TRUE DIPLOMACY.

Employer.—We want a diplomatic, tactful, smart office boy.

Boy—Well, I used to send sister's beau away when she didn't want to see him.

REST AND HEALTH TO MOTHER AND CHILD.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over SIXTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. It is absolutely harmless. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

MERELY FURTHER PROOF.

"Anyway, he has an honest face."

"Honest? You surprise me."

"Yes, it's the only honest thing about him. It shows how dishonest he really is."

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows.

GUESSED IT.

Wiggings—Do you know that your chickens come over into my yards?

Jiggins—I supposed they did, for they never come back again.

There are many sticky devices on the market that kill some flies, but housekeepers who have tested them know that Wilson's Fly Pads kill many times more, and do not damage carpets and furniture like all sticky fly catchers.

THE OLD STORY.

"Had every cent taken last night. Woke up hearing some one in the room. Reached under the pillow for my revolver, but didn't shoot."

"Why didn't you?"

"I'd probably be a widower if I had."

Probably most people think you are as foolish as you think they are.

A TONGUE-TWISTER.

"I beg your pardon; I thought this was Mr. Dingly."

"I am Dingly."

"Then I am glad to find that I was mistaken in thinking that I was mistaken."

"Hey?"

"I say when I thought I was mistaken I was mistaken in thinking I was mistaken, and, being mistaken in thinking I was mistaken when I wasn't mistaken, I was glad to find I was mistaken when I thought I was mistaken, because I wasn't mistaken; or, rather, I was mistaken when I thought I was mistaken, and so I couldn't have been mistaken. Well, at any rate, I am glad. Looks as if we were going to have rain, doesn't it?"

In the days when executions were still carried out in public, in England, a servant-girl upon one occasion begged her mistress to allow her a day out, for a purpose which she did not divulge. The lady of the house gave the required permission, and the girl accordingly went off for the day, but returned in the evening weeping copiously. "Why, Mary," asked her kindly mistress, greatly perturbed at the poor girl's evident distress, "what on earth is your trouble. Tell me, and perhaps I can help you." "Oh, ma'am," blubbered Mary, "I went to see the man hanged at Salisbury, b-b-but he's been reprieved!"

St. Isidore, P. Q., Aug. 18, 1904.
Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Gentlemen,—I have frequently used MINARD'S LINIMENT and also prescribe it for my patients always with the most gratifying results, and I consider it the best all-round Liniment extant.
Yours truly,
DR. JOS. AUG. SIROIS.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Enterprise is the life blood of business.

To be cheerful is nearly to be well.

A heavy conscience generally means an ill body.

To do a child's thinking for it is to deprive of the sacred right of discovery.

Many people merely exist now hoping to live an ideal future. They sacrifice their bodies, health, and minds to gain gold.

A Stamped Medicine.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, compounded of entirely vegetable substances known to have a revivifying and salutary effect upon the digestive organs, have through years of use attained so eminent a position that they rank as a standard medicine. The ailing should remember this. Simple in their composition, they can be assimilated by the weakest stomach and are certain to have a healthful and agreeable effect on the sluggish digestive organs.

A parson was applied to for advice by a member of his congregation, who complained of the continual noise made on a trombone by a next-door neighbor. "Can a man," he asked, "who practices on such an instrument from morning to night be a good Christian?" "Such a man might possibly be a good Christian," the parson replied, "but his next-door neighbor couldn't."

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Medical Man—"Jobson has done the meanest thing ever I heard of. He came to my house the other night, ate a big dinner, got indigestion, and then went to another doctor to be cured."

There are many imitations of Wilson's Fly Pads. Do not be deceived by unsatisfactory imitations. Get Wilson's.

VERIFYING THE PROVERB.

Figg—"As a talker, Brown's wife is certainly a wonder."

Fogg—"Right you are! Wonders never cease."

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

THE KIND OF WIFE TO HAVE.

A man who had been indulging too heavily was induced to sign the pledge.

"You must let me have it," said the wife. "I will keep it for you." So the pledge was handed over to the wife's custody.

The next day the man was drinking again as freely as before.

"How is this?" asked a friend. "You signed the pledge yesterday, and now you are drinking again."

"It is all right," replied the pledge-signer, in unsteady tones. "I don't have to keep that pledge. My wife says she will keep it for me. That's the kind of wife to have, old fellow. Let's have a drink!"

BLACK KNIGHT Stove Polish

ensures no hard work and no dirty work. No messing or mixing. A handy paste in a generous can. A few rubs, and you have a splendid finish that lasts and stands the heat. The best preparation for polishing stoves, pipes, grates and ironwork.

If your dealer does not carry "Black Knight" Stove Polish in stock, send us his name and 10c, and we will send a full size tin by return mail.

THE F. F. DALLEY CO., LIMITED, HAMILTON, ONT. 33

Makers of the famous "2 in 1" Shoe Polish.

"IT'S A WISE SON," ETC.

The First Boy (sent to bed to await chastisement for bad behavior)—Here's father coming upstairs. I'm going to pretend I'm asleep.

The Second Boy (in case similar to first, but wiser)—I'm not; I'm going to get up and put something on.

One of the commonest complaints of infants is worms, and the most effective application for them is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

How it must jolt a man when he is polite to his wife in public to have her look as if she wasn't used to it!

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

Anyway the tire of a lazy man isn't easily punctured.

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

CANVASSERS WANTED. Weekly salary paid.—Alfred Tyler, London, Ontario.

AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE.—High class business with best people. Calvert & Dwyer Co., Limited, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.—A study of other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers' Dept., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

AGENTS ON SALARY OR COMMISSION. The greatest agents' seller ever produced; every user of pen and ink buys it on sight; 200 to 500 per cent profit; one agent's sales amounted to $620 in six days; another $32 in two hours. Monroe Mfg. Co. X., 468, La Crosse, Wis.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply B. C. I. Co., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

Your Overcoats

and faded Suits would look better dyed. If no agent of ours in your town, write direct to Montreal, Box 158.

British American Dyeing Co.

YOU CAN MAKE FROM $15 TO $30 A DAY

handling this proposition. Our agents elsewhere are doing it. You can. Authentic references required. This is sound and legitimate. Address, P. O. Box 1145, Vancouver, B. C.

Canada Business College

CHATHAM, ONT.

In a class by itself Among America's Schools of Business Training.

414 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1909
385 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1909
475 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1910

We publish the lists annually.

We pay full fare up to $8.00, and bring long distance students for half fare.

Good board and room, $3.00 per week.

If you cannot come to Chatham, we can train you by mail.

Here are some students placed recently: Nate Wade, Cameron & Heap, Regina. E. Burk, Nicholson & Bain, Regina. H. Wood, Trust Co., Cheboygan, Mich.

Eight calls just received for Stenographers, Teachers, and Auditors, for openings worth from $600 to $1200, will give you some idea of the demands.

COLLEGE REOPENS FOR 19TH YEAR SEPTEMBER 5TH.

Catalogue 22 tells of work at Chatham. Catalogue 34 tells of work by mail.

W. J. ELliott, President. D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

The Worlds Standard for tea is
LIPTON'S TEA
OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

THIRTY-EIGHT MET DEATH

Terrible Wreck on the Lehigh Valley Railroad Near Manchester, N.Y.

A despatch from Manchester, N. Y., says:—Speeding eastward behind time, Lehigh Valley passenger train No. 4 ran into a spread rail on a trestle near here on Friday and two day coaches from the midsection of the train plunged downward forty feet, striking the east embankment like a pair of projectiles. In the awful plunge and crash at least thirey-seven persons are believed to have been killed and more than sixty injured. The injuries of several are so serious that it is feared they will die. The wreck was the worst in the history of the Lehigh Valley line in this state and one of the most disastrous ever recorded on the system. Crowded with passengers, many of whom were war veterans and excursionists from the Grand Army of the Republic encampment at Rochester, train No. 4, made up of fourteen cars, drawn by two big mogul engines, was forty minutes late when it reached Rochester Junction, and from there sped eastward to make up time before reaching Geneva.

The engine and two day coaches had just passed the centre of a four-hundred-foot trestle over Canandaigua outlet, 150 yards east of the station at Manchester, at 12.35 o'clock, when the Pullman car Austin, the third car of a long train, left the rails. It dragged the dining car with it and two day coaches and two Pullmans, in this order, followed.

All bumped over the ties a short distance when the coupling between day coach No. 237 and the rear end of the diner broke. The forward end of the train dragged the derailed Pullman car Austin and the diner over safely, after which both plunged down the south embankment and rolled over. The free end of the ill-fated Lehigh Valley day coach, where most of the slaughter occured, shoved out over the gulf end, followed by a Grand Trunk day coach, stripped the rear guard off the south side of the trestle and plunged to the shallow river bed more than forty feet below.

The end of the first day coach that went over struck the east embankment of solid masonry and, with the other sixty-foot cars behind it, both shot against the wall with terrific force.

Both cars were filled with humanity as the plunge was made, and in a few minutes the cars lay, a mass of crumbled wood, metal and glass, under which a hundred men, women and children, many of whom were killed instantly, were buried. The most destruction occurred in the day coach No. 237, and a dozen persons were later taken dead from the second day coach, which, having followed the first over the trestle, snapped its rear coupling and thus saved the rest of the train from being dragged over.

This second day coach struck on the bottom and stood up, the rear end projecting a few feet above the top of the trestle. All of the passengers in this car were piled in a tangled mass of broken seats at the bottom of the car.

Indescrable pandemonium followed. The Pullman car, Emelyn, which remained on the bridge, with one end projecting over the gulch, and several cars behind it, derailed, and n immedoate danger of going over on the mass of wreckage below, were soon emptied of all their passengers, and these, aided by gangs of railroad employes from the big freight yards at Manchester, rushed to aid. As the groans of the injured and dying were heard below, all possible speed was made, but it was several minutes before anybody reached the cars at the bottom to effect rescues.

It was necessary to chop through the sides and bottom and the work of removing the victims moved with painful slowness. Death had come swiftly to many, a large number of the dead having had their skulls crushed in when they were thrown with terrible velocity against the car seats and projections. The mortality was high among the older passengers, most of whom were battle-scarred veterans of the Civil War and their wives.

LOSS OF $2,500,000.

Extraordinary Effect of the Strike on British Lines.

A despatch from London says.—British railways lost considerably more than £500,000 as a result of the two days' strike last week. The traffic returns published Friday night show an aggregate decrease of £465,000, whereas under normal conditions an increase of £60,000 might have been looked for. On the London and North-Western the falling off was £101,000, on the Great Western £91,000, on the Midland Line £51,000, and on the Lancashire and Yorkshire, and North-Eastern about £50,000 in each case. Of course, some of the traffic, on the big trade lines especially, is merely delayed, and there ought to be unusually good returns for the next week or two, but much of the revenue is irretrievably lost.

BURNED AT THE STAKE.

3,000 Men, Women and Children Watched the Lynching.

A despatch from Purcell, Oklahoma, says,—While 3,000 men, women and children stood by shouting their approval, Peter Carter, a negro, who had been captured by the members of his own race, identified as the man who Wednesday night attacked Mrs. Minnie Spraggins, wife of a farmer, was burned to death on a brush pile in the main street of Purcell at five o'clock on Thursday afternoon. Deputy Sheriff Hayes and Under Sheriff Farris, who attempted to rescue the negro from the crowd, were overpowered and locked in the Courthouse.

Too many people waste their time in condemning the work of others instead of spending it in trying to improve their own.

BURNED COOKING A MEAL

Young Woman Held Bottle of Alcohol Over Stove, Which Exploded.

A despatch from Cornwall, Ont., says:—A terrible accident took place at the home of F. E. Bailey, Massena, on Thursday, when his eldest daughter, Miss Mabel Bailey, one of the most popular young ladies in Massena, was fatally burned. Miss Bailey and her mother were preparing supper by an alcohol stove, and Mabel held the bottle of alcohol in her hand while lighting the stove. The fluid exploded in her hand, setting fire to her clothing. She rushed from the house and threw herself on the grass in an effort to extinguish the flames, and was assisted by several neighbors who saw her rush out. It was some time before the doctors arrived, but within fifteen or twenty minutes there were five of them working over her. Her legs were horribly burned from the ankles to the body, and her arms nearly to her shoulders. From the start the doctors realized that she was so badly burned she could not recover, and their efforts were mainly directed to lessening her sufferings. She died about twelve hours after the accident. She was 25 years of age, and was very popular.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Aug. 29.—Flour—Winter wheat 90 per cent. patents, $3.35 to $3.40, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours—First patents, $5.30; second patents, $4.80; and strong bakers', $4.60, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba wheat—No. 1 Northern, $1.04 1-2, Bay ports; No. 2 at $1.03 1-2; and No. 3 at $1.01 1-2.

Ontario wheat—New No. 2 at 82c, outside, and old at 83 to 84c, outside.

Peas—87 to 88c, f.o.b. cars, outside.

Oats—Ontario grades, 40c outside, for No. 2, and 43c, on track, Toronto. New No. 2 at 37c, outside. No. 2 W. C. oats at 42 1-2c, and No. 3 at 41 1-2c, Bay ports.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow, 66 1-2c, Bay ports, and 71c, Toronto.

Rye—There is none offering, and prices are nominal.

Buckwheat—Nothing offering.

Bran—Manitobas at $22, in bags, Toronto, and shorts $25, in bags, Toronto. Ontario bran, $22, in bags, Toronto.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Beans—Small lots, $2.20 to $2.25.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 21 to 21c per lb. Combs, $2 to $2.60.

Baled hay—No. 1 at $13 to $14, on track, and No. 2 at $11 to $14.

Baled straw—$6 to $6.50, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—New, in barrels, $4.50, and per bush, $1.25 to $1.50.

Poultry—Ducks, live, 11 to 12c; hens, alive, 12 to 13c; chicks, live, 13 to 15c.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

Butter—Dairy prints, 20 to 21c; inferior, 15 to 17c. Creamery 25 to 26c per lb. for rolls, and 23 to 24c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid, 22 to 23c, and fresh at 18 to 19c per dozen, in case lots.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon—Long clear, 11 3-4c per lb., in case lots. Pork, short cut, $23; do., mess $21.

Hams—Medium to light, 17 to 18c; do., heavy, 15 1-2 to 16c; rolls, 11 1-2 to 12c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; back, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2c; tubs, 10 3-4c; pails, 11c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Aug. 29. — Oats. — C. W. No. 2, 43 3-4 to 44c, car lots, ex-store; extra No. 1 feed, 43 1-4 to 43 1-2c; No. 3 C. W., 42 3-4 to 43. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; seconds, $4.90; winter wheat patents, $4.50 to $4.75; strong bakers', $4.70; straight rollers, $4 to $4.10; in bags, $1.85 to $2. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $4.75; bag of 90 lbs., $2.25. Corn—American, No. 3 yellow, 70c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $22 to $23; Manitoba, $21 to $22; middlings, Ontario, $25 to $26; shorts, Manitoba, $24; mouillie, $25 to $31. Eggs—Selected, 22 to 24c; fresh, 17 1-2 to 18c; No. 1 stock, 18 1-2 to 20c. Cheese—Westerns, 12 3-4 to 13 1-8c; Easterns, 12 1-2 to 12 5-8c. Butter—Choicest, 24 1-4 to 24 1-2c; seconds, 23 to 24c.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Buffalo, Aug. 29.—Spring wheat—No. 1 Northern, carloads, store, $1.18; Winter, No. 2 red, 92 1-2c; No. 3 red, 91c; No. 2 white, 90c. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 68 1-4c; No. 4 yellow, 66 1-2c; No. 3 corn, 66 1-4c, all on track, through billed. Oats—No. 2 white, 43c; No. 3 white, 42 1-4c; No. 4 white, 41 1-4c. Barley—Malting, $1.14 to $1.22.

Minneapolis, Aug. 29.—Wheat—September, $1.02 3-4; December, $1.03 5-8; May, $1.07 1-4; No. 1 hard, $1.07 3-4; No. 1 Northern, $1.04 3-4 to $1.07 1-4; No. 2 Northern, 99 3-4c to $1.05 3-4; No. 3 wheat, 96 3-4c to $1.02 3-4. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 62 1-2c. Oats—No. 2 white, 41 1-4 to 41 1-2c. Rye—No. 2, 78 to 80c. Bran—$20.50 to $21. Flour—First patents, $5 to $5.20; second patents, $4.50 to $4.75; first clears, $3.35 to $3.55; second clears, $2.35 to $2.50.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Aug. 29.—A fairly active trade was done, with sales of choice steers at 6 1-4c, good at 5 3-4 to 6c, fairly good at 5 1-4 to 5 1-2c, fair at 4 3-4 to 5c, and common at 4 1-2c per pound. Cows from 4 to 5 1-2c, and bulls at from 3 to 4 1-2c per pound as to quality. Lambs sold at 6c and sheep at 4c per pound. The demand for calves was good, and sales were made at prices ranging from $3.00 to $10 each, as to size and quality. Sales of selected hogs were made at $7.50, and mixed and heavy lots at from $6 to $7.25 per cwt., weighted off cars.

WESTERNERS TO TRAVEL.

Prominent Business Men Will Visit Great Britain Next Year.

A despatch from Winnipeg says,—One hundred prominent Western Canada business men will visit the chief industrial cities of Great Britain during June next year. This was definitely decided at a directors' meeting of the Winnipeg Industrial Bureau on Thursday. Leading financial and commercial men representing all Western cities, will be invited to accompany the Winnipeg party, covering six weeks' itinerary abroad.

CHOLERA CLOSES SCHOOLS.

Twenty-eight Deaths a Day Reported in Constantinople.

A despatch from Constantinople says: There were twenty-eight deaths from cholera here in the twenty four hours ending Wednesday midnight, and fifty-five new cases reported. All the schools in the city have been closed.

BATTLE WITH DESPERADOES

Winnipeg Policeman Shot and Another a Target for a Fusilade.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Constable Trainer was shot in the lung and Constable Brown was fired at 15 times, but not hit, by three house-breakers whom the officers were trying to arrest in Elmwood and North Winnipeg on Wednesday afternoon. Trainer is in a serious condition. Two men are now in the cells. The police were notified that house-breakers were at work about 3 o'clock, and Constable Trainer, on his motorcycle, started for Elmwood, unarmed. He was informed that the man had gone to the segregated district, and located them at a house on Rachael street. He was refused admission, and on going to the rear door was shot in the hip and laid out. Constable Brown, who had eben sent to his assistance, set off after the men, as they left the house, and all of them opened fire on him in the street, and of 15 shots sent at his direction only one came near hitting him, cutting a hole in the leg of his trousers. With another officer he succeeded in cornering the trio in Euclid street, a few blocks from the segregated area. The final capture of the desperadoes was due to the presence of mind and courage of a youthful civilian.

The fugitives held up a trolley car on Euclid Avenue, but the civilian, hearing the police whistle, and seeing the fugitives urging the motorman to hasten, pulled off the trolley. The men then backed out of the car, covering the passengers and crew, and commandeered a horse and buggy driving by. The same youthful civilian grabbed the horse's head and ducked a fusilade of bullets from the two desperadoes, thus delaying them till the police arrived and effected their capture. Two of the men arrested gave their names as Harry Kelly and Frank Jones, both of Minneapolis.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

SAFETY OF A BOND DOES NOT DEPEND ON STABILITY OF MARKET PRICE

How necessary it is for a man to know what his requirements are before investing—How some high class Securities sag in the Market without any doubt as to their safety—A moral drawn from the recent failure of the Birkback Bank which was caused by not observing carefully the nature of its requirements.

(By "Investor")

In the first of this series it was shown that "distribution of risk" is an important principle of investment. It is a very simple one, however, involving no very confused ideas. There is another principle to be borne in mind when making investments which is of no less importance, but it is, however, considerably less obvious to those whose investment experience is small—and even to many who should understand its actions thoroughly. This is the principle of investment "in accordance with actful requirements."

Suppose a man went to a doctor and demanded a prescription saying he was ill but refused to give his symptoms; you would consider that man a fit subject for a lunatic asylum. Yet he is not much more insane than the man who writes to an investment house and makes the bald statement that he desires to invest such-and-such a sum of money and asks them to recommend a security without stating any further particulars. Last week we saw that there are at least five important points to be considered in investing in accordance with our actual requirements. It is necessary to know all the "symptoms of the case" in order to pick a security and to recomend an investment fulfilling the necessary points. Just to-day for example I received a letter from a man who asked if a certain stock was a good investment. And it was a good investment for certain classes of investors, but for many others it was most decidedly not so. Yet without giving any particulars as to whether he was rich or poor; whether he desired great safety or a high income; if he required a readily saleable stock or not; he wanted advice. As well ask a physician if a mustard plaster is good for a sick man without any description as to his particular ailment. So these points are not to be passed over without careful study, and if this study is given them it will result in your investing your money in a manner which will give you the greatest satisfaction.

There are two of these points quite likely to be confused—"Safety of Principal" and "Stability of Market Price." Yet when investing in any security except shares of stock, these points are utterly dissimilar. Why stocks are excepted will be taken up in another article as the explanation involves some special features too lengthy for the present discussion.

For example, Consols—the famous abbreviation for Consolidated Debt of Great Britain—have declined over twenty-five points in the market during the past ten years, although there has not been the least feeling that they were not perfectly secure. Consols have for years been the premier investment security of the world and the alteration in quoted price has absolutely no effect upon their safety to the investor who, without any desire ever to sell, bought at par; for of course when the Government decide to repay them they will do so at par; but for the man to whom stability of market was a first consideration a more unfortunate high class investment could not have been chosen. Take the Birkback bank which invested heavily in Consols. The Directors bought a security and paid a high price for the element of safety, while stability of market price should have been their first thought. As a result of their lack of judgment and carelessness in diagnosing their requirements, the bank was forced to close its doors. So too the man with a surplus supply of funds, which he may require at an indefinite period in the future, but meantime desires a better rate of interest than saving banks allow, must chose an investment which will enable him to realize on his holdings at short notice with little or no loss. Of course there are securities of this sort. Bonds which are within a very few years of maturity—when they will be paid at par—present this feature very strongly. The stock of a bank such as the Bank of Montreal, Bank of Nova Scotia or of several others of equal merit are excellent mediums for the investor who wants a fairly high and certain return and an excellent chance in the long run of appreciating in value; but the fluctuations of price which have beset all bank stocks in the market during the past eighteen months makes them a decidedly undesirable form of investment when stability is the prime essential. The fluctuations had absolutely nothing to do with the condition of the banks themselves—seldom have they done a better or more profitable business. The cause was quite removed from that and will be taken up fully within the next week or two.

These brief examples serve to show not only the difference between "safety" and "stability of market price" but also indicate the importance of knowing what you want and getting it.

KING MANUEL'S INCOME.

Portuguese Government Says He Owes $10,000,000.

A despatch from Lisbon says: That the Government has ascertained that King Manuel is indebted to the country in the sum of $10,000,000, and accordingly will withdraw Manuel's monthly remittance, as his property is valued at only $5,000,000. It is said that the Government has asked King Victor Emmanuel of Italy to settle the debts of the late Queen Maria Pia, which amount to $1,250,000, and that the King has refused.

COPPER MINES RUNNING OUT

End of the Michigan Industry Is In Sight Says Mining Expert.

A despatch from Detroit, Mich., says: That the end of the copper mining industry in Michigan is in sight, and that it will not be many years before the supposedly inexhaustible supply of ore in the upper peninsula will have been reached, is among the startling disclosures made by James R. Finlay, the New York mining expert, who has been appraising the mine properties of the State at the instance of the Legislature for the past three months. His report was submitted to the State Board of Equalization on Wednesday. The Board will use this report as a new basis for taxing the mines of the State. His outlook for the iron district is more encouraging, and the valuation he places on the iron mines is considerably higher. The iron district is appraised at $119,485,000. In his opinion the resources of this region are sufficient to maintain an output of 46,000,000 tons a year for 40 years.

THE WHITEST, LIGHTEST
MAGIC BAKING POWDER
NEW STYLE LABEL
NEVER ANY FAILURE OR DISAPPOINTMENT WHEN
MAGIC BAKING POWDER
IS USED.
CONTAINS NO ALUM.
COSTS NO MORE THAN THE ORDINARY KINDS.
MADE IN CANADA

THE NEWS IN A PARAGRAPH

HAPPENINGS FROM ALL OVER THE GLOBE IN A NUTSHELL.

Canada, the Empire and the World in General Before Your Eyes.

CANADA.

Sugar was advanced by ten cents per hundred pounds.

Mr. Nathan Overholt was killed by a train at Grimsby Beach.

Mrs. Allen Karn died at London from injuries received in jumping off a moving street car.

Canal traffic shows a falling off for July, cheifly on account of the decline in ore shipping.

The agreement by which the C. P. R. obtain an interest in the Quebec Central has been completed, and awaits the ratification of the security holders of the smaller railway.

Bids for the construction of the new navy are still being considered at Ottawa, and it is not likely that the contract will be awarded for some time.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The British House of Commons adjourned.

The Duke of Sutherland arrived in Montreal on his way west, where he has bought large tracts of land.

The last census returns give Greater London a population of 7,252,963.

The Liverpool strike was settled by the re-employment of tramway men.

GENERAL.

Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece, "La Glacondo," has disappeared from the Louvre, Paris.

AND STILL THEY COME.

Immigration Returns for July Show Marked Increase.

A despatch from Ottawa, says:—During the month of July, 29,681 immigrants arrived in Canada, 18,609 at ocean ports and 11,012 from the United States. As compared with July of last year, the increase is 17 per cent. For July last year the figures were 16,019 at ocean ports and 9,188 Americans. For the four months of the current fiscal year arrivals at ocean ports numbered 127,925 and from the United States 54,814, making a total immigration from April to July inclusive of 182,739. The corresponding months last year gave 100,372 at ocean ports and 54,669 Americans, making a total of 155,571.

TWO MORE BODIES FOUND.

More Victims Added to Account of the Porcupine Fire.

A despatch from Porcupine says: Evidence that the total number of dead in the Porcupine fire will never be known is plainly shown by the discovery of the remains of two men recently. One find was made by J. J. Anderson, who was looking over some timber on the Chisholm Vet in Tisdale. The skull of a man and a part of a hand under a small ledge of rock showed that the victim sought refuge from the fire there and lost his life. Another skull has been found near Simpson Lake, in the northern part of Deloro. This victim tried to escape the flames in a swamp.

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Cresch, Props.

THURSDAY, AUG. 31, '11

SOUTH HURON LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE MEETINGS.

MR. J. J. MERNER, Liberal Conservative Candidate, will hold public meetings to discuss the political issues at the following places and dates;—

BAYFIELD, Wednesday, Sept. 6th.
BRUCEFIELD, Thursday, Sept. 7th.
EXETER, Friday, Sept. 8th.

This meeting will be addressed by A. W. WRIGHT, of Toronto, A. H. MUSGROVE, M. P. P., and H. EILBER, M. P. P.

CREDITON, Monday Sept. 11th.
GRAND BEND, Tuesday, Sept. 12th.
DASHWOOD, Wednesday, Sept. 13th.

All meetings to commence at 8 O'clock p. m.

WHAT RECIPROCITY WILL DO FOR THE FARMER.

Not that the farmer needs any more practical demonstrations of what Reciprocity would do for him in the hog market, but as an instance of the disastrous effect of the reciprocity agreement on the selling price of hogs for the Canadian farmer comes to us from an American visitor and by the way an old Canadian resident. We refer to Mr. Andrew Truemner of Huron County, Michigan, who is here on a visit with his brothers, Henry and Daniel in Hay Township. At the time of leaving his home he had a batch of hogs ready for the market. Since his arrival here he was received word from his sons that during his absence they had disposed of the hogs at seven cents per pound. It will thus be seen that the farmers are receiving 50 cents a hundred more for their hogs than they are on the other side of the line. We believe it will be a very sorry day for Canada on the whole if reciprocity passes. It behooves every farmer to give matters of this kind more than passing notice, and decide for himself which of the two courses to pursue, larger markets, more competition and lower prices, or British and Canadian markets, less competition and prosperity.

MR. MCLEAN'S PLEA.

Mr. M. Y. McLean, candidate in South Huron, asks his constituents to divest themselves of political bias and to consider reciprocity upon its merits, says the London Free Press. This is a fair plea, and one that Mr. McLean might well have had in mind when he refused, for political reasons, to permit an investigation into the causes which led to the granting of the charter to the Farmers Bank.

No matter what Mr. McLean may plead in excuse for his course in declining to have the Farmers Bank scandal probed, the fact remains that at the bottom of his action was a desire to shield the minister of finance from censure. Mr. McLean has never been known to divest himself of politics.

It will be remembered that his defence of the naval policy of the Government was so intensely partisan he went so far as to declare that Canada owed nothing to Great Britain. And to-day he comes before the electors of South Huron with nothing in his address but a request that they shall consider the question of reciprocity purely and altogether as a matter of dollars and cents. He makes no pretence of patriotism. Having said we owe nothing to Great Britain, he shuts out from consideration all questions other than whether eggs are higher at Buffalo or Seaforth. And, unfortunately for his argument, eggs are higher at Seaforth.

It has been pointed out in the Canadian House of Commons by one of its most distinguished members that during the past six years Great Britain has bought from Canada nearly $300,000,000 worth of goods more than we bought from her. But at the same time we have bought from the United States nearly $600,000,000 worth of goods more than the United States bought from us. The markets of Great Britain are of far more value to Canada than the markets of the United States. Canada has spent nearly a billion of dollars on railways and canals to promote interprovincial and European trade. Is this enormous sum to be wasted in order that we may hand over our country and its resources to American exploitation, that American mills may grind our wheat and American lumbermen possess our forests and American politicians control our fiscal policy.

KIRKTON

Don't forget the Old Boy's Re-union on Sept. 4th.—Miss Doupe of Owen Sound is visiting relatives here.—Mrs. Snell and daughter spent part of the week in Woodstock.—Splendid talent will assist in the program on Old Boy's day returned ministers, J. H. McIntyre M. P., Valentine Stock M. P. P., Dr. Steal, M. Y. McLean M. P., H. Eilber M. P. P., J. J. Merner, and many others. Don't miss the big treat.—Dr. Taylor has returned to his professional duties, after spending his holidays here.—Mr. and Mrs. Stewart spent Sunday in St. Marys.—The morning service in the Methodist church next Sabbath, will be in charge of Rev. Humphrey Graham B. A. of Wellington St. London. The evening service will be conducted by Rev. S. F. Sharp D. D., of Knox Cavan Presbyterian Church, Exeter.—Mrs. Ross of Seaforth, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. S. Tuffs.—Can. Centrals beat Salem on the 4 .—Dr. Steel held a political meeting in Aberdeen Hall on Saturday evening last. The attendance was good and all listened with interest to the addresses delivered.—Miss Ready visited last week with Miss Beatrice Gunning.—A fine lot of prizes have been secured for the sports at the Olde Boys on the 4th.

POINTS ABOUT THE DEAL.
ONE

THE HOME MARKET

The Loss of Reciprocity in 1866 Resulted in the Creation of Profitable Industries for Canada

By JOHN V. BORNE.

It is true that both political parties in Canada formerly desired a measure of Reciprocity with the United States. But that was when trade generally was small and depressed, and before proof had been given that, on the line of antagonism to Canadian prosperity, laid down by the United States, Canada could flourish as an exporter of farm and forest products and be essentially independent of the United States.

There was a Reciprocity Treaty between the two countries from 1854 to 1866, which advanced the price of Canadian farm produce. But the Crimean War in the first half and the United States Civil War in the second half of the Reciprocity period raised prices everywhere. The Canadian farmer came to depend upon the United States for his market.

He received a severe lesson when Reciprocity was withdrawn. But, instead of being ruined, he found a more stable market in Great Britain, which has persisted to this day. Instead of sending his crops across the border he fed them on the farm, retained and improved the fertility of the soil, and by selling dairy produce and cattle became more permanently prosperous than was possible under a delusively profitable market across the line.

In time the National Policy expanded the farmer's home market. The gold he received for his produce, instead of going out of the country to purchase goods, was kept in Canada for those who had begun to make things that formerly had been imported, and who bought things of him that otherwise would have gone abroad. This meant better prices for the producer, as it also meant greater earning and spending power in the manufacturing towns.

This change was slow, as men count time; but swift in the reckoning of nations. It was accompanied by a conspicuous disadvantage—young Canadians left Canada by the thousands for the United States, where Canada was regarded as a poor relation.

POINTS ABOUT THE DEAL.
TWO

OLD CONDITIONS HAVE PASSED

The Four Reasons Which Produced Continentalists Have Died Natural Deaths

By JOHN V. BORNE.

The drain of population from Canada to the United States was the fundamental reason for such organizations as the Continental Association, of which the late Goldwin Smith was president. Mr. Smith, in a letter accepting the presidency, gave four reasons for the propaganda of the Association:—

1. The population was standing still.
2. The backward condition of the manufacturing industries and the inferiority of their production.
3. The condition of agriculture, our farmers barely making a living, while tenant farmers were considered clever to make ends even meet.
4. The exodus of young Canadian manhood to the United States.

There were two factors in Canadian development which the Continentalists of that day did not appreciate, and which inevitably produced a third, which wrought considerable harm to the country.

In the first place the Continentalists did not see that the exodus to the United States would not continue indefinitely, because the unoccupied lands of the Republic would fill up, and Canada's turn would come. In the second place they did not really believe that Canada was a country of practically unlimited producing power.

These two things together inevitably prevented the Continentalists from having a great vision of the future of Canada. They thought she would always be commercially dependant on the United States. They saw no future in which Canada could be the lynch-pin of an Empire more spacious and more splendid than the United States could ever be. They said "Go to, let us make the most of our neighbor." They did not know how to say "Go to, let us make the most of ourselves."

POINTS ABOUT THE DEAL.
THREE

SAID "GOOD-BYE RECIPROCITY"

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Justification of the Defeat He Sustained in 1891

By JOHN V. BORNE.

The starting of industries, the building of a railway across an empty continent, left Canada in a condition of strain. The lack of faith, of which the Continental cry was a model expression, meant a lack of works. Few of the millions of people who desired to forsake the Old World learned of Canada. The population continued stationary. Progress was painfully slow.

But, in due time, the movement of people into Canada began. It was presently accompanied by a movement of capital, until, at last, everybody saw that the hour of Canada had come. The final proof of it was vouchsafed when the exodus from Canada to the United States was more than balanced by an exodus from the United States to Canada.

Right up to the time that Canada became known to the people of Europe there was a hankering after Reciprocity. In 1891 a general election was fought on the question, and the advanced Reciprocitarians were beaten. The issue was destined to keep away from the ballot-box for more than twenty years.

The Liberal party, in pursuance of a platform written in 1893, asked Washington for Reciprocity in 1897, and was repelled. The immigration tide then began to flow, and is flowing still. At that very time the instinct which had turned aside from the Reciprocity advocated in 1891 re-asserted itself—this time in the unfamiliar guise of a Liberal Government—and in 1898 the offer of Reciprocity which had stood for many years on the Canadian Statute Book was repealed. The repeal was happily endorsed at the Imperial Conference in London by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who said:

"There was a time when we were wanting reciprocity with the United States, but our efforts were put aside. We have said good-bye to that trade and we now put all our hopes upon the British trade."

CREDITON.

Quite a number from here attended The Barnum-Bailey Circus in London on Saturday. The children enjoyed the Zoo very much.

Mr. C. K. Bluett, B.A., of London, who attended the Bowling Tournament in Exeter last week, motored here on Friday and spent the evening with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Perry have returned to their home in Pontiac, Mich., after a short visit here.

The Directors of the Hay Tp. Ins. Co. had their meeting in the Town Hall last Saturday. A number of claims were paid. So far the Company has had few losses to pay and unless something unforseen occurs, there will be no assessment this year. This will make it two years in succession. The Hay Co. has been a cheap company for the policy-holders.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Zwicker, Arthur Sambrook and son Nathan are attending the Toronto Fair.

Mrs. Harry Beaver and children are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Russel Huxtable in Hamilton.

This is the elder berry season. There is a good crop.

Mrs. Ed. Bertrand and daughter Thelma of Detroit, are visiting Mrs. Sarah Bertrand.

A special council meeting was held in town Friday night to make final arrangements with Jos. Lawson the contractor of the Bridge across the Sauble River at Fred Halatt's. Gravel is being drawn to the site of the new bridge this week and work will be commenced in a short time. The council also let the contract for the iron work of the small bridge on Ford's side-road to The Hamilton Bridge Co.

Next Sunday evening a Harvest Home Cantata will be given in the Evangelical Church. The Juniors of the Y. P. A. will render the program which promises to be a treat. All should come.

Mr. Chas. Wind and bride of Detroit is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Winds this week. We extend to the happy couple our hearty congratulations and wish them all happiness during their married life.

Workmen are putting on the iron roofing of the new church sheds. On account of masons being too busy elsewhere the work of laying the blocks on the front gable is left idle.

Dr. and Mrs Orme left the latter part of last week on a motor tour to Niagara Falls as their objective point.

Mrs. Westman and son and Miss Nix on who visited Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sambrook for a few days last week returned to London on Saturday.

Miss Ella Link is attending the millinery openings in Toronto.

Several of our people attended the social in Mount Carmel on Tuesday. All enjoyed themselves very much.

Miss Mattie Eilber has returned to home in Buffalo, after a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eilber.

Sam Brown and Chas. Zwicker, our spedmen, are busy lately cleaning seed. The farmers are getting good prices this fall.

August Kuhn has returned to Dunville after spending two weeks' vacation here under the parental roof.

Jas. Lawson has sold his house and lot to Joseph Dauncey.

Auction Sale

—OF—

OF FARM STOCK AND IMPLEMENTS

—AT—

MAPLE AVENUE STOCK FARM, LOT 19, CON. 4, BIDDULPH, 2½ Miles North of Lucan, on THURSDAY, SEPT. 7th, 1911

At 1 o'clock p. m., the following valuable stock and implements; etc.

Horses.—Imported Clydesdale Mare 5 years old, bred to Clan Macgregor; Reg. Clydesdale Mare 9 years old, bred to Clan Macgregor; Reg. Clydesdale Mare 5 years old, bred to Clan Macgregor; Yearling Clydesdale colt, by Clan Macgregor; Standard bred mare bred to Oro Wilkes; Yearling standard bred colt, by Belsire; 4 Imp. Welsh Pony Mares, 6 years old; Imp. Welsh Pony Stallion, 6 years old; 3 Welsh Ponies 2 years old; 4 Welsh Pony Foals.

Cattle—Reg. Shorthorn cow, milching; Reg. Heifer, 2 years old, milching; 2 Yearling Shorthorn Heifers; Shorthorn Heifer Calf.

Sheep, Etc.—10 Imp. Hampshire Ewes; 4 yearling Hampshire Ewes; 3 Hampshire Rams; 8 Hampshire Ewe lambs; 3 Hampshire Ram lambs; 3 Persian Ewe Lambs; 60 Hens, Rhode Island Reds.

Implements, Furniture, Etc.—Jackson cutting box; 2 hay rakes; 2 fanning-mills; 2 buggies; cutter; pair heavy bobsleighs; pair light bobsleighs; 45 gallon feed furnace; Combination horse Clipping and sheep shearing machine, new; 30 lb. butter box, new; Eight-bottle Babcock milk tester, new; Daisy churn. About 1½ acres corn; quantity mangolds and potatoes, furniture, consisting of tables, chairs, lounges, sideboards, Wash stand, sewing machine and other articles too numerous to mention.

Positively no reserve as the Proprietor is going west.

Terms.—$10 and under cash; 12 months credit; six per cent off for cash.

JAS. STANLEY, Auctioneer. P. H. NEIL, Proprietor.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Avoid the vicious lest you acquire their taint.

Take care of your own business with assiduity, and in time it will take care of you.

The little eight-day old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCurdy died on Saturday and was buried in Kirkton cemetery on Monday.

Nature Stops

WHEN THE KIDNEYS GIVE OUT.

Do you feel that you simply can't go any farther—that you must have rest for that lame and aching back — relief from that constant dead-tired feeling—freedom from those stabbing, darting pains?

Booth's Kidney Pills

It is nature's warning that the kidneys are giving out and you need the help of Booth's Kidney Pills, the guaranteed kidney remedy. In every machine there is one part that works the hardest and gives out first. The kidneys work night and day, and naturally a life of unusual activity doubles the duties of the kidneys and in time the strain tells. The kidneys give out and nature cries "stop." Booth's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers, 50c., post paid from The R. T. Booth Co. Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. There is no pill just as good. Send for a Free box. The test will prove the truth of our statement.

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

Westervelt School

Y. M. C. A. BLDG., LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal. 15

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

TORONTO

$3.85 RETURN Aug. 26 to Sept. 9

$2.90 RETURN Aug. 29 and 31 Sept. 5 and 7

FROM EXETER.

Account CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION Return Limit Sept. 12, 1911

SINGLE FARE (minimum charge 25 cents) FOR LABOR DAY

Between all stations in Canada, also to Detroit and Port Huron, Mich., Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N. Y.

GOOD GOING SEPT. 1, 2, 3, 4. RETURN LIMIT SEPT. 6th, 1911.

THROUGH TOURIST PULLMAN SLEEPERS to WINNIPEG AND EDMONTON Via Chicago and St. Paul

AUGUST 22nd SEPT. 5th and 19th in connection with HOMESEEKERS EXCURSIONS

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

THE SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

of The Canadian Bank of Commerce will receive deposits of $1 and upwards, on which interest is allowed at current rates. There is no delay in withdrawing the whole or any portion of the deposit. Small deposits are welcomed. A234

Accounts may be opened in the names of two or more persons, to be operated by any one of the number or by the survivor. A joint account of this kind saves expense in establishing the ownership of the money after death, and is especially useful when a man desires to provide for his wife, or for others depending upon him, in the event of his death.

Exeter Branch—W. H. Collins, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up) - $4,000,000
Rest Fund - - - $4,400,000
Total Assets Over - $44,000,000

Has 78 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at all Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

The Public Schools

OPEN SEPT. 5th

And how about your School Supplies

SCRIBBLERS.— The regular 5c. scribblers, plain or ruled. 7 for 25c.

LEAD PENCILS.— The famous regalia pencil, worth 2 for 5c. reduced price 10c. a doz.

PAINTS.— Water colors in neat boxes 5c. to 25c. crayons 1c. to 10c. a box.

INKS.— Stafford's and Underwood's Black and Blue Black Inks, 3oz bottles for 5c.

SLATES.— The famous German proof slate, wire edge or bound 5c. to 14c.

DICTIONARIES.— Collins large type pronouncing dictionaries at 15c.

It will pay you to pay us a visit. We are in a position to save you money, and we do it.

S. Martin & Son, Exeter

MITCHELL.—At high noon on Tuesday, Aug. 22nd, a pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Skinner Blanshard st., when their daughter, Elsie M., was married to Mr. Robt. Stround, foreman at the Wettlaufer Bros.

FALL TERM FROM AUG 28th

CENTRAL Business College. STRATFORD, ONT.

There is a great demand upon us for trained help. Business men state that our graduates are the best. We have three departments,—

COMMERCIAL, SHORTHAND and TELEGRAPHY

The tuition for six months is $55 and for one year $80. Investigation will prove to your satisfaction that there is no better Business College in Canada. Get our free catalogue now.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,— "Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials, Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Canadian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver

and is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

DR. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. E. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto University.

DENTIST.

Teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. R. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years resident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew Street, EXETER

DR. QUACKENBUSH, Physician, Surgeon, Accoucheur. Office, Dr. Rollins' old office, Main Street. Residence, corner James and Albert streets opposite James street Methodist parsonage Phone Office, 39 a; Residence 39 b.

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers, Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates on Mortgages
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
E. CARLING, B.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter Ont

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies. Main-St., Exeter.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Hilber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St. Thomas, Ont. — ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

ELLIOTT Business College
TORONTO, ONT., is recognized as "CANADA'S HIGH-CLASS COMMERCIAL SCHOOL." The instruction is absolutely first-class. Write to-day for our catalogue. Enter now.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.

We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.

Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Elimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

HOUSE FOR SALE

The undersigned is offering for sale, that desirable property on William st. being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, together with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter

A Richibucto School Teacher

Once a Dyspeptic—Now Well, Thanks to Father Morriscy's No. 11.

Richibucto, N. B., Nov. 17th 1909.
Father Morriscy Med. Co., Ltd.,

I have been teaching school for upwards of thirty years, during the last twenty-five of which I have suffered seriously with stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia.

I have tried many remedies, and while I would get temporary relief from some of them, yet the old trouble would return, and with it the sufferings only known to the chronic dyspeptic.

Last year I had made up my mind to abandon my profession, feeling that in my condition I could neither do justice to myself or to the many pupils under my charge. A friend suggested to me that I try Father Morriscy's No. 11 Stomach Tablets; I did so, and have continued to use them with the result that my stomach trouble is cured—my indigestion and dyspepsia gone and I feel as well as I ever did.

I have, thanks to the Tablets, been able to continue in my profession, and feel that I am once more enjoying my work and am able to give justice to the fifty-four pupils under my care.

Yours Gratefully,
(Signed) MARY CHRYSTAL.

Are you one of the many thousands who, like Miss Chrystal, are prevented from doing their best work, or really enjoying life, by stomach trouble?

If you are you cannot do better than she did—take Father Morriscy's No. 11 Tablets.

Each No. 11 Tablet, when dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1¼ pounds of food—a good, hearty meal—so that no matter how weak your stomach may be No. 11 Tablets will enable you to get the nourishment out of your food and build up your strength, while the stomach, thus relieved, recovers its vigor.

50c. a box at your dealer's or from the Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Ltd., 96
MONTREAL, QUE.
Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Howey.

HENSALL

Sincere and deep regret was felt by the people of Hensall and vicinity on Aug. 21st. on learning of the death of Mr. Gilbert Dick, which sad event occurred that day. Hr had been ill for over two months, and had been confined to bed most of the time. His ailment, some affection of the heart. Mr. Dick was 56 years of age. He was the eldest son of Mr. Thomas Dick, one of the pioneers of the township of Hay, but now of the village of Egmondville. He had resided in Kippen for several years and had only removed to Hensall last spring. He had been engaged for many years very extensively as a buyer and shipper of live stock. He leaves a widow and a family of five small children to mourn the loss and cherish the memory of a thoughtful and loving husband and a kind parent. He is also survived by his aged parents and several brothers.

CLANDEBOYE

Mrs. E. Nell of Kalamazoo, Mich., and two sons are holidaying with Miss Ann Nell.—James McRann has gone west to take charge of a threshing outfit.—Mr. McKenzie, teacher, has gone to Lethbridge, Alta., where he has secured a good position.—Mrs. Hodgins, who has been sick, is able to be around again.—Mr. W. Sutherland, who has been making cement blocks here the past two years has gone west.—Mrs. Uri Cunningham of Alberta, is visiting her mother-in-law here for two weeks.—F. Carlin of Hensall visited his brother-in-law, A. McIlhargey, who is very sick.— Mr. O'Mara of Indiana, is visiting his cousin W. Boyle.

THROUGH PULLMAN TOURIST SLEEPING CARS SEPT 5 and 19.

Will leave Toronto 11 p. m. for Winnipeg and points on Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Winnipeg and Edmonton. Cars will run via Grand Trunk Railway System to Chicago, thence connecting with "Homeseekers'" excursions. The rates to Western Canada are very low; Winnipeg and return, $33.00; Edmonton and return, $41.00. Tickets good for 60 days. Proportionate rates to other points in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Touristcars will be fully equipped with bedding, etc., and porter charge. Berths may be secured at a low rate. Full particulars and rates from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. Duff, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

HEIFER STRAYED

There strayed from the premises of the undersigned, Lot 21, Con. 6, Stephen, on or about July 20th, a two-yr-old medium-sized heifer, yellowish color, with white spots and white star on forehead. Finder will be rewarded by sending information that will lead to its recovery to JOHN G. WEIN, Crediton P. O.

Northwest Lands.

Unimproved Lands in Saskatchewan and Alberta for sale.
Railway fare refunded to purchasers.
MONEY TO LOAN.
ERNEST ELLIOT.
Office opposite Central Hotel, Exeter.

FOR SALE

One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass except 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O., Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan, P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

ZURICH.

Miss Ada Wurm is back from a visit with relatives in Michigan.—Miss Lottie Gaister is visiting at Grand Bend for a few weeks.—Mrs. W. Finkbeiner of Milverton, is visiting relatives in town.—Mrs. D. Studer, of Tavistock is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Koehler.—Mr. Tobert Williams of the Molsons Bank staff, of Montreal, is home for his holidays.—Mrs. Ed. Chall is and child of Saginaw, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schnell —Mr. Wm. Kalbfleisch of Ottawa spent the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kalbfleisch.—Mr. Arthur Well of Detroit, is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. H. Well.—Mr. George Brock and Miss Flossie Merner were united in marriage on Wednesday, Aug 23rd., at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Merner.—Mr. A. Surerus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Surerus of the Bronson Line, was successful in capturing the fourth Blake Scholarship at the recent University exams.—Mr. John Weldo has disposed of his farm at the Goshen Line, near town, to Mr. Oscar Koehler, for $8000 00. The new owner gets possession next spring.—Another lot of young men left on Wednesday morning for the West, among them being—Alf Gallman, Sol Zimmerman, and William Koehler, and Mr. also Mrs. Solomon Jacobs.—Mr. G. Holtzman returned from Mildmay, having been called there to visit his aged mother, who is very low.

CHISELHURST.—Mr. Thomas Patterson had a very sad accident happen him last week. While trying to replace a barn door on its hinges, the ladder broke, causing him to fall, rendering him unconscious, also inflicting several gashes on his head, which required medical attention.—George Eyre lost a valuable horse last week. This is the third horse lost on the twelfth concession this summer. Geo. T. Wren lost a mare having a colt a month ago and Wm. Mooney lost a valuable mare and colt.

Women Read This

PARISIAN SAGE PUTS LUSTER INTO DULL, FADED HAIR

Every woman reader of the Advocate who desires radiant hair that everyone admires, should go to W. S. Cole today and get a large 50 cent bottle of Parisian Sage.

It is not only a delightful and refreshing hair dressing and beautifier, but it is sold under a rigid guarantee to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, or money back.

Parisian Sage is the best hair tonic known. It is the only one that will cure dandruff, cleanse the scalp and make the hair grow long and beautiful.

The Envy of her Neighbors

is the woman whose kitchen shines with a handsome, roomy range—whose face beams with the satisfaction afforded by a perfect cooking equipment.

For every woman wants a good stove. Whether she does her own cooking or not, she eats the meals that are prepared on it, and feels a pride in having the best. GURNEY-OXFORD satisfies that pride; justifies the neighbor's envy. Gurney-Oxford stoves and ranges carry every known feature of convenience, economy and control with some new points of excellence that are exclusive.

GURNEY-OXFORD

First of all is the lever that holds. No danger of the fire going out between meals. The Oxford Economizer will hold the heat at a low ebb till you want it; then turn the handle, and your stove is hot in a jiffy. Besides this saving of time and worry it saves in fuel to the actual extent of one ton in six.

THE DIVIDED FLUE STRIP is the envy of all women who bake. It guides the heat equally along sides, back and front of the oven.

Let us demonstrate these and other strong advantages of the Gurney-Oxford line. We have stoves for every purpose, every fuel, and a variety of prices.

W. J. Heaman, Agent.

The SOUVENIR

(NEW IDEA SERIES)

certainly does eliminate furnace bothers

SOME folks dread the winter—because of the furnace troubles it brings

Antiquated heating systems are certainly a nuisance. Dust and ashes, sometimes deadly gas fumes, all over the house. Or hot air like a breeze across a desert waste—poisonous, dry, health-destroying air. All because conservative manufacturers would not consider New Ideas in heating.

The SOUVENIR furnace makes the hot air system the healthiest, cheapest and best.

It's built right—A solid, one-piece iron firepot—tested and selected iron at that—and flanges on the outer side to increase radiating surface.

The grate is simplicity itself—ashes easily dumped by a simple turn of the lever

No place for clinker troubles.

From base ring to dome every SOUVENIR furnace is perfect.

Ask for our new booklet.

The SOUVENIR Furnace is made in Hamilton, the stove centre of Canada, by

The Hamilton Stove and Heater Co. Limited

Successors to Gurney-Tilden Company

13

Every buyer of a Souvenir Furnace is presented with a legal bond on date of purchase, guaranteeing firepot against cracks or breaks of any kind for 5 years.

For Sale by W. J. Heaman

EXCURSIONS TO WESTERN CANADA

The Grand Trunk Railway System announce that on Tuesdays, June 27th, July 11th and 25th, August 8th and 22nd, September 5th and 19th, 1911, Homeseeker's excursions will be run to Western Canada from all stations in Ontario and Quebec, via Chicago and Duluth, or via Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis, at reduced round trip fares.

The well-known double track line of the Grand Trunk from the east to Chicago appeals to the traveller, and with the superior train service that is offered by this line, including the famous "International Limited" from Montreal daily at 9.00 a.m., and which is the finest and fastest train in Canada, many passengers will be attracted this way. The route via Chicago is a most interesting one, taking passengers through the principal cities and towns in Canada and in the States of Michigan and Indiana. In addition to this a choice seven lines between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis is offered.

Owing to the great number of Canadians, who reside in Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and other cities en route, there is no doubt that the Grand Trunk will find many patrons who will take advantage of the opportunity thus afforded them for a brief visit at the stations with their friends.

Another feature that will appeal to the homeseeker is the comfortable transfer at points like Chicago, St. Paul, and Duluth into freshly ventilated clean cars, avoiding the necessity of travelling a long distance in the same car.

In addition to the above routes, the sale of tickets is also authorized via Sarnia, and the Northern Navigation Company's magnificent Steamers across Lake Huron and Lake Superior.

For further particulars apply to any Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System, or write to Mr. J. Quinlan, District Passenger Agent, Bonaventure Station Montreal, or Mr. A. E. Duff, District Passenger Agent, Union Station, Toronto.

Mr. David Dorrance, one of the early residents of this district, died at his home in Seaforth on Monday Night, at the good age of 89 years and 2 months. Mr. Dorrance was a native of Belfast, Ireland, and came to Canada over sixty years ago.

Purchased BUS and DRAY Business

Having purchased the BUS and DRAY business of MR. ARNOLD, I desire to [illegible] to the Public of Exeter [illegible] prepared to give you the [illegible] satisfaction in work [illegible] with the business. For [illegible] ent orders left by phone [illegible] wise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will [illegible] prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

Come again, Pie Time, and often. For wholesome, digestible "eats" —give us PIE.

At its very best wrapped in a FIVE ROSES crust.

Upsets Pie Prejudice without upsetting the Eater's Insides—FIVE ROSES flour.

Great for Pie Crust — top and bottom.

And Puff Paste and Difficult Things.

Close-grained — melting — even textured.

Flaky, too, and crinkly — crisp yet tender.

Put into your bake things the rare nutlike sweetness of Manitoba wheat kernels.

All soppy with the rich red juice of the cherry—or lemon pie—or apple—or healthy custard—meat, may be, or mince—

Put the FIVE ROSES "crust end" about 'em.

See the hungry wedges fade behind busy milk teeth.

At Pie Time—

Use FIVE ROSES.

Five Roses Flour

Not Bleached — Not Blended

LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, LIMITED MONTREAL

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

PRESERVING.

Preserved Watermelon.—Of a large watermelon use red part only. Cut in strips some three inches long, remove all seeds; weigh the melon and to every pound of fruit add three-quarters of a pound of granulated sugar; sift the sugar over the fruit and let it stand a short time until it forms its own juice, then drain the juice off, bring to a boil, and skim well, boiling for some time; then add the melon meat. Add two lemons sliced thin (skins not removed) and three or four pieces of ginger root; cook until fruit is transparent and the juice begins to "syrup." It will take several hours to cook this preserve, for there is s much water in the melon. It is delicious. Use the white part of the melon for sweet pickle.

Spiced Gooseberries. — Steam four quarts of gooseberries and remove stems. Cover with cold water, add half a teaspoonful of salt, and boil for half an hour. Add four pounds of sugar, two tablespoons of ground cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ground cloves, half a teaspoonful of allspice, and one-fourth teaspoonful of mace. Cook until thick. Stir almost constantly. Seal in pint jars or in regular jam pots. A fine relish for meats in winter.

Fig and Peach Preserves.—Take perfectly ripe freestone peaches and perfectly ripe figs, with a chopping knife chop each to a mush and mix in equal proportions. Add three-quarters of a pound of sugar to every pound of mixed fruit. Put in a granite kettle and cook to a jam, stirring often as it gets thick. Put up in small glass jars. So many persons consider fig preserves insipid, the blended fruits have a delightful flavor, and with rich, clotted cream and hot buttered biscuits, this makes a very dainty dish for luncheon.

Cucumber Pickles.—Into a stone jar put one gallon of good vinegar and one cup each of salt, sugar, and mustard; stir well, and add cucumbers, well wiped with a dry cloth, as you gather them, keeping a plate over them so they will be well under the liquor. No scum should form, but if it does, take out the pickles and prepare a fresh mixture. These are ready for the table in a fortnight, and I have kept them for a year. I usually take out the small, nice ones, of good shape, put them in glass jars, cover with prepared vinegar and put away. No heating is required, and I have never had any trouble if the pickles are kept under the vinegar. B. B.

Canned Watermelon.—Pare off the thin green rind, cut the melon (or white rind) in pieces and weigh it. Cook in clear water until partly transparent, but not until likely to break. Take out the pieces in a dish. There will be nearly enough juice that drains from the pieces; add a little from the kettle if necessary. With the juice put sugar to the amount of one-half pound to a pound of the fruit as it weighed when raw. When the sugar is well dissolved, put in the melon and cook until even and clear. Flavor as desired and can.

NOVEL RECIPES.

Dream Biscuits.—Two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons butter, three-fourths cup of milk; mix dry ingredients and sift twice. Work in shortening with tips of fingers, add gradually the liquid, mixing with a knife to a soft dough. Drop from tip of spoon on buttered tin sheet and bake in hot oven twelve to fifteen minutes.

Chop Suey.—Two pounds porterhouse, one-quarter box of spaghetti, four medium sized onions, four medium sized tomatoes, four medium sized potatoes, five stalks of celery, four tablespoons of catsup, salt and pepper. Boil spaghetti in weak water, drain and blanche; fry onions until nice and brown; freshly cooked potatoes are best, but cold ones will do if more convenient; chop separately, very fine, the meat, spaghetti, onions, tomatoes, potatoes, and celery, then mix all together thoroughly with a large spoon. Add the catsup and season well with salt and pepper. When all is mixed well together put it in a baking dish, place in the oven, bake forty-five minutes, stir two or three times while baking. This amount will serve six people.

Cucumbers and Cottage Cheese.—Take two quarts of lobbered milk, place over low fire until curd separates, then strain through a sieve, pressing all the whey out, leaving curd coarse. Add to this pepper and salt to taste and butter size of walnut. To this add one fresh cucumber cut into small dice and mix. Put on ice to cool. When thoroughly chilled spread thin mixture between thin slices of buttered bread and serve at once. These are delicious hot weather sandwiches.

Swiss Steak—Thirty cents' worth of good round steak cut a good two inches thick. Salt, pepper, and dredge thick with flour. Pound with edge of a plate until flour is worked in. Put a good tablespoonful of lard into a frying pan. When hot fry steak quickly a nice brown on both sides, then almost cover with hot water, and let simmer slowly for one hour and a half or two hours. Just as good as roast beef and much cheaper. Gravy is very nice.

NEW ICE CREAMS.

Cocoanut Peach Cream.—Remove the milk from the interior of a large cocoanut and place where it will become cold, meanwhile press through a fruit sieve a quart of peaches that have been pared and sliced (reserve a few bits for garnishing), add to these a cup of confectioner's sugar and place directly on ice. At serving time add to the fruit a pinch of powdered cinnamon, one pint of stiffly whipped cream, add sufficient iced milk to the cocoanut milk to form two quarts; mix and serve from high crystal pitcher in which has been placed a pint of cracked ice, dusting the top thickly with grated nutmeg, garnish with sliced peaches and large, ripe blackberries.

Apple Ice Cream.—Put two pounds of peeled and cut up apples in a saucepan; add one cupful of water, a small stick of cinnamon, one cupful of sugar and the rind and puice of one lemon. Cook quickly till soft, then rub through a sieve, and mix with two cupfuls of cream and two cupfuls of custard. Freeze, and serve in dainty small cups decorated with large seedless raisins.

Rice Ice Cream.—Boil for five minutes two cupfuls of cream, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, the rind of one lemon, three bay leaves and one inch of cinnamon stick. Put three ounces of ground rice in a basin and mix it into a smooth paste with cold milk; add the boiled cream and simmer fifteen minutes. Pass through sieve; when cold, add one teaspoonful of vanilla extract, and then freeze. During the freezing add one cupful of whipped and sweetened cream. Serve in dainty cups, with ground almonds sprinkled on top.

Make two pints of plain custard. When cool add one cupful of cream and orange marmalade, juice of a lemon and a tablespoonful of apple jelly. Freeze. Serve in cones decorated with chopped nuts.

VEGETABLES FOR WINTER.

In order to have fresh, green parsley all winter, put it down in glass jars. First, a layer of parsley about two inches, then a layer of coarse salt one inch thick, and seal.

Canned Tomatoes—Peel plump, medium-sized tomatoes and put them in glass jars without bruising them; pack up to the top and pour over them stewed tomatoes boiling hot. Partially tighten the lids, set on dripping pan on several thicknesses of newspaper, add warm water and cook in oven until tomatoes are thoroughly hot—about ten minutes. Tighten and set away The tomatoes may be used as fresh ones in the winter, and the juice may be used in soups and sauces.

Corn put Down with Salt.—Boil sweet, tender corn on the ear. When cool cut off the ear and put a lawyer two inches deep into a stone jar. Cover with a one-inch layer of coarse salt, and so on to the top. Cover with a plate and weight with a small stone. On using it in the winter, cover the corn with cold water, set on back of stove until it becomes warm, turn off the water and reptat twice; then add milk, butter and pepper.

Canned String Beans.—Cut into pieces fresh, plump beans; boil in salted water as for table. Skim out the beans and place in jars up to the top. To the remaining juice add one tablespoon vinegar for each quart of beans. Bring to a boil, pour over the beans, and seal. Parboil once when you open them in the winter; add cream, butter, and pepper.

TOMATOES.

Tomato Preserves.—Peel twenty-four good sized ripe tomatoes, quarter and cook slowly one hour with one cupful less of sugar than you have tomatoes. Add nine large peaches that have been peeled and sliced thin, cook another hour. Leave in four of the peach stones while cooking. Upon removing from the fire add one tablespoonful of vanilla. Put in glasses and when cold cover with paraffin.

Tomato Relish.—One peck ripe tomatoes chopped fine, one cup salt sprinkled over them, and let stand over night. Next morning turn in colander and drain all water off. Then chop separately two cups celery, two cups onions, three sweet peppers, and add three cups light brown sugar, three pints vinegar, one tablespoon cinnamon, one small tablespoon black pepper. Mix all together and can in airtight cans. This is delicious and will keep a year or more.

CLAIMS ESTATE OF AN EARL.

Claimant Says He is Descended From "Plymouth Smuggler."

Australian newspapers give full details of the claim of William, Ward, a Melbourne builder, to the title and estates of the Earl of Dudley.

The claimant, who, it is stated, will shortly visit England, left London for Australia in 1883. He asserts that he is descended in a direct line from Thomas, the son of the second Baron Ward and eleventh Lord Dudley.

Of this Thomas, who was born about 1685, a romantic story is told. While a young man he married and settled down in the town of Great Torrington, situated on a hill above the river Torridge, seven miles out of Bedford. He soon made a reputation for himself as "The Bold Smuggler of Plymouth."

He then went to Jamaica, where he contracted a bigamous marriage with the daughter of a Spanish planter, and died in Kingston in 1736 leaving sons by both marriages.

Some years ago the Devonshire Wards—from whom William Ward traces his r descent—began to put forward their claims, but without any substantial result. The present claimant is apparently determined, however, to bring his case before the public, and it is with that objec. he is contemptlating an early visit to England.

GERMANY SPREADING WINGS

Busily Creating Interests in All Parts of the World.

Germany, in fact, is engaged in a career of world exploitation. In South America, Africa, the Far East, in Asia Minor, and all the distant islands and continents of the seven seas German merchants and German money are sleeplessly at work creating "interests" for German warships to guard. The activity of the Teutonic pioneer knights is as varied as finance and commerce themselves. They have invaded every avenue of human venture. They own vast domains the size of kingdoms in the Brazils. They control thousands of miles of railways in Turkey and Asia Minor. They dominate the transportation and electric power situation in great capita's like Buenos Ayres.

They monopolize the coffee plantations of Central America control mines and railways in the great Chinese province, work tobacco plantations in Sumatra, rubber plantations in the Congo, cotton plantations in Egypt and harness waterfalls in the heart of Africa. Their argosies, flying the flags of the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American line, carry products "made in Germany" to German warehouses in the world's remotest corners.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

The partition between respect and snobbery is very thin.

You can judge an woman's mental capacity by her clothes much better than you can a man's.

Think before you make promises, and think before you break them.

The great things in life is to avoid care by moderating one's desires and ambitions and one's love of worldly things.

Friendship is like wine. It either matures or goes off.

Our fault, as a nation, is that we think almost too much for ourselves, and perhaps not quite enough for our fellows.

Once you start thinking about yourself and your complaints, your health begins to go.

Scandal and gossip are only other names for lies.

NO FIGURE OF SPEECH.

Of all the things that may befall a church, nothing could be much stranger than the destruction of a little house of worship north of Hudson Bay, as once reported by Bishop Williams of Marquette. He had attend.d a synod of the Canadian church at Winnipeg, and there had seen a missionary bishop, who had been six weeks on the way, having come most of the distance in a canoe. The missionary bishop reported gravely that the diocese of a brother bishop had "gone to the dogs." Being asked for an explanation, he said that the Eskimos in the diocese had built a church with whales' ribs for rafters, and covered it with walrus hide. The little church held eighty persons; but in the time that elapsed between two services the building was set upon by a pack of famished dogs, and demolished in a few hours.

Genius is more plentiful than plain common sense.

THIEVES IN BRITISH JAILS

FASHIONS OF BOOKS IN DIFFERENT PRISONS.

Some Criticize Dickens—One Convict Boasts of Having Written a Novel.

When the English criminal is put away for a long term of imprisonment, he is in the way of becoming a connoisseur of literature. While practising his highly-developed trade of annexing other folks' property, his acquaintance with books is usually confined to the volumes kept by bookmakers, but once inside jail he becomes an intellectual person. At least, if one is to judge by Home Office reports, he develops distinct literary preferences.

There is a library in every big prison, run by the chaplains, assisted in some cases by well-behaved prisoners. Educated prisoners are just as prone to intellectual fads in jail as in the cultured society from which they are drawn. There are men at Maidstone jail who demand the works of Bernard Shaw and Herbert Spencer, who despise the fiction of the day, and will only accept works by their favorite high-class author. Often enough their demands cannot be met by the prison librarians.

Curious fashions in books sometimes run through a prison. The less-literate prisoners are subject to and think that to be seen reading Shakespeare is a hall-mark of respectability. There is, consequently, such a demand for the works of the Bard of Avon that it outruns the supply.

A CURIOUS FORM OF VANITY.

Sometimes Dickens becomes the rage. Recently an ex-convict had something to say about "Oliver Twist" in the way of criticism. "The general moral of that story is all wrong," he said. "Look at Bill Sikes, with his black eye and his bulldog. A man who was getting such a lot of money as he was wouldn't be knocking about a neighborhood like Seven Dials. He'd be with the swell mob. Then there's Fagin, teaching boys to thieve. You'd never see an old man teach a boy. If a man in the swell mob was found taking an innocent boy out with him nowadays, he'd stand a good chance of having his brains knocked out by the other professionals."

Among the most popular authors are six living writers. Mrs. Henry Wood heads the list, followed by Charles Dickens, G. A. Henty, Rider Haggard, Sir Walter Scott, Wilkie Collins, Captain Marryat, Alexander Dumas, Silas Hocking, Miss Braddon, Charles Reade, Lord Lytton, Clark Russell, Charles Kingsley, Rolf Boldrewood, Walter Besant, Rosa N. Carey, Edna Lyell, Hall Caine, and Conan Doyle.

VOLUMES OF MAGAZINES,

American and English, are the favorite reading matter of the bulk of prisoners, when, no doubt, the articles illustrating the stately homes of England are studied with peculiar interest by the burglars. In this connection, a good story is told by a Roman Catholic priest, who was perplexed by the desire of some Roman Catholic prisoners to become Protestants, until he found that it was because the Protestant library contained volumes of "The Strand Magazine," with "Sherlock Holmes" stories in them, while the Roman Catholic library did not.

Other aspects of prison literature are given by Frederic Martyn, who, in his book, "A Holiday in Caol," boasts of having written a novel in his cell. This literary prisoner is a veritable Mark Tapley, who asserts that the year and a half he spent in Wormwood Scrubs prison was the time of his life. This is the picture he draws of his condition: "Free from all care, able to eat the prison food with enjoyment, and with practically as many books as I wanted. I had an enviable time of it; and I often thought with dismay of the time when I would be compelled to mix again in the busy world, and be worried by the landlord and the rate collector."

A LARGE EXPERIENCE.

An African's Faith in the Medicinal Powers of Snail Soup.

While engaged in work on the West Coast of Africa, Sir William Butler was obliged to travel a great deal through the forest. He had an servant intelligent and had servant a very intelligent and as a trustworthy man of the Fantee nation. In "The Light of the West" Sir William gives the story of this servant's faith in the medicinal powers of snail soup.

I suffered from fever, of course. That is a rule on the West Coast that knows very rare exception. My servant, Dawson, had had a large experience in this matter of fever, and his suggestions to me when the attacks came were many and curious. The after part of the attack was almost worse than the full force of the disease. One had a positive loathing for food in any form.

It was at this stage that Dawson's experience prompted him to intervene.

"Would master try some snail soup?"

The Rev. Mr. Jones, whom he formerly served, had found the soup or broth made from snails a good restorative in the prostrate condition which followed the fever fits. This soup was made from the glutinous bodies of very large snails which were to be found in the dense growths of the tropic forests. The idea of eating those great crawling globules would have been repugnant in the rudest state of health, but when one was ill the suggestion was too horrible.

"Well, Dawson," I would say, to change the conversation, "tell me what happened to the Reverend Mr. Jones?"

"The Reverend Jones, he died at Doonguah, sa."

After another attack Dawson would quote his treatment of the Rev. Mr. Smith.

"And what happened to the Reverend Mr. Smith?" I would inquirie.

"He, sa, he die at Mansu."

Later on the name of the Reverend Mr. Brown would come up as another evidence in favor of snail soup.

"Tell me about the Reverend Mr. Brown," I would say, with increased feebleness of utterance, and, I may say, of decreasing hope in that reverend gentleman's eventual escape in that West Coast.

"The Reverend Brown die at Accra, sa," Dawson would solmnly declare. But nothing appeared to shake his faith in the efficacy of his recipe.

A gleam of the grim humor of the situation would sometimes strike one.

"Tell me, Dawson." I once said to this sable consoler of many weary hours, "tell me the name of some fever-stricken patient of yours who did manage to drag himself out of this horrible coast. Was there any one among these reverend gentlemen who got away?"

Dawson thought for a moment.

"The Reverend Robinson," he said. "He left the coast at Accra." Then he added, "I heard afterward he die at Madeira, sa."

"THE BLACK DIAMOND."

Pitch Lake Pays Better Than Gold or Diamond Mine.

One of the natural wonders of the world is the great pitch lake of Trinidad, the most southerly island of the British West Indies. Paying better than any gold or diamond mine, the lake is locally known as "The Black Diamond.' An American syndicate handles most of this natural asphalt under a concession from the Government, and from one corner of the lake obtains 800 tons every day.

Close to the village of La Brea, the lake is inspected every year by numerous visitors to the island, for it is a curiosity not to be seen elsewhere.

The lake lies 138 ft. above the sea, and is three miles in circumference. How deep it is nobody knows; for, all have failed, though many attempts have been made to fathom it. To all appearances, this is indeed "the bottomless pit."

Scientists describe the pitch substances as "bituminous matter floating on the surface of fresh water." For three feet down the pitch is solid enough to bear the weight of men, and to allow their digging up in great slabs with pick-axes and spades. Under the hard surface is liquid pitch, cast up by subterranean fires, and under that again is the fresh water of the lake.

DUTCH DOGS AS DRUGES.

They Are Used as Beasts of Burden in Holland.

The lot of some dogs in Holland is not at all a happy one, for many of them are looked upon as beasts of burden, and have to work very hard indeed for the food that is necessary to keep them alive. In a great many cases, the food they eat is not the same as the English dog has. Some Dutch dogs will eat carrots and turnips—in fact, almost anything that is put before them. They have to draw the vegetable, milk, and other tradesmen's carts in order that mynheer may walk alongside at his ease. These dogs are trained to do this kind of work from puppies, and are very patient and long-suffering; but sometimes they are imposed upon terribly. It is a common sight outside the towns to see a great, hulking Dutchman lolling lazily over the little shafts of a dogcart, smoking his Dutch pipe, while the poor little dog has to draw master, vegetables, and cart altogether. It is a pitiable picture to see the poor little animal struggling under its heavy load. This is rarely seen inside the towns, because, according to Dutch law, it is illegal for the people to make the dogs carry them.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, SEPT. 3.

Lesson X.—Review. Golden Text, Psa. 34. 14.

QUESTIONS FOR SCHOLARS.

Lesson I.—Isaiah's Prophecy Concerning Sennacherib.—Of what nation was Sennacherib king? What nations did he conquer? What did he demand of Hezekiah? Of what did he boast? What did he say about Jehovah? Who prophesied the salvation of Judah? What did Isaiah prophesy concerning Sennacherib? How was the prophecy fulfilled?

Lesson II.—The Suffering Servant of Jehovah.—Who fulfilled the prophecy concerning the Servant of Jehovah? Why was the Servant despised? For whom did he suffer? For what did men think he suffered? What did God lay upon him? How did he bear his suffering? What will be the result of his sacrifice? How may we prevent his having suffered in our behalf in vain?

Lesson III.—Manasseh's Wickedness and Penitence.—Whose son was Manasseh? How did he undo his father's good work? What did he erect in the temple? How did he influence the people? How did he receive God's warning? Who carried him away captive? Where was he taken? What change took place in him there? How did God reward his penitence?

Lesson IV.—Josiah's Devotion to God.—How old was Josiah when he became king? What great evil existed throughout his land? Whom did Josiah seek? What did he cause to be done with the heathen altars? What work did he undertake at Jerusalem?

Lesson V.—The Finding of the Book of the Law.—Who found the book of the law in the temple? What did the book contain? Who read the book to King Josiah? How did the reading impress Josiah? Whom did Josiah send to consult with? What did Huldah tell him? How did Josiah inform the people concerning the newly found law? What did he cause the people to do?

Lesson VI.—Jeremiah Tried and Acquitted.—What message did God send Jeremiah to preach? When did Jeremiah first begin to preach? Under what king did Jeremiah become most emphatic in his prophecies of destruction? Of what did the priests accuse Jeremiah? Before whom was he tried? What defense did he make? What was the result of his trial?

Lesson VII.—Jehoiakim Burns the Prophet's Book. — Why did Jeremiah no longer preach in public? What did God tell him to do? Who copied down Jeremiah's prophecies in a book? Whom and where did Baruch read the book? To whom did he read it? Who told the king about the book? What did Jehoiakim do with the book? What did Jeremiah do after the first book was burned?

Lesson VIII.—Jeremiah Cast Into Prison.—Who kept an army around Jerusalem to prevent a rebellion? What caused the army to retire for a time? What did Jeremiah then decide to do? What happened to him at the city gate? What was he accused of? What did the princes do with him? Who sent to consult with him? How did Zedekiah try to lighten his imprisonment? What did the princes demand should be done with Jeremiah?

Lesson IX.—Judah Carried Captive to Babylon. Who besieged Jerusalem in Zedekiah's reign? How long did the siege last? What happened to Zedekiah when he tried to escape? How was he punished? What did the Chaldeans do with Jerusalem? What was done with the leaders of Judah? What was done with the poorer classes? What became of Jeremiah?

DREAD OMENS APPEAR.

"Speaking Rocks" Seen Near Paris and Lisbon.

Superstitious persons have been alarmed by the simultaneous appearance, near Paris and Lisbon, of the so-called "speaking stones"—rocks in the river beds of the Seine and the Tagus, which only come in sight during a severe drought and which, legnd says, indicate further heat and drought to come, with death and disease in their train.

The French stone had chiseled upon its surface the words, "Whoever sees me shall weep, for the world has wept whenever I was seen." The stone was last noticed in 1870. The Lisbon stone was observed in 1755, when an earthquake destroyed the city, and since then only once for a short time, "Whoever sees me knows that I foretell evil."

Every man has some good habits that are never found out.

No man is so religious that he considers dying a pleasure.

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER I.

Reginald Brett, barrister-at-law and amateur detective, had seldom been more at peace with the world and his own conscience than when he entered the dining-room of his cosy flat this bright October morning.

Since the famous affair of Lady Delia Lyle's disappearance and death, he had not been busy, and the joy of healthy idleness is only known to the hard worker. Again, while dressing, he had received a letter inviting him to a quiet shoot at a delightful place in the country.

All these things blended with happy inconsequence to render Brett contented in mind and affable in manner.

"It's a fine morning, Smith," he said cheerily, as he settled himself at the table where his "man" was already pouring out the coffee.

"Bee-utiful, sir," said Smith.

"Smith!"

"Yessir."

"Not even the best English autumn weather can stand being called 'bee-utiful.' Don't do it. You will open the flood-gates of heaven."

Smith laughed decorously. He had not the slightest idea what his master meant, but if it pleased Mr. Brett to be jocose, it was the duty of a servant who knew his place to be responsive.

The barrister fully understood Smith's delicate appreciation—and its limits. He instantly noticed that the morning paper, instead of reposing next to his folded napkin, was placed out of reach on a sideboard, and that the eggs and bacon made their appearance half a minute too soon.

As an expert swordsman delights to execute a pass en tierce with an umbrella, so did the cleverest analytical detective of the age resolve to amaze his servitor.

"Smith," he said suddenly, composing his features to their most severe cross-examination aspect, "I think the arrangement is an excellent one."

"What arrangement, sir."

"That Mrs. Smith and yourself should have a few days' holiday, while Mrs. Smith's brother takes your place during my forthcoming visit to Lord Northallerton's—why, man, what is the matter? Is it too hot?"—for the cover Smith had lifted off the bacon and eggs clattered violently on the table.

"'Ot, sir. 'Ot isn't the word. You're a fair licker, that's what you are."

Smith invariably dropped his h's when he became excited.

"Smith, I insist that you shall not call me names. Pass the paper."

"But, sir——"

"Pass the paper. Utter another word and I refuse to accept Mrs. Smith's brother as your locum tenens."

Smith was silenced by the last terrible epithet. Yet he was so manifestly nervous that Brett resolved to enlighten him before plunging into the day's news.

"For the last time, Smith," he said, "I will explain to you why it is hopeless for you to think of concealing tradesmen's commissions from me."

The shot went home, but the enemy was acquainted with this method of attack, and did not wince.

"You knew that Lord Northallerton had recently invited me to his October pheasant-shooting. During the last few days a youth, who grotesquely reproduces Mrs. Smith's most prominent features, has mysteriously tenanted the kitchen, ill-cleaned my boots, and bungled over the studs in my shirts. This morning a letter came with the crest and the Northallerton postmark. Really, Smith, considering that you have now breathed the same air as myself for eight long years, I did not expect to be called on for an explanation. Besides, you have destroyed a masterpiece."

"Sir—" began Smith.

"Oh, I understand; there is nothing broken but your reputation. Don't you see that the mere placing of the newspaper at a distance, so that you might have a chance to speak before I opened it, was a subtle stroke, worthy of Lecoca. Yet you demand feeble words. What a pity! Know, Smith, that true genius is dumb. Speech may be silvern, but silence is surely golden."

The barrister solemnly unfolded the paper, and Smith faded from the room. On a page usually devoted to important announcements, the following paragraphs stood forth in the boldness of leaded type:—

"MYSTERIOUS OCCURRENCE IN THE WEST END."

"An affair of some magnitude—perhaps a remarkable crime—has taken place in an Albert Gate mansion.

"Owing to the reticence of the authorities, it is at present impossible to arrive at a definite conclusion as to the nature or extent of the incident, but it is quite certain that public interest will be much excited when details are forthcoming. All sorts of rumors attain credence in the locality, the murder of several prominent persons being not the least persistent of these. Without, however, giving currency to idle speculation several authentic statements may be grouped into a connected form.

"Four weeks ago a party of Turkish gentlemen of high rank in Constantinople, arrived in London and took up their abode in the house in question, after some structural alterations, pointing at great security within and without, had been planned and executed.

"Attending these Turkish gentlemen, or officials, was a numerous suite of Moslem guards and servants, whilst, immediately following their arrival, came from Amsterdam some dozen noted experts in the diamond-cutting industry. These were lodged in a neighboring private hotel, where they were extremely uncommunicative as to their business in London. They were employed during the day at the Albert Gate house. The presence in the mansion, both day and night, of a strong force of Metropolitan police, tended to excite local curiosity to an intense degree, but no clear conception of the business of the occupants was allowed to reach the public.

"Whatever it was that took place, the full particulars were not only well known to the authorities—the presence of the police hints even at Governmental sanction—but matters proceeded on normal lines until yesterday morning.

"Then it became clear that a remarkable development must have occurred during the preceding night, as the whole of the Dutch workmen and the Turkish attendants were taken off in cabs by the police, not to Morton Street Police Station, but to Scotland Yard; this in itself being a most unusual course to adopt. They are unquestionably detained in custody, but they have not yet been charged before a magistrate.

"The police, later in the day, carried off some of these men's personal belongings, from both hotel and mansion.

"A sinister aspect was given to the foregoing mysterious proceedings by the presence at Albert Gate, early in the day, of two police surgeons, who were followed, about twelve o'clock, by Dr. Tennyson Coke, the greatest living authority on toxicology.

"Dr. Coke and the other medical gentlemen subsequently refused to impart the slightest information as to the reasons that led the police to seek their services, and the Scotland Yard authorities are adamant in the matter.

"The representative of a news agency was threatened with arrest for trespass when he endeavored to gain admission to the Albert Gate house, and it is quite evident that the police are determined to prevent the facts from leaking out at present—if they can by any means accomplish their wishes."

Brett read this interesting statement twice slowly. It fascinated him. Its very vagueness, its admissions of inability to tell what had really happened, its adroit use of such phrases as "Turkish gentlemen of high rank," "Noted experts in the diamond-cutting industry," "The greatest living authority on toxicology," betrayed the hand of the disappointed journalistic artist.

"Excellent!" he murmured aloud. "It is the breath of battle to my nostrils. I ought to tip Smith for my breakfast. Had I read this earlier, I would not have eaten a morsel."

He carefully examined the page at the back. It contained matter of no consequence—a London County Council debate—so he took a pair of scissors from his pocket and cut out the complete item, placing the slip as a votive offering in front of a finely executed bust of Edgar Allen Poe, that stood on a bookcase behind him.

Within three minutes the scissors were again employed. The new cutting ran—

"There is trouble at Yildiz Kiosk. A Reuter's telegram from Constantinople states that a near relative of the Sultan has fled to France. The Porte have asked the French Government to apprehend him, but the French Ambassador has informed Riez Pasha that this course is impracticable in the absence of any criminal charge."

"These two are one," said the barrister, as he turned towards Poe's bust and laid the slip by the side of its predecessor. This time he had mutilated a critique of an Ibsenite drama.

The rest of the newspaper's contents had no special interest for him, and he soon threw aside the journal in order to rise, light a cigarette, and muster sufficient energy to write a telegram accepting Lord Northallerton's invitation for the following day.

He was on the point of reaching for a telegraph form when Smith entered with a card. It bore the name and address—

"The Earl of Fairholme, Stanhope Gate."

"Curious," thought Brett, "Where is his lordship?" he said aloud—"at the door, or in the street?"

(His flat was on the second floor).

"In a keb, sir."

"Bring his lordship up."

A rapid glance at "Debrett" revealed that the Earl of Fairholme was thirty, unmarried, the fourteenth of his line, and the possessor of country seats at Fairholme, Warwickshire, and Glen Spey, Inverness.

The earl entered, an athletic, well-groomed man, one whose lines were usually cast in pleasant places, but who was now in an unwonted state of flurry and annoyance.

Each man was favorably impressed by the other. His lordship produced an introductory card, and Brett was astonished to find that it bore the name of the Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

"I have come——" commenced his lordship hesitatingly.

But the barrister broke in. "You have had a bad night, Lord Fairholme. You wish for a long and comfortable chat. Now, won't you start with a whisky and soda, light a cigar, and draw an easy chair near the fire?"

"'Pon my honor, Mr. Brett, you begin well. You give me confidence. Those are the first cheerful words I have heard during twenty-four hours."

The earl was easily manoeuvred into a strong light. Then he made a fresh start.

"You have doubtless heard of this Albert Gate affair, Mr. Brett?"

"You mean this?" said the other, rising and handing to his visitor the longer paragraph of the two he had selected from the newspaper.

"That is very curious," said the earl, momentarily startled. But he was too preoccupied by his thoughts to pay much heed to the incident. He merely glanced at the cutting and went on:

"Yes, that is it. Well, Edith—Miss Talbot, I mean—vows that she won't marry me until this beastly business is cleared up. Of course, we all know that Jack didn't slope with the diamonds. He's tied up or dead, for sure. But—no matter what may have become of him—why the dickens that should stop Edith from marrying me is more than I can fathom. Just look at some of the women in Society. They don't leave it to their relatives to be mixed up in a scandal, I can tell you. Still, there you are. Edith is jolly clever and awfully determined, so you've got to find him, Mr. Brett. Dead or alive, he must be found, and cleared."

"He shall," said Brett, gazing into the fire.

The quiet, self-reliant voice steadied the young peer. He checked an imminent flow of words, picked up the newspaper slip again, and this time read it. Then he blushed.

"You must think me very stupid, Mr. Brett, to burst out in such a manner when you probably have never heard of the people I am talking about."

"You will tell me, Lord Fairholme, if you get quietly to work, and try to speak, so far as you find it possible, in chronological sequence."

(To be continued.)

A fellow never suffers from ennui till he gets tired doing nothing.

In society it is much easier to do the proper thing than the right thing.

Every church has a nave, but, unfortunately, it isn't always spelled that way.

If misery loves company it's up to everybody to get married.

Many a man starves to-day while feeding on the hopes of to-morrow.

If the average man has any virtues he feels like apologizing for them.

There's nothing like the knife of candor for severing the bonds of friendship.

Only a wise man knows how little he actually knows of that which may be known.

A woman's idea of a man's respectability depends on how he is dressed.

LETTERS OF A SON IN THE MAKING TO HIS DAD.

—By REX McEVOY

[Mr. McEvoy will write for this paper a series of letters from the west. They will appear from time to time under the above heading, and will give a picture of the great Canadian west from the standpoint of a young Ontario man going out there to make his way. These letters should be full of interest for every Ontario father.]

Heron Bay, Ont., Aug. 9th.

My Dear Father,—

Perhaps it would be well to explain the shakiness of my handwriting before going any further in this letter. Although everybody in our car is in excellent spirits, we are all sober. The fact is, however, that in spite of the little movable table which the porter has fitted up for me, the motion of the car occasionally makes my writing rather shaky. They are great little tables that fit into the side of the car near the windows and they are supported at the other end on one leg. They come in useful for all sorts of things. We use them as dining tables, and just now an old man and his three sons just across the aisle are playing a game of cards on their little table. They are going out to take up some of the irrigated lands of Alberta which are watered by the C .P. R. irrigation canal. I got acquainted with them through mother not putting a cup in my valise when she packed the grub for me to eat on the trip. I borrowed a cup from them and traded two bananas for a cup of coffee and some dried beef. They are a fine jolly crowd in this car, and there is all sorts of fun all the time, especially at meal times.

I am mighty glad already that we decided I should come out west this summer, even if I don't stop here. Why, I never realized before what a big place Ontario is. Of course, that big map of the Dominion hanging on the schoolhouse wall, showed that the Province was some size, but here I have been travelling along for pretty near twenty-four hours, and we have to go over fourteen hours more before we get to Manitoba. We cross the boundary at Rennie, just 1161 miles from the Union Station, Toronto, where you saw me off when I climbed up into this car in the Canadian Pacific train for Vancouver.

Do you know, Dad, for all they talk of the West, we have a good line of country in Ontario. We didn't see much of Muskoka, as we passed through there at night, but I woke at Muskoka station and raised the blind at my window and saw the trunks of the nearest trees looking ghostly in the electric lights of the station. Behind them was black mystery. Of course, I couldn't see much, but it looked as though the folks that go there for their holidays ought to get a pretty good change from the cities. At breakfast time, on the first morning of our trip, we were in the Sudbury district, and it's something to make us throw out our chests, and feel proud to think that the richest nickel and copper deposits in the whole world are right here in Ontario. Moose Mountain Range is close here, too—the greatest known iron range in Canada. This ought to be a great manufacturing district some day.

There is not much timber round the line just near Sudbury. The trees die when they get to be six or nine inches through. Poplar trees grow about twenty feet high and then they die, and everywhere you can see these young trees covered with dead, shrivelled leaves. Low bushes give the only touch of green to be seen, and everywhere there are rocks of all kinds, sizes and shapes. There are rocks that you could play duck on the rock with, and others that are bigger than our barn at home, with all sizes in between. It must have been a tremendous job putting the railroad through here. It seems like railroad building was what mother says woman's work is—it's never finished. Every little while we pass a gang of men who are busy doing something to the track. They build culverts of concrete sections and turn streams through them, then they fill in solid all round them, so that a number of little bridges have been done away with. Long trestles have been filled in the same way with solid banks in some places thirty or forty feet high. The line crosses deep valleys on these high banks, and if there is a stream in the bottom of it, the railway may cut a new channel for it through the solid rock. I would like to see how they managed to get over this country in the days when they used to go to Winnipeg by ox-cart.

I saw my first real live Indian to-day. There are lots of lakes all through this country, you are hardly ever out of sight of water in this part of Ontario, and just as we passed one lake I caught sight of an Indian tepee on an island, with a squaw bending over a fire. There was a birch-bark canoe—the genuine thing—drawn out of the water and lying upside down, close to the tepee. You go for miles and miles in the train without seeing anybody, and then you may come on a little clearing with a little bit of a wooden house, unpainted and looking more like a box with windows than a house. But there may be a flag-pole alongside, where the Union Jack is run up on holidays. The children who run out of these cabins and wave at the train, as it goes by, seem quite glad to see someone, even if it's only to shout "howdy," as the train rushes by.

