in the morning without sugar when alone; put through seive. Drain off the juice and thoroughly chop the pineapples. Add this and juice to the apricots and boil for several minutes before adding sugar and lemon juice. Cook until it is desired thickness; pour into tumblers and cover with paraffin. Care should be taken not to allow the jam to burn or stick while boiling, and the result will bea pretty and delicate jam. The blended flavor of the pineapple and apricot is most pleasing.

Cold Meat Relish.—Two quarts of cranberries, three and one-half pounds of sugar, one pound of seeded raisins, the rind of two oranges chopped fine, the juice of one orange, one cup of vinegar, one teaspoonful each of ginger, cloves, and cinnamon (ground). Cook all to a thin mush like jelly and put into small jars. Delicious.

Oyster Sandwiches.—Pound the oysters with lemon juice and cayenne, lay them between the slices of bread and butter and cut into small neat sandwiches, which arrange on a silver plate one over the other in a ring like cutlets.

Escalloped Cabbage.—To one cup of cabbage take one cup of white sauce, three tablespoons of bread crumbs (buttered), cut off outside leaves of cabbage, wash, cut in small pieces, and cook in boiling salted water until tender, leaving lid off so as to bleach cabbage. Place alternate layers of cooked cabbage, white sauce, and buttered crumbs in buttered bake dish, and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake until white sauce bubbles up, and crumbs are golden brown. White Sauce: One cup milk, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one-third teaspoon salt; heat milk scalding hot in double boiler; make paste of butter, flour and salt. Put paste in milk and stir vigorously until it thickens. Let cool slowly for twenty minutes.

BREAKFAST BREADS.

Corn Bread.—When making corn bread by any recipe, if one large cooked potato, hot or cold, is rubbed through a very fine sieve into the batter, it greatly improves it, making it light and feathery, and, as my husband says, absolutely delicious.

Wheat Muffins.—Two tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon butter (heaping), one egg, three-quarters cup sweet milk (generous), one and one-half cups flour, a pinch of salt, two teaspoons baking powder. This recipe just makes twelve muffins. Bake in a real warm oven.

Eggless Muffins.—One tablespoonful sugar, one-half tablespoonful butter (or butter and lard), one-half cup sweet milk, one scant teaspoonful baking powder, salt to taste, flour enough to make a stiff batter. This will make six muffins. The recipe may be varied by using part cornmeal or sifted graham flour.

TASTEFUL RECIPES.

Baked Apples.—Wash and core tart apples, then fill with equal parts crumbs and mushrooms. Season with catsup or fine herbs as preferred. Put a bit of butter on top of each apple. Add a little water to the baking pan and bake until tender.

Salt Pork.—This is really a delicious way to serve salt pork. Slice fat pork and soak the slices an hour in sweet milk; drain and fry until the pork begins to turn brown, then dip in a batter made of one egg which is beaten and stirred into two tablespoonfuls of flour; then fry on both sides.

Maple Ice Cream.—One cupful of rich maple syrup, one pint of cream, yolks of four eggs, and white of one egg. Heat the syrup to the boiling point, pour it slowly on the well beaten yolk, and cook in a double boiler until it is thick. Let it cool and add the cream and the beaten whites. Stir well together and let it freeze.

New Sandwiches.—For delicious sandwiches, smother goose livers in goose fat until they are very soft, mash them into a paste with three hard boiled eggs, season with salt and paprika and a dash of grated onion, then spread on toast.

GRIDDLE CAKE HELPS.

Imitation Maple Syrup.—Pour a gallon of water over ten medium sized red corn cobs that are clean and boil for one hour. Add more water as they boil down. (Two pounds of hickory bark may be substitued for the cobs if desired.) After boiling for an hour remove the cobs, or bark, from the water and strain. Have ready four or five pounds of light brown sugar, which has been dissolved in boiling water. Add to this the water in which the cobs or bark were boiled and boil the whole down to proper thickness.

Buckwheat Hint.—Owing to the bad effects which the old fashioned buckwheat griddle cakes often have on the blood and skin of many people a great many have to forego the pleasure of this breakfast dish. The bad effects will all be overcome if a good-sized pinch of Epsom salts is put in the batter when the salt and soda is added in the morning, and even the most finical could not detect it in the taste.

BAKED DISHES.

Beans Baked in Furnace.—Prepare beans just as you would for baking in the oven. Then place pan just inside furnace door. Cook all day. Place in oven half hour before serving to brown them. Can be cooked in a granite pan or jar. Turn pan around two or three times during the day.

Baked Macaroni and Oysters.—Take 5 cents' worth of macaroni, boil until tender; butter the bottom of the bake dish; put in layer of macaroni, then layer of oysters, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and small bits of butter; then add another layer of macaroni, then more oysters, and continue alternating until bake dish is nearly full. Cover the top layer with cracker crumbs, dotted with bits of butter. Pour over enough milk or thin cream to come to top. Bake from one-half to three-quarters of an hour.

USEFUL HINTS.

Badly stained knives may be made to look as good as new by rubbing on charcoal.

If a soft piece of homemade bread is rubbed on a scorch on woollen goods it will remove it entirely.

Vegetables will take longer to cook, but will be much nicer and of better color if boiled uncovered.

A tasty way of using left over boiled rice is to put a piece of butter in the frying pan and adding the rice when the butter sizzles. Fry until brown.

To make celery firm and crisp and with a salty flavor liked by most people, clean as usual and soak in cold, salty water for an hour before serving.

Eggs will keep well packed in dry salt, with the small end down. Grease the shell with lard before packing, and pour melted lard over the top layer of salt.

If chicken is roasted or panned with the breast down instead of up it will be more juicy and tender. It should be turned over ten minutes before it is done to brown.

Clean the soiled lace yoke of your frock by rubbing powdered starch into the lace, let it lie some hours and then brush it out. The starch will absorb the grease and dust.

For a very simple apple pudding cut some nicely flavored apples in quarters. Sprinkle with sugar and bread crumbs and bake until the top is brown. Serve with a hard sauce.

A delicious desert is made by stiffening grape juice with gelatine and folding the whites of eggs whipped to a stiff froth through it while it is thickening. Serve with whipped cream.

When laundry soap is bought in large quantities, as it usually done, the bars should be unwrapped and placed on the top shelf of the kitchen cuoset to become thoroughly dry and ripened before they are used.

When sweeping a heavy rug or carpet it is a good plan to spread a newspaper on the floor and sprinkle it very lightly with water. Keep the newspaper a trifle ahead of the broom so that the dust is brushed on to it.

Warm bread or cake, and, in fact, warm food of any kind should never be put in a covered tin or dish. The steam makes molding certain. Vegetables become soggy and unfit for food when treated in this careless manner.

For broiled salt fish soak the fish overnight in skimmed milk. When required wipe it dry and put it on a well-greased gridiron. When browned on one side turn carefully so as not to blacken. Serve with fried potatoes.

HARMLESS AND OLD.

President Braga, the New Head of the Portuguese Republic.

Of Prof. Braga, the new head of the Portuguese Republic, the following is written by Francis McCullagh: "The President is a medium sized man of slight build and about 60 or 70 years of age. The yellow face was very much wrinkled when this revolution started, and it is getting more and more wrinkled every day, owing to the fresh perplexities that each hour brings, owing to the strangeness of the position in which this alleged Prsident finds himself. The soft, brown Portuguese eyes—the same eyes as, in an Indian of Chinese setting, I have often seen in Goa and Macao—express dreaminess, enthusiasm, honesty, good nature, but is is easy to see that they look out on a world of which they know nothing.

"They are the eyes of a gentle recluse, a devoted scholar, a tenth-rate poet, an absent-minded professor, an innocent old man who really should be pottering about, an unconscious pensioner of the state or of some religious order, in a royal library or in the shadowed garden of some wealthy Benedictine abbey.

"The President has, as photographs show, a scanty moustache on his upper lip, balanced by a scanty patch of hair on the lower lip, both being of a color which may be described as dirty gray. The hair on his head is quite gray. It is plentiful and it stands up in tangled masses several inches above the top of his head. Evidently the professor frequently runs his fingers through it. Perhaps he sometimes attempts, in his perplexity, to lift himself by it.

"However that may be, his hair is certainly in a state of terrible confusion and entanglement. It reminds me of the fearful and wonderful heads of revolutionary hair which I used to see in Russia. Prof. Braga has a black coat and baggy gray trousers."

WAGE WAR ON BACHELORS.

Must Pay Tax for Privilege Say European Governments.

The financial commission of the Russian Duma proposes that if a bachelor will not marry he shall be made to contribute something to the exchequer for the privilege of remaining a celibate. A tax upon bachelors is not a novelty in Europe, more than one Balkan State having adopted the idea.

In England such a tax has been imposed, first in 1695, and it continued in operation until 1706. Every bachelor of 25 and every childless widower of five years standing had to pay a shilling a year for five years, and as his position in the social scale grew so also did his contributions.

Toward the end of the eighteenth century unmarried men over 21 who had servants had to pay extra taxes and later to contribute a greater proportion to the income tax. Mr. Lloyd George has worked the principle from the other end by granting remissions from the income tax to fathers of children under 16.

DURALUMIN REPLACES STEEL

New Discovery Means Much in Naval Construction.

Duralumin, the new alloy discovered by H. B. Weeks, head chemist of Vickers, Sons & Maxim, England, is the outcome of experiments lasting many months. It is believed that the new metal, which is an excellent substitute for steel, will be extensively used.

It is known that duralumin is being utilized in connection with the naval airship now being constructed at Barrow. The value of the alloy for aeroplanes and dirigibles is shown by the fact that while it is slightly heavier than pure aluminum, it as strong as steel. It is also not so easily corrodible. It is only one-third the weight of brass, and it will be possible by its use to reduce weights by two-thirds without sacrificing strength or durability.

Its uses for fittings and various appliances in connection with warships may result in important developments. If it were possible to replace steel by duralumin in naval construction, it would mean the saving of several thousand tons in a vessel's displacement.

MINING IN CHINA.

Old and New Appliances Seen Side by Side in Shautung.

How coal is mined in Shantung, China, is told by a correspondent: "Last year a coal mine, with foreign machinery, was opened by a native company. Here, as everywhere, there is the old and the new side by side. In this shaft I saw them hoisting coal with an immense windlass turned by half a dozen men, and a few yards distant with a fine foreign engine. But the astonishing part of it was that the latter, easily capable of handling a ton, they were hoisting the same loads as with the former, say 150 catties. And what was more astonishing, the speed, or rather lack of speed, was also the same. But I soon discovered the reason. In lieu of a pump with which to rid the mine of water, a large leather bag, the size of a common barrel, was used for lifting it out. Standing on the iron rim of this bag, and grasping the chain, I descended 150 feet to explore. There was neither track nor guide nor guard for the baskets of coal and bags of water, so they must necessarily move slowly or be dashed to pieces against the sides."

THE S. S. LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, FEB. 5.

Lesson VI.—Elijah the Prophet appears in Israel, I Kings 17. Golden Text, Psa. 34. 10.

Verse 1. Elijah the Tishbite—He comes upon the scene, like Melchizedek, without parentage, and at once stands out as the mouthpiece of Jehovah, the God of Israel, in sharp contrast to Jezebel and the worship of Baal, introduced by her. The element of mystery surrounding his origin is preserved in the name given him. The implied name of a place, Tishbeh, or Tishbi, gives no clue, as no such place is known. If the word translated sojourners is regarded, as it may be properly, as a proper noun, the verse would read, "from Thesbon of Gilead," and this is in accord with Josephus. Somewhere, then, in the severe, but picturesque, district of Gilead, east of Jordan, bordering on the desert, the prophet had his origin. And the ruggedness of the hills from whence he came passed into his character.

Said unto Ahab—He was a short man, like Paul, and the unkempt hair of the Nazirite fell over his shoulders. He was clad in rough attire. He waited for none of the usual courtesies and homages of the court. With bold abruptness, he breaks in upon the royal presence and announces his startling message. Why should he fear on Ahab, so long as he was the messenger of the God of Israel before whom I stand?

Dew nor rain—This was a recognized form of punishment for apostasy. Compare Deut. 11. 17. For three years or more there followed a severe famine which afflicted all Israel. James represents the drought as an outcome of the prayer of Elijah, though that is not mentioned here. But the prophet does say that the curse shall be terminated only in accordance with his own word.

3. Hide thyself—He would of course be in immediate danger from the revengeful disposition of Jezebel. The king himself seems to have had a restraining reverence for the prophets of God.

The brook Cherith—As this was on the east side of the river Jordan, Elijah would be thoroughly familiar with its hiding places, for here he had had most of his training.

4. The ravens to feed thee—Attempts have been made to eliminate the supernatural element in these stories of Elijah. Here, for example, the word "ravens" has been translated "Arabs", and "merchants." But it is not probable the story would have been thought worth repeating and preserving except for this miraculous element.

9. Zarephath—Thither he was sent as soon as the drought had dried up the brook Cherith. It is the modern Sarafend. On a promontory, about eight miles south of Sidon, it would afford both shelter in an unexpected place, and would not be entirely given over to the drought because of the unfailing fountains of Lebanon. The haughty Jezebel would scarcely think to search in her own Baal-worshiping country for the prophet of the Lord. It was here that Jesus, centuries later, went on a mission of mercy. As it turned out, Elijah went on a mission of mercy also, as well as for the purpose of sustaining himself.

10. A little water . . . that I may drink—He had come a long journey, through a parched country, and must have been exhausted.

12. Jehovah thy God—His speech or his dress must have betrayed him. She herself was, of course, only a heathen woman. Elijah was to learn that even in the heart of a despised worshipper of Baal there was a warm sympathy and a capacity for kindness which no doubt went a long way toward softening his own rough nature.

I have not a cake—The devastation of the famine had extended as far as Zarephath, and brought with it widesperad misery.

13-16. One must not overlook the tremendous faith which was necessary on Elijah's part to speak these words, Fear not, and The jar of meal shall not waste. How long he remained here we do not know, but it seems safe to conjecture at least two years.

17. No breath left in him—It has been suggested that this language is not decisive as a description of death. But it is certain Elijah considered the lad dead. At any rate, whether he was actually so, or only on the borderland, it was through the prayer of the prophet that he was restored.

18. What have I to do with thee?—In her terror the poor widow wishes this man of God had never come. It was a common superstition that death accompanied the appearance of superhuman beings. His coming, she thought, called the divine attention to some sin of her past which she hoped had been overlooked. A slumbering conscience is often awakened in the presence of death.

19. The chamber where he abode—It is an unnecessary assumption that he kept under cover during this entire period. There were endless opportunities for him to satisfy his natural fondness for solitary places.

21. Stretched himself upon the child three times—In order to induce respiration and give warmth to the body. He combined with his earnest prayer such simple methods of restoration as he knew.

24. Now I know—She had called him a man of God previously, but this rescue from death of her boy, made her certain beyond all doubt. And it also elicited from her a confession of faith in the God whom Elijah served.

MAY LIVE IN TIN HOUSES.

Germans Erect Telephone Booths Lined With Tin.

A writer in an American paper says:—It has probably been a source of wonderment to many good citizens that the little German bands do not stay in their own land. Everything a German likes is better over there, and cheaper, too. Then one would think that since they originate in Germany they would be more popular and more generally subsidized. But the secret it out; they do not want them. While the Germans are responsible for this weird species of noise, they do not like it. So we have the little German bands.

How do we know that they do not like it?

Well, to be sure, we do not have very direct evidence, but it is this way. A German scientific paper has recently announced that telephone booths had been erected in the Fatherland lined with tin, that was absolutely noiseproof, and it was eagerly suggested that it would be a splendid thing to line the houses with the same material to keep out the street noises.

Now, for the second process in deduction we submit the following proposition: About one-tenth of the obnoxious street noises in our cities are made by the hurdie-gurdies and the little German bands. Allow the bands as twentieth part. Surely not more than a twentieth of all the German bands come to this country, and since they constitute a twentieth of the bad noise here, it is perfectly apparent they make it all over there.

How is that for logic?

At any rate the idea of a tin house is novel, and if it is really efficient there is not the least doubt that it will find itself quickly installed in hospitals, dog kennels and elsewhere at once.

ELEPHANT PECULIARITIES.

Are Full of Mischief and Have a Sense of Humor.

The courage of a lion at bay, great as it is, is no greater than that of the buffalo; and he must yield his scepter to the elephant, declares H. L. Tangye in his book, "In the Torrid Sudan," as to courage, size, strength and intelligence.

In but a few creatures of the brute creation exists any germ of true unselfishness. Thought for others of the species is rarely in evidence. Even man's best friend, the dog, would pass a wounded brother with a sniff; if wild, he would probably devour him. Who that has seen a wounded elephant rescued from danger by his fellow, supported on each side, can deny in this an attribute of something superior?

It is a temptation to declare that he possesses a sense of humor. A herd of elephants once fell in with a train of donkeys. Their attention concentrated on the load the donkeys carried. With all the mischief of monkeys, the loads were torn asunder, and the contents distributed over half the province.

At Bor, on the Mountain Nile, the elephants were at one time full of practical jokes. Passing at night time through the village, they would waken the sleepers up by demolishing their huts above their heads, then contentedly march away.

WIRELESS AT SCHOOL.

English Schoolmaster Gets License to Experiment.

A village schoolmaster in Northamptonshire has just been granted a license by the Postmaster-General to carry on experiments in wireless telegraphy upon the school premises. The apparatus, which would have cost about seventeen guineas to buy, was made in three months for twenty-five shillings. With great ingenuity all kinds of articles of domestic use have been turned to account, such as wine glasses for insulators, and bottle corks, pieces of school india-rubber, tin tacks and old scent bottles to support the positive and negative poles. Attached to the receiving instrument there is mechanism by which a bell can be rung, a message tapped, or a little lamp lighted. At present the greatest distance traversed is thirty yards, but the ingenious inventor hopes, now that he has obtained his license, to carry out experiments at greater distances out-of-doors.

"TOLL FOR THE BRAVE"

HOW THE ROYAL GEORGE FILLED AND SANK.

The Disaster Which Occurred to the Namesake of the New Battleship.

The fact that one of the new battleships is to be named the "Royal George" reminds one of that former "Royal George" and the disaster which occurred to her, well known by reason of Cowper's poem, "Toll for the brave." The story of the terrible calamity will probably interest readers.

In 1782 Britain was in a more humbled state than she had been for a century. The wars with America, and France, Spain and Holland, had exhausted her resources, and there was seen the unusual spectacle of a French fleet menacing the coasts. It was at this period that a calamity occurred which resulted in the loss of the

FIRST SHIP IN THE NAVY.

At Portsmouth a fleet was being prepared for the relief of Gibraltar, then besieged by Spain, and one of the ships destined for this expedition was the "Royal George" of 100 guns. She was the oldest first rate class in the service, having been land down in 1751. Lord Anson, Lord Rodney, and Admiral Boscawen had commanded in her often, and Lord Hawke commanded in her the squadron which fought the French under Conflans. Before she could sail it was deemed necessary that the "Royal George" should undergo a careening—that is, an inspection and repair of those parts under water. If time had not pressed she would have been towed into dock for this purpose. As the case was, it was resolved that she should be land over on her side, as usual when a slight careening was required, in calm weather and smooth water. So little was any difficulty or danger apprehended that the Admiral, Captain, officers and crew, amounting to about 900, remained on board, and in addition there were about 300 women and children, relations of the seamen. Neither guns, provisions, nor water were removed.

THE CATASTROPHE.

Early in the morning of Aug. 28 the work was begun. The ship was made to incline in the water so as to expose her lower timbers, but as a leak was discovered it was necessary to heel her over still further, in order to get at it. About ten o'clock a.m., while Admiral Kempenfelt was in his cabin writing, and the larger number of the people were between decks, a sudden squall threw the ship clean over on her side, and as her portholes were open she filled and sank at once. The Admiral, several officers, and, in fact, about a thousand people were drowned altogether, some three hundred being saved, among them being Captain Waghorne. The calamity was universally lamented, not so much for the ship as for the number of lives lost, more especially Kempenfelt, as he was one of the first naval officers of the world. A large sum of money was publicly subscribed for the relief of the families and relatives of those who perished. Captain Waghorne was court-martialled, but was honorably acquitted.

HIGHEST TOWN IN THE WORLD

Cerro de Pasco, Peru, Has Elevation of 14,600 Feet.

Cerro de Pasco, Peru, is the highest town in the world. The remarkable broad-gage railway by which it is reached passes over a higher altitude—about that of Mont Blanc—and there are mining camps and Indian villages at greater elevations. It is also true that there are higher railway stations, for on the Ariquipa-Puno line the station of Crucero Alto attains the stupendous elevation of 4,660 feet; but at 14,200 feet above the sea level there is no other real town of 8,000 inhabitants with a railway station, telegraph, telephone, churches, shops, clubs, hospitals and vice consuls. It is a wonderful example of South American enterprise.

To get a fair view of Cerro de Pasco it is necessary to go to the top of a high rock near the railway station. The town, with its little thatched houses and narrow streets, lies in a large, undulating basin. It is a mining town. In the distance a large lake can be seen, and all around the horizon is studded with snow-capped heights.

Everything at Cerro de Pasco is "run" by the Americans. There is a spacious club, where bowls are played nightly, and in the hollow below there are baseball grounds. Both these games are characteristically American; they are played at high pressure the whole time. The biggest match can be played in about 1½ hours, and the players are near enough to the spectators to hear the comments, encouraging or otherwise, that are liberally bestowed.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Mr John Gillespie is able to be out again after his recent accident.

Mr. T. Handford shipped two cars of horses to British Columbia Tuesday.

Albert Whiteside of Hensall has been appointed High Constable for Huron by the County Council.

Mr. P. Coleman accompanied a load of horses to Fort Arthur Saturday, shipped by Messrs. Doyle.

Mr. Robert Sanders entertained the bell-ringers of Trivitt Memorial church to an oyster supper on Saturday night.

Mr. Page of Dutton is taking Mr. Koehler's place in the Molsons Bank here, Mr. Koehler having been transferred to Dashwood.

Mr. G. E. Anderson sustained an injury to his shoulder by falling on the ice while curling at Crediton on Wednesday of last week.

Seaforth Board of Trade on Friday passed a resolution opposing any reduction in the Customs tariff on mill products and other manufactures.

The Willing Workers Missionary Circle gave a delightful tea and program in the James street church on Monday evening at which their was a large attendance.

In stating last week that a Mr. Horney had rented his farm on the 5th concession of Usborne to Mr. I. Armstrong, we said Wm. Horney instead of C. H. Horney.

It has always been a mystery to us that a young lady should make some poor fellow believe that she is interested in his welfare when as a matter of fact she is interested only in his farewell.

The Toronto News has installed one of the largest and most perfect printing presses on the American continent. It has a capacity of turning out 144,000 copies of an eight-page paper every hour. In length it is 60 feet and is driven by two fifty horse-power motors.

Orville Cann, son of Mr. Chas. Cann, of Usborne, went to Victoria Hospital, London Friday last and was operated on by Dr. Wishart for appendicitis. The operation was a success and the patient is doing nicely. Mr. Cann has been in very poor health from the effects of the trouble and it is hoped the operation will result in his complete recovery.

The two rinks of Exeter curlers who drove out to Crediton on Wednesday last played afternoon and evening games and had a most enjoyable time. The Exeter players divided into pairs and each pair took on two Creditons men to fill up the rinks. L. Palmer and H. Gould defeated S. Sweet and Jas. Taylor, 10-7 and lost to the same players by 8-11. G. E. Anderson and G. Palmer defeated F. Bawden and F. Baker 11-10 and 9-7 The visitors speak very highly of the treatment accorded them by the Crediton boys, who, although new at the game have the making of some good players.

The entertainment given in the basement of the James Street church Friday evening last by Mr. J. G. Jones' Young Men's Bible Class, assisted by Mr. T. E. Handford's Bible Class, was an unqualified success. A large crowd was present and the young men did exceedingly well. Mr. Jones occupied the chair. Speeches were delivered by Messrs. V. Sweet, F. Irish, Asa Penhale, R. May, Harold Swann, Laurie Watson and Fred Hooper; solos by Gordon Ford, Herb. Southcott, and Mr. Greenslade of London; duet by Tom Carling and Herb Southcott; instrumental by R. Phillip, A.L.C.M., and several selections by the orchestra. The young men are to be congratulatedd on the pleasing program presented.

KEEP 'EM GOING—One step won't take you very far—you've got to keep on walking; one word won't tell folks what you are—you've got to keep on talking; one inch won't make you very tall—you've got to keep on growing; one little "ad" won't do it all—you've got to keep 'em going.

THE TREAT OF YOUR LIFE.—The treat of your life will be given in James Street Methodist Church, Exeter, on Friday, Feb. 10th, by Madam Hughes-Thomas' ROYAL WELSH LADIES CHOIR of Cardiff, Wales, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid. Tickets 25 cents, sold at the doors. Doors open at 7 p.m. Concert at 8 p. m. Mrs. C. Snell President; Mrs. E. Treble, Secretary. The London Free Press of Jan. 30th has the following to say of the choir, —WELSH CHOIR IS POPULAR.—The Auditorium was crowded to the doors on Saturday night when the Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir gave a return concert. The popularity of the singers was evident and the programme rendered was of a high musical standard. The programme included solos, duets and part songs, many numbers being encored. The choir also sang at the men's meeting in the Auditorium yesterday afternoon.

HICKS' FEBRUARY FORECASTS.—A reactionary storm period is central on the 2nd and 3rd, blending with the Mercury period which is central on January 31st and extending to February 10th. Falling barometer, rising temperature and return of rain, sleet and snow may be expected on and touching the 2nd and 3rd. The Moon being on the celestial equator on the 3rd, suggests electrical storms, especially south ward, on and about that date, to be quickly followed by sleet, freeze and blizzard. The seismic period, central on January 30th, extends at least three days in February. The quadrature of Jupiter with Earth and Sun on the 3rd will intensify this seismic period. Note current reports of earthquakes from about January 28th to February 3rd. A cold wave will dominate most parts of the country from the 4th to the 7th. A regular storm period blending with Mercury disturbance, and the beginning of the Mars period, covers the 6th to the 10th. Western section will show rising temperature, falling barometer and threatening storms, on or before the 7th and during the 8th, 9th and 10th, these conditions will grow into active storms of rain, turning to sleet and snow, as they pass progressively from West to east. Change to fair and very cold weather will follow promptly in the rear of these storms, being pushed eastward and south by an energetic, high barometer.

BOYD—WENDLAND—A quiet but very pretty wedding was celebrated at the parsonage, Hagersville, on Jan 25, the contracting parties being Mr. David Boyd and Miss Louise Wendland, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wendland of the Commercial House, Jarvis, formerly of the Metropolitan Hotel, Exeter. The mystic words which made these two one were pronounced by Rev. Kelly. The bride was very neatly and becomingly attired in a navy blue travelling suit with hat to match, and was assisted by her sister, Miss Maggie, while the groom was supported by Mr. George Vlegel. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous supper was served to the immediate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd have taken up their residence on the groom's fine farm, a mile west of Jarvis. Exeter friends will wish them a prosperity

USBORNE COUNCIL

Council met in the Township Hall on Feb. 4th. All the members were present. Minutes of the previous meeting approved. Application for the office of assessor from R. Hunter, Wm. Smith, Thomas Hunkin and Fred P. Johnson were laid before the council. Ellerington—Skinner —That Thos. Hunkin be appointed assessor for 1911.—Carried.

Routly—No seconder—that Fred P. Johnston be appointed assessor.

By-law No. 1, confirming appointment of municipal officers and fixing salaries as read was passed, signed and sealed.

The council decided to neither approve nor oppose the petition of the Tax Reform League, asking the Legislature to amend the assessment act, so that Municipalities could with the assent of a majority of the ratepayers tax improvements values at a lower rate than land values.

The clerk was instructed to find out all claims against the Pym Drain account and prepare a schedule for the Treasurer for the distribution of the surplus to the credit of that account in accordance with the provisions of the Drainage Act.

By-law No. 2, 1911 amending By-law No. 4, 1908, providing for the refund of the surplus on Pym Drain account, was passed. The distribution will be made by cheque.

A few accounts were passed and orders issued in payment. Council adjourned to March 4.—F. Morley, clerk.

THE EXETER COUNCIL

The Council met Friday evening, Feb. 3rd. All members present. Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Jas. Weekes, Chief of the Fire Department, waited on the Council regarding certain supplies.

Levett—Walper—That Mr. Weekes procure the supplies necessary.—Carried.

The auditors, Messrs. R. E. Pickard and Jos. Davis, presented their report, after which it was received and adopted on motion of Levett, seconded by Rivers. The auditors submitted a number of recommendations to the Council for consideration, viz.—(1) We find the accounts of the Treasurer accurate but the system used by him is antiquated. We would therefore suggest to your Board that the services of some qualified accountant be engaged to open up a suitable system of books for the Treasurer's use. (2) We would recommend that the taxpayers be required to pay all taxes into a chartered bank, and that the same be accounted for to the Treasurer; and further that the Collector be retained for the purpose of collecting outstanding taxes only after the 15th Dec. in each year. (3) We would further recommend that the auditors report be printed and distributed instead of the Treasurer's annual report as heretofore on the 15th of Dec. (4) We also strongly recommend that the differences in balances shown in the hands of the Secretary of the school board and subscribed to by the Treasurer of the municipality, and that shown in the books of the Town Treasurer be investigated and adjusted that the report when published be not conflicting. (5) We also recommend that your Board insist that any official of the town, whose duty it is collect moneys use only the official form of receipt as supplied to them by the town.

Walper—Day— That recommendation No. 1 as read be adopted.—Carried.

Levett—Rivers—That recommendation No. 2 as read be adopted.—Carried.

Rivers—Levett—That recommendation No. 3, as read be adopted.—Carried.

Day—Walper— That recommendation No. 4, as read be adopted.—Carried.

Day—Levett—That recommendation No. 5 as read be adopted.—Carried.

Walper—Rivers—That the recommendation as a whole be adopted.—Carried.

The auditors called the attention of the Board to the fact that the duties of the auditors have been much more onerous than in former years as witness the report of expenditures and disbursements, and would ask that our remuneration be fixed at not less than $25 a piece, and an allowance of $5 for the stenographer.

Levett—Day—That the auditors be paid $20 each and $5 extra for stenographer. Carried.

Levett—Walper—That the following accounts be passed and orders issued in payment.—Electric Light Co., $115; G. Heywood, painting, $2.55; R. Davis, teaming wood 11.38; F. Mallott, labor, 1.20; T. Brock, labor, 1.05; W. J. Bissett, pt. salary, 33.00; W. J. Bissett, over paid taxes, Ross Taylor Co., gravel and post office box, 30.80; T. Houlden, caretaker P. H., 10.00; R. E. Pickard, auditing and stenographer 22.50; J. Davis, do., 22.50; C. W. Cross, cemetery account 58.00; Jos. Lawson, bal. ac. 12.50. Total $320.48.

Tenders for the lowering of the tank house were opened and read as follows,—A. Q. Bobier, $30; W. A. Balkwill, $21; Wm. Treble, $30. Levett—Walper—That the tender of W. A. Balkwill, being the lowest, be accepted.—Carried.

Communications were read from the Salvation Army and F. Farncombe and were ordered filed.

Day—Rivers—Re Waterworks, that the clerk interview Messrs. Dickson & Carling, re contract with Goold, Shapley & Muir, as to indemnity for non-fulfillment of Contract.—Carried.

Levett—Rivers—That the Secretary of the Public Library Board correspond with Mr. A. Carnegie re grant for a public library building for Exeter.—Carried.

Day—Rivers—That the clerk write Goldie McCollough Co., Galt, to ascertain from them the cost of the gasoline engine that was procured of them in 1900, the council having no record of the deal.—Carried.

Levett—Rivers—That the Fire Chief be asked to inspect Opera House building as to public safety and to report to the council at their next meeting.—Carried.

Levett—Walper—That the clerk prepare by-law for the re-arrangement of the polling divisions.—Carried.

Rivers—Levett—That we adjourn to meet Thursday evening the 9th inst.

T. B. Carling Clerk.

FIRE.—The Jackson Manufacturing Company's factory narrowly escaped destruction by fire about 10 a.m. Tuesday. The employes were all busily engaged when smoke was seen to be coming up through the floor in the centre of the building. The alarm was given and soon the fireman had it under control, when it was found that the fire originated from the basement near the gasoline engine, but the exact cause is not known. The dynamo, several sewing machines, and a considerable quality of cloth and manufactured clothing were destroyed by the fire, water and smoke. Something less than $2000 will cover the loss. The factory will of necessity be closed down for about two weeks. The prompt water services secured by the waterworks system recently installed enabled the blaze to be so soon extinguished, otherwise the loss might have been very great.

INCREASING BUSINESS. —Messrs. Connor Bros. have acquired the vacant lot from Mr. A. G. Dyer situated on Station street, where the Dyer & Howard planing mills at one time stood, and will as soon as possible start the erection of a factory to carry on their machine business. The factory will be erected of cement blocks, of modern type, and particularly adapted for their business. A charter has been applied for and a limited company has been formed, with a very limited number of stock holders. The Connor Brothers ever since their establishment here have been doing an ever increasing business, consequently they have greatly outgrown their present premises. It is the intention to go more extensively into the manufacture of their air-cooled gasoline engines, which have proved a great success; so great that they have not been able to keep up with the flow of orders received. As machinists they are at the head of the list, and being shrewd and good practical business men the success of the new company is assured.

A BIG SUCCESS.—Local talent once more demonstrated their ability to please the people of Exeter in an entertainment on Friday evening last, when "The Temple of Fame" was put on in the Opera House under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. The advance sale of tickets was a large one, early indicating that the people had been well satisfied with the affair as given two years before, and that the attendance would be very large on this occasion, and when the entertainment began every available place in the room was occupied. The characters were in many cases represented by the same people as on the former occasion, That the affair was thoroughly enjoyed was evident by the applause given and the after-remarks of those present. More than eighty persons took part, and represented women famous in poetry, music, art society, literature, history and the home, together with guards, herald, trumpeter, maids of honor, attendants, pages, crown bearer, and flower girls galore. The cantata represented the noted persons as competing for the crown before the Goddess of the Temple of Fame, and endeavoring to show that their own particular art, accomplishment, calling or ability was the greatest. Then came the awarding of the crown to "The Mother," her sphere being rightly considered the crowning glory of womanhood. The speeches, songs, music, etc., were bright and interesting, and together with the gorgeous dresses and scenery made the affair a most pleasing one.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE,

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER VI.—(Cont'd)

A blush dyed her face, and a smile crept round the corners of her mouth.

"He is indeed my knight," she said, softly, to herself; "twice he has come to my rescue; how strong, how brave, how—how dear he is!"

She picked a rose that was nodding with several others on a branch close to her window, and carried it absently to her lips. She was thinking of her episode with William, and she shuddered slightly.

"How cruel, how horrible he looked; thank Heaven, Mr. Darnley was so near; what should I have done if he had not come! I am almost afraid to think. How right my instinct was! I always disliked that man, and I was right. It must have been intuition, I suppose, for how could I know that he was in league with Moss! Well," with a deep sigh of relief, "he is gone, and I may dismiss him from my mind; and as for this great Mr. Crawshaw why, by this time, no doubt, he has forgotten that such a person as Nancy Hamilton ever existed at all, and so he will not be likely to trouble me much."

And, having arrived at this satisfactory conclusion, Nancy began her toilet for dinner, singing softly to herself as she dressed.

The gong had not sounded as she glided down the stairs in her evening gown of white India muslin, the work of her own fingers, and she had time for a stroll in the grounds before dinner; so she stepped out onto the terrace, and was going slowly to the lawn, when she found her progress barred by a tall form.

"Oh, Mr. Darnley!" she said, coloring deeply, "how you startled me!"

"Did I?" Darnley returned, quietly. "If you had been less engrossed in your thoughts, Miss Hamilton, you might have seen me."

He turned and sauntered beside her.

"Quite recovered your fright?" he asked, trying hard not to stare too closely at her, and longing to wrap his arms about her and draw her to his heart.

"Quite," she smiled.

"Then I can prepare you for a great disappointment."

Nancy looked suddenly startled.

"Mr. Crawshaw has gone away, and you will not see him for a whole week," Darnley explained.

Nancy drew a deep breath.

"How you frightened me!" she cried, feeling that this piece of news came as an apt finish to her commonsense reasoning on her position. "I am so glad!"

Her undoubted pleasure sent a thrill through his veins.

"But I thought you adored money?" he said, fixing his gray eyes on her fair, sweet face.

Nancy shook her head.

"I would not exchange my present lot for all the money in the world, Mr. Darnley."

Darnley drew a shade closer to her.

"Wouldn't you?" he said, with a dangerous tenderness in his voice. "Neither would I, Nancy."

Then he was silent. He felt as if he could pour out words of love, or protestations, but he saw her shy, startled look, and he restrained himself.

After all, they were scarcely more than strangers to each other; he must not frighten her; he must have patience and wait.

"I see your locket is not harmed," he said, lightly, after a pause, during which Nancy had gone on a vague, yet indescribable delicious mental journey.

As he spoke, she lifted it to her lips and kissed it.

"No. I am so glad—so glad!"

The young man's face grew suddenly dark, a wild throb of burning jealousy overcame him.

"You—you seem to prize that locket very highly!" he said curtly.

Nancy looked startled.

"Yes, it was my mother's. It is the only thing belonging to her that I possess. My uncle's wife took all her poor little treasures; but this is mine—my very own. I will never part with it. Look, here is her portrait; and this is my father. Is not her face sweet?"

Darnley gazed at the two pictures silently; and then, as Nancy closed the locket and they turned to go back to the Hall, in answer to the dinner gong, he took her little hand in his, and then, suddenly and with [illegible], pressed his lips to it.

It was his sign of contrition and delight at this proof of her confidence and friendship.

CHAPTER VII.

The day of Dorothy's tennis fete was cloudless and glorious. The heat was intense, but this seemed to have no effect whatever upon the exuberant spirits of the Hon. Maude and Ella Chester. They were dressed early in their white frocks, made a la bebe, a style which Lady Burton determined most becoming to their large, rather clumsy figures, as being so young and innocent-looking.

Nancy was busy arranging the flowers all over the house, as they passed through to the tennis court.

"But you will be baked alive!" she cried, in remonstrance, as Ella informed her they were going to have a good practice. "The heat is something terrific!"

"Oh, we don't mind it!" the Hon. Maude answered; "and," she declared, with the most ingenuous frankness, "we mean to win that lovely diamond brooch Sir Humphrey is giving for the first prize; don't we, Ella?"

"Yes," agreed Ella. "It's no fun playing for nothing."

Nancy smiled as she watched the two energetic forms cross the lawn, and then returned to her flowers.

It was a work of love with her, going through the large, old-fashioned rooms, and beautifying them with all the rare and sweet blossoms she culled from the gardens. By nature industrious, Nancy would not be content with luxurious idleness. She felt she must have some occupation, and so she practically took all Dorothy's small duties on her shoulders, and delighted in them.

"Just half-past eight," she communed to herself, glancing at a clock; "I shan't have Dorothy roused for another hour. She will be nearly worn out before the day is over! What a glorious day it will be! Fitting weather for her fete. She should have nothing but sunshine about her, darling Dorothy!"

Nancy made a very pretty picture as she stood, surrounded by scattered flowers, in her cotton frock of palest blue.

She had bunched her mass of hair in one huge lump on the top of her head, and a few soft tendrils crept over her brow and round her milk-white throat.

Day by day the girl seemed to expand and beautify. Every gentle and sweet trait was drawn out in her nature. Life was so happy, so wonderfully good, in her sight, that she welcomed each hour with open arms; and, basking in the sunshine of such care, gradually forgot the past.

The clock ticked on another five minutes, and Nancy did wonders in that short time. It was wonderfully quiet and peaceful in the long, quaint drawing-room; no sound came to disturb her, for although Sir Humphrey had given her his morning kiss nearly an hour ago, and was by now out in the park superintending the arrangements of the tents, etc., the other guests—the Misses Chester excepted—were not likely to leave their rooms till some time later.

A week had gone since Nancy's unfortunte walk to the village, and its unpleasant results—a week that seemed to have glided on golden wheels, so pleasant had it been to her. She did not stop to inquire as to why this one week had been so much happier to her than any she had yet passed in her new life, and in all probability she would have arrived at no satisfactory conclusion were she to have done so, beyond agreeing that, of course, with the arrival of guests at the Hall, there had been more gaiety and excitement, which might have brought about the condition of mind in which she found herself. A very agreeable party was gathered together at the Hall. Every one treated Nancy most kindly; the men, perhaps, a trifle more kindly than the ladies, but that was natural, for few women are without a slight sensation of jealousy, and there was something about Nancy's picturesque, poetical face, irregular as it was, that was far more dangerous than actual beauty of form and feature. Even Dorothy sometimes paled beside her, for Sir Humphrey's daughter lacked the intellectuality and depth of feeling possessed by the other girl, who, despite her many years' contact with vulgar, hard, cruel surroundings, rose, phoenix-like, from the ashes of the past, and took her proper place in her proper sphere.

As the clock struck nine, Nancy gave a sigh of mingled pleasure and fatigue.

"There," she said to herself, stepping back and surveying her handiwork, "I think that will do. I only want a few red roses for that bowl, and the room will look perfect. I shall just catch Murdock in the rose garden if I run now." She hurried out into the hall, and, picking up a gigantic red cotton umbrella, prepared to sally out into the hot morning sun, when a step on the stairs and a clear whistle arrested her.

A rush of vivid color dyed her cheeks, but the umbrella mercifully hid this, for it shed a ruddy hue all over her.

"Mr. Darnley!—what extraordinary exertion! Are you bound for the tennis court? You will find Miss Chester and Miss Ella there already."

"Thanks," observed Derrick Darnley, with a smile, as he took her extended hand, and thought he had never seen anything so dainty or so delicately tantalizing as Nancy in her cotton gown, with her soft white throat unembarrassed by collar or low-lying hair, "the prospect is most tempting, but I have other fish to fry; in plain words, I have just had a wire from my mother telling me she is to arrive to-day, and so, like a dutiful son, I am off to meet her. Are you going to the gardens? I will walk with you. I have heaps of time—the wagonette can't be ready for half-an-hour at least."

"I think you ought to go and greet the Chester girls," Nancy observed, slyly, as they sauntered across the hot grass together.

"Do you? I don't!"

"Please don't be rude, Mr. Darnley."

"Please allow me to be just what I like, Miss Hamilton."

"I shall do nothing of the sort; the day is much too lovely for people to be in bad tempers."

"My temper soon gets good when I am with you, Nancy."

"But you can't always be with me, Mr. Darnley."

"No, worse luck!"

He picked up a blade of grass and ate it slowly, while he tilted his hat over his eyes and stared at Nancy.

"I wonder," he said, meditatively, after a pause, "how you will like my mother."

"Oh! very much!" Nancy decleared, at once.

"Hum—that is by no means certain. She is not popular, as a rule."

"Is she like you?" asked Nancy, demurely.

The young man's face twitched with a dawning smile.

"I am supposed to resemble her greatly," he replied—gravely, however.

"Ah!" she remarked, with much deliberation.

Darnley laughed outright, and moved a step nearer to her.

"You insulting little witch," he said, tenderly, and he came a shade closer still to her.

Nancy felt her cheeks grow crimson, and her heart thrill suddenly.

"What a lovely day it is going to be!" she declared, hurriedly.

"Is it?" asked the man, dreamily, gazing at her fixedly.

"Don't—don't you think so? The sky is cloudless, and the breeze delicious."

Darnley put his hand on hers.

"Perhaps, Nancy," he said, slowly, yet with a world of passionate love in his voice—"Perhaps that is why I feel in paradise to-day. No, don't shrink away, my darling, let me know that you, too, are happy, Nancy."

"There—there is some one coming!" she murmured, dazed, bewildered by the sudden rush of glad emotion that filled her being.

LASSOING A LION.

Exciting Time With the King of Beasts in Africa.

One of the most notable hunting expeditions of the past year was that of "Buffalo" Jones. Disdaining to use guns, he and his little band of cowboys lassoed and tied specimens of the largest and most ferocious beasts of the African wilderness. Their last capture was a lioness. The final thrilling incident of her conquest, as told by Guy H. Scull in Everybody's Magazine, is typical of many others.

Her next and last position was in the bed of a small gully about three feet deep in the bottom of the donga and thickly grown with grasses. Here the ropers held a brief consultation, and planned a final attempt.

Loveless made a throw, and the noose landed fairly above the beast's head, but the thick grasses held it up. Loveless passed the other end of his rope over the branch of a near-by tree and down to the horn of his saddle.

The rest of us, with cameras trained on the scene, had no knowledge of the plan. We had not the slightest idea what the colonel intended to do. Still wondering, we watched him procure a long pole and ride quietly along the edge of the ditch toward the place where the lioness crouched.

For a moment there was intense silence. The colonel stopped his horse. Then, leaning over from his saddle, he poked the noose down through the grass.

With a roar the beast sprang at him—sprang through the loop—and at the other end of the rope Loveless yanked quickly and caught her by the last hind leg going through. Putting spurs to his horse, Loveless galoped away, hauling the lioness back across the gully and up into the tree, where she swung to and fro, dangling by the one hind leg, and snapping at the rope she could not reach.

The beast was furious. She was still swinging, head down like a pendulum, from the limb of the tree, and was tossing her body in a frantic endeavor to get loose. Means approached close, and deftly slipped a noose over one of the wildly gyrating legs. Leading his rope over the branch of another tree, he stretched her out in a helpless position parallel with the ground.

"Now lower away on both lines," said the colonel.

He dismounted, and stood beneath her, directing affairs as methodically as the foreman of a construction gang.

"Steady, Means—a little more, Loveless—now together—easy."

She came within his reach, and with a quick grab he caught and held her two hind legs with both hands, while Kearton bound them together with a piece of light line.

The rest was easy. In less than five minutes she was bound securely and lowered all the way to the ground to rest in the shade.

BANK INSPECTION.

Traders Bank at Annual Meeting Favor Government Inspection.

At the 26th annual meeting of the Traders Bank in Toronto, January 24th, the following resolution was passed:—

It was moved by E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., director, seconded by Mr. J. S. Williamson, shareholder, and resolved:

"That the shareholders and directors of the Traders Bank of Canada place on record their hearty approval of any legislation of the Dominion Parliament whereby an independent examination and audit under the direction of the Government of all Canadian Banks shall be made from time to time;

Resolved, also, that whilst the system of auditing should be determined by the Government, it is hoped that in the public interest, the method to be devised will be thorough and efficient, and of a practical character, as the result of a defective system would create injustice and tend to injure those who might be induced to rely on reports having the sanction of a Government or other official auditor.

That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Hon. the Minister of Finance."

If, as the Traders Bank shareholders and directors suggest, the Government does inaugurate a scheme of inspection, it will be the most radical improvement in Canadian Banking procedure in recent years. The Management of the Traders Bank must be credited upon their stand upon this question. Government inspection of Banks is needed in Canada to make our system beyond question the most solid and efficient in the world and those banks which, like the Traders, throw their influence in this direction deserve the commendation of the Public.

Other outstanding features of the 1910 business brought out in the meeting are given below, and they will make very interesting reading to depositors, shareholders and those interested in the success and growth of the Traders Bank.

Deposits increased over $6,000,000. Total deposits are now over $36,000,000. To keep up with the growth of the country, eleven new branches were opened, scattered from Porcupine to British Columbia. $348,360 was distributed in dividends and $100,000 added to reserve fund, which now amounts to $2,300,000. Total assets now amount to $47,152,736. There are now 1,813 people holding shares in the Traders Bank and the number is constantly increasing. The Management has handled the affairs of the Bank in an able manner, so that the development of the Traders Bank is fully in accord with that of the country. The report for 1910 is one that will further increase the great asset which the Traders possesses, the confidence of Canadians. Mr. C. D. Warren was re-elected President and Honorable J. R. Stratton Vice-President.

The complete report for the year 1910 is being issued in handsome booklet form and will be gladly sent on request to any one anywhere. Apart from special information concerning the Traders Bank, it contains a large amount of valuable Canadian information of a general kind and will be found very useful as a work of reference. Send your enquiry to the Head Office, Toronto.

NONDESCRIPT FEVERS.

Many persons who lead sedentary lives make the mistake of filling a brief vacation with violent exercise, with the idea that they thus strengthen themselves, only to find that the resultant feverish exhaustion sends them back to work more tired than when they started.

Many persons on first going to live in tropical countries are attacked by ephemeral fevers, probably caused partly by the changed conditions of life, and partly by careless exposure.

There are also abortive infections. The children of a family will come down with scarlet fever, but will not develop the characteristic rash, and after a few days of feeling rather ill, will recover, but without having earned the immunity which the real disease confers.

It is impossible to diagnose these fevers at the start; they must be carefully watched, and the absence of characteristic eruptions, and their rapid course, must establish the diagnosis. While the fever lasts the patient should be kept in bed on a very light diet, and after it has broken there should be a few days of rest and convalescence before duties are resumed.—Youths' Companion.

Which of These Pictures Best Represents Your Stable?

If your Stable interior is of wood, you'll do well to tear down those old, unsightly stalls and mangers—and build new ones of Concrete.

In fact, the entire Stable—inside and out—should be built of Concrete.

This is the modern material—it has the merits of sightliness, endurance, and economy—and is sanitary.

The farmer himself can, by its use, make many little improvements that, with any other material, would require the employment of skilled labor.

If you would know something of the possibilities of Concrete, fill out the coupon and send it to us. By return mail, we will send you a copy of our free 160-page book, "What the Farmer Can Do with Concrete."

In this book you'll find complete instructions for the construction of almost everything you can think of, in the way of farm buildings, floors, vats, troughs, etc., etc.

Nowadays, for a farmer not to know how to mix and use concrete, is to confess himself away behind the times.

"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete" will not only inform you—it will also interest you.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

ORIGINAL RECIPES.

Baked Cranberries.—One quart of cranberries, two cupfuls of water, three cupfuls of white sugar. Bake one hour. They are very nice and look like cherries when done. Nicer than stewed ones, as the peelings are very tender.

Attractive Salad.—To two bricks of cream cheese mix in one bottle of cream to form a paste. Then add a grated medium-sized onion and a half a cup of chopped pecan nut meats and salt to taste. Fill pimentos with this mixture and serve on lettuce leaves with a sprig of parsley placed on top of the pimentos. This will serve six persons.

English Beef Pudding.—Three pounds of beef—cheap cut of round—one-half pound of beef suet, one quart of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one and three-fourths cups of milk and water. Cut the meat in pieces about one inch square. Put the meat through the food chopper and mix it with the flour, with which the baking powder and salt has been sifted; add the liquids, roll the dough to about one inch in thickness, having it round in shape. Lay it on the pudding cloth, which has been wrung from boiling water and dredged with flour to prevent the pudding from sticking. Spread over the meat and a little salt (the meat has little fat in it); dust with salt and a little pepper. Roll the dough as for a rolly poly, plunge into boiling water and boil three hours, keeping the pudding floating during the entire time of cooking. If necessary to add extra water, be sure that it is boiling. On removing the water open the bag immediately and turn the pudding on to a hot platter. Cut a slit in the pudding, and if it does not seem to have sufficient moisture, pour into it a little stock or drawn butter. Half of the material called for in the above recipe makes a pudding large enough to serve six hungry persons. It forms an excellent substitute for a roast and is much less expensive.

Nippy Cheese.—To one cup of grated dry American cheese add one tablespoon butter, generous dash of cayenne, and salt to taste. Work to a smooth paste and add one teaspoon cream. Put into tiny glasses and keep in cold place until used. This is a good way to use up bits of dry cheese of any kind, such as Roquefort, Swiss, etc.

Egg Lilies.—Place one egg for each lily in cold water, boil ten minutes, drop into cold water, shell and while still warm cut with silver knife in strips from small end nearly to base, very carefully lay back the petals on a heart of bleached lettuce; remove the yolks and rub them with spoonful of butter, one vinegar, a little mustard, salt, and pepper from cone shaped ball, and place on petals, sprinkle tiny bits of parsley over balls, two or three stuffed olives carry out the idea of buds; serve on glass dishes to give water effect. With care this is not hard to make, and its beauty repays all trouble it has cost.

Chicken Shortcake—Make a soft dough, using two cups of flour, two heaping tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon of salt, two rounding teaspoons of baking powder, milk enough to make a soft dough. Roll out into a sheet one-half inch thick, and cut twice as many rounds as you need shortcakes. Butter these rounds and fold together in pans. Bake in a quick oven. Mix one pint of cold chopped chicken, one-fourth cup chopped mushrooms, and one pint of rich sauce made of one cup of chicken stock, one cup of cream, one tablespoonful of butter, one tablespoon of flour, one-half of a teaspoon of salt, and one egg. When ready to serve, split the short cakes apart, cover the lower half with chicken mixture, replace upper half, and cover with chicken. Decorate with a sprig of parsley and serve at once.

CAKE.

Cream Fig Cake.—One tablespoonful butter, one cupful sugar (scant), two eggs and one-half cup milk, one and one-half cupfuls flour, one teaspoonful baking powder sifted with flour, one teaspoonful vanilla. Cream, sugar and butter together, then add eggs one at a time, beating one in well before adding the other, then add milk and vanilla, then flour with baking powder; bake in two large jelly tins in hot oven about fifteen minutes. Filling for above—Take one-half pint fresh cream, whip with an egg beater until stiff. Then add two tablespoonfuls powdered sugar, and one-half teaspoonful vanilla, spread on first layer quite thick, take one-fourth pound figs—cut into small pieces—and sprinkle over cream, then put on top layer and ice with confectioner's sugar, one teaspoonful cold water, one teaspoonful lemon juice. Pour over cake, top and sides both. A little pink coloring added to frosting improves it.

Weary Willie White Cake.—Put whites of two eggs in measuring cup unbeaten, then add soft butter to fill the cup to the half measure, the butter must be soft but not melted, then fill the cup up with sweet milk. Sift one cup of granulated sugar, one and one-half cups of flour, and two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder together three times. Put this in mixing bowl and then put in the eggs, butter, and milk—which are all together—and beat seven minutes. Bake in moderate oven in loaf. Icing—Four tablespoonfuls of sweet milk and one cup of sugar. Boil slowly five minutes, remove, and beat to a cream.

Devil Food Cake.—Two cups darkest brown sugar, one-half cup of butter, two eggs, one-half cup of sour milk, three cups of flour sifted three times, a pinch of salt; mix thoroughly. Take one-half cup of boiling water, stir into this one teaspoonful of soda and one-half cup of grated chocolate. Filling—Two cups dark brown sugar, one-half cup of butter, one-half cup sweet milk or cream, cook until it threads.

Fig Cake.—Two cupfuls of sugar, three-fourths of a cupful of butter, one cupful of milk, three cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, whites of seven eggs, cream, butter and sugar. Add milk slowly so as not to separate, then two cupfuls of flour, then part of the eggs, last cupful of flour with baking powder sifted in and the rest of the eggs. Flavor to suit taste. Filling—One pound of figs chopped fine, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of water. Cook to paste.

Gypsy Cake.—Make or buy a good sponge cake; cut it open and spread between jam or any sweet preserves you may have on hand.

Now get a few small macaroons. Cut the cake and put into the dish you are going to serve it in. Place the macaroons around and between the cake and steep the whole thing in port or sherry for two hours. Now make a boiled custard or sweet cornstarch pudding, not too stiff and flavored with vanilla, will do. Pour this over the cake and then on top of that pour whipped cream and stick on top either blanched almonds or candied cherries. This is rich and delicious and will serve in custard cups or small dishes twelve people.

Spice Cake.—One-half cup chopped figs, one cup seeded raisins. Pour over these one cup boiling water in which one level teaspoon soda has been dissolved. Stir and let cool. One cup granulated sugar, one-half cup butter, one and one-half cups flour, one level teaspoon baking powder, yolks four eggs, whites two eggs, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-quarter teaspoon allspice, one quarter teaspoonful cloves, one and one-half teaspoons nutmeg, one-half cup chopped nut meats. Mix together except flour and fruit, which should be added last. Bake as solid or layer cake. Is excellent.

Mock Angel Food.—This recipe requires only the whites of two eggs, but it will make cake that will melt in your mouth. You cannot fail if you follow directions carefully. Set one cupful of milk into a pan of boiling water and heat to boiling point. Into a sifter put one cupful of flour (no more), one cupful of sugar, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, pinch of salt; sift all together four times; into this pour the cupful of hot milk and stir smooth. Then put in the well beaten whites of two eggs. Do not stir or beat eggs into mixture. Fold them in carefully, drawing the spoon through mixture toward you, then shoving it back with the back of the spoon. Then draw the spoon from right to left and shove mixture back with back of spoon. Repeat this until the whites of eggs are evenly folded into batter. Do not grease tin or flavor cake. Bake in moderate oven. Ice with water icing made by sifting one cupful of powdered sugar and adding water and flavoring until it will spread.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To prevent the washboiler from rusting, dry it and then rub the inside of the boiler with a bar of laundry soap.

Spots on plush will disappear if rubbed lightly and rapidly with a clean, soft cotton cloth dipped in chloroform.

When about to sweep a carpet, wet into a paste coarse cornmeal with water and ammonia and scatter over the carpet. It takes up all the dirt when swept, without filling the room with dust.

The cheapest way of cleaning a white felt hat is to rub prepared French chalk well into it, and then brush off with a hard, clean, white-bristled brush. Block magnesia well rubbed in also cleans white felt successfully.

When frying potatoes have the fat very hot, if not actually boiling, before the potatoes are put in. Have each slice wiped quite dry, and when each is browned take it out and place on a paper before the fire to dry.

New lamp wicks if boiled in vinegar and thoroughly dried before using will not smell bad when burning.

A weak solution of turpentine poured down the water pipes once a week will drive the water bugs away.

To rid your cellar walls of mildew try burning a little flour of sulphur in a tin plate. Paste up the door with strips of brown paper after you have set light to the sulphur and leave for at least twenty-four hours before re-opening the door.

To remove grease from silk or wool place the grease spots between blotting paper and press with a hot iron. The blotting paper will absorb the grease and the most delicate shades can be cleaned like new in this way.

An egg beater never should be left to soak in water, as the oil will be washed out of the gears, making it hard to turn.

Turpentine is a powerful disinfectant and will dispel all bad odors. Add a teaspoonful to every bucket of hot water used in scrubbing or washing utensils in a sickroom.

Don't pour water in which cabbage or other green vegetables have been boiled down the sink. The unpleasant smell that arises is likely to be decidedly unhealthy.

Never stand on the edge of a chair when reaching up for anything. You may quite easily overbalance and have a nasty fall.

Don't, however fond you may be of it, have very much brass or copper about if you have to clean it yourself. To keep it clean takes up a lot of time and strength, and you don't want to wear yourself out looking after your household goods.

HIGHEST RAILWAY STATION.

Tielio in Peru Has an Elevation of 15,665 Feet.

The distinction of being the highest railway in the world is claimed by the Morococha branch of the Central Railway of Peru, a wholly broad gauge line operated by the Peruvian Corporation. The altitude of the rails is here exactly 15,665 feet above sea level.

Tielio, the western portal of the Galera tunnel and the point of junction of the Morococha branch with the main line, is the highest railway station in the world, at 15,665 feet.

To reach this point from sea level the line passes through fifty-seven tunnels, over a dozen principal bridges and utilizes thirteen switchbacks, but has no gradient up to 4 1-2 per cent, nor does it resort to rack propulsion.

A handcar started at Tielio will run unaided to Calloa, the seaport, and as a matter of fact such a car equipped with safe brakes, runs before each passenger train, carrying an inspector on the look-out for fallen rocks or other dangers. The grandeur of the scenery along this route cannot be imagined.

The second highest railway in the world is that from Antofagasta in Chile to Oruro and La Paz in Bolivia, and it is perhaps the narrowest gauge line for such a distance, being two and one-half feet in width of track. The highest point is at Collohuasi, where the altitude is 15,809 feet, fifty-six feet lower than the Peruvian line.

THE PROOF.

"You're very contradictory, my son."

"No, I'm not, pa."

It's difficult to secure a welcome that is guaranteed not to wear out.

How one woman must hate another when she speaks of her as "that thing."

It sometimes happens that in marrying a good cook a man gets a poor wife.

It is always safe to bet your money on another man's game—for the other man.

If you want honest criticism of anything you do tell your friends it is the work of another.

There are times when the average man would like to write a little unwritten law for himself.

IMPOSSIBLE.

Lady—"Can't you find work?"

Tramp—"Yessum; but everyone wants a reference from my last employer."

Lady—"And can't you get one?"

Tramp—"No, mum. Yer see, he's been dead 28 years."

INQUISITIVE.

She—"This piece of lace I wear around my neck is over fifty years old."

The Brute—"It's beautiful. Did you make it yourself?"

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, FEBRUARY 12.

Lesson VII.—Elijah's victory over the Prophets of Baal, I. Kings 18. 1, 2, 17-40. Golden Text, Josh. 24. 15.

Verse 1. In the third year—That is, of the famine in Samaria (2). It lasted three years and six months (Luke 4. 25 and James 5. 17). Elijah, at this time, was for all we know to the contrary, at the house of the widow of Zarephath.

2. And Elijah went—The drought had done its work, and it was time for the prophet to follow up this terrible calamity by a public demonstration of the supremacy of Jehovah. To go before Ahab at such a time required both faith and courage, for the king no doubt attributed the famine to the meddlesomeness of Elijah. In fact, the royal wrath burst into flame as soon as he set eyes on this troubler of Israel (17). But, when he pointed to Elijah as the source of the trouble, he simply evaded a guilt which he knew was his own and his people's. His bad conscience is evidenced in this weak acquiescence in the plan proposed by his accuser. A strong king, sure of his innocence, would have taken the prophet into custody at once.

18. Thou has followed the Baalim—Elijah doesn't mince matters. The sole cause of the famine was the idolatry of the king and his people.

19. Gather to me all Israel—It is more than a challenge. It is a fearless command, the audacity of which stamps Elijah as one of the most masterful men of the Old Testament, as well as the most picturesque. Carmel was a fitting place for the proposed contest. Rich in arboreal growth, commanding a splendid view of the surrounding hills and plains, it became in Old Testament literature, and elsewhere, the type of lofty grandeur and fertility. The mountain still bears the prophet's name (Mar Elias) and the spring of water which resisted the drought and "Elijah's grotto" are still pointed out. "The whole mountain murmurs with his name."

The prophets of Asherah — They do not appear in the story again. Their eating at Jezebel's table means that they were maintained at the queen's own expense.

21. And Elijah—On one side everybody else—priests, king, people. The prophet of God stands alone. His first appeal is to the people. It stirred the patriotic pride of Elijah to see his own people feebly limping along in indecision. Their answering him not a word was an open acknowledgment of guilt. Their course had been one of vacillation, now a service of Jehovah, now a service of Baal.

22-24. The conditions of the contest. Elijah was the only prophet of Jehovah left, the rest having been either slain or silenced. He therefore must stand as the representative of the old form of worship, while he is opposed by the four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal For each a bullock is to be provided, and this is to be prepared for sacrifice. Dean Farrar suggests that the condition relating to fire was a precaution against "priestly trickeries." As Baal was the god of the sun it was fair that Elijah should challenge them to call upon his name in the hope of securing fire from heaven. Elijah had appealed to the people, and there was nothing left for the priests but to comply with these conditions, for the people declared the speech well spoken. Then, as now, and always, the people wanted a God who could do things.

26-29—The predicament of the priests of Baal. 1. They cried with incessant monotony from morning till noon, O Baal hear us. But there was no voice. "There lay the dead bullock putrescing under the burning orb which was at once their deity and the visible sign of his presence. No consuming lightning fell, even when the sun flamed in the zenith of that cloudless sky." 2. They performed a heathenish dance, with wild gesticulations and shrill cries. 3. The taunts of Elijah. Until the sun had reached its highest point he kept silent. But now, with stinging references to the possible preoccupations of the sun-god, he holds them in derision. 4. Cut by the sarcasms of the man of God, the four hundred and fifty priests resorted to the extreme measures of their worship, and began slashing and mutilating their bodies in terrible frenzy. Meanwhile, until time for the evening offering of meal, they kept up their weird jargon of cries (prophesied). But all in vain.

30-35.—The preparations of Elijah. With an orderly calm that stood out in impressive contrast to the noisy confusion of the priests, the prophet made ready. 1. With one stone for each of the twelve tribes of Israel, he repaired the old altar which the queen had doubtless torn down. 2. He built next a broad trench capable of holding about five gallons. 3. He drenched with water the bullock which he had cut in pieces and laid upon the altar with the wood, and filled the trench also with water, so that there could be no possible deception.

36-37—The prayer of Elijah. It was a simple, fervent prayer, free from unavailing repetitions and accompaniments of frenzy. Thrice he invoked the name of Jehovah, and with a single purpose—that the God of Israel might be vindicated and his name exalted among the people.

38-40—The results: 1. The utter consumption of all that was on the altar, together with the shattering of the stones and the licking up of the water in the trench. 2. The effect on the people. With one accord they fell on their faces and cried, in the expressive Hebrew tongue, "Yahweh-hoo-ha-Elohim, Yah-weh-hoo-ha-Elohim," convinced that Jehovah, and not Baal, was the true God. 3. The slaughter of the priests. Unnecessarily cruel as this seems, viewed in the light of our higher Christian ideals, it doubtless accorded with the rude ethics of those far-off days.

AIRSICKNESS IS THE NEXT

ILL-EFFECTS OF JOURNEYING THROUGH THE AIR.

When Mechanical Difficulties are Solved Can Human Frame Stand It?

Seasickness is a terror to many people and the chances are that airsickness will be worse. Most persons, again, have experienced the unpleasant feeling in a lift when it commences its descent or in a swing when, like a pendulum, it swings back. Not a few people refuse to stand close to the edge of a cliff or to trust themselves to look down into a vast chasm of space immediately beneath their feet, owing to the vague feelings of giddiness, fears of falling arising out of a sense of a jeopardized equilibrium.

THE LANCET SPEAKS.

And yet these same people, says the London Lancet, converse glibly about the nearness of the day when aero traffic will be an accomplished fact and point in support of their view to the enormously rapid advances which motor traffic in the streets has made. When the question is carefully considered in detail it will be conceded that there is hardly anything that is comparable between the air motor and the land motor from the point of view of attaining practical success.

A HARD PROBLEM.

The problem in the case of the former is complicated by the first requirement, the conquest of that great force which, do what we will, pulls us back again to earth the moment we dare to rise from its surface. No special motor appliance is required to keep afloat on the sea or to keep a stable position on land, but we can only gain support in the air by means of moving machinery analagous to the wings of a bird or by utilizing a buoy or substance which is much lighter than air and upon which therefore tends to float upon it. The machinery in the former case must obviously be well-nigh perfect and incapable of breaking down, while the difficulty in the case is the enormous bulk of floating gas that must be used.

UNCERTAINTY AS YET.

In short, the advances yet to be made in order to bring aviation within the practical affairs of daily life must still be very far reaching. Then, assuming the great consummation has been reached, will the human organization be able to stand aviation? This is by no means certain, having regard to the constant changes of atmospheric pressure, with their marked effects upon the respiratory and circulatory processes which a journey in the air must entail.

ARMY BALLOONS.

Long List of Fatalities Will Not Deter Trials in England.