We passed a grave to-day, where, I suppose, some settler is buried. It was all alone in a small cleared space among the trees and bushes. It looked awfully lonely in that wilderness, but there must have been someone to think kindly of the man who is taking his last rest there, for a wooden picket fence had been built round the grave, and a weather-worn wooden cross stood at its head.

Say, Dad, I do wish you could have been with me this last half hour. We have just come into view of Lake Superior. All day we have been rolling along between fairly high hills. Just as the shadows of evening were coming on we turned down the valley of a river, and suddenly came in full view of the wide expanse of Lake Superior. It was grand. The lake was a bright blue, far out to the horizon, where a blue mountainous island loomed up. In shore, a hundred feet or so below us, the waves were dashing in snowy breakers on the rocks. All about the lake were high, rolling hills, their wooded sides bathed in the mellow ruddy light of sunset. The track here winds in and out around the hills, and sometimes goes through tunnels, while at other times it runs along a precipitous wall, at the foot of which the waves constantly dash.

For some reason, the view of those great hills, and the mighty lake in the sunset light made me think of us singing "Abide With Me" in the church at home, especially that verse:

"Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day;
Earth's joys grow dim, its glories pass away;
Change and decay in all around I see;
O Thou, Who changest not, abide with me."

Perhaps it was the thought that the waves of this lake were dashing about that distant island, and at the feet of those hills, for untold centuries without change, that made me think of the hymn. It was a sort of glimpse of eternity.

We are running on with constantly changing views of the lake, which is disappearing in the gathering night. It is immense. I would sort of like to hear the hum of the separator at home now, and I can imagine that you are about hitching up Nellie to go to the post office. Well, I must say good-bye now as the porter is beginning to make up the beds. Tell mother I will write to her.

Your loving son,

JIM.

UPSET HIM.

Hub (angrily)—"What! Thirty-five dollars for that new hat? You told me hats could be bought from $4 up."

Wifey—"Yes, dear, this is one of the 'ups.'"

HEAD ACHE

Stop it in 30 minutes, without any harm to any part of your system, by taking "NA-DRU-CO" Headache Wafers 25c. a box, at all druggists'.

NATIONAL DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO. OF CANADA LIMITED. MONTREAL. 27

"THE BEST HOME PRESERVES"

These are made by rightly combining luscious fresh fruits with

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR

The best results are then assured.

Ask your grocer for Redpath Extra Granulated Sugar. He knows then that you want the best.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal

Established in 1854 by John Redpath.

WAR AND BRITISH CREDIT.

Boer War Increased Debt Eight Hundred Million Dollars.

In 1899 the debt of Great Britain stood at the lowest point since the Napoleonic wars, and for four years Government bonds bearing two and three-quarter per cent interest had sold at a premium averaging about ten per cent. Then came the Boer War, increasing the debt by eight hundred million dollars and making the total nearly four billions. "This," the editor of the Economist recently observed, "was the highest point since 1867; so that the national savings of thirty-six years of peace were swept away by national borrowings during three years of war." And in April, 1903, interest on consols was reduced to two and a half per cent.

For a good while consols have been selling at a discount of about twenty per cent., and in the middle of July they dropped to seventy-eight and a quarter—the lowest price in eighty years. The drop was attributed to apprehension over the Morocco situation—which naturally raises a question as to what would become of consols if there were a real war scare.

Money cannot be had at two and a half per cent. because there are too many competitors for the world's savings. The relative prices of British two and a half per cents and French three per cents suggests that investors do not like a very low-rate bond, even at a discount.

The more important point is that about a year of actual fighting with a handful of Boers caused Britain's debt to increase three-fourths as much as twelve years of fighting with Napoleon at the height of his power. That suggests the colossal destructiveness of modern warfare.

GET POWER.

The Supply Comes From Food.

If we get power from food why not strive to get all the power we can. That is only possible by use of skilfully selected food that exactly fits the requirements of the body.

Poor fuel makes a poor fire and a poor fire is not a good steam producer.

"From not knowing how to select the right food to fit my needs, I suffered grievously for a long time from stomach troubles," writes a lady from a little town in Missouri.

"It seemed as if I would never be able to find out the sort of food that was best for me. Hardly anything that I could eat would stay on my stomach. Every attempt gave me heartburn and filled my stomach with gas. I got thinner and thinner until I literally became a living skeleton and in time was compelled to keep to my bed.

"A few months ago I was persuaded to try Grape-Nuts food, and it had such good effect from the very beginning that I have kept up its use ever since. I was surprised at the ease with which I digested it. It proved to be just what I needed.

"All my unpleasant symptoms, the heartburn, the inflated feeling which gave me so much pain disappeared. My weight gradually increased from 98 to 116 pounds, my figure rounded out, my strength came back, and I am now able to do my housework and enjoy it. Grape-Nuts food did it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A ten days' trial will show anyone some facts about food.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest

---

It is easier to accept a position than it is to hold a job.

Summer Clothing

The warm weather is with usagain are you prepared for it? We are. What you need is a summer suit to help you to keep coal. We have the goods to suit and we make them up to suit. Let us demonstrate these facts for you.

W. W. TAMAN
Merchant Tailor,
Exeter, Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	80	81
Barley	50	60
Buckwheat	48	50
Oats,	36	37
Peas	70	75
Potatoes, per bag	1 00	1 00
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 40
Flour, low grade per cw	1 45	1 45
Butter	17	17
Eggs	17	17
Live hogs, per cwt		7 55
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00
Wool	18	20
Wool unwashed	14	14

Poultry

We will pay till Sept. 6th the following for live poultry

Old fowl 8c. per pound.
Old roasters 6c. per pound.
Spring chicken 1911 hatch 11c. per lb
Duckling 9c. per pound,
Duck 8c. per pound.
Turkey 12c. per. pound;
(Chicken to be 4 lb to the pair.)
(Duckling to be 7 lbs to the pair.)

The above prices for live weight. One cent a lb less for cash.

JONES & MAY

200 Fancy Vases and Jardinieres to select fromat—Stewart's.

Our wedding stationery is of the latest, types of the best, workmanship unsurpassed and prices right. Prospective brides should call at the Advocate and see for themselves.

98c. Buys a Lovely Lawn or Tailor-made waist at—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Heaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

$1.00 the yd. for the best 36 inch Black Messaline Dress Silk in Western Ontario—Stewart's.

GIRLS WANTED
Apply to D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

Stewart's 30c. Japan' Black and mixed Tea, beats 'em all.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

Did you say sugarP Get prices on Redpath's at—Stewart's.

SCRAP, SCRAP SCRAP.—Bring your junk to me. I will pay highest cash prices for all kinds of scrap iron, rags, old rubbers, copper, brass, etc. Orders left at the Commercial House will receive prompt attention.—ABE JACKSON, Exeter.

FEATHER CLEANER

Mr. Halstead, the feather cleaner of Goderich will be in town this week. Now is the chance to get your feather beds and pillows cleaned. Look out for the Red Flag.

BIBLE FOUND—A small bible was found on Saturday last. Owner can have same by proving property and paying for this notice.

APPLES WANTED AT THE EXETER EVAPORATOR.

Owing to the light crop of apples in this section this year the Exeter Evaporator will only be in operation one week. We will open Monday, Sept. 4 and will buy all apples delivered at our plant up to and including Sept. 9th. Bring in your apples and get the highest market price. Don't forget the date—Sept. 4th to the 9th.

NOTICE.—Kindly take notice that my Dental Office will be closed four to six weeks. The office, however, will be open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the making of appointments for work, which will be given immediate attention on my return.

G. F. ROULSTON

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on toys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

CISTERN AND WELL CLEANING.—Those having cisterns or wells that need cleaning will do well to have the work done at once. We do it to your satisfaction.—ALBERT GOWER, Exeter N.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Gordon Heywood is learning operating at the station.

Tom Sanders is learning the drug business at W. S. Cole's.

Dr. Tennant shipped a car load of horses to Winnipeg this week.

The All-Stars won a game over the Pirates Tuesday evening, 10-9.

Mr. James Beverley is this week moving into the Carling & McDonell Block.

We are now having much cooler weather, the nights in particular being quite cold.

Mr. Austin Hewitt closed his barber shop at Grand Bend Monday and returned to town.

Mr. Hugh Spackman is moving into his new home next to the house vacated by him.

A party of government surveyors are camping at the station, being engaged in taking levels.

The Giants defeated the Pirates Monday evening in one of the games of the local schedule.

We are now into the fall fair season and many people have gone to the Toronto Fair this week.

There were 170 tickets sold on Saturday at this station for the Barnum-Bailey circus at London.

The H. Lambrook property on Andrew Street was sold on Saturday to Chas. Sanders of Exeter North.

Mr. Henry Smith shipped a carload of choice stock to Toronto on Saturday, for exhibition at the Fair.

Sir James P. Whitney, Premier of Ontario, will address a mass meeting on Reciprocity in Seaforth on Sept. 5.

To-day is the last of the half-holidays for this year. This business man's recreation day has proved a success again this year.

Two rinks of Exeter bowlers went to Mount Carmel Tuesday, but returned without the silver vase which was won by Jack Hoover of Clinton.

On Monday Dr. Quackenbush assisted by Dr. Browning removed a growth from the forehead of Mr. Richard Quinton. He is doing nicely.

The many friends and companions of Miss Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Rowe, will regret to know that her illness is of a very serious nature.

Mrs. McAvoy received word last week of the death of Mr. Patrick McAvoy of Kincardine, he having died in that place on Wednesday, August 24th, caused by old age.

School re-opens next Tuesday. Parents should see that all scholars commence on the first day as it means a good deal to the scholars as well as teachers.

A Lady Demonstrator for the "Finch Fashions" will be at Mrs. W. D. Yeo's store all day Friday, Sept. 1st, to demonstrate on tailored suits, coats, skirts and dresses. All ladies invited.

Mr. McAlpin, Huron College Student of London, filled the pulpit in the Trivitt Memorial church on Sunday morning and Mr. Clarence Dupian of Centralia in the evening, both discourses being well delivered.

On Saturday morning Mr. W. E. Sanders had the misfortune to lose his Percheron stallion from heart failure. The loss to Mr. Sanders is quite heavy but it is still greater to the surrounding country as this was a noted stock horse.

While the apple crop in this locality is very poor there will be no scarcity of apples this season. Reports from every apple growing district of the Province, except this, are to the effect that the crop will be one of the best in many years. And the fruit moreover, is of a very choice quality.

Early Tuesday morning an incipient fire was nipped in the bud at Mr. Geo. Anderson's home, Andrew street. A fire had been lighted in the summer kitchen stove, and the pipe becoming hot started a blaze, which was gaining fast, when Oscar, his son, discovered it, just in time to save their home.

Miss Lily Rowe, who has been in very poor health for some time but who was thought to be improving, was taken worse last week, and at the time of writing is in a very critical condition, with no hopes whatever of her recovery. Dr. McGregor of London was called here Sunday and on examination pronounced it a chronic case of meningitis with no encouragement whatever of her recovery and that it was only a matter of time before the disease would perform its deadly mission.

Toronto World.—"Donald C. MacGregor Toronto's own popular baritone, more than made good at Shea's Theatre yesterday, when he took the place on the program vacated by an artist from New York, who was unable to continue the week. Mr. MacGregor was received with such enthusiasm that he can be regarded as a "headliner," and his songs were applauded to the echo. In the afternoon he was encored three times and forced to respond to a curtain call. In the evening four encores was his reward." At Opera House, Exeter, Fair night, Sept. 19th, MacGregor and White Concert Co., an army of fun. Plan of Hall at Cole's Drug Store.

NEW STORY.—With this issue The Advocate commences the first chapter of a serial story, entitled Close Quarters, or the house in the Rue Barbette. This is a story of remarkable interest unfolding many thrilling incidents, and is told in a manner that is fascinating and pleasing. Don't miss the opening chapter.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—The Anniversary and Harvest Thanksgiving Services in connection with the Trivitt Memorial church will be held on Sunday, September 3rd, at 11 and 7 p. m. Rev. Professor Jeakins, rector of St. Paul's church, Clinton, one of the ablest preachers in Ontario, will conduct both services. The church will be tastefully decorated for the occasion and special music will be rendered by the choir. A special thank offering will be taken up at each service.

FARM WANTED TO RENT—50 acre farm with the usual buildings. Any person having such will leave application at this office.

Miss Effie Trebie is visiting in Toronto.

Mrs. Ed. Howald has returned from Stratford.

Mr. Rich. Quance, Jr., is visiting in Hamilton.

Rev. Powell goes to Sarnia to-day for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Blasett are visiting in Toronto.

Wm. Heideman is holidaying with his sister at Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Snell returned to Lansing this week.

Miss Birdie Boyle has returned from a visit in London.

Miss Nichols of Adelaide is visiting at Mr. J. Mallett's.

Miss Addie Morlock returned Tuesday from her trip west.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Stokes and daughter returned to Detroit Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Samuel leave today for their home in Highgate.

Mr. Strathan of Michigan is visiting his daughter Mrs. Wm. Fletcher.

Mrs. J. W. Powell has returned from a visit in Duluth for a few weeks.

Miss Jean Walker of London is visiting her parents in Exeter North.

Mr. James Handford and Mr. John Holman are attending Toronto Fair.

Miss Vina Fisher went to Hamilton Monday to reside with her sister, Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. A. Hastings and daughter, Miss Lulu, left Monday to visit friends in Berlin.

Miss May Hawkins returned Monday from attending the millinery openings at Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Statham, Frank Mallott and J. D. Atkinson went to Toronto Tuesday.

Mrs. Jas. Dignan left Tuesday morning to visit with her son, Mr. Wm. Dignan, in Lucan.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gregory of Winnipeg, Man., are visiting with the former's mother here.

Miss Vera Rowe was called home Monday night owing to the serious illness of her sister, Lily.

Mrs. J. C. Tom left for the west on Tuesday to visit her son W. H. Tom, of Medicine Hat, Alta.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Cook of London spent yesterday with friends in town, having autoed up.

Mr. John Bawden of London is visiting relatives here, the guest of his neice, Miss Fanny Bawden.

Dr. Albert and Mrs. McCallum of Cressline, Ohio, are here visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. Morlock.

Mrs. Roulston left on Tuesday night for Toronto to attend the funeral of her brother, Mr. G. N. Langford.

Dr. J. A. Rollins of Mimico and Mr. A. J. Rollins of London came up Wednesday to visit friends for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cluney of Detroit accompanied by two children, are visiting with the latter's mother, Mrs. Sutton.

Mrs. Jas. Bissett of London was called to Dashwood this week owing to the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Kruger.

Miss Marjorie Hepburn of Centralia and Miss Helen Fettes of Toronto, visited Mrs. G. Wescott the latter part of last week.

Rev. D. W. and Mrs. Collins have returned to the Rectory, after an absence of four weeks, the former at Sault Ste Marie and the latter with her parents at Birr.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stanley, who have been visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin, left with their two children for their home in Winnipeg on Friday evening.

Mrs. S. Filton is visiting in Toronto this week.

Miss Winnie and Harry Carling returned to Brantford Friday.

Miss Flossie Hunter is visiting with her friend Miss Arnold in Kincardine.

Mr. James Jewell arrived home Monday from Regina, where he has been working during the summer.

Messrs. D. J. and Neil Ross and Misses Mary and Maggie Ross, all of Winnipeg, visited this week with their brother, Mr. D. A. Ross.

Mrs. (Dr.) McDowell of Listowel and Mrs. (Dr.) Holloway of Peterboro, who were here attending the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Welsh, returned to their respective homes Saturday.

THE EXETER SCHOOL

The Exeter School Board announces the re-opening of the High School or Continuation Class Section for Monday, September 5th, at 9 a.m., when all intending students are desired to be present. The aim of the board is to provide a thorough education for the various walks of life—Commercial, Industrial and Professional, and to train carefully those under their care for a good, true, and honorable Canadian Citizenship.

The course covered is complete for Model, Normal and University Entrance. Special emphasis is given to the Commercial department. Students are given a complete Commercial training.

As a rural High School full attention is given to the special needs of the farmer and artisan.

The School stands government approved, and is thoroughly equipped as to play grounds, labratory needs, library and staff. The work has received full approval from both public and continuation inspectors. The results at the last departmental examinations rank the Exeter School among the first in the Province.

The staff remains, with one change, as before, and stands for the H. S. Section as follows,—W. B. Weddenhammer, B.A., honor graduate of Toronto University, Specialist in Moderns and English, takes charge of Moderns, Higher English, Mathematics and Science; Miss E. M. Robb (First-class) Classics, English, History and Reading; Miss M. Campbell (First-class) the Commercial and Junior Work. The H. S. Section is open to all who have passed the H S. Entrance, and parents and guardians are asked to see that registration of students is made with the least possible delay. For information as to Courses apply to the principal.

J. Grigg, Sec.

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Partland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Medicine Free

You take no Financial risk
We make this offer to every person who suffers from the Kidney Diseases

We are offering to every sufferer from any kind of chronic kidney disease a treatment that produces prompt, beneficial effects and which is so certain in its action, as to lead us to guarantee satisfactory results or we will refund your money.

REXALL KIDNEY PILLS act with promptness and a certainty, what they have done for others, surely this will do for you. Accept our offer to-day and get relief.

Sixty pills 50c. a box

W. S. Cole, Phm. B.
The Rexall Store

Edison Phonographs, all prices.

Household Goods

Edison records, large Stock

We carry everything required by the housewife in great values at 5, 10, 15, 25c.

Kitchen utensils, Hardware, Glassware, Chinaware, Brushes and Combs, Novelties, Perfumes and Toilet preparations, Fruits and Confectionery.

A complete line at the Popular prices.

Come and inspect our stock.

Thursdays and Saturdays Special Bargain days.

Keep your eye on our windows.

POWELL'S BAZAAR

THE TORONTO NEWS

FROM THE FIRST HAS LED IN THE MOVEMENT AGAINST RATIFICATION OF THE TRADE COMPACT WITH WASHINGTON

THE NEWS WILL BE SENT DAILY BY MAIL TO ANY ADDRESS IN CANADA FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A-HALF A YEAR

Here's Why WE Ask For Your

Jewelry Business

It's an oft-told-tale, but it should never grow uninteresting to the buyer who would be economical.

Our pricers are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter
Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers
And
Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a
For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON
The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

An Attractive Showing of

NEW FALL DRESS GOODS

Our stock of new fall material will meet your approval. A splendid assortment of colors and wears; in fact, we think we have everything that is practical desirable or necessary to help you choose your New Fall Dress or Suit. Here are a few—

TWEEDS

We are showing a very fine range Tweeds in 42in., 52in., and 56in. widths at 50c. to $1.00 per yard. Tweeds are very popular for this Fall.

PLAIN CLOTHS

Always good and very desirable for a Dress or Suit. All the good colors are shown in Satin cloths, Venetian, Broad Poplins, Prantalas at 50c. to $1. per yard.

SERGES

One of the very strong clothes for Fall. We are showing them in Blue, Black, Brown Gray and Cream. Very good to wear at 50c., 75c., and $1.00 per yd.

FANCY WAISTING

That are going to be very much in demand for this Fall Fancy Valleurs in different colors, Fancy Delaines, Checks and Silks in all the leading colors and patterns.

$1.00 THE BEST YARD WIDE SILK $1.00

We are offering the Best Yard Wide Paillette or Taffeta Silk on the market fully guaranteed for $1.00 per yard.

KIMONA CLOTHS

Now is the time to select your Kemona or Sacque length A lot of real choice patterns in the best of colors to choose from at 15c. to 25c. per yard.

BLACK UNDERSKIRTS

Just opened up a New lot of Ladies Black Underskirts They are sure to please you Plain or Fancy at $1. each up to Silk for $5. each.

Ladies New Winter Coats

Jnst arrived oui first shipment of Ladies Winter Coats. Fancy Tweeds are amongst the strongest sellers of which weare showing a nice lot also the best things in Black and Blues. See the first showing.

JONES & MAY
Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

To You, Mr. Farmer

Mr. Farmer, remember it is not what is going to be, but what has lately been, that tells the tale. The balderdash about "enlarged and improved markets" is only intended to deceive. Digest the following and see for yourselves.

Prices in January, 1911, quoted from the United States Senate Document No. 849:—

	Buffalo	Toronto	Detroit	Windsor
Beef Steers, Heifers	$6.20	$5.65	$5.30	$5.60
Beef Cows	4.80	4.75	4.00	4.65
Stockers	4.75	5.00	4.15	4.90
Calves	6.55	7.80	8.75	7.25
Milkers	61.00	71.00	47.00	70.00
Lambs	5.90	5.70	5.60	5.65
Sheep	4.00	4.15	4.70	4.15
Hogs	7.75	9.30	8.40	9.20

Local Items

HICKS' SEPTEMBER FORECASTS—A regular storm period unites with Mercury period and the autumnal equinox, from the 12th tol the 16th. This period will bring return of falling barometer, change fio warmer, cloudiness rain and thunder, but we do not figure that general and abundant rains will fall at this time. In all probability equatorial, or west India storms, will affect the gulf coast regions, bringing dangerous winds and heavy rains to those sections, and up the Atlantic Coasts; but counter storms from the northwest and through the interior states will result in cooler weather, but far less precipitation. Dangerous gales with possible tornadoes, are among the possibilities during this and other September periods.

CORNISH—HEY

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place on the 9th concession of Hay on Tuesday evening last when Miss Mary Elizabeth Hey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Hey, was united in marriage to Mr. Emerson Cornish of Exeter. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Moss of Zurich at 7.30 o'clock, in the presence of only the immediate family of the bride. The bride received many beautiful and useful presents. The young couple left the following morning for Toronto and other places. On their return they will take up housekeeping in Exeter and will occupy the residence on the corner of Ann and William streets, recently vacated by Mr. Wilson. The Advocate wishes the young couple a long and happy married life.

25c. pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1

Miss B. Hobbs of Birr is a visitor at the Rectory.

Lots of people enjoy being fools as long as they aren't found out.

Miss Palmer and Mr. Dunkeld of Goderich were visitors at Mr. Marchand's over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Martin of Lucan were visitors at Mr. George Crawley's on Sunday.

The following are attending the Toronto Fair.—Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Gladman, Miss Lang, Mrs. Hedden, Mr. and Mrs. John Scott.

Hear MacGregor and White at the Opera House, Exeter, Fair Night. Going in—I wonder if MacGregor can sing Coming out—I could listen to him all night.

Mr. T. L. Rogers and family autoed over from Parkhill on Sunday and spent the day at Mr. Ed. Christie's. Mr. Robt Rogers spent Saturday night and Sunday with his family here.

DIED IN DULUTH.—Mr. Harry Gidley received the sad news on Tuesday of the death of his brother, Mr. Bertram Charles Gidley of Duluth, Minn., the deceased having died in that city the same morning. The deceased was a son of the late Samuel Gidley and all the early part of his life was spent here. About ten years ago he left Exeter for Duluth, where he has continuously resided since. The deceased has been in very poor health for many months, hence his demise was not in the least unexpected. He was a young man of clever attributes and receiving a good business training filled responsible positions in that city. He was aged 34 years, 10 months and 11 days. His many friends and old associates here will regret very much to hear of his early demise. The remains will be brought here this week for burial, the funeral taking place from the depot on arrival of the morning train from the south to the Exeter Cemetery.

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

Dress Goods At Cost Price

Now that August is half gone we are offering all our summer Dress Goods at cost price such as Mulls Foulards and Muslins, etc.

WHITE LAWN WAISTS

Regular	$2.00	for	$1.85
"	2.50	"	1.60
"	2.25	"	1.35
"	2.00	"	1.20
"	1.75	"	1.15
"	1.50	"	1.05
"	1.25	"	.89
"	1.00	"	.75

LADIES DUTCH COLLARS AND JABOTS

Regular	50c.	for	40c.
"	25c.	"	20c.
"	15c.	"	11c.

Also Wash Belts regular 25c. for 20c.

WHITE UNDERSKIRTS

Regular	$3.75	for	$2.75
"	2.50	"	1.75
"	2.25	"	1.60
"	2.00	"	1.30
"	1.25	"	.89
"	1.00	"	.70

All corset covers to be cleared out at cost.

Balbriggan underwear in Egyptian thread and porous knit regular 40c. a garment for 30c. a garment.

Gents pure silk half hose regular 50c. for 40c. also Lisle half hose regular 50c. for 40c. regular 25c. for 20c.

We have just received a few lines of Fall Goods in plaids and checks suitable for children's dresses for school at 12 and a half cent and 15c. a yard.

Special—We have just received several pieces of Flannelette 34 inches wide regular 12½c. weight, for 10c. This is a good time to buy your Flannelettes for fall before they are sold out.

Farmers—We now have the celebrated Beebe pants and smocks. These are made from the heaviest dennim and also made to fit.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce,

W. J. CARLING

DEATH OF LILLIE G. ROWE.—It is with sentiments of profound sorrow that we write of the death of Miss Lillie Gertrude Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Rowe, who passed away at her home, Huron street, on Saturday night last, at the age of 17 years, 4 months and 26 days. About ten weeks previous to her demise deceased was suddenly afflicted with a severe attack of meningitis and it was thought at the time that it would prove fatal. She, however, survived this trying illness and gave promise of recovery, being able to be up and around quite improved and cheerful, but a second attack about two weeks ago was too great for her already weakened constitution and amid great suffering she passed away. That one so young should be called away seems almost incredible, and the sad event has cast a gloom over the whole community. The deceased young lady was of exceedingly kind and amiable disposition, a general favorite with all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance and had a sweet smile for everybody. Sorrow, deep and profound, prevails, not alone in the household she has left so desolate, but also in the hearts of those who were near and dear to her, in whose memories she will live brightly as long as life will be their portion; she was beloved as she was lovable, and the many beautiful floral tributes laid on and around the the casket testified to the high esteem in which she was held. No written words can convey to the bereaved parents the condolence extended in their behalf, nor will words afford them any measure of relief in this their sad hour of trial and affliction. The funeral took place to the Exeter cemetery on Tuesday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

SUDDEN DEATH.—The news of the startlingly sudden death of Mr. William Coward, of the 9th concession of Usborne, came as a shock to the whole community on Tuesday morning of this week. Some few weeks ago deceased submitted to an operation for the removal of a portion of the skin from one of his arms, to be grafted onto the arm of his brother, George, who recently met with the accident of having his arm badly torn by a stallion. The removal of skin by the physicians was successfully performed, but it caused a slight sickness. This, however, was thought to be trifling and he was able to get out around more or less every day—in fact at eleven o'clock the night before he died he went out to the pump for a drink and ate a lunch before retiring, but shortly after retiring he was taken suddenly worse and a few hours later the end came, the immediate cause of death being pronounced heart failure. The deceased was born in the neighborhood of Port Hope, but a few years later moved with his parents to the township of Usborne, settling on the farm on which he died, thus he was a resident of that township for over 50 years. Mr. Coward was a hearty robust and vigorous type of a man and was scarcely ever known to be ill, hence the old proverb is again illustrated, "In the midst of life we are in death." The deceased was of an industrious turn of mind, a staunch and true man in every sense of the word, and his sad and sudden demise has cast a gloom over the whole community. About thirty-five years ago deceased married Elizabeth Francis, and besides the bereft widow he leaves a family of four sons and two two daughters.—Frank, John, George and Edward, all at home; Mrs. Fenton Brown, of Croswell, Mich., and Mrs. Arthur Sanders, Exeter, three brothers also survive, Thomas, of Winchelsea Daniel and George, of Usborne. The funeral takes place to-day at 1.30 o'clock to the Exeter cemetery. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of the whole community in their sad affliction.

STEPHEN COUNCIL.

The Council of the Township of Stephen convened in the Town Hall, Crediton on Monday, the 4th day of September, 1911 at 1 p.m. All members were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

Yearley—Kellerman,—"That Fred H. Hogarth be refunded $8.00 of the money paid for cow tags on account of him being obliged to take his cattle off the road in the early part of the season".—Carried.

Yearley—Sanders—"That Joseph Lawson be awarded the contract to construct the concrete abutments and floor of Ford's Bridge for the sum of $390.00".—Carried.

Kellerman—Yearley—"That Fred Haist be paid $10.00 to construct a temporary bridge across the Aux Sauble River and that he receive the old wooden bridge to construct the same with the understanding that the Township reserve the iron rods and plank after the temporary bridge is of no further use."—Carried.

The following orders were paid.—G. F. Elber, twelve 10 inch concrete tile used on S. B., $7.80; John McLellan, gravel, 32.64; John McLellan, gravel contract, Block 10, C. Rd., 33.50; Geo. Hepburn, Rep. Essery's Bridge, .75 F. H. Hogarth, Refund of money paid for cow tags, 8.00.

The council adjourned to meet again in the Town Hall, Crediton, on Monday the 3rd day of October, 1911 at 1 p.m.

HENRY EILBER, Tp. Clerk.

Mr. Verce Hardy of Denver, Colorado, arrived home Wednesday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hardy.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Seldon were in Ingersoll Sunday to see the former's brother, Dr. Geo. Seldon, who was visiting at home from Vancouver.

Misses May and Ethel Armstrong returned to Lucknow, to resume their millinery duties, after holidaying for several weeks at their home here.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

The Anniversary and Harvest Thanksgiving Services in connection with the Trivitt Memorial Church were held Sunday. The church was beautifully and tastefully decorated with flowers, fruits and grain. The handsome church green, erected for special occasions, was particularly worthy of mention, it being ornamented with wheat, oats and barley, interspersed with the red berry of the mountain ash. The choir rendered special Harvest Anthems and the solos given by Clarence Duplan were well received. Mr. Markham presided at the organ with his usual proficiency and sympathetic renditions of the service. The services opened with an early celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 o'clock. The Rev. C. E. Jeakins, B. A., B. D., Rector of St. Paul's church, Clinton, was the special preacher at all three services. In the morning the text was I. John, III., 2. In developing the subject of anniversary the speaker pointed out that a correct view of life was not retrospective, but prospective. To see Christ as He is in His moral loviness is to become like Him, therefore the golden age of the Church is always in the future. "When we shall see Him as He is." The afternoon address to the Sunday School was wonderfully effective, showing the responsibility of watchfulness over our hearts and minds which were compared to a garden, wherein grew flowers and weeds, the one to be cultivated, the other to be removed. In the evening the sermon was of a Harvest Thanksgiving nature, the text being, Psalm 65, XIII. Very eloquently the preacher showed how God displayed His attributes of fruitfulness, love and power in the operation of the laws of nature. The Rev. Mr. Jeakins is one of the foremost preachers in the Diocese of Huron and his return will be welcomed by the members of he Trivitt Memorial Church

THE EXETER COUNCIL

Council met in Town Hall Friday evening, Sept. 1st. Members all present. Minutes of last regular meeting read and approved. Communications were read from F. W. Farncombe, re. laying of mains, etc., on Wellington street to Grand Trunk track. The same was ordered to be filed. Walper—Day—That the following accounts be paid and orders issued in payment;—G. T. R., Co., freight and duty on piping, $413.68; Queen City Oil Co., gasoline, $14.24; H. Parsons, street watering, $105.90; Electric Light Co., $123.67; W. J. Beer washers, 75c.; Times P'ng Co., $13.50 Jas. Murray & Son, $16.73; T. Hawkins & Son, stove (1909) $14.20; E. Treble, rep. instrument and fare to Toronto, $8; F. Farncombe, com. on purchase of piping, etc., $35; R. Davis part payment on gravel contract, $100; W. J. Blasett, pt. salary, $33; John Ford, do. $31.25; T. B. Carling do, $21.75; N. Vale, labor, $14.38; Wm. Welsh do. $4.38; R. Quance, do. $19.50; W. Westcott, do. $12.25; Geo. Cudmore, do. 75c.; J. Bell, do. $14; Geo. Cornish, do. $7.50; Thos. Cornish, do. R. Davis, do. $3.50; T. Creech labor and gravel, $76.50; J. Kydd, labor, $7; T. Houlden, do. $14; Alex. Dow, $3.50 Rivers—Day—That the Reeve and Treasurer borrow 500.00 for current expenses.—Carried. Walper—Day—That Mr. Chas. Snell be requested to attend next council meeting re light on lake road. Carried. Walper—Adjournment.

T. B. Carling, clerk.

LUMLEY.

Mrs. W. L. Kefalake and Mrs. J. A. Bolton are attending Toronto Fair.—Mrs John Glavin spent the week end with friends in St. Marys. She was accompanied by Mrs. McLinchey of Seaforth. —A few from this vicinity attended the Old Boys' Re-union at Kirkton.—Mrs. McMordie returned to London Monday after visiting her daughter, Mrs. W.N. Glenn of Glennwood farm.—Miss Jennie Horton of London has accepted a position in Calgary, Alta.—School has reopened.—Mrs. McQueen and daughter, Mary have returned to Exeter.—Miss Maude Horton, Hurondale, was a visitor on the boundary the past week.

USBORNE COUNCIL

Council met Sept. 2nd pursuant to adjournment. All members were present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The Engineer's report on repairs to Branch B., Blainville Drain was read and considered and the work, being deemed advisable, the report was adopted and a By-law for the construction of the work in accordance with the report was provisionally adopted, the By-law to be printed and delivered to the assessed owners or occupants as provided by the Drainage Act,—

The following rates were struck for the current year. County rate 1.7 mills on a dollar. Township rate 1.5 mills, General School rate 1.125 mills.

The amounts required by the trustees of Schools, to be levied by special rate on the various sections and collected with the other rates.

A few accounts were passed and orders issued in payment. Council then adjourned to meet Oct. 7, at one o'clock.

F. MORLEY, Clerk.

On Monday Sept. 4, a large tumor was removed from the back of Mr. Roy Traquair of Hensall by Drs. Quackenbush and Hyndman. We are pleased to learn that the patient is doing nicely.

Canning Factory

Canning Factory will start packing corn Thursday, August 31st. Farmers will kindly bring sample cobs to the factiry where they will be instructed when to bring it in. Help wanted at the factory husking corn. Good wages paid.

Exeter Canning Co.

UNCLE SAM TO MISS CANADA

'Gee Whittaker, Christmas, ain't you sassy
To turn up your nose at a duck like me
Get onto my shape; why, lor' a massy,
A foolish girl, I never did see.
Supposin' I undertook to make you?
I'm kinder 'customed to makin' free.
Supposin' I undertook to take you—
'I'd scratch your eyes out, sir' said she

'Twas me invented the basswood ham;
With wooden nutmegs I made my pile;
You can't do better than Uncle Sam,
In this here world, well I should smile.
In course, I've got considerable gall,'
She drew herself up with dignity,
'Dare to come over the garden wall,
And I'll loosen the bull-dog, sir," says she.

I'll dress you up like a daughter of Zion;
Your choice, my beauty, you'll never bewail;
You'll help pelt mad at the British lion
An' assist the gang at twistin' his tail'.
Miss Canada grabbed at a kettle of water,
Fresh from the stove, and as hot as—well.
He was warm before, but he was hotter
When the sceance closed and the curtain fell.

DAMAGE BY STORM

A heavy storm passed through McGillivray Township on Saturday afternoon, doing much damage to buildings orchards and woods. Some of the losers were,—Wm. Ovens, barn turned completely about and metal roof blown 100 yards; Ely Reese, barns wrecked; Alex. McLean, barn and crop burned; Samuel Gillies, Allan Craig, sawmill torn to pieces; Presbyterian church, Allan Craig, steeple blown off; William McClurg, cow killed by falling tree; R. J. Robinson, barn split in two; James O'Neil, barn roof punctured wall of house, making hole large enough for a team to go through; Samuel Pedlar, John Hutchinson, John McIntyre, and John and William Walker of West Williams, barns wrecked.

BIRTHS

Wackerow—At Parquhar, on Sept. 1st, to Mr. and Mrs. F. Wackerow, a son, Lived only a few hours.

Ford—In Exeter, on Sept 1st, to Mr. and Mrs. Herb Ford, a son.

Kerr—In Crediton East, on August 31st, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kerr, a daughter.

MARRIAGES

Johnston—Sutherby—On Aug. 23rd, at the Methodist parsonage Centralia by the Rev. T. W. Blatchford, B. A. Miss Bertha M. Sutherby of Whalen to Mr. E. J. Johnston of London.

Cornish—Hey—At the home of the bride parents, on Sept. 5th by Rev. Mr. Moss, of Zurich. Mr. Emerson Cornish, to Miss Mary Elizabeth Hey, second daughter of Mr. Christian Hey of the 9th Con., Hay.

DEATHS

Gidley.—In Duluth, Minn., on Sept. 5th, Bertram Charles Gidley, formerly of Exeter, aged 34 years, 10 months and 11 days.

Rowe—In Exeter, on Sept. 2nd, Lillie Gertrude Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Rowe, aged 17 years, 4 months, and 26 days.

Coward—In Usborne, on Sept. 5th, William Coward, aged 60 years, 3 months.

McRae—In Clinton, on Aug. 26th, Arthur W. McRae, in his 69th year.

Armstrong—In Crystal City, on Aug. 18, James Armstrong, aged 74 years 6 months.

WANTED—CREAM

Farmers or dairymen who have no good local market should write to-day for quotation card from the Sarnia Creamery Co.

We pay highest prices. We pay hard cash, and we remit after each shipment. You can deliver your cream to your nearest railway station. A trail shipment will convince you that there is good money in shipping cream to Sarnia. We furnish best bank references. Write for quotation card.

SARNIA CREAMERY CO.

Sarnia, Ont.

Dressmaker AT MOORESVILLE

I have made arrangements to have competent dressmaker connected with my store at Mooresville, and solicit the patronage of the ladies. We guarantee to give stisfaction.

50 per cent. off wall paper for the next two weeks.

W. R. Simpson

The Best Chance Ever Offered To Men

To put in a supply of clothing, Underwear, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Sox, Ties.

Everything a man wears.

At a price guaranteed to be below the Actual

Cost Price

Boys Clothing Sacrificed

This sale may be ended any day. And you will certainly regret it if you do not buy now.

Men's and Boys' Furnishings

Quitting Business

Cash Only

S. G. Bawden

The Clothier Exete

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

SOUPS.

White Mountain Soup—To one level teacupful of cold cooked rice add one ounce of dry grated cheese, one cupful of vegetable stock (liquor remaining from cooking peas, cabbage, etc), one and one-half pints of hot milk, one level teaspoon each of salt and pepper. Put these ingredients into a sauce pan. Stir over the fire until it boils, then remove and pour into soup plates. Beat the white of one egg until stiff, salt lightly; with a teaspoon dispose the egg in little mounds on the surface of the soup. Serve with cone-shaped wafers.

Vegetable Mulligatawny. — One quart of vegetables of all kinds cut into pieces. Cook until tender in three pints of boiling water. Pass through a sieve and return to sauce pan with one tablespoonful of rice flour, one tablespoonful of curry paste, the same of ground nuts, juice of half a lemon, a teaspoonful of salt, and half a teaspoonful of pepper. Cook for twenty minutes, strain and serve with toasted wafers.

Soup a la Garden.—One cupful of white meat of chicken, six chopped mushrooms, one tablespon of minced parsley, one carrot chopped fine, two pints of boiling water. Cook until water is reduced to a pint. Rub through a sieve. Add one pint of milk, two teaspoons of flour rubbed into half a cupful of cream, a saltspoon of salt, and a half teaspoon of pepper. Return to the fire, reheat, and serve. Good served cold.

Fruit Bouillon.—Peel three apples and core, add to them one-half cupful of seeded raisins, six chopped figs, the same of apricots, one-half cupful of ground nuts. Pour over one pint of boiling water and let simmer over the fire for forty minutes. Remove from fire and rub through a sieve. To the liquor add one cupful of fruit juice, juice of two oranges and one lemon, one pint of water. Chill and pour into long stemmed glasses. Whip one cupful of cream and with a teaspoon dispose in the chilled fruit bouillon. Serve with graham wafers.

Potato Whisk Soup.—Boil three medium sized potatoes until done. Mash fine, add a teaspoon each of salt and white pepper, a tablespoon of butter, three cups of milk, one and one-half cups of boiling water. Place on fire and let come to boil before removing from fire, stir in the beaten whites of two eggs, and serve at once with crisp salt crackers.

Yellow Tomato Boullion.—To one quart of cooked yellow tomatoes, add one-half teaspoon of baking soda and place over the fire; beat the yolk of one egg and add to a pint fo milk; into this mixture stir one pint of boiling water; mix well with the boiling tomatoes and remove from the fire. Add one-half teaspoon of celery salt, a pinch of salt, and black pepper and serve hot.

FRUIT RECIPES.

Fruit Salad.—Cut in small pieces six oranges. Mix with half a can of sliced pineapple diced. Add a dozen marshmallows cut into bits, then add broken English walnuts. Mix well. On each salad plate place a lettuce leaf and some of the salad. Dot over with mayonnaise dressing. This is delicious besides being a beautiful decoration in color for the table.

Grape Juice.—To make it just like that you buy in the drug store, pick the grapes from the stems, wash them and put in a granite kettle (tin discolors it). Heat until the juice flows, then strain through a heavy cloth. Add as much water as there is juice, and to every quart of this a cupful of sugar. Bring to boil and bottle.

Brown Raisin Bread.—One cup corn meal, one cup rye meal, one cup whole wheat flour; sift together, then add one teaspoonful salt, two teaspoonfuls melted butter; add to this one and three-quarters cups water, three-quarter cup molasses, two and a half teaspoonfuls of soda, one cup raisins; steam for four hours.

Ginger Pears.—Peel, core, and cut in very thin slices. For eight pounds of sliced fruit put into the kettle the juice of five lemons, one cup water, seven pounds sugar, one-half pound ginger root cut and scraped in thin slices. Let sugar dissolve before adding fruit. Cut peel of lemon in long, thin slices. Let fruit and lemon cook slowly for an hour, uncover, and put in jars.

Crab Apple Jelly.—Wash the apples, cut out blossom end and stems only, cover in the kettle with water, just cover well, boil till all in pieces, strain in a sack over night, measure juice and sugar evenly, boil the juice twenty minutes, and put the sugar in the oven to heat, then add heated sugar and boil not more than eight minutes. Is fine and never fails.

Quince Jelly.—Boil the parings in water to cover them until soft, then drain, don't squeeze, add equal parts of sugar, and boil until ready to put in glasses; will be from twenty minutes to a half hour.

APPLE HINTS.

In these days of high priced food the fresh green apple fills a long felt want, not only for the present need, but for the winter store.

Where the sour green apple is plentiful, it is excellent economy to can for future use some of the first green sauce which has been strained through the colander and sweetened to taste, as no other sauce has quite the same flavor. This makes a delightful relish. It becomes a delicacy (called apple whip) when mixed with whipped cream and served in sherbet glasses. A spoonful of red raspberries or other preserves on top of each glass may add interest to this dish. Any good apple sauce may be mixed with canned cherries, cranberries, and other fruits with good results.

These sour apples make fine jelly. Many like to add a little lemon juice and peeling or a rose geranium leaf, as our grandmothers did; others prefer rhubarb, and all are good. Excellent jelly is made with one-third apple juice and two-thirds plum, or equal parts of each.

For jelly, do not peel, but wash thoroughly and cut into quarters or halves with seeds and core left in; cover with water and let come to a boil. Strain the best part of juice for jelly and the remaining pulp and juice, after thorough cooking, put tarough the colander and make into marmalade or butter, using lots of orange peel cut fine and a little juice. Lemon is fine used in the same way.

The best marmalade, however, is made when none of the juice is put aside for jelly, but extra juice added to the natural sauce and one-third sugar or more may be used and cook to a jelly-like consistency. The above is as good as orange marmalade. Others will prefer the lemon.

A good butter is made of cooked dried apricots by steaming the juice and mashing the remainder, or taking same through colander. One pint of apricot juice, one of the pulp, two of apple sauce, one heaping pint of sugar, or more, if desired, the rind of one lemon. Cook until clear. And everybody knows that good, old-fashioned apple butter isn't slow.

Save time in making apple sauce. Don't peal the apples; cut them up and boil them; then put through a colander. The sauce is just as good and it takes a quarter of the time.

PEACH RECIPES.

Peach Shortcake.—Peach shortcake, with almond and whipped cream, makes a rich baking powder crust; roll out about a fourth of an inch thick, cut with a cookie cutter into rounds, butter half of these, and place the unbuttered ones on top. Bake them, split them open, butter them, and fill and cover each one with fresh peaches cut in slices and sprinkled with powdered sugar. Serve hot, surrounded by plenty of whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with almond extract and filled with chopped almonds about one-half cupful.

Peach Pudding.—Peel and stone six large ripe peaches, fill the centers with Wiesbaden strawberries or Maraschino cherries. Put them on the ice to get cold. Make a custard of one cupful of milk with one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, yolks of three eggs and a tiny piece of butter. When this is cold, flavor it with maraschino or almond. Line a dish with slices of sponge cake or lady fingers, put in the peaches, then the custard. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff and then add them to one-half of a cupful of cream whipped stiff. Sweeten and flavor. Cover the custard with a garnish of cherries and serve cold.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

An asbestos mat under the bread pan will help the bread to rise on a cold night, as it will prevent the bottom being chilled. The ordinary stove mat may be used.

A back rest for an invalid, which will be found comfortable for one confined to bed, is made of a wide board, well padded, and slipped into a cretonne pillow case.

A safe paint cleaner is as follows: Two quarts of hot water, two tablespoonfuls of turpentine and one pint of skimmed milk, with soap enough to make a weak suds.

Coarse sandpaper should be kept in the kitchen and used for scrubbing kettles that are burned and for removing anything that has stuck to the pan in the process of cooking.

Always keep alum in the house. It checks bleeding wounds, and for bleeding of the mouth or tongue a wash in cold water in which alum has been dissolved is very effective.

Paint must not be scrubbed with sandsoap, or it will be worn off. Wipe off with a cloth dipped in thick suds of white soap and rinse with a clean cloth wrung from hot atwer.

Dishes which contained eggs or pastry or dough should be washed in cold water, since by washing them in hot water the adhesive substance is cooked and thus hardened.

In sprinkling table linen use a large salt shaker, and in the water put a little cold starch—about a tablespoonful to a quart of water. The linen will iron with about the same stiffness as when new.

Glass is an ideal shelfing for a kitchen closet, as it can be kept clean so easily. If this is too costly paint the shelves white and give a coat of enamel. This is easily scrubbed and does away with the necessity of papers.

To whiten handkerchiefs which have become a bad color through careless washing soak them for a night in a solution of pipe-clay and warm water, and boil them next day in the usual way, and they will come out looking beautifully white.

In cooking vegetables all those grown underground should be cooked in cold water, adding the salt before they are done, and they should be kept covered while cooking. All of the fresh or green vegetables should be put on in boiling water and left uncovered so that they keep their color.

A rice dish that children like is prepared by cooking a scant cupful of rice in three cupfuls of water for 20 minutes, then adding half a cupful of raisins, a cupful of milk and a tablespoonful of butter. Add also a little sugar to suit the taste and a pinch of salt. Stir well and cook a little longer, until thick.

Water that fresh vegetables have been cooked in may be added to the stock pot for flavor. All bones, stale bread and left-over meat scraps may also be used in the stock pot, which at this season should be strained off twice a week, the liquid cooled and the grease strained off. Then it is ready for the foundation of soups or gravies of all kinds.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, SEPT. 10.

Lesson XI.—Daniel and his companions, Dan. 1. 8-20. Golden Text,, Rom. 14. 21.

Verse 8. Daniel—In the reign of Jehoiakim, king of Judah (B.C. 605), Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, besieged Jerusalem, and took with him to Babylon certain sacred vessels of the temple and some Jewish captives. Among the latter were Daniel and his three companions, Hannaniah, Mishael, and Azariah. They were chosen, with others of singular beauty and intelligence, to be trained in the service of the king. Doubtless they were not more than fourteen years of age (compare Isa. 39. 7).

He would not defile himself with the king's dainties—The provision had been made that the Hebrew children should for three years be fed upon the food and wine which came from the king's table. This was considered a great honor. The delicacies were of course the finest. At the end of three years of such living, the "children" were to "stand before the king." The defilement of this diet would be strictly ceremonial. The Jews, especially in later times, laid great stress upon dietary laws. In this case the meat might be that of animals improperly killed, or of animals prohibited as food (Deut. 12; Lev. 11). Then the meat and wine might have been consecrated to heathen deities, and partaking of them would be equivalent to a recognition of these deities. Antiochus Epiphanes sought to force the Jews to eat unclean food in this way.

9. Made Daniel to find kindness—Like Joseph in Egypt, he had kindled an affection for himself in the heart of his captors. He had but to make his request, and the prince of the eunuchs looked favorably upon it.

10. So would ye endanger my head—The king would be greatly displeased if the youths appeared before him unfit because of insufficient nourishment. It was the business of the eunuch to make them thrive physically as well as mentally.

11. Then said Daniel to the steward—He was certain that the objection on the part of the eunuch arose only from his dread of the king's displeasure. So he turns to the subordinate officer, who acted as a sort of guardian of the Jewish youths.

Daniel, Hananiah—Upon entering the Babylonian court they had been given names less suggestive of their Jewish connections and worship. To Daniel, whose name signified "God is my judge," was given the name Belteshazzar, meaning "Bel, protect his life." Hananiah ("Jehovah is gracious") was called Shadrach ("The command of Aku"). Mishael ("Who is what God is?") was called Meshach ("Who is what Aku is?"). Azariah ("Jehovah his helper") was called Abednego ("Servant of Nebo"). This practice of giving a new name to a person entering the service of a foreign land was common.

12. Prove thy servants . . . ten days—This was a kind of mystic Persian week, a sufficiently long time to test the results of the proposed diet.

Pulse—Vegetable food in general is meant, besides dates, raisins, and other fruits.

15. Their countenances appeared fairer—They were also fatter in flesh, an expression used of cattle (Gen. 41. 2). It has often been remarked that monks and others who fast frequently have a clearer skin and livelier health.

16. Took away their dainties — The Hebrew implies that the treatment became habitual.

17. God gave them knowledge—They continued to flourish intellectually as well as physically. Compare verse 4. No technical knowledge is intended. They became sagacious, versed in such knowledge as was prevalent at the time. As a general forecast of what is to follow in the book, it is further stated that Daniel had understanding in all dreams and visions. The Chaldeans attracted great importance to these, but, like Moses and Joseph before him, this youth, though in an alien land, excelled his teachers in their own field.

18. Brought them in—As verse 19 shows, the "them" refers to all the Hebrew youths mentioned in verses 3 and 4.

19. The king communed with them—He tested them by familiar conversation. Among them all was found none like the four faithful lads who had renounced the luxuries of the court because of religious scruples. They were to face severer trials, but their steadfastness at this critical period of their lives proved them of good mettle, besides being a most excellent preparation for what was to befall them. Their escape from the common corruptions of Oriental court life was remarkable. Their being selected to stand before the king signified that they were to become his personal attendants. This was naturally a position of honor and influence.

20. Magicians—The word is of Egyptian origin, and was probably taken from Genesis and Exodus, where it was frequently used, and refers to those who interpret dreams and work magic. Anyone who was acquainted with the occult arts was regarded as a magician. The Babylonians were world-renowned in their skill as enchanters, or devotees of magic art.

21. Continued even unto the first year of king Cyrus—The date would be B. C. 538, or seventy years after this event, making Daniel an old man. As a matter of fact, he is mentioned (Dan. 10. 1) as being alive in the third year of the reign of Cyrus. What is meant here, probably, is that he continued for all those years in the character of a man of great wisdom in the city of Babylon. Amid seductions and pitfalls of a position of influence in a heathen court, he did not falter or flinch.

CANADA'S LUMBER CUT.

White Pine Gradually Yielding to Spruce and B. C. Woods.

Interesting statistical comparisons may be made from the 1910 lumber report, prepared by the Dominion Forestry Department. Of the tweney-six native species of wood which together were cut in 1910 to the extent of four billion nine hundred million board feet, worth over seventy-seven million dollars, the first nine were coniferous or soft woods. Spruce was the most important, alone forming over ont-quarter of the total cut. Spruce and white pine together formed barely one-half of the 1910 cut, while in the year previous these two species made up nearly three-fifths of the total. The decrease in proportion is due not to a smaller cut of the two species, but to a very great increase in the amount of douglas fir, hemlock, cedar and yellow pine produced in British Columbia. One quarter of the 1909 cut was formed of these four species, while in 1910 the total cut of the four was increased by 70 per cent.

White pine lumber is undergoing a gradual evolution in its importance to the lumber industry. Up to three years ago white pine stood at the top of the list, when it was supplanted by spruce, although the actual cut of the former had not decreased. The prediction of last year that white pine had nearly reached its maximum cut has proven true this year, the 1909 cut being decreased by 4 per cent., or forty-two million feet. Yellow pine increased in its cut nearly 60 per cent. in British Columbia during one year. This increase of over one hundred and fifty million feet was sufficient to raise it from fourteenth place in the species table to sixth place in importance, thus surpassing in one year red pine, beech, balsam and the four most important hardwoods.

JEAN

By Malcolm Murray

"It's the doctor?"

"It is!"

Old Mrs. Gurney tried to lift herself up on one elbow in bed, as young Dr. Thomas, by far the finest and most popular young man in Breamtune, came with her son, John, into the sick-room. She was very ill, poor lady, butt he cheery young doctor always seemed to bring with him a new sense of life's strength.

"And how's Mrs. Gurney?" he asked, going over to the bed.

"Fine!"

"That's good, that's good!" he exclaimed, "that's how I want you to look at things; we'll soon have you up then!"

The old lady laughed shrilly.

"Oh! but it's not you, doctor, it's dear John, there!"

The doctor turned to John.

"What's this?"

"It's the news he has!" answered Mrs. Gurney.

"The news!"

"Yes! I'm saying the news. It's put new life into meo ld bones, Dr. Thomas. He's promised his old mother that, as soon as I'm up and about, he'll marry yon Bessie Deane."

"Why, John!" the doctor cried, 'this is vood news!"

"Ay! iti s good news, the finest that could be!" the mother rattled on. "It's so good that I already feel better to-day. My John's just one of those dear men, doctor, who wants a lass to look after him and bully him; all men need it, doctor, but some need it more than others—they're the best men! And yon Bessie's thes westest lass, the best in Breamtune!"

"She is!" John eagerly assented; and the doctor nodded his agreement. Then het urned to his patient.

"That's right, Mrs. Gurney; but we must still be very careful. Let me have a look at the eyes!"

"They're all right, doctor!"

"Yes! I'm suret hey are! But I'll just have a look!"

Downstairs, some ten minutes later, the doctor shook John very warmly by hte hand.

"Well done, well done, John!" he was saying. "You've done more than all the doctors in the world could do. After all, a son'se love is a very good medicine for his mother. The old lady's far, far better; your marriage will give her another good five years—"

"It will?" John cried, tears in his eyes.

"Certainly; but—"

"But?"

"Well, as I said, wem ust be very careful indeed. The eyes are not so well; I'm only frightened—"

"You don't mean she'll be blind, doctor?"

The other hesitated.

"That, of course, is the dnager, 'John. I wanted your mother to wear glasses five years ago, but, like so many old people she was terribly proud of her 'wonderful eyesight,' and now she's paying the penalty. There's another thing: she must have absolutely no excitement."

"I'll be very sure of that!"

"Yes, do! Her heart is still weak, and to be quite frank, any great shock would mean the end. You must keep her mind easy, happy, and at peace," —he held out a hand. "I'm sure you'll do it, John!"

"Why, of course I will!"

"And good luck to you, John. I'm sure that I hope you will be very happy!"

"Thank you!"

The doctor looked up sharply at John's tone; the young man's face was very grave for that of a happy lover. A thought crossed the doctor's mind.

"It wasn't an excuse, John?" he asked.

"An excuse?"

"You are going to be married soon?"

"Yes, yes," John replied. And in this he showed the doctor out into his trap.

John, as a matter of fact, was sorely troubled; for the first time in his life —he had known her many years—Bessie and he had quarrelled. To him it had seemed the most joyous, the most natural thing in the world that he should go eagerly to his sweetheart to ask her to help him. Besides which, all that he asked was that she would marry him at once instead of waiting until the spring.

It worried him that she should have demurred; that, at the best, her agreement had been a very grudging one. Loving her as he did, he could not appreciate a love which did not grant a favor more easily than this.

"Ah, well!" he sighed. "Bessie always was a strange lass; that's her fascination. The prettiest and strangest lass in Breamtune. It'll all come right."

From thatd ay old Mrs. Gurney's health speedily mended, save that, despite all Dr. Thomas's skill, her eyes remained very weak. The doctor knew that all was hopeless with regard to her eyesight, but he told no one.

And each day Bessie Deane and her sister Jean came to see and cheer Mrs. Gurney. They were two sweeet lasses, as all Breamtune knew; and while Bessie flitted in for a moment, sprightly, ever merry and thoughtless, her twin spent long hours with the invalid, reading to her, chatting with her—ever, it need scarcely be said, of John, her son.

With John matters had not mended; and, try as hec ould, there was no hiding the fact that he and Bessie were growing farther and farther from onea nother; he could not tell what was the matter.

"Mother'll be outt o-morrow," he told Bessie one evening, as he was seeing her back home.

"I'm glad of that!"

John was silent for a few moments; he knew that Bessie had understood well what he had meant to convey to her, and it angered him that she should thus calmly ignore the matter.

"Bessie!" he exclaimed, catching her arm rather roughly. "What's wrong with you, lass?"

"Nothing's the matter; nothing that I know of!"

John considered; he knew the folly of trying to draw ana nswer from an obstinate woman.

"Well, dear," he continued gently, "mother'll be out to-morrow, and we thought now to namet he day."

"When you will!" she said.

"Then, three weeks to-day?" he asked, his voice still glad.

"Yes."

There was a pause.

"Bessie!"

"Well?"

"Aren't you glad, dear?"

"Of course I am!"

He took her in his arms and kissed her.

. . . . . .

The doctor had been to see Mrs. Gurney on the eve of her wedding day, and after saying good-bye to his patient he had taken John out with him into the street. His face was serious, and John noticed it.

"Nothing wrong, doctor?"

The doctor turned.

"Look here, John," he said, "you've got to know it, and you must take it well. Your mother will never see again; she is blind for life!"

"Doctor!"

"I'm so sorry, John! You mustn't take it more to heart than you can help. It's part of the scheme and you havee verything to bet hankful for, in that your mother is still with you."

"And mother is better otherwise?"

"Infinitely!"—the doctor got into his dog-cart. "She's a different woman; but, mind you, John, no shocks! Good-bye!"

John was just entering his house when as mall boy caught him by the sleeve.

"Miss Deane told me to give you this."

John took the proffered letter with a shaking hand; things had got no better with Bessie, and he dreaded to open this letter.

Standing in the garden, he opened it —his mother was indoors with Jean— and he did not want them to see him read the missive.

"Dear John," it ran,—"I don't ask you to forgive me, I don't expect that you can, and I know that I do not deserve it. I am so sorry. You have been quite right; for the last two months there has been something between us, and that—oh, John! forgive me!—has been that I love another man. The only good thing I have done is to leave Breamtune with him to-day and saved you from marrying me. He is Charles Lugge. We are to be married in Glasgow to-day; and he begs you to forgive us. Dear John, I am sorry, I am sorry, I am sorry! My chief fault is that I have been too much of a coward to tell you, for no woman can help her love. I am so, so sorry!"

The letter dropped from John's hand, and fluttered to the ground. He stood for a moment as still as death, just as pale. He was thinking, not of Bessie, for she had killed his love for her, but of his mother!

The doctor's words: "John, no shocks! One must always keep face to face with a weak heart; a moment's neglect may mean the end."

Indoors he found Jean. His mother was resting. To his surprise, Jean came quickly to him.

"I know all about it, John!" The girl had caught his arm, her voice was broken with grief.

John looked down into her tearful face; he had never realized how beautiful Jean was—as pretty as Bessie, every bit."

"Cheer up! We'll just have to do our best!"

"But mother! You know what the doctor said, John. It would kill her; he said so. She couldn't stand it. The disappointment would be terrible."

"But it couldn't! I wouldn't let it! I—I—" He broke off, and, throwing himself into a chair, buried his head in his hands. Then Jean laid a gentle hand on John's shoulder.

"John," she whispered, "it would kill her!"

"Ay!" he exclaimed, looking up. 'And why remind me of it?"

"There's a way!"

"A way? What way?"

"She need not know, John; she need not be told. I'm very like Bessie, my voice—"

He jumped with a cry from his chair.

"What d'you mean, lass? What madness is this?"

'John—John," she cried, "you understand! Don't make it so hard for me!"

Something of the girl's heroism, something of her beautiful spirit came to him.

"You mean that you'll marry me, Jean, to save mother?"

"Yes; of course I do! You know that it will kill her. The doctor says so. And she'll never see again; the doctor told me as much. We would be going away to-morrow, and when we were back she would not recognize my voice. The folk all would help us, and—"

She hesitated, and John let the silence stand. A thousand thoughts were rushing in a whirlwind stream through his mind.

"I'll try to be a good uhsband to you, Jean," he said, presently, sealing the bargain.

. . . . . .

The next day they stood, man and wife, in the same room.

"You'll have to call me Bessie," the girl was saying.

"But you'll be just my Jean. And some day," the young man stammered lamely, "you will learn to love me, perhaps."

"Perhaps," she said, in the way women have when they are deeply in love.

VALOR UNAPPRECIATED

"I love you!" he breathed with all the passion of the hero of a first-class serial.

"Oh, John!" she murmured, as she nestled closer to him.

"Yes," he continued; "there is nothing in all this wide world that I would not do for you. To be by your side I would swim the roughest sea, fight my way through the raging flames, and walk a hundred miles through the dust and heat!"

"No, no, John!" she cried anxiously, "Promise me you will never do any such thing."

"But, dearest, why would you not allow me thus to prove my love and fidelity, should occasion arise?"

"Just think," she sighed, "what a horrible fright you'd look with your clothes all wet and charred and dusty!"

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER I.—(Cont'd)

His lordship knitted his brows and smoked in silence. At last he found utterance.

"That's a good idea of yours. It makes things easier. Well, first of all, Edith and I became engaged. Edith is the daughter of the late Adm'ral Talbot. She and Jack, her brother, live with their uncle, General Sir Hubert Fitzjames, at 118, Ulster Gardens. Jack is in the Foreign Office; he is just like Edith, awfully clever and that sort of thing, an assistant secretary I think they call him. Now we're getting on, aren't we?"

"Splendidly."

"That's all right. About a month ago a chap turns up from Constantinople, a kind of special Envoy from the Sultan, and he explains to the Foreign Office that he has in his possession a lot of uncut diamonds of terrific value, including one as big as a duck's egg, to which no figures would give a price. Do you follow me?"

"Each word."

"Good. Well—I can't tell you why, because I don't know, and I could not understand it if I did—there was some political importance attached to these gems, and the Sultan roped our Foreign Office into it. So the Foreign Office placed Jack in charge of the business. He fixed up the Envoy in the house at Albert Gate, got a lot of diamond cutters, and machinery for him, gave him into the charge of all the smart policemen in London; and what do you think is the upshot?"

"What?"

"The Envoy, his two secretaries, and a confidential servant were murdered the night before last, the diamonds were stolen, and Jack has vanished—absolutely gone clean into space, not a sign of him to be found anywhere. Yesterday Edith sends for me, cries for half an hour, tells me I'm the best fellow that ever lived, and then I'm jiggered if she didn't wind up by saying that she couldn't marry me."

The earl of Fairholme was now worked up to fever heat. He would not calm down for an appreciable period, so Brett resolved to try the effect of curiosity.

He wrote a telegram to Lord Northallerton:—

"Very sorry, but I cannot leave town at present. Please ask me later. Will explain reason for postponement when we meet."

He had touched the dominant note in mankind.

"Surely!" cried the earl, "you have not already decided upon a course of action?"

"Not exactly. I am wiring to postpone a shooting fixture."

"What a beastly shame!" exclaimed the other, in whom the sporting instinct was at once aroused. "I'm awfully sorry my affairs should interefere with your arrangements in this way."

"Not a bit," cried Brett. "I make it a sacred rule of my life to put pleasure before business. I mean," he explained, as a look of bewilderment crossed his hearer's face, "that this quest of ours promises to be the most remarkable affair I have ever been engaged in. That pleases me. Pleasant-shooting is a serious business, governed by the callendar and arranged by the head-keeper."

An electric bell summoned Smith. The barrister handed him the telegram and a sovereign.

"Read that message," he said. "Ponder over it. Send it, and give the change of the sovereign to Mrs. Smith's brother, with my compliments and regrets."

CHAPTER II.

Then he turned to Lord Fairholme.

"Just one question," he said, "before I send you off to bed. No, you must not protest. I want you to meet me here this evening at seven, with your brain clear and your nerves restored by a good, sound sleep. We will dine, here or elsewhere, and act subsequently. But at this moment I want you to know the name of the person most readily accessible who can tell me all about Mr. Talbot's connection with the Sultan's agent."

"His sister, undoubtedly. Where can I find her?"

"At Ulster Gardens. I will drive you there."

The barrister smiled. "You are going to bed, I tell you. Give me a few lines of introduction to Miss Talbot."

The earl's face had brightened at the prospect of meeting his fiancee under the favorable conditions of Brett's presence. But he yielded with good grace, and promptly sat down to write a brief note explaintory of the barrister's identity and position in the inquiry.

The two parted at the door, and a hansom rapidly brought Brett to the residence of Sir Hubert Fitzjames.

A stately footman took Reggie's card and its accompanying letter, placed them on a salver with a graceful turn of his wrist, which oddly suggested a similar turn in his nose, and said:

"Miss Talbot is not at home, sir."

"Yes, she is," answered Brett, paying the driver of the hansom.

The footman deigned to exhibit astonishment. Here was a gentleman—one obviously accustomed to the manners of Society—who declined to accept the courteous disclaimer of an unexpected visit.

"Miss Talbot is not receiving visitors," he explained.

"Exactly. Take that card and the letter to Miss Talbot and bring me the answer."

Jeames was no match for his antagonist. He silently showed the way into a reception room and disappeared. A minute later he announced, with much deference, that Miss Talbot would see Mr. Brett in the library, and he conducted this mysterious visitor upstairs.

On rejoining Buttons in the hall he solemnly observed:

"That's a swell cop who is with the missus—shining topper, buttonhole, buckskin gloves, patent leathers, all complete. Footmen ain't in it with the foree, nowadays."

Jeames expanded his magnificent waistcoat with a heavy sigh over this philosophical dictum, the poignancy of which was enhanced by his knowledge that the upper housemaid had taken to conversing with a mounted policeman in the Park during her afternoons off.

The apartment in which Brett found himself gave ready indications of the character of its tenants. Tod's "Rajasthan" jostled a volume of the Badminton Library on the bookshelves, a copy of the Allahabad Pioneer lay beside the Field and the Times on the table, and many varieties of horns made trophies with quaint weapons on the walls.

A complete edition of Ruskin, and some exquisite prints of Rossetti's best known works, supplied a different set of emblems whilst the room generally showed signs of daily occupation.

"An Anglo-Indian uncle, artistic niece," was the barrister's rapid comment, but further analysis was prevented by the entrance of Miss Edith Talbot.

The surprise of the pair was mutual.

Brett expected to see a young, pretty and clever girl, vain enough to believe she had brains, and sufficiently well endowed with that rare commodity to be able to twist the good-natured Earl of Fairholme round her little finger.

Young, not more than twenty—unquestionably beautiful, with the graceful contour and delicacy balanced features of a portrait by Romney—Edith Talbot bore few of the marks that pass current as the outward and visble signs of a modern woman of Society. That she should be self-possessed and dressed in perfect taste were as obvious adjuncts of her character as that each phase of her clear thought should reflect itself in a singularly mobile face.

To such a woman pretence was impossible, the polite fictions of fashionable life impossible. Brett readily understood why the Earl of Fairholme had fallen in love with this fair creature. He had simply bent in worship before a goddess of his own creed.

To the girl, Brett was equally a revelation.

Fairholme's introductory note described the barrister as "the smartest criminal lawyer in London—one whose aid would be invaluable." She expected to meet a sharp-featured, wizened, elderly man, with gold-rimmed eye-glasses, a queer voice and a nasty habit of asking unexpected questions.

In place of this commonplace personality, she encountered a handsome, well-groomed gentleman—one who won confidence by his intellectual face, and detained it by invisibly establishing a social equality. Fortunately, there is yet in Britain an aristocracy wherein good birth is synonymous with good breeding—a freemasonry whose pass-words cannot be simulated, nor its membership bought.

Brett read the wonder in the girl's eyes, and hastened to explain.

"The Earl of Fairholme," said Brett, "thought I might be of some service in the matter of your brother's strange disappearance, Miss Talbot. I am not a professional detective, but my friends are good enough to believe that I am very successful in unravelling mysteries that are beyond the ken of Scotland Yard. I have heard something of the facts in this present affair. Will you trust me so far as to tell me all the facts that is known to you personally?"

"My uncle, General Fitzjames, has just gone to Scotland Yard," she began timidly.

"Quite so. Perhaps you prefer to await his return?"

"Oh, no, I do not mean that. But it is so hard to know how best to act. Uncle expects the police to accomplish impossibilities. He says that they should long since have found out what has become of Jack. Perhaps they may resent my interference."

"My interference, to be exact," said Reggie, with the pleasant smile that had fascinated so many women. Even Edith Talbot was not wholly proof against its magic.

"I personally have little faith in them," she confessed.

"I have none."

"Well, I will do as you advise."

"Then I recommend you to take me into your confidence. I know Scotland Yard and its methods. We do not follow the same path."

"I believe in you and trust you," said the girl.

So ingenuous was the look from the large, deep eyes which accompanied this declaration of confidence, that many men would have pronounced Miss Talbot to be an experienced flirt. Brett knew better. He simply bowed his acknowledgments.

"What is it that you want to know?" she continued. "We ourselves are no better informed than the newspapers as to what has actually happened, save that four men have been killed as the result of a carefully planned robbery. As for my brother——"

She paused and strove hard to force back her tears.

"Your brother has simply vanished, Miss Talbot. If the criminals did not scruple to leave four dead men behind, they would not draw the line at a fifth. The clear inference is that your brother is alive, but under restraint."

"I can see that it is possible he was alive until some time after the tragedy at Albert Gate. But—but—what connection can Jack have with the theft of diamonds worth millions? These people used him as their tool in some manner. Why should they spare him when success had crowned their efforts?"

"We are conversing in riddles. Will you explain?"

"You know that my brother is an assistant Under-Secretary in the Foreign Office?" "Yes."

"Well, early in September his chief placed him in charge of a special undertaking. The Sultan had decided to have a large number of rough diamonds cut and polished by the best Turopean experts. They were all magnificent gems, exceedingly valuable it seems, being rare both in size and purity; but one of them was larger than any known diamond. Jack told me it was quite as big as a good-sized hen's egg. Both it and the others, he said, had the appearance of lumps of alum; but the experts said that the smaller stones were worth more than a million sterling, whilst the price of the large one could not be fixed. No one but an Emperor or Sultan would buy it. His Excellency Mehemet Ali Pasha was the especial envoy charged with this mission, and he brought credentials to the Foreign Office asking for facilities to be given for its execution. He and the two secretaries who accompanied him have been killed."

"Yes?" said Brett, whose eyes were fixed on the hearthrug.

"Jack was given the especial duty of looking after Mehemet Ali and his companions during their residence in London. It was his business to afford them every assistance in his power, to procure them police protection, obtain for them the best advice attainable in the diamond trade, and generally place at their disposal all the resources which the British Government itself could command if it undertook such a curious task. He had been with them about a month—not hourly engaged, you understand, as once the preliminary arrangements were made, he had little further trouble—but he used to call there every morning and afternoon to see if he could render any assistance. Matters had progressed so favorably until the day before yesterday, that in another month he hoped to see the last of them. He was always saying that he would be glad when the business was ended, as he did not like to be officially connected with the fate of a few little bits of stone that happened to be so immensely valuable."

(To be continued.)

THEORIES IN WHEAT.

Experiments Being Made With Sixty-Three Varieties.

There is a touch suggestive of Omar Khayyam in the idea of three-and-sixty conflicting varieties of wheat, but in the quiet heart of agricultural Essex, England, there has been proceeding with silent intensity throughout the present summer a singular combat, says the London Standard. The parties are two rival theories of agriculture, the weapon is wheat, and the fields of battle are of various points on the seven experimental farms of Messrs. John K. King and Sons, the Essex seed growers. The Mendelian theory of cross breeding has recently been making great headway among agriculturists as well as stock rearers, and this season Messrs. King have been growing experimentally two new varieties of wheat produced on the Mendelian system by Professor Biffin of Cambridge, one of Mendel's foremost disciples in England. But Messrs. King believe themselves in the system of pedigree election and not intercrossing and side by side with Professor Biffin's new varieties is growing a new one of their own, produced by selection over a number of years. Professor Biffin's wheats were Red Joss and Burgoynes, and certainly in this particular soil and under the peculiar climatic conditions of the summer their appearance was not a kind to shake Messers King's belief in the older systems, which was represented by Snowdrop, a new white-chaffed red wheat with a good close head. The Mendelian varieties are smaller in the ear, shorter in straw, and grew less closely together, while they are said also not to remain true to type.

Messrs. Kings hold it to be a clear triumph for pedigree selection; but, on the other hand, of several agricultural experts with whom one of our representatives went over the ground, those adhering to Professor Biffin of Cambridge are not disturbed. In two or three of the various trials the Mendelian wheats certainly get the worst of it, but the Cambridge men point out that many factors enter into the consideration, that on another soil and in another kind of weather the results may be altogether different, and that the rival wheats are after all not yet harvested and weighed against each other. Another excellent wheat among the 63 trial growths on the same ground is a new selection from Squareheads Master which has not yet received a name.

Those of the unsophisticated to whom wheat is wheat merely would have been struck by the sight of these sixty-three varieties, growing in strips side by sde, of all colors, from greenish white to deep old gold and orange red, square-headed wheat and long-eared wheat, bearded wheat and plain wheat, wheat from France, Flanders, Egypt, from all over England. The constant search for new and better varieties which goes on throughout the country is slowly making wheat better and better, but the chief reason for the activity in experimental growing is that all varieties tend to degenerate after a few years, and need to be regenerated again by special selection. One attempt which the Mendelians are now making is being closely watched by farmers. English wheat usually fetches a few shillings less per quarter in Mark lane than wheat from California, and certain kinds from Canada. The reason is that these foreign wheats are "stronger," that is, rise better in the loaf, than English wheats. The explanation is believed to lie in the difference of climate, but the secret is not yet definitely known, and the Mendelians are now trying to breed a new English variety, which shall equal Californian wheat in strength.

SCIENTIFIC DRY-FARMING.

That dry-farming methods, when properly followed, are successful has just been demonstrated by Professor Briggs, Kearney and Shantz, of the Department of Agriculture, who in behalf of the department, have completed an investigation of the dry farm in Idaho, U. S. Professor Briggs, before leaving this city, stated that in all of the travels of the committee it has not seen either irrigated or non-irrigated farming which produced better results than were to be found on the dry farms here, in the face of the fact that the year has been one of severe drought.

The Woodsmansee and Webster Farm of 5,000 acres is producing 2,400 acres of Turkey red wheat, that will average not less than 40 bushels when threshed. This result is obtained under dry-farming tillage methods, and the use of 30 pounds of seed to the acre.

Mr. C. H. Woodsmansee of Rexburg, Idaho, has been invited to address The Sixth International Dry-Farming Congress to be held in Colorado Springs, October 16 to 20, explaining his methods of tillage and business, utilized on his big ranch. Mr. Woodmansee is said to be one of the most exacting farm operators in the West, and is able to tell at the close of each year to a fraction of a cent, the cost of ploughing, harvesting and handling his crop.

In the vicinity of Idaho Falls Government men found 50,000 acres of dry land grown grain that will run from 30 to 50 bushels to the acre. In addition to this, the valley is now harvesting 150,000 acres of diversified dry-farmed crops, all of which are producing heavily. The valley already has about 200,000 acres of dry-farmed land under what is known as summer tillage or fallow, which will be seeded this Fall.

Give the average man half a chance and he'll want the other half.

LETTERS OF A SON IN THE MAKING TO HIS DAD.

—By REX McEVOY

[Mr. McEvoy will write for this paper a series of letters from the west. They will appear from time to time under the above heading, and will give a picture of the great Canadian west from the standpoint of a young Ontario man going out there to make his way. These letters should be full of interest for every Ontario father.]

No. 2.

Winnipeg, Aug. 29th, 1911.

My Dear Dad:—

I am a long way from home now, but I didn't remember it when I got off the train here, and almost the first person I ran into was Bill Dodson, who used to keep store over at the corners. He's been out here three years now, and he has a fine house on one of the best streets in town and drives an automobile. He took me in it up to his house to dinner and asked about all the folks round home. He may be east next winter. He has done pretty well contracting.

My last letter was from Heron Bay, after our first glimpse of Lake Superior. That same night, before it got dark, we stopped at Jackfish to take on coal. The C. P. R. has an immense coaling place here perched by the side of the line on the steep slope of a hill. While we were waiting there we could see a large steamer lying at the wharf below us. The coal was hauled up out of its hold in great buckets, which were hoisted by cables far above our heads to where dump cars were standing on a track on a lofty trestle. As soon as the cars were full they were run off down the track to a pocket or hopper, where they were automatically emptied. These pockets have chutes over a siding on which coal cars are put to be loaded. These cars are sent east to supply the engines of the C. P. R. on the long run through places where coal is not obtainable.

After leaving Jackfish we passed round a most remarkable horseshoe where the track looped right round the bay on a bank built up a long way above the water. While going round the curve I could see the engine and the first six cars of our train from my window. At first I thought the engine belonged to another train.

That night I waked about one o'clock and found that the train was standing still. I raised the blind at my window—that is one advantage of having a lower berth—and looked out of the window. Two giant buildings of a grey color towered up right outside my window, and I recognized them at once from pictures as the grain elevators of Fort William. They are tremendous buildings and they reminded me from the outlines that I could see dimly against the night sky, of the pictures of Notre Dame cathedral in Montreal. Our barn wouldn't be knee high to a grasshopper beside one of these elevators. They are enormous. They were the first thing to remind me that we were getting pretty near the West and its great wheat fields, and you may be sure I was pretty interested. I just gazed at them till we started off again, which was not long, and the last I saw of Fort William was a great black rugged hill standing out against the sky with electric lights twinkling in the town beneath it. I am told that this mountain was thought by the Indians to be a sleeping giant. Well, he will sure be a surprised giant if he ever wakes up and sees Fort William and Port Arthur at his feet, for they must be pretty busy places from what I could see from the window, and they say that their development has practically all been in the last ten years.

I woke up at Dryden, where the Ontario Government has an experimental farm, so you can judge that there must be some quantity of good agricultural land in this end of the Province. It is in a good lumbering district, too, and the large piles of lumber in a wood yard near the station are the most prominent things to be seen from the train. There is a brick yard here, too, that seems to turn out quite a lot of bricks for the country round.

I was up and ready for breakfast by eight o'clock by my watch. I thought I would have breakfast in the dining car for a change, but I found that I was an hour too early, as at Fort William the watches of westbound travellers must all be put back an hour. It is the nearest thing to living your life over again that can be imagined. I would rather not live it over again just before meals, and I decided not to wait, so got my own breakfast out of the grub mother put up in the telescope valise for me.

We stopped at Kenora, which used to be called Rat Portage, in the morning. It's quite a town, with substantial brick buildings. It has a large brick Railway Y. M. C. A. building, close to the station. The place is right close to Keewatin, and both are on the Lake of the Woods. There are lots of islands in the lake, and there are pretty houses on them, half hidden by the trees. A school teacher who was in our car says that twenty-one Frenchmen were massacred by the Indians on this lake by the Sioux Indians in 1736. An exploring party discovered the bones of the victims in 1907. You don't think of Indians and scalping when you look at the pretty, quiet lake to-day.

I saw the shops the Government is building for the transcontinental railway at Transcona, ust six miles out of Winnipeg. They are tremendous shops—everything seems to be on a big scale out here—and quite a town has grown up round them. We got to Winnipeg not long after noon. The teacher said that the first European to put foot on the present site of Winnipeg was a Frenchman named La Verendrye, who came here 180 years ago. They say that there are 170,000 people here now, and the place looks to be going ahead at a great rate. Building is going on in every direction, and some great buildings are being added to those which already line Portage and Main streets. The Bank of Montreal certainly thinks that the West is going to have lots of money, for they are putting up a fine building that I saw, right in the heart of the town, and it is to have a vault about a hundred feet square, the floor of which will be eighty feet below the street. That will hold a considerable amount of money and valuables.

You meet all sorts of people on the streets of Winnipeg. You can tell what a mixed population there is when the word "Office" at the Emigration bureau has to be written in eight languages. I took a copy of it. Here it is:

OFFICE.

SKRFSTOFA	KONTOR
BUREAU	KANZELEI
URIAD	KONTOOR

IRODA

Everybody seems to get along with English, however, so I guess the foreigners must mostly be sent out to the prairies.

Good-bye for the present. Loving son

JIM.

KING GEORGE A CRICKETER

As a "Middy" He Used to Indulge in the Game and Subsequently Played in a Match

There is only one occasion recorded in which the late King took part in a formal match, namely, when in 1861 he assisted I Zingari to defeat the Gentlemen of Norfolk at Sandringham, and was bowled by the first ball he received.

Early in the 'sixties, when the professional cricketer attached to Eton College was the well-gnown Cambridgeshire player, F. Bell, he was not infrequently summoned to Windsor Castle to bowl to the Prince of Wales and the other young and Royal members of the household. But, alas! it has to be recorded that on his return from one of these expeditions he made the direful announcement that he "couldn't make a job of 'em 'at all."

King George, as well as his brother, the late Duke of Clarence, took an active interest in the game. His Majesty, indeed, who as a "middy" used to indulge in the game on the deck of the Bacchante, at the conclusion of one day's racing at Goodwood some years ago played in a match in Goodwood Park that was got up between the guests at Goodwood House. The team included His Majesty and an eleven captained by M. Cannon, the famous jockey. The former is credited with having possessed one of the most expensive bats in existence, the blade being of walnut and the bat being mounted in silver. A peculiarity with regard to the King's favorite bat, by the way, lies in the fact that high up on the blade on either side of the splice appear the famous three feathers that form the crest of the Prince of Wales.

Queen Victoria witnessed more than one cricket match, but never one that may with accuracy be described as a first-class fixture. On August 3rd, 1866, she, together with the Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the Royal Family, witnessed a very close game at Osborne between the Royal Household at Osborne and the officers and men of the Royal yacht, which was won by the former by the narrow margin of twelve runs. The match was particularly interesting for the reason that the late Prince Leopold undertook the duties of scorer, whilst figuring on the side of the sailors we find the late Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, one line of the score-sheet reading:—

H.R.H. the Duke of Edinburgh, b Head, 10; c Cole, b Archer, 2.

THE BEST PRESERVES

DURING THE PRESERVING SEASON

Redpath Extra Granulated Sugar

IS DAILY WINNING FRESH LAURELS.

Its uniform high quality commends itself to all good housekeepers.

"BEST FRUIT, BEST SUGAR, BEST PRESERVES."

Ask your Grocer for Redpath Extra Granuated Sugar

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal

Established in 1854 by John Redpath.

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech, Props.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 7, '11

SOUTH HURON LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE MEETINGS.

MR. J. J. MERNER, Liberal Conservative Candidate, will hold public meetings to discuss the political issues at the following places and dates:—

BRUCEFIELD, Thursday, Sept. 7th.

EXETER, Friday, Sept. 8th.

This meeting will be addressed by A. W. WRIGHT, of Toronto, A. H. MUSGROVE, M. P. P., and H. EILBER, M. P. P.

CREDITON, Monday Sept. 11th.
GRAND BEND, Tuesday, Sept. 12th.
DASHWOOD, Wednesday, Sept. 18th.

All meetings to commence at 8 O'clock p. m.

WHO WANTS RECIPROCITY

It is an interesting question — Who wants reciprocity? Well, we know that President Taft and his Secretary of State, Mr. Knox, want it very much indeed, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Minister of Finance, Mr. Fielding, and some of the Liberal party want it. Taft and Laurier and all Americans want it because they wish to attach Canadian trade to American interests, and to detach Canadian trade interests from Britain, so as to prevent the commercial consolidation of the British Empire. President Taft and his fellow countrymen want reciprocity because they want access to the natural resources of Canada. The Americans have exhausted their own with unparalled recklessness, and shameless disregard of the necessities of the future. Having cut down all their own forests Americans now wish to cut down ours. Not having enough wheat to keep their flour mills fully employed—the capacity of the American mills being 33 per cent. greater than is needed to mill American wheat—the millers of Minneapolis and other places want Canadian wheat and want it badly. The future of American milling with the enormous Canadian crop free and flowing into their mills is great and glorious—for Americans. The Continent of America will flourish as a green bay tree, except that part of it still colored red on the map and styled The Dominion of Canada. President Taft and his fellow countrymen want reciprocity, not only because they want Canadian forests and Canadian wheat. They want it, before all things, because it means the ascendency of the American Republic. Because it means the bending off of Canada's direct trade with Europe, because it means the waining of British Imperialism, because it means annexation of Canada to the United States, and because it means the driving out of the British flag from this country. It is not talk to say that all Canadians who are in favor of reciprocity want it for the reasons that President Taft, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding want it. There are very few Canadians who are traitors to their country. The great mass of the Liberal party in so far as they desire reciprocity at all desire it because they think it will put a few more dollars into their pockets, which is also a mistaken idea. But this is their sole and only reason. It is not very ennobling, but it is not traitorous.

Once such people can be made to understand that reciprocity is a splendid thing for the United States but absolutely stultifying and destructive for Canada and Canadians, reciprocity will have no advocates save Messrs. Laurier and Fielding.

HAIR BEAUTIFIER

REFINED WOMEN THE WORLD OVER USE IT.

Every woman knows that there is nothing so good for hair and scalp trouble as Parisian Sage. If Parisian Sage is used two or three times a week it will keep the scalp nice and clean and remove dandruff. It makes the hair lustrous and fluffy, and keeps it from falling out.

We urge every woman who loves radiant and fascinating hair to go to W. S. Cole to-day and get a large 50 cent bottle of Parisian Sage. He guarantees it to cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp, or money back.

Vote for Merner and to have our tariff made at Ottawa, not at Washington.

If the ninety million market is such a great thing why are so many farmers coming to Canada every year.

Vote to keep away from entanglements with United States. A vote for Merner means a vote for Canada and Canadians.

There is more than one storm due on September 1st—the equinoctial storm, and the storm that will settle the reciprocity question for ever, and will tell Mr. Taft that we do our own tariff making.

Here is Sir. James P. Whitney's graphic picture of what reciprocity would do, as painted by him in a speech at Walkerton. "It would mean the destruction of home markets, the ruin of east and west trade, the split up of confederation, and would leave two streaks of rust running from Winnipeg to the Atlantic Ocean." "What Whitney has done for Ontario Borden will do for Canada." There needs to be a shaking up of dry bones at Ottawa, and every day brings indications that the change is coming.

CLANDEBOYE

Wesley Hennessy, while driving Thursday evening had the misfortune to have the rear axle of his buggy broken. The horse became frightened, and plunged into the ditch, throwing him from the buggy.—While operating the engine of John T. Simpson, Moorseville Ernest Williams allowed the water to become too low in the boiler and it exploded. The damage is about $200. —Miss M. McCloud of London, is visiting Mr. T. Hennessy.—James McIlhargy has returned home after an extended visit to Mr. Quillet, of Belle River.—Miss S. Simpson, of Manitoba, is visiting friends here.—H. Schoff visited a few days with Mr. Ellis Hodgson before returning to his school in Toronto.—Misses Rena and Ray McIlhargy have returned to their home in Hamilton after spending their holidays with their grandparents.—Ethel Collins and Mr. Ed. McLean have returned home after a recent trip to the West.—The remains of Mrs. Wm. Durham, of Toronto, were interred in St. James' cemetery here on Saturday. Mrs. Durham was a former resident of Biddulph Township, having moved to Toronto about two yrs ago.—Mrs. Edward Neil has returned to her home in Kalamazoo, Mich.

CREDITON.

Council meeting was held in the Town Hall on Monday. Not much business was transacted. Jos. Lawson was awarded the contract to construct the cement abutments and floor of Ford's bridge on side-road near Exeter.—Quite a number from here are attending the Toronto Fair this week.—Our milliners are busy getting ready for the fall openings. S. Brown has engaged Mrs. Link, and C. Zwicker Miss McNabb. — Fraser Brown left on Monday for Chesley where he will attend school. We wish him every success in his studies. —Miss Clara Kienzle has been engaged to teach a school near Delhi.—Our Public School re-opened on Tuesday. The staff consists of Mr. Graham as principal, Miss Brown, Miss Snider and Miss Watson as teachers of the lower rooms.—The flax-mill finished the season's threshing on Saturday. This year the crop hasn't been as good as in previous years.—Dr. and Mrs. Orme have returned home from an auto tour to Hamilton and Niagara Falls.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stanley of Listowel are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hoffman and other friends in our midst. —Louis Weln is quite low and poor hopes are entertained for his recovery Paralysis has set in and he is practically helpless.—Mr. Wm. Merryfield of Moncton, organizer for the I. O. F. was in the village last week looking up risks in the interest of the order. —A number from here spent Labor Day in Zurich. Some think the horse is better than the auto and more reliable. —"Betsy" has been making some great stunts the past week. Albert H now lunches her and makes her go some when she makes up her mind to do so. The other night he made a record run from the north cleared the crossing with a bound, went through the loop-de-loop and landed right side up on the next crossing. It is hard to get a passenger to go along because she isn't safe. On monday she went fine for about three miles, then sighed and rested until morning. In the meantime the chauffeur and his friends walked home in the bright moonlight solemnly meditating on the lot of man.—Last Friday the Greysteads played our boys a game of baseball and easily won out. Our boys made quite a number of errors which proved costly. The following is the score which is enough said

Crediton 0 0 1 2 0 0 1 0 0 — 4
Greysteads 0 0 3 0 1 0 5 3 1 —13

—Ed Bertrand returned to Detroit on Tuesday. Mrs. Bertrand and daughter Miss Thelma will continue their visit here for the remainder of the week.—Jas. Hodgins is at present ill but we hope he will soon regain his health.—The iron roofing of the new sheds is about completed. It is expected that they will be ready for you next Sunday.—On Friday, some cattle belonging to the Butcher made a charge for the church fence, breaking off two posts and damaging the fence considerably.—Mr. Bradshaw of Alma Craig spent Sunday and Labor Day in town.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Eilber, M. P.P. and Mrs. Herb Eilber attended the Old Boys Re-union of Blanshard and Usborne in Kirkton on Labor Day. Last Sunday special Thanksgiving Services were held in the Evangelical Church. In the morning, Rev. Burn preached an excellent sermon, to a very large audience. The pulpit railing and altar were tastily decorated with flowers, greens and fruit. In the evening the Sunday-school scholars rendered an excellent Cantata, entitled "Harvest Home" The first part of the program consisted in Anthems by the choir, choruses in exercises given by the Men's choir and a solo by Rev. Bean. The Cantata consisted in exercises given by the children under the heads of different committees such as Social, Temperance, Missionary, Prayer-meeting etc. The singing was especially well rendered and all enjoyed the evening's program very much. The committees are to be congratulated on their good work in training the scholars.

On Five and a Half Million Dollars Worth of Goods Imported from Great Britain, the Agreement Hurts the Preference

By JOHN V. BORNE.

"Statistics be hanged," suggested the Finance Minister when asked inconvenient questions as to which side was better fortified by facts and figures during the Washington negotiations.

There is no evidence, therefore, as to how far the immediate effect of the Agreement on the British Preference, to say nothing of its ultimate effect, was considered at Washington. But, in the light of Mr. McCall's prophecy as to what might happen to Canadian-British relations, it is doubly remarkable that the British Preference was interfered with; and that the information on this question had to be furnished Canadians by the English Tariff Commission, in a document that gives more lucid information than anything issued by the Dominion Government.

The Preference has been wiped out on goods of which Canada in 1909-10 bought $3,310,000 worth from Britain. Of these imports, four lines, representing $2,615,000, came from the United Kingdom; so that a strong incentive is furnished the United States to try to drive the British manufacturer out of Canada's market

On imports amounting to $2,195,000 the margin of British Preference has been reduced, the percentage of reductions varying from 2½ to 7½ per cent.

To interfere with the preference on between five and six million dollars' worth of British imports, without any inkling being given that this was the way in which the British Preference was being treated, was an exceedingly clever way of beginning the process of drawing Canada away from the channels of trade leading to and from the United Kingdom, which was openly avowed immediately the provisions of Agreement were announced by statesmen, railway magnates and publicists, all over the United States.

There was another effect of the negotiations that at peculiarly accords with the expectations of Mr. McCall—the advantages given the United States over Great Britain are also enjoyed by twelve other countries.

Besides, there is a discrimination against Great Britain in the United States, for none of the advantages given to Canada apply to the Mother Country.

CENTRALIA

Quite a few are taking in Toronto Fair from this vicinity.—Mr. Chapman Sheardown of Goderich spent Monday shaking hands around the village.—The Cains brothers of Byron spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hicks. —Mrs. S. Andrew and Gertrude are spending a couple of weeks visiting her sister at Udora and Toronto—The Public School re-opened Tuesday with Miss Marshall of Blyth as teacher.—Mr. Fred Fairhall left on Tuesday morn for Chatham to attend Business College. —Ewart and Douglas Blatchford left for Clinton on Monday evening to attend college.—Rev. Steadman of Elimville occupied the pulpit on Sunday evening and preached a very fine sermon and Rev. Blatchford preached on the Elimville Circuit.—Our Base-Ball Boys went to Kirkton on Monday and played two games of ball with the Crack Salem team. They lost the morning game by a score of 10-15 but won in the afternoon by a score of 2-23.—The Trotham boys spent the holiday with their father who is still quite ill and not expected to recover.—Miss Lillie Elliott returned on Saturday from a months visit in Toronto.—Mr. F. Colwill has re-painted and shingled his house which adds much to its appearance.—Mr. D. Austin has build a fine Silo for Mr. W. Moffatt.—Mr. Weber of London spent the holiday with friends in the village.—Miss Hazel Hicks left on Monday evening for London to attend College.

KIRKTON.

Nearly five thousand people attended the Usborne and Blanshard Old Boys' Re-union at Kirkton on Labor Day, when the whole day was filled with a long list of sports for the children and older people. Centralia and Salem played two games of baseball, the latter team winning in the morning and the former in the afternoon. A most enjoyable dinner was served. The gathering was addressed by several of the party candidates and others on non-political subjects.—Dr. Steele, Ed. Lewis, H. Eilber, J. J. Merner, etc. The day all through was a pleasant one for everybody.

ELIMVILLE

Next Sunday Sept. 10th, Rev. F. A. Steadman will preach a special sermon at 10 a.m. to the members of Elimville Council, No. 98, Canadian Order of Chosen Friends. All the Friends are expected to meet at the hall at 9.30 and proceed to the church in a body. The members of Elimville Council extend an invitation to the members of any other Council to meet with them on Sunday. A special collection will be taken in aid of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.—Mr. and Mrs. George Keralake spent the holiday with friends at Bervie.—A number from here took in the Zion tea on Monday evening.

Westervelt School
Y. M. C. A. BLDG.
LONDON, ONT.
BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS.
Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time.
Catalogue Free.
Forest City Business and Shorthand College
J. W. WESTERVELT, m. Chartered Accountant, Vice-Principal.
J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Take Hall's family pills for constipation.

SHIPKA

The late James Williams died at his home in Parkhill after a long and painful illness on Aug. 26, aged 25 years. He was born near Goderich and lived in Bosanquet and Stephen before moving to Parkhill. While swamping out timber he injured his arm and death was the result. He had been farming near Shipka, but after seven weeks spent in the hospital this spring, he was unable to continue his farm work and moved to Parkhill. A sad feature is that a little daughter was born two days before his death. Besides the widow and two daughters he is survived by four brothers, Fred of Goderich, Solomon of Hensall, Blanshard of Crediton, Feltham of Shipka, one sister, Mrs. George Johnston of Summerhill, and an aged father, Fred. Williams of Shipka. The funeral took place to Grand Bend cemetery.

HOW TO LIVE LONG

With healthy kidneys one has a good chance to live long, but weak kidneys afflict old age with great discomforts. The back becomes bent and lame, rheumatism is chronic, eyesight fails or involuntary and too frequent passages of the urine cause embarrassment by day and loss of sleep at night.

Booth's Kidney Pills

Booth's Kidney Pills bring new strength to old backs and quick relief to weakened kidneys. They banish backache and rheumatic pain, regulate the bladder and urine.

Booth's Kidney Pills are for sick kidneys in old or young and are guaranteed by the proprietors, The R. T. Booth Co. Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Sold everywhere 50c. box. Free trial sent on request.

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

LONDON

95c. return Sept 9, 10, 11, 13, & 15
90c. return Sept. 12 and 14.
From Exeter account Western Fair. Return limit Sept. 19th.

Special train leaves Exeter 8.02 a.m. Sept. 12, 13, 14, for London. Return special leaves London 10.50 p.m. same dates.

ANNUAL WESTERN EXCURSIONS

September 14, 15, 16

Round trip rates from Exeter to Detroit, Mich., $4.30; Chicago 10.10 Saginaw, Mich., 5.10. Proportionate Rates to Port Huron, Bay City, Cleveland, Grand Rapids, Minneapolis and St. Paul. Return Limit—Original starting point must be reached not later than Oct. 2nd, 1911.

THROUGH TOURIST PULLMAN SLEEPERS
to
WINNIPEG AND EDMONTON
Via Chicago and St. Paul
AUGUST 22nd, SEPT. 5th and 19th
In connection with
HOMESEEKERS EXCURSIONS

COLONIST EXCURSIONS—To Spokane, Wash.; Nelson, B.C.; Vancouver B.C.; Westminster, B.C.; Seattle, Wn; Tacoma, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Cal. and Mexico City at very low rates
SEPT 15th to OCT. 15th.

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, at Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES

Issued by The Canadian Bank of Commerce are the most convenient form in which to carry money when travelling. They are negotiable everywhere, self-identifying, and the exact amount payable in the principal foreign countries is printed on the face of every cheque. The cheques are issued in denominations of and may be obtained on application at the Bank.

$10, $20, $50, $100 and $200, A233

In connection with its Travellers' Cheques The Canadian Bank of Commerce has issued a booklet entitled "Information of Interest to those about to travel", which will be sent free to anyone applying for it.

Exeter Branch—W. H. Collins, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up)	-	$4,000,000
Rest Fund - -	-	$4,400,000
Total Assets Over	-	$44,000,000

Has 78 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at all Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLINE, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

The Public Schools

OPEN SEPT. 5th

And how about your School Supplies

SCRIBBLERS.—
The regular 5c. scribblers, plain or ruled. 7 for 25c.

LEAD PENCILS.—
The famous regalia pencil, worth 2 for 5c. reduced price 10c. a doz.

PAINTS.—
Water colors in neat boxes 5c. to 25c. crayons 1c. to 10c. a box.

INKS.—
Stafford's and Underwood's Black and Blue Black Inks, 3oz bottles for 5c.

SLATES.—
The famous German proof slate, wire edge or bound 5c. to 14c.

DICTIONARIES.—
Collins large type pronouncing dictionaries at 15c.

It will pay you to pay us a visit. We are in a position to save you money, and we do it.

S. Martin & Son, Exeter

MITCHELL.—At high noon on Tuesday, Aug. 22nd, a pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Skinner Blanshard st., when their daughter, Elsie M., was married to Mr. Robt. Stround, foreman at the Wettlaufer Bros.

CENTRAL Business College
STRATFORD, ONT.

Our registration greatly exceeds that of previous years. Why? Our school is the best of its kind in the west, best in courses given, best in teachers employed and best in assisting graduates to positions. Our graduates are in demand. Business men state that they are the best. In the past three years we had eleven applications for help that we could not supply. We have three departments, Commercial, Shorthand and Telegraphy. Get our free catalogue.

Commence your course at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials. Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Canadian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.
Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver
and is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. R. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto University.

DENTIST.

teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. R. WRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years resident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew reet, EXETER

DR. QUACKENBUSH, Physician, Surgeon, Accoucheur, Office, Dr. Rollins' old office, Main Street. Residence, corner James and Albert streets opposite James street Methodist parsonage Phone Office, 39 a; Residence 39 b.

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITors, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc

Money to Loan at lowest rates on terms
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
E. CARLING, K.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.

We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter On

J. SENIOR

Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies.
Main-St., Exeter.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER

WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elliber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING

Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.

Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St Thomas, Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

ELLIOTT Business College
TORONTO, ONT., is recognized as "CANADA'S HIGH-CLASS COMMERCIAL SCHOOL." The instruction is absolutely first-class. Write to-day for our catalogue. Enter now.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.

We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.

Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Ellimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

Northwest Lands.

Unimproved Lands in Saskatchewan and Alberta for sale.
Railway fare refunded to purchasers.
MONEY TO LOAN.
ERNEST ELLIOT
Office opposite Central Hotel, Exeter.

ZURICH.

Mr. Cluney of Detroit, is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. F. Witmer.—Miss Nora Siebert of Annarbor, Mich., is visiting at the home of Mr. J. Preeter.—Mrs. Prang has returned from a week's visit with friends in Detroit.—Rev. M. Ennes and family left for New York, after a pleasant three weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ennes.—Miss Whyte left this week for Chicago, to take a course in nursing, at one of the city hospitals.—Mr. and Mrs. Janson of Detroit, are visiting the latters sister, Mrs. H. Greb, and other relatives.—Mr. and Mrs. Lang of Missouri are visiting in this section. Mr. Lang is a native of Stanley and Mrs. Lang was born near Zurich, being a daughter of the late J. Burkholder. This is their first visit in 42 years.—Mr. J. A. Constantine of the Molsons Bank, and Mrs. Constantine are away on a three weeks visit.—Mr. Edmund Dichert of Armada, Mich., is visiting his mother Mrs. J. Deichert.—Miss McCourt, of Clinton has been engaged to teach at Sep. S. No. 1, Stanley.—Mr. John L. Gerber of the Bronson Line, left for a two weeks visit in the state of New York, his former home.

HENSALL

Will Bonthorn and wife of Detroit are visiting the parents of the former.—Dick left on Tuesday to spend a month with her relatives at Tavistock and Oakville.—Miss Anne Carlisle left for the west last week to spend some months with relatives in Indian Head.—Chas. Redmond left last week for Manitoba where he will visit friends.—Miss Ella Ortwein accompanied her cousin Miss Reid, to Tavistock on Thursday. She is also visiting Berlin, Toronto and other places.—Mrs. MacArthur returned home from the West on Wednesday.—Ben Caldwell and wife, of Carberry, Man., are here visiting his sister Mrs. Geo. Joynt of Hensall.—John T. Doig, Walnut Grove, Minn. is here in connection with the settling up of the estate of the late Paul Doig of which he is one of the legatees.—J. W. Ortwein returned last week after spending a couple of weeks with relatives in and around Appleton, Wis.

MOORESVILLE.

Murray Neil, after three weeks' vacation at his home here, has returned to Ottawa.—A number from here attended the social at Mount Carmel.—Miss Loretto Glavin has returned home after a month's visit in Detroit and other points.—Eileen Glavin left Wednesday for London to resume her studies in the F.C.B.C.—Thos. O'Reilly sold his 100 acre farm to Patrick Buckley of Brinsley. He will take possession in the spring.—School re-opened Tuesday.

Simpson—Lee—A very pretty wedding took place at the home of William Lee, of Mooresville when Mr. Arthur Simpson was united in marriage to Miss Olive Lee. After the wedding dinner the young couple were accompanied by their friends to Lucan depot, where they left on the 2.30 train for Toronto.

Mr. Moses Simpson left Tuesday for the west on a trip.—See W. R. Simpson's ad in another column—J. T. Simpson is busy threshing.—Mr. W. H. Simpson is about to move to Mooresville from the 1st. Con.

Auction Sale

OF VILLAGE PROPERTY

There will be offered for sale by public Auction, on SATURDAY the 16 day of SEPTEMBER, 1911 at two o'clock p.m. at the Metropolitan Hotel the house and lot on the northwest corner of station and william streets nearly opposite the Creamery, in the Village of Exeter. This was the residence of the late Mrs. Margaret Airth and is conveniently situated within a few steps of Main street close to churches, school, railway station and Canning factory. The property is in good repair and is a desirable purchase for anyone wanting a snug little home.

Terms—10 per cent. of purchase money on the day of sale, balance in 15 days. Possession on payment of purchase money. Other terms made known on day of sale. For further particulars apply to DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors for Vendor.

Dated Exeter, 6th Sept. 1911.

DWELLING AND LAND FOR SALE.

That desirable property situated in Exeter, on the corner of William and Victoria streets, being one-half acre of land. There is on the premises a good frame house, with kitchen and woodshed, hard and soft water and a number of fruit trees. Will sell half of land separately. Price reasonable. Apply to Mr. Peter Bawden, Exeter, opposite English church.

HEIFER STRAYED

There strayed from the premises of the undersigned, Lot 21, Con. 6, Stephen, on orabout July 20th, a two-yr-old medium-sized heifer, yellowish color, with white spots and white star on forehead. Finder will be rewarded by sending information that will lead to its recovery to JOHN G. WEIN, Crediton P. O.

COURT OF REVISOIN

Notice is hereby given that a Court will be held pursuant to the Ontario Voters' List Act by His Honor the Judge of the County Court of the County of Huron at Exeter, in the Town Hall, on Friday, the 22nd day of September, 1911, at 10 o'clock a.m. to hear and determine complaints of errors and omissions in the Voters' List of the Municipality of Exeter for 1911.

T. B. CARLING, Clerk of the municipality of Exeter.

Dated, Sept. 2, 1911.

FOR SALE

One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass except 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

FREE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERING FROM WOMEN'S AILMENTS.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.

I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from women's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—you, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhœa or Whitish discharge, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete 10 days treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer, if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhœa, Green Sickness, and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Plumpness and health always result from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten days' treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address:

MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box 840 H - WINDSOR, ONT.

The Hand That Cooks The Dinner

is the hand that rules the world.

In spite of what they say about "cradles", the stove is the all-important factor in "home-rule." A

GURNEY-OXFORD

Chancellor

is the best guarantee that the "hand" will keep your home moving in the right direction of economy and health.

Please call and see our line of GURNEY-OXFORD STOVES and RANGES that are built and sold on honor. The Chancellor and Imperial Oxford are equipped with the Oxford Economizer. Come and let us show you how this marvellous device saves time and fuel by a single touch of the lever; how it holds fire, and directs odors up the chimney.

The Dividing Oven Strip guides heat equally all over the oven—a fine baking insurance. The Reversible Grate saves time and fuel-waste. These, with other star features make us proud to show the Gurney-Oxford line. Design—finish—workmanship—all these details we want to demonstrate to your entire satisfaction.

W. J. Heaman, Agent.

LUCAN.—A heavy wind and rainstorm passed over this section of Dedulph at two o'clock Saturday afternoon destroying the barns and season's crop by fire of James D. Ryder, on the side-road, unroofing the house and kitchen of Chas. Coursey, and the barn of Willington Sadler, on the 2nd concession. A big fire in the Township of McGillivray could be seen. On many farms trees were blown down, and crops and buildings injured.

SOUVENIR FURNACE
(New Idea Series)

Keeps the house warm and cosy in the severest winter weather, and heats all rooms equally well.

It is very simple to operate—just touch the lever and you dump the ashes; there never can be dead coals at the sides of the firepot; the ashes are readily removed.

It is easy to control the heat and regulate the fuel consumption, which means a saving of 25% to 50% in fuel bills.

It is a clean and healthful furnace—gas and dust cannot get into the hot air chamber and then into the living or sleeping rooms. It forces pure air through the whole house.

The Souvenir Furnace is made in Hamilton, the stove centre of Canada, by

Every buyer of a Souvenir Furnace is presented with a legal bond on date of purchase, guaranteeing firepot against cracks or breaks of any kind for 5 years.

THE HAMILTON STOVE & HEATER COMPANY, Limited
Successors to Gurney-Tilden Co.

For Sale by W. J. Heaman

THE GREAT EXHIBITION OF 1911
THE WESTERN FAIR
London, Canada, Sept. 8, to 16.
$28,000.00
IN PRIZES AND ATTRACTIONS

Exhibition of Live Stock. The best ever seen in Canada
Many Unique Special Attractions, including Aerial, Military and Hydro Electric Features
Jumping and Speeding Contests
Big Dog and Cat Show--Four Splendid Bands
A most attractive midway; Best ever seen in London

Reduced Rates on all Railways.
Prize Lists, Entry Forms, and all other information from W. J. REED, President A. M. HUNT, Secretary

Dainty, Disappearing Doughnuts. Devoured near as fast as you make 'em.
Golden — tooth - teasing — able - bodied nuts of dough.
Made from dough that Tastes Like Nuts, you know.
Use FIVE ROSES flour.
Get that individual toothsomeness of Manitoba wheat kernels.
Doughnuts with a Palate-Pleasing Personality.
See 'em bob up in the rich deep fat—swelling, soft-textured.
A hole entirely circled with Light Digestible Food.
Fat without being fat—for FIVE ROSES is the sturdy glutinous flour that resists fat absorption.
Just enough to brown deliciously, to crisp quickly.
No greasiness, heaviness, sogginess.
Filling a vacant place so pleasantly with never an outraged stomach.
Like these make YOURS.
Use FIVE ROSES.

Five Roses Flour
Not Bleached Not Blended

LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, LIMITED, MONTREAL

For tea you can't beat
LIPTON'S TEA
OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

TRAGEDY ON LONELY LAKE

Man Was Found Killed and His Partner Dead From Poison.

A despatch from Winnipeg, Man., says: The tragedy of a lonely shack in the far northern wilds of Western Canada is recalled in detail by the arrival in Winnipeg of a letter to Mrs. Mills, wife of Captain J. W. Mills, of the Hudson's Bay Company steamer Mackenzie River, plying between Fort McPherson and Fort Smith. The letter tells the story of a young clerk who when bringing out the mail in the Spring, on June 6, found Pete Meland dead with his head crushed and W. S. Elever, the other man's prospecting partner, dead of poison, self administered, and a confession signed by the latter, telling of the whole tragedy. The scene of the horror is Salt River, about five hundred miles north of Great Slave Lake. The confession read as follows:

"I have been sick a long time; I am not crazy, but have simply been goaded to death. He (Meland) thought I had more money than I have, and has been trying to finish me. I tried to get him to go after some medicine, but he would not, wishing to have me die. So, good-bye.—W. S. Elever."

A further confession read as follows:—

"I have just killed the man that was killing me, so good-bye, and God bless you all. I am awfully weak and down since the last of March, so there is nothing but death for me. Cruel treatment drove me to kill Pete. Ship everything out and pay George Walker $10.—W. S."

The two bodies were buried together after the inquest, which returned a verdict of murder and suicide. A large stock of fur and the sum of $104 were found in the shack.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

"YIELD" ON BONDS DEPENDS ON TIME BOND HAS TO RUN BEFORE MATURITY.

Explanation of This Important Point of Great Importance—Not Like Stocks Which are Never Repaid and Therefore Time Not Considered in Reckoning Return—Some Interesting Illustrations.

(By "Investor")

In the first of this series it was shown that "distribution of risk" is an important principle of investment. It is a very simple one, however, involving no very confused ideas. There is another principle to be borne in mind when making investments which is of no less importance, but it is, however, considerably less obvious to those whose investment experience is small—and even to many who should understand its actions thoroughly. This is the principle of investment "in accordance with actful requirements."

Not long ago a financial paper stated, quite correctly, that a high return on an investment should always be looked upon with suspicion. This, however must not be taken to mean that such a stock as Dominion Bank, which pays 12 per cent. per annum is decidedly past the danger mark and should be avoided. Of course, the person who figures this out in this way quite misses the point. "The rate of income" or "return" on an investment depends on the rate of dividend, to be sure, but it is quite a different thing altogether. For example, take the case of a stock paying 12 per cent. The investor will have to pay at least $200 a share for this stock. But the dividend is figured on the par—or face—value of the shares, which is $100. Therefore the return on the $200 investment is $12 per year, or $6 on every hundred invested—that is, 6 per cent.

This is what was referred to in a previous article, when "rate of income" was given as one of the points—the second in importance—to be considered in chosing an investment.

Now, in the case of stocks, as we see above, this is a very simple matter to understand. When we consider bonds, however, there is considerably more to be taken into account.

Anyone who has ever bought bonds may sometimes wonder why two different issues of the bonds of some particular city sell at quite different prices. The security is exactly the same, the rate of interest identical; the only difference, probably, is that one bond may be payable in ten years and the other in twenty. It is this last feature that affects the price. What difference could that make? you ask.

Suppose a 5 per cent. $1,000 bond with ten years to run sells at 108 1-4. The owner will receive $50 a year on an investment of $1,082.50. In such circumstances a stock—which is never repaid—would net the investor about 4 1-2 per cent. The bond is different, however. The investor pays $1,082.50 for the bond, which in ten years is paid off at $1,000. So he must save enough out of his income each year to replace the $82.50 of capital thus lost. That is to say, he must lay away in each year of the ten which his bond has to run, the sum of $6.50, which, at compound interest, will amount to the $82.50 by the time the bond matures. Therefore, the investor can only consider $43.50 of his annual interest of $50 as legitimate income, and, dividing $43.50 by $1,082.50 we find that this amounts to 4 per cent. on the sum of $1,082.50 invested. Therefore, a 5 per cent. bond, with ten years to run, selling at 108 1-4 "yields" 4 per cent. Remember, the amount returned is, of course greater than 4 per cent., but the half of 1 per cent. in excess of that rate is really repayment of a part of the invested capital, in installments.

On the other hand, where, a similar bond sells below par, the process is reversed. For example, a 4 per cent. bond selling at 90, with ten years to run, "yields" the investor 5.3 per cent., whereas, a 4 per cent. stock selling at 90, returns but 4.4 on the investment. The reason, of course, is this: In ten years the bond is repaid at par of $1,000 and cost but $900, therefore, to every $40 of interest must be added the part of that $100 profit which will be received at the time the bond is repaid, and of which, in the "yield" account is thus taken.

So, in buying bonds or other forms of mortgage or debentures which are payable on a fixed date, the element of time is a most important one. In such a case the "rate of income" is not as simple to estimate as is often supposed, as we have just seen. Bond dealers, of course, do not have to bother working out these details, for there are books of tables compiled in which the figures for all values, rates and times are given, and most bond dealers have a supply of small books of this sort which they supply to their customers.

Indeed, in bond selling, in many cases, bonds are sold on the basis of their "yield," and the price not figured out until the transaction is completed. Therefore, it is necessary to understand how this is figured out before buying, or one may be disappointed. For instance, a man might buy Electrical Development Company bonds at 87 on the open market under the impression that as they "yield" 6 per cent. his income will be 6x$87, or $52.20 a year, whereas as they are 5 per cent. bonds he gets but $50 on each thousand, as he will have to wait till the bonds mature, 22 years hence, for the $130, which represents the additional $2.20 he expected and didn't get. The $130, of course, is the profit derived from buying the bonds for $870 and having them redeemed at $1,000.

Don't forget, therefore, when reckoning the rate of income on a security to find out—if it is a bond—how long it has to run.

OWE LIVES TO THE DOG.

Family's Narrow Escape From Burning House—Dog Perished.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The lives of six people were saved by a dog in a fire early on Wednesday morning, which destroyed the residence of Alex. McDougall, near the Ottawa Golf Club. The barking of the animal awakened the family just in time to get out of the building in safety, though almost suffocated by smoke. The faithful dog, however, lost its life, no trace of it having been found after the fire. The residence was one of the finest country homes around the capital. The loss is about $25,000.

Foresight as a rule, only comes to a man when he is so old he has nothing to look forward to.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Sept. 5.—The Wheat Markets are steady, with some scarcity of Manitobas. Cables weaker for wheat and stronger for corn.

Flour—Winter wheat, 90 per cent. patents, at $3.45, Montreal freights Manitoba flours—First patents, $5.30; second patents, $4.80, and strong bakers', $4.60, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba wheat—No. 1 Northern quoted at $1.06 1-2, Bay ports; No. 2 at $1.05, and No. 3 at $1.03.

Ontario wheat—No. 2 white, red or mixed, new, quoted at 82 1-2 to 83 1-2c, outside.

Peas—85 to 86c, f.o.b. cars, outside.

Oats—Ontario grades, new No. 2 at 38c, outside, and of No. 3 at 35c, outside. No. 2 Western Canada, 43c, and No. 3 at 42 1-4c, Bay ports.

Barley—Prices nominal at 60 to 70c, outside, according to test. No. 2 worth 70 to 75c, outside.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow quoted at 67c, Bay ports, and 71 1-2c, Toronto.

Rye—Car lots outside, 72c.

Buckwheat—No. 2 at 54c, outside.

Bran—Manitobas at $22, in bags, Toronto, and shorts $25, in bags, Toronto. Ontario bran, $22, in bags, Toronto.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked quoted at $2.25 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2 to $2.25.

Baled hay—No. 1 is quoted at $13 to $14, on track, and No. 2 at $10 to $11.

Baled straw—$6 to $6.50, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, quoted at $1.25 to $1.40.

Poultry—Chickens, 15 to 16c per lb; fowl, 11 to 12c; ducks, 14c; turkeys, 15 to 16c. Live poultry about 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

Butter—Dairy prints, 21 to 22c; inferior, 16 to 17c. Creamery quoted at 25 to 26c per lb. for rolls, and 23 to 24c for solids.

Eggs—Offerings are only moderate, with strictly new-laid quoted at 23c, and fresh at 19 to 20c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—The market here is higher. Large quoted at 14c per lb. and twins at 14 1-2c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon—Long clear, 12c per lb., in case lots. Pork, short cut, $23; do., mess, $20 to $21.

Hams—Medium to light, 17 to 18c; do., heavy, 15 to 15 1-2c; rolls, 11 3-4 to 12c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; backs, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2c; tubs, 10 3-4c; pails, 11c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Sept. 5.—Oats—Canadian Western, No. 2, 44 1-4 to 44 1-2c, car lots ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 43 3-4 to 44c; No. 3 C. W., 43 1-4 to 43 1-2c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; seconds, $4.90; Winter wheat patents, $4.50 to $4.75; strong bakers', $4.70; straight rollers, $4 to $4.10; in bags, $1.85 to $2. Rolled oats, per barrel, $4.95; bag of 90 lbs., $2.35. Corn—American No. 3 yellow, 70 1-4c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $22 to $23; Manitoba, $21 to $22; middlings, Ontario, $25 to $26; shorts, Man., $24; mouillie, $26 to $31. Eggs, selected, 24 to 26c; No. 1 stock, 20 to 22c. Cheese—Westerns, 13 1-2 to 13 3-4c; easterns, 13 1-4 to 13 1-2c. Butter, choicest, 26 to 26 1-4c; seconds, 25 1-2 to 25 3-4c.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Minneapolis, Sept. 5. — Wheat—September, $1.00 3-8; December, $1.02 1-4 to $1.02 3-8; cash, No. 1 hard, $1.04 7-8; No. 1 Northern, $1.02 to $1.04 3-8; No. 2 Northern, 97 3-8c to $1.02 3-8; No. 3 wheat, 93 3-8 to 99 3-8c. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 61 1-2c. Oats—No. 3 white, 41 3-8 to 42c. Rye—No. 2, 80 to 80 1-2c. Bran—$20.50 to $21. Flour—First patents, $4.90 to $5.20; second patents, $4.40 to $4.65; first clears, $3.25 to $3.45; second clears, $2.25 to $2.40.

Buffalo, Sept. 5.—Spring wheat—No offerings; Winter, No. 2 red, 92c; No. 3 red, 90c; No. 2 white, 90c. Corn—May, No. 3 yellow, 69c; No. 4 yellow, 67 1-4c; No. 3 corn, 67c, all on track, through billed. Oats—No. 2 white, 44 3-4c; No. 3 white, 44c; No. 4 white, 43c. Barley—Malting, $1.19 to $1.24.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Sept. 5—Choice steers sold at 6 1-4c, good at 5 3-4 to 6c, fairly good at 5 1-4 to 5 1-2c, fair at 4 3-4 to 5c, and common at 4 1-4 to 4 1-2c per pound. Cows brought from 4 to 5 1-2c, and bulls from 3 to 4 1-2c per pound. Lambs sold at 6c, and sheep at 3 3-4 to 4c per pound. Calves were scarce. The supply of hogs was ample to fill all requirements, and the tone of the market was easier, with sales of selected lots at $7.50, and mixed and heavy lots at $6.50 to $7.25 per cwt., weighed off cars.

ALL OVER HIM.

"You, there, in the overalls," shouted the cross-examining lawyer, "how much are you paid for telling untruths?"

"Less than you are," retorted the man, "or you'd be in overalls, too."

THE NEWS IN A PARAGRAPH

HAPPENINGS FROM ALL OVER THE GLOBE IN A NUTSHELL.

Canada, the Empire and the World in General Before Your Eyes.

CANADA.

The wages of canal employees have been increased.

Low water in the Cornwall canal has closed down the cotton and paper mills.

Emile Lisotte was shot while trying to stop a fight in Montreal, and died in the hospital.

Forty thousand harvest laborers were taken into western Canada by the C.P.R. and C.N.R.

Mrs. McIntyre of Brantford was fatally burned when her clothes and bedding caught fire from a lamp.

Montreal police are alleged to have ill-treated Alphonse Lefarge, a man who died shortly after his arrest.

Guelph Council will consider the question of cancelling the agreement with the People's Railway after due notice.

Sub Fire Chief Martin of Montreal has been suspended from duty as a result of his difference with Chief Tremblay.

GREAT BRITAIN.

British coal miners are agitating for a minimum wage.

The Canadian Artillery team now in Britain won an important contest.

Owing to the drought in India the King has sanctioned the curtailment of the Delhi durbar programme.

GENERAL.

A mass meeting was held in Berlin to protest against intervention of Britain in Morocco.

Anxiety prevails in France as to the outcome of negotiations with Germany, but war is regarded as highly improbable.

Alfonso, the alleged head of the Camorrists, and another member of the Camorra, now on trial for murder at Viterbo, Italy, were condemned to three months' imprisonment for insulting the president of the court.

Mlle Arria By, a leading feminist of Toulon, France, and an accomplished revolver shot, is determined to fight a duel with an editor who criticized an article she had written in which she argued that women ought to live and die unmarried.

RIDEAU HALL IMPROVEMENTS

The Interior Being Given a Thorough Renovation.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Extensive improvements are being rushed forward at Rideau Hall during the absence of his Excellency Earl Grey at Toronto, in preparation for the coming of the Duke of Connaught. The interior is being completely renovated, and the exterior will also be improved. The chapel built during the regime of Lord Lansdowne as Governor-General has been torn down, and its place taken by a garage of sufficient size to accommodate four automobiles. The suggestion made some time ago that another addition would be made to the front of the Rideau Hall will not at present be acted on, and the facade will remain as it is for some time at least.

SUGAR ON UP GRADE.

Increase at Canning Time Will Seriously Affect Consumer.

A despatch from New York says: Grocery circles here showed concern on Wednesday over the high prices now prevailing in the sugar market. There was another advance in granulated during the day to 6.25c, representing a full cent rise in the past few weeks, and the highest level in many years. Coming at the height of the canning season, this advance is of vital interest to consumers all over the country. It is attributed primarily to a poor sugar beet crop in Europe, following prolonged drouth this summer. To make matters worse, the Cuban crop, which furnishes the bulk of raw material for American refiners, also proved short, and prices began to soar.

WILL COST A MILLION.

Tenders Received for Transcontinental Terminus at Quebec.

A despatch from Ottawa says: More than half a dozen tenders were received Friday by the National Transcontinental Railway Commissioners for the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific terminus at Quebec, which will cost about a million dollars. The contract will not be let for a week or ten days, however, as the merits of the various bids have to be looked into. Several contractors, who have submitted tenders, are in the city to-day.

GILLETT'S
PERFUMED LYE

FOR MAKING SOAP, SOFTENING WATER, REMOVING PAINT, DISINFECTING SINKS, CLOSETS, DRAINS, ETC.
SOLD EVERYWHERE
REFUSE SUBSTITUTES

BELGIUM PREPARES FOR WAR

Fears German Invasion Would Follow Outbreak of Hostilities.

A despatch from London says: Belgium is preparing for contingencies in the event of war between France and Germany. The Belgians know by experience that the neutrality of their country would be very difficult to safeguard in such circumstances, and they fear that a German invasion would take place in a few hours after an outbreak of hostilities. The Belgian Minister of War has given instructions for all forts on the Meuse, especially around Liege, to be furnished with men and ammunition. Plans for rapid mobilization are being studied, and the forts at Namur are being fitted with new cannon of the Hotchkiss type. The annual manoeuvres of the Belgian army will not take place this year.

Disquieting rumors are afloat as to the prospects of war between France and Germany. Several Belgian journals affirm that Adolphe Messiny, the French Minister of War, has caused the attention of the Belgian Government to be directed to the weakness and neglected condition of this country's defences on the German frontier.

THREE ENGINEERS DROWNED

Were Employed on Canadian Northern Construction Staff.

A despatch from Port Arthur says: An upturned canoe found on Lake Helen, above Lake Nipigon, following their non-arrival at Nipigon Station as expected, indicates the drowning of Division Engineer R. H. McCoy and Resident Engineers C. H. Nelson and Drum, of C.N.R. construction staff. The men left camp at Exander Sunday evening for Nipigon, telephoning to Nipigon that they were departing. Their route lay across Lake Helen, between their camp and Nipigon River, and when they did not arrive search was made, resulting in the finding on Tuesday on the shores of Lake Helen of the upturned canoe and floating paddles. McCoy was 48, married, and came from the Western States. Drum and Nelson also are Americans, and their residences unknown.

PIRATES ATTACK FORT.

Buccaneers Driven off in Crimea After a Sharp Fight.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: A report has reached here from Kerch, in the Crimea, that a band of pirates landed and attacked the fortress. The soldiers replied to the shots of their assailants with a heavy rifle fire, wounding many. Fifteen pirates were captured, while most of the others made off in boats.

STRIKE IN RUSSIA SPREADS.

Volunteer Fleet is Affected—Many Steamers Tied Up.

A despatch from Odessa says: The seamen's strike at Black Sea ports is extending to the volunteer fleet. Thirteen mail and passenger steamers are now tied up. A railway strike is threatened and 10,000 factory hands have struck at Lodz.

FINE YACHT SUNK.

Belonged to W. L. Harkness, a Standard Oil Millionaire.

A despatch from Fort William says: The ocean-going yacht Gunilda, owned by Wm. L. Harkness, the Standard Oil millionaire, went ashore in Lake Superior on Wednesday, and the 3 passengers were taken off in life-boats safely on Thursday. The crew stuck by the boat, but when the tug Whalen pulled the vessel off the rocky ledge she began to sink at once, and went down in a few minutes. The crew escaped in time to avoid being carried down with the vessel. The Gunilda lies in 300 feet of water, and will never be recovered.

NORWAY'S ARMY MUTINOUS.

Government is Called Upon to Check Spread of Socialism.

A despatch from Christiania says: The Norwegian press is calling upon the Government to adopt stern measures to prevent the spread of Socialism in the army. The Young Socialist party has secured enormous influence over the soldiers, and mutinous scenes are constantly occurring on the drill grounds. Two serious affairs of this kind happened at Stenkjaer and Gardemoen, soldiers storming the cells and liberating comrades whom they considered to have been unjustly imprisoned.

CUSTOMS REVENUE.

Increase of $4,500,000 During Five Months of Fiscal Year.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Customs receipts for the five months ended August 31 amounted to $23,596,145, an increase of $4,504,543 over the figures for the corresponding five months of the last fiscal year. For the month of August alone the revenue from Customs was $7,678,395, which is greater by $1,198,600 than the Customs receipts for August, 1910.

FRENCH WOMEN MARKETING

If the Storekeeper Charges Too Much They Wreck His Shop.

A despatch from Paris says: The agitation against the high prices of provisions continues, and disorders of considerable proportions were reported on Wednesday from twelve places in Northern France. The usual procedure is for a crowd of women of the lower class to assemble and do their marketing together, carrying large placards, upon which are written the prices which the women are willing to pay. If the shopkeeper assents to sell his goods at the price offered, the women buy; but if he refuses, they pitch all of his stock into the street. The man next door generally yields, though the crowd in its excitement may sack the place out of spite without enquiring whether the dealer is willing to reduce the price of his goods. [illegible] police ordinarily are inadequate to keep peace with the movement, and tragi-comic incidents are reported from some localities where the store-keepers have attempted to defend their stock.

A butcher named Froissart, at Henin-Lietard, in Pas-de-Calais, was patrolling the sidewalk in front of his shop on horseback, when his place was stormed by a crowd of 300 women, who demanded that he lower his prices. Froissart charged into the mob, yelling and waving a stick, with which he knocked over several of the manifestants before he was pulled from his horse.

Fifteen hundred weavers from Isle, a suburb of this city, marched into Saint Quentin on Wednesday and sacked 20 stores where eatables [illegible] The police finally dis[illegible]

ECZEMA IS CAUSED BY IMPURE BLOOD

Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Because They Make Pure Blood

Ask any doctor and he will tell you that eczema is caused by impurities in the blood; that nothing can cure it that does not reach the blood—that salves and outward applications are worthless and a waste of money. The reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have always been so successful in curing this most annoying trouble is because they act directly on the blood, reaching the root of the trouble and driving out all impurities. They banish eczema, salt rheum, and unsightly pimples and eruptions, relieve the irritation and itching and give perfect health. Mrs. A. Puling, of Milestone, Sask., says: "I was afflicted with a blood and skin disease which the doctor called eczema, but which did not yield in the least to his treatment. I was covered with sores and in very bad shape. A friend advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after using eight or nine boxes I was completely cured. I can strongly recommend the Pills to anyone suffering from that trouble."

A medicine that can make new, red blood will cure not only skin troubles, but also anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, indigestion and a host of other troubles simply because these troubles are the result of bad blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new blood and under their use blood and nerve troubles disappear. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ENGLISH WOMAN IN CHINA

ETIQUETTE OBSERVED WHEN MAKING A CALL.

A Visit to a Lady of High Degree and One to a Farmer's Wife.

"We could have walked from our house to that of the Wei's in five minutes," writes an English woman visiting in China to the Lady, "but etiquette ordained that we should drive. So we ordered a blue hooded, springless mule cart, the only conveyance obtainable in that northern city, and crawled in on all fours under cover of the hood while the servant sat on the shafts and the driver walked behind us using his voice instead of reins.

"We had dressed in gala clothes for the occasion.

" 'Your white gown is very pretty,' said my hostess in a doubtful tone, 'but—'

" 'But what?' I asked anxiously,

" 'But the Chinese do so dislike white. You see it is the sign of mourning. No don't trouble to change. That pink scarf will make it all right and pink is one of their favorite colors.'

"The gatekeeper at the Wei mansion hearing the sound of cartwheels flung open the big gates and we were conducted round a few sharp corners and across some paved courtyards into an inner court where the mistress of the establishment, surrounded by a group of hand maidens and relatives, came forward to meet us.

"Her face, thickly coated with a wash of rice flour paste, and rouge dabbed on here and there in what we should call the wrong places, gave her face the wooden look of and her wooden walk on the poor lily feet three inches long kept up the resemblance.

A DUTCH DOLL

"We were ushered with many polite speeches into the guest hall, a bare, uninteresting room with walls that had once been whitewashed and a latticed window with paper panes that had once been white. The chief furniture consisted of a table placed squarely against the centre wall with a ponderous chair at either end.

"The Tai Tai sat afar off, looking more wooden than ever with her shrunken legs, like a couple of large ninepins encased in purple trousers. Had it not been for the relatives and the hand maidens conversation would have flagged considerably. She come from the south and was still unaccustomed to northern mandarin.

"Fortunately among the relatives a vivacious, good looking girl with a merry laugh kept the ball rolling. The more she talked, however, the more silent did the Tai Tai become, and our suspicions were aroused.

"Meanwhile the tea was brought in, and a dainty sup covered with an inverted saucer was placed beside each guest. According to etiquette, we ignored its existance until the Tai Tai requested us to taste of it, whereupon, carefully raising our cups in both hands, we made a feint of offering them to her. Declining the honor, she repeated her request that we should ourselves partook of the tea, and formalities thus concluded, we gave a suzzling sip to SHOW APPRECIATION.

"We were careful to hold the cup in both hands and not to remove the lid or inverted saucer, but merely to tilt it slightly to one side. Sponge cakes dipped in oil and savory pastries stuffed with dates were piled up on the table beside us, the attendants handling them with fingers which made no pretence of being clean.

"The Tai Tai was becoming more wooden than ever, when by a fortunate chance my companion, who spoke the language fluently and was well versed in Chinese etiquette, made the discovery that the merry faced conversational girl was an 'Ih Tai Tai'—in other words, the secondary wife. Realizing the difficulties of the situation, she was careful henceforth to address her conversation very pointedly to the real Tai Tai and thereby probably warded off a family quarrel after our departure.

"Luckily for people like myself, whose knowledge of the language is distinctly limited, there are various topics to be discussed with a 'new guest' which need but a slended vocabulary.

" 'Which is your honorable kingdom?' they ask.

" 'My inferior kingdom is England.'

" 'And your honorable age?' they inquire.

"At which, if one desires to answer indefinitely, one replies twenty-odd or thirty-odd as the case may be.

"They soon discover if one is unmarried and this affords some surprise, for spinsters of a certain age are hardly ever met with in China. An explanation that in England we please ourselves as to whether we will marry or not only increases the bewilderment. You seek to divert their attention by inquiring how many 'commanding gentlemen' they have (meaning sons). If they reply, that they have one or more

YOUNG PUPPIES

(meaning sons), you hasten to congratulate, and so it goes on.

"Finally your attempts to finish your tea having been frustrate by the attendant, who fills the cup up again before it has a chance of getting empty, leaving takings are commenced. You fear you have been very little company, and the Tai Tai murmurs something deprecatory about herself. You beg her to detain her steps and she implores you to 'walk slowly.' At each corner you all bow, hugging your fifth ribs with clasped hands in the orthodox fashion, and the progress to the outer gates is halting in the extreme.

"My next visit was of a very different character. We spent the afternoon with a respectable farmer's family. The farmer's wife welcomed us warmly and regaled us on tea and boiled eggs—a dish of twenty or thirey boiled eggs, to be eaten without bread or salt or any accessory whatever except the tea.

"The farmhouse was built of mud, with walls 2 feet thick, and the windows were almost non-existent. The place looked poverty stricken, but the farmer's wife spoke of recent prosperity. Crops had done well and she and her husband had been able to purchase that which they had been wanting for some years past.

"She took us to see the newly bought treasures. We peered in through the door and the good woman's face beamed with pride and pleasure. There they where straight in front of us made of polished wood, black as ebony, two magnificent—coffins."

If attacked with cholera or summer complaint of any kind send at once for a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and use it according to directions. It acts with wonderful rapidity in subduing that dreadful disease that weakens the strongest man and that destroys the young and delicate. Those who have used this cholera medicine say it acts promptly, and never fails to effect a thorough cure.

A FAIR QUESTION.

Willie—"Pa?"

Pa—"Yes."

Willie—"Teacher says that we're here to help others."

Pa—"Of course we are."

Willie—"Well, what are the others here for?"

HIS MISTAKE.

"I used to think I could hire all the brains I wanted for $25 a week," said Mr. Pushem. "Well, couldn't you?" "Yes. But it wasn't long before I had to call in a $100,000 lawyer to straighten out the kinks they put into my affairs."

CAN TAKE NO MORE.

"I thought your daughters were taking French?" says the friend.

"We thought they were, too," answers the father, "but it seems that the small quantity they absorb simply vaccinated them."

A well-known lawyer met an old-time friend named Fuller. After a hearty handclasp, Mr. Fuller remarked:—"You are looking exceeding well. Aren't you filling out a little?" "No, indeed," replied the other. "You probably think so because I'm looking Fuller in the face."

A SAFE INVESTMENT

BONDS

¶ A bond offers to the investor a safe, sane, and profitable investment.

¶ Safe because it is a first mortgage on the entire assets of the corporation issuing the bond.

¶ Sane because bonds are saleable at any time.

¶ Profitable because they pay a higher rate of interest than any other investment that offers equal security.

¶ We would like to send you our literature on bonds as investments, just send us your address, it will not cost you anything.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION LIMITED

BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING YONGE AND QUEEN STS. TORONTO

THE REAL TEST.

Mother—Have you been a good boy at school to-day, Clarence?

Son—Yes, mother; I didn't get caught once.

REST AND HEALTH TO MOTHER AKD CHILD.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over SIXTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. It is absolutely harmless. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Visitor—"Look here, if I decide to stay with you for a week or so, how much is it going to cost me?" Clerk (of the swell hotel)—"You can answer that best yourself. How much have you got?"

There are many imitations of Wilson's Fly Pads. Do not be deceived by unsatisfactory imitations. Get Wilson's.

"Goodness, John," said a woman to her husband, "your suit looks as if you had been sleeping in it." "Well," replied John, "why not? Isn't that the suit I wear to church?"

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

"The people I lived wid before, ma'am," said the new cook, "was very plain." "Well," asked her new employer, "are we not plain here?" "Yez are, ma'am, but in a different way. They wuz plain in ther way o' livin', not in their looks, ma'am."

Unless worms be expelled from the system, no child can be healthy. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is the best medicine extant to destroy worms.

"Me good fellow," said the English tourist, "kin you direct me to a place where one may get a good drink?" "Well," replied the thirsty native, "I kin direct yer better to a place where two kin git a good drink."

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

Mother—"Now, Charlie, you must be a very good boy. You have a nice new brother. Aren't you pleased?" Eight-Year-Old Charlie—"Oh, I don't know. It's always the way; just as I'm getting on in the world competition begins."

Soft corns are difficult to eradicate, but Holloway's Corn Cure will draw them out painlessly.

WRONG DEPARTMENT.

"I want a pair of shoes that will be plenty large enough," she said, as the clerk looked into her old one to find the number.

"In that case," he replied, "perhaps you had better step over into the men's department."

OFTEN.

"What becomes of the average man's money?"

"I guess it goes to the average woman."

TOOTHLESS SAWS.

Toothless saws have been in use cutting armor plate for a number of years. The theory of the action is abrasion by local fusion due to the very high speed of the disk, causing so many thousand inches of surface to impinge on the metal under-cut that the material acted upon is heated at the point of contact to a temperature approaching if not equal to the fusing point. It appears as if a very small portion of the metal being cut immediately in the neighborhood of the point of contact is first melted and at once rubbed off, thus exposing a fresh surface to the frictional action, and that this process goes on continuously while the disk is working. The temperature of the disk must necessarily be much lower than the work in contact with it owing to its large surface area, and when it is considered that all the frictional energy of the rotating disk is concentrated on an extremely small area of contact in the material subjected to its action the results obtained are not so surprising as appear at first sight.—Cassier's Magazine.

Relief for the Depressed.—Physical and mental depression usually have their origin in a disordered state of the stomach and liver, as when these organs are deranged in their action the whole system is affected. Try Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They revive the digestive processes, act beneficially on the nerves and restore the spirits as no other pills will. They are cheap, simple and sure, and the effects are lasting.

THE RETORT COURTEOUS.

"The trouble with you is that you keep constantly forgetting that you ever were a boy." It was his wife who said it, and he, of course, came right back with the witty reply:

"Well, you never forget that you were once a girl, although everybody else forgot it years and years ago."

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

A REAL PESSIMIST.

Mrs. Wiggs—Mrs. Harper is always complaining of what might have been.

Mrs. Diggs—Yes; she has wasted enough time crying over spilt milk to buy a couple of cows.

The Friend of All Sufferers.—Like to "the shadow of a rock in a weary land" is Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to all those who suffer pain. It holds out hope to everyone and realizes it by stilling suffering everywhere. It is a liniment that has the blessings of half a continent. It is on sale everywhere and can be found wherever enquired for.

ALMOST REPAIRED.

Customer—"And my watch—when will it be repaired?"

Country Jeweller—"You might have it now, sir, except for one little wheel. I can't seem to find where the miserable little thing belongs!"

It is a fact beyond dispute that one packet of Wilson's Fly Pads has killed a bushel of house flies. This is more than could possibly be caught on three hundred sheets of sticky paper. All Druggists, Grocers and General Stores sell Wilson's Fly Pads. Be sure you get the genuine Wilson's.

Barber (to bald customer)—"Try a bottle of this preparation, sir. Splendid stuff for baldness." Customer—"So it may be, but I've got all the baldness I want, thanks."

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

And some church members seem to think it is up to the minister to make good for the entire congregation.

When you have a pain think of Hamlins Wizard Oil. For headache, Toothache, Earache, Stomach ache, and many other painful ailments there is nothing better.

FRANCE ENCOURAGES THRIFT.

With a view to encouraging thrift, in France, M. Chaumet, under secretary of state to the post office, has issued a circular to the directors of departments, from which it appears that various municipalities intend to put a franc in the savings banks in the name of every child as soon as it is born. By way of assisting the communes in their laudable efforts to encourage the habit of saving among children the Post Office Savings Bank will accept the deposits made in the names of newly-born babies. There is a stipulation that the children cannot withdraw the deposits made by the parish until they have reached their majority, or get married.

Figures do not lie but estimates are often misleading.

NA-DRU-CO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

relieve and cure indigestion—acidity of the stomach—biliousness—flatulence—dyspepsia. They re-inforce the stomach by supplying the active principles needed for the digestion of all kinds of food. Try one after each meal.

50c. a box. If your druggist has not stocked them yet, send us 50c. and we will mail you a box. 33

National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, Montreal.

DEFINITION OF SLOW GAME.

Little Elmer — Papa, what is chess?

Professor Broadhead—Merely a scientific method of fooling away time.

Costiveness and its Cure.—When the excretory organs refuse to perform their functions properly the intestines become clogged. This is known as costiveness and if neglected gives rise to dangerous complications. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will effect a speedy cure. At the first intimation of this ailment the sufferer should procure a packet of the pills and put himself under a course of treatment. The good effects of the pills will be almost immediately evident.

DOUBTFUL COMPLIMENT.

Mr. Bored—I wish I had your voice.

Miss Bawler (delighted) — Why so?

Mr. Bored—Well, then I could stop it whenever I pleased.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,—I had a Bleeding Tumor on my face for a long time and tried a number of remedies without any good results. I was advised to try MINARD'S LINIMENT, and after using several bottles it made a complete cure, and it healed all up and disappeared altogether.

DAVID HENDERSON.

Belleisle Station, Kings Co., N. B., Sept. 17, 1904.

MODE GOOD.

Kate—"Maude is married and she doesn't know the first thing about housekeeping."

Alice—"Yes, she does; the first thing is to get a husband to keep house for."

There are many sticky devices on the market that kill some flies, but housekeepers who have tested them know that Wilson's Fly Pads kill many times more, and do not damage carpets and furniture like all sticky fly catchers.

THAT'S WHY.

Benedict—"Do you know, old man, I don't spend so much money now as I did before I was married?"

Bachelor—"How's that?"

Benedict—"Well, I don't have it to spend."

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

PIE.

Delicious Spice Pie.—The yolks of three eggs, one and one-half cups of sugar, one cup of good cream, two tablespoons of flour, two thirds of a cup of butter, one teaspoon of spice, cloves, cinnamon, and nutmeg. Mix flour and sugar together, then cream with butter; add yolks of eggs, beating thoroughly; next add cream and spices. Use the whites for the frosting on top.

Cream Pie.—Crust—Two tablespoons butter, one and one-half tablespoons sugar and the yolk of one egg; cream butter and sugar; beat the yolk well and add; then add a small cup of flour. This resembles a mass of crumbs. Press into a pie tin with the back of a spoon; bake until a light brown. Fill with the following cream: One pint of milk in the double boiler; mix well together three tablespoons of sugar and three tablespoons of flour; add to the boiling milk; cook until thick; then add the yolks of three eggs; cook for a while, then take from fire and add one tablespoon of vanilla. Cover with a meringue made of the well beaten whites of four eggs and a little sugar; cover the pie with this and brown nicely in oven. This is a delicious pie, and easily digested.

FALL SKIN SORES

When troubled with fall rashes, eczema, or any skin disease apply Zam-Buk!

Surprising how quickly it eases the smarting and stinging! Also cures cuts, burns, sores and piles. Zam-Buk is made from pure herbal essences. No animal fats—no mineral poisons. Finest healer! Druggists and Stores Everywhere.

Zam-Buk

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED.—A study of other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers Dept., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

APPRENTICES TO THE MOULDING or stove mounting trade wanted at once. Good chance for country boys who wish to improve their prospects. Write or call at once, Gurney Foundry Company, 500 West King Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply B. C. I. Co., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

DYEING! CLEANING!

For the very best, send your work to the "BRITISH AMERICAN DYEING CO."

Look for agent in your town, or send direct.

Montreal. Toronto. Ottawa. Quebec

When buying your Piano insist on having an "OTTO HIGEL" Piano Action

TWO ANGLERS.

A barefoot boy,
A white birch pole;
A can of worms,
A swimmin' hole.
A baited hook,
A tug and swish;
A steady haul,
A string of fish.

A white duck suit,
A canvas boat;
A costly rod,
A patent float,
A gaudy fly,
A cast and swish;
A pretty sight,
But nary fish!

Well, Well!

THIS is a HOME DYE that ANYONE can use

I dyed ALL these DIFFERENT KINDS of Goods with the SAME Dye. I used

DY-O-LA

ONE DYE FOR ALL KINDS OF GOODS

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 19, The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

Canada Business College

CHATHAM, ONT.

In a class by itself. Among America's Schools of Business Training.

414 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1908
385 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1909
475 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1910

We publish the lists annually.

We pay full fare up to $8.00, and bring long distance students for half fare.

Good board and room, $3.00 per week.

If you cannot come to Chatham, we can train you by mail.

Here are some students placed recently: Nate Wade, Cameron & Heap, Regina. E. Burk, Nicholson & Balu, Regina. H. Wood, Trust Co., Cheboygan, Mich.

Eight calls just received for Stenographers, Teachers, and Auditors, for openings worth from $600 to $1500, will give you some idea of the demands.

COLLEGE REOPENS FOR 38TH YEAR SEPTEMBER 5TH.

Catalogue 33 tells of work at Chatham. Catalogue 34 tells of work by mail (Either Free.)

D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont

Summer Clothing

The warm weather is with usagain are you prepared for it? We are. What you need is a summer suit to help you to keep cool. We have the goods to suit and we make them up to suit. Let us demonstrate these facts for you.

V. W. TAMAN

Merchant Tailor,

Exeter, Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	82	82
Barley	50	60
Buckwheat	48	50
Oats	38	38
Peas	70	75
Potatoes, per bag	1 00	1 00
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 45	1 45
Butter	16	19
Eggs	19	19
Live hogs, per cwt		7 25
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00

Poultry

We will pay till Sept. 6 th the following for live poultry

Old fowl 8c. per pound.
Old roasters 6c. per pound.
Spring chicken 1911 hatch 11c. per lb
Duckling 9c. per pound,
Duck 8c. per pound.
Turkey 12c. per. pound;
(Chicken to be 4 lb to the pair.)
(Duckling to be 7 lbs to the pair.)

The above prices for live weight. One cent a lb less for cash.

JONES & MAY

200 Fancy Vases and Jardinieres to select fromat—Stewart's.

Our wedding stationery is of the latest, types of the best, workmanship unsurpassed and prices right. Prospective brides should call at the Advocate and see for themselves.

98c. Buys a Lovely Lawn or Tailor-made waist at—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Heaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

$1.00 the yd. for the best 36 inch Black Messaline Dress Silk in Western Ontario—Stewart's.

GIRLS WANTED

Apply to D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

Stewart's 30c. Japan' Black and mixed Tea, beats 'em all.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

Did you say sugarP Get prices on Redpath's at—Stewart's.

GIRLS WANTED—Good Cook and a Kitchen girl—good wages. Apply to Queen's Hotel, London.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

NOTICE.—Kindly take notice that my Dental Office will be closed four to six weeks. The office, however, will be open from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. for the making of appointments for work, which will be given immediate attention on my return.

G. F. ROULSTON.

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on boys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

CISTERN AND WELL CLEANING. — Those having cisterns or wells that need cleaning will do well to have the work done at once. We do it to your satisfaction.—ALBERT GOWER, Exeter N.

FARM WANTED TO RENT—50 acre farm with the usual buildings. Any person having such will leave application at this office.

A man's education isn't complete until he takes a finishing course from his wife."

UNRULY HORSE.—A horse belonging to Mr. T. J. Keetle of town made things lively and exciting at the depot on Monday evening last. The train had pulled in from the south which frightened the horse and it made a dash for liberty. The infuriated beast mounted the platform and in the mix-up the rig was upset. Luckily, however, Mr. Keetle was able to hang on to the lines and thus prevented any further damage. The buggy was slightly broken.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Donald C. MacGregor is one of the greatest baritones heard here in a long time. Hear him sing at the Opera House at Exeter Fair night.

School re-opened Tuesday morning.

The evaporator is in operation this week.

Man wants a little here below every few minutes.

Waste makes haste—in the direction of the poorhouse.

Many a man has found matrimony a sort of lecture bureau.

As long as a man's credit is good he isn't supposed to be in debt at all.

The G.T.R. men are putting up their standpipe to receive the town water.

Don't find fault. You probably couldn't do half as well as the people you criticise.

There is a reason in everything except a woman, and she can do without it—just because.

Hon. Adam Beck bought through Mr. T. Cameron the Paul Doig farm on the first of Hay.

Wellington Hodgins of Lucan has been appointed license inspector for North Middlesex.

If a man's head is filled with wisdom he doesn't have to use his mouth as a safety valve.

Mr. H. F. Siser of the Molsons Bank has been transferred to Dashwood as acting accountant.

A loyal wife will do anything for her husband—except treat his stupidity as if it were her own.

Mr. J. G. Stanbury received word on Friday that he was awarded first prize for ten varieties of gladioli.

Married men should be thankful that they don't have to sew on the buttons before they hook up the dress.

The Connor Machine Co. has engaged Mr. F. Durdle of St. Thomas formerly of Exeter and they will move here.

Whenever the weather man does turn out an article guaranteed to suit some storm or other comes along and spoils it.

However questionable it may be about the world owing you a living, there can be no doubt that you owe yourselves one.

The fellow who doesn't collide with some one's opinion every little while is so busy dodging that he isn't of much force.

The meeting arranged for Sept. 5th at Seaforth, at which Sir James Whitney was to have spoken, has been postponed to the 13th.

Dr. A. and Mrs. McCallum, after a few days' visit with the latter's mother, Mrs. Morlock, and other friends here returned to their home in Crestline, Ohio, the latter part of last week.

The funniest of funny men, Will J. White, fairly convulsed the audience with his songs and sayings and triple encores were in order.—Barrie Examiner. —Hear him at Opera House Fair night.

Parkhill and Exeter played morning and afternoon ball games on Labor Day, the visitors winning in the morning by a wide margin and the afternoon game by a somewhat smaller score.

Mrs. Thos. Fraser, nee Miss Clara Sanders, and her sister, Miss Minnie Sanders, who has been visiting with her at North Battleford, Sask., arrived here Tuesday morning and will visit with relatives for a time.

Sugar has taken a raise of 70c. a hundred, wholesale, and this has brought a consequent raise in the retail figure. Sugar is retailing now at about $5.75 per cwt., whereas last month it could have been bought for $ 5.

Mr. I. Armstrong received word last week of the death of his brother Mr. James Armstrong, which took place in Crystall City, Man., on the 18 th of August, aged 74 years and 6 months. The funeral took place on the 20th to Crystal City cemetery.

Will J. White's efforts as a comic singer were crowned with marked success. He carried his audience into convulsions of laughter, so funny were his actions and sayings. He is a natural and refined comic.—Toronto "Once-a-Week." Opera House, Exeter, on Fair night. Popular prices.

A Morden, Man., newspaper states that Mr. John Ching, a former resident on Lake Road, in a good farming competition has secured first prize of $40 given by the Morden Agricultural Society, $100 offered by the Department of Agriculture, and a share of $250 offered by the C. N. Railway; which shows that Mr. Ching is one of the best farmers in the west.

Four rinks of Exeter bowlers, by kind invitation of the Clinton bowlers, took part in their local tournament Labor Day, one rink, consisting of Levitt, May Snell and Clarke, (skip) winning the consolation event, getting four handsome umbrellas as prizes. The boys are loud in their praise of the treatment they received at the hands of the Clinton bowlers.

The many friends of Rev. Mr. Hobbs regret very much the unfortunate fact that, owing to a sudden change from hot to cold weather during the last week of his stay in Muskoka, one side of his face became paralyzed. It will necessitate his being off duty for a time at least. A specialist states that the trouble is not serious and that he will shortly be well again. Mr. Alvin Millson, who was here in in July, will occupy the pulpit for a few Sundays during Mr. Hobbs illness.

PEACHES.—If you want peaches get them from Well. Johns, at his old stand They are first-class, and grown by Mr. Wm. Trott of Beamsville, formerly of Exeter.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Rowe desire to convey to the citizens of Exeter their sincere thanks for the many kindnesses shown them during the illness and subsequent death of their daughter; and also to the friends contributing the beautiful floral tributes.

Mrs. Marchand visited in London the latter part of the week.

Mr. J. C. Inwood of London spent the holiday here.

Miss Northcott, milliner, went to Hamilton Tuesday.

Miss Bean of New York spent Sunday with her aunt Mrs. David Mill.

Harold Snell and Wm. Clark of London were here for the holiday.

Miss Bessie Hartnoll of Toronto is visiting relatives and friends here.

Miss Victoria Miners left Thursday for Goderich where she will teach.

Mr. Page of the Molsons Bank spent the holiday at his home in Dutton.

Mrs. Gladman, who has been visiting her son here, returned to Peterboro last week.

Miss Francis Sutton of London visited over the holiday with her mother here.

Mr. George Coggins of Crosswell, Mich. visited his uncle Mr. Fred Luxton on Tuesday.

Mr. Geo. Baker of Windsor spent Saturday and Sunday visiting his parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Holman were here during the week, guests of Mr. James Handford.

Rev. and Mrs. Fear and son Thornton, are here visiting with Mrs. W. S. Howey.

Mrs. Floyd returned to Kalamazoo Tuesday, after attending the funeral of mother, here.

Mr. Harry Statham of Acton was here over the holiday visiting his brother W. J. Statham.

Mrs. Littlejohns of Chicago is visiting with friends in town, the guest of Mrs. P. Bawden.

Miss White who has been visiting Mrs. Fowell and Mrs. Taman returned to Woodstock Thursday.

Mr. Nelson Hill left Thursday on his return to Toronto, after three weeks visit at his home here.

Mrs. C. Gilbert, Mrs. I. Smith of Talbotville visited Mr. and Mrs. John Spackman over the holiday.

Rev. Richard and Mrs. Hobbs, and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Handford returned from Muskoka last week.

Mr. David Mack and family spent Sunday at Hensall, the guests of Mrs. Shirray, whose son Nichol and wife of Winnipeg are visiting her.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stewart, Dr. and Mrs. McGillicuddy, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Martin and Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Bawden motored to London Thursday and attended the first theatre performance of the season, "Madame Sherry"

Purchased BUS and DRAY Business

Having purchased the BUS and DRAY business of MR. WM. ARNOLD, I desire to announce to the Public of Exeter that I am prepared to give you the best of satisfaction in work connected with the business. For the present orders left by phone or otherwise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will receive prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Portland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Miss Mary Tom is holidaying in Toronto.

Mrs. J. A. Gregory went to London Friday.

Mr. J. A. Gregory is spending the week in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Carling were in Toronto this week.

Mrs. John Snell left Friday to visit relatives in Sarnia

Madeline Sheare has returned to her home in Brantford.

Mr. Chas. Birney is visiting with relatives in Windsor.

Miss Bessie Welsh of London is visiting at her home here.

Mrs. S. Hicks left Friday to visit with friends at Atwood.

Mrs. Brickwood and daughter have returned from Thedford.

Mr. Wm. Blatchford returned last week from a trip up the lakes.

Messrs. James Walters and Wesley Snell are in Toronto this week.

Misses Blair of Goderich visited Miss Bertha Cobbledick, Exeter North.

Mrs. Sheere and Mrs. Dow visited Mrs. Southcott in Guelph this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Lindenfield were in Zurich over Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. J. C. Inwood of London is visiting with Mrs. S. Sanders, Main-st.

Mrs. Gillis of London spent the holiday with her aunt, Mrs. Robinson.

Miss Tilly White returned on Friday from the millinery openings in Toronto.

Chester Coultis has returned from a visit with his brother, Leroy at Goderich.

Mrs. Thos. Snell and Mrs. McAvoy left Saturday to visit with friends at Wingham.

Mr. Case Howard of the Molsons Bank staff, Toronto, spent Sunday at his home here.

Cecil Rowe has gone west for a month or so, and Chester is spending the week at Toronto Fair.

Mr. Thos. White and wife left Friday to visit with friends and relatives at Lockport, N. Y.

Mrs. Sproat, after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, returned to the west Tuesday.

Mrs. Ed. Blesett left Friday evening on her return to Winnipeg, after a visit of some weeks with relatives here.

Miss Elsie McCallum returned to London Monday. She is now one of the regular staff of teachers in that city.

Victor Sweet of town and Loftus Hern of Usborne left Tuesday morning to take a course in the Chatham Business College.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hockey returned to Brantford after a visit here. Mrs. Sheare accompanied Mrs. Hockey Wednesday morning.

Those who attended the funeral of the late Lillie Rowe, were Mrs. Windsor and son Roy of Brown City, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoskins of Brantford S. W. Rowe of Wallaceburg, Mrs. Hallaway, grandmother, and Mrs. A. Hallaway, son and daughter of Clinton.

Special Value

$3.00 to $5.00

Fountain Pens

for $1.59 each.

While they last. These are warranted 14 karat gold. See south window. Come early and get first choice. They speak for themselves.

W. S. Cole, Phm. B.

The Rexall Store

Edison Phonographs, all prices.

Household Goods

Edison records, large Stock

We carry everything required by the housewife in great values at 5, 10, 15, 25c.

Kitchen utensils, Hardware, Glassware, Chinaware, Brushes and Combs, Novelties, Perfumes and Toilet preparations, Fruits and Confectionery.

A complete line at the Popular prices.

Come and inspect our stock.

Thursdays and Saturdays Special Bargain days.

Keep your eye on our windows.

POWELL'S BAZAAR

THE TORONTO NEWS

IS THE CHIEF

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER

OF ALL THE PROVINCES

A VOICE NOT AN ECHO

THE NEWS WILL BE SENT DAILY BY MAIL TO ANY ADDRESS IN CANADA FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A-HALF A YEAR

Here's Why WE Ask For Your

Jewelry Business

It's an oft-told-tale, but it should never grow uninteresting to the buyer who would be economical.

Our pricers are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter

Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers

And

Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a

For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON

The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

An Attractive Showing of

NEW FALL DRESS GOODS

Our stock of new fall material will meet your approval. A splendid assortment of colors and wears; in fact, we think we have everything that is practical desirable or necessary to help you choose your New Fall Dress or Suit. Here are a few—

TWEEDS

We are showing a very fine range Tweeds in 42in., 52in., and 56in. widths at 50c. to $1.00 per yard. Tweeds are very popular for this Fall.

PLAIN CLOTHS

Always good and very desirable for a Dress or Suit. All the good colors are shown in Satin cloths, Venetian, Broad Poplins, Prantalas at 50c. to $1. per yard.

SERGES

One of the very strong clothes for Fall. We are showing them in Blue, Black, Brown Gray and Cream. Very good to wear at 50c., 75c., and $1.00 per yd.

FANCY WAISTING

That are going to be very much in demand for this Fall Fancy Valleurs in different colors, Fancy Delaines, Checks and Silks in all the leading colors and patterns.

$1.00 THE BEST YARD WIDE SILK $1.00

We are offering the Best Yard Wide Paillette or Taffeta Silk on the market fully guaranteed for $1.00 per yard.

KIMONA CLOTHS

Now is the time to select your Kemona or Sacque length A lot of real choice patterns in the best of colors to choose from at 15c. to 25c. per yard.

BLACK UNDERSKIRTS

Just opened up a New lot of Ladies Black Underskirts They are sure to please you Plain or Fancy at $1. each up to Silk for $5. each.

Ladies New Winter Coats

Just arrived our first shipment of Ladies Winter Coats. Fancy Tweeds are amongst the strongest sellers of which weare showing a nice lot also the best things in Black and Blues. See the first showing.

JONES & MAY

Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

Local Items

DEATH OF ALEXANDER TAYLOR.—Another of the old and familiar characters of Exeter North has passed away, leaving a record of industry, honesty and good qualities. We refer to the death of Mr. Alexander Taylor, who died on Tuesday last. The deceased had been ailing since spring, but his condition remained about the same until about a month ago when he took a turn for the worse and gradually wasting succumbed. Cancer of the stomach was the cause of death. Mr Taylor was born in Maharah, County Derry, Ireland, October 25th, 1838. With his father and mother, two brothers and one sister, on the 17th day of May, 1855, he sailed from Belfast, and after a voyage lasting eight weeks and three days he landed in Quebec. From there he came to Hibbert Township, Perth County, where he settled on a farm which he and his brothers cleared. He lived in Hibbert for a number of years, afterward he moved with his family to Hay Township, living there a number of years, and about 25 years ago moved to Exeter, where he lived until his death. He was united in marriage on Oct. 15, 1862, to Charlott Bayes of Tuckersmith, and from the union were born 12 children—seven sons and five daughters, three of whom have died. Mr. Taylor joined the Presbyterian church about 22 years ago, of which he was still a member when he died. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, seven sons, Robert of Paw Paw, Mich., Samuel of Goblesville, Mich., Alexander D. of Saskatoon, Sask., John A., of Detroit, Arthur S. of Toronto, William S. of Vancouver, B. C., and Ira D. of Exeter; and two daughters, Mrs. William Reid of Exeter and Mrs. Wm. Blayney of Toronto also three brothers, James and John of Exeter and Robert of Stratford, besides many friends. His immediate family except William were at his bedside when he died. The remains will be interred in the Rogerville cemetery this Thursday afternoon.

APPARENTLY FOUL PLAY

Mitchell, Sept. 7.—Recently George Nixon of Hibbert Township, left Mitchell for Scotland with the intention of buying a number of horses to bring back with him, and on Monday a telegram was received by his brother, James Nixon, stating that his brother had been found dead with a bruise on his head, in shallow water, in Quebec.

When Mr. Nixon left Mitchell he had several hundred dollars in his pocket, besides drafts for the amount of $1200. When found his money was all gone except a few gold coins, which he had in a small purse in one of his pockets, and word was sent to friends here to forward $50 if they wanted the body sent home. The remains were brought here and interred on Thursday.

Liberal-Conservative Meetings

ZURICH—Saturday, Sept. 16; Speakers J. J. Merner, Candidate; Geo. Spotton, Mayor of Wingham, and others.
ELIMVILLE—Tuesday, Sept. 19; Speakers, J. J. Merner, Jos. Elliott of Goderich and others.

HORSE AND RIG STOLEN AT HENSALL.

On Saturday night last or early Sunday morning the horse, buggy and harness owned by Dr. Aitkenhead was stolen from the stable and up to the present no trace whatever of their whereabouts has yet been discovered. The doctor had used the horse and rig Saturday night and had unhitched the horse and put it in the stable for the night, but on entering the stable Sunday morning all were missing. The outfit was a valuable one and if not recovered will be quite a heavy loss to the doctor.

EXETER SCHOOL BOARD

Meeting of the Board held in the Town Hall, Monday, Sept. 11th, absent S. Martin and T. B. Caring. The following is the order of business duly submitted and approved:—Per chair, minutes of previous meeting. Reports of Committees. Repairs—Furnaces not inspected; dust bane received. Chair—Hallways thoroughly cleaned and walls kalsomined, wainscoting also painted and repairs required to plastering effected. Per Principal—H. S. attendance 88, organization fairly complete; work in all forms in shape, with properly arranged time tables for each pupils gripping the work well; Science supplies placed and course of study begun thus in advance of other years. Per F. W. Gladman and F. Wood—That the Principal's report be adopted. Per F. Wood and F. W. Gladman—That the engagement of Miss Campbell, at a salary of $800, to take the place of first assistant in the H. S. section, vide Miss Johnson resigned, be confirmed. Per F. Wood and F. W. Gladman—That the Janitor be authorized to secure a load of manure for the bulb beds. Per F. Wood and F. W. Gladman—That the organization of a Junior Class in Moderns be held over for discussion to the next regular meeting of the Board. Per F W. Gladman—That the cutting and storing of the wood be under the direction of the chair. Per F. W. Gladman and F. Wood—That the following payments be approved:—G. M. Hendry & Co., Science supplies, $74.03; T. Hawkins & Son, floor oil etc., $22.62; J. Grigg, Library, etc., $34.66; Garnet Heywood, kalsomining hall, $24.55. Adjournment per F. Wood

J. Grigg, Secretary.

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

Dress Goods At Cost Price

Now that August is half gone we are offering all our summer Dress Goods at cost price such as Mulls Foulards and Muslins, etc.

WHITE LAWN WAISTS

Regular	$2.00	for	$1.85
"	2.50	"	1.60
"	2.25	"	1.35
"	2.00	"	1.20
"	1.75	"	1.15
"	1.50	"	1.05
"	1.25	"	.89
"	1.00	"	.75

LADIES DUTCH COLLARS AND JABOTS

Regular	50c.	for	40c.
"	25c.	"	20c.
"	15c.	"	11c.

Also Wash Belts regular 25c. for 20c.

WHITE UNDERSKIRTS

Regular	$3.75	for	$2.75
"	2.50	"	1.75
"	2.25	"	1.60
"	2.00	"	1.30
"	1.25	"	.89
"	1.00	"	.70

All corset covers to be cleared out at cost.

Balbriggan underwear in Egyptian thread and porous knit regular 40c. a garment for 30c. a garment.

Gents pure silk half hose regular 50c. for 40c. also Lisle half hose regular 50c. for 40c. regular 25c. for 20c.

We have just received a few lines of Fall Goods in plaids and checks suitable for children's dresses for school at 12 and a half cent and 15c. a yard.

Special—We have just received several pieces of Flannelette 34 inches wide regular 12½c. weight, for 10c. This is a good time to buy your Flannelettes for fall before they are sold out.

Farmers—We now have the celebrated Beebe pants and smocks. These are made from the heaviest dennim and also made to fit.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

CONSERVATIVE MASS MEETING

A full house was in attendance at the Liberal-Conservative rally in the Opera House on Friday evening, when the questions of the day were discussed by the Liberal-Conservative candidate, Mr. J. J. Merner, H. Elliber, M. P. P., and George Spotton, Mayor of Wingham. The large audience gave an attentive hearing and heartily applauded the addresses.

Mr. George Holman, of Egmondville occupied the chair, opened the meeting and called upon the several speakers.

Mr. J. J Merner said he was pleased to see that the people were taking a lively interest in the election, and that they recognized that an important question was before them. Twenty-five years ago when times were hard and prices were low we probably all favored reciprocity, but times have changed and to-day he was sure the great mass of opinion was against the proposed deal. He could speak from experience regarding the horse trade with the West and was certain that the farmers of Ontario stood to lose a great deal on horses alone if the pact should come into force. After dealing with other points he closed by stating that he was endeavoring to redeem the riding and was making his candidature an honest and an honorable one so that whether elected or defeated he would feel that his campaign had been a credit to himself and to the people in general.

Mr. Elliber stated that he would leave the reciprocity question to Mr. Spotton and devote his time to the Farmers Bank and Mr. McLean's connection with it. Mr. McLean had said that he had little sympathy with the depositors and not much for the shareholders as they went into it knowing what they were doing, or should have known, and he had defended the government when he knew that the government had granted the bank a certificate, after they had been repeatedly warned not to do so. Mr. Elliber explained the matter in detail and convinced his audience that the Farmers' Bank was a fraud from start to finish and that the finance minister knew it, and the government should have refused to grant the certificate. But, no, the government granted it and McLean defended them by assisting to balk the investigation. To cap the climax the government gave back to the heads of the bank $245,000 of the $250,000 deposited with the government keeping only $5000 when they should have kept it all. And all this even after a second warning, this time from the president of the Bankers Association. And yet Mr. McLean stood for this,—to see his own constituents fleeced by a bunch of thieves—and then says he has little sympathy for the losers. Besides this and many other things he also stood for the paying of $790 for 79-100ths of an acre of sand land at Grand Bend. These things are surely sufficient proof that McLean was not a good representative of South Huron.

Mr. Spotton said that there was a great question before the people. There are two sides to it. Many Liberals of note are slipping away from their party on the question of Reciprocity. There are certain border localities that would probably benefit by the pact. He had thought favorably of it when first announced, but on looking into the matter he came to the conclusion that it was not along the line of the greatest good to the greatest number." Mr. Spotton then went on to criticize the deal in detail, and gave his premises and drew his conclusions in a masterly manner. He showed up the falsity of the "larger market" idea. 80 per cent. of our products are consumed in the home market, 16 per cent. in Britain, and only 4 per cent. in the United States, and this is what all the fuss is about. He pointed out to the farmers the risk they were running of losing their home market for that little 4 per cent. He went into the lumber, wheat and oats questions, showing that United States wants our raw products, and will not allow us to manufacture our products and send them across without a duty. The farmers need protection for their live stock as the favored nations otherwise will flood the country with mutton and beef, and as a result prices would decline here. If farming is such a successful business in the United States why are their farms being abandoned to the extent of 875,000 acres in Vermont alone, and why are Canadian farms worth more per acre than American, and why must they all admit that the Canadian farmer is making more per acre off his farm than the American farmer? He criticized the method of making the agreement without a tariff commission as United States and Germany had. United States has now over one million people seeking work. In Canada we have not enough men and everybody is busy, and then Uncle Sam asks us to share his prosperity. He ridiculed the statement that the producer will get more and the consumer pay less, and advised the ratepayers to vote to keep out the American trusts. Discussing the prosperity of the farmers he stated that in 10 years farm products had advanced 44.9 per cent. while what the farmer has to buy had advanced but 14 per cent. He finished with an excellent peroration on the benefits Canada derives from being a part of the British Empire, and yet "McLean asks, 'What has England done for Canada.'"

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

Canning Factory

Canning Factory will start packing corn Thursday, August 31st. Farmers will kindly bring sample cobs to the factiry where they will be instructed when to bring it in. Help wanted at the factory husking corn. Good wages paid.

Exeter Canning Co.

RECIPROCITY AND THE SALT INDUSTRY

Before the electors vote on September 21st it is much to be desired that they should consider the outcome of the Reciprocity Pact from a purely economic standpoint-apart entirely from political bias. It is a thousand pities that this most momentous question should be mixed up with party politics. Had a Referendum been taken without this election it would have been over whelmingly defeated. So absolutely completely would the majority Liberal and Conservative alike, have voted it down, that we would not have heard of Reciprocity in another generation.

However, to-day we have to deal with the fact that for good or evil Reciprocity is mixed up irretrievably with Party Politics. Party Politics surely will not make a man vote for what will be detrimental to the interests of the community wherein he resides.

As a salt manufacturer, knowing whereof I speak, let me tell the voters in this neighborhood the result of Reciprocity in the salt business.

1. It takes one ton of coal to produce two tons of salt.

2. Coal at the salt factories on the United States side of the river St. Clair costs $2.00 per ton.

3. Coal at Clinton or Goderich costs $3.10 per ton.

Therefore, making 30 tons a day in Clinton, 20 tons a day in Goderich 50 tons a day in all I am handicaped $27.50 per day on the item of coal alone.

I have been making salt here for 43 years past. A good many hundreds of thousands of dollars have I gathered in from the rest of Canada, and centred the expenditure right in the County of Huron. Farmers around have benefitted immensely. So long as they have wood or logs to sell, they found, and find to-day a ready cash market for all they have to offer. Labour has benefitted, and does benefit, store-keepers professional men benefit in turn from them. I am paying out this year in Clinton when running $700 a months in Goderich $400 a month. Say $15,000 a year. I will not insult the intelligence of the readers of this paper by any argument to show by deduction from the above, that Reciprocity will close my works. They will close as sure as Reciprocity is passed. And the Labouring Classes, the storekeepers everybody who to-day benefits by the Manufacture of salt here in Clinton and Goderich, will lose that benefit, be it little or much.

Why Mr. Fielding kept a duty of 45c. and 14c. on the two grades of Bituminous coal and put salt on the free list. Why Mr. Paterson kept a duty of 32½ per cent. on the biscuits he makes and sells to the farmer and put salt on the free list. Why they both put salt on the free list. for any reason under heaven, except through their own blundering, selfish, hypocritical ignorance, are questions that Messrs M. G. Cameron, M. Y. McLean and John Tolmie, and the Globe in particular, can only answer, with the attractive charm of their evasive ambiguity. They might at the same time say, why the Fielding and Paterson Bungle keeps iron, Steel Jute, cotton, and everything that a salt maker uses daily on the Dutiable and put salt on the free list.

The public generally is not prepared to hear either of these high authorities allude in the vaguest, remotest manner to the bare possibilities (that Mr. Fielding has very good and sufficient reasons to keep his constituents in tune by protecting the coal industry in Nova Scotia any more than they are prepared to hear that dear old Mr. Paterson, that much caricated celebrity at the head of the customs Department, benefitted his own pocket by keeping up a tax on biscuits. I venture to say that if Lloyd George dared to stand up in the House of Commons in Westminster and propose a duty on any article he manufactured, both sides would hoot him out of the House. He would never again show his face in the English Political World.

Were it not such a serious question, one might indulge in sarcastic invective, so flagrant and so unblushing is the ignorance displayed in this item of salt as affected by the Reciprocity pact. I visited the United States a short time since. I found one factory with an output of 35 barrels a day another alongside of it with a capacity of 3000 barrels a day. Bins full of Salt, and the proprietors not hesitating for a moment to announce in the most pleasant, frank, ingenuously honest manner their distinct determination "to exploit our markets as quick as ever reciprocity passes." "Exploit our markets" is a Yankee expression that in plain English means to capture them. That done, our factories closed, our men out of employment, the people of Huron County will have the pleasure of sending their dollars to a foreign country to pay for their salt, send their money out of the country to keep foreign factories running, foreign workmen employed, and foreign storekeepers will benefit. The Canadian workingman above all will have the heartfelt satisfaction in sending even his out of the country to help keep foreigners at work, while he possibly wants work.

I ask any sensible level headed liberal is it worth while voting for M. G. Cameron Because you like him. He's all right, but his party is rotten. McLean and Tolmie, decent enough men an men but their politics will ruin the salt industry.

Everybody is doing their level best to get industries developed locally. Here is an industry established. Why destroy it.

Think over this before you vote or even promise to vote.

Sept. 1st, 1911.

JOHN RANSFORD

25c. pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1

ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF SOUTH HURON.

Gentlemen,—Having been selected as the Standard Bearer of the Liberal-Conservative part of South Huron for the coming Dominion Elections, I call with confidence appeal to you for your strong support and hearty co-operation. This will be the most important election since Confederation, inasmuch as an issue is involved which will, if endorsed, make for the undoing of our beloved country, of which we are all so justly proud, destroying the structure being built on foundations laid by a long line of noble and patriotic statesmen. I appeal to the young men of South Huron to throw partyism for the time being to the wall, and stand solidly by their country, in this the hour of her need. The Trusts and Combines of the American Republic have fastened their Gold Lust Eyes on our great resources. President Taft sees and they all see that if this pact is put through the thin edge of the wedge finally destined to sever us from the Mother Land, destroy our Dignity and independence as a nation, is inserted. Therefore, fellow electors, let your patriotism rise equal to the occasion, and give me such a majority on the 21st of September as will show to the world that the Electors of South Huron, when they deem it necessary, can put Country before Party.

Your faithful servant,

J. J. MERNER.

BIRTHS

Speare.—In Cromarty, on Aug. 24, (to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Speare, a daughter.

McDonald.—In Usborne, Con. 2, on Sept. 9th, to Mr. and Mrs. Joshua McDonald, a son.

Beaver—At the Goshen Line, Stephen, on Sept. 2nd, to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beaver, a son.

Schatz—At the 14th con., Hay, Sept. 3, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schatz, a daughter.

MARRIAGES

Bacon—Kellett—At the Thames Road Manse on Sept. 12th, by Rev. Colin Fletcher, Mr. Arthur L. Bacon to Miss Clara M. Kellett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kellett.

Ready—Stephens—At Smith's Falls, on Sept. 2, Miss Frances Emma Stephens to Mr. C. Frank H. Ready, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ready, St. Marys.

DEATHS

Kelland.—In Victoriv Hospital, London, on Sept. 12th, Matthew Kelland, formerly of Exeter, aged 82 years.

Taylor—In Exeter North, Sept. 12, Alex. Taylor, aged 72 years, 10 months, 27 days.

Wein—In Crediton, Sept. 6, Louis Wein, aged 68 years, 3 months.

Andrew.—In Granton, on Sept. 6th, Sarah Spicer, widow of the late John Andrew, aged 67 years.

Reeder—In McGillivray, on Sept. 4th, Moses Reeder, aged 39 years, 5 months.

Stanbury.—In Bayfield, on Sept. 7th, Dr. Richard Stanbury, aged 77 yrs.

Swinbank—In Clinton, on Sept. 5th, Elizabeth Swinbank, aged 75 years and 6 months.

Foster.—In Clinton, on Sept. 1st, William Foster, aged 73 years and 12 days.

Whaley.—In St. Marys, on Sept. 5th, David Whaley, aged 83 years, 7 months, 26 days.

Irving.—In Clinton, on Sept. 3rd, John Irving, aged 88 years.

WANTED—CREAM

Farmers or dairymen who have no good local market should write to-day for quotation card from the

Sarnia Creamery Co.

We pay highest prices. We pay hard cash, and we remit after each shipment. You can deliver your cream to your nearest railway station. A trail shipment will convince you that there is good money in shipping cream to Sarnia, We furnish best bank references. Write for quotation card.

SARNIA CREAMERY CO.

Sarnia, Ont.

Dressmaker AT MOORESVILLE

I have made arrangements to have competent dressmaker connected with my store at Mooresville, and solicit the patronage of the ladies. We guarantee to give stisfaction.

50 per cent. off wall paper for the next two weeks.

W. R. Simpson

The Best Chance Ever Offered To Men

To put in a supply of clothing, Underwear, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Sox, Ties.

Everything a man wears.

At a price guaranteed to be below the Actual

Cost Price

Boys Clothing Sacrificed

This sale may be ended any day. And you will certainly regret it if you do not buy now.

Men's and Boys' Furnishings

Quitting Business

Cash Only

S. G. Bawden

The Clothier Exeter

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER II.—(Cont'd)

"Did your brother call there as usual on Monday afternoon?" said Brett.

"Yes; he came straight here from Albert Gate, and had tea with uncle and myself. He sat in the very chair and in the very position you now occupy. I can remember him saying: 'By Jove! the hen's egg'—that is what he used to call the big diamond—'is turning out in fine style.' He even discussed the possibility of bringing us to see the collection when it was finished and before it left this country."

"Did your brother say why the diamonds were brought to this country in the first instance?"

"Yes; the Sultan and his advisers seemed to think the work of cutting them could be performed more safely and expeditiously here than anywhere else. Even the Turk has a high regard for the manner in which law and order are maintained in Britain. Yet the sequel has shown that the diamonds and their guardians were perhaps in greater danger here than they would have been in Constantinople."

"Was that the only reason?" said Brett, who had apparently made up his mind with the reference to the pattern of the carpet and was now gazing into the bright fire which danced merrily in the grate, for the day though fine was chilly.

The girl wrinkled her brows in thought before she answered: "I think I do remember Jack saying that he believed there was some State business mixed up in the affair, but I am quite sure he did not know the exact facts himself."

"Can you recollect any of the special precautions taken to protect the gems? Your brother may have mentioned some details in conversation, you know."

"Oh, I think I know all about them. In the first instance, the house at Albert Gate had previously been tenanted by a rich banker, and it was well defended by all ordinary means against the attacks of ordinary burglars. But, in addition to this, before the diamonds left the safe at the Bank of England, the building was practically torn to pieces inside by workmen acting under the direction of the Commissioner of Police. It was absolutely impossible for any one to enter except through the front door, unless they flew out of the second story window. Servants and workmen, like everybody else, had to use this door alone, as the windows and doors in the basement had all been bricked up. Inside the entrance hall there were always twelve policemen, and an inspector in charge.

"Every one who left the house was searched by the inspector on duty, and Jack used to say that he was very glad he invariably insisted upon this examination, although the police were at first disinclined to meet his wishes in the matter, he being, so to speak, their direct superior for the time. Beneath the entrance-hall were rooms occupied by several Turkish and other servants. Mehemet Ali himself, in the presence of his secretaries, used to open the door leading to the suite of apartments in which the diamond cutters worked and two of the Turkish gentlemen would remain there all day until the men left in the evening. The Envoy and both secretaries used to meet Jack when he visited the place, and for the last three weeks he had nothing to do but see the diamonds, count them, drink an excellent cup of coffee, and smoke a wonderful cigarette, made of some special Turkish tobacco, cultivated and prepared only for the Imperial household."

"Ah!" sighed Brett, with a note of almost unconscious envy in his voice. He knew exactly what that coffee and those cigarettes would be like. "I beg your pardon," he went on, perceiving that Miss Talbot did not understand his exclamation. "Will you tell me as nearly as you can the occurrences of Monday evening?"