Progressive development in connection with the army balloon school and the army balloon factory go to prove that the long list of aerial fatalities in 1910 will not deter the military authorities from pushing on with the formation and extension of the Army Air Corps. Both the Beta and Gamma airships are ready for commission, and the Lebaudy, which ripped while entering the balloon shed a few months ago, has been restored. Although Salisbury Plain will furnish the chief flying grounds for heavier-than-air machines, the scope offered for short practice flights on the Long Valley and Mattan's Plain is evidently not to be ignored. A Farman biplane has just been delivered to the balloon school on Falsborough Common. This is the third type of aeroplane which has been added to the stock at Farnborough, for the original Wright machine presented by Mr. Rolls was supplemented a few weeks ago by an original biplane, the invention of a young civilian now enrolled on the balloon factory staff. Several officers have returned from Continental schools possessed of flying certificates.

BONUS FOR TEMPERANCE.

Speaking of present conditions in Scotland recently, the Laird of Skibo told of distilleries lying idle. "Not a man on our estate," Mr. Carnegie declared, "not a butler, a gamekeeper or a chauffeur, even to the captain of our yacht, but he is a total abstainer. On the first of January each year, a bonus of 10 per cent. is paid to every employe of the estate who can truthfully say that he has not tasted liquor in the past twelve months except by order of his doctor. That is the most eloquent sermon for temperance that has ever been preached in Scotland."

NOTE AND COMMENT.

A man on pleasure bent may find himself on pleasure broke.

Some men try to make an arc light display with a can of kerosene.

Forgive the cutting words of your enemy and refuse to revenge the injury; do not lose your head and you will win your enemy's heart.

Regarding theatre going, dancing and card playing in comparison with other sins, Dr. Chapman, the evangelist, says,

Backsliding from the church is not summed up under these three heads;

It is as bad to gossip as it is to dance;

It is as wicked to deal lightly with another man's reputation as it is to frequent a theatre.

It is as dangerous to have a secret sin as it is to play cards.

It is not a bit too early to talk about and to lay plans for building operations during the coming spring and summer. As everybody knows we need more modern dwellings at a reasonable rent. An honest and economical man does not fancy the idea of giving half his monthly wages for house rent. Our local capitalists ought to encourage such honest and industrious men by building houses that can be rented cheaply, and yet be reasonably profitable for the investor.

The finances of the county of Huron are summed up by Dr. Holmes, county treasurer, as follows,—The receipts for last year were $143,214.37, made up principally as follows, County rate, $70,284.75; registry office, $1,046.23; administration of justice, $2,922.87; the schools $17,261.35. The total expenditures were $121,765.07, the chief items being, administration of justice, $9,416.59; schools, $35,151.07; school management $2,881.45; grants, $2,284; municipal government, $6,316.58; roads and bridges, $13,177.10. Balance carried forward to 1911, $21,448.90.

To the County Council, J. E. Tom, school inspector of West Huron, reported that the number of names enrolled in the schools in 1910 was 5,092, with an average attendance of 3,332. There were 134 teachers employed in 1910, with 79 changes; 10 schools were in charge of persons without any training, and 6 of these are continued for 1911. The average salary to male teacher in rural schools was $534, and in urban schools, $1,108; for female teachers in rural schools, $472, and in urban schools, $490. There are 30 male teachers and 104 female teachers, holding 2 first class certificates 55 seconds and 72 thirds.

The horse which can be ridden or driven is the animal that is bringing the money in the horse markets of the world to-day and it is the union of the thoroughbred sire and the so-called cold blooded mare which produces the type which has made the Canadian half bred horse most eagerly sought after by dealers everywhere. This part of Canada has for over half a century been famous for its half-bred horses. We have a splendid agricultural district peopled by progressive and prosperous farmers, who vie with one another in the raising of fine horses, cattle, sheep and swine.

Mr. Wm Treble has sold his 50-acre farm in Hay Township to Mr. George Penhale of Stephen for $1500.

An informal meeting of the reeves of Seaforth, Exeter, Stephen, Grey, Tuckersmith, McKillop, Wroxeter, Hensall, Usborne, and Brucefield was held in Goderich last week, when it was decided to use every endeavor to have constructed a branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway from St. Marys via Exeter, Hensall, Kippen, Seaforth, Winthrop, Walton, Brussels, Jamestown, and Wroxeter, intersecting their Guelph and Goderich Line at Walton and their Toronto, Grey and Bruce line at Wroxeter, believing that such a line would be of great benefit to the country at large, running as it would through the centre of the county from north to south, through the very best part of of the county, and a great benefit to the company as a feeder to their other lines running from east to west, adding largely to their freight and passenger traffic.—Expositor.

HICKS' FEBRUARY FORECASTS.—A Reactionary Storm Period recurs from the 13th to 16th, beginning with with full Moon on the 13th, and ending with Moon's passage of the celestial equator on the 16th, bringing storms of tropical nature, after several days of threatening weather, all ending in violent change to colder weather. A regular storm period is indicated from the 17th to the 21st. The reactionary period just preceding this regular period will leave little or no time between the two for fair, open weather, so that by the 19th falling barometer and the oncoming of rain and snow storms in the west will be in progress. This period will be well into the Mars period, blending also with the Venus equinox, and the vernal equinox of Earth. The Mars influence will be dominant at this time, and the character of storms and weather prevailing at this period may be regarded as indicating the kind of storms and weather to be expected, generally, through the month of March. We figure that the weather will be rough and wintery continuing after that manner well through the month of March. If, on the other hand, the general weather and storm conditions should prove to be decidedly mild and moderate at this time, look for much the same conditions until the end of the Mars influence, late in March. From the 11th to the 16th, we should have stated, is another marked seismic period. Behind general rain and snow storms, which will probably pass eastwardly over the country about 19th, 20th and 21st, look for rapid rise of the barometer, attended by a wicked cold wave.

Box Social and Concert—A Box Social and Concert under the auspices of the Farquhar Baseball Club will be held here on Friday evening, Feb. 17th, when a choice and varied program will be rendered. Everybody should patronize this concert, so as to help the boys along. Everybody welcome. Admission only 15c.

Mr. and Mrs. McQueen and little daughter of Dauphin, Man., are renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity.—The many friends of Mr. James Turnbull will be glad to learn that he is recovering from his recent illness.—Mr John Gardiner, Clearwater, Man., left for his home last week, after spending the past month among friends and relatives here.

The Usborne and Hibbert Fire Insurance Company met in the hall here on Monday. The two retiring directors, Messrs. Wm. Roy and J. L. Russell were re-elected, leaving the board the same as last year. J. L. Russell was also re-elected president. Messrs. Wm. Turnbull and John Kay were elected auditors. The reports presented showed the company to be in a healthy condition. Losses to the extent of $9532 were paid in 1910. 2258 policies are now in force, covering insurance to the amount of $4,633,375.

HENSALL

The Hensall Gun Club held a shoot for the oysters on Wednesday.—Last week Hensall trimmed Parkhill in a hockey game 21-7. Each team has now won a game.—Mrs Thos. Peart has been seriously ill for some time.—Mrs. Robt. Paterson unfortunately broke her arm between the wrist and elbow by falling on the icy walk.—Our Reeve, Owen Geiger, who was honored by the County Council with the office of Warden, was given a grand reception here on his arrival home from Goderich.—Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, who were here from near Fargo, North Dakota, spending a couple of months with their relatives and friends in Hensall and vicinity left here this week on their return trip to the West, well pleased with their visit.—We regret to learn that Mrs. Wm. Mitchell is and has been quite ill for the past couple of weeks.—Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Bonthron's two sons, John and James, arrived here on a visit this week, after an absence of about six years, and we are pleased to see them looking so well, and to learn that they are getting on well in the far famed West.

SODOM

The school which has been closed for the past month was reopened last week, Miss Kingsley of Crediton being in charge.—Mr. Thos. Stanlake of Michigan is visiting in and around this neighborhood.—Many cases of La Grippe are reported.—Quite a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Stanlake, jr., one evening last week, the occasion being the christening of their little son, Harry, also the christening of his three little cousins, Rev. Powell of Exeter performing the ceremony. The christening over all sat down to a well served oyster supper, after which the happy throng started in to enjoy themselves at games and music Mr. Willis Powell was in attendance with his phonograph and entertained the company with a number of his latest selections. The evening was a most pleasant one to all.

McGILLIVRAY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Jan. 25th, between Miss Laura May McAlpine and Mr. T. H. Blake, both of McGillivray, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil McAlpine, 7th con. Rev. W. H. Geddes performed the ceremony and Mrs. W. Blake played the wedding march. The bride was beautifully dressed in bronze venetian silk trimmed with point lace. bridesmaid was Miss Lily Beattie of London Tp. and Mr. Ernie McAlpine, brother of the bride acted as best man.

Mrs. John Paterson of West McGillivray fell Sunday morning on the ice, breaking her wrist.

Deaths.—The death occurred on Thursday, Jan. 26th, of Mr. Joseph Carter, on the old homestead, lot 19, con. 2, Mr. Carter's grandfather, Rich. Carter took up his homestead in the year 1834. The following are brothers and sisters of the deceased.—John of Saskatchewan Richard, on the adjoining farm; Mrs. R. Scell of Owen Sound; Mrs. Joseph Richie of 7th con., McGillivray and one sister living at Nairn. He is also survived by a sorrowing wife and one son. The interment took place at St. James' cemetery, Clandeboye. Mr. Carter was highly respected by all who knew him. —Word was received by Mr. Wm. Dixon, of the 7th con., that William Smith commonly known as 'Dummy" Smith, was killed near Chauvin, Alta., on Sunday, Jan. 15th, by Grand Trunk Pacific express. He was walking on the railroad track and did not hear the approaching train which killed him. Mr. Smith was well-known in McGillivray, having been born at the corner of the 20th and 8th cons.

At the meeting of the Council on the 3rd day of April next an application to take certain lots from S. S. No. 11, and add said lots to S. S. No. 15, will be considered, and the clerk has been instructed to notify the Trustees of the said schools that such alterations are to be considered.

Sad Death.—This week it becomes our duty to record the death of a bright and promising young man in the person of Vincent Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Thompson of the 4th con., who passed away on Saturday last at the youthful age of 12 years. The deceased had been ailing for several months from diabetes and all that time the dread disease had been doing its work and his young life gave away under so severe a strain. He was a boy much loved by his comrades and friends all will be grieved at his demise. Besides the sorrowing parents he he is survived by two brothers and one sister. The funeral took place to the R. C. burying ground at Adair on Monday last. The bereaved relatives have the sympathy of all in their affliction.

SEAFORTH.— Emma Tamblyn, relict of the late Rev. Arthur Doble, died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. W. D. Bright, on Monday at the age of 82 years and 4 months. Arthur Doble was one of the pioneer ministers of the Methodist church

A BRILLIANT FOP.

The Youthful Disraeli, Elegant and Eloquent.

AN INTELLECTUAL EXQUISITE.

His Airs and Graces, His Frills and Laces and His Dazzling Oratory In His Early Political Battles—A Pen Picture of His Remarkable Face.

Benjamin Disraeli's career in practical politics began with a series of reverses that might have discouraged a less persistent fighter. Five times the youthful novelist and versatile budding statesman attempted to break into parliament before he succeeded in winning an election, going down to defeat three times at Wycombe and once at Taunton.

In William Flayvelle Monypenny's "Life of Benjamin Disraeli" the author declares that tales are still told in Wycombe of Disraeli's famous first speech from the portico of the Red Lion:

"The youthful orator was now at the height of his dandyism, and his 'curls and ruffles' played no small part in the election. Standing on the top of the porch beside the figure of the lion, with his pale face set off by masses of jet black hair and his person plenteously adorned with lace and cambric, he must have seemed to the spectators better fitted for his role of fashionable novelist than for that of strenuous politician. Great, then, was their surprise when this 'popinjay,' as a hostile newspaper called him, began to pour forth a torrent of eloquence with tremendous energy of action and in a voice that carried far along the High street. He had an instinct for the dramatic effects which hold the attention of the mob. 'When the poll is declared I shall be there,' he exclaimed, according to a Wycombe tradition, pointing to the head of the lion, 'and my opponent will be there,' pointing to the tail. By the admission even of the opposite party the speech was a complete success, and his popularity with the crowd was thenceforth assured."

As to the young orator's appearance at Taunton, Mr. Monypenny gathers these comments of an eyewitness from an almost forgotten book of that time:

"Never in my life had I been so struck by a face as I was by that of Disraeli. It was lividly pale, and from beneath two finely arched eyebrows blazed out a pair of intensely black eyes. I never have seen such orbs in mortal sockets either before or since. His physiognomy was strictly Jewish. Over a broad, high forehead were ringlets of coal black, glossy hair, which, combed away from his right temple, fell in luxuriant clusters or bunches over his left cheek and ear, which it entirely concealed from view.

"There was a sort of half smile, half sneer playing about his beautifully formed mouth, the upper lip of which was curved as we see it in the portraits of Byron. He was very showily attired in a dark bottle green frock coat, a waistcoat of the most extravagant pattern, the front of which was almost covered with glittering chains, and in fancy pattern pantaloons. He wore a plain black stock, but no collar was visible. Altogether he was the most intellectual looking exquisite I had ever seen.

"He commenced in a lisping, lackadaisical tone of voice. He minced his phrases in apparently the most affected manner and while he was speaking placed his hands in all imaginable positions, not because he felt awkward and did not know like a booby in a drawing room, where to put them, but apparently for the purpose of exhibiting to the best advantage the glittering rings which decked his white and taper fingers. Now he would place his thumbs in the armholes of his waistcoat and spread out his fingers on its flashing surface; then one set of digits would be released and he would lean affectedly on the table, supporting himself with his right hand; anon he would push aside the curls from his forehead.

"But as he proceeded all traces of dandyism and affectation were lost. With a rapidity of utterance perfectly astonishing he referred to past events and indulged in anticipations of the future. The Whigs were, of course, the objects of his unsparing satire, and his eloquent denunciations of them were applauded to the echo. In all he said he proved himself to be the finished orator. Every period was rounded with the utmost elegance, and in his most daring flights, when one trembled lest he should fall from the giddy height to which he had attained, he so gracefully descended that every hearer was wrapped in admiring surprise. His voice, at first so finical, gradually became full, musical and sonorous and with every varying sentiment was beautifully modulated. His arms no longer appeared to be exhibited for show, but he exemplified the eloquence of the hand. The dandy was transformed into the man of mind, the Mantalini looking personage into a practiced orator and finished elocutionist."

Her Declaration.

"Have you anything to declare?" asked the customs inspector.

"Yes," replied the lady who was returning from Europe. "I unhesitatingly declare that it is an outrage the way this government permits things to be mussed up in one's trunk."—Chicago Record-Herald.

CROMARTY

A very pretty and interesting wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm Dalrymple, 12th con. of Hibbert on Jan. 25th when Miss Mary Eliza, their second eldest daughter, and Mr. Wilbur Mahaffy were united in the holy bonds of wedlock. About 5.30 p. m., sixty guests from Clinton, Hensall, Kippen, and immediate neighborhood gathered to witness the ceremony performed by Rev. R G. McKay. Shortly afterward a most enjoyable supper was served, and the evening spent in mirth, music and social glee. The bride wore white silk and she carried white roses. Her travelling suit was of navy serge, trimmed silk banding and hat to match. They will reside on the groom's farm in Hibbert, and will have the best wishes of their many friends.

INVASION OF THE ISTHMUS

British Capital to Build a Railroad Line Across Panama.

A despatch from Colon says: Ratification of a contract between the Panama Government and the Balboa and Pacific Estates, Limited, of London, is expected at an early date in the Panama Assembly. It will provide for a railroad from end to end of the Republic. It is the project long considered under the title of the Darien Line. It is to open up the virgin country on the Pacific slope and will parallel that coast. One day it will be an important link in the inevitable line linking North and South America.

The United States is watching with an anxious eye this English invasion. Ratification of the contract will give Great Britain a foothold on the isthmus at the very brink of the canal and the right to assert a "sphere of influence." Once having attained this no one expects England to loosen its grip. It was expected American opposition would prevent completion of the negotiations, but now it seems plain the contract will be closed within a few weeks. The line will begin at David and will be extended eastward toward the Columbian border.

CARIBOU COME SOUTH.

Vast Herds are Said to be Haunting Lake Athabaska.

A despatch from Edmonton, Alta., says: Edward Wylie, of Fort Chippewyan, who reached this city on Friday, after nearly a month's trip from the north by dog team, reports that cariboo are haunting Lake Athabasca in vast herds, and coming nearer to civilization than ever before. He gives as a reason the excessive cold forcing the herds into thick timber that fringes the north shore of the lake.

THE QUEEN-MOTHER.

Report That She Will Not Attend the Coronation.

A despatch from London says: It is stated, it has been definitely decided, the Queen-mother will not attend the coronation.

EPIDEMIC OF GRIP.

Many Factories Running Short-handed at London.

A despatch from London, Ont., says: London's factories are experiencing trouble through their employees being sick. As a result many of them are running short-handed. Grippe, an epidemic of which has been prevalent in the city for the past month, is keeping many of the factory men at home. Office staffs throughout the city are diminished in size. An estimate shows that on an average more than a hundred employees of the factories of the city have been off work daily for the past month with colds and grippe. Office managers also report that they cannot keep any kind of system in their office. Some of the stenographers or clerks are staying at home every day.

DEATH LIST WILL BE MILLION

From the Famine and Pestilence in China Before Spring Arrives

A despatch from Nanking, China, says: That the deaths due to famine, and the pestilence following in its wake, will total a million before spring, was the estimate submitted to the relief committee here on Friday. Relief workers are aghast with the realization of the task before them. Even were they in receipt of unlimited contributions for relief, the missionaries, doctors, and other volunteer workers would be almost helpless in the face of two and one-half millions of suffering people in the Anhui and Kiang Su Provinces.

Murder is now adding to the death roll, reported William F. Junkim, Presbyterian missionary at Suchien. In their desperation at the lack of food, he said, the bolder of the natives have formed marauding bands, who stop at nothing in robbing wayfarers and plundering houses. In many towns persons wearing good clothes fear to go on the street at night, lest they be waylaid and stripped of their garments, which can be sold for cash by the starving highwaymen. Scores of instances of kidnapping have been reported.

THE 17th DREADNOUGHT

A despatch from London says: The Thunderer, the 17th British Dreadnought, and the fourth of the super-Dreadnought type, was successfully launched from the yards of the Thames Iron Works Company at Cannington on Wednesday. The Archbishop of Canterbury conducted the religious service preceding the christening by his wife, Mrs. Davidson. Fifteen thousand people witnessed the ceremonies. The officials gave a reception for the several Government officials and other prominent personages present.

The Thunderer had a displacement of 22,680 tons and will be equipped with turbines with a total of 27,000 horse-power. She is expected to make a speed of 21 knots an hour. The vessel is 584 feet in length, and is armed with ten 13.5-inch guns and twenty-four 4-inch guns. She is the largest vessel ever launched so far up the Thames. Three thousand workmen were employed in her construction.

TERRIBLE RAILWAY WRECK

Five Trainmen and One Passenger Killed on G. T. R. Buffalo and Goderich Line.

A despatch from Brantford says: The lives of six men, including five trainmen and one passenger, were lost and several injured in a terrible catastrophe on the Buffalo and Goderich line of the Grand Trunk Railway, which happened at 9.20 Saturday night, three and a half miles west of Paris, and midway between Paris and Drumbo. The catastrophe was the result of a head-on collision between the westbound passenger train, running from Buffalo to Stratford, and a mogul engine in charge of Engineer Robert Errett of Sarnia, running light from Stratford to Fort Erie.

Following in the wake of the collision came a terrible, devastating fire, which incinerated the bodies of a couple of the victims, and made an easy prey of the three splintered coaches of the train. The fire left nothing but the bare trucks and wheels, and a mass of twisted iron and charred ruin.

THE VICTIMS.

The dead are: A. Turner, engineer, Stratford; leaves wife and grown up family. J. D. Smith, fireman, Stratford; leaves a wife and family. Peter McKarland, baggageman, Goderich; married, no children. John Whitelaw, express messenger, Goderich, formerly of Whitby; wife suffering from shock. William Tye, mail clerk, Goderich; leaves wife and grown up family. D. J. Crozier, passenger, Drumbo.

The list of injured includes the following: W. J. May, mail clerk, Hamilton, severely scalded; W. T. Henderson, city solicitor, Brantford, back injured; William McIntosh, customs clerk, Brantford, back injured; George Hunt, Brantford, shaken up; Robert Errett, engineer, minor bruises and sprains.

WAS 17 MINUTES LATE.

The ill-fated train left Brantford 17 minutes late, and was running in charge of Conductor Ausbrook, with full right of way. None of the crew were aware of the approaching engine, which, it is understood, had running orders to its destination and "to avoid regulars." The engine should have stopped at Drumbro, but instead, proceeded on to Paris, colliding halfway with the passenger train. Had the latter been on time the two would have met at Drumbo. Whether the crew of the engine had forgotten about the passenger train, or whether orders were mistaken, is a matter which could not be learned out of the usual railway reticence.

BAGGAGE CAR TELESCOPED.

When the crash occurred the passenger train was travelling at about 35 miles an hour, according to the Brantford passengers. The engine must have been going much faster, as it struck with such impact that the baggage car was completely telescoped, and the mail end of the smoking car driven in, where the passengers were buried in flying splinters and glass.

Darkness immediately enveloped the train and its struggling occupants, the excitement and confusion being greatly enhanced by the fire, which rapidly spread from the old coal oil lamps in use on the train.

CANADIANS WON PRIZES.

At the National Corn Show at Columbus, Ohio.

A despatch from Ottawa says: A telegram was received on Friday by the Department of the Interior announcing that Hill and Sons, of Lloydminster, had captured the Silver Trophy Sweepstakes, value $1,500, for the best peck of oats at the National Corn Show, now in progress at Columbus, Ohio. The Reserve Sweepstakes, for the best peck of wheat, was won by Norman Chanz, Davis, Saskatchewan.

TENDERS FOR TEN VESSELS

Four Bristols and Six Destroyers of the Latest Type.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The Government has called for tenders for the construction of the ten new vessels of the Canadian navy, contemplated in the initial building programme, viz., four Bristols and six destroyers of the latest improved type. The plans and specifications are, as has already been stated, based on the plans received from the Admiralty last fall and embrace the very latest advances in naval science. The tenders are not publicly advertised, since following the rule of the Admiralty, details have to be kept secret, and only firms in whom the department has confidence and who might be bona fide tenderers, will have access thereto.

Letters have been sent to all the leading British and Canadian firms who are in a position to tender, inviting them to inspect the plans and put in tenders. It is stipulated that all the vessels must be built in Canada. Tenders must be in by April next. When submitted they will be gone over by the experts of the Navy Department and probably some time must elapse then before a decision is reached as to which tender shall be accepted, all the conditions being considered.

FEATURES OF THE BUDGET

Ontario's Estimated Revenues Will Exceed $11,000,000 and Expenditure $10,000,000.

A despatch from Toronto says: In his budget speech on Thursday, the Hon. A. J. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, said that the total estimates for the year are $11,394,361, and the total estimated expenditures, including $2,644,900 on capital account, are $10,283,787.

In spite of the spread of local option the increase in revenue from licenses was $80,000.

In all cases except the Temiskaming and Ontario Railway, the revenue has exceeded the estimates. In the case of the Government railway there was a falling off in receipts below estimates of $205,000.

The province can now show assets of $24,000,000 against liabilities of $22,000,000.

Several bills are to be introduced this session which will increase the revenue of the province.

GOOD HEALTH FOR RUN DOWN MEN

If You Are Weak and Easily Tired Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Anaemia is a state into which one falls because of lack of blood, or because the blood is poor, weak and watery. The man or woman who has not enough blood is pale, languid, easily tired and easily depressed. As the trouble progresses other symptoms show themselves, and the life of the sufferer is one of misery. Anaemia opens the door to consumption, and gives victims to all the epidemic maladies, because the whole body is weakened and unable to resist the inroads of disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best remedy in the world for the cure of anaemia, and all its attendent miseries. They make the blood rich, red and pure, thus bringing health and strength to weak, despondent men and women. We do not know of a single case of anaemia where Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have failed to cure if given a fair trial. Mr. John Hastings, Venn, Sask., was a victim of this trouble and found new health through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He says: "I was working on a railway driving a team and found myself gradually running down. I did not pay much attention to it at first, but soon I began to lose my appetite and it was a trial to get through my day's work. I got medicine from the doctor on the works, but it did not help me, and finally I got so bad I told the foreman I would have to quit. He told me not to lose hope, that he would get some medicine that would soon make me all right. That night he went to town and bought me three boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had not taken more than two boxes when I began to feel better, and after I had used five boxes I was as well and strong as ever, and could do a day's work with any man on the job. I may just add that before I began taking the Pills I was so run down that I weighed only 122 pounds, and while taking them I gained 22 pounds. I cannot say too much in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and strongly recommend them to all run down men."

You can get these Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

YOUNGEST DIVORCED COUPLE

Bride of 8 and Groom of 14 Separated by State.

The youngest divorced couple in the world is to be found in the court of Abyssinia. On May 16, 1910, the Princess Rodmanic Onosk was married to the Prince Lidj Eyassu, the heir apparent, the bride then being 8 years old and the bridegroom 14. Now they have been divorced. It is not a question of fault on either side, no incompatibility of temper, none of the causes which figure so frequently in our divorce division. The Princess happens to be the niece of the Empress Taitu, and the lady is not popular with the regents of the country. So, to prevent the Empress exercising any baneful influence upon the future ruler's wife, the statesmen have required the Prince to divorce her.

CORONATION ROBES.

Cottage Looms in Suffolk at Work on Royal Velvet.

In the ancient borough of Sudbury in Suffolk, London, the few remaining hand loom weavers are hard at work making the velvet for the coronation robes.

Among the number are the Misses Foakes, members of a family of weavers who in days past were makers of bunting for the royal navy. In their cottage, which was once visited by the Queen, are two hand looms on which are two lengths of beautiful velvet, one rich crimson in color and the other dark brown.

The weavers are seated when at their looms, their feet working pedals resembling those of an organ. There are two sets of threads, the visible one forming the back of the material, and the other the pile, each of these being delicately threaded through vertical threads known as the harness. The weaver passes the shuttle backward and forward, and each warp and weft is pressed home by a swinging wooden frame. A cutter which runs across the loom on a wire cuts the threads to make the pile.

The process of manufacture is slow and tedious. The time is occupied not so much in the weaving as in the cleaning. At each foot or so made the weaver uses a curious knife like a spokeshave and shaves the surface of the velvet to clean it. There are now not more than thirty hand loom weavers left in Sudbury, the Misses Foakes being among the number. The rows of weavers' cottages, now occupied by other artisans and general workers, show the extent of the industry fifty years ago.

HEALTHY CHILDREN ARE A BLESSING

Healthy babies are good babies, and the good baby is a blessing in every home. Nothing can give the mother or father more pleasure than to see baby play. Every movement is watched with delight; every new word spoken brings pride to the fond parents. It is only the sickly baby that makes home wretched—and, mothers, it is not baby's fault when he is sick. You are the one to blame. Perhaps you give him candies, cakes and other food which his little stomach is unable to digest. Then when he is cross and ailing you give him some "soothing" mixtures to quiet him. That is wrong—remember his little stomach is not as strong as a grown persons, and also remember that every spoonful of "soothing" mixture you give him only does him more injury—it does not remove the cause of his fretfulness—it merely dopes him into an unnatural sleep. What is needed to make baby healthy and happy is Baby's Own Tablets—a medicine with a guarantee of safety. About them Mrs. Mathies McCormick, West St. Peters, P.E.I., writes. "We have used Baby's Own Tablets with good results. They are certainly a blessing for mothers that have cross, sickly babies. They sweeten the stomach; give refreshing sleep and make baby fat and healthy." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HERO A LAW BREAKER.

German Life Saver Rewarded With a Fine.

Some time ago a German workman was taking a country walk, says a Breslau newspaper, when he saw a man lying on a railway line, and a train approaching in the distance. He rushed up and pulled the man, who was drunk, off the line, thus saving his life. Some days later he received a large letter bearing the seal of the railway authorities. Convinced that it could only be some reward from the authorities for his rescue, he joyfully opened the envelope. It contained the following notice: "You are fined 75 cents for trespassing on the State Railway, which amount please forward."

The British Parliament was opened on Monday by the King.

VERY SHORT AND RIGHT TO THE POINT

FRANK MILLER TELLS WHY HE RECOMMENDS DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

He used them for Rheumatism, Heart Disease and Lumbago, and they went right to the root of his troubles.

Elkmouth, B.C., Feb. 6 (Special)—Frank Miller, section foreman on the railroad here, whose work exposes him to all kinds of weather, has discovered that Dodd's Kidney Pills are a sovereign remedy for those Kidney ills that almost invariably follow neglected colds.

"For four years I suffered from Lumbago, Heart Disease and Rheumatism, brought on from a cold," says Mr. Miller, "And I got the very best results from using Dodd's Kidney Pills. I freely recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering from these diseases."

Short and to the point, that statement, isn't it! But it is just like Dodd's Kidney Pills. They go right to the point. They cure the Kidneys. Healthy Kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood. Pure blood means good circulation and renewed life and energy all over the body.

Thus Dodd's Kidney Pills not only cure disease. They tone up the whole body and make a man feel that he has been given a new lease of life. That's why people all over Canada are shouting the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THOUGHTFUL MAUD.

Maud—Yes, I got papa to buy a vacuum cleaner for mother.

Jessica—How thoughtful!

Maud—Yes, Mother is a little stiffened up with rheumatism, you know, and I used to feel so sorry to see her trying to use the broom that I always left home on sweeping day.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM.

Yarmouth, N.S., June 2, 1908.—"I have been bothered with Rheumatism for the past year and have taken a good many kinds of Medicine and found no relief for it.

"One day a friend advised me to try Gin Pills, so I did, and after taking only one box of them, I felt like a new man.

"I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know how thankful I feel for the relief they gave me, and would advise all sufferers from Rheumatism to get Gin Pills."

SAVED HER FINGER.

Mrs. B. E. Bolwell, of 337 Provencher Ave., St. Boniface, Winnipeg, says:—"Some time ago my children took diphtheria, and while attending them the poison entered a small scratch on the second finger of my left hand. This became very sore and blood-poisoning soon set in. For months after the children were quite well I was suffering from a shockingly bad finger. The scratch was caused originally by a pin, and in itself, was not at all serious. The consequences, however, of neglecting this scratch, were very serious to me.

"When the blood-poisoning set in I tried poultices and a salve I had in the house. These, however, did not save the doctor's knife. Quite on the contrary the finger became more and more swollen and discolored. It then began to fester, and I had to call in a doctor. He lanced the finger to let out the pus, and you can imagine how painful the finger was! Despite his care, however, it again festered and the ointments, liniments, and other preparations which the doctor gave me seemed absolutely unable to bring about any relief.

"The doctor thereupon advised me to go into the St. Boniface Hospital. I feared that if I went to the Hospital the finger would be amputated. We were told of a case similar to my own in which Zam-Buk had effected a cure when everything else had failed and the doctor had said that only amputation could save the person's hand.

"We, therefore, decided to give Zam-Buk a trial. A supply was procured, and we commenced the Zam-Buk treatment. It only needed a few days to show the wisdom of this step. The blood-poisoning and inflammation were reduced, the pain became less acute, and it was evident very shortly that the trouble was being reduced to a less and still less area. We persevered with the Zam-Buk and in the end the festering sore was thoroughly cleaned, then healed. In under three weeks from first commencing with Zam-Buk, the finger was entirely well, and had we applied Zam-Buk in the first place, instead of trying ordinary preparations, no doubt I should have saved myself hours and hours of acute agony."

All mothers should note this case. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for blood-poisoning, festering, cuts, scratches from barbed wire, bruises, eczema, rashes, ulcers, salt rheum, face sores, ulcers, piles, bad leg, varicose veins, and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c a box, all druggists and stores or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Send 1c stamp for postage of free trial box. Refuse all imitations.

Mr. Mack Vincent is billed to take part in the entertainment in the Presbyterian church at Crosshill on Tuesday evening next. He will be accompanied by Mr. A. Hastings, Crosshill being his old home.

The County Council made grants of $25 to each agricultural and horticultural society, $25 to each public library, $10 to each Women's Institute, and 25c a day to officers and men of Huron regiment while attending the annual camp.

Dr. Bruce Smith, the provincial inspector reported the conditions of the Huron House of Refuge to be excellent. The house keeping is excellent and the inmates well cared for. He was convinced that in many respects Huron had the best House of Refuge in the province. He considered the salaries paid too small for the work done.

Prof. Brown, who has had charge of the organ in Wesley church for the past couple of years, has sent in his resignation, having accepted the organ in Knox church, Galt, which, by the way, is the largest Presbyterian congregation in Canada. The pastor of this church is Rev. Mr Knowles, the well-known author."—Clinton News Record. Exeter people will remember that Prof. Brown was formerly organist in the Trivitt Memorial church, Exeter.

Our readers should keep their weather eye open for fakirs and swindlers as they are numerous and work every scheme to catch people. The latest swindle worked by a sharper in one of the cities recently, is an apt illustration of the ability of these dead beat fakirs to catch not only the ignorant but all others who are not constantly on their guard. This swindler walked into a jewelry store and selecting a $125 watch left a check for $600 drawn on an out-of-town bank, with instructions that the watch be regulated and that he would come after it and his change a week later. On returning he was informed that his check was no good. "Well, that's strange," he said, "It's the second time the bank has done that thing on me. But here's the money for your watch," and he counted out $125 in currency and started for the door. Oh, yes," he said, turning around, "you had better give me that check." It was willingly handed over to him. On the back was the jeweller's endorsement. With this the man went to the bank, got is cashed and was never heard of afterward.

THE TREAT OF YOUR LIFE.—The treat of your life will be given in James Street Methodist Church, Exeter, on Friday, Feb. 10th, by Madam Hughes-Thomas' ROYAL WELSH LADIES CHOIR of Cardiff, Wales, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid. Tickets 25 cents, sold at the doors. Doors open at 7 p.m. Concert at 8 p. m. Mrs. C. Snell President; Mrs. E. Treble, Secretary. The London Free Press of Jan. 30th has the following to say of the choir, —WELSH CHOIR IS POPULAR.—The Auditorium was crowded to the doors on Saturday night when the Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir gave a return concert. The popularity of the singers was evident and the programme rendered was of a high musical standard. The programme included solos, duets and part songs, many numbers being encored. The choir also sang at the men's meeting in the Auditorium yesterday afternoon.

TWO BAD ACCIDENTS.—Mr. W. H. Dearing, who resides on the 2nd concession of Stephen, met with a painful and very unpleasant accident on Saturday last. It appears he had gone to the barn to perform some duties, and ascending a ladder, accidently missed his footing and fell to the floor below, with the result that he had three of his ribs broken. He is now confined to the house under the doctor's care.—Another bad accident that threatened serious injury or loss of life took place on the same farm the following day, Sunday. Preston, the eldest son of Mr. Dearing, having charge of the chores owing to his father's illness, went out to the barn Sunday morning to start the gasoline engine, when in some manner his clothing became caught in the revolving wheel and ruthlessly he was wound around the shaft until nearly every stitch of his clothing was torn off his person, and had it not been for his mother, who happened to be there at the time he would doubtless have suffered death by strangling, the clothing having wound around his neck so tightly that he could not get his breath. Strange to say, however, the boy escaped without much injury, other than a number of painful bruises and a bad scare.

DID NOT PAY—Insurance companies which some time ago commenced insuring infants, which were less than a year old, have decided in future not to accept premiums for such insurance. It was found that the proposition was not a paying one, and the government interfered. All policies issued up to Jan. 1, 1911, on the lives of children under one year are perfectly legitimate and valid, but in future no such risks will be accepted.

A FINE STORY.—A farmer, who was in to the grist mill February 4, 1911, and got 200 lbs. of flour, said his wife had all kinds of trouble to get good bread while using other flours, but since they have been using Model, have had no trouble whatever. Could get the best of bread with little or no care. Ask Harvey Bros. for his name.

Hand Cut Off

Mr. John Delbridge of Winchelsea was the victim of a most painful and unfortunate accident on Friday morning last, by which he lost his right hand. He was operating a cutting box run by power and feeding with his right hand, when in some manner the fingers got drawn into the machine, and before he could lean over and reverse the machine the hand had been literally sliced off up to the wrist. Medical aid was at once summoned by telephone and the member given every attention. The patient is now doing as well as can be expected. The accident is a most regrettable one and Mr. Delbridge has the sympathy of his many friends.

FIRE AT GRANTON

Granton, Feb. 12—Dr H. Lang suffered heavy loss by fire about midnight when his barn was completely destroyed, together with three valuable horse, cutters and buggies, 300 bush. of oats and other property. Dr. Lang was in the building about an hour before the blaze was noticed, and everything was alright then. There is a very strong suspicion that the place was set on fire. In fact no other explanation can be offered at present. Some insurance on the building lapsed recently but a little was carried. The fire seems to have started in front of one of the mangers. The doctor's house near by was badly scorched, but saved through the assistance of the neighbors, who formed a bucket brigade. Dr. Lang's automobile escaped destruction, being in London for repairs.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Advertising pays if the man that has something to sell so regulates his advertisement as to convince the people that it is worth buying.

All the substitutes for newspaper advertising can be easily avoided or disregarded by the people the advertiser tries hardest to attract—the man or woman that can afford to buy.

They do not stand gaping at billboards, and they do not bother with circulars in the mail because they are too busy; but, their friend, the newspaper, is taken into the inmost privacy of the family circle. It is discussed at the breakfast table and at supper; it is read at leisure in the evening, and its pages are scrutinized with the interest born of long habit and discriminating taste.

An advertisement in that newspaper goes into the family circle and cannot be excluded. It is welcomed because it is a part of something else that is welcome, and it goes there at the time when the occasional domestic economical council takes place. There is no substitute for newspaper advertising.

Bad Fire at Hensall

The Village of Hensall, six miles north of Exeter, suffered very severly on Tuesday morning from fire.

The blaze destroyed the following places, the loss in most cases being fairly covered by insurance.

J. & C. McDonald, hardware and furniture. Loss $25,000

E. Rannie, dry goods and groceries, Loss 10,000.

R. J. Dryedale, shoe merchant. Loss $3,000.

T. W. Palmer, restaurant—Loss $2000.

F. Manns, barber, Loss $500.

J. B. McArthur, hardware. Loss $6,000.

The Commercial Hotel.—Loss $8,000.

A portion of the contents of the hotel was saved and the inmates had ample time to escape. This is the only hotel in town but another one is being built and will be rushed to completion now.

The stores on the South side of the main thoroughfare of the village were not damaged except that windows were broken in several instances by the force of the explosions of cartridges and powder in the two hardware establishments, which fell a pray to the flames.

The fire is supposed to have started from the Club Rooms above the McArthur store, but the cause is unknown

A high wind was blowing at the time and as the fire fighting apparatus is not of the best little could be done to stop the progress of the flames in this block of stores. Its progress eastward was stopped by the fire-wall in Scott's Store.

It is stated on good authority that the buildings will be rebuilt this summer.

Hensall has the sympathy of its sister towns in her misfortune.

THE EXETER COUNCIL

The adjourned meeting of the Council, which was to have been held on Thursday evening, the 9th inst., was held at the home of the reeve, Mr. John W. Taylor, on Monday evening, it having been postponed owing to the illness of the reeve. All the members were present with the exception of Mr. Levett.

KIRKTON.

Mr. Chas. Irvine left Friday for Swift Current, Sask., being called there on business. He will be absent about two weeks.—Mr. Jas. Moore attended a meeting of the Live Stock Association in Toronto last week. While in Toronto he witnessed the sale of a heifer, between two and three years old, to an American buyer for $3600, at the stock yards. That is going some, and then some more.—Messrs. Amos Doupe and Robert Berry attended the meeting of the Association of Fairs and Exhibitions in Toronto last week.

SHARON

Quite a number from here attended the Welsh singers concert in James Street church, Exeter, last Friday evening.—Miss Nora Brown spent a few days last week in Exeter the guest of Miss Della Keetle.—Mr Harry Martene wears a broad smile these days, its a boy.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Golden of Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. William Walper and daughter Linda of Exeter spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Moses Amy.—Mr. John Wein, eldest son of Mr. Mathew Wein, has purchased the property known as the Harvey Farm for the sum of $6500.—Mr. John E. Kerr and Mr. Alvie Amy have returned after spending a few days in Brinsley with the latter's sister, Mrs. John Trevethick. Mr. Kerr left Saturday for his home in Shakespeare.—Quite a number of young people from this neighborhood attended the party at Mr. Wm. Dearing's last Wednesday evening. All report a very enjoyable time.—Miss Robinson spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Exeter.

CENTRALIA

A very pleasant time was spent at Mrs. John Dempsey's last Friday evening, when a number of her friends gathered at her home to celebrate her sixty-fifth birthday. After wishing her many happy returns of the day all sat down to an oyster supper, and the remainder of the evening was spent in music, games, etc. Mrs Dempsey was the recipient of many beautiful presents.

DALE—OKE.

"This comes to him who is a single swain, Strive how he will, his striving is in vain."

And so they were married in Trivitt Memorial Church, Exeter, at 4 o'clock Wednesday evening, Feb. 15th.—Miss Amelia Pauline Oke, daughter of the late James Oke, to Mr. Charles Ernest Dale, a popular young man of St. Thomas, being storekeeper for the Buffalo Division of the Wabash Railway, and it was a charming wedding. The bride attired in a travelling suit of grey broadcloth with velvet turban to match advanced up the aisle on the arm of her frother, Mr. Thomas Oke of London, to the sweet strains of the wedding march played by Mr. J. H. Markham, organist. Both bride and groom were unattended. After the ceremony, which was performed by the rector, Rev. D. W. Collins, the young couple received the hearty congratulations of the guests, which comprised only a few of the immediate relatives and friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful pearl and emerald necklace. The happy couple were driven from the church to the depot, where they took the evening train for Hamilton Toronto, Montreal and other points. On their return they will take up their residence in St. Thomas. The young couple are popular in social circles and will have the best wishes of a host of friends for their future prosperity and happiness. The Advocate is pleased to join in wishing that adversity may never cast a shadow across their pathway.

Going backward seems to be some people's idea of progress.

As well talk about dry rain, said the cynic, as pure politics.

It is pleasant to believe that people will miss us when we are gone, but wisest not to put them to the test.

Rev. D. W. and Mrs. Collins have issued invitations to the members of the Trivitt Memorial Church, Exeter, to attend a congregational tea in the School Hall on Friday, Feb. 17 at 8 o'clock.

Division Court was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday of last week. Judge Holt presiding. Mason & Risch Piano Co. vs. Wm. Eagleson of Greenway was tried and judgment given in favor of the defendent, who was not of age when the contract for the piano was made. Defendant also claimed that the piano was of an inferior quality. That part of the case, however, was not gone into L. H. Dickson for defendant, J. M. McEvoy for plaintiff. Decision was reserved in the case of Mrs. Wilson vs H. Statham, an action for rent, in which the question of ownership of land came in. Stanbury for plaintiff; Dickson for defendant.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

BREADS.

Southern Spoon Bread—One pint of sweet milk, one-half cupful of cornmeal, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of butter, one egg beaten light, one level tablespoonful of baking powder. Scald the milk in a double boiler, stir in the meal and let cook three hours, then beat in the other ingredients. Note that it is one tablespoonful of baking powder. Turn into a baking dish suitable for the table and bake forty minutes. Serve hot from the dish.

Morning Bread—Pour one cup of boiling water into one cup of milk; when cool stir in one cake of compressed yeast dissolved into two tablespoonfuls of cold water), one teaspoonful of salt. Add flour to make a soft dough; turn on kneading board and knead 20 minutes, or until it will not cling to board. Set to rise for three hours, knead thoroughly, put in pans, and let rise one hour. Bake forty-five minutes. This will make three medium sized loaves. The bread is splendid and far less trouble than to bother with bread at night.

Bron Bread—Four cups of brown sifted flour, two cups of sweet milk, one cup of molasses, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of salt. Steam two hours and bake one-half hour. Dissolve soda in tablespoon hot water, then add to the molasses one cup of water and one of milk can be used instead of two cups of milk.

A Bread Help—During cold weather many women who do their own baking find it difficult to get their bread to raise without the sponge getting chilled. With this recipe make the sponge at 10 o'clock and the bread is done in time for supper. Take six medium sized potatoes, slice thin, and boil in two quarts water; mash in water and add one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of lard, 3 cents' worth of compressed yeast or one-half cupful of dry yeast in water; flour enough to make a stiff batter. Set on back of stove and stir from bottom every hour. In two hours will be ready to knead down. When ready to make into loaves knead well for twenty minutes. Make five large loaves.

Madison Rolls.—These rolls are well worth the little extra time required in making them. They cannot be excelled in their delicious feathery lightness and flavor. One quart of flour, two egg yolks, one teaspoon of salt, one-half pint of liquid yeast, three heaping teaspoons of sugar, piece of butter size of an egg, two large white potatoes, milk enough to make dough as soft as can be handled. Boil and mash potatoes, cream them into the butter, sugar, and eggs. Work this smooth, add gradually the flour, then the yeast, and the milk last. Be careful and do not get the dough too soft. Knead until light, put in a well greased crock, and place in a warm oven to rise for eight hours. When well risen turn on a floured board and roll out an inch thick. Cut with a medium sized biscut tin. Put rolls in a greased pan far enough apart to not touch; let rise until light, which will require one hour; bake in a quick oven.

CAKES.

Delicious Icing—Juice each of four oranges, one can of sliced pineapple, one-half cup of red raspberry juice, two and one-half cups sugar, enough water to make two quarts. Strain all and freeze. When nearly frozen add beaten whites of three eggs. Stir in well. The sliced pineapple can be used for salad. There is no waste.

Whie Lincoln Cake.—One and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup butter, two-thirds cup milk, two and one-half cups flour (sifted five times), four eggs (whites only, beaten stiff), two teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful vanilla; cream sugar and butter thoroughly; add milk, then flour(reserve one-half cup to mix with baking powder), whites of eggs; baking powder with remainder of flour and lastly, flavoring. Fudge Filling — One and one-third cups of sugar, one-third cup milk, one square unsweetened chocolate, piece of butter size of an egg, one teaspoonful vanilla. Boil sugar, milk, chocolate, and butter until it bubbles. Remove from the stove and add vanilla. Beat to a cream, spread on cake. Do not make filling until cake has baked. This cake is delicious and the recipe is reliable, always turning out fine.

Banana Float Cake.—Make a rich, flaky pie crust and line a baking pan—according to size of cake desired—and with a fork thoroughly perforate the crust, and bake to light brown. Make a cream as follows: One quart of milk, yolks of three eggs, three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch—flour may be used—and six tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar; boil like custard and add while boiling, stirring lightly, the whites of the three eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Flavor with vanilla. Crumb the stale cake by rubbing between the palms of the hands, and place a generous layer on bottom of the baked crust; on top of this place a layer of sliced bananas, with a sprinkling of sugar over them; then over these layers pour a portion of the prepared cream; again place a layer of the cake crumbs, a layer of bananas and cream; continue in this manner until the crust is filled. Two layers make an excellent cake. Serve while fresh or the crust gets soft and the bananas lose much of their flavor. This cake is delicious and may be served with or without whipped cream.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To make potatoes white when cooked, they should lie pared in cold water for two or three hours.

Stockings washed before wearing will last in good condition far longer than those not washed.

To keep milk from scorching, the saucepan should be rinsed in cold water before pouring in the milk.

The habit of biting off thread among young women damages good teeth and is prolific of sore throats and even blood poisoning.

If a saucepan be burnt rub with a damp cloth dipped in fine ashes, or a damp cloth dipped in coarse salt will have the same effect.

If new boots won't polish rub them over with a cut lemon, and then leave until thoroughly dry. Repeat this remedy once or twice if necessary.

Give children their tea early, so that they may have a good hour's play before going to bed. This play will induce a healthy tiredness, and sleep will soon follow.

Cold water soothes the pain of any sudden inflammation of the ey. Hot water will help to dull the pain, and a weak solution of boric acid is always good for the eye.

If you are distressed to find that some careless person has scratched the new white paint with a match, try rubbing the darkened surface with part of a cut lemon.

Glycerin as an application for scalds is most useful and should be applied immediately after an accident. Strips of linen or rag soaked in glycerin should be gently laid over the affected part.

Fat skimmed from the water in which bacon or meat has been boiled should be kept for frying or pastry. Superfluous fat from joints may be melted—while sweet — and kept for frying purposes.

To keep a skirt placket from tearing out at the bottom sew on a hook and eye at the extreme end of the placket, fasten and then crush flat. This is a simple but very useful thing to know, as it saves many a stitch.

Flannels may be washed by having boiled soap suds poured over them in a tub; in 20 minutes pour off the suds and pour in clean boiling water; pour off and on again more boiling water; squeeze the garments and stretch on line, pressing water out as it settles down.

Women who are addicted to nervousness should avoid peppers, spices, eggs, too much meat, and highly seasoned sauces and dressings. Their diet should consist of fish, soup, celery and lettuce. Both celery and lettuce form an excellent food and tonic for the nerves.

The tissue paper that you get parcels rolled up in should never be crumpled and thrown away, but carefully smoothed out, rolled up and laid away in some drawer or handy place where you know where to find it when you need a nice, soft, clean piece of paper.

ENCOURAGE THAT YAWN.

Doctor Recommends "Gaping" for Respiratory Organs.

Dr. Emil Bunzi, of Vienna, Austria, in speaking of diseases of the throat and their remedies, said that yawning had its great value. Yawning has recently been recommended, independently as a valuable exercise for the respiratory organs.

"According to Dr. Naegli, of the University of Leuttich," said Dr. Bunzi, "yawning brings all the respiratory muscles of the chest and throat into action, and is, therefore, the best and most natural means of strengthening them. He advises everybody to yawn as deeply as possible, with arms outstretched, in order to change completely the air in the lungs and stimulate respiration.

"In many cases he has found the practice to relieve the difficulty in swallowing and disturbance of the sense of hearing that accompany catarrh of the throat. The patient is induced to yawn through suggestion, imitation of a preliminary exercise to deep breathing.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON. FEBRUARY 19.

Golden Text, Isa. 40.31.

Verse 41. The sound of abundance—The Greek Old Testament has here the suggestive words, "the sound of the feet of the rainstorm." All the evidence the prophet had was the word of the Lord, "Show thyself to Ahab, and I will send rain." Faith was not difficult after the miraculous exhibition of Jehovah's power in the sending of fire and the blotting out of the heathenish priesthood. So Elijah urges the king to renew his exhausted vitality with food and drink, at his tent up on the slope of the mountain, before the expected downfall should make a journey to Jezreel impracticable.

42. Elijah went up to the top of Carmel—The rugged haunter of the wildernesses forgot his own need of refreshment in his eagerness to see the hand of Jehovah disptayed still further. The attitude he assumed was one of earnest prayer.

43. His servant—Tradition says this was the widow of Zarephath's son whom he snatched from the jaws of death. The sea was of course the Mediterranean from which rain would naturally sweep in. Six times the lad went up to the point from which the great expanse of water was clearly visible, but each time saw nothing but what had appeared in the brassy sky for three weary years.

46. The hand of Jehovah was on Elijah—That is, he was filled with a divine impulse of rapturous exultation, which carried him before the rapidly moving chariot of Ahab even to the gates of the city Jezreel, where the king maintained a palace. Here he halted, for he had no liking for cities and could easily find shelter in the neighboring Gilboa.

2. Jezebel—To her the events on Carmel meant more than they possibly could to her husband, for her devotion to the cult of her father, who had been a high priest of the Baal-worship in Tyre, amounted to fanaticism. She could not sit idly by and see her work of years obliterated. It was to be expected that she would send just such a message to the prime mover of the threatened revolution, pronouncing upon him a virtual sentence of death.

3. Beersheba—Though this was a town of Judah, about thirty miles south of Hebron, yet Elijah did not feel himself secure there, inasmuch as the king of Israel was in alliance with the king of Judah at this time. So he took himself, in characteristic fashion, to the wilderness (4).

4. Juniper-tree—More properly a species of the broom plant, which grows everywhere in the deserts of the Holy Land. It afforded a poor shelter, but sometimes the best that could be had.

8. Went in the strength of that food forty days—The journey to Horeb, being not over 180 miles, would require a much less time than that. The number forty, however, is often taken to symbolize a period of testing (compare the cases of Moses and Jesus), and here doubtless refers to the time of Elijah's seclusion.

9. What doest thou here, Elijah?—Dr. Farrar gives a vivid interpretation to this question by emphasizing the successive words: "What doest thou here" "He was doing nothing. Was there no work to be done in Israel Was he tamely to allow Jezebel to be the final mistress of the situation?" "What doest thou here?" "Is it not very significant of thy name, 'Jehovah he is my God?' Is he to to be the God of but one fugitive?" "What doest thou here?" "This is the wilderness. There are no idolators or murderers, or breakers of God's commandments here."

10. I only am left; and they seek my life—A confession of conscious failure, on the part of a man thoroughly discouraged.

11-12. Jehovah passed by—He was present in the strong wind, and in the earthquake and the fire, as well as in the still small voice. But the more tumultuous elements did not speak to the soul of the prophet as did the calm following the storm. God manifests himself in the quiet providences of life as well as in its upheavals.

13. He wrapped his face in his mantle—The solemn silence of the mountains filled him with awe and even dread, and he felt impelled to an act of self-abasement. His condition smote him, and with reproachful iteration the question returned: What doest thou here, Elijah?

15, 16. A threefold mission: (1) To anoint Hazel king of Syria, which would mean the founding of a new dynasty; (2) to set up Jehu as king over Israel, thus abolishing the house of Omri; (3) to anoint as his own successor Elisha, son of Shaphat of Abelmeholah. The purpose of all this is partly explained in the next verse. Israel had not been wholly purged of its pollutions by the long famine. It would still be necessary in the divine plan for the swords of Jehu and Hazael to fall upon the Baal-worshipping kings of Israel, and for Elisha to carry the reformatory work still farther. There is no record of Elijah's fulfilling all of this mission, but it came to be fulfilled, in one way and another, through his successor.

19. He with the twelfth—Elisha was guiding but one yoke, the others being in charge of servants.

Cast his mantle upon him—"It meant the adoption of Elisha by Elijah to be his spiritual son; and it meant a distinct call to the prophetic office."

20 Let me kiss my father and my mother—An expression of the tenderness characteristic of the younger prophet, and not an act of hesitation. Elijah, in the words, Go back again, gives him full permission, disclaiming any other purpose in throwing upon him the mantle than simply to summon him to a high duty.

21. Took the . . .oxen, and slew them—A kind of burning of the bridges behind him.

BIRD CHARMER DECORATED.

French Government Pays Honor to Familiar Figure.

M. Henry Pol, the famous bird-charmer of the Tuilleries, whom all Paris knows and admires, has been decorated by the French Minister of Agriculture.

His daily "receptions" of his birds in the Tuilleries form one of the most fascinating entertainments in Paris, and are always watched by hundreds of interested sightseers. M. Pol feeds his chirping flock regularly every morning, to the delight of children and grown-up strangers. He has very appropriately been called the Saint Francis of the Tuilleries, and rightly so; for like the Saint of Assist, he has only to call the birds from the trees and they fly down to perch on his hand or his shoulders. He gives them the names which they remember, speaks to them, and they listen. His charm over the birds is really remarkable. Each sparrow has its name, and picturesque names, too, they are. They range from the Christian names of Jean and Jeanette to those of revolutionary celebrities. "There is Phillippe, now," he will say. "I have not seen him for several days. Come here, Phillippe, you little rascal; where have you been all this time?" And Phillippe, a very plump, dark brown sparrow with a sly look, would fly out of a crowd of twenty or thirty watching for crumbs on the gravel and perch on M. Pol's finger. His success is the result of years' of effort, as he used to pass through the garden on his way to work.

GOLD IN SCOTLAND.

Believed That it Can Be Mined in Paying Quantities.

One scarcely thinks of Scotland as an Eldorado or a Klondike, yet it is a matter of pride, with the poorer Scots especially, that in its river beds Scotland has real gold, which in the days of Macbeth and the early kings was worked into crowns and coins, jewelry and the like. For centuries the ancient deposits have been nothing more than a tradition. From time to time gold seekers have dug pits and channels in the river banks to the annoyance of huntsmen, but nothing worth while had been discovered until recently. In the last days of the Scottish kings gold mining in the Leadhill district of Lanarkshire was said to have been quite an industry, and certain coins of that period were struck from native gold. The immediate supply probably worked out and the workings were abandoned.

A few years ago gold was discovered in workable deposits in Argyll. But when a few grains were recovered it was noted that the expense made further mining impossible, so it was abandoned. At Kildonan, where gold is said to be deposited in considerable quantity, operations have always been forbidden. Now it is reported that the Duke of Sutherland is about to permit mining on his estates at Kildonan, and experts believe that with improved apparatus the gold can be taken out profitably.

$9 TO MAKE A CRIMINAL.

It costs $9 in Chicago to make a recognized criminal of a man and only $2.10 to make an honest working citizen out of an offender against the law, according to a statement made before a women's club by Rollo H. McBride, whose work for several years has been among delinquent persons. Mr. McBride procured his figures from the financial report of a rescue home, where every man who calls for aid gets it, and from records of the municipal courts. The number of men who actually were returned to industry last year, he said, cost an average of $2.10 each.

A PORTUGUESE BULL FIGHT

THEY DO NOT USE SPANISH METHODS IN THE RING.

Other Amusements of Citizens of the World's Youngest Republic.

The Portuguese is essentially a pleasure-lover. He is not especially devoted to the theatre but takes his pleasures much in the same way as the Spaniard, although his taste in regard to bull-fights is by no means so sanguinary. In the Spanish fight gore is the predominant feature, and in the Portuguese it is a display of elegant horsemanship—the bull is never killed.

The Bull Ring at Lisbon is situated at the extreme end of the famous Aveneda di Liberdale, which was the scene of the most severe fighting between the Republican and Monarchist troops. On a fete day, when the bull-fight is to take place (and this is generally on a Sunday), the concourse of people is enormous, and a stranger might well imagine that an infantile revolution had broken out, for from early morning until the time of the bull-fight, at two or three in the afternoon, there is a succession of shells, and rockets fired in open spaces, and especially in the vicinity of the railway station and the famous Roly-Poly Square, the stones of which are laid in such an erratic fashion that they resemble the waves of the sea, and which ever way the tourist walks across them he involuntarily raises his foot as though to step over a rise in the ground.

All over Lisbon, and especially along the Aveneda, there is a curious fashion in pavements, and all kinds of weird scrolls and twisting, twirling, and dragon-like figures are made in tesselated tiles—either white upon black, or black upon white.

On the days of the bull-fights the victors are escorted through the streets. In gaily decorated carts with their lady admirers in startling costumes, and the constant cracking of fireworks mingles with the cheers of the crowd. A Portuguese bull-fight is worth seeing, and even the Humanitarian League could find little to cavil at it. It is certainly no more cruel than fox-hunting or stag-stalking. The bull-fighters earn large salaries, and many of them are popular heroes. Some of them are quite wealthy men.

has long ago seized upon the Portuguese in a manner which would astonish the owners of picture palaces.

From noon until the small hours of the morning the streets of Lisbon and other large towns are a perfect pandemonium with the clanging of bells and the shrieking of steam-blown organs at the doors of these scores of picture palaces almost side by side in the main thoroughfares. The price of admission is exceedingly low, for, although the Portuguese is a great pleasure-lover, he likes to get enjoyment as cheaply as possible and to have as much for his money as he can. The shows are continuous, and one can stay as long as one likes or rather as long as one can stand the din of a forty-horse power engine blaring out every noisy tune that was ever composed.

The heat in these badly ventilated, long, and narrow rooms is insufferable; the air is thick with tobacco fumes, for everyone smokes and the refreshment-bars and food-stalls therein do

AN ENORMOUS TRADE.

The Portuguese looks well after "little Mary." When some popular or political scene is thrown on the screen—and the films, by the way, are very flickery and bad from constant use—there is sometimes a demonstration, for a very little lures on the lower orders, who are the great patrons of these resorts, to a scrimmage.

Like the Spaniard, again, the Portuguese is a born gambler, and be it in the bets over the success of any particular bull-fight, or at cards, or at the everlasting lottery, there is always some money to go in these directions. There can be no doubt that, if the Government alowed it, roulette and other games which are now sacred to Monte Carlo, would flourish in Lisbon and other Portuguese cities; and before the revolution broke out there was said to be a project on foot for the starting of a gambling Casino on Monte Carlo lines at Funchal, in the Island of Maderia, one of the few colonial possessions of the new Republic.

It remains to be seen what the present Administration may have to say as to deriving revenue for an impoverished country from this source, and whether a concession to allow gambling will be granted.

THE MODERN MAN-OF-WAR

UNDER-GARMENTS OF THE NEWEST BATTLESHIPS.

The Interior Coating Is Produced Chiefly From Cocoanuts.

Battleships wear coats of stout armor plate, as everybody knows, but everybody does not know that they wear undergarments which are produced chiefly from cocoanuts, says Pearson's Weekly. Your most powerful man-of-war is really a very delicate object, and requires special underclothing so that some vital parts of his anatomy may not become too cold, and so that other equally vital portions may not become too hot.

From stem to stern, which is another way of saying from head to toe, your enormous super-Dreadnought is enveloped in an undergarment placed immediately behind its topcoat of armor plate. This is its especial mackintosh, or rather waterproof, which acts as a protection from fire as well as water.

In the ordinary way, if a shot pierced the side of a battleship, water would pour in at the hole, and possibly the ship might sink, but this is obviated by providing a backing to the armor. Great secrecy is kept in the various navies regarding the material used, and its arrangement.

"JACKETS" FOR THE BOILERS.

In many of the latest battleships, however, the coating is made of cellulose, which again is obtained from the fibrous cocoanut. Cellulose possesses the peculiar property of swelling immediately it comes into contact with salt water. Therefore the moment the water pours in at a hole in the ship's side, the cellulose almost instantly expands, and so closes the aperture. Of course the cellulose is especially treated in order to render it fireproof.

A man-of-war has its vitality enormously diminished if certain portions of it become too cold, and in much the same way as its human tenants. Accordingly, the boilers and steam pipes are clothed with "jackets." In some cases the jackets are made of ordinary blanketing, in others of a fibrous clay-like composition, or even of close-grained wood. In general, the material used for a ship's underclothing of this description consists of mineral wool, however.

The great ship is more likely to suffer from the effects of heat than those of cold. There is always the danger, owing to the newer type of machinery employed, that the powder magazines may get too hot.

In the latest men-of-war the stores are surrounded by a thick coating of mineral wool. Mineral wool, by the way, has nothing whatever to do with wool, as it consists of a mass of snowy threads of a kind of glass. It is made by blowing jets of high-pressured steam through the streams of liquid slag which flow from the furnaces in the manufacture of iron and steel.

AMMUNITION ROOMS COOL.

Enormous quantities of this strange variety of wool are used on board for the purposes of underclothing the bulkheads and the more delicate portions of the ship's body. This invaluable substance acts equally well as a protector from heat and from cold. It is such a remarkable non-conductor of heat that it is used for covering the refrigerators and the cold-storage chambers, and therefore the explosive stores.

In the dockyards all the men who are employed in packing the mineral wool in the spaces on the ships are obliged to wear masks. This is to prevent the sharp, needle-like particles from being inhaled and so causing chest troubles of a fatal character. It is a very different substance from the fleecy material obtained from sheep.

The ammunition rooms themselves are kept cool by a refrigerating plant in addition to being clothed in mineral wool, the same applying to the ammunition passages. The wool is also packed between the double bulkheads which separate the boiler spaces from the other portions of the vessel. Altogether the uses of mineral wool on board are extremely numerous.

Even reindeer hair is to be met with on board in the capacity of a particular sort of underclothing. This material is very light, considerably lighter than cork, for instance, and is not so subject to decay. For this reason, amongst its many uses it is of great value as a filling for the lifebuoy.

There are many other strange materials used on board for the purpose of providing a protection to delicate portions of the vessel's anatomy. Still, these are of minor importance compared with the materials mentioned, though they range from indiarubber to solid slate.

PICTURE OF MONTREAL JAIL

Governor Valee Calls It a Breeding Place for Crime and Disease

A despatch from Montreal says: Governor Valee of the Montreal jail stated on Wednesday that he has 421 prisoners packed into the jail, whereas he has only accommodation for 225. He says the jail is a breeding place for crime and disease.

"The number goes on increasing" he added, "and will increase, and we can do nothing, but simply pack them in wherever we have a square inch of space. If there was once a blaze started here every soul would be burned like a cockroach, and the holocaust would be the worst which would have ever happened in Canada.

"I tell you I cannot sleep at nights wondering what is going to happen. I am beset by fears on every side. Discipline is suffering, for we cannot handle our prisoners with conditions as they are at present. How can we! or how can we try to use reformatory methods under such conditions! Instead of sending our prisoners back to society repentant and determined to become good citizens, they are leaving here, if possible, worse than when they entered. Vice is rampant in the jail; you have no idea of what goes on, it is the worst of all the terribly difficult problems with which we have to deal, but we cannot stop it, we cannot apply any remedies, for we have not got them to apply."

TO REFOREST.

American Lumber Firm Will Plant Trees in New Brunswick.

A despatch from St. John, N. B., says: Following an extensive investigation on reforestration, an American lumber company, now operating in New Brunswick, plans immediate action in reforesting the more denuded parts of the province. Nurseries will be established at Salmon River and Matins Head, where trees will be grown from seed. The Company has 50,000 acres at Cookshire, Quebec, which will be seeded this spring. The work to be done this year, it is understood, is merely preparatory to extensive reforestration in New Brunswick and Maine.

OX STOLEN AND BUTCHERED.

Three Men Arrested at Aylmer, Que., Charged With Crime.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Chief Hamilton of Carleton county on Thursday morning arrested Hector Robert, Michael Beaudry and Alfred Noel of Aylmer on a charge of theft and slaughtering a prize ox belonging to Alex. Wilson, a farmer of South March. The ox was stolen from Wilson's stable on Wednesday, taken out on the ice of the Ottawa River, killed with an axe, and sold at Aylmer. The bloody axe found on the ice led to the identification of the men.

HIS POCKET HIS BANK.

Widow Finds $3,000 in Old Suit of Clothes About to be Burned.

A despatch from North Canaan, Conn., says: The widow of Solomon Barlow, of this place, who died in a hospital in Pittsfield, Mass., on Monday, was about to burn a suit of his clothes on Thursday, when she found a package containing $3,000 in bonds and bills in one of the pockets. Barlow was considered prosperous, but no member of his family believed him to have such a sum. He did not believe in banks. He was seventy-four years old.

AXE USED DURING QUARREL.

Mrs. Boujamra Charged With Attempted Murder.

A despatch from Cobalt says: Mrs. F. Boujamra, a Syrian, was given a preliminary hearing on Wednesday afternoon on the charge of attempted murder, the result of a quarrel with Mrs. George Alies on Tuesday. The women were quarrelling about their children, when Mrs. Boujamra is alleged to have picked up an axe and struck the other woman over the head and shoulders. Mrs. Alies was unable to appear in court on Wednesday, and the case was adjourned. Her husband wanted to withdraw the case, but the Magistrate would not allow this, and the defendant was held in custody.