"They were simple enough," said the girl. "My brother dined at home. We had one or two guests, and were all in the drawing-room about 10.15, when a note came for him from Mehemet Ali, I know exactly what was in it. I looked over his shoulder whilst he read it. The words were: 'I wish to see you tonight on important business. Come, if possible, at once.' I have to tell you that it was in French, but this is an exact translation."

"Your brother was quite sure that it was from Mehemet Ali himself?" said Brett.

"Quite sure," was the reply. "He knew his handwriting well, having had several communications [illegible] him during the progress of [illegible]ness."

"Did your brother leave the house immediately?" asked Brett.

"That instant. He went downstairs, put on his overcoat and hat, and got into a cab with the messenger who brought the note."

"Do you know who this messenger was?"

"One of the policemen on duty in the house itself."

A slight pause ensued, and Brett was about to take his departure, having no further questions to ask at the moment, when some one was heard hastily ascending the stairs, talking to a companion as he advanced.

"This is my uncle," exclaimed Miss Talbot, rising to go to the door. Before she could reach it an elderly gentleman entered, bearing upon him all those distinguished tokens that stamp a man as a retired major general. He exclaimed impetuously—

"I have brought a gentleman from Scotland Yard, my dear." Then he caught sight of Brett. "Who is this?"

Edith was about to explain, when another man entered—a strongly-built, bullet-headed man, with keen eyes and firm mouth, and a curious suggestion in his appearance of having combined pugilism with process-serving as a professional means of existence. His face extended into a smile when his eyes fell upon the barrister.

"Ah, Mr. Brett," he cried. "Now we have something to do that is up to your mark. You are on the spot first, as usual, but this time I can honestly say that I am glad to see you."

Sir Hubert Fitzjames glanced in astonishment from his niece to the barrister. He could find nothing better to say than—

"This, my dear, is Mr. Winter, of Scotland Yard."

CHAPTER III.

Brett promptly cleared the situation by explaining to Sir Hubert, in a few words, the reason for his unexpected presence, and when the Major-General learnt the name of the distinguished personage who had sent Lord Fairholme to the barrister he expressed a ready acquiescence in the desire to utilize his services. Nor was the effect of such a notable introduction lost on Mr. Winter, whose earlier knowledge of the barrister's remarkable achievements in unravelling the tangle skein of criminal investigation was now supplemented by a certain amount of awe for a man who commanded the confidence of his Majesty's Government.

"Well," said Sir Hubert Fitzjames, with the brisk animation of one accustomed to utter commands that must be instantly obeyed, "we will now proceed to business."

For a moment no one spoke. The Scotland Yard detective evidently wished his distinguished colleague to take the lead. No sooner did Brett perceive this than he rose, bowed politely to Miss Talbot and her uncle, and said—

"The first thing to do is to trace the whereabouts of Mr. Talbot and this should be a comparatively easy task. The other features of this strange occurrence impress me as highly complex, but it is far too early a stage in the investigation to permit any definite opinion being expressed at this moment."

Every one seemed to be surprised by Brett's attitude.

"Where are you going to, sir?" asked Mr. Winter.

"That depends largely upon you," was the smiling reply. "If you come with me we will go direct to Albert Gate, but if you decide to prosecute further inquiries here, I will await your arrival at my flat."

"That is as much as saying that there are no facts worth inquiring into to be learnt here?"

"Exactly so. Miss Talbot has told me all that is material to our purpose. Her brother was unexpectedly sent for after dinner on Monday night, and left the house hurriedly, without affording any clue to his subsequent proceedings beyond that contained in a brief note sent to him by Mehemet Ali Pasha. Indeed, it was impossible for him to afford any explanation, as he himself was quite unprepared for the summons. Meanwhile, every moment lost in the endeavor to follow up his movements is precious time wasted."

The barrister's manner, no less than his words, impressed Mr. Winter so greatly that he too rose from the seat which he had occupied, with the intention of conducting a long and careful examination of each member of the household.

"Then I will come with you at once," he said.

"Oh," cried the Major-General, "I understood you to say as we came here that there were many questions which required immediate inquiry in this house, on the principle that the movements of the missing man should be minutely traced from the very commencement."

Mr. Winter looked somewhat confused, but Edith Talbot broke in—

"I think, uncle dear, it would be well to defer to Mr. Brett's judgment."

"Do you really believe," she said, turning to the barrister, "that you will soon be able to find my brother?"

"I am quite sure of it," he replied, and the conviction in his tone astonished the professional detective, whilst it carried a message of hope to the others. Even Sir Hubert, for some reason which he could not explain, suddenly experienced a strong sense of confidence in this reserved, distinguished-looking man. He stepped forward eagerly and held out his hand, saying—

"Then we will not detain you, Mr. Brett. Act as you think fit in all things, but do let us have all possible information at the earliest moment."

Brett and Mr. Winter quitted the house; they hailed a hansom and drove rapidly towards Albert Gate.

"Do you know," said the man from Scotland Yard, breaking in on his companion's reverie, "whenever I happen to meet you, Mr. Brett, in the course of an inquiry, I always start by being very angry with you."

"Why?" There was an amused twinkle in Brett's eyes, which might have warned the other of a possible pitfall.

"Because you treat me as if I were a precocious youth. You listen to my theories with a sort of pitying indulgence, yet I have the reputation of being one of the best men in Scotland Yard, or I should not have been put on this job. And I am older than you, too."

"I may surely pity you," said Brett, "even if I don't indulge you too much."

"There you go again," snapped the detective. "Now, what is there silly about my theory of the crime, I should like to know?"

"You shall know, and before you are much older. Bear with me for a little while, I beg you. You may be right, and I may be quite wrong, but I think there is much beneath the surface in the investigations we are now pursuing. My advice to you is to drop all preconceived theories, to note every circumstance, however remote it may appear in its bearing upon events, and in any case not to act precipitately. Whatever you do don't arrest anybody."

"But," said the other, somewhat mollified by Brett's earnestness, "half a dozen people may be arrested at any moment."

"Pray tell me how?"

"Descriptions of the stolen diamonds and of the suspected persons are in every police office in Great Britain and in most Continental centres by this time. Passengers by all steamers are most carefully scrutinized. Every pawnbroker and diamond merchant in the country is on the lookout, and, generally speaking, it will be odd if somebody does not drop into the net before many hours have passed."

"It will, indeed," murmured Brett; "and no doubt the somebody in question will experience a certain amount of inconvenience before he proves to you that he had nothing whatever to do with the matter. Now, don't answer me, Winter, but ponder seriously over this question: Do you really think that the intelligence which planned and successfully carried through an operation of such magnitude will be trapped by plain clothes constables watching the gangways of steamships, or by any pawnbroker who has ever lent half the value of a pledge?"

Almost impatiently the barrister waived the subject out of the hansom, and the detective had sense enough to leave him alone during the few remaining minutes before the vehicle pulled up near the Albert Gate mansion.

(To be continued.)

SCOTCH LOGIC.

Donald (who is seeing his more prosperous cousin off by the train—Ye micht like tae leave me a bob or two tae drink ye a safe journey, Wullie.

Wullie (feigning regret)—Man, I canna. A' my snare shullin's I gie tae my auld mither."

Donald—That's strange. Because yer mither told me ye never gie her onything.

Wullie—Weel, if I dinna gie my auld mither onything, what sort o' chance dae ye think you've got?

Perhaps there is nothing grander in this world than a newly-promoted foreman, and Richard, whose appointment was but one day old, fully appreciated his position. A lady happening to visit the works approached him. "And who might be in charge of this department?" she asked. "I am, mum," said Richard, proudly. "Really!" she said in surprise, which Richard took as homage to his position. "Yes," he said, puffing out his chest, "and I'll prove it. Kelly," addressing one of the workers, "you're sacked."

LETTERS OF A SON IN THE MAKING TO HIS DAD.

—By REX McEVOY

[Mr. McEvoy will write for this paper a series of letters from the west. They will appear from time to time under the above heading, and will give a picture of the great Canadian west from the standpoint of a young Ontario man going out there to make his way. These letters should be full of interest for every Ontario father.]

Calgary, Aug. 27th, 1911

My Dear Dad:—

Since I wrote you from Winnipeg I have left the prairies behind me. To-day, about forty-five miles before reaching Calgary, I had my first sight of the Rocky Mountains. They lay low along the Western horizon, like clouds. The only way you could tell they were not clouds was because they did not change their shape. On the prairies I saw Indians, looking very civilized with their Bain waggons, cowboys, and mounted policemen, but I must tell everything in its turn. Before I go any further, I want to ask you to be sure to send me the newspaper from home. I feel just like Bill Dodson, whom I met in Winnipeg. He was telling me that whenever he got a paper from home, it was just like meeting an old friend, because it told him all about the folks he knew. His father gave him a subscription for a year as a Christmas present, and he said he couldn't have had anything that would have pleased him more. If I decide to stay out here, and anybody at home should want to give me something for Christmas, they might think about this. Don't wait till Christmas to send me the paper, though, please.

Say, Dad, if you saw the threshing machines that were round the railroad sidings at Winnipeg waiting to be shipped to the prairies you wouldn't wonder that people in the west boom their country. These machines, loaded on flat cars, or standing like batteries of guns waiting to be shipped, reminded me of the South African war pictures of shipping guns and ammunition to the front. There is just as much hustle here. At the station, all along the line, are more machines waiting to be unloaded, and empty box cars are being collected on the sidings to move the crop out. Everybody says that it is to be a bumper crop this year, and bigger than ever before. What you can see from the train certainly looks good. They have got cutting well under way now.

It's funny the way the towns out west advertise. You frequently come to towns where sign boards have been erected at the stations telling of the advantages the towns have to offer settlers. Back at Port Arthur they had an attractive little one-story brick building, what is called a kiosk, which is a bureau of information. At Fort William there was a big sign: "Fort William the Pulse of the Dominion: the bulk of East and West traffic passes through this town." There is another big sign there, but there is so much crowded on it, and the print was so small that I could not read it from the train. Indian Head is another place that advertises in this way. On one side of the track is the sign: "Indian Head, Saskatchewan's Beauty Spot. Good land $20 to $50 per acre." Across the track on the other side is a sign which reads. "Dominion Government forest nursery, 480 acres, one mile from town: Distributed annually, 3,000,000 trees free to settlers. Visitors can inspect at any time." You would think that if those towns wanted to advertise they would do it in Ontario papers. Of course, thousands of people read the signs by the railroad track, but by the time they see them they have tickets to their destination and are not likely to stop off.

Out from Winnipeg the country is as flat as a table, and the horizon is as straight as the edge of a ruler. It surprised me to find out that between Winnipeg and Portage La Prairie, which is fifty-six miles west, there is a rise of 100 feet. Portage has a population of 7,000, and is quite a town, and one of Manitoba's principal grain markets. There are elevators there, of course, and from there west for a long way there are elevators at all the stations. There will be two or three elevators at each station, belonging to different companies. To a new-comer from Ontario these elevators, so many of them, are strange, and they are all the more noticeable because the country is so flat and there are no big trees. The elevators can be seen for miles.

At Brandon I laid eyes on the first Northwest Mounted policeman I ever saw. They wear red coats, just like those of the dragoons we saw in Toronto, and cow-boy hats. It is said that the red coats were made part of the uniform of the police by Sir John Macdonald because the Indians among whom the police had their most difficult work always looked on the soldiers of the Queen as their friends. A red-coat would be trusted where anyone else would meet only distrust and suspicion. The most prominent building, from the Brandon station, is a seed warehouse, and this is another indication of the character of the West. And the fact that they go in for agriculture wholesale is shown by the advertisements to be seen offering "plowing engines" for sale. The plowing is done by engines on the big farms. Out on the prairies I saw great big galvanized iron tanks, which I thought must be for holding gasoline for running the plowing engines, but a man on the train said that these were portable granaries into which the grain is put as it is threshed, until it can be taken in to the elevators.

My, the prairies are lonely. You can look from the train window and get a wide sweep for miles and miles, and perhaps there will only be one house in the whole landscape. And there are no fences to show that anybody has made their home there. The rail fences, such as we have about the old place, you never see out here: wood is too scarce. Why, the only place about which there was a fence in some of the towns was the lumber-yard, and this was sure to be protected with a high fence. Wood is so valuable that they say people lock their kindling in safes before going to bed.

By-bye for the present.

Your loving son,

JIM.

A New Head In 30 Minutes

Exchange that aching, throbbing, suffering, muddled head for a clear, cool, comfortable one by taking a

NA-DRU-CO Headache Wafer

25c. a box at your druggists' or by mail from National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal. 28

THE TREASURY.

Mark 12: 41-44.

The Building was admired by all
Who in their father's footsteps trod:
It was the house they loved to call
The Temple of the Living God.

But on that day they little knew
That He who owned the house was there:
Of Him they did not seek a view:
To Him they breathed no word of prayer.

Against the treasury sat He
Who is of heaven and earth the King:
His all-discerning eye could see
All those who came their gifts to bring.

And He whose hand the veil uplifts
That He may hidden things unfold
Perceived amongst their varied gifts
The worthless dross and purest gold.

While some brought gifts with boastful air,
As if they gloried in their rights,
A widow, with a silent prayer,
Brought all she had—two single mites.

Then to His own said Christ the Lord,
"Their gifts which seem so great are small;
They gave what they could well afford;
But this poor widow gave her all."

Beside the treasury to-day
There sits the Lord of earth and heaven;
To those who do His word obey
The riches of His grace is given.

He honors those who for His sake
Unto each urgent call attend:
He knows the sacrifice those make
Who seek His kingdom to extend.

May love enrich the gifts we give
And cleanse our gold from sordid dross:
The life of service may we live
And always glory in the cross.

T. WATSON.

Iona Station, Ont., 1911.

WHEN BRITANNIA RULED.

An Episode on Board a Steamer Bound for South Africa.

A fancy-dress ball in celebration of "crossing the line," given on board a steamer bound for South Africa, is described by Lady Elizabeth Butler in her book, "From Sketch-Book and Diary." On this occasion the passengers of the second-class cabin were invited to join those of the first on the gaily decorated promenade-deck. Before quoting directly from her diary the account of the "catastrophe," the author inserts some words of explanation.

Here I must interpolate the statement of certain facts which will enable you more fully to sympathize with me in the catastrophe that closes this mid-ocean episode.

You must know that white servants were impossible to find at the Cape, and one must bring all one's staff out with one, "for better, for worse," it may be for three, four, five years. If any turn out badly, it is true you may send them home, but—who is to replace them?

I could not persuade my cook at Dover Castle to undertake this expatriation, her courage failing her at the last moment, and I had to find an untried substitue. She was a Dane with the blood of generations of bellicose vikings coursing through her veins, and from afar I had watched her daily on the other deck with apprehensions.

"The ball is over and I feel decidedly limp. I thought I was going to have a pleasant evening. I was sitting with Lady——and all the others who were not masquerading, enjoying the sight of the figures in all kinds of extempore costumes appearing on the deck from below and mustering prior to setting to, the band playing a spirited waltz, when there slowly emerged from the saloon stairway, as if rising from the waves she rules—Britannia!

"First a high brass helmet with scarlet crest, then a trident held in the other, and the folds of the union jack draping her commanding form. She stepped on deck.

" 'I say, said a voice, 'this is the success of the evening. Who it it?'

" 'Who is it?' you heard on every side

" 'Who is it?' asked Lady——, turning to me.

" 'My cook,' I faintly answered.

"The last speaker knew her South Africa, and all the possibilities of the future might have spoken in my face, to judge by the choking laughter that caused her precipitate withdrawal. Each time she ventured back within sight of my smileless face, the fit seized her again.

"Later on I saw Britannia dancing in a small set of Lancers, hand in hand with the Marchioness. Shall I ever get her harnessed now?

"I went back to hang over the bulwarks and lose myself among the stars."

FOUND RIGHT PATH.

After a False Start.

"In 1890 I began to drink coffee. "At that time I was healthy and enjoyed life. At first I noticed no bad effects from the indulgence, but in course of time found that various troubles were coming upon me.

"Palpitation of the heart took unto itself sick and nervous headaches, kidney troubles followed and eventually my stomach became so deranged that even a light meal caused me serious distress.

"Our physician's prescriptions failed to help me and then I dosed myself with patent medicines till I was thoroughly disgusted and hopeless.

"Finally I began to suspect that coffee was the cause of my troubles. I experimented by leaving it off, except for one small cup at breakfast. This helped some, but did not altogether relieve my distress. It satisfied me, however, that I was on the right track.

"So I gave up coffee altogether and began to use Postum. In ten days I found myself greatly improved, my nerves steady, my head clear, my kidneys working better and better, my heart's action rapidly improving, my appetite improved and the ability to eat a hearty meal without subsequent suffering restored to me. And this condition remains.

"Leaving off coffee and using Postum did this, with no help from drugs as I abandoned the use of medicines when I began to use the food drink." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

THE PRESERVING TEST

FOR NEARLY 60 YEARS

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR

has stood the searching test of preserving time. This is only possible because of its consistent high quality.

FROM YOUR GROCER.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal

Established in 1854 by John Redpath.

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

FROZEN SWEETS.

Ice Cream Hints—Now that freezers are to be had at a price so reasonable that every one can afford to have one, no family should be without one, as the height of dessert excellence is reached in many frozen sweets impossible to procure in any but the largest city confectioneries. In fact, in most communities and in the rural districts it is even impossible to get a simple ice, the only thing available being ice cream, in perhaps vanilla and chocolate flavors. With a freezer at home a variety of creams, as well as ices, frappes, etc., is possible, and one has the satisfaction of feeling that the best and cleanest materials go into them, and they have a delicious "homey" flavor impossible to procure in creams or ices procured at the stores. Listed below are a number of tested recipes, and also hints as to the cream used in ice creams, and method of making the cream. If you want the rich, full bodied delicacy known as Philadelphia ice cream, scald half the cream used. This portion of the cream will increase slightly in quantity when freezing, while the raw cream will almost double its bulk. Ice cream made from scalded cream is too rich for most tastes and unnecessarily costly, while, on the other hand, ice cream made from all raw cream is neither so smooth nor so rich as when half scalded cream is used. For freezing ice cream the ice should be smaller than walnuts and mixed with rock salt, two portions ice to one of salt. After cream is frozen it can be kept hard by covering with larger pieces of ice over top of can, using half as much salt as when freezing cream. Be sure to keep waste hole in tub open during this time. Too large ice or too little salt while freezing means extra labor and buttery, greasy cream, and too much salt makes coarse, watery cream. Water ice or frozen fruit will not freeze so readily as ice cream, therefore use larger proportion of ice and finer ice. Fresh fruits for flavoring should be mashed or cut fine a few hours before using and mixed with sufficient sugar to sweeten and draw out the flavor. All fruit flavors should be added to cream when partially frozen, to avoid any chance of curdling.

Sultana Roll.—This is one of the daintiest of all frozen desserts. A round mold is lined with pistachio ice cream, the center filled with whipped cream, slightly colored pink, and mixed with sultanas.

Pistachio Cream.—Blanch, chop fine and pound to a paste four ounces of pistachio nuts. Add while pounding, drop or two at a time, a teaspoon of bitter almond extract. Scald a pint of cream, add seven ounces of sugar; when sugar is dissolved take from fire, and when cream is cold add gradually pistachio paste. Add another pint of cream, and when mixture is icy cold freeze. Pack your round molds in a tub with ice and salt. Whip a pint of cream to stiff froth, mix with it two tablespoons sugar (powdered) and half a cup of sultanas that have been soaked over night in sherry (they must be drained dry), or add half a cup chopped Maraschino cherries. Line the molds with pistachio ice cream, making wall and bottom at least one inch in thickness; fill center with whipped cream, put on a layer of pistachio ice cream over the top and put on lid. Dip strips of muslin in melted parafin and wrap joints of mold. This will prevent salt water from entering molds if they should be defective. Cover all over with salt and ice and let stand two hours. When ready to serve plunge cans instantly in hot water, turn out pudding and serve. Claret sauce—Boil a cup of sugar with half cup of water five minutes, take from fire, add juice of lemon, cup of claret, and stand on ice until perfectly cold. In serving the pudding cut it in slices one inch thick, dish and pour sauce over.

TASTY DISHES.

Meat Patties.—Take a pound or so of fresh round steak, cut off the fat and run through meat chopper. Separate into small patties and in the centre of each place a pinch of salt and small pinch of pepper. (If fond of onions, a small shred of onion, also). Fold the meat over so that seasoning is in center. Dip each patty into beaten egg, which also has been seasoned, then into cracker crumbs, and fry in hot fat until nice and brown on both sides. Garnish with parsley.

Deviled Peppers.—Six green peppers, three-quarters of a pound of beef, and one-quarter of a pound of pork ground together, two onions chopped, two soda crackers rolled fine, two cans of tomatoes. Cut off tops of peppers, remove seeds and pulp, and wash well. Mix thoroughly the meat, onions, cracker meat, salt, and pepper. Fill the peppers with the mixture, putting a teaspoonful of butter on top. Set on the tops and tie in place with white string. Put tomatoes on fire, adding one can of water and when boiling point is reached drop in the stuffed peppers. Boil one hour, or until peppers are soft. To serve cut peppers in halves, lengthwise. Lay two halves on lettuce leaf. Pour remaining tomato sauce, thickened stiff, on each half, about the size of a silver dollar. Sprinkle lightly with red pepper. Garnish each half with a stuffed olive in center.

DESSERT.

Fruit Dessert.—A most pleasing and economical dessert can be made from one box of strawberries, one pineapple, and pint of peaches. Slice pineapple fine or grate it, slice strawberries lengthwise, peaches, use either fresh or canned. This dessert can be placed on ice to chill as early as you like. Sweeten the fruits after they are all placed together, to taste. You can use any of these fruits canned with the fresh fruit, or use all three canned. If all canned fruits are used cook the strawberries down thick, and pour off some of the juices of the peaches and pineapple. When you are putting up these fruits place some in pints, to have ready for this dessert. If tart taste is desired use a few cherries, but don't spoil this dessert.

Almond Ice Cream.—Blanch, chop and brown in oven four dozen sweet almonds. Make a custard of one quart of milk, two yolks of eggs, and one-half pound sugar, and when cold add one quart whipped cream and the four dozen browned almonds and freeze. It may be molded or served in sugar baskets. It is well to set freezing machine two or three hours before time to start freezing, as it freezes much quicker and saves lots of labor.

Devil's Food.—Yolk of one egg, half cup milk, half cup grated chocolate. Boil until thick. Add tablespoon butter, one cup sugar, half cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla, one small teaspoon soda, sifted with one and a half cups flour. Make icing with white of egg, stiffly beaten, to which is slowly added syrup of one cup sugar and one-quarter cup water, boiled until it threads. Beat until thick and creamy.

Doughnuts.—One-half cup sugar, one-half cup mashed potatoes (hot), one tablespoon shortening, two eggs, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda, flour to make a stiff dough, spices and one teaspoon vanilla.

TOMATOES.

Sweet Pickles.—Fifteen pounds of sliced green tomatoes; let stand over night with a little salt sprinkled over; drain; five pounds of sugar; one quart of best cider vinegar, one ounce of whole cloves, two ounces of stick cinnamon; boil fifteen or twenty minutes; skim out tomatoes and boil the syrup until thicker, if preferred, but it is not necessary.

Tomato Relish.—One peck ripe tomatoes chopped fine (drain over night), six medium sized onions, chopped fine, two cups chopped celery, three tiny red peppers or one-fourth teaspoon cayenne pepper, two pounds brown sugar, three pints vinegar, two ounces white mustard seed, one ounce sago cinnamon, three cupfuls salt. Bottle cold without cooking.

Tomato Soup.—Two quarts stewed tomatoes, two small onions chopped fine, four bay leaves, one teaspoon salt; season highly with pepper, cook thirty minutes, and strain; add one quart can bouillon, one tablespoon butter; thicken with one large spoon of flour mixed in water.

Sealed Tomtatoes.—Select firm, not overripe, tomatoes; pack closely as possible in a jar, leaving three inches of space at top of jar. Over tomatoes pour boiling lard; when cold spread layer of salt over lardf to keep out insects and keep in a cool, dry place.

JELLIES.

Prune Jelly.—Remove stones from twenty boiled prunes. Replace the prunes in the water in which they were boiled, add gelatin, according to directions on package, and a crystal of citric acid one-fourth inch in diameter. Boil till gelatin and acid are dissolved. Stand in a cold place and in a few hours the jelly will harden. It is nice served with sweetened cream.

Crabapple Jelly.—Wash the apples and cut them into pieces. Barely cover them with water and cook slowly until tender, then strain through a cheesecloth bag. Boil the juice twenty minutes. Measure the juice and add an equal amount of sugar and boil five minutes longer. Turn into sterilized glasses.

LITTLE HELPS.

To Peel Eggplant.—Cut the egg plant in slices about an eighth of an inch thick. Then take a grapefruit knife and run it around the edge of each slice. This will remove the peeling all in one piece. Besides saving time and avoiding waste by thick peeling your pieces of egg plant are a better shape.

The addition of a generous pinch of sugar to all boiling vegetables except potatoes gives a flavor which once tried will be repeated.

With plain apple pie serve crushed maple sugar.

Serve a dish of tart strawberry jelly with macaroni.

With sliced tomatoes, parsley may be used and a French dressing spread over both.

Pour a little maple syrup over plain vanilla ice cream.

Boil tiny new potatoes with green peas and serve with cream gravy.

There is nothing better for a cold than castor oil, and a very simple way to give it to children is to make a pan of molasses candy and add plenty of castor oil to it just before removing from the fire. The taste of oil in it cannot be detected.

THE WORLD'S WATERFALLS

THEIR RELATION TO INDUSTRY AND CONSERVATION.

Victoria Falls in Africa—Power of the Iguassu River in South America.

The waterfalls of the earth have become the subject of a conflict which is yearly increasing in violence. The lovers of nature wish to preserve the waterfalls in their original condition as far as possible for all time, while the engineers and industrial promoters seek to exploit them as sources of cheap power for electro-technical purposes. The accomplishment of this object on a large scale necessarily involves the total destruction or serious injury to the waterfalls, regarded as picturesque additions to the landscapes.

It is only within recent years that waterfalls have been considered from the commercial point of view, but since it has been recognized that the energy of flowing water in very many cases furnishes a cheap and almost inexhaustible substitute for coal, which is yearly becoming more costly and more largely consumed, the great waterfalls, which as impediments to internal navigation have hitherto been worse than worthless from the viewpoint of social economy, have suddenly become objects of very great value.

The falling water drives the turbines of electrical power stations, producing electric light and power, which in many cases are transmitted over hundreds and even thousands of miles. The war over the waterfalls which is now being waged by the friends of nature and the promoters of industry is likely soon to increase greatly in bitterness, for many have already been destroyed or have at least suffered aesthetic injury from the establishment of power stations.

CELEBRATED FALLS,

The famous falls of the Rhine at Schaffhausen are at present the subject of heated controversy. Several power stations already stand on their banks and sap their life blood. The Swiss Government, however, takes care to preserve a sufficiently large volume of water to maintain the character of the falls as a notable spectacle and an attraction for tourists, writes Dr. Richard Herring in Ueber Land und Meer. A still more bitter strife has been engendered in America by the question of the preservation or destruction of the Falls of Niagara. These famous falls have already narrowly escaped entire absorption in the pipes of power stations, and very energetic action on the part of lawmakers both in the United States and Canada has been required to keep intact from industrial invasion and preserve in its original beauty at least a remnant of this great wonder of the world.

There is a popular but erroneous impression that the Falls of Niagara are the greatest in the world, and even those more enlightened persons who know that the Victoria Falls of the Zambesi River in Africa are twice as broad and more than twice as high as those of Niagara almost invariably assign to Niagara the second rank among the great waterfalls of the earth. Even this is an error, for South America possesses a waterfall which both in width and in height and is actually the second largest waterfall in the world.

EXCEEDS NIAGARA

This little known waterfall is that of the Iguassu River, tributary of the Parana, and like Niagara, it is situated at the boundary of two States, each of which owns half of it. The total water power of the Iguassu Fall, which is 213 feet high and nearly two miles wide, is estimated as about 14,000,000 horsepower. This is approximately equal to the aggregate water power of all Scandinavia, which is rich in waterfalls, or about ten times the total water power of Germany. The temptation to exploit this great, inexhaustible, never freezing stream as a source of power for industrial purposes may be easily imagined.

At present such exploitation is quite impossible, as the Iguassu Fall is too far from the beaten tracks of commerce to make it profitable to establish any electrical power station, but it will probably not be long before these falls will be threatened with the fate of Niagara. This undesirable possibility has been foreseen by the interested States, Brazil and Argentina, which have already begun negotiations designed to protect the falls.

The largest of the earth's waterfalls, the Victoria Falls of the Zambesi River in Rhodesia, which are 386 feet high and more than a mile wide and which were discovered by Livingstone in 1855, have also become the subject of a compromise between the conflicting demands of the lovers of nature and the promoters of industry. The water power of these falls is estimated to be fully two and one-half times that of the Iguassu and five times that of Niagara. By way of comparison it should be noted that the aggregate water power of the whole of Europe cannot greatly exceed 35,000,000 horse-power.

35,000,000 HORSE-POWTR,

It is certainly possible to derive a few million horse-power from this great fall without appreciably detracting from its majestic beauty. The demands which are made at present are still more modest. The Victoria Falls Power Company ask for only 150,000 horse-power, less than one two-hundredth part of the whole, and the plans for the future development of the station involve no danger of the annihilation of the falls. The British Government and the colonists know very well that the Victoria Falls, which since 1905 have been easily reached by the Cape to Cairo Railway, which crosses the Zambesi immediately in front of the principal fall, will certainly bring as much money into the country by attracting tourists as by producing electrical power.

There is no other waterfall in the world which is at all comparable in greatness with the Zambesi, Iguassu or the Niagara. Asia, notwithstanding its colossal mountain ranges, is comparatively poor in large waterfalls, which are found most abundantly in Africa and North America. The largest African streams especially are interrupted by many falls of considerable height. The Congo has several high falls which, owing to the great volume of the river, about sixteen times that of the Nile, may be counted among the most important sources of water power on earth.

THE STANLEY FALLS,

in the middle reach of the river, consist of seven successive falls, of a total height of 164 feet and a width of nearly 4,000 feet, and offer an exceedingly rich source of power which probably will soon be exploited. Still more important is the total water power which the Congo develops in the non-navigable section extending from its mouth to Stanley Pool. Here the river, confined in a channel only a few hundred yards wide, and with a depth of water of nearly 300 feet, flows with a velocity of 48 feet a second, so that at every point of the stream 25,000 to 30,000 cubic meters, or about a million cubic feet of water, are hurled along with irresistible force, while thirty-two rapids and water falls lower the level of the stream by 820 feet in a stretch of 170 miles.

The lower Nile in Egypt possesses a series of rapids, the celebrated cataracts of the Nile, but no waterfall in the strict sense of the word. True waterfalls occur on the upper Nile, the most beautiful of them at the point where the stream issues from Lake Victoria Nyanza. This Ripon fall is only a few yards in height, but the volume of water is so great that it presents a magnificent spectacle.

Comparatively few persons know which is the highest waterfall in Europe. The most voluminous of European waterfalls, strictly so called, are the Rhine Falls at Schaffhausen, but the highest are the Rjuken Falls of the Maan-Elf River, in the Norwegian province of Telemarken. The principal fall is 800 feet high and the total height of the two chief falls with the intervening rapids amounts to 1,837 feet, while the average flow of water is 50 cubic meters, or 1,760 cubic feet per second. The Rjuken Falls, with their total energy of 250,000 horse-power, are already things of the past, for they have been irrevocably perverted to industrial uses.

A similar fate threatens other small Norwegian falls, but Norway is so that it can well spare a few. In Sweden, likewise, the Falls of Trollhatta, the most celebrated of all Scandinavian waterfalls, have been almost entirely annihilated as objects of natural beauty. Nearly all of their water is now employed for the production of electricity.

RICH IN WATERFALLS

The Government itself has recently established here a power station with a capacity of 40,000 horse-power. This, now the largest water power station in Europe, will soon be surprised, however, by the station at Rjukan in Norway and by a still larger station in the north of Sweden, which will serve for the operation of the Lofoden Railway.

The Porjus Fall, at which this last mentioned station will be placed, is only one fall, or rather rapid, of a long series formed by the Lule-Elf near its source in the lake region of Lapland.

The largest and most beautiful of these falls is the celebrated Harsprang, which forms the subject of many legends. The Porjus power station is expected to reach completion in 1914 and to develop soon afterward about 80,000 horse-power, yet the wild beauty of the Porjus Fall will be little affected, as it is estimated that its total water power in summer, after its sources of supply have been regulated, will be about 300,000 horse-power.

In the Porjus Rapid the river descends 164 feet in about 2 miles. The Harsprang is also half waterfall and half rapid and accomplishes a descent of 244 feet in 1¼ miles. The Harsprang would therefore yield more power than the Porjus, but it is to remain untouched for the present, and it is to be hoped that it will be forever preserved as a natural monument. Sweden, with its great wealth in water power, can well afford such a luxury.

Even little Finland is endeavoring to preserve natural beauty and has decided to keep her greatest waterfall in its original condition as a natural monument and to allow no large power station to be erected on its banks. This fall is the celebrated Imatra Fall of the Wouxen River. The total descent is only 66 feet in two miles, but the volume is very great and the depth considerable, while the width of the stream contracts from 570 to 150 feet in the course of the falls.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, SEPTEMBER 17.

Lesson XII.—Daniel's Companions in the Fiery Furnace, Dan. 3. Golden Text, Heb. 13. 6.

Verses 1-7—The king's proclamation regarding the image.

1. Nebuchadnezzar—No date is given, but there seems to be warrant for assuming that it was about the eighteenth year of his reign, after some notable victory.

An image of gold—Not necessarily of solid gold. In all probability it was simply overlaid with gold. As no mention is made of any particular deity it is likely the image represented the king himself, this being a not uncommon practice of the Assyrian kings. These images were set up in conquered places, and suitably inscribed. It would require an enormous amount of gold for a statue ninety feet high and nine feet broad, but it was a matter of pride with these monarchs of the East that they had so much gold. The plain, or valley, of Dura has been partially identified by a huge brick mound, which may have formed the pedestal of a gigantic image. It is located about six miles below Babylon.

2. The dedication of the image—Those invited to the solemn festival are named with minute fullness by the writer. It is difficult to give any specific description of these functionaries. The satraps were chief rulers of a province. The governors were perhaps the rulers of conquered provinces. The names seem to be a catalogue of Assyrian, Babylonian, and Persian titles, and may represent the three classes, of civil, military, and legal officers. Among the other rulers of the provinces were probably included the three Hebrew children. The story has nothing to say about Daniel. He was an exceptionally high dignitary (Daniel 2. 49).

4. Peoples, nations, and languages—This redundancy of expression is common in Daniel and Revelation. The crowd present would include not only Babylonions, but Greeks, Phoenicians, Arabs, Jews, and Assyrians.

5. All kinds of music—Here again, we have a plethora of descriptive words, whose meaning it is very hard to define. Three of the names, those for harp, psaltery, and dulcimer, are Greek words, one of the evidences of the late authorship. The sackbut was a small triangular instrument, having four strings.

6. A burning fiery furnace—Such cruel punishments were after the manner of the time (compare Jer. 29. 22).

7. All kinds of music—Note the leisurely reiteration of the various instruments, just as in verses 2 and 3 the officers are twice listed. Compare also verses 10 and 15.

8-18—The charge against the three Hebrew youths, and their reply.

8. Chaldeans—In the book of Daniel the word is descriptive, not of a nation, as elsewhere in the Old Testament, but of a learned class among the Babylonians. It was made up of the priests, whose duties lay largely in the realm of magic, astrology, and divination.

Brought accusation — Literally, "they ate the torn pieces of the Jews." This shows that back of their charge was an excessive jealousy. In addressing the king, they use the standing formula employed elsewhere in Daniel (compare 2. 4).

12. Jews whom thou hast appointed—Revealing the secret of their malice. These disappointed aspirants for imperial honors seized eagerly this chance to bring a charge of disloyalty against the youths who had outstripped them in their own craft.

13. Nebuchadnezzar in his rage—It is said that this king was subject to sudden outbursts like this. He could not tolerate what seemed base ingratitude and insubordination on the part of those whom he had favored.

14. Is it of purpose?—The king is willing to put the best construction upon their act. Perhaps after all they had not intended openly to defy him. He will give them the privilege of recanting at any rate.

15. Who is that god that shall deliver you?—A defiant challenge to the God of Israel. Similar challenges, and their answers, may be studied in Exod. 5. 2, Isa. 36. 20, 2 Chron. 32. 13-17.

18. But if not—The three young men had no doubts as to God's ability to help them in this hour of peril. It might not be in accord with his full purpose to do so. Even so, they would not be unfaithful. The steadfastness of their faith and courage is admirable. "It is man's testimony to his indomitable belief that the things of sense are not to be valued in comparison to that high happiness which arises from obedience to the laws of conscience, and that no extremities of agony are commensurate with apostasy."

19-27—The youths delivered.

19. The furnace—Probably one used for the customary cremation of the dead.

21. Mantles—Though the names of these garments are at most only conjectures, this is probably the best word for the robe, a long, loose one, and therefore most apt to catch the flames.

22. The fire slew those men—In the Septuagint, which includes a "Song of the Three Children," the flames are represented as streaming forth seventy-five feet.

24. The king was astonished—The words imply that he was alarmed as well as amazed, so much so that the rose up in agitation from the seat from which he had been watching the proceedings.

25. The fourth is like a son of the gods—The king could identify the three youths whose fetters were burned away, so that they were loose, but whose bodies appeared unscathed. But the fourth had an angelic appearance. This is all that is meant by the expression. Nebuchadnezzar could not have used the phrase "Son of God," found in our authorized version, with the Christian meaning we attach to it. Besides the last word is actually plural, "gods."

28-30—The king's doxology, edict of toleration, and promotion of the faithful Jews.

29. Shall be cut in pieces—The violence of this punishment is in keeping with the spirit of Oriental butcheries such as were commonly practised by Assyrian and Persian despots. The threat to transform a house into a dunghill was also common (Ezra 6. 11; Dan. 2. 5).

30. Promoted—That is, assisted them in various ways so that their course in the province would be a prosperous one.

ROOT OF THE COMPLAINT.

Bellingham was a long-suffering man and a patient one. Never had he tried to interrupt the continuous flow of conversation which Mrs. Bellingham provided. At last, however, his nerves gave out, and the doctor was called in.

"He must have sleep and rest," was the doctor's verdict. He looked at Mrs. Bellingham thoughtfully. "Madam, I will send up some sleeping-powders which must be used exactly as written on the box. Will you promise to do this, or must I order him to the hospital?"

"I promise," said Mrs. Bellingham, readily enough, although wondering why he made so odd a request. She learned when the box came from the druggist's, and she read on the label:—

"Sleeping powders, to be taken night and morning—by Mrs. B."

What good does it do to know that behind the darkest cloud the sun is shining, if you haven't an umbrella at the time?

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech, Props.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 14, '11

Canada for Canadians—
Vote for Merner.

The official nomination for South Huron takes place in Hensall Thursday afternoon, Sept. 14.

Every day it becoms more evident that even Reciprocity is not going to save the Government, as it was intended it should do.

Vote for Merner and show President Taft that he was mistaken in the remark of his about Canada being "at the parting of the ways."

How the idea of giving away our natural resources to Uncle Sam must tickle M. Y. McLean, who asks, "What has England ever done for Canada?"

He must be a funny fellow, who being a shareholder of or depositor in the Farmers' Bank, would still vote for M. Y. McLean, after his saying he had little sympathy with the losers.

Mr. Ontario Farmer, remember that horse you have to sell its worth $50 more to you under no reciprocity than it would be under reciprocity. We have never heard this statement disputed.

There was an old man named Taft,
Who was after Canadian graft;
If Laurier will sell,
Time will soon tell
Whether Canucks are wise or gone daft.

WANTED.—An expert, who can figure out the problem, "How to convince an audience that the producer will get more and the consumer pay less." Solution will be thankfully received by Smith and McLean, Liberal candidates in North Middlesex and South Huron.

Daily reports arrive of the decision of Liberals in both urban and rural districts to forsake party for once and vote against Reciprocity. A vote for J. J. Merner is the only way to vote against Reciprocity. You are none the less a good Liberal by doing so. You put Canada before party. That is all, but is there not sufficient reason?

Indications continue to point to a noteable victory for the Opposition on the 21st. It is not expected that the Liberals can do more than hold their own in the West and they stand to lose from seven to ten seats in the Maritime Provinces. In Quebec at present the Government majority in the next House will exceed twenty-one and some put it as low as five. In Ontario the Liberals virtually admit that the Conservatives will carry sixty seats. It is believed that they will do better and seventy is mentioned as possible. But taking the minimum estimates in every province including the estimates of Liberal in lucid intervals it is plain that the Opposition outside of Quebec will have a majority of at least fifty. They may have a majority outside of Quebec of sixty but forty is the very lowest. The Laurier majority in the province of Quebec cannot possibly exceed twenty and it may be nil. If the majority of the reports which come privately from all parts of the country to the Conservative headquarters are confirmed on election day it will be safe to bet that the Conservatives and Nationalists combined in the next House will have a majority over the Laurier Liberals of from thirty-five to fifty and that Mr. Borden will have a straight Conservative majority over the Liberals and Nationalists combined.

CENTRALIA

Large crowds are attending the London Fair this week, and many report the fair just a little better than other years.—Mr. B. Blatchford of Portland, Oregon, spent a couple days visiting his brother at the parsonage.—Mrs. Thos. Oliver and her sister are spending a couple weeks visiting relatives in Chicago and Western Illinois.—Mrs. Wm. Huxtable is on the mend again, after her serious illness for the past month.—Miss Salina Foster of Byron spent the past week visiting her cousin, Miss Eva Mitchell.—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Scell of Lucan were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Andrew on Sunday.—The coming elections seem to be the topic of discussion, and quite a number of the old time Liberals are going to change their vote this time. A large number of the Toronto Globes are being sent to people in this section but their influence is nil.—Mr. Geo. Brock of Zion spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Trotham.—Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson spent Sunday with friends at Crediton.

ELECTION RETURNS 1908

The results at the last Dominion Election in October, 1908, are as follows:

	Lib.	Con.
Seaforth	275	196
Exeter	137	258
Bayfield	35	82
Tuckersmith	394	176
Stanley	227	260
Usborne	213	336
Hay	454	290
McKillop	365	219
Hensall	91	110
Stephen	395	505
	2586	2432

Liberal majority 154.

Itching Scalp

GOT RID OF, IN A FEW HOURS.

There is nothing made that will so quickly rid the scalp of distressing itchiness as PARISIAN SAGE the hair dresser and beautifier.

W. S. Cole guarantees Parisian Sage to cure dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair or money back, and sells it for only 50 cents a large bottle. It puts vitality into the hair and gives it a brilliant luster.

It is the favorite hair dressing of refined women because it so quickly refreshes the scalp and not being sticky nor greasy is delightful to use.

TWELVE FAVORED NATIONS

Canada Extends to Them Tariff Advantages Which Are Not Enjoyed by Great Britain

By JOHN V. BORNE.

The twelve countries which under the Reciprocity Agreement are to enjoy precedence over the Mother Country, are Argentine Republic, Austria-Hungary, Bolivia, Colombia, Denmark, Japan, Norway, Russia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Venezuela.

France also participates in certain classes of goods.

Countries like Bolivia and Colombia are not likely seriously to affect Canadian trade; but, the possibilities of letting down the bars to Argentina and Denmark, for instance, are considerable.

The Argentine Republic sends more wheat to the United Kingdom than Canada does. It is produced under conditions which offset its softer quality than the prairie-grown wheat.

Labor in the Argentine is very cheap.

Most of the Argentine wheat is grown near the seaboard, and its transportation is, therefore, very cheap. The best Canadian wheat is grown so far from the seaboard, and the cost of carrying it to the ships is considerable.

Argentine wheat can be dumped at a Canadian port at a cost of 5 2-3c. per bushel for freight, against a cost of 16c. per bushel for haulage from Western Canada to the Atlantic Coast.

Now, 50 per cent. of Canadian wheat is consumed in Canada. Whoever will benefit by free wheat from Argentina, the Canadian farmer will not. This is one of the branches of trade to which "Let well enough alone" most forcefully applies.

CREDITON.

This is London Fair week. Quite a number of our people are taking advantage of the cheap rates by doing the fair and transacting business as well.

Mrs. Ed. Bertrand and daughter Thelma returned to their home in Detroit last Saturday after a short visit here.

Dr. Orme, Ira Brown, Wm Galser and Wes. Finkbeiner autoed to Stratford on Friday to hear Sir. Wilfred Laurier discuss the issues of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Haist and children of Sebewaing, Mich. are visiting relatives in our midst.

Jos. Lawson is making rapid headway with the concrete abutments of Haist's Bridge.

Next Sunday morning, Rev. J. P. Hauch, missionary stationed in Japan will occupy the pulpit in the Evangelical church. Rev. Hauch is no stranger here and is sure of meeting a large audience who will be pleased to hear him speak.

The past week two political meetings were held in the Town Hall by M. Y. McLean and J. J. Merner, the two candidates at the coming elections. Mr. McLean's meeting was held on Wednesday evening. He and Mr. Mustard of Stanley addressed the meeting in the interests of the party. On Monday evening the Conservative meeting was held. The Hall was filled to the doors by a very interested people. The chair was occupied by H. Huber, M.P.P. Mr. Merner, the candidate, made a very favorable appearance and spoke briefly. He was followed by Mr. W. B. Weidenhammer, B. A., of Exeter, whose address was particularly interesting and very instructive. He spoke at length dealing with how the United States had broken faith repeatedly with Canada and Great Britain in all the Treaties, and now when Canada had attained a position of importance in the world, the people across the border were trying to enter into an agreement whereby they would be the winner and we the losers. Mr. Geo. Spotton, Mayor of Wingham, then followed with an hour and half address. He dealt with Reciprocity in all its phases, and here and there brought in some witty remarks which kept up the interest of the audience. In his concluding remarks he referred to the early settlers, the U.E. Loyalists, who being driven out of the United States came to Canada and hewed out homes for themselves. When Canada was a poor struggling nation she tried to make some agreement with the United States to have a low tariff but she was rebuffed. We then turned to the Mother Country for help. She responded, investing millions in railways, factories, elevators, docks, steamships, with the result that Canadians became prosperous and now we have reached a stage of prosperity never known before in the history of this country. Reciprocity meant a turning away from the Mother Country, and was a dangerous step since the vision of the yankee was to float the Stars and Stripes from the Panama to the North Pole. An earnest appeal was made to stay with the old flag. The meeting concluded with the singing of the National Anthem. The election will be held on Thursday, the 21st. Should reciprocity be introduced we may learn the solution to that wonderful promise "That the farmer will get more for his products and the consumer pay less for them. The meetings have put our people a-thinking. Let every voter weigh both sides carefully and vote for what he thinks is in the best interests of the country.

Beginning with next Sunday, the Sunday school of the Evangelical Church will be held in the afternoon.

Mrs. Umbach of Waterloo is visiting her brother Mr. Levi Stahl.

Last Wednesday, death removed from our midst a very respected citizen in the person of Louis Weth who suffered from creeping paralysis since the first of the year. The deceased was born in Germany and emigrated here in the 70's. During the time he lived here he was an earnest worker in the church and was leader of the prayer-meeting class for thirty years. He was a very honest man, a good neighbor and citizen. He died at the age of 68 years 3 months. His remains were interred in the Evangelical Cemetery on Sunday morning, the Rev. Burn officiating. The funeral was very largely attended, after which an appropriate sermon was delivered in the church. The deceased leaves to mourn his loss a widow, five sons, and four daughters, who have the sympathy of the entire community in this hour hour of trial and bereavement.

MCGILLIVRAY COUNCIL

Council met pursuant to adjournment in the Town Hall, McGillivray, on Sept. 4th. All members present. Minutes of last meeting read and signed. On motion of Robinson and Murdy accounts amounting in all to $1099.00 were ordered to be paid. Rosser—Nickles—That By-law No. 6, 1911, levying the following rates;—For County purposes 2.9 mills on the dollar; for township purposes 2 mills; general school grants 1.96, and the amounts required by the Public and Separate schools, as read a first and second time, be read a third time and passed.—Carried. Murdy—Robinson—That By-law No. 7, 1911, appointing Geo. Saunders collector for the East division and And. Grieve for the West Division of the township, as read a first and second time, be read a third time and passed.—Carried. The Council then adjourned to meet on Oct. 2nd at 1 o'clock p. m.

J. D. Drummond, Clerk.

ELIMVILLE

Death of Mrs. Andrew.—The death occurred at the home of her daughter at Granton on Wednesday, Sept. 6th, of one of the aged residents of Usborne, south of Elimville, in the person of Sarah Spicer, widow of the late John Andrew, aged 67 years. Deceased had been failing for about two years, but had been confined to her room for only three weeks. Born in the Township of Darlington she moved to these parts early in life, and married her late husband who died about three years ago. She was a kindly and considerate woman, an affectionate wife and loving mother and the bereaved family have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends. She is survived by three daughters and two sons, Mrs. Dan Hodgson and Mrs. David Rowcliffe of Granton, Mrs. Albert Mitchell and Sidney Andrew of Centralia, and Ira Andrew of Swift Current, Sask. One sister and two brothers also survive, Miss Julia Spicer of Exeter, David Spicer of Brantford, and Ira Spicer of Denver, Col. The funeral took place to the Elimville cemetery on Saturday. Those present from a distance were David Spicer and son Arthur of Brantford, Mrs. Spicer and daughter of London.

MOUNT CARMEL.

Married in Detroit.—Edmund Hall of Detroit, formerly of this place, was happily married on Aug. 18th to Miss Cosgrove, also of Detroit. Ed's many friends here wish for himself and bride many happy years of wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. Brundy of Sarnia are visiting at Jas. Carey's.—Mr. Frank Guainay has returned to Carlsrau to take charge of his school after his holidays.—Mrs. Holey of Detroit is visiting relatives here.—Mrs. Margaret McKeever left last week for Port Huron.—Carroll Bros. shipped a carload of cattle to Toronto on Saturday.—Messrs. J. Hogan and M. Ryan were in Stratford to attend the Laurier meeting on Friday.—Miss Josephine Glavin is visiting her brother in St. Marys.—Mr. and Mrs. P. Carey of Goderich called on friends here last week.—Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Neville of Detroit visited their niece, Miss Nettie Carty, last week.—Miss Mamie Sullivan left Saturday to visit friends in London, St. Thomas and Dutton.—Miss Leonard of Parkhill called on friends here last week.—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dederick of Berlin called on friends here on Monday.—Basil Sullivan and John Glavin left last week to attend Sandwich College.—School re-opened here Tuesday of last week and is now in charge of Miss Gleeson of London and Miss Dunn of St. Thomas.—Misses Marjory Guinan and Madeline Glavin left on Monday for Chatham.—Mr. John Potter and Mrs. Wm. Potter attended the Toronto Fair.—Quite a number of people from this neighborhood attended the London Fair this week

CLANDEBOYE

The Misses McIlhargey of Beamsville have returned home after spending their holidays with their grandparents.—Mr. Harry Shoff has returned to Toronto to take charge of his school after the holidays.—Mr. J. McIlhargey is in London visiting at Mr. J. Doyle's.—Mrs. (W. Cunningham and daughter B. J. are holidaying at Sarnia with Mrs. Holt.—Miss Cassie Patton, who was visiting her parents here, has returned to Cleveland, where she has a good position in a dry goods store.—Mr. E. Collins has returned from the Northwest, where he has been looking over the country. He says Ontario is good enough for him.—Jas. O'Dwyer has gone to the city to attend the high school.—Mr. W. Ward of Lucan, who is in St. Joseph's Hospital with appendicitis, is doing nicely.

TUCKERSMITH.—Wednesday, William Wallace was united in marriage with Miss Margaret M. Campbell, daughter of Mr. D. Campbell of Morris. The ceremony was performed at the bride's home by Rev. D. Perry of Wingham.

A WINDSOR LADY'S APPEAL

To All Women—I will send free with full instructions, my home treatment which positively cures Leucorrhoea, Ulceration, Displacements, Falling of the womb, Painfull or Irregular Periods, Uterine and Ovarian Tumors or growths also Hot Flushes, Nervousness, Melancholy, Pains in the Head, Back or Bowels, and Bladder troubles, where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex You can continue treatment at home at a cost of only about 12 cents a week My book, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser," also sent free on request. Write to-day. Address, Mrs. M. Summers Box. H. 840 Windsor, Ont.

Westervelt School

Y. M. C. A. BLDG.
LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Take Hall's family pills for constipation.

SAINTSBURY

Mr. Clarence Duplan of Centralia, in the absence of Rev. Racey, who is attending the Synod at London, preached in St. Patrick's church on Sunday. His discourse was one of deep interest and well delivered. We predict for Mr. Duplan a bright future.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis visited in Blanshard on Sunday.—Misses Bella and Alice Davis returned home last week from visiting in Stratford.—Mrs. Wm. Davis is visiting her sister, Mrs. Needham at Ailymote.—Mr. and Mrs. Nassau Davis visited in Ilderton Sunday.—Miss Flossie Sweet of Exeter is the guest of the Misses Davis.

A Bad Back

IS A WARNING THAT THE KIDNEYS ARE SICK.

A bad back turns every twenty-four hours into one dull round of pain and misery—you are lame in the morning, nagged all day by a dull throbbing back ache, can't rest in the evening or sleep well at night. It hurts to bend over straighten up, get up from a chair, or lift even a light weight. Any sudden twist, turn or awkward movement sends a searing twinge of pain through the weak spot.

Booth's Kidney Pills

Booth's Kidney Pills reach the weak spot, the kidneys and quickly restore kidney health and comfort. They are guaranteed. All dealers and druggists, 50c., or postpaid from The R. T. Booth Co. Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Send for Free Box which will be gladly sent on application.

Sold and Guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

LONDON

95c. return Sept 9, 10, 11, 13, & 15
90c. return Sept. 12 and 14.

From Exeter account Western Fair. Return limit Sept. 18th.

Special train leaves Exeter 8.02 a.m. Sept. 12, 13, 14, for London. Return special leaves London 10.50 p.m. same dates.

ANNUAL WESTERN EXCURSIONS

September 14, 15, 16

Round trip rates from Exeter to Detroit, Mich., $4.30; Chicago 10.10 Saginaw, Mich., 5.10. Proportionate Rates to Port Huron, Bay City, Cleveland, Grand Rapids, Minneapolis and St. Paul. Return Limit—Original starting point must be reached not later than Oct. 2nd, 1911.

THROUGH TOURIST PULLMAN SLEEPERS
to
WINNIPEG AND EDMONTON
Via Chicago and St. Paul
AUGUST 22nd SEPT. 5th and 19th
in connection with
HOMESEEKERS EXCURSIONS

COLONIST EXCURSIONS—To Spokane, Wash.; Nelson, B.C.; Vancouver B.C.; Westminster, B.C.; Seattle, Wh. Tacoma, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Cal. and Mexico City at very low rates
SEPT 15th to OCT. 15th.

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

COLLECTION BUSINESS

With its large number of branches, agents and correspondents, The Canadian Bank of Commerce is able to effect collections throughout the world promptly and at reasonable rates. Rates will be quoted on application.

FOREIGN BUSINESS

A230

Cheques and drafts on all countries of the world, drawn in sterling, francs, marks, lire, kronen, florins, roubles or any other foreign currency, can be negotiated at The Canadian Bank of Commerce at reasonable rates.

Exeter Branch—W. H. Collins, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up)	$4,000,000
Rest Fund	$4,400,000
Total Assets Over	$44,000,000

Has 78 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at all Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

The Public Schools

OPEN SEPT. 5th

And how about your School Supplies

SCRIBBLERS.—
The regular 5c. scribblers, plain or ruled. 7 for 25c.

LEAD PENCILS.—
The famous regalia pencil, worth 2 for 5c. reduced price 10c. a doz.

PAINTS.—
Water colors in neat boxes 5c. to 25c. crayons 1c. to 10c. a box.

INKS.—
Stafford's and Underwood's Black and Blue Black Inks, 8oz bottles for 5c.

SLATES.—
The famous German proof slate, wire edge or bound 5c. to 14c.

DICTIONARIES.—
Collins large type pronouncing dictionaries at 15c.

It will pay you to pay us a visit. We are in a position to save you money, and we do it.

S. Martin & Son, Exeter

AILSA CRAIG.—While operating a flax thresher at the Standard Flax Mill Sept. 6th, Dan B. McDonald caught his hand between two rollers and had one finger badly crushed. The wound, though not serious, is very painful and will necessitate Mr. McDonald's absence from his work for some time.

CENTRAL Business College
STRATFORD, ONT.

Our registration greatly exceeds that of previous years. Why? Our school is the best of its kind in the west, best in courses given, best in teachers employed and best in assisting graduates to positions. Our graduates are in demand. Business men state that they are the best. In the past three years we had eleven applications for help that we could not supply. We have three departments, Commercial, Shorthand and Telegraphy. Get our free catalogue. Commence your course at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials, Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Canadian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.
Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver
ard is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

BANK
CE
PRESIDENT
$8,000,000
SS
espondents, The ions throughout ill be quoted on A230
awn in sterling,
foreign currency,
reasonable rates.
also at Crediton.
Bank
000
000
000 lents in all the TMENT
ent rate.
ent.
ON Manager,
hools
Supplies
nderwood's Black Inks, 3oz bottles
han proof slate,
nd 5c. to 14c.
pronouncing dict-
e in a position
eter
eries ell establish-d we believe thority (nam-
y increasing
e are meeting and giving faction.
ur motto,—
all the time."
roduce taken GOULD arkyte"
e to ill
the strongest tative against necessity the part of your , Specified by ipalities.
than one year.
da by n.
Vancouver
eter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. E. SINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto University.
DENTIST,
teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects. Office over Hallman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. S. BRIGHT, M.D., M.C.P.&S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years resident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew street, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates on interest.
Offices, Main street, Exeter.
E. CARLING, B.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter Ont.

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies.
Main-St., Exeter.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Eilber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.
The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St. Thomas, Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

ELLIOTT Business College
TORONTO, ONT., is recognized as "CANADA'S HIGH-CLASS COMMERCIAL SCHOOL." The instruction is absolutely first-class. Write to-day for our catalogue. Enter now.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.
We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.
Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.
The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings: two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Elimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT
That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

Northwest Lands.

Unimproved Lands in Saskatchewan and Alberta for sale.
Railway fare refunded to purchasers.
MONEY TO LOAN.
ERNEST ELLIOT.
Office opposite Central Hotel. Exeter.

FARM WANTED TO RENT—50 acre farm with the usual buildings. Any person having such will leave application at this office.

For Sale by W. J. Heaman

Auction Sale

FARM STOCK, IMPLEMENTS, ETC.
The administrator of the estate of the late John Horney has instructed Thos. Cameron to sell by public auction on LOt 30, CON. 4, USBORNE on TUESDAY, Sept. 26, at 12.30 o'clock, following valuable property:—
Horses—Draught reg. brood mare; 2-year old draught mare eligible for reg'n supposed to be with foal; 1 foal eligible for reg'n., draught; 2 agric. geldings) 4-yr-old; 1 agric. filly, 2-yr-old; 1 agric. gelding, 2-yr-old; 1 strong driver 7 yr-old.
Cattle—6 cows due in March and Apr; 1 cow, due in Dec.; 1 heifer, 3-yr-old; 6 heifers, 2-yr-old; 4 steers, 2-yr.old; 3 heffers, 1-yr-old; 2 steers, 1-yr-old; 4 spring calves.
Hogs and Fowl—5 brood sows, 6 100 lb. hogs; about 60 hens and pullets.
Implements—Lumber wagon new; truck wagon and box; new top buggy, open buggy; pair bobsleighs; cutter, nearly new; binder and mower, nearly new; horse rake, hay rack, gravel box, seeder and drill, cultivator, nearly new; riding plow; walking plow, disk; set harrows, 4 sections; land roller, scuffler; fanning mill; 2000-lb. scales; cutting-box; wheelbarrow; cream separator; 2-horse power gasoline engine with 36 feet of shafting, pulleys, belts, etc. and pumping jack; pulper, grindstone, cooler, ladder grain bags, set double work harness set single harness, horse collars, robes, rugs, horse blankets, barrels, forks and chains, and other articles too numerous to mention. About 20 tons first-class hay; quantity of corn in field; 3 acres mangolds, turnips and potatoes; over 20 cords of maple wood can be seen on side road north of farm bush; a quantity of lumber and scantling.
Terms—$5 and under cash; over that amount 9 mos. credit on approved joint notes, 5 per cent. per annum off for cash on credit amounts. R. HORNEY, Ex.
DICKSON & CARLING Solicitors T. CAMERON Auctioneer.

DWELLING AND LAND FOR SALE.
That desirable property situated in Exeter, on the corner of William and Victoria streets, being one-half acre of land. There is on the premises a good frame house, with kitchen and woodshed, hard and soft water and a number of fruit trees. Will sell half of land separately. Price reasonable. Apply to Mr. Peter Bawden, Exeter, opposite English church.

HEIFER STRAYED
There strayed from the premises of the undersigned, Lot 21, Con. 6, Stephen, on orabout July 20th, a two-yr-old medium-sized heifer, yellowish color, with white spots and white star on forehead. Finder will be rewarded by sending information that will lead to its recovery to JOHN G. WEIN, Crediton P. O.

COURT OF REVISOIN
Notice is hereby given that a Court will be held pursuant to the Ontario Voters' List Act by His Honor the Judge of the County Court of the County of Huron at Exeter, in the Town Hall, on Friday, the 22nd day of September, 1911, at 10 o'clock a.m. to hear and determine complaints of errors and omissions in the Voters' List of the Municipality of Exeter for 1911.
T. B. CARLING, Clerk of the municipality of Exeter.
Dated, Sept. 2, 1911.

FOR SALE
One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, to churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass except 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

Auction Sale

OF VILLAGE PROPERTY
There will be offered for sale by public Auction, on SATURDAY the 16 day of SEPTEMBER, 1911 at two o'clock p.m. at the Metropolitan Hotel the house and lot on the northwest corner of station and william streets nearly opposite the Creamery, in the Village of Exeter. This was the residence of the late Mrs. Margaret Airth and is conveniently situated within a few steps of Main street close to churches, school, railway station and Canning factory. The property is in good repair and is a desirable purchase for anyone wanting a snug little home.
Terms—10 per cent. of purchase money on the day of sale, balance in 15 days. Possession on payment of purchase money. Other terms made known on day of sale. For further particulars apply to DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors for Vendor.
Dated Exeter, 6th Sept. 1911.

EXCURSIONS TO WESTERN CANADA
The Grand Trunk Railway System announce that on Tuesdays, June 27th, July 11th and 25th, August 8th and 22nd, September 5th and 19th, 1911, Homeseeker's excursions will be run to Western Canada from all stations in Ontario and Quebec, via Chicago and Duluth, or via Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis, at reduced round trip fares.
The well-known double track line of the Grand Trunk from the east to Chicago appeals to the traveller, and with the superior train service that is offered by this line, including the famous "International Limited" from Montreal daily at 9.00 a.m., and which is the finest and fastest train in Canada, many passengers will be attracted this way. The route via Chicago is a most interesting one, taking passengers through the principal cities and towns in Canada and in the States of Michigan and Indiana. In addition to this a choice seven lines between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis is offered.
Owing to the great number of Canadians, who reside in Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and other cities en route, there is no doubt that the Grand Trunk will find many patrons who will take advantage of the opportunity thus afforded them for a brief visit at the stations with their friends.
Another feature that will appeal to the homeseeker is the comfortable transfer at points like Chicago, St. Paul, and Duluth into freshly ventilated clean cars, avoiding the necessity of travelling a long distance in the same car.
In addition to the above routes, the sale of tickets is also authorized via Sarnia, and the Northern Navigation Company's magnificent Steamers across Lake Huron and Lake Superior.
For further particulars apply to any Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System, or write to Mr. J. Quinlan, District Passenger Agent, Bonaventure Station Montreal, or Mr. A. E. Duff, District Passenger Agent, Union Station, Toronto.

MOORESVILLE
Mooresville Branch of the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. M. Miller on Sept. 6th, when several topics were discussed—bread making, packing winter butter, pumpkin pie, canning peaches, pickling, exchanging paterns, making linoleum, etc. A choice number of solos were rendered, also recitations and music. One solo worthy of special mention, "A mother pleading for her boy," was given by Mrs. Young. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Windsor on October 11th. All members are requested to be present as a very interesting meeting is expected.

DENSALL
Albert Whiteside has gone to the West on official business.—Miss Begley of Blyth has taken the position of head milliner at the Blue Front.—Mrs. G. F. Yungblutt of Waterloo is here visiting her daughter Mrs. James Bonthron.—Miss Lily McKay has resumed her duties as teacher in Windsor.—James Johnston left last week for Edmonton, Alta., where he has considerable property.—Mrs. T. Neelands and daughter Mrs. A. H. King are visiting in Toronto and Oakville.—Miss Eladora Sherritt left for London last week to take a course in training as nurse at Victoria Hospital.—Dr. Ben Blatchford and son of Portland, Oregon, are here visiting the several members of the Blatchford family.—Mr. and Mrs. Temple of Kincardine and daughter Mrs. Chesterborough of Chicago are guests of Dr. and Mrs. Sellery.—Miss McDowell of Belgrave is back at her position as milliner in McLean's establishment.—Miss Lowrie of Petrolea, is in charge of Rannie's millinery department.

ZURICH.
Dr. McKinnon was called to Orangeville to attendt hq funeral of his uncle.—Mr. and Mrs. E. Zeller spent Labor Day holidays with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Marshall at Merlin.—Miss G. Hartleib has accepted a position in the post office.—Miss Bertha Wurm of Detroit is visiting her mother Mrs. H. Wurm.—Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schilbe of the 14th con., attended the Toronto Fair last week.—Mr. W. H. Bender has purchased his father's shoe stand for $525, and intends fitting it up as a store.—Mr. W. H. Hoffman attended the Undertakers' Convention at Toronto last week.—On the evening of the 2nd inst. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lamont of the Goshen Line, Stanley, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding. About forty guests were present and an enjoyable time was spent.—The Labor Day Races drew a large crowd. The green race was won by Jack Hunter, C. Eilber, owner; Peach Bars, E. Bossenberry, second; Babe Wikes, Dr. Houze, third. The Free for All, Roadmaster, Jr., T. Murdock, first; Miss Alma Mater G. Troyer, second; Esther E., W. Eagleson, third. In the bicycle race E. Weido was first, A. Reichert second, and H. Klopp third.

We Told You So!
LABATT'S LAGER
Now Perfected—The Best on the Market!
TRY IT
John Labatt, Ltd.
LONDON, ONT

SHIPKA
Miss Ida Ratz of Toronto is visiting her sister, Miss Clara Ratz.—Miss Bella Baynham left for Detroit this week.—Mr. Lorne Finkbeiner has left for Chatham Business College.

McGILLIVRAY
Mr. Moses Reeder of the 16th con. of McGillivray died very suddenly on Monday 4th. He had been ailing for over two years. On Monday he was assisting at the threshing of Mr. Hodgins on con. 20, firing the engine. He became very ill at about 5 o'clock and was taken home, but nothing could be done for him and he passed away in a few hours. He is survived by a widow and daughter, also by his father, John Reeder and mother, a brother, Frank, and sister, Mrs. Joseph Lawson, of Crediton. The remains were interred in Parkhill cemetery on Wednesday.

THREE COOKS AND THREE REASONS
These three cooks differ widely in ability and experience, but all are agreed that the prime essential in good cooking is the stove on which to cook, and all concede that every stove necessity is met in a
GURNEY-OXFORD RANGE
For no matter how much or how little cooking is done; no matter what the experience given or required, there are certain prime requisites for every kitchen range. Whether the cook be a professional chef or the young bride with only "him" to please, the stove must furnish these three essentials—steadiness and control of heat, even baking facilities, and a grate that gives plenty of air to the fire with a saving of fuel and convenience in handling.
For these three problems—on which all cooks are agreed—the GURNEY-OXFORD RANGE has three answers, three good reasons why.
THE OXFORD ECONOMIZER is a small lever for the steady maintenance of heat, licensed for use only on Gurney-Oxfords. It effects a remarkable saving in fuel as well as labor. Nothing can go up the chimney but smoke and odor.
The Divided Flue Strip distributes the heat evenly, front as well as back of oven, thus securing against failure in baking. There is no better test of practical stove work than this oven control.
Are you always dusting? The Gurney-Oxford Reversible Grate saves dirt and labor; one-half turn and the ashes are out, while the interlocking teeth grind the hardest clinker.
There are plenty of other "reasons" for the advantage of the Gurney-Oxford, as a call on us will convince you. Come in and see our varied line, and we will demonstrate all these features to your entire satisfaction.

W. J. Haeman, Agent.

"What's flour gluten, Bud?"
"It's what makes your dough rise, Rose."
"Yes"—she encouraged.
Added Bud very sagely:
"Makes it rise in the mixer and expand "in the oven. It's the elastic part of "flour—absorbs all the water and milk "—and things."
Rose grew interested.
"FIVE ROSES, said Bud, is exceedingly rich "in gluten. I s'pose because it's all made "from Manitoba wheat. Takes up a lot "more water — makes those fat loaves — "lasts longer too."
"Saves money, doesn't it?" asked Rose.
Bud in a big voice:
"The fat loaf makes the fat pocketbook."
Use FIVE ROSES always.
And Rose said YES.
Five Roses Flour
Not Bleached Not Blended
LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, LIMITED MONTREAL

The World's Favorite is
LIPTON'S TEA
OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

THE FISHERIES TREATY

United States Has Not Passed Necessary Legislation and Canada May Withdraw.

A despatch from Ottawa says: It now looks as if Canada is about to withdraw from the international fisheries treaty concluded with the United States in 1908. It will be remembered that, under the terms of the treaty, regulation governing the fisheries in international waters were drawn up by the commissioners, Professor Prince for Canada and Professor Starr Jordan for the United States. These regulations were to become effective after concurrent proclamations by the Governor-General of Canada and the President of the United States. The necessary legislation to enable the proclamation was passed by the Parliament of Canada during the session of 1910, receiving the unanimous approval of both political parties. The American authorities have failed, however, to pass the legislation required to put the treaty into effect.

After the regulations had been drawn up it was found that certain interests, notably in the State of Michigan and on the Pacific coast of the United States, were opposed to their promulgation. These interests desired changes in the regulations to harmonize with their views. It is understood that representations to that end were made to Ottawa, but it is now known that Canada months ago positively declined to accept the suggested modifications, and it is generally supposed that the Government has served or is about to serve the United States authorities with notice of withdrawal from the treaty altogether. In any event it is no longer a secret that the Canadian authorities are resolved to not accept the changes proposed by the United States.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Flour—Winter wheat, 90 per cent. patents, firm at $3.45 to $3.50, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours—First patents, $5.30; second patents, $4.80, and strong bakers', $4.60, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba Wheat—No. 1 Northern quoted at $1.09, Bay ports; No. 2 at $1.07 1-2, and No. 3 at $1.06.

Ontario Wheat—No. 2 white, red or mixed, new, 84 to 85c, outside.

Peas—Good milling qualities, 93 to 94c.

Oats—Ontario grades, No. 2 at 38 to 38 1-2c, outside, and No. 3 at 37c, outside. No. 2 Western Canada, 45c, and No. 3 at 44c, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 2 probably worth 75c, outside.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow, 68 1-2 to 69c, Bay ports, and 72 1-2c, Toronto.

Rye—Car lots outside, 72c.

Buckwheat—No. 2 64c, outside.

Bran—Manitobas at $22, in bags, Toronto, and shorts $25, in bags, Toronto. Ontario bran, $22, in bags, Toronto.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked $2.25 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2 to $2.25.

Baled Hay—No. 1 at $11 to $14, on track, and No. 2 at $10 to $11.

Baled Straw—$6 to $6.50, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, $1.25 to $1.30.

Poultry—Chickens, 15 to 16c per lb.; fowl, 11 to 12c; ducks, 14c; turkeys, 15 to 16c. Live poultry about 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

Butter—Dairy prints, 21 to 22c; inferior, 16 to 17c. Creamery quoted at 25 to 26c per lb. for rolls, and 23 to 24c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid, 23 to 24c, and fresh at 22 to 22c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—Large quoted at 14c per lb., and twins at 14 1-2c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon—Long clear, 12c per lb., in case lots. Pork, short cut, $23; do., mess, $26 to $27.

Hams—Medium to light, 17 to 18c; do., heavy, 15 to 15 1-2c; rolls, 11 1-4 to 12c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; backs, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2c; tubs, 10 1-4; pails, 11c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Toronto, Sept. 12. — Oats — Canadian Western, No. 2, 45 1-2 to 46c, car lots ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 45 1-4c; No. 3 C. W., 45c; No. 2 local white, 45 1-2c; No. 3 local white, 44 1-2c; No. 4 local white, 43 1-2c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; seconds, $4.90; Winter wheat patents, $4.75; strong bakers, $4.70; straight rollers, $4.25; in bags, $1.85 to $2. Rolled oats—per barrel, $4.75; bag of 90 lbs., $2.35. Corn—American, No. 3 yellow, 72c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23; Manitoba, $22; middlings, Ontario, $26 to $27; shorts, Manitoba, $24; mouillie, $26 to $32. Eggs, selected, 24 to 26c; No. 1 stock, 20 to 22c. Cheese—Westerns, 13 1-4 to 13 1-2c; easterns, 13 1-8 to 13 1-4c. Butter, choicest, 26 to 26 1-4c; seconds, 25 1-2 to 25 3-4c

WHEAT AT WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept 12.—Cash wheat—No. 1 Northern, $1.02; No. 2 Northern, $1.00; No. 3 Northern, 96c; No. 4, 92 1-2c; No. 5, 85 1-2c; No. 6, 79c; feed, No. 1, 70c. Oats—No. 2 white, 41 1-2c; No. 3 white, 40c; extra feed, 40 3-4c. Barley—No. 3, 72c; No. 4, 65c. Flax—No. 1 North-Western, $2.30; No. 1 Manitoba, $2.22.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Buffalo, Sept. 12.—Spring Wheat—No offerings; Winter, No. 2 red, 92 1-2c; No. 3 red, 90c; No. 2 white, 90c. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 70c; No. 4 yellow, 68 1-4c; No. 3 corn, 68c, all on track, through billed. Oats—No. 2 white, 46 3-4c; No. 3 white, 46c; No. 4 white, 45c. Barley—Malting, $1.15 to $1.20.

Minneapolis, Sept. 12.—Wheat—September, $1.03 1-4; December, $1.05 3-8; May, $1.09 1-8 to $1.09 1-4; No. 1 hard, $1.06 3-4; No. 1 Northern, $1.04 1-4 to $1.06 1-4; No. 2 Northern, $1.00 1-4 to $1.04 1-4; No. 3 wheat, 95 1-4c to $1.02 1-2. Corn—No. 2 yellow, 63 1-4 to 63 1-2c. Oats—No. 3 white, 42 3-4 to 43 1-4c. Rye—No. 2, 80 1-2 to 81. Bran—$20.51 to $21. Flour—First patents, $4.90 to $5.10; do., seconds, $4.40 to $4.65; first clears, $3.25 to $3.45; do., seconds, $2.25 to $2.40.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Extra choice heavy, $6 to $6.25; medium choice, $5.50 to $5.80; choice fat cows, $4.50 to $5.25; bulls, $3 to $5.10; common mixed cows and bulls, $3 to $4.40; canners, $1.50 to $2.75. Stockers and feeders, good quality, firm at $4.25 to $4.85; light common stockers, very slow demand. Sheep—Market steady; ewes $3.25 to $4.25; bucks and culls, $2.50 to $3. Lambs—Market a little firmer at $5.25 to $5.85. Hogs—Market steady to easier at $7.30 f.o.b., and $7.75 fed and watered.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—A carload of mixed North-west cattle brought $5.55, and a few steers at $6. Eastern steers, choice, $6; good, $5.65 to $5.75; medium, $5.25 to $5.50; grass bulls for canning, $3 to $3.50. Cows, best butchers, $4.65 to $4.75; good, $4.25 to $4.50; poor to medium, $3.50 to $4; canners, $2.50 to $3. Old sheep easy at $3.75 to $4 each; lambs were way off at $5 to $5.25; bucks and culls, $2.75 to $3. Select hogs, $7.25 to $7.50; heavy fats, $6; sows, $5.50, and stags $4 per cwt., weighed off cars. Calves, $3 to $10.

SUCCESSION DUTIES.

Total for Ten Months Near Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars.

A despatch from Toronto says: Unless contributions to the Ontario Treasury during the next two months fall considerably below the monthly average since the beginning of the fiscal year, Hon. A. J. Matheson will be able to report a round million in succession duties for twelve months. The financial year closes on October 31, and already up to August 31 the total is $891,294 compared with $540,488 for the same period last year. The August total was $11,011, compared with $31,973 in August of last year

THE NEWS IN A PARAGRAPH

HAPPENINGS FROM ALL OVER THE GLOBE IN A NUTSHELL.

Canada, the Empire and the World in General Before Your Eyes.

CANADA.

The Co-operative Union of Canada is talking of starting a cannery.

D. A. Bucknell, a West Oxford farmer, was fined $5 for whipping a boy.

Incendiary fires are frequent at Belleville.

John Wigglesworth was killed in a London hotel by falling downstairs.

Another advance of ten cents in the price of all grades of sugar is announced.

Oswald Gage, a thirteen-year-old Hamilton boy, was run over by a freight train and killed.

Complaints are made in Hamilton of pictures shown in the moving-picture shows of an anti-British character.

A Cleveland company is to build a million-dollar chemical plant at Hamilton that will employ 1,000 men.

Louis Robert, a seventy-year-old millwright, fell off a hundred-foot trestle at Three Rivers and was killed.

The steamer H. M. Pellatt collided with a drawbridge over the Welland Canal and put the bridge out of business.

A big raft of logs in tow of three tugs was broken up by the storm on Lake Huron near Sarnia, and the logs scattered along the beach for miles.

Judge Leet of Montreal fined the third mate of the steamer Caspedania $5 for piloting the vessel from Quebec to Montreal, sustaining the contention of the pilots' association that only chief officers or regular pilots may do such work.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Burgess swam the English Channel, occupying almost 23 hours.

British exports for August show a decrease, chiefly in manufactured goods.

The Duke of Connaught at the farewell banquet to the Canadian artillery team said he would be sailing for Canada one month hence.

GENERAL.

The Chinese rising against Government railway project occasions anxiety regarding Canadian missionaries in disturbed area.

VAST COLONIZATION SCHEME.

Over 30,000 Roman Catholics to Settle in the West.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: The largest colonization scheme of recent years will be launched immediately in the North-West of Canada. W. C. J. Manning, of Chicago, representing the Catholic Colonization Company, returned south on Thursday night, after having completed arrangements with Western realty agents whereby four million acres of land went under option, to be settled and purchased by Roman Catholics. It is expected by Mr. Manning that between thirty and forty thousand Catholics of the Central States will be brought in within the next few months.

THEIR OFFICIAL TITLES.

How to Address the Duke and Duchess of Connaught.

A despatch from Ottawa says: According to an official notice issued by the Secretary of State's Department, Canada's new Governor-General will be known while in the Dominion as "his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada." It has been the custom to address the Governor-General as "his Excellency," and as many inquiries were received from cities and towns throughout the country desirous of presenting addresses of welcome to the Duke, official notice has been promulgated. The Duchess will be known as "her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught."

PARACHUTE FAILED TO OPEN.

Balloonist Probably Fatally Injured at Cornwall Fair.

A despatch from Cornwall says: A serious accident marked the second day of the Cornwall Fair, when A. N. Woodward, of Parrishville, N. Y., was injured in executing a balloon ascension and parachute drop. The high wind delayed the start until 6 p.m., and when Woodward finally rose it was seen that the balloon was insufficiently filled. Woodward attempted a drop, but his parachute did not open until he was within ten feet of the ground, and he landed heavily. He now lies in the General Hospital here, and the extent of his injuries has not been ascertained as

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

HOW THE PRINCIPLE OF INVESTING IN ACCORDANCE WITH REQUIREMENTS WORKS OUT IN PRACTICE.

John Smith, Who Was Recently Appointed Trustee of an Estate, Finds That Investing Requires Some Thought—An Illustration of Some of the Information Which we Have Recently studied Affects Price.

(By "Investor")

In the first of this series it was shown that "distribution of risk" is an important principle of investment. It is a very simple one, however, involving no very confused ideas. There is another principle to be borne in mind when making investments which is of no less importance, but it is, however, considerably less obvious to those whose investment experience is small—and even to many who should understand its actions thoroughly. This is the principle of investment "in accordance with actful requirements."

John Smith went into a bond dealers office to invest some money which he held as trustee for the children of his brother, who had recently died. He had never been possessed of sufficient money before to invest, so, naturally, knew little of how to go about it. Therefore, he did the best thing he could think of under the circumstances, and told the bond dealer that he wanted to invest $10,000.

"Well," said the dealer, "here's our list. You can pick out something to suit you from that lot," and he gave him a booklet containing a list of so many bonds and securities of various sorts that Smith became confused. Like the Irishman with the bill-of-fare printed in French, he cast his eye down the list until he saw something familiar, and said. "I guess I'll have some of those," pointing to a preferred stock, such as some bond dealers carry for some clients of a semi-speculative turn. "Certainly," said the broker. "Those shares constitute a very fair speculative investment with good prospects of appreciation." But as the company is not yet firmly established we do not recommend them to investors who cannot afford to lose their capital, nor to those who wish something that is readily salable. As the company is small and the demand for the stock not great, it is possible to sell only when orders such as yours come in." As most reputable bond dealers and investment stock brokers are equally frank with their customers and clients, Smith was no more fortunate than the average investor would be. It is lucky it was so in his case, for he at once changed his mind as to his decision. "I'm afraid it won't do," he said hastily. "The money I have to invest I hold as a trustee of an estate, and have to turn it over to the heirs when they come of age. The eldest will be twenty-one in eighteen months and the two others at intervals of two years or so after. So you see I shall have to turn over the securities or cash at that time, and as I have to give each his third of the $10,000 in cash I would prefer to put the money in a bank and not worry over it. Unfortunately, however, the income at five per cent is little enough to support them, although they are at work and earning a little. I cannot, of course, buy anything that is at all risky, and I must also have something that I can sell at any time at just about what I paid for it. I intended to put it into mortgages, but I fortunately remembered that no one would want to borrow for only 18 months, or even three years and a half—that is, no one who would be able to pay back the principal at the end of that time without delay, and, perhaps, the expense of foreclosing. Then of course, I know how hard it is to sell mortgages except at a heavy discount from their face value, because I've tried for two years to sell a small one. No, sir! mortgages wont do."

"Of course not," said the bond dealer. "It is very fortunate," he continued, "that I know now just your requirements. You say you want something safe, which will yield you about five per cent., that possesses the feature of ready convertibility into cash, and one that will retain its market value. In fact, the only important feature you don't seem to require is prospect of appreciating in value. Your's is certainly a difficult case because five per cent. is a fairly high rate to accompany the three other features when they are present to the high degree you require. If you had wanted only safety and stability of value I could have chosen a dozen good bonds from our list of municipals. For municipal bonds are not dealt in except through private sale, and, therefore, are not subject to market fluctuations. If you had wanted safety and convertibility I could have picked several public service bonds, or even Ontario Government bonds, which are quoted daily on the Canadian exchanges, and can be sold readily, or if you wanted moderate safety and a high rate and good prospect of appreciation I could pick out a number of excellent bonds of manufacturing concerns—we call them industrial bonds—which would have suited you to a T. What you want is a bond close to maturity, which will be paid off at par and which many people are glad to buy for that reason, and which will give you a good return, as they sell close to par. There are not many such bonds. I happen, however, to have about four thousand dollars of a municipal issue which is due in three years time, on which the interest is 5 per cent. I can sell it at 101, which will yield you about 4 1-2 per cent—in fact, 4.53 per cent. That will cost you [illegible] and in June, 1914, you will receive $4,000. However, don't forget that out of the $200 you receive each year you must keep $13.36, which will amount to $40 at the end of the time, as you lose $40 of your capital, which I allow for in the interest rate, for I say it yields you 4.5-8 per cent, which means you get 4.5-8 per cent on your investment and enough to save the $40. Then for the balance I can give you some Canadian Northern Railway Equipment bonds, which are absolutely safe, and which can be got in maturities to suit almost anybody. These will yield you about the same rate and therefore sell at a price depending on the time they have to run. Those due in a year and a half I can sell at 100 3-4, which will yield just 4 1-2 per cent., while one due in five years sells at 102 1-4 and yields the same rate. You don't understand the price? Oh, the 102 1-4 means that for every $100 of par value you pay $102.25. So that for a $1,000 bond you must pay ten times the price of a $100 bond, or $1,022.50, while for a $50 bond—if such were ever issued—you will pay $51.12. This is the way stocks are quoted too. Bank of Commerce shares sell at 208, but as they are only $50 par value the actual cost is $104 per share. The price is always given on the basis of $100 par value."

"Well," said John Smith, "I am really very much obliged, and you have undoubtedly saved me a great deal of worry and probably financial loss."

This conversation, while imaginary, is typical of what often takes place between broker and client or bond dealer and customer. It shows admirably how the various points we have been illustrating during the past few weeks are used in practise, and indicates clearly that they are not merely theoretical "bosh." They are serious, practical questions, which cannot be overlooked with impunity.

RADIUM IN AUSTRALIA.

Vast Lode of High Grade Found on Mount Painter.

A despatch from Sydney says: Dr. Douglas Mawson, the Antarctic explorer, has again visited Mount Painter, in northern South Australia, where he claimed to have discovered radium some time ago. He now says that he has discovered a vast lode of high grade of radium ore three miles long and several hundred yards wide. He has a quarter of a ton of the ore ready for shipment, and says that he figures on a net profit of £227 sterling the ton. He also found big deposits of corundum in the neighborhood.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER
INSURES PERFECT BAKING RESULTS
CONTAINS NO ALUM
MADE IN CANADA
MAKES THE WHITEST, LIGHTEST
MAGIC BAKING POWDER
NEW STYLE LABEL
E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED TORONTO, ONT.

AMBITIOUS PRINCE RUPERT

Agreement With Grand Trunk Pacific to Build Drydock and Shops Carried.

A despatch from Prince Rupert, B. C., says: The agreement signed June 3 with the Grand Trunk Pacific, to establish great industries in town, was voted on on Saturday, and carried with a majority of four hundred and eighteen. The company is to pay taxes to the amount of fifteen thousand dollars a year, for ten years, on all railway lands here, and give thirty-two hundred feet of water frontage, also a number of sections for parks and a City Hall site; also sixty acres for a cemetery site. It has agreed to start work at once on a two and a half million dollar drydock. The station, machine, car shops, and roundhouse are to cost a million dollars. The plans of these works are here, and work has commenced.

The majority for the new waterworks and electric plants was one hundred and eighty-three to raise five hundred and fifty thousand dollars to be paid off during the next fifty years. This will give work to a number of men for the next year, while under construction.

GOLD SEEKING STAMPEDE.

Rush From Ashcroft, B. C., to New Rich Field.

A despatch from Ashcroft, B. C., says: Something like the feverish activity of the early mining days seized Ashcroft at daylight on Wednesday morning, when stampeders started for Springhouse to stake claims on a silver, lead and gold ledge recently located by a prospector named Perkins, who reached town on Tuesday with news of his strike. Springhouse is a point in Cailleotin County, north-west of Clinton, and about 250 miles from Ashcroft.

50,000 TREES AFFECTED.

"Little Peach" Disease is General in Niagara District.

A despatch from Toronto says: Mr. P. W. Hodgetts, Superintendent of Horticulture for Ontario, stated on Wednesday that 50,000 peach trees in the Niagara district would have to be removed on account of the "little peach" pest. The disease, he says, is prevalent throughout the Niagara district. The inspectors have been working recently in north Grimsby and Fonthill, but have not found these places worse than others. Mr. Hodgetts expressed the belief that the measures now being taken to eradicate the disease will prove effective.

DEPRESSION IN GERMANY.

Cause by Uncertainty of Moroccan Negotiations.

A despatch from Berlin says: Continued uncertainty of belief as to the outcome of the prolonged Franco-German conversations added to bad crop prospects and the weakness of Wall Street, has caused considerable depression on the Boerse. There is an increased number of runs on savings banks in various cities of Germany, notably in Koenigsberg. The Berlin Chamber of Commerce, in view of the high prices of foodstuffs, will petition the Government to apply the third special tariff on grain, fodder, etc., so as to check the export of grain. The Merchants' Guild, of Berlin, is moving to secure the importation of foodstuffs from America and Argentina.

TO LOWER FOOD PRICES

French Cabinet Approves of Scheme to Ameliorate Conditions.

A despatch from Paris says: The Cabinet at its meeting on Thursday approved the budget for 1912. It carries appropriations amounting to 4,503,187,587 francs, or about $900,763,517, an increase of the expenses provided for last year of 173,000,000 francs (about $34,600,000). Premier Caillaux submitted a project which will allow communes the privilege of operating municipal butcher stores a[illegible] ments, and in this way keep [illegible] the price of meat and re[illegible] Coubaya and Pams, t[illegible] of Commerce and Agriculture respectively, made a report on their investigation on the present high cost of living. The report stated that the same conditions prevailed throughout Europe. The Cabinet approved a scheme to ameliorate the situation by facilitating the importation of cattle and frozen meats by installing refrigerating and storage plants, of which there are a lack in France, by demanding that the railways lower their rates [illegible] portation of food, and [illegible] tariffs on fodders.

FROM MERRY OLD ENGLAND

NEWS BY MAIL ABOUT JOHN BULL AND HIS PEOPLE.

Occurrences in the Land That Reigns Supreme in the Commercial World.

The House of Parliament at Westminster cover nine acres of ground.

Smallpox at Wellasey is spreading, three more cases having been admitted to the hospital.

Northumberland miners have declared in favor of a strike for the abolition of three-shift system.

Hampstead Borough Council has approved the expenditure of $62,000 for altering and enlarging the Town Hall.

A shark measuring five feet in length has been captured at Penzance by Mr. Howard while angling for pollack.

At the London Guildhall Library last year there were 472,297 readers and visitors, the highest number on record.

Another lunatic asylum at epson, to cost £459,200, is projected by the Asylums Committee of the London Country Council.

During last year 9,915 horses were examined at city wharves prior to being exported abroad, and of these 211 were rejected.

A Leeds boy named Thomas William Gibbon, has been awarded $500 for injuries received when knocked down by a motor car.

Directors of the Surrey Public-house Trust Company report that 10 per cent. of the business done during the past year was in non-alcoholic drinks.

A Leeds employer, connceted with one of the largest firms states that if the National Insurance Bill passes he will have to discharge 400 men.

Seven families have been found in one house at Swansea, and 900 applications have been made for council houses, not one of which is vacant.

A pit pony has died at New Hawne Colliery, Halesowen, Worcestershire, which has worked in coal mines for 40 years, during 12 of which it never saw daylight.

A net profit of $60,000 was made last year upon the electric lighting undertaking of the Hammersmith Borough Council, and $63,000 upon that of St. Pancras.

Mr. Robert Jones, the late workhouse master at St. Asaph, has left a legacy of £800 to be sent on giving orphan children a start in life when they leave the workhouse.

John Tinton, of Abersychan, who shot through a door and killed his wife, who had run out of the room after a quarrel, has been sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

Much damage has been done to commons in various parts of Surrey by fire, caused by the intense heat. At Elstead upwards of sixty acres of Hankley Common were devastated.

Among the latest additions to the Zoological Gardens is a swarm of small black bees, called angelitos, from Jamaica. Although provided with a stinging apparatus, they do not sting.

Mrs. Spierpoint, the wife of a mechanic living at Latchmere grove, Battersea, was bathing her five months' old son, when she fainted, and the child fell into the water and was drowned.

The late Mr. Woodman Peters, of St. Austell, Cornwall, who left a fortune of £98,674, was born of poor parents, and started work as a laborer in a china clay pit, earning from 12s to 15s. a week.

A young man named William Salmon shot himself dead at Hull after threatening his sweetheart, Alice Howcroft, and her sister with a revolver. He had been keeping company with Alice Howcroft, but they quarrelled.

Of seventy persons who were attacked by smallpox during the recent outbreak in London twenty-two had never been vaccinated, and of the eleven deaths nine were those of unvaccinated persons.

While Walker John Beare was removing from the front of his house in Copperfield road, Mile End, London, a signboard that he considered unlucky he fell from a ladder and was fatally injured.

The spire of Shalfleet Church, in the Isle of Wight, which is so well known from the legend that "The Shalfleet poor and silly people sold their bells to buy a steeple." has become so dilapidated that it is to be demolished.

Try For Breakfast—

Scramble two eggs. When nearly cooked, mix in about half a cup of

Post Toasties

and serve at once—seasoning to taste.

It's immense!

"The Memory Lingers"

Canadian Postum Cereal Company, Limited, Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

A STORM ON GALILEE.

Squalls That Last for An Hour Do Great Havoc.

The Sea of Galilee is not always calm. The mountains immediately adjoining are 2,000 feet high, and through their deep gorges the storm winds are sucked into the hollow of the lake, so that sudden squalls come literally out of a blue sky.

One charming spring morning we started out to sail from Tiberias to Capernaum, says a writer in the Travel Magazine. There was not a ripple on the water or a cloud in the heavens. But when we were a quarter of a mile from shore our boatmen noticed a band of rough water rushing toward us from the other side of the lake. In spite of our remonstrances, they immediately gave up the plan for making Capernaum, took down sail with such frantic haste that they nearly upset the boat, and then rowed for the land with all their might and with such excited urgings to one another that we thought them a very cowardly crew.

But hardly had the boat been beached in a sheltering cove when the wind was blowing down on us from the mountains and the heavy breakers were foaming along the shore as far out into the lake as we could see. A quarter of an hour later later the Sea of Galilee was again as level as a mirror, and only a soft, warm breeze was blowing over the smiling waters.

A GENTLE LAXATIVE FOR THE BABY

Stomach and bowel troubles is the cause of nine-tenths of the ailments from which little ones suffer. Let the little stomach and bowels be kept right and baby will be happy, healthy and strong. The only sure and safe means of keeping baby's stomach and bowels sweet and regular is to give him an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets are a gentle laxative, they sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, expel worms, break up colds and prevent or cure the dozens of ailments that afflict the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE KING AND MELANIE.

A Little Incident Which Shows the Kindness of The King.

King George is not destitute of the tact and graciousness which made his father beloved, even though he may not possess them in so remarkable a degree. The little incident which follows was printed in the New York Sun. It gives a pleasing glimpse of the new King, and implies his entire approbation of the entente cordiale with the nation across the Channel.

Melanie is a little French servant, who lives with an English family in London. She has not been there very long, and has not had time to learn the language. But she is generally pleased with her English life, except that she finds that it rains a great deal, and that the sky is often gloomy with the smoke of the great city.

The other day she was sent by her mistress to accompany Miss Jenny, the daughter of the house, in Hyde Park. When she arrived there, and was about to cross the Row, she was brought to a standstill by a large crowd. Knowing that the English are serious people, who do not waste their time merely for the pleasure of wasting it, she waited to see what would happen.

And presently the King and the Queen went by on horseback. Riding in front of them were two of the royal children, and three equerries were in attendance in the rear. The King and Queen bowed right and left, and the crowd took off their hats and applauded with their hands, and the little bonne, knowing no English, but apprehending from her young English companion that it was the sovereign of the English people, cried in her native tongue, "Vive le roi! Vive la reine!"

Now Melanie called so loudly, and in so strong a voice, that every one heard, including their majesties, who smiled very graciously, and reining in their horses, they came close by to where the young girl stood. She was fluttered with fear, until the King spoke, and said, in beautiful French:

"There is a person here who has greeted us in French; we want to thank her." Whereupon the young servant owned that it was she who had cried, "Vive le roi!"

Then his majesty said, "It is the first time that any one has called, 'Vive le roi!' in French since I came to the throne. My father often had the pleasure to being greeted in this way."

Then the Queen asked, in French, which she seemed to speak with less facility than the King, "Have you been long in London?" and Melanie answered, "About six months."

"I think the English bien-gentils et bien polis," she further answered the King, and made his majesty laugh by saying that she would like England very much if it did not rain so constantly.

BABY'S TERRIBLE ECZEMA.

Five Doctors Failed to Relieve, but Zam-Buk Worked a Cure.

Mrs. Chas. Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says:—"My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was so serious that at one time we feared her ears would be eaten off by the disease.

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her in vain, until we had had five doctors.

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk worked a complete cure."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, tetter, itch, ringworm and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Refuse imitations.

NEW KIND OF FRUIT.

A new kind of fruit has been discovered in a garden at Dunstable, Bedfordshire, England. It is neither a gooseberry nor a black currant, and yet possesses the qualities of both. The wood is distinctly that of a gooseberry, but the berries, which are as large as a cherry, and maroon in color, are growing in bunches exactly like those of black currants, while the flavor is difficult to define. At the Dunstable Horticultural Show it was agreed that a new fruit for the table may be the outcome of the strange cross.

An Easy Pill to Take.—Some persons have repugnance to pills because of their nauseating taste. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so prepared as to make them agreeable to the most fastidious. The most delicate can take them without feeling the revulsion that follows the taking of ordinary pills. This is one reason for the popularity of these celebrated pills, but the main reason is their high tonical quality as a medicine for the stomach.

The girl who delights in keeping a man on the rack may find herself later on the shelf.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

POPULATION OF SCOTLAND

In a Parliamentary return issued showing the areas, population and valuation of the counties, burghs and parishes in Scotland, the total area, revised by the Ordnance Survey Department up to December 31st, 1910 was given as 19,070,466 acres, the population at the census of the present year 4,759,445, and the total valuation £32,835,947. The most populous county is Lanark, with 1,447,113, the next in order being Edinburgh with 507,662 and Renfrew with 314,574. The highest valuations are Lanark £9,692,644; Edinburgh, £4,765,095, Aberdeen £1,965,121, and Renfrew £1,895,289.

They keep the whole system in the pink of condition.

Their singular curative properties discovered by an Indian tribe—introduced to civilization nearly a century ago—compounded since 1857 in the Comstock Laboratories at Brockville, Ontario.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

have a remarkable record for consistently curing constipation, biliousness and indigestion, purifying the blood, banishing headaches and clearing the skin. 25c. a box everywhere.

Well, Well!

DY-O-LA

ONE DYE FOR ALL KINDS OF GOODS

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 10. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

THE WITNESS.

Hudson—Has Jones a good memory?

Judson—No; he forgets to remember instead of remembering to forget.

REST AND HEALTH TO MOTHER AND CHILD.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over SIXTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. It is absolutely harmless. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

BITTERLY DISAPPOINTED.

"Did you have a good time at Mrs. Gaddaway's last night?"

"Not very. I was disappointed."

"How?"

"Well, several people wanted Miss Mickleworth to sing."

"And she refused?"

"No, after holding out for quite awhile she consented."

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

WHAT ELSE COULD HE DO?

Mother—Now, Bobby, you must not get into any fights with the neighbor children.

Bobby—But, mamma, I've got to get acquainted with them some way.

The Bowels Must Act Healthy.—In most ailments the first care of the medical man is to see that the bowels are open and fully performing their functions. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so compounded that certain ingredients in them act on the bowels solely and they are the very best medicine available to produce healthy action of the bowels. Indeed, there is no other specific so serviceable in keeping the digestive organs in healthful action.

Mrs. Newbride—"Boo-hoo! Henry threw a cake at me. One that I made myself, too!" Mother—"The monster! He might have killed you!"

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

Mrs. Newlywed—"The night you proposed you acted like a fish out of water." Mr. Newlwed—"I was—and very cleverly landed, too."

No person should go from home without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial in their possession, as change of water, cooking, climate, etc., frequently brings on summer complaint, and there is nothing like being ready with a sure remedy at hand, which oftentimes saves great suffering and frequently valuable lives. This Cordial has gained for itself a widespread reputation for affording prompt relief from all summer complaints.

Cultivate the great art of leaving people alone, even those you think you have a right to direct in the minutest particular.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

KISSING THE BRIDE.

At a certain church it is the pleasing custom at a marriage for the clergyman to kiss the bride after the ceremony. A young lady who was about to be married in the church did not relish the prospect, and instructed her prospective husband when making arrangements to tell the clergyman that she did not wish him to kiss her. The bridegroom did as directed.

"Well, George," said the young lady when he appeared, "did you tell the clergyman that I did not wish him to kiss me?"

"Oh, yes."

"And what did he say?"

"He said that in that case he would charge only half the usual fee."

The laughter and tears of a woman are equally deceptive.

TOO MUCH GOLD THE CAUSE.

Scientist Assigns New Reason for High Cost of Living.

An interesting suggestion is made in regard to the increased cost of living, which, like an earth wave, has sent a tremor throughout Europe, causing food riots in France, an outcry against the butchers in Belgium, and protests against dearer meat and milk in Germany, while it is largely responsible for the labor unrest in England.

This suggestion is that the enormous output of gold in recent years has upset the balance of prices and that the world has not yet shaken itself down to a true adjustment.

Statistics show conclusively that in England, on the continent, and in North America nearly all the commoner and most necessary articles of food have been steadily rising in price since the century opened. Meat, especially bacon, in England the poor man's favorite food; milk, bread and sugar all cost more. It is calculated that there is a ten per cent. increase in the weekly budget of household expenses in England.

Prof. Chapman at the meeting of the British Association predicted that the next three years would be an era of strikes, due to the fact that, whereas up to 1896 the cost of living had been falling it had since then been rising.

Whether the corn be of old or new growth, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Cure, the simplest and best cure offered to the public.

It Testifies for Itself.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil needs no testimonial of its powers other than itself. Whoever tries it for coughs or colds, for cuts or contusions, for sprains or burns, for pains in the limbs or body, well know that the medicine proves itself and needs no guarantee. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

NOT EXACTLY.

Conductor—"Did you get out and stretch your legs, when we stopped at the junction?"

Passenger—"Well, not exactly; I went into the dining-car and had them pulled."

St. Joseph, Levis, July 14, 1905.
Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Gentlemen,—I was badly kicked by my horse last May and after using several preparations on my leg nothing would do. My leg was black as jet. I was laid up in bed for a fortnight and could not walk. After using three bottles of your MINARD'S LINIMENT I was perfectly cured, so that I could start on the road
JOS. DUBES,
Commercial Traveler.

UNLUCKY.

"That was rough on Davis."

"What?"

"He stepped on a piece of orange peel, fell, and was arrested for giving a street performance without a license."

The destruction of the house fly is a public duty. Almost every American State Board of Health is carrying on a crusade against him. His filthy origin and habits, and the fact that his body is generally laden with disease-producing germs, makes him one of the greatest enemies of the human race. If the housekeepers of Canada will use Wilson's Fly Pads persistently, this peril would be tremendously reduced.

EASILY TOLD.

"How do you know that your daughter's music is improving?"

"The neighbors are getting more friendly."

Accidents, Burns, Scalds, Sprains, Bruises, Bumps, Cuts, Wounds, all are painful. Hamlins Wizard Oil draws out the inflammation and gives instant relief. Don't wait for the accident. Buy it now.

AFTER THE WEDDING.

"What's the matter here?" asked the caller, noticing the barren appearance of the house. "Sent your goods away to be stored?"

"No," replied the hostess. "Not at all. My daughter was married last week and she has merely taken away the things that she thought belonged to her."

COLLATERAL VALUE OF BONDS

¶ Bonds generally speaking are considered by bankers, financial men and corporations as the most desirable collateral—or security for loans—because of their salability.

¶ Financial men know by experience that good bonds will appreciate in value—because of the reasonable certainty of increase in the value of the security behind them.

¶ The investor in bonds has an absolute assurance that, should it ever become a necessity he could find ready sale for them and convert them into cash on the shortest notice without entailing more than a nominal cost in the way of commission for selling them.

¶ View it as one may, Bonds as an investment undoubtedly have all points in their favor, whether from appreciation in value security for the money invested, salability, or a good income.

¶ Let us send you our literature on "Bond" investments. Drop a card.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION
LIMITED
BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING
YONGE AND QUEEN STS.
TORONTO

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

"Try some chicken, sir."

"Give me anything but chicken."

"Have chicken fricasse, sir. There's everything in that except chicken!"

Many mothers have reason to bless Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, because it has relieved the little ones of suffering and made them healthy.

BIG DIFFERENCE.

He—Did Maude say that marriage is a failure?

She—Yes; before her wedding she used to get 90-cent chocolates and now she gets the 25-cent brand.

Every packet of Wilson's Fly Pads will kill more flies than can possibly be caught on three hundred sheets of sticky paper.

If you have to wait for anything keep busy at it while you are waiting.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

A good bluff makes more noise than great riches.

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED.—A study of other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers' Dept., 229 Albert St., Ottawa.

UNEMPLOYED MEN OR WOMEN, DO you wish to make five Dollars day for balance of year? If so, consult J. L. Nichole Co., Limited, Toronto.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply B. C. I. Co., 229 Albert St., Ottawa.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

FEATHER DYEING

Cleaning and Curling and Kid Gloves cleaned. These can be sent by post, 1c per oz. The best place is

BRITISH AMERICAN DYEING CO.
MONTREAL.

Canada Business College
CHATHAM, ONT.

In a class by itself Among America's Schools of Business Training.

414 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1909
385 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1910
475 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1911

We publish the lists annually.

We pay full fare up to $2.00, and bring long distance students for half fare.

Good board and room, $3.00 per week.

If you cannot come to Chatham, we can train you by mail.

Here are some students placed recently: Nate Wade, Cameron & Heap, Regina. E. Burk, Nicholson & Bain, Regina. H. Wood, Trust Co., Cheboygan, Mich.

Eight calls just received for Stenographers, Teachers, and Auditors, for openings worth from $600 to $1500, will give you some idea of the demands.

COLLEGE REOPENS FOR 47TH YEAR SEPTEMBER 5TH.

Catalogue 22 tells of work at Chatham. Catalogue 24 tells of work by mail (Either Free.)

D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. S. College, Chatham, Ont.

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

W. W. TAMAN
Merchant Tailor,
Exeter, Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	82	82
Barley	50	60
Buckwheat	48	50
Oats	38	38
Peas	70	75
Potatoes, per bag	1 00	1 00
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 45	1 45
Butter	16	19
Eggs	19	19
Live hogs, per cwt		7 25
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chichen	alive	10c.	dry picked	12c
Hens	"	8c.	"	00
Roosters	"	6c.	"	00
Turkey	"	12c.	"	14c
Ducks	"	0c	"	11c

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

Our wedding stationery is of the latest, types of the best, workmanship unsurpassed and prices right. Prospective brides should call at the Advocate and see for themselves.

Bias Filled Corsets for comfort, for style, for fit $1.00 to $4.00. Special styles for full figures—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Heaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

Ahrens' Grain and Box Calf Boots for men, for women, for Children. All sold under a double guarantee—Stewart's

GIRLS WANTED

Apply to D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

GIRLS WANTED—Good Cook and a Kitchen girl—good wages. Apply to Queen's Hotel, London.

Cushion Sole Shoes for men and women with tender feet, lots of comfort in them—Stewart's.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED—At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on boys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

That 36 inch dollar Black Dress Silk is a hummer "Stewart's

CISTERN AND WELL CLEANING.—Those having cisterns or wells that need cleaning will do well to have the work done at once. We do it to your satisfaction.—ALBERT GOWER, Exeter N.

Will J. White's efforts as a comic singer were crowned with marked success. He carried his audience into convulsions of laughter, so funny were his actions and sayings. He is a natural and refined comic.—Toronto "Once-a-Week." Opera House, Exeter, on Fair night. Popular prices.

PEACHES.—If you want peaches get them from Well. Johns, at his old stand They are first-class, and grown by Mr. Wm. Trott of Beamsville, formerly of Exeter.

PEARL CRESCENT BROOCH LOST.—On or near Main Street, Exeter, Saturday, Sept. 9th. Finder kindly return to Advocate Office.

Nomination of candidates for the Dominion House takes place at Hensall to-day.

Editor Advocate—

My Dear Sir,—I sincerely trust that the physicians and surgeons of South Huron will give a hand to assist in cutting out the Reciprocity Cancer on the 21st inst. before it comes to a head.

A British Subject

LOCAL DOINGS.

Donald C. MacGregor is one of the greatest baritones heard here in a long time. Hear him sing at the Opera House at Exeter Fair night.

Harry Elworthy lost a valuable cow through death last week.

Rev. Stewart of London occupied the Presbyterian pulpit on Sunday.

Mr. Frank Durdle has moved into the house north of Mrs. Horney's residence on Main street.

Mr. Thos. Prior last week moved into his home on Elizabeth Street recently occupied by Dr. Rouston.

The remains of the late Bertram C. Gidley were brought here Friday morning and interred in Exeter cemetery.

Mr. Asa Penhale has recovered nicely from his recent kick in the head by a horse, whereby he was bruised and cut somewhat.

The date of Thanksgiving Day has not yet been fixed by the Government, but it will probably be Monday, October 30th.

The many friends of Mr. George Coward and Mr. John Duncan of Usborne are pleased to know that they are now considered out of danger and improving nicely.

Hear MacGregor and White at the Opera House, Exeter, Fair Night. Going in—I wonder if MacGregor can sing Coming out—I could listen to him all night.

Miss Ethel M. Pickard of Calgary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pickard, late of Seaforth and formerly of Exeter, was married on Sept. 1st to Mr. A. Linder.

The man who gets mad at what the newspaper says about him should return thanks three times a day for what the newspaper knew about him and suppressed.

The Sunday School of the Trivitt Memorial Church will in future be held in the afternoon commencing at 3 o'clock instead of in accordance with the usual custom.

Rev. J. W Graham of Toronto will occupy the James Street pulpit Sunday morning next, and the Main street pulpit in the evening, Rev. Powell taking the other services

Mr. James Frayne desires to thank the directors of the Huron Weather Insurance Mutual Co. for their just and agreeable settlement according to the agreement in this policy.

A "Seven Social" will be held in the basement of the Presbyterian Church, on Friday, September 22nd. Be sure to attend. Proceeds in aid of Mission Work in Lumber Camps.

Let us work and stimulate every legitimate enterprise by giving it all the friendly encouragement we can, and unite our industry, intelligence and capital in a common cause for the good of our town.

Rally Sunday will be observed in the Methodist churches on Sunday, Sept. 24. Rev. S. T. Bartlett of Toronto, secretary of the Epworth League and Sunday School Department will take the services and address the scholars.

Mr. Geo. Cudmore, Mrs. Fraser, Misses Rose and Grace Cudmore, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Prior attended the funeral of Mrs. Copp at Seaforth on Monday. Deceased was a sister of Mr. Cudmore and Mrs. Prior. She died at Ingersoll at the home of a daughter.

At the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair in Guelph December 11-15, the following specials for Huron County exhibitors have been donated by Huron County Council,—For the best Beef Animal shown by an amateur exhibitor resident of Huron, $15; For second prize $10.

Some complaint has come regarding the giving of half the road in case of an automobile coming up behind a team. The parties claim that when they come up behind a person with a team he stubbornly refuses to give any of the road, no matter if there is plenty of room to turn out. Now the law recognizes the right of both the man with the team and the man with the auto, and these rights should be respected. There are plenty of men who are running autos who should be driving ox teams vice versa, but all men should not be treated that way. The law says that when a man is overtaken by a faster vehicle, the man driving the slower vehicle shall turn out and give half of the beaten path.

The funniest of funny men, Will J. White, fairly convulsed the audience with his songs and sayings and triple encores were in order.—Barrie Examiner. —Hear him at Opera House Fair night.

ROOF BLOWN OFF.—Quite a heavy gale of wind passed over the northern section of Huron County on Monday night last, and a lot of damage is reported between here and Gederich. The only damage done in the immediate vicinity to the barn of Mr. Geo. Blatchford, Exeter North, about three parts of the south half of the roof having been blown off.

OUR CANADIAN NATIONAL HERITAGE.—The Rev. D. W. Collins, rector of the Trivitt Memorial Church, will preach a special sermon on Sunday evening next on the subject of "Our Canadian National Heritage." This timely discourse will be awaited with a great deal of pleasurable anticipation and those in attendance may expect something of a most interesting nature along those lines.

FATHER DEAD.—Mr. J. G. Stanbury was called to Bayfield on Thursday owing to the death that morning of his father, Dr. Richard Stanbury, aged 77 years. Deceased had been failing for some months, but had been confined to his room only a few days. The late Dr. Stanbury was highly respected by all who knew him. He is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter, Dr. John Stanbury of Toronto, J. G. Stanbury of Exeter and Miss Flossie M. Stanbury of Bayfield. He was a member of the C. O. F. and of the Presbyterian church. The funeral took place to the Bayfield Cemetery on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. D. W. Collins is attending the Synod meeting at London this week.

Rev. C. W. Sanders of Brantford visited at his old home here the latter part of last week.

Mrs. J. A. Rollins has just returned from a two weeks' visit to Hamilton, Toronto and Niagara Falls.

Miss Ella Baker, who has been on a trip to the West with her parents, returned home on Thursday last.

Mr. David Langford and A. L. Langford of Regina, Sask., are spending a few days with Mrs. G. F. Roulston.

Mrs. Wilkinson of West Escanada, Minn., visited her sister, Mrs. C. Birney a couple days the latter part of last week.

Mr. McGillicuddy of Watford is the guest of his son, Dr. McGillicuddy. Miss McGillicuddy also spent part of the week here.

Reeve John Taylor returned on Tuesday morning from a trip through the Western provinces. Mr. Taylor reports a most enjoyable trip. It is several years since he made a similar trip and he naturally found great changes.

London Fair is on this week, and the visitors from here are many.—Mrs. Silas Handford, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. A. Marchand; Mr. J. A. Stewart and family; Mrs. R. G. Seldon; Mrs. R. N. Creech; Mrs. W. J. Heaman; Mr. and Mrs. Mantle; Well. Johns; Wm Tapp, Miss Louise Sweet, Mrs. Harry Parsons, Miss Lucy Lawson, and many others.

Workmen are busily engaged in laying the mains on Wellington street to the Grand Trunk tracks to supply the company with water.

The funeral of the late William Coward on Thursday last was very largely attended—a tribute to the worth of the man and showing the sympathy felt for the family.

On Sunday night last while Mr. Rich. Davis was bedding his horses one of the animals kicked him in the leg and as a consequence has been off duty since nursing the injured member.

DIED IN HOSPITAL.—Word has been received of the death of a former well-known resident of Exeter, in the person of Mr. Matthew Kelland, who died in Victoria Hospital, London, on Tuesday afternoon, at the age of 82 years. At the time of going to press we are unable to give fuller particulars, but which will appear next week.

Section 24 of The Agricultural Societies Act is amended by adding the following subsection.—If the Superintendent on or before the thirty-first day of December in any year receives proof by the joint affidavit of the President and Secretary or Secretary-Treasurer that rain or snow has fallen at the place of holding an exhibition and before three o'clock in the afternoon on any day of the holding of an exhibition, and upon his being satisfied that as a consequence the gate receipts were less than the average of the previous three years of holding the exhibition, the society shall be entitled to receive a grant equal to one-half of the difference between the gate receipts of the current year and the average of the gate receipts of the previous three years, but the amount to be paid shall not exceed three hundred dollars, and the total amount so paid to all societies shall not exceed ten thousand dollars.

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Portland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Mr. Geo. Hawkins has returned from Toronto.

Mr. Combes of Blyth is visiting Mr. A. Hastings.

Mr. Fred. Sanders of Toronto is visiting at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Spackman returned to Guelph last week.

Mrs. Moncur has returned from a visit with her son at Guelph.

Miss Winnie Huston, milliner, has accepted a position in Hamilton.

Mr. W. May visited in Mitchell Sunday and Mr. W. Melville in Fullarton.

Mr. Wes. Farson of St. Thomas spent part of the week visiting friends here.

Mr. J. Taman and Mr. Best of Seaforth visited W. W. Taman over Sunday.

Miss La Belle Handford left Tuesday to take a course in Alma College, St. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moir of Hensall were visitors at Mr. Thos. Kernick's on Friday.

Miss Anna L. Martin and Mr. Ed. L. Willis are attending Model School at Clinton.

Misses Lyda and Essie Walters of Goderich visited at Mr. H'y Elworthy's last week.

Mr. Strathan returned to his home in Michigan Monday, after a visit with Mr. Wm. Fletcher.

Mrs. Percy Webber and Miss Charlotte Dearing returned Saturday from a trip to the west.

Miss Ida Gourley of Windsor and the Misses Hanson of Fullarton visited last week at Mr. D. Mill's.

Miss Effie Trebie, Miss Elva and Miss Gladys Ford, and Misses Nellie and Hazel Bissett have returned from Toronto.

Mr. John Norry returned from Stratford last week and is engaged in laying the water mains on Station street.

Mr. Ern. Gidley of Duluth accompanied the remains of his brother, Bert., here on Friday last and remained a few days.

Mr. G. W. Holman was here from Egmondville over Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. Holman is ill at the home of Mr. James Handford.

Mr. A. W. Scouler of the Molsons Bank staff, Forest, has been moved to this branch of the bank, commencing his duties last week.

Mr. W. H. Collins of the Bank of Commerce, and Mrs. Collins returned on Friday from a holiday spent at Toronto and other eastern points.

Miss Elizabeth Gibson of Vancouver, graduate of the Deaconess' Training Home of Toronto, visited Mrs. Thomas Kernick during the past week.

Mr. Harry Triebner and Miss Gladys Keetle are attending Model School at Clinton, and Misses Anna Dow and Ruth Hooper the London Collegiate.

Mr. D. Spicer of Brantford was in town the latter part of last week, shaking hands with old friends. He was here attending the funeral of his sister the late Mrs. John Andrew.

Special Value

$3.00 to $5.00

Fountain Pens

for $1.59 each.

While they last. These are warranted 14 karat gold. See south window. Come early and get first choice. They speak for themselves.

W. S. Cole, Phm. B.
The Rexall Store

YOU PAY LESS HERE!

Powell's Bazaar

10, 15, 25c. Variety Store.

Yes, we have another large stock of cheap graniteware and China. We are spreading. People are realizing how cheap everything is here, hence our purchases are soon distributed. We want you to come often and bring your friends.

Remember we sell thousands of articles besides any we mention. Specials Thursday and Saturday and Fair Day will be a hummer. To keep your eye on this store will rank you among the wise—no need of going to the city now. Come in often; and bring your friends with you.

How about a phonograph this fall we have the Edison at any price. Get in touch with us.

COME IN OFTEN

THE TORONTO NEWS

Is now recognized throughout the Dominion as the chief Newspaper Advocate of the forces under the leadership of MR. R. L. BORDEN, which demand

A CANADIAN AND BRITISH POLICY FOR CANADA

THE NEWS WILL BE SENT DAILY BY MAIL TO ANY ADDRESS IN CANADA FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A-HALF A YEAR

OUR WATCH AND

Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter
Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers
And
Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a
For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON
The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

OUR MILLINERY DISPLAY

NOW OPEN TO ALL

Everything that is new for this season will be found on our tables Drop in and see our wonderful display and secure one of our Dainty Ready-to-wears.

Priestley's

Sandown Coating Serges

Sandown Coating Serges are always popular

Good for early Fall wear

Serviceable in Three Shades

BLACK, NAVY and CREAM

Priestley's Dress Goods

We are the only sellers of Priestleys' Dress Goods in town and are showing a magnificent lot of Blacks and Blues in all this season's popular cloths, Priestleys wool, Taffeta, Sundown Coating, County Coating, Silk Warp Eudora, Cosmo Cord, Ravenna Wool Valletta, Wool Serges and Poplins. Do not fail to get a Priestleys Dress or Suit.

New Winter Goods

For Ladies, Misses and Children

We are opening up every-day something new in the Coat line and are showing a nice lot of Fancy Tweeds which are very stylish also a lot of Plain Blacks and Blues. You will do well to sell our Winter Coats.

FALL RAIN COATS

Just in—a lot of the new thing in Rain Coats in Black Blue, Grey and Fawn.

NEW COAT SWEATERS

In all the seasons new colors and combination of colors at $2.00 to $4.00.

JONES & MAY
Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

Local Items

Some people think it a mystery that notwithstanding good advice their boys grow up to be wild and reckless young men. If these boys were taught from infancy that home was the proper place for them after dark, rather than prowling around the streets annoying well and sick people alike, much of this mystery might be explained, and young men with better moral characters, and more intelligent minds would be the result. No parent need expect pure moral in a boy that prowls the streets at night even if he does go to Sunday School. The home should be not only the training school for the boys and girls, but also the dearest place on earth for the children. In after life they will likely have sufficiency of troubles, but the rememberance of the happy home life will help to cheer the despondent, and arouse them to greater activity. Keep the little ones off the streets at night.

Word was received here this week of the sudden death of Louis Jackson, of St. Thomas, formerly of Exeter. The young man was killed by a train in Brandon, Man. He had been west only a month. Deceased was 22 years of age

The MacGregor-White Concert on Fair night drew a full house, and was enjoyed by everyone. Both artists have appeared in Exeter before and have always pleased their audiences. Will J. White is certainly a funny fellow, while Donald C. MacGregor is a baritone singer of fine calibre They are assured a large attendance should they return to town.

Mr. S. Martin returned this week from a trip West.

Messrs T. Oke and G. Willis of London were fair visitors.

Rev. Powell preached in the James-st church Sunday evening.

Miss Edna Dow returned to her duties as nurse in Toronto last week.

Misses Holly and Margaret Martin of Lucan visited Mrs. Geo. Crawley this week.

Mrs. James Wanless and two daughters of Duluth, Minn., arrived here last week to visit for a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. L. Hardy.

Mr. John Charlton sustained a severe injury to his leg on Tuesday, owing to a box on the dray tipping and throwing him off. He will be laid up for a time.

Miss Ada Harris of Munro returned home Wednesday after spending a pleasant ten days visiting with her friend Miss Etta Kerslake, London Road.

DASHWOOD

Death of Mrs. Eidt.—The news of the death of Mrs. Jos. Eidt, which was circulated on Thursday night last, was received with keen regret by her many friends in town and surrounding country. For a week deceased has been confined to her bed, from that much dreaded disease, called stones. The disease took its characteristic course, one day the patient showing signs of improvement, while in the next she was not so well, but the ravages of the disease were performing their deadly mission and lapsing into a state of unconsciousness Thursday about 6.30 o'clock in the evening the curtain was rung down upon her kindly life. The family and especially her mourning husband, have the sympathy of a host of friends in this period of their trial. By them she will be missed and lamented, and for them our kindest sympathy is extended. The floral tributes of affection for the deceased laid upon the casket were many and of great beauty. The deceased was a native of New Hamburg, having been born in the year 1848. Twenty-seven years ago she came to Dashwood with her surviving husband besides whom she leaves to mourn her loss eight children, three sons and five daughters—Charles of Alisa Craig; John Herman and Mrs Louis Preeter of Dashwood, and Emma, Maud, Bertha and Tillie at home. The service of the Luth-church, of which she was a member, was conducted by Rev. G. Thun. The funeral was largely attended, thus demonstrating the esteem in which she was held. Among those attending the funeral from a distance were her six sisters and four brothers from Wellesley and New Hamburg—Mr. and Mrs. J. Dorman, Mr. and Mrs. A. Finley, Roy Davis of Alisa Craig, Senator and Mrs. V. Ratz of New Hamburg, Mr. and Mrs. Zwinker, Crediton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Heppler, Stratford, Mrs. Richardson, Miss A. Eidt, Mr. Lane and Henry Eidt of Sebringville, Mr. and Mrs. John Eidt of Neustadt, Mr. and Mrs. N. Weber, Normanby, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lein, Elmira, Mrs. (Rev.) Eifert, Floradale.

Card of Thanks.—Mr. Jos. Eidt and family desire to convey to the citizens of Dashwood their sincere thanks for the many kindnesses shown them during their recent bereavement; and also to the Ladies' Aid in contributing the beautiful floral tributes.

Rev. J. P. Hauch, a return missionary from Japan, preached to a large congregation in the Evangelical church on Sunday afternoon.—Several from here attended the Fair at Exeter on Tuesday —Mr. Geo. Kellermann has purchased from the Dashwood Planing Mill Co., the property formerly owned by the Farmers' Bank. He will have the same completed and made ready for occupancy. When completed it will be quite an improvement to the Village.—Mr. E. M. Brokenshire was in Thedford

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

PRICES THAT ARE WINNERS

Now that Sept. is half gone and we are offering all our summer Dress Goods at cost price such as Mulls Foulards and Muslins, etc.

WHITE LAWN WAISTS

Regular	$2.00	for	$1.85
"	2.50	"	1.60
"	2.25	"	1.35
"	2.00	"	1.20
"	1.75	"	1.15
"	1.50	"	1.05
"	1.25	"	.89
"	1.00	"	.75

LADIES DUTCH COLLARS AND JABOTS

Regular	50c.	for	40c.
"	25c.	"	20c.
"	15c.	"	11c.

Also Wash Belts regular 25c. for 20c.

WHITE UNDERSKIRTS

Regular	$3.75	for	$2.75
"	2.50	"	1.75
"	2.25	"	1.60
"	2.00	"	1.30
"	1.25	"	.89
"	1.00	"	.70

All corset covers to be cleared out at cost.

Balbriggan underwear in Egyptian thread and porous knit regular 40c. a garment for 30c. a garment.

Gents pure silk half hose regular 50c. for 40c. also Lisle half hose regular 50c. for 40c. regular 25c. for 20c.

We have just received a few lines of Fall Goods in plaids and checks suitable for children's dresses for school at 12 and a half cent and 15c. a yard.

Special—We have just received several pieces of Flannelette 34 inches wide regular 12½c. weight, for 10c. This is a good time to buy your Flannelettes for fall before they are sold out.

Farmers—We now have the celebrated Beebe pants and smocks. These are made from the heaviest dennim and also made to fit.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

Exeter Fair

Another of the most successful fairs in the history of the Exeter Agricultural Society was held here on Monday and Tuesday of this week. The weather was ideal and the attendance was very large. As usual the exhibit of horses was large and of an exceptionally high class, while the cattle and other live stock was well represented. The Crystal Palace furnished a magnificent display of varied and interesting exhibits. The root and vegetable show was large and of excellent variety, and the poultry equal to any that has ever been exhibited on the grounds. The racing in the ring furnished special attraction for a large number and the two heats races was well contested. The Highland Pipers Band of London furnished the music and was liberal in their selections. The gate receipts amounted close to $600.

Following is the prize list:—

SPEEDING EVENTS

Open race, Roadmaster Jr., (T. Murdock); Jack Hunter, (C. Elber); Babe Wilkes, (Mrs. Houze).

2.40 Class, Peachbars, (B. Boosenberry); Benbrook, (A. Bodfield); Tricks (W. Sparling.)

W. R. Elliott, Judge; Geo. Henderson, Starter.

HORSES

Heavy Draught—Mare and foal, Wm. Drover, W Oke; foal 1911, W.Drover, W Oke, A B Bell; 3-yr-old, J.Sparrow W E Johns, J Sparrow; 2-yr-old, W.H. Passmore, A. Buchanan, C. Wright; 1-yr-old, R. Gardiner; Agricultural—Mare and foal, H. Rundle, W Moody, R D Bell; foal, R.Northcott, W. Moody R. D. Bell; 3-yr-old, Jas. Horton, W. Oke, Jas. Horton; 2-yr old, W. Drover, T. Harris, R. Birch; 1-yr-old, R.D. Bell, T Glenn, G Ferguson; team, W. Brock, J. McBride.

General Purpose.—Mare, and foal, D. Birch, A. Hicks, A. Elcott; foal, A.Hicks A. Elcott, J. Thompson; 3-yr-old, R. Birch, Dawson Bros.; 2-yr-old, G.Ferguson, S. Sararus, A. Etherington; 1-yr-old, W. Stevenson; team, J. Decker, A. Dow, W. Armstrong; Specials—S. Martin & Son's, W Drover Bank of Commerce's, Jas. Henderson; Molson's Bank's, W. Brock.

Carriage.—3-yr-old, C. Wright, C. Truemner, J. Decker; 2-year old, H. McNeil, A. Etherington, R. McArthur; 1-year old, A. Reichert, H. McNeil; pair carriage, W. H. Bender, J. Geiger, R. Berry; Single carriage, W. H. Collins, A. G. Ennes, H. Reynolds.

ROADSTERS

Mare, J. Decker, H. Rundle, C. Truemner; foal, T. J. Amy, H. Rundle, J. Decker; 3-year old, Daters & Son, A. Etherington; 2-year-old, J. Decker, T. J. Amy; 1-year old, J. Decker, F. Hunkin, G. Ferguson; roadsters, J. Decker, sr., C. Hobbs, F. Ellerington; roadster, John Hawkins, J. McClymant, B. Oke; Lady driver, W. R. Elliott, J. McClymont,

HACKNEY

3-year old, R. Norris; 2-year old, T. Brock, jr.

Specials—H. Spackman's, W. R. Elliott; D. Russell's, T. J. Amy; W. Beer's J. Decker; W. J. Heaman's, W. H. Collins.

T. W. Shepherd, Judge.

CATTLE

Shorthorn—H. Smith swept the list except for 2nd for bull calf, which went to A. Elcott.

Grades—Aged cow, F. Ellerington, A Hooper; 2-yr-heifer, J. H. Shapton, T Russell, W. Dearing; 1-yr-heifer, F. Ellerington, J. W. Welsh, J. H. Shapton; heifer calf, A. Elcott, W. E. Johns; 2-yr-steer, J.H. Shapton, W. Dearing 2 & 3; 1-yr-steer, J.H. Shapton 1 & 2; W. Dearing; steer calf, W. E. Johns.

Jersey—Cow, W. Armstrong, T.Brock jr.; 2-yr-heifer, T. Brock sr.; also for 1-yr-heifer, heifer calf, T. Brock jr; bull calf, T. Brock, sr.

Wm. Pridham, Judge.

SHEEP

Dorset Horned—C. Harvey swept the list.

Lincolns—G. Penhale swept the list.

Leicester—Aged ram, A. Elcott; shear, ram, R. Bell 1 and 2; ram lamb, and ewe raising lambs in 1911, and ewe lamb, G. Penhale, R. Bell; shearling ewe, R. Bell 1 and 2.

R. S. Robson, Judge.

PIGS

Yorkshire—Boar, R. Birch; 1-yr-boar C Harvey, W Sparling; young boar also sow, R Birch, W Sparling; 1-yr-sow, R Birch, C Harvey; young sow, R Birch, W Sparling.

Berkshire.—Boar, M. Clark; 1-yr-boar and young boar, Dawson Bros. 1 and 2 sow, Dawson Bros., M. Clark.

R. Delbridge Judge.

POULTRY

Orphingtons, W Dearing, chicks, J.H Battler, W. Dearing; Golden Polands, J. Battler, C. Prouty; chicks, J. Battler other Polands, C. Prouty 1 and 2, also for chicks; White Leghorns, C.Truemner T. Brock, jr.; Brown Leghorns, W.Dearing, T. Brock, sr.; chicks, T. Brock sr. J. Battler; Br. Leghorns rose comb, C Prouty, chicks, C. Prouty, C.Truemner. Andalusians, chicks, J. Battler; Black Spanish and chicks, J. H. Battler; Black Minorcas, J. H. Battler, R. Sanders, chicks, R. Sanders; J. Battler; Silver Lace Wyandottes, J. Battler, J W. Ortwein, chicks, C. Truemner; Wh. Wyandottes, J. Ortwein, chicks, C. Hooper 1 and 2; Buff Wyandottes, J. Ortwein, J Battler; chicks, Ortwein; Sil-Pen. Wyandottes, Ortwein; Part. Wyandottes, T. Brock, jr., chicks, T. Brock jr. 1 and 2; Red Caps, J. Battler, chicks, A.Deavitt 1 and 2; Geese, C. Truemner; Pek. Duck W. B. Battler; Light Brahmas, R. Sanders; chicks, T. Brock, sr. R. Sanders Bar. Ply. Rocks, J. Ortwein, W.Battler Wh. Ply. Rocks, J. Ortwein 1 and 2, chicks, J. Ortwein; buff cochins, J.H. Battler 1 and 2; Langshans, J. Battler, also chicks; Sil.Grey Dorkins, and ch'ks W. B. Battler; Sil-Span. Hamburgs, & chicks, W. B. Battler; ducks, T.Brock sr.; pigeons, Harvey Bros., G. Heywood; rabbits, C. Shapton, W.Stathar Ferrits, W. A. Balkwill; Jones' & May's special, J. Hawkins.

MANUFACTURIES AND IMPLEMENTS

Wool blankets, J. Decker, Miss J. Brown; cotton warp, Miss Brown, sewing machine, organs and pianos, S. Martin 1 and 2; stuffed birds, A. McPherson; packing salt and fine salt, D. Mill; single harness and double harness, W. Beer, 1 and 2; cured ham Miss Tom, cured meats, A. Dow, W. Dauncey; col. of cakes, M. Clark.

Gasoline engine, Connor Bros.; wheelbarrow, iron pump and plow, J.Murray bobsleighs, E. Treble.

J. Delbridge, P. Hanlon, Judges.

GRAINS AND SEEDS

Fall wheat white, C. Truemner, M. Brethour; fall wheat red, G. Andrew, M. Brethour; spring wheat, 6-rowed barley, 2-rowed barley, large oats and black oats, and flax seed, M Brethour common oats, M. Brethour, W.Battler timothy seed, M. Brethour, G.Hogarth merchant's flour, Harvey Bros. 1 & 2 white beans, Mrs. Nesb, M. Brethour; clover seed, spelts, large peas, small peas, M. Brethour; col. grain in ear, W H. Dearing, Mrs. Neeb; ensilage corn John Selves, W. Battler.

W. Harding, Judge.

HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS

Winter apples, F Triebner, E Rader fall apples, F Triebner, J. Sweet, 12 winter apples, S. Hogarth, Carrie Dyer fall apples, S. Hogarth, F Triebner; R I. Greenings, G. McLeod, S. Hogarth; Spies, D Mill, J Cottle, Roxbore Russets, J. Sweet, W Fisher; Baldwins, W H Dearing, F Hunkin, Seek-no-further, F. Ellerington; snow apples, F Triebner, F. Ellerington; Gravensteins, H Huston, W Fisher; Fall Pippins, M Brethour, extra; Colverts, T J Amy, W Fisher; King of Tompkins, Harvey Bro W Fisher; Alexanders, T J Amy, F Hunkin; Canadian Red, J Decker, E Rader Golden russets, S Hogarth, W. Dearing; Ben Davis, S Hogarth, F Triebner; Ontario, F. Triebner, Wealthy, F Triebner, C Truemner; Duchess of Oldenburg, S Hogarth, H Huston; Blenheim Pippins, J Decker, T J Amy.

Pears—Winter pears, Beurs Clairgeau, A. McPherson; Duchess of Anjouline and Sheldon, T. Brock, sr., H Huston; Clapp's Favorite, J Decker, T. Brock, sr; Vicar of Wakefield, J Gill; Bell Lucrative, and Louis Bonnie de Jersey, T. Brock, sr.

Pears— Four varieties winter pears, A. M. McPherson; Plate of five Duchess of Anjouline, T. Brock sr, H. Huston; Clapp's Favorite J. Decker, T. Brock sr.; Beurs Clairgeau, A. McPherson; Vicar of Wingfield, J. Gill; Bell Lucrative, T. Brock Sr.; Sheldon, T. Brock sr; H. Huston; Louis Bonnie, T. Brock sr.

Grapes—Moore's Early, Mrs. J. White F. Hogarth; Concord, A. S. Deavitt; Delaware, F. Hogarth; Rogers No. 15, N. D. Hurdon; Rogers No. 19, F. Russell, A. McPherson; Rogers No. 4, G. McLeod; Rogers No. 45, T. Russell; other variety G. McLeod, T. Brock sr.

Peaches,—Crawford, E Rader; other variety, F Hogarth, A McPherson.

Miscellaneous,—Col. canned fruit, J Decker, sr., Mrs. McPherson; col. honey A McPherson, honey in comb, A. McPherson, Mrs. McPherson; honey in jar, A. McPherson, M Brethour; home made wines, J. Decker, Mrs. McPherson; col bottled pickles, ditto., canned vegetables Mrs. McPherson, J. Decker;

W. Dauncey, Judge.

DAIRY PRODUCTS.

5 lbs. butter, R. Kydd, J. Moir; 10 lbs. butter, J. Moir, R. Kydd; rolls or prints, R. Kydd, J. Moir; arranged plate butter, R. Kydd, J. Dick; cheese, private made, J. Geiger. Special—T. Hawkins & Son, farmers' butter, R. Kydd.

G. Medd, Judge.

VEGETABLES.

Pearl Savoy potatoes, T. Brock, jr., T. Brock, sr.; Empire State, T. Brock, sr., T. Brock, jr.; Red Elephant, T. Brock, jr.; Rural New Yorkers, T. Brock sr., T. Brock, jr.; any other variety, R. Sanders, J. Cottle; winter cabbage, C. Hooper, G. Anderson; fall cabbage, C. Hooper, M. Salter; blood beets, G. Anderson, J. Cottle; Globe beets, T. Brock sr., G. Anderson; sugar beets, W. H. Dearing; sugar beet mangolds, W. H. Passmore, J. May; long mangolds, E. Rader, W. B. Battler; globe mangolds, W. B. Battler; intermediates, E. Rader, W. H. Passmore; early horn carrots, C. Birney, R. Sanders; Nantes carrots, A. J. Ford, M. Salter; long orange or red carrots, J. Cottle G. Anderson; white or yellow field carrots, E. Rader; sweet corn, G. Anderson; Indian corn, R. Sanders, W. H. Dearing; water melons, W. H. Dearing; pumpkins, T. Brock, jr., G. Anderson; squash, M. Salter, E. Rader; musk melons, M. Salter, W. H. Dearing; Swede turnips, T. Russell, M. Clark; red onions, C. Birney, R. Sanders; yellow onions, C. Birney, R. Sanders; Spanish onions, C. Birney, R. Sanders; tomatoes, M. Brethour, T. Russell; celery, J. Cottle, G. Anderson; citrons, W. Parkinson, J. Cottle; parships, J. Cottle, T. Brock, sr.; Hubbard squash, F. Hogarth; col. vegetables, G. Anderson, T. Brock, sr. Special—W. J. Carling, for mangolds, W. H. Passmore.

A. Doupe, Judge.

FLOWERS.

Begonias, J. G. Stanbury, J. A. Stew-

(Continued on page 4)

ZURICH SCHOOL TEACHER ABDUCTED

The abduction and maltreatment of Miss Eleanor Price, teacher of Riverdale school, east of Snowflake and formerly of Zurich by Ed. Davis is one of the most fiendish crimes that has occurred in the history of that district. Only one scholar had come to school on Monday and Miss Price dismissed the little one at noon. Soon after an armed ruffian entered the building and after an unequal struggle compelled the girl to accompany him to the Pembina valley near by. She was compelled to remain in his company until Wednesday evening, when she was allowed to go free. Davis has been caught and will be tried.

MERNER AND McLEAN NOMINATED

On Thursday last at Hensall J. J. Merner and M. Y. McLean were duly nominated as candidates for the Dominion House in the interest of the Conservative and Liberal parties, respecively. The papers were received by Mr. J. Kellermann, returning officer, before the hour of two o'clock, at which time a joint political debate was commenced in the large church shed, where there had gathered together the largest crowd of interested electors that ever attended a nomination meeting in South Huron.

Mr. McLean was assisted in the debate by Mr. Tilley, a lawyer of Toronto, and Mr. Merner was assisted by Mr. H. Ellber and Mr. Geo Spotton. The discussion was a most interesting and animated one, waxing very warm in spots, but in spots only. An attentive hearing was given the speakers, and their respective admirers gave them generous applause.

It is needless to go into a detailed report of the addresses as the election takes place to-day, our day of publication, and the result of the election will be known before the paper reaches many of our readers. In next week's issue we will have a detailed report of the election returns.

SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

On Sept. 5th Mr. and Mrs. Henry Francis celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding at their home in Croswell, Mich. Both Mr and Mrs. Francis are enjoying good health and from present appearances will live to enjoy many more years of happy married life. Henry Francis was born in Devonshire, England, 83 years ago, and Mrs. Francis (Elizabeth Vile) one year later, both coming to Canada in 1851, and were married the same year residing in Usborne Township until 22 years ago, when they moved to Michigan. To this union eight children were born, and all are still living. They are; Henry Francis of Exeter, J Francis, of London; William Francis, Buel Township; Edwin Francis, also of Buel; Mrs. Elizabeth Coward, of Exeter, Canada; Mrs. Emma Fletcher of Exeter, Mrs. Sarah Straffon of Buel and Mrs. Carrie Straffon, of Buel. All were in attendance at the anniversary with the exception of Mrs. Coward, who was unable to attend owing to the illness of her husband. The children presented the aged parents with a nicely worded address and sixty dollars in gold.

STOLEN HORSE FOUND AT CRAIG

The horse, buggy and outfit belonging to Dr. Aikenhead, of Hensall, which was stolen from the village some days ago, was located on Saturday at Alisa Craig.

It is not known who drove the horse into Alisa Craig, but it was found on the streets, where it had evidently been left by the thief.

HOW THE PARTIES STOOD

Ottawa, July 30.—The standing of the parties in the House of Commons at dissolution was as follows,—

Ontario—Lib. 85, Con. 51.
Quebec—Lib. 53, Con. 12.
New Brunswick—Lib. 11, Con 2.
Nova Scotia—Lib. 12, Con. 6.
P. E. Island—Lib. 3, Con. 1.
Manitoba—Lib. 2, Con. 8.
British Columbia—Lib. 2, Con. 5.
Saskatchewan—Lib. 9, Con. 1.
Alberta—Lib. 4, Con. 3.
Yukon—Lib. 1.

The Liberal majority, including the Speaker, was 43.

FIRE AT GRANTON

The village of Granton was threatened with destruction by fire on Sept. 14, when the McCloud Milling Company's plant was destroyed, with a loss of $5000, and the coal sheds of Mr. Clatworthy were burned. Other buildings were in danger, but a bucket brigade stopped further damage. The loss is partly covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from a hot pulley in the McCloud elevator.

BIRTHS

Boon.—In Exeter, on Sept. 16th, to Mr. Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Boon, a daughter.

Bouthron—At Hensall, Sept 9th, to Mr. and Mrs. James Bouthron, a daughter.

Calfas—At Zurich, on Sept 7th, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Calfas, a daughter.

Dabus—At the Babylon Line Hay, on Sept. 9th, to Mr and Mrs. Louis Dabus, a son.

MARRIAGES

Arnold—Fink—In Winnipeg, Man., on Aug 16th Mr. Jack Arnold, of Barwick, to Miss Delia Fink, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hy. Fink, of Barwick formerly of Exeter North.

Malcolm—Pepper—On Sept. 6th, at the residence of the brides father Mr. J. T. Malcolm, of Hibbert, to Miss Mary Pepper, of Logan Township.

DEATHS

McDonald—In Hibbert, on September 10, Donald McDonald, aged 86 years.

Hazelwood—In Exeter, Sept. 18, Anna Mariah Marshall, wife of Thomas Hazelwood, aged 62 years, 6 months.

Amy—In Stephen, Sept. 16, Susana Lagrice, wife of Thomas Amy, aged 68 years, 9 months.

Snell—In Exeter, Sept. 17, James Snell, aged 79 years, 8 months.

Eidt—In Dashwood, Sept. 14, Mrs. Jos. Eidt, aged 68 years.

Whiteford—In Cumberland Wis., on September 16, James Whiteford, aged 44 years, formerly of Centralia.

25c. pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1

The Best Chance Ever Offered To Men

To put in a supply of clothing, Underwear, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Sox, Ties.

Everything a man wears.

At a price guaranteed to be below the Actual

Cost Price

Boys Clothing Sacrificed

This sale may be ended any day. And you will certainly regret it if you do not buy now.

Men's and Boys' Furnishings

Quitting Business

Cash Only

S. G. Bawden

The Clothier Exeter

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

SELECTED RECIPES.

Green Tomato Compote. — Although probably no other vegetable is served in so many different ways as the tomato, it is not generally known that the green fruit makes an excellent "compote," or sweet stew. The unripe tomatoes are stewed in sugar, like prunes or apricots, until they become sweet and tender. This method of preparing them is recommended to those who grow their own fruit, which often fails to ripen fully before frost.

Poor Man's Cakes.—Use one cup of Indian meal, and one cup of flour, sifted together. Add one teaspoonful of salt, and two teaspoonfuls of baking-powder. Beat an egg and add to it three tablespoonfuls of sugar and one cup of milk. Stir this into the meal and flour, and drop the mixture by spoonfuls into deep fat. Fry the cakes to a light brown and drain them on brown paper.

Baked Philippine Loaf.—Chop fine one and one-half pounds of round steak, one-half pound of bacon or pork, one onion and two green peppers. Add a cup of breadcrumbs, salt to taste, and knead until the ingredients are thoroughly mixed. Form the mass into a loaf and place it in the middle of a baking-pan. Put strips of bacon on top and pour over all the contents of a can of tomatoes. Bake in a slow oven for an hour and a half. Drain off the tomato juice, add a little hot water, season and thicken, and then pour the liquid over the meat again. Serve hot or cold.

Boiled Apples.—This method of cooking apples, at first tried as a hot-weather experiment, to save the heat required for baking, proved so satisfactory that it superseded the old method. Wash the apples and put them in a kettle, covering them with water; do not peel or core them. Boil slowly until they are soft; sweeten to taste. The result is delicious.

Grandfather's Chopped Pickle.—Use one dozen green tomatoes, three heads of celery, one head of cabbage, three green peppers (seeds removed), one-half dozen good-sized onions, two large cucumbers, one cup of nasturtium seeds. Chop all together and scald in a weak brine, drain, and scald in about a quart of vinegar and water. Drain this off, and pour over the pickle, hot, the following: Two quarts of vinegar, one and one-half pounds of brown sugar, one-quarter of a pound of white mustard-seed, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful each of red pepper, ground mustard, clove and allspice. Put in a stone crock.

PICKLES.

Cucumber Relish.—Three quarts of fresh cucumbers peeled and sliced. One quart of onions peeled and sliced, one-fourth cup of salt sprinkled over and let stand one hour. Take one quart of vinegar and half cup of water, add to it one heaping tablespoon of celery seed, one tablespoon of white mustard seed, one tablespoon of tumeric powder, one-half cup of sugar, one teaspoon of cayenne pepper. Add this to the cucumbers and onions and mix well; boil up well and can. These are delicious for meats of all kinds.

Canada Hot.—Chop one peck green tomatoes, four ripe peppers, four green peppers, two cups celery, two cups onion; put one-half cup salt on and let stand over night. In the morning drain well and pour six cups vinegar in which you have put two cups sugar and one-half cup white mustard seed. Keep all winter in a stone jar, and is good.

Cherry Leaf Pickles.—Green cucumbers, about an inch in diameter, should be used for this recipe of delicious pickles. In a jar place a thick layer of well cleaned cherry leaves, then a six inch layer of cucumbers, until the jar is filled, having a layer of cherry leaves last. Over this pour a salt brine made of one cup of salt to about ten quarts of water. Then every morning for two weeks mix the leaves and cucumbers well up from the bottom of the jar with the hands. At the end of this time drain off the brine to the last drop. Cut the cucumbers into pieces about an inch long. Place in quart jars, scattering mixed spices through. Then make a sweet syrup as for any sweet pickle, fill jars and seal. At the end of about two weeks reheat syrup and seal jars for winter use.

PRUNES.

Prune Rolls.—Cook one pound prunes until soft, sweeten to taste. When cool remove seeds. For the dough, take one cup milk, scalded and cooled, add one cup warm water, one compressed yeast cake, one large tablespoon each of butter and sugar, one small teaspoon salt. When dissolved gradually add six cups sifted flour, stirring until easily handled with hands. Have dough as soft as possible, knead into shape, lay it on board and beat until light and full of bubbles. For the beating use a new axe handle or rolling pin with one handle. Beating bread takes one-fourth the time kneading does and the dough is much lighter and the work is nothing. When dough is light and fluffy, roll out on board, taking part of dough at a time, until one-half inch thick, spread with warm butter. Cut rolls with a dumbbell, but an axe handle will do. Beat biscuit cutter. Place a prune in center, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Then fold edges of dough over prunes, pressing down firmly so prunes won't pop out. Place in greased pans, let rise until light, then bake in quick oven about twenty minutes. Serve warm with butter, or they are good cold.

Nut rolls can be made the same way, using chopped walnuts instead of prunes. Or if you like, fill prunes with the nuts. Large prunes stuffed with walnuts and served with whipped cream are delicious for dessert.

In making prune whips, allow one white of egg to each person and one tablespoon sugar and four prunes to each white. This way you can make a large or small whip as you desire.

Prune Whip.—Whites of three eggs, one and one-half cups granulated sugar, fifteen or eighteen prunes; stew the prunes, stew and chop fine. Beat the white to a stiff froth and add sugar, stir well, and then add chopped prunes. Bake in slow oven three-quarters of an hour.

Prune Pudding.—One pound prunes, boiled until soft. Remove stones and mash. To this paste add the whites of four eggs well beaten and one-half cupful of white sugar. Bake until a light brown. Serve cold with cream.

UNSEFUL HINTS.

Coffee burned on hot coals will purify a sickroom and overcome disagreeable odors.

Keep newspapers under the oilcloth on kitchen table. The oilcloth will last much longer.

Ginger poultices are as efficacious as mustard and will not blister. They should be made in the same way.

A good way to tell when ham is fried enough is by the fat. When the fat is brown (not burnt) the ham is done.

If you want to keep lemons string them with a packing-needle and hang them in a dry place, but do not let them touch each other.

If it is necessary to add more water when soup is boiling, add boiling water; if cold or warm water is added the soupy flavor will be ruined.

Keep a cupboard or room dry by the simple plan of placing a jar of quicklime, which must be renewed at intervals, as it absorbs the damp very quickly.

A good hint to those who have a tear in their dress is to darn it as near as possible like the weave of the cloth with a thread of the material itself.

When using valuable vases for table decorations fill them with sand, for this makes them stand firmly, and renders them far less liable to be knocked over and broken.

You can take iron rust out of cloth very successfully by putting lemon juice on the spot and applying a hot flat iron; sometimes it is necessary to repeat the application.

Sheets should, of course, be mangled, but if you have not one, fold the sheets as if for mangling, and leave for several hours. Then finish by pressing them in the folds with a heavy iron.

If new enamel saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water, allowed to come to the boil, and then cool, they will be found to last much longer before either cracking or burning.

Artificially fed children should have their bottles boiled every day, and the tubes and other rubber parts soaked one hour in water which contains 25 per cent. of pure glycerine.

Don't put baby into a mail cart. If you cannot afford a comfortable perambulator in which he can lie in his cot make up your mind to carry him, even though your arms may ache.

Skimmed milk and water, with a bit of glue in it, made scalding hot, is excellent to restore old, rusty black crape; if well squeezed and pulled dry, like muslin, it will look as well as new.

Sawdust should never be throwu away. Use it for cleaning water bottles which are stained. Slightly dampened, it can be scattered over brick floors, which, if well brushed, will be perfectly clean.

When washing oilcloth, a tablespoonful of painter's size added to a pailful of water will give it a glossy surface and make it wear much better than when washed in the ordinary way.

To make Venetian blinds like new, first take them in pieces, wash them well, and dry thoroughly. Then rub well with a cloth dipped in linseed oil, and polish. They will look as fresh as when new.

After washing a teapot, dry thoroughly and leave the lid off so that the air may enter. Remember it is impossible to dry the spout, and if you close the pot tightly it will very likely smell musty.

Waste pipes which have became clogged are cleaned by laying over the sink a large lump of soda. Pour a kettleful of boiling water over, and it will dispel the grease which generally is the cause of the trouble.

Hot water, as is generally supposed does not cause wrinkles, and there are few things more refreshing to a tired face than a wash in water as hot as can be borne to which a dash of toilet vinegar has been added.

Cream of tartar for rust. Boil the article with the rust stain for about an hour in three gallons of water. To each gallon add one tablespoonful of cream tartar. The stain will disappear, no matter how old.

IMITATION SILK.

Made in America, but of Wood Pulp From Norway.

In the manufacture of artificial silk wood pulp from Norway is utilized, being shipped here in bales. This pulp is cut into thin sheets, each individual sheet is carefully weighted, and a certain quantity placed in a metal tank for chemical treatment.

The various chemical solutions used are mixed in huge iron tanks, from which they are pumped under ground through a series of lead pipes to the departments requiring the various compounds. This pulp, having been macerated and digested, is submitted to still further chemical action under certain fixed temperatures which are not allowed to vary even one-half a degree.

When it is ready for final transformation into silk the solution closely resembles molasses in color and consistency. At this stage it is pumped from the tanks to the spinning frames. Here specially constructed pumps are attached to each spindle, which carefully measure off the required quantity of the solution.

This is forced through tubes with an outlet containing just as many perforations as there are to be filaments in the thread. Through these it is passed to a tank running the length of the frame and containing a chemical mixture which fixes the solution instantaneously into a thread.

This strand is carried over a wheel down through a tube to a rapidly revolving spindle; the rate of speed is about 5,000 revolutions a minute. From this the strands are afterward unwound on reels into skeins. The air in the spinning room is completely changed every three minutes, being pumped off though hoods placed over each of the spinning frames. This is done, says the Textile Manufacturers' Journal, to remove any possible fumes and to provide thorough ventilation for the operatives.

One of the interesting features in connection with the entire operation is the fact that the yarn is handled as little as possible. The specially constructed stoves and bleaching arrangements are ideal, and when the skeins are finally carried to the large drying room on the fifth floor one marvels at the change which has so rapidly taken place. From here they are taken to the sorting room, where each individual skein is carefully examined by skilled operators.

THE DAISY-CHAIN.

Down in a scented meadow cool,
A laughing lass, let loose from school,
Ran merrily, one summer's day,
Among the sweet wild flowers to play.
Of buttercups a golden foam
Rose high above the luscious loam.
There, in a field beyond the lane,
She wove a dainty daisy-chain.
Ah! shall I ever meet again
The lass who wove a daisy-chain?

The next time that I saw her there,
Lovely as spring-time, and as fair,
Again a chain of stars she wove,
That bound my heart in links of love.
But time had changed the little maid
Into a damsel, prim and staid,
To timid smiles and blushes fain,
Who thought not of a daisy-chain.
Oh, what joy to meet again
The lass who wove a daisy-chain!

And now when I look round and see
The joys that life has brought to me,
With wife and weans to keep afire
The light that led my young desire,
I ponder, as I thank the Fates
That hid beyond those rustic gates,
And close my eyes and see again
The goddess with the daisy-chain.
Oh, never shall I part again
From the lass who wove a daisy-chain!

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, SEPTEMBER 24.

Lesson XIII.—Daniel in the lions' den, Dan. 6. Golden Text, Psa. 34. 7.

Verse 1. Darius—He was the general, apparently (the Greek name Gobryas being similar in form), who was in command of the combined forces of Persia and Media when Babylon was captured. He took control of the city as governor. The statements concerning him, here and in other parts of the book, exhibiting him as a royal personage ruling over an extensive kingdom, are difficult to understand in light of the known history of these times. There may be some confusion between this man and the Darius Hystaspes of the book of Ezra, the father of Xerxes.

Satraps—A strictly Persian word, signifying a ruler of a province. The word is found frequently also in Ezra and Esther.

2. Presidents—Princes. A word found nowhere else in the Old Testament except in this chapter. This was the plan Belshazzar had in mind (compare previous chapter). These three men acted as a kind of check upon the satraps, so that the treasure and revenue of the king were properly protected.

3. Was distinguished—That is, in the old sense of prefer, was advanced or promoted, given a superior standing.

4. Sought to find occasion — This Daniel, a captive Jew, had been exalted to the highest honors of the kingdom, and this in spite of his severe judgments upon the ruling power. His integrity and wisdom were unimpeachable. A narrow, bitter spirit of jealousy, however, will find vent somewhere, and since there was no proof of disloyalty or negligence in Daniel's discharge of the duties of the kingdom, his enemies found an object of attack in his method of worship according to the Jewish law (5).

6. Assembled together to the king—The phrase in the original is very much more vivid. It means that they came rushing tumultuously into the king's presence, defying every rule of court etiquette, so eager were they to let loose their wrath against their hatred rival.

7. All the presidents—Daniel, of course, was excepted; it is easy to believe, intentionally. The enumeration of all the chief officers of the realm gave the plot the semblance of unanimous action.

A royal statute—Although the leading men had consulted to establish this decree, their meaning was, of course, that they intended to prevail upon the king to establish it. It was a monstrous proposition. Only a ruler who was easily induced by flattery would consent to be exalted in this fashion above God and man. It is remarkable that Darius should have failed to consult his chief minister and adviser on a matter of such moment.

The den of lions—The den was a sort of pit, or vault. Lions were kept for the chase.

8. That it be not changed — The unalterableness of the edicts of the Medes and Persians, properly signed and sealed by the royal hand, has become proverbial (Esther 1. 19, 8. 8).

9. King Darius signed the writing—It seems absurd that any king in his right senses should consent to a law that might easily be broken by every one of his subjects without his knowing it. He was soon to see the stupidity of his action.

10. When Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went—It was not likely that such a decree would make any difference at all to a man who had served God through all his career in a heathen land. The trial did not come to him in youth as it did to his three companions. He was an old man. His habit of a lifetime, which took him thrice daily to the roof chamber supplied with windows open toward Jerusalem in the direction of devotion (1 Kings 8. 44). was not to be thwarted by devices of men. No doubt he saw through the plot against him, and his courageous spirit rose in rebellion. His first duty was to his God.

Three times a day—Compare Psalm 55. 17. In later times, the three seasons for prayer were, at the offering of the morning sacrifice, at the offering of the evening meal, and at sunset. Jews in a strange land offered these prayers with their faces turned toward Israel; those in Israel, with faces toward Jerusalem; those in Jerusalem, with faces toward the temple.

11. Assembled together—Same meaning as before. They rushed about the house of Daniel in a most disorderly manner.

14. The king . . . was sore displeased—Compare Mark 6. 26. He saw that he had been duped. But his anger was mostly with himself for having been so easily deceived. He knew the value of Daniel, and all day, till sunset, labored strenuously to rescue him. As far the scheming satraps and chamberlains, though they were greatly disappointed that the king's wrath was not awakened against this Daniel, of the children of the captivity of Judah, they were sure of their position. No law of the Medes and Persians (15), so they reminded him at they once more rushed before him without reverence for his royal person, might be changed. Dean Farrar suggests that if he had threatened to cast them into the lions' den, they might have entertained a different opinion about the reversibility of royal decrees.

16. He will deliver thee — This is rather in the form of a prayer that Daniel may in some way escape what seems a certain fate. The king's anxious solicitude indicates his high regard for his prime minister.

17. Sealed it with his own signet—Among all these Orientals, the use of the signet, or seal-ring, was common. These rings were very ancient. In order that there might be no change of purpose on the king's part, or anybody else's, concerning Daniel, a double precaution was taken—the signet of the lords was used as well as the king's.

18. Instruments of music — This reading is uncertain. It may mean dancing-girls, or concubines. But the sense is plain—Darius did not indulge himself in the customary pleasures of the court, but went to his private quarters supperless and spent a sleepless night.

20. Servant of the living God.—The expression is so striking that it seems certain that the king must have been impressed ere this that Daniel worshiped no god made by the hands of men.

23. Because he had trusted—Faith does, then, make a difference with God.

24. Their children and their wives—In bringing vengeance upon the men who had so maliciously contrived against this good man, Darius had resort to the cruel savagery of ancient times which confounded the innocent with the guilty.

25-27—The decree of Darius, calling upon all his subjects to fear the wonder-working God of Daniel. Compare Daniel 3. 29 and 4. 1-3.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

No poem is as glorious as a Christian life.

To honor God is to become what we praise.

The sense of duty is the greatest gift of God.

Prepare yourself for the worst, and hope for the best.

All the objects of human thought flow into one another.

It is a greater work to educate a child than to rule a state.

Be cautious lest you be overcautious. Fear to stifle any truth.

All human culture rests on a willingness to make sacrifices to the truth.

In proportion as society becomes enlightened, personality acquires influence.

The best means for defeating a good cause is to attach to it the idea of vulgarity.

Other systems were framed for communities; Christianity approached men as individuals.

It is hard for a class of men to respect themselves who are denied respect by all around them.

It was the entire and patient relinquishment of immediate success which throws the most solemn grandeur over the character of Jesus.

The friends of moral truth, of temperance, and virtue must not resort to party; they must speak in the tone of the friend of their race.

It is the boast of Christianity that it is impossible to trace its origin to the love of power, that master passion in the authors of false religions.

Public opinion cannot do for virtue what it does for vice. It is the essence of virtue to look above opinion. Vice strengthens itself by entire subserviency to it.

Our chief hope of an improved literature rests on our hopes of an improved religion. A religion acceptable to the intellect must work mightily upon the intellect.

We doubt whether a man ever brings his faculties to bear with their whole force on a subject until he writes upon it for the instruction or gratification of others.

THE "SIXTH SENSE."

The reported quest of a "sixth sense" is not the first attempt of the sort; for about five years ago, Professor Watson, of the University of Chicago, performed an operation that excited the interest of the medical world. The subject of the experiment was a rat, and by means of vivisection he destroyed the five senses of the rat without killing it. The animal was then turned loose, and it found its way to food. This, Professor Watson claimed, proved the existence of a sixth sense, which he believed to be common to both men and animals. He called it the Sense of Direction. And much earlier, Professor Alex. Bain, of the University of Aberdeen, wrote: "The feelings connected with movements of the body or actions of the muscles have to be recognized as a distinct class, and, by some metaphysicians, as proceeding from a sixth or muscular sense."

NEWS FROM SUNSET COAST

WHAT THE WESTERN PEOPLE ARE DOING.

Progress of the Great West Told In a Few Pointed Items.

Point Ellis bridge, Victoria, is to be repaired.

A lot was sold in Hope the other day for $400 cash.

In Chilliwack the restaurants have to pay a license.

An outbreak of rabies is feared in New Westminster.

The building of coke ovens still continues at Passburg.

A wireless instrument has been installed at Sapperton.

Vancouver is complaining bitterly of the smoke nuisance.

Fort George citizens have organized a volunteer fire brigade.

A bridge has been built across the Bulkley river at Glentanna.

Mrs. Bulyer recently sold a ranch of 160 acres near Hope for $17,000.

Fruit from Kalso is being exhibited at the various fairs in the prairie provinces.

The Agricultural Society of Salmon Arm intend to purchase ground in the district.

The electric line between New Westminster and Vancouver is being double tracked.

The Dominion Government dredge Fruhling left for Nanaimo where she will be overhauled.

The upper Fraser and the Nechaco are still rising, and the naviagtion is now uninterrupted.

A new large three storey hotel is to be erected at Coalmont, in the Tulameen district.

Reginald Tate has been appointed manager for Sir Thos. Shaughnessy's estate at Summerland.

There was a potato famine in Rossland recently, and a few old spuds brought five cents a pound.

Mosquitoes caused 25 men engaged in railway construction on the Kootenay to quite for three days.

Two hundred and fifty men for railway work presented themselves at Lynton during the past week.

Substantial Government assistance has been promised to the people of Kootenay for the zinc industry.

Fowler and Lawson, of Merritt, have secured the contact for the hospital there for the sum of $19,247.

The old wharf and cannery building at Queensborough, Lulu Island, has been totally destroyed by fire.

Efforts are being made to have the Government telephone line extended from Fairview to Rock Creek.

Five hundred men are presently employed by the Kettle Valley Railway on construction above Rock Creek.

Advices from the north are to the effect that smallpox is delaying the work of J. D. Craig's upper Yukon survey.

It is estimated that the total pack of salmon this season in British Columbia will be between 700,000 and 800,000 cases.

Miss Maggie Mackenzie, of Kalso, was attacked by a bear cub, when returning from business. She escaped injury.

The vital statistics for Victoria during the month of June show sixty-six births, forty-four deaths and sixty-six marriages.

A disastrous fire has occurred at Powell River, destroying the principal business structures of that new town. The loss is estimated at $15,000.

In order to meet the growing demands of the traffic on the B.C.E.R. two new electric locomotives are being secured and will soon be in operation.

Westminster riflemen made a good showing at the meeting at Richmond range. Five local men were shooting and all came up in the individual scores and aggregate.

A brass plate with a suitable commemorative description has been erected in the Prince Rupert Hospital, to the memory of the founder of that institution, the late John Houston.

Vancouver's board of license commissioners have ruled that a restaurant patron engaged in taking a meal at the stroke of midnight is entitled to finish his repast, despite the 12 o'clock closing ordinance.

RAPID BRIDGE-BUILDING.

A pulley and basket arrangement, by means of which four men at a time were swung over from bank to bank, was fixed up at Avoca, during the Boer War, in a few minutes. A single-lock bridge over a 30 foot chasm, strong enough to admit of the passage of an army, has been often constructed by two N. C. O.'s and twenty men in an hour; pontoon bridges, to admit of the passage of the heaviest armaments and baggage, have been built in two hours, and from odd materials, such as barrels and soap-boxes; whilst during the Chinese War of 1860, the British force marching on Pekin crossed a flooded river on a bridge of coffins, which had been commandeered from a neighboring village!

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER III.—(Cont'd)

Brett stopped the driver some little distance short of the house itself, as he did not wish to attract the attenion of a knot of curious sightseers in the street. He asked Winter to precede him and make known the fact that he was coming, so that there would be no delay at the door. This the detective really agreed to, and Brett rapidly took in the main external features of the house which had become the scene of such a remarkable tragedy.

It was a palatial structure, built on the sombre lines of the Early Victorian period. Miss Talbot's brief description of the measures taken to protect its occupants from interference was fully borne out by its aspect. There was no access to the basement; the main entrance was situated at the side; all the ground-floor and first-story windows facing into the street were fitted with immovable wooden venetians. Presumably those on the Park side were similarly secured, whilst the back wall abutted on to that of another mansion, equally large and strongly built, tenanted by a well-known peer.

Truly, it required a genius almost unrivalled in the annals of crime to murder four people and steal diamonds worth millions in such a place whilst guarded by twelve London policemen and under the special protection of the Home Office.

The appearance of Winter at the door caused the gaping idlers in the street to endeavor to draw nearer to the mysterious portals. Thereupon three policemen on duty outside hustled the mob back, and Brett took advantage of the confusion thus created to slip to the doorway almost unperceived. One of the police constables turned round to make a grab at him, but a signal from the confrere inside prevented this, and Brett quickly found himself within a spacious entrance hall with the door closed and bolted behind him.

Winter was talking to two uniformed inspectors, to whom he had explained the barrister's mission and credentials.

"We have here, Mr. Brett," he said, "Inspector Walters, who was on duty until 10 o'clock on Monday night, and Inspector Sharpe, who relieved him. They will both tell you exactly what took place."

"Thank you," said the barrister, "but it will expedite matters if you gentlemen will first accompany me over the scene of the crime. I will then be able to understand more accurately what happened. Suppose we start here. I presume that this is where the police guard was stationed?"

Inspector Walters assumed the role of guide.

"I was in charge of the first guard established a month ago," he said, "and the arrangements I then made have been adhered to without deviation night and day ever since."

From the outer door a short passage of a few feet led up half a dozen steps into a large reception-room, the entrance to which was closed by a light double door, half glass. On both sides of the first short passage were two small apartments, such as are often used in London mansions for the purposes of cloak-rooms. The doors from these rooms opened into the inner hall. A large dining-room was situated on the left or Park side, and on the right was a breakfast, or morning-room. At the back of the reception hall a handsome staircase led from left to right to the upper floors, whilst a doorway beneath the staircase gave access to the kitchens and basement offices.

"Here," said the inspector, pointing to the foot of the staircase, "two police-constables were constantly stationed. Another stood there," indicating the passage to the kitchen, "and a fourth at the glass door. As the outer basement entrance was not only securely fastened by bolts and bars, but actually bricked up inside, it was absolutely impossible for any person to enter or leave the house save by the front door, nor could any one go from the kitchen to the upper part of the house without passing under the observation of all four constables. I arranged my guards in military fashion, having three men for each post, with one hour on duty and two hours off, but the same men were never on guard together at definite hours, as they were relieved at varying times. You will understand that I considered it a very responsible task to safeguard these premises, and thought it best to render it impossible for any section of the force under my command to take part in a conspiracy, although such a thing was in itself most improbable."

They then ascended the staircase and found themselves on the first floor.

There were six spacious apartments on this story, and all of them had originally opened on to the landing. The special precautions taken to guard the diamonds of the Turkish mission had altered all that. Five doorways had been bricked up, the result being that admission to the whole set of rooms could be obtained only through the first door that faced the top of the staircase.

This apartment was luxuriously furnished, and Inspector Walters explained that the Turkish Envoy and his suite passed the working hours of each day there after they had personally thrown open the other apartments to the diamond polishers and unlocked the safes in which the gems were stored, when work ceased on the previous day.

"His Excellency," said the inspector, "kept the keys of this room and the others, together with those of the safes, in his own possession night and day. He slept upstairs, and so did the other two gentlemen. No one was allowed to come to this floor except the confidential servant, named Hussein, who used to bring coffee, cigars and newspapers or other things the gentlemen might require, together with their lunch in the middle of the day. The workmen brought their lunch with them, so that they came in and out once a day only."

"Were did this confidential servant sleep?" said Brett.

"I believe he used to lie curled up on the rug outside his Excellency's door."

"And the other servants?"

"They all slept in the basement."

"What were they, Turks or Christians?"

"Well, sir," said the inspector with a smile, "two of them were Turks in costume, whilst three were Christians in appearance. That is the best I can say for the Christians, as they were Frenchmen, though certainly the cook was a first-rate chef. Of course, we all got our meals here whilst on duty."

"Did his Excellency and the other members of the mission eat food prepared in the ordinary way?"

"Oh, yes; they appreciated French dishes as keenly as anybody might do."

"It was in this room, then," continued Brett, "that the murders took place?"

"Yes; I suppose that must be so," said the inspector. "But my friend here," pointing to Inspector Sharpe, "can tell that part of the story better than I can."

They passed into the inner rooms, which were quite silent and deserted, and presented a strange appearance considering the character of the house and its locality. Although the ceilings were decorated with beautiful paintings and fringed with superbly emblazoned mouldings, although the walls were papered with material that cost as much per yard as good silk, each apartment was occupied with workmen's benches, and curious devices for cutting and polishing diamonds.

In the first room were two small safes, one of which was intended to receive the gems under treatment at the close of each day's work; the other held certain valuable materials required in the diamond cutter's operations. Three of the rooms were on the Park side, and it was here that the small colony of skilled artisans had been installed.

The other two rooms were not tenanted, nor had any communicating doors been broken through the walls in order to gain access to them.

The windows of the three apartments occupied by the workmen were not only guarded by strong iron bars, but possessed the additional security of external wire blinds, of exceedingly small mesh. Each window admitted plenty of light, and could be raised to allow a free circulation of air, but it was seemingly quite impossible for any active communication to take place with the outside. The three rooms looked out over a small enclosed lawn which was separated from the park by a brick wall surmounted by iron railings. All the fireplaces had been closed with bricks and mortar.

"You will see, sir," said the inspector, when he had called Brett's attention to these details, "that mysterious though the murders were they were as nothing compared with the disappearance of the diamonds. Every person who came downstairs was most carefully and methodically searched each time he passed the constable on duty at the bottom. It may be admitted that a few small stones could be so secreted as to escape observation, but some of these stones were so large that such a notion is not to be thought of, whilst the size of the great diamond which Mr. Talbot christened the 'Hen's Egg' rendered its transference past the searchers beneath absolutely impossible. There was no humbug about the search, you will understand, Mr. Brett. People had to take their boots off, open their mouths, and hand over their hats, coats, sticks, or umbrellas for inspection. Every part of their clothing was scrutinized, and the contents of their pockets, money, watches, keys, and the rest, thoroughly examined. These were our orders, and they were strictly obeyed, Mr. Talbot himself being the first to insist that the regulation should be carried out rigidly, so far as he was concerned. Why, one day a Cabinet Minister came here to see the diamonds. He was elderly and stout, and did not like at all having to take off his boots, I can assure you, as he nearly got apoplexy whilst lacing them up again."

During the inspector's running comments Brett had carefully scrutinized each of the windows. He at once came to the conclusion, by a simple analysis of the possibilities, that by no other means than through the barrier of iron wire had the diamonds passed out of the house; but the most thorough examination failed to reveal any loophole by which this achievement had been accomplished. He opened each of the windows, tested every iron bar, and saw that the fastenings of the external blind were undisturbed, whilst the fine wire mesh showed no irregularities in its pattern wherein any defect would at once be visible.

"We have done all that long since, sir," said the second police officer, smiling at the obviousness of an amateur's method of inspection, for it happened that he had never met the barrister before, though he had often heard of him.

"You have?" said Brett, with the slightest tinge of sarcasm in his voice. "Did you do this?" and he commenced to thump with a clenched fist upon every portion of the external screen that he could reach.

"No, we did not," said the policeman, "and I don't see that it is going to accomplish anything except hurt your hand."

"That may be so," murmured Brett; "but the diamonds went this way and none other."

He tested every portion of one window screen in this manner without effect. Then he approached the second window, and, beginning at the left-hand top corner, did the same thing. Suddenly an exclamation came from the three interested watchers. In the centre of the lower part of the screen Brett's hand made a visible impression upon the iron wire. Using no more force than had been applied to other portions, the blow served to tear a section of the blind about eight inches across. Instantly the barrister ceased operations, and, producing a pocket-microscope, minutely examined the rent.

"I expected as much," he said, taking hold of the torn part of the screen and giving it a vigorous pull, with the result that a small piece, measuring about eight inches by six, came bodily out. "This has been cut away, as you will see, by some instrument which did not even bend the wire. It was subsequently replaced, whilst the fractured parts were sufficiently cemented by some composition to retain this section in its place, and practically defy observation.

There was nothing for it but force to reveal it thus early. No doubt in time the composition would have dried, or been washed away, and then this bit of the screen would have fallen out by the action of the wind and weather. Here, at any rate, is a hole in your defensive armor." He held out the piece de conviction to the discomfited Sharpe, who surveyed it in silence.

It was not part of Brett's business in life, however, to snatch plaudits from astounded policemen.

"This is where nothing," he continued. "Of course, there must have been some such means of getting the diamonds off the premises. Let us return to the ante-room and there you can tell me the exact history of events on Monday evening."

(To be continued.)

HOW CLOVES GROW.

Cloves are the unexpanded flower-buds of a beautiful evergreen-tree which grows only in tropical countries. The buds are at first a pale color, and gradually become green, after which they develop into a bright red, when they are ready for collecting. During the drying process they are exposed to the smoke of a wood-fire, and then to the action of the sun, which accounts for their dark-brown color when ready for the market. The clove-tree, which attains a height of 30 feet, is a native of a small group of islands in the Indian Archipelago, called the Spice Islands, but in the last few centuries it has been carried to all the warmer parts of the world. Cloves were one of the principal Oriental spices which early excited the cupidity of Western commercial communities, having been the basis of a rich and lucrative trade since the early part of the Christian era.

Even the watch a man keeps on his tongue will run down occasionally.

On the Farm

FOR THE HOG RAISER.

If pigs farrowed early in March do not reach 275 pounds by the first week of November there is something wrong about the feeding.

Oregon Experiment Station shows that one acre of good clover for growing hogs represents a value of $44.

Too much corn for the brood sow means small litters.

Too many farmers kill their good brood sows because of the temptation to sell for the high prices. This is a mistake.

While there is considerable investment in the brood sows, still it pays better to keep the good ones because they will produce more uniform pigs, more of them and will raise them metter.

It is a good plan to soak shelled corn for the hogs and if it is ground before it is soaked so much the better.

Oats for the brood sow will produce better muscle for the pigs.

The ultimate end of the hog is pork and the quicker the growth to market maturity the more profit there is in it for the feeder.

COWS MUST HAVE A REST.

Too many farmers milk their cows from calf to calf. In some states the law forbids the selling of milk of cows within two weeks of calving or five days after. This rest is none too long and in fact young heifers would do better if they were given a longer rest before calving.

We once heard a farmer at County Institute defend his practice of milking his cows up to the last moment on the ground that he worked every day and wanted his cows to do the same.

A woman asked him if he did not rest on Sunday and he rather shamefacedly replied that he worked every day in the week, particularly during the summer months.

Not much use arguing with a man like that, but experience shows that it is much better for the health and usefulness of the cow, especially heifers, to give her at least a month's rest during the year.

A cow is a milk machine it is true and we want to get all we can out of her, but like machines made of steel and wood, she must be given time for repairs or she will wear out all too quickly.

NOTES OF THE SHEEPFOLD.

Sheep are comfort lovers and the man who neglects to provide them with good, dry shelter makes a costly error.

Many a bunch of promising feeders go to the country and return with indication of being half starved.

It is the gains that the lambs make during the fall that determine the feeder's profits.

Hothouse lamb is now as popular as baby-beef and an up-to-date flockman does not keep his lambs until they are fully matured unless for breeding purposes.

No female can expect to transmit to her offspring better qualities than she possesses herself unless she is mated with a sire with greater prepotency.

Do not go into sheep breeding. Grow into it. Begin in a small way. You will find many unexpected problems constantly coming up and if you go into it largely at first you will find a great deal of trouble and disappointment. There is much that has to be learned by long and thoughtful experience.

A LADY LECTURER

Feeds Nerves and Brains Scientifically.

A lady lecturer writes from Philadelphia concerning the use of right food and how she is enabled to without the strain and wear and tear of her arduous occupation. She says:

"Though improper food, imperfectly digested, my health was completely wrecked, and I attribute my recovery entirely to the regular use of Grape-Nuts food. It has, I assure you, proved an inestimable boon to me.

"Almost immediately after beginning the use of Grape-Nuts I found a gratifying change in my condition. The terrible weakness that formerly prostrated me after a few hours of work, was perceptibly lessened and is now only a memory—it never returns.

"Ten days after beginning on Grape-Nuts I experienced a wonderful increase in mental vigor and physical energy, and continued use has entirely freed me from the miserable insomnia and nervousness from which I used to suffer so much.

"I find Grape-Nuts very palatable and would not be without the crisp, delicious food for even a day on any consideration. Indeed, I always carry it with me on my lecture tours."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

BRAIN WORKERS who get little exercise, feel better all round for an occasional dose of

"NA-DRU-CO" Laxatives

They tone up the liver, move the bowels gently but freely, cleanse the system and clear the brain. A new, pleasant and reliable laxative, prepared by a reliable firm, and worthy of the NA-DRU-CO Trade Mark.

25c. a box. If your druggist has not yet stocked them, send 25c. and we will mail them.

NATIONAL DRUG & CHEMICAL COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED, MONTREAL. 21

LETTERS OF A SON IN THE MAKING TO HIS DAD.

—By REX McEVOY

[Mr. McEvoy will write for this paper a series of letters from the west. They will appear from time to time under the above heading, and will give a picture of the great Canadian west from the standpoint of a young Ontario man going out there to make his way. These letters should be full of interest for every Ontario father.]

No. 4.

Calgary, Sept. 4th, 1911.

My dear Dad:—

You will see I am still in Calgary. It is not that I am particularly taken with the town, but I have been knocking about with Mr. Renwick and finding out something about the country. You know I told you in my first letter that he and his three sons were on their way out to take up some of the C. P. R. irrigated lands. I was out to his place last Friday and stayed overnight with them. It is what is called a ready-made farm. The Canadian Pacific will break, harrow, seed and fence from 50 acres up, will put up buildings, and bore a well, so that you can go right on the farm with the crop growing and move right into your house. Of course they don't do it for nothing, but as you can pay for it in ten annual instalments along with the ten instalments for the land, it is spread over pretty well. Mr. Renwick reckons the farm will carry itself after the first year. He is all enthusiastic over the district. The company has demonstration farms close by, and they have pure bred sires of first rate breeds of live-stock, which are free for settlers' use.

Mr. Renwick knew some people who have located here, and that is why he came out. They say that the irrigation is like insurance against the loss of the crop through lack of moisture at the growing time. In 1908 oats were over 100 bushels to the acre, wheat 60 bushels and barley 91.

Mr. Charleton, who has a place near Strathmore, says that 1910 was the driest season for many years, yet all the people round there had some sort of a crop even without irrigation. With irrigation in the fall they are sure of good crops. People differ as to when the water should be let in from the irrigation canals. P. J. Umbrite, who has a place near Gleichen, says some people don't believe in putting the water on newly sown land, but he never cut finer oats than where he did this. He says that the best time to irrigate is late in the fall when the crops are off, and in the spring.

Quite a few people are going in largely for growing sugar beets in this district. They grow a good quality and can sell all they have at $5 a ton anywhere in the irrigation block. This block is no small thing. It is forty miles north and south and 150 miles east and west. There are 1,500,000 acres in it. You strike the irrigation canal on the train a couple of hours before you get to Calgary, and it certainly looks a big work. They say it is the largest in the western hemisphere. It cost $5,000,000, and there are 2,900 miles of ditches—imagine! If they were put end to end they would reach from Toronto to Vancouver and stick out into the ocean at that! And it is said that the company intend to spend $12,000,000 more in extending the irrigation system.

The winters here are quite mild—so mild that they don't go in for any sports at Calgary that require snow. Horses are wintered out. Alberta is still quite a cattle raising place. The cured prairie grass puts on a finish, so they say, almost as good as grain. There is a big trade in cattle with British Columbia and the Yukon, as well as a big export trade.