SHOT FOR A BURGLAR.

Nova Scotia Man Seriously Wounds a Neighbor.

A despatch from Sydney, N. S., says: Louis Sodoisk put two bullets into Antonio Ariatook, a Polander, on Friday. Sodoisky found a man entering his house through a window early on Friday morning, holding a glittering object in his hand. Sodoisky secured his own revolver, and thinking to scare the intruder, fired twice. Both shots took effect, one entering the head and the other breaking one hand. Sodoisky was the first to acquaint the authorities of the affray. He was released on $1,000 bail.

PLOT TO KILL TWO KINGS.

Bombs for Victor Emmanuel and Peter of Servia.

A despatch from Rome says: The Tribuna prints a circumstantial story of an Anarchist plot to throw bombs at King Victor Emmanuel and King Peter of Servia, who is to visit Rome shortly. The paper says that an Italian Anarchist named Dantelo, who resided in New York and London and who is now here, expected to be joined by two other Anarchists from London. These were arrested at Trieste and the plot was frustrated.

A SCARCITY OF DRY FISH

Last Cargo of Cod Sells in Nova Scotia for the Highest Price on Record

A despatch from Halifax N. S., says: The scarcity of dry fish in Nova Scotia is alarming, and the great problem is how the consumer is going to get along until the spring catch is marketed, which will not be for three or four months. The last cargo of Lunenburg fish, in first hands, has been disposed of, and with the exception of stocks held by retailers the market has been cleaned up. The last cargo of cod was sold at Lunenburg for $6 a quintal, which is the highest on record.

There is reported to be some stock in the dealers' hands in St. John's, Nfld., but the quantity is limited, and there are three months yet before new fish will reach the market, and the small quantity now in St. John's will soon be taken up. Add to this the fact that the green fish on the coast has been bought up and there is none to dry in the early Spring, as in other years, the situation is unprecedented in the history of the salt fish trade.

Notwithstanding that prices were high months ago, there have been further advances, and the situation is so serious that the consumption abroad will have to be curtailed.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Feb. 14.—Choice steers sold at 6¾c; good at 6¼ to 6½c; fairly good at 5¾ to 6c; fair at 5¼ to 5½c, and the lower grades at 4½ to 5c per pound. Sheep sold at 4¼ to 4½c, and lambs at 6¼ to 6½c per pound. The market for hogs opened stronger; $8.00 per 100 pounds for selected lots weighed off cars. The demand for calves was good, and sales were made at prices ranging from $3 to $15 each, as to size and quality.

Toronto, Feb. 14.—A price that was paid for a good many cattle was $6.10, but that was as high as they went. Even canners were quoted as high as $3.25. Lambs were up to $6.60, and sheep were firm at $4.25 to $4.75 for ewes and $3.50 to $4 for bucks and culls. Calves were quoted as high as $8.75 for the best veals and no lower than $3.75 for the poorest. There was no change in the situation with regard to hogs. There were a few milch cows on the market, but $60 was the best figure recorded. The trade for milkers and springers has been off color for some time.

WILD MAN OF NEW ONTARIO

Captured After Desperate Struggle and Will be Sent to Asylum

A despatch from Fort William, Ont., says: To all appearances as wild as the denizens of the New Ontario forest, which have been his sole companions for the past four years, John Beck, about 40 years of age, garbed in crudely fashioned coat and trousers of skins, was taken through Fort William from Vermillion Bay, about a hundred miles north-west of this city, to Kenora, on Wednesday, where he will be committed to an institution for the violently insane. Since the winter of 1907, when he lost part of his hands while dynamiting for fish, Beck has lived in the wilderness near Vermillion Bay, a new station of Grand Trunk Pacific. Although his identity and place of abode, a crevice in a rock twenty miles from the nearest dwelling, were not known until a few days ago, he was feared by construction men and the few lumbermen who visited the district. Fleet of foot and as wary as an untamed beast, he never allowed his fellowmen to approach him. At the sight of a human being he invariably vanished in the dense bush. He was finally captured after a desperate struggle by Canadian Pacific Railway Constable Ball, of this city, and a Dominion constable of Ignace. He had existed during the four years on raw fish, rabbits and fowl, which he snared or killed with stones or clubs. In the house nature had fashioned for him were found only a pile of dry leaves, two or three dried skins, and a pile of stones.

700 FOR CORONATION.

About Four Representatives From Each Regiment.

A despatch from Ottawa says: It has been decided that there will be forty-eight officers and altogether a force of about seven hundred strong on the Canadian contingent to the Coronation. This will mean that each regiment of cavalry and infantry will have about four representatives, and each brigade of artillery the same number. The non-commissioned officers and men will be raised by the officers commanding the different units. The men will wear the uniforms of their respective corps on the contingent.

TWO LIVES LOST IN A FIRE.

Joseph Phillips and Michael McMahon Dead at Montreal.

A despatch from Montreal says: An overheated stovepipe caused a fire on Sunday morning in the boarding-house kept by Joseph Phillips, aged 70, on Prince street, and Phillips, with one of his boarders, Michael McMahon, aged 47, lost their lives. John Quinlan, who had retired to rest fully dressed, was almost suffocated when he awoke to find the house in flames. The heat was so intense and the smoke so thick that Quinlan made a hurried escape through one of the windows on the stairway, and raised an alarm. Quinlan's face and hands were badly burned. When the brigade arrived the fire was quickly extinguished. Groping their way through the house the firemen discovered the dead bodies of Phillips and McMahon and also the body of Mrs. Phillips, aged 70, who was lying unconscious on the dining-room floor.

SALARIES RAISED.

Winnipeg Teachers to Get as Much as Any Others on Continent.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: The salaries of all teachers, with the exception of the principals, in the Public schools of Winnipeg have been voluntarily raised. The new schedule places the schools of his city on a basis as high as that in any other city in America. The minimum for inexperienced teachers has ben raised from $450 to $500. Regular teachers will be paid $650 to $800 for the first year, instead of $575 to $725. The maximum is to be reached at the end of the eighth year instead of the ninth as before, and it will range from $900 to $1,000 instead from $800 to $850.

FEARS OF BUBONIC PLAGUE

Europe Cannot Be Infected Save Through Criminal Carelessness.

A despatch from Paris says: Dr. Burnet of the Faculty of Paris University, who has made a special study of the bubonic plague, affirms that the sole means of preventing its spread from Manchuria to Europe is by isolation.

Dr. Elie Metchinikoff of the Pasteur Institute is of the same opinion, and, by showing the possibility of successfully isolating the plague, he is prompt to reassure the French public, which has lately been watching the reports from Eastern Asia with considerable apprehension.

He adds that even the frightful mortality in Manchuria is, in fact, a safeguard for Europe, for the reason that the plague ceases to advance only when it ceases to find material upon which to feed within its immediate reach. Dr. Burnet says on this head:

"The greater the number of quick deaths from the plague the smaller the number of perambulating victims of the plague. It is from the latter that the world at large has most to fear. The work of the European physicians who are fighting the plague in Manchuria is more sanitary than medical.

"In spite of the speedy communication of the Trans-Siberian Railway," concludes Dr. Burnet, "Europe will not be infected unless it is done through absolutely criminal carelessness. The very character of the plague, together with our modern sanitary organizations, protects us."

"Let the bells ring,
Let the bells ring;
Man without woman
is but a poor thing."

There is no need of a man running down his own town where he can find at least six trains daily on which to leave if he wants to find a better place.

Just now it looks as if there were more bankers go to penitentiary than editors. After all, with the temptation of piles of money always on hand the bankers do not show up so badly. Editors have not the same temptation to appropriate other people's money. As a rule it keeps them busy getting hold of their own.

Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, provincial deputy registrar-general is warning the clerks of municipalities that they must send in returns of vital statistics. Many of these officials are neglecting to do so although it is compulsory under penalty of a fine. One clerk in Simcoe Co. has already been fined $50, and other prosecutions will follow.

As the result of a conference between Judge Mabee, chairman of the Dominion railway board, and James Leitch, chairman of the Ontario railway and municipal board, important bills will be introduced in both the Ottawa and Toronto Parliaments, which will compel steam and electric roads to make connections for the carriage of freight, and will reduce charges generally under such conditions. This will aid in the development of radial traffic, which has been blocked to a great extent by the refusal of the Grand Trunk and other lines to accept freight direct from the short radials for a long haul over the steam roads.

There is a bill before the Legislature to extend the midsummer holidays in rural schools two weeks, making them uniform with the urban school holidays. Rural schools now open after the summer holidays two weeks earlier than do the urban schools. We could never understand the reason for this. If any difference the reverse should be the case. Farmers require the assistance of their boys and girls in the harvest season more than any other time of the year, while many town parents would doubtless be pleased if their children had fewer idle hours on their hands.

There is no reasonable excuse for any man to live in a town if he doesn't like it. If you have no word of commendation to say for your own, its institutions or people, emigrate. You won't stop the town clock by going away. The church bells will have the same musical ring, the little dogs will play just as well and the pure air, bright sunshine and sparkling water will have the same health-giving properties. Speak a good word for your neighbor, if you can; if not, don't everlastingly enlarge on their faults. If you have become thoroughly disgruntled move away—go somewhere where things will suit you.

The immigration rush to Canada for 1911 is on. The advance guard from England will arrive some time this week Scouts have already put in an appearance to look over the ground. The G. T. R. and the C. P. R., and the Canadian Northern have all carried on an unprecedented campaign this winter to secure immigrants in Great Britain for their respective territories in Canada, and this is already showing its effect in the tremenduous rush of bookings for all the boats coming to Canada this spring. The starting of the rush the first week in February is eloquent of the popular feeling in England for Canada as a land of opportunities, for the immigration agents discourage as much as possible the coming of new settlers to this country before March.

Catarrh Cannot be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

Revival meetings commenced in the Methodist church on Sunday night. We trust they will be the means of doing much good.—Quite a number of our people attended the concert given in James st. Methodist church, Exeter by The Welsh Choir on Friday evening it was a treat to hear the singers and those who missed it are sorry.—Chas. D. Braun, who has been visiting his parents for several weeks, left for Pittsburg on Tuesday.—John Zueffle of Hensall visited his mother, Mrs. Chas. Brown on Sunday.—Samuel and Christian Voelker have returned to Detroit, their father having recovered sufficiently to allow them to return to their work.—Mrs. Garnet Baker of London is spending a few days with her sister, Miss Ella Beaver.—The song service given by the choir of the Evangelical church last Sunday evening was well attended. All enjoyed the music and were well pleased with the program.—We are pleased to learn that Frederick Clark of Islay, Alta., a former Crediton boy, has been re-elected councillor of his district. His many friends here extend hearty congratulations.—At the last meeting of the Quarterly Board of the Methodist Church was invited to remain for the fourth term, which was accepted. Rev. Hicks is a very popular pastor and has done good work and won many friends here.—Miss May Armstrong of Exeter spent the week-end the guest of Mrs. H. K. Eilber.—While walking near the church on Saturday Samuel Brown fell on the icy sidewalk and had to be assisted home. He has suffered a great deal of pain but there appears to be no broken bones. We trust he will soon be able to resume his duties.—Walter Clark is now caretaker of the Methodist church.—Quite a number attended the burial service of Miss Lulu Young at Exeter cemetery Friday. The bereaved family have the sympathy of all in their hour of trial and bereavement.—Art Zwicker, traveller for Canada Spice and Grocery Co., London, was in town Thursday.

Solomon Beaver of Sanilac, Mich., spent a few days in town last week visiting his parents. His brother George returned with him to learn the tailoring trade. Success, George.—The children and friends of Jacob Haist met in his home to celebrate his 84th birthday. All had a very pleasant. We are pleased to state that the old gentleman is still in fair health, active in mind and spirits, and we all trust he will be spared to enjoy many more years of good health.—Mr. Wilson, teacher, spent Sunday at home in Wingham.

Several of our townsmen are thinking of buying autos this coming summer. Albert Morlock has the agency for a good line of cars and being agood practical man knows what he speaks about when he recommends an auto—Otto Brown has bought out a blacksmith business in Sebewaing, Mich., and will move the last of the month.—H. Eilber, M.P.P., who is attending the Legislature in Toronto, spent the week end at home.—The pupils of the H. S. Dept. of our school presented their late teacher, C. K. Bluett, B. A., with a handsome gold-headed umbrella.—The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Beaver, which died after two days' illness in Port Huron, was interred in the Evangelical cemetery Wednesday. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the vicinity.

On Friday evening the school trustees, past trustees and members of our bowling club with their wives met in the home of Mr and Mrs Bluett for the purpose of making him a presentation on the eve of his departure from our midst. Mr. W. H. Wenzel read the following address after which Mr. Michael Finkbeiner presented Mr. Bluett with a beautiful leather gravelling bag and an address. Mr. Bluett made a very appropriate reply, thanking his friends for the many kindnesses shown him in the past and especially for the gift presented to him on this occasion. A supper had been prepared to which all present did justice. After the supper, the assembled appointed Henry Sweitzer chairman who after a few remarks called on different parties in the room to say a few words. The evening passed off quite merrily and all had a good time.

To Claude K. Bluett, B. A.

Dear Friend,—

It is with deepest regret that we learn of your departure from among us, after being numbered as one of our closest friends and neighbors during your residence in our midst.

As principal of our Public School you have been the means of raising its standard of proficiency until it has become second to none in the County. Pupils have passed through your hands who will always be proud to refer to your instruction with pleasure.

As a member of the Bowling Club and the Crediton Athletic Association, you will be greatly missed as it was through your untiring efforts that the Village of Crediton has become known far and wide as a wide-awake town and a place where good, clean sports are held, and where the best of good will exists amongst the players and the town people.

Your removal is a distinct loss to our town and we hope that you and your family will be bountifully blessed by the Giver of all good.

We are pleased, however, that you are not contemplating a removal to a far distant point and although we will be separated more than in the past, we look forward to having the pleasure of greeting you occasionally.

To express a slight token of your association with us, we desire you to accept this gift, which we hope may be the means of recalling many pleasant recollection of the days spent in Crediton.

Sides were chosen by J. Passmore and Fred Busch, the latter winning out by four birds. Passmore made the highest single score, getting nine out of ten. After the oyster supper match some sweeps were shot in which J. Hunkin of Exeter won first money, S. Fitton second and T. Brintnell third.

Death—After an illness lasting over two weeks John Shepherd, one of our most useful and highly respected citizens passed away on Tuesday evening of last week. Deceased was born near Montreal 64 years ago. Forty years ago he came to Chiselhurst and purchased a farm. While living on the farm he engaged in the cattle business and was known throughout this section as an honest, straightforward man of business He was several times elected to the Council of Tuckersmith and was Reeve for several terms, sitting as well in the County Council. About 12 years ago he came to Hensall. A genial whole souled man of generous impulses he was liked by everyone and his death has cast a gloom over the whole community. He was a man of fine physique and never knew a day's real sickness until taken down with pneumonia. He leaves a widow, formerly Miss Stewart, two sons and two daughters, to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father. The sons are John on the old homestead at Chiselhurst and William at home; The daughters are Mrs. Wilson Wood of London and Mrs. Fred Manns of Hensall. He was an enthusiastic Oddfellow and the lodge took part in the funeral service on Friday, the remains being interred in McTaggart's cemetery.

CLANDEBOYE

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson of the village will have the sympathy of many friends in the death of their infant son which occured Friday morning after a short illness. The funeral took place on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

SURE SIGNS OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

If your back is constantly aching and if you experience dull shooting pains your kidneys are out of order. If your urine is thick and cloudy or your passages frequent, scanty and painful, your kidneys and bladder are out of order. Neglect quickly brings on rheumatism, diabetes, lumbago, sciatica, etc.

Mrs. John Wagner of 110 Hollis St., Halifax, N. S., says,— "Dull shooting pains would catch me across the small part of my back and extend into my shoulders and neck, often causing me to suffer with severe headaches and spells of dizziness. Spots would dazzle before my eyes and everything would turn black. I would fall to the floor and be unable to get up again without assistance. A friend told me of Booth's Kidney Pills and I began their use. The first box gave me relief and I am now well and strong."

McGILLIVRAY

Elizabeth, the beloved wife of Mr. Geo. Curtis, died at her home, Salem, McGillivray, on Sunday, Feb. 5th, in her 67th year. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sawdon and was born in Yorkshire, Eng. She came to the townline with her parents in the 70's being then in the prime of young womanhood. During the last ten years she has been blind and this affliction but endeared her to those who endeavored to make the dusk of her life as bright as love could make it. She is survived by her husband, two sons and three daughters.

TUCKERSMITH—An old and respected resident of Tuckersmith died at the home of her son-in-law, Thomas Archibald, McKillop, last week in the person of Mary McMurray, wife of the late William Ireland of the Mill Road, Tuckersmith. Mrs Ireland was 69 years of age. She was a daughter of the late William McMurray, one of the pioneer residents of this township.

KIPPEN—Mr. Wm McDougall of the third of Tuckersmith, who is one of our most successful farmers, has disposed of his fine farm of sixty acres to Mr. Wesley French of Port Elgin. The price was $4,200. Mr. French is a son-in-law of Joseph Upshall of our village.

KIPPEN—Miss Maggie McLean received word last week from the United States Consul General, bearing the sad news of the death of her brother, Mr. John McLean, which occurred at Yokahama, Japan, last month. No particulars of the sad event were received, further than that death was caused by cancer of the throat.

TUCKERSMITH—Henry Cudmore of con. 2, has sold his farm, containing 75 acres, to A. Pepper, a near neighbor. Mr. Cudmore will retire to Seaforth. He has been a resident here about all his life and his removal will be regretted.

MITCHELL—The death of Mr. Walter Thomson occurred in Texas last week, whither he had gone a month before to visit his son, in the hope of regaining his health. He was one of the leading oatmeal millers in Ontario, and was 70 years of age. His remains were brought to Mitchell for interment.

MITCHELL—Mrs. Alex Linton of Hibbert, who is visiting her nephew here, is a great-great-grandmother at the age of 85. All her 13 children, 50 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild are still living.

SEAFORTH—William Grieve, one of the oldest residents oft his district, died at his home in Seaforth on Monday of last week, aged 72 years. He was a son of the late John Grieve, a pioneer of McKillop.

FALLING HAIR

Mrs. Jas. Harris of Wappella, Sask., says,—

"I have found Parisian Sage to be the best scalp and hair tonic and dressing I have ever used. My hair has been coming out in combs full and was very dry and brittle, and the scalp was always itching and full of dandruff. I have used twol bottles of Parisian Sage and it has stopped my hair from falling, the itching and dandruff have disappeared and my hair is fine and soft and glossy. I would not be without this fine Hair Tonic for many times the price."

For women, men, or children Parisian Sage is without any doubt the finest preparation for the hair. Daintily perfumed, it is free from grease or stickiness and ought to be where every member of the family could use it daily. Large bottle 50 cents at all druggists or from the proprietors, The Giroux Mfg Co., Fort Erie, Ont., postpaid. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. Sold and guaranteed by W. S. Cole.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE,

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER VII.—(Cont'd)

Derrick muttered something not complimentary to the newcomer, but the next instant he was exchanging a warm handclasp with Sir Humphrey; while Nancy, scarcely knowing what she said, hurried away to coax some red roses from Mr. Murdock, the autocratic head gardener of Ripstone Hall.

"Well, Derry, my boy, and so your mother is coming down today! God bless me, what years since I have seen Anne! We must make her as comfortable as we can, you know, but I am afraid she will find it very quiet."

"Don't you worry about her, Uncle Humphrey; rest assured my mother will have the best of everything, wherever she may be."

Darnley spoke dryly, though not unaffectionately; but had Sir Humphrey been more observant, he must have noticed that there was an air of suppressed excitement about his nephew, and that Mr. Darnley's gray eyes were fixed persistently in one direction.

"What are you going to do—meet your mother! Oh! well, I suppose I ought to go too. Yes—yes, my boy, I must treat Anne with all due respect, so we had better be off at once; not that way, this is the nearest to the stables."

But Derrick Darnley, muttering something about returning is a moment, rushed down a side path after that slender, blue-robed figure, leaving Sir Humphrey a little amazed, but not at all enlightened.

A few strides brought the young man up to Nancy's side; he had no chance of speaking to her privately, for just in front of them stood the mighty Mr. Murdock himself. His back was, fortunately, turned to them, however, and, by a clever movement, Darnley got that red umbrella at a convenient angle.

"Nancy," he said, in eager haste, "I must speak to you when I come back—I must, my darling! I—I cannot wait any longer! Oh! you understand me, my dearest, do you not! Yes, I read it in your eyes—those exquisite, maddening eyes! I love you—I love you, Nancy, my own, my darling one!"—and, as the soft, eager words died away, he stooped and touched her half-parted lips. "Meet me by the lower lake this afternoon about seven. You can slip away from the crowd easily," he murmured, in low, tender tones. "My love—my darling you will not fail me!"

Once again his lips pressed hers, and then, before she realized that it was no heavenly dream, he had disappeared, and Mr. Murdock was at her elbow with the roses she required.

* * * * *

It had been a freak of Dorothy's that she and Nancy should be dressed exactly alike at the tennis tournament; and, despite our heroine's expostulations and gentle resistance, this desire was carried out.

The dresses chosen were both of Parisian make, being a delicate shade of pink silk, draped with the finest lawn, and trimmed with Valenciennes lace; a large shady hat, with a bunch of the most natural-looking pink roses, was sent to be worn with each of these dresses, and the two girls also carried the most exquisite pink sunshades. The effect was indescribably charming, both to Dorothy's golden hair and fair loveliness, and Nancy's russet locks and cream-white skin.

"Yes, it is very beautiful, dear, and I must confess I look nice," Nancy said, as Dorothy led her to the long mirror in triumph, and showed her her own reflection; "but I don't feel happy in it. I am not you, dear, nor am I your sister. I have no right to this splendor. After all, I am only a bird in borrowed plumes, and some——"

But here Dorothy Leicester placed her hand over her rebellious lips, and then silenced them with a kiss.

"You dare to talk like that, Nancy! You dare! My sister!—my dear, darling sister! I mean to let all the world know you as you really are." She kissed the trembling lips again. "You love me, Nancy?" she asked.

"Love you!" repeated Nancy, with depest emotion. "Oh, my dearest! how can you ask me such a question! Love you! There is nothing on this earth I would not do for you, Dorothy!"

"Then you will oblige me by refraining from talking in the future as you have talked this morning. There!"—with another kiss—"now we will never mention the subject again. Look at ourselves, Nancy. Don't we look too sweet for words!"

"There will be no one to compare with you, dear," Nancy said, softly.

"Except you; and I am not jealous of you."

Dorothy slipped her hand from Nancy's arm, and went to the window.

"There go Aunt Anne and Derry. I wonder if—if he will like these dresses, Nancy! He is a great authority on dress, you know."

There was a pretty tinge of pink on Dorothy's cheeks, but Nancy had grown rosy red.

She only dimly heard Dorothy talking; her mind was back in the rose garden. She saw those two dark-gray eyes, drawing, as it were, her very soul through her own blue ones. She felt only the indescribable enthralment of his presence, his touch on her lips. All else was forgotten—buried in this blissful ectasy.

Dorothy's pathetic eagerness to please her cousin was completely lost. She knew nothing, saw nothing, heard nothing, but Derry—Derry's love, his passionate, tender voice, murmuring his words of love in her ear.

"There, now we are ready. Come along, Nancy; we must go down. I have to introduce you to Aunt Anne and everybody. I wanted you to meet her this morning, but I could not find you. What did you do with yourself, pray, mademoiselle!"

"I went into the village. I wanted to see Mrs. Wortley."

Nancy's voice was low and hurried; it sounded strange in her own ears.

"Naughty girl! If I had only known it, what a scolding you would have had! No wonder I thought you looking pale just now."

"Oh, Dolly!"

And Nancy belied that accusation by blushing deeply again.

And then she followed Dorothy downstairs, and out on the lawn.

"And who are these, pray!" inquired Mrs. Darnley of her son, as she beheld the two dainty forms approaching.

"Don't you recognize Dorothy!"

"Ah! so it is; but the other!" Mrs. Darnley put up her gold eyeglasses and surveyed Nancy through them carefully. "Surely, that is not Gladys Leicester's girl, Derrick!"

"That is Miss Hamilton."

Derry said it very hurriedly, but his voice would thrill.

"Miss Hamilton!" Mrs. Darnley dropped her glass. "My dear Derrick, what a lamentable thing! I quite agree with Lady Merefield, Humphrey should be confined in a lunatic asylum. Did any one ever hear of such utter madness! And to carry it to this pitch! An unknown girl, coming from the gutter, to be decked out identically with Dorothy, as if she were, in very truth, her sister! Oh, I must speak to Humphrey without delay!"

"Do you think it womanly, or just, mother, to condemn an innocent girl in this harsh and unmerciful way!"

Mrs. Darnley looked at her son's face with its drawn brows and hot flush of anger.

"Humphrey is not the only madman, apparently," she observed, coldly, and with that she sailed majestically away, just as Dorothy and Nancy were approaching her.

"Where is Aunt Anne going! I want to introduce Nancy to her," Dorothy said, as they reached Mr. Darnley's side.

"She has forgotten to greet Lady Merefield," he answered, quickly, feeling a desperate longing to crush Nancy in his arms, and so defy his mother and all the world.

Dorothy frowned slightly.

"Well, there is plenty of time, Nancy," she observed. "Aunt Anne is going to stay here some time, so papa tells me."

There was not an excess of pleasure about Miss Leicester as she remarked this, a fact which Darnley noticed at once.

Nancy, fortunately, saw nothing wrong. She was so enveloped in the wonderful, the delicious sensations that had lingered with her ever since the early morning, and now deepened as she stood in her lover's presence again, that her usually keen perception was dull to the fact that Mrs. Darnley had moved away purposely to avoid her, and treated her with a want of courtesy that was making Derry's blood boil; but as Nancy did not dare lift her eyes to his face, his contracted brow and vexed look were lost on her.

"Nancy, we must separate," Dorothy said, as carriage load after carriage load drove up to the entrance and deposited groups of delicately attired ladies on the lawn.

"I must stay here. Will you go to the tents! Papa will present you to every one you do not know already. Darnley, you will stay with me, won't you!"

Mr. Darnley had made half a movement to accompany Nancy, but he was obliged to stop at his cousin's request.

"Here comes Merefield, fully prepared to follow you about like a dog all the day," he said, languidly, his eyes dwelling on the vanishing form that was dearer to him than his life. "You must be kind to him to-day, Dolly."

"I am always kind to him," Dolly retorted; "but he is such a bore."

"Few women consider it a bore to be loved."

"It depends on who loves them," Dorothy replied, softly, a tiny blush coming to her cheeks; then, very hurriedly, just as she went to meet her guests, "Derry, Aunt Anne means to be nasty about Nancy, and I won't stand it. I give you fair warning that I shall be very disagreeable if she is rude to Nancy—she is very dear to me."

"And if she is dear to Dorothy, what is she to me!" communed Darnley with himself, as he stood for an instant alone. "My darling! there seems some marvellous fascination about her—she seems to have bewitched me. I feel as though I could fold her in my arms now and carry her away from everybody. There is nothing I would not do for her; she will find me her knight as well as her lover. If any one dare to insult her, they must answer to me—even if it be my own mother."

His eyes went to that mother's form as she stood haughty, regally tall and handsome; he knew that if Anne Darnley loved any one on earth she loved him; that if any human creature could strike a spark of womanly feeling and warmth from the cold, proud, worldly heart, he alone was that person; yet his own heart failed him. He thought of Nancy, and recalled his mother's hard, angry face as she discussed what she was pleased to term Sir Humphrey's madness about this girl.

"There will be a fight," he said to himself, with half a sigh—"there must be a fight; but I shall conquer. And what if I do not! Why need I care! I have my darling—her love is all I ask; for with her by my side I can face the world, poverty, hard work, I care not what!"

And then he roused himself to go among the chattering, laughing girls, all eager for the tennis affray, and paid his court to the dowagers with all his usual grace of manner.

The Misses Chester were in exuberant spirits, rushing about, clad in scanty white flannel garments, with extraordinary caps on their heads, and useful, though by no means ornamental, shoes on their large feet.

Lady Burton surveyed her progeny with much maternal pride.

"How devoted Lord Merefield is to my dear Ella! Do you observe them!" she remarked to Mrs. Darnley, totally blind to the fact that poor Lord Merefield was being towed about—there is no other word for it—by the energetic Ella, his face looking as sullen and cloudy as the proverbial thunderstorm.

Mrs. Darnley smiled with a scarcely concealed sneer.

"It is a pity," she said, laconically, "that Merefield has nothing with which to support his proud old title. His father might have left him at least a pretence of an income; as it is, he must marry money!"

But Lady Burton was impervious to the broad hint—money or no, he possessed a coronet, and that was everything to her.

"I suppose we shall see dear Mr. Crawshaw here," she remarked next, sweeping the fast-swelling throng with her eyeglasses in search of the millionaire.

Mrs. Darnley frowned.

"Surely they do not admit the man here on such terms of intimacy!" she protested.

WORTH THINKING ABOUT.

Suppose you do have to spend $100 for tile to drain that big swale in one corner of the farm. It may be the means of bringing the worthless land into a crop that will more than pay the expense the first year. Try it.

If we don't chew our food well we have dyspepsia. Too many of us have bitten off more land than we can farm well and the result is soil indigestion and dyspepsia of the pocketbook.

If your neighbor casts a longing eye on your best brood mare be sure she is worth as much to you as to him and hang on to her.

The time to clean seed wheat is in the winter. We will have time to do a better job then than the day before we commence sowing in the spring.

Going to raise a third crop of corn on the same land next year? Great mistake.

HOW TED SHARED.

Ted was cross. That very morning, when he found the ground all covered with snow, he had sat down to the breakfast-table feeling that it would not do him any good, anyway. "For you see, papa, I haven't a sled, it just isn't any fun at all without one," he said.

Papa laughed. "Well, Ted, we must see about that. A snow-storm without a sled would be a good deal like a mince pie without any mince. How much will a sled cost me?" he asked.

This was encouraging.

"I can get a beauty for two dollars!" cried Ted, eagerly. So after breakfast he started for town as fast as he could go, with his shining silver dollars tightly squeezed in his hand.

On the way he stopped in for his intimate friend, Ned, who lived in a small house with so many children in it that Ted used always to think of the old woman who lived in a shoe. But they were the happiest family you ever saw, which was fortunate, for if they had quarreled, it would have been so much harder for the little house to hold them.

"Have you a sled yet, Ned?" asked Ted, as they tramped down the road.

"Not yet," answered Ned, cheerfully, "I did earn a dollar to get one, but Mamie needed shoes just then."

It did not take long to buy the sled, and then, as it was Saturday, they went to the hill to try it. But some way Ted did not enjoy it as he thought he would. And when he came home, he sat down before the grate fire and fell into a brown study. And it must be confessed, it was not a good-natured one, either.

"What is it, Ted?" asked mother, after she had heard two or three long sighs.

"I do wish everybody was rich. You see, Ned gave up his sled to buy shoes for Mamie, and I'm such an old stingy I never thought of buying him a dollar one and one for me, too. And it just took all the fun out of it when I was riding to have Ned up there waiting for his turn, with his hands in his tight pockets—they're always too little. And now I've used the sled, I don't s'pose they'd take it back."

"I think I could arrange that if you would really like to, dear," said mother.

Another struggle went on in Ted's mind.

"I think it would be nice for papa to give him two dollars for one, don't you!" he said, at last.

"No, I don't, dear. I believe you will enjoy a cheaper sled better if you take it for Ned's sake," answered mother.

"Well, I'll try it," said Ted. So he took the sled and note from mamma down-town; and when he came in again, his eyes were like stars. "You're right, mother," he said. "She goes like a top. And Ned is as happy as I am."

"So am I," whispered mother.—Youth's Companion.

THEY IMPROVE FERTILITY.

Live stock on the farm will supply manure necessary to soil fertility and maintenance of humus in the soil. Live stock, in the experience of the Minnesota Experiment Station, requires clover, corn and other forage crops to keep up an ample supply of manure. The experiment Station records show that the largest yields of the various farm crops are secured when grown in rotation, including clover and corn, with the application of barnyard manure. These crops in conjunction with grain crops in a three to five-year rotation provide a good way of keeping the farm free from weeds.

NAMED IT AFTER YANKEE

DOWNING STREET, LONDON, IS FAMOUS.

Identified With Governing Power, Owes Its Existence To An American.

Visitors from all parts of the world who gape their way through London are not aware, perhaps, that the very hub of the British Government owes its existence to an American. Downing street is synonymous with the governing power in the United Kingdom, and it was named after a Yankee, True, George Downing — Sir George Downing they had to make him in the long run—didn't know he was a Harvard graduate. In his day there wasn't any Harvard so far as the name went. The present University was the only public school of Massachusetts. But young Downing was graduated from it just the same, and his name is entitled to a place with those of other dead-and-gone alumni. And it was he who built England's world-famous Downing street.

George Downing was born in America. His was a constructive genius. He put up his own rooms in what now is Harvard—bought the boards and nails and glass himself, and built the little wing with his own hands. Then, having provided a college home for himself, he set about his studies. He studied to such purpose that when he went to England in quest of a career he found one cut out for him. They made a diplomat of the man. Charles II. sent him to the Hague as Ambassador, and incidentally, being a thrifty as well as a merry monarch, took occasion to sell him the little lane along which Henry VIII. had been wont to stroll from Whitehall Palace to see cockfights. Sir George afterwards became Secretary to the Treasury.

FIRST BRICK HOUSES.

Downing street is 100 yards long and 10 yards wide. In its confines Sir George built the first brick houses of importance ever put up in London. His children and grandchildren owned the whole street until Baron Bothmar, then Danish Ambassador to England, bought No. 10 in 1734. About the only thing the Dane did worth chronicling was to die there. No. 10 reverted to the Crown, and George II., thrifty as the Merry Monarch, offered it to Sir Richard Walpole. Just what King George expected to get in return from his Minister is not known. Sir Robert was too fine a fellow to take the great house as a gift, but he accepted it as the official residence of the Lords of the Treasury. As Britain's First Lord of the Treasury usually is Prime Minister as well, No. 10 Downing street is the headquarters of the Premier.

PITT'S DWELLING PLACE.

A desperate attack, fizzling out to mere window-smashing, was made on No. 10 by the Gordon rioters, when Lord North lived there. The great Pitt was so fond of No. 10 that when he could avoid it he never slept elsewhere. He dwelt in the house twenty years. All that time Downing street was getting a reputation. Until 1780 the Ministers dated all their official communications, "The Cockpit, Whitehall," as the place had come to be called early in the sixteenth century. Not until 1793 did "Downing Street" definitely take the place of "The Cockpit," at the head of the Government papers. Downing street was built on a swamp, and the ground under the big houses is sown thickly with age-blackened wooden piles.

$25.00 FOR A LETTER

CAN YOU WRITE ONE?

Eight Prizes to be Awarded in a Letter Writing Contest Open to Every One in Ontario

Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People have been used in Ontario for a generation. Hundreds of remarkable cures have been reported during that time and there is scarcely a family in which the remedy has not been tried with beneficial results. This furnishes the material for the letter to be written in this contest. There is no demand upon the imagination; every letter must deal with facts and facts only.

PRIZES:

The Dr. Williams' Melicine Co., of Brockville, Ont., will award a prize of $25.00 for the best letter received on or before the 20th day of March, 1911, from residents of the province of Ontario, on the subject, "Why I Recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." A prize of $10.00 will be awarded for the second best letter received; a prize of $5.00 for the third best letter, and five prizes of $2.00 each for the next best five letters.

CONDITIONS:

The cure or benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills described in the letter may be in the writer's own case, or one that has come under his or her personal observation.

More than one cure may be described in the letter, but every statement must be literally and absolutely true.

The letter should be no longer than is necessary to relate the benefit obtained from the remedy in the case described.

Every letter must be signed by the full name and correct address of the person sending it. If it describes the cure of some person other than the writer of the letter, it must also be signed by the person whose cure is described as a guarantee of the truth of the statement made.

The writer of each letter must state the name and date of the paper in which he or she saw this announcement.

Fine writing will not win the prize unless you have a good case to describe. The strength of the recommendation and not the style of the letter will be the basis of the award.

It is understood that The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. shall have the right to publish any letter entered in this contest if they desire to do so, whether it wins a prize or not.

The contest will close on March 20th, 1911, and the prizes will be awarded as soon as possible thereafter. Do not delay. If you know of a cure write your letter NOW. Observe the above conditions carefully or your letter may be thrown out.

Address all letters as follows:

ISLAND NOT MUCH KNOWN

LIES MIDWAY BETWEEN SPAIN AND AFRICA.

Iviza, of the Balearic Islands—The Etiquette of Rustic Courtship.

With regard to Iviza, the third in importance of the Balearic Isles, which lies midway between Spain and Africa, its complete history has never been, and never will be, written. From the fragmentary records existent, one gathers that from earliest days occupation of the lovely and fertile island was hotly contested. Chaldeans, Egyptians, Phoenicians, Romans, Greeks, Vandals, Saracens and Moors fought for its possession. Since the Aragonese invasion of the thirteenth century Iviza has belonged to Spain. Here are some interesting details of the life of the people. Describing the Sunday morning scene, when the country folk came to town to mass and to market.

WOMEN RODE MULES.

Some of the women rode mules, sitting perched on a high pile of sheep skins, their multi-colored petticoats billowing about their neat ankles; others were packed closely into open carts that had cushions placed low on either side of their sagging floor matting. With its flippant hues and staid cut the native dress was a bewildering combination of garishness and sobriety.

They say there are ten men for every woman in Iviza, and the aspect of the roads on that sunny April morning inclined us to believe the report, for from every direction came fine, strapping fellows moving in droves. In striking contrast to the expansive attire of the women, the men's dress appeared designed to accentuate their natural slimness. The trousers of richly-colored velvet or plush fitted closely to the limbs, except at the ankles, where they spread widely; while their further adornments were gaily hued shirts or short full blouse jackets and bright sashes.

LAVISH HATS.

The popular large felt hats were lavishly adorned with gold cords; and in addition to one necktie for use, it was customary to add a second, and even a third, for show. As the morning advanced, a moving throng, resplendent in color, crowded the market place. Girls, temporarily free from their chaperones, were parading in demurous rows, their hands, holding pocket-handkerchiefs, heavily edged with crochet lace, sedately crossed over their short but voluminous green silk aprons.

It was perhaps only to be expected that wherever we saw a bevy of girls a corresponding cluster of men would be at hand. Yet we rarely saw them address one another. The modern etiquette of a rustic courtship in Iviza is clearly defined. A plentitude of suitors being assured, it is the maiden who makes the selection. The admirers of a marriageable girl wait for her outside the church door on Sunday, and when she leaves mass the one who has the prior claim presents himself and walks beside her for the first portion of the homeward journey. Then, at a given point, or within a stated time limit, he yields place to the second, and the second to a third, until the number is exhausted.

PISTOLS FOR FALSE SUITORS.

If any suitor seeks to transgress the unwritten law, pistols may flash and knives are apt to spring. In all other matters the people of Iviza are peaceable, and on all points moral and virtuous. It must be admitted that certain of the more frolicsome spirits still keep up the custom of saluting the maidens of their choice with a charge of rock salt aimed at the ankles, and it is devoutly to be hoped that the unwieldy masses of petticoats serve at least one useful purpose by shielding the wearers from the saline missiles of love's artillery.—Mary Stuart Boyd in Chambers' Journal.

LONELY OUT OF PRISON.

So He Asks Judge to Send Him Back Again.

A man turned up in Chicago the other day who, it is believed, is trying to break into prison. Why? Because he likes it.

William Robertson stood up and told Judge Kavanagh that he had spent 32 years of his 67 years behind prison walls. This is not counting the months he has laid in county jails awaiting trials.

"Judge, I spent 26 years in Joliet prison," he told the court. "I swore that when I left it last time I would never go back. But, somehow, the feeling comes over me that I want to sleep there again. Prison ain't such a bad place to be unless you got a grudge. You get good grub and you're treated square. I ain't got any folks, nor any friends, nor any home.

"I've been in so many prisons that I guess that I'm a pretty good judge of 'em. I like Joliet the best. They treat you real white there. The world's a cold place for a man like me, and thoughts of Joliet kinder make me homesick. I don't wanter go to the poorhouse."

MAKE TEETHING PAINLESS

Teething time is always a time of anxiety to mothers. At this time baby becomes cross, restless and nervous. His gums pain him, he is troubled with constipation or diarrhoea, spasms, colic or convulsions. His little life is in danger unless a medicine is given him to keep his stomach sweet and pure and his bowels regular. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. Nothing can equal them during the teething period. They have lessened the worries of thousands of mothers. Among them is Mrs. W. A. Yeadon, Halifax, N.S., who writes:—"I have used no other medicine for baby but Baby's Own Tablets and I would not be without them. Last summer baby was greatly troubled with his teeth until I gave him the Tablets. They helped him and now he is a big healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WORKED WONDERS IN THIS CASE

RHEUMATISM AND WEAK HEART CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

The Doctor helped Mrs. Stephen Roy, but there was no complete cure till she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Rock Mills, Grey Co., Ont., Feb. 13 (Special)—"I must say Dodd's Kidney Pills worked wonders in my case," says Mrs. Stephen Roy of this place. "I suffered with Inflammatory Rheumatism in my right arm, and though I tried several remedies the swelling increased and was very painful. My hands and limbs were also badly swollen.

"I got a doctor and he helped me, but the swelling never entirely left. He said it was because my heart was weak. Then I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and, as I said before, they worked wonders."

Rheumatism of any kind is caused by disordered Kidneys failing to strain the uric acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure it by curing the Kidneys. They also cure the weak heart by making pure blood and lessening that organ's work of propelling the blood through the body.

Dodd's Kidney Pills only cure the Kidneys, but they always do that. And with healthy Kidneys you can't have Rheumatism, Lumbago, Heart Disease, Dropsy or Bright's Disease.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

NEW LOCKJAW CURE.

It is Said to Have Been Successfully Tested.

Doctors in Mankato, Minn., who have been experimenting with lockjaw and cures for it have discovered in a simple injection of Epsom salts into the spinal column what is believed to be a prompt and speedy cure for tetanus.

Because of their professional ethics the doctors have not allowed their names to be used in connection with the remarkable cures which have been effected, but a case recently which came to light proves almost conclusively that the new remedial agent works and can be depended on quite generally.

Herman Mattion of Amboy lost one of his fingers in a corn-sheller, and following an operation lockjaw set in, from which it was not thought he could recover. The two doctors in question were appealed to as having conducted many experiments with tetanus and administered their Epsom salts treatment, at the same time giving out their secret, which has hitherto been unpublished, although several cases had been successfully handled previously. This case was the most pronounced in which a speedy cure was effected.

According to the medical men there have been but eleven cases of tetanus cured in the United States.

THOUGHT IT WAS CANCER.

Sores Spread From Eye to Neck.

Miss Mary Conley, of 194 Colborne St., Montreal, writes: "Over a year ago I became bothered with an unsightly spot on my right cheek. The sore spread until the whole cheek was covered from the eye to far down on the neck, below the ear. It was so noticeable that people asked me if I had cancer, and I began to feel I had.

"I was about to consult a specialist when a lady friend spoke of Zam-Buk, and advised a trial of it, first. Acting on her advice I procured a box and was surprised to notice the immediate effect the balm had on the sores. I used three boxes only, and as I kept applying it each evening before retiring I could see how the sores were being cleaned and dried up. This improvement continued until my face was cleared of sores completely. Zam-Buk is certainly a marvellous balm."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bites, ulcers, blood-poisoning, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Try Zam-Buk Soap! 25c. Tablet.

The Foe of Indigestion.—Indigestion is a common ailment and few are free from it. It is a most distressing complaint and often the suffering attending it is most severe. The very best remedy is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills taken according to directions. They rectify the irregular action of the stomach and restore healthy action. For many years they have been a standard remedy for dyspepsia and indigestion and are highly esteemed for their qualities.

HISTORY VS. NONSENSE.

Little Robbie came home one day considerably agitated over a question that had come up in school. Rushing into the house he demanded of his father:

"Say, pa, who was Demosthenes?"

Bobbie's papa was one of those individuals who was dissatisfied with the general trend of modern educational methods, and frowned on the so-called frills and frivolities injected into the classroom work.

"Demosthenes," he answered sharply, "was one of the early kings of Egypt. I don't see why the schools don't cut out some of their nonsense and teach history."

DENTAL OFFICE CLOSES

KINDLY TAKE NOTICE that my office is closed every Wednesday afternoon. DR. ROULSTON.

SUBSCRIBE for the Advocate and get all the news.

A number of Exeterites drove up to Hensall Tuesday to see the fire.

Mr. Geo. Pedler is still confined to his room, but improving somewhat.

STEP IN AND LOOK AROUND is the password at Powell's Bazaar.

WANTED—Domestic help. Apply to MRS. B. W. F. BEAVERS.

A number of members of the Gun Club took in the Hensall shoot on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Harry Cundy who has been confined to the house with sickness is able to be out again.

Mr. H. Spackman has been confined to his bed through a severe attack of la grippe. He is improving.

A number of Hensall and Centralia students were stalled here Tuesday evening, but were taken in by friends.

Mrs. Harold De Forest Burdick, nee Mildred Stewart of Boston, Mass., arrived Wednesday morning to attend the marriage of her aunt, Miss Oke.

Several north bound passengers were stalled at Lucan Crossing all Tuesday night, having come off the westbound at 5.30, and there being no train going north. The fact that there is no accommodation there is one of the disgraces of the L. H. & B. line, and something the people should not stand for. An appeal to the Railway Commission undoubtedly would right the matter.

DEATH.—The demise occurred just before midnight on Tuesday, the 14th of Rebecca Cole, widow of the late Richard Blatchford, aged 82 years, 9 months, and 6 days. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon to the Exeter cemetery. A sketch of the life of deceased will appear in our next issue.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Special CHINA SALE now on at Powell's Bazaar.

Mr. T. E. Handford shipped a car of horses to Port Arthur this week.

Mr. Byron Hicks of Centralia shipped a car cattle from here last week.

Mr. S. Buckingham is, we are sorry to report, confined to his room and very weak and helpless.

Reeve John W. Taylor is recovering from his recent illness and was able to be out of bed on Sunday.

Rev. James Livingstone has been invited to remain a fourth year as pastor of his church in Mitchell.

Mr. Thos. Bell of Usborne delivered an eight months' old Holstein calf to Frank Wood on Thursday last that dressed 405 pounds. This is a remarkable weight considering the age.

Mr. James McFalls of Sarepta, who has been very ill of pneumonia, has recovered somewhat and hopes of his recovery are now entertained, which will be good news to his many friends.

Word has been received from Crystal City, Man., that Mr. John Cudmore, formerly of Exeter, still continues in very poor health, and that very little hope is entertained for his recovery.

That the James Street church shed answers the purpose for which it was built was evidenced on Friday night when no less than ninety seven horses and cutters were accommodated therein.

The blow on Tuesday accompanied by a fall of snow of the nature of granulated sugar, stopped traffic on this railway line until Wednesday morning, the Tuesday evening trains being cancelled.

The Stratford District Public Library Association will convene in their second annual meeting in the City of Stratford on Friday, 24th February, at 10 o'clock. A representative from the different public libraries is invited to attend. The Ontario Government pays the delegates' expenses.

Mrs. Pollakowski of Mitchell, has a hen which works overtime at the laying business. Ever since Christmas this hen has been laying two eggs every second day, one in the morning and one in the evening, and a single egg on alternate days, thus making three eggs every two days."—Mitchell Advocate.

Prince Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, Duke of Cornwall and Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Great Steward of Scotland, Duke of Saxony and Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester—these are the titles and names which appertain to the oldest son of George V.

We are pleased to inform the bachelors of this town that there will be little change in spring fashions. Socks will be worn with a hole in the heel as as of yore. Collars may be worn for two weeks, more or less. A nail to hold your nether garments in place will be considered the go. Pockets in men's clothes will, as usual, have no change in them.

That the familiar 'hair cut and shave sir" is not the only qualification required by the modern barbor was brought out at the Royal Commission on Industrial Training when one of the witnesses reminded the commissioners of the period when the barbers' and the surgeons profession were one honorable guild, this witness declaring his intention to follow his practice of remedying skin complaints in customers whether the medical profession objected or not.

HICKS' FEBRUARY FORECASTS.—A reactionary storm period central on the 24th, 25th and 26th, will bring return to rising temperature, falling barmeter, cloudiness, rain and snow. The moon is at greatest declination south at this period, calling for northerly wind and bleak winter weather. Any storm period in the last half of February may bring dangerous tropical storms from the northwest will prevail over interior parts of the country. A seismic period central on the 28th, covers the 26th to March the 5th. Note reports of the earthquakes in current news at this time.

DIED IN KANSAS.—A message was received here Monday from Phillipsburg, Kansas, announcing the death of Mr. Thomas B. Atkinson, who passed away that morning in his 62nd year. Deceased was a native of Biddulph, being a son of the late Richard Atkinson. For a number of years he conducted a blacksmith shop at Greenway, Stephen, and later in Exeter. About thirteen years ago he moved from here to Kansas and has since made his home in that state. No particulars of the cause of death has yet been received. Interment took place at Phillipsburg. Besides his mother, Mrs. Jane Atkinson, here, he leaves a wife and one daughter; also four brothers and four sisters—Richard George, John D., of town, Mrs. A. Hooper, Clinton; Mrs. John May, London Road South; Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Wilson, Alpena, Mich.

A HIGH CLASS CONCERT—The Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir, which appeared in the James Street Methodist church on Friday evening last was greeted by an audience that filled that large building to the doors; and to say that every one present was delighted is to put it very mildly indeed. The choir consists of eighteen ladies, directed by Madam Hughes Thomas, and among them were some magnificent voices. To hear the contralto voice alone in 'Il Trovatore" was well worth the price of admission. Without a doubt here was the most beautiful contralto singing ever heard in Exeter. The soprano singing of some of the ladies was also wonderfully good. A pleasing feature was the piano accompaniment, which was all that could be desired, being sweet and soft and low, and at no time interfering with the hearing of the words of the singer, as is too often the case. Taken altogether the entertainment was one of the best that has ever appeared in Exeter, and the Ladies Aid deserve much credit for bringing the choir to Exeter, especially when it was necessary to guarantee $135. The society, however, will pay finantially for the [illegible] receipts

Did you ever stop to reflect that it was one thing to talk about people and another thing to have people talk about you? If those of us who use our tongues a little too freely, about our neighbors, would stop and reflect about this matter and know the great evil that comes from too much gossip and tattling, we are sure we would call a halt and gossip no more forever.

VIVISECTION

Experiments upon animals show that if the channel which conducts the urine from the kidneys—the ureter—be tied so that no urine can escape, the animal will die in a few days, sometimes in a few hours. The fatal result is preceded by symptoms which are due to the accumulation of certain substances in the blood; these substances are the waste products that the kidneys filter out of the blood when they are healthy and working properly.

If there is anything wrong with your kidneys they should be given prompt attention. The impurities in the blood gather and impede circulation so that in time such diseases as Rheumatism and Bright's Disease result.

Nyal's Stone Root Compound stimulates the kidneys and bladder to healthy action and invigorates the liver. It is a combination of stone root with other drugs recognized for their beneficial action in cases of kidney trouble. Price 50c. and $1.00.

If you want anything that a drug store should carry, you will find it here—and at a right price, too.

Mr. T. G. Creech's single dray horse and Mr. W. T. Gillespie's dray team ran away at the station on Friday evening last and both reached home before captured. A broken shaft and some broken harness was the only damage done.

Mr. F. W. Gladman gave a talk on Reciprocity to the young folks of the Presbyterian church Monday evening. Mr. Weldenhammer was to have taken part in the talk, but owing to illness was prevented. For the same reason his room in the school has been closed for a day or two this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bagshaw received the sad news last week of the death of their brother-in-law, John J. Carmichael, who passed away in Clifton, Kansas on Feb. 5th, in the 67th year of his age. He was a native of Canada, being born on April 5th 1844. He was married to Anna Singular of Williams in 1867. He was a man highly respected in the community in which he lived and he is survived by four sons and one daughter.

Five hundred guests enjoyed a delightful evening at the Temple Building Toronto, Friday night, on the occasion of the eleventh annual "At Home" of the Huron Old Boys' Association of Toronto. The president, Major Joseph Peck, occupied the chair, and stirring addresses were given by Mr. Robert Holmes e-xM.P. for West Huron Mr. Thomas MacGillicuddy, Dr. Sloane, and School Trustee W. O McTaggart.

A capital concert programe was provided by Mrs. Leslie A Maxwell, soprano Miss Eileen Hoover, violinist; Miss Leila Hoover pianist; Misses Hattie Gordon and Maude Snyder, Scottish dancers, Master Douglas Stanbury contralto; Mr. Will J. White, comedian; and Piper Ross, of the 48th Highlanders After the concert a dance of twenty numbers and fine supper were provided.

DIED IN LONDON—William Taylor, uncle of Mrs. Alice Taylor, died on Saturday at his late residence, 126 Bricoe street London. The deceased was a former resident of Exeter at different times and was for many years a familiar character on our streets. He was 73 years of age Besides his widow, he is survived by a family of seven. His remains were brought here by train Tuesday morning, and were interred in Zion Cemetery, Usborne.

DEATH OF JOHN HEYWOOD—Death has removed another of our oldest residents. We refer to John Heywood, whose spirit took its flight on Friday last at the great age of 87 years and 3 months. Mr. Heywood had been in good health up to a few days before his demise. Coming from Langtry Town Devonshire, Eng., in 1871 he settled in Darlington township for a few years. Then moving to Fullarton township he engaged in farming. After leaving the farm he moved to Exeter where he remained until four years ago, moving to Chicago after his wife died. He has been living with his daughter, Mrs. Eilber in Chicago. Deceased was a member of James Street Methodist Church and a Liberal in politics. One son and four daughters survive him, besides a number of grandchildren. The daughters are, Mrs. Julia Eilber of Chicago; Mrs. Frank Mallett, Exeter; Mrs. A. Dearing sr., Exeter; Mrs Fanny Simpson, Kirkton; and the son being Bill Heywood of St. Thomas. The relatives have the sympathy of their many friends here. The remains were brought here on Saturday evening and interred in Exeter cemetery on Monday. Those present from a distance were his son, Bill of St. Thomas, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gus Heywood and her daughter Gladys of St. Thomas.

PLEASANT SOCIAL FUNCTION.—A very successful social function was held in the School Room of the Trivitt Memorial Church on Friday evening, Feb. 17th, when a sumptuous congregational banquet was served by the ladies of the congregation. Invitations were issued by the Rector and Mrs. Collins and in response about one hundred and fifty of the adult members of the congregation sat down at the festive board. The hall lends itself advantageously for such a function. It was artistically decorated with bunting and with a bright fire in the new coal stove the appearance was decidedly cosy and homelike. The table presented a picture of perfect arrangement and order. The decorations consisted of abundance of flowers and plants, interspersed with numberless brass and class candlesticks, the illuminating effect being very pretty. After due respect had been paid to the abundance of home-made viands provided by the ladies a toast list was offered, with the Rector in the chair. The following is the order of the toasts which were duly honored and responded to;—The King, National Anthem; The Empire, N. Dyer Hurdon; Canada, W. H. Collins; Trivitt Memorial, L. H. Dickson; Ladies' Guild, Jos. Davis; Bell Ringers, Thos. Case; The Choir, J. H. Marisham; Pioneers, John Hawkins; The Rector and Mrs. Collins. They are Jolly Good Fellows. Mr. Collins replied, thanking the congregation for their good wishes, sympathy and support. One of the most enjoyable evenings in the history of the congregation was brought to a close by the Rector pronouncing the Benediction.

Mrs. John Pedler has a hyacinth plant that bears six well developed flowers. It is rare to see a hyacinth with that number.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Rosewear of Port Hope visited last week with Mrs. George Sanders, and at the home of Robert Robinson, Winchelsea.

Among those who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Blatchford were A. Manning of Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Hawke of Clinton, Mrs. Robinson of Chatham, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson of Charing Cross.

The cemetery committee met on Tuesday evening and elected W. D. Weekes chairman and F. W. Gladman Secretary. The matter of putting in a waterworks system for the cemetery was mentioned and received some discussion.

Dr. Henry Tanner, who a quarter of a century ago gained world-wide notoriety by fasting for a period of thirty days, eating nothing whatever, and drinking only water, will celebrate his 81st birthday by entering upon a fast which he will endeavor not to break for eighty days. The doctor is a firm believer that most people eat altogether to much and that a period of fasting is not altogether a bad thing for the system.

DIED IN DETROIT—Word has been received here of the death of Mr. Wesley Vale which sad event took place at his home in Detroit on Sunday last at the age of 36 years. The deceased was a native of Exeter, being a son of the late John Vale. Deceased was in poor health for some time. Interment took place in Detroit.

FIRE AT CLINTON

Early Sunday morning the night watchman at the piano factory discovered the residence of John Skinner, near the G. T. R. depot, to be on fire. The fire alarm was sounded and the firemen soon had the fire under control, although not before the building was laid in ruins. It was a frame structure and at the time Mr. Skinner and his family were spending the day with friends in Seaforth, and there was no one in the house at the time of the fire. It was insured in the McKillop Company for $500.

WINGHAM MAN SUICIDES

William White aged 54 who came to Detroit recently from Wingham, Ont., was found dead in his room at 198 Congress street east Tuesday morning. The gas was turned on full force and everything in connection with the affair points to suicide.

FIRE AT LUCAN

The residence of Thomas McCann, on Beech street together with all the contents was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The origin of the fire is a mystery, no person being at home when the fire broke out The building was insured for $300 and the contents for $200.

WM. KADING DEAD

The remains of the late William Kading were interred in Parkhill cemetery on Saturday. Mr. Kading had been an inmate of Queen Alexandra Sanatorium Bryon, for the past few months and died there on Friday. Mr. Kading obtained considerable relief at that insitution, but was in too advanced a stage to be cured. Mrs. Kading who was formerly a Miss Penhale underwent an operation at Victoria Hospital, London, on Thursday.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

TASTY RECIPES.

Little German Cakes.—Beat one dozen fresh eggs and three pounds of pulverized sugar for fifty-five minutes, then add as much soda as will lay on the end of a knife and beat five minutes longer. Be sure and don't stop benting. Add flour enough to knead. Set it aside in a cool place, just so it doesn't freeze, until evening. Then roll a little thicker than pie crust. The Germans have little fancy molds for these, but any small cookie cutter or baking powder can lid can be used to cut them with. After they are all cut spread out on a table and cover with a thick cloth and let lay over night. In the morning sprinkle baking pans with caraway seeds and place cakes in pans on seeds and bake in slow oven for three-quarters of an hour. These are favorite little cakes among the Germans and are excellent.

Orange Marmalade.—Take five good sized oranges and two large lemons. Slice thin, peeling and all; remove the seeds. Add to these three quarts of water, bring to a boil, and allow to boil briskly one-half hour, then add three quarts of sugar and boil for three-quarters of an hour. Then remove and pour into jelly glasses. It will be thick and delicious. This amount will make fifteen glasses. This is fine and will be a great help to make a change where fruit is scarce.

Lobster Fabric in Scallop Shells—One-half pint of lobster meat and four hard boiled eggs chopped fine and add to a cream sauce made as follows: Melt three large tablespoonfuls butter and rub into it three large teaspoonfuls flour, gradually add one cup warm milk and salt and pepper to taste with two or three dashes of cayenne. Cook up once and then add four tablespoons minced parsley. Butter scallop shells, fill with farcie and sprinkle on top of each shell one teaspoon buttered breadcrumbs. Place in warm oven to brown. This amount makes eight shells. Shrimps, crabmeat, and salmon may be used in the same manner, making a delicious dainty for a Sunday night supper or a luncheon, as it may be prepared hours before needed and then warmed in oven before serving.

FISH.

Salt Mackerel.—Salt mackerel is less popular than it should be because most people have not cooked it the way to bring out its best points. Here is a way to make it the best Sunday breakfast dish in the world: Select a good, firm mackerel. Soak it over night in icy cold water, flesh side down. In the morning melt in the frying pan a heaping tablespoon of butter. Put in the mackerel, fry one side, turn carefully, keeping the fish whole. Lift out onto a hot dish and pour in the pan a pint of thick sour cream. Let it boil up well, stirring it thoroughly, and pour it over fish. The salt of the fish takes out all the sour of the cream and makes a delicious gravy. Serve with hot buttered toast.

Salmon Patties.—One egg, one cup sweet milk, one can of salmon (remove bones), one and one-half cups cracker crumbs rolled fine. Season with pepper and salt to taste. Drop in tablespoons in hot frying pan in butter or meat fryings.

Beefstead with Oysters.—Broil a sirloin or tenderloin steak; season; take a quart of oysters and drain off the liquor; put into stewpan with half a cupful of butter—less butter if you have a little cream to add. Salt and pepper to season it. When this comes to a boil pour over the steak on the platter. Serve very hot.

PIE.

Potato Pie.—Cut up left over meats into about one-half inch squares and put into a baking dish with left over gravy; if one has no gravy use a little stock and season to taste; boil and mash potatoes or use left over potatoes, and cover as crust for the meat. It is not necessary to use milk or butter in mashing potatoes. Run a fork lengthwise to make grooved top and bake until browned in a moderately hot oven.

Mock Cherry Pie.—One cup chopped cranberries, half cup chopped raisins, half cup cold water, one cup sugar, one teaspoon melted butter, one teaspoon vanilla, one tablespoon flour; bake between crusts.

Pie Shell.—So many have trouble making a shell for a pie keep its shape. Turn a pie pan upside down, press the pastry on smooth and close, prick with a fork in several places. Bake. When you put it on a plate ready for the filling you have a nice, shapely shell.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Glue a tape measure firmly across the front edge of your sewing machine. It saves much time when sewing.

A tiny bit of butter is often an improvement to cake frostings, especially coffee, chocolate, maple or caramel.

In the south they often add a teaspoon of Orleans molasses to the frying bacon. It makes the meat more delicate.

Brown boots may be blackened by rubbing the blacking well into the shoes with a raw potato and then polishing.

Add a handful of chopped parsley or onion to the veal when cooking. It improves it as much as mint adds to the lamb.

Sewing machine needles may be used much longer if when the points begin to get dull they are rubbed on a piece of emeryboard

If a lamp wick will not work easily try pulling out a thread at each edge. This will make it slightly smaller, and generally end the difficulty.

To prevent baked potatoes from becoming soggy, break the skins upon taking them from the oven. This gives the steam a chance to escape

Dates cut up and covered with cream make a simple but delicious dessert. Pile it lightly into a crystal dish and serve with a white walnut cake.

If you tie the knot in the end of the thread just broken from the spool and run the other end through the eye of the needle, the thread will never kink in sewing.

If a Brussels rug persists in rolling up at the edges it should be turned over and a good coat of glue applied. Let it dry before turning, and there will not be any more trouble.

A delicious filling for layer cake is made by mixing a pound of finely minced shelled almonds with two eggs, a cupful of confectioner's sugar and a teaspoonful of vanilla.

Hemstitched tablecloths and napkins can be nicely mended when the hemstitching breaks by fagoting the edges together with strong thread. This will wear as long as the article.

Apple and celery salad may have the addition of nuts to the advantage of the salad. Grapes, celery and nuts make another combination; oranges, apples, grapes, celery and nuts make salad not to be improved on.

Hamm salad is good made as follows: Grate some cold boiled ham and add some chopped celery. Mix in some mayonnaise dressing and serve on lettuce leaves, adding a spoonful of mayonnaise on top of each serving.

If a polished knitting needle is dipped into a pail of milk and withdrawn, to be held upright, some of the milk will adhere to the needle if the fluid is pure. Even the smallest amount of water will keep any of the milk from adhering.

Many vegetables may be seasoned with salt pork or bacon. Salt pork fat is, by some, considered to render a better flavor to fish, veal, poultry and game. Fat from the soup kettle is good to warm potatoes, make sauces or cook meat in.

To touch up an old and faded rug, get dyes of the various colors in the rug and a number of camel's hair brushes. Dissolve a little of each dye in boiling water, and after the rug has been well cleaned, paint the dyes on where they are needed.

Often there is a little difficulty in turning cakes, especially gingerbread, out of the tin. This difficulty may be overcome by greasing and dredging a little flour over the tin before adding the mixture. Then, after taking it from the oven, stand the tin on a damp cloth for a minute or two before removing the cake.

FACILITIES FOR THE BLIND.

Proposal to Carry Them Free in Street Cars.

The proposal by Glasgow Corporation to allow blind people to travel on the street cars free of charge is expected to be in operation soon. Mr. Dairymple, the manager of the department, has received from the various societies who work in the interests of the blind the names of between 700 and 800 persons, to whom a special form has been sent with a view to securing information regarding the occupation, business address and other circumstances of the recipient. Several of the associations have agreed to co-operate with the Tramways Department in carrying out the scheme. Special brass tokens are being prepared, and these will be distributed gratis to qualified persons by the various institutions for the blind.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, FEBRUARY 26.

IX.—Elijah Meets Ahab in Naboth's Vineyard, I. Kings 21. Golden Text, Luke 12. 15.

Verse 1. Jezreel—A city in the territory of Issachar. It occupied an attractive and strong position, being shut in on the south by Mount Gilboa, and buttressed on the north by high cliffs. It is famous mostly as the place where Ahab and Jezebel built their magnificent residence. This palace, as we learn from other parts of the Kings, stood on the eastern side of the city. To guard against sudden invasion there was a tower which held the approach up the valley in full view. The unique thing about the palace was the house inlaid with ivory. There were other indications of the worldliness and luxury of the royal pair.

3. Jehovah forbid—Naboth had something besides sentimental reasons for desiring to keep the inheritance of his fathers. The vineyard (2) would no doubt prove a fine addition to the gardens of Ahab, with which he wished to enrich his possessions at Jezreel. But there were sacred considerations why Naboth could not yield it to another, even his king, for any price. It was an unwritten custom (Num. 36) that property should descend in the same tribe and house. This ancient law was a guarantee of the liberties of the people. At some time, possibly before this, but more likely after, this custom came to be written into the statutes of the nation.

4. Heavy and displeased . . . laid him down upon his bed—Like a boy who has been thwarted in gratifying some fond desire. Little wonder that Jezebel came upon him and rebuked his peevishness with the words, Dost thou now govern . . . Israel? (7). words which the Septuagint has fittingly rendered, "Do you play at being king in this way?" Jezebel had qualities more masculine, as well as more malicious, than her husband. Besides, she was a Phoenician, with pronounced foreign views as to the perrogatives of kings, and she did not scruple, therefore, to form a plot for the possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite.

8-10. Notice the insolence of her writing letters in the king's name, and putting his seal upon them, and of proclaiming a fast so as to deceive the people into believing some public calamity had befallen, besides the added touch of venom in her setting the innocent victim on high, in a conspicuous place. Surely Ahab had weakly abdicated his power in Israel, when such corruption could be practiced by an idolatrous wife. The climax was reached when the base fellows, in response to the orders of a fawning local tribunal of elders, were hired to perjure themselves by accusing the guileless Naboth of blasphemy.