The country is building up at a tremendous rate. Alberta has a population of 400,000, and when you go through it on the railway you wonder where it is all stowed away. You would think that there would be more houses along the railway than there are. But when you think that Alberta is bigger than either France or Germany, and twice as big as the British Isles with their millions, it is easy to understand that there is plenty of room for 400,000 without overcrowding. But just to show how the country is developing—in 1900 there were not 500 acres in the Province sown to winter wheat, while in 1909 there were 305,000 acres. That's going some. Last year, 20,000 acres were settled every day, in Alberta alone. They say that 200,000 Americans came into Canada in 1910, bringing with them in cash and settlers' effects as much as $250,000,000. There were about the same number of settlers from Great Britain and Europe. The western provinces keep pace with the growth of population in the matter of schools, and the people here say that the rural schools are in no way behind those in Ontario.

The cities, of course, are growing just as quickly as the country. Why, ten years ago Regina had a population of only 2,000, and now it has 22,500. Regina is the centre of a district of about 60,000 square miles with a population of 400,000. Amongst other things the town is the distributing point for agricultural implements, threshers and engines. Last year the agricultural implements distributed through this town were valued at $20,000,000. In 1910, two new towns were incorporated in Alberta every week. This city of Calgary, sometimes called the "Sandstone City," because of the amount of building stone that is right here and is largely used in the stores and churches, was only founded in 1882, yet it has grown so rapidly that the C. P. R. had found it necessary to spend a quarter of a million on the new station. The building is a handsome one, and one that every one of the 60,000 population of Calgary and its suburbs can be proud of. In the last ten years the city has increased its population by seven times. It is six miles square, and there is quite a bit of real estate dealing going on in that square, too. You can judge that when you know that there are 200 licensed real estate dealers in town, to say nothing of the hundreds of people who are interested in "deals." There seems to be a real estate fever about. Three doctors who came out this year to practice have caught it and are in real estate instead.

Well, it's getting late now, and I must close up. I shall be going on to Vancouver to-morrow, so that I shall be glad if you would send the paper on to Uncle John's address. Thanks very much for sending it; I have always been glad to get it. Love to everyone at home.

JIM.

SMOKING AND CANCER.

It is accepted that cancer on the tongue is very commonly associated with, and preceded by leucoplakia, but (says the "Hospital") the occurrence of the leucoplakia does not seem to bear any constant relation to indulgence in excessive smoking. People who smoke from morning till night often have healthy mouths, and on the other hand some quite moderate smokers have a white patch on that part of their tongue where smoke has constantly impinged. Irritation caused by jagged tooth, or by some condition of a stopping is undoubtedly an important factor which has to be reckoned with.

"THE SUGAR OF QUALITY"

IS ANOTHER NAME FOR

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR

This explains why it is so generally used during the Fruit Season.

See that you get it from your Grocer for it means "Preserving Satisfaction."

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal

Established in 1854 by John Redpath.

We Told You So!

Labatt's Lager

Now Perfected

The best on the market!

TRY IT

John Labatt LIMITED

LONDON ONT.

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech, Props

THURSDAY, SEPT. 21, '11

The odds seem to be on Merner.

Nothing remains but the contest of the ballots.

Many a friend and many a foe will fall by the wayside to-day.

Sure thing. Your first duty to-day is to vote for Merner, and do your part toward keeping Canada for the Canadians.

A frost is sure to be felt very severely all over Canada on the 21st—a political frost—and in many places the candidates will be figuratively snowed under.

LETTER FROM THE WEST

Kenton, Man., Sept. 12, '11

Mr. Editor,—Having been on another trip through the northern part of this province I thought I would drop you a line. There has been all kinds of weather out here. Some farmers have got a bountiful crop while others have been completely hailed out. We were up at Hamlota and Shoal Lake. There area number of farmers who have not got enough crop left to pay for replacing the glass in their houses, but it must be remembered that this state of affairs only reaches about two miles in width. There are to be seen while driving along the road some of the heaviest fields of wheat and oats I have ever seen. They have had a lot of rain out here ever since the 1st of August, so the straw is long and the grain sample good. A jolly good humored old farmer told us that he had been here thirty years; he had nearly three sections of land, that his crop two years ago totalled 19,000 bushels, and sold for $11,000, and he had only been hailed out once. So, Mr. Reader, you can quite readily see that there is a splendid satisfaction to nearly all the farmers. Threshing is now started all over the West. There has been no frost to do any harm to the grain. As to working hard I cannot see that they work any harder than the Ontario farmer, but there is one thing I notice that the easy farming is almost at an end, and if the western farmer wants to make money he will have to work his land to fight the incoming dirt, and also enrich the farm to have good results the same as in the east. One of the most striking things to be noticed out here is the distance you can see on a clear day. Ont he farm where I am working we can see the train 25 miles away. Now, in conclusion, let me say if the people of this country could enjoy the comforts of Ontario, that is in the line of fruits, good roads, an evenly balanced climate, good water, reasonable prices for the goods they purchase, and take a greater interest in religious things, this country would be one of the finest spots under the sun. Thanking you for this space in your valuable paper, I remain as ever, J. Wright.

SAINTSBURY

The annual harvest home thanksgiving services in connection with St. Patricks church will be held on Sept. 24 at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., when sermons appropriate to the occasion will be preached by the Rev. W. J. Connor, rector of Trinity Church, Atlas Craig.

It Grows Hair

BUT NOT AFTER THE HAIR ROOT IS DEAD.

W. S. Cole will tell you that he sells a great many bottles of Parisian Sage because it gives satisfaction.

He guarantees it to eradicate dandruff stop falling and slitting hair and itching scalp, or money back.

Parisian Sage will make hair grow if the hair root is not dead; it puts life and luster into dull and faded hair, and is the most delightful hair dressing in the world. Only 50 cents a large bottle.

Parisian Sage is the best hair grower and beautifier, dandruff cure and scalp cleaner known. Try it on our money back plan.

SOVEREIGN BANK DIRECTORS LIABLE.—A bomb has fallen into the pit board of directors of the Sovereign Bank in the shape of a Court of Appeal judgment, holding four of them liable for $178,794. Others are liable for sums totalling in all $400,000. W. E. Stavert, curator of the bank, brought action against the directors on collapse of the bank. He sued on promissory notes given to nominally cover the purchase of stock which was held by the bank itself. Chancellor Boyd dismissed his action, and from this decision the curator appealed. The directors will appeal in turn, and the case will probably travel to the Privy Council.

CREDITON.

Quite a number from the village and neighborhood attended the Fall Fair in Exeter on Tuesday afternoon The majority stayed for the concert in the evening. All report it to have been an excellent one.—Joseph Lawson will complete the cement abutments for Haist's bridge this week.—Last Sunday morning Rev. J. P. Hauch, Supt. of Missions of the Evangelical Church in Tokio, Japan occupied the pulpit in the Evangelical church and preached to a very large audience. His address on the progress of the work in the church was particularly interesting. On Tuesday evening he delivered a splendid address on his journey here from Japan via Trans Siberian Railway, Germany, Switzerland England and thence across the Atlantic.—Last Friday, Frederick Eilber celebrated his 88 birthday. His many friends congratulated him on attaining such an advanced age. He is still good for twenty years more. We hope he will be spared for many more years to enjoy good health and prosperity.—Mrs. Flora Walker has returned from London where she visited friends for a few days.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kuhn accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. John Sweitzer motored to St. Joseph and Zurich last Sunday.—The remains of the late Frederick Heintzmann, who died in Shipka, were interred in the Evangelical Cemetery here on Monday. The deceased was well known here having been one of the earlier settlers. The bereaved family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

LUMLEY.

Master Jas. Broadfoot attended London fair and spent a few days with friends in the city.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bolton spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bell Tuckersmith.—Miss Edna Horton spent a few days end of the week with friends here.—Miss Maude Glenn gave a tea on Saturday after-noon in honor of her cousin Miss Vera Glenn whose marriage took place yesterday. —The marriage of Miss J. Vera Glenn daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn to Mr. Hibbert I. Goodfellow of Parkdale, Toronto, took place quietly yesterday at the Methodist parsonage Hensall, the Rev. J. E. J. Millyard officiating. They were attended by Miss Mabel McTaggart of Chatham, cousin of the bride and Mr. Harold Glenn, the bride's brother. The bride wore a smart tailored suit of navy blue broadcloth, and a pretty waist of gold fish-net, veiled in navy chiffon, with edging of baby Irish lace. A navy-blue velvet hat, with willow plumes completed the costume. After a short honey moon. The young couple will reside in Toronto. Our best wishes go with them.—Miss Anderson of Kinburn spent a short time with her cousin Miss Maggie Hobkirk.—Mr. Grant Ryckman recently had the telephone installed in his home.

GRAND BEND.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Disjardine moved to Brewster Thursday.—Several from here attended London and Exeter Fairs. —Nelson Ravelle is able to be out again. —Some one to the south reports seeing a white crow.—Mrs. Wm. Buchanan is on the sick list. We wish her a speedy recovery.—Mr. Ed. Gill, jr., has brought Wm. Love's 50 acre farm, and Mr. Love has bought John Statten's 100 acres Mr. Statten intends retiring from farming.—The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church here will hold their Harvest Home on the 26th of Sept. A good program is provided. Remember the date —Harvey Boasenberry lost a valuable horse Sunday, it being ill only half-an-hour.—The Conservative meeting was well attended Tuesday, the hall being filled.—Mr. Carriere is improving after an illness. His son Emery was called home from Toronto owing to the illness. —Cyrus Green is at Port Franks building a boat—Mr. Tiedeman was home for a few days from Forest.—Phil. Baker has bought Mrs. Miller's property next the manse.—Mrs. Wm. Oliver underwent an operation in London Hospital—Robt. Sanders after spending the summer here has returned to his home in Exeter.—James Mollard and Ashton Mollard and children are visiting their father James Mollard.—Mrs. Thomas, who has been visiting her parents, returned to Detroit

SHARON

Death of Mrs. Amy.—There passed away at her home, concession 9, Stephen, Sunday night last, another of the most respected residents of this township, in the person of Susanna Lagrice, beloved wife of Thomas Amy. Mrs. Amy had been failing for several months of kidney and liver trouble but was up and around until about two weeks previous to her demise when she was compelled to take her bed and gradually sinking passed away. Deceased was born in Norfolk, England, in 1843 and came to Canada with her parents when only five years of age, settling in Oxford county, near Woodstock, and when 22 years of age was married to her surviving husband, and came to the township of Stephen to live, where she has continued to reside ever since. She was a kind and affectionate mother, a good neighbor and a true friend, and her death will be much regretted by all who knew her. She was a valued member of the Methodist church since youth. Besides her sorrowing husband she is survived by, ten children—Mrs. John Trevethick, of Brinsley, Wellington, Crandell, Man., Alva and Wilbert Julloo, Sask., Garnet of Calgary, Alta. Mrs. Wm. Mawhinney, Moses and Joseph of Stephen and Ella and Elgin at home, also one brother John Lagrice of Oxford, all of whom have the sympathy of their many friends. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. R. Hicks of Crediton.

EXETER FAIR (Continued)

art; Begonias—3 other varieties, Mrs. McPherson; ferns, Mrs. McPherson; foliage, W. Dauncey; geraniums, J. Cottle 1 & 2; hanging basket, Mrs. McPherson; col. flowers, Mrs. McPherson; novelty, W. Dauncey, A. McPherson.

CUT FLOWERS.

Asters, J. W. Hern, J. Cottle, H. Huston; dahlias, standard, J. Cottle; dahlias, cactus, J. Cottle; dahlias, display, J. Cottle; gladiolus, J. G. Stanbury; 6 varieties gladiolus, J. G. Stanbury nasturtiums, H. Huston, J. G. Stanbury, Miss Brown; petunias, single, Mrs. Whiting, J. Cottle; petunias, double, J. Cottle; Phlox Drummondi, J. Cottle, J. G. Stanbury; coxcombs, Mrs. Whiting; stocks, J. Cottle; sweet peas, J. W. Hern, H. Huston, verbenas, C. Birney, J. Cottle; Zinnias, J. Cottle; arrangement for table, J. Moir, J. Hern; annuals, J. Cottle; design for funeral, J. G. Forest, Mrs Whiting; bride's bouquet, J G Forrest, Dr. Sweet, Judge.

FINE ARTS

Painting in oil, landscape, R. Taylor; Mrs. Wickwire; Painting in oil, figure, L. Livingstone, J C Hele, J G. Forrest extra; painting in oil, fruit or flowers, Mrs. Wickwire, J G Forest, L Livingstone, extra; water color landscape, Mrs. Wickwire, J G Forest; water color figure, Dr. Browning, Mrs. J. White, L. Livingstone extra; water color, fruit or flowers, L. Livingstone, J. G. Forest; sepia painting, Mrs. F. Wickwire, L. Livingstone; Huron Co. scenery, J G. Forest, Dr. Browning; pyrography, J G Forrest, J A Stewart; crayon or pastello, Dr. Browning, J. G. Forest; Pencil sketch, Dr. Browning, Weekes Bros. col. photographs, Jos. Senior, Jas. Grieve; photos, ditto; col. views, J. Grieve, J. Senior; pen and ink sketch, G. Heywood, L. Livingstone painting on china, etc., H Huston, Mrs. Wickwire.

Miscellaneous—Hair dressers work, Mrs. Neeb, J. Decker, sr.; col. coins also stamps, also curiosities, G. Anderson 1 and 2

Mrs. W. Kerr, Judge.

LADIES' WORK

Washable sofa pillow, L Livingstone Dr Browning; mounted sofa pillow, Dr Browning, J. Decker, sr.; piano drape, L Livingstone, Dr. Browning; sideboard scarf, Dr. Browning, A. Hastings; whisk holder, Mrs. J White, M. Brook; pin cushion, L Livingstone, Miss Tom; Laundry bag, M Brook, Mrs. White; hand bag, Mrs. Wickwire, M Brook; darning, Miss Tom, Mrs. White; button holes, Miss Tom, L Livingstone; patching, Miss Tom, Mrs. Wickwire; pillow sham Mrs. Dow, Miss Tom; pillow cases, L Livingstone, J. Decker, sr.; child's dress, W. J. Heaman, Mrs. White; ladies underclothing, A. Hastings, towels, W.C.Keddy, Miss Brown; night shirt, A Hastings, Miss Ferguson; hand sewing, Miss Tom; Afghan, J C Hele, Miss Tom; tea cosy, L Livingstone, E Moncur handkerchief box, Mrs. White, M. Tom; towel rack, W. C. Keddy, Miss Brown; tatting, Dr. Browning, J C Hele; netting L Livingstone, E Moncur; photo frame H Huston, J C Hele; fancy apron, J C Hele, L Livingstone; col. table linen, H Huston, Mrs. Dow; centre piece white L Livingstone, C Dyer; in colors, L Livingstone, J C Hele, Dr. Browning extra tray cloths, C Dyer, L Livingstone; hem stitching, Miss Brown; lunch cloth in white, H Huston, L Livingstone; in colors, L. Livingstone; Battenburg Lace, E Moncur, L Livingstone; Honiton, J C Hele, Mrs. White; teneriffe point, M. Brown; Duchess, L Livingstone, E Moncur; Queen Ann darning, Miss Ferguson, L Livingstone; French emb. L Livingstone, E Moncur; crochet shawl or cape, Miss Tom, M. Brook; slippers, ditto, underskirt, M Brook, Mrs. Neeb; fascinator, Mrs. McPherson, M. Tom; infants' jacket, Mrs. Neeb, M. Brook; infant's bonnet, M. Brook, A. Hastings; infant's bootees, Mrs. Neeb, Mrs White crochet lace, Miss Ferguson, E.Moncur crochet in wool, Mrs. Neeb, Mrs McPherson; table mats, J C Hele, M Brook crochet work and braid, L Livingstone M. Brook; Irish point, J C Hele, H Huston; knitted slippers, H Huston, Mrs. Neeb; knitted shawl or cape, Miss Tom, Miss Livingstone; knitted lace, E. Ferguson, Miss Tom; knitted fascinator, Miss Tom; Emb. Wallachin, L Livingstone, J. Decker; Emb. ribbon, J Forrest; emb. shadow, L Livingstone, J. Brown; eyelet, J Decker, L Livingstone; applique, L Livingstone, J G Forest; emb Roman or cut work, L Livingstone, Mrs. Wickwire; Hardanger, Mrs. Wickwire, J Moir; mount mellick, L Livingstone, Mrs White; hucka back, T. Brock, A. Hastings; shirt waist, J. Decker, sr., J. Decker, jr.; emb. doylies, L Livingstone, Mrs. Wickwire; bed spread, J. Decker jr braiding, F Hogarth, W Statham; coronation braid work, H. Huston, M. Tom; quilt pathwork in cloth, W. C. Keddy, M Tom; in cotton, J C Hele, E. Ferguson, G Anderson, extra; quilt in silk, M. Tom, E Ferguson; counterpane tufted, F Hogarth, W. Battler; counterpane, crochet, J. Decker; knitted, J C Hele, Miss Tom; rag mat sewed, Miss Tom; rag mat hooked, W. C Keddy, W. Statham; rag carpet, Miss Tom, W. Statham; heavy wool socks, Mrs. McPherson; ladies knitted silk gloves, Miss Tom; fancy socks, C Ferguson, Mrs. Neeb; ladies' mitts, Miss Tom, J C Hele; wool gloves, Miss Tom, E. Ferguson; men's wool mitts, Miss Tom, W. Battler; fire screen, Mrs. Wickwire; work on canvas, A Hastings, Mrs. White; bead work J C Hele, Mrs. Wickwire; fancy underwaist, H Huston, L Livingstone; cross stitch, Mrs. White, L Livingstone; fine drawn thread work, Mrs. Wickwire; the same coarse, Mrs. Dow, H. Huston; shirt waist, J Brown, Mrs. Wickwire; initialed handkerchiefs, M. Brook; novelty, E Moncur, Miss Tom; toilet articles, Mrs. Wickwire; collection, L. Livingstone; largest collection, J C Hele;

PILES CURED at HOME

by New Absorption Method.

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind or protruding Piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality if requested. Immediate relief and permanent cure assured. Send no money, but tell others of this offer. Write to-day to Mrs. M. Summers, Box 840 Windsor, Ont.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Take Hall's family pills for constipation.

Mrs. Neeb; Metal craft, H. Huston, L Livingstone; home-made bread, H.Huston, G. McLeod; home-made buns, M. Clark, H. Huston; Harvey Bros. special J. Moir.

CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT

Dressed doll, L. Day, sr.; pin cushion A Hastings, W. Statham; plain sewing, A Hastings, L. Day; handkerchiefs, W. Statham, A. Hastings; sofa cushion, W Statham, L. Day; darned socks, J.Decker, A Hastings; crochet work in cotton, W Statham, L. Day; in wool, L. Day, J Decker; col. articles, W. Statham, J. Decker; painting any object and drawing, Harvey Bros 1 and 2. Extra, L. Day, W Heaman, G Anderson; Jos. Senior's special, L. Day.

Misses N. Carling and S. Sweet, judges

Simple Remedy

FOR BACKACHE AND KIDNEY TROUBLE.

The simplest and most effective remedy for sick kidneys is Booth's Kidney Pills. If there is weakness, congestion inflammation or soreness, Booth's Kidney Pills quickly relieve it. They gently relieve it. They gently stimulate, tone and strength en sick kidneys, drive away backache, rheumatic pain and dizziness clear up and regulate the urine and restore a perfect filtering of the blood. Best of all this relief is permanent.

Booth's Kidney Pills

All druggists sells and guarantee Booth's Kidney Pills, 50c. box. Money back if they fail to relieve. Write to The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., for a free trial.

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

Westervelt School

Y. M. C. A. BLDG. LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal. 15

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

LOW RATE EXCURSIONS TO

NEW ONTARIO

SEPTEMBER 30th

From Stations in Ontario, Kingston, Madawaska and West Madawaska and West To Stations on T. and N. O. Ry., Haileybury and North

Tickets will be issued at rate of ONE CENT PER MILE EACH WAY Return Limit, Oct. 10, 1911.

"COBALT SPECIAL" leaves Toronto 8.30 p. m. daily, carrying through Coaches.

COLONIST EXCURSIONS—To Spokane, Wash.; Nelson, B.C.; Vancouver B.C.; Westminster, B.C.; Seattle, Wh. Tacoma, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Cal. and Mexico City at very low rates SEPT 15th to OCT. 15th.

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

FARMERS' BUSINESS

The Canadian Bank of Commerce extends to Farmers every facility for the transaction of their banking business including the discount and collection of sales notes. Blank sales notes are supplied free of charge on application.

BANKING BY MAIL

Accounts may be opened at every branch of The Canadian Bank of Commerce to be operated by mail, and will receive the same careful attention as is given to all other departments of the Bank's business. Money may be deposited or withdrawn in this way as satisfactorily as by a personal visit to the Bank. A231

Exeter Branch—W. H. Collins, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up) - $4,000,000
Rest Fund - - - $4,400,000
Total Assets Over - $44,000,000

Has 78 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at all Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

The Public Schools

OPEN SEPT. 5th

And how about your School Supplies

SCRIBBLERS.— The regular 5c. scribblers, plain or ruled. 7 for 25c.

LEAD PENCILS.— The famous regalia pencil, worth 2 for 5c. reduced price 10c. a doz.

PAINTS.— Water colors in neat boxes 5c. to 25c. crayons 1c. to 10c. a box.

INKS.— Stafford's and Underwood's Black and Blue Black Inks, 8oz bottles for 5c.

SLATES.— The famous German proof slate, wire edge or bound 5c. to 14c.

DICTIONARIES.— Collins large type pronouncing dictionaries at 15c.

It will pay you to pay us a visit. We are in a position to save you money, and we do it.

S. Martin & Son, Exeter

Children Cry for

CASTORIA

Coughs, colds, hoarseness, and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Cresolene tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists

CENTRAL Business College STRATFORD, ONT.

Our registration greatly exceeds that of previous years. Why? Our school is the best of its kind in the west, best in courses given, best in teachers employed and best in assisting graduates to positions. Our graduates are in demand. Business men state that they are the best. In the past three years we had eleven applications for help that we could not supply. We have three departments, Commercial, Shorthand and Telegraphy. Get our free catalogue. Commence your course at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,— "Fresh Groceries all the time,"

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials, Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Cananian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver

and is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. E. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto University.
DENTIST,
teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects. Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. B. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years sident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew rest, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates o nterest
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
R. CARLING, B.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter Ont

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies.
Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elliott's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter. Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.
The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St. Thomas Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

ELLIOTT Business College
TORONTO, ONT., is recognized as "CANADA'S HIGH-CLASS COMMERCIAL SCHOOL." The instruction is absolutely first-class. Write to-day for our catalogue. Enter now.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.
We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.
Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.
The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Ellimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT
That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

Northwest Lands.

Unimproved Lands in Saskatchewan and Alberta for sale.
Railway fare refunded to purchasers.
MONEY TO LOAN.
ERNEST ELLIOT,
Office opposite Central Hotel, Exeter.

This furnace means that I can sell when I want to and realize on my investment
The successful real estate man knows through experience that the

SOUVENIR FURNACE
(New Idea Series)

is the best on the market. No scrap or cheap pig iron ever gets into it—that is the basic reason for the long life of the Souvenir Furnace. Add to this skilled workmanship, under the supervision of experienced heating engineers, and you can readily account for the superior qualities of the Souvenir Furnace. Ask your dealer to show you inside reasons—to explain firepot, grate and heat diffusion, and you'll buy the Souvenir. Get our new booklet. The Souvenir Furnace is made in Hamilton, the stove centre of Canada, by

Every buyer of a Souvenir Furnace is presented with a legal bond on date of purchase, guaranteeing firepot against cracks or breaks of any kind for 5 years.

The Hamilton Stove & Heater Co.
Successors to Gurney-Tilden Co. Limited

For Sale by W. J. Heaman

Auction Sale

FARM STOCK, IMPLEMENTS, ETC. late John Horney has instructed Thos. Cameron to sell by public auction on LOT 30, CON. 4, USBORNE on TUESDAY, Sept. 26, at 12.30 o'clock, following valuable property,—

Horses—Draught reg. brood mare; 2-year old draught mare eligible for reg'n supposed to be with foal; 1 foal eligible for reg'n., draught; 2 agric. geldings, 4-yr-old; 1 agric. filly, 2-yr-old; 1 agric. gelding, 2-yr-old; 1 strong driver 7 yr-old.

Cattle—6 cows due in March and Apr; 1 cow, due in Dec.; 1 heifer, 3-yr-old; 6 heifers, 2-yr-old; 4 steers, 2-yr.old; 8 heifers, 1-yr-old; 2 steers, 1-yr-old; 4 spring calves.

Hogs and Fowl—5 brood sows, 6 100 lb. hogs; about 60 hens and pullets.

Implements—Lumber wagon, new; truck wagon and box; new top buggy, open buggy; pair bobsleighs; cutter, nearly new; binder and mower, nearly new; horse rake, hay rack, gravel box, seeder and drill, cultivator, nearly new; riding plow; walking plow, disk; set harrows, 4 sections; land roller, scuffler; fanning mill; 2000-lb. scales; cutting-box; wheelbarrow; cream separator; 2-horse power gasoline engine with 36 feet of shafting, pulleys, belts, etc, and pumping jack; pulper, grindstone, cooler, ladder grain bags, set double work harness set single harness, horse collars, robes, rugs, horse blankets, barrels, forks and chains, and other articles too numerous to mention. About 20 tons first-class hay; quantity of corn in field; 3 acres mangolds, turnips and potatoes; over 20 cords of maple wood can be seen on side road north of farm bush; a quantity of lumber and scantling.

Terms—$5 and under cash; over that amount 9 mos. credit on approved joint notes, 5 per cent. per annum off for cash on credit amounts. R. HORNEY, Ex.
DICKSON & CARLING Solicitors. T. CAMERON Auctioneer.

DWELLING AND LAND FOR SALE.
That desirable property situated in Exeter, on the corner of William and Victoria streets, being one-half acre of land. There is on the premises a good frame house, with kitchen and woodshed, hard and soft water and a number of fruit trees. Will sell half of land separately. Price reasonable. Apply to Mr. Peter Bawden, Exeter, opposite English church.

FARM WANTED TO RENT—50 acre farm with the usual buildings. Any person having such will leave application at this office.

COURT OF REVISOIN
Notice is hereby given that a Court will be held pursuant to the Ontario Voters' List Act by His Honor the Judge of the County Court of the County of Huron at Exeter, in the Town Hall, on Friday, the 22nd day of September, 1911, at 10 o'clock a.m. to hear and determine complaints of errors and omissions in the Voters' List of the Municipality of Exeter for 1911.
T. B. CARLING, Clerk of the municipality of Exeter.
Dated, Sept. 2, 1911.

FOR SALE
One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass excepting 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

HOUSE FOR SALE
The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable property on William st. being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, together with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

HENSALL
At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Geiger, Zurich Road, on Wednesday, 13th inst., Miss Erma Geiger to Mr. John Gascho of Zurich.

James Ball Sr. is still confined to his bed and is not making much improvement.—Mrs. J. Pope and family also—Enne Pope and wife of Brandon, visited in Dashwood on Sunday.—P. Clark of Brucefield has engaged with Colin Hudson to take charge of his blacksmithing department.—W. Perkin who has been in Vancouver and Seattle for some weeks returned home last week.—Miss Florence Pope, who has been in the telephone for some years intends going to Brandon, Man., with her uncle.—While driving home in his rig on Tuesday night David Cooper of Kippen fell off onto the road alighting on his head and remained unconscious several days. The next day he was taken to Clinton Hospital.—The formal opening of the new hotel took place on Thursday last, nomination day. The London Harpers supplied music.

On Sept. 11th, John McFarlane, one of our most respected and highly esteemed citizens passed to the other world. He had a stroke of paralysis some time ago and partially recovered but a second attack proved too much for his frail constitution. After farming in Tuckersmith for some time he returned to Scotland and married his now bereaved widow. He has resided in Hensall for a number of years and was a staunch and faithful member of Carmel Church. Deceased was 73 years of age.

ZURICH.
Miss Bertha Wurm has returned to Detroit.—Miss Helma Sipple of Detroit is visiting relatives and friends in town—Miss Belle Fisher of Port Huron, is visiting her mother and other friends.—Mrs. J. H. Roedding of Berlin was in town this week to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. C. Fisher.—Mr. and Mrs. Julius Tobel are moving from Hensall to the dwelling recently purchased from Mrs. Elizabeth Hess.—Mrs. Justus Demuth of Ashland, Wisconsin, arrived here on Saturday, having been summoned to the death-bed of her mother, Mrs. C. Fisher.—Mr. and Mrs. Constantine returned from a three weeks visit to Clinton and Toronto.—Mrs. C. Fisher, of the Goshen line, South, died on Sept. 10 from old age, she being in her 87th year. The deceased had been gradually failing for a year or more She leaves to mourn a family of sons and daughters besides numerous other relatives and friends. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, to the Evangelical cemetery and was largely attended.—Mr. Menno Bechler's barn at the Goshen Line south, was struck by lightning but luckily no fire started. Some shingles were torn off.

DEATH OF A RICH MAN

O'ercome by cares
He said "Good-night,"
Then all his heirs
Began to fight.

The fight went on
A year or so;
The lawyers got
'Most all the dough.

A few months more
They worked with zest,
And then the lawyers
Got the rest.

And then again
They fit and fit
Till one of them
Had all of it.

When that one died
His heirs began
A fight to which
New lawyers ran.

PURITY FLOUR
And Its Keeping Qualities

SOME people find it necessary to buy a considerable quantity of flour at one time—sufficient to last for a long period. Naturally they are anxious to procure a flour of the kind best adapted to lengthy storage.

There are two important reasons why PURITY FLOUR possesses these qualities. One is that it is made entirely from Manitoba Hard Wheat. The other lies in the fact that the careful milling necessary to produce "Purity" absolutely excludes all low-grade particles of the wheat berry. It's the high grade Manitoba Hard Wheat Flour that keeps—stands longest storage. That's "Purity."

"Purity" flour may cost a little more, but is more than worth the difference. Try it. Watch results both for quality and yield.

"More Bread and better Bread"

WESTERN CANADA FLOUR MILLS CO., LIMITED
Mills at Winnipeg, Goderich, Brandon.

Sold by R. G. Seldon

The "Woman Question—Three Meals a Day"

This is the problem confronting the average housewife—a problem of vital importance to the home, and one best solved by a trip to our store and the purchase of

GURNEY-OXFORD

For the Woman Question is not only what to eat, but how to cook it, and you find the answer in Gurney-Oxford—first in construction, as well as convenience; first in facilities for control and readiness. The Divided Oven Flue Strip assures perfect baking because of its even heat-distribution, and in every detail the perfect construction of this Chancellor Range assures satisfactory cooking results.

Another phase of the question is economy, and we invite a visit to our store expressly that you may examine the marvellous fuel-saving device the

Oxford Economizer

Gurney-Oxfords are the only stoves licensed to sell with this wonderful patent. It needs only to be set at a proper angle to hold heat for hours without attention. No fuel is wasted—a saving of 20 per cent.

The Grate is Reversible with strong teeth that save accumulation of clinkers and waste.

In point of appearance—nickel trimmings, beauty of design, etc.—the Gurney-Oxford has not a rival. Come to our store and find the best answer to the Woman Question—a Gurney-Oxford stove.

W. J. Heaman, Agent.

"Uniformity is a big word, Bud."
"I 'spect it's because it means a lot, Rose."
Steady—Regular—Dependable Quality, there's the FIVE ROSES idea.
No bad dreams bakeday eves — the morning batch "flat" instead of "up."
So very exasperating, you know, to get less loaves this week than last from the same quantities.
FIVE ROSES is the sure flour — reliable, you see.
No wrinkling worries over bread, or cakes, or pies, or anything.
Bake things always up to the mark of your happy expectations.
Disappointment—never.
Four times Uniform—Strength, Color, Flavor, too, and Yield.
FIVE ROSES—trouble-proof flour.
Use FIVE ROSES always. 10

Five Roses Flour

Not Bleached Not Blended

LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, LIMITED, MONTREAL

Honest tea is the best policy

LIPTON'S TEA

OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

FRENCH FOOD RIOTS SERIOUS

Dragoons Charged the Mob Armed With Pitchforks at Charleville.

A despatch from Paris says: The war against the high price of food, which has been languishing for the last few days, owing either to the vigorous precautions of the authorities or the palliative measures of the Mayors in establishing municipal butcher shops and other food depots, burst forth afresh on Wednesday. In several districts there were violent disorders, which indicated that professional agitators were again at work. At Creil, thirty-two miles north of Paris, barricades were formed with telegraph poles. One of exceptional strength was built around a huge boiler surmounted by a red flag, and it required a large force of troops to storm it successfully. In the engagements large numbers on both sides were injured. The streets of Creil are patrolled by soldiers. Charleville also was the scene of serious disturbances on Wednesday. Crowds of people from the country around, armed with pitchforks, attempted a regular investment of the town. A regiment of dragoons, hastily summoned, charged down upon the manifestants, scattering them in all directions. At L'Orient the mobs, not satisfied with proclaiming a boycott against the market, upset the stalls and threw into the streets the various aricles of food exposed for sale.

RUSSIA'S PREMIER SHOT

Stolypin Was Seriously Wounded at a Theatre Performance.

A despatch from Kiev, Russia, says:—Premier Stolypin was attacked and seriously wounded during a theatre performance here on Thursday night. His assailant was arrested. There was a gala performance at the opera in the presence of the Emperor of all the Russians. Two revolver shots in rapid succession electrified the audience, and Premier Stolypin sank to the floor. Those who were near by saw that he was gravely hurt. There was tremendous excitement in the theatre, and in the excitement it is impossible to obtain the least details at assassination. It is reported that Stolypin's wounds are mortal. The Czar left St. Petersburg a few days ago, accompanied by Premier Stolypin, to review the statue of the Emperor Alexander II. at Kiev. It was the first public appearance of the Czar outside of the capital in some years.

WILL RUSH THE WORK.

Central Canada Railway to Build From Montreal to Ottawa.

A despatch from Ottawa says: According to a director of the Central Railway Company of Canada, the Railway Company, which is said to own over a million acres of land in the Ottawa Valley, and contemplates connecting Montreal and the Georgian Bay by a new line, work will be started on the Montreal-Ottawa section of their road this week, and forty miles of a track will have been graded before the snow falls. The work will commence at Hawkesbury and will go in two directions. Track-laying will not start until Spring, when the work will be pushed vigorously.

THRASHING AT BRANDON.

Good Yields Reported—Wheat Grades High.

A despatch from Brandon, Man., says: Thrashing is well under way. Some excellent crop reports are coming in. Mr. John Clark, one of the big farmers in the Roseland district, finished thrashing on Tuesday night. From 119 acres in one field he has 3,317 bushels of fine No. 1 Northern, twenty-eight bushels to the acre. The balance of his crop is quite up to this splendid showing, and Mr. Clark says his yield is no better than others in his locality. Reports from other districts are also very favorable.

TO STRENGTHEN GARRISON.

British War Office to Send Thousand Men to Jamaica.

A despatch from Kingston, Jamaica, says: It is reported here that the British War Office is arranging to send very soon 1,000 artillery and infantry to strengthen the local garrison in view of the increased importance of the station which will come with the opening of the Panama Canal. It is expected that the naval yard at Port Royal, which was burned last spring, will be reopened soon.

FASTEST IN THE WORLD.

Germany's New Dreadnought Develops Phenomenal Speed.

A despatch from Hamburg says: It is claimed that Germany has the fastest warship in the world. The new dreadnought cruiser Moltke is credited with a speed of 29½ knots on her trials. The Moltke is a ship of 23,000 tons and 80,000 horsepower.

CHINA'S NAVAL PROGRAMME.

Will Have Eight Battleships Within Next Seven Years.

A Pekin despatch says: The Ministry of Marine has drawn up its programme, which will give China at the end of seven years a fleet of eight battleships, twenty cruisers, ten smaller vessels, and fifty torpedo boats and destroyers. It also provides for four naval arsenals.

SCHOOLBOYS GO ON STRIKE

Pupils at Various Centres in Britain Adopt Tactics of Their Elders.

A despatch from London says: Young England appears to be in a state of unrest, following the example set in the recent strikes by the laboring classes. There have been strikes of schoolboys at London, Liverpool, Manchester, Hull, Sheffield, Grimsby, Llanelly, Bradford, Ashton-Under-Lyne, and even in Scotland at Leith. The boys drew up manifestoes, held demonstrations, and engaged in picketing just like their elders. They object to the use of the cane by schoolmasters, and also want an extra half-holiday on Wednesday afternoon. At Islington the boys smashed the school-windows with stones, and in Hull there was promiscuous stone-throwing with much damage to windows in the neighborhood. In most places the strikes collapsed and canings have been in order.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—Flour—Winter wheat 90 per cent. patents, $3.45 to $3.50, Montreal freight. Manitoba fours—First patents, $5.30; second patents $4.80, and strong bakers', $4.60, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba wheat—No. 1 at $1.09 1-2, and No. 2 at $1.06, Bay ports. New wheat, 1 1-2c less.

Ontario wheat—No. 2 white, red or mixed, new, quoted at 86c, outside.

Peas—93 to 95c, outside.

Oats—Old No. 2 at 40 to 41c, and new at 39 1-2 to 40c, in car lots, outside. No. 2 Western Canada, 46 1-2c, and No. 3, 45 1-2c, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 2 is probably worth 75c outside.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow, 70 to 70 1-2c, Bay ports.

Rye—Car lots outside, 75c west, and at 77c east.

Buckwheat—No. 2 at 54 to 55c, outside.

Bran—Manitoba bran, $23.50 to $24, in bags, Toronto freight. Shorts, $25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked, $2.30 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2 to $2.25.

Baled Hay—No. 1 at $13 to $14, on track, and No. 2 at $10 to $11.

Baled Straw—$6 to $6.50, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, $1.25 to $1.40.

Poultry—Chickens, 15 to 16c per lb.; fowl, 11 to 12c; ducks, 14c; turkeys, 15 to 16c. Live poultry about 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER, EGGS, CHEESE.

Butter—Dairy prints, 21 to 22c; inferior, 16 to 17c. Creamery quoted at 25 to 26c per lb. for rolls, and 23 to 24c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid, 23 to 24c, and fresh at 20 to 21c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—Large quoted at 14 1-4c per lb., and twins at 14 1-2c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon—Long clear, 12c per lb. in case lots. Pork, short cut, $23; do., mess, $20 to $21. Hams, medium to light, 17 to 18c; do., heavy, 15 to 16 1-2c; rolls, 11 3-4 to 12c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; backs, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2; tubs, 10 3-4c; pails, 11c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—Oats — Canadian Western, No. 2, 47c, car lots, ex-store; extra No. 1 feed, 46 1-2c; No. 3 C. W., 46c; No. 2 local white, 45 1-2c; No. 3 local white, 45c; No. 4 local white, 44 1-2c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; seconds, $4.90; Winter wheat patents, $4.75; strong bakers', $4.70; straight rollers, $4.25; in bags, $1.85 to $2; rolled oats, per barrel, $5.25; bag of 90 lbs. $2.50. Corn—American No. 3 yellow, 72c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23 to $24; Manitoba, $23; middlings, Ontario, $27 to $28; shorts, Manitoba, $25 mouillie, $26 to $32. Eggs—Selected, 24 to 26c; No. 1 stock, 20 to 23c. Cheese—Westerns, 13 3-4 to 14 1-4c; easterns, 13 1-2 to 13 3-4c. Butter—Choicest, 26c; seconds, 25 1-2 to 25 3-4c.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Buffalo—Sept. 19.—Spring wheat—No. 1 Northern, carloads, store, $1.07 1-2; Winter quiet. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 71c; No. 4 yellow, 70c; No. 3 corn, 69 3-4c, all on track, through billed. Oats—No. 2 white, 48c; No. 3 white, 47 1-4c; No. 4 white, 46 1-4c. Barley—Malting, $1.15 to $1.22. Rye—No. 2, 94c, through billed.

Minneapolis, Sept. 19.—Wheat—September, $1.01 7-8; December, $1.03 3-8 to $1.03 1-2; May, $1.07 3-8; No. 1 hard, $1.05 5-8; No. 1 Northern, $1.03 3-8 to $1.04 7-8; No. 2 Northern, $1.00 3-8 to $1.02 7-8; No. 3 wheat, 95 3-4c to $1.00 3-8. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 63 1-2 to 64c. Oats—No. 3 white, 43 1-4 to 43 3-4c. Rye—No. 2, 81 1-2 to 82c. Bran $21.50 to $22. Flour—First patents, $4.90 to $5.15; second patents, $4.40 to $4.65; first clears, $3.25 to $3.75; second clears, $2.25 to $2.65.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Sept. 19.—Choice steers sold at 5 3-4c; good at 5 1-2c, fairly good at 5 to 5 1-4c, fair at 4 1-2 to 4 3-4c, and common at 4 to 4 1-4c per pound. Cows and bulls were 1-4 to 1-2c per pound lower, the former selling at 3 1-4 to 5c, and the latter at 2 1-2 to 3c per pound. Lambs sold at 5 1-4 to 5 1-2c, and sheep at 3 1-2 to 3 3-4c per pound. The demand for calves was good, at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each, as to size and quality. Hogs—$6 to $7.30 per cwt., as to quality, weighed off cars.

Toronto, Sept. 19.—Choice offerings were snapped up early at prices ranging from $6 to $6.25; medium to choice, firm at $5.40 to $5.85; good butcher cows and heavy bulls, firm, at $4.50 to $5.25; medium and common, at $3.75 to $4.25; canners at $1.50 to $2.50. Sheep steady; heavy ewes, $3 to $3.25; light ewes, $3.50 to $4.25; lambs, dull and easier, at $5 to $5.40. Hogs, steady, at $7.10, f.o.b., and $7.40 to $7.50, fed and watered.

How we enjoy meeting a man who talks only when he has something to say

GILLETT'S PERFUMED LYE

CAUTION.

Put a strong glass on the label and examine it closely every time. Always look for the name "Gillett's."

Like all good articles, which are extensively advertised, Gillett's Lye is frequently and very closely imitated. In some instances the imitators have actually copied directions and other printed matter from our label word for word. Be wise, and refuse to purchase imitation articles for they are never satisfactory.

Insist On Getting Gillett's Lye

and decline to accept anything that looks to be an imitation or that is represented to be "just as good" or "better," or "the same thing." In our experience of over fifty years in business we have never known of an imitation article that has been a success, for imitators are not reliable people. At the best the "just as good" kinds are only trashy imitations, so decline them with thanks every time.

E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED

WINNIPEG. TORONTO, ONT. MONTREAL.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

HOW SPECULATION ON MARGIN DIFFERS FROM INVESTMENT.

Loss Not Limited to Amount of Original Outlay—Dividing Line Between Investment and Speculation Not Clearly Defined—How One Speculates on Margin and What "Margin" Means.

(By "Investor")

In the first of this series it was shown that "distribution of risk" is an important principle of investment. It is a very simple one, however, involving no very confused ideas. There is another principle to be borne in mind when making investments which is of no less importance, but it is, however, considerably less obvious to those whose investment experience is small—and even to many who should understand its actions thoroughly. This is the principle of investment "in accordance with actful requirements."

The dividing line between speculation and investment is not always clear, and in discussing investing it is not unprofitable to digress somewhat to go into the field where "safety of principal" is held in small esteem in comparison with "prospect of appreciating in value"; and "rate of income" is a decidedly secondary consideration.

Of course in general it is understood that one who buys mining stocks "speculates," and one who buys bonds "invests." But where one man buys high-class stocks outright as a speculation it is hard to separate him from the investor, and for practical purposes he is such.

Speculation takes many forms. In general, however, it is done on "margin," unless mining shares are bought. The latter are subject to such violent changes in prices in the market that no broker who has any reputation worth considering will buy them except for clients who are prepared to pay for them outright.

When one buys a stock on "margin" it is customary to go to a broker who takes the order and makes the purchase for a small commission of a quarter of one per cent. on the par value. The broker, being a responsible person, as his possession of a seat on the Toronto or Montreal Stock Exchanges, costing as they do some $20,000, would indicate, the client, as soon as he is notified that his stock has been bought pays the broker fifteen or twenty per cent. of the market value of the stock. This 20 per cent. is the "margin." Sometimes it is allowed as low as 10 per cent, but "narrow" margins are most dangerous. The broker takes the stock purchased to his bank—let us say it is Toronto Street Railway of which he bought 100 shares—and there makes a loan on it. The stock cost $15,800, as the market in "Toronto Rails" at this writing stands at 158. The bank will loan 80 per cent. of this amount, or $12,640. The client's margin amounted to $3,160, so that the broker is not out of pocket. The broker has received $25 commission for buying the stock, finding a bank to loan money thereon and being responsible for the loan's repayment when demanded, for banks loan on securities "on call" only. This means that the loan must be repaid at once when asked for. As the loan is not very stable, being used for keeping active surplus bank funds not required for the moment, and may be called at any time, the bank generally charges a lower rate than that charged on general discounts. So the broker pays, at the present time, 5 1-2 per cent. and charges the client 6 per cent., the difference being considered a fair charge for looking after the loan, paying the interest and handling the client's account.

Now, supposing that while waiting for an advance in price the client has to hold his stock for a year. The interest will amount to $758.40, of which the broker gets $63.20 for handling the loan during that time. And generally in the course of a year the broker amply earns his money; for the loan may require shifting a dozen times, when as many banks want it repaid. And sometimes loans are hard to make. The client receives, however, dividends on his purchase at the rate of 8 per cent. on the par value—in the case of Toronto Railway—and so at the end of the year he has received $41.60 more than the interest charges. Suppose at the end of the year the stock has advanced to 163 and the client sells. The broker gets $16,300 for the stock and the client's account would look somewhat as follows:

	Debit	Credit
100 Tor. Rails @ 158	$15,800
Brokerage	25
Margins		$ 3,160
Interest	758 40
Dividends		800
100 Tor. Rails sold		16,300
Brokerage	25
Cheque for balance ...	3,652 60
	$20,260 00	$20,260

So that the client receives back his margins and about $500 of profit.

Of course, in this example, the client was quite fortunate. He had only put up about 31 points on the market price of the stock which, however, might have declined that amount. But before it had gone down very far the broker would have written a polite but firm note asking for further margins, and the lower the price went the greater the amount of margin required. Finally, perhaps, the client would sell out at a substantial loss, as he could not raise further margins. For, remember this, in speculating on margin, the margin does not limit the risk. Legally you own the stock and the broker only loans you the money to pay for it, and keeps the stock as security. The fact that he in turn borrows from the banks does not alter this fact. And so, if your stock should drop down to nothing in value you would have to stand the loss and the broker could force you to make good the amount through the law courts. You could, of course, limit your losses to a certain point, but that is seldom done, and is not often satisfactory.

Of course, had you been an investor and bought the stock to hold you would not have been worried by a drop in market price; for while the speculator sacrificed safety to prospect of appreciation, the investor would not have overlooked such an important feature.

BANK OF MONTREAL ROBBED

Safe Crackers Blow Open Safe at New Westminster, B. C.

A despatch from New Westminster, B.C., says: Two hundred and fifteen thousand dollars was stolen early on Friday from the branch of the bank of Montreal in this city. Five burglars entered the bank by the front door, broke through the metal coating of the vault, blew open the safe by charges of nitro-glycerine, and got clear away with their booty without being seen, except by a Chinese caretaker. They probably escaped down the Frazer River in a launch, or else by an automobile toward Vancouver. Actual figures of the losses were obtained in the afternoon from Manager G. D. Brymer, who has been in charge at New Westminster for twenty years. There were $338,000 in the bank, and of this $253,000 was taken. Of the amount taken $150,000 even were in five and ten dollar bills. These were all new, and the bank still has the numbers and asserts that payment on them can be stopped. There was $38,000 in gold, of which $20,000 was taken, and the remainder left. An extra large amount of money was on hand for paying off fishermen and hands from the hop fields.

The first known of the robbery was when the Chinese caretaker appeared at the police station at 5.30 o'clock and gave the alarm. He had managed to work loose from the bonds with which he had been tied after the robbers had departed. Chief of Police Bradshaw hurried to the scene, and all available officers were pressed into service, but the only obtainable clue was that given by the Chinaman. From the thoroughness of the job and the tools with which the work was done the local officers believe the same gang which has been at work in Vancouver did the job here.

VOLUNTEER POLICE FORCE.

British Government Contemplates Formation in Large Centres.

A despatch from, London, says:—It is announced that the Government contemplates the formation of a volunteer police force in each of the large centres of population. This is for the purpose of coping with emergencies like the recent strike troubles.

KILLED AT THE SOO.

James Currie of Toronto Fell Fifty Feet From Bridge.

A despatch from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., says: James Currie, aged 25, an employee of the Canadian Bridge Company, who hails from Toronto, was instantly killed on Friday by falling fifty feet from the bridge which is in course of construction over the Montreal River.

MOUNT ETNA BELCHING LAVA

The Eruption is Proving Disastrous to Those Living in Neighborhood.

A despatch from Catania, Sicily, says: The eruption of Mount Etna is assuming the proportions of a real disaster. The lava stream whose path crosses the railway line circling the volcano and which extends eight miles from its source, is approaching the railway stations to the north and especially threatening the depots of Molo and Alcantra, which were abandoned on Wednesday. Squads of laborers were at work taking up the railroad tracks and removing all transportable material to places of safety with the idea of minimizing the losses. The entire crest of Mount Etna appears to be in a state of ebuilition. An exact count of the number of fissures is impossible, because of the smoke which shrouds the whole mountain, but there seemed to be more than seventy new fissures all belching smoke and lava. The eruption means great suffering for the peasantry. The slopes of Etna, with an area of more than 600 square miles, support a population more dense than that of any other portion of Sicily or Italy. There are sixty-five cities and villages in the entire area.

KING GEORGE AN ANGLER

NEVER QUITE SO HAPPY AS WHEN HE IS FISHING.

He Rises Early, Faring Plainly, and Living Entirely for the Sport.

If Izaak Walton could be re-incarnated it is quite certain that King George would have no greater admirer or more loyal subject than the genial "Father of Angling," who has never had a more enthusiastic disciple than His Majesty. of England.

King Edward was an expert wielder of the rod, and caught many a fine salmon in the waters of the Dee and the Tweed; but, as old Donald used to say His Majesty was "not awfu' enthusiastic," a description which, we may be sure, Donald Stewart, King George's devoted companion and henchman on many a fishing expedition, would never apply to the present occupant of the throne of England.

"MY HAPPIEST HOLIDAYS."

"I love a gun," King George confessed recently, "but I am never quite so happy as when I am fishing the pools of the Dee, with the long day before me." And it is while fishing these pools in the Royal preserves of Abergeldie and Balmoral, remote from Courts and the crowds of men, that His Majesty has spent some of the most delightful days of his life.

Every spring for many years past the King has spent several weeks at Abergeldie, indulging to the full in his favorite pastime. Usually with only one companion, Sir Charles Cust, he makes his headquarters at a small, two-storeyed house, Abergeldie Mains, a few yards distant from the ancient castle. Here he leads the simple, primitive life, rising early, faring plainly, and living entirely for his sport. He usually starts at about ten o'clock in the morning, with his companion and a couple of attendants—Donald Stewart, His Majesty's head gamekeeper, and Arthur Grant, the gillie, have mostly been his companions of the humbler sort—and he devotes the whole day to the rod, smoking mild cigarettes almost incessantly.

About noon a carriage brings luncheon to the pools where His Majesty is working, and after a smoke and rest on the bank fishing is resumed as long as the light lasts, when the return for dinner is made. A post-prandial cigar and a gossip over the day's sport follow, and then it is early to bed for a good night's rest before the next day's fishing.

It was at these waters of Abergeldie that the King first learnt the gentle art of wielding a rod, nearly forty years ago, with his father and John Brown as mentors, and he still recalls his delight in landing his first fish one spring day in the early 'sixties, and Brown's enthusiastic "Guid! Ye'll mak a braw feesher some day, Prince Geordie."

HIS MAJESTY'S TACKLE.

The King, we are told, uses an 18 foot split-cane, steel-centered rod, in preference to the green heart beloved of Dee fishermen, and most of his fish have been taken with the fly. As a caster he has few equals, and he is an expert in every form of tackle. Not long ago, it is said, so keen was he on testing a new form of tackle which had been sent to St. James's Palace for his inspection that he actually left a levee which was in progress in order to gratify his curiosity.

The weather has no terrors for His Majesty, and during one terrible week of blizzards, frosts, and howling gales he was out all day at Abergeldie, and counted himself amply rewarded when, at the end of the week, he creeled a beauty of 9 pounds with the very last cast of the day.

HOLIDAYS.

Willie—"All the stores closed on the day my uncle died."

Tommy—"That's nothing. All the banks closed for three weeks the day after my pa left town."

You are wrong, Cordelia. A man isn't necessarily on the water wagon because he peddles milk.

Some people learn to do by being done.

WHY ARE BAD ROADS.

The Apportionment of the Cost Is Where the Trouble Lies.

Why are bad roads? Some folks will tell you that roads are just naturally bad, that any road that is not properly taken care of will soon become bad, and that any road is bad unless it has been made good. Which is about as much as to say that the normal condition of a road is to be bad.

To be sure a road that is not properly looked after, or not properly constructed in the first place is bound to soon become a bad road. But since man is ingenious enough to build roads at all for his own convenience, why does not man build roads that are suitable for his purposes? There is no question at all that a good road, well taken care of, is far more economical and serviceable than a bad one.

Why should we expect the public highways to be in bad conditions any more than we expect the private driveways on an ordinary well kept farm to be in bad condition?

The difficulty in keeping public highways in condition is of course the apportionment of the cost. Too often the people who will be called upon to pay the larger share of the cost of a good road in the country, know very well that they will not receive benefit from it in proportion to the cost. And too often, too, those who really stand to profit most by the construction of a road grudge the expenditure of a few dollars extra in taxes.

At the Ninth Annual Meeting of the Ontario Good Roads Association, held in Toronto, last March, some interesting figures regarding the value and effects of good roads were given. Mr. E. M. Young, J. P., County Clerk Prince Edward County, stated that the value of farm land in Kent County had been increased by means of good roads $1,000 on every 100 acres. Mr. S. G. Lowery, of Niagara Township, stated that in his township in one case eighty acres of land had immediately increased in value to the amount of $1,600 as the result of a construction of a good road, and he believed that if five miles of road, at a cost of 8,500 would improve 80 acres to this extent, it would improve the land on five miles of road to the extent of $35,000—a strong argument in favor of good roads.

While all the speakers at the Convention dwelt on the importance of good roads in reducing the cost of transporting goods to market, and in improving conditions of life on the farm, not one of them intimated that the selling value of any farm improvements would be increased value would all be in the land.

Obviously the wise way to apportion the cost of roads would be to tax the land benefitted in proportion to the benefit received, which is indicated by the value of the land.

Under the present system the construction of a good road means increased taxes on buildings and improvements, increasing by that amount the cost of buildings and improvements, and restricting their production, and also increased prices for land. Then when roads are constructed people wonder at the increased cost of living. On the other hand, placing the tax on land value and leaving the buildings free, would tend to stimulate improvements throughout the district affected and would to a certain extent check the tendency to very rapid increase of land values, or at least of the prices at which land was held.

MUSICAL SURPRISES.

"When we were married, you said I should reign in your heart."

"But I didn't expect then you were going to storm in the house."

AS USUAL.

"She married him to reform him."

"And what was the result?"

"She wishes now that she had reversed the process."

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any druggist's.

It is much easier to forget what you ought to know than it is to know what you ought to forget.

Wilson's Fly Pads, the best of all fly killers, kill both the flies and the disease germs.

NO ROYAL ROAD TO IT.

"Do you believe that money leads to happiness?" asked Hinkley.

"I do not," said Dubbleigh. "Nor does the lack of it, either."

THE END OF IT.

Boaster—I'm the big gun in this establishment.

Roaster—Well, don't say it so loud, or you might be fired.

BUSINESS.

"Why do you keep that rotten actor in your company? He always misses the hit."

"Yes, but then he always hits the misses."

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

Well, Well!

THIS is a HOME DYE that ANYONE can use

I dyed ALL these DIFFERENT KINDS of Goods with the SAME Dye. I used

DY-O-LA

ONE DYE FOR ALL KINDS OF GOODS

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 16. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

Canada Business College

CHATHAM, ONT.

In a class by itself Among America's Schools of Business Training.

414 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1908
385 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1909
475 STUDENTS PLACED IN 1910

We publish the lists annually.

We pay full fare up to $8.00, and bring long distance students for half fare.

Good board and room, $3.00 per week.

If you cannot come to Chatham, we can train you by mail.

Here are some students placed recently: Nate Wade, Cameron & Heap, Regina. E. Burk, Nicholson & Bain, Regina. H. Wood, Trust Co., Cheboygan, Mich.

Eight calls just received for Stenographers, Teachers, and Auditors, for openings worth from $600 to $1500, will give you some idea of the demands.

COLLEGE REOPENS FOR 36TH YEAR SEPTEMBER 5TH.

Catalogue 33 tells of work at Chatham. Catalogue 34 tells of work by mail (Either Free.)

D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont

PROOFS NOT DEMANDED.

"Bliggins is a great fisherman."

"He never catches anything."

"No. But nothing he could catch would be as interesting as what he tells about."

Nearly all infants are more or less subject to diarrhoea and such complaints while teething, and as this period of their lives is the most critical, mothers should not be without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. This medicine is a specific for such complaints and is highly spoken of by those who have used it. The proprietors claim it will cure any case of cholera or summer complaint.

DISTANT COURTESY.

"As an artist, I suppose you assume to be indifferent to money."

"No; I'm not indifferent. But I'm not sufficiently acquainted to attempt familiarity."

Don't experiment with unsatisfactory substitutes. Wilson's Fly Pads kill many times more house flies than any other known article.

WISE YOUTH.

Teacher—"What lesson do we learn from the busy little bee?"

Bobby—"To be a stinger instead of being stung."

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

THE NATURAL RESULT.

"What was the result when the train you were in was telescoped?"

"I saw stars."

Thousands of country people know the value of Hamlins Wizard Oil, the best family medicine in case of accident or sudden illness. For the safety of your family buy a bottle now.

A KIND OFFER.

"Lady, kin I git a bite here?"

"Certainly, my good man. Here, Towser."

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Holloway's Corn Cure.

NOT COMPLIMENTARY.

Ella—"My face is my fortune."

Stella—"You will escape the disgrace of dying rich."

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

When a woman hasn't anything else to do she changes her dress or her complexion.

Mothers Value This Oil.—Mothers who know how suddenly croup may seize their children and how necessary prompt action is in applying relief, always keep at hand a supply of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, because experience has taught them that there is no better preparation to be had for the treatment of this ailment. And they are wise, for its various uses render it a valuable medicine.

SELF-EVIDENT.

"George is not going to have a corking good time."

"Why?"

"Because he has to bottle up his wrath."

Always Serviceable.—Most pills lose their properties with age. Not so with Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. The pill mass is so compounded that their strength and effectiveness is preserved and the pills can be carried anywhere without fear of losing their potency. This is a quality that few pills possess. Some pills lose their power, but not so with Parmelee's. They will maintain their freshness and potency for a long time.

A WISE GUY.

Black—"I buy all of my wife's dresses."

Brown—"So do I, but I never pick them out."

The microscope in the hands of experts employed by the United States Government has revealed the fact that a house fly sometimes carries thousands of disease germs attached to its hairy body. The continuous use of Wilson's Fly Pads will prevent all danger of infection from that source by killing both the germs and the flies.

NOT EXACTLY.

Conductor—"Did you get out and stretch your legs when we stopped at the junction?"

Passenger—"Well, not exactly. I went into the dining-car and had them pulled."

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

For Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

HER VALUE.

"My dear, do get rid of our cook. She's the limit."

"Yes, dear, I know her cooking's bad, but she knows the family history of everybody on this block.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

THE OYSTER-TREE.

Though it may seen peculiar to thousands who are unfamiliar with Southern Nigeria, it is a fact that here oysters actually grow on trees. All through the Niger Delta, where the creeks are tidal, there is a rise and fall of from six to seven feet of water. The suckers of the Mangrove trees which line the banks are covered with oysters from the points between high and low water, and although they are partaken of sparingly by the Europeans dwelling in these parts, they form one of the staple articles of native diet. There is little to distinguish them from the ordinary bivalve known at home. They have not the delicate flavor of a "Whitstable," however, than which they are a good deal coarser.

MAGISTRATE CURED OF PILES & ECZEMA

One of the latest prominent gentlemen to speak highly in Zam Buk's favour is Mr. C. E. Sanford of Weston, King's Co., N.S. Mr. Sanford is a Justice of the Peace for the County, and a member of the Board of School Commissioners. He is also Deacon of the Baptist Church in Berwick. Indeed it would be difficult to find a man more widely known and more highly respected. Here is his opinion of Zam-Buk. He says:—

"I never used anything that gave me such satisfaction as Zam-Buk. I had a patch of Eczema on my ankle which had been there for over 20 years. Sometimes also the disease would break out on my shoulders. I had applied various ointments and tried all sorts of things to obtain a cure, but in vain. Zam-Buk, unlike everything else I had tried, proved highly satisfactory and cured the ailment.

"I have also used Zam-Buk for itching piles, and it has cured them completely also. I take comfort in helping my brother men, and if the publication of my opinion of the healing value of Zam-Buk will lead other sufferers to try it, I should be glad. For the relief of suffering caused by Piles or Skin Diseases I know of nothing to equal Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk cures ulcers, abscesses, blood-poison, ring-worm, festering or running sores, bad leg, varicose ulcers, salt rheum, prairie itch, cuts, burns, bruises, baby's sores, etc. Purely herbal, 50c box, druggists and stores. Refuse imitations.

Zam-Buk

A BASHFUL COUPLE.

Arthur had never kept company with a girl, nor had Maria ever "received attentions," but by some miracle they now found themselves together riding on a lonesome country road.

Conversation was at a standstill. The old nag stumped along with his head hung low, and would not hurry. Not a man or a house was in sight, not a sound could be heard. The silence was intense and oppressive. Maria scanned the fringe of rag-weed on her side of the road. Arthur peered hopefully into the hazel brush on his side.

A half-grown rabbit sprang from somewhere, and with a dozen leaps was gone.

"Do you like rabbit?" asked Maria, impulsively.

"Yes," replied the swain, quickly. And there he stopped. His mouth hung wide open, but not another word occurred to him.

He blushed. He remembered there was not a house nor a man in sight. He strained his eyes at the fringe of hazel brush. The silence intensified, and bore down like a palpable weight. Then Arthur drew in a sharp breath, pulled himself together resolutely, and glanced toward his friend.

"And my!" he said. "And my! Ain't the gravy good?"

It is Wise to Prevent Disorder.—Many causes lead to disorders of the stomach and few are free from them. At the first manifestations that the stomach and liver are not performing their functions, a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills should be tried, and it will be found that the digestive organs will speedily resume healthy action. Laxatives and sedatives are so blended in these pills that no other preparation could be so effective as they.

PLENTY OF IT.

"Had they any evidence as to the man's insanity?"

"No, except that when he went on a fishing party, he always told when they came home that he made the poorest and smallest catch of the lot."

Carterhall, Nfld.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disfigured for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try your Liniment to allay the irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely curing the irritation, and preventing the bites from becoming sore. MINARD'S LINIMENT is also a good article to keep off the mosquitoes.

Yours truly,
W. A. V. R.

WEIGHT AND HEALTH.

Better be Over the Average When Young and Under When Old.

At the twenty-first annual meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Directors some facts were brought out in regard to the best build of men and women from the insurance man's point of view.

In a big Life Insurance Company efforts have been going on for many years to determine the exact influence of build on longevity, says the Medical Record. It is suggested that a mistake has been made in assuming that the average build at any age is the most favorable build at that age or the build from which it may be expected the most favorable mortality will be sustained.

For instance, figures show that at the age of 20 all risks from 24 per cent. overweight to 10 per cent. underweight are better than average risks. Does it not then seem probable that the point of most favorable build is about half way from 24 per cent. overweight to 10 per cent. underweight, or in the neighborhood of 7 per cent. overweight? If this inference is correct the tables now used are too favorable to the underweights by about 7 per cent.

At age 60, on the other hand, the super-standard risks begin at about 8 per cent. overweight and extend to about 22 per cent. underweight. The mean point between these extremes lies at about 7 per cent. underweight and the conclusion appears evident that the present table based on average weights is too high by about 7 per cent. At the intermediate ages, 30 to 50, the mean point lies not at the zero but on the heavyweight side of the zero at the age of 30 and at the lightweight side of the zero at the age of 50, and only at the age of 40 is the table apparently correct.

A SATIRIC GEM.

This anecdote portraying the biting side of Mark Twain's wit comes from "Little Stories about Mark Twain." The humorist once asked a neighbor if he might borrow a set of his books.

"You're welcome to read them in my library," replied the neighbor, ungraciously, "but it is my rule never to let my books leave my house."

Some weeks later the same neighbor sent over to ask for the loan of Mark Twain's lawn-mower.

"Certainly," said Mark, "but since I make it a rule never to let it leave my lawn, you will be obliged to use it there."

THE SAFETY OF A BOND INVESTMENT

¶ Bonds are the most attractive investment because of the security they afford the investor, principal and interest being a first charge on all the assets of the Corporation issuing them.

¶ Because of general prosperity, development and expansion of the business of Corporations or concerns—financial and industrial—the material assets naturally increase, and so year by year the security to the bond investor becomes greater and the safety of bond investments more certain.

¶ Bonds yield a very liberal rate of interest when one takes into consideration the high degree of security they offer.

¶ Write for our booklet on Bond investments.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION LIMITED

BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING
YONGE AND QUEEN STS.
TORONTO

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

SELF-SUPPORTING HOMES IN THE glorious fruit district of Southern British Columbia, for $10 cash and $10 monthly, without interest; annual profits $500 to $1,000 per acre; orchard, garden, poultry; scenery; hunting, fishing, boating; delightful warm climate; school, postoffice, store; big sawmill, daily trains; close to markets; unlimited demand for products. Write quick for maps, photos, free information. West Kootenay Fruit Lands Company, Dept. W., Drawer 1037, Nelson, B. C.

B. C. FRUIT LAND, FOR SALE. 320 acres, Prairie land, having a dark sandy soil, with some gravel, and underlaid with a clay sub-soil. On part of this farm there are some surface stones, but most of the land can be plowed with a gang plow. Small frame house, log stable and never failing well. Farm is about half fenced with post and wire. 20 acres under cultivation, balance all good land. Price $10,000. One-half cash, balance to suit at 8 per cent. Fred A. Russell, Cranbrook, B. C.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED.—A study of other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to 'Travellers' Dept., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., West Street, Orillia, Ontario.

AGENTS WANTED. A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply B. C. I. Co., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

Your Overcoats

and faded suits would look better dyed. If no agent of ours in your town, write direct to Montreal, Box 154.

British American Dyeing Co.

The Heart of a Piano is the Action. Insist on the "OTTO HIGEL" Piano Action

H. H. NIGHTINGALE
STOCK BROKER
Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange
LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN
Correspondence Invited.
33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

Silver Pine Healing Oil Healed a Barb-Wire Cut without leaving a scratch

MRS. KATE MCCRANE, OF MOWBRAY, MAN., writes:

"Please send me a bottle of your Silver Pine Healing Oil. I had a colt cut last winter with barb wire—I used half a bottle and it healed up and didn't leave a scratch. Now I have another colt that has got cut that I calculate to heal with what is left, but I would like to have you send me another bottle if I should happen to need it, for I think I could not get on without it."

For all kinds of wounds, bruises, burns and sores on animals or human beings, Silver Pine Healing Oil is a quick, safe and wonderful healer. Keep a bottle on hand for times of need. In 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles, at your dealer's or from the International Stock Food Co., Limited, Toronto, Can.

POLITICS.

"I hear that Johnson has divorced himself from politics."

"How much alimony did he get?"

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

W. W. TAMAN

Merchant Tailor,

Exeter, Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	82	82
Barley	50	60
Buckwheat	48	50
Oats	38	38
Peas	70	75
Potatoes, per bag	1 00	1 00
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 45	1 45
Butter	16	19
Eggs	19	19
Live hogs, per cwt.		7 25
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chicken	alive	10c.	dry picked	12c
Hens	"	8c.	"	00
Roosters	"	6c.	"	00
Turkey	"	12c.	"	14c
Ducks	"	0c	"	11c

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

Our wedding stationery is of the latest, types of the best, workmanship unsurpassed and prices right. Prospective brides should call at the Advocate and see for themselves.

Bias Filled Corsets for comfort, for style, for fit $1.00 to $4.00. Special styles for full figures—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Heaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

Ahrens' Grain and Box Calf Boots for men, for women, for Children. All sold under a double guarantee—Stewart's

GIRLS WANTED

Apply to D. S. Parrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

GIRLS WANTED—Good Cook and a Kitchen girl—good wages. Apply to Queen's Hotel, London.

Cushion Sole Shoes for men and women with tender feet, lots of comfort in them—Stewart's.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once to work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for apare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on boys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

That 36 inch dollar Black Dress Silk is a hummer "Stewart's

CISTERN AND WELL CLEANING. — Those having cisterns or wells that need cleaning will do well to have the work done at once. We do it to your satisfaction.—ALBERT GOWER, Exeter N.

HICKS' SEPTEMBER FORECASTS—A change to much cooler is due from west to east from the 22nd to 25th. A marked seismic period covers the 19th to 25th, being central on the 22nd. A regular storm period covers the last week in September, the crisis of the period falling on the 26th, 27th and 28th. Autumnal storms will be general at this time, and cool nights with some frost are to be expected as we pass into October.

MANSION HOUSE PROPERTY FOR SALE OR TO RENT

The undersigned is offering for sale or to rent that desirable Hotel property in Exeter, known as the Mansion House situated on the corner of Main and Huron sts. The property is in good condition and affords an excellent opportunity to open a Temperance or Boarding House. It is well equipped with all necessary furniture to commence business, and there is also good stabling and shed accommodation and other conveniences. There are also good prospects of the House being again granted a license. Will be sold privately on reasonable terms and conditions. For particulars apply to R. Leathorn or to Messrs. Dickson & Carling, Exeter.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Anybody can be good natured if he can get his own consent to be lazy enough.

You need not hunt very hard for happiness. It is generally lying around loose somewhere.

He who has money to burn can always find plenty of people willing to provide the matches.

Running expenses are so rapid nowadays that he is a clever man who can keep even with them.

When a man falls in love with himself he doesn't often find that a rival lingers long in the field.

Mr. B. W. F. Beavers moved into his handsome new house north of the Main street church last week.

MISS J. J. ALLAN Eye Sight Specialist will be at the Commercial Hotel SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30th, One day only.

Mr. W. J. Taylor of Victoria, B.C., and Mr. R M. Hobbs of Barr spent Sunday at the rectory. Mr. Taylor is a former London Township man who has been prosperous in the Western City, where he carries on a real estate and insurance business. He is a delegate to the General Synod which has just closed its sessions in London.

Dr. J. W. Graham of Toronto, general secretary of education of the Methodist Church, gave educational addresses in the Methodist churches here Sunday. His addresses were very forceful and convincing. He emphasized the need of educating the Methodist ministers and missionaries showed that many of the young men earned enough through the summer to pay expenses for the year, but still there is great need of money. Mr. Graham is an Exeter Old Boy and he was heard on Sunday with much pleasure.

DEATH OF MRS. HAZELWOOD.—After a period of long suffering from paralysis there passed away at her home on Monday last Anna Mariah Marshall, beloved wife of Thos. Hazelwood, at the age of 62 years and 6 months. Deceased was afflicted with a stroke of paralysis about twelve years ago, from which she never recovered. She, however, was able to partially attend to her household duties until about two years ago, when she suffered another stroke, which rendered her almost helpless. After recovering from the shock her condition remained about the same until about a week ago, when she took a turn for the worse, and on Monday passed away. Born near Toronto, in 1848, deceased 17 years later married her now bereft husband, and settled in Blanshard. She, with her husband, continued to reside in that township for seven years, after which they moved to Usborne, where they remained till about 17 years ago, when they retired to Exeter, making this their home since. The funeral took place to the Exeter cemetery on Wednesday.

DEATH OF JAMES SNELL.— There passed peacefully away here on Sunday morning James Snell, one of the early settlers of Biddulph Township, a successful farmer and a man noted for his strict integrity. Mr. Snell had been in failing health for over a year, the commencement of which was caused by a stroke of paralysis, and since he has been in an almost helpless condition. He was born in Barrington Parish, Eng. in 1832. He came to Canada in 1850 and first settled in London. A couple years later he married Elizabeth Huxstable and settled on a bush farm on Con. 1, Biddulph. About 32 years ago he left Biddulph and moved to Con. 1, Stephen, two miles south of Exeter. It was during his residence in Stephen he was bereft of his partner in life, and some few years later he retired from the farm and moved to Exeter, where he since resided. In the year 1890 he married Mary Balkwill, who survives, together with nine children by his first wife—six sons and three daughters — William of Usborne, Sidney of London Tp., Rev. J. A. of Baldoon, Wesley and Frank of Exeter, Warren of Toronto, Mrs. J. K. Baker of Grey Tp., Mrs. A. Bissett of Brantford, Mrs. C. Hoare of Clinton. The deceased was a consistent member of the Methodist church, a man of strict morals, and highly esteemed as a neighbor and friend. The funeral took place to the Exeter cemetery on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

THE LATE MATTHEW KELLAND.—Brief mention was made last week in the Advocate of the death of the late Matthew Kelland, who died in Victoria Hospital on Sept. 12, at the advanced age of 82 years. He had been in failing health for the past six months. His condition, however, did not assume a serious nature until about a month ago, and growing worse from day to day, he was moved to the Victoria Hospital. He gradually failed until the end came, kidney trouble being the cause. Deceased was born in the Parish of Chumleigh, Devonshire, Eng., in the year 1829, and came to Canada some 22 years later. On his arrival in this country he first worked for the late James Pickard, but later purchased a farm in London Tp., where he remained for about ten years. He then purchased a farm in Usborne, being Lot 6, Con. 3, where he farmed for a number of years, after which he purchased the Devon Hotel which he conducted until seven or eight years ago, since which time he has resided in Centralia. Deceased was twice married, his first wife being Elizabeth Heaman and the second Mrs. Parsons, who predeceased him about 20 years. Mr. Kelland was a man of most kindly disposition, honest and true, and possessed many good qualities that made him many friends. He is survived by a large grown-up family of five sons and four daughters, Robert of London, John of Usborne, Jerry of Langdon, N.D., Samuel of British Columbia, Thomas of Klondike, Mrs. Thed. Jones of Exeter North, Mrs. Wm. Dow and Mrs. Prior of Wales, N.D., and Mrs. Ben. Wilson of Detroit. He also leaves one brother Robert of Exeter. The remains were brought here for interment, the funeral taking place from the depot on Saturday morning.

MISS J. J. ALLAN, Eye Sight Specialist will be at the Commercial Hotel SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30th, One day only.

Mrs. Poplestone left Saturday to visit in Kincardine.

Miss Eliza Oke is home from Toronto on a visit.

Mr. Richard Bissett of London was here over Sunday.

Mr. D. Mill visited in London and Lambeth last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Digman of Lucan visited here Tuesday.

Miss Holman of London visited Mrs. McGillicuddy last week.

Mr. Geo. Knight of Ilderton visited his mother here Sunday.

Miss Mary Tom returned Saturday from a trip to Toronto.

Mr. Wm. Prodgers and two children of London are visiting Mrs. James Ford

Misses Laura and Delight Hobbs have returned home after an extended holiday.

Miss Alice M. Hastings of Crediton is visiting her aunt Mrs. A. Hastings.

Mrs. Couse has returned to Streetsville, after a visit with Mrs. Weidenhammer.

Mrs. T. B. Carling returned home on Tuesday from a visit in Toronto and Brantford.

Mr. and Mrs W. G. Bissett returned Monday from a visit in Rochester, and other American cities.

Mrs. Floyd while at her home on Friday fell and injured her leg, and as a result is badly crippled.

Mrs. R. R. Rogers has gone to Chicago to pack the household effects prior to moving to Toronto.

Mr and Mrs. Curt Harness returned home last week from Regina where they spent several months.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bissett and daughter Lovie spent Sunday and Monday in Exeter and Dashwood.

Mr. McGillicuddy, after a visit with his son, Dr. McGillicuddy, returned to his home in Watford Wednesday.

Mr. David Langford and Mr. A. L. Langford of Regina are spending a few days with Mrs. (Dr.) Roulston.

Mrs. Billings, who has been on a holiday trip to Detroit, St. Thomas and London, returned home Friday evening.

Mrs. Thos. Snell and Mrs. McAvoy returned Friday from a two weeks' visit with friends at Wingham, Kincardine and Belgrave.

Mrs. Geo. Watts and two children, Mildred and Percy, of Barwick, Ont., are visiting friends in town, guests of Mrs. Sidney Sanders.

Mrs. Ed. Willis and Miss Jennie Harding left Friday morning for South Bend, Ind., where they will visit with the former's sister, Mrs. Luxton.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Dunsford of Marlette, Mich., former well-known residents of Hay Township, are visiting with relatives and friends in and around Exeter.

Miss Mae Webster has returned home after spending the holidays visiting in London and Toronto. She was accompanied home by Miss Elsie Wilcox of Toronto.

Mrs. Saunby of London and Mrs. F. Newmans of Sidney, B. C., are visiting at Mr. Fred Luxton's. Miss Clara Wind of Crediton spent Sunday with Miss Minnie Luxton.

Mr. and Mrs. Mateer (nee Miss Edith Balkwill), Dutton, visited with relatives and friends in Exeter a couple days last week. Mrs. Mateer spent her early in Exeter but left over 27 years ago.

There never was a girl who would rather be clever than pretty.

The frame work of the new skating rink will be commenced this week.

The Liberals held a meeting in the James Street church shed on Monday evening, addressed by M. Y. McLean, Thos. McMillan and Mr. Atkinson of the Toronto Star.

A horse belonging to Mr. Adolphus Hooper, of Lake Road, made a lively run around town on Tuesday last and before captured had smashed the buggy badly.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. H. Doupe, Pleasant View Farm, Kirkton, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Margaret Eunice, to Mr. Joseph Minor Dobbs of Lucan, the marriage to take place early in October.

Do not forget the "Seven Social" in the Presbyterian Church, at 8 o'clock Friday evening Sept. 22nd. Perfect programme. Proceeds in aid of W. C. T. U. mission among the Lumbermen. Seven cents admission, seven cents dismission. Children dismissed free.

Next Sunday will be Rally Sunday in the Methodist Churches here. In James street in the morning an address will be delivered by Rev. S. T. Bartlett, the Sec. of Forward Movement and Sunday Schools. In the afternoon addresses will be delivered by Rev. Bartlett and Mr. Weidenhammer. Collection in aid of the Sunday School will be taken.

LETTER OF CONDOLENCE

To Friend R. N Rowe,—

Dear Sir and Friend,—We, the officers and members of Exeter Council, No. 94, C. O. C. F, wish to express to you our heartfelt sympathy in the great loss you have sustained by the death of your beloved daughter, and while we may sympathize with you, we cannot fully realize the sorrow of a father who has lost a loving daughter, but by bowing to the will of Divine Providence you will be enabled to say "Thy will be done" and hope and trust that your loss will be Heaven's gain. Hoping you will submit to him who rules heaven and earth, and that Some day you will join her who has just gone on before.

When through the deep waters I call thee to go,
The rivers of sorrow shall not overflow,
For I will be with thee thy trials to bless
And santify to thee thy deepest distress.

Signed on behalf of Exeter Council No 94 by R. Delbridge, chief councillor; Mrs. P. Bawden, vice councillor.

THE EXETER COUNCIL

Council met 15th inst. All present. Previous minutes approved. A number of letters were ordered filed.

Levett—Day—That piping on Main st, which was formerly used for watering streets be taken up and placed on Carling and Marlboro to Victoria, and hydrants be placed at corner of Carling and Marlboro,—Carried.

Levett—Rivers—That the street-watering be discontinued after the 16th inst. Carried.

Rivers—Day—That the reeve and the treasurer borrow $500 for curent expenses.—Carried.

Day—Rivers—That the following accounts be paid:— T. B. Carling postage $5; Mrs. F. Mallett, cleaning Town Hall 50c.; R. Murphy, two wheels, 50c.; Express Co., 2.95; Queen City Oil Co., gasoline, $15.18; W. Heaman, acct. 13.25; E. Elliot, insurance 13.30; J. Bell, labor waterworks, 22.00; Richard Quance, 5.69; W. Hatter 10.68; Thos. Sanders 9.62; T. Bloomfield, 9.62; T Houlden 4.87; G. Orrange, 3.50; Jno. Norray $20.00; J Willis 4.37; I. Hall 9.18; W Westcott 8.73; J Gloucher 10.68; J Kydd 12.48; N. Vale 11.50, W. Welsh 12.78; W. Gillespie 5.70; T. Webster 11.37; R. Davis, 9.65; Ed Snell 15.75; W. Heaman, lead and oakum 98.55;; A. Gloucher, labor 9.10 M Bloomfield 5.25; R. Robbins 9.22; W. Gillespie, freight, 4.06; N. Vale 2.18 R. Davis 2.62; W. Welsh 2.18; W. Westcott 8.75; J. Gloucher, 87c.; J. Kydd 88c.; F. Wells, 1.75; T. Houlden 6.13; T. Sanders 2.25; F. Bloomfield 1.75; J. Bell 2.00; R. Quance 2.62.— Total, 414.26. Levett—Adjournment to call of reeve.

T. B. Carling, clerk.

Flour

Several Brands, Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Partland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

YOU PAY LESS HERE!

Powell's Bazaar

10, 15, 25c. Variety Store.

Yes, we have another large stock of cheap graniteware and China. We are spreading. People are realizing how cheap everything is here, hence our purchases are soon distributed. We want you to come often and bring your friends.

Remember we sell thousands of articles besides any we mention. Specials Thursday and Saturday will be a hummer. To keep your eye on this store will rank you among the wise— no need of going to the city now. Come in often; and bring your friends with you.

How about a phonograph this fall we have the Edison at any price. Get in touch with us.

COME IN OFTEN

THE TORONTO NEWS

Is now recognized throughout the Dominion as the chief Newspaper Advocate of the forces under the leadership of MR. R. L. BORDEN, which demand

A CANADIAN AND BRITISH POLICY FOR CANADA

THE NEWS WILL BE SENT DAILY BY MAIL TO ANY ADDRESS IN CANADA FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A-HALF A YEAR

OUR WATCH AND

Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter

Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers

And

Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a

For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON

The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

OUR MILLINERY DISPLAY

NOW OPEN TO ALL

Everything that is new for this season will be found on our tables Drop in and see our wonderful display and secure one of our Dainty Ready-to-wears.

Priestley's

Concord Coating Serges

Suitable alike for Suits and Dresses

For durability and appearance nothing excels them for all uses

BLACK, NAVY and CREAM

Priestley's Dress Goods

We are the only sellers of Priestleys' Dress Goods in town and are showing a magnificent lot of Blacks and Blues in all this season's popular cloths, Priestleys wool, Taffeta, Sundown Coating, County Coating, Silk Warp Eudora, Cosmo Cord, Ravenna Wool Valletta, Wool Serges and Popline. Do not fail to get a Priestleys Dress or Suit.

New Winter Goods

For Ladies, Misses and Children

We are opening up every-day something new in the Coat line and are showing a nice lot of Fancy Tweeds which are very stylish also a lot of Plain Blacks and Blues. You will do well to sell our Winter Coats.

FALL RAIN COATS

Just in—a lot of the new thing in Rain Coats in Black Blue, Grey and Fawn.

NEW COAT SWEATERS

In all the seasons new colors and combination of colors at $2.00 to $4.00.

JONES & MAY

Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

DASHWOOD

Election Day passed off very quietly in this place in so far as voting was concerned. Both parties worked hard for their chosen standard bearer and a large vote was polled. When the returns began to come it became apparent to the Conservatives that their popular candidate, Mr. J. J. Merner had succeeded in capturing what is generally conceded a Liberal Stronghold. The excitement began to rise and when it was known that the Reciprocity agreement had been stilled by a loyal Canadian people the enthusiasm knew no bounds as cheer after cheer rent the air till a late hour. —The people of this village were greatly shocked when it was learned that Mr. Samuel Sweitzer of Shipka, Reeve of Stephen had been accidentally shot while out hunting in the pinery, death ensuing in a short time.—Rev. Mr. Brown will hold a meeting in the interest of the Bible Society in the Evangelical church this Wednesday evening.—Dr. McLaughlin and Wm. Zimmer were at Toronto on Tuesday attending a meeting of the depositors of the Farmers Bank.—Mr. Schaefer has almost completed the laying of the walks for this year.— Mr. George Kellerman has his new block almost ready to r the roof. When completed it will be an improvement on The Main Business corner.—Mr. John Hall of London was in the village on Tuesday.—Mr. Ezra Tieman is being congratulated by his friends these days a little son being an addition to his family.

Miss Kellermann, who has been attached to the staff of the public school for the last two years, left this week for Toronto, where she will attend Normal School. Her place at the school here has been taken by Miss Dunlop of Springfield.

Zurich Fair is on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, and Kirkton Fair on Thursday and Friday of next week.

What might have been a serious accident occurred last week at a threshing on the farm of Jos. McDonald. Hay. Some part of the connection with the boiler became loose, and in trying to fix it the part came off, and the boiling water was blown on George Green, scalding him on the chest and leg; and also scalding a Mr. Haist on the arm.

APPLES FOR SALE

First-class winter varieties in barrels or loose, delivered or at orchard, Lot 13, Con. 3, Stephen.

S. J. HOGARTH.

25c. pays for The Advocate to Jan.1

Local Items

A dance is to be held in McDonell's Hall Friday evening.

Mr. S. G. Bawden is confined to his home through illness.

Mr. Willis Powell was on a business trip to Clinton Tuesday.

Mr. Wm. Creech, after several days illness, is able to be out again.

It is estimated that the Tax rate for Exeter this year will exceed 25 mills on the dollar.

Mr. B. Fowell returns to Detroit this week, after spending the summer here and at Grand Bend.

Mrs. Richard Davis, who has been confined to her home through illness, for several weeks, is improving.

On Friday afternoon Mr. Chas. Birney, section foreman of the G .T. R. here, while on duty had the misfortune to have a rusty nail run into his hand.

Rev. H. J. Condell of Bayfield occupied the pulpit of the Trivitt Memorial church on Sunday last in the absence of the rector, Rev. D. W. Collins, who preached Harvest Thanksgiving Services at Bayfield.

Although the interests of the depositors and shareholders of the defunct Farmers Bank have thus far been advanced from an opposite point of view, the two factions intend to place their case before the Borden Government and ask for a measure of assistance out of the public treasury.

Lawyers, as usual, will be far more numerous in the new parliament than men of any other vocation. A review of the members returned shows the legal profession to have 76 representatives. There are 36 farmers, 32 merchants, 21 doctors, 17 manufacturers, 10 lumbermen, 8 newspapermen, 7 notaries, 2 canners, 1 law student, 1 druggist, 1 labor man, and 1 real estate agent, 1 live stock exporter, 1 licensed victualler, and Hon. George E. Foster. There are three stock brokers elected for four seats. Rodolph Forget has been elected for two of them.

CLINTON MAN BITTEN ON LEG BY A PET DOG.

Toronto, Sept. 26.—James Stevens of Clinton is receiving Pasteur treatment at the Western Hospital as a result of being bitten by his dog. The animal was always a pet dog, but three days ago it became savage and bit him on the leg. Mr. Stevens is being treated by physicians under the direction of the Provincial Board of Health. Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, secretary of the board states that there is no need for apprehension, as rabid dogs are not on the increase.

More towns die for want of confidence on the part of business men and lack of public spirit than any other cause. When a man in search of a home or a business location goes into a town and finds everything brim full of hope and enthusiasm of the prospects of the place, and all earnestly at work to build it up, he soon becomes imbued with the same spirit, and as a result he drives down stakes and goes to work with the same interest. When, however he goes to a town where every one expresses doubt and apprehension for the future prospect of the place, moping about and indulging in mournfull complaints he naturally feels that it is no place for him, and he at once shakes the dust off his feet while he pulls out with all possibly speed for some other place. Consequently try and make a live, enterprising town out of the town in which you live. When you are working for or saying a good thing for your town you are accomplishing all the more for yourself.

DIED IN STRATHROY—The death occurred on Monday night, Sept. 25th, at Strathroy of Charlotte L. McFall, daughter of Mr. Robert McFall of London, and wife of Mr. Issac R. Bissett of Strathroy, formerly of Exeter. Death was due to typhoid fever, of which she had been ill some time. Deceased was married six years ago, since which time they had resided in Delhi and Strathroy. Besides the husband, two daughters, aged 5 and 3 years, survive, and the sympathy of the many friends here is extended to them. The funeral takes place from the Exeter Station on the arrival of the 9.45 train Thursday morning. The late Mrs. Bissett was 27 years of age.

PENHALE—KESTLE—An interesting event took place on Tuesday, Sept. 26, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Kestle, when their eldest daughter, Miss Pearl, became the bride of Mr. Luther Penhale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Penhale. The ceremony was performed at 12.30 noon, in the presence of the immediate relatives by Rev. Mr. Kestle. The ceremony, congratulations and a dainty wedding supper over, the young couple were taken to the 5 train in an auto, and left amid a shower of confetti, on a short honeymoon trip to Toronto and Hamilton. On their return they will reside on Andrew Street, north of the rectory. Mr. and Mrs. Penhale are popular among their associates and friends, with whom The Advocate joins in hearty congratulations and best wishes.

HONORS GO TO OLD EXETER BOY. —At the annual military competition held in connection with the meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows at Indianapolis, the two chief prizes were won by Toronto. The premier honors for individual military precision are also awarded to Toronto, having been won by Roger Crocker, a member of the order living at Spadina avenue, a former and well-known Exeter boy. The honors captured by Mr. Crocker reflect credit on Mr. Crocker for his military attainments and he will have the congratulations of all his friends here. "Rog." is an enthusiastic Oddfellow.

Mrs. John Braund and her mother, Mrs. Rowe, who is at present in rather poor health, returned Monday from a visit in Flushing, Mich.

DIED IN RUSSELDALE.—A former old and well-known resident of Exeter, in the person of Mr. R. D. Roy, passed away at his home in Russeldale, on Sunday last, at the age of 78 years. The circumstances surrounding his demise were indeed sad. He was in his usual health till about two weeks ago when he met with an accident by falling and sustained such injuries that resulted in his death. Mr. Roy resided in Exeter for several years, but removed from here to Russeldale about six years ago, where he has since resided. During his residence here he made many warm friends as a neighbor, friend and citizen, and they deeply regret to learn of his demise. Besides a sorrowing widow he is survived by one son and three daughters. The funeral took place to Roy's Cemetery on Monday.

PACE.—KESSELA— pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, September 20, at the church of the Holy Angels, St. Thomas, when Marion Margaret, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs., Eugene E. Kessel, formerly of Exeter was united in marriage to Joseph Frederich Pace, of that city. Rev. Father West, celebrated the nuptial mass. The wedding march was played by Miss Brennan, and during the signing of the register Mr. Crunk sang an "Ave Marie" most acceptably, Miss Ethel Walsh, of Windsor was bridesmaid, and Mr. Chester McHarg assisted the groom. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was an amethyst rosary, and to the groomsman a pearl stickpin. Friends were present from Windsor, Detroit, Ypsilanti and London. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents Wellington street, after which Mr. and Mrs. Pace left on the M. C. R. for eastern cities. On their return they will be at home to their friends in their new home, 709 Princess avenue, after October 15.

PROVINCIAL BY-ELECTIONS

Eight members of the Legislature resigned to become candidates for the Dominion, and one seat (West Victoria) is vacant by death of the member, Mr. Fox. The vacant seats are; —South Bruce, Centre Bruce, North Brant, North Wentworth, Lennox, Ottawa, Port Arthur Kingston, West Victoria. With the exception of South Bruce, Where R. E. Traux resigned to be the Liberal candidate in the Federal fight, all the other eight seats were Conservatives. The Conservatives were all elected to the Dominion House, while the Liberal Traux, was defeated.

South Huron Went Conservative

THE DOMINION GOES CONSERVATIVE BY ABOUT 49 MAJORITY.

The Dominion Election on Thursday resulted in an overwhelming defeat of the Laurier Government, and the election of Borden by a majority of about 49.

On Tuesday of this week the standing of the parties was as follows,—

	Con.	Lib.
Ontario	72	13
Quebec	29	36
Nova Scotia	9	9
New Brunswick	5	8
Prince Edward Island	2	2
Manitoba	8	2
Saskatchewan	1	9
Alberta	1	6
British Columbia	7	0
Total	134	85
Conservative majority	49.

The Three Hurons were placed in the Conservative Column. J. J. Merner defeated M. Y. McLean in South Huron. E. N. Lewis is re-elected in West Huron and Jas. Bowman defeated Arch. Hislop in East Huron. The two Bruces, two Perths, and North Middlesex all went Conservative, and were mostly turnovers The details are given elsewhere. In South Huron the official returns have not yet been made, but the majorities are about as follows,—

For MERNER—Seaforth 0, Stanley 39 Hay 10, Stephen 124, Exeter 87, Bayfield 57, Usborne 92, Hensall 10.—Total 419.

For McLEAN—Seaforth 0, Tuckersmith 215, McKillop 93.—Total 308.

Majority for Merner.—111.

SOUTH PERTH.—A turnover in favor of the Conservatives, Dr. Steele winning by 71 votes. Majorities follow.—

For Steele—Mitchell 66, Logan 169, St Marys 117, Fullarton 38, Blanshard 109.—Total 499.

For McIntyre—Hibbert 126, Downie 125, S. Easthope 177.—Total 428.

NORTH PERTH.—A turnover for the Conservatives, Morphy getting a majority of 416. Majorities follow,—

For Morphy—Stratford 314, Ellice 36, Elma 119, Mornington 18, Listowel 83, Wallace 114.—Total 684.

For Rankin—N. Easthope 250, Milverton 18.—Total 268.

EAST HURON—The seat remains Conservative. The municipal majorities are—

For Hislop.—Brussels 1, Grey 84, E. Wawanosh 53, Wroxeter 16.—Total 154.

For Bowman—Blyth 7, Howick 203, Morris 18, Turnberry 7, Wingham 122. —Total 269

WEST HURON.—E. N. Lewis, Conservative, re-elected by a majority of 160. Majorities follow,—

For Lewis—Goderich 53, Goderich Tp., 166, Clinton 52.—Total 271.

For Cameron.—Ashfield 84, Colborne 5, W. Wawanosh 7, Hullett 15.—Tot. 111.

NORTH MIDDLESEX—This riding on Thursday elected George Elliott, the Conservative candidate, by 36 votes. His opponent, Smith, in 1908, won by 68. Following are the majorities,—

For Elliott—Biddulph 145, Parkhill 59, Lucan 76, McGillivray 72.—352.

For Smith—Adelaide 12, Lobo 171, E. Williams 99, W. Williams 1, Ailsa 3.—316.

THE VICTORS CELEBRATE — The Anti-Reciprocity Party in and around Exeter met in the Town Hall on election night and heard the returns, while the Reciprocity Party met in their committee room. From the very first returns received it was seen that Reciprocity was receiving some hard knocks, and as telegram after telegram was read it became evident that the Laurier party had sustained a knock-out blow. Cheer after cheer went up and song after song went ringing through the old hall which was filled to the doors. Enthusiastic addresses were delivered by the chairman, T. B. Carling, L. H. Dickson, Rev. D W. Collins,, W. B. Weidenhammer, and Reeve John Taylor, all of whom declared that Canadians that day had done themselves honor and won a great victory by defeating the Reciprocity Pact. A number of the boys got out the fife and drum band and a bunch of torches and paraded the streets. On Friday night the successful candidate, Mr. J. J. Merner, auoed over from Zurich and the boys got out their band and torches and forming a procession conducted Mr. Merner to the Town Hall, where a large crowd assembled and addresses were delivered by the M. P. elect, L. H. Dickson, Geo. Holman, Reeve Taylor and Rev. Collins. Mr. Merner thanked the electors for the magnificent vote they had given him throughout the riding, and the workers who had been untiring in their efforts to elect him and thereby help to defeat the Reciprocity Pact, which Canadians to-day believed to be not in the best interests of the country.

Card of Thanks

TO THE ELECTORS OF S. HURON

I take this opportunity to express my deep gratitude to the Electors of South Huron,, both Liberal and Conservative for their loyal support in electing me their representative.

J. J. MERNER

SHARON

CARD OF THANKS.—Mr. Thomas Amy and family desire to thank the many friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness during the illness and death of the late Mrs. Amy.

Reeve Sweitzer Accidently Shot

SAD ACCIDENT IN STEPHEN TP.

One of the most shocking accidents that has happened in this community occurred on Tuesday morning last between Grand Bend and Port Franks whereby Mr. Samuel Sweitzer, Reeve of Stephen, lost his life. Mr. Sweitzer, and Gottlieb Fahner of Shipka and Mr. John Ratz, of Khiva, had got out to fish in the river, near the lake, Mr. Sweitzer taking his gun with him. It seems the party had been rowing down the river, but had pulled into shore and gone up a large embankment. On returning Mr. Ratz stepped into the boat where the gun lay and as he did so the gun was discharged. Mr. Sweitzer, who stood within a few feet of the boat received the full contents of the barrel in his leg, below the knee, causing a frightful wound and shattering the bone in splinters. The wound was immediate bound up the best they could under the circumstances and proceeded at once to get to where their horses were, four miles distant. The accident happened at about ten in the morning but before they could get medical assistance it was four o'clock in the afternoon. The unfortunate man was removed to his home but only spoke a few words when he passed away. Deceased was a native of Stephen township and spent all his life in that township, being 54 years of age. He has been actively engaged in the saw mill business at Shipka for many years and by his honest dealings and courteous manner enjoyed the confidence of all. Mr. Sweitzer took an active interest in Municipal matters and sat at the council Board of his native township for seven years, and five years as Reeve and was Reeve at the time of his death. The sad circumstances surrounding his demise has shocked the whole community. Besides a sorrowing widow he is survived by three sons and two daughters, who will have the sincere sympathy of their many friends.

CENTRALIA

The anniversary in connection with the Methodist church here will be held on Sunday next. Special sermon by the pastor in the morning and Mr. George Stanley of Lucan will preach in the evening. The choir is preparing special music. A special collection will be asked for to meet the expenses of the coming year.— Mr. John English, while erecting a few poles to assist him at threshing, had the misfortune to fall and break three of his ribs. The injury is causing him much pain and he will be off duty for some time.—Mr. and Mrs. Woods of London spent a few days here, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson.—The Trothan boys of London autoed up on Sunday and spent the day with their father.—Mr. Oliver returned last week, after spending a couple weeks with relatives in Illinois. —Miss Alla Wilson is visiting relatives in Clinton.—Miss Florence Blatchford left on Tuesday to attend the University at Toronto.—The sudden death of Mr. Samuel Sweitzer, reeve of Stephen, by shooting on Tuesday, casts a gloom over the village, as he has many friends here.—Mr. Jake Kellermann of Dashwood was in the village on Monday gathering up the ballot boxes after the election.—Mr. Thos. Elston is busy filling silos for the farmers and when through will have filled about 20.

BIRTHS

Dearing—In Stephen, on 20th inst., to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dearing, a daughter.

Passmore.—In Cardston, Alta., on Sept. 18, to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Passmore, nee Olive Hooper, formerly of Exeter, a daughter.

MARRIAGES

Watson—Coward—At Winchelsea, Sept. 27, Nelson A. Watson, to Miss Vera M E., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coward.

Penhale—Kestle—At the home of the bride's parents, on Sept. 26, by Rev. Kestle, Luther J. Penhale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Penhale, to Miss Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Kestle, all of Exeter.

Phillips—Stewart—In Owen Sound, Sept. 27, Wilbur B. Phillips, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Phillips of Exeter, to Miss Maud Stewart of Owen Sound.

Walter—Murray—In Tuckersmith, on September, 20th, Alberta daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Murray, to Elliott Walter.

Brock—Wilson—At Parkhill, September, 18th, by Rev. F. J. Newton, Miss M. Blanche, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson,, to Mr. Charles Brook, of Trenton.

DEATHS

Sweitzer—At Port Franks, on Sept. 26 Samuel Sweitzer, (accidently killed) aged 54 years.

Heywood—In Usborne, Sept. 24, Thelda Thelma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Heywood, aged 1 year, 5 months, 12 days.

Kestle.—In Exeter on Sept. 22nd, Ellen Jory, wife of Rev. J. D. Kestle, aged 69 years, 5 months.

Cooper—In Clinton, on September, 16, David W. Cooper of Tuckersmith, aged 57 years.

Marriot—In Blanshard, on Sept. 19th, Amos. Marriot, aged 22 years, 25 days.

Bissett—In Strathroy, Sept. 25, Charlotte McFalls, wife of Isaac R. Bissett, aged 27 years.

Funeral Thursday morning from the Exeter station.

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

Fall Has Reached us

We are prepared to show you Dress Goods in all Wool, Venetian, Ottoman Cords, Poplin, Serges, Plaids, Etc.

Sweater Coats

We have them in White, Red, Brown and Grey from 2.50 to 4.50 also for children from 50 to 85c.

We have a few Sweater Coats for men at only 1.25 in Grey an Navy Blue.

Wool Shawls

Some fine wool shawls in Plain White, Grey Red, Black and colored from 65c. to $3.00 also some heavy grey shawls $3.00.

Young Men

If you want a nice neat soft Felt Hat in Grey Brown and Green just come in and let us have the pleasure of showing them to you.

Stanfields Underwear

This is the only Unshrinkable underwear that Ladies and Gents should wear. We have the Ladies in all sizes Pricee from 75c to $1.15 and Gents in Red and Blue Labels; Prices from $1.25 to $1.75 a garments.

We also handle Penman's natural wool underwear for men and Ladies.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

The Best Chance Ever Offered To Men

To put in a supply of clothing, Underwear, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Sox, Ties.

Everything a man wears.

At a price guaranteed to be below the Actual

Cost Price

Boys Clothing Sacrificed

This sale may be ended any day. And you will certainly regret it if you do not buy now.

Men's and Boys' Furnishings

Quitting Business

Cash Only

S. G. Bawden

The Clothier Exeter

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER IV.

In less confident tones Inspector Walters resumed his narrative:

"On Monday evening, sir," he said, "about eight o'clock, his Excellency and the two secretaries were dining downstairs, and matters had, thus far, gone on with the same routine as was observed every preceding day. The workmen quitted work at six o'clock. The three gentlemen went out for a drive as soon as everything was locked up, and came in again at a quarter to eight. They did not change their clothes for dinner, so there was no occasion to search them, as no one had gone upstairs since they had descended soon after six. They had barely started dinner when some one called at the front door, and I was sent for. The door bell, I may explain was always answered by one of the house servants, and he, if necessary, admitted any person who came, closing the door; but the visitor had to be examined by the policeman stationed in the passage before he was permitted to come any further. On this occasion I went out and found three gentlemen standing there. They were Turks, as could be easily seen by their attire, and appeared to be persons of some consequence."

"What do you mean by the words 'their attire?'" interrupted Brett. "Were they dressed in European clothes or in regular Turkish garments?"

"Oh," said the inspector, "I only meant that they wore fezes; otherwise they were quite accurately dressed in frock coats and the rest, but they were unmistakably Turks by their appearance. Two of them could speak no English, and the third, who acted as the leader of the party, first of all addressed me in French. Finding I did not understand him, he used very broken, but fairly intelligible English. What he wanted was to be taken at once to His Excellency, Mehemet Ali Pasha. I said that his Excellency was dining and that perhaps he had better call in the morning, but he replied that his business was very urgent, and he could not wait. He made me understand that if I sent in the cards of himself and his companions they would certainly be admitted at once. I did not see any harm in this, so I took the three cards and gave them to Hussein, who was crossing the hall at the moment."

"As the cards were printed in Turkish characters you could not of course, tell what the names were," said Brett.

A look of blank astonishment crossed the inspector's face as he replied: "That is a good guess, but it is so. The hieroglyphics on the piece of pasteboard were worse than Greek. However, Hussein glanced at them. He appeared to be surprised; he went into the dining room. Of course I had nothing else to do to let them in, which I did, accompanying them myself to the door of the dining-room, and making sure, before the door was closed, that their presence was expected."

"How did you do that?" said Brett.

"Well, although they spoke in what I suppose was Turkish, it is not very difficult to distinguish by a man's tones whether his reception of unexpected visitors is cordial or not, and there could be no doubt that the visiting cards had conveyed such names to his Excellency as warranted the introduction of the party into the house. The six gentlemen remained in the dining-room until 9.17 (I have the time noted here in my pocket-book). They then came out and went upstairs in a body to the ante-room, where they all sat down, as I could tell by the movement of the chairs overhead, and in a few minutes Hussein was rung for to bring cigarettes and coffee. This was at 9.21. Hussein was searched as he came downstairs after receiving the order, and again at 9.30 when he returned after executing it. I was relieved at ten o'clock, and beyond describing the three gentlemen, I know nothing more about the business."

"They were well dressed" inquired Brett; "they impressed you as Turkish gentlemen by their features, and they wore fezes?"

"Yes," said the policeman, with a smile; "but there was a little more than that."

"It is of no importance," said Brett.

"But really it must be," urged the inspector. "One of them, the man who spoke to me, had a bad sword-cut across his right cheek, whilst another squinted horribly; besides, they were all elderly men."

"Pardon me, inspector," said Brett, "but you admit, no doubt, that this is a very remarkable crime I am investigating."

"I should just think it is, sir," was the answer.

"Well, now does it not strike you that the perpetrators thereof, who were not afraid to be scrutinized by yourself and by several other policemen, and to be searched and further scrutinized by a different set of officers when they came out again, would be very unlikely persons to bear about them such distinguishing characteristics as would lead to their arrest by the first youthful police-constable who encountered them? I do not want to be rude, or to indicate any lack of discretion on your part, but, from my point of view, I would vastly prefer not to be furnished with any description of these three persons, nor would I care to have seen them as they entered or left the house."

"Well, that is very curious," said Inspector Walters, dropping his hands on his knees in sheer amazement at such an extraordinary statement from a man whose clearness and accuracy of perception had been so fully justified by the incident of the window-blind.

"And now, Mr. Sharpe," said Brett, "what did you observe?"

"I came on duty at ten o'clock; posted my guards, and received from Inspector Walters an exact account of what had taken place before my arrival. Inspector Walters had hardly quitted the house, when one of the junior members of the mission came downstairs with a note which he asked me to send at once by a constable to Mr. Talbot."

"You are quite sure he was one of the members of the mission?" said Brett.

"Perfectly certain. I have seen him every previous night for nearly a month, as the gentleman often went out late to the Turkish Embassy, and elsewhere. I sent the note, as requested, and Mr. Talbot came back with the constable in about twenty minutes. Mr. Talbot went upstairs accompanied by Hussein; Hussein came down, was searched, went down to the kitchen, brought up more coffee, and never appeared again. The next time I saw him was about noon yesterday, when we broke open the door, and found his dead body. At 11.25 Mr. Talbot, accompanied by one whom Inspector Walters has described as the spokesman of the strangers, came down the stairs. Mr. Talbot looked somewhat puzzled, but not specially worried, and submitted himself to the searching operation as usual. The other man seemed to be surprised by this proceeding, but offered no objection when his turn came, and said something laughingly in French to Mr. Talbot, when he had to take his boots off. The two gentlemen went outside and called a cab. Mr. Talbot got in, and the constable at the door heard the foreigner tell the driver to go to the Carlton Hotel. He repeated the address twice, so as to make sure the man would make no mistake.

"Then they drove off, and there was no further incident to report until five minutes past twelve, when the other two foreigners came downstairs. Then we had a bit of a job. They knew no English, and one of our men, who could speak French, found that they did not understand that language. However, at last in dumb show we got them to perceive that everybody who came downstairs had to be searched. They submitted at once, and I took special care that the investigation was complete. There was nothing upon them to arouse the slightest suspicion, no weapons of any sort beyond a small pocket-knife carried by one man, and not much in the way of either papers or money. Before going out one of them produced a small card on which was written, 'Carlton Hotel.'

"I took it that this was their residence, so I instructed a constable to see them into a cab and tell the driver where to take them. I also showed them how much money to give the cabman. None of the gentlemen upstairs put in an appearance, nor did I hear them retire to rest. To make quite sure that all was right, I and a sergeant who looked in a little later went upstairs and tried the door of the ante-room. This was locked and everything was quiet within, so we returned to the hall, and the night was passed in the usual manner. Hussein always made his appearance about eight o'clock in the morning, when he came down to procure coffee for his Excellency and the others. As he did not show up I wondered what had become of him. When nine o'clock came, I determined to investigate matters. By that time the diamond cutters had put in an appearance, and were gathered in the hall, undergoing a slight search preparatory to their day's work."

"How many of these men were there?" broke in Brett.

"Fourteen exactly. They were mostly Dutchmen, with, I think, three Belgians. Taking a constable with me, I went upstairs, and ascended to the second story, where I knew his Excellency's suite was situated, and where I expected to find Hussein asleep on a mat in front of the bedroom door. The mat was there, but no Hussein. Then I went higher up to the rooms occupied by the two assistants. I knocked, but received no answer. One door was locked; the other was open, so I went in, but the room was empty, and the bed had not been slept upon. This seemed so strange that I knocked loudly at the other door, with no result. I returned to his Excellency's floor and hammered at the door, which was locked, sufficiently to wake the soundest sleeper that ever lived. This again was useless, so I returned downstairs and sent off two messengers post haste—one to Mr. Talbot, and the other to the Commissioner of Police at Scotland Yard. The man who went to Mr. Talbot's house returned first, bringing the startling information that Mr. Talbot had not been home all night, and that his uncle and sister were anxious to know where he was, as they had received no message from him since he quitted the house the previous night at 10.15. The Commissioner of Police came himself a little later. By that time Inspector Walters had reached here for his turn of day duty, and after a hasty consultation we decided to break in all the doors that were locked, commencing with that of the second assistant. His room was empty, and so was his Excellency's, neither apartment having been occupied during the night. We then returned to the first floor and forced the door of the ante-room, which, we discovered, was only secured by a spring latch, the lower lock not having been used. As soon as we entered the room, we found the four dead men. Hussein, the servant, was nearest the door and was lying in a crumpled-up position. He had been stabbed twice through the back and once through the spinal column at the base of the neck. His Excellency and the two assistants were seated in chairs, but had been stabbed through the heart. The instrument used must have been a long thin dagger or stiletto. There was no sign of it anywhere in the room, and most certainly none of the men who came out the previous night had such a weapon concealed upon him.

"Doctors were at once sent for, and the first medical gentleman to arrive said that each of the four had been dead for many hours, but they also imagined that the coffee, the remains of which we found in some cups on the table, had been drugged. So, before disturbing the room and its contents in any way, the Commissioner sent for Dr. Tennyson Coke. After careful investigation Dr. Coke came to the same conclusion as the other gentlemen. He believes that his Excellency and his two assistants were first stupefied by the drug and then murdered as they sat in their chairs, whilst the appearance of Hussein and the nature of his wounds seemed to indicate that he had been unexpectedly attacked and killed before he could struggle effectually or even call for assistance.

"Of course, the diamonds had vanished, whilst in the safes or on the tables we found the keys which had evidently been taken from his Excellency's pockets. We were all puzzled to account for the disappearance of the diamonds and the dagger, but you have clearly shown the means whereby they were conveyed off the premises. Dr. Coke took away the coffee for analysis. The four bodies were carried to the mortuary in Chapel Place, and the fourteen workmen were conveyed to Scotland Yard, not because we have any charge against them, but the Commissioner thought it best to keep them under surveillance until the Turkish Embassy has settled what was to be done with them, in the matter of paying such wages as were due and sending them back to Amsterdam. The men themselves, I may add, were quite satisfied with our action in the matter. That is really all I have to tell you."

"It is quite clear, then," said Brett, "that two men succeeded in murdering four and in getting away with their plunder and arms without creating the slightest noise or exciting any suspicion in your mind."

"That is so," admitted Inspector Sharpe ruefully.

"Then," said Brett, "there is nothing else to be done here. Will you come with me, Mr. Winter?"

"Where to, sir?" inquired the detective.

"To find Mr. Talbot, of course."

"Easier said than done," remarked Inspector Walters, as the door closed behind the visitors.

Inspector Sharpe was less sceptical.

"He's a very smart chap is Brett," he said. "Neither you nor I thought of punching that wire screen, did we?"

(To be continued.)

Eight Years of Bad Eczema on Hands

Miss Mary A. Bentley Montreal

Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Miss Mary A. Bentley, 93 University St., Montreal, writes, in a recent letter: "Some nine years ago I noticed small pimples breaking out on the back of my hands. They became very irritating, and gradually became worse, so that I could not sleep at night. I consulted a physician who treated me a long time, but it got worse, and I could not put my hands in water. I was treated at the hospital, and it was just the same. I was told that it was a very bad case of eczema.

"Well, I just kept on using everything that I could for nearly eight years until I was advised to try Cuticura Ointment. I did so, and I found after a few applications the burning sensations were disappearing, I could sleep well, and did not have any itching during the night. I began after a while to use Cuticura Soap. I stuck to the Cuticura treatment, and thought if I could use other remedies for over seven years with no result, and after only having a few applications and finding ease from Cuticura Ointment, it deserved a fair trial with a severe and stubborn case. I used the Cuticura Ointment and Soap for nearly six months, and I am glad to say that I have hands as clear as anyone. It is my wish that you publish this letter to all the world, and if anyone doubts it, let them write me."

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book, send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 5P, Boston, U. S. A.

A HIT.

What She Gained by Trying Again.

A failure at first makes us esteem final success.

A family in Minnesota that now enjoys Postum would never have known how good it is if the mother had been discouraged by the failure of her first attempt to prepare it. Her son tells the story:

"We had never used Postum till last spring when father brought home a package one evening just to try it. We had heard from our neighbors, and in fact every one who used it, how well they liked it.

"Well, the next morning Mother brewed it about five minutes, just as she had been in the habit of doing with coffee without paying special attention to the directions printed on the package. It looked weak and didn't have a very promising color, but nevertheless father raised his cup with an air of expectancy. It certainly did give him a great surprise, but I'm afraid it wasn't a very pleasant one, for he put down his cup with a look of disgust.

"Mother wasn't discouraged though, and next morning gave it another trial, letting it stand on the stove till boiling began and then letting it boil for fifteen or twenty minutes, and this time we were all so pleased with it that we have used it ever since.

"Father was a confirmed dyspeptic and a cup of coffee was to him like poison. So he never drinks it any more, but drinks Postum regularly. He isn't troubled with dyspepsia now and is actually growing fat, and I'm sure Postum is the cause of it. All the children are allowed to drink it and they are perfect pictures of health." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

CARE OF CHICKENS.

All the old birds, and young, too, should be examined frequently during the hot months, because then it is that the lice and mites thrive.

If cut bone or chopped meat is fed during the summer, extra precautions must be taken to have it perfectly fresh.

Many birds die from eating bone and meat scraps which have been allowed to lie around exposed to the heat and the flies.

In feeding chickens always remember that they are provided for to produce fresh eggs for human food and, therefore, their own food should be just as pure as that we eat ourselves.

The hot sun will cause young goslings and ducklings as well to topple over and die. Provide shade for them until they are strong on their pegs.

ONE PIE FOR 70 GUESTS.

Seventy guests banqueted on a single pie at Gorleston, and there was plenty to spare when they had finished, says London Sketch. The pie had three inch crust and weighed a hundredweight and a half. It was made in three sections or water tight compartments and each hold had a substantial bulkhead of crust. Its interior was packed with six rabbits, six kidneys, twenty-eight pounds of beefsteak and potatoes, turnips, carrots and sprouts. The sea pie, as it is called, is boiled, not baked, and its builder, Skipper Harman, made the cooking process an eight hours watch. This three decker provided a savory meal which more than satisfied the guests, and its wrecked and dismantled hull provided ten gallons of excellent soup that was gladly welcomed by the poor of Gorleston.

NA-DRU-CO Headache Wafers

stop the meanest, nastiest, most persistent headaches in half an hour or less. We guarantee that they contain no opium, morphine or other poisonous drugs. 25c. a box at your druggists', or by mail from 29

National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited. - - - - Montreal.

LETTERS OF A SON IN THE MAKING TO HIS DAD.

—By REX McEVOY

[Mr. McEvoy will write for this paper a series of letters from the west. They will appear from time to time under the above heading, and will give a picture of the great Canadian west from the standpoint of a young Ontario man going out there to make his way. These letters should be full of interest for every Ontario father.]

No. 5.

Kamloops, Sept. 14th, 1911.

My Dear Dad,—

Although this letter is dated Kamloops we have just left that place and am getting further from it every minute. I am writing this in a corner of the observation car on the Imperial Limited, the name the C. P. R. gives the train that runs through from Montreal to Vancouver. The observation car has a deep platform behind where you can sit out on camp stools and watch the scenery without and glass or window frames to interfere with the view. You get the real mountain air, too, as the train slides past the silent peaks, and while going through one of the mile-long tunnels today I heard the splash of an underground stream, and felt the drip of the water. Just where I am sitting there is a writing desk, and close beside it is a book case with a couple of hundred books to choose from if you want to read. I notice that they are not used much. I didn't see anyone reading them, the scenery is too attractive for that. The magazines, however, which belong to the library, were much in demand.

Well, it has been a wonderful day for me. I was up early, for the train leaves Calgary at 3.15 a.m. right on the dot. That's one thing that has surprised me on this trip. While a local train in Ontario may be anywhere from half an hour to an hour late, these trains which make a run for nearly three thousand miles pull out of the station right on time. Of course, they must lose in winter when the snow drifts. Then a train may be excused for being a day behind time.

We ran out of Calgary in the dark, but it was daylight by the time we reached Exshaw, when you are right close up to the mountains. Here I noticed a number of long, dusty-looking buildings. They are part of one of the largest cement works in Canada. Then we went through what is called "The Gap," right into the heart of the mountains.

It was at Canmore that I first realized what mountains were. I simply cannot describe the feeling of awe that is experienced in looking on them for the first time. The other side of a level valley, perhaps some five miles away, they rose up, up, up, grey, silent, majestic in the grey light of early morning, with the mists still clinging about them. They seemed to lift themselves above and out of the world, and to be altogether apart from man and the little things that busy him. They were solitary, remote, and there was no sign of living thing near them. And in between the solemn, grey peaks, miles beyond, a glimpse might be caught of another, higher peak, snow-covered, gilded with the bright, fresh sunlight of early morning. They were grand. I just hung on to the railing at the back of the observation car and gazed, and gazed, and gazed.

All the time I was drinking in the wonder of the mountains I was thinking that I had never before realized what a mountain was. Pictures give you no idea at all any more than a portrait of a person can speak to you. And I was thinking, too, what a pity it was that all my folks could not be with me to see and appreciate this wonderful bit of our Canada. Perhaps one of the things that makes the mountains impressive is that they help you to understand the vast scale of creation. These tremendous monuments of rock have been tossed about at some time as the plaything of some tremendous power. Their very mass and weight compels thought of the incomprehensible violence which has of old torn them from their place and reared them up on end. At one place where we came along to-day, right at the foot of Mount Macdonald, the rock rises sheer up from the track a mile in the air—as far as from our place to the school-house set up on end.

I was out on the back of the train till we got to Field, when I went in to the dining car for dinner. The mountains all the way were unutterably grand. In places they were a series of peaks, with snow gleaming like crowns or necklaces about them, in other places they were in broken piles. In one place, for instance, there is what looks just like a castle cut out of the rock, with doorways, turrets, and all. It is on a tremendous scale, some eight miles long. After passing that you run out along the side of the mountain with a valley below you and a river running through it. You see bridges and tracks some distance below the track your train is on, and running parallel. Then you run slap bang into a tunnel and run along for a mile in the dark. When you come out you find that you have turned right round with the track you were on before above you. Then into another tunnel, and you find that you have turned again, the track looping round in the solid rock. This whole giant "S," some seven miles long, cost $1,500,000. Seventy-five car loads of dynamite costing $250,000 were used in blasting the tunnels. The wonders that the engineers have accomplished in putting the railroad through is next to the wonder of the mountains themselves. After you have been running in the maze of hills for a whole day, you wonder that anybody ever found their way through, let alone build a railroad.

When the tunnels are left behind, you come out along the Kicking Horse River. The track runs along a narrow ledge cut in the side of the mountain with the river far below, hundreds of feet. Gradually the track gets lower and lower, till it is running close beside the leaping, dashing, greeny-white water of the river.

At Glacier I got my first fine view of one of the glaciers that feed these mountain rivers. It was sweltering hot where we were at the station, but up on the side of the mountain lay a great expanse of snow that glistened in the sun. You and mother should come through here and see this country, but if you do, be sure you bring a dictionary with you, or you will run out of adjectives before you have been in the mountains very long.

In the evening, after passing Sicamous Junction, where the line branches off to the Okanagan Valley—the peach and grape belt of the province—we ran along beside Shushwap Lake, and the sunset lights and reflections in the still calm water were very peaceful, and contrasted with the rugged beauty of the mountains. The lights were lit when we ran into Kamloops, and the town was outlined with bright dots where the street lights stood in the darkness under the shadowy mountains.

Good-bye now, Dad. I have quite a piece to go yet, but I'm not tired of travelling, as I expected to be, as there's always something to see.

Your loving son,

JIM.

COLOR-BLIND.

A form of defective vision which will impair the usefulness of anybody, no matter what his employment, is touched upon in this pithy conversation:

Inquisitive Passenger—What has become of Stokes, who used to be a conductor on this line?

Conductor—Why, the company laid him off some time ago.

Inquisitive Passenger—Laid him off? What for?

Conductor—It was found upon investigation that he was color-blind.

Inquisitive Passenger — Color-blind? What difference did that make in a conductor?

Conductor—A good deal. He couldn't tell the difference between the color of his money and the company's.

WHEN PRESERVING

USE Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR

"THE SUGAR OF NEARLY 60 YEARS STANDING."

Since 1854 this prime favorite has made the preserving season a fruitful source of pleasure in thousands of Canadian homes.

ORDER FROM YOUR GROCER.

THE CANADA SUGAR REFINING CO., LIMITED, Montreal

Established in 1854 by John Redpath.

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

DAINTY DISHES.

Milk Scones.—Boil a quart of milk and when boiling take it off the fire and stir into the pan sufficient oatmeal to make a thick paste. Roll out very thin on a pastry board and cut into circles or triangles; bake on a hot griddle for a few minutes. The scones should be put into a warm napkin and sent to table at once.

For a plain seed cake rub four ounces of clarified dripping into three quarters of a pound of flour, and add half an ounce of carraway seeds, four ounces of sugar, and one egg beaten in a quarter of a pint of milk. Beat all together very thoroughly, place in a greased tin, and bake for an hour in a steady oven.

For boulogne sausage take equal quantities of beef suet, fat, and lean bacon, and pass all through a sausage machine. Season the mixture highly with pepper, salt, and powdered sage. Fill a skin with the meat, tie it, prick to prevent bursting, put into boiling water, and cook slowly for one and a half to two hours.

Buttermilk Pie.—Beat two eggs to a froth with half a teaspoonful of sugar, add gradually a tablespoonful of flour, one pint of buttermilk and a tablespoonful of butter. Work all the ingredients together. Line a flat pie-dish with pastry, pour in the filling after adding any spice preferred and bake in a steady oven.

Cheap Pork Pie.—Take one and a half pounds of lean fresh pork and cut in small pieces. Place a layer in the bottom of a pie-dish, lightly sprinkle with powdered allspice and then put a layer of sliced apples. Continue this till the dish is full. Cover with paste and bake for two or two and a half hours. A little stock seasoned lightly should be added before the paste is put on.

Belgian Soup.—Weigh, after peeling, two pounds of turnips and cut them into dice. Simmer for twenty minutes in one pint of water with two ounces of butter and a dessertspoonful of brown sugar, pepper and salt. A cupful of flour blended with a quart of milk should also be added. Let all come to the boil while stirring, and serve with dice of fried bread.

Gingerbread Wafers.—Take one pound of flour, and work into it half a pound of butter and half a pound of caster sugar, also three quarters of an ounce of ground ginger. Whisk up two eggs to a stiff froth, and mix into the flour so as to form a light paste. Roll out very thin, cut with a fancy cutter, and bake in a sharp oven till crisp. Great care must be taken or the wafers will burn.

Apple Mould.—Peel and core two pounds of apples and cook till soft with sugar and a quarter of a pint of water. Soak half an ounce of gelatine in cold water to cover, add the juice of a lemon and then dissolve it by heat. A little of the lemon-peel may be stewed with the apples. When the apples are quite soft strain the gelatine into them, boil up while stirring, and when cool pour into a wetted mould. Turn out to serve.

Vegetable marrow and cheese makes a good savory dish. Peel a marrow, cut it in half lengthwise and remove the seeds. Lay the two pieces of marrow in a saucepan with sufficient water to cover, and boil gently for a quarter of an hour. In a small saucepan put half an ounce of butter, mix smoothly with half an ounce of flour, two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese, and a teacupful of milk. Boil the sauce for five minutes while stirring, and pour it over the marrow, which has been well drained, and is quite cooked. Scatter browned bread crumbs over, and serve very hot.

Jambolaya.—Cover the bottom of a stove pan with slices of breakfast bacon; cut up a chicken as for frying, salt and pepper, dip in flour, and lay on top of bacon; over this pour a pint of uncooked rice, two large onions chopped fine, one quart of tomatoes, and two pods of red pepper chopped very fine; fill the pan with water and cook slowly two or three hours; put in more water if it begins to dry. When ready to serve, stir in three or four tablespoons of butter. A can of mushrooms can be added to this for those who so desire, and if used should be put in at the first on top of the chicken.

Cheese Custard.—Beat up four eggs; add half a cupful of boiling milk, four tablespoons grated cheese, seasoning of salt, pepper, and red pepper. Pour into small molds, stirring all the time so as not to let the cheese settle. Stand molds in a saucepan, allowing the water to come within half an inch of the top; simmer gently until set. Cut slices of bread and stamp them out in rounds a little larger than the mould. Put two tablespoons of butter into a frying pan and, when hot, fry the bread a golden color. Dish a custard on each and brown in the oven. Garnish with parsley.

CAULIFLOWER.

Cauliflower, Tomato Sauce.—Boil a fresh cauliflower, then drain it carefully. Sprinkle with white pepper and place on a hot dish. Pour over it a cupful of tomato sauce, sprinkle with fried bread crumbs, add a squeeze of lemon juice, a dash of pepper, a small bit of butter, and a quarter of a pound of grated cheese. Place in oven until hot and serve.

Cauliflower Salad.—Soak a head of cauliflower in cold water, break into flowerets and cook in salted boiling water for thirty minutes. Keep it perfectly white; if it boils too long it will lose its color. When done lift carefully and stand aside to cool. At serving time arrange it in a salad bowl, sprinkle with chopped parsley and a tablespoonful of onion juice and pour French dressing over all.

Cauliflower, White Sauce.—Carefully wash your cauliflower and boil until tender in water with salt and one-half tablespoonful butter. When done lay in a rather deep dish. Pour over it a white sauce made as follows: Rub one-eighth pound of butter with one level tablespoonful of flour, a dash of salt and pepper and about one-half cupful of warm water. Set on stove and cook until well mixed, but don't let it boil. Remove and add juice of one-half lemon, a little chopped parsley and a little grated nutmeg.

USES FOR SODA.

Uses for common washing soda: One heaping tablespoonful of soda to a pint of water (boiling) will clean the ugliest burned pan, by letting it soak a few hours.

In boiling clothes a few tablespoonfuls of soda in the water will eradicate stains from clothes and lend a snowy whiteness. I have used it on the finest quality of white goods with entire satisfaction. It will not injure the material.

To clean a coffee or tea pot made of granite or lined with porcelain, fill up the utensil with cold water, set on stove to boil, and add a lump of soda as large as a hazelnut to the water. It cleanses perfectly. In fact, sweetness is insured after its usage in every instance.

To clean silver: Put a level tablespoonful in dish pan, add a quart of cold water, put on fire to boil (put silver in pan in the cold water) and wipe immediately after the water boils up. Result: Perfectly shined silverware without any trouble.

B.

MATHEMATICS IN COOKING.

Little problems in mathematics often confront the beginners in cooking: If one vegetable will require thirty minutes for cooking, how many minutes will one small roast require, etc. It is embarrassing to feel that the potatoes are growing cold and soggy while you coax the fire and try to hasten the cooking of a belated pudding or meat dish. The following table may be helpful: Boiled potatoes, 30 minutes; baked potatoes, 45 minutes; sweet potatoes, boiled, 45 minutes; sweet potatoes, baked, 1 hour; squash, boiled, 25 minutes; squash, baked, 1 hour; green peas, boiled, 30 minutes; shelled beans, boiled 45 minutes; shelled beans, baked 5 hours; string beans, boiled 30 minutes; green corn, 25 minutes; asparagus, 20 minutes; spinach, 1 hour; tomatoes, fresh, 1 hour; tomatoes, canned, 30 minutes; cabbage, 1 hour; cauliflower, 1 hour; onions, 1 hour; beets, 1 hour; turnips, 1 hour; parsnips 45 min.; carrots, 1 hour; rice, boiled, 30 minutes; rice, steamed, 1½ hours; bread, 1 hour; cake, fruit, 4 hours; cake, layer, 15 minutes; muffins, 20 minutes; pies, 30 minutes, puddings, 20 minutes to 1 hour; beef, 15 minutes for each pound; mutton, 15 minutes for each pound; lamb, 15 minutes for each pound; veal, 20 minutes for each pound; pork, 30 minutes for each pound; chicken 30 minutes for each pound; turkey, 20 minutes for each pound; goose, 20 minutes for each pound; duck, 1 hour; small birds, 30 minutes; fish, small, 30 minutes; fish, large, 45 minutes.

RULES FOR THE KITCHEN.

1. Meat for soup should be put on the fire in cold water to extract the goodness.

2. Boiled meat should be put into hot water and boiled for ten minutes before being allowed to simmer. This seals up the fibres and prevents the juices escaping.

3. Batters should be beaten well, and should be allowed to stand before they are used, in order that the air may pass into them.

4. Use a hot oven for bread, meat, pastry; use a moderate oven for buns and large cakes; use a slow oven for milk puddings.

5. When scrubbing boards, scrub with the grain of the wood.

POSTMEN COULDN'T READ.

Difficulties of the Postal Service in Parts of Rural France.

Just as no well conducted municipality would engage a blind man as road surveyor it is difficult to imagine the British Post Office employing as postman one who could not read. Yet the case is not unknown in France, writes the Paris correspondent of the London Globe.

One of the Figaro's subscribers wrote to that paper the other day from a little seaside town on the Normandy coast: "The postal service is not well done here and we get our letters very irregularly. In winter this little town has only 300 inhabitants, so it has only the right to one postman over 40 years of age, who gets £12 a year. He must be over 40, so that the State will not be obliged to pay him a pension. For that price and under these conditions we have a modest factor who does not know how to read. He explained a few days ago that knowing the names of the people who live in his quarter he managed to decipher their names, but for the others it was 'plus difficile.' One of our friends asked him:

"Have you any letters for me?"

"He replied:

"I don't think so, for a little while ago I called at your brother's and if I had had any for you I would have given them to him."

The story recalls that told by the late Emmanuel Arene of the Corsican postman who could not read or write. As it was impossible for him to take the letters to those for whom they were intended he solved the difficulty by meeting his fellow citizens on the village market place. At the same hour every day he stood there with his letters spread out and every one took the Missives addressed to them.

There was only one man in the village who received letters every day, mostly from the surrounding communes; that was the local doctor. The first day after his appointment the postman noticed with a suspicious eye that the doctor claimed half of the letters in his box. "What sort of a man can this be?" he asked himself. The next day the same thing happened and it took the postman all his time to refrain from asking for an explanation.

On the third day all the letters were for the doctor. Quietly he collected them. One, two, three, four — As he was about to take the last one the postman, losing patience, asked him angrily: "Aren't you going to leave any for the others?" It took some pains to calm him, but after that he decided to learn to read.

I remember seeing a rural postman "delivering" his letters from a little table in the centre of a village in Aix en Provence about three years ago, but it was not because he could not read. The surrounding country had been ravaged by an earthquake, hardly one house been left standing and it was useless for the postman to try to find the people whose homes had been destroyed.

They were sleeping in carts, by the wayside and in the fields and every day between certain hours they used to come into the village, and the postman, sitting under a tree in the market place surrounded by crumbling walls and heaps of lath and plaster and broken furniture, would select from the package in front of him the letters destined for the people who had no address.

FAMILY OF NATATORES.

One spring evening an amateur nature-student, note-book in hand, penetrated the wilds of a cow pasture and paused to take advantage of the practical, although crude, knowledge of a gray-beard countryman who sat contentedly on a log. "There is a strange bird-note this evening," she began, with sweet condescension. "I wonder—perhaps you can tell me what the bird is?"

The old man removed his pipe for an instant.

"I heerd a robin, mum," he admitted, puffing away at his pipe before the last word was out of his mouth.

"Oh, no!" The student of ornithology shook her head, prettily impatient. "It is a new call, different from anything I have yet come across. Can't you hear it—now?"

Once more the old man perfunctorily removed his pipe, and both he and his questioner strained to listen. There was a bewilderment of woodland and farmyard sounds.

"There," whispered the girl, "that full, shrill note! Can't you hear it? In that direction?"

A light broke over the old man's face, and the pucker of intense effort vanished from his forehead."

"Oh, that noise?" He threw back his head with a chuckle of relief. "That's a frog, mum."

A man can accomplish a lot while waiting for his wife, who is going to be ready in just a minute.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, OCTOBER 1.

Lesson I.—The prophet Ezekiel a watchman, Ezek. 3. Golden Text, Ezek. 3. 17.

Verse I. And he said unto me—God is speaking. This portion of the heavenly message, having to do with the prophet's inspiration, begins with verse 8 of chapter 2, and extends through verse 3 of the lesson. For the source, distinctness, nature, and compulsion of the prophet's call to his sacred office, and the completeness of his surrender to it, see the introduction above.

Son of man—"Child of man" would be a preferable translation. The phrase is of frequent occurrence in the book, being used over ninety times. It calls attention to the contrast between the lowliness of mankind and the majesty of God.

Eat this roll—This is a forcible way of expressing how thoroughly the prophet must appropriate and assimilate the message given him. He must make it his own before he attempts to speak it to the house of Israel. The roll had appeared before the prophet in a stretched out hand, and he saw it to be the roll of a book. Ordinarily rolls would be written only on one side, but the contents of this one were full, being written without and within (compare Rev. 5. 1). Compare Jeremiah's call (Jer. 1. 7-9).

3. As honey—The roll was filled with lamentations and mourning and woe (Ezek. 2. 10). But since it was from God the prophet found the bitterness turned into sweetness. That is a common experience in life among those consecrated to the will of the Lord. Bunyan represents the Valley of Humiliation as a sweet thing.

4-11.—Strength for his mission to his fellow countrymen. He is warned of the obstinacy of his people, but promised a resoluteness in purpose more steady than their persistency in disobedience.

4. Speak with my words—It is characteristic of Ezekiel, and of Jeremiah, to represent themselves as receiving, not merely the "word" of God, but his very "words."

5. People of a strange speech—This refers to the inarticulateness with which foreigners seem to a stranger to speak. They are "deep of lip" (margin). Their utterance also sounds "heavy" (margin). Compare Isaiah 33. 19 for the first and Exod. 4. 10 for the other expression. Ezekiel was to be spared the difficulty of mastering a foreign tongue. But there were greater difficulties to be met. If he could once make himself clear to the heathen they would be found to be susceptible to the truth, and would hearken to him (6).

7. They will not hearken unto me—This, then, was Ezekiel's task, to try to persuade people who had been guilty of a life-long refusal to be persuaded by God himself. Outwardly, they have a hard forehead; not a muscle in their faces twitches before the condemning truth. Inwardly, they are stiff of heart; there is no yielding of will or feeling.

9. Fear them not—It is not the business of a prophet to measure out his message according to the disposition, to receive or reject it, of those who hear. If they are rebellious, still let him speak, for in the long run his truth is bound to prevail. What inspired Ezekiel with unshrinking courage was the fact that the words were God's words, not his. Compare Jer. 5. 3 and Isa. 50. 7, for the figure of the flint. Whether the people hear or forbear (11), the purpose of God's servant is to remain as unyielding as the hardest rock.

12-15.—Ezekiel's special mission to the captives at Tel-abib. His work was in behalf of the entire Hebrew nation, but his immediate interest was that part of the nation in captivity. And his interest was purely a religious one. Few hints are given us of the life of the people in captivity. In fact, almost uniformly, Ezekiel seems to be looking beyond his companions to the larger Israel scattered throughout the world.

12. The spirit lifted me—This indicates that the prophet is still under the influence of the trance described in chapter 1. He has been accorded a vision of his relation to his own people as a spokesman of Jehovah. And now, under the inspiration of the Spirit still, he is set down among his fellow exiles. So it seems to him that the glory of Jehovah, in whose presence he had been standing, was left behind him. And the Spirit departs as with the noise of rushing chariots.

14. The hand of Jehovah was strong upon me—Ezekiel's mission was performed under a divine, inescapable constraint. His bitterness and heat are but a reflection of the indignation which his Lord felt toward the sinful, obstinate Israelites.

15. Then I came — He was strengthened with a threefold equipment; the possession of a divinely given message, the assurance that he went as a prophet direct from God (verse 11), and the consciousness of an inward impulse of the Spirit driving him forward. That is equipment enough for any man. But, in spite of all this, Ezekiel felt himself overwhelmed as he sat in the very presence of them of the captivity. His feelings were complex as he thought of the sin of his own nation, now made clearer, the awful majesty of an indignant God, and the superhuman task before him. No wonder he remained in unbroken silence for an entire week.

16-21.—Ezekiel's further mission.

17. I have made these a watchman—This is only a more exact definition of his prophetic function. Like the sentinel who is set upon the tower to observe, and to give warning in case of danger, so the prophet was too take account of the present crisis in Israel, and warn the people of certain disaster, while he should point them to the way of life.

18. His blood—It is the function of the watchman to give fair warning to the wicked of the danger of death. If he fail, then, though the wicked die in his sins, the watchman must answer for it. "He that fails to save life kills; and blood will be required of him, of every man's hand the blood of his brother."

20. When a righteous man doth turn—His case makes even more perilous the watchman's position of responsibility. If the righteous sin, he must be warned. Otherwise, he may fall over the stumblingblock which God, for purposes of moral test, puts in his path (not that he may fall, of course, but may have opportunities of moral growth). Moreover, it is important for the watchman to keep on warning the righteous man who does not sin, because until the end of his days, he will be beset with peril (21).

22-27.—From here on to the end of chapter 7 follow certain symbolical prophecies of the overthrow of the city and nation. These verses form a sort of preface, relating to the command given Ezekiel to abandon for a time his sacred work and keep within his own house.

25. They shall lay bands upon thee—His ministry among the exiles will be without fruit because of the opposition of sin-hardened hearts. No doubt Ezekiel had already experienced the truth of this, although nothing is recorded of his ministry in these early days at Tel-Abib. But it was as he had expected, they refused to believe his testimony concerning the inevitable downfall of the city.

26. Thou shalt be dumb—This was a restraint put upon him by Jehovah, and one that was to be lifted by Jehovah only at such times as he should choose. Eventually there will be some who will hear (27), and to him that forbeareth, he will at any rate have delivered his soul (21).

GOT EVIDENCE UPSTAIRS.

Not an Easy Matter, as it Happened to be a Nilghai.

An Indian Judge when first appointed to his position, says the Bombay Gazette, was not well acquainted with Hindustani. He was trying a case in which a Hindu was charged with stealing a nilghai. The Judge did not like to betray his ignorance of what a nilghai was, so he said, "Produce the stolen property."

The court was held in an upper room, so the usher gasped, "Please, your Lordship, it's downstairs."

"Then bring it up instantly!" sternly ordered the Judge.

The official departed and a minute later a loud bumping was heard mingled with loud and earnest exhortations. Nearer came the noise, the door was pushed open and the panting official appeared dragging in the blue bull.

The Judge was dumfounded, but only for an instant.

"Ah! That will do," said he. "It is always best when possible for the Judge personally to inspect the stolen property. Remove the stolen property, usher."

THE SIZE OF BRICKS.

If bricks were made larger it would save a great deal of time and labor in building, said a contractor, but the standard has been set and any change would be attended by considerable inconvenience. In England when bricks were first made and up to sixty or seventy years ago there was a tax on bricks and in order to evade it the bricks were made of larger and larger sizes. These were used for cellars and other concealed places. To stop this fraud an act was passed in reign of George III. fixing the legal size of bricks. Early in Queen Victoria's reign the tax was taken off and bricks may now be legally made on any size whatever. But any change from the standard size would bring about great inconvenience. All calculations are made for building on this standard size, and the London and other building acts have practically fixed it.

There are degrees of pride. Even the man with red hair hates to get bald.

WHEN WE THINK BEST.

At What Time of Day Does Your Brain Becomes Brightest.

Lord Alverstone, the Lord Chief Justice of England, in an address to a gathering of students some time ago said that he had found from his own long experience that the early morning was the time when he could think best, says the London Answers.

There is no doubt that our power to think varies greatly during the day. Some people, like Lord Alverstone, think best in the early morning—before breakfast, but after and early cup of tea; others think better in the evening or last thing at night.

Our power to think appears to depend on the quantity of blood circulating in the brain, and any device that will increase the flow of blood to the head will usually enable us to think better.

Rousseau, the great French writer, would think bareheaded in the sunshine; while Bossuet, the French bishop and theologian, would work in a cold room, with his head wrapped in furs. Schiller, the German dramatist and the friend of Goethe, would immerse his feet in ice-cold water.

Everybody knows from experience that the brain is not at its best after a heavy meal. The explanation of this is simply that all the available blood in the body is drawn from the brain and the extremities to help in the work of digestion.

For the same reason we can usually think best after a period of fasting, and it is known that clerks do better work before lunch than afterwards.

Upton Sinclair, the author of the "The Jungle," says that he never felt more capable of intellectual effort than when he was undergoing the fasting cure, and he is convinced that great poetry will be written when poets fast for the sake of their work.

The late Professor Mayor, of Cambridge, when engaged on his latest book would occasionally go without food for a day or more at a time, and for several years before his death his food cost him no more than twopence a day.

Prolonged periods of sleeplessness produce a sensitiveness and irritation of the nerves, or, as the doctors call it, a state of hyperaesthesia, which is frequently favorable to thought. Some people can think only when walking, and others only in the noise of streets and crowds, or with the buzz of conversation all around. But most people require silence and solitude.

Opium and morphia, in moderate doses, cause mental excitement of a peculiarly pleasurable character, which is always followed by a period of intense depression. The opium or morphia habit, once acquired, is almost impossible to break.

Both tea and coffee stimulate the nervous system and the circulation. The heart beats more quickly, and this causes the blood to circulate more rapidly though the brain. We drink tea because we know from our own experience that, whatever the doctor may say, we do feel more lively and energetic afterwards. But when tea-drinking develops into a habit, as it often does, it brings indigestion, loss of appetite, and nervousness in its train.

The use of strong coffee at night is well known to students who are compelled to cram for examinations; for, although the coffee does not increase their intellectual capacity, it makes their brain cells more sensitive for the time being.

RUBBER ROADS.

At the International Rubber Exhibition at Islington, England, a large area of the hall was paved with rubber, with the expectation that it would serve to show the value of rubber as a material for covering the surfaces of roads. At first sight it seems chimerical to propose the use of rubber for such a purpose, but rubber blocks on roadways exposed to heavy traffic have already been tried, and the amount of wear upon them after years of use is said to be almost inappreciable. It is argued that owing to its great durability, combined with absence of dust and noiselessness, rubber paving will in the end be cheap as compared with wood or asphalt. It is suggested that an experimental block be laid in a busy London street. A wide use of rubber paving would demand a great increase in the supply of raw material.

BOYS STOLE CRUTCHES.

The mystery of an artificial leg and a pair of crutches which were found on the bank of one of the Highgate ponds, London, England, has been solved. Police dragged the pond, but with no success. Later, however, they came upon a legless man lying helpless under some bushes in the neighborhood. He said that while he was washing in the pond some boys ran away with the leg and crutches. He managed to crawl to the hedge, where he had to remain all night. At the police station the man's property was restored to him.

The hour of adversity seems to contain more than sixty minutes

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Cresch, Props.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 28, '11

ELECTION ECHOES

Three Hurons.

The line fence remains.

Canada for the Canadians.

Great was the slaughter.

Whoever dreamed of such a thing.

Has anybody heard from J. J. Hill?

Taft says,—"I am greatly disappointed"

Merner turned Hay Township upside down.

Canada has declared herself to be a nation.

It was a great day for Canadians and should be remembered.

Canada certainly had a landslide, and the snowfall was heavy.

And William Lyon Mackenzie King went down with the rest.

The "free" Globes have now ceased to arrive in the daily mail.

The people have said,—"Uncle Sam, keep your hands off Canada."

The Goderich Signal is already beginning to sympathize with Mr. Borden.

South Oxford goes Conservative for the first time since Confederation.

Remember that thousands of Liberals voted against Reciprocity, but not many in Exeter.

Fielding and Paterson lost. Taft and Knox next. And Reciprocity the cause of it all.

If a referendum had been taken on Reciprocity it would have been defeated by 5 to 1.

Miss Canada has decided that she is too big to play with the Reciprocity doll any longer.

Many a Liberal who voted for Laurier has since stated that they did not favor Reciprocity.

After all, it was not kind to doubt that Canadians would rise to the importance of the occasion.

Even that wonderful thing, called Reciprocity, could not save a Government that was riding to a fall.

Rev. D. W. Collins preaches Harvest Thanksgiving services in St. Paul's church, Thedford, on Sunday next.

Seven or eight Cabinet Ministers lost their seats, and still there are those who say that it does not hardly seem enough.

The expressions of thankfulness from some Liberal newspapers that Borden has a majority without the Nationalists is very touching.

Dr. Macdonald of the Globe claims to have been the originator of the Reciprocity Pact. However, it was before, not after the election, that he made the claim.

Ontario, British Columbia and Manitoba were strong against the pact, Saskatchewan and Alberta for it, Quebec is no longer solidly Liberal, while the Maritime Provinces are not far from equal.

FORGET THE STRIFE

The Dominion Elections are over, and the people will settle down to business. The campaign just closed has been a warm one, waged with a great deal of earnest zeal, and there were a great many surprises on both sides, after the ballots had been counted. Now that the smoke and dust of the battle are clearing away, it is meet that we should promptly lay aside all uncharitableness and endeavor by every means in our power to obliterate the bitterness that may have been engendered in the strife. We have to live on and probably next neighbors with people who differed with us in the campaign. But let us forget the strife, settle down to work, and help make this grand old Canada of ours happier and more prosperous than it has ever been. Of course, if there was wrongdoing in the election, and we are informed there has been, and that too locally, let the wrongdoers be punished summarily. We must have pure elections at all cost.

GRAND BEND.

Jas. Brophey of Greenway visited at Ed. Gill Tuesday.—Mr. Rennie Ravelle moved to Brewster Wednesday.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Sharrow are visiting in Detroit.—Mrs. Wm. Oliver, who has been in London Hospital arrived home Monday.—The election is over and the weather seems quite cool since.—Miss Everason who has been visiting at Mrs. Wm. Paterson's returned to her home in St. Thomas.—Miss Gladys Patterson is visiting in Port Huron.

Thin Hair on Top

If Parisian Sage, the hair grower that W. S. Cole guarantees, will not cause hair to grow where the hair is thinning soul, nothing on this earth will.

And we say to everybody, you can have your money back if Parisian Sage isn't the best hair grower, hair saver, hair beautifier and dandruff cure on the market to-day.

It stops itching scalp and falling hair and makes hair grow thick and abundantly, or money back. 50 cents for a large bottle. Parisian Sage makes the hair soft and brilliant and promotes growth.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK STATE.

Wilson, N. Y., Sept. 14.

To the Editors,—

Dear Sirs—I thought I would like to let you know how I am getting along in New York State. I am working for R. S. Lang, and into the apples with both feet. I have bought about 4000 barrels in three days. I was here about two weeks before I bought a barrel. The farmers put up all kinds of games to try to boost the price. Last year we paid here $3.00 a barrel, this year from $2 to $2.50, which means apples already packed, and delivered free on board cars. The farmers sent a man around offering $2.75, but it will not work on us, as R. S. understood the situation, and they are coming our way now. I would like to send a carload into Exeter and let the farmers see the kind of fruit that is grown here. There are enough apples within a radius of six miles to fill Exeter Main street from Leathorn's to Will Levett's, two storeys deep. We are sending over 20 cars into Manitoba. The duty is 40c a barrel, but they tell me the Americans are going to give a special rate this fall. If the Reciprocity Deal goes through the farmers of Canada might as well cut down their old orchards, because they cannot compete with the fruit that is grown here. I do not wonder at R.S. coming here to buy apples as the farmers buy their own barrels, and we have no bother looking after them. Also there are not nearly as many varieties of apples here. In Canada I have seen three varieties put in one barrel. Yesterday I bought an orchard having 200 barrels of snows, and another having 200 barrels of Kings, so you see it is more pleasant buying here. The barrels here are made of flour barrel stock, much better than ours, and only cost the farmer 37c. I am in the best of health There is only one hotel in this town. They charge $2 a day, but give good accommodation. Thanking you for the space I will close, but I think you had better send me your paper as I like to get the home news.

Yours truly,

William Stewart.

CREDITON.

The election is over. The result in the Dominion was a surprise to both Conservatives and Liberals. Here in town the day and evening passed off quietly. The disappointed ones went home early and tried to figure it out. The morning after election "Betsy" was brought out to visit places of interest in town. The auto was fully decorated with placards informing people that "Hard Times and Reciprocity" were defeated and that "Borden" was elected.

Mrs. E. B. Scott of Philadelphia spent a few days in town visiting her sister, Mrs. Sarah Bertrand, and other relatives.

Mrs. Fred Cawley returned to Detroit Monday after a few weeks' visit here with her parents.

Harry F. Elber returned to resume his work in Hamilton on Monday.

Geo. Elber and Nelson Shenk who have been fire ranging on the T. & N.O. Railway in New Ontario, the past season returned home last Wednesday.

Next Sunday the special Anniversary services will be held in the Methodist church. Rev. R. W. Knowles, B.A., of St. Thomas, a former pastor of the church here, will occupy the pulpit morning and evening. Rev. Knowles has many friends here who will be glad to have the opportunity to hear him speak again. On Monday evening a program will be rendered. Several speakers will be present and special music will be rendered by the choir.

Mrs. Hugh Girvin of Lucknow is visiting her daughter Mrs. Herb. Elber for a few days.

Arthur Holtzman has returned to Naperville, Ill., to continue his studies in The Northwestern College.

George Lawson has bought the house formerly occupied by Dr. McCue. Jas. Lawson will move into the house occupied by his father this week and Joseph Dauncey into the one he bought from James Lawson.

Alonzo Hodgins is superintending the job of putting in the concrete abutments for Ford's Bridge on the 2nd con. The concrete abutments of Halst's bridge have been completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Elber attended the wedding of Mr. Anson Girvin of Saskatoon, Sask., to Miss Gertrude Isaac in St. Catharines on Wednesday.

Mr. Samuel Kuhn has commenced to do his fall ploughing and other necessary work on the farm he bought, and which is at present occupied by Edward Short

Mr. Fred Kerr attended the funeral of the daughter of Mr. Geo. Down at Grand Bend on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Treller of Detroit are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Elber.

Last Friday evening the Ladies Aid of the Evangelical Church gave a Fowl Supper in the new church sheds. The weather left nothing to be desired and a large number of people were present, the number being estimated at about 700 The ladies did their best to make the supper a success and many a word of praise is heard from those who attended that it was the best fowl supper given in any locality for a long time. The ice-cream booth in charge of Ezra Faist did a big business. After the supper an excellent program was given in the church. Special mention must be made of the male quartette. It was fine and the selections stand repeating. Addresses were given by Rev. Brown of Zurich, Rev. Grenzebach of Dashwood, and Rev. Hicks of the Methodist church here. Rev. E. Burn, the local pastor, delighted the large audience with a selection of Swiss Yodeling. The net proceeds of the supper amounted to $250.

CLANDEBOYE

Thos. Hennessey is improving from his illness.—Percy Simpson and wife returned from their honeymoon and are residing at Mooresville.—Percy Bice of London has moved to his farm on the 2nd of McGillivray.—Miss Cassie Patton has returned to Cleveland.—No services are to be held in St. James while it is being repaired.—E. Collins has returned from a trip west.—W. F. Abbott is leaving for the west this week where he is shipping a load of honey.

Mr. Thos. Collins has lately been engaged painting the corner and spires on the top of a two story house. He has to go up a set of ladders the one standing on the platform on the top of a two story house in order to do such his work a rather dangerous undertaking for a man of his years, I should say. It is wonderful what he can do anyway.

LINCOLN'S QUESTION.

It Stilled the Storm of Applause For His Opponent, Douglas.

Professor James T. McLeary of Mankato, Minn., who for fourteen years represented a district of his state in congress, told this Lincoln story:

"A friend of mine told me that when a boy he attended with his father one of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates in Illinois. My friend's father was a Lincoln man, but the place in which that particular debate took place was a Douglas stronghold.

"Douglas spoke first, and he was frequently interrupted by vociferous applause. The cheering and the hand-clapping at the end lasted four or five minutes. When Lincoln was introduced the crowd broke out into cheers for Douglas and kept it up for several minutes. Lincoln meanwhile waited patiently.

"When at length the enthusiasm had subsided Lincoln extended his long right arm for silence. When he had partly got this he said in an impressive tone, 'What an orator Judge Douglas is!'

"This unexpected tribute to their friend set the audience wild with enthusiasm. When this applause had run its course Lincoln, extending his hand again, this time obtained silence more easily.

"'What a fine presence Judge Douglas has!' exclaimed the speaker earnestly. Again tumultuous applause followed the tribute.

"'How well rounded his sentences are! How well chosen his language is! How apt his illustrations are!' ending up with, 'What a splendid man Judge Douglas is!'

"Then when the audience had again become silent at his call Lincoln leaned forward and said:

"'And now, my countrymen, how many of you can tell me one thing Judge Douglas said?'

"My friend told me he searched his own heart for an answer and found none. Afterward he asked his father if he could remember anything Judge Douglas had said, and the latter remembered practically nothing. 'But,' my friend said to me impressively, 'even now, half a century later, I can recall practically all that Lincoln said.'"—Exchange.

THE USE OF ARSENIC.

How the Poison Acts When Taken as a Complexion Beautifier.

"You no doubt have observed the lily white complexion of some women. These women are sacrificing years of their lives for that beautiful skin by the use of arsenic," said a chemist of Manchester, England.

"It is a well known fact that thousands of women in all countries of the world use the poison in small quantities to bleach their skin. It is an effective means of whitening and clearing the complexion, but the complexion given by its use has no permanency unless the absorption of the drug be continued.

"Arsenic, as science has long told us, is an accumulative poison. When one takes it either by prescription for the upbuilding of an appetite or for the bleaching of the skin he does not feel any ill effects for several years. The effect of the drug is bracing and makes a person feel like eating. It also aids the digestion. The average user of the poison takes it in such small quantities that he does not realize how much of it will accumulate in his system in the course of four or five years.

"Being an accumulative poison, it often takes that length of time to see the results of the drug. Then the user may complain of not being able to control his fingers or toes. Subsequently he loses control of his hands and arms. Paralysis, superinduced by arsenical poisoning, is the fearful result.—Washington Post.

That Was Enough.

They were talking about the nosey women who knew everybody in the middle of the block.

"Apparently she's got it in for those people who moved away from 85 last week," said he. "What did they do to her?"

"Nothing," said she, "except to borrow her opera glasses the day before they moved and keep them till the day after, so she couldn't get a chance to train them on their back room furniture."—New York Times.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box V. 840, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment with full instructions. Send no money but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Auction Sale

VILLAGE LOTS FOR SALE.

The undersigned auctioneer has been instructed to sell by public auction on the premises, Victoria Street, Exeter, on SATURDAY, OCTOBER 7th, 1911

At 2 o'clock p.m., the following village property, viz,—Lots 40 to 43 inclusive, situated on Victoria street, east of Public School, and containing by admeasurement four acres, more or less. These lots will be sold separately, or in bulk to suit purchaser. This is an excellent property and well situated. There is on the premises a large number of choice fruit trees. Terms of sale made known on day of sale. For further particulars apply to the proprietor.

J. W. Taylor, Prop. T. B. Carling, Auct.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

Take Hall's family pills for constipation.

ELIMVILLE

Death—The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. John W. Heywood in the sad death of their little daughter, Thelda Thelma, at the age of 1 year, 5 months, and 12 days. The little one's death was due to diarrhoea and convulsions. The funeral took place to the Elimville cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

STAFFA—The Annual Harvest Festival services of Grace Church, Staffa, will be held on Sunday next, Oct. 1, when the Rev. J. Carlton W. Cracken of Ilderton will preach both morning and evening and at St. Paul's church, Hensall at 8. p.m.

No Appetite

THIS REMEDY WILL RESTORE IT.

If you have no appetite for meals, can't work, can't rest and are annoyed with too frequent urination and a burning, scalding pain in making passages.

If at night you retire, hoping for sleep that either does not come, or is troubled and fitful, you have kidney trouble and need Booth's Kidney Pills the guaranteed remedy for all kidney and bladder trouble. A few doses of Booth's Kidney Pills will wake up the sluggish kidneys and regulate the urine. Continued treatment will cure and heal the weakened kidneys and restore the appetite in the natural way. Sold everywhere 50 cents box, or postpaid from The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Free trial sent on application.

Booth's Kidney Pills

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

Westervelt School

Y. M. C. A. BLDG.
LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal. 15

Canada's Double Track Line

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

LOW RATE EXCURSIONS TO

NEW ONTARIO

SEPTEMBER 30th

From Stations in Ontario, Kingston, Madawaska and West
Madawaska and West
To Stations on T. and N. O. Ry., Haileybury and North

Tickets will be issued at rate of ONE CENT PER MILE EACH WAY
Return Limit, Oct. 10, 1911.

"COBALT SPECIAL" leaves Toronto 8.30 p. m. daily, carrying through Coaches.

COLONIST EXCURSIONS—To Spokane, Wash.; Nelson, B.C.; Vancouver B.C.; Westminster, B.C.; Seattle, Wh. Tacoma, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Cal. and Mexico City at very low rates
SEPT 15th to OCT. 15th.

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. S. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

MONEY ORDERS

The Money Orders of The Canadian Bank of Commerce are a safe, convenient and economical method of remitting small sums of money. They are payable without charge at every branch of a chartered bank in Canada (except in the Yukon Territory) and in the principal cities of the United States.

The Orders and full information regarding them may be obtained on application at the Bank.

In the event of loss of a Money Order the Bank will, on receipt of a satisfactory guarantee, make arrangements to refund the amount of the lost Order. A232

Exeter Branch—W. H. Collins, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up)	-	$4,000,000
Rest Fund - -	-	$4,400,000
Total Assets Over	-	$44,000,000

Has 78 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at al Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

The Public Schools

ARE WELL STARTED NOW

And how about your School Supplies

SCRIBBLERS.—
The regular 5c. scribblers, plain or ruled. 7 for 25c.

LEAD PENCILS.—
The famous regalia pencil, worth 2 for 5c. reduced price 10c. a doz.

PAINTS.—
Water colors in neat boxes 5c. to 25c. crayons 1c. to 10c. a box.

INKS.—
Stafford's and Underwood's Black and Blue Black Inks, 3oz bottles for 5c.

SLATES.—
The famous German proof slate, wire edge or bound 5c. to 14c.

DICTIONARIES.—
Collins large type pronouncing dictionaries at 15c.

It will pay you to pay us a visit. We are in a position to save you money, and we do it.

S. Martin & Son, Exeter

Made It Lean.

Teacher—Now, Harold, can you tell me what made the tower of Pisa lean? Harold—I guess there must have been a famine in the land.—Exchange.

CENTRAL Business College

STRATFORD, ONT.

Our registration greatly exceeds that of previous years. Why? Our school is the best of its kind in the west, best in courses given, best in teachers employed and best in assisting graduates to positions. Our graduates are in demand. Business men state that they are the best. In the past three years we had eleven applications for help that we could not supply. We have three departments, Commercial, Shorthand and Telegraphy. Get our free catalogue. Commence your course at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials, Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Canadian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by

Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver

ard is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. E. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto Univeristy.
DENTIST,
teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects. Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street, Exeter.

Medical

R. R. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years resident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew reet, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITors, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates o nterest
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
R. Carling, B.A., L. H. Dickson

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter, Ont.

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies.
Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Ellber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St Thomas Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

ELLIOTT Business College
TORONTO, ONT., is recognized as "CANADA'S HIGH-CLASS COMMERCIAL SCHOOL." The instruction is absolutely first-class. Write to-day for our catalogue. Enter now.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.
We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.
Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned.
Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Elimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

Northwest Lands.

Unimproved Lands in Saskatchewan and Alberta for sale.
Railway fare refunded to purchasers.
MONEY TO LOAN.
ERNEST ELLIOT,
Office opposite Central Hotel, Exeter.

That furnace means comfort for you and more sales for me

Successful dealers talk to their customers in just that way about the

SOUVENIR FURNACE
(New Idea Series)

Every sale brings others because the Souvenir pleases.
The Souvenir is built different—built simply, because scientifically. The firepot cannot leak gas; dust cannot get into the diffusing chamber; the hot air is forced to every room just at the temperature you want it; the grate prevents any clinker trouble.
The Souvenir means a saving of 25% to 50% in fuel consumption. Your name on a postal will bring our new booklet.
The Souvenir Furnace is made in Hamilton, the stove centre of Canada, by

Every buyer of a Souvenir Furnace is presented with a legal bond on date of purchase, guaranteeing firepot against cracks or breaks of any kind for 5 years.

THE HAMILTON STOVE & HEATER CO., Limited
Successors to Gurney-Tilden Co. 12

For Sale by W. J. Heaman

Two Mills Using Same Quality of Wheat May Not Produce Same Quality of Flour

The quality of flour largely depends on the milling. Two mills might grind wheat of the same quality and the product of one far outclass the other. It is not only the high quality of the hard wheat used, but also the superior milling facilities, that places "PURITY" flour so far above all others. Our milling plant at St. Boniface, Manitoba, cost nearly $1,000,000, and is one of the most perfectly equipped mills in the world. The wheat itself is subjected to the most wonderful system of cleaning and scouring, passing through twenty distinct machines. Fifty-five steel rollers, the largest in Canada, reduce the wheat into flour. Then it is purified and dressed by "bolting" it through silk sifters of fine mesh. Not a "branny" particle or speck of dust is ever found in "Purity" Flour.

You may have to pay a little more for Purity, but baking results, quality and quantity, prove it is worth far more than the slight difference.

We have two other modernly equipped mills at Brandon, Man., and Goderich, Ont.

PURITY FLOUR

"More Bread and Better Bread."

Western Canada Flour Mills Co., Limited.
MILLS AT WINNIPEG, GODERICH, BRANDON

Sold by R. G. Seldon

The Grand Trunk Railway System has in course of construction at the Turcot Works of Canada Car and Foundry Co. 1000 steel underframe box cars, delivery will be commenced about Oct. 1st., and the whole consignment will be completed this year. These cars are of 60,000 lbs. capacity, and incorporate all latest improvements in car construction.

DWELLING AND LAND FOR SALE.

That desirable property situated in Exeter, on the corner of William and Victoria streets, being one-half acre of land. There is on the premises a good frame house, with kitchen and woodshed, hard and soft water and a number of fruit trees. Will sell half of land separately. Price reasonable. Apply to Mr. Peter Bawden, Exeter, opposite English church.

FARM WANTED TO RENT—50 acre farm with the usual buildings. Any person having such will leave application at this office.

FOR SALE

One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass except 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

HOUSE FOR SALE

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable property on William st. being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, to-gether with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

ZURICH.

Alex. McLeod of Toronto former principal of the public school here was in town last week.—Mrs. Ben Surerus of 14th Con., left for Detroit to attend the funeral of her grandson.—Mrs. Jos. Smith of Crosswell, Mich., visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. O'Brien. —Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kalbfleisch mourn the death of one of their children a boy about nine years of age. Diphtheria was the cause of death.—A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Geiger of Hay, on September 13th, when their eldest daughter, Miss Erma, was married to Mr. John Gascho one of the successful business men of Zurich. The bride was given away by her father, Miss Leona Geiger, sister of the bride, acted as flower girl and ring bearer. Miss Alberta Geiger played the wedding march. They will reside in Zurich.—Mr. Louis Jeffrey has resigned as foreman of F. C. Kalbfleisch's flax mill and John Albrecht has taken the position.—Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Merner, Miss Lillie Merner and Mr. Wes Merner of Elmira visited here last week.—Miss Mosseau of the Sauble line, was severely shocked by a stroke of lightning last week.—Mr. Moses Gascho had an accident on Sunday which will lay him up for a few weeks. He was driving and in some manner lost control of the spirited horse, and in a jiffy Mose landed on the hard road. He received a badly sprained ankle and some minor bruises. The horse ran for a mile or so when it was caught without doing any further damage.

HENSALL

Ed. McLean went to Grand Valley on Tuesday.—Miss Bessie Urquhart left for Toronto last week.—Amy Lammy and little sister left last week for Brantford Institute.—Mrs. McKay of Kippen has moved into one of the houses owned by Geo. Petty, sr., on Queen street.—Jno. and Russell Marshall left last week to resume their studies at Belleville.—Albert Whiteside has returned from his trip to Saskatchewan.—Mrs. James Elliott and little daughter of Vancouver, B. C. visited her sister, Mrs. T. Neelands and niece, Mrs. A. H. King this week.—Dr. Ben Blatchford of Portland, Oregon, who has been visiting relatives in Hensall and vicinity for a few weeks, has gone to visit in other parts of Ontario prior to starting for home.—Mr. Alex. Taylor, wife and child of Saskatoon, Sask., are spending a few days with friends in town.—

ONTARIO GAME LAWS—1911.

No person may hunt, take, kill or destroy;

Any grouse, pheasants, prairie fowl or partridge, except from the 15th of October to the 15 day of November, both days inclusive.

Any quail or wild turkeys, black and grey squirrels, except from the 15th, of November to the 1st day of December any year, both days inclusive.

Duck of all kinds or any other waterfowl except from the 15 day of September to the 15th day of December any year, both days inclusive.

Snipe, rail, plover or any other birds known as shore birds or waders, except from the 15th day of September to the 15 day of December in any year, both days inclusive.

Hares, except from the 1st day of October to the 15 day December in any year, both days inclusive.

Notwithstanding anything in this Act the wood hare or the cotton-tail rabbit may be taken or killed in any manner by the owner, occupant or lessee of any land upon which it can be proved to cause actual damage to trees or shrubs, or by any member of the family of such owners, occupant or lessee provided that any of these animals killed under this sub-section shall be handed over to the nearest officer of the department for the distribution to charitable institutions.

We Told You So!
LABATT'S LAGER
Now Perfected—The Best on the Market!
TRY IT
John Labatt, Ltd.
LONDON, ONT

TUCKERSMITH—While returning from Hensall to his home on the first Con. of Tuckersmith on Tuesday of last week, Mr. David W. Cooper fell from a load of logs on his wagon and alight ing on his head sustained a fracture of the skull. The injury was of so severe and dangerous a nature that he was at once brought to Clinton Hospital for treatment but he did not regain consciousness and died on Saturday. The remains were taken to his late home on Monday, and the funeral took place to Baird's cemetery.

GODERICH—William Andrews, a well-known resident of Goderich, was instantly killed at Hamlink's evaporator on Sept. 20th, when unloading barrels. He fell off the load and the wheels crushed his head, killing him almost instantly. Wilmer Smith, a well-known art dealer, was found dead in his store on Thursday morning last.

This Little Crank In Your Kitchen

Saves 20% on Coal

It is a wonderful patent device, the Oxford Economizer, and is licensed for use only on

STOVES and RANGES

This marvellous regulator keeps the oven at a given temperature. No heat is wasted—nothing goes up the flue but bad odors, steam and smoke. The fire is held for hours without attention—ready for immediate use—and all this labor, time and fuel saved by simply turning the crank.

With the Divided Oven Flue Strip you have even baking, because of the perfect distribution of heat, secured by this expert arrangement.

The Reversible Grate is provided with strong, interlocking teeth that reduce coals to ashes by a single turn. In appearance, in details of finish and design the Chancellor is an ornament as well as a necessity in any kitchen.

The Range here represented and other Gurney-Oxfords of every sort for every purpose, displayed on our floor.

SPECIAL DEMONSTRATION NOW

W. J. Heaman, Agent.

"Listen, Rose."
Bud reads:
"Madam, your own white hands are the first to touch FIVE ROSES.
"For nearly one mile it travels through "hygienic automatic processes—more "and more spotless.
"Till in a clear creamy stream it flows into "clean new packages, filled full-weight by "infallible machinery—sewed automatically."
"Goodness!" said round-eyed Rose.
Bud reads eagerly:
"Hand-proof, germ-proof. Every littlest "bit of machinery is bright—polished like "those piano keys of yours. FIVE ROSES is "healthy flour, wholesome, none like it. "Unbleached, too."
"Nobody touches my flour—but me" said Rose.
Imagine such purity—get FIVE ROSES. 11

Five Roses Flour

Not Bleached — Not Blended

LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, LIMITED MONTREAL

The Worlds Standard for tea is
LIPTON'S TEA
OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

THE GOVERNMENT DEFEATED

Seven Members of the Laurier Cabinet Overthrown at the Polls.

BORDEN'S MAJORITY IS FORTY-NINE

CONSERVATIVES ELECTED

Ontario—73.

	Majority
ALGOMA EAST—Smyth	64
ALGOMA WEST—Boyce	500
BRANT—Fisher	200
BRANTFORD—Cockshutt	700
BROCKVILLE—Webster	125
BRUCE NORTH—Clark	92
BRUCE SOUTH—Donnelly	105
CARLETON—Kidd	1,000
DUFFERIN—Best	1,000
DUNDAS—Broder	675
DURHAM—Thornton	617
ELGIN EAST—Marshall	400
ELGIN WEST—Crothers	836
ESSEX NORTH—Wilcox	250
FRONTENAC—Edwards	400
GRENVILLE—Reid	1,200
GREY EAST—Sproule	1,200
GREY NORTH—Middleboro	150
GREY SOUTH—Ball	17
HALDIMAND—Lalor	500
HALTON—Henderson	600
HAMILTON EAST—Barker	1,500
HAMILTON WEST—Stewart
HASTINGS EAST—Northrup	1,000
HASTINGS WEST—Porter	1,200
HURON EAST—Bowman	137
HURON SOUTH—Merner	300
HURON WEST—Lewis	160
KINGSTON—Nickle	345
LAMBTON EAST—Armstrong	375
LANARK NORTH—Thoburn	155
LANARK SOUTH—Haggart	1,000
LEEDS—Taylor	1,100
LENNOX AND ADDINGTON—Paul	200
LINCOLN—Lancaster	1,200
LONDON—Beaty	1,898
MIDDLESEX EAST—Elson	651
MIDDLESEX NORTH—Elliott	360
MUSKOKA—Wright	600
NIPISSING—Gordon	100
NORTHUMBERLAND EAST—Walker	350
NORTHUMBERLAND WEST—Munson	4
ONTARIO NORTH—Sharpe	590
ONTARIO SOUTH—Smith	56
OTTAWA—Fripp	1,112
OTTAWA—Chabot	641
OXFORD, S.—Sutherland	6
PARRY SOUND—Arthurs	400
PEEL—Blain	250
PERTH, NORTH—Morphy	250
PERTH, SOUTH—Steele	71
PETERBORO, E.—Seysmith	600
PETERBORO, W.—Burnham	85
PRINCE EDWARD—Hepburn	250
RENFREW, NORTH—White	600
SIMCOE, EAST—Bennett	800
SIMCOE, NORTH—Currie	200
SIMCOE, SOUTH—Lennox	1,800
STORMONT—Alguire	120
TORONTO, CENTRE—Bristol	2,124
TORONTO, EAST—Kemp	2,389
TORONTO, NORTH—Foster	3,042
TORONTO, SOUTH—Macdonell	2,323
TORONTO, WEST—Osler	8,096
VICTORIA AND HALIBURTON—Hughes	1,000
WATERLOO, N.—Weichel	470
WATERLOO, S.—Clare	650
WELLAND—German (Ind.)	accl.
WELLINGTON, N.—Clarke	60
WENTWORTH—Wilson	800
YORK, CENTRE—Wallace	448
YORK, NORTH—Armstrong	76
YORK, SOUTH—Maclean	2,400

Quebec—22.

ARGENTEUIL—Perley	550
BERTHIER—Barrette	13
BROME—Baker	24
CHAMBLAY VERCHERES—Rainville	77
CHAMPLAIN—Blondin	49
CHARLEVOIX—Forget	113
COMPTON—Cromwell	50
DORCHESTER—Sevigny	200
HOCHELAGA—Cederre	100
JACQUES CARTIER—Monk	900
JOLIETTE—Guilbault	36
LABELLE—Achim	250
L'ISLET—Paquet	440
MONTMAGNY—Lesperance	250
MONTMORENCY—Forget	54
MONTREAL—
Ste. Anne—Doherty	652
St. Antoine—Ames	2,000
PONTIAC—Brabazon	743
COUNTY—Pelletier	300
SHEFFORD—Davidson	100
TERREBONNE—Nantel	110
THREE RIVERS—Normand	200

New Brunswick—5.

CHARLOTTE—Hart	136
KENT—Robideaux	200
KING'S-ALBERT—Fowler	100
ST. JOHN CITY AND COUNTY—Daniel	43
YORK—Crockett	1,000

British Columbia—7.

COMOX-ATLIN—Clements	84
KOOTENAY—Goodere	900
NANAIMO—Shepherd	700
NEW WESTMINSTER—Taylor	900
VANCOUVER—Stevens	2,000
VICTORIA—Barnard	240
YALE-CARIBOU—Burrell	800

Alberta—3.

CALGARY—Bennett	1,600
STRATHCONA—Douglas	400
VICTORIA—White	50

Manitoba—10

BRANDON—Aikins	350
DAUPHIN—Campbell	106
LISGAR—Sharpe	100
MACDONALD—Staples	300
MARQUETTE—Roche	500
PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE—Meighen	1,000
PROVENCHER—Bleau	200
SELKIRK—Bradbury	200
SOURIS—Schaffner	700
WINNIPEG—Haggart	4,000

Nova Scotia—8.

COLCHESTER—Stanfield	643
CUMBERLAND—Rhodes	[illegible]
DIGBY—Jamieson	272
HALIFAX (1)—Borden	4
HANTS—Tremaine	150
KING'S—Foster	227
LUNENBURG—Stewart	202
SHELBURNE-QUEEN'S—McCurdy	130

Prince Edward Island—2.

QUEEN'S—McLean	100
QUEEN'S—Nicholson	100

Saskatchewan—3.

PRINCE ALBERT—McKay	200
QU'APPELLE—Lake	400
SASKATOON—McLean	200

NATIONALISTS ELECTED—2.

YAMASKA—Moudon	80
RIMOUSKI—Laulay	200

LIBERALS ELECTED

Ontario—12.

ESSEX, SOUTH—Clarke	175
GLENGARRY—McMillan	300
KENT, EAST—Gordon	250
KENT, WEST—McCoig	45
LAMBTON, WEST—Pardee	250
MIDDLESEX, WEST—Ross	130
NORFOLK—Charlton	148
OXFORD, NORTH—Nesbitt	297
PRESCOTT—Proulx	800
RENFREW, SOUTH—Low	300
RUSSELL—Murphy	1,000
WELLINGTON, S.—Guthrie	612

Quebec—38.

BAGOT—Marcil	107
BEAUCE—Beland	3,000
BEAUHARNOIS—Papineau	36
BELLECHASSE—Talbot	119
BONAVENTURE—Marcil	1,200
CHATEAUGUAY—Brown	43
DRUMMOND AND ARTHABASKA—Brouillard	37
HUNTINGDON—Robb	50
KAMOURASKA—Lapointe	96
LAPRAIRIE AND NAPIERVILLE—Lanctot	152
L'ASSOMPTION—Seguin	300
LAVAL—Wilson	581
LEVIS—Bourassa	350
LOTBINIERE—Fortier	350
MAISONNEUVE—Verville	2,000
MASKINONGE—Mayrand	111
MEGANTIC—Pecaud	200
MISSISQUOI—Kay	25
MONTCALM—Lafortune	100
MONTREAL:—
ST. JAMES—Lapointe	337
ST. LAWRENCE—Bickerdike	1,000
ST. MARY'S—Martin	800
NICOLET—Turcotte	42
PORTNEUF—Delisle	700
QUEBEC, CENTRE—Lachance	161
QUEBEC, EAST—Laurier	accl.
RICHELIEU—Cardin	600
RICHMOND-WOLFE—Tobin	450
ROUVILLE—Lemieux	250
ST. HYACINTHE—Gauthier	120
ST. JOHN-IBERVILLE—Demers	2,000
SHERBROOKE—McCrea	124
SOULANGES—Laurier	200
STANSTEAD—Lovell	156
TEMISCOUATA—Gauvreau	400
TWO MOUNTAINS—Ethier	accl.
VAUDREUIL—Boyer	218
WRIGHT—Devlin	800

New Brunswick—8.

CARLETON—Carvell	2
GLOUCESTER—Turgeon	400
NORTHUMBERLAND—Loggie	600
RESTIGOUCHE—Reid	100
ST. JOHN CITY—Pugsley	64
SUNBURY-QUEEN'S—McLean	238
VICTORIA—MICHAUD	1,553

British Columbia—None.

Nova Scotia—13.

ANNAPOLIS—Pickup	23
ANTIGONISH—Chisholm	400
CAPE BRETON N. AND VICTORIA—McKenzie	40
CAPE BRETON, S.—Carrol	100
GUYSBORO—Sinclair	200
HALIFAX (2)—Blackadder	90
INVERNESS—Chisholm	1,200
PICTOU—Macdonald	250
RICHMOND—Kyte	100
YARMOUTH—Law	120

Prince Edward Island—2.

KING'S—Hughes	50
PRINCE—Richards	100

Manitoba—None.

Saskatchewan—7.

ASSINIBOIA—Turriff	200
BATTLEFORD—Champagne	1,000
HUMBOLDT—Neely	100
MACKENZIE—Cash	152
MOOSE JAW—Knowles	300
REGINA—Martin	100

MR. R. L. BORDEN, K. C.,

PREMIER-ELECT OF CANADA

SALTCOATS—McNutt	200
Alberta—6.
EDMONTON—Oliver	2,000
McLEOD—Warnock	130
MEDICINE HAT—Buchanan	200
RED DEER—(In doubt)—Clark
STRATHCONA—Douglas	400
VICTORIA—White	50

RESULT BY PROVINCES.

	Opposition.	Gov't.
Ontario	73	12
Quebec	24	39
Manitoba	10	0
British Columbia	7	0
Alberta	1	6
New Brunswick	5	8
Nova Scotia	8	10
Prince Edward Island	2	2
Saskatchewan	3	7
Total	133	84

Conservative Majority 49

Elections to be held—Chicoutimi and Gaspe, Quebec; the Yukon, and Rainy River, Ontario.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Sept. 26.—Flour—Winter wheat 90 per cent. patents, $3.50, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours firm, as follows:—First patents, $5.30; second patents, $4.80, and strong bakers', $4.60, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba Wheat—No. 1 nominal at $1.10, and No. 2 at $1.08 1-2, Bay ports. New wheat, 2c less.

Ontario Wheat—No. 2 white, red or mixed, new, 86c, outside.

Peas—Milling qualities, 93 to 95c, outside.

Oats—Ontario oats, old, No. 2 at 41 to 42c, and new at 40c, in car lots, outside. No. 2 Western Canada, 47c, and No. 3 46c, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 2 is probably worth 75c, outside.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow quoted at 71c, Bay ports.

Rye—Car lots outside, 75c west, and at 77c east.

Buckwheat—No. 2 at 54 to 55c, outside.

Bran—Manitoba bran $23.50 to $24, in bags, Toronto freight. Shorts, $25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked, $2.30 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2.25 to $2.50.

Baled Hay—No. 1 at $13 to $14 on track, and No. 2 at $10 to $11.

Baled straw—$6 to $6.50, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, quoted at $1.25 to $1.40.

Poultry—Chickens, 14c per lb; fowl, 11 to 12c; ducks, 13c; turkeys, 15 to 16c. Live poultry, about 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER, EGGS, CHEESE.