13. Stoned him to death — This was, of course, in keeping with the law, that blasphemy should perish by stoning outside the city.

15. Arise, take possession — According to the custom, the sons of Naboth would perish with him, leaving no heir to his possessions, whereupon the property would revert to the king (compare 2 Kings 9 26, and 2 Sam. 16. 3, 4).

16. Ahab rose up to go down—It seems likely he was in his capital at Samaria, twenty miles from Jezreel. He made the journey in his chariot, accompanied by two warrior-youth, Jehu and Bidkar, to whose later testimony we are indebted for some of the details (2 Kings 9. 25, 36). The Septuagint says that Ahab greeted the news of Naboth's death with violent manifestations of grief. But he, no doubt, went to claim his new possessions with ardor.

17. Elijah the Tishbite—The last glimpse we had of him was as he strode off from the fields followed by Elisha, son of Shaphat. Six years had passed. Was Elijah all this time in retirement, somewhere in the caves of Carmel? We do not know. But it was like him. He comes forth now, not as the champion of orthodoxy, but as the indignant foe of inhumanity and injustice.

20. Has thou found me . . . . . ?—How much this whole situation reminds us of the fate of many a worldling. Ahab was just about to glut himself with the ill-gotten fruits of his sin. And now, as if the shadow of some lurking fear had been trasformed into life, there stands before him the dreaded servant of God, the God whom Ahab had basely thrust away for the sake of a degrading alliance. The man who has sold himself for supposed pleasure or influence will find that he has received but a pittance for his pains, and that the voice of conscience, unheeded for a time, comes back with remorseless accusings.

21. Cut off from Ahab every manchild—The demolition of the dynasty of Ahab, the eating of the carcass of Jezebel by dogs, the perishing of the king's posterity, and all the wretched details of this tragic affair, which made such an impression in Israel, are recorded in the second book of Kings.

27. Rent his clothes—The prophesied doom of himself and his house was enough to humble any man. Thenceforth he went softly as a stricken man.

28. Elijah retires as suddenly as he appears, having accomplished the work which Jehovah had sent him to do. Not until four more years have passed shall we see him again.

TAXES ON TITLES, $16,350.

What the Recent New Year Honors Cost the Recipients.

Should the exigencies of the political situation bring about the creation of five hundred new Peers a nice little sum would be added to Britain's revenue in the way of fees. Indeed, it has been suggested at times that the Chancellor of the Exchequer, when endeavoring to make up a deficit on the budget, might do worse than folloy the example of James I., who, when desperately hard up, created, on the suggestion of the Earl of Salisbury, a couple of hundred baronets, each of whom paid $5,000 for the dignity. Fees have been considerably reduced, however, since "the wisest fool in Christendom," as Sully described James I., invented the order of baronets in England. Now-a-days the granting of letters patent to a baronet costs only $500, payable to the Board of Inland Revenue. There were nine baronets in the list of New Year's honors, and six Privy Councillors, twenty-five knights, nineteen recipients of colonial honors, fourteen recipients of South African honors, and fifteen recipients of Indian honors, each of whom will have to pay $150. The Inland Revenue authorities will thus receive $16,350 altogether.

These amounts do not include the stamp duty incurred in taking out a coat of arms, nor the charges of the Herald's College for the using of letters patent. For designing a coat of arms and granting letters patent for its use the Heralds' College charge $338. Assuming that the eighty-eight recipients of honors all decide to take out letters patent to the right of armorial bearings, the whole cost of the New Year's honors will be over $50,000.

The absence of any peerages in the new honors list makes a considerable difference to this form of revenue, for a duke has to pay $1,750, a marquess $1,500, an earl $1,250, a viscount $1,000, and a baron $750. Then, again, the Knighthood of the Garter entails $1,000 in fees. It may be remembered that Lord Roberts objected to paying a bill for $3,750, which was presented to him after accepting an earldom in 1901, and complained still more when he found that his acceptance of the Garter entailed a total expenditure of close upon $5,000.

Even this, however, was not quite such a costly distinction as being made a Scottish baronet in the time of Charles I., who compelled every man so honored to pay $15,000. As a set-off to this heavy fee the patents down to 1638 included a grant of specified land in Nova Scotia. Unfortunately this grant did not prove of much advantage, for long before 1638 the colony had passed into the hands of the French.

PAGEANT AT CORONATION.

Precedent of 1902 Will be Followed as Closely as Possible.

The arrangements for the Royal pageant associated with the coronation of King George V. are so far complete that one can now form some idea of the comprehensiveness of the scheme. The precedent of 1902 is to be followed as far as possible. The line of procession will be the same, so that the progress of Royalties will be witnessed by the millions of East and South London, as well as by the more select inhabitants and visitors to the West End. There will be a grand naval review at Spithead, and probably a military review. As the over-seas dominions of the Empire will be well represented, and the great and small powers of the world, the people will once more have a unique and powerful illustration of what the British Empire signifies. When it is considered that the varied units that make up the British Empire have been welded together by a generous application of the principles of justice, self-government and religious and political liberty, citizens of the British Empire may well indulge in the festivity of prospect of this great fact being represented once more in the metropolis of the world in a way that will strengthen the strong bonds that already hold them.

NEW SWORD FOR OFFICERS.

The British War Office is said to be contemplating the provision of a new sword for cavalry officers, which is to resemble the weapon now carried by troopers. Instead of the slightly curved blade, intended for cutting as well as for thrusting, they are to be given a light, straightly-bladed weapon, intended solely for thrusting

JOHN BULL IS GENEROUS

GIVES TO SUFFERERS ABROAD AS WELL AS AT HOME.

The British Public Has Given Millions for the Relief of Those in Distress.

On the appeal of the Mayor of Bolton for funds in the recent mine disaster no less than $350,000 was subscribed in a week! That alone is enough to show that John Bull is a generous soul.

The first time that he publicly helped the miners was in 1878, when nearly $150,000 was raised on behalf of the sufferers from a mine explosion in Wales. Since then every colliery disaster has found the British public to aid the widows and children left behind.

MANSION HOUSE FUNDS.

The Britisher is as generous to his fellow-beings abroad as he is to those at home. When the Seine rose and caused such widespread damage a year ago the British public, through the medium of a Mansion House fund, sent over nearly $350,000 for the relief of their continental neighbors.

Strange to say, the first Mansion House fund was inaugurated to relieve Paris. This was for the relief of the sufferers in the siege by the Germans in 1871. Over $630,000 was collected and sent to Paris, partly in money and partly in clothing, food and other necessaries. The Parisians did not want money so much as food, for money was fairly plentiful, and John Bull responded to the appeals of the starving by sending over sixty-eight tons a day or two after the siege was raised. Since that first fund the Mansion House alone has received nearly $30,000,000 out of the pockets of the generous Anglo-Saxon.

When the terrible earthquake at Messina startled the world with its dramatic suddenness and its consequent misery Great Britain was the foreign country that contributed most to the relief of the refugees. Over $600,000 was rapidly collected and dispatched to Italy, Germany coming next with $400,000, and France with $300,000. Newspapers all over the country opened their columns for the receipt of money from their readers, and the appeal thus made was not in vain.

FAMOUS FAMINE RECORDS.

In 1878 the Mansion House opened a fund for the great Indian famine. In response to the appeal of the Lord Mayor, the huge sum of $3,450,000 was extracted from the pockets of the nation. In 1897 another fund was organized to aid the Hindus, over two and a half million being sent to India. Altogether England has sent $10,000,000 in one way and another to relieve our fellow-subjects in India. Such figures are a splendid tribute to the generosity of the British public.

During the Boer war, however, Britain really rose to the occasion, and showed what she was capable of in emergencies. The Mansion House left all its glorious records far behind when it raised $5,659,200 for the Transvaal war fund. In addition to this $850,000 was given to the fund for the Transvaal refugees and $585,000 for the C. I. V.'s. That was the Mansion House alone and when it is recalled that there were three other funds of a similar kind in existence at that time one is astonished at the capacity of John Bull's pockets. Altogether nearly $20,000,000 was subscribed during the days of the war. Britain paid generously for the magnificent help that her soldiers and sailors gave her.

AN UNPOPULAR APPEAL.

The greatest individual sum ever given to a fund, apart from the permanent charitable organizations, was the $125,000 given by Sir Thomas Lipton to the poorest of the poor London jubilee dinner fund in 1897.

Practically only once has the British public refused to give, and give handsomely. On April 13th, 1882, the Lord Mayor of London announced that he wished to receive funds to help the unemployed to emigrate. In twelve days only a few paltry pounds were collected and, as a result, the Lord Mayor was compelled to close the fund and to return the few amounts that had been sent.

The British public are, as a rule, however, only too willing to subscribe, and the names of a few funds will show how wide are their sympathies: Princess Alice disaster, Hungarian floods of 1879, relief of persecuted Russian Jews, Iceland famine, Egypt cholera, Gordon memorial, Ottawa fire of 1901 and the St. Vincent volcanic eruption of 1902.

A slight sprinkling of orange juice gives a delicate "finishing touch" to light wheaten pancakes served with butter and sugar. Lemon juice is often used in this way in European households.

MODERN ENGLISHMAN INSURES AGAINST TRIPLETS.

National Betting Craze Revealed at Lloyds, the Great Insurance Combine.

Hearts, fingers, eyes and even the family cat are being insured in England nowadays. "Yes, of course," says Lloyds, the big insurance combine, "we insure cats. A cat is a fine risk. Why, everyone knows a cat has nine lives."

Insurance against death, fire and accident is common enough. Insurance against broken hearts, marriage, triplets and other so-called catastrophes is rather new."

But insurance against broken hearts! "Impossible," declare the incredulous. Well, read this:

A titled Englishman wishes his son and heir to marry. He goes to Lloyds and gets insurance that his son will marry. Sometimes he wants insurance that it will be a chorus girl. His son finally becomes engaged. If it is to a rich American girl, the whole family often wakes to the terrible independence of that liberty-loving person, and several policies may be taken out to insure that the son and heir shall not be jilted. Such policies are issued to father, mother, brother or sister. The prospective bridegroom often has one himself. And on it he may have to raise money before the wedding day.

INSURE FORTUNE HUNTERS.

If the rich girl marries him, he pays his debts out of her millions. If she changes her mind and doesn't, then the insurance policy makes good, and the tailors, jewelers and florists lost nothing.

And does this queer insurance stop when the titles and the millions are finally married? Does it? It has only begun. Milord hikes back to Lloyds and gets insured that there will be issue of the marriage. Gets insured that it will be a son. Gets insured that the son will live. Gets insured that he will reach his majority. And so on.

BET ON MARRYING.

A father with several daughters on his hands gets insurance that they will marry. A funny part of issuing such a policy—tragic, as the case may be—consists in the careful summing up of the girl's chances in matrimony. This falls to the lot of an old man, long in the business, who says a knowledge of psychology and physiology is necessary for this work. He sees each girl twice, for half an hour each time, talks with her, sounds her, reads her. He meets her at some social function and the girl doesn't know who he is. That is, if the father keeps to his agreement she does not.

But if the father puts the girl "next" the wonderful old man, with an almost Sherlock Holmes ability to fathom deceit, reports to Lloyds, and not for love or money will papa be able to get a policy written now.

PROVIDE AGAINST STORK.

Not all Englishmen approve of large families. Those who do not sometimes get insured against such a calamity. Some get insured that they will not have a child. Some get insurance that they will not have twins. Some men, naturally pessimistic, want insurance against triplets. The two latter kinds of insurance are often taken out after the stork has announced that he is about to make a visit.

Before such policies are issued Lloyds gets reliable data on the number of double or treble births on each side of the house. And the premium is large or small accordingly. In one year four wise English families who had reason to think the stork might deal bounteously with them took policies against triplets. In each case there was a history of triplets on one side or the other of the house. Only one family had them. And the insurance was considerable enough to clothe, feed and educate three very fine boys.

FEWER PAUPERS IN LONDON.

Old Age Pensioners Said to Explain Decrease Last Year.

There were 11,985 fewer pauper in London, England, on January 1 than on the corresponding day of 1910. The official return in which the figures are given attributes the decrease mainly to the removal of the pauper disqualification for old-age pensions, but it is due also in a certain measure to the already existing pensions and to the improved economic conditions, which have been telling on the pauperism statistics for some months. Thus on December 31, 1910, there were 1,436 fewer paupers in London than on the corresponding day of 1909. Those receiving outdoor relief have benefited to a greater extent than the inmates of institutions by the grant of old-age pensions.

DEAD NUMBER THOUSANDS

Statistics Show Appalling Mortality From the Dread Plague

A despatch from Pekin says: The Chinese Government on Wednesday applied to the Missionary Medical Association headquarters at Shanghai asking for the despatch of additional physicians to the north. The appalling magnitude of the devastation caused by the plague is revealed by the estimates. The minimum estimate of the deaths from plague from Chang-Chun to the north is 20,000. The estimate for Southern Manchuria, based upon statistics of the Japanese railway administration, exceeds 2,500. A conservative estimate for the provinces of Chih-Li and Shan-Tung is 2,500. While it is impossible to obtain reliable statistics, particularly from the region north and east of Harbin, where the epidemic is raging with unabated fury, 25,000 as a total is more likely to be an under-estimate than an over-estimate. The Viceroy of Manchuria telegraphs to the Wai-Wu-Pu that his official reports show between 10,000 and 11,000 deaths, but he fears the total is much larger.

HEROIC PHYSICIANS DIE.

A despatch from London says: In reply to a question in Parliament by Mr. Allen Baker, Sir Edward Grey, the Foreign Secretary, on Wednesday afternoon stated that the British Minister at Pekin reports that all physicians here have been inoculated with Haffkin's vaccine and that the Chinese Government has done its utmost for the personal comfort of the physicians.

The French physician, Dr. Mesny, who died, was not inoculated. He was infected owing to a patient coughing in his unmasked face. Dr. Jackson, a British physician, died of exhaustion after continuous hard work among the infected coolies. The Minister concluded by declaring that Sir John Jordan reports that the heroism of the physicians is beyond praise.

Russia Will seize China Possession to Enforce Treaty Rights.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: The Retch states that Kulja, 48 miles over the frontier, in the Ili region of Chinese Turkestan, is to be occupied in accordance with the decision arrived at by the Government because of China's persistent disregard of the treaty of 1881. Under the terms of that treaty Russia agreed to evacuate the Ili region, which it occupied in 1871, on condition that she receive certain Consular and commercial privileges in Mongolia and Manchuria. Russia has become irritated over China's persistent violation of the terms of this treaty, and this feeling has been greatly aggravated by constant attempts on the part of China to disregard provisions for other treaties.

MONTREAL WATER SCARCITY

Reservoir Is Going Down at the Rate of Ten Inches a Day

A despatch from Montreal says: From a report made to Chief Engineer Janin, of the city on Wednesday, the serious fact was brought to light that the water in the big reservoir on the mountain is going down at the rate of ten inches a day. Mr. Janin stated that if this condition of affairs should continue the outlook was that serious difficulties would be encountered in the matter of giving citizens a satisfactory supply.

The cause is a most peculiar one. It appears that owing to the intense frost this winter the ice has got so thick near where the city's intake is situated at Lachine that the water is lowering rapidly every day. There are places where the ice is so very thick that it has actually touched the bottom. The ice in the open aquedict, which conveys the water to Montreal, is also abnormal in thickness. While a water famine in the city is not expected, officials of the water department are concerned at the difficulty they are experiencing in getting a proper volume of water to pump.

TOWN PAID EXPENSES.

At 94 England's Oldest Postboy Takes Octogenarian Bride.

A despatch from London, England, says: Mr. William Hennen, 94 years of age, England's oldest postboy, on Wednesday wedded Miss Fanny Wadhams, an octogenarian, at Chatham. The town paid the expenses of the wedding. The old couple, who recently were discharged from the workhouse, where the courtship was conducted, will live on a ten shillings a week old age pension. A great crowd cheered the union of January and November. They received many presents. Joseph Bains, 90 years of age, the oldest bell ringer in England, chimed the wedding march.

GUESTS OF THE KING.

Arrangements for Colonial Premiers at Coming Conference.

A despatch from London, says: It is officially announced that the Prime Ministers of the over-seas dominions and the Ministers accompanying them to the Imperial Conference will be the guests, first of the Government, and afterwards of the King. The Colonial Office has taken rooms at the Hotel Cecil. The British members of Parliament will entertain 58 of the colonial members, eighteen of them from Canada, for a fortnight. They will heve seats for the Abbey ceremony.

TO SELL THE CREAM.

New Departure May Injure Cheese Factories in the East.

A despatch from Picton, Ont., says: Prince Edward farmers have before them the proposition to sell cream to a Toronto firm, which offers a tempting price. It is understood some of the farmers in the upper part of the county may take up the idea this season. If any great quantity of cream should be shipped the cheese industry would be considerably hurt.

Immigration Commissioner Predicts Population of 25,000,000.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: In a lecture on Thursday night, J. Bruce Walker, Commissioner of Immigration, expressed a positive opinion that there would be 25,000,000 people in Western Canada 25 years hence, and that the population of this city would be 1,000,000. Premier Roblin, who presided, warmly applauded the statements.

ONTARIO'S NEW MILK BILL

Municipalities Obtain Complete Control Over Milk Supply

A new bill based on the recommendations made to the Ontario Legislature last session by the Provincial Milk Commission was introduced in the House on Wednesday by the Hon. J. S. Duff, Minister of Agriculture. It is entitled "An Act Respecting the Production and Sale of Milk for Human Consumption," and seeks to embody in its scope all the legislation bearing on this subject.

WHAT BILL DOES.

The bill does two things. First, it gives municipalities complete control over their milk supply. Secondly, it sets general standards for the province in regard to certain matters. The principle followed is that the municipality in which the milk is to be consumed should have complete control in the matter of the production, care and sale. With this object in view, municipalities are given power to pass by-laws making regulations as to the care of cows, the sanitary condition of the places where cows are kept, the water supplied to cows, the care of utensils used in handling milk, the proper storage and transportation of milk, the making of bacteriological tests as a guide to the wholesomeness of milk, and such other matters as may be considered necessary.

Councils are also authorized to fix standards for butter fat and total solids, but it is provided that "no milk shall be sold for human consumption which contains less than 12 per cent. of solids, of which 3 per cent. shall be butter fat." In addition to this, stringent provisions are made to prevent adulteration.

Councils are empowered to appoint inspectors, who are given authority to inspect the source of supply, as well as every other point at which the milk might be contaminated.

NO TUBERCULOSIS MILK.

As to tuberculosis, it is provided that no milk shall be sold from any cow which, upon physical examination by a certified veterinarian, shall be declared to be suffering from tuberculosis of the udder or milk glands, or whose milk, on bacteriological or microscopical examination is shown to contain tubercle bacilli.

It is provided that no cans or other utensils used in the distribution of milk shall be used for any other purpose, and all must be thoroughly cleansed before again being used.

The other clauses of the bill deal with special classes of milk. For instance, municipalities are empowered to establish and maintain or assist in the establishment and maintenance of milk depots to furnish a special supply of milk for infants.

The term "certified" is protected by incorporating the conditions which must be complied with before it can be used, and by providing that these conditions must be certified to either by the Medical Health Officer or an incorporated society of medical practitioners.

PASTEURIZED MILK.

Similarly, it is provided that it shall be unlawful to apply the word "pasteurized" to any milk unless it has been subjected for at least 20 and not more than 30 minutes to a temperature of not less than 140 and not more than 145 degrees Fahrenheit and at once cooled to 45 degrees Fahrenheit or under and kept at that temperature until delivered.

All the clauses at present in the statutes bearing on milk for human consumption are repealed.

BURNED THE CIRCUS.

Monkey Overturned Oil Heater and Only Horse Was Saved.

A despatch from Pottsville, Pa., says: A monkey overturning an oil heater in the Winter quarters of a small railroad circus at Orwigsburg, Pa., on Wednesday night, caused the destruction of all the circus paraphernalia, including a cage of monkeys, trained apes, a pack of trained dogs, a den of snakes and several horses. One horse was the only thing taken out alive.

RUSSIAN WARSHIPS.

Duma Asked to Vote $60,000,000 for Four New Battleships.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: The Government has asked the Duma to vote $60,000,000 for the construction of four battleships by 1915. The vessels are to be named Sebastopol, Petropavlovsk, Gangut, and Poltava.

KAISER TO VISIT LONDON.

Will Attend the Unveiling of National Memorial to Late Queen.

A despatch from London says: The announcement that Emperor William would attend the ceremony of unveiling the national memorial to Queen Victoria in front of Buckingham Palace on May 16 is confirmed. His Majesty will be accompanied by Empress Auguste Victoria, and it is expected that the two will be the guests of King George and Queen Mary for several days.

SOLD COCAINE.

Three Men in Montreal Sent to Jail for Offence.

A despatch from Montreal says: Mr. Recorder Dupuis sent three cocaine vendors to jail on Thursday morning, and declared his intention of doing so in every instance where such a thing is possible.

QUEBEC BRIDGE CONTRACT

Has Been Secured By a Canadian Firm, and Will Amount to About $13,000,000

A despatch from Montreal says: It is stated that the experts employed by the Government to make recommendations concerning the new Quebec bridge to replace the one wrecked some years ago have reported four to one in favor of the tender presented by the St. Lawrence Bridge Company, which is composed of the Dominion Bridge Company and the Canadian Bridge Company.

The contract, which doubtless will be awarded by the Government as recommended, amounts to about $13,000,000, or $40,000 above the tender sent in by the British Empire Bridge Company, which adhered to the official design. However, when the St. Lawrence Company prepared its tender, Phelps Johnston, the managing director of the Dominion Bridge Company, assisted by Mr. Douggan, of the same company prepared a design of his own, and it is understood that the experts considered this design superior to the official one. The successful company, as a result of the award, will spend at least $2,000,000 in new machinery, as new shops will have to be built. The bridge will probably take six years to complete.

ADVERTISING TALK

Advertising is statesmanship multiplied.

Good advertising and good sense are first cousins.

A business that is not worth advertising is not worth running.

A good ad. sells goods to-day and makes a good reputation for to-morrow.

Advertising money, spent well, is an investment, not an expense.

Advertising is never any better than the man or woman behind the pencil.

The time to stop advertising is when you are ready to close up your business

The merchant who can't think of anything to advertise is a dead one, and doesn't know it is funeral time.

Advertising is the business news of the store. When it stops the public have a right to believe that there is "nothing doing."

There is no advertising value in one-time insertions. It is the keeping at it which brings results in advertising.

It seems incongruous to have to pay a physician a big fee for presenting a man with a death warrant.

Many a woman who knows nothing of the art of canning and preserving keeps her family in pickle all the time.

One way to determine whether a man is lying is to note whether he acts as we do when we prevaricate.

CREDITON.

Last Friday's Free Press gave the result of the mid-winter Exams of the Conservatory which took place in London a few weeks ago. Among those who passed we notice the name of Miss Pearl Gaiser, who passed the exam. for the intermediate piano and Miss Myrl Clark who passed with firstclass honors the primary piano examination. We also notice the name of Miss Lilian Gaiser, another Crediton lady, who is at present studying in London. She received first-class honors in History. We extend most hearty congratulations, not only to them but to their teacher, Miss Doyle who has proved to be a very efficient teacher.—Mr. Wickwire of Exeter has rented the building, formerly known as Clark's Hotel and will start a printing office in it. He has some of the machinery on hand already and expects to start in the near future. It is reported that the paper will be called "The Crediton Star", called after our "Stars" the invincible base-ball team.—The Exeter boys came back here on Monday and played our boys a game of hockey. Owing to the light not giving satisfaction, the game was delayed but when things started a-going, it was quite interesting. Our boys, although a little new at the game, made a good showing and made things hum and move. Elmer Sheardown did valuable work at the goal and Governor and Teddy were the means of making some goals for our boys. The game finally closed 10—6 in favor of the visitors The best of good feeling existed through the game. Harold Bissett was the umpire and his decisions were never questioned.—Rev. Bean was a few days in Toronto last week.—Mrs. Dora Link is attending the spring millinery openings in Toronto this week.—Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bluett and family left for London Monday morning. They are assured the best wishes of a host of friends in their new home.—Fred Kerr has had Mr. F. W. Farncomb, C.E., of London here the past few days running a line fence for him.—Geo. Lawson has bought 50 acres of land on the 4th concession from Wm. Butt preached a strong sermon Sunday evening on the Tobacco Habit.—Rev. Andrew Butt of Parkhill is visiting his parents. He also attended a meeting of the Epworth League executive in Exeter on Monday, being Missionary Vice-President.

Mr. Thos. E. Smith, who has been residing near here with his family for the past three years, is moving this week to Lucan, he having taken a situation with Mr. Wm. Reid. Their friends will be sorry to hear of their departure.

FARQUHAR.

At the sale of Messrs. Towers Bros. last week the 50 acres north of Farquhar were purchased by Mr. Fred Hunkin for $2975. This property is quite convenient for Mr. Hunkin, it joining his own property at the back end, and thus enabling him to go onto the same without going around by the road. —

Mr. Harry Ford has the contract for caretaking of both churches on Thames road for the ensuing year.—Mrs. John Campbell who has been ill for a time is improving favorably.—Our new assessor, Mr. Thos. Hunkin is going his rounds these days.

The entertainment given in the hall here on Friday night last under the auspices of the baseball team was a most enjoyable affair and was well patronized. An excellent program was rendered, the chair being filled by Mr. Thos. Cameron in his usual happy manner. The comic songs by Mr. D. Davis of Russeldale were well received. The Literary Society of Farquhar rendered several pleasing numbers, as did also Miss Passmore, Mr. C. Borland and Mr. Edgar Hunkin. Mr. H. Smale was present with his gramaphone and contributed many interesting selections. The proceeds amounted to $26.45.

FARMERS AND RECIPROCITY

THE CANADIAN CENTURY OF MONTREAL BELIEVING THAT RECIPROCITY WITH UNITED STATES WOULD IMPERIL THE FUTURE OF CANADA AND THAT IT WOULD BE SPECIALLY DISADVANTAGEOUS TO CANADIAN FARMERS, WISHES TO PLACE ITS VIEW OF THE QUESTION BEFORE THE WHOLE FARMING COMMUNITY AND HAS ARRANGED FOR A SERIES OF ARTICLES IN NEWSPAPERS OF BOTH POLITICAL PARTIES. THE FIRST ARTICLE FOLLOWS AND OTHERS WILL BE PUBLISHED FROM WEEK TO WEEK.

THE DOOR WIDE OPEN

(From The Canadian Century, Feb. 18)

If the reciprocity compact merely opened the door of the Canadian food market to American farmers it would be very injurious to thousands of Canadian farmers. It costs no more to transport American farm products to Canadian towns and cities than it does to transport Canadian farm products to cities of the United States, and the American farmers have the advantage of an earlier season. Moreover they are at least ten times as many farmers in the United States as there are in Canada, and so ten American farmers will get entrance to the markets of Canada for one Canadian farmer who gets entrance into the markets of the United States. That the American farmer will take advantage of the open door there can be no doubt. Even with a tariff wall against them they have succeeded in selling immense quantities of farm products in Canada, more that Canadian farmers have been able to sell in the United States. With reciprocity in farm products the ten American farmers will crowd the one Canadian farmer pretty close in his own market.

But this is not all that the Canadian farmer has to face under the reciprocity pact. Owing to favored nation treaties, any tariff advantages granted by Canada to the United States must also apply to the following countries,—Argentine Republic, Austria-Hungary, Bolivia, Columbia, Denmark, Japan, Norway, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Venezuela.

Then it is provided "that the advantages granted to the United States shall extend to the United Kingdom and the several British Colonies." This will bring about free entrance of farm products from those great food exporting colonies, Australia and New Zealand.

In fact Canadian farmers will have to compete in their own home market with farm products from all the great food producing countries of the world.

ADDING TO THE UNCERTAINTY

There is always some uncertainty about farming. The farmer never knows when he puts seed in the ground what the weather conditions will be. There may be frost or half or drought or too much rain.

Added to all these uncertainties due to Nature's variations there is the uncertainty regarding the prices which will prevail when the crop is harvested. How many acres should be devoted to one crop and how many to another depends upon a guess as to what demand there will be for the different agricultural products at the time of harvesting and what prices will prevail. What is true of farm crops is also true of live stock. It is comparatively easy for the farmer to study the conditions of the home market, but when he has to compete with the farmers of the world at large it is much more difficult to determine what the future will be.

It is now proposed to add to the uncertainty of Canadian farming. Imported farm products from the United States the Argentine Republic, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Russia, Australia, New Zealand and a number of other countries coming into Canada without payment of any duties will to a considerable extent displace Canadian farm products in the home market as a result of the reciprocity compact.

To make up for losses in the home market the Canadian farmer will have to very greatly increase his exports to the United States. In sowing seed, in raising stock, in growing vegetables and fruit he will always have to consider what is most likely to satisfy American demands. And after he has made his arrangements, while his crops are still ungarnered and the live stock, which he is raising specially to suit the American market, is half grown, the United States Congress may suddenly decide to shut out Canadian farm products of all kinds. Remember the Reciprocity Compact is not a treaty. It may be ended at will by the United States Congress or the Canadian Parliament. It is well that we are not tied down to a permanent agreement. Even the Free Trade Farmers' Convention in Ottawa on December 15 and 16, 1910, recommended that a permanent treaty should not be made, but that any understanding arrived at should be put into effect by concurrent legislation. All classes of the community were of the same opinion in this regard, and the Government could not have defied the unanimous sentiment of the community. So when we point out that either the United States Congress or the Canadian Parliament is at liberty to end the agreement at short notice we are not blaming the Government for this. We believe that Canadians in general, including both farmers and the city people, will find the arrangement so unsatisfactory that they will be thankful Parliament has the power to terminate it, but if that forecast should prove wrong there will always overhang the cloud of uncertainty regarding the attitude of the United States Congress.

There will always be strong influences at work in the United States that may cause Congress to alter the tariff. American farmers may be dissatisfied or American manufacturers may think they are not getting enough out of the agreement and demand better terms. Mr. Taft has made no secret of his expectation that the United States is to get greater concessions later on. If the United States Congress endorses the compact it will be because of this expectation. Under such conditions with what feelings of uncertainty will the Canadian farmer plan his work for a year ahead.

MOORESVILLE.

The S. W. C. intend holding a Ball on the 20th, music by the London Harpers.—Mrs. Chester Stewardson is on the sick list.—Mr. Roy Simpson has all the Telephones in on the second, and gossip runs high.—Mr. Marshall Miller entertained a few of his most intimate friends to an Oyster supper Friday evening.—Mr. Elmer Murdy arrived home Saturday evening after an extended visit with friends in Michigan. Mt. Carmel R. C. Church was the scene of a an interesting event on Wednesday of this week when the marriage of Mr. William Lindenfeld to Miss Levina Dieterich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorence Dieterich of Stephen was duly solemnized. Over a hundred guests had gathered at the sacred edifice to witness the interesting ceremony which was performed at ten o'clock by Rev. Fr. Forster. The bride was handsomely dressed in white silk and presented a charming appearance She was assisted by her sister Miss Laura, while the groom was supported by the bride's brother, Mr. Noah Dieterich The ceremony over the happy couple and the large number of guests drove to the home of the bride where a most hearty reception awaited them. The young couple are well and favorably known in this section and will have the best wishes of a host of friends for a realization of the old ideal of married life as the first year a joy, the second year comfort and all the rest content. The young couple will take up their residence in Parkhill, where Mr. Lindenfeld fills a position with Messrs Brewer and Harriston.

THAMES ROAD

A pleasant surprise pary was given on Monday evening by about thirty or forty of the neighbors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johns, the occasion being the approaching departure of the host and hostess to Centralia, where they have rented Mr. Jas. Handford's farm. A pleasant evening was spent in music, speech and song, during which the following address and a couch were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Johns:—

To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johns,

We, your neighbors, learn with regret that you are about to leave us. Ever since you have been with us you have shown yourselves to be neighbors of the right stamp, lending a helping hand when ever asked or needed. To show that we have appreciated your friendship we ask you to accept this couch as a slight token of the deep respect in which you are held by us.

FULLARTON.—Roy, son of Mr John Pridham, Fullarton, was kicked in the face by colt, which knocked out some teeth and badly lacerated his face. Thomas Greenwood, who lived near Douglas, Man., died Monday morning last, at the age of 69 yrs. He formerly lived in Fullarton village. He has been in the West 19 years, and leaves a widow, four sons and one daughter.

CLINTON—An old resident, Edward Herman died last Wednesday, after an illness of three years. He had resided in town for thirty years. A wife, eight daughters and two sons survive.— In Christ Church, London, on Feb. 11, two of Clinton's young people were married, Miss Edna Copp and James E. Doherty Rev. C. R. Gunne formerly of Clinton performing the ceremony.

SEAFORTH.—Three old residents of Seaforth, Joseph Archer, aged 82 years Mrs. Josiah Tyerman, aged 68 years and Michael Flannery, aged 69 years passed away last week.

SEAFORTH—A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. William Soole of Battleford, Sask., Jan 30, when his sister, Mrs. Nettie Soole Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Soole of Seaforth, was married to Stanley N. Davidson of Battleford.

BRUCEFIELD—A fairly representative gathering of the farmers of this district was held in the Ross Hall and it was decided to organize a Brucefield branch of the National Council of Agriculture. The following officers were elected, Pres., A. Mustard, vice., W. Murdock; sec., B R. Higgins; treas., T. Fraser; directors, R. B. McLean, Wm. Grant, F. Waldron, J. McEwen, and G. Graham.

LIEURY—The late James Ross of Lieury was born in Scotland. In 1844 he emigrated with his mother and settled in Westminster. He learned the trade of shoemaker in London and had a shop in Sylvan in its early days. About thirty-five years ago he moved to Lieury. His wife was Miss Fannie Harmer. She survives her husband. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. David Brazell, Moray; Mrs. Geo. Rice, Fernhill and Mrs. L. R. Allison, Parkhill.

BRUCEFIELD—The sympathy of the community will be extended to James Petrie and family of the London Road, in the death of the wife and mother, which sad event occurred recently. Deceased whose maiden name was Janet Mustard, was 56 years of age. It was only a short time ago that Mr. Petrie lost one of his daughters.

THE STRENGTH OF A CHAIN

Is that of its Weakest Link. Father Morriscy's No. 10 Forges it Anew.

The chain of the physical system is only as strong as its weakest link. When that link breaks, the chain breaks, and serious illness followed by death often results. The weak link with many people is the throat and lungs. In fact, statistics show that over twenty-five per cent of all deaths can be directly traced to diseases of these most important respiratory organs. Weakness here is very dangerous.

During his long and successful practice, Father Morriscy, the learned priest-physician, was often called upon to treat bronchial and pulmonary affections. He soon found that it was not enough to make temporary repairs on the "link," but that it had to be forged anew, in order permanently to strengthen the chain.

After much study, he succeeded in devising a prescription that would secure this result, by not only giving prompt relief but also by rebuilding and strengthening the delicate cells and membranes of the throat and lungs.

This prescription, Father Morriscy's Lung Tonic, or No. 10, has cured thousands. It is absolutely free from any dangerous drug, being compounded from Nature's own roots, herbs and balsams.

No. 10 stops the cough, relieves the soreness and strengthens and fortifies the system against future attacks. Even in the early stages of consumption it has proved helpful, but the wise plan is to take it in time, and avoid serious disease.

In our climate it is well to have a reliable and tested remedy like No. 10 always on hand. Take it at the first appearance of a cold, and keep the chain of life strong and capable of resistance.

Trial size 25c. per bottle. Regular size 50c. At your druggist's or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B. 96

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got Tan New Mormon Tan treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE,

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER VII.—(Cont'd)

Lady Burton coughed slightly; she felt annoyed at the remark, just when she had settled in her own mind that her sweet Maude should reign over the Crawshaw bank notes.

"My dear Mrs. Darnley, you forget," she said, blandly, "Mr. Crawshaw is quite a personage in ——shire; and besides, his wealth gives him any position in society that he wishes to occupy. Personally, I find the man quite charming, so refreshingly original, such——"

"Pardon me," interrupted Mrs. Darnley, curtly, "as I have no marriageable daughters, you will excuse me if I do not join you in this eulogy of a person whom I consider it an insult to be asked to meet!"

And with that Derrick's mother turned to Lady Merefield, and began an eager conversation, which treated entirely of poor Nancy and her position at Ripstone Hall.

"So like Anne Darnley," she said to herself, "uncompromisingly frank, and, consequently, extremely disagreeable! Well, I only hope she will find no trouble with the future of her marriageable son. I can see through a brick wall as well as most people, and the interest Derrick Darnley evinces for that very dangerously pretty protege of Sir Humphrey would not altogether please me were I his mother!" which thought proved Lady Burton to be a woman of some perception and common sense.

Dorothy Leicester progressed to the end of welcoming her guests at last, and then every one trooped off to the tennis court to see the match which was the original raison d'etre of the fete.

Nancy was kept busy in the tent seeing that all the elderly ladies were served with ice drinks or tea, and Darnley had no chance of getting near her. He planted himself, however, near the entrance to the refreshment tent, and, it must be confessed, he grumbled a great deal under his breath at the crowd, the heat, and, last of all, at the fact that his darling was separated from him, and buried all the afternoon in such a spot.

Sir Humphrey was careful to carry out his daughter's instructions, and presented Miss Hamilton to all the smart people of the neighborhood.

It made Derrick Darnley both smile with pleasure and foam with anger as he heard snatches of remarks about the girl he loved; his jealousy was up in arms, too, as he saw the men stare hard at her, and then ask Sir Humphrey to introduce them.

"A set of countrified bumpkins! I should like to kick them all!" he savagely declared to himself, forgetting, with a lover's selfishness, that, as yet, Nancy was not publicly allotted to him as his property, and that other eyes, doubtless, found her as charming to gaze on as his own had always done.

He grew moody after a while; his love for this fair young creature was not all smoothness; it was so great, so thorough, it possessed him so completely, that he could think of nothing else; it seemed to him now as if he had known Nancy all his life; he read her simple, frank, sweet nature as clearly as he read a book. He had no wish to dive into her past, for he knew she could not deceive, even had she tried to do so, and he would have staked his existence on her girlish record being as clear and pure as Dorothy's itself.

Only once in their frequent conversations had he broached the subject of that January night, when his strong right arm had struck the coward into the gutter; and though he had had no right then to question further, he learned enough to know that Nancy hated to be reminded of the scene, from no shame on her part, but from a woman's pride and dignity. Yes, Darnley trusted her; now he would trust her to death! Could such magnificent eyes be false!—and did not truth and purity lie buried in their deep-blue hearts!

Come what may the die was cast—he loved her as he should never love mortal woman again; and against mother, family, friends, the whole world, he would cling to her till death parted them!

These were the thoughts that surged in Derrick Darnley's breast as he stood gazing over the heads of the crowd at the sweet, picturesque face; with its russet-brown locks and eyes of heaven's own blue. He was obvious of the fact that he was neglecting his duty most disgracefully, and that, instead of standing feasting his eyes on Nancy, he should have been by Dorothy's side, assisting her. Everything was lost but the exquisite joy of his love, a joy made greater by the knowledge that he was beloved in return.

Suddenly there was a break in the crowd, and he saw his chance.

He went hurriedly up to Nancy.

"Do not forget—the lower lake—seven o'clock. How shall I live till then, Nancy!"

Her hands were trembling so much she could scarcely give him the cup of tea for which he had made a pretence of asking.

His eyes dwelt on hers so long that she was drawn by the magnetic force to meet his gaze. The intensity of his love amazed her—it almost frightened her—and yet how sweet it was!

"My darling one!" he whispered; he had just a moment to touch her hand, and then he was compelled to move away and let another take his place.

The afternoon progressed well; to Darnley it seemed as though it would never come to an end; to Nancy, she had no knowledge of what was happening, so dazed was she by the sweet dream that had come to her. The tennis match was played, and, to the immense and unbounded delight of the Hon. Ella, the diamond brooch was hers.

To pass the time Mr. Darnley had unwittingly strolled up to her to congratulate her, and there found himself seized on by Mrs. Fairfax, who was a desperate flirt, and who admired his stern, dark, handsome face tremendously.

No slave working for his liberty struggled to free himself with greater ardor or eagerness than Darnley did—in vain, he could not escape. He heard the tower clock chime seven, and in fancy he saw Nancy wending her way to the silent and distant end of the lake. He resorted to all sorts of strategy, but Mrs. Fairfax was not to be shaken off.

It may be that the pretty, passe, little matron had guessed something of the truth, and in pique determined to spoil sport; but whether that was so or not, she successfully managed to prevent Mr. Darnley from escaping, and roused him nearly to the verge of madness and anger.

It was just half-past seven when he got free at last, and then he had to manoeuvre to prevent remark being passed on his strange eagerness and haste.

"Confound that woman!" he muttered, under his breath, "we shall not have a moment, and my poor, precious one has been waiting down there all alone. I could willingly pitch Mrs. Fairfax into that fountain!"

Once free of the crowd, however, he strode along quickly, and breathed a deep sigh of relief as he left the buzz of voices and the strains of music behind him.

He hurried through the rose gardens, past the spot hallowed for ever in his memory, as the place where his lips had first touched Nancy's, then through many narrow paths to the lower lake.

His heart thrilled with the intensity of his love. In another moment all the misty dreams of the past week would be realized, and Nancy would be in his arms—Nancy herself—no myth—no tantalizing, illusive spirit, but Nancy in her exquisite beauty and enthralling sweetness.

One more moment.

He pushed aside a low-hanging bough, and then he paused.

She was sitting on a rustic chair, gazing over the sunlit lake, her face was eloquent in its silence, the purity, the shy color that mantled it as she heard his step woke another and deeper throb in the man's heart.

Without a word he drew her from the chair, and clasped her in his arms. It was not easy to speak at such a moment, for both their hearts were full.

"My own—my very own!" murmured the man, breaking the long silence; "Nancy, did you think I had deserted you—that I was never coming!"

She shook her head.

"No," she whispered, in soft, low tones, "I—I felt—I knew you would come!"

Darnley stooped his head and kissed her lips tenderly.

"You know I love you, Nancy!"

She smiled faintly, but there was a world of gladness in her eyes.

"And now you belong to me—yes, to me alone. Nancy, I warn you, I shall share you with no one—I am selfish and jealous in my love, but I cannot help it, my darling; when I look back on my life, and realize that I have lived so many years without you, I wonder how I have managed to exist at all!"

"And you have known me such a short time; how do you know you will not tire of——"

"Hush!" he cried, almost fiercely, clasping her still closer in his arms, "never say such a thing, Nancy—tire of you—my love—my queen—my very life!"

Her face paled at his vehemence, yet her strong woman's heart was won still further by this devotion.

It was as if a sudden ray of golden sunshine illumined her entire being; she was conscious of a great, a marvellous sense of happiness—a happiness which seemed to stun her, and stop her heart beating.

The touch of his strong arms about her—the whisper of his love-laden voice—the touch of his lips as he rained passionate kisses on her sweet upturned face, awoke a flood of ectasy such as she had never felt before, and would remember in all the years of her life to come. Long after, when despair was eating out her heart, Nancy recalled the beauty of this scene—the peaceful lake gliding serenely at her feet, the faintly moving boughs, the ruddy glow of the setting sun, the soft murmuring breeze, balmy and laden with a thousand heavy scents, stealing slowly upon them, as though it would join in their rapture and learn their joy.

"I must go. They will wonder," she murmured, shyly.

"Let them wonder. What do we care? Are you not mine now? By an hour's time all here shall know that."

"No, no! Not to-night please! I——"

Derrick Darnley laughed at the blush and shy modesty that came on her face.

"It shall be as you will, my darling," he said, kissing her again and again; "but I warn you I shall only wait until to-morrow, Nancy; then I shall claim you before all the world, my own dainty witch!"

"'Man proposes.' You know the rest," laughed Nancy, nervously, as she picked up her gloves and prepared to start.

How little did she think, poor girl, that the trite proverb quoted so lightly would be only too grievously proved in her own case!

"Do not defy me!" Darnley asked, with mock anger. "Beware, madam! or—— Well, for two pins, I will pick you up in my arms and walk off with you to the house, there!"

Nancy shrank back, as if she actually feared this, whereat Darnley broke into hearty laughter. He pushed aside the boughs for her to pass on to the path; then just as she was going he stopped.

"Do you really love me, Nancy!" he asked, softly, yet with deep eagerness. "You have not told me yet."

She lifted her eyes to his.

"I love you with all my heart. I shall love you till I die," she answered, solemnly.

Their lips met in a last kiss, then the boughs slipped back, and the sound of their footsteps died away in the distance.

When they were quite gone, a man crept out from behind some bushes. His swarthy face was pallid with anger and jealousy; he strode to and fro with clenched hands, muttering angrily every now and then between his pale lips. Few of the guests would have recognized in this agitated, haggard, infuriated-looking man, the self-satisfied, important, yet undeniably plebeian millionaire, Thomas Crawshaw, whose appearance at the fete had caused such a flutter among the fair sex; and little did Nancy think that in this, the very birth of her exquisite happiness, a cloud no larger than a man's hand was rising slowly from the horizon—a cloud that would darken and destroy her simple, peaceful life.

BAD CASE.

"My wife faints on the slightest provocation."

"What do you use to resuscitate her?"

"The last time it took a sealskin coat."

"I wish you'd lend me your whistle," said wee Tommy to his sister's young man. "I'll take care of it." "Whistle!" cried young Morarity. "I have got no whistle, Tommy." "Oh, yes, you have," Tommy persisted, "'cause daddy says you're much too fond of wetting it."

HEALTH

FRESH AIR IN PNEUMONIA.

In talking of pneumonia to people in general, it is necessary to say and repeat many times that pneumonia is not a bad cold run mad, for this conviction appears to be invincibly lodged in the lay mind.

Pneumonia is first, last, and all the time an acute local disease of the lungs, which, according to the gravity of the case, become more or less consolidated or choked up. The more of the lung tissue that is thus choked, the less the lungs are able to breathe. The first consequence of this helplessness on the part of the lungs is that the heart—that gallant organ—labors to get enough blood to keep things going, and this is why we see the distressing rapid and shallow breathing so characteristic of the disease.

With all the heart can do it can only pump blood, it cannot oxygenate it—that is the function of the lungs. Presently, therefore, the blood stream becomes more and more impure, owing to lack of oxygen, and in those cases ending in death one of two things happens—either the heart gives out entirely, unable to stand the strain put upon it, or else the system is overcome by toxins, that is to say, by the impurity induced by the lack of oxygenation.

It has long been recognized that what the pneumonia patient needs is oxygen, and we are now sure that this is best supplied by a direct current of fresh air from outside, and that this fresh air should be the basis of all treatment from the very beginning.

Too often has life been lost by a failure to recognize this truth, or by a belief that rushing in canned oxygen at the last moment would effect a cure. There is less pneumonia among country dwellers than among city people. There is less pneumonia among people who ventilate well than among the stuffy. And there is less pneumonia in the summer than in the winter, because in the summer there is a free circulation of air through all our houses. The ideal treatment of pneumonia is to carry the patient into the open air and keep him there with proper precautions against wind and weather. But as this cannot always be done, the patient can at least be placed in the largest, sunniest and best ventilated room in the house. If possible, a room with windows on two sides is much to be preferred to one which can be opened only to one point of the compass. By a system of screening, it can always be managed that a direct current of very cold air shall not blow right on the bed, but the air of the room should be constantly renewed and always cool.

Of all "cranks" the "fresh-air crank" is the sanest, and his reward in the pneumonia sick-room is a rich one.—Youth's Companion.

There is a new dimity—a combination weave of silk and cotton called "silk dimity."

Which is Your Choice?

Sloppy, leaky wooden troughs, or clean, durable Concrete?

Wooden drinking troughs are about as reliable as the weather.

They are short-lived and require replacing every few years—not to mention continual patching to keep them in repair.

The best of wood cannot withstand, for long, constant dampness and soaking. Its tendency to rapid decay soon shows itself in leaks and stagnant pools of water around trough.

Contrast with this the durability, cleanliness and well-ordered appearance of Concrete.

The dampness which destroys lumber only intensifies the strength and hardness of Concrete.

You can impair a wooden trough with comparatively little use; but it takes a powerful explosive to put a Concrete water tank out of business.

LA GRIPPE RAVAGES

THE TROUBLE SWEEPING OVER CANADA IS AN EPIDEMIC

Weakened and Broken Constitutions Left Behind—How to Regain New Health and Strength

La grippe is one of the most dangerous diseases that annually sweeps over Canada. It starts with a sneeze—a slight cold—and ends with a complication of troubles. It lays the strong man on his back; it tortures him with fevers and chills, with headaches and backaches. Its victims are left low-spirited and depressed, and an easy prey to bronchitis, pneumonia, rheumatism, and often that most dreaded of all diseases—consumption. You can avoid la grippe entirely by keeping the blood rich and red by the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble takes as its victims those whose blood is in a poor condition, and its after-effects are more dangerous and more lasting than the trouble itself. For the after-effects of la grippe there is absolutely no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to make rich, red blood that drives disease from the system, and makes weak, despondent men and women bright, cheerful and strong. If you have suffered in any way from the epidemic of la grippe that has been sweeping over Canada, give this great health-restoring medicine a trial, and it will not disappoint you. Here is proof of the wonderful power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills over the after-effects of this disease. Mr. P. E. Paulin, collector of customs at Caraquet, N. B., says: "A few winters ago I had a severe attack of la grippe, which completely broke me down. I had to take to my bed for several weeks, and although during that time I employed a doctor I did not seem to recover from the trouble. I was left terribly weak, did not sleep well, had night sweats and little or no appetite. I was really a physical wreck. On a former occasion I had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for general debility with such great success that I decided to try them again. I sent for a half dozen boxes and began to take the Pills at once. When taking the second box I began to feel quite a change in my condition. I was able to walk about the house and my appetite was improving. From that on I gained strength every day and before the six boxes were done I was able to return to the office and attend to my work. I have since enjoyed the best of health, and think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the best medicine for trouble of this kind."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not only promptly cure the serious after-effects of la grippe, but they make well and strong all persons suffering from any form of debility or general weakness. These Pills have no laxative or purgative action; their mission is to make new, rich, red blood, and thus fortify and strengthen every organ and every part of the body. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

UNCLE HIRAM TO NEPHEW.

He Warns Him Not to Mistake Vanity for Rugged Self-Belief.

"Stevey, my boy," said Uncle Hiram to his hopeful young nephew, "there's a terrible difference between vanity and self-belief.

"I've known plenty of men who were fairly saturated, soaking with vanity, but who didn't have real courage enough to scare away a cat. They thought they were the handsomest men alive; but there were plenty of homely men that they'd let walk right over them. They had no end of vanity, but no real self-belief.

"As a matter of fact, Stephen, I think you are about as homely a young chap as I know; but it doesn't follow from that that you're rugged. And as far as that goes I never yet knew a homely man but what thought he was handsome; and that thought does a man no harm unless he lets his vanity satisfy him so that he's content to rest on that without further effort.

"Our vanity is a soothing balm for many wounds; it helps us much to bear life's buffetings. When somebody treats us rudely we say to ourselves we know what he is and we know what we are, and humph! and so on; and under such exasperation our vanity is very soothing to us, and that's all right.

"And there are millions and millions of people, Stevey, who never get anywhere in the world because they haven't got it in 'em, but who still are vain; people who never get a chance, and who wouldn't try if they did get one, because they are too timid, but who still are filled with vanity, vanity that is to them a blessing, for it is all they have or ever will have; and these may be, you understand, good, hard working people, good people; the only solace they have is their own harmless vanity. But it is a great solace; it makes life easier for them and it makes them hopeful, cheerful.

"Sometimes when I think of it I think our vanity is our greatest blessing, and I am not sure now but what it is so. Good thing to remember, Stephen, that all men, all men, are vain. Every man, whatever his lot in life high or low, is vain and easily wounded. Never wound anybody, Stephen.

"So I have no objection to your being vain, Stephen. You may think you are handsome if you want to or you may admire your own clothes or your neckties; you may think you're the finest fellow on earth; but don't mistake your vanity for self-belief. Above all things you want really to believe in yourself, and this belief must not be a mere fancy. It must be a true, rugged, 100 per cent. plus belief, something very different from vanity; it must be a real belief that inspires you to do things and that sustains and fortifies you; that invigorates and constantly strengthens you in whatever you undertake.

"And you must do things. You can't be content to sit down and admire yourself. You must butt into things and buck 'em, and if you're thrown on one side advance on the other, growing bigger and stronger all the time with the exercise of your strength grown invincible; finally in your blood, tissue and bone belief in yourself.

"That's what you want, Stevey, whole hearted, thorough, complete, 100 per cent. plus belief in yourself; with that you'll get on in the world and have a little time left over to indulge in harmless vanity."

CONFESSED AFTER 40 YEARS.

Ex-Clown, Dying, Told of Killing Circus Girl.

A remarkable deathbed confession has been made at Budapest by an old man named Schmidt, who died in a hospital there the other day.

Schmidt, who had been a circus clown, related that forty years ago he took an engagement with a travelling circus. There he made the acquaintance of a tight-rope dancer, and the two soon became engaged to be married.

One day the girl informed him that she did not love him and that she intended to marry someone else. Schmidt pleaded with her in vain, and then his love turned to hatred. He cut the tight-rope, and when the dancer began her performance that evening the rope broke almost immediately.

The girl fell from a great height and was instantly killed. At the time no one realized that her death had been deliberately planned, and Schmidt's secret was not divulged until he lay dying in the hospital.

The police have found that a woman was killed during a circus performance forty years ago, exactly as the ex-clown described.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS FOR ALL BABIES

Every mother of young children should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. No other medicine has relieved so many little ones of the ailments that afflict them as have Baby's Own Tablets—no other medicine can be given baby with that absolute sureness of safety as can these Tablets. The mother has the guarantee of a Government analyst that they do not contain a particle of those harmful drugs that make those so-called "soothing" stuffs so dangerous to the life of the little one. The Tablets never fail to be of benefit. Concerning them Mrs. Jno. A. Albert, Caraquet, N. B., writes:—"I am happy to state that I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation for my two children with great satisfaction." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TOOK THE ADVICE OF HER FRIENDS

AND DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS MADE MRS. PAINCHAUD WELL.

She inherited ill-health from her parents, and for seven years was a sufferer from Kidney and Heart Trouble.

Whitworth, Temiscouta Co., Que., Feb. 20 (Special)—That she took the advice of her friends and used Dodd's Kidney Pills is the reason Mrs. Julien Painchaud of this place gives for the perfect health that shows in her every movement.

"I inherited ill-health from my parents," Mrs. Painchaud says in an interview. "For seven years my Heart and Kidneys bothered me. I was always tired and nervous. I could not sleep. My eyes had dark circles round them, and were puffed and swollen.

"I could hardly do my housework when I was advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. One box relieved me of pain, and six boxes made me perfectly well."

Every woman who is feeling fagged, tired and worn out, should use Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cure the Kidneys, and every woman's health depends on her Kidneys. Healthy Kidneys mean pure blood, and pure blood carrier new life to run down organs which supply the body with energy.

If you're a suffering woman ask your friends. They'll tell you out of their own experience to use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Passenger—Any danger on this trip, cap? Captain—Well, there is a pirate balloon above us and a submarine under us, and we're carrying twenty tons of dynamite. Outside of that there's no cause for nervousness.

A bottle of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, taken according to directions, will subdue a cough in a short time. This assertion can be verified by hundreds who have tried it and are pleased to bear testimony to its merits, so that all may know what a splendid medicine it is. It costs you only 25 cents to join the ranks of the many who have been benefited by its use.

Bill—"What's the matter with your hands?" Jill—"Writer's cramp." Bill—"How'd you get that?" Jill—"I started in to make a list of the resolutions I have broken already this year."

BLACK SNOW IN THE ALPS.

Covered a Swiss Valley and Hills to the Depth of Six Inches.

A curious phenomenon was observed recently in the lower Emmen Valley above the Lake of Brienz, Switzerland, writes a correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette.

Last week the inhabitants woke up to find that it had been snowing both in the valley and on the slopes of the surrounding hills. About six inches of new snow was lying, and as far as the eye could see it was not white, but of a grayish black color, as if a thick coating of dust and soot had accumulated upon it.

It was much blacker than snow which has been lying a week in a city exposed to all the smuts of the surrounding chimneys, whereas, of course, in the Emmen Valley there was nothing to soil it.

The only explanation which any one can offer of the phenomenon of black snow is that it may be due to volcanic ash brought by winds across the sea and the mountains of Etna, which has lately been in eruption.

Red snow of course is a fairly common phenomenon in the Andes and was remarked by Darwin. So far no other part of the Alps except the Emmen Valley seems to have had the unpleasant experience of a fall of black snow. The snow, moreover, is getting darker and thicker here.

The inhabitants of the valley are herdsmen, who in their chalets make the famous Emmenthal cheese, while those who live on the shores of the Lake of Brienz are chiefly engaged in wood carving.

A Mild Pill for Delicate Women.—The most delicate woman can undergo a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills without fear of unpleasant consequences. Their action, while wholly effective, is mild and agreeable. No violent pains or purgings follow their use, as thousands of women who have used them can testify. They are, therefore, strongly recommended to women who are more prone to disorders of the digestive organs than men.

"Doesn't it make you sad," exclaimed the member of the Audubon Society, "to see women wearing on their hats the feathers of the poor little birds?" "It isn't feathers that make me sad," replied the married man. "It's the bills."

CHILDREN'S SCALP SORES ARE HEALED BY ZAM-BUK.

Some children are particularly liable to scalp sores, etc., and often these break out with annoying frequency. Such a case was that of the daughter of Mrs. Albert Gaedike, of 485 Amherst St., Montreal. Mrs. Gaedike says: "My little three year old daughter suffered frequently from scalp disease, and try as we would, we could not rid the little one of this. We tried everything we could think of, but failed to effect a cure, until we were advised to try Zam-Buk. This balm seemed entirely different to anything we had ever tried before and from first applying it there was a marked improvement. The sores became less inflamed and less irritable. After a few days, they ceased to trouble the child; and in less than a fortnight from first commencing with Zam-Buk, they were completely healed. In view of these facts I feel it my duty to let mothers know how beneficial Zam-Buk is."

There is no doubt that for scalp sores, ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, cold cracks, chapped hands, frost bite and similar sores, Zam-Buk is absolutely without equal. It is just as good for piles, varicose sores, poisoned wounds, cuts, burns and scalds. Rubbed well in over the affected part, it cures rheumatism, etc., etc., and rubbed into the chest it relieves the tightness and feeling of weight due to contracting a bad cold. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Try Zam-Buk soap too.

EXPENSIVE.

"Yes," said the portly passenger with the noisy tie, proudly, "this watch cost me a hundred and fifty dollars."

The Pill That Brings Relief.—When, after one has partaken of a meal he is oppressed by feelings of fullness and pains in the stomach he suffers from dyspepsia, which will persist if it be not dealt with. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the very best medicine that can be taken to bring relief. These pills are specially compounded to deal with dyspepsia, and their sterling qualities in this respect can be vouched for by legions of users.

SLOW ENOUGH.

Old Bill Titcomb had taken a sack of grain to an old-fashioned mill to have it ground into meal. He watched the ponderous wheels revolving slowly while a tiny stream of meal trickled feebly out. Finally his patience became exhausted.

"Do yer know," he said, "I cud eat that there meal faster than yer mill can grind it!"

"Yes!" remarked the miller, "but how long could you keep on eating it, Mr. Titcomb?"

"Wal," replied Old Bill, conclusively, "I reckon I cud keep on at that rate till I starved."

Your time will come—but it won't wait if you are not ready.

The rain of Thursday night and Friday morning made things very unpleasant in the McDonell block, owing to the roof having been blown off. The water leaked down through the two storeys and into the stores beneath but not in quantities to destroy much of the goods although it did considerable damage to the building. Local workmen have since been busy repairing the damage done, and a Toronto firm has re-covered the building with what looks like a lasting material.

QUARANTINE—A number of farmers of this district who purchased Western cattle last fall have had all their cattle quarantined, owing to the presence of mange in some of the herds. The disease is supposed to have appeared in this locality with the coming of the western cattle. Dr. Tennant of London was looking after the matter of quarantining the stock.

HICKS' FORECASTS FOR MARCH.—A regular storm period is central on the 3rd, covering the 1st to the 6th. The Venus period is central on the 4th, and Earth and Mars periods are in full force at this time. By the 1st falling barometer will begin in the west, temperature will rise and storms of rain, wind and thunder will start eastward by the 2nd. During the 3rd, 4th, and 5th, these storms will pass eastwardly across the country, with change to much warmer, rain and thunder, east of the storm centres, followed by rising barometer, with snow and sleet and change to much cooler, on western sides of storm areas. A decided cold wave for the season will almost certainly sweep south and east from the northwest, between the 4th and 8th. A seismic period central on February 28th, will extend three to five days in March.

Mr. T. H. McCallum was in London, on business Tuesday, as was also Mr. S. Martin.

Mr. Nelson Smith of Kincardine spent a few days in town, the guest of C. H. Sanders.

Miss Vera Rowe, after a visit with her parents, returned to her duties in London Saturday.

Mr. William Welsh of Kansas spent Saturday and Sunday visiting his mother and sister here.

Mrs. S. Hicks, who has been visiting in Hibbert for past two months, returned home last Thursday.

Mrs. Wm. Creech left Wednesday morning to visit at the home of her son, N. W. Creech, Brantford, for two weeks.

Mr. D. B. Sanders was called to Woodstock Tuesday owing to the illness of his brother, Mr. Jas. A. Sanders.

Mr. Thos. Penhale, of Medicine Hat, Alta., accompanied by his daughter Miss Myrtle is visiting with his brother, Mr. Wm. Penhale.

Mr. T B. Carling left Tuesday for Grand Bend, where he will conduct an auction sale of dry-goods, etc., for Messrs. Tieman & and Edighoffer of Dashwood.

Misses Ethel Blasett and Lily Huston leave to-day to attend millinery openings in Toronto after which the former takes a situation in Orillia and the latter in Petrolea.

Miss Bess. Sharpe, of London, formerly dressmaker here after visiting a few days with Mrs. A. Bowie, left Monday evening for Winnipeg, where she will again reside.

Mr. A. Walters is off duty these days owing to illness.

Mr. Wes Dearing is confined to his bed through a severe attack of grip.

Mr. James Handford of Centralia has purchased the residence of the late Thos Cudmore on Laughall Street, and will move in next month.

A number of the members of the Main street church choir drove to Clandeboye on Sunday and took part in the musical part of the evening service.

Messrs. Mack Vincent and A. Hastings returned Monday from Crosshill, where the former gave two very successful concerts. His work was so pleasing that he was engaged for three more concerts in the same neighborhood. He also takes part in concerts in Woodham and Blyth shortly.

A number of Exeter boys drove out to Crediton Monday evening and played a game of hockey with the locals, resulting 10-4 in favor of Exeter. Exeter's line-up was, Goal, Griff; point, J. Bawden; cover, S. Bawden; rover, T. Carling; Forwards, H. Elliott, E. Elliott, R. Brintnell; with H Blasett, referee; H. Art, goal referee; F. Mallett time-keeper; and W. Greig penalty time-keeper.

That the fame of Exeter's Waterworks System has gone abroad was instanced on Thursday last when Messrs. Hoppel and Zimmerman of Tavistock came here as a deputation from their town to investigate our system of fire protection. The fullest information was given them by the late and present town clerks, and other citizens. The visitors expressed themselves as favorably impressed with the system installed here and the cost of the same.

REV. WADDELL DEAD— Rev. R. Hobbs of James street church received word on Sunday last of the death that day of Rev. W. J. Waddell of Drumbo, who had been ill for about two months as a result of water solidifying on the lungs. Deceased was well known here, having been stationed on the Elimville circuit a few years ago. He was 49 years of age, and had been married twice, his second wife surviving him together with three children. The remains were brought here on Tuesday evening and interred in the Exeter cemetery. They were accompanied by Rev. C. L. McIrvine of Woodstock, chairman of the District, Rev. G. E. Honey of Princeton, Mr. Waddell of Port Hope and Mrs. Waddell and her brother.

MRS. BLATCHFORD—The remains of the late Mrs. Richard Blatchford, of whom we made mention last week as passing away about midnight on Feb. 14, were interred in Exeter cemetery, Friday last, and the funeral was largely attended. Deceased had been ill only about ten days from dropsy and she suffered a stroke of paralysis, which was the immediate cause of death. She survived her husband only six weeks, he having passed away on Jan 3rd. last. She was born in Demonshire, England, in 1828, being at the time of her death 82 years, 9 months, 6 days of age. Married in England she and her late husband came to Canada about sixty years ago, settling in Usborne township where they resided until 20 years ago, since which time they lived retired in Exeter. Mrs. Blatchford was a consistant members of the James street Methodist church and highly respected by all who knew her. Seven children were born to the union, one dying in infancy, John, Elizabeth, George and Hannah passing away after marriage and Rachel at the age of 11 years One son survives William of Exeter, and he has the sympathy of his many friends in his double loss.

ADDIE MORLOCK.

BACK TO THE PINES

The world has experimented with most everything to relieve throat troubles and improve those conditions that tend towards the White Plague.

In the past altogether too much dope opiates have been used for this purpose. These are useful perhaps to give momentary relief, but they do nothing to build up or ward off another attack. It is all a matter of throat irritation at first, and what it really needed is a soothing balmy influence like the resin of the pine forest. If we could live among the pines we never would have throat troubles.

We can't all get away to the forest but the next best thing is a big bottle of Nyal's Pinol. It is simply a safe combination of the balsamic principle of the pine with other soothing and antiseptic remedies that promptly and without disturbing the stomach, removes the irritation and tones up the delicate bronchial tract.

Equally important is its tonic effect which builds up so that future attacks are not so probable.

It is a most rational remedy and a very scientific combination. After a careful study of the formula we can very cheerfully recommend it to you with every confidence.

We would not for a good deal destroy your confidence in our judgment, but we know Pinol.

We have it in a great big bottle for a half dollar.

We carry a full stock of Nyal's family remedies.

Farmers' Institute

The annual Farmers' Institute meetings in Exeter were held on the Town Hall on Monday afternoon and evening, and were fairly well attended by representative farmers of the district. The chair was taken by the president, Mr. A. Mustard of Brucefield. W. J. Gardhouse, who was to have spoken on Types of Live Stock, and Cheap Food for Live Stock, was unable to be present. F. M. Lewis, the other Government speaker, was there, however, and in the afternoon spoke interestingly on Seed Selection, giving much valuable information and provoking a thorough discussion of the subject. He was followed by T. B. Carling who spoke on his favorite subject and one on which he is well qualified to speak, Poultry. The president then discussed Ensilage Corn.

KIRKTON.

Mr. Chas. Irvine, who has rented his farm, being lot 13, concession 13, Usborne, to Mr. Thos. Roadhouse, will have a sale of his stock and implements on March 14th, after which he will go to Swift Current, Sask., to farm a half section he owns there. Mr. Roadhouse gets possession April 1st.

It is generally understood in this district that rheumatism has received its death blow. The Johnston Medicine Co. held forth here for a week and dispensed cheap remedies right and left—and lots of it—guaranteed to cure almost everything under the sun, but particularly rheumatism. Some people say that the "medicine" is perfectly harmless to the system—and likewise to the disease. Soda never did much harm anyway. The usual Ladies' Contest was held in connection with the game and was interesting to say the least. Johnston, who was the whole company himself, came here from Granton and journed hence to Staffa, where the same liberal supply of medicine was sold, and the same $15 dollar watches 'given away."

DASHWOOD

Wedding—A pretty wedding took place at Zion's Lutheran church on Wednesday of last week, when Clara, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Miller became the wife of Louis Roeder. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thun, pastor of the church. The bride who was lead to the altar by her father, looked lovely in a gown of white Batiste, trimmed with valenciennes lace, and wore the usual bridal veil, trimmed with orange blossoms. Miss Alma Roeder, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, dressed in Copenhagen blue ladies cloth. Mr. Gustav Miller, brother of the bride, ably supported the groom. After the ceremony was performed the choir sang a bridal hymn. To the strains of Tannhauser's wedding march, played by Miss E. C. Eidt, organist of the church, the couple left the church for the home of the bride, where a wedding dinner was served, the dining room being decorated with evergreen and white ribbon, and the table with pink and white carnations. The couple received many useful presents, amongst which was a beautiful bedroom suite from the choir, of which the bride was a valued member for a number of years. We wish the young couple a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Misses Susie and Adeline Roeder of Detroit attended the wedding of their cousin last week; also Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson of London were present.

Mr Arthur Weber and bride arrived home last Wednesday after spending their honeymoon for two weeks in Pigeon, Mich.

Mrs Rattenberry and daughter of Brucefield were visitors for a few days with Mr and Mrs. R. T. Dunlop.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eidt and son Courtney, visited in Zurich with Mr. and Mrs. Yungblut on Saturday.

Mr. R. Stadt of Zurich visited his parents here over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Mueller and family are this week leaving for their home in Saskatchewan, after visiting for two months with the former's parents and relatives.

Quite a few citizens are on the sick list with la grippe.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mueller, 14th con., died on Tuesday of last week, death being due to bronchitis. The remains were interred in the Lutheran cemetery.

Death—Mrs. Dorothea Preeter, 80 years of age, died at the home of her oldest son, Fred Preeter, on Thursday of last week. She was born in 1831 in Mecklenburg, Schwerin, Germany, and came with her husband, the late Joachim Preeter to Canada in 1854. After a short residence in Waterloo Co., and later in Hullett Township, they settled on the 14th con. of Stephen Tp. In 1879 she lost her husband, 32 years ago. She was the mother of three sons and five daughters, all of whom survive her, with the exception of two daughters. Deceased always enjoyed good health until about a month ago, when she was taken ill with gangrene. All that good nursing could do was done, but to no avail, and we have every reason to believe that when the summons came to her to leave this earthly tabernacle and join the ransomed hosts above it found her ready, and only awaiting her master's call. Her illness she had borne with patience and resignation. The body accompanied by the afflicted family and a great number of friends and neighbors was brought, after a funeral service in the Lutheran church at Dashwood, to the Lutheran cemetery, where the remains were interred. The surviving members of the family are, Fred on the homestead, Mrs. H. Willert, Mrs. B.Stacey, and Louis, all of Dashwood, and John and Fanny of Zurich.

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

SELECTED RECIPES.

Fried Tamale.—Chop fine beef which has been boiled until very tender. Boil it again in the same water that was used before, stirring in corn-meal and seasoning with pepper and salt. Press the mixture into a mold. When the meat is cold, cut it into slices and fry it.

Celery and Egg; a Belgian dish.—Scrape and cut into inch pieces three or four stalks of celery; cook them in boiling salted water about twenty minutes, drain, and mix with white sauce; put in individual stone china dish, break an egg over the celery and sauce, and bake in moderate oven about ten minutes.

Sparrow Cake.—Cream one cup of butter with two cups and a half of sugar; add four eggs well beaten, one cup of milk in which one teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved, and four cups of flour in which two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar have been mixed. Add mace, cloves, cinnamon and allspice to taste, and bake in a moderate oven.

Date Pie.—Stone and wash well one pound of dates; just cover them with water, and cook until they are soft. Rub them through a sieve in the same way that squash is strained. Beat well three eggs; add a pinch of salt and three large cups of milk—about one and one-half pints—and mix with the dates. The mixture should be about the consistency of the filling for squash or pumpkin pies. The whites of the eggs may be reserved for a meringue, or whipped cream may be spread on when the pie is cold.

Squash Soup.—For a luncheon or dinner where the color is yellow this soup carries out the color scheme, and it also offers a new way of preparing a useful vegetable. Boil enough Hubbard squash to get two cups of mashed squash. Add one quart of milk and one onion, and cook one-half hour in a double boiler. Remove from the fire and strain. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Just before sending the soup to the table add a cupful of whipped cream. If the soup is served in bouillon cups place the cream in each cup.

India Rice Rings.—To two cups of water add one tablespoonful of chopped onion, one tablespoonful of anchovy paste, salt, pepper, a dash of tarragon vinegar, and finally one spoonful of butter into which has been worked one spoonful of flour. Cook until all the ingredients are well blended, stirring constantly; then add diced or finely sliced duck meat or chicken. Let this heat thoroughly add the juice of one large orange, and take from the fire. Have in readiness small mounds of boiled rice, make a depression in each and fill with the mixture.

Spanish Spaghetti.—Rub through a strainer one pint of stewed tomatoes. Brown in the frying-pan two tablespoonfuls of butter and one tablespoonful of flour. Add the strained tomatoes, four cloves, three bay leaves, three teaspoonfuls of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a generous shake each of pepper and paprika; add one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Allow to simmer slowly, covered, on back of stove for an hour. Remove, strain, pour over boiled spaghetti which has been well drained; grate cheese over top and brown in oven for ten minutes. Serve very hot.

BREAKFAST DISHES.

Bread Sponge Cake.—Griddle cakes made from bread sponge and enriched with one egg and well beaten never lie heavily on the stomach and can be eaten by a dyspeptic.

Pancakes Without Eggs.—To make nice pancakes without eggs, with sour milk and soda or sweet milk and baking powder, also use up scraps of the day bread, soak bread in the milk or cold water to soften. Beat bread and milk together, add little salt. If you use sour milk, dissolve the soda in a little hot water, enough to sweeten the milk, and add to the bread and milk. Seive in flour to make a little thicker than if eggs are used. If sweet milk is used, put baking powder in flour and seive into the bread and milk. Use bread enough to thicken milk considerably. Beat for three minutes. These are nice, light and tender.

Coffee Cake.—Take two quarts of bread sponge, add one well beaten egg, half cup of good lard, one cup of sugar, a little salt and cinnamon; mix and let rise; now roll out in sheet, cover with melted butter, cinnamon, and sprinkle with sugar and when light press with a spoon deep holes and fill with thick sweet cream and bake at once. Delicious; and warmed over only improves it; not so good cold.

Aunt Dinah's Corn Bread.—Two aiggs, buttah big as 2 persimmons, jes' a little salt, three cupfuls of cawn meal (none ob ye' yaller meal, on'y fit fo' chickens, but fine white meal made ob flint cawn, like yo' git in ole Kaintuck), one cupful ob white flowah, three heapin' teaspoonfuls ob bakin' powdah. Beat yo' aiggs up light, melt yo' buttah, an' throw it in along wid de salt. Poah in yo' milk—it must be fraish an' sweet, honey. Now, stir in de cawn meal good an' hahd, an', las' of all, de flowah wid de yeas' powdah mixed in. Poah it inter a shaller pan an' pop it inter de oven. Ef you-alls is lucky 'nuff to hab a gas stove dis yeah cawn bread will be done brown in no time, but in an ole wood stove it takes a powahful sight ob bakin'.

Jellied Apples.—Pare, quarter, and core six tart apples, take one pound sugar, one pint water, boil until like syrup. then drop apples in and cook until clear, taking care to keep their shape. When tender skim out, place on platter to cool, measure and strain syrup; there should be one-half pint. Take one package lemon jello, dissolve in two-thirds pint hot water, add to your hot syrup, pour over apples, serve cold with cream. You can serve with these small cakes.

Delicious Corn Bread.—One pint sifted corn meal, one pint sifted wheat flour, one pint sour milk, two beaten eggs, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one teaspoonful soda dissolved in a little milk. Bake in greased pan twenty minutes.

Sweet Potato Buns.—Boil and mash two potatoes, rub in as much flour as will make it like bread, add a little nutmeg and sugar to your taste with a tablespoonful of good yeast. When it has risen work in two tablespoonfuls of butter cut finely; then form it into small rolls and bake on tins a nice brown. serve hot; split open and butter. Good either for tea or breakfast.

CHEESE.

Cheese Desserts.—For the cheese lover a simple and palatable dessert is made from any good cream cheese. Work and mold the cheese into round, flat patties, putting a patty in the center of each dessert plate. Scoop out the middle, and in lieu of the bar le duc, which is expensive and not always obtainable, put in each patty a spoonful of preserved red currants. Serve with crisp salted wafers and coffee. This is deliciously satisfying and most attractive.

Cheese Pie.—Mix to one large cup of dry cottage cheese one tablespoon of flour, one egg, one half cup sugar, and a little salt. Make thinner than paste, put small lumps of butter and sugar, and bake twenty minutes.

Cheese Roulettes.—Season with salt and cayenne a cupful of dry grated cheese—Parmesian is preferred. Whip the whites of three eggs stiff and mix in the cheese. Flour the hands and mold the mixture into balls the size of walnuts. Drop into boiling fat and fry to a golden brown. Lay on crumpled paper to absorb the grease. Serve hot.

PIE HINTS.

The Pie of Five.—One large, juicy lemon, one cupful of sugar, one egg, one good sized potato, one cupful of water. Grate rind of lemon and add juice and egg. Beat well. Grate potato; if possible, through a food chopper. Stir well with other ingredients and then add water. Put in double boiler or saucepan and let thicken and bake same in two crusts.

Splendid Cranberry Pie.—Two cups of cranberries split or chopped, one cup and a half of sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch, three eggs. Line pie plate with rich paste and pour in chopped cranberries. Stir cornstarch, sugar, and beaten yolks of eggs together, and add one cup of sweet milk and pour over pies and bake. Cover with meringue and brown in oven. This recipe is enough for two pies.

CARE OF HOUSE PLANTS.

A moist soil does not mean a wet one.

Cover the plants with newspapers when sweeping or throw a dust sheet over them.

Examine all hardwooded tub of pot plants in your window garden for scale, mealy bug and spider. Do not let them get a start.

Make a blanket of newspapers to wrap around your plant stand on cold nights. Drop papers between plants and sash.

For the fern case provide good drainage, ventilation every day; avoid much heat and water judiciously.

Don't depend upon the moon; see that seed, soil and season are suitable and go ahead. The moon has business of its own.

The date palm develops slowly from seed, but it is easy to care for and some of them turn out fine. Many however, are not worth their keep.

KITCHEN HELPS.

When it is necessary to make several cakes at once, save yourself the tiresome beating of the batter by putting the required ingredients in their usual order into a small ice cream freezer. A few minutes of turning the crank results in a fine, smooth batter necessary for a successful cake. This is a great improvement over beating with a spoon after the old fashion.

To prevent the bottom of kettles from becoming smoked soap them well before putting on the fire.

To preserve brooms dip them for three minutes in a pail of boiling soap suds once a week. This makes them tough and pliable, and makes them wear much longer.

When boiling rice or beans, two things which will boil over, put in a lump of butter, size of a walnut and this will stop the trouble at once.

In separating the whites from the yolks of eggs one will sometimes break the yolk into the white, in which case the whites do not beat light. Dip a clean cloth into warm water, wring dry, touch the yolk which has been dropped into the white with the cloth, and it kill cling to the cloth.

UNCLE HIRAM TO HIS NEPHEW

Important for Him to Realize in His Relations With Men.

"Stevy, my boy," said Uncle Hiram to his hopeful young nephew, "you may not be old enough yet to fully understand or at least fully to realize what I am about to say to you, but I'd better say it now for I might forget to say it later, and some day, and perhaps to your advantage, you will recall it, the thing I would now say to you being this:

"Other people think of us what we think of them.

"Do you get that through your noddle? Other people think of us what we think of them.

"This is highly important, because it applies to our inmost unuttered thoughts. If we think ill of a man he will think ill of us. So you want to think well of men.

"Our thoughts of other people appear to form a sort of circuit returning from them to us. They go out from us to the fellow we are thinking of, who seems to relay them back to us. Whatever our feelings toward him may be, good or bad, he takes them in, re-enforces them with strength from his own batteries and sends them back to us, with a feeling of friendliness if that was our instinctive feeling toward him, while if our feeling was one of antagonism that is the feeling that he relays back to us.

"Don't think ill of men, Stephen; think well of them, as you may well do; there is more good in men than bad. Cultivate friendly relations and friendly feelings, and be sure that as you feel toward men so will they feel toward you."

TRAIN WRECKS IN ITALY.

Attributed to Poorly Paid Employees—A Strike Threatened.

Quite recently there have been no fewer than eighteen attempts at train wrecking in various parts of Italy, particularly in the southern provinces, by means of false signals and by placing explosives on the tracks. These are the first results of a campaign of obstruction and sabotage which has begun on the State railroads because of the Government's delay in satisfying the demands of the railroad men for higher wages.

Ninety thousand of the lower grade employees out of a total of 146,000 railroad men are getting from 37 to 62 cents a day. Most of these are married men who have large families, and many of them have worked on the State lines from fifteen to thirty years.

Prime Minister Luzzatti declares that the Government refuses to be coerced, and is resolved to punish severely the authors of such outrages. The railroad men's federation threatens that unless the questions in dispute are immediately debated in Parliament and settled to the satisfaction of the staff, a general strike will be declared on all the Italian railroads on the eve of the great international exposition in Rome and Turin.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, MARCH 5.

Lesson X.—Elijah goes up by a whirlwind into heaven, 2 Kings 2. 1-18. Golden Text, Gen. 5. 24.

Verse 1. Jehovah would take up Elijah—Elijah bursts upon the scene at the start with none of the announcements as to birth which we find in the lives of most heroes, and his departure is as full of mystery as his origin. Of no other, except Jesus, is it recorded that he was translated in this way, although Enoch, of course, shares the distinction of not having seen death.

Gilgal—Not to be confused with the Gilgal on the eastern border of Jericho. It stood on a lofty hill, about eight miles northwest of Bethel, and is now called Jiljilia. It seems to have been the seat of a school of young men in training for the work of a prophet.

2. Tarry here—The purpose of Elijah was probably to spare his successor the anguish of witnessing the stormy scenes of his departure. Fully a dozen years had elapsed since the call had come to Elisha at the plow, and during all that time he had no doubt enjoyed the closest intimacy with this most picturesque character in the Old Testament. It may be, also, that, with his love for solitude, Elijah wished in these closing days to tear himself away from all human companionship.

Beth-el—His object in halting here and at Jericho was, in all probability, to reassure the young prophets who were being schooled in these places. Bethel was inseparably connected with the patriarchal history, and had become renowned as the abode of ancient sanctuaries (see lesson for January 8).

Went down to Beth-el—Bethel itself was higher up than Gilgal. But between them lay a deep valley into which it was necessary to descend in making the journey from Gilgal.

3. Sons of the prophets — These were some of the fruits of Elijah's strenuous loyalty to the true religion. These young men had caught his spirit and were being trained by the older prophets at Bethel and Jericho and Gilgal, and it may be other centers, to continue the war against the heathen supersititions which threatened to destroy the nation.

Knowest thou?—We have no inkling as to how the knowledge of Elijah's impending departure had reached these schools. But, however the news had come, Elisha was in no mood to discuss it, and warns the talkative youth that it is not a matter for idle gossip.

4. Jericho—A city in the valley of the Jordan, over against Nebo, made famous by the siege of Joshua, it being the first to oppose the progress of the Israelites after their crossing the Jordan.

7. Fifty . . . sons of the prophets . . . stood . . . afar off—They must have climbed the hills above Jericho and watched the two as they descended the valley toward Jordan.

9. A double portion of thy spirit—Not twice as much zeal and inspiration as was possessed by his guide, but the portion of an elder son, by the Hebrew law, received twice as much as the younger. In spiritual endowment, Elisha wished to be foremost among the disciples of Elijah.

10. Thou hast asked a hard thing—Spiritual gifts are always hard to pass on to others. "Nevertheless, he assures his follower that if he proved his fitness for prophetic gifts by remaining with his master to the end, and looking without fear upon the messengers of the invisible world, his request will not be denied."

11. A chariot of fire and horses of fire—The whirlwind is spoken of twice (see verse 1) as the agent of Elijah's removal, and there is nothing to indicate with certainty whether the rest of the language is the picturesque description of a storm, or whether it is a literal account of what Elisha saw. There is, at any rate, a mystery here, as there was in the death of Moses, which it is useless for us to try to penetrate. Elisha's cry was a fitting expression of what he must have felt in his heart, that he had lost one who had been more to him than a father, and who had been to Israel more than her chariots and horsemen; that is, her military defenses. So it was natural that he should find a vent for his grief by tearing in twain his own clothes (12).

13. The mantle of Elijah—This was his reward for fidelity unto the end, and his taking it back with him was a symbol of his possession of the spiritual authority of his great master. He stood the test imposed upon him, and shown himself a worthy successor of the old hero who had been feared by kings. He puts to proof at once this newly bestowed power, by smiting the waters of the Jordan and going over dry shod (14). This was sufficient to convince the sons of the prophets that Elisha was not lacking in the gifts of a great prophet, and they humbly make acknowledgment of their allegiance. Still, as verse 16 shows, they remain somewhat skeptical as to the departure of Elijah, and suggest a search by fifty strong men. There is a certain humor in the persistency with which they urge this upon Elisha until he shamefacedly gives in and bids them send and look. Their failure to find a trace of the old seer, after three days, left Elisha as their undisputed leader.

WONDERFUL SILVER PLATE.

In the Collection are Five Wine Coolers as Big as Footbaths.

The Spencer family has inherited the greater portion of the once world famous Spencer Churchill plate housed at Blenheim Palace during the lifetime of the great Duke of Marlborough, for whom by a grateful Queen and nation this country palace was originally built.

This plate came to Althorp through the intermarriage of an heiress of the Spencer Churchills and comprises one of five marvellous wine coolers or "foot baths" (one was actually used as such by its great original owner, the Duke of Marlborough in his campaign in the Netherlands).

This wonderful pieces of solid silver plate, with the Churchill and ducal Marlborough arms impaled, is one of the magnificent pieces always on view in the State dining room on the occasion of any great festivity in the house.

"I have often gazed with wonder and admiration at this 'wine cooler' (capable of holding I can't remember how many dozens of champagne bottles) on the occasion of a dance in St. Patrick's Hall," says a writer in the Lady's Pictorial. This famous piece always formed the centre of the wonderful collection, which, closely set together on raised baize covered panels, reached practically from floor to ceiling of this huge hall in Dublin Castle.

"Lord Spencer's plate includes solid gold Russian cups, Old World silver water bottles of Charles II.'s time, more resembling great cans in size, with the corks, Jacobean fashion, secured with silver links and chains; then there are two gold pails, reckoned the largest of the kind in any private collection in the world, and among the comparatively modern pieces is the beautiful silver gilt jug, one of the four subscribed for by the English nation, and presented (each receiving one) to the Lords Althorp, Russell, Grey and Brougham, in recognition of their final triumph after years of struggle over the great reform bill of 1832."

BAD SPELLING.

Schools and Colleges are Blamed For It.

To spell badly is no longer considered particularly illiterate—that is to say, it does not betoken a want of education. An eminent lawyer, who is considered one of the most "brainy" men of his time, said recently that until he was married he had always spelled husband with an "i" after the "u," and a noted physician when taking his examinations at the medical college tripped up on "medicine."

Another funny case was that of a young man who, having graduated with the highest honors from his university, sent out cards, which he had written personally, saying that he had formed a "buisiness" partnership with Mr. So-and-so.

The fact of the matter is that spelling is so neglected in the curriculum of schools and colleges now-a-days that it is a hit-or-miss kind of accomplishment. Those who have accuracy and "ear" remember the various combinations, and others fail utterly to retain the impression made while reading or studying, the provision made in modern boys' schools and colleges to train the sense of sound and its expression being of little account.

SECRETS OF THE SEA.

Everybody has read of the discoveries made by dredging the sea-bottom along the shore of the antarctic continent but few have any idea how the work is done when the surface of the ocean is covered with ice five feet or more in thickness. The method employed is interestingly illustrated in the recent reports of the British Antarctic Expedition of 1907-9. Holes are made in the ice a considerable distance apart, and a cable, to which a dredge is attached, descends through one hole and emerges through the other. The dredge is so arranged that the open side is drawn ahead by pulling a cable. Ahead of the dredge a weight is attached which serves to keep the dredge on the bottom and in the right position. The cable is pulled by a man advancing from the forward hole as fast as it is paid out by another stationed at the rear hole. Thus, living creatures, as strange as the world as they inhabit, are brought up from beneath the eternal ice-sheet

DAMMING OF THE EUPHRATES

MESOPOTAMIA TO AGAIN BE A FERTILE REGION.

Three Million Acres to be Irrigated Under the Proposed Scheme.

After the Nile the Euphrates. Both are to be dammed, and both by Englishmen.

Sir John Jackson, the engineer and contractor, has just signed a contract with the Turkish Governor-General of Bagdad for the construction of a great dam at the Hindia section of the Euphrates, with the expected result that Mesopotamia will again become one of the most fertile regions of the world.

This new Turkish irrigation plan is based upon the recommendation of Sir William Willcocks. This involved the irrigation of over 3,000,000 acres, at an estimated

COST OF $37,000,000

Since the submission of that scheme in 1908 a large staff of engineers has been at work surveying the ground and studying the conditions with the result that new plans of a more limited scope were prepared and approved by the Turkish Government.

The damming of the head of the Hindia Canal forms part of the new scheme. The canal is an ancient cutting which the Euphrates in recent years has followed, in preference to its own bed, with disastrous consequences.

The original Euphrates, passing through Babylon, is now quite dry in Summer, all the water flowing down the canal except in flood time. Cultivation on the Euphrates banks has, therefore, been almost abandoned, the population having migrated across country to the Hindia Canal. The canal, however, never having been meant to contain the whole of the Euphrates, has become badly water-logged, and much good land has become swamp.

The Turks have been trying for years to construct a barrage which would force part of the water back into the bed of the Euphrates and permit regulation of the flow in the canal,

BUT WITHOUT SUCCESS.

Sir William Willcocks' engineers succeeded in filling up the space between the two arms of the barrage, only to find the structure breached at another point when the water came down in flood. Completion of this scheme will have the important result of restoring prosperity to the banks of the Euphrates proper, and of greatly improving the conditions along the length of the canal.

The principal crops in order of importance that would be planted are wheat, barley, rice, sesame and cotton. It is estimated that about 800,000 acres of land will be placed under wheat, and on the basis of a ton from every acre the Mesopotamian wheat would amount to about 30,000,000 bushels.

MURDER ALMOST DAILY.

Eminent Frenchman Exposes Shameless Practices.

Dr. Doyen, the celebrated Paris surgeon, is quoted in a cable despatch to the New York Times to the effect that civilization is plagued by hordes of physicians who are worse than the charlatans of the middle ages. He says:—

"Operations by incompetent surgeons are being performed continually and actual murder is committed in this way almost daily. Other physicians form a ring to exploit a patient, passing him from one to the other, saying 'Go to Dr. Jones for the eyes, to Dr. Brown for the ears, and to Dr. Smith for the stomach,' etc.

"One of the commonest of witticisms of doctors is 'a millionaire always has a little piece of cartilage in his nose which can be removed for a large sum of money.' Only last week I overheard one surgeon ask another, 'Why did you operate on so-and-so for cataract before it was ripe?' 'If I had done otherwise my patient would have gone to another doctor,' was the reply.

"I also know of several cases of alleged operations in laparotomy when the surgeon merely cut the skin and renewed it.

"Other charlatans when they hear the name of a man who is about to undergo an operation search for the name of the surgeon in the case and sometimes they come three and four at a time demanding commissions, pretending that they are the family physicians of the patient."

"Do you believe that a doctor should charge in proportion to the wealth of the patient?" was asked.

"Yes," was the reply, "because physicians make no charge to the poor. Also I believe that a family physician should have a commission when he is forced to advise a patient to go to a specialist. However, instead of the specialist giving the commission secretly the patient should pay each openly."

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE;

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER VIII.

There was no dinner at Ripstone Hall on the night of the fete; that is to say, there was no fixed ceremonious meal, but the large, hospitable tables were spread, and invited all to partake of what they liked best.

Dorothy, highly delighted at the success of the match, had suddenly conceived the idea of having an impromptu dance.

"We have a good band, heaps of dancing people, I know; we have all got on light dresses; the ball-room is in excellent condition. I think it would be a good idea."

"Oh, splendid!"

"Awfully jolly!" chorused the Misses Chester; and their opinion was shared by every one else.

"Then we must set about arranging it at once," Dorothy declared. "Papa, dear; where is papa?"

"I think Sir Humphrey is out in the grounds with Mrs. Darnley," Nancy replied; she was just passing with some elderly ladies, escorting them to the dining-room; her cheeks were glowing vividly, her eyes shining like stars; she felt so nervous, so irrepressibly happy, it was with difficulty she could restrain her feet from dancing. She rushed headlong to do something—occupy herself in some way; or she felt that people would be remarking there was something strange about her, and asking her the cause.

Dorothy frowned when she heard that her father was with Derrick's mother.

"Have you been introduced to Aunt Anne, Nancy?" she asked, turning back for an instant.

"Yes, just this very minute. She seems kind, Dorothy."

"Hum!" observed Dorothy to herself; "I have not that keen appreciation of Aunt Anne's kindness that I might have."

And scenting warfare, she drew up her slender form and marched into the gardens.

Her aunt was speaking just as she came up to them.

"Remember, Humphrey, you are a man who has lived all your life in the country, and you cannot be expected to understand these things so well as we women do. I tell you plainly that I foresee great trouble and possibly danger from——"

"From what, Aunt Anne?" inquired Dorothy, sweetly, as Mrs. Darnley came to an abrupt ending. "What danger is near us?"

Mrs. Darnley bit her lip; she hoped her brother-in-law would have sufficient tact to make some sort of excuse, but Sir Humphrey blurted out the truth, as Dorothy knew he would.

"Your aunt, my darling, has been telling me that she considers we are doing a very foolish thing in having Nancy here," he said, putting his arm round the slender form.

"And you, of course, have been telling Aunt Anne that nothing on earth will induce us to let her go," observed Dorothy, very quietly and determinedly.

"Your father and I will discuss this another time, dear," Mrs. Darnley said, smoothly, speaking in a calm, grown-up air, which had the result of infuriating the lovely little autocratic mistress of Ripstone Hall beyond all description.

"I think not, Aunt Anne," she answered, very shortly. "for there is absolutely nothing to discuss. We have offered Nancy a home, and a home she shall have as long as she chooses to own it. Papa and I are quite at one on that point, aren't we, dear old thing?"

Sir Humphrey who had been fretting and fuming under a rigid cross-examination from his sister-in-law, gave a hearty response:

"That we are, my darling. Why, I wouldn't give up my Nancy now for any one or anything, except to a husband, who unfortunately is bound to come along one of these days."

"Oh, of course," sneered Mrs. Darnley, "adventuresses make proverbially good marriages!"

Dorothy's cheeks flushed.

"I shall not stay to hear Nancy insulted!" she said, hotly.

But Mrs. Darnley herself moved away.

"You are a splendid child, and a very ignorant one into the bargain, Dorothy. Some day you will see the wisdom of my remarks, and appreciate them. I always speak out, you know; it is an unpleasant habit, but I can't help my nature; and when I see your father making a fool of himself, why, I tell him so without any ado. Humphrey, I hope you will consider what I have said to you, and adopt my advice."

And with that Derrick's mother sailed away majestically.

"Oh, papa, how angry she makes me!" cried Dorothy, as she followed with her father.

After giving orders to the servants to light up the ball-room, Dorothy was running to her own apartment for a moment, when she caught sight of Nancy still busily engaged in amusing some of the older and duller among the guests.

With her anger still raging against her aunt's injustice and hardness, she went straight up to the girl, and, putting her arms round her, kissed her affectionately.

"Don't tire yourself too much, darling," she said, and she glanced defiantly at Mrs. Darnley, who was sitting close by. "Now, perhaps, Aunt Anne will understand quite thoroughly that I am mistress of Ripstone Hall," she remarked to herself. "I felt that I should have trouble with her. Aunt Priscilla was bad enough, but I can generally manage her—Derry's mother is a different kind of woman."

For the next hour all was bustle and confusion; every one offered assistance to prepare the ball-room, and the Hon. Maude Chester, mindful of her future and her mother's instructions; dragged Mr. Crawshaw into the thick of everything; while poor Lord Merefield struggled in vain to escape from the Hon. Ella, in order that he might snatch at least one word from his cousin and his heart's queen.

Derrick Darnley had wandered about in the cool and darkness after he had seen Nancy run indoors. He felt that he must be alone to scan the golden record of the past few hours; to learn once again the heavenly lesson that doubt and anticipation were ended, and that Nancy was his.

Dancing had already commenced when he returned from his saunter. The soft, voluptuous strains of the music mingled with the fast beatings of his heart; from out on the lawn he could see into the brilliantly lighted room, and his eyes at once went to the one face that made his world.

Nancy was talking to Lord Merefield, evidently soothing him in her gentle way; dozens of couples were gliding round. Darnley saw one man after another approach Miss Hamilton, but she refused them all, and his blood seemed to leap in triumph as he saw her eyes wander round in search of him.

He threw away his cigar and hurried forward; but just as he was about to climb the terrace, he was attracted by the sight of two people staring hard at Miss Hamilton in a fixed and curious manner.

One was a man on whom the well-cut clothes seemed to sit uncomfortably, who was lounging, in an ungainly attitude, against a wall, a fixed, almost malignant look on his dark face, and an air of deep abstraction, which argued unfortunate indifference to Miss Maude Chester and her blandishments. The other watcher was his own mother.

There was something in the expression of Mrs. Darnley's cold, light-gray eyes that annoyed and pained her son; but whatever vexation he might have felt at the knowledge that his mother had conceived a dislike to Nancy, was swallowed up in the more important burst of jealous anger he experienced in that steady gaze which Mr. Crawshaw levelled on his darling.

"Darn cad!" muttered Darnley, furiously. "How dare he stand staring at her in that beastly way? I wish Nancy would let me speak openly to-night, then I could make him answer to me. In any case, he shan't be permitted to insult her with his odious vulgarity."

Totally unconscious of the proximity of her lover, and the interest she afforded to both Thomas Crawshaw and Mrs. Darnley, Nancy chatted away as easily and as naturally as she could to Lord Merefield. Conversation was, in fact, almost an impossibility to her; but, unselfish, as usual, she buried her own feelings, her desire to be alone in her own room with her wonderful secret, and exerted herself to cheer the doleful young man, who was growing more hopeless every hour.

"Here you are, Derry," Dorothy Leicester cried, with an unmistakable tone of delight in her voice. "Where have you been, truant? Never mind, I won't scold. But for penance you must dance this waltz with me."

"If that be a penance, I welcome it gladly," responded Derrick, as he put his arm round her waist and whirled her away.

His eyes sought Nancy as he passed her, and left her dazed and dreamy with their sweet message. He knew she would understand why he had not gone direct to her; and, indeed, Nancy never gave that a thought. When the waltz was ended he hurried up to her, but as he passed his mother he stopped.

"Are you not too hot here, dear?" he asked, courteously and affectionately.

"No; I am amused."

Mrs. Darnley's voice told him at once that for the word "amused" she should have substituted "annoyed." He gave her a sharp glance.

"It has been a successful day, has it not?" he observed. "Dorothy makes a delightful little hostess, mother."

"According to the manners of the new school, I suppose she does," his mother answered shortly. "To my opinion, Dorothy requires at least two years more in the schoolroom. She is pert and uninteresting."

"Uninteresting—with that face! Oh, mother!" And the young man passed on, laughing lightly.

"They have come to blows already. What about, I wonder? My darling?" His brows contracted "I fear so. Well, after to-morrow, Dorothy will have my help to fight Nancy's battles."

He carefully smoothed all annoyance from his face as he reached the girl.

Let the future bring what it might, they would have no jarring influences on their halcyon dream. All should be beautiful to them to-night. And as he stood looking down at her face, he lost all thought save of her beauty and herself.

"'Ah, sweet, who hast hold of my heart!
For thy love's sake I live;
O but tell me, ere either depart,
What a lover may give
For a woman so fair as thou art?'"

He whispered the words very low; but Nancy heard them. This love—so new, so wonderful — almost frightened her.

What had she done, she vaguely asked herself, that she should be so thrice blessed? And even in the midst of the ecstasy she faltered and shivered.

"It is too good—too good to last!" she murmured.

But she kept this presentiment to herself. Not through her should the faintest cloud fall over Derrick's happiness—her brave, true, chivalrous Derrick!

"At last," he murmured, as Lord Merefield, seeing Dorothy alone, rushed across the room, "I can speak to you, Nancy!"

"Have you so much to say to me?" she asked, shyly.

"Only the same old theme, darling. I love you. I shall tell it you till you grow weary, Nancy."

"That will never be," she said, with a smile; and then she drew a shade closer.

"Has that man spoken to you?" Darnley asked, eagerly, glaring after the millionaire.

Nancy hesitated. She longed to tell him all; that she knew Crawshaw only too well; that it was he whom Derrick Darnley had stretched low in the mud that by-gone night. But she had no chance. This was no place or opportunity for such a confidence. Yet it seemed as though she were deceiving him. Ah, well! to-morrow he would know all, and she would breathe more freely, sharing her old trouble with her lover.

"Dorothy presented him to me," she answered, loathing for the prevarication.

"And you like him?"

GLOOMY VIEW OF ABYSSINIA

CONDITIONS THAT PREVAIL AT THE COURT.

Menelik Alive and the Empress an Intriguer, Says a Mining Man.

F. Marquordt, who for three years was employed as a general mining director by the Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia, has just returned to England. His description of the state of affairs in Abyssinia is gloomy. In an interview he told an amazing story of the conditions that prevail at the court and the intrigue for power conducted by the Empress.

"The Emperor," he said, "is certainly alive, despite the many rumors of his death, but for all practical purposes he is dead. For many years past he has been the victim of an insidious disease, which has played havoc with his mental faculties.

"Menelik at his best was probably never anything more than a somewhat astute aboriginal, and unfettered by ill health and domestic millstones about his neck he might have carried through the task of reclaiming the country from savagery.

NOW IT IS TOO LATE.

When the Emperor dies the majority of the tribes in the kingdom will instinctively rise up in revolt against the Abyssinian section, numbering about one-tenth of the population, and a new government will be established.

"At any moment Menelik II. may succumb to his malady. He has been at death's door many times in recent years, and on each occasion one has gleaned something of the remarkable precautions taken by the Empress to remain one of the dominating powers in the land.

"The Emperor, a tall, hard faced but decrepit figure, played his cards very well until the Empress crossed his path. She is one of the wiliest women I have ever met. Add to her cunning the whole gamut of unscrupulous devices and you will get somewhere near an approximate estimate of the lady's character. For diabolical subtlety the Emperor cannot compare with her.

"He still wields sufficient influence, mainly armed, to carry his point when occasion arises, but for the rest he is cajoled into doing the bidding of the Empress, whose domination is very hard to explain. She is neither young nor pretty. Before she cast the bewitching spell of her dusky personality over the Emperor she had been even according to her own reckoning. From the moment of this singular combination Menelik's power waned.

MARRIED SOME NINE TIMES,

"The Empress gathered around her a court clique, making her position secure, and thenceforth the Emperor has had to pay due regard to the foibles of his royal consort in the matter of royal prerogatives."

Mr. Marquordt has a very low opinion of the morality of the Abyssinian.

"The capacity for thieving is the Abyssinian hallmark," he says. "The people thieve from the cradle to the grave and vary a career of dishonesty with almost every known vice.

"The King apparently enjoys the privilege of being able to dishonor his own obligations, and the Queen invariably tries to go one better. As general mining director to the Emperor, I developed one of his gold fields and showed that it would produce as much as nine ounces of pure gold to the ton, thereby ranking as one of the richest gold centres in the world. Love of gold is one of his Majesty's weaknesses. I have seen in his treasure house no fewer than thirty bags of gold, each bag sufficiently capacious to hold a couple of hundredweight of coal.

"The gold was probably worth millions, but instead of regarding it as national wealth Menelik, backed by his wife, perceived a source of danger in mining success. Every form of security was thereupon destroyed, all compacts denied and there was

AN END OF THE MATTER.

The Abyssinian court enjoys the possession of immensely rich gold fields, but no one will invest a penny for their development. I have a deed bearing the Emperor's personal seal, but the document is not worth anything beyond what a curio dealer would put upon it."

Mr. Marquordt is equally severe upon the legal system of Abyssinia, which he declares is as vile as any that can be found. He says:

"The person accused of theft is branded on the forehead; to be deemed a purveyor of court gossip ends in the culprit's tongue being cut out, and every one suspected of having overheard unpleasant truths is deprived of his ears, or various accusations, however ill founded, the punishment may mean either poisoning, decapitation, hanging or stoning to death.

"The cutting out of the eyes or the amputation of hands and feet are also among the barbaric modes of meting out justice. When I resolved to quit the country a plot was formed by the court to have me assassinated, and only the great firmness of Sir John Harrington, the British Consul, prevented it being carried out."

EXISTENCE.

Hebrews 11: 6.

Though all external things may glide
Beyond the range of mortal sight,
One great Existence must abide
And shine in everlasting light:
Our gifts and lives and days are His;
And we rejoice to know "He is."

When to our fellowmen we turn
And view each face and form and limb,
This precious truth we soon may learn:—
Their lives are all sustained by Him:
Though frail and weak and scattered far,
This fact remains, they surely "are."

The soul awakened from its dream
With fear surveys the press and strife:
Placed in the vortex of the stream
It learns the deepest things of life:
Beyond the changing dross and sham
The living soul can say "I am."

And in that Ocean grand and deep
Which throbs with all-existing love;
The soul its onward course can keep,
And seize the prize all else above:
And grateful praise each soul may give
To that great One in whom "we live."

JEST COST GIRL HER LIFE.

Young Woman Had Dressed Up as a Brigand.

From Paftinico, in Sicily, comes news of a very sad affair in which an innocent jest has cost one young woman her life and left her sister seriously wounded. The two women, Anna and Antonina Polizzi, the latter being only 16 years of age, took it into their heads to play a joke upon the tenants of a house not far from their own. They dressed themselves up as brigands, and directed their steps towards the neighboring dwelling. They had disguised themselves so well that they completely duped a man named Savarino who was walking about with a gun in his hand looking for game. He asked the supposed brigands the reason of their visit, but without deigning to reply the young women continued their walk. After again calling upon them to stop, Savarino placed his gun to his shoulder and fired twice. The fictitious brigands fell to the ground. One of them, Antonina Polizzi, was shot through the heart, while Anna was seriously injured. It was from her cries of terror that Savarino recognized her voice as that of a woman, and realized the terrible nature of his mistake. He has now fled from the neighborhood.

LIGHTING THE FARM HOUSES.

THURSDAY, MAR. 2, '11

It is one of the regrets of Andrew Carnegie's life that he did not buy Farmers Bank stock, so as to get rid of a little of his money. The real investors would part with it now at a reduced price .

The Canadian Farm is conducting a post card interview with Canadian Farmers on the Reciprocity question, and in glancing over the answers one comes to the conclusion that agriculturalists seem to be about equally divided for and against Reciprocity.

M. Y. McLean, member of the House of Commons for South Huron, on Monday introduced a resolution regarding Senate Reform, which was withdrawn at the request of Premier Laurier. The resolution read,—'That in the opinion of the House the Dominion Senate, as at present constituted, is not in accordance with the representative institutions of this country, and the Government should take the necessary proceedings to have the Senate made representative of and directly responsible to the people."

Values and wages in Canada make a record for 1910. The total value of live stock on farms was $593,788,000 which is $34,979,000 more than in 1909 The price per head of horses is $132, 50 as against $130 72 in 1909, of mlich cows $42.60 against $36,36 of other cattle $30.90 against $28, 81 and of sheep $6 against $5.89. Swine alone show a drop in average price, being $11.80 per head against $11,80. The total value of horses is $293,398,000 for last year against $278,789,000 for 1909, of mlich cows $126,613,000 against $103,601,000 of other cattle $131,781,000 against $127,236,000 and of sheep $15,819,000 against $15,735 000. The value of swine however fell from $34,368,000 in 1909 to $31,157, 000 in 1909.

If there is one better way than another to ruin a town, it is for those who live in it to go about apologizing for its existence. There are some who are always ready to say, by their actions at least, that this place does not amount to much. They will tell you that you that the town is dead; that no one would think of stopping; that some town adjacent is more respectable, more enterprising, has better people, better enjoyments, is ahead of us in every thing. That is all wrong. Even if it be true, no one should ever admit it when it comes to making a comparison Every good citizen of this town should take a special local pride in all that pertains to home. The schools, the churches, the amusements, the business the pleasurers, the picnics, the celebrations, in fact everything should be looked on by our own people as just as good as can be gotten up elsewhere The town that says 'we can" will always succeed. The town that says 'Oh I don't know, I do not think it will amount to much" is never of much force If you have no local pride, borrow some says an exchange.

The time for engaging farm help will soon be here. The general practice with most farmers is to engage for the summer months only. One reason for this is that the farmer does not know who he is getting and prefers to chance it on a short term engagement rather than have loaded on him some worthless fellow who cannot be trained for any kind of work, and, in addition, may be a moral reprobate. If, however, a farmer can be reasonably sure of his man a yearly agreement will pay in the long run. A month on trial and a yearly engagement to follow, if things are satisfactory, is the best plan for all concerned The man will take more interest in his work and the farmer will profit by getting some good out of his help after he has gone to the trouble of training it. There is another side to the case also. After a man has worked all summer and has been paid off, he drifts in to the town or city, for the very good reason that he has no place else to go. There he may light upon some kind of work during the winter and becoming attracted by city life stays there. A farmer may not have much steady work for the hired man to do in the winter though on every farm there are sufficient odd jobs, in addition to the chores that will keep him going pretty steadily.

CANADA'S OPEN DOOR

THIS IS THE SECOND OF THE SERIES OF ARTICLES ON RECIPROCITY REPUBLISHED FROM THE CANADIAN CENTURY TO WHICH REFERENCE WAS MADE IN OUR ISSUE OF LAST WEEK.

CANADIAN FRUIT FARMS IN GREAT PERIL

From The Canadian Century

The largest deputation of farmers that ever waited on any Canadian Government was that of the fruit growers of Western Ontario, who went to Ottawa on February 10 to protest against the Reciprocity Agreement. The case they presented to the Government was a strong one. They showed that if the Reciprocity Agreement was endorsed by the Canadian Parliament and the United States Congress it would reduce the value of every orchard in Ontario and ruin thousands of fruit farmers who had paid high prices for their little farms and spent time and money in planting trees. They showed that many large farms had been subdivided for fruit growing purposes, and that new subdivisions were constantly being made. They said that a farm of one hundred acres which formerly supported only one family being cut into ten small fruit farms, supported ten families. Among other memorials presented by this deputation was the following.

"We, the undersigned, the president and executive committee of the Old Country Association, composed entirely of men born and bred in the British Isles, and the great majority of whom are engaged in the fruit industry, respectfully and earnestly beg to draw the attention of the Dominion Government to the peculiar hardship which will be imposed upon us should this proposed tariff legislation come into effect.

"We have been induced to leave Great Britain and to come to this peninsula, and to invest our capital in the purchase, planting and general improvement of fruit lands in a large measure owing to the very wide distribution of official pamphlets and other literature emanating from Canada, and distributed throughout the British Isles, positively stating that "the Ontario grower is protected in the home market by a high tariff against foreign-grown fruit and vegetables and thus enjoys that market without serious competition from outside sources."

'The amount of customs tariffs on the various fruits is specifically stated in these pamphlets and literature and in order that this particular advantage to the Canadian grower may be clearly understood by the Britisher this tariff scale is not only set forth in Canadian money but is also set forth in the coinage of Great Britain. Under the belief that these conditions would be stable we have not only sunk our own capital, but have been instrumental in bringing many of our countrymen here to invest in this growing industry, which, owing to the steady rise of recent years in the values of land, now requires a large amount of capital to purchase and equip even the small farms the majority of us own, and to provide for the maintenance of our families during the years it takes to bring an orchard into bearing."

Four days after these Ontario fruit farmers presented their case to the Government Mr. Martin Burrell, member of Parliament for Yale-Cariboo, gave the House of Commons a remarkably clear and comprehensive statement of the position of the fruit growers in all the provinces of Canada, giving special attention, of course, to his own province of British Columbia, which has made wonderful progress in the planting of orchards during the last ten years Mr. Burrell has devoted twenty-eight years of his life to the practical work of fruit growing. No man in Canada has a better knowledge of the question

In 1901 there were 567,000 fruit trees in British Columbia, according to the Dominion census. Now there are estimated to be five million fruit trees in that province, and the area devoted to fruit is rapidly increasing.

The grain grower of the prairie gets his big farm at low cost, sometimes as a free grant; the land is ready for cultivation; the Government subsidizes a railway to take the grain to market The British Columbia fruit farm must first be cleared of enormous trees; the people of the East and of the prairie provinces can scarcely realize the immense size of British Columbia timber. After the land has been cleared at a great expense and fruit trees planted, the farmer must wait for years for his trees to grow and bear fruit. In many parts of the province he must pay his share of the cost of constructing irrigation works. In the Okanagan Valley alone the amount of $1,500,000 has been expended already in irrigation works for orchard purposes and vast outlays of the same kind are going on all over the province.

According to the Dominion census of 1901 there were in the whole of Canada 15,053,875 apple trees, 1,801,775 peach trees, 695,101 pear trees, 2,415,695 plum trees, 1,288,848 cherry trees and 179,425 other fruit trees; a total of over twenty-one million fruit trees besides 2,783,596 grape vines and large acreages of small fruits. Since 1901 there has been a very great increase in the number of trees, British Columbia farmers alone having planted about 4,500,000 trees within the ten years Mr. Burrell estimates that there cannot be less than thirty million fruit trees in Canada now, and he thinks that $150,000,000 is a low valuation to place on the orchards of Canada to-day. THE CANADIAN CENTURY some weeks ago published an article on the value of a tree. It was pointed out that a German railway company had been forced to pay six hundred dollars for one cherry tree which it destroyed, and the principle upon which the court decided the value of a fruit tree was explained. Mr. Burrell's estimates only allows five dollars as the average value of a Canadian fruit tree when he values the orchards of the Dominion at $150,000,000. We believe that the real value is very much greater.

Now what would be said if the Government suddenly took away the tariff protection of a group of manufacturing industries in which $150,000,000 of capital was invested?

We hear a great deal from the politicians about vested rights. Why should there be any more consideration for the vested rights of manufacturers than for the vested rights of farmers. Has not the small farmer a vested right in the fruit tree that has cost him money, labour, time, and anxiety?

We do not believe that the prosperous grain growers of the prairie provinces of Canada will vote against their brothers in British Columbia and Ontario when they know the real facts. We appeal to those farmers of Canada who are not fruit growers to stand by their brother farmers in this time of peril .

WORLD COMPETITION FOR CANADIAN FARMERS .

'Why should Canadian Farmers lose every vestige of protection for their products while the tariff on manufactured goods remains almost untouched? If the Argentine Republic, Russia, Austria-Hungary, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Spain, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, and other countries are to come into free competition with Canadian farm products in our own home market why should not manufactured products come in free from the same countries?"

These are questions which farmers throughout Canada are asking each other now, and they will ask the politicians these questions a little later on. Free trade in farm products and protection for manufactured products is a condition of things that cannot be permanent.

WHAT WILL AMERICAN FARMERS SAY.?

When the farmers of the United States learn that the same Reciprocity Compact that gives them free entrance to the Canadian market gives exactly the same privilege to almost every food-exporting country in the world they will be enraged. They will say,—With Russians, Japanese, Austrians, Argentines Danes, Swedes, Norwegians, Spaniards, Australians, New Zealanders and a host of other food producers dumping their surplus products into the Canadian market what will there be left for us?" They will complain that Canadians will try to relieve their glutted markets by shipping some of this foreign stuff into the United States and indeed it will be very difficult for the United States Government to prevent them doing so. How will United States customs officials be able to distinguish between Canadian farm products and the foreign food that will be dumped, on the Canadian market? Dishonest men in both Canada and the United States will take advantage of the situation. On the other hand honest Canadian exporters will often be suspected of fraud. American customs officials will sometimes charge that good honest Canadian eggs, butter, cheese, etc., come from Argentina, Siberia, or some other outlandish place that has been given the right to send its farm products freely into Canada. Bitter controversies will arise. The pleasant, kindly feelings that have so long existed between Canadians and Americans will be replaced by a spirit of suspicion and antagonism that may have serious consequences.

BEARING DOWN PAINS.

What woman at sometime or other does not experience these dreadful bearing down pains. Mrs. E. Griffith, of Main street, Hepworth, Ont., says: "A heavy bearing-down pain had settled across my back and sides. I was often unable to stoop or straighten myself up. Many times each night I would have to leave my bed with the irregular and frequent secretions of the kidneys and just as done out in the morning as on retiring. I was languid and would have to let my housework stand. Nothing I had tried would benefit me. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills and concluded I would try them, which I did, and soon found for myself the long sought relief. My back strengthened and I began to feel better and stronger. I now enjoy my sleep without being disturbed and feel grateful to Booth's Kidney Pills for what they did for me.

HEMMED IN BY LIONS.

A Bad Case of Stage Fright and a Record Stunt in Singing.

Stage fright of the sort that afflicted Whit Cunliffe, at one time a prominent singer in English music halls, is not avoidable. Fortunately also it is not common. At a place where he was engaged in Birmingham one of the attractions was a lion show, some of the beasts being really wild and untamed. Nearly the whole stage was taken up with the "setting"—the animal show.

"Just as I was going on," said Cunliffe in telling the incident, "I heard a hurried rush and confused shouting, and some one slammed an iron gate. I heard a voice say, 'Just in time; he was nearly out.' My music was starting, so I had no time to inquire. I went on the stage.

"In a moment I heard ominous growls and savage snarls mixed with much whip cracking and strenuous breathing. I am never fond of a wild animal show, and I felt distinctly nervous that night. The cloth behind me sagged and swayed, and then, to my horror, suddenly in the wings I saw the huge head and front of a lion.

"I was singing a song called 'I Would,' which had a lot of short verses. As I sang them, my blood running cold, I watched the lion. It seemed slowly to advance, and its baneful eyes glittered in a truly horrible way. I could not go off that side without passing it, so I prepared to 'exit' with haste.

"Turning, I was doubly horrified to see another lion on the other side.

"I was caught like a mouse in a trap. I dared not go off the stage; I dared not show my discomfiture to the audience. There was only one thing for me to do—sing. So I sang in desperation, hoping that some one would come and take those lions away. They told me afterward that I sang ninety-eight verses. But I think that was unkind.

"I wondered how long it would take those two brutes to make up their minds to come into the full glare of the footlights, and I had just prepared to leap into the stalls, regardless of the consequences, when I heard the hoarse voice of one of the stage hands say: "'Ere, Bill, these two chaps are too far forward. Give a 'and with them, will yer?' And, coming up between the two lions, they lifted them bodily. They were papier mache!"

LIFE IN SANTIAGO.

Curious Customs That Prevail in the Capital of Chile.

They have women conductors on the electric cars of Santiago, the capital of Chile. This was made necessary by a war, which took so many men to the front and imposed upon women the work usually done by men. The custom has been kept up, the women having proved equally as efficient as the men had been.

One of the most peculiar customs seen here is the evening promenade in the plaza or park, which is attended by young ladies and young men and quite small boys and girls. They do not mix, but keep quite separate paths.

Yet even the little girls at seven or eight years are finished coquettes. Their eyes languidly observe every man and boy in the plaza, and they take care that each shall receive a due share of their smiles.

Another curious custom which prevails in Santiago and which is joined by those fortunate enough to have fine horses and carriages is the promenade at the Parque Causino, a beautiful park near the center of the city.

A company of mounted police stands in single file in the center of the drive, and the carriages, with uniformed coachmen and footmen and beautifully gowned women and fashionably dressed men occupying the carriages, ride aroupd and around these mounted police.

Sometimes there are two or as many as six rows of carriages, some going in the opposite direction and alternating, the ladies smiling and the gentlemen tipping their hats in a polite manner. This promenading lasts from 5 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock in the evening.—Logical Point

The Moslem's Exalted Month.

Ramadan is the month exalted by Moslems above all others. In that month the Koran—according to Moslem tradition—was brought down by Gabriel from heaven and delivered to man in small sections. In that month Mohammed was accustomed to retire from Mecca to the cave of Hira for prayer and meditation. In that month Abraham, Moses and other prophets received their divine revelations. In that month the "doors of heaven are always open, the passages to hell are shut, and the devils are chained." So run the traditions.—Christian Herald.

The Missing Word.

A "new missing" word contest has just appeared. It is as follows: A good church deacon sat down on the pointed end of a tack. He at once sprang up and said only two words. The last was "it." Any one guessing the first word and sending a dollar in cash will be entitled to this periodical for one year.—Lippincott's.

A Real Lung Tonic

Rev. Father Morriscy

There are many preparations that will relieve a cough—few that will cure it. The first class, containing such drugs as Opium and Morphine, simply deaden the irritation and stop the cough, but do little or no permanent good.

"Father Morriscy's No. 10"

does not contain a trace of these dangerous drugs, but is an absolutely safe and scientific preparation of Nature's own remedies—Herbs, Roots and Balsams.

It entirely removes the irritation that caused the cough, by cleaning out the mucus, stopping the inflammation and healing the delicate membrane of throat and lungs.

Moreover, it tones up and strengthens the whole system, particularly the lungs, and protects against future coughs and colds.

Trial size 25c. per bottle. Regular size 50c.

Another Modern Miracle
Locomotor Ataxia Cured

The Sufferer Had Been Given Up as Incurable by Several Doctors—Hospital Treatment Also Failed—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Worked the Miracle.

Before the discovery of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, locomotor ataxia was considered an incurable disease. It has been fully demonstrated, however, that this disease can be cured through the use of these pills, where the treatment is persisted in, and the directions carefully followed.

Locomotor ataxia is a disease of the spinal cord, and first shows itself in an inability to stand erect when the eyes are closed, or in the dark. It is characterized by peculiar disturbances of the gait, and difficulty in governing the motions of the legs. One of the commonest and earliest signs is a tired feeling, particularly noted in the knees and ankles. This sensation is provoked by slight exertion, and is not relieved by rest. Often a numb feeling is associated with it, and these two symptoms are always present in the early stages. As the disease progresses, there is an increase in the duration and extent of the numb feelings, covering at times the foot alone, then extending to the leg. The disease is usually of slow growth, and the increase and intensity of the symptoms is not noticed, but its progress is constant, and gradually approaches a total lack of feeling in the legs, causing a wobbling gait and an entire inability to govern the steps. As the disease progresses the patient loses all control over bowels and water, and becomes utterly helpless, and has to be cared for like a child.

In proof of the power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to cure this terrible malady Mrs. Sarah Jane Ruller, of Antler, Sask., says: "For seven years from 1900 to 1907, my son James was afflicted with locomotor ataxia. During that time he was treated by several of the best doctors in the West, but their treatment failed to be of any benefit, and he kept growing worse and worse, till finally he lost all control of his limbs, and could not move at all. I had to carry him from his bed to a chair, where I would have to tie him, to enable him to sit up. He was as helpless as an infant; he lost all control of his kidneys and bowels, and we daily looked for death to relieve him of his suffering. In 1905 we sent him to the Brandon Hospital, hoping that the treatment there would benefit him. In this, though, we were disappointed, and the hospital doctor advised me to take him home, as they said they could do nothing for him. At this time a friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Being willing to try anything in the hope of finding relief for my boy, I bought a supply. In less than three months I noted a slight improvement in his condition. In six months he could walk once more and from that on the improvement continued, till now he is fully cured and once more able to attend school and do the chores about the house. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for him is truly wonderful, and I would strongly recommend them to all sufferers, for they most certainly saved my boy's life."

In substantiation of what Mrs. Ruller says, Mr. A. E. Steele, the well-known lumber and coal dealer of Antler, writes: "With reference to what Mrs. Ruller says concerning her son's cure by Pink Pills, I have no hesitation in saying that what she says is absolutely true in every particular, as I am personally acquainted with the case."

This great cure is not the only one performed by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have brought thousands back to health and strength after some of the best doctors in the country have been forced to give up the case as incurable. Not only in cases of locomotor ataxia, but in cases of partial paralysis, sciatica, acute rheumatism, and many other severe ailments have they been successful. The whole secret of their wonderful success is their power to make rich, red, health-giving blood—the one essential for good health. The pills are sold by all medicine dealers, or direct by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RAILWAY ADOPTS GIRL.

Abandoned Child on Russian Road Is Being Educated by Employees.

Ludmila Nicolaevna, a ten-year-old girl, is the adopted child of the St. Petersburg-Moscow railroad. When she was barely a year old she was abandoned in a first-class carriage. Endeavors to trace her parents were fruitless, and rather than send her to an orphanage, an employe of the railroad suggested that every member of the staff should contribute to her support. The suggestion was adopted and since then an annual collection has been made for her. The girl is being educated at a boarding school in Moscow. She spends her holidays along the line at the houses of her various benefactors, who range from directors of the company to firemen and signalmen.

CONGRESS OF ALL THE RACES

Representtives of All Mankind to Meet in London, England.

A most unique congress, to be known as the Universal Races Congress, is to open in London, England, on July 26. This congress, which will last for three days, will indeed be a romance of realism. All mankind will then assemble in council in the very heart of the British Empire.

The originator of this congress is Dr. Felix Adler, of Columbia University, New York. In the summer of 1906 a conference wac convened at Eisenach, when it was declared that though the modern consicence had advanced in general sensitiveness and strength, it is, nevertheless, internationally weak. The modern conscience is indeed fast becoming alive to what are known as social problems in the interior of the community, yet it has not learned to apply itself with adequate power to the problems presented by racial divisions. In order to remedy this growing evil, the Universal Races Congress will be convened in London, and its prime object will be to cultivate mutual knowledge and respect between Occidental and Oriental peoples. The British Government has given this congress its moral and material support, and all the invitations to the foreign states have been despatched through the agency of the Foreign Office.

The great number of races that will be represented may be gathered from the fact that some fifty countries have promised to send delegates. There will be present over twenty-five presidents of parliaments, the majority of the members of the permanent Court of Arbitration, and of the delegates to the second Hague Conference, twelve British governors, eight British premiers, over forty colonial bishops, about one hundred professors of international law, the leading anthropologists and sociologists, the officers and majority of the council of the Inter-Parliamentary Union, and other distinguished personages. Among those who will read papers will be several prominent Hebrews.

Mr. Israel Zangwill will discourse on Jews among the nations; Dr. L. L. Zahanhaff the author of Esperanto, will discourse on international language; and Mr. Edwin D. Mead, of Boston, Director of the International School of Peace, will speak on the organization of a world association for encouraging inter-racial goodwill. Dr. Moses Gaster will represent the Royal Asciatic Society.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to give relief to the baby when his stomach or bowels are out of order; when teething is painful; when worms make their appearance or when any of the many childhood ailments seize him. What is more they are absolutely safe and cannot harm the youngest child. Mothers have the guarantee of a government analyst to this effect. Thousands of mothers, through gratefulness for what the Tablets have done for their children, strongly recommend them. Mrs. E. J. Ward, Galt, Ont., says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for two years and would not be without them in the house. They are wonderful medicine for little ones." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Tell me the worst, doctor. I can bear it." "Well, I think I had better bring you my bill to-day; tomorrow it will be too late."

"See here," exclaimed the angry man, "I bought this cane here last week."

"Yes, I believe you did," rejoined the proprietor calmly. "What's wrong with it?"

"You said the handle was genuine ivory, and I find it is artificial," said the irate party.

"That may be true," replied the dealer, "but it is no fault of mine. I import all my ivory from Africa, and the only explanation I can give is that the elephant may have had false tusks."

HERE IS A TALE WITH A MORAL

LITTLE EDITH HARRIS CURED OF DROPSY BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Two doctors said she would die, but to-day she is a healthy, happy girl—Healthy Kidneys in children the guarantee of a happy, useful life.

McTaggart, Sask., Feby. 27 (Special).—That no child is too young to have Kidney Disease even in its worst form, and that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it in any form has been abundantly proven in the case of little Edith Harris of this place.

In May, 1903, this little girl, then two years old, was so swollen with Dropsy that her waist measure was increased from 18 inches to 34 inches. Two doctors said she must die. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her and to-day she is as merry and healthy a child as is to be found in the neighborhood.

In a recent interview her father says: "Edith is better than ever. She has no return of dropsy since she was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, over seven years ago. She goes to school and is healthy. I always keep Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house."

There's a moral for parents in this story. Many a child has grown up to a life of pain and suffering because its kidneys were neglected. A life of health and usefulness is assured if the Kidneys are kept in order with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Prospect Park (at midnight)—"Mortimer, I think I hear a burglar down in the front hall!"

Mr. Prospect Park (philosophically)—"Henrietta, with two bicycles, Willie's wooden horse, the hat-rack, umbrella-stand, and the baby's mail-cart for him to run into, you wouldn't 'think' you heard a burglar if one was really there!"

It is easier to prevent than it is to cure. Inflammation of the lungs is the companion of neglected colds, and once it finds a lodgment in the system it is difficult to deal with. Treatment with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup will eradicate the cold and prevent inflammation from setting in. It costs little, and is as satisfactory as it is surprising in its results.

A CHEERFUL OUTLOOK.

It was in the Wild and Woolly West, and a traveller, who was studying the character of the natives, asked a man to direct him to a certain cabin at which he had been advised to stay overnight.

"Going thar?" said the man. "Well, Tom's a first-rater, take him just right, but he's mighty queer."

"What do you mean?" asked the traveller.

"Well, it's like this," and the man looked at the stranger in a calm, impersonal way. "He'll be setting outside, most probably, and he'll see you coming. He'll take a good look at you, and, ef you don't suit him, he may set the dog on you.

"Ef he don't, and you get to talking with him, and say anything he don't just like, he may throw you down and tramp on you. But ef you're too careful in your talk, on the other hand, he's liable to take you for a spy and use his gun fust and listen to explanations afterwards.

Small but Potent.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are small, but they are effective in action. Their fine qualities as a corrector of stomach troubles are known to thousands and they are in constant demand everywhere by those who know what a safe and simple remedy they are. SPORT IN AUSTRALIA.

"Champagne in the Air," Says Sir George Reid.

"Nature has been very generous to Australia in the way of climate," said Sir George Reid, the High Commissioner for Australia in a recent interview with a newspaper representative. "I was there for 57 years, and I may say that it often seemed to me that there was some sort of champagne in the atmosphere.

"The health and strength giving qualities of the climate have been brought home to you by the performances of our cricketers and other champions in the arena of sport. The Australians excel in outdoor sports just as the people of the Mother Country have always done, and in this connection with their more serious exploits in the realms of industry shows, I think, not only that the people are right physically, but that they are a young people possessed of strength and grit and mental quickness and those other qualities which make for success in the more serious affairs of life.

"It is sometimes said that the Australians are too fond of sport, that they go in too much for play. But you must not forget that we are in the years of our national youth, and that we display the fondness of youth for amusements. We are rapidly approaching the stage of manhood, and rapidly developing our powers for the more serious strain which must be faced as our national life and responsibilities increase."

FAMOUS BRITISH ADMIRAL.

Tells What Zam-Buk Did for Him.

Many famous persons have testified to the great value of Zam-Buk, and amongst the most recent is Admiral Rodney M. Lloyd. Writing from the Royal Naval Club, Portsmouth, England, he says:

"I have found Zam-Buk most reliable for healing cuts and abrasions; while for the relief of skin irritation it is invaluable."

Another famous user of Zam-Buk is Mr. Frank Scudamore, the famous War Correspondent, who says: "Some poisonous dye on my underclothing came in contact with a small ulcer on my leg and blood poisoning set in. Inflammation, pain and swelling followed. My medical man's treatment did not seem to do any good, as ulcer after ulcer broke out, until my left leg from knee to foot was one mass of sores. It had seventeen deep ulcers at one time. I could not put my foot to the ground, and was really in a pitiful state. A friend advised Zam-Buk, and I applied this herbal balm. It was really wonderful how it soothed the pain and aching and gave me ease.

"A few boxes of Zam-Buk healed the sores, and the limb is now perfectly healthy.

Zam-Buk is a cure for piles, eczema, cold cracks or chaps, ulcers, ringworm, poison, cuts, abscesses, burns, children's rashes, abrasions, and for all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse imitations and substitutes.

THEIR LITTLE WAY.

"Won't you sing something, Miss Smith?" said the hostess sweetly.

"I'm afraid I can't," replied her visitor.

"Oh, but you must!" joined in another visitor, "you really must. We know you have a lovely voice."

"And we are dying to hear you," said another.

With a sigh of weariness Miss Smith drew off her gloves and went slowly to the piano and began her song. The other ladies waited until she was fairly settled. Then they took up and continued their conversation where it had broken off. It is a way they have.

TWO KILLED, FIVE INJURED

Halifax Train Plunges Down a Ten-foot Embankment

A despatch from Halifax says: The Halifax and Southwestern train, from Middleton to Lunenburg, was wrecked near New Germany on Friday evening. Two men were killed and five persons were more or less badly injured. The accident, it was thought, was caused by spreading rails. The engine and two or three box cars went along all right, but the baggage car and passenger car at the rear jumped and fell over a ten-foot embankment, lying on their side. In a few moments after the cars fell over the baggage car took fire, and the flames afterwards spread to the passenger coach, which held twelve persons. Within the baggage car were four men. Standing on the outside was Orien Sargent, the baggageman. He was thrown to the ground, and the car fell upon him, causing instant death. People ran to the baggage car and opened the door. They pulled out three men, and, thinking that was all, they diverted their attention to the passengers. One man, Lock McLaughlin, was, however, left, and he perished in the fire that burned the baggage car, if he had not been killed in its fall. Axes were used, and the skylights of the passenger coach were cut away and the passengers were pullel out. They were seriously bruised, but none fatally injured.

OVER A MILLION FOR SCIENCE

French Financier Sets an Example to His Countrymen.

A despatch from Paris, France, says: Auguste Loutrefil, who was born a peasant and became one of the richest French financiers in Russia, died recently. He had been impressed by the meagre endowment of science in France and determined to set an example for his countrymen. His will, which has just been made public, discloses that he bequeathed $700,000 to the Academy of Sciences; $500,000 to the University of Paris, and $20,000 to the Pasteur Institute of research work.

BIG JEWEL ROBBERY.

Mrs. Maldwin Drummond Robbed of a Fortune.

A despatch from New York says: Mrs. Maldwin Drummond, formerly Mrs. Marshall Field, jun., of Chicago, was robbed of a fortune in jewels on Saturday night aboard a transatlantic liner. Diamonds, pearls and other gems to the value of approximately $130,000 disappeared mysteriously from her stateroom on the steamship Amerika of the Hamburg-American Line some time between 9.30 Saturday night and 5.30 Sunday morning.

WAS CUT IN TWO.

Passenger Carried Past Station Jumped from Train.

A despatch from Moncton, N.B., says: Burton Casey, aged 25, of Memramcook, N.B., a passenger on an Intercolonial train, was carried past his station on Friday, jumped from the train, fell under the wheels and was cut in two.

PRINCE EDWARD DAIRYING.

Value of Industry in Province Shows Big Increase.

A despatch from Charlottetown, P.E.I., says: The value of cheese and butter manufactured at the forty-five island factories last year was $514,000, the best in the history of the province. The increase was $12,000 over last year. There was a decrease in the cheese, but an increase in butter. The annual meeting of the Provincial Dairymen's Association was held on Thursday. The reports were optimistic, and members are enthusiastic over the progress of the industry.

CAUGHT BY CIRCULAR SAW.

Young Man Met a Terrible Death in Mill in Quebec.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Cut into three sections by falling across a circular saw, Hiram Stinson met death in the saw mill of J. A. Ericksen, near Barnard Lake, on Wednesday. Stinson, who was 22 years of age, unmarried, and lived at Lascelles Corners, was working beside the saw, taking away the slabs, when the carriage which carried the logs was stopped to be adjusted. It is supposed that Stinson attempted to jump across the saw, and his clothing caught. His head and legs were cut off.

EXPIRED IN DENTIST'S CHAIR

Young Girl Passed Away Under Chloroform at Montreal.

A despatch from Montreal says: Florence Bird, 19 years old, died in a dentist's chair on Friday morning, while under the influence of chloroform. The girl, who was an orphan, only arrived here from Ireland four months ago.

FREIGHT TRAIN WRECKED

Seventeen Cars Were Hurled Down an Embankment Near Toronto

A despatch from Toronto says: Seventeen big G. T. R. freight cars heavily laden were thrown down the embankment west of the Humber River on Sunday morning and piled in a heap just behind the Humber Bay Hotel. Most of the cars were reduced to kindling wood and their contents, consisting almost wholly of grain, was scattered broadcast over the ground. The cars made up the greater part of a through freight train bound from Port Huron to Portland. The train was drawn by a heavy mogul engine and left Mimico yards just before 10 o'clock on its way into Toronto. There were in all twenty-nine cars loaded with grain and lumber and to these was attached the caboose used by the train crew.

As the engine was just about on the big bridge over the Humber River a flange on the wheel of one of the cars was torn out when it was passing over a switch to a siding used for construction work there. The fifth car behind the engine broke away and went tumbling down the embankment to the south, pulling fifteen or sixteen more with it, and piling them up in a heap. The last car was thrown down with such force that the coupling by which it was held to the others behind was snapped. The car in plunging down the hill came so close to the rear of the Humber Bay Hotel kept by William Miles that it struck and demolished a buggy in the yard.

The breaking of the coupling on the last car to descend the hill alone saved the lives of Conductor Herbert Russell and his three breakesmen who were in the caboose at the rear of the train. The engine, the caboose and some ten or twelve cars did not leave the rails. The engineer and two firemen on the engine were only made aware of the accident by the crash of the cars coming together at the foot of the hill.

$7,000,000 FRENCH CAPITAL

Amount Allotted for Foreign Investors for the New Canadian Bank

A despatch from Montreal says: Some time ago it was announced that a new Canadian bank was to be established by Mr. Rodolphe Forget, M.P., the well-known Montreal financier, and associates, with the support of French and Canadian capital, the new bank to be known as La Banque du Canada, and to have a capitalization of ten million dollars.

Cable advices received on Wednesday from Paris announce that the seven million dollars taken by French bankers and capitalists out of the total capital of ten million dollars has been subscribed twice over in France, and it was further learned that half of the three millions allotted to Canada has been already underwritten so that the entire capital is now practically assured.

The new bank is now seeking incorporation at Ottawa, and as soon as the charter is granted the work of organization will be completed.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—Choice steers sold at 6½c, good at 6 to 6¼c, fairly good at 5½ to 5¾c, fair at 5 to 5¼c per pound. The demand for good fat cows was fair at 5 to 5½c, and the commoner ones 3¾c per pound. A few good bulls sold at 5¼ to 5½c, and the lower grades from 3¾ to 5c per pound. Hogs, $7.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars. Calves, from $4.00 to $12.00 each. The trade in sheep and lambs was quiet, with the former selling at 4¼ to 4½c, and the latter at 6¼ to 6½c per pound.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Most of the trade in butcher cattle hovered around $5.50 to $5.65. Lambs were weaker. Sheep were practically unchanged, but fat hogs were being taxed 50c a head for overweight. Calves were steady.

TRAINS WORKED BY 'PHONE.

C. P. R. Stations Between Toronto and London.

A despatch from Toronto says: The Canadian Pacific Railway is busy extending its telephone system between various points for the operation of trains. The latest sections to be installed is that from Toronto to London, a distance of 114 miles by rail. The telephones which will supplement and not supersede the telegraphs will be fitted at 25 stations on the line to London, and are intended to be used only in the despatching of trains. The Port Burwell, St. Thomas, and St. Mary Branches, and the line between Toronto and Smith's Falls, are also to be connected by phone. The C. P. R. is already working about 1,500 miles of track by this method.

EIGHTEEN WERE KILLED.

62 Were Injured When Train Broke Through Bridge.

A despatch from Valaparaiso, Chili, says: A railway train was made up of eight cars, in one of which were eighty miners, and the others loaded with cement, broke through the Rancagua bridge, near the American Braden Copper Mines, on Friday. The bridge crossed a ravine 150 feet deep and the train was precipitated to the bottom. The miners were all Chileans. Eighteen of them were killed and the remainder injured.

TRAINS MET ON SWITCH.

Passenger and Freight Collided at Macleod Junction, Alta.

A despatch from Macleod, Alberta, says: The south-bound passenger train from Calgary collided with a way freight at West Macleod Junction shortly after 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. Both engines were scrapped and a dozen freight cars were wrecked, while the tracks were blocked for several hours. Robt. Cooney, fireman of the passenger engine, had a broken arm and all the other engine men suffered slight injuries. The freight was east-bound and both trains converged on the switch. The brakes failed to check the speed of the freight, and the locomotives "side swiped" each other at the switch. No passengers were hurt, but the baggage car was partly wrecked. The damage to the rolling stock was heavy.

SMALLPOX ON RESERVE.

Six Cases Reported and the Disease is Spreading.

A despatch from London, Ont., says: The smallpox outbreak on the Oneida Indian reserve is spreading, and there are now six cases. There are two cases in Westminster under the care of Dr. Roy Routledge. Dr. Mitchell of Kilworth, who has charge of the cases on the reserve, has no easy task. It is nine miles in length by seven in breadth, and about 900 Indians are thereon. He makes daily visits, but is not being given the co-operation by the natives that he would like. However, latterly there is a better spirit, as both of the new cases have been voluntarily reported.

AUSTRALIA'S YELLOW PERIL.

Regulations Have Been Issued Excluding Orientals.

A despatch from Melbourne, Australia, says: The Federal Government has gone a step farther in the campaign against Asiatics in Australia. Regulations have been issued which will have the effect of practically expelling Orientals. The real reason is that the authorities charged with the duty of securing the defence of the island continent are anxious lest the Japanese may have the opportunity of spying.

A NEW GOLD FIELD FOUND

Formation Similar to That at Porcupine Discovered at Hobon

A despatch from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., says: Mr. J. J. Byrne, who has been interested in the gold and silver discoveries at Cobalt, Porcupine and Gowganda, returned to the "Soo" on Wednesday afternoon from Hobon, a new gold field discovered by William Moquist of the "Soo" last November. Byrne with J. Hollinger, who with his brother Ben., staked the Timmins claim at Porcupine, which was sold for $330,000, have staked 16 claims at Hobon adpoining the Moquist claims, and all show rich values. Byrne says the formation at Hobon is similar to that at Porcupine and that values are equally as good. The fields are only 156 miles apart. The new field is easy of access, the C. P. R. running within 11 miles of the most important claims and the N. C. R. when forming a junction with C. P. R. at Hobon, will run directly through one of the richest gold fields on the continent. Assays made on Hobon ore run from $6.60 to $400.00 to ton. It is expected that with the advent of spring a rush will be made to Hobon, the finds having created considerable excitement among the mining men of the North

LOCAL DOINGS.

March 2nd.

March came in yesterday cold, but mild and bright.

The old winter is wearing away. We are now in the fifth month.

Mr. Austin Hewitt has gone to his home at Anderson, being ill.

Mr. W. G. Blatchford has recovered from an illness of several days.

Why feed your barley when you can get corn so much cheaper at the mill.

Miss Irene Quackenbush entertained a number of lady friends on Saturday evening.

Mr W. D. Sanders has been confined to his home for several days from a painful gathering in his head.

A number of Exeter young people went to Hensall Tuesday evening to attend a shredded wheat biscuit social.

We have occasional mornings when the sun comes out like a spring day—and the real spring weather cannot come too soon.

Mr. Simon Hunter, of Usborne, who has been in very poor health was able to get out to town last week, the first in several weeks.

Mr. S. H. Gidley is at present confined to the house with an attack of pneumonia. His many friends will hope for his speedy recovery.—Blyth Standard.

Rev. Yelland occupied the Main street pulpit on Sunday evening, in the absence of Rev. Mr. Powell, who is conducting revival meetings at the Bethany appointment.

Mr. J. Anderson of Thedford has purchased from Mr. L. Hardy the house formerly owned by Mr. Chris. Luker in Exeter North. Mr. Anderson and family have moved in.

A sale of the real estate and household effects of the late Mrs. George Eacrett will be conducted by Auctioneer B. W. F. Beavers on Friday afternoon. See list in another column.

Radclive, public executioner for the Dominion, died suddenly Monday night at his residence in Toronto. He had been official hangman since 1886, his first case being Birchell at Woodstock.

What Exeter needs is more factories. There is room here for a factory to manufacture furniture and a building all ready for the purpose. Let us get busy and try to land a good industry in the next month. Combined effort will do the trick every time.

Mrs. Fred Hill, who recently fell and broke her leg in Toronto, has now recovered and her mother, Mrs. C. Ford, has returned to her home here. Her son, Herb, of the West accompanied her to Exeter and remains a short time before returning to the West.

The Huron Uniform Promotion Examinations will be held on April 6th, 7th and 10th. Teachers should notify the School Inspector at once by post card of the exact number of papers required for the Junior II, Senior II., Junior III., Senior III., and Junior IV. classes.

Mr. Arthur Sanders experienced a runaway on Monday morning, his horse taking fright at Dignan's blacksmith shop, and turning the corner threw him out of the cutter. After a dash up Main street as far as the English church it was captured. Luckily no hurt or damage was done.

Mrs. Powell received word on Monday that Mr. Ed. Powell was again ill at Battle Creek Sanitarium with the old trouble, a numbness of the lower limbs. During the past year Mr. Powell had taken a trip around the world and was considerably improved, and his friends here will regret to hear of the return of the trouble.

Mr. George Moir of Usborne has rented his fine two hundred and fifty acre farm in that township to John Selves of Fullarton, for a term of five years. Possession to be given March 1st. Mr. Moir intends retiring from farm life for a time at least and will likely move to Exeter to reside. We welcome Mr. Moir and family to our midst as citizens.

Easter Sunday is somewhat late this year, coming on April 16. Easter Day is one of the moveable feasts, its date depending upon a phase of the moon. It is always the first Sunday after the full moon, which happens upon or next after the 21st of March. If the full moon comes on a Saturday, Easter Day is the following Sunday. It can never be earlier than March 22nd, or later than April 25. It is a common notion that spring is early or late, according to Easter coming early or late. Those who believe this tell us we will have a late spring this year.

Our business men are complaining that accounts are coming in very slow. One man says that he has not seen the like for many years. This ought not to be the case. There have been excellent crops, good prices, and times were never better. What is the matter Somebody is going too fast or too slow. Better take a little time and count the cost. Every man should be able to square up in the month of February in every year or know the reason why he cannot. Farmers get cash for their produce. Laboring men get their wages and good, big wages; and the business man has to pay for his stuff and wants his money. The query is, who is to blame, the man who gives the credit or the man who gets it.

On Thursday last two rinks of Exeter curlers, S. Sweet, Jas. H. Grieve, Jas. Taylor and G. E. Anderson; H. Gould, E. Jones, A. Taylor and W. W. Taman drove to Seaforth and played three games with the Seaforth curlers, resulting as follows;—

10 o'clock game

Exeter		Seaforth
W. W. Taman sk. 5;	Col. Wilson sk.	19
G. E. Anderson sk. 15;	J. Beattie sk.	9

2 o'clock game

Alf. Taylor sk. 6;	Mr. Bethune sk.	12
G. E. Anderson sk. 11;	W. McDougal	9

4 o'clock Game

E. Jones sk. 7;	E. Bright sk.	10
G. E. Anderson 8;	Mr. Rogers	11
Exeter total 52	Seaforth total	70

The Exter boys deserve credit for the showing they made, having had no ice on which to curl this winter and this their first game. The visitors speak highly of the entertainment the Seaforth curlers extended them.

The Jackson Manufacturing Company resumed operations this week, after being shut down three weeks owing to the fire.

Mr. Wm. Bagler is laid off duty at the Jackson Factory, owing to a severely sprained ankle, which he sustained in London last week.

HICKS' FORECASTS FOR MARCH.—A reactionary storm period falls centrally on the 8th, 9th, and 10th. At this time the Mercury disturbance is added to those of Earth, Venus and Mars. This period is also coincident with the annual magnetic and electric crisis, central on and about March 11th. If the Mars influence should not bring warm open weather over from February — a thing most unlikely—we may expect decided storms of rain, sleet and snow between the 7th and 10th. Rain, wind and thunder will be natural in the first oncoming stages of these storms, but rapid change to snow, high barometer and cold may be expected on the western sides of storm areas. Much colder weather, but tendency to prolonged cloudiness with threatening aspects, will continue over the 11th, 12th and 13th.

DEATH OF G. A. MACE

George A. Mace, manager of the Carling Company's branch at Toronto, died in that city, Monday after a short illness. Mr. Mace was 28 years in the employ of the Carling firm, eight years as manager at Ottawa, and 20 years in the same capacity at Toronto. Prior to entering the company's employ he was in business at Exeter for a number of years and during his business career here he made many warm friends who will hear with deep regret of his demise. He was 61 years of age. The late W. A. Mace, for many years with the Carling Company, and later with the Sleeman Brewing Company at Guelph was a son.

It was announced at the department of justice this morning that no success or would be appointed to Rattley, the public executioner, who died at Toronto yesterday. This means that sheriffs in the different counties throughout the Dominion will be called on to mete out the death penalty themselves or else pay out of their own pockets for a substitute. Rattley was paid an annual salary of $800, for the work, this continuing until his death. During the past seven months a man named Ellis has been officiating, but always at the expense of the sheriff.

Heavy colds and la grippe have a good many citizens in their grasp at present.

Mrs. Seawright's mother, who has been visiting here has returned to her home in Westfield, N. Y.

Mr. Oliver, who has been staying ing with his son-in-law, Mr. John Harness, has returned to his home in Port Hope.

Dan Morrison won his case in Stratford last week, getting $240 damages from the Canada Company for wrongful ejectment from their land.

Mr. William Fraser has taken a situation with the Ross & Taylor Co. as engineer, in the place of Mr. Harry Dilling, who has resigned and will go west for the summer.

Mrs. Hobbs, of Birr, who has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Collins, had the misfortune on Monday afternoon last, of falling down stairs, with the result that her ankle was badly sprained and she was otherwise painfully injured.

Hon W. J. Hanna introduced amendments to the License Act. in the Ontario Legislature stipulating that five per ceng of all bar receipts over and above $40 per day shall be paid to the License Department. And the Ontario College of Pharmacy shall cancel the license of a chemist convicted on a second offence of selling liquor illegally.

Mr. Weidenhammer and Rev. D. W. Collins discussed Reciprocity from the opposition standpoint in Caven Presbyterian church on Monday evening, after which a general discussion of the subject took place, a large number of those present taking part. It seems to us that a local debate on this subject in a public hall would be most interesting and entertaining. Let us have one in the near future.

REV. COLLINS TO REMAIN.—At a special meeting of the Vestry of the Trivitt Memorial church, held in the School Hall on Tuesday night last the Rev. D. W. Collins was prevailed upon to forego the offer of an increase in stipend, which had been made him by the Clinton church. The members of the Trivitt Memorial and citizens generally will be pleased to know that the Rev. Collins will remain here. Mr. Collins has endeared himself to his congregation and the church has so prospered under his able administration that the congregation unhesitatingly made a substantial increase in his stipend.

Reciprocity Discussed

The Opera House was comfortably filled on Friday afternoon last by representative farmers and business men of the South Riding of Huron to hear the Reciprocity question and other political matters discussed.

The chair was taken by Mr T. B. Carling and the speakers were H. Eilber, M.P.P. of South Huron; Hon. Jas S. Duff, Ontario Minister of Agriculture; Alex. Haggart, M.P., of Winnipeg; and William Wright, M.P., of Muskoka.

It was regrettable that R. Blain, M.P. of Peel, and Glen Campbell, M.P. of Gilbert Plains, Man., were unable to be present as announced, but their places were taken by Mr. Haggart and Mr. Wright.

After dealing at some length with provincial issues Mr Eilber took up the reciprocity question. He said we grew up without assistance from the United States, and now that we have built up a Canadian business—by development, railway lines, increased trade with the mother land, etc., we do not need assistance from the people to the south. They turned us down before, but now they find themselves in need of our pulp wood and other raw materials, having used up their own supply, and they come knocking at our door. At the first knock, without discussion, without any examination into the matter by experts, two men go down to Washington, and with the aid of Uncle Sam, draft out a schedule, and the government says we must accept this agreement. Without a shadow of a doubt the American ambition is that the Stars and Stripes shall float over this fair dominion, but we as loyal Canadians should stick to the trade relations we have already established and remain loyal to ourselves and to the British Empire.

Mr. Duff in opening paid a strong tribute to the sterling worth, energy and ability of South Huron's member. He dealt at some length with the formation of the Dominion Confederation and the respective duties of the Dominion and Provincial parliaments. The duties of the Provincial Governments are largely administrative, and the agricultural department, over which he had the honor to be the head, was one of the most important departments. We have little idea of the immensity of the agricultural interests in Ontario. We are trying to get the farmers to understand the land and to specialize in the kinds of crops most suited to the different localities. In the east we have the dairy country. The Niagara peninsula is the great fruit district, where many families make a good living on a farm of ten acres. In Huron and many other counties the mixed farming has the best results, and the great north country will one day be a great wheat and stock district. He spoke of the introduction of our peaches to the British market and the fact that in 1909 the prairie provinces got 35 per cent. of their fruit from Ontario. He made a strong plea for careful, honest packing of fruit. We want to instill common honesty into our people, and thus we would increase the price of our fruits, and gain a splendid credit.

Reciprocity, he said, was a burning question because it had a bearing on all classes of people. He gave a resume of our dealings with the United States. Until 1876 both political parties in Canada desired reciprocity, but after the abrogation of the old treaty the Americans practically said 'let them starve." Then Sir John Macdonald introduced the National Policy in 1879, and that has continued to be the policy of the governing party. Three general elections have passed since the Liberals came into power and at no one of them was there any talk of reciprocity, but now all at once we are asked to accept this pact—that no man understands. We have grown wonderfully since the National Policy has been the dominant idea of both parties, and now we are asked to undo the work we have done, to injure our railways, our cities and our ports and to aid in the betterment of American lines, cities, and ports. Have we not sufficient National pride to object to this? In closing let me mention three instances of the remarkable friendship of United States for Canada,—The attempt to annex Canada by force in 1812; the protection they afforded the Fenians; and their refusal to allow our soldiers to go over their railway lines to quell the Northwest Rebellion.

Mr. Haggart said he was glad to see the people giving such serious consideration to the reciprocity question The Russian War and the American Civil War were largely responsible for the good prices we received between 1854 and 1866, when Reciprocity was in force. Following its repeal we had hard times because our business was disorganized, we had too seek new channels of trade. Then came the confederation, the acquiring of the Northwest, the building of the Intercolonial. We have established a market in Great Britain, built railways, established a great interprovincial trade, and we are practically independent of the Americans. As proof that the west is not in favor of the pact he showed how in Winnipeg alone it had been condemned by the Board of Trade, the Legislature, fresh from the people, the Grain Exchange, and his last Liberal opponent, D. C. Campbell. In addition the pact was not binding. Suppose we abandon our trade with England in favor of our neighbor to the south. In a few years the treaty may be broken, then we will have lost the British market, and will have to start over again.

Mr. Wright criticized the over-classification in the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, the millions lost on the Quebec bridge, sawdust wharves and dredging.

Also the Governments navy program was pleasing no one. And now in order to draw attention away from the blundering and mis-management the Government brought on the reciprocity agreement. He too was opposed to the trade agreement and put forth some strong arguments against it.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE;

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER VIII.—(Cont'd)

Nancy turned to look at her lover.

"Like him?" she said, slowly. "I detest him!"

Darnley heaved a sigh of relief. "Poor fellow!" he said, with almost a feeling of pity for his rival.

"Poor, with all that money"

"I wish it were mine," Nancy."

"Do you" she said, gently. "Why?"

"That I might lavish it on you, dear one. Nancy, do you know I am a poor man?—that I have only a few hundred pounds that I can call my own?"

"And I—have nothing." She smiled, then growing grave, she went on hurriedly. "Don't!—oh, don't talk to me like this! Do you think that all the money in the world could make you dearer to me? No, no. I am glad you are poor. We shall work together. Sir Humphrey has told me all about your wonderful talent. You will rise in the days to come. You will take your rank among the celebrated barristers of the day, and I—I shall be so proud of you!"

Her eyes flashed with imaginary triumph, and her cheeks glowed.

The band struck up again at that instant, and, with a passionate look into her eyes Darnley took her in his arms and they glided away.

Mrs. Darnley had sat very still and cold as her son left her; her encounter with Dorothy had awakened into life every particle of the heavy, revengeful temper she possessed.

Accustomed to rule with the sway of a queen, she resented Miss Leicester's almost arrogant independence, and, with a strange injustice, it was on Nancy Hamilton she vented the most of her anger, as being the immediate cause of the dispute between her niece and herself.

It infuriated her to see the success that this upstart girl undoubtedly made, and she felt inclined to rise and stalk off with Lord Merefield, when he went to get consolation from Nancy. But even this feeling was as nothing compared to her disgust and anger as she saw her son go direct to that corner, and watched his face change as he gazed at the piquant, picturesque one beside him.

Her mother's heart at once took alarm.

She was indescribably proud of Derrick; he was, and had been, everything her son should be; his future was the one matter on which she permitted herself to indulge in any feminine weakness; and that he should not only aid Dorothy Leicester in her foolishness, but find such apparent pleasure in this Hamilton girl's society, was a perplexing and terrible revelation.

At this moment Sir Humphrey came up to her.

"Anne," he said, genially, "Mr. Thomas Moss Crawshaw requests the pleasure of an introduction."

Mrs. Darnley frowned. She felt in no mood to submit to the indignity of meeting this parvenu, but there was no help for it.

Sir Humphrey passed on, and Mr. Crawshaw was left standing beside her chair, with an expression on his swarthy face which vaguely puzzled her.

Perhaps her intuition, that marvellous gift all women possess, warned her that this man might serve her in some way; at any rate, she moved her dress.

"Will you not sit down?" she said, coldly, yet not ungraciously.

Thomas Crawshaw took the chair and sat in it uneasily; his new position had done very little to rub off the edge of his common ways and manners.

It was not for mere fancy that he had commanded rather than asked his host to present him to this lady.

He had noticed her very fixed stare at Nancy, and his quick ears had caught a few words, as Dorothy had poured out her vexation about her aunt's unkind and unjust remarks into Lord Merefield's ready ears just a few minutes previous. Sharp and cunning as a ferret, Crawshaw saw in Mrs. Darnley a willing and useful worker in a little scheme which he had been planning since he had witnessed that love scene down by the lower lake.

"She won't stick at a trifle if I get her on the right track," he said to himself, as he glanced at Mrs. Darnley's haughty, handsome face.

Derrick's mother waited for her new acquaintance to speak first; and Crawshaw was so slow to begin, that she made a plunge into platitudes.

"This is a very fine place," he said, slowly, after a while, "and Sir Humphrey's a good old chap! They tell me that young fellow over at the window will come into everything; is that true?"

That young fellow was Mr. Darnley, who was fanning Nancy and talking quietly at the same time.

Mrs. Darnley drew herself up.

"Miss Leicester will inherit everything on her father's death, Mr. Crawshaw. You have been misinformed; my son, Derrick, is not the heir of Ripstone Hall."

Crawshaw smiled curiously.

"Well, that's perhaps a good thing, seeing as he's likely to make a fool of himself in that quarter," with a comprehensive nod of the head at Nancy's figure.

Mrs. Darnley started, her fan slipped from her fingers and fell to the ground. She was pale to the lips as Crawshaw stooped and handed her her fan.

"Not but what she is pretty enough," he went on, quietly; "he might do worse."

"Sir!" began Mrs. Darnley, trembling with anger.

Mr. Crawshaw shrugged his shoulders.

"I beg your pardon, I am sure," he said, with a sneer. "I only judged by appearance, and if that doesn't look like a case of lovers—well, I'm a Dutchman, that is all!"

Mrs. Darnley closed her hand so suddenly on her fan that the delicate tortoise shell snapped in two.

"You are mistaken," she said again, in a choked sort of way.

"I think not," replied the other, laconically. "Your son is evidently madly in love with this girl, who comes from nowhere, and gives herself the airs of a queen"—there was an ugly look on Mr. Crawshaw's face and his lips twitched nervously—"but"—he paused, and Mrs. Darnley's cold gray eyes met his black ones—"but between being in love and marrying there is a vast deal of difference, you know."

Mrs. Darnley moistened her lips; she felt if she had a dagger in her hand at that moment that she could have willingly struck it into poor Nancy's great, loving heart. She was maddened to think that this girl, whom she already allowed herself to hate so unjustly, should dare to permit Derrick to so abase himself as to love her.

Crawshaw took a long, slow gaze at Nancy's sweet face blushing beneath her lover's eyes; the sight made his fierce jealousy and revengeful passion burn still more furiously. He had long vowed to be even with this girl; he had an old sore to settle up, and the bitter anger he had experienced this afternoon as he had watched Nancy turn to her lover as the flower turns to the sun, and heard her soft, earnest vow of love, had stirred his mean spirit to its uttermost depths. And when he had stood alone by the lake, he had vowed to himself that he would blot out her happiness and bring her to his feet as surely as he lived.

He drew his eyes suddenly from that window in the corner.

"You will never consent to the marriage?" he asked, abruptly.

"Never!" said Mrs. Darnley, forgetting her dignity in her apprehension; "I would sooner die first!"

"Then they must be separated, if it is as I suspect."

Crawshaw dropped his voice.

Mrs. Darnley's cheeks flushed.

"If it is as you suspect they shall be separated."

"Come with me," he said.

Crawshaw rose suddenly.

Mrs. Darnley, carried away by his vehemence, rose, too.

"I will give you proof that what I say is true."

Not until they had passed out of the hot room did Mrs. Darnley question him, but as the cool night breeze met her she suddenly awoke to the fact that this strange, plebeian man was controlling her in a most decided and unpleasant fashion, and, moreover, that he was acting in an altogether unorthodox manner which required some explanation.

"Where are you taking me?" she asked, curtly, standing still.

"I am leading you to the terrace beneath that window, where you will have a good opportunity of overhearing your son's conversation with this Nancy Hamilton."

Mrs. Darnley shuddered slightly. She had no heart, but she had a sense of honor.

"Do you want to see her your son's wife?" asked Crawshaw, fixing her with his brilliant black eyes.

"You know I do not," broke from the mother's lips.

"Then come with me; you have no time to lose, if you would prevent him from openly declaring his love to the world."

Mrs. Darnley followed him down the steps.

"What is this to you?" she asked, abruptly, as they reached the bottom; "why are you mixing yourself up in the affair? What is my son's marriage to y u?"

"Nothing," was Crawshaw's blunt reply. "I am working for myself; I love this girl, and I've sworn to make her my wife!"

CHAPTER IX.

Night had fallen; outside the trees moved to and fro in the soft breeze, the delicate blooms drank in the refreshing dew, the stars shone out of the dark-blue sky in fullest majesty. The heat of the day was dead, and as the pale moon gathered in strength and silver light, the least of the revellers left Ripstone Hall for their homes, weary with the pleasure which had fallen to their lot.

"It has been a success; yes, I really think it has been a success. But, oh! how tired I am!" yawned Dorothy, when the last carriage had rolled away. "Nancy, you look as fresh as though you had just got out of bed."

They were all assembled in the hall, Sir Humphrey, with old-fashioned gallantry, insisting on lighting the candles himself, and escorting his fair guests to their chamber doors.

Nancy received his good-night kiss and ran fleetly up the stairs, leaving Dorothy, after she had embraced her tenderly, alone with Lord Merefield, Darnley and her father.

The moonlight shone in through the long windows in the corridor, and illumined her as she sped along the passage.

She had not said good-night to her lover, or even given him a glance from her eyes downstairs; she had felt too shy to brave his gaze, but when once she gained the seclusion of her room, she overwhelmed herself with reproach for her unkindness. She might at least have given him her hand, and now it was too late. She put her candle down, and walked to the window with a sense of disappointment and vexation creeping over her. How could she have been so foolish, now that she was separated from him and a long night stretched between their next meeting; her heart suddenly yearned for him; she felt that she had not half expressed her love, that she had not half told him how happy, how indescribably happy he had made her.

Her heart thrilled with a thousand tender impulses—pride—gratitude—amazement—all melted into an ecstasy of passionate love.

Alone with that quiet night, the silent stars, the great blue realm that stretched above her, the girl suddenly realized the fulness of this joy that had come to her—her eyes were opened, and she knew how sweet a thing life was when love overshadowed it.

Now so much was explained, her interest—her eagerness to hear his name on other's lips, the indescribable pleasure his presence brought, the vague sensation his frank, manly tones had awakened in her breast; she knew them all now—the veil had fallen, she saw into her very heart of hearts, and knew that Derrick Darnley had not grown suddenly her king, but had crept slowly and surely into her life, there to remain and be treasured for ever.

Still and more silent grew the hour.

Away in the far distance came the misty dawn; the moon's pale rays sank slowly before it; her summer reign is ever short.

"A sense of heavy harmonies
Grows on the growth of patient night,
More sweet than shapen music is."

This unfathomable melody touched the girl's full heart.

"I cannot sleep," she murmured to herself, and, throwing a shawl over her shoulders, she went out onto her balcony to watch the birth of the coming day.

"Will it be as beautiful as yesterday?" she thought, wistfully, to herself. Already the canker of fear was creeping into her paradise, it could not last, this sudden happiness, she told herself; no, it was too wonderful—too beautiful.

(To be continued.)

"Alphonse," said the heiress, "I have been thinking." "Thinking of me, precious?" asked Alphonse. "Indirectly, yes. I have been thinking that, were you to marry me, everybody would say you only did so in order to get my money." "What care I for the unthinking world?" "But, oh, Alphonse, I will marry you." "My own dar—" "And I will not have people say unkind things about you, so I have arranged to give all my fortune to the missionaries. Why, Alphonse, where are you going?" Alphonse paused long enough on his way to the door to look back and mutter, "I'm going to be a missionary."

STANDARD BANK'S RECORD FOR 1910.

1910 a Year of Steady Progress and Expansion.

The past year's business of the Standard Bank as disclosed in the 36th annual statement show this Institution to be making continued and steady progress. During the year eight new branches were opened in Ontario and a corresponding number in the Western Provinces, making a total of 98 offices in the Dominion. The net profits amounted to $373,208.25 after allowing for all charges, which figures out on the basis of 18.66 per cent. on the paid up capital, and which added to the balance carried over from 1909, makes a total of $427,282.48, which was disposed of as follows:— Dividends, $240,000 (12 per cent.); Officers' Pension Fund, $7,500; Written-off Premiums, $25,000; added to Reserve Fund, $100,000; to Profit and Loss Account, $54,782.48.

The general statement shows: Circulation, $1,967,102; Deposits, $20,413,503; Capital, Rest and Surplus Profits, $4,616,556. The total Assets are $23,427,328, of which $9,232,348 is in cash and immediately available securities. The loans and discounts amount to $23,025,354.

Shareholders, customers and friends of the Standard Bank will be much pleased at the strong condition of the Bank in all departments. The same Directorate was re-elected as for 1909 and Mr. W. F. Cowan was re-elected President and Mr. Frederick Wyld, Vice-President.

The annual statement is being printed in booklet form. It contains information of a general and specific nature regarding the affairs of the bank as related to Financial Canada. A copy will be sent free upon application to the Head Office, Standard Bank, Toronto.

PROVIDE THE DUST BATH.

The setting hen should be provided with a dust bath, a place where she can dust herself each day when she comes off the nest. If provided with a proper place and right material she will generally keep herself free from lice, but if she does not do so, she ought to be dusted at least once a week with insect powder. After all the chicks are out of the shells, the hen should be dusted again for fear of lice upon the chicks. The dust left on the hen's feathers will cause the lice on the chicks to die or move away.

At Regina a boy of eighteen charged with forging three cheques amounting to something less than $200, not being a bank president or even a director, he was promptly arrested and convicted and given the terrific sentence of eight years, says the Prince Albert Daily News.

On the Farm

FROM COW TO CALF.

In order to make a good dairy cow we must start with the calf of some good dairy type. The care that the calf or any farm animal for that matter gets for the first few months will largely determine the quality of the adult animal. Giving the calf a good, strong, healthy start is one of the prime essentials of success in growing it, writes Mr. H. H. Shephard.

The calf need not be kept rolling fat, but it should be kept thriftily growing from start to finish.

Except for best production with the beef type, it is best to raise the calf by hand method. When it is a day or two old take it away from its dam and teach it to drink milk.

For the first feed take some warm milk fresh from the cow and place some with the hand on the calf's mouth. It will lick this with its tongue and, of course, find that it is good. Then place the pail to its mouth so that the warm milk will touch its lips.

Be patient for the first time. It will require several minutes and possibly nearly an hour, but when once it learns what is in the pail and how to take the food there will be no further trouble in urging it to eat.

It may be necessary the first two times for you to wet two fingers with milk and allow the calf to suck up the milk with the hand partly immersed in the liquid.

Feed whole milk warm from the cow for about two weeks, and then gradually substitute skim milk for the whole till at the end of the fourth week nothing but skim milk is given.

Always warm the milk, as it is most natural for the young animal and demands less energy from the digestive organs.

After the third month the calf will begin to want extra water, and some may be mixed with the milk.

The calf at this age should be allowed access to drinking water every day. At the end of four months milk may be withheld and other feeds substituted, as the calf will then begin to nibble on hay and other feeds.

From this stage on place some fine well cured and preserved hay where it can reach it. When it is six weeks old give it a handful of shelled corn, or place cornmeal in the milk feed.

Skim milk contains all the necessary elements for animal growth, the removed cream furnishing only material for fat and heat. Since the cream has been removed it is well to supply the equivalent material in a cheaper form.

Corn and cornmeal are carbonaceous matter, similar in comparison to that of cream, and there is no feed that a calf likes so well as shelled corn or cornmeal.

Cream is worth twenty to thirty cents a pound, while corn is worth only about a cent a pound, hence the economy of its use. If cornmeal is fed with the milk it should not be stirred much, but allowed to settle at the bottom of the pail so that it will have to be eaten rather than swallowed with he milk.

We have found by experience that whole shelled corn is as good as the meal and that the calf can and will eat it very readily. One value of the whole corn over the meal is that it develops the chewing power of the young animal, which is of great benefit to any animal, since the finer the food can be chewed the finer it can be digested.

Corn will give all the elements for fat and heat to meet the young growing needs.

While milk is being fed there is no need of furnishing the calf any nitrogenous feeds, but after the milk is no longer given wheat, bran and oats will furnish elements for flesh and other nitrogenous growth.

Clean clover hay or alfalfa are excellent at this time to form a well balanced ration, but, of course, a variety should be given at all times.

The calf, too, likes salt as well as older cows, although a small amount is necessary.

The hand fed calf intended for dairy purposes can be made a much better animal than the one allowed to feed from the cow in the natural way.

The main reason for this is that through eating heavier and coarser food its digestive organs are enlarged and strengthened.

Other things being equal, the capacity for digestion of a dairy cow represents her milk producing power. With large, strong digestive organs she is liable to assimilate much food and transform it into more valuable food, milk and butter fat.

This Feeding Floor Could Be Built in The Fall and it would help greatly to preserve the condition of your live stock in the Spring.

Every farmer knows that in the Spring of the year his barnyard is almost bottomless. The live stock mire down into the mud and almost float around—greatly to the detriment of their physical condition.

By building a Concrete feeding floor in the yard, this trouble is done away with.

A Feeding Floor of comparatively small area and built this Fall, would pay for itself next year. Concrete is the only material that can be used in this way at a moderate cost.

Will you ask for your copy of the book which we have prepared for you—"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete"? It's free—and, take our word for it, you'll find it one of the most interesting pieces of such literature you ever read. And profitable, too—because it will save you money.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

CAKES.

Low Cost Sponge Cake.—Two eggs, beaten separately; one cupful fine granulated sugar; three-eighths cupful hot water or milk; one-half teaspoon lemon extract; one cupful flour; one and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder; one-quarter teaspoonful salt. Process: Beat yolks of eggs until thick and light, add half the sugar gradually, beating constantly; add water or milk, and gradually remaining sugar. Beat mixture three minutes; add extract, whites of eggs beaten until stiff; mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt, then cut and fold into first mixture. Butter and flour a shallow cake pan, turn in mixture, spread evenly and bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes.

General Directions for Making Cake.—Thin cakes require a hotter oven than those baked in thick loaves. If the oven be not hot enough at first or be cooled too suddenly during the baking the cake will not be light. Mix cake in an earthen bowl and never in a tin pan. Use a wooden spoon, as iron spoons discolor the hand and the mixture. Coarse granulated sugar makes heavy cake, with a hard and sticky crust. Line your cake tins with paper to prevent burning the bottom and edges and to aid in removing the cakes from the pans. Lay the paper over the outside of the pan and crease it around the edge of the bottom. Allow it large enough to come above the edge of the pan. Break each egg on the edge of the cup just enough to crack the middle of the shell, so the white will flow out, but not hard enough to break into the yolk. Let the white run into the cup and keep the yolk in the half shell until all the white is drained off. Be careful not to break the yolk, as the smallest portion of it in the whites will prevent them from frothing. Never stop beating the whites until they are stiff and dry, as it is impossible to have them light if they become liquid again.

Mother's Cake.—One scant cup of butter, one and one-half cups sugar, three eggs beaten separately, one teaspoonful lemon or vanilla, one salt-spoonful mace, one-half cup milk, three cups flour, one teaspoonful cream of tartar, and one-half teaspoonful soda, or three level teaspoonfuls baking powder. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually then the yolks of the eggs, then the flavoring; reserve a quarter of a cup of flour lest the cake be too stiff if all be used; put the soda and cream of tartar into the remainder of the flour; add the milk and flour alternately a little at a time, and lastly the whites, which have been beaten stiff and dry. Bake from forty to fifty minutes in a moderate oven. Add one cup of currants and you have a nice currant cake, or half a cup of dates cut fine nd flavored, and you have a date cake. Color one cupful of the dough with spices, cinnamon, allspice, and mace, or with grated chocolate and you have a Leopard cake. By using a cupful of butter it is the same as White Mountain Cake.

Loaf Cake.—One cupful butter, creamed with two cupfuls of sugar; add four beaten yolks of eggs; one teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in one cupful of sweet milk; two teaspoonfuls cream of tartar, mixed in three cupfuls of flour; flavor with vanilla and a teaspoonful of mace; lastly add the beaten whites of eggs; beat well before you put in the whites of eggs; add one cupful of chopped nuts if you wish. This is excellent and will make two loaves.

Filled Sponge Cake.—Bake a sponge cake in a round loaf pan and put it aside for a day or two. After that time cut off the top crust and take out the soft part on the inside and mix it up with chopped nuts and whipped cream. Put back in crust and cover with top crust. Cut in slices and serve as dessert.

SANDWICHES.

Ribbon Sandwiches.—Butter six thin slices of bread on both sides; spread layers of deviled ham, tongue, or chicken between; then press the entire pile closely, and slice downward, making thin, ribbon like sandwiches. Another—Put white and brown bread together alternately, as above, using a filling of cream creese and chopped nuts or olives.

Japanese Sandwiches.—Take any kind of left over fish, baked or boiled; pick out every bit of skin and bone and flake in small pieces; put into a saucepan with a little cream or milk to moisten, adding a little batter and dusting of pepper; work to a paste while it is heating; then cool and spread on thin slices of buttered bread.

Jelly Sandwiches. — Cut thin slices of warm fresh bread. Remove crusts, butter them evenly, spread with currant jelly, and sprinkle with freshly grated cocoanut. Roll each slice separately and tie with baby ribbon.

Fruit Sandwiches.—Take thin slices of raisin bread, butter them and fill them with the big filling prepared as follows: One-half pound finely chopped figs, one-third cup sugar half cup of boiling water, and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Mix and cook in a double boiler until thick enough to spread.

TESTED RECIPES.

Baked Apples.—Take as many apples as there are people to be served. Peel and remove core. Fill with chopped hickory and English walnut meats. Sprinkle with white sugar. Put in oven and bake slowly, basting all the while with sirup, made of one cup sugar, one-third cup water, cooked until in threads. Bake until apples are clear. Serve with whipped cream.

Nut Graham Bread.—Three cups graham flour, one cup white flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one-third cup molasses, one-half cup brown sugar, two eggs, two cups milk, one cup seeded raisins, one cup chopped nuts. Mix quickly, let raise for twenty minutes. Bake one hour.

COOKIES.

Sweet Crackers.—One cup of sugar, one cup of lard, and two eggs creamed together. Five cents' worth of oil of lemon, also five cents' worth of baking ammonia, dissolved in one pint of sweet milk overnight. Pound and knead about forty minutes. Work in as much flour as possible. Roll thin, cut in squares, and stick several times with a fork. Bake in quick oven. Half of the oil of lemon is enough for one baking.

PALM HELP.

I had a palm which became infested with scales. After trying various kinds of treatment for their extermination I began washing it in suds made from soap. After three washings, at intervals of a few days apart, I find the scales almost entirely gone, the palm looking fresh and green and making new growth. Another bath of the same will keep it in fine condition.—J. U. D.

Canned or fresh rhubarb is a fine substitute for fruit for the pudding.

Try a little baking soda and hot water when cleaning kitchen utensils.

If your pancake batter is too thin try using stale bread crumbs as a thickener.

Flowerpot stains may be removed from window sills with fine wood ashes.

The neck of a baby's frock should never be starched, as it will chafe the tender skin.

A cupful of liquid yeast is equivalent to half a compressed yeast cake or a whole dry yeast cake.

In selecting beef the pieces which are well mottled with fat will be found the richest and juciest.

Scatter unslaked lime round the corners of the cellar; this will absorb any damp and dispel insects.

When leather armchairs look shabby they should be wiped with a soft cloth moistened with olive oil.

Wooden breadboards are kept in better condition by rubbing them with sand than by simply using soap.

Green blinds that have become faded may be renewed by rubbing them with a rag saturated with linseed oil.

If fresh fish is to be kept over night, it should be salted and laid on an earthen dish, not placed on a board or shelf.

Comforts and quilts should be dried in a good stiff breeze so they may be as light and fluffy as when new.

You my discover that you have not potatoes enough to warm up. Just take some stale bread, as they blend perfectly.

A few drops of lemon juice or vinegar put in the water in which cauliflower is to be cooked will preserve its whiteness.

A large clean marble boiled in milk, porridge, custards, sauce, will automatically do the stirring as the liquid boils, and so prevent burning.

The mica windows of coal stoves can easily be cleaned with a soft cloth dipped in vinegar and water. This should be done when putting the stove up.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, MARCH 12.

Lesson XI. Elisha the Prophet Restores a Child to Life. 2 Kings 4.8-37. Golden Text, Rom. 6.23.

Verse 8. A great woman—The prevailing idea of greatness was of a person who was independently rich (1 Sam. 25. 2), and who had the power that goes so frequently with wealth. This same Shunem was made famous as the abode of the beautiful maiden who is the heroine of Solomon's Song, and who may be identified with Abishag, the nurse of David's old age. Thus Shunammite seems to have been an heiress, who, with her husband, owned much of the property about the village. Her hospitality must have been welcome to the prophet in his wearisome tours among the prophetic schools.

9. This was a holy man—It seems unlikely that Elijah would have availed himself of such comforts as were offered in this luxurious home, but the impression made by Elisha was not diminished because he had an eminently social nature and gave it free play. At any rate, the proposal made to her husband by the woman (10) was not unusual, even in a land overflowing with hospitality. The little chamber, built with walls, above the roof, so as to give easy and private access from the outside (and furnished after the style of Oriental rooms), must have afforded the prophet many hours of refreshment.

12. Gehazi—Throughout his long public career Elisha was attended by his servant, who ocupied much the same position as he himself held in relation to Elijah.

She stood before him—It is difficult for us to imagine the reverence with which she would come into the presence of one whom she considered a representative of God, or the reserve which Elisha, in the dignity of his position, would exercise, so downtrodden was the condition of womankind in those days (compare Jesus and the Samaritan woman, John 4. 27). So Elisha speaks to her through his mouthpiece, Gehazi (13), and, careful not to offend his benefactor by any suggestion of money equivalent for her pains, he proposes that he might give expression to his gratitude by speaking a word in her behalf to the king, or using his court influence with the captain of the host. But, dwelling as she did, among her own friends, she felt no need of royal or military protection. So she went away, only to be recalled on Gehazi's suggestion that the great sorrow of her life was, that she had no child, and was growing old (14, 15).

16. Do not lie—The promise that in the spring of the year following she should have a child her very own was too good to be believed on light evidence.

19. My head—It is likely the child had suffered from sunstroke.

21. Laid him on the bed of the man of God—What Elisha had already done for her was sufficient to make her believe in his power to do even greater things.

23. Wilt thou go to-day?—The husband is not thinking of the dead child, but of some religious festival connected with the new moon or the sabbath, over which the prophet might be called upon to preside Nevertheless, upon her assuring him that all was well, he has the ass prepared (24). The servant would attend her for protection, running by her side the entire sixteen miles to Carmen.

25. The man of God saw her—From his retreat in the hills he could look down the road and see her while she was yet afar off. He at once divined that something was amiss. But the woman not relinquishing the hope which she cherished, out of an anxious heart exclaimed, It is well (26).

27. Thrust her away—Gehazi considered in a breach of etiquette, but his master saw that she acted in great extremity, and put his servant aside.

29. He said to Gahazi—He did not need to hear the words which the woman seemed reluctant to speak, that her son was dead. He bade his servant gather up the loose folds of his garment, and to pause for no salutations, lest his progress should be impeded. But the mother is not satisfied to have the staff and its master separated, for where he is there is power. So with the woman, Elisha follows his servant, who meets them on the way with the news that the child has not revived.

32. The child was dead—There is left no such doubt in this story as in some others in the Bible, as to whether the person was actually dead.

33-35.—Notice the earnest solicitude displayed by Elisha. He not only prayed, but used every means within his power to bring back the breath of life. This was the order followed by Elijah at Zarephath, and is the true method of approaching God in everything we seek from him.

36. Take up thy son—In the tenderness of the situation the indirect address, through his servant, is laid aside. Humanity is a far larger consideration than conventionality.

37. Fell at his feet—She was too overwhelmed with emotion and gratitude to speak. We are left to imagine what the return journey must have been.

PROVIDING FOR WORKPEOPLE

Invalidity Insurance Will Not Conflict With Old Age Pensions.

The English people are beginning to realize the vast importance of the British Government's scheme of invalidity insurance, which is now being eagerly discussed in every factory and workshop, mine and quarry, in the servants hall of London mansions, and humble farm kitchens. The invalidity insurance, as proposed by the Government, is quite a thing apart from old age pensions and unemployment insurance. There is no idea of changing the basis of old age pensions as at present administered. Invalidity insurance is an extension only. Old age pensions of $1,25 a week will still be granted on a non-contributory basis to qualified persons over the age of seventy. For this reason the insurance scheme will come to an end at seventy, and there will be no over-lapping. Contributions to invalidity insurance will begin at an age not lower than sixteen years and not higher than eighteen years. Again, invalidity insurance is quite distinct from unemployment insurance as outlined by the Board of Trade. Unemployment insurance is intended for men and women who are able and willing to work but cannot find a job. Invalidity insurance is meant for men and women who are debarred from working through continued ill-health. Unemployment insurance will be compulsory only for the building, ship-building and engineering trades—that is, for two and a half million workers. Invalidity insurance will be compulsory and universal for all persons between the ages of sixteen or eighteen and seventy whose income is less than $800 a year. Unemployment insurance supplements the work of trade unions; invalidity insurance supplements the work of friendly societies. The details of the invalidity insurance are still secret. On November 4th Mr. Lloyd George handed a draft of it to Mr. Barnes, the Grand Master of the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows. The documents were, however, communicated on Cabinet terms, and Mr. Barnes was forbidden to make them public. Contributions to the scheme will, as in the case of unemployment insurance, be derived from the worker, the state and the employer. The amount of the combined contribution is unknown and the proportions to be paid by the three parties respectively is also not known. Conjecture has set one-half for the employer, and one-half for the state.

WHO WAS BOSS?

Once on a time, runs a modern fable, a youth about to embark on the sea of matrimony, went to his father and said:—

"Father, who should be boss, I or my wife?"

The old man smiled and said:—

"Here are one hundred hens and a team of horses. Hitch up the horses, put the hens into the wagon, and wherever you find a man and his wife dwelling stop and make inquiry as to who is the boss. Wherever you find a woman running things, leave a hen. If you come to a place where a man is in control, give him one of the horses."

After ninety-nine hens had been disposed of, he came to a house and made the usual inquiry.

"I'm boss o' this farm," said the man.

So the wife was called, and she affirmed her husband's assertion.

"Take whichever horse you want," was the boy's reply.

So the husband replied, "I'll take the bay."

But the wife did not like the bay horse, and called her husband aside and talked to him. He returned and said:—

"I believe I'll take the grey horse."

"Not much," said the young man. "You get a hen."

Operations at the Vancouver-Prince Rupert Meat Packing Company's abbatoir, at Sapperton, are now in steady progress. About 40 head of cattle and from 80 to 100 hogs are despatched daily.

A LONG CREDIT.

The motto of the Highland host that battled for the Stuart cause, which bonnie Prince Charlie headed, apparently was that heaven helps those who helps themselves liberally. They levied toll on the hen-roost, stable, and according to the author of a recent delightful book, entitled "The Land of Romance," even on the pockets of the Covenanters.

At Swarthholm a party of these marauders overhauled the house of a tailor, and when one of them was about to cut up a web of homespun that had taken his fancy, the good-wife earnestly remonstrated.

"A day'll come when ye'll ha' tae pay for that," she solemnly assured him.

Scissors in hand, Donald paused. "An' when will she pe hafing to do that?" he asked.

"At the Last Day," said she.

"An' that will pe a fery goot long credit," the robber coolly returned. "She wass going to pe only taking a coat, but now she will pe takin' a waistcoat as well."

SHIPPING AND SHIPBUILDING

GREAT BRITAIN'S SUPREMACY IN THE INDUSTRY.

Leads World in Construction of Vessels and Trade Shows Increase.

The annual report published by Lloyd's Register of Shipping and Shipbuilding in 1910 gives the following interesting figures:

Tonnage of merchant ships launched in the United Kingdom during three years:

1908	929,669
1909	991,066
1910	1,143,169

Countries for whose use the 500 vessels (1,143,169 tons) launched in the United ingdom to 1910 were destined:

Britain	361 ships,	919,706 tons
Brit'h C'l'n's	39 ships,	43,507 tons
Norway	12 ships,	34,038 tons
Germany	5 ships,	26,507 tons
Sweden	5 ships,	20,247 tons

and smaller tonnages for other countries.

Warships launched in the United Kingdom during 1910:

British	43 ships,	133,525 tons
Foreign	2 ships,	1,120 tons

Countries for whose use are intended the 122 warships in all the shipbuilding ports in the world:

British	43 ships,	133,525 tons
German	21 ships,	49,024 tons
U S A.	13 ships,	30,287 tons
French	12 ships,	24,063 tons
Japanese	3 ships,	23,100 tons

no other country having added so much as 20,000 to its naval tonnage.

Combining mercantile and naval shipbuilding in United Kingdom ports and abroad, we have these remarkable figures concerning this "ruined industry":

Launched in 1910 in the United Kingdom, 545 ships, 1,277,814 tons; launched in 1910 in all the rest of the world, 854 ships, only 990,893 tons.

Of the last named the United States built 361,000 tons; Germany, 210,000; France, 105,000 tons; Holland 71,000 tons; no other country turning out so much as 60,000 tonnage.

The United Kingdom gain in output as compared with figures abroad is shown by comparing our first table with the subjoined

Tonnage of merchant ships launched in all the world except the United Kingdom, during three years:

1908	903,617
1909	610,991
1910	814,684

Thus the rest of the world has decreased its output almost half as much as the United Kingdom has increased its output.

Even the gain on balance as affected by vessels being lost at sea or broken up, the United Kingdom has an advantage over the rest of the world.

Tonnage of merchant ships lost or broken up, thus reducing the total tonnage of the mercantile marine:

	British Isles.		Foreign and Colonial.
	Ships.	Tons.	Ships.	Tons.
1906	198	291,000	602	518,000
1909	201	361,000	666	578,000
1910	202	358,000	587	516,000

OSMAN DIGNA STILL ALIVE.

Dervish Leader Now at Wady Halfa is Eighty Years of Age.

The Emir Osman Abu Bakr Digna, once notorious in the Soudan as Osman Digna, who since December, 1908 has been interned at Wady Halfa is now an old man of eighty years of age. Lieutenant-Governor Wingate (Sirdar of the Egyptian army) contributes some facts relating to "Osman the Ugly," who in the troublous times in the Soudan had as many reported deaths as the Mad Mullah. Osman, prior to Mahdism, was a successful slave-trader between the Soudan and the Arabian coasts. Owing to his persecution by the old Egyptian Government for carrying on this trade, he seized the opportunity of the Dervish revolt to join the Mahdi in 1883, and proved to be his most zealous adherent and capable lieutenant. He was entrusted with the propagation of Mahdism in the Eastern Soudan, and this region he rapidly overran and conquered. Osman was present at the battle of Omdurman and at the Khalifa's defeat and death of Gedid in 1899. He escaped after the conflict, and after a long march on foot was captured in the Warriba Hills, ninety miles west of Suakim, by Captain Burges, at the head of a civil patrol, in January, 1900. Osman was then deported to Rosetta, in Egypt, to join the other Dervish prisoners, and remained there to the end of 1902, when he was transferred to the Damietta prison, and in December, 1908, was sent in turn to Wady Halfa, where he now is.

He—"Ah, Miss Laura, and what have you been doing to-day?" She—"Oh, I've been reading Tennyson." He—"Are you fond of Tennyson?" She—"Fond of him! Why, I simply devour him!" He — "Ah, well, that accounts for it; I have so often heard him spoken of as a poet Laura ate."

HICKS' FORECASTS FOR MARCH.—A Regular Storm Period is central from the 12th to the 16th. The central day of Mercury period falls within this period, on the 16th. The full Moon, and Moon on the equator also, fall on the 14th and 15th, making this period a time of decided storm probabilities. We will name Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 14th, 15th and 16th, as days of possible violence and danger, especially in the southern states and about the Gulf coast. Rain, sleet and snow, all followed by high barometer and cold wave for March, may be expected in central to northern sections. A Reactionary storm period is central on the 19th, 20th and 21st. This period is at the centre of earth's vernal equinox, with the periods of Mercury, Venus and Mars all nearing the end of their perturbing influences. The Moon is in apogee, at extreme south declination and near last quarter. Unsettled and threatening conditions, ending in violent quinoctial storms, will be most natural on and near the 19th, 20th and 21st. Gulf storms, sweeping into interior parts of the south, should be anticipated. Northerly winds, snow and change to much colder, will attend and follow these storms in central and northern states.

Mr. H. Elber, M.P.P., of South Huron, has introduced a bill in the Ontario Legislature to amend the act respecting traction engines on highways to the effect that no traction engine shall enter upon or cross a bridge drawing behind it any tender, separator, machinery or vehicle.

KIRKTON.

It was with much regret that the people of this district heard of the death on Thursday last of Mrs. John Selves, at the home of her son, John Selves in Fullarton, aged 85 years, 9 months 20 days. The funeral was held to Roy's cemetery on Saturday. Her husband pre deceased her about 20 years. She is survived by two sons and two daughters. The late Mrs. Selves had never so it is said, been ill a day in her life, and her demise was due entirely to old age. She was an old resident of the township, having come from England in the early days.—Mrs. J. C. Balfour was taken to the hospital in London to undergo an operation for a growth in the side.—Chas. Waghorn returned Saturday from a work-prospecting trip to Brantford.—Mr J. C. Balfour has purchased the farm of his late son Wesley on N. Thames Road, Fullarton. —John Summerville has been confined to his bed with lagrippe for two weeks. The trouble is affecting his heart and his friends are alarmed over his condition.—The marriage took place at the home of her sister, Mrs. Archie Robinson, Blanshard, on March 8th, of Miss Bella, daughter of Mrs. Barr, to Mr. Kerr of the West.—John Williams of Brantford spent Sunday with his family here.—Misses Ethel and Reta Shier of St. Marys spent Sunday the guest of Miss Mabel Burk.—Mr. William Leigh's stock is to be sold in London Thursday. It is a regrettable thing that Mr. Leigh was obliged to go out of business as he was a genial, obliging fellow to all his customers.

Miss Della Brown has returned home after a visit with friends in Berlin the past week.—Mr. Conrad Kuhn went to London Tuesday to undergo an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Kuhn has had the second attack and it was thought best for him to be operated upon. His many friends hope the operation will be a success and that he will soon be able to return to his home completely cured.—Mathew Wein bought a fine team of horses from Eli King on Tuesday Our farmers are raising good stock and they find it is a good paying business.—August Kuhn of the Bank of Commerce, Dunnville, spent last Sunday here at home.—Mrs John Wind had the misfortune to fall at her home at her home one day last week, severely spraining her arm.—The revival meetings which have been held in the Methodist church for some time came to a close on Sunday evening. Quite a number were saved and much good was done by this special series of meetings.—Miss Leah Young has returned home again after visiting her parents in London for some weeks.—Council meeting was held on Monday. The cattle by-law was sustained for another year. Tenders are being asked for the erections of a steel bridge with concrete abutments and floro across the river at Fred Haist's brick yards.—Our boys went to Hensall last Friday night to play Zurich a game of Hockey. We hear our lads were badly beaten. Quite a number of our skaters are suffering from colds and attacks of the Grippe. Over zealousness in skating is blamed for this. A little more care and caution should be exercised.—Our Milliners are hard at work preparing the hats for spring trade. So far we haven't learned what the styles are like but they will be large enough, that is certain, for the poor old man.

DASHWOOD

The Young People's Society of the Lutheran church here held their annual entertainment in Zimmer's Hall Tuesday evening of last week which proved a great success and was greeted by crowded house. The young people deserve much credit for the excellent program rendered. The music was furnished by the String Orchestra of the society.—Dr. T. P. McLaughlin spent Thursday in London.—Mr. W. L. Siebert attended the millinery openings at Toronto last week.—Miss Salome Tieman left for London last Thursday, where she has secured a position as dressmaker.—Mr. Conrad Fassold of Toronto is visiting his brother Philip here, and also his brother George of of Kippen visited here over Sunday.—A bus load of Dashwood people attended the Conservative mass meeting at Exeter Friday last.—Mr. Sam. Ilse of Pigeon, Mich., visited his friends here for a few days.—Mr. Frank Preeter had two of his fingers badly cut in the turnip pulper the other day.—Mr. Duncan Snider is able to be up again, after a severe attack of appendicitis.—Lenten services will be conducted in the Lutheran church every Wednesday during Lent.

Death.—Another of our early settlers passed peacefully away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jacob Roeder, in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Restemeyer, widow of the late Ernest Restemeyer. She was born in Rummaroth, Hessen Germany, in 1830, and came to Canada in 1849 and settled in Waterloo County. In 1850 she married her late husband and came to Hay Township, where she settled on a farm 2 1-2 miles north of Dashwood, where they lived until the death of her husband eleven years ago. She was an affectionate mother and was one of the first members who organized the Lutheran church of which she was a valued member until her death. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. T. Thun. She leaves to mourn her death two sons,—Louis of the 14th Concession of Hay, and Ernest of Cavalier, N. Dak.; and one daughter, Mrs. Jacob Roeder of Dashwood, and 25 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Death.—Another sad death occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kellerman Sunday evening, when their eldest son, Leonard, passed away, after a short illness of typhoid fever. The funeral took place on Tuesday and was largely attended. The services were conducted by the Rev. L. K. Eidt. He will be much missed in his home and amongst his comrades, as he was a favorite with all who knew him. Deceased was 17 years of age and leaves his sorrowing father and mother, two sisters and two brothers. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the whole community in this their sad hour of trial.

FREE ENTRANCE TO CANADA

FOLLOWING IS THIRD OF A SERIES OF ARTICLES ON RECIPROCITY RE-PUBLISHED FROM THE CANADIAN CENTURY MAGAZINE OF MONTREAL.

CORN AND TOBACCO

From the Canadian Century.

It will be remembered that at one time quite an extensive area of South-western Ontario was devoted to growing corn. The duty on corn coming into Canada from the United States was removed and the Canadian market was immediately so flooded with importations of corn from the United States that corn growing had to be almost completely abandoned by Canadian farmers. About the same time additional protection was given to Canadian tobacco growers, and the result was that tobacco crops took the place of corn crops in that part of Ontario formerly most noted for corn.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH MAINE

The farmers of the State of Maine have all the advantages that reciprocity could bring to the Maritime Provinces of Canada and none of the disadvantages. They have free access to the much-talked-of "market of ninety millions," and cannot be shut out of it suddenly by a vote of Congress, as Canadian farmers might be at any time under the Reciprocity Agreement. They are nearer to the markets of Boston and New York than any part of the Maritime Provinces, and yet the farmers of Maine are no more prosperous than those of New Brunswick, Novia Scotia and Prince Edward Island. They have no dreams about the value of the "market of ninety million people." They know that the cost of railway haul shuts them off from most of the markets of the United States, although there is no tariff to keep them out. The percentage of increase in population is less in Maind than in the Maritime Provinces.

There are said to be many thousands of acres of abandoned farms in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Many of these farms were occupied for generations, but the young people moved to the cities or to the Western States and the old folks died.

THE PRICE OF HOGS

Canadian farmers may as well make up their minds to give up the business of raising hogs if the Reciprocity Agreement is adopted. The average price of hogs in Chicago and Montreal for the five years ending December 31, 1910, was as follows:

Year	Chicago	Montreal
1906	$6.20	$7.77
1907	6.10	7.48
1908	5.70	7.10
1909	7.85	8.64
1910	8.90	9.60

In October, 1907, live hogs sold in Chicago as low as $3.80 per cwt. against $6.65 per cwt. at the same time in Montreal.

During the same period prices of hogs have averaged lower in Buffalo than in Toronto. Occasionally the price goes higher in Buffalo, but commonly it is lower.

The farmer of the Southwestern States has a longer season than the Canadian farmer. He not only has cheap corn, but he is able to grow several crops of alfalfa, and this enables him to produce hogs very cheaply.

The Canadian packing houses expect to be crowded out of business by the importations of hog products from the big Chicago packing houses, so that the Canadian hog raiser will have no home market.

THERE IS NO WINTER THERE

In the severe Canadian sense there is no winter in Australia, New Zealand and the Argentine Republic. Cattle can live outdoors throughout the year, so the farmers of these countries do not have the expense of winter shelter and winter feeding. They are consequently able to produce butter, cheese, eggs and meats much more cheaply than Canadian farmers can. No part of New Zealand is far from the ocean, and, while Australia has a vast interior and the farms of Australia are all near the sea coast, so that the railway haul to ocean parts is not great. In spite of the fact that they are very much farther from the British market than Canada is, immense quantities of food from those countries are sold in the United Kingdom. Now the Canadian market is to be freely opened to them as a result of the Reciprocity Compact and we get nothing in return.

SHARON

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Shapton and daughter, Amy, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Shapton spent Friday last with Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Kestle.—Mr. Aaron Brokenshire, who has been ill at his home the past week, was able to return to his studies at Exeter High school on Monday.—We are pleased to state that Mr. Albert Brown is able to be out again after his recent illness.—Mr. Bert Kestle and Mr Elgin Amy spent Sunday with Mr and Mrs. Ed. Kestle of Usborne.—Mr. Moses Amy has disposed of his farm of 75 acres to Mr. Harry Martene for the sum of $5,100. Mr. Martene takes possession on Nov. 1st next.—Miss Minnie Kestle of Exeter is spending a few weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. Jane Kestle.—Mr. Leonard Schroeder of Exeter spent Sunday with his parents here.—Mr. Wm. Ressler of Crediton and Mr. Joseph Wilds of the Goshen Line spent Sunday at the home of Albert Brown.

WHALEN

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Squire are visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Arthur Baker at Lion's Head.—Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Millson visited friends at London this week.—Mrs. B. Butler of Norval, near Toronto, visited with her sister, Mrs. J. Wright and other friends the forepart of this week. —There are a number of cases of grippe and some are seriously ill. Mr. James Brien at the time of writing is some better although very low with pneumonia.

Obituary—The subject of this notice, whose maiden name was Sarah Amelia Hartnoll, was born in Usborne in January, 1854. While young she moved with her parents onto the farm now owned by Jabez Millson here. When 20 years of age she was united in marriage to Thomas Gunning, son of Wm. Gunning. To this union were born four children, three of whom are left to mourn her loss, but while the family were quite young the husband and father was called away, just 30 years ago last January. For a number of years the mother and children toiled along together, and about 18 years ago she was again united in marriage to David Johnston of Con. 8, Blanshard, where she spent the remainder of her years. In July last she was taken ill and an operation being deemed necessary she was taken to the London hospital. For a time she improved but the sickness returned and she gradually grew worse until on Tuesday Feb. 28, she was released from her long suffering, and was taken home to be forever with the Lord. She was always a cheerful and faithful wife and mother. To know her was to esteem her and her demise came as a sad blow to the community. Besides a number of sorrowing relatives she leaves to mourn her death a sorrowing husband and three children, Nelson Gunning of Rossland, B.C., Meada now Mrs. Wm Baker of Lion's Head, and Matilda, now Mrs. Geo. Hern of Blanshard. The funeral was held on Mar. 2, from her late residence. It was conducted by Rev. Avery of Granton and a large concourse of sorrowing friends and neighbors followed her remains to Zion cemetery, where she was laid to reside her first husband. The family has the sincere sympathy of the community in their hour of bereacement.

We hope she may be able to attend again soon.—Mrs. Fred Elson and Family are at present visiting Mr and Mrs. James Kenny before their departure to the west.

GRAND BEND.

Mr. Wm. Dewey arrived home last week from Amherstburg.—Mr. Cyrus Green spent last week in Port Huron on business. Messrs. Tieman and Edighoffer's sale ended Wednesday night.—The Township assessor made his round here Tuesday.—Walter Statton, William Oliver and John Baird held wood bees Thursday.—Mr. H. Bossenberry gave a dance to some of his friends Tuesday evening.—Ed. Gill's son is sick with bronchitis.—Mr. Wm. Buchanan, who has been sick with an abscess, is improving.—Miss Myrtle Cook arrived on Sunday and is at present with Mr. Amos.—R. Ravelle is smiling over the arrival of a boy on the 4th.

Death.—The angel of death visited the home of Leo Disjardine Saturday and took away his little son Howard at the age of 7 mos., 21 days. The little one was sick with pneumonia for about a week. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Carriere on Monday.

FARQUHAR.

Mr. Chas. Monteith, who has been confined to the house for two weeks with a swelling about the throat and face, is able to be out again.—Mr. Sylvanus Cann, son of Mr. Thos. Cann, who has been in British Columbia and Washington for the past four years, is home for a visit, and intends returning in the spring.—Mr. Henry Passmore fell on the ice and sprained his arm last week.

MOUNT CARMEL.

We are pleased to note that among the successful candidates at the recent music examinations held at the London Conservatory, little Miss Winnifred Guinan, 8 years of age, passed her primary examination, obtaining 94 marks out of a possible 100.

"AN EXPENSIVE RESORT"

Hot spring is a noted place for the cure of blood disease. However, it costs "money," and lots of it to take a course of treatment there. It also takes time. Very few people can get away from their work for three to twelve months. The point we want to make is this—it takes time to cure an old case of blood trouble.

If you haven't the time and money to go to Hot Springs, we recommend you to take Nyal's Blood Purifier.

It is a combination of standard remedies, that is guaranteed free from harmful ingredients.

We do not claim it to be a specific there is no one remedy that will cure all cases, but we do claim it to be the nearest true specific for all skin and blood diseases we ever sold. Price one dollar.

Most Canadians Have Catarrh

Our Changeable Climate is Responsible.

Where the atmosphere is damp, with sudden changes in temperature, almost everybody has Catarrh, in some form or other. The ordinary cold in the head inflames and weakens the membranes lining the nose and throat, and starts a discharge. The next cold is more easily caught, and soon the patient is never quite free of it.

As Catarrh develops the discharge increases—drops into the throat, especially at night—and takes on an offensive odor. Besides being exceedingly disagreeable, there is great danger of the disease extending to the lungs, stomach, or bowels.

Though it is very difficult to cure, Father Morriscy devised a combined internal and external treatment that has cured thousands. The Tablets tone up and invigorate the system, and assist Nature in throwing off the disease, while the salve, applied up the nostrils, clears out the discharge and heals the membranes. Combined treatment 50c at your dealer's, or from Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

FREE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERING FROM WOMEN'S AILMENTS.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.

I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from women's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—yes, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhœa or Whitish discharge, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete 10 days treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer, if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhœa, Green Sickness, and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Plumpness and health always result from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten days' treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address:

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been inflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago—I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish. W. H. S.

We treat NERVOUS DEBILITY, VARICOSE VEINS, VITAL WEAKNESS, BLOOD, SKIN and SECRET Diseases, URINARY, BLADDER and KIDNEY complaints of Men and Women.

8 KILLED AND 7 INJURED

Natural Gas Explosion Dashed Several Workmen to Death.

A despatch from Niagara Falls, Ont., says: Without warning, and with a roar that could be heard for miles, a terrific explosion wrecked a penstock at the power-house of the Ontario Power Company, Queen Victoria Park, on Friday morning, killing three men instantly and seriously wounding seven others. Dead: David Henderson, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; William Orchard, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Charles M'Gonigle, Tonawanda, N. Y. Injured: Henry Byron, Merriton, crushed about the head and face, probably internally injured; Lewis Fluellin, this city, minor bruises about the body, severely scratched face; John Otto, Niagara Falls, N. Y., badly bruised face and body; Robert Moran, this city, left side and face bruised; Peter McKinnon, head and shoulders bruised; James Nelson, Buffalo, left arm and side injured, face badly bruised; George Garvey, this city, severely injured and thought to be internally hurt.

General Superintendent Hugh H. Wilson stated that the loss aside from the fatalities would be trifling, possibly not exceeding $5,000. He said that so far as could be ascertained at the present time, the explosion was due to a leaking gas pipe. There is a small gas line within the penstock for heating purposes and it is thought that gas escaping from the pipe produced the fatal combustion.

FROM THE LAKES TO THE SEA

United States Government Proposes a Big Scheme.

A despatch from Washington says: The Taft Administration sprang a large surprise on Friday in connection with Canadian relations by proposing co-operation with Canada for the construction of a deep waterway from the great lakes to the Atlantic Ocean via the St. Lawrence, thus making ocean ports of lake cities in both countries, and reducing freight rates to the great advantage of the people of the interior. The proposal came in the form of a resolution introduced in the House of Representatives early on Friday forenoon by Senator-elect Townsend of Michigan, following a long conference with President Taft on Thursday night.

The resolution for the first time makes public that it is the desire of the Administration to open the great lakes to ships of the largest size. It is drawn in such terms, apparently, as to seek to enlist the support of Congress before this important step is negotiated by the executive end of the Government.

FOUND MURDERED IN ROAD.

Commercial Traveler Meets Terrible Fate in Nicolet County.

A despatch from Quebec says: Maurice Plouafe, a commercial traveler, was found on Friday night murdered in the roadway between St. Celestin and St. Leonard, in Nicolet County. His head was split open, his throat cut, and there was a knife stab in the region of the heart.

LATER.

A despatch from St. Leonard de Nicolet, Que., says: Hormidas Trepanier, a farmer, forty-five years of age, of St. Leonard de Nicolet, was arrested at his home on Sunday by Chief McCaskell of the Provincial Police for the murder of Maurice Plouffe. On Sunday night Chief McCaskell stated that Trepanier had confessed he had killed Plouffe by stabbing him and crushing his head with an axe. The body was found on the main road by George Lord, a storekeeper of St. Leonard de Nicolet, who was returning from a business trip to Three Rivers.

CUT DOWN AT CROSSING.

Kingston Domestic Killed While Walking Along Tracks.

A despatch from Kingston says: Miss Emma Walker, a domestic, who had worked here for some time, met an awful death at the Sydenham crossing on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, four miles from the city, on Saturday afternoon. She was struck by a train while walking on the tracks and cut into pieces. The remains were brought to the city on a special car which was sent to the scene with the coroner.

Hon. G. P. Graham says there are no negotiations for the sale or lease of the Intercolonial Railway.

DEATH OF BRITISH ADMIRAL

Admiral Sir Assheton Gore Curzon-Howe Was Stricken With Paralysis

A despatch from Portsmouth, says: Admiral Sir Assheton Gore Curzon-Howe, commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, was stricken with paralysis on Wednesday morning and died the same evening. He was the second in command of the squadron which visited Quebec at the time of the Tercentenary, to escort King George, then Prince of Wales.

Admiral Curzon-Howe succeeded Admiral Sir Arthur Fanshawe as commander-in-chief at Portsmouth in March, 1910, the latter being promoted to the rank of admiral of the fleet. He had served in the navy 48 years, and during that period commanded many of the best known ships and saw a great variety of active service. He received the thanks of the Royal Humane Society in 1868, and was twice mentioned in despatches in 1891. He was commodore in charge of the Newfoundland fisheries in 1893-96. He was second in command of the Channel fleet, 1902-03; commander, China, 1903-05; Channel fleet, 1905-07; Atlantic fleet, 1907-08; commander-in-chief, Mediterranean fleet, 1908-10.

BULL SALE AT GUELPH.

A Fair Success, but Prices Were Lower Than Last Year.

A despatch from Guelph says: The annual pure bred shorthorn bull sale of the Guelph Fat Stock Club, held in the Winter Fair building, on Thursday, proved very successful. The total amount of money that changed hands was $2,917. The average price paid was $72.90 per head, and the highest price realized was $150, which was paid by H. A. Cormick of Arthur for Benalder, a handsome animal, contributed to the sale by A. F. and G. Auld of Eden Mills. The average price was not so high as that of last year's sale, when it was about $81. Prominent stockmen agreed that the quality of the animals did not average up quite so high as at last year's sale.

A despatch from Calcutta says: An attempt of a Bengali youth to assassinate with a bomb a British official, on Thursday, who was in an automobile, was frustrated by the official chancing to see the bomb thrown, which enabled him to catch it in his hands. The bomb was spherical and three inches in diameter. The incident seemed to onlookers as if the lad had thrown a ball to another player. The thrower was arrested.

30,000 DEATHS.

Famine and Plague Still Sweeping Over China.

A despatch from Pekin says: Famine and the plague are sweeping over China. The known deaths from the plague number 30,000, and, according to the official statistics, the death rate averages 200 daily. Dr. Samuel Cochran, an American, who is engaged in the work of relief, writes: "One million people will die before the first crop is harvested. This will be scanty, because the people have not the strength to till the soil, and no animals remain for plowing."

SITUATION IS DESPERATE

Thousands of Chinese Are Dying of Starvation---Bark and Weeds the Only Food

A despatch from Washington, says: To meet the pressing needs of the starving people of China, American Consul-General Wilder at Shanghai, on Wednesday cabled to the Secretary of State an urgent appeal to the people of the United States for the contribution of $100,000 more to be sent by cable to the stricken people. Mr. Wilder makes it plain that that amount will be needed before the army transport Buford, now loading at Seattle, can possibly arrive in China with its supplies. The situation, Mr. Wilder adds, is desperate. While some relief has been given to the suffering multitudes, thousands are dying of starvation. Barks and weeds, the Consul-General says, provide the only food for thousands of others.

The Red Cross, on Wednesday, cables $1,000 to Mr. Wilder, making a total of $23,000 which the Red Cross has disbursed for the relief of the sufferers, $16,000 having been cabled directly to the stricken districts and $7,000 having been spent for supplies.

INSANE PATIENTS ARE CURED

Dr. Robertson, of the Royal Edinburgh Asylum, Gives Wonderful Results

A despatch from London says: Dr. George Robertson, Superintendent of the Royal Edinburgh Asylum for the Insane, in a report published in The Scotsman of the marvellous cures of the insane, instances two cases. The first was of a woman who was a sufferer from myxoe dema. She became childish, heard imaginary voices and had strange delusions. A tablet prepared from the thyroid gland of a sheep was given to her. She was transformed from a misshapen, stupid object to a bright, intelligent woman. The second case was that of a woman whose affliction was due to excess of secretion of thyroid in the blood. She was treated with serum from a goat, the thyroid gland of which had been removed. She rapidly recovered.

Dr. Robertson says those unbalanced by politics usually recover. He states that the cures effected to-day would have been considered miracles twenty years ago.

NEW ONTARIO LOAN.

Five and a Half Million Dollars to be Floated.

A despatch from Toronto says: Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, announced on Thursday afternoon that a provincial loan of $5,500,000 is to be floated. Of this, $2,500,000 is for Hydro-Electric transmission lines, two million of it to carry the line to Windsor. Three million is to be spent on the T. & N. O. railway, $600,000 to extend the line to Porcupine, and $55,000 to carry the line south to meet the Grand Trunk at Calendar.

DIED OF BROKEN HEART.

Man Falls Dead After Attending His Son's Funeral.

A despatch from Montreal says: Died of a broken heart, was the verdict in the case of Ed. Bergevin, who fell dead in his house on Thursday morning. He had attended the funeral of his only son, and was much cut up about it. He entered his home, took off his overcoat, and pitched forward dead.

RIOT AT SPRINGHILL MINES

Strikers Stone Houses of Men Who Returned to Work

A despatch from Springhill, N.S., says: The troops stationed here on account of the strike by coal miners have at last found something serious to do. They were called out on Thursday to suppress a fierce riot. The trouble began by the stoning of the houses of the strikers who have returned to work during the past few days. The stoning continued for some time, becoming very much worse, until the crowd numbered several hundreds, and the disorder was tremendous. Manager Sharp and other officials did what they could to protect the company's property, and to preserve the rights of the men who were being assaulted. In the melee Mr. Sharp was somewhat badly cut about the head. The town police took a hand, and the arrests they made, strange to say, were of those who had been trying to preserve peace, while the men who caused the riot were unmolested.

The troops were then called out, and quiet was restored.

RHEUMATISM CURED TO STAY CURED

Liniments of no Avail—The Trouble Must be Treated Through the Blood.

This article is intended as a talk to the man or woman with rheumatism who wants to be cured. Not merely relieved, not half cured, but actually cured. The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the swollen aching joints is a little relief. And all the while the trouble is becoming more firmly seated. Medical authorities now know that rheumatism is rooted in the blood ,and that while rubbing on liniments or hot fomentations may give temporary relief, they cannot possibly cure—you must go to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism. They make new, rich blood, which expels the poisonous acid, and the rheumatism disappears. There are thousands of former rheumatic sufferers in Canada, now well and strong, who thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that they are now free from the aches and pains and tortures of this dreaded trouble. Mr. Joseph Luddington, New Harbor, N. S., says: "Some three years ago my wife was stricken with rheumatism, and suffered so much that we dispaired of her ever getting well again. At first she was able to go about, but in spite of all we did for her she grew so bad that we had to lift her in and out of bed, and finally the pains grew so excruciating that we could only move her little by little, with the sheet under her. Finally we were induced to get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her. I do not remember just how many boxes she took, but I do know that they were the first medicine that reached the disease, and that she continued to improve until she was again as well as ever, and could do her household work. To us it is simply marvellous what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did for her, and we are glad to give this testimonial in the hope that it will benefit some other poor sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PATTERING RAINDROPS.

Varying Sound Effects on Umbrellas of Different Fabrics.

"The patter of the raindrops on the roof, as the poet puts it," said Mr. MacGlinckinton, "has one sound on a shingle roof, another on a tin roof and quite another still on a roof of corrugated iron; and there's as much variety in the sound of raindrops falling on umbrellas.

"You raise a cotton umbrella, for instance, and the rain falling on it has no resonance. On a cotton umbrella, the fabric thick and soft and comparatively loosely woven, the raindrops fall with a soft, almost noiseless sort of dull thud; the rain and the sound are absorbed in the spongier fabric. No liveliness in the patter of raindrops on a cotton umbrella.

"But now you take what they call a union umbrella, made of a cloth part cotton and part silk, or part linen and part silk. Here we do get a patter of raindrops; the fabric is closely woven enough and tightly enough stretched to give some resonance. It is a distant patter that we get when the raindrops strike a union umbrella; but on umbrellas we get the full effect of pattering raindrops on silk umbrellas only.

"The silk umbrella is made of a fine fabric, closely and uniformly woven and as tightly stretched between its ribs as a drumhead. It is on the silk umbrella only that we get the full effect of pattering raindrops, sharp, ringing and resonant. If romantically inclined, we have no place where we can go to listen to the patter of the raindrops on the roof, we can get somewhere near to that effect by walking abroad in the rain carrying a silk umbrella."

"How bright and happy May looks since her engagement." "Yes; a match usually lights up a girl's face."

"Why, Willie, you don't seem to be enjoying yourself." "No uncle, I'm having a miserable time. Auntie told me to eat as much as I wanted—and I can't!"

Max—"Jones is the most wide-awake man I know." Dax—"You surprise me. I never heard of his being especially enterprising." Max—"Oh, it isn't enterprise that makes him so; it's insomnia."

LOVERS CONVEY MICROBES.

The Austrian Police Stop Romantic Courtship.

A custom of country courtship dating from the immortal past has been interfered with by the police in Upper Austria in their efforts to suppress the foot-and-mouth disease which is affecting animals in that province. The microbes are, it is said, distributed by human agency.

Infected areas have been carefully shut off, but in spite of all precautions the disease is spreading rapidly. It has now occurred to the authorities that the ancient courting custom known as "Fensterin" may be responsible for the extension of the disease from one farm to another. "Fensterin" is a species of serenading indulged in by the young peasants. After the day's toil, the young man dresses in his best clothes and with great secrecy slips away from his home to the farm where the girl of his affections lives. Then, standing beneath her bedroom window, he sings old folk-tunes.

If the girl is favorably inclined to him, she appears at the window and allows the swain to kiss her hand. The police say that no other communication with the infected farms can have taken place, and have consequently forbidden "Fensterin." Disregrd of the regulation will involve fines and imprisonment.

TUNING A BELL.

Thin Bits Are Shaved From Various Parts of the Metal.

"What a beautiful tone that bell has!" is often heard. There are few, however, says The Scientific American, who know how a bell receives its joyful or solemn tones. All bells, after they are cast and finished must go through a process of tuning the same as any other musical instrument before they respond with a clear, true tone. Every bell sounds five notes, which must blend together in order to produce perfect harmony. The tuning of a bell is done by means of shaving thin bits from various parts of the metal. It is as easy for an expert tuner to put a bell in tune as it is for a piano tuner to adjust his instrument to perfect chords. At first thought it would seem that a bell would be ruined should the tuner shave off too much at the last tuning, or the fifth sound, but such is not the case. He would, however, be obliged to begin over, starting again with the first tone and shaving again till it gave forth its harmonious sound at the fifth tone.

BOWEL TROUBLE MAKES SICKLY BABIES

Bowel trouble is the cause of most of the ailments from which little ones suffer. When baby's bowels are not working regularly illness is sure to appear, but when the bowels are regular the little one is usually bright, active and happy. No other medicine for babies has such good effect on the bowels as has Baby's Own Tablets. They make their action regular, sweeten the stomach and promote good health. Concerning them Mrs. Freeman Feener, of Barry's Corner, N. S., writes: "I can heartily recommend Baby's Own Tablets for all the troubles from which little ones suffer. My baby girl was troubled with her bowels and was so small and puny I thought we would lose her. I saw Baby's Own Tablets advertised and began giving them to her and now she is a big, healthy happy baby. For this I thank the Tablets, and I always keep them in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GERMAN BUREAUCRACY.

A good story is going the rounds of the French newspapers illustrating the beauties of bureaucratic government in Germany, says the London Globe. We are told that in the Post Office Department, if a clerk wishes a new pencil, he has to hand in the stump of the one that has become too short to work with. In the particular instance cited a clerk received his new pencil without returning the end. Before the omission was discovered the clerk was transferred to another office. Just after he had commenced his duties at his new post he received an official intimation that he had neglected to hand in his pencil end. By this time it had disappeared, but to prevent bother the clerk purchased a new pencil, cut off a piece about the length of the missing bit, and despatched it to the stationery department.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN SHOULD KNOW

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS THE SURE CURE FOR ALL ACHES AND PAINS.

Mrs. Vaillancourt adds her experience to the great mass of proof that Dodd's Kidney Pills are woman's best friend.

Lafond, Alberta, Feby. 6 (Special).—That the women of the West are finding in Dodd's Kidney Pills a sure relief from those aches and pains that only women know is becoming more evident every day, and Mrs. Agnes Vaillancourt of this place gladly gives her experience as an addition to the mass of proof that is being piled up.

"For three years I suffered intensely with Kidney Disease," Mrs. Vaillancourt states. "I had pain everywhere. I only used six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I am completely cured of all my aches and pains. I am in perfect health to-day."

Woman's health depends on her Kidneys. If they are not in perfect order the impurities are not strained out of her blood and she cannot be healthy. She feels it in every part of her body and the result is that she is weary and worn and full of aches and pains. What every woman should know is that there is sure relief and perfect health for her if she uses Dodd's Kidney Pills.

CITY TURNED PIED PIPER.

Bubonic Plague at Bombay Largely Due to Rats.

The bubonic plague has killed 169,000 people in the last fourteen years in the city of Bombay alone, the highest mortality being 20,000 in 1903 and the lowest 5,000 during the past year. The reduction of the mortality can be traced very largely to the number of rats killed in the city, who are the industrious carriers of the disease. A half million rats were killed last year in that city alone, of which number 90,000 were examined by the bacteriologists of the health department and 9,000 of them were found to be infected with the plague. The wholesale destruction of these rodents was accomplished by the most careful municipal plan and co-operation of health and police departments, which scattered bread smeared with poison certain hours each day in all parts of the city, and furnished thousands of disinfected traps to the inhabitants, who caught tens of thousands of them.

Many patent medicines have come and gone, but Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup continues to occupy a foremost place among remedies for coughs and colds, and as a preventive of decay of the lungs. It is a standard medicine that widens its sphere of usefulness year by year. If you are in need of something to rid yourself of a cough or cold, you cannot do better than try Bickle's Syrup.

An inveterate wit and punster asked the captain of a craft loaded with boards how he managed to get dinner on the passage. "Why," replied the skipper, "we always cook aboard." "Cook a board, do you?" rejoined the wag; "then I see you have been well provided with provisions this trip, at all events."

LAWS FOR BELGIAN PAINTERS

Restrictions Regarding Liquor—Employer's Responsibilities.

Belgium has just drawn up a special code of laws governing painters and the exercise of their craft which are singularly strict and exhaustive.

From the fashion in which the new laws hedge them in with enforced precautions one would think painting the most dangerous trade in the whole catalogue. In the first place no employer of painters may employ a man who drinks alcoholic beverages to the temporary extinction of his logical power, and no intoxicating liquors are to be brought into the vicinity of the workers. Employers are responsible for the care which their men take of their persons.

They must see that every painter washes his hands before eating, suspend the men whose health is not satisfactory, and discharge any one suffering from lead poisoning. A painter may not wear the same clothes on the street or in his home which he uses in his trade. He is imperatively required to arm himself with a special suit of clothes and a screened hat.

Contractors and master painters are restricted in the use of white lead to the ground lead mixed with oil, and it is stipulated that this mixture must be so handled that it does not splash or come in contact with the painter's hands.

The law strictly forbids scraping of dry painted surfaces in which white lead has been used. This will doubtless prevent much carelessness and protect the careless painter from his own indiscretion, but it is terribly restrictive and smacks of over-legislation.

Relief for the Depressed.—Physical and mental depression usually have their origin in a disordered state of the stomach and liver, as when these organs are deranged in their action the whole system is affected. Try Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They revive the digestive processes, act beneficially on the nerves and restore the spirits as no other pills will. They are cheap, simple and sure, and the effects are lasting.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

GOBBLES EVERYTHING.

There is a shaggy little black-and-tan insect, about an eight of an inch long, that eats everything under the sun which is not disturbed every day. It has to be surprised at its work like a burglar. In most countries ivory brushes are pretty safe from insects; in Egypt this little terror eats the ivory and eats the bristles; it eats your tooth brush and eats your tooth-pick; it eats the wool with which you are going to mend your husband's socks—the cards as well as the wool; it eats the handles off your knives and forks; it rejects nothing but glass and china and metal.

A LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER'S STORY.

From the light-house at Lobster Cove Head, Bonne Gay, Newfoundland, Mrs. W. Young sends an experience of Zam-Buk, which should certainly act as a true beacon light, guiding all sufferers from skin disease to a safe harbor of refuge.

Mrs. Young says: "I suffered with eczema for seven years, and to my great delight Zam-Buk has cured me. The disease started on my breast, and spread until it extended over my back. The itching and burning—especially when the affected parts were warm—was terrible; and yet when the eruption was scratched or rubbed, it turned to bad sores, and caused great pain. I went to a doctor, and tried various prescriptions, but seemed to get no benefit, so tried another doctor. Again I got no relief, so tried a third doctor, and then a fourth. Although they all did their best for me I got no relief.

"I thought I never would be cured, when I saw a report in 'The Family Herald' telling how beneficial Zam-Buk was in cases of skin disease, so I tried it.

"Well, from the use of the very first box I saw Zam-Buk was going to do me good. It eased the irritation, stopped the pain, and the sores began to dry up and disappear. In short, I found Zam-Buk all that was claimed for it, and within a very short time it worked a complete cure."

Not only for eczema, but for ulcers, abscesses, varicose veins, bad leg, poisonedf wounds, cuts, cold sores, chapped places, piles, ringworm, children's eruptions, burns, scalds, and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk will be found unequalled. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful substitutes and imitations. Try Zam-Buk Soap, too!

A VETERAN.

Lawyer—"The cross-examination did not seem to worry you. Have you had any previous experience?"

Client—"Six children."

Unless worms be expelled from the system, no child can be healthy. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is the best medicine extant to destroy worms.

HAD A TOUGH FOOT.

A bare-footed negro wandered into a blacksmith shop in a little southern town. While watching the smith pound the iron into shape, he unconsciously stepped on a red-hot coal. After several minutes had passed, he sniffed his nose once or twice and remarked in an incidental way, "Peahs to me, sah, dat I smells rubbah burnin'."

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup
Has been used for over SIXTY-FIVE YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. HIS TRADE.

"I know a slight, unassuming fellow who can take any man's nerve away."

"Who is he?"

"The dentist."

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
Your druggist will refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

"Now," said an Irishman, after a serious accident to a fellow-miner, "we'll have to send some man to break the news to Moriarty's wife." "Send Hannigan," suggested one of the gang. "He's just the man to break the news gradual—look how he stutters."

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

Before marriage a man feels unworthy of his sweetheart, but after marriage he acts as if he had done her a great favor in leading her to the altar.

Ready-made Medicine—You need no physician for ordinary ills when you have at hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. For coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchial troubles, it is invaluable, for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains it is unsurpassed, while for cuts, sores, ulcers and the like it is an unquestionable healer. It needs no testimonial other than the use, and that will satisfy anyone as to its effectiveness.

TOO FRESH.

"Will you promise to support my daughter in the style to which she is accustomed if I consent to your marriage?" demanded old Skinflint, when Dobby made his formal proposal.

"Well, I—I'll promise to be tolerably close with her, Mr. Skinflint," said Dobby; "but, you know, I'm a soft-hearted cuss, and I'm afraid she'll be able to wheedle a few things out of me that you were strong enough to refuse her."

PAINT WITHOUT OIL
A prominent manufacturer has discovered a process of making a new kind of paint without the use of oil. He calls it POWDR PAINT. It is a dry powder, and all that is required is cold water to make a paint waterproof, fireproof and durable as oil paint. It adheres to any surface, wood, stone or brick, spreads and looks like oil paint, and costs about one-fourth as much. Full information and catalogue mailed on request to SAVED IN HIS OLD AGE.

Annapolis, N.S., May 14, 1909.—I am over eighty years of age and have suffered from Kidney and Bladder Trouble for fifteen years. I took doctor's medicine but got no help. I want to thank you for sending me the sample box of Gin Pills which helped me.
I have taken six boxes of Gin Pills altogether, but got relief before I had taken near that amount. I had to get up some nights every fifteen minutes and had to use an instrument before I could urinate. Now I can lie in bed four or five hours without getting up.

JAMES PITMAN KILLED IN LONDON

James Pitman of Simcoe St. East London, formerly of Clandeboye, was struck by a street car in that city on on Saturday night last, from the effects of which he died in Victoria Hospital on Sunday morning. Motorman J. Seneca in charge of the car, was slowly turning his car into the barns, when the accident occurred. He noticed Pitman standing on the crossing, about three feet from the track, as though the unfortunate man had been waiting for the car to pass. Pitman was unsteady, thought the motorman, and just as the car was passing him he lurched forward and was struck by the front corner of the car. Pitman was 44 years of age, and was a finisher by trade, and had been employed in the carshops since last May. He was well-known in the hotel business, as well as having been one of the Grigg house bartenders for years and a hotelkeeper at Clandeboye as well, going from that place to London a year and half ago.

DIED IN DETROIT—It was sad news to many here to learn of the death of Miss Sadie Hawkshaw daughter of Mr. John Hawkshaw our esteemed townsman which sad event took place in Detroit on Thursday morning last, after a comparatively short illness, and following an operation for an internal ailment. Miss Hawkshaw some months ago had suffered from a severe attack of typhoid fever, but had fully recovered from the effects of the attack and was enjoying good health until a few weeks ago when she was again taken down from the effects of an internal growth. The best physicians were sought and an operation was deemed advisable, but the nature of her trouble was more serious than was expected and a short time after the operation had been performed she passed away The deceased was a native of Biddulph but left that township when quite young For many years she resided with her parents and by her kindly disposition and good qualities endeared herself to a large circle of friends who will be deeply grieved to learn of her demise. Deceased left Exeter about 18 yrs ago and has since resided in Detroit She was aged 47 years and besides her sorrowing father is survived by four sisters and one brother—Mrs. Mc Tavish, Mrs. Cryer and Miss Hettie May Hawkshaw of Detroit, Mrs. Fred McDonell of Hensall and Mr. T. W. Hawkshaw of Winnipeg, Man. Interment took place in Detroit on Saturday.

JOHN WILLIS DEAD—Word was received here on Monday afternoon of the death in Marlette, Mich., of a former old resident of Exeter in the person of Mr. John Willis, aged 70 years. Deceased has been failing for about two years, which was very noticeable to his many friends on his visit to Exeter last summer. The late Mr. Willis was born on Lot 15, Con. 1, Usborne, now a part of the village of Exeter, his parents being among the very first settlers in this neighborhood. For many years deceased farmed the land in that lot, and dealt largely in cattle. He and his family moved to Marlette about 15 years ago, since which time they have resided there. He is survived by two brothers, Thomas of Exeter, and Robert of Marlette, his wife, who was formerly Mrs. Paterson, one son, Fred and one daughter Miss Violet, of Marlette. While residing here the late Mr. Willis was one of the best known men of the district, highly respected, straightforward in all his dealings, and his demise will be regretted by his old friends here, who will extend sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

VEGETABLES.

Peas in Cream.—One can of peas, rinse well, cover with boiling water, salt, and cook five or ten minutes. In another saucepan melt two ounces of butter, thicken evenly with a little flour. Shake over fire, but do not brown; add one-half cupful of cream, one tablespoonful of sugar, and bring to a boil. Drain the peas well and pour into this mixture stirring them well in. Keep moving over fire for a few minutes until well heated. Serve at once.

Baked Peppers.—Take green peppers and cut off the top and remove the inside. Chop up cold boiled beef, cold boiled potatoes, and onion. Season with salt and pepper and add enough gravy to moisten. Use butter if you have no gravy. Fill the pepper with this and put the top back on with toothpicks. Bake in oven about ten or fifteen minutes.

Tomato Spaghetti.—One can tomatoes, three small onions, four bay leaves, one stick celery, one cup chicken broth and minced breast cooked to a mush and strained. Season to taste with salt and add one saltspoonful curry powder, one-half saltspoonful ground cinnamon and allspice, a dash of cloves and red pepper; also the minced chicken. Add enough water to the remaining chicken broth to make about three pints; boil and add one pound of Italian spaghetti (this should be no larger than the lead in a pencil. Cook twenty minutes. Remove from the fire and cover closely to steam while you grate one-quarter pound dry cheese. Serve the spaghetti on a large platter, each guest using the sauce and cheese to taste.

Hot Slaw.—Take a solid head of cabbage, cut fine same as you would for cold slaw. To this add one pint water, teaspoon salt, and tablespoon of lard; stew slowly for one hour, after which add a dressing made of one egg beaten with three tablespoons of sugar, one of flour, pinch of salt, and half cup of vinegar. Should the vinegar be strong use some water. Try this.

Potato Doughnuts.—Three large potatoes, boil and mash with a lump of butter size of an egg, beat until smooth three eggs beaten separately, one and one-half cupfuls sugar, pinch of salt, nutmeg to taste, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, three cupfuls flour; stir in, then add enough more to roll out. Fry in deep lard, smoking hot, drain on paper; then roll in sugar. These doughnuts are exceptionally light, do not absorb the grease, and are easily digested.

Rice Potato Cakes.—One cupful of boiled rice, stiff and cold; one cupful of cold mashed potatoes; one egg; one-third cupful of flour; one level teaspoonful baking powder; salt to taste. Drop from spoon on griddle as and treat like pancakes. If batter is stiff as possible the cakes will be delicious.

CAKE.

Silver Loaf Cake.—One and one-fourth cups granulated sugar, one-half cup butter, four egg whites, one cup milk, two and one-half cup flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Method—Cream butter and sugar until it as smooth and white as ice cream, sift flour ten times and after siftening seven times measure two and one-half cupfuls, add soda and sift. Beat whites to a stiff froth, add cream of tartar before beating, add milk and flour, alternating and stirring well each time, and lastly add whites of eggs. Cut and fold them well. Put in loaf or layer tins buttered well and before putting in oven take and pound well to burst in bubbles and put in cool oven and heat up your oven gradually and you will have a fine cake and may use any filling you like. Out of the four yolks make another cake, using the same ingredients and same method, and you will have two fine, good tasting cakes.

Cream Cake.—Three eggs to be beaten separately. Add one scant cup of sugar, one cup of flour, one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder, and one tablespoonful of water. Cream filling—Two cupfuls of milk, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, one egg with a little speck of salt, one-half cupful of sugar. Boil in double boiler until thick. Each layer to be split and filling put in between while hot.

Walnut Loaf Cake.—Cream together one cupful granulated sugar, one-half cupful butter, and yolks of two eggs, one-half cupful milk, one and one-half cupfuls flour, two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix above and add one cupful of chopped walnuts and last add the two whites stiffly beaten. Frost with any white frosting and sprinkle chopped nuts over top.

FISH.

Salt in Fish.—A glass of vinegar put into the water in which salt fish is soaking will draw out most of the salt.

Filled Fish.—This is the original "gifilty fish" that is so popular to all that have ever tasted it. A combination of two or three kinds of fish is always best, as pike and trout, of buffalo and trout, or white fish. For about four pounds of fish take two good size onions, half teaspoon white pepper, level teaspoon salt, two eggs, tablespoonful of breaed crumbs and a pinch of sugar. Clean and wash the fish, cut slices 1 1-2 inches thick, salt over night, or an hour or two before chopping, put on ice. Cut out all the meat, put in chopping bowl, add onions, salt, pepper, add about half glassful of water a few drops at a time while chopping. When nearly done add the eggs and bread crumbs. Have pan ready (a real heavy bottom pan is best) cut up two onions and put the head and other bones or skins of the fish that you may have left over at the bottom of pan, fill up the empty skins with the chopped fish, and put it carefully in the pan. If there is any chopped fish left make balls; it will be just as good as the filled skins. Now pour in very carefully so as not to break the balls, enough water to cover the fish, put cover on and boil for three hours, adding more water as it boils down. Great care must be taken that it does not burn. More salt and pepper may be added, for it takes lots of salt and pepper to make it good. Remove the cover about fifteen minutes before removing from the fire, let it boil done to one pint of soup. Serve hot or cold with horseradish.

CARE OF RUGS.

In selecting rugs from a sanitary standpoint the best rugs are those which are closely woven, as the dust is then retained on the surface and can easily be brushed off. It is much better for a rug to be cleaned often, not alone for sanitary reasons but because with frequent cleanings the rug becomes richer and more glossy.

Small rugs are better cleaned at home than sent to the professional carpet cleaner, who does not understand the different treatment required by an oriental rug from a domestic and follows his usual custom of taking one end of the rug to a revolving wheel, which tears and whips it to pieces. Take small rugs to the roof or grass plot and beat with a light whip or rug beater on the surface, but never on the back, which tends to break the warp and woof, thus destroying the fabric. After beating the face, which brings the dust to the surface, brush off with a broom or snow, sweeping with the nap, not against it. If a rug becomes badly soiled wash it. Do not allow large rugs to be cleaned on the floor. While the widely advertised process of cleaning without the necessity of taking rugs up gives the surface of the rug a fresh, bright look, it is sure to rot the fabric. The dirty water, soaking through the carpet, has no way of escaping, and leaves a strata of mud between the warp, which soon or late weakens the threads. If beaten at home it may afterward be spread upon the floor and spoiled spots washed out with a solution of soap bark or borax and water, allowing an ounce of the bark to a gallon of water. If this is done carefully and then the surface wiped off dry with a cloth wrung out of fresh water, the rugs will emerge clean, lustrous, and in no wise injured. Some, in summer, think it a saving of their rugs to turn them upside down, walking on the back. This is a great mistake. Wear on the surface of a rug makes it all the more silky, but on the reverse tends to break and injure it.

If there should be any signs of moths in the winter, hang them in the frosty air for a few nights. In the summer use constantly. It is better for them than packing them away. Many going to their summer homes take their rugs with them for use in the house or lawn. In packing for shipment simply bale and wrap in burlaps. If leaving home for some time, beat well, then roll in tar paper or newspapers, leaving no opening for the entrance of moths.

LITTLE HELPS.

Easy to clean wallpaper. Saturate a Turkish towel or piece of canton flannel with gasoline and rub lightly over the paper. Cleans more evenly than stale bread and is not half the trouble and removes all the dust and dirt.

Humane Hint.—After using canned fish of any kind be sure to bend the cover into place again before throwing away. Cats have often been badly hurt by forcing their heads into empty cans in search of a morsel of fish.

Laundry Hint.—Readers who want their collars, collarettes, cream lace, etc., to keep the delicate cream they have when purchased will be glad to learn how it is done. After careful washing and rinsing have ready the following. Beat an egg to a froth, add one quart or less of cold water, according to tint required. Place all laces, etc., in this and move gently through the egg water several times. Then squeeze gently and hang in the shade to dry. When about half dry put them between two cloths and iron. No starching is needed. If above directions are followed you will be pleased with the result. Laces will have that soft creamy tint they had when first bought. This was the secret of doing lace given by an old pillow lace worker who used it for doing creamy tinted pillow lace.

MAN'S KINSHIP WITH APES

SHOWN BY THE MOST DELICATE KNOWN BLOOD TEST.

Based on the Chemical Character of the Albumen Dissolved in Blood Serum.

Dr. Willcox, official analyst to the British Home Office, at a magisterial inquiry into a charge of murder a few days ago gave a piece of evidence that had never before been given in England. He testified that certain blood stains on the collar of the accused man were caused by human blood and that this fact had been proved by the serological test.

This serological test is the last word of science on the subject of discriminating between different kinds of blood stains. Its wonderful delicacy will be understood when it is stated that the flesh of Egyptian mummies responds readily to it. A special serological laboratory has been fitted up recently in the buildings of the Royal Society of Public Health in London, and here special demonstration was given by Dr. Rajchman of the way in which this test is carried out.

Hitherto all the methods of discriminating between different kinds of blood have been based on color or on the appearance of the blood corpuscles under the microscope. The new test is based on the chemical character of the albumen dissolved in

THE BLOOD SERUM.

Dr. Rajchman took a sample of linen which was marked with a dark red stain. He placed it in a watch glass and covered it with dilute salt solution, which he explained would slowly dissolve out any albumen which the stain might contain and at the same time would remove any blood corpuscles which might be present. A momentary examination by the microscope revealed the presence of the corpuscles, which proved to be blood of some kind.

While the clot was dissolving in the salt solution he showed six test tubes, each of which contained what he called antiserum. Each had been prepared by injecting the blood of some animal into a rabbit. The different kinds of blood with which different sets of rabbits had been treated were those of a man, a horse, a pig and an ox.

After a certain number of injections the rabbit's blood was found to contain a substance known as precipitin. A drop of blood taken from the ear of a rabbit containing the precipitin caused by human blood has a curious effect on the albumen dissolved out by the salt from

A HUMAN BLOOD CLOT.

The test was shown by placing a few drops, one-tenth of a cubic centimeter, of the saline solution in a very small test tube and allowing a drop of the anti-serum to fall into it. Being rather heavy, the drop settled at the bottom of the tube, and at the point of contact between the two liquids a ring of filmy opalescence was formed when the human antiserum was used. When any of the others was dropped in the liquid remained perfectly clear and transparent.

In another experiment some horseflesh was treated with the salt water and the solution so made tested in the same way. Here the horse antiserum gave the telltale ring of opalescence and all the others remained clear, showing definitely to what kind of animal the original flesh belonged.

Although this reaction has been known for about five years, it has only been brought to its present perfection lately. There is only one case known in which the test fails. There is no difference in the result of the test between the blood of a man and the blood of a high class ape.

MEXICAN EAR BEANS.

Queer-shaped Bean is Sent to France for Tanning Purposes.

In the forests of Michoacan, one of the most picturesque of the Mexican states, may be seen groups of native women and children engaged in picking up and placing in baskets what at first sight look like nuts. Those are the Mexican ear beans, and they are gathered and sold by the natives for shipment to France, where they are used to tan leather for shoes. The bean is so named by reason of its resemblance to the human ear. It grows wild on a small tree that reaches the height of twenty or thirty feet, with wide branching limbs. As many as ten bushels often grow on a single tree. When ripe they fall to the ground, and over many extensive tracts, not only in Michoacan, but in Colima and Guerro, untold thousands of bushels remain ungathered in the forests. It is not difficult to hire natives to pick them up at one cent a pound. To be used for tanning, the beans have only to be dried and ground; and so rich are they in astringent qualities, that a very small quantity of the bean-meal is sufficient to tan a hide.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF A FAMILY MAN.—Life.

THE MODERN CHURCH BELL

USED IN BRITAIN SINCE THE FIFTH CENTURY.

Bells Have Been Used Since Bible Times for Secular and Religious Purposes.

In the 28th chapter of Exodus, verses 34 and 35, occurs the first mention of bells, and their use is practically the same as that to which modern church bells are put, namely, to give notice of the time for public worship. The uses of bells as summons to prayer are not derived directly from this source, as they have been used in all ages for secular as well as religious purposes. In the Grecian army the officer of the guard visited the sentries at night with a bell as a signal of watchfulness, and the Romans used small ones in their baths and places of business. The honor of inventing the large church bells, however, is ascribed to Paulinus, Bishop of Nola, a city of Campania, who flourished in the fifth century of the Christian era. Not long after they were introduced into Britain.

BAPTISM OF THE BELLS.

When first set up the bells were solemnly consecrated by the clergy with a ceremony called baptism, which implied that they were supposed to possess some important virtues. It is certain that many properties of a very remarkable nature were ascribed to them. All evil spirits were understood to entertain an insurmountable objection to the music of the bells, a single flourish making the fiends disperse with wonderful alacrity. During storms bells were continually rung, and as they continued to ring so long as the storm lasted, it is not to be wondered at that they should receive the credit of stopping them. This practice lasted until the middle of the eighteenth century. Another virtue attributed to bells was that of clearing the air during the prevalence of epidemic disorders. But the most remarkable of all their virtues was that of locomotion. It was considered necessary, whenever a bell was removed, to secure it with a rope or chain, in order to prevent it returning to its former place.

WORK FOR THE EXPERT.

In England the passion for bells prevailed very early; St. Dunstan presented several to Malmesbury Abbey, and the Abbot of England in King Edgar's time made six bells, which were named after distinguished personages, and, says the historian, such a concert was never heard in the land before. An old picture represents King David as striking with a hammer on little bells instead of his harp. Toward the close of the sixteenth century the English are described as "vastly fond of great noises that fill the ear, such as the firing of cannon, the beating of drums, and the ringing of bells." The writer does not appear to be aware that bell ringing was an important accomplishment. Ringing a single bell was the work of a novice only, but to ring a bob-major upon twelve marked the ringer was an expert. The custom of ringing upon occasions of public rejoicing is derived from an early usage of the Catholics, who in this manner gave notice of the arrival of a church dignitary within their jurisdiction, and it was regarded as a high offence if the bells were not rung.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON. MARCH 19.

Lesson XII. Defeat Through Drunkenness. (Temperance Lesson). 1 Kings 20. 12-21. Golden Text, Prov. 23. 1.

Verse 12. This message—He and the other leaders of the immense army (estimated at 130,000 men) were so confident of their superiority, that they were wasting their time and strength drinking in the pavilions, or temporary bootns set up for the exigencies of war.

In array against the city—This would include the establishment of the war-engines before the walls; battering-rams and catapaults, being the chief instruments of a siege. Ladders would be set up, and archers would be placed in commanding positions. It must have looked dark to the king and his people cooped up in the city. Should the walls fall, it meant that desolation and destruction were sure to follow.

13. A prophet—Though his name is not given, he probably was one of the schools of the prophets, who seem to have acted in concert. The name of Elijah curiously enough is not mentioned in this entire chapter.

15. Young men of the princes of the province—Their number, two hundred and thirty-two, was nothing as against the great multitude of the Syrians and their allies. But this prophet wished by the comparison to throw in relief the fact that the victory was to be a supernatural one. The sterling youth of the nation were picked out to lead the attack. The older men had already failed and been driven within the refuge of the city, and were as a result filled with fear. The wretched state to which the city itself had been reduced may be conjectured from the small number of men who could be mustered to follow behind the youthful leaders—only seven thousand.

16. They went out at noon—This was a master stroke. At this hour, under the scorching Syrian sun, everything would be at a standstill, heavy armor being cast aside, and the soldiers lounging about in careless relaxation. The king continued his brutish drinking with the vassal kings and so rendered himself more and more helpless.

17. The young men . . . went out first—This was a ruse intended to deceive the unwary foe. And it succeeded. The drunken king thought the little band were coming out to make terms of peace, and he exclaimed, in a spirit of bravado, Whether . . . for peace, or . . . for war, take them alive (18).

20. They slew every one his man—The motley army outside the walls were totally unprepared for any onslaught. Their leaders were stupid with drink, the chariots and horses were unharnessed and unready, the army itself, besides being at ease, lacked homogeneity and any sense of loyalty to a common interest. A panic was exactly the thing to look for. It was Jehovah's victory, but the Israelites had to exercise the right sort of ingenuity in order to meet conditions as they were. These conditions, of course, could only grow worse under the sturdy attack of the young men and their aroused followers, so that it is little wonder that the proud forces of Ben-hadad suffered utter rout, and he himself was obliged to escape on a horse.

Probably there is something more industrious than an idle rumor.

A centenarian named Jas. Wilson of Crooknagrally, Fivemiletown, has just been photographed at the age of 104 years—for the first time in his life.

The milling firm of John Thompson & Sons, of Gamble street, Belfast, were recently fined for neglecting to have proper safeguards around machinery as a result of which a man named Charles Sangster received fatal injuries.

The Belfast Corporation, at its monthly meeting on the 1st inst., decided to confer the freedom of the city upon Mr. G. W. Wolff, who for upwards of half a century has been closely identified with the commercial progress of that city.

SCOTT'S SENSE OF HUMOR

A CHINAMAN'S IMPRESSIONS OF ABERDEEN.

Former Student at Aberdeen University Gives Appreciation of People.

There is a very interesting appreciation of Scotsmen by a Chinaman in the World's Chinese Students' Journal. It gives the "Impressions of Aberdeen" of Siow Thye Lee, who was a student at Aberdeen University.

"Aberdeen, like Oxford or Cambridge, is a seat of learning," he writes. "It is strange to note that the university is very little known among foreigners, more especially among us in the Straits and in China.

"The Aberdonians have a very peculiar mode of speech, which could not escape the observation of a stranger; in fact, some foreigners often remark that it is much like singing.

RECOMMENDS COUNTRY.

"I must say that no foreigner could spend any length of time in Aberdeen, or in Scotland generally, without being impressed by the wonderful hospitality. The sense of humor is wonderfully keen, and one cannot help noticing this, as it is to be found in practically all classes alike. I have particularly noticed that all Scotsmen—rich and poor alike—have a unit of heart. Though their opinions may differ, they all strive to do their best for the welfare of their country and the people. The sense of duty in which every citizen of a country has a share is deeply carved in the heart of every Scotsman. Not only are they busy and practical, but are more tactful and dignified. The common sense, the serious way they look at life, and their amazing self-centredness and self-confidence.

MODELS OF POLITENESS.

"I have also noticed that a good thing in the Scottish character is its independence, and this is shown by the industrial populaton in habits of life.

"In a company of strangers you would think that the Scotsman was deaf, for his eyes never wander from the table or newspaper. He would say that it was impolite to overhear a conversation to which he was not invited. In short, he is always cold and reserved.

"Moreover, I was told that Scotsmen were well trained in their manners; they are said to be the best type of men from whom people that are not well acquainted with manners can learn. Whether this credit may rightly be put to them I do not know, but the general impression I have here is that the average Scotsman knows always and everywhere exactly what to do and how to do it. He never seems to hesitate, and makes no fuss about his doings. It is, I think, also, a fairly general impression in the east that the Scotsman—the term in this respect also includes the English—keeps himself aloof, reserved, cautious of making or accepting advances towards acquaintanceship. This may arise either out of pride or shyness.

SCOT A DELIGHTFUL HOST.

"At home the Scotsman is a most gracious and delightful host. He is at once the servant, and knows how to please his guest.

"In the railway service the civility of the guards and porters, the neatness and carefulness, and the quiet energy of the drivers and firemen is notable. In the east railway engines always show a lack of care, and things look very confused and disordered. In Scotland, as in England, they are bright and clean. That shows a workman's pride in his work and its instruments. It is the man with the clean engine who is going to succeed in life."

ROYAL CAMP IN INDIA.

Splendid Camp Will be Provided for Residence by King.

The Allahabad Pioneer states that the King-Emperor, during his stay in Delhi, will not occupy Circuit House, but will go into camp, the idea of a splendid royal camp appealing to popular imagination.

Motor cars and taxicabs, the journal adds, are likely to be more in evidence than horsed carriages, thus obviating the difficulty of the management of wheeled traffic which arose at the Curzon durbar.

Steps have already been taken to induce the Calcutta and Bombay companies to send several hundred taxicabs to Delhi. Communication between the different camps will be by circular railway trains running at short intervals.

The programme of the royal tour in India at the end of this and the beginning of next year will include a big game shooting trip when his Majesty visits Nepal.

The royal party leaves England about December 12, and, according to present arrangements, travel overland to the Mediterranean to take steamer for Bombay.

FORTUNE FAVORS THE BRAVE;

OR, A LOOK INTO THE PAST

CHAPTER IX.—(Cont'd)

She leaned her fair young arms on the iron railing, and bent her head upon them. The soft night air played gently with her russet curls, and kissed her rounded cheeks.

Once again her mind recalled the past hours, and smiles and blushes chased each other across her face; then the peaceful mood was gone, and she sat gazing out over the silent garden with a heart chilled by presentiment and sudden fear.

"If I could but see him for one short minute!" she whispered to herself. "Who knows, perhaps to-morrow——". She stopped short. What would that morrow bring? She pressed her hands to her eyes with a gesture born of this vague, incomprehensible fear, and at this moment a tap came to her door, and a voice called "Nancy!"

In another instant she had admitted Dorothy in her long, white dressing-gown, and her short golden locks flying loose about her throat.

"Oh! Nancy, you are not in bed. I am so glad. What do you think? I have dropped my horseshoe bangle somewhere, and oh! I am so afraid it will be lost!"

"I will go and search for it!" Nancy cried, at once.

"No—no! you will be frightened, and I won't let you tire yourself like this. I only came to tell you, because I knew you would be sorry. Nancy, you shall not go!"

But Nancy had already tossed off her pretty gown and donned something more serviceable; despite all and everything Dorothy could say, she was determined.

"Well, I will come at least as far as the stairs with you. I almost think I left it on the piano in the ball-room."

With soft steps and lighted candles, they stole along the corridor and reached the stairs.

Then Dorothy gave a shriek and dropped her candle.

"Oh, Nancy!" she exclaimed, "it is Derry. I—I can't let him see me like this!"

And with that she fled back like a bird. Derrick Darnley strode forward in haste.

"What is it?" he asked, sternly. He had been smoking in the wide, open hall entrance, and evidently he imagined burglars. Then, as his eye caught the trembling figure in the little cotton gown, he rushed toward it. "My darling!" he murmured, seizing her hand.

Nancy hurriedly explained her presence there.

"I have the bracelet safe in my pocket. I saw something on the floor and picked it up. Here it is—give it to Dorothy with my love. Oh! must you go, my sweetest one?"

"It—it is almost morning," she said, tremulously. "You will see me then."

The man released her hand, then snatched it again, and drew her back.

"Kiss me good-night," he whispered. "Cruel child, do you know that you never even gave me a look just now. Oh, my darling! my darling! for God's sake do not torment me. I cannot bear it, Nancy."

She clung to him with a passionate desperation that arose from the presentiment that came over her just now.

"Derry, you will love me always—always?" she asked, agitatedly.

"Can you doubt me?" was his answer, given reproachfully. "While life runs in my veins, Nancy, I shall love you and none else."

Their lips met, and then she shrank away.

"I must go," she said, shyly. "Good-night—good-bye, my love!"

"I will not say good-bye; it sounds so sad. See, the first streak of dawn has come into the sky. I will wish you good-morrow, my lady dear—the morrow when I shall claim you as my wife before all the world!"

And with that he opened his arms and she was free!

* * *

The morning sun was high in the heavens before Nancy woke from the deep, sweet sleep that had fallen on her as she flung herself on the white-curtained bed at last.

She woke with a start; then a rush of remembrance came, and, with a pretty blush, she slipped from the bed and went to the window.

"Nearly eleven o'clock—how disgraceful!" she exclaimed to herself, and then, as she hurried with her toilet, she thought of Derry. "He—he will think I have forgotten him. I must make haste. There go Lord Merefield and Ella Chester, of course. Poor fellows, bow bored he looks; and there"—Nancy's brows contracted and her smiles vanished—"there is Thomas Crawshaw. Well, I will not let him trouble me, save that I must speak of him to Derry when I tell him all. I was right about that man—he did not even seem to remember me yesterday when Dorothy introduced him to me, and he never came near me again."

She gazed out at the lawn, and watched Crawshaw as he lounged up and down beside the Hon. Maude, indefatigable as ever.

"How he brings back the past!" she mused. "I seem to be once more in that wretched street, seeing him come up from the timber yard. How funny life is! How little did either of us dream that our paths would lie in such a different world! Money has not improved him; he is still as mean, ay, and as cruel as he always was. I could have struck him yesterday for his roughnes to the good old servants, and for his cowardice when he kicked that horse; he thought no one was looking; but I saw him, and I hated him for his cruelty!"

There was a hot flush on either cheek, but after a few moments it died away, and smiles came again as Darnley's loved image pushed all thought of the detestable millionaire from her mind. She was quick to see he was nowhere in the garden, and her heart beat with mingled excitement and tenderness.

"He is waiting for me downstairs," was her happy thought, and at that very moment Dorothy's maid entered the room, carrying a bunch of lovely roses in her hand.

"Mr. Darnley asked me to give you these, miss," she said, pleasantly. Nancy was a great favorite with all the Hall servants.

Nancy turned away to hide her blushing face.

"Put them down, Baines," she said, "and thank you very much."

"Mr. Darnley said as I was to be sure and bring them early, and I was to tell you that he has writ down the names of 'em on the piece of paper stuck in the middle of the bunch, miss."

Nancy paused; she did not quite understand this, but she made no remark except to thank the maid once again.

The instant she was alone, she took up the flowers and kissed them, then drew out the little note.

"My own dearest one," she read. "As ill luck will have it, my mother has suddenly received the most urgent business summons from her agent in Lincolnshire, which necessitates either her presence or mine without delay; and as she is, unfortunately, far from well this morning, I am compelled to go in her place.

"Can you guess, I wonder, sweet, what this absence means to me just at this moment? I have waited about till the last instant in the hope of seeing you, but, alas! you have not come, your eyes have not met mine, and all I have to carry away with me is the vision of your lovely face as I saw it last.

"I shall be gone, at the very most, but two days, and our secret must live till then, my darling, for I could not speak to my mother this morning, and I will have nothing done save in the most orthodox way, my wife shall be welcomed with the honor that is her due.

"I could think of no excuse to send you a note, except with these flowers. I have kissed them, my dearest heart, and if you touch them with your sweet lips you can gather that kiss. I shall think of you, Nancy, as one who is sun and life to me till we meet again. Oh! my darling! what have I done to be so blessed? Why should the treasure of your heart belong only to me? I am not worthy of it, dear; and yet I love you—I love you, Nancy; that cry must cover all my faults. Au revoir, my sweet one, till to-morrow, or the next day at most. Think kindly of your devoted lover,

"DERRY."

A pang of sharp pain shot through Nancy's heart. He had gone—gone while she had been asleep! Oh! if she had only known! Her hands trembled with sudden disappointment; a sense of indescribable loneliness came upon her. Bereft so abruptly of the newborn protection that had been so strange and so sweet, she faltered for a moment, but only for a moment, then her natural courage arose.

It would be only for a few short hours; and here were the roses that he had kissed, and the words that came from his very heart. She would be brave; it was a trial, a bitter one at such a moment; but it was no harder for her than for him—she must remember that. She carried the flowers again and again to her lips; their fragrance soothed her.

She held the blossoms to her lips again, and then, as if they were too sacred to be thrown aside, she carried them to her modest little jewel case, locked them safely away, and then, with one tiny sigh that, despite her efforts, would come, she went slowly downstairs and out into the hot noonday.

CHAPTER X.

A whole long day had gone, twenty-four of the forty-eight hours which must expire before Derrick Darnley's beloved could hope to see him again. It was a very long day, and so Nancy has confessed to herself as she came slowly downstairs the morning after.

Every one seemed to be unsettled and out of sorts, except Mrs. Darnley, who, despite the illness which she professed had prevented her from attending to her business, still managed to enjoy the summer sunshine in her own peculiar chilly way.

Dorothy Leicester was undoubtedly out of temper, and poor Lord Merefield was almost worn to the verge of exasperation by Ella Chester's attention.

To Nancy's intense delight, Mr. Crawshaw had taken himself off to his own house before she had left her room, and, following Mr. Darnley's example, it was given out he would be away two days.

"I seem to breathe more freely when he is not here," Nancy said to herself, on this second morning, "although he has forgotten me, and treats me, fortunately, with such undisguised contempt."

She was seized upon at once by Maude Chester.

"Come and play tennis, do, Miss Hamilton."

But Dorothy happened to pass at that moment, and rescued her friend.

"Nancy, I want you," she said.

"What is it, dear?"

Nancy put her arm affectionately round the slender form.

"I am tired and cross."

Dorothy flung herself into a low garden chair.

"I wish," she said, with a peevish frown, "that Aunt Anne would take her departure, she upsets me; look at her sitting there with her cold smile; she was no more ill yesterday than I was, and yet she must needs send Derry off when everybody wants him."

Nancy colored vividly, and then her heart sank suddenly. Not until this moment did the memory of Dorothy's undoubted predilection for Darnley return to her; his absence was the cause of all this sulky depression. It was he who made the sunshine of Dorothy's life as he made the sunshine of hers. She felt a choking sensation creep into her thoughts, and, rising abruptly, she moved away.

"Where are you going, Nancy?" cried Dorothy, languidly.

"To the rose garden," was her terse reply. As a matter of fact, she did not know where she was going.

A horrible problem had rushed into her mind—was she robbing Dorothy Leicester of the man she loved? She who owed all she possessed to Dorothy, was she taking from this girl, her friend, her benefactress, the one thing she treasured above all the world? If so—if this were true—it must not be; gratitude, honor, woman's affection, pleaded—nay, demanded—that she should give him up to Dorothy.

How she reached the rose garden she never knew. Her head was reeling with this sudden horror. She sank onto an old bench, and, clasping her hands, gave herself up to solving the most difficult, the most acutely painful problem woman was ever face to face with.

Here, in the very spot where Derry had first spoken his love, she must fight it out—she would fight it out.

* * *

An hour had passed, and still she sat there, ignorant that a pair of brilliant black eyes were fixed on her like a serpent watching its prey.

Though after thought crossed her mind, yet no solution would come, and through it all was the cry:

"I love him—he is mine. Can I give him up to her, my dearest, truest friend? Can I do this?"

She was faint with the sun's fierce heat, and the odors of the heavy-laden rose trees; and with a gesture significant of weakness, she rose to her feet, meaning to retrace her steps, when she saw that she was not alone.

A BATTLE WITH ANTS.

Traveller's Terrible Experience in Africa.

The driver-ants are a terrible pest in West Africa. Crawling over the ground in countless thousands, invincible to anything but a wall of fire, they bring quick death to every live thing unfortunate enough to be caught in their path, and leave behind them the skeletons of lizards, rats, sheep, cattle, and even human beings. In his book entitled, "We Two in West Africa," Maj. F. G. Guggisberg recounts the terror of one night when the pests invaded his house.

I heard voices calling, "Get up—the ants are on us!" Sitting bolt upright, I found the room apparently in darkness. In reality, the lantern on the floor at the foot of the bed was still burning, but as I threw my hand out and felt the heavy weight of the mosquito-net, I suddenly realized that it was coated with ants so thickly that it kept the light out as effectively as a velvet curtain.

Two bounds took me out of that mosquito-net and the hut, but it was an uncanny feeling when my feet crunched through the living carpet of ants. Hitting the side of the doorway in my hasty exit, I brought down a shower of the little pests on my head and shoulders, from rafter, wall and roof, and then the fun began.

Some people say that the ant buries his head in you and leaves it there, others that he drives some other part of his body into you. I didn't worry about examining which theory was correct—it did not affect the torture of the result. For the next ten minues I was standing in a state of nature in the open, the rain beating down, and the boys, hastily roused, picking ants off my body by the light of torches.

I was so engrossed in this new sport that I quite forgot about Lees, then I suddenly realized that he was not there. I won a moral V. C. by going into that infernal place and hauling him out. He was a pitiable sight in the torchlight, his hair waving as if in a breeze, as the ants crawled through it, his body black with them.

To pick them off was too slow a job. I seized a tin of kerosene oil and poured it over him, sweeping the enemy off in thousands. One of my hammock boys rushed up with a flaming torch, meaning, in the kindness of his heart, to give master more light. I yelled to him to keep away, and he, thinking he was being urged on, dashed toward us quicker than ever. Luckily, Lees' cook stopped him in time, and a tragedy was averted.

We spent the remainder of the night under a tree. In spite of the discomfort of it all,—the persistent rain, the mist, the smarting pain of the ant bites,—we could not help laughing at the idea of our helplessness against the little brutes that were occupying our comfortable hut. However, the only thing to do was to wait patiently till they cleared out.

THE WORLD EVANGELIZED.

Luke 14: 22; Rev. 11: 15.

O Lord, we long that day to see
Of which the Scripture telleth,
When all mankind shall turn to Thee
In whom all fulness dwelleth.
Before Thy face the storms are stilled
As clearer grows the vision;
And men at length shall see fulfilled
Thy one supreme commission.

To see Creation's second birth
Thy faithful ones are pleading;
Thy messengers throughout the earth
Thou art in triumph leading.
And where Thy servants swiftly run
Thy kingdom is expanded;
And soon by them there will be done
That which Thou hast commanded.

Help us to yield to Thy control
And march with ranks unbroken
Until to every human soul
The message shall be spoken.
May this world's kingdoms yielded be,
Themselves before Thee casting,
And thus become as ruled by Thee
A kingdom everlasting.

O Lord, may all Thy people live
In love's vast inspiration,
While at Thy call they seek to give
Thy word to every nation.
And soon may every race and tribe,
Thy light and love possessing,
To Thee in grateful love ascribe
All honor, praise, and blessing.

VEGETABLES BRING HEALTH.

Onions have long been famous as natural medicine, and the disagreeable odor, which is their worst feature, is really the outward sign of the volatile oil in which they are so rich. They are a natural stimulant, and are rich in sulphur. They can be prepared in so many ways, and are so inexpensive that they ought to be a standard dish in every household.

Cabbage has that wonderful property of purifying the blood, for which many a beauty seeker would pay a small fortune to a quack beauty doctor. It is better far than expensive medicines in cases where the skin and complexion need clearing. It is best served raw, cut in thin stripes, with vinegar and olive oil.

EWE AND LAMBS.

Much of the difficulty at lambing time will be avoided if the ewes have been given proper care during the few months covering the period of pregnancy. Ewes that have been handled and taught to yield to kind treatment are easy to handle during the lambing period.

There are various problems at lambing time that are puzzling to the experienced shepherd, yet I am safe in saying that most of these problems are the result of negligence or the want of the care and shelter. Thousands of lambs are annually lost that might have been saved if the shepherd had had the patience to see that they received their first nourishment.

So long as the ewe is doing well it is prudent to allow Nature to take its course, but in case she is experiencing difficulty it is oftentimes very beneficial to assist her in bringing forth her young. Many times the lamb is abnormally developed with a large head and a little assistance will prove very beneficial and conserve the strength of the ewe. Any assistance should be very gentle and administered in a manner that will not excite the ewe. Show the ewe her lamb at once, for many shepherds believe she is more apt to disown her if she does not see it soon afted it has dropped.

Ewes that are heavy with lamb should be handled very carefully and all openings where they pass through should be wide enough to prevent crowding. Many dead lambs are born when the ewes are compelled to pass through small openings and kept in a crowded place. The ewes should not be sheared before the lambing season, for many times the handling will cause them to bring forth dead lambs.

Garget is the worst complaint to contend with and is very common. It may attack and destroy half the value of the udder without any apparent outer manifestations. It is often caused by exposure of the ewes lying down in a damp place. Taken in time it can often be cured by giving the ewe two ounces of epsom salts and depeating the dose in about six or eight hours. Rub the udder with warm water and if the milk cannot be started inject into the teats with a small metal syringe a weak solution of carbonate of soda. This treatment usually proves very effective.

Fatten off each ewe that has had one attack of garget. It does not pay to use them for breeding purposes another season.

Just after lambs are weaned it is common to find one or more ewes ailing. The first thing noticed is that the ewe lags behind the flock and is lame or straddles in walking.

On examination it is discovered that her udder is swollen, hot, hard and painful, and in a few days, if the disease progresses, parts of the udder turn blue.

After a time these parts may soften, burst and discharge pus, or they may become gangrenous and slough away leaving raw, angry-looking sores.

More often, unfortunately, the ewe dies shortly after gangrene has set in, and losses of this nature are apt to be serious, for the latter form of the disease is due to infection and one case may supply germs for the infection of many ewes.

HELPS FOR THE HOG RAISER.

A hog is a hog and badly balanced rations and foods that are indigestible are responsible for much loss.

Many young pigs are severely injured by using them for the purpose of wasting food.

It is an easy matter to get a bunch of young pigs off the main line on to the sidetrack and a difficult matter to get them back again.

The possibilities of expanding the production of pork are so great that we will never see a scarcity of this product.

TREE SURGERY.

Systematic pruning and tree surgery are very closely related. Tree surgery includes the intelligent protection of all mechanical injuries and cavities. Pruning requires a previous intimate knowledge of the habits of growth of trees; surgery, on the other hand, requires, in addition, a knowledge of the best methods for making cavities airtight and preventing decay. The caring for cavities in trees must be urged as the only means of preserving affected specimens, and the preservation of many noble specimens has been at least temporarily assured through the efforts of those practising this kind of work.

"HORSE SENSE."

If you cannot get a competent blacksmith to shoe the horses, they are better off without any. The cause of most hoof troubles may be traced back to ill-fitted shoes.

Are you simply feeding the horses to keep them alive this winter, or are you feeding and caring for them with an eye to their good flesh and usefulness when next spring's work opens up?

What sane man would attempt to extinguish fire with fire? Yet, some supposedly intelligent men try to take the fear out of a frightened horse by the use of a whip lash and loud, threatening language.

COLORS AT THE CORONATION.

Blue, Crimson, Gold and Purple Will Prevail.

The coronation year of King George is likely to be remarkable for the clash of bright colors it will see. In some measure this will be the result of the reaction consequent on last year's mourning. Practically speaking, the only shades that will find favor with the really well-dressed woman will be those who have what may be termed a "Coronation flavor" about them. Thus, the chief vogue will be for Garter Blue, Ducal Crimson, Princely Gold, and Regal Purple. Already a foretaste of this is given by the wonderful popularity of ermine, which is the only fur that now finds favor. For the moment sable and silver fox are both removed from that pedestal of popularity they have so long occupied, and a stroll through the park of a morning is sufficient to show the supremacy of the Royal fur. This is also to be a year of lace. It will play an important part not only in the Coronation dresses, but in the trains to be worn at the courts to be held at Buckingham Palace. Lucky indeed is the woman who has had a careful mother or grandmother to dower her with valuable old lace; she, at all events, is above criticism.

NIAGARA OUTDONE.

The Scotch character has a large element of stolidity in it. There are Scotchmen who, after once deciding on a question, ignore every suggestion, and will not change. A writer in the Philadelphia Times has aptly produced the type in a little story.

Angus McTavish was a Lowlander, wealthy and thoroughly Scotch, and had never seen the Highlands or the beautiful lakes of Scotland except from a long distance. He paid a visit to America, and in New York, owing to his prominence, was shown all the sights.

Was he impressed? He was not, and still thought the Lowlands of Scotland far superior.

As a final chance to show Angus something that would impress him, the committee took him to Niagara Falls. Angus looked at them critically, and when asked if he did not think them the most marvelous thing he had ever seen, he remarked:

"Aye, mon. They are grand. But do ye ken the auld peacock in Perthshire that had the wooden leg?"

No town will become a good business centre so long as its business men rely on a few merchants to make the effort to bring trade to town. Too often the men in a few lines of trade are about the only ones that reach out after custom. Other merchants wait until these men induce the people to come to town and content themselves with trade that naturally drifts to their place. A public spirited man should ask himself if he is doing his part to attract people to come here to trade, in helping the entire business community and no town is a success unless all lines are working to extend the trade as far as possible and trying to bring a larger territory into the circle of which the town is the business centre.

Your attention is called to the change in the advertisements in this issue and also to the new ones. The merchants of our town appreciate your trade and take this means of telling you of any bargains they may have to offer and also to announce the arrival of new goods which are placed at your disposal and inspection. By closely watching the columns of this paper you will learn the names of our business men who invite you to deal with them and you can rest assured that they will treat you right. The progressive merchant will always let his customers know of the arrival of new goods at once, and the way for merchants to do this is through the columns of this paper which goes into almost every home in the district.

Hickey:—

Dear Mr. Stone and Mrs. Crawford,—

We, your friends and neighbors, are gathered here this evening to show an expression of our regret at your intended departure from our neighborhood. We have watched you grow from manhood and have always felt a kindly interest in your welfare; and we wish to assure you we hope that wherever you go you will both find friends and opportunities for usefulness. We are sorry to lose you from our neighborhood, for you have always shown us an example of honesty, industry, cheerfulness and faithfulness in church attendance. And now we hope as you leave here you will carry away only kindly memories of your old friends and neighbors.

Signed by your neighbors and friends.

COVERED WITH ECZEMA

Cured by Two Bottles of D. D. D.

On March 21st, 1910, Mr. Angus McMillan of Port Hood, N.S., wrote us.—

My little boy, three years old was covered from head to foot with eczema. I tried over twenty different kinds of salves and washes but could not see any improvement—in fact it seemed to be getting worse.

I was about discouraged and had lost faith in all kinds of so-called eczema cures, when I saw an ad. telling about D. D. D. Prescription. I sent for sample bottle and the third application convinced me that I had at last a sure cure."

What D. D. D. did for this little boy it will do for any skin sufferer. A mild, soothing liquid made up of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, Glycerine and other ingredients, it penetrates to the root of the trouble and washes the disease germs out.

Why not get relief? Simply write to-day to the D. D. D. Laboratories Dept. E. A., 49 Colborne St., Toronto, and they will send you a free trial bottle.

CANADA'S GIFT TO THE TWELVE NATIONS

No doubt now that Canadian Farmers are to be Exposed to the Competition of all the great Food Exporting Countries of the World.

From The Canadian Century.

When it was first made known that the Reciprocity Compact not only gave American farmers free entrance to Canadian markets and extended the same privileges to the United Kingdom and the British colonies, but also opened the door wide to the Argentine Republic, Austria-Hungary, Russia, Spain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland Japan, Bolivia, Columbia and Venezula Canadians in general thought there must be some mistake. They could not believe that without getting any concessions whatever from any country except the United States our Government would admit farm products from all those countries unto Canada to compete freely with Canadian farm products. The wording of the Reciprocity Agreement was very plain; there seemed to be no doubt about its meaning; and yet it was such an extraordinary arrangement, so unfair to Canadian farmers, and so likely to lead to disputes with the American customs officials that many people believed that the Government would give some explanation showing that the agreement had been wrongly interpreted. However, there is no longer any such hope. Mr. Robert L. Borden questioned Hon. Mr. Fielding on this point and Mr. Fielding admitted that the Reciprocity Agreement meant exactly what it appeared to mean and that Canada would get nothing whatever in return from any of the twelve foreign nations or the British countries that share with the United States the privilege of sending their farm products freely into the Canadian market.

If the Reciprocity Compact simply provided for free trade in farm products between Canada and the United States there might reasonably be difference of opinion as to whether it would be advantageous to Canadian farmers or not. We think that even such an arrangement would have been a bad bargain for Canadian farmers, because the surplus of farm products in the United States is enormously greater than the surplus of Canadian farm products, because the farming season is earlier and longer in the United States, and because our farmers would always be at the mercy of the tariff legislation of the United States Congress, while they would have no voice in the election of Congress, but still there would be room for argument as to whether our farmers would gain enough by admission of their products to United States markets to compensate them for losses in the home market; but from the farmers' point of view nothing can be said in favour of allowing twelve foreign nations and the food-exporting British colonies to send their farm products freely into Canada without giving our farmers anything to compensate them for this unexpected competition in the Canadian home market.

This is the second time an accident of this nature has happened to him.

Address and Presentation.—The young people of this community spent a very pleasant evening on Wednesday last at the home of Mrs. Joseph Morley in honor of their old friend, Ethel Millson, now Mrs. Butler. A splendid program was rendered with John Hazelwood as chairman, who with his witty and humorous sayings kept the gathering in merry spirits. This being over a bountiful supper was served and toasts proposed and given to the following;—Our King, Our Fair Dominion, Our Hostess, Our Ladies and to the Guest of Honor, all of which were very ably and readily responded to by those called upon. Games were then enjoyed till the merry company left for their homes. But we must not forget the all important part. About the end of the program a quartette was called for by the chairman, including Mrs. Butler, when to her surprise on approaching the piano, Miss Bessie Morley read an address and Miss Hilda Gunning and Lottie Squire presented her with the gifts, consisting of a case of silver knives and forks, a silver butter knife, a set of fruit dishes and a box of jars of fruit. Ethel was very much affected by the kind actions of her old friends and thanked them very much for their kindly remembrances. The address is as follows,—To Mrs. Ben Butler

Dear Ethel,—We, your schoolmates and friends, have met here to-night to spend another evening together, and enjoy your society once more. In the past you have given us ample proof of your friendship and many times you have given a helping hand to any of us who needed it, all in your own cheerful way, never looking for any thanks. As leader of our choir, both in old Freewill Church and later in Whalen Church, you gave of your God-given talent with a ready willingness, and though you are living apart from us now, yet we know you will always have a warm spot in your heart for us. We miss you and your hearty laugh and cheery voice, but will always remember the many happy hours spent together on the old school play ground, or catch an echo of your voice as you sang to us in later years. We may never, all, be together again, but whether we may be in distant lands or here at home, joyful or laden with sorrow, nothing can take from us the memory of those happiest of days. So for this one evening we will enjoy, to the fullest measure, each other's company. We ask you to accept this case of silver knives and forks and butter knife, also this fruit set and box of fruit, just as a small token of our esteem and for Auld Lang Syne's sake. In using them we know you will often think of the givers. We, one and all, wish you and your husband a joyous, prosperous journey through life.

Signed on behalf of the friends, by Bessie Morley, Hilda Gunning, Lottie Squire.

A Richibucto School Teacher

Once a Dyspeptic—Now Well, Thanks to Father Morriscy's No. 11.

Richibucto, N. B., Nov. 17th 1909.
Father Morriscy Med. Co., Ltd.,

I have been teaching school for upwards of thirty years, during the last twenty-five of which I have suffered seriously with stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia.

I have tried many remedies, and while I would get temporary relief from some of them, yet the old trouble would return, and with it the sufferings only known to the chronic dyspeptic.

Last year I had made up my mind to abandon my profession, feeling that in my condition I could neither do justice to myself or to the many pupils under my charge. A friend suggested to me that I try Father Morriscy's No. 11 Stomach Tablets; I did so, and have continued to use them with the result that my stomach trouble is cured—my indigestion and dyspepsia gone and I feel as well as I ever did.

I have, thanks to the Tablets, been able to continue in my profession, and feel that I am once more enjoying my work and am able to give justice to the fifty-four pupils under my care.

Yours Gratefully,
(Signed) MARY CHRYSTAL.

Are you one of the many thousands who, like Miss Chrystal, are prevented from doing their best work, or really enjoying life, by stomach trouble?

If you are you cannot do better than she did—take Father Morriscy's No. 11 Tablets.

Each No. 11 Tablet, when dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1¼ pounds of food—a good, hearty meal—so that no matter how weak your stomach may be No. 11 Tablets will enable you to get the nourishment out of your food and build up your strength, while the stomach, thus relieved, recovers its vigor.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

FREE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERING FROM WOMEN'S AILMENTS.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.

I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from women's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—you, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhœa or Whitish discharge, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete 10 days treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer, if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhœa, Green Sickness, and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Plumpness and health always result from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten days' treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address:

MEN-YOU NEED NERVE

Wonderful Nervous System

EARLY INDISCRETIONS AND EXCESSES HAVE UNDERMINED YOUR SYSTEM

The nerves control all actions of the body so that anything that debilitates them will weaken all organs of the system. Early Indiscretions and Excesses have ruined thousands of promising young men. Unnatural Drains sap their vigor and vitality and they never develop to a proper condition of manhood. They remain weaklings, mentally, physically and sexually. How you feel? Are you nervous and weak, despondent and gloomy, specks before the eyes with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, bashful, debilitating dreams, sediment in urine, pimples on the face, eyes sunken, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, lifeless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, etc.

This is the condition our New Method Treatment is GUARANTEED TO CURE

We have treated Diseases of Men for almost a lifetime and do not have to experiment. Consult us FREE OF CHARGE and we will tell you whether you are curable or not.

A SEVERE CASE OF NEURALGIA

Cured After Long Years of Suffering by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

There is an excellent reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured the most severe cases of neuralgia, sciatica, and other complaints in the group that are known as disorders of the nerves. This group also includes St. Vitus dance and paralysis, and the common state of extreme nervousness and excitability. Each of these complaints exist because there is something the matter with the nervous system. If the nerves have tone—are strong and healthy, you will not have any of these complaints. The reason Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure nervous disorders is that they restore weak, run-down nerves to their proper state of tone. They act both directly upon the nerves and on the blood supply. The highest medical authorities have noted that nervous troubles generally attack people who are bloodless and that the nerves are toned when the blood supply is renewed. It is thus seen that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure nervous disorders by curing the cause of the trouble.

Mrs. J. C. Adams, Norris Lake, Man., says: "I am writing you at my husband's request to let you know the great benefit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been to him. He is a river driver and therefore much exposed to all kinds of weather and wetting. As a result he had an attack of rheumatism, and then to add to his misery a severe type of neuralgia set in, locating on the left side of the face, and causing him such terrible pain that it would drive him almost wild. He was treated by several doctors, and finally went to Winnipeg, where they blistered his head and applied hot plasters which really only added more to his misery, and he returned home still uncured. In this way he suffered for nearly six years, trying all sorts of medicine, but never finding a cure. One day while he was suffering I went to a store to get a liniment, but they did not have the kind I wanted, and the storekeeper asked me what I wanted it for. I told him about my husband and how he suffered, and he placed a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on the counter saying, 'Take my advice, this is what your husband should take.' I took the Pills home with me and my husband started taking them. I am not sure how many boxes he took, but one thing is certain, they completely cured him, and he has never since had a touch of those torturing pains. You can tell how much he suffered when I say that the hair on the side of his head in which the pain was located turned quite gray. It looks odd, but he says it does not matter since the pain is gone. I believe he would not have been living now had Dr. Williams' Pink Pills not cured those terrible pains, and you may be sure we gratefully recommend them to all our friends and all suffering ones."

Sold by all dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SAVED FROM WORKHOUSE.

Story of Robert Blatchford, the English Socialist.

Robert Blatchford, best known as editor of the Clarion and author of "Merrie England," has put into his stories many of his own adventures in London, where, as a mere boy, he walked the streets, hunting for work to save himself from actual starvation. The following story, quoted in A. Neil Lyons' life of Blatchford, has served "interests," chief of which, perhaps, is its testimony to the enduring quality of the mother passion. The boy, tired out and despairing, had finally gone to the police office for a ticket to the Clerkenwell Workhouse. Waiting outside with other vagrants, he sat down on the pavement by a miserable woman.

She was a swarthy woman, her skin tanned by long exposure to the weather. She wore no bonnet, and was smoking a short black pipe. I watched her for some time, and thought what a bold, hard, wicked face she had, and at length, more from curiosity to hear her speak than for any desire for information, I ventured to ask her a question about the tickets.

She turned upon me with a scowl, which gradually melted away as she looked at me, and at last said, not unkindly:

"What do you want to know for, boy? You're not going to Clerkenwell, are you?"

I said I was. She sat smoking for a few minutes, then took her pipe from her lips and stroking her chin with her great brown hand, said, very much to my surprise:

"You mustn't; no, you mustn't. You're only a boy, and not used to any kind o' wickedness, I can see. Don't you go, boy; don't you go."

"I have no other place to sleep," I said.

She shook her head.

"Sleep in the streets; boy, sleep on the bridges; anywhere but there. It's the worst workhouse in all London. No, you mustn't go."

"But you are going."

"Oh, me," she said, and laughed. "It's good enough for me. But you are different. Ah, don't be stubborn. Take an old woman's advice. It's a cruel place. Don't go, don't go."

"I'm not a child," I said.

She laughed again, not pleasantly, and answered, "You know nothin', nothin'. I know all. Been through it all."

Then, very earnestly, she continued, leaning close to me, "Be advised, now. Be told. I know these places; and I've had sons of me own. Don't go, don't go. D'ye hear?"

I rose up wearily from the pavement.

"I will take your advice," I said.

She nodded and put the pipe back in her mouth.

"Good," she said, "good boy. Now you're talkin'," and turned her attenion another way.

TARTS.

Mince Tarts.—In the center of a four inch square of pie paste place a small mound of mincemeat prepared as for pies. Gather up the four corners and pinch the edges close together. Place a lump of butter on top of each one and sprinkle well with cinnamon and sugar. Bake and serve with brandy sauce.

Bohemian Tarts. — Two quarts flour, two teaspoonfuls salt, one-half cup melted butter, one-quarter cup sugar, two eggs, and one pint lukewarm milk. Add one cup raised yeast and make a slight sponge. Set in warm place for two hours to rise. Then roll sponge to about one inch thickness and cut into three inch squares and place in greased pan. In the meantime boil one pound prunes till soft, remove stones and chop fine. Add one-half cup sugar and mix well. Add one tablespoonful of this on each tart. Dust with powdered sugar. Let rise for half an hour and bake for twenty minutes in hot oven.

Date Tarts.—One cup sliced dates, one cup of sugar, three eggs, one cup of walnut meats cut fine, one-half cup of flour, one-half teaspoon soda; mix as for a cake and bake. Before serving cold, dip one-half cup of milk over the cake. Serve with whipped cream. This will serve twelve persons.

"I know what's passing in your mind," suddenly said the maiden as the habitually silent caller stared at her. "I know, too, why you are calling here night after night, appropriating my time to yourself and keeping other nice young men away. You want me to marry you, don't you?" "I—I do!" gasped the young man. "I thought so. Very well, I will!"

AN INVALUABLE MEDICINE FOR ALL BABIES

Mrs. R. McEwen, Thornloe, Ont., writes: "I think Baby's Own Tablets an invaluable medicine for little ones. I used them for my own child when he was small and last summer when I had a baby visitor whose food did not agree with him, I sent for another box of the Tablets and they quickly helped him." It is testimonials such as this that have made Baby's Own Tablets popular—that have shown them to be an invaluable medicine for little ones. The Tablets always do good—they can never do harm. Once a mother has tried them for her little one she will have nothing else. For with the Tablets she feels safe. They are sold under the guarantee of a government analyst to contain no harmful drugs. Baby's Own Tablets may be had at medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DID NOT WANT DUCKS.

In a certain village a lady started a poultry farm with the uncertain foundation of a barn door hen and thirteen eggs.

Not having even the most elementary knowledge of poultry, she inquired of a friend how long eggs generally took to hatch. She received the reply:

"Three weeks for chickens and four for ducks."

The lady friend met her some time afterwards, and on being asked how the poultry farming was going on, she replied, with a lowered countenance:

"Oh, I've finished with it; at the end of three weeks there were no chickens, so I took the hen off as I didn't want ducks."

Forgive your enemies—if they are bigger than you are.

GREAT TRIALS ON TRANSCONTINENTAL

ALPHONSE JONELLE TELLS TALE WITH HUMAN INTEREST.

Chicoutimi Ville, Chicoutimi Co., Que., March 13 (Special) — The trials of those men who push the great railroads through the obstacles Nature thrusts in their way have been proclaimed in many a page of fiction. But no story ever told is of more absorbing interest or teaches a greater moral than the actual experiences of Alphonse Jonelle, foreman on the Transcontinental, and well known here.

"I contracted Kidney Disease working on the Transcontinental, where I am a foreman," Mr. Jonelle states. "My skin had a harsh, dry feeling, and it itched and burned at night. I was always tired. Then came the pangs of rheumatism, and I finally got so bad I could not attend to my work. For five years I suffered, and in the end Bright's Disease developed.

"Then I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Six boxes cured me completely. Dodd's Kidney Pills also cured my wife, who was suffering from Kidney Disease."

From all parts of Canada, and every day reports come of Kidney Disease cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. There is never a case reported where Dodd's Kidney Pills have failed. They never fail.

"Grandpa, make a noise like a frog," coaxed little Tommy. "What for, my son?" "Why, papa says, that when you croak we'll get a thousand dollars!"

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is an unparalleled remedy for colds, coughs, influenza and diseases of the throat and lungs. The fame of the medicine rests upon years of successful use in eradicating these affections, and in protecting mankind from the fatal ravages of consumption, and as a neglected cold leads to consumption, one cannot be too careful to fight it in its early stages. Bickle's Syrup is the weapon, use it.

Some Signs and Omens Noted in Kitchen.

If when washing dishes you forget an article, it is a sign you will hear of a wedding.

If you sing while making bread you will cry before it is eaten.

If your apron becomes untied, it is an indication that somebody is speaking of you.

To forget to put coffee in the coffee pot it is a sign of a coming gift.

To accidentally place the tea kettle on the stove with the spout toward the back is a sign of company.

If a coal of fire falls on the floor, it is a sign a stranger is coming to see you.

If, after sweeping a room, the broom is accidentally left in a corner, strangers will visit the house that day.

EMBALMING SECRET LOST.

The modern embalmers have not recovered the secret of the art as practiced by the old Egyptians, and probably never will. Some of the bodies, known to us as "mummies," buried three or four thousand years ago, are still in a state of perfect preservation. Back of the ancient art lay a religious creed. The ancient Egyptian believed that after many thousands of years the soul came back to find its body, and that if it was not found the soul wandered forever in misery and wretchedness. Hence it was absolutely necessary to preserve the body, and hence, finally, the embalmer's art.

WHY DO CHILDREN LIKE ZAM-BUK?

A Chat With Mothers.

"Whenever my children have any sore places, cuts, or skin troubles, they ask for Zam-Buk. They can always depend upon it doing what is needed."

So says Mrs. A. Alce, of 170 Chatham Street, Montreal.

A missionary, writing from the West Coast of Africa, says: "One boy who was treated for a bad case of ulcer, came back recently and said, 'I like best that green medicine.' The 'green medicine' was Zam-Buk."

Now, why should children, all the world over, show such a marked preference for Zam-Buk?

Children like Zam-Buk because, as soon as applied to a burn, a cut, or a sore, it stops the pain and then gradually, but surely, it heals.

Mothers might look a little more deeply into the action of Zam-Buk. First, it is highly antiseptic. As soon as applied it stops all danger of festering, blood-poisoning and inflammation. Second, it is soothing. It cools the wound or sore; allays the irritation; stops the pain and smarting. Then, thirdly, it stimulates the cells, beneath the injured part, to healthy action, and creates new, healthy tissue.

Just try Zam-Buk for cuts, or burns, or cold sores, or eczema, ulcers, rashes, bad leg, piles, varicose ulcers, or any inflamed or diseased condition of the skin. Its effect will highly satisfy you. All druggists and stores 50c. box, or free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Try Zam-Buk Soap, too. 25c. tablet.

An Easy Pill to Take.—Some persons have repugnance to pills because of their nauseating taste. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so prepared as to make them agreeable to the most fastidious. The most delicate can take them without feeling the revulsion that follows the taking of ordinary pills. This is one reason for the popularity of these celebrated pills, but the main reason is their high tonical quality as a medicine for the stomach.

BIG NATIONAL PROJECTS

Government to Build Hudson Bay Line and Welland Canal

A despatch from Ottawa says: Hon. George P. Graham's annual review of the transportation problems of the Dominion was presented to the Commons on Friday, on a motion to go into supply on the estimates for the Department of Railways and Canals.

The Government proposes to proceed at once with the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway for the first 170 miles from Pas Mission to Split Lake. Port Nelson will probably be the terminal port of the new railway. The railway will be built by the Government, and a proposal will be submitted to the House later on for its operation.

A new or enlarged Welland Canal is projected, and three different routes are under consideration. With an improved St. Lawrence route, Canada need fear no competition from the new United States canals via Buffalo or Oswego. The development of the country would justify the carrying out of both the Welland and the Georgian Bay Canals at no very distant date.

Under the power policy of the Government on the Trent Canal, power will be supplied to central Ontario municipalities at comparatively the cheapest prices in Canada.

The Intercolonial Railway last year yielded a surplus of $623,164.66, and for this year the surplus is estimated at $690,000, after paying over $300,000 on equipment renewal account.

The total cost of construction of the National Transcontinental Railway to its completion from Moncton to Winnipeg will be $145,339,700. The total expenditure to date by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company on the prairie and mountain sections of the G.T.P. is $53,201,498. It is expected to finish the mountain section in three years.

EXPERIMENTS WITH RAW ORE

Concentration of Low Grade Ore of Wide Benefit to Canada

A despatch from Ottawa says: Of great commercial importance are the results of magnetic concentration experiments with raw ores announced in a report just issued by the Department of Mines. It is a well known fact, states the report, that the deposits of merchantable iron ores hitherto discovered in Canada are very limited in extent; indeed, the blast furnace companies in Ontario had to import over 71 per cent. of the ore smelted in 1909. While, however, the supply of merchantable iron ore in Canada is limited, enormous quantities of low-grade ores are known to exist. The megnetic concentration of these ores into products equal, and in many instances superior, to the best natural ores obtainable, is, therefore of great importance.

Of particular interest were experiments carried out with two shipments of iron ores from the Bristol mines, in Pontiac County, Quebec. The conclusion arrived at is that by either of the two methods the concentrates from Bristol ores would yield very desirable low sulphur material for the manufacture of iron by either the electric or ordinary blast furnace. A recent examination of the mine revealed the existence of an ore field of 90,000 square feet.

WELLAND INDUSTRIES.

$2,000,000 Addition to Plant of Canada Car Company.

A despatch from Welland, Ont., says: The plant of the Electro Metals, located in the factory district of Welland, will be doubled in size this spring. The company have been exceedingly prosperous; and have found it necessary to have increased accommodation. United Motors, manufacturers of automobiles, will erect their factory building the coming summer. As soon as arrangements can be completed, the Sons of England will erect a large lodge and office building. It is understood that additions amounting to over two million dollars will be made to the plant of the Canada Car & Foundry Company here.

DR. WILLIAM SAUNDERS.

Tenders His Resignation as Director of Experimental Farms.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Dr. William Saunders, director of Dominion experimental farms, has tendered his resignation to the Minister of Agriculture. It will take effect at the end of the present month. Dr. Saunders, who is one of the best known men in the Dominion of Canada, has been director of experimental farms since 1886. His reason for resigning is that of late his health has not been good. He proposes to take a long holiday in Europe, and will sail for England in May next. He is 75 years of age, and lived formerly in London, Ont.

THE ACT WILL BE AMENDED

Legislation Will Allow Only Bona Fide Residents to Vote on Local Option

A despatch from Toronto says: An important change in the local option law, which will considerably alter the situation in some municipalities, will be introduced in the Ontario Legislature during the present session. The change will practically limit to bona fide residents of a municipality those entitled to vote upon a local option by-law.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, in replying to Mr. W. Proudfoot during the discussion over the three-fifths clause, stated that the Government would introduce legislation that would put an end to the complaints made by both temperance and liquor people in connection with local option contests under the present law. The amendment will prevent property-owners from voting unless they are residents of the municipality interested. "The man who lives fifty miles away from the place can have no real interest in a local option contest," explained Hon. Mr. Hanna.

WHOLE TOWN WIPED OUT.

Big Powder Plant 60 Miles From Chicago Blew Up.

A despatch from Chicago says: The big plant of the Dupont Powder Co., located near the little town of Pleasant Prairie, just across the line from Wisconsin, near Kenosha, and sixty miles from Chicago, "blew up" on Tnursday night with terrific force. The shock was felt for many miles around. In Chicago many large buildings in the loop were shaken. The Boston store, one of the largest buildings in the loop, was so severely shaken that large plate glass windows were broken and fell on passing pedestrians in the street below. Pleasant Prairie is entirely wiped out, and not a building remains of a once prosperous little town. One life is known to be lost, but up to the present time it is impossible to say just how many more. The property loss is estimated at $1,500,000.

DYNAMITE TO OPEN HARBOR.

No Other Way of Clearing Entrance to Sydney, Nova Scotia.

A despatch from Halifax says: It may be necessary to use dynamite to open Sydney Harbor to navigation. The ice in the harbor is nearly sixteen inches in thickness, but the real obstacle is an ice barrier, which has formed across the mouth of the harbor, and which is now about sixteen feet thick. It is made of lolly ice and snow, and effectively keeps all shipping from the port. The dynamiting of this huge mass of ice is now being considered. Sea captains say that it can be mo[illegible] no other way. It would take [illegible]le summer's sun to melt it. [illegible] few people have any idea of the quantity and thickness of the ice on the coast. A sea captain stated that in some places the ice has piled tier upon tier, until it reached the great height of somet[illegible]ing like sixty feet.

CONNAUGHT'S INAUGURATION

Duke's Aide on Way to Ottawa to Make Arrangements.

A despatch from New York says: Capt. T. P. Rivers Bulkeley, M.V.O., and aide-de-camp to the Duke of Connaught, the Hon. R. Fellowes, a son of Lord Ramsey, and Mr. John Gilliat arrived here on Friday on the Mauretania. They are on their way to Ottawa to arrange matters for the inauguration of the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General of the Dominion.

PARADISE FOR DOMESTICS.

London Paper's View of Their Diversions in Canada.

A despatch from Ottawa says: In the Senate on Wednesday, Senator McDonald, of British Columbia, called attention to an article in an English paper, the Mirror, which he said was misleading, as it ordered servants to go to Canada, where the custom was to allow domestics to go boating and play tennis each afternoon.

BRITAIN'S NAVAL PROGRAM

Estimates Show Increase of $63,000,000 Over Previous Year.

A despatch from London says: The naval estimates issued on Thursday night provide for the expenditure of $221,962,500, an increase of $63,000,000 over the previous year. The cost of new construction is fixed at $15,318,585. The programme includes five Dreadnoughts, three protected cruisers, one unarmored cruiser, twenty destroyers, six submarines, and an increase in the personnel of the navy of 3,000 men.

The Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, favored five dreadnoughts, but the radical section of the Cabinet and Liberal party of the Cabinet and Liberal party insisted that four would suffice. Mr. McKenna's statement shows that a compromise has been reached between the insistent radical demands for naval economy and the Admiralty authorities. According to this, by April 1 the battleship Neptune, the armored cruiser Indefatigable, and five protected cruisers will be available for service, while the vessels under construction will include ten battleships, three armored cruisers, seven protected and three unarmored cruisers, thirty-two destroyers, and twelve submarines.

It is pointed out that a considerable amount of the estimates is to be increased pay for the betterment of the men's conditions and dockyard construction at Rosyth.

It is said that a heavy new construction programme, which will include eight Dreadnoughts, is projected for next year.

NIAGARA POWER FOR FARMS

Bill Introduced in the Ontario Legislature by the Hon. Adam Beck

A despatch from Toronto says: The way has been opened for the extension of the Hydro-electric service to all the unorganized villages and farming districts in the power zone. Hon. Adam Beck's promised bill to provide for the local distribution of electrical power was introduced in the Legislature on Wednesday, and when it becomes law enterprising sections of municipalities which have hitherto been prevented from securing power because of the opposition of other sections, will be able to go right ahead. The measure embodies the local improvement principle, in that it provides the means whereby only the portion of the municipality benefiting bears the expense. Under the terms of the bill any resident or number of residents may apply to the Council of a municipality to enter into negotiations with the Hydro-electric Commission. The Council must, after taking certain steps, enter into a contract with the Commission to supply power to the applicants. The municipality may issue debentures to cover the expense incurred and levy a special rate. The rates charged for the power shall be large enough to return to the municipality the interest and sinking fund upon the debentures.

Unorganized villages may apply to the township Council upon the same basis as groups of individuals, the costs incurred to be specially assessed upon the village.

FIFTY PER CENT. INCREASE

Census Commissioner Blue Tells of Arrangements For Coming Census.

A despatch from Ottawa says: "We hope and feel that the census of Canada to be taken this summer will show an increase in the population of the country over that of the last official census in 1901 of at least fifty per cent," said Mr. Archibald Blue, Census Commissioner, on Thursday morning. Mr. Blue stated that all the Commissioners had been appointed and that the enumerators would be appointed shortly.

The work will be commenced on June 1 and will consume more time than the last one, owing to the large increase in population and the additional ground to be covered. According to Mr. Blue's estimate the census will show the total population of Canada to be nearly 8,000,000. In 1901 it was about 5,371,000. The estimate is largely based on the immigration figures for the past ten years and the natural increases during that period.

Mr. Blue said he felt that the Maritime Provinces would show a slight increase. Unfortunately for these Provinces, however, many immigrants who originally intended to settle in them had been lured farther west. He thought, however, that in spite of the small immigration to the eastern Provinces they would show an increase over 1901. All the other Provinces of the Dominion would show substantial increases. The Provinces of the northwest would show large increases.

Oh, Those Freckles!

Many women are unable to enjoy the health giving properties of good Canadian sunshine, simply because they immediately reap a fine crop of freckles.

You needn't worry about that. Go ahead and enjoy a sunbath—stay out in it all day.

If freckles come Nyal's Freckle Lotion will remove them as well as the tan.

If your skin gets burned, Nyal's Face Cream will take out the soreness and redness.

Don't forget that name—NYAL'S.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Mrs. Jane Atkinson is quite ill at her home on William Street.

Mrs. Mehlock is quite ill with grip as is also Mrs. James Stewart.

Hughie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gould, is very ill with pneumonia.

The James street League visited the Main Street League Tuesday evening, and furnished a very choice program, after which a lunch was served by the home league.

Mr. Richard Murphy, the popular local agent for the Massey-Harris farm machinery, had a large delivery on Tuesday, farmers being in from all quarters and in large numbers.

Mr. Sol. Hardy has disposed of his dwelling on Simcoe street to Mr. Sam'l Lamport, who recently sold his store business at Chandeboye. Mr. Lamport will take possession May 1st.

Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress was presented in picture and song in James Street church on Monday evening to a good sized audience, by Rev. T. L. Wilkinson of Alymer. Those present were much interested and pleased with the entertainment. Rev. Mr. Wilkinson also preached in the Methodist churches on Sunday.

A regular storm period covers the 24th to the 28th, central on the 26th. Falling barometer, change to warmer, ending in snow storms will result at this period. New moon falling on the 30th, will restrain high barometer and cold, which naturally should follow storms. Seismic periods are from the 11th to 17th, and from the 27th to April the 3rd.

Mr. Jake Finkbeiner, who for the past six years has been the faithful hostler at the Commercial House, has resigned and will in a few days sever his connection with the hotel. For a time at least he will take a rest at his home in Stephen. Farmers and the travelling public who stop at this hostelry will learn the news with regret, as man and beast were always in the best of keeping when attended to by the faithful Jake, whose happy greeting "Lucky Man" has become the favorite password in the community.

As announced in our marriage column last week the wedding took place on Wednesday of Miss Carrie C., daughter of Mr. James Scott, William street, to Mr. Andrew McLachlan of Cromarty. Rev. S. F. Sharp, B. D., assisted by Rev R. G. McKay of Cromarty, performed the ceremony. The only attendant was the niece of the bride, Miss Mary Francis. Mr. and Mrs. McLachlin will reside in Hibbert. The best wishes of their many friends are extended to them.

Capt. Bryant, Thedford, a former resident of Exeter and well-known in military circles, has sent in his resignation to the Military Department. He has served continuously for 22 years and six months, 14 of which were with the 27th Regiment. Capt. Bryant was one of the most popular officers in the regiment and will be missed at the annual training, not only by the members of the 27th, but by many older military men of No. 1 district.

For some time negotiations have been in progress between the Grand Trunk Railway company and the town officials regarding a supply of water to be furnished the company by the town for this division of the L., H. & B. The deal was completed the latter part of last week and the town will furnish the water on a flat rate of $400 a year. The Council is to be congratulated on securing so good a bargain, as the revenue from this source is no mean item. It is likely a contract will also be entered into between the town and the canning factory, water to be supplied from the main leading to the Grand Trunk property, which will also be an additional revenue. The Council will proceed at once to have the main laid.

In view of the fact that local members of the Church of England are very much interested in the Western Ontario Conference of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which takes place in Guelph on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 5th, 6th and 7th, the object of the organization is of rather more than passing interest. The sole object of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew is the spread of Christ's Kingdom among men, especially young men. It was formed in recognition of the fact that every Christian man is pledged to devote his life to the extension of Christ's Kingdom on earth. It is composed of men of every station in life, the majority of whom are active in the affairs of the world, who are understood to have acknowledged this responsibility as resting upon themselves, and are ready to strive like St. Andrew to lead men nearer to Christ. Personal allegiance to Him, loyalty to His Kingdom, belief that there is work to be done for the spread of the Kingdom among men, especially young men, a conviction of individual responsibility for entire consecration to that work, and the spirit of Christian fraternity—these are the fundamental principles on which the Brotherhood has been established and developed.

BIBLE SUNDAY—Bishop Williams is notifying all the Anglican clergy of the Diocese of Huron, to observe Sunday March 28th, as Bible Sunday, to Mark the tercentenary of the authorized version of the English Bible. The same date will be set apart in England, and special sermons appropriate to the occasion will be preached there, as here. It is likely that the Anglican church will take a leading part in celebrating the Bible tercentenary inasmuch as the English Bible was given to the English people by the Church of England.

DIAMOND WEDDING—Two former residents of Usborne, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dew of Grundy Centre, Iowa, will on St. Patrick's Day, Friday, Mar 17th, celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding, which took place at Thames Road, Usborne, in 1851, after which they resided in that Township until about thirty years ago, when they moved to Grundy centre, which has since been their home. Mr. and Mrs. Dew are still enjoying fair health, and old friends here will join in wishing them many more years of wedded happiness. Their daughter Mrs. John Hunter left on Tuesday morning to be present at the celebration. Two other members of the family are also expected.

LIQUOR SELLING AT GRANTON

One of the most interesting and important prosecutions that has taken place in this vicinity in a long time was heard before Magistrate Smith at Ailsa Craig last week when John Lankin of Granton was fined $100 for selling liquor without a license.

The evidence showed that Lankin who is living at Granton, had been handling a very large number of cases of whiskey and had been selling it wholesale to farmers all through the district. He had no license whatever.

The wholesale supplying the wet goods packed it in cases resembling merchandise so closely that it was not until the parcels were opened up that their contents could be learned.

Business was so good that Lankin had a peddler going about selling the whiskey. The man also appeared before Magistrate Smith and was fined $20.

LOCAL ITEMS

FIRE ALARM—The alarm of fire sounded through the town on Monday at 12 o'clock, when it was found that it was but a chimney fire at the home of Thomas May, William Street. A defective in the chimney was the cause. One room was smoked up considerably but otherwise no damage was done. The fire brigade was quickly on the scene, but the water was not turned on.

JULY EXAMINATIONS.—The Department of Education at Toronto has issued the time table for July examinations. For entrance to Normal schools the examinations will begin on July 3, and last till July 7. For entrance to the faculties of education, pass matriculation and honor and scholarship matriculation, the examinations will all begin on June 29 and last till July 12, except the latter teats, which will continue one day longer. The commercial specialist examination for 1911, will be held on August 8, 9, 10 and 11 at the department of education after the close of the summer school at the University of Toronto.

TRANSFUSION OF BLOOD.—An important operation has been performed in Harper's Hospital, Detroit, by Dr. J. W. Harrison, formerly of Exeter, upon his brother-in-law, Ray Fanson, formerly of Exeter. The operation consisted of transferring about three pints of blood from the arteries of a healthy relative, John Wisner, into Mr. Fanson's veins. Mr. Fanson has been ill with pernicious anemia, which is a degeneration of the blood cells, and has become so weak that he was unable to walk. It was thought he could not live more than three weeks. The operation, however, seems to have been a decided success, the patient is now able to walk about, and complete recovery is looked for. Exeter friends will be pleased to hear the good news.

SUDDEN DEATH—The people of Exeter were shocked on Friday afternoon to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Thomas May. Deceased was about the house as usual and shortly before two o'clock dropped over dead, the bursting of a blood vessel being the cause. She was aged 77 years, 10 mos. and 5 days. The late Mrs. May's maiden name was Elizabeth White. She was born in Cornwall, Eng., coming to Canadda when 14 years of age and settling near Coburg with her mother, her father having died in the old land. Later in life she moved to Stephen Tp. to keep house for her brother, Thomas White. Forty-six years ago she married Mr. May. About 20 years ago they moved to Exeter to reside. Besides the husband the surviving members of the family are W. F. of Mitchell, George, Joseph and John, Mrs. J. G. Jones and Mrs. Henry Rowe, all of or near Exeter. Deceased was a faithful wife, a kind mother, and beloved by all who knew her. She was a member of James Street Methodist church and a consistent Christian. The relatives have the sympathy in the community in their loss.

A CLOSE CALL.—What might have resulted in a serious conflagration happened in the rear of Mr. Thom. Baker's Machine Shop on Wednesday night of last week. On Thursday morning on entering the building it was discovered to be full of smoke. On investigation at the back of the building where the stove stood it was found that the floor had caught fire, and a large hole, several feet in diameter around the stove had been burned through, together with the joist, and the stove had partly toppled over. The fire was still burning, and doubtless had it not been discovered when it was the result would have been serious. It appears the day previous old rubbish and loose paper had been burned in the stove and it is thought that the fire in some way communicated with the floor. Mr Hunter, when burning the rubbish had taken the precaution to put a quantity of snow around the stove, and as a result the floor had become pretty well moistened, which no doubt checked the fire from making more rapid progress. Had the fire got any kind of a start there is no telling where it would have ended, as the night was accompanied by a heavy wind.

A UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.—The National Tea and Entertainment given in Caven Presbyterian church on Friday evening in honor of Saint Patrick, was largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The tea was served in the basement, in the four corners of which were tables, tastefully decorated and surrounded, respectively, by things representing England, Ireland, Scotland and Canada, and waited upon by ladies in national costumes; while in the centre of the room was a Japanese tea booth. The menu provided at the tables was also representative of the nations, and choice in every particular. The tea being over a program of four parts was given in the main part of the church, the pastor, Rev. Sharp, presiding. Each part was introduced by appropriate instrumentals by Mr. Steer followed by anthems by the choir. In the English part Rev. Hobbs gave an address and Mr. Thos. Carling a solo. For the Irish Rev. Powell gave an address and Miss E. Pollick and H. Southcott solos. Scotland was represented by Rev. Sharp in an address, Mrs. G. Matson, a reading and two choruses by the choir. And Mr. W. R. Weldenhamer spoke for Canada. The whole was concluded by a tableau, representing the various nations. Seldom, if ever, has a more pleasing evening been spent in Exeter.

AUCTION SALE NOTICES

Read the auction sale notices on inside page. Every sale should be well advertised and you cannot get the best results unless you advertise in The Advocate. It pays many times over.

T. B. Carling Clerk.

USBORNE.

SURPRISE PARTY—A number of young people from Exeter and vicinity got up a surprise party on Friday evening of last week and drove out to Mr. Josh Heywoods to spend the evening with their young friends, Gordon and Victor. Shortly after 8 o'clock ten vehicles loaded with young people determined on having a good time drove up to the farm house and took possession of the house, which was freely granted by the host and hostess, and a good time was spent by all. The evening was spent in the usual games and pastimes, singing and instrumental music being freely indulged in. Miss Gladys Ford and Miss Nettie Johnston delighted the audience with some choice instrumentals, while the duets by Clark Fisher and H. Parsons were well received. The young ladies furnished the sandwiche and cakes while the young men furnished a sack of oranges which made a dainty lunch suitable for a St. Patricks day outing. Supper over, all went to their homes well pleased with the pleasant time they had spent together.

DASHED UNDER THE BIG GUNS

HEROIC EXPLOIT OF LORD CHARLES BERESFORD.

Many Gallant Acts Were to His Credit That Demanded Supreme Courage.

After more than fifty years' service in the Navy Admiral Lord Charles Beresford has now retired, having reached the age at which that step becomes imperative under the regulations. That he feels deeply the final separation from the service he loved, and in which he was one of the most popular of the higher officers, one cannot doubt. And the regret will be felt keenly among those he leaves behind.

But he will take into retirement the high satisfaction of knowing that he won the approbation of three Sovereigns, the deep affection of the nation, and the esteem of all with whom he had been brought into contact during his professional career.

Having joined the Britannia, as a naval cadet in 1859, he was after appointed to the Marlborough, and subsequently to the Defence. And although at the moment there were no opportunities to earn the approval of the country upon a field of battle or upon the deck of one of the ships of the British Feet, he was not long before he gave a sample of the kind of work that might be expected from him when the opportunity came.

WAS VERY BRAVE.

It was while serving in the Defence that he saved the first of several lives by his courage. The ship was lying in the Mersey, when a shout went up that there was a man overboard. Without an instant's delay young Beresford leaped to the rail, and from thence dived into the water, holding up his man until a boat could be sent to his assistance. For his pluck he was awarded the medal of the Royal Humane Society, which, with its bar for further act of courage and life-saving, is still doubtless one of his most cherished trophies.

It was only a few years later that he earned the second reward by a particularly plucky act. It was in the early part of 1871, and his ship was lying in Port Stanley, on the Falkland Islands. There was plenty of sport to be had ashore, and the young officer was just going to start on a little expedition of that character.

But as he was about to step down the gangway, a marine fell over the ship's side, and was at once seen to be in danger of losing his life. Beresford had a heavy shooting jacket. Moreover, his pockets were bulging with ammunition.

Yet he was after the drowning marine while others were wondering what had better be done, or waiting for a boat to be got out. He was successful in saving the man's life in spite of his weighty clothes and cartridges, and when the news came ashore the society decided to add a clasp to the medal they had already given him.

LIFE-SAVING INCIDENT.

Before telling the story of the Condar there is another life-saving incident that stands to the credit of the brave officer. He had but three years' service, and was still on the Defence, when it happened. Indeed, it was only a few months after the incident for which he received the medal already referred to. The ship was lying in Dublin Bay, and a boat was going ashore with some liberty men. Before the occupants had quite settled down one of them fell into the water. Beresford was scarcely more than a boy, and in his earlier days was but a weak little chap. But he had strong courage, and without hesitation went to the assistance of the drowning man. For this he was awarded the medal of another society.

It was in January, 1889, that he obtained command of the Condor, one of the gunboats of the Mediterranean squadron, and six months later he was the hero of the incident that has remained firmly fixed in the romantic side of historical reminiscences ever since.

The British fleet, under Admiral Sir F. B. Seymour, was engaged in the bombardment of the Alexandria. The enemy were effectively replying, and when, in the course of the bombardment, the Temeraire went ashore, she was in considerable danger from the guns of the fort.

Lord Charles Beresford was ordered to render her all the assistance possible in getting her floated, and when he had done the work allotted to him he started on something that was even more to his taste.

DISABLED TEMERAIRE.

The Marabout Fort had been particularly active in throwing its projectiles in dangerous proximity to the Condor and the disabled Temeraire, and the commander of the little gunboat determined to pay her back with some of her own coin.

A signal was given, and in a moment those who were watching saw almost with horror that the Condor was dashing right under the very mouths of the guns of the fort, and engaging in a duel with them.

For a time those who witnessed the incident almost held their breath, expecting to see the frail little craft sink, with a well-placed shot inside her. The Condor had only three guns in all, a 7 inch and two 54-pounders. The fort was armed with two 12 inch, two 9 inch, twenty 32-pounders and five mortars. The odds were appalling. But the little gunboat spit her fire at the flame-belching mass of guns overhead, and before the enemy could depress their aim sufficiently to get at the little wasp that was stinging so disagreeable from below, the signal had been run up from the commander-in-chief's flagship, "Well done, Condor!" Beresford's name was at once on the tongues of the nation as that of a British sailor of the type of which the country and the empire have been proud since there has been a navy and an empire.

FIGHT WITH A LION.

A Hunter's Experience With Big Game in East Africa.

The ostrich camp near Sir Alfred Pease's homestead at Athi River had been worried by lions, and a hunting party was organized consisting of Sir Alfred Pease, G. Grey, Howard and Edward Pease, Capt. Slatter, Mr. Clifford and H. M. Hill. They divided into two parties, one consisting of Sir Alfred and Mr. Hill, says the East African Standard.

After about half an hour's ride Mr. Hill espied two large lions and the party of two galloped after the quarry. Sir Alfred followed the bigger and slower animal and Mr. Hill the leader. The object of the hunters was to turn the game into a donga (creek) and thus to give time for the other party to come up, hoping that Mr. Grey would be given the opportunity to open the shoot. He was a sportsman with a fine reputation for high courage and was no novice with big game.

Unfortunately Mr. Grey on seeing the game at once put his horse to the gallop and practically started to course the lions. His companions were immediately alarmed at his temerity and endeavored to warn him of the danger he was courting. They were doubly alarmed at seeing one of the lions preparing to charge.

Mr. Hill dismounted and fired a quick shot at the bigger lion in the hope of distracting his attention from Mr. Grey, who jumped off his pony and waited the onslaught. At about twenty yards he fired. The shot went into the shoulder but did not stop the charge. He got in another shot at about five yards, hitting the lion in the mouth, breaking two of his fangs. Then the lion flung his victim to the ground and began to worry him like a dog would a mouse.

Meanwhile H. Pease had followed Mr. Grey and with Sir Alfred and Mr. Hill galloped to the lion and his victim. When they were some fifty yards away the lion noticed his fresh antagonists and ceased to maul Mr. Grey.

At twenty-five yards the party dismounted and ran in. The lion immediately made toward them. At this moment of peril Mr. Hill's rifle jammed. Sir Alfred and H. Pease fired and the balls entered the lion's ribs. The wounded animal then returned to his victim.

The horrified relief party scarcely remember what happened during the next brief moments further than that the lion was on top of Mr. Grey and animal and man were so mixed up that it was most difficult to distinguish the former's head from the latter's body. It was found impossible to get in a deadly head shot until the lion was almost lifeless. During the fray the other lion was only about one hundred yards away, growling and lashing his tail. The hunters, having only two .256 rifles, paid no attention to the second animal.

Mr. Grey's wounds were very numerous. The lion severely clawed his face and head, bit his arms, hands and thighs and inflicted wounds on his back. Mr. Grey died in a hospital at Nairobi.

SALT BATHS BANISH COLDS.

Chicago's Health Bureau also Advises Using Salt Soda.

"Salt baths" will keep you from catching cold. This is the advice given in the latest bulletin of Chicago's health bureau.

"The skin is second in importance to our lungs and kidneys in renovating our system," it states. "Hence, how needful are clean skins. Here is a bath suggestion: Instead of soap use sal. soda, or bi-carbonate of soda (baking soda). They will clean the skin quicker and better.

"When through wipe thoroughly and then dash the whole body over with a cold saturated solution of common salt, and wipe sparingly. This is one of the best skin tonics and bracers against colds. Many a cold has been thwarted and many a coddled skin girted up by this plan. Rock-ribbed, germ-proofed health is largely attained by healthy skins."

BRITONS HOLD THEIR OWN

AGAINST GERMAN AND AMERICAN COMPETITION.

Gigantic Engineering Feats Prove That Britain is Not a Back Number.

In spite of what gloomy pessimists may say about Great Britain losing her grip of the world's trade, it would appear that in engineering, at any rate, we are not only holding our own, but grabbing other people's, says Pearson's Weekly.

This comforting reflection arises from the fact that British engineering firms have recently secured, in the teeth of strenuous German and American competition, the contracts for two great South American railways.

TO COST $21,250,000.

The President of Chili has signed a decree accepting the offer of Messrs. Griffiths & Co. to build the new Chilian railway between Cabildo and Toledo, a distance of about four hundred miles, at a cost of $21,250,000. Mr. Norton Griffiths, M.P., the head of the firm, has started for Chili, and from all quarters of the globe the firm's engineers have been ordered by cable to join their chief at the seat of operations.

Some idea of the tremendous task undertaken by the contractors may be formed from the fact that they estimate they will require a million sleepers and over thirty-five thousand tons of rails. There will be just under three miles of bridges and rather more than three miles of tunnels, and the earth to be removed is estimated at 14,000,000 cubic yards. With the exception of the sleepers, which will come from America, all the rails, tools for construction, and engines will be ordered in England.

This railway, which will be completed within five years, will ultimately form part of the much-talked-of Pan-American railroad system which is to extend from New York to Valparaiso. From Toledo a railway already runs up to Arica, and from Arica to La Paz another railway is being built by British capital.

A German syndicate was very keen on getting the contract for the Arica-La Paz railway, but it was secured by a company in which Messrs. Griffiths are largely interested, the contract price being $15,000,000.

NO RAIN FOR FORTY YEARS.

For more than half the distance from Arica the line runs through a barren desert without any sign of vegetation, and this enormously complicates the difficulties of building. There has not been a shower of rain in the neighborhood for forty years, and the absence of rain is so certain that the contractors have not troubled to build sheds to shelter some thousands of tons of Portland cement, but have left it out in the open.

About five hundred mules are constantly employed in carrying food, water, and materials up the mountains, water at one time having to be carried over thirty miles. More suitable water-carrying arrangements have recently been made, however, by means of a line of pipes about eighty miles long.

As our readers may remember, another great South American railway, the recently opened Trans-Andean Railway is also British built, and these are only the larger of the engineering works being carried out in South America by British capital.

REGISTERED AS AMERICANS.

Middlesborough engineering firm recently wrested a big contract from the grip of several powerful American firms. This was a contract for 6,000 tons of steelwork comprising 400 bridges, varying in length from 7 feet to 105 feet, required in connection with the doubling of the South Manchurian Railway system between Su-chra-tun and Dalny.

Another British firm triumphantly carried the war into the enemy's country, and has recently finished the tunnelling of East River, New York, a tunnel the Americans were unable to build for themselves.

To obtain the contract the firm had to go through the formality of registering themselves as an American company, and they also had to agree to a penalty of $2,000,000 if they failed in their undertaking.

In the middle of the river is a low reef breaking up through slit and quicksand, but in few places was this reef high enough to cover the outer rim of the tunnel. This simply means that to drive through the quicksand the men had to work in compressed air that would resist the tendency of the quicksand to rush in and overwhelm them, and at the same time there was a constant danger of the roof of the tunnel being blown out by the immense pressure of air from within.

Men affected by compressed air die so quickly that special arrangements had to be made and doctors were kept in readiness for emergencies day and night.

SIR OLIVER LODGE'S VIEWS

SAYS CONCEPTION OF DEITY IS HUMANLY SIMPLE.

The Great Scientist Says It Appeals to the Ignorant and Babes.

No scientific man compels greater interest and attention in Great Britain when dealing with religious matters than Sir Oliver Ladge. His great lay sermon on the subject of "Christian Revelation" from the scientific point of view was the outstanding event at the National Free Church Council meeting recently at Portsmouth, England. Sir Oliver declared that he had learned to regard the universe as a concrete, full-bodied reality with its parts accessible and intelligible to all. Among other things he said: "God can be regarded as displayed to us in such fashion as we can make use of in the person of an incarnate being, who came for the express purpose of revealing to man such attributes of the Deity as would otherwise have been missed."

At another point Sir Oliver advised his hearers to "always mistrust negations. The impossibility of squaring a circle is not really a negative proposition except in form. Negations commonly and prejudice always, except when they are thoroughly established and carefully formulated in the light of actual experience or mathematical proof. Even then, I would be ready to admit the possibility of higher generalizations which may uproot them. They are only safe when thrown in the form of a positive assertion. Always try for a positive form of any comprehensive denial. If it cannot be thrown in positive form, mistrust it. Its promulgator is probably stepping out of bounds into the easy region of negative speculation. He is like the rationalistic microbe, denying the existence of a human being."

In summing up his convictions, Sir Oliver said: "Progress lies in careful investigation as well as speculation and thought up to the limits of human power. When things are really understood, they are perceived to be fairly simple after all. The Christian conception of God is humanly simple. It appeals to the man in the street, to the unlettered, the ignorant and babes. That is the way with the greatest things. The sun is the center of the solar system, full of mystery and unforseen force. But the sunshine is a friendly, homely thing that touches common objects and conduces to comfort, yes, and conduces to the comfort of the cat. Sunshine is not the sun, but is the human, terrestrial aspect of the sun.

A GLORIOUS OBJECT,

"Thus would I represent the Christian conception of God. Christ is the human, practical, workaday aspect. Christ is the sunshine, that fraction of the transcendent Deity which suffices the earth."

In dealing with miracles, Sir Oliver said they were no more impossible, nor more lawless than the interference of a human being would seem to a colony of ants and bees. "The region of the miraculous," concluded Sir Oliver, "has been hastily and illegitimately denied. So long as we do not imagine it to be a region denuded of a law and order of its own akin to the law and order of a psychological realm, our denial has no foundation."

INSURING AGAINST DEVILS.

Curious Way the Chinese Have of Taking Out an Annual Policy.

Once every year, during the first fifteen days of the seventh Chinese month, the curious ceremony of Yu-Nan-Whei is celebrated, being in fact the paying of homage to the land and sea devils.

Seven priests carry out the ceremony by offering up various forms of prayer, says the Wide World Magazine, and making an unearthly noise by beating gongs.

Any one wishing to show his respect to the devils can do so by a payment of 600 cash—about 22 cents—to each of the priests, for which amount they will continue their performance for twelve hours—a truly modest remuneration.

For an extra payment of 2,000 cash a number of small red paper boats about six inches long, with lights inside, will be sent floating down the river with the current. These lights are for the benefit of the sea devils in order that they may be able to see their way about on dark nights.

Having finished their performance the person on whose behalf it has been carried out goes away happy in the conviction that he will not lose any of his family throughout the year either from sickness or drowning, so that the whole ceremony may be looked upon as an insurance policy. At this time of year many thousands of the small lighted boats may be seen floating down the Yang-tze-kiang.

FROM MERRY OLD ENGLAND

NEWS BY MAIL ABOUT JOHN BULL AND HIS PEOPLE.

Occurrences in the Land That Reigns Supreme in the Commercial World.

Lady Warwick telegraphed to one of the leading London papers her emphatic disapproval of the trouser skirt.

The Government have proposed to increase the price of tobacco to the Navy 1s 8d per lb., and of soap ½d per lb.

A number of skeletons have been stolen from St. Piran's Oratory, Cornwall. It is believed that the thief is a medical man.

According to the annual report of the borough council, Holborn lost $122,305 during the year owing to the number of empty premises in the borough.

Work and help were given to Wm. Arnold, the 15-year-old London boy who pawned his clothes in order to obtain food for his family.

A stone coffin or cist, composed of five slabs and containing human remains, has been discovered on the Abbey St. Bathans estate.

Cats are dying in large numbers in the Cullompton district of Devonshire of a malady as mysterious in its origin as it is deadly in its effects.

A beautiful specimen of the ermine was caught in the flower garden of Scottow Hall, Norfolk, last week. It is an extremely rare visitor to this country.

The ages of fourteen of the last fifteen persons who have died in the village of Doddinghurst, Essex, aggregate 1,086 years, an average of seventy-seven.

Tickets for 3 cwt. of coal were given to 1,150 blind persons, who were entertained to tea at the Shoreditch Tabernacle by an anonymous lady donor.

According to a return by the committee of the city police, London, there were 400 accidents with vehicles in the city in the last quarter of 1910, four proving fatal.

Since the Cosford rural council agreed to pay one penny for every rat killed in the district, 30,645 rats have been exterminated at a cost to the council of nearly $635.

Gardens are to be provided for London elementary schools at the rate of about twenty each year, the Day Schools Sub-Committee have decided. The average cost of forming a school garden is about $75.

The Epping Forest Committee of the corporation of London, in their annual report, state that the necessary work of thinning was continued last year, each block of woodland being treated according to its needs.

A remarkable sight will be witnessed in London on Good Friday afternoon when a large procession of some 200 clergy and 3,000 laity, headed by the Bishop of London and his suffragans will march from St. Martin's-in-the-Fields to St. Paul's Cathedral.

CORONATION JEWELRY.

Real Coronets are Cheaper Than the Imitations.

London jewelers are working overtime in producing all manner of coronation novelties. Imitation coronets for those who are not entitled to wear the real article are among them. Strange to say, real coronets are cheaper than the imitations

The special tiaras and coronets which the fashionable jewelers are turning out for the coming social festivities range in price from $500 to $50,000 or more. They are set with pearls and diamonds in elaborate designs and when not worn as a hair ornament some of them can be converted into necklaces.

The coronets worn by the nobility are plain affairs in comparison. Only the Royal coronets can be set with jewels. Those worn by peers and peeresses are fashioned in silvergilt and a nice one can be had for $500 or a little more.

Imitation coronets are not the only expensive articles of jewelry to which the coronation year is lending a wide popularity. Hatpins mounted with gold crowns are being turned out in large numbers. Facsimiles of the pure gold anointing spoon which plays a part in the coronation ceremony have already found place in many homes.

The new King George coinage is being made up into brooches and waist belts, and dainty tiepins are on sale with Royal crowns and tiny jewelled sceptres to ornament them.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, MARCH 26.

Lesson XIII. — Review Golden Text, Psa. 144. 15.

One Truth These lessons Teach. Final power belongs to the one great King.

Therefore, the Aim is, To lead the pupils to worship and serve the King to whom worship is due.

Clue to Pupils' Interest. How one earthly king recognized the power and authority of God the greatest King.

Introduction. Many of you have read of King Canute on the seashore, and you need not to be reminded of the story to see in your mind the king sitting in his royal chair by the side of the sea with his scepter in his hand and his crown on his head. One hand is stretched out over the sea and he is saying to the rolling waves: "Sea, I command you to come no farther! Waves, stop your rolling and do not dare to touch my feet!" But the tide is coming in just as it has always done. In a few minutes King Canute is throwing his crown down upon the sand. He is saying, "There is only one King who is all-powerful, and it is he who rules the sea and holds the ocean in the hollow of his hand." He is doing this to teach his subjects who are gathered around that he is only an earthly king, and that real power and glory belong to the heavenly King, for, turning to them, he says: "Do you, my men, learn a lesson from what you have seen. It is He whom you ought to praise and serve above all others."

Lesson Story. We have been learning during the past three months about the earthly kings who ruled over the divided kingdoms of Israel and Judah. Over and above all there ruled the God of hosts, turning battles whichever way he chose, granting peace and plenty to the kings who followed him in purity and truth, overthrowing the worship of idols, teaching strange and wonderful lessons through his mighty works, permitting his prophets to perform miracles in his name, and taking his faithful servant into heaven in a chariot of fire on a whirlwind. We have come to understand more of God's dealings with men through the history of such kings as Jeroboam, Rheoboam, Asa, Omri, Jehosaphat, and Ahab, and through the teachings of their prophets Elijah and Elisha.

If we can remember the lessons for to-day learned from the lessons of long ago and have planted the truth they hold in our hearts, we shall not have spent these months in vain.

Let the teacher test the class by giving the aim of the different lessons and encouraging the pupils to tell in their own language the story that accompanies. For example, the teacher may say: "In one of our lessons we learned that the true worship of our hearts is what God would have from us to-day. Can anyone tell in his own words the lesson through which we learned this truth?" The response should be, "Elijah's Victory over the Prophets of Baal." But if there should not be an immediate response, the pupils may be led to remember the lesson if the teacher quotes the Golden Text, "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." The teacher might begin: "It was at Mount Carmel, and there was gathered a company of priests of Baal on the one side, and a single lonely, white-haired prophet on the other side. There were two altars ready for the sacrifice——" When she has gone thus far, some pupil will surely be ready to go with the story.

Write out the Aims in each lesson either on the blackboard or on tablets if the lesson is taught in individual classes and have the pupils read all the Aims.

If there is time, it might prove helpful to have the pupils restate as many of the Aims as they can in their own words.

Teach in closing the text for this lesson, impressing it as much as possible as a vital lesson for to-day.

Sing during the review Luther's hymn, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

MINE SOLD FOR $250,000.

One of the Largest Transactions in History of Nova Scotia.

A despatch from Halifax N. S., says: Controlling interest in the richest tungsten mine in the world, located at Scheelite, near Moose River, Guysboro County, has been sold by A. A. Hayward to a syndicate composed of prominent Canadians. The price for the interest is about a quarter of a million dollars, and outside of the coal mines is the biggest mining transfer ever made in Nova Scotia. Hayward retains an interest, which is under option to a syndicate, and under second option to a French syndicate.

Mr. Thomas J. Drummond Enthusiastic As To Future of Ontario's Clay Belt

A despatch from Montreal says: Mr. Thomas J. Drummond, President of the Lake Superior Corporation, has just returned from the plant at Sault Ste. Marie, and is full of the subject of the rapid settlement of that great domain known as the Ontario clay belt traversed by the Canadian Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific for four hundred miles, and crossed north and south by the Algoma Central. The company have explorers out in all directions, and Mr. Drummond says that country, capable of giving homes to two million people, will be the surprise of the century, as it is really a timbered prairie, and will be settled up as quickly as the western Provinces. But he says Ontario should be astir, for the French-Canadians are especially adapted for such colonization, and all know what they have done along the line of the C. P. R. Although the two other roads have the advantage of traversing this clay belt, the Canadian Pacific, with its usual energy, will tap the country in various directions from the main line as a base, and get its share of the great traffic which is sure to come out of this immense domain. The President of the Lake Superior Corporation says there are at least sixteen million acres here of the very best land in the Dominion. It is understood that by the end of the year the Lake Superior Corporation will have spent twenty millions in two years, and the development is just begun.

CONFESSES HIS CRIME.

Edward Jardine Says He Killed Lizzie Anderson.

A despatch from Goderich says: Edward Jardine, aged twenty-two years, now confined in the county jail here awaiting trial at the Spring Assizes next month for the alleged murder of Lizzie Anderson, has made a complete confession that he alone committed the deed. This confession was secured by Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith, Inspector of Prisons and Asylums, of Toronto, who was here on Saturday. Chief Coroner Arthur Jukes Johnson of Toronto was also here on Saturday to examine the sanity of Jardine and George Vanstone. The latter is awaiting trial on a charge of murdering his six-year-old son here last fall. The men will be tried at the Assizes opening April 11, and Mr. George T. Blackstock, K.C., will act for the Crown.

THIRTY FIREMEN OVERCOME.

Unconscious From Fumes of Ammonia at a Chicago Fire.

A despatch from Chicago says: Thirty firemen were overcome by the fumes of ammonia on Sunday while fighting a fire which destroyed a warehouse of the Monarch Refrigerating Company and caused an $800,000 loss. Thrilling rescues were made in carrying the unconscious firemen from the burning structure. Five explosions of ammonia filled the building with fumes and made the work of fighting the flames dangerous. The structure was heavily stocked with poultry, meats and butter.

FEAR CATTLE PLAGUE.

Canada Places Embargo on All British Live Stock Except Horses.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The Government has placed an embargo on the importation of cattle and all live stock from British ports, save horses, owing to an outbreak of foot and mouth disease at Cobham, Surrey. This will keep out cattle intended for breeding purposes until the disease is stamped out.

GOVERNMENT BONDS AT $50.

Would Be a Secure Investment for Small Investors.

A despatch from Ottawa says: In the Senate on Thursday Senator Domville drew attention to a report that the British Government was about to popularize consols by issuing bearer bonds of from five to ten pounds sterling, which could be purchased at post-offices. He said that the Canadian Government should do something of this kind. He suggested that the Government should issue transferable three and a half per cent. bonds for fifty dollars face value, which anyone could purchase from any Canadian post-office, and which could pass from hand to hand. Sir Richard Cartwright said there was no doubt it would place secure investment within the power of small investors. He would call the attention of the Minister of Finance to the suggestion.

GROWING TOBACCO.

Farmers in Prince Edward County Meeting with Success.

A despatch from Trenton says: Tobacco-growing is becoming one of the industries of Prince Edward county. The past year a West Lake farmer grew an acre and a half of tobacco and realized $490. Another farmer had one acre, for which he received $260, while two others had crops which realized for them $225 each. It is stated that the soil in most parts of Prince Edward is particularly well adapted for growing tobacco, and that the quality grown was excellent. An effort is being made to interest more farmers in the culture of this article of commerce.

ARRESTED BY GOVERNMENT.

Sale of Battleship Plans by Four Germans and Englishman.

A despatch from Hamburg, Germany, says: A local paper announces that four Germans and an Englishman have been arrested charged with having transmitted plans and specifications for German warships under construction to Great Britain.

STRIKE EXPECTED IN WEST

Miners' Agreement Confirmed Two Years Ago Expires April 1

A despatch from Winnipeg says: The C. P. R. headquarters has given out the following:—A big strike of coal-miners is expected in the Crow's Nest district and all through the west. Two years ago they had a strike in Crow's Nest Pass involving all the coal miners there. It was settled through the medium of a Board of Conciliation, and the agreement expires April 1. Negotiations are now under way but it is not expected that a settlement will be reached before April and it is likely that on that date work will be suspended in the coal mines in the Crow's Nest and the Canmore districts. The mines affected have a daily output of approximately 15,000 tons of coal and coke. The number of men affected is three thousand. The points of dispute are wages and the recognition of the open shop.