Butter—Dairy prints, 21 to 22c; inferior, 16 to 17c. Creamery quoted at 26 to 27c per lb. for rolls, and at 23 to 24c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid, 23 to 24c, and fresh at 20 to 21c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—Large quoted at 15c per lb., and twins at 15 1-4c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon—Long clear, 12 to 12 1-2c per lb., in case lots. Pork, short cut, $23; do., mess, $22 to $21. Hams, medium to light, 17 to 17 1-2c; do., heavy, 15 to 15 1-2c; rolls, 11 to 11 1-2c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; backs, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2c; tubs, 10 3-4c; pails, 11c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Oats — Canadian Western, No. 2, 47c, car lots ex store; extra No. 1, 46 1-2c; No. 3 C. W., 46c; No. 2 local white, 46c; No. 3 local white, 45 1-2c; No. 4 local white, 45c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; do., seconds, $4.90; Winter wheat patents, $4.75; strong bakers', $4.70; straight rollers, $4.25; do., in bags, $1.85 to $2. Rolled Oats—Per barrel, $5.25; bag of 90 lbs., $2.50. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23 to $24; Manitoba, $23; middlings, Ontario, $27 to $28; shorts, Manitoba, $25; mouillie, $26 to $32. Eggs—Selected, 24 to 25c; No. 1 stock, 20 to 22c. Cheese—Westerns, 15c; easterns, 14 1-2 to 14 5-8c. Butter—Choicest, 25 3-4 to 26c; seconds, 25 1-4 to 25 1-2c.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Choice Ontario steers sold at $5.75 to $5.85; good at $5.50 to $5.65; fairly good at $5.25 to $5.40; fair at $4.75 to $5; and common at $4.25 to $4.50; choice North-West steers sold at $5.50 to $5.65, and mixed carloads at $5.40 per cwt. A few heavy bulls brought $3.25 to $4; light at $2.50 to $3; choice cows at $4.60 to $4.75; good at $4.25 to $4.50, and the lower grades at $2.25 to $4 per cwt. Lambs sold at $5.50 to $5.75, and sheep at $3.50 to $3.75 per cwt. A fairly good trade was done in hogs, and prices were steady at the recent decline, with sales of selected lots at $7 to $7.25, and heavy fats at $6 to $6.25 per cwt., weighed off cars. Calves sold at from $3 to $10 each, as to size and quality.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Buffalo, Sept. 26.—Spring wheat—No. 1 Northern, carloads store, $1.06 1-4; Winter quiet. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 72c; No. 4 yellow, 70 1-4c; No. 3 corn, 70c, on track, through billed. Oats—No. 2, white, 47 3-4c; No. 3 white, 47c; No. 4 white, 46c. Barley—Malting, $1.14 to $1.20. Rye—No. 2, on track, 97c.

Minneapolis, Sept. 26.—Wheat—September, $1.02 1-2; December, $1.03 1-2; May, $1.07 3-8; No. 1 hard, $1.03; No. 1 Northern, $1.03 1-2 to $1.04 1-2; No. 2 Northern, 99 1-2c to $1.02 1-2; No. 3 wheat, 95 1-2 to 99 1-2c. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 64 1-2 to 65c. Oats—No. 3 white, 43 1-2c. Rye—No. 2, 85 to 85 1-2c. Bran—$21.50 to $22. Flour—First patents, $4.90 to $5.15; do., seconds, $4.40 to $4.65; first clears, $3.35 to $3.75; do., seconds, $2.25 to $2.60.

ELECTRICITY ON THE FARM.

A Satisfactory Test in West Oxford.

A despatch from Ingersoll, says;—A highly satisfactory test with Hydro-electric power was made on the farm of Mr. John Prouse, West Oxford, when a large number gathered to witness the process of silo-filling by the aid of the current. Among those in attendance was Hon. Adam Beck, Chairman of the Hydro-electric Commission, the Ingersoll Power & Light Commissioners, and a number of representative farmers. Mr. Prouse has installed an equipment which is being operated by Niagara power, and which worked very satisfactorily in Friday's test. Mr. Prouse has had his residence wired, as well as his barns and out-buildings, even to the milk-house, probably being the first farmer in western Ontario to adopt the "white coal" for agricultural purposes.

BRANTFORD'S RINK BURNED.

Large Arena and Two Adjoining Houses Burned.

A despatch from Brantford, says;—Brantford's Skating Arena on Waterloo street, the largest of its kind in western Ontario, caught fire at 7.15 on Thursday morning, and within ten minutes was a roaring mass of flames and smoke, the fire spreading to a dozen houses adjoining, two of which were entirely destroyed and a half dozen others badly scorched. The firemen were for some time utterly unable to control the flames, which spread in four directions from the very hot blaze which the big wooden structure made. In addition, two frame barns within the block also were destroyed. Early reports of the damage place the loss at $15,000, partially covered by insurance.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

SHOWING THAT 80 PER CENT. OF SPECULATORS LOSE MONEY.

A Further Digression from the Subject of Pure Investment to Give Some Interesting Facts on Speculation—The Best Advice to Prospective Speculators is Don't.

(By Investor.)

In the last issue we saw in what points speculation differed from investments. The practical difference between investment, it was seen, was largely one in chance of gain, whereas the investor almost always insists on great safety at the expense of probability of largely increased value of his holdings, the speculator sacrifices everything to his chance of profit—or loss.

Now, unfortunately, many speculators find that the old proverb, "Distance lends enchantment," equally applicable to speculation, and, therefore, dabble in the New York market. As a matter of actual experience, in the long run it is quite as profitable—and probably less expensive—to put your money on a horse race. You probably know something about horses. You can never know enough about the New York market to make it worth while. The writer has been a number of years in the stock business before taking to the more modest but less nerve-racking business of writing and can speak with some authority. But, of course, the reader will not accept such a bold statement without some good reasons being advanced.

Quite recently, a New York broker carefully analyzed a large number of accounts on his books and discovered, much to his surprise, that eight out of every ten of his clients lost money; eighty per cent. of speculators eventually lose, is what he learned.

"Yet," you say, "Morgan and Rockefeller often make a million dollar 'clean up,' and why couldn't the small speculator make a few dollars?" Unquestionably, if the small speculator knew what Mr. Morgan was doing in the stock market he could make money and "big" money, too. But that is the whole difficulty. The game is to guess what Morgan, or some one else, is doing—and your guess is as good as mine. Mr. Morgan is either going to put prices up or down—or he is leaving them to the will of natural conditions. There is the old shell game of the country fair to the life. The pea is under one of the shells—or between two of the operator's fingers.

But even if you guess what one group of New York's financial giants want to do you may find you lose because another and stronger group want to do the opposite, and the upper and nether mill-stones grind your margins out of your pocket until you give up in despair—perhaps to see that your judgment is right and that had you had the ability to "stay by the game" you might have won out.

Then, suppose Mr. Morgan and all others were not influencing the market, you have to judge how general conditions, money markets in London, New York and France are going to affect things; what the crops will be; how industries are doing. You may judge correctly to find—as at present—France and Germany at each others throats, and the market collapsing through fear of the effects on business of a war. Verily 80 per cent of losers is surprisingly low; and remember: of the 20 per cent. of those who don't lose are those who know what is going on—directors who take advantage of advance knowledge, managers familiar with the businesses in which they happen to speculate and some of their friends.

If you must speculate, therefore, remember the political slogan, "Canada for the Canadians." Here things are not on the same scale as in New York. Canada is a growing country, her industries are growing, and her companies held in respect. So far we have suffered from trade depressions only slightly in comparison with the States. And, last and by far the most important, YOU ARE ON THE SPOT. You can, if occasion demands, go to the office of the companies in whose shares you wish to speculate and find out for yourself, perhaps, what the prospects are. Or your broker may know from first hand information. In short, your chances are better.

But in speculating, this should be borne in mind. Remember that the smaller the margin the greater the risk. A two per cent. margin is only accepted by "bucket-shops" who can only make money if you lose. Legitimate brokers will not do business on a less than ten point margin, and very few even at that. Twenty points is fairly safe, but only within the past few months, one popular Canadian stock has dropped 12 points, and C. P. R. over 25. Therefore, when you speculate do so on a substantial margin and be prepared to back up your first margin with more; otherwise, although your judgment may be correct in the long run, you may never have a chance to give it a fair test—you may be forced to sell on some unexpected drop due to conditions which no one could foresee, and whose effect would be merely temporary. However, the best advice to those who are thinking of speculating is this: "Don't."

$32,000 REWARD OFFERED.

Discovery of Bank Looters Will Enrich Some One.

A despatch from Vancouver, B. C., says: Upon instructions from the head office of the Bank of Montreal, it is announced here that the reward in connection with the robbery at the New Westminster branch has been increased to a total of $32,000, $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators, and 10 per cent. of the sum returned. The total sum stolen was $272,000. If all is recovered, the lucky detectives will divide $27,000 in addition to the $5,000.

HELD AS SPIES.

Two English Army Officers Under Arrest in Prussia.

A despatch from Emden, Prussia, says: Two Englishmen, stated to be officers of the British army, are detained here because of the suspicion that they have been guilty of espionage. The men were arrested on Tuesday and released after examination. They were again taken into custody on Wednesday upon orders from Berlin.

CRUISER'S GUN EXPLODED.

Fourteen People Killed on Board the Gloire.

A despatch from Toulon France, says: Fourteen persons were killed by the explosion of a gun on board the armored cruiser Gloire during gunnery practice here on Wednesday. The Gloire is of 1,000 tons displacement and has a speed of 21 knots.

GREAT UPHEAVAL IN SPAIN

Strikes Are Spreading, and Numerous Arrests Have Been Made.

A despatch from Madrid says: The Government, acting under the Royal decree of Tuesday suspending the constitutional guarantees because of revolutionary activity, has ordered the arrest of working men's committees and political agitators in the disturbed districts. Three hundred persons were imprisoned in this city on Wednesday night. Among those arrested here was Senor Largo Caballero, general counsel for and Vice-President of the General Union of Labor. His offices were closed. The military has taken into its keeping arms and munitions of every description which were on sale. At Barcelona 158 persons were apprehended and many were taken into custody at Bilbao, Seville, Valencia and Saragossa. The revolutionaries apparently are still in possession of Jativa, toward which troops are marching from Valencia. At Jativa and Carcagente rioters set fire to the public buildings and tore up the railway tracks. There has been trouble at Amurrio

EVERY-DAY FORESTRY. ..

What Four English Tramps Did in One Hour.

Animated by love for the beautiful oaks of England, Mr. Charles Hurst started from Manchester on a famous planting walk which he has commemorated most charmingly in his recent volume, entitled "The Book of the English Oak." Not content with planning to leave a track in the form of a noble line of oaks of his own planting scattered along a portion of his path through Lancashire, Mr. Hurst, with considerable cunning, enlisted four tramps in the cause, with such success that the lazy fellows planted fifty acorns in an hour.

The miracle begin with the request for a penny by a beggar who admitted that he was a snow-shoveler in summer and a haymaker in winter, and that his friends were in the same occupations.

"Now look here," said Mr. Hurst, "I can find you all a grand job with better pay than you ever got before, unless you have been cabinet ministers, bishops or managing directors. Ask them to come here.

"My Christian friends," he went on, as they stood round, "you see those seeds? If you will plant them as I direct, I will give you twopence apiece for each one you set. Who says willing?"

Mr. Hurst spread about fifty acorns, brought from home, on his handkerchief. He gave each man an acron that, at a given signal, he must plant at one of the marked places, and then return for another. He pointed out that under this arrangement the amount of their earnings depended on the vigor of their exertions, for the more energetic the man the greater his proportion of the whole sum set aside for oak-culture.

"Shades of Sherwood!" to continue in Mr. Hurst's own words. "What a sight it was to see those curious creatures displaying frantic energy beneath the blazing sky! As each man rushed toward me, I held out an acorn and uttered words of encouragment, warning or hanter, as the case repuired.

"For nearly an hour did the tremendous activity continue, until not an acorn remained on the handkerchief.

"I then cast up the account in my note-book, which showed the following score: Red Man, twelve; Melancholy Man, sixteen; Fat man, eleven; Blue-faced Man, thirteen."

NEW NAVAL SUBMARINES.

Great Britain Has Seventy-five of This Type of Vessel.

More and more importance is being attached by European naval and military authorities to submarines and aeroplanes. Russia, Turkey, France, and Germany all include submarines in their new defence schemes. England seems to have similar ideas, for there are now seventy-five submarines completed or under construction in British yards.

That the modern submarine is no very frail affair, or difficult to manage, is proved by the fact that one flotilla has just travelled nine thousand miles out to Hong Kong and another to Malta in the Mediterranean. Both had stormy passages, yet no damage was suffered.

The latest, or "E" type of British submarines, is a tremendous advance on previous achievements. Experts believe there are some notable improvements yet to be added, so that within a few years the displacement will be up to 2,000 tons and the vessels will be able to travel under water by day and on the surface at night. By that time the old-time destroyers will be hopelessly out of date.

The "E" submarines demonstrate once more there is no finality in naval construction. Every year "goes one better." At present they are of 800 tons displacement and can travel on the surface up to fifteen knots. Vast improvements in the engines and equipment have quite obviated the disastrous explosions of the earlier days, when the older-fashioned naval men regarded submarines as mere toys suited only for limited defence work, but not only can the newest type cover long voyages in which seaworthy qualities are required, they are being constructed so as to carry an armament of small quick-firing guns for use when on the surface and a strong torpedo equipment for use when submerged. So great is the progress shown, indeed, that among naval men the submarine has come to be regarded as the most destructive arm of naval warfare for the future.

Easy Breakfast!

A bowl of crisp

Post Toasties

and cream—
the thing's done!

Appetizing
Nourishing
Convenient

Ready to serve right out of the package.

"The Memory Lingers"

Canadian Postum Cereal Company, Limited, Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

DEATH AFTER A SCRATCH.

Morris Quatzam, an eleven-year-old Windsor boy, fell off his bicycle and scratched his wrist. He thought nothing of the injury, but blood poison set in and he is dead.

Such incidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest wound.

Take a simple illustration. When a knife, a rusty needle, a splinter of dirty wood, a barbed wire fence, or a thorn, scratches the hand, the latter is inoculated with germs.

The way to avoid serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a powerful yet painless germ-killer, and when applied to the broken skin is absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and stopping the pain and smarting. That is why Zam-Buk is so popular with children.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, possessing antiseptic, soothing and healing qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is not only a unique healing balm, but it is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, chafing, ulcers, ringworm, etc., it is without equal. It is also used widely for piles, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

CLEVER DOG.

Cook—My dog took first prize at the cat show.

Hook—How was that?

Cook—He took the cat.

No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc., in the market.

She—"Doesn't it worry you dreadfully to owe so many bills you cannot pay?" He—"No. Why should I worry over other people's troubles?"

Practically all Canadian druggists, grocers and general dealers sell Wilson's Fly Pads. If your storekeeper does not, ask him why.

Lots of men would make good if employed to furnish the motive power for windmills.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Deceive nobody, not ever thyself.

God is a discovery, not an invention.

The keynote of Christianity is power not words.

Do the best you know, that you may know better.

You may not make a living, but you can make a life.

Friendship is the flower of a moment, and the fruit of time.

Would you count your true friends? Fall into misfortune.

The mountain is composed of atoms, and friendship of trifles.

There are advantages in growing old. It settles many questions.

Whoever complains of not having found a true friend accuses himself.

In all your work watch some master workman; it is a great help and incentive.

Teach your children to create. Don't always give them finished products to enjoy.

What is your life? It is even a vapor. Steam is a vapor, but, harnessed it moves the world.

The extraordinary rests on the ordinary and presupposes it. He who is not ordinary cannot be extraordinary.

We are cups to quench God's thirst, and God takes pleasure in a man when he fulfills the purpose of his being.

It is a common saying that a friend is kept by three things: by honoring him in his presence, by praising him in his absence, and by aiding him in his need.

THE PARSON'S REVENGE.

A clergyman was accustomed to use scientific terms which the people did not understand. A deputation waited on him with the request that in the future, whenever he used such terms, he would explain them.

On the following Sunday he used the term "hyperbole," and added:—

"As agreed on, I beg to explain this word. Were I to say that at this moment the whole of my congregation are sound asleep, it would be hyperbole, but if I say that one-half are asleep that is not hyperbole, but the truth."

The next day the deputation again called to say that the minister need not explain technical terms. The people would learn their meaning from a dictionary.

WHAT IS A BOND?

A mortgage on the C. P. R. could not very well be held by one person so it is split up and sold in sections to a number. Such sections are called bonds. Bonds are always readily turned into cash at par or even better, and they pay twice as much interest as a savings bank deposit. Write to the Royal Securities Corporation, Toronto, and get an interesting book on the subject. They will be glad to send it and you will be pleased to have it; it's free.

DON'T PULL IT OFF.

"And you really think, doctor, that you must perform the operation to-day?"

"Oh, yes. There may be no necessity for it to-morrow."

LOW COLONIST FARES TO THE PACIFIC COAST.

Via the Chicago, Union Pacific and North Western Line, daily from September 15th to October 15th from all points in Canada. Pullman tourist sleeping cars daily. Personally conducted California tours in Pullman tourist sleeping cars on through trains leave Chicago Tuesday and Thursday of each week. For rates, folders and full particulars apply to B. H. Bennett, Genl. Agt., 46 Yonge St., Toronto, Ontario.

PLEASANT TO HAVE AROUND.

"That Jones boy who used to work for you wants to hire out to me. Is he steady?"

"Steady? If he was any steadier he'd be motionless."

Impurities of the Blood Counteracted.—Impurities in the blood come from defects in the action of the liver. They are revealed by pimples and unsightly blotches on the skin. They must be treated inwardly, and for this purpose there is no more effective compound to be used than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They act directly on the liver and by setting up healthy processes have a beneficial effect upon the blood, so that impurities are eliminated.

LABOR.

Cholly—"Are you working your way through college?"

Algy—"Yes; I'm working the money out of father."

If every housekeeper would use Wilson's Fly Pads freely during the Summer months the house fly peril would soon be a thing of the past.

THE BENEVOLENT BUTLER.

A Calcutta correspondent reports "a truly horrible incident" which befell an English lady. Her "butler" was in the habit of calling loudly beneath her window every evening about 7. His cry suggested that he was calling either the cattle or the chickens home; but though she had neither, the lady for some time took no notice. Until one evening, having the curiosity to look, she was horrified to see the butler, like a dusky pied piper, surrounded by a troop of rats! There were quite fifty of them, from the big bandicotes to small muskrats, all being fed on the remains of her soup, meat and other bits. In a plague country this was an amusement that was speedily ended.

"Does you son indulge much in piscatorial exercises. "No, he don't care for nothin' but to go off fishin'."

CURED OF CONSTIPATON

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes:

"For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box. 2

Well, Well!

THIS is a HOME DYE that ANYONE can use

I dyed ALL these DIFFERENT KINDS of Goods with the SAME Dye.

I used

DY-O-LA

ONE DYE FOR ALL KINDS OF GOODS

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 18. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE
CHATHAM, ONT.
ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST BUSINESS SCHOOLS
Over 2,000 choice positions filled in past Four Years.

Some others just filled:—L. B. HUNN, from Newfoundland, placed with Sask. Milling Co., Moose Jaw, as Steno. FERN SMITH, Steno., Peabody Overall Co., Windsor. E. C. ROBINSON Bkkpr., with Bell Furniture Co., Southampton, Ont. FLOSSIE ANDERSON, Steno. and Bkkpr, Can. Wolverine Co., Chatham. MILDRED ANDERSON, Steno., with De Laval Separator Co., Winnipeg. R. J. SCOTT, teacher, with Drake College, Newark, N. J. The salaries of the three shown last week average over $700 per annum. The salaries of the six here shown average close to $700. Our students are prepared for the big positions where the big pay is offered. IT PAYS TO ATTEND THE BEST. Catalogue 33 tells of the work at Chatham. Catalogue 34 tells of our home courses. Address, D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont.

NOT POLITE.

The family had never been in the habit of saying grace, but when the minister took tea with them they thought it proper to bend their heads over their plates devoutly.

All would have gone well if the young hopeful had not piped up:

"It ain't polite to smell yer meat!"

No child should be allowed to suffer an hour from worms when prompt relief can be got in a simple but strong remedy—Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator.

Unless we are wrong again, we have discovered why cheese is served with pie: The restaurant person wishes to get rid of the cheese. It always looks as if it had been kicking around the place for weeks.

Blood Poisoning is often caused by slight cuts or wounds. Death may result. Hamlins Wizard Oil will draw out the poison, heal the wound and prevent serious trouble.

"When you saw that beastly cow, why didn't you drive her out of my garden?" "Well, you see, sir, your garden was in the cow!"

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

Margaret—Isn't it strange? Katherine — What? Margaret — That many a woman who has bleached her hair wants to keep it dark.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

"Breach of promise suits," said Uncle Eben, "is de result of a man dat wears his heart on his sleeve meetin' a gal dat carries hers in her pocketbook."

On Sale Everywhere.—There may be country merchants who do not keep Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, though they are few and far between, and these may suggest that some other oil is just as good. There is nothing so good as a liniment or as an internal medicine in certain cases. Take no other. The demand for it shows that it is the only popular oil.

FACT AND FANCY.

Faint wad never won fair lady.

A frog cannot breathe with its mouth open.

Friendship is to some girls wherein to stick pins.

Irish moss makes delicious jelly.

It's a wise child that takes after its rich maiden aunt.

Suspension bridges have been found in South African ant-hills.

The kitten's eyes are opened in nine days, the bridegroom in one.

The Japanese have eighteen words for "I".

The black sheen of the family is usually the one that gets fleeced.

Happy the man who is in love with himself! He has no rivals.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

POUNDING LIFE INTO A BODY.

The Japanese Strike the Seventh Vertebra.

An English scientist, Prof. A. Abrams, has recently been making a special study of the restoration to life practised by the Japanese, and while he does not fully explain why the men come back to life after being to all intents dead, he does tell how it is done, and this in itself is interesting.

In jiu-jitsu if a man is knocked out beaten senseless, killed or otherwise mauled, and if a man has been killed by a sunstroke or by drowning the restorer rolls the patient on his face and extends his arms sidewise. Then he strikes the patient on the seventh cervical vertebra with his wrist severely and regularly until the patient recovers consciousness.

Immediately he is placed in a sitting posture, his arms rotated and he is aided in walking, for otherwise he relapses into unconsciousness immediately, and in some cases dies at once.

This system of pounding the seventh vertebra has been found peculiarly beneficial in some acute heart diseases and the effects of the treatment under Japanese manipulation seem almost miraculous at times. As yet there seems to be no clear medical explanation of the effects of pounding the seventh vertebra, but the genuineness of the cures and resuscitations frequently described by travellers is now scientifically establish by Prof. Abrams's investigations.

Faultless in Preparation.—Unlike any other stomach regulator, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of long study of vegetable compounds calculated to stimulate the stomachic functions and maintain them at the normal condition. Years of use have proved their faultless character and established their excellent reputation. And this reputation they have maintained for years and will continue to maintain, for these pills must always stand at the head of the list of standard preparations.

WHAT HE THOUGHT.

"What do you call a person that reads heads?"

"A phrenologist, my boy."

"Gee! Then ma must be one of those things. She felt on my head this afternoon and said right away, 'You've been swimming.'"

Carterhall, Nfld.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disfigured for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try your Liniment to allay the irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely curing the irritation, and preventing the bites from becoming sore. MINARD'S LINIMENT is also a good article to keep off the mosquitoes.

Yours truly,
W. A. V. R.

QUALIFIED.

Ryter—I've half a mind to write a popular novel.

Crytic—Well that's as much as you will need.

It is an undisputed fact that one packet of Wilson's Fly Pads has actually killed a bushel of house flies. Fortunately no such quantity can ever be found in a well kept house, but whether they be few or many Wilson's Fly Pads will kill them all.

Mistress—"Mary, another knife, please! This one is not clean." Mary—"Not clean, mum? I'm sure it ought to be. The last thing it cut was soap!"

Corns cannot exist when Holloway's Corn Cure is applied to them, because it goes to the root and kills the growth.

The young wife's version: "Laugh, and the world laughs with you; weep, and you get what you want!"

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

Papa—"Well, did the photographer succeed in making the baby look pleasant?" Mamma — "No; but the baby succeeded in making the photographer look very pleasant."

Some things that come to those who wait are badly moth eaten.

BANKS AND BONDS

¶ Bonds have the preference as safe and profitable investments.

¶ Formerly Banks, Insurance Companies and other financial concerns invested their cash surpluses largely in Real Estate Mortgages, to-day they are purchasing the Bond issues of established and prosperous corporations considering that they offer the greatest security and best interest returns.

¶ There is no reasonable argument to ouset the fact that what is the best investment for the Bank surplus is the best investment for the individual investor.

¶ Write to-day for our booklet on Bonds, and Bond issues we recommend.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION
LIMITED
BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING
YONGE AND QUEEN STS.
TORONTO

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED.—A study of other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers Dept., 229 Albert St., Ottawa.

UNEMPLOYED MEN OR WOMEN, DO you wish to make Five Dollars day for balance of year? If so, consult J. L. Nichols Co., Limited, Toronto.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., West Street, Orillia, Ontario.

AGENTS WANTED. A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply B. C. I. Co., 229 Albert St., Ottawa.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED, Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

FEATHER DYEING
Cleaning and Curling and Kid Gloves cleaned. These can be sent by post, 16 per oz. The best place is BRITISH AMERICAN DYEING CO.
MONTREAL.

H. H. NIGHTINGALE
STOCK BROKER
Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange
LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN
Correspondence invited.
33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

Silver Pine Healing Oil Healed a Barb-Wire Cut without leaving a scratch

MRS. KATE MCCRANE, OF MOWBRAY, MAN., writes:

"Please send me a bottle of your Silver Pine Healing Oil. I had a colt cut last winter with barb wire—I used half a bottle and it healed up and didn't leave a scratch. Now I have another colt that has got cut that I calculate to heal with what is left, but I would like to have you send me another bottle if I should happen to need it, for I think I could not get on without it."

For all kinds of wounds, bruises, burns and sores on animals or human beings, Silver Pine Healing Oil is a quick, safe and wonderful healer. Keep a bottle on hand for times of need. In 25c., 50c. and $1.00 bottles, at your dealers or from the International Stock Food Co., Limited, Toronto, Can.

$1.00 for this 16-in. PLUME

This plume is just the kind for which you would have to pay $5.00 at any retail store. It is extra wide, fully 16 inches long, in all colors, with willowy fibre of great length that do not lose their curl easily. Send us $1.00 to-day, for this is an opportunity not to be missed. We offer also an extra large and handsome $7.50 plume at $2.50.

Send money by mail, express or money order. Remember that your money will be refunded if the plume is not entirely satisfactory.

New York Ostrich Feather Co., Dept. H, 343-345 B'way, N.Y.

If a man hasn't opinions, he's a nonentity; and if he has them, he's a nuisance.

A girl can't help feeling at first that it's pretty scandalous for her to become an aunt.

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

W. W. TAMAN

Merchant Tailor,

Exeter, - Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	84	84
Barley	55	65
Buckwheat	48	50
Oats	40	40
Peas	70	75
Potatoes, per bag	1 00	1 00
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 50	1 50
Butter	20	21
Eggs	21	22
Live hogs, per cwt		6 65
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chichen	alive	10c.	dry picked	12c
Hens	"	8c.	"	00
Roosters	"	6c.	"	00
Turkey	"	12c.	"	14c
Ducks	"	0c	"	11c

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

Our wedding stationery is of the latest, types of the best, workmanship unsurpassed and prices right. Prospective brides should call at the Advocate and see for themselves.

The past few weeks we have added many new Dinner and Toilet Sets. Surpassing anything we have ever shown. You will like them.—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Heaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

Men's Overcoats in the seasons latest Styles and Colorings. These Coats are exceptional values at $10.00 to $14. —Stewart's

GIRLS WANTED

Apply to D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

GIRLS WANTED—Good Cook and a Kitchen girl—good wages. Apply to Queen's Hotel, London.

For Stylish up-to-date and Serviceable Coats for Girls and Misses. See—Stewart's

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on boys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

Sweater Coats for Girls, Boys Men and Women in a great variety 50c to $5.00—Stewart's

CISTERN AND WELL CLEANING. — Those having cisterns or wells that need cleaning will do well to have the work done at once. We do it to your satisfaction.—ALBERT GOWER, Exeter N.

MISS J. J. ALLAN, Eye Sight Specialist will be at the Commercial Hotel SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30th, One day only.

WANTED.—A good girl for general housework. Must be experienced and capable. No washing. Good wages to right person, none other need apply. Apply personally or by letter to

MRS. J. J. CALLAGHAN,
618 Wellington St., London.

MANSION HOUSE PROPERTY FOR SALE OR TO RENT

The undersigned is offering for sale or to rent that desirable Hotel property in Exeter, known as the Mansion House situated on the corner of Main and Huron st. The property is in good condition and affords an excellent opportunity to open a Temperance or Boarding House. It is well equipped with all necessary furniture to commence business, and there is also good stabling and shed accommodation and other conveniences. There are also good prospects of the House being again granted a license. Will be sold privately on reasonable terms and conditions. For particulars apply to R. Leathern or to Messrs. Dickson & Carling, Exeter.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Be sure you can fight and then go ahead.

But you never can tell what is the easiest way until you have experienced the end.

Good intentions and first impressions make a fine pair to spin along to destructions with.

The fellow who starts out intending to stay tight with the procession is a bad one to buck.

Don't try to get your own share and the other's fellow's; he might misconstrue your motive.

MISS J. J. ALLAN Eye Sight Specialist will be at the Commercial Hotel SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30th, One day only.

A. Amos of Brinsley and A. Short of Crediton East have passed the September examination admitting them to the London Normal.

A number of the young people tendered Miss Pearl Kestle a "kitchen shower" on Thursday evening last at her home and a pleasant evening was spent.

Exeter School will celebrate their Field Day on Friday, Oct. 6. Come and enjoy yourself with the boys and girls. Our school will exchange visits again with Lucan H. S. as last year.

Here is the kind of obituary a Georgia editor wrote up for a man:—"Poor Jim Jones slung his earthly garments on a limb and swam the river yesterday. He did not stand because the water was deep but plunged right in, and started for the shore, and met the angels smiling. Jim was poor, but he had his subscription to his home paper paid up, and got there in good shape.

The Sunday School Secretary, Rev. Barlett of Toronto, preached Rally Day sermons to the children of James and Main Street Methodist churches on Sunday. The children attended the morning and afternoon services in James st. church in a body. Mr. Weidenhammer also addressed the gathering in the afternoon. Mr. Bartlett took the evening service at Main street church, and Rev. Powell the James street service.

The fruit companies that leased numerous orchards from Exeter to Kincardine have not had a profitable year. Probably $10,000 will not cover the expense that they put on the orchards and the rent paid, while, owing to the crop failure, their returns are very small. The companies have large capital, however, and faith in the future results. In the meantime the farmers are having the value of their orchards increased and they are the amount of the rent to the good.

No one can tell when an advertisment ceases to do its work. Instances are known in which copies of our newspapers have been discovered in out-of-the way places, the advertisment in which have sold goods. An American merchant recently received an answer to an advertisement of his that appeared a year previously. A hardware firm in an eastern city one day received an order for an article that it had advertised ten years before but had not been manufacturing for nine years. Upon making inquiries it learned that a farmer, in taking up a carpet, had found beneath it a paper containing an advertisement of the article and had been so impressed with the utility of the article that he immediately wrote for it. From which we may conclude that as long as a single copy of an advertisment exists it may sell goods.

THUMB LACERATED.—Mr. Thos. Heaman, London Road South, met with a painful accident on Saturday afternoon last. He was operating a circular saw and in some manner his left hand came in contact with it, lacerating the thumb badly.

HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL. — The Ladies' Aid of the James Street Methodist Church will hold their Harvest Home Festival on Sunday and Monday, Oct. 1 & 2. Rev. R. Hicks will preach Sunday morning and Rev. J. E. J. Millyard. On Monday evening the ladies of the church will serve tea from 5 to 8 o'clock, afterwhich a program will be rendered, consisting of addresses by resident ministers, selections by the Choir, Organist, Miss Delight Hobbs, and the Boston Male Quartette. Tickets 35c., Children 25c.

HICKS' FORECASTS FOR OCTOBER. —A reactionary storm period is central on the 3rd and 4th, and may be expected to bring a return of storm conditions, with autumnal rain, wind and possibly light snow, northward. Lightning and thunder will probably bring in these October periods, followed by rapid change to much cooler. A regular storm period is at its centre on the 7th. This is one of the most decided storm periods of this month. Violent disturbances should be watched against, both in the Lake and Gulf regions. Rain, wind and thunder will visit most parts of the interior during this period. From the 4th to 11th, central on the 7th, consitutes a grave seismic period. Snow northward, rising barometer and much colder, will wind up this period.

DEATH OF MRS. KESTLE—The death occurred at her home on Albert street on Friday last of Ellen Jory, wife of Rev. J. D. Kestle, aged 69 years, 5 months. Mrs. Kestle has been troubled for some time with catarrh and asthma, and although operated on a few days before she could not be relieved and her demise followed. Born in Peterboro County she moved to this district with her parents and married her now bereaved husband, with whom she resided in many places during his ministry, and the last few years in Exeter since Mr. Kestle's superannuation. She was a woman of many good qualities and highly respected by all who knew her. Besides the husband three daughters and two sons survive—Mrs.Ready of St. Marys, Miss Marie and Luther of Seattle, Rev. Asa of Ohio, and Lily at home. One brother, Elijah Jory of Exeter, and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Lewis of Crediton, and Mrs. Wm. Penhale of Exeter, also survive. The funeral took place to the Exeter Cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. J. E. Smith is home from Hanover

Miss Worden of Staffa is the guest of Mrs. Clark.

Mr. John Hyndman was taken to London Tuesday.

Miss Lulu Martin was home from Clinton over Sunday.

Mrs. Thos. Elston has returned from a visit in Toronto.

Mr. John Spackman and Mr. Hugh Spackman went to St. Thomas on Tuesday.

Mrs. Rich. Bissett and Mrs. Atkinson of London visited with friends here Saturday.

Miss H. E. Brown of Harper Hospital Detroit, is spending holidays at her home here.

Mrs. E. H. Vrooman and child of Copetown, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Anderson.

Mr. Verce Hardy left Saturday evening on his return to Denver, after a few weeks' visit with his parents here.

Mr and Mrs. Ed. Stewart and child of London visited with the former's brother several days during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Sutton left Friday for Rodney, where Mr. Sutton will be engaged in the evaporator until December.

Miss McPherson and Miss Ida Marchand left Monday to attend Normal at Stratford, and Miss Anna Dow to London Normal.

Mrs. E. J. Christie returned from St. Catharines on Saturday evening, her mother having recovered from her recent illness.

Miss Mabel Tom, nurse of St. Lukes Hospital, New York, visited at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. James Tom, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hockey of Brantford will move here this week, Mr. Hockey having accepted a position with his former employer, Mr. W. J. Heaman.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Phillips, with their daughter, are in Owen Sound attending the marriage of their son, Wilbur B. Phillips of Toronto, to Miss Maud Stewart of Owen Sound.

Miss La Belle Handford was home from St. Thomas over Sunday.

Mr. Wm. Hooper is on a visit to friends in Farmers Valley Penn.

Dr. Roulston arrived home Tuesday evening from a trip to the Old Country.

Mrs. E. B. Scott of Philadelphia has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Kuntz for a few days.

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Partland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Bus, Dray and Teaming Business

Your orders in our line will be attended to quickly and satisfactorily. We are here to please the public needing anything in our line, and we ask a trial from you. Orders left by phone or otherwise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will receive prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

TWO WEEKS'

BIG BARGAIN SALE

AT MOORESVILLE STORE

Commencing September 25th 1911

For two weeks we are going to offer

SHEET FLANNELS

36in. wide, reg. 12½c. for 10½c.
34in. wide, reg. 12½c. for 10½c.
34in. wide, reg. 10c. for 8½c.
28in. wide, reg. 8½c. for 6½c.

CRETON—Reg. 16c. for 18c.

REPP—Reg. 12½c. for 10c.

SHOT LINEN—Reg. 25c for 15c.

PLAIDS—Reg. 15c. for 11c.

UNBLEACHED COTTON—Reg. 8c. for 6½c., 10c. for 8½c., Regular 12½c. for 11c.

RED COTTON CASHMERE—34in wide reg. 12½c. for 10c.

BLACK COTTONADE

8oz. reg, 25c. for 21c.
9oz. reg. 30c. for 24c.
9oz. reg. 28c. for 23c.

PRINTS

Regular 12½c. for 10½c.
Regular. 10c. for 8c.

CORSETS

75 pairs reg. 50, 75c. and $1. for 29c.

PILLOW COTTON—reg. 20 to 22 for 17½c.

CREAM CASHMERE—36in. wide reg. 50c. for 39c.

Now is the time to buy your Wall Paper

We have a very nice range to clear at very low prices;—

Single Roll Reg. 25c. for 10c.
Single Roll Reg. 15c. for 6c.
Single Roll Reg. 18c. for 8c.
Single Roll Reg. 14c. for 5c.
Single Roll Reg. 17c for 7c.
Single Roll Reg. 12c. for 4c.
Single Roll Reg. 6c. for 2c.

Men's and Boys' Furnishings

OVERALLS—A special sale in Overalls. The Walker Trainmen's Overals Reg. $1.25 for — — — — 1.05
PANTS—50 pairs Tweed Pants Regular 1.75 to 3.50 for — 98c.
OVERCOATS—10 Men's overcoats Regular 5.00 to 7.50 for — 2.98
15 boys, Overcoats Regular 5.00 for — — 1.98
25 Boys Suits Regular 3.50 to 5.00 for — — 1.48
HATS—2 dozen men's Stiff hats, Regular 2.00 to 2.50 for — 1.48
1 dozen Men's soft Hats Regular 1.75 for — 1.18
CAPS—50 Men's caps, all styles and shapes, Reg. 25, 50, 75c. for 19c.

Boots and Shoes

25 pair Ladies Pat. Oxford Regal, Reg. 2.85, 2.90, 3.00 for $198
50 pair Children's shoes of all kinds 20 per cent. off.
50 pair Ladies' shoes of all kinds 25 per cent. off.
25 pair Men's Pat. Leather Oxfords, Regal, Reg. 4.00 for 2.98
25 pair Light and Heavy weight, 40 per cent. off.

W. R. Simpson, MOORESVILLE

3 Weeks Reduction Sale

Commencing to-morrow, Friday Money Saving Prices on all China and Graniteware Etc. We want the room for Christmas Goods.

Come Early

Powell's Bazaar

OUR WATCH AND Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter

Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers

And

Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a

For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON

The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

Big Showing of Winter Coats

In all The Leading Cloths

We have all the leading styles in Ladies Misses and Children's Coats in the very best of cloths. Fancy Tweeds are the very newest in the coat line and we are also showing the good staple lines of Blacks and Blues. Try one on and be convinced Prices right.

LADIES & CHILDRENS FURS

BUY EARLY AND GET THE BEST

This will be a good fur season and we are well prepared for it with a big assortment.

LADIES FURS

Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs in Marmot, Sable; Seal, Fox, Persian, Lamb and Wolf. See them before you buy.

CHILDREN'S FURS

Little Muffs and Neck Furs in White Fox, Chin Chillian, Hare, Lamb and Stone Martin. All little beauties.

LADIES FUR LINED COATS

We have the best values this year we have ever shown. Muskrat Lining with genuine Sable or Isabella collars.

FUR COLLAR COATS

With quilted or plush Linings, We have a very large lot of these coats to show you at $20 to $25 each.

FALL DRESS GOODS

Fancy Tweeds are very very Strong and will be found here in all wears, Plain Serges in all colors come next, also a good showing of all colored and Black Dress Goods.

NEW WAISTINGS

New Fancy Delainns in all patterns, New Silk striped, Taffeta Cloths, and the New Silks in all the leading shades also Velours and Velvets.

Gents Furnishing For Fall

New Shirts	New Underwear	New Over Coats
" Collars	New Sweaters	" Rain Coats
" Ties	New Sweaters Coats	" Fall Suits
" Gloves	New Fancy Vests	" Hats&Caps
" Sox	New Suitings	" Shoes

JONES & MAY

Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1911. SANDERS & CREEGER

Pumpkins Wanted at Canning Factory

REEVE SWEITZER'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of the late Reeve Sweitzer of Stephen took place on Friday afternoon from his home at Shipka to the Crediton Cemetery, and was attended by a very large concourse of people, nearly 200 rigs being in the procession. The conduct of the funeral was under the management of Warden O. Geiger of Hensall and County Clerk Lane of Goderich, and the pall-bearers were,—County Councillors J. W. Taylor of Exeter, W. D. Sanders of Stephen, R. McKay of Tuckersmith, P. Lamont of Hay, J. M. Govenlock of McKillop and High Constable Whitesides of Hensall. Rev. Burn of Crediton, assisted by several other neighboring ministers, conducted the services.

The casket was covered with beautiful wreaths of flowers of which speaial mention must be made of a large broken wheel donated by the council of the Township of Stephen. After the burial service, at the cemetery, the funeral sermon was delivered in the Evangelical Church, Rev. Burn preached a very eloquent sermon in both languages. He was assisted by Rev. Brown of Zurich, Rev. Thompson of Corbett, and Rev. Steadman of Elimville, Rev. Hicks of the Methodist church here and Rev. Grenzebach of Dashwood. The deceased sudden death has come as a great loss and shock to our people and everywhere are near words of sympathy for the bereaved family.

The coroner's jury on Thursday brought in a verdict of accidental shooting. The wound was also examined by a jury on Friday at the request of County Crown Attorney, C. Seager of Goderich.

STEPHEN COUNCIL.

The Council of the Township of Stephen convened in the Town Hall, Crediton, on Monday, the 2nd of October at 1 p.m. All members present, excepting the late reeve.

Love—Kellermann—That Deputy-Reeve Sanders act as reeve until the vacancy is filled in pursuance to the Municipal Act.—Carried. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. Love—Yearley—That the clerk forward the following letter of condolence to the widow and family of the late Reeve Samuel Sweitzer.—Carried.—

Crediton, Oct. 2nd, 1911

To Mrs. Samuel Sweitzer and Family,—

It is with deepest sorrow and regret that we, the Council of the Township of Stephen, refer to your sudden bereavement and we wish to assure you of our sincere sympathy in the loss of your husband and father.

It is hard to lose our dear ones after a time of anxiety and suspense, but the sorrow is much greater when they are taken as Mr. Sweitzer has been, in the full vigor of health and strength.

Yet it will be a consolation to you to know that he was spared a long and painful suffering. You must consider his great gain in that Heavenly Home where all the infirmities of life are passed forever.

We believe it will always be a pleasure for you to recall his tender love and perfect devotion so frank and manly in its expression that all the citizens of the Township of Stephen could rejoice with you in your happiness, as they must now and do sympathize with you in your sorrow.

God alone can comfort such grief as yours, and that such consolation may be yours in full measure is the sincere prayer of

The Council of the Tp. of Stephen.

Yearley—Kellermann—That the bond of the tax collector be accepted and filed with the Clerk.—Carried.

Love—Yearley—That By-law No. 184, being a by-law to amend by-law 171, having been read three times, be passed and signed by the Reeve and Clerk, and the seal of the Corporation attached thereto.—Carried.

The following accounts were paid:—Gammage & Sons, wreath and express $10.40; Canadian Express Co., 40c.; Mrs. Sam'l Sweitzer, 9 months' salary, of Reeve, $45; C. Prouty, gratuity $25 Jos. Halst, tile re. J. Wilson, $3.65; A. Hodgins & Co., gas account, $1.95; F. Triebner, gravel, $40.90; A. Disjardine, rep. bridge, $8.25; S. Morrison, rep. creek, $8; Wm. Nichols, rep. bridge, $2; Austin Hayter, do., $3; Geo. Lovie, rep. road, $1.50; Rich. Webb, do. $1.50 Wm. Gassman, rep. bridge, $4.50; Rich. Handford, com. E. B., $10; Louis Ravelle, fencing, $4; Jos. Lawson, part payment of contract, Halst's bridge, $1000; David Webb, com. on bridge, $19.

The Council adjourned to meet again in the Town Hall, Crediton, on Monday, Dec. 4th, at 10 a. m.

Henry Elfber, Clerk.

APPLES FOR SALE

First-class winter varieties in barrels or loose, delivered or at orchard, Lot 13, Con. 3, Stephen.

S. J. HOGARTH.

25c. pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

Fall Has Reached us

We are prepared to show you Dress Goods in all Wool, Venetian, Ottoman Cords, Poplin, Serges, Plaids, Etc.

Sweater Coats

We have them in White, Red, Brown and Grey from 2.50 to 4.50 also for children from 50 to 85c.

We have a few Sweater Coats for men at only 1.25 in Grey an Navy Blue.

Wool Shawls

Some fine wool shawls in Plain White, Grey Red, Black and colored from 65c. to $3.00 also some heavy grey shawls $3.00.

Young Men

If you want a nice neat soft Felt Hat in Grey Brown and Green just come in and let us have the pleasure of showing them to you.

Stanfields Underwear

This is the only Unshrinkable underwear that Ladies and Gents should wear. We have the Ladies in all sizes. Pricee from 75c to $1.15 and Gents in Red and Blue Labels; Prices from $1.25 to $1.75 a garments.

We also handle Penman's natural wool underwear for men and Ladies.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

EXETER SCHOOL REPORT

H. S. Department

The following is the Exeter School Report for September,—

Form I.—Honors—N. Truemner 81½; L. Stewart 81; R. Kestle 80; J. Strang 78; D. Hall 77½; H. Rivers 77; J. Allison 76. Pass—A. Habkirk 73; G. Morley 73; M. Case 72½; I. McDonell 72; E. Brooks 71; I. Sweet 71; A. Ford 71; E. Harvey 71; A. Case 71; A. Beverley 70; M. Hanlon 66; O. Hodgert 64; M. Blatchford 64; E. Welsh 62; L. Taylor 61; R. Parsons 60.

Form I., Commercial—Honors—M. Acheson 79. Pass—A. Willis 72; F. McDonell 71; E. Day 68; E. Baker 67½; N. Jones 67. Number on roll 41; average attendance 37.

Form II.—Honors—Myra Morgan 78. Pass—Linder Harvey 74; Arva Brokenshire 74; Mary Hanlon 74; Mary McQuean 74; Ada Willis 72; Lillian Boyle 71. Jean Seldon 66; Joe Davis 65; Florence Triebner 65; Ben Case 64. Number on roll 21; average attendance 20.

Form III.—Honors—C. Copeland 75. Pass—R. Dearing 73; W. Amy 72; S. Petty 72; E. Case 71; C. Wood 67; R. Wood 66; G. Passmore 64; L. Frayne 62; B. Dougall 60. Number on roll 26; average attendance 24.

W. B. Weidenhammer, B. A., Prin.

P. S. Department

Sr. IV.—Honors—B. Hodgert 93; M. Heywood 91; A. Knight 88; A. Day 80 M. May 80; M. Senior 78. Pass—W. Manson 74; G. Penhale 60.

Middle IV.—Honors—C. Powell 89; M. Vincent 78; A. Ball 78; O. Davis 77. Pass—H. Parsons 73; L. Zuefle 72; F. Wood and M. Huston 71; J. Follick 70; E. Bowey 70; M. Seldon 69; M. Gladman 68; O. Macdonald 68; K. Weidenhammer 64; A. Mack; G. Fitton 61.

C. Vosper, teacher.

Jr. IV.—Honors, B. Horney 81, M. Knott 80; Pass, J. Brickwood 73, F. Bowey 73, D. Kuntz, 72, I. Delve 71, E. Davis 69. Jr. III.—Honors, M. Pickard 78, G. Carling 76, Pass, E. Powell 74, D. Phillips 73, G. Ortwein 67, G. Moir 70, M. Kydd 69, M. Hardy 68, G. Davis 67, R. Cornish 66, L. Hastings 63, V. Welsh 60, M. Day 60.

J. S. Murray, Teacher.

Form III. Jr.—Honors—G. Harvey 92 W. Knight 88; C. Mallett 76; H. Boyle 75; I. Zuefle 75. Pass—D. Knight 74; C. Harness 73; V. Mallett 71; B. Rivers 69; W. Davis 67; V. Jones 66; A. Cornish 66; R. Marshall 66; W. Heddon 64.

Form II. Sr.—Honors—C. Morley 91; C. Sanders 83; B. Gould 78; M. Marchand 75. Pass—E. Doyle 64; C. Heaman 62. Number on roll 39 average attendance 33.

H. N. Kinsman, Teacher.

Class V.—Honors—M. Harvey 88; M. Harvey 88; T. Connor 82. Pass—C. Ford 64.

Class IV.—Honors—E. Davis 94; A. Vincent 93; P. Weidenhammer 78; W. Gillespie 78; E. Yellow 76. Pass—P. Collins 74; J. Davis 68; A. Andrew 68; P. Harness 68; B. Senior 67; M. Wood 62; M. Houlden 61.

Class III.—Honors—V. Rowcliffe 84; G. Harness 81; J. Ferguson 76. Pass E. Magee 69; S. Sanders 67.

Class II.—Honors—T. Rogers 88; F. Manns 75; K. Hedden 78. Pass—C. Salter 70; C. Davis 64.

Class I.—Honors—B. Acheson 81; M. Norry 79. Pass—W. Belwood 72.

Number enrolled 43; average attendance 37

Irene Quackenbush, Teacher.

Jr. Pt. II.—M. Johns 77; D. Balkwill 75; H. Dignan 72; G. Hind 70; W. Webster and A. Rowcliffe 65; N. Hardy 64; I. Moir 62; L. Harness 60; R. Taylor and P. Sanders 58; V. Vale 57; M. Kuntz 55; C. Heywood 45.

Sr. Pt. I.—G. Powell 76; M. Elworthy 62; W. Ortwein 57; G. Hedden 55; R. Davis 50; C. Jacobi 45; C. Brimacombe 30; E. Cookson 25. Number on roll 47; average attendance 41.

F. W. Howard, teacher

THE EXETER COUNCIL

A special meeting of the Council was held on Friday evening, Sept. 29, for the purpose of striking the rate of taxation for the current year. All members were present. Levett—Walper—That the rate of taxes be 26 mills, and that a by-law be prepared confirming same.—Carried. Walper—Rivers—That we ask for tenders for stove and chesnut coal to be delivered at Town Hall, Pump House and North End Fire Hall. The same to be laid down as required.—Carried. Rivers—Levett—That the Commissioner be instructed to lay cement floor in basement of Town Hall, leading up to and back of furnace. Levett adjournment to Friday evening, Oct. 7.

T. B. Carling, clerk.

POLITICAL HISTORY OF S. HURON

In 1867 M. C. Cameron, L.b., ma1.171

In 1872, M. C. Cameron, 73.

In 1874, M. C. Cameron, 86.

Bye-election, T. Greenway, Ind., acc'l.

In 1878, M. C. Cameron, L.b., 65.

In 1882, J. McMillan, L.b., 597.

In 1883, bye-election, Sir. R. Cartwright, L.b., accl

In 1887, J. McMillan, L.b., 758.

In 1891, J. McMillan, 855.

In 1896, J. McMillan, L.b., elected over T. E. Hays, by 305.

In 1900, Geo. McEwen, L.b., defeated John McMillan, L.b., by 221.

In 1904, B. B. Gunn, Con., defeated T. Fraser, L.b., by 111.

In 1908, bye-election, M. Y. McLean, L.b., defeated H. Horton, Con.

In 1908, M. Y. McLean, L.b., defeated John Sherritt, Con., by 154.

In 1911, J. J. Merner, Con., defeated M. Y. McLean, L.b., by 114.

Zurich Fair

With delightful weather, a large and excellent exhibit in all classes, with a large and happy crowd of people in attendance, Zurich Fair which was held on Thursday last, will go on record as one of the most successful in its history. The horse ring, as in previous years was characterized by the same excellent quality that has made the fair famous, and the judge made many twists and turns to arrive at conclusions. Two well contested races furnished much interest to the large crowd in attendance. The gate receipts amounted to about $285. Following is the prize list:—

HORSES

Draught.—Brood mare, Wm. Drover, And. Love; Foal, Wm. Drover 1 and 2 Antl. Love; 1 yr. old, Alb. Etherington; 2 yr. old, And. Turnbull; 3 yr. old, John Sharrow; Span mares, Alf. Mellick.

Agricultural.—Brood mare R. D. Bell, Jr. Robt. Love; Foal, R. D. Bell, Jr., Simon Surarus; 1 yr. old, R. D. Bell, Hy. Volland; 2 yr. old, Wm. Drover Thos. Harris, Robt. Campbell; 3 yr. old T. Harris, J. McBride, A. Love; Span J. McBride, Alf. Reichart.

General Purpose—Brood mare, S. Sararus, Hy. Neeb, Alo. Faist; Foal E. Steick, ——— R. Love; 1. yr. old E. Steick; 2 yr. old, S. Surarus, Wm. Smith, Wm. Bender; 3 yr. old, W. Smith E. Steick, Louis Rader; Span, John Decker.

John McGraw, Judge, Dublin.

Carriage.—Brood mare, Alf. Reichert Con. Trueman; Foal, Alf. Reichert, Con. Trueman; 1 yr. old, Alf. Reichert; 2 yr. old, J. Decker, A. Etherington; 3 yr. old, Con. Truemner, L. H. Willert, J. Decker, Jr.; Span, John Geiger, Wm. Bender; Single, Wm. O'Brien, Thos. Berry, Alf. Traquhar.

Roadsters.—Brood mare J. Decker, Jr, Foal, Thos. Amy, J. Decker, Jr., J. D. Wilson; 1 yr. old, 1 yr. old, J. D. Wilson, L. Rader, Hy. Pollard; 2 yr. old J. Decker, Jr., T. Amy, Jas. McCallum; 3 yr. old, Geo. Elliott, Sol. Jacobi, Hy. Daters; Span, Fred Ellerington, Joe. Hey, sr., H. Rader; Buggy horse, John Decker, B. Peck, B. Pfile; Lady Driver, John Decker, B. Pfile, A. Etherington; Gentleman's outfit John Decker.

Wm. Mossip, Judge, St. Marys.

CATTLE

Durham.—Cows Peter, Reichert, 1 and 2; 2 yr. old heifers, Wm. McAllister, 1 and 2, P. Reichert; Yearling heifer, Beatty Bros. 1 and 2, Wm. McAllister; Bull calf, Beatty Bros., W. McAllister, Beatty Bros; Heifer calf, W. McAllister, Beatty Bros. 1 yr. old bull, Math. Clerk W. McAllister.

Other than Thorobred Durham—Cows, in milk or in calf, Jas. Haberer; 2 yr. old heifers, P. Deichert, Ed. Reichert, J. Haberer; Yearling heifer, S. Surarus A. Faist; Heifer calf, Jacob Decker, 1 and 2, J. Haberer; 2 yr. old steer, J. Haberer, P. Deichert, J. Haberer, Yearling steer, Ed. Reichert, Wm. McAllister, J. Haberer; Steer Calf, A. Faist, Wm. McAllister, J. Haberer; Fat steer, P. Deichert; Jersey cow, W. Hoffman.

H. Smith, Judge, Exeter.

SHEEP

Leicester.—Yearling ewe, J. Haberer, 1 and 2; Ewe lamb, G. Penhale, J. Haberer; Ewe having raised lamb 1911 G. Penhale, J. Haberer.

Fine Wool—And. Dunkin won all prizes

Lincoln sheep—G. Penhale took all prizes.

PIGS

Berkshire—Aged sow, Snowden Bros. Spring boar, Snowden Bros; Spring sow, M. Clark, Snowden Bros.; 1 yr. old boar, Snowden Bros. M. Clark; 1 yr. old sow, Snowden Bros. 1 and 2.

Tamworth—Snowden took all prizes.

Yorkshire—Spring boar, G. Penhale.

POULTRY

Hamburgs, W. B. Battler, 1 and 2nd; Plymouth Rocks, J. W. Ortwein, W. B. Battler; Black Spanish, W. B. Battler 1 and 2; Dorkins, W. B. Battler, 1 and 2; Black Minorcas, W. B. Battler, 1 and 2; White Plymouth Rocks, J. W. Ortwein, 1 and 2; Red caps, W. B. Batteir, 1 and 2; White Leghorns, Con. Truemner, W. Rader; S. C. Brown Leghorns, W. B. Battler, C. Truemner; R. I. Reds, Kate Campbell; Collection pigeons, A. Wolfe; Buff Wyandottes, J. W. Ortwein, 1 and 2; Silver Crest Wyandottes C. Truemner, J. W. Ortwein; R. C. Brown Leghorns, C. Truemner; Buff Orpington, W. B. Battler; Buff, China Bantams, W. B. Battler, C. Clausius; Golden unbred Buff Cochins, W. B. Battler; Andalusians, W. B. Battler; Langshans W. B. Battler, 1 and 2; R. C. Minorcas Polands, W. B. Battler; White Wyandotts, J. W. Ortwein, 1 and 2; Pekin China ducks, Snowden Bros., W. B. Battler; Rouen ducks, G. Clausius; geese, Snowden Bros., C. Truemner; turkeys, Snowden Bros.; Toulouse geese J. Becker, G. Clausius.

T. B. Carling, J. Surarus, Judges.

GRAINS AND SEEDS

White fall wheat, J. Geiger, C. Truemner; red fall wheat, J. Geiger, W. B. Battler; spring wheat, G. Clausius, C. Scheibe; 6-rowed barley, G. Clausius, Wm. Hader; white oats, Warren Dignan C. Clausius, C. Schilbe; small peas, G. Clausius, C. Truemner, L. Wurm; rye, E. Klopp, W. B. Battler; black barley, W. Dignan; col. grain, G. Clausius, H. Neeb, Mrs. J. Forest; clover seed, P. Schwalm, J. Pfaff, C. Shelbe; timothy seed, P. Schwalm, C. Shelbe.

HORTICULTURAL PRODUCTS

Col. apples, C. Truemner, J. Haberer, G. Clausius; fall apples, C. Truemner, J. Pfaff, O. Klopp; winter apples, J. Haberer, C. Truemner, J. Decker, sr., King Tompkins, J. Haberer, H. Neeb; Snow Apples, J. Geiger, C. Truemner; Northern Spies, G. Clausius, H. Rader; Baldwins, C. Truemner, O. Klopp; R.I. Greenings, E. Klopp, C. Schilbe; Canada Reds, J. Decker, sr., C. Truemner; Ribson Pippen, J. Geiger, O. Klopp; Golden Russets, C. Truemner, C. Schilbe Ben Davis, E. Klopp, H. Neeb; Wagners W. Smith, C. Truemner; Mann, J. Haberer, Snowden Bros.; Malden's Blush, J. Haberer, L. Rader; Bienheim Pippin J. Decker, sr., J. Surarus; Pewaukee, Alex. Rannie, C. Truemner; Colverts, J. Haberer, C. Truemner; Gloria Mundi, H. Koehler, G. Schroeder; 20 oz. Pippen, C. Truemner, H. Wesloh; Tal. Sweet, J. Decker, sr., G. Clausius; col. Russetts O. Klopp; fall pears, J. Haberer, O. Klopp; winter pears, W. Hader; Bartlett Pears, A. Kaercher, Snowden Bros., Peaches, Snowden Bros., T. Johnson; Prunes, Mrs. G. Hess; red crab apples, O. Klopp, J. Sararus; yellow crab apples, Snowden Bros., L. Rader; grapes, W. B. Battler, Snowden Bros.; col. of grapes, J. Haberer, W. B. Battler; plum J. Brown 1 and 2; canned fruit, R. B. Johnston, J. Decker, sr.

D. Cantelon, A. Mittleholtz, Judges.

MANUFACTURES

Buggy harness, R. Stade; team harness, ditto.; col. shoes, S. Faust; col. hardware, J. Preeter; wool blankets, W Hader.

Continued on Page 5

South Huron Official Returns

The following are the official election returns for South Huron, giving J. J. Merner a majority of 114 over M. Y. McLean, Liberal.

	Merner	McLean	Majority Con.	Majority Lib.
McKillop
Poll 1	22	101		79
2	58	91		33
3	77	63	14
4	59	54	5
Seaforth
1	59	86		27
2	41	46		5
3	35	21	14
4	31	14	17
5	44	43	1
Tuckersmith
1	29	76		47
2	37	49		12
3	17	49		32
4	18	66		48
5	29	61		32
6	23	64		41
Usborne
1	89	46	43
3	53	61		8
3	103	36	67
4	48	58		10
Exeter
1	68	29	39
2	57	29	28
3	52	35	17
4	62	58	4
Stephen
1	58	27	31
2	46	17	29
3	49	50		1
4	68	56	12
5	34	42		8
6	79	42	37
7	32	51		19
8	56	23	33
9	60	50	10
Hensall
1	93	83	10
Hay TP.
1	24	37		13
2	17	46		29
3	87	67	20
4	69	45	24
5	42	33	9
6	68	41	27
7	27	22	5
8	22	47		25
Bayfield
1	81	24	57
Stanley
1	27	55		28
2	24	60		36
3	98	19	79
4	49	15	34
5	39	58		19

RECAPITULATION MAJORITIES

	Merner	McLean
McKillop		98
Seaforth	0	0
Tuckersmith		212
Usborne	92
Exeter	88
Stephen	124
Hensall	10
Hay	18
Bayfield	57
Stanley	30
	419	305

Majority for Merner 114

BIDDULPH

Death of Michael Farrell.—The people here were shocked Sunday when they learned oft he death of Michael Farrell of Hammond, Ind., formerly of Clandeboye. Mr. Fairell taught school at Adare some forty years ago, and among those who attended he funeral Wednesday were those who attended his school of the long ago. His remains were brought to his father's house, Clandeboye, Monday morning, and on Wednesday they were taken to Adare Roman Catholic Church for service, followed by a very large number of people who testify to the esteem in which he was held. Interment was made in St. Peter's cemetery.

BIRTHS

Smith.—In Exeter, on Oct. 3rd, to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. B. Smith, a son.

Willis—In Centralia, Sept. 29, to Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Willis, a daughter.

Moseeau—At Zurich Road Sept. 21st to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moseeau, twins boy and girl.

O'Hara—West McGillivray, Sept. 24th, to Mr. and Mrs. John J. O'Hara, a daughter.

Kerslake—At Lumley, Oct. 1, to Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kerslake, a son. Died shortly after birth.

MARRIAGES

Moorhouse—Brieggler—In London, Oct. 2 Elly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brieggler, to Herbert Kennedy Moorhouse of Bayfield.

VanAlistine—Pearson—In Parkhill on Sept. 25th, by Miss Jean Pearson, of West McGillivray, to Mr. Victor VanAlstine, of Parkhill.

DEATHS

Knight—In Exeter, Oct. 4, Mrs. Charles Knight, aged 81 years.

Baillie—At Newberry, Ont., on Oct. 2nd Mary Baillie, aged 91 years.

The Best Chance Ever Offered To Men

To put in a supply of clothing, Underwear, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Sox, Ties.

Everything a man wears.

At a price guaranteed to be below the Actual

Cost Price

Boys Clothing Sacrificed

This sale may be ended any day. And you will certainly regret it if you do not buy now.

Men's and Boys' Furnishings

Quitting Business

Cash Only

S. G. Bawden

The Clothier Exeter

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER V.

Once clear of the Albert Gate mansion, the barrister was bound to confess to a sense of indefiniteness, a feeling of uncertainty which seldom characterized either his thoughts or his actions. He admitted as much to his companion, for Brett was a man who would not consent to pose under any circumstances.

"It is quite true," he explained, "that our first duty must be to find Mr. Talbot, and it is still more certain that we will be able to accomplish that part of our task; but there are elements in this inquiry which baffle me at present."

"And what are they, sir?" said the detective.

"I fail to see why Mr. Talbot was dragged into the matter at all. On the straightforward assumption that Turks were engaged in the pleasant occupation of taking other Turk's lives—an assumption to which, by the way, I attach no great amount of credence—why did they not allow Mr. Talbot to go quietly to his own home? It was not that they feared more speedy discovery of their crime. The hour was then late; it was tolerably certain that he would make no move which might prove injurious to them until next morning, and then the whole affair was bound to be discovered by the police in the ordinary course of events."

"I don't quite follow you, sir," said Winter, with a puzzled tone in his voice. They had, for the sake of quietude, turned into the Park, and were now walking toward Hyde Park Corner. "What do you mean by saying that Mr. Talbot would make no move in the matter until next morning?"

"Oh, I forgot," said Brett.

"Of course, you don't know why the diamonds were stolen?"

"For the same reason that all other diamonds are stolen, I suppose."

"Oh, dear no," laughed the barrister. "This is a political crime."

"Political!" said the amazed policeman.

"Well, we won't quarrel about words, and as there are perhaps no politics in Turkey, we will call it dynastic or any other loud-voiced adjective which serves to take it out of the category of simple felony."

"What beats me, Mr. Brett," said the detective, viciously prodding the gravel path with his stick, "is how you ferret out these queer facts—fancies some people would call them, as I used to do until I knew you better."

"In this case it is simple enough. By mere chance I happened to read this morning that there had been some little domestic squabble in royal circles at Constantinople. I don't know whether you are acquainted with Turkish history, Mr. Winter, but it is a well-recognized principle that any Sultan is liable to die of diseases which are weird and painfully sudden; for instance, the last one is popularly supposed to have plunged a long sharp scissors into his jugular vein; others drank coffee that disagreed with them, or smoked cigarettes too highly perfumed. In any case, the invariable result of these eccentricities has been that a fresh Sultan occupied the throne. Now, don't forget that I am simply theorizing, for I know no more of this business than you do at this moment, but I still think that you will find some connection between my theory and that which has actually occurred. At any rate, I have said sufficient to prove to you the importance of not being too ready to make arrests."

"I quite see that," was the thoughtful rejoinder. "But you must not forget, sir, that we in Scotland Yard are bound by rules of procedure. Perhaps you will not mind my suggesting that a word from you to the Foreign Office might induce the authorities to communicate officially with the Home Department, and then instructions could be issued to the police which would leave the matter a little more open than we are able to regard it under the existing conditions."

"I will see to that," said the barrister. "When does the inquest take place?"

"This evening at six."

"It will be adjourned, of course?"

"Oh, yes; no evidence will be given beyond that necessary for purposes of identification, and this can be supplied by the police themselves and an official from the Turkish Embassy."

"Very well. You will mention to no one the theory I have just explained to you?"

"Not if you wish it, sir."

"I do wish it at present. Which way are you going?"

"Straight to the Yard."

"In that case I will accompany you a portion of the distance."

They had now reached Hyde Park Corner and, hailing a hansom, Brett told the driver to stop outside the Carlton Hotel. The man whipped up his horse and drove in the direction of Constitution Hill, evidently intending to avoid the congested traffic of Picadilly and take the longer, but more pleasant, route through the Green Park and the Mall.

"By the way," said Brett, "did the driver of the hansom which conveyed Mr. Talbot and his companion from Albert Gate on Monday night tell you which road he followed?"

"Yes," said the detective, "he went this way."

Brett rubbed his hands, with a queer expression of thoughtful pleasure on his keen face.

"Ah," he said, "I like that. It is well to be on the scent."

He did not explain to his professional confrere that it was a positive stimulant to his abounding energy and highly strung nerves to find that he was actually following the path taken by the criminal whom he was pursuing. The mere fact lent reality to the chase. For a mile, at any rate, there could be no mistake, though he might expect a check at the Carlton. Arrived there, Brett alighted.

"Are you going to make any inquiries in the hotel, sir?" said Mr. Winter.

"Why should I?" said Brett. "You have already ascertained from the management that no person even remotely resembling any of the parties concerned is staying at the hotel."

"Yes, confound it, I know I did," cried the other, "but I never told you so."

"That is all right," laughed Brett. "Come and see me at my chambers this evening when the inquest is finished. Perhaps by that time we may be able to determine our plan of action."

Once left to himself, Brett did not enter the hotel. He made it an invariable rule in conducting inquiries of this nature to adopt the French method of "reconstituting" the incidents of a crime, so far as such a course was possible in the absence of the persons concerned. He reasoned that a very plausible explanation of the unexpected appearance of the three strangers in the Albert Gate mansion on Monday night had been given to Jack Talbot. This young gentleman, it might be taken for granted, had not been selected by the Foreign Office to carry to a successful issue such an important and delicate matter as that entrusted to him, without some good grounds for the faith in his qualities exhibited by his superiors. Brett thought he could understand the brother's character and attributes from his favorable analysis of the sister, and it was quite reasonable, therefore, to believe that Talbot was a man not likely to be easily duped. The principals in this crime were evidently well aware of the trust reposed in the Assistant Under-Secretary, and they, again, would not underrate his intelligence. Hence there was a good cause for Talbot to accept the explanations, whatever they were, given him during the conclave in the dining-room; the effect of which, in Inspector Sharpe's words, had been to "puzzle" the young Englishman. Further, there must have been a very potent inducement held out before Talbot would consent to drive off with a stranger at such a late hour, and when the cab was dismissed at the Carlton, the excuse given would certainly be quite feasible.

"Ih must surely be this," communed Brett. "The man explained that he was a stranger in London, that he lived quite close to the Carlton Hotel, and that he found it convenient not only for the purpose of giving directions that would be understood, but also for paying fares, to direct the drivers of hired vehicles to go there and not to his own exact address, which he had found by experience many of them did not recognize, whilst his knowledge of the language was not ample enough to enable him to describe the locality more precisely. It follows, then, in unerring sequence, that Talbot was conveyed to some place within a very short distance of the spot where I now stand."

He looked along Pall Mall, up the Haymarket, and through Cockspur street, and he noted with some degree of curiosity that there were very few residential buildings in the neighborhood. Clubs, theatres, big commercial establishments and insurance offices occupied the bulk of the available space. It was a part of his theory that none of the other great hotels in this district could harbor the criminals, otherwise there would have been no excuse to stop the hansom outside the Carlton.

Brett did not take long to make up his mind once he had decided upon a definite course. A call at the Foreign Office procured him an official authorization from the United-Secretary to inquire into the circumstances of Talbot's disappearance and a promise that the Home Office should be communicated with.

He desired to review the whole of the circumstances attending this strange mystery of modern life, and the result of his reflections quickly became apparent when he reached his residence, for in the first instance he dispatched a telegram, and then made several notes in his private diary.

The telegram, in due course, produced an elderly pensioned police inspector, a quiet, reserved man, whom the barrister had often employed. He explained briefly the circumstances attending Mr. Talbot's disappearance, and added—

"I want you to find out the names, and if possible the business—together with any other information you may happen to come across—of every person who lives within a distance, roughly speaking, of two hundred yards from the Carlton Hotel. The Post Office Directory and your own observation will narrow down the inquiry considerably. It is the unrecorded balance of inhabitants with whom I am particularly anxious to become definitely acquainted." The man saluted and withdrew.

Brett imagined that he would now be left in undisputed enjdyment for a few hours' rest before the Earl of Fairholme kept the appointment fixed for seven o'clock. But in this he was mistaken.

Smith brought in some tea, which was refreshing after his walk, for the engrossing nature of the morning's occupation caused him to forget lunch. A cigar and evening paper next claimed his attention, but he had barely settled down to the perusal of a garbled account of events at Albert Gate when his man again entered, announcing in mysterious tones the presence of Mr. Winter. Smith's attitude towards the myrmidons of Scotland Yard who occassionally visited the barrister on business, was peculiar. He regarded them with suspicion, tempered by wholesome awe, and he now made known the arrival of the detective in such a manner as caused his master to laugh at him.

"Show him in, Smith," he said cheerily: "he has not come to arrest me this time."

Winter entered, and a glance at his face brought Brett quickly to his feet.

"What is the matter?" he cried when the door had closed behind the servant. "You have received important news?"

"I should think I have," replied the detective, dropping into a seat. "I was just writing a report in the Yard when I was sent for by the Chief, and you could have knocked me down with a feather when I heard the reason. I suppose I am acting rightly in coming at once to tell you, although in my flurry at the time I quite forgot to ask the Chief's permission, but as you are mixed up in the case at the request of the Foreign Office, I thought you ought to learn what had happened."

"Well, what is it?" cried Brett, impatient at the other's careful provisos.

"Simply this," said the detective. "Mr. Jack Talbot bolted from London on Tuesday in company with a lady. They crossed over from Dover to Calais by the midday boat, and went direct to Paris. Mr. Talbot calmly booked rooms for himself and the girl in the Grand Hotel, had the nerve to write 'Mr. and Mrs. Talbot, 118 Ulster Gardens, London, W.,' in the register, and both of them disappeared forthwith. But we will soon lay hands on the gentleman, no fear. I have somehow suspected, Mr. Brett, that your notion of a political crime was all poppycock. It is a good big brazen-faced steal."

"Is it?" said Brett, his face glistening with excitement at the intelligence so suddenly conveyed to him. "Would you mind explaining to me how this precious information reached you?"

(To be continued.)

KEEP THE SKIN CLEAR

With

CUTICURA

Soap and Ointment

No other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough and oily skin, itching, scaly scalps, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails. They do even more for skin-tortured and disfigured infants.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the skin and hair, will be sent, post-free, on application to "Cuticura," Dept. 5Q, Boston, U. S. A.

GUARDING CROWN JEWELS.

A Remarkably Strong Room in the Tower of London.

There has only been one attempt to steal the Crown Jewels from the Tower of London, and that was when the famous Irish adventurer, "Colonel" Blood, attempted the feat in 1671. The clumsy methods of the notorious "Colonel" are not to be compared with the subtle and scientific ways of the modern cracksman, but even the latter—did he possess the genius of a dozen Raffleses—could scarcely hope to steal the Crown Jewels from the new Jewel Room, which is now completed in the Wakefield Tower of the Tower of London.

The floor and walls are made of solid stone, while a new steel grid has been built to enclose the plate-glass regalia show-case. The bars of this grid are made of the finest tempered steel, the ends being embedded in the solid masonerry of the roof and flooring. Connected with this grid is a hidden electric alarm, which instantly warns the custodians of the Tower if a bar be wrenched ever so slightly.

The doors of the Jewel Room are iron lined and fitted with the latest in complicated locks. The jewels themselves will lie in automatically closing steel cases, absolutely burglar-proof. While the room is being completed the jewels are kept in the Government strong-room, and when everything is ready they will be taken to the Wakefield Tower under guard and mounted for public exhibition in their new cases behind the grid.

At one time it was proposed that a trap should be constructed, so that, if necessary, the jewels could be lowered through the stone floor into the dungeon beneath the Wakefield Tower. This dungeon, however, is below the level of the river, and very damp; consequently the scheme was noandoned. As a matter of fact, nothing has been housed in this dungeon since the Middle Ages, when prisoners languished in the Tower.

FOOD AGAIN

A Mighty Important Subject to Everyone.

A Boston lady talks entertainingly of food and the changes that can be made in health by some knowledge on that line. She says:

"An injury to my spine in early womanhood left me subject to severe sick headaches which would last three or four days at a time, and a violent course of drugging brought on constipation with all the ills that follow.

"My appetite was always light and uncertain and many kinds of food distressed me.

"I began to eat Grape-Nuts food two or three years ago, because I liked the taste of it, and I kept on because I soon found it was doing me good.

"I eat it regularly at breakfast, frequently at luncheon, and again before going to bed—and have no trouble in 'sleeping on it.' It has relieved my constipation, my headaches have practically ceased, and I am in better physical condition at the age of 63 than I was at 40.

"I give Grape-Nuts credit for restoring my health, if not saving my life, and you can make no claim for it too strong for me to endorse." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

TWO CRITICS.

A speaker oft proclaimed aloud
That he could always hold a crowd;
He felt that he could prove it:
But of a paper's work, said he,
"The paper is no use to me;
For I am far above it."

An editor desired to find
In that great speaker's cultured mind
Some gems for future leaders:
But in the speaker's sounding brass
He only found what is like gas,
Despised by thoughtful readers.

The paper had no voice to plead:
The speaker had no power to read
With profit from another:
And then because they failed to see
That each the other's friend should be
They criticized each other.

T. WATSON.

Iona Station, Ont., 1911.

If a girl meets a man who desn't admire her she imagines that he is a confirmed woman hater.

Men have no idea what funny ideas women harbor until they get married.

BONDS

For a trustee investment in Ontario a most satisfactory selection could be made from these high-grade offerings:

City of Toronto 4's, due 1944.
City of London 4½'s, due 1913.
Township of York 5's, due 1912-31.
County of Simcoe (guaranteeing Town of Midland) 5's, due 1911-40.
City of Fort William 4½'s, due 1927.
City of St. Thomas, Ont., 4½'s, due 1912-41.
City of Niagara Falls 5's, due 1911-30.
Town of Port Hope 4½'s, due 1913-50.
Town of Petrolea 4½'s, due 1911-34.
Town of Walkerville 4½'s, due 1911-30.
Town of Welland 4½'s, due 1940.
The income yield ranges from 4 per cent. to 4¾ per cent.
A wider range of debentures of this character furnished on request.

DOMINION SECURITIES CORPORATION-LIMITED

TORONTO . MONTREAL . LONDON, ENG.

On the Farm

THE FORMATION OF THE SOIL.

Vegetation begins with the very simplest forms of plants, such as lichens and mosses, and is, of course, very scanty at first. These plants on dying become a part of the soil, all of the plant nutrients used by them being thus returned, writes Mr. Alfred Vivian.

Food that has once been used by plants is very readily made available to succeeding crops through the process of decay. The soil is now able to produce a larger crop, as it contains the plant food in the previous growth in addition to that added through the agencies detailed above

In this way the growth gradually becomes more abundant. The plants upon decaying give rise to humus, and this increases the fertility of the land both by being a source of plant food and by increasing the water-retaining power. Humus is a very important factor in fertility. During the decomposition of the plants, acid substances are formed which act upon the rocks in such a way as to make more of the plant food available.

One of the products of decay or fermentation is carbonic acid, and this is dissolved in the soil water, and this gas-containing water is an important help in disintegrating the rocks.

As the nutritive materials increase from these various causes the lower simpler forms of plant life are gradually replaced by those which are more highly organized.

With the advent of plants, like our common crops, which bear roots, other factors in the formation of soils are introduced. The roots secrete an acid substance that has a solvent effect on the mineral matter of the soil, and the roots themselves also assist mechanically in breaking down the rocks.

All are familiar with the tremendous force exerted by plants in breaking apart rocks and stones if once their tender rootlets obtain a foothold in a crevice.

The roots penetrate the soil sometimes to great depths, and as they decay after the death of the plant, they leave little channels in the soil which serve to carry down water laden with carbonic acid, as well as to introduce the oxygen of the air, that, in its turn, is a factor in bringing about chemical changes in the soil, which assist in making plant food available.

Sooner or later in the process of soil formation, plants of the pulse family, (leguminous plants), such as clover, vetches, lupines, etc., are introduced.

If you dig up some of these plants you will find little nodules or tubercles on their roots. These nodules are the homes of numerous bacteria, which enable the plants to derive part of their food from the nitrogen of the atmosphere.

This peculiar property of leguminous plants is of great importance, for it is undoubtedly nature's principal method of increasing the supply of nitrogen in the ground.

The nitrogen compounds accumulated by these plants eventually become a part of the soil through their decay, thus adding to its fertility.

It will readily be understood that the various agencies concerned in the formation of the soil do not act separately nor necessarily in any such order as that in which they have been discussed.

As a matter of fact all the processes described take place simultaneously. The lower plants do not wait for the rocks to be pulverized, for we see such organisms as the lichens growing on rocks from which one would think it impossible to obtain food.

If the lichen is removed, grooves or furrows will be found on the surface of the stone, due to the action of the plant.

Nor are all soils formed directly from the original rocks, for one of the effects of weathering, etc., is to separate such rocks as the granite into simpler substances, with the result, for example, that huge deposits of limestone are formed in one place, and in another whole hills of sandstone.

The soil is almost constantly moving, for some of the same agencies which form soils are continually carrying them away. Running water grinds the rocks, but at the same time transports the fine particles to lower levels. It cuts deep valleys in the surface of the earth and carries away the debris, depositing it at various distances from its source.

This study of the formation of the soil then suggests two things that the farmer can do to prevent the exhaustion of the fertility.

The first is to treat the soil so as to assist and hasten nature in the process of converting the plant food into available forms by means of good tillage.

The second is to return to the soil by means of manure and fertilizers an amount of plant food equivalent to that removed by the crop.

"THE BEST HOME PRESERVES"

These are made by rightly combining luscious fresh fruits with

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR

The best results are then assured.

Ask your grocer for Redpath Extra Granulated Sugar. He knows then that you want the best.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal

Established in 1854 by John Redpath.

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

INVALID'S DISHES.

Emergency Beef Tea.—One pound of shredded beef, one pint of water, place the meat in a saucepan with cold water, stir it to separate the meat, and allow the water to extract the juice. Leave for ten minutes, then place over a moderate fire, and stir till it simmers, then pour off the liquid, remove the fat from the surface with paper, and serve at once.

Fish in Milk.—One whitefish, milk, salt, pepper, half teaspoonful of butter, and half a teaspoonful of flour. Butter a pie dish, lay the fish in it, and cover with milk, sprinkle with pepper and salt, and bake till the flesh will leave the bones when gently touched. Take up the fish, lay it on a dish, put the milk into a saucepan, thicken it with butter and flour worked together, and pour around. Garnish with parsley and slices of lemon.

Barley Water.—One tablespoonful of pearl barley, lemon rind, sugar, and one quart of water. Wash the barley and put it in a jug with some lemon rind and two or three lumps of sugar, pour boiling water over, and let it stand for six hours; strain for use.

Emergency Barley Water — One dessertspoonful of pearl barley, a strip of lemon rind, sugar to taste, and a quart of boiling water. Mix a dessertspoonful of barley with a wineglassful of cold water into a smooth paste; pour this into a stewpan containing one quart of boiling water and stir over the fire for five minutes. Flavor with lemon and sugar, either or both, according to taste; allow the mixture to cool, and strain.

Calf's Foot.—One calf foot, one quart of milk, one small onion, half a head of celery, small piece of lemon peel, one ounce of butter, one ounce of flour, slice of lemon, chopped parsley. Put the prepared foot in a stewpan with enough milk to cover, add the onion, celery and lemon peel, cook gently till the meat is tender enough for the bone to be removed, place it on a dish, and keep it warm. Strain the gravy, thicken it with the butter rolled in flour, season with pepper, salt, and a few grains of powdered mace, and serve. Garnish with slices of lemon and chopped parsley.

Boiled Coffee.—One egg, a small teacupful of milk, a few drops of essence of vanilla. Beat the egg thoroughly and mix with the milk, pour into a buttered breakfast cup, cover with buttered paper, and strain for twenty minutes. Turn out, sift a little sugar over, and serve.

BREADS.

Virginia Spoon Bread.—Stir into a quart of warm salted milk a teacupful of fine yellow corn meal and four eggs well beaten; add a little sugar, two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter, and cook thoroughly. Turn out into buttered baking dish and brown in the oven. Serve hot with syrup, honey, or just butter. When properly made is smooth and fine, slightly thicker than mashed potatoes, and in the delicacy of flavor bears no resemblance to ordinary corn bread.

Three Bread Recipes.—Take three pints water, two hot and one cold. Into the lukewarm water place one cake compressed yeast; into the hot water place three large tablespoons lard. Allow to melt and cool. When perfectly cool pour into the yeast mixture. Add three teaspoons salt and three teaspoons sugar. Carefully sift three quarts flour and add slowly, beating with a wooden spoon or paddle until you have used it all. Finish mixing with the hands and set aside in covered pan to rise for two hours. Then put in pans; let rise again and bake. This bread can be started at 8 o'clock in the morning and baked by 11 o'clock, thus doing away with the old tedious way of baking bread. The beating makes it very fine grained and takes the place of kneading with hands.

MEATS AND DRESSING.

Veal Breast and Dressing.—Get a three pound breast of veal and have the butcher cut a pocket on the meat side for filling. Filling: One calf's heart, ground, one-half loaf of bread, one egg, one quarter minced Bermuda onion, three leaves of sage, powdered. Soak the bread in luke warm milk and water, then squeeze it until nearly dry and add all the other ingredients. Put into the veal pocket and salt and pepper the veal. Lay two slices of salt pork over the top of breast. Put a few slices of onion around, according to taste, and about one pint of water. Put in a slow oven for two hours and baste often.

Hamburger Loaf.—Three pounds hamburger, six onions sliced thin, two tablespoonfuls salt, pinch red pepper, teaspoonful of chili powder, add about one loaf stale bread well soaked in hot water. Mix all together with hands in shape of a loaf, cover with tomato sauce, and bake for one hour in slow oven. Can be served either hot or sliced cold.

DESSERTS.

Banana Fluff.—Slice six large bananas, sprinkle with lemon juice and grated cocoanut, and place directly on ice for one hour. Then mash smooth with a wooden spoon, add a scant cup of powdered sugar and the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, which should be lightly folded in. Pour into freezer, turning the crank about four minutes or until there is a slight resistance, when one-half pint of whipped cream may be added. Freeze to the consistency of mush.

Rice Blanc Mange.—Into a double boiler put three cupfuls of milk, a pinch of salt, and a scant half-cupful of rice, which has been thoroughly washed. Cook until the milk is entirely absorbed. Soak one-third of a box of gelatin in cold water, dissolve over hot water, and add to the rice mixture. As the mixture begins to thicken add one-half cupful of powdered sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla, and a wineglassful of sherry, and finally add one-half pint of cream whipped to a stiff froth. Turn into a wet mold and set away in a cool place until needed.

GRAPE RECIPES.

Grape Pie.—Make a rich pie crust the same as you do in making any other pie. Wash the grapes and remove the skins. Then fill the pie with the skins and sprinkle two pounds of flour and one and one-half cupfuls of sugar over the skins. Put on top crust and bake. The remaining part of the grapes may be used for jelly. Concord grapes must be used.

Grape Catsup.—Five pounds of ripe grapes picked from the stems, three pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, one tablespoonful each of cinnamon, pepper and cloves, one-half teaspoon of salt. Boil the grapes and strain to remove seeds and skins. Add the other ingredients and boil until thick.

COOKING AND VEGETABLES.

Hints on cooking vegetables:

After preparing vegetables, place in cold water for some time before using. Always let water boil before putting them to cool, and continue to boil until done.

Turnips should be peeled and boiled from thirty minutes to an hour.

Beets, boil from one to two hours; then put in cold water and slip skin off.

Spinach, boil twenty minutes.

Parsnips, boil from twenty to thirty minutes.

Onions, best boiled in two or three waters, adding milk the last time.

String beans should be boiled one and one-half hours.

Shell beans boil one hour.

Green corn, boil twenty to thirty minutes.

Green peas should be boiled in little water as possible; boil twenty minutes.

Asparagus, same as peas; serve on toast with cream gravy.

Cabbage should be boiled from one to two hours in plenty of water; salt while boiling.

Winter squash, cut in pieces and boil twenty to forty minutes in small quantity of water; when done press water out, mash smooth, season with butter, pepper, and salt.

CLEANING.

Brass—Wash in warm soapsuds, using woollen cloth to polish lacquered brass; clean with cloth wet in alcohol.

Copper—Polish with hot vinegar in which salt has been dissolved; finish off with an oil to polish.

Nickel—Cover with thin paste made of emery powder, with turpentine and sweet oil in equal parts.

Steel—To remove rust apply thick paste of emery powder mixed with equal parts sweet oil and turpentine; finish by rubbing with woollen cloth and a dry powder.

Bronze—Wash in soap suds and ammonia, dry and polish with tripoli or rotten stone, mixed with oil or paraffin. Rub off with soft cloth.

Drains—Flush with four ounces chloride of lime dissolved in one gallon of water.

Mirrors—Wipe with cloth wet with alcohol.

Woodwork—Wipe with soft cloth dipped in gasoline, which will remove all grease, finger marks, smoke, or dust.

Linoleum—Wipe up with warm water and a little kerosene.

Gilt frames—Wipe off with soft cloth dipped in white of egg beaten and mixed with one ounce of soda; afterward polish with silk cloth.

Leather furniture—Cream with hot milk and polish with thin mixture of melted wax and turpentine.

Willow furniture—To clean or tighten, also to prevent from brittleness, wet thoroughly with warm water, dry in sun.

Furniture—Good polish is made of one pound melted wax, one pint turpentine, one gill alcohol beaten in at the last. Apply with soft cloth and rub well. White spots are easily removed from furniture by holding over it a hot iron. When quite warm rub hard with grain of wood.

GOES MAD DURING OPERATION

Students Have Desperate Struggle With Surgeon.

A strange story of a surgeon going mad while performing an operation is reported by the St. Petersburg correspondent of the "Petit Journal."

The scene was Chita, in Siberia, and the doctor's patient was a working man whose condition admitted of no delay. He was chloroformed, and two assistants had placed everything ready for use by the doctor when the latter, much to their surprise, began to make irrelevant remarks. He took up his bistoury, however, and made the required incision with his usual skill and precision, his assistants being thereby reassured.

Suddenly he burst into a laugh, saying that all their trouble was useless, adding: "It would be better if we finished him off with a stroke of the knife." In a flash the assistants realised that their chief had gone mad, and one of them placed himself between the doctor and the patient, whilst the other threw himself upon the lunatic and endeavored to wrest the knife from his grasp.

With maniacal rage the doctor struggled with his assistant, while the nurses fled from the surgery in terror. Another assistant, however, with ready resource, continued the operation already begun, and when the madman had been overpowered successfully completed it. The doctor has been placed in an asylum.

THE BIRD CAGE DANGER.

Poison Gets Into the System Through Carelessness.

Bedsteads and birdcages are among the sources of plumbism—the deadly lead poison disease—according to a report by Dr. Robert Edginton in the current "British Medical Journal" on the industrial diseases of Birmingham. "In putting together chandeliers and gas fittings, white lead is used in the joints," he says, "and it is the custom of the workmen to test the joints by sucking the air out of the tubes, so that in this case the lead is probably conveyed directly into the stomach." The process which figures highest (with seventeen cases in a list of eight-four instances of plumbism) is the painting of motor-car and coach bodies, safes, and stoves, whose glossy, enamel-like surface exacts a heavy toll from the workers owing to the lead dust inhaled during the repeated and sand-papering involved in securing a perfectly smooth surface. House painters come next, and on the same level as regards frequency of poisoning are the girls who smooth down the paint of bedsteads and birdcages with their hands to get an enamel-like surface. Cases of lead poisoning among tinners and kettle makers are ascribed to the mixture of lead and tin used for the inside surface of kettles and saucepans.

14 YEARS WITHOUT A ROOF.

Aged Couple Prefer to Sleep Under the Stars.

Living near Womenswould, a somewhat remote district of East Kent, England, are two remarkable disciples of open-air life. One is known as "Molly," who is 80 years of age, and the other is her son "Billy," aged 60, who is a chimney sweep. "Molly," and "Billy" are inveterate believers in fresh air, and carry their convictions so far that they will not have a roof above their heads. For 14 years they have lived in a chalk pit however inclement the weather may have been. Some time ago a friend presented them with a hut, thinking they would appreciate it. They slept in it for one night, but the next morning they set fire to it, declaring that it was "too stuffy a place to sleep in."

One morning in the depth of winter "Billy" found a foot and a half of snow on him when he awoke, but he said "it was quite warm underneath."

NO HOD CARRIERS IN JAPAN.

There is no hod-carrying in Japan. The native builders have a method of transporting motar which makes it seem more like play than work—to the onlooker. One man makes this up into balls of about 6lb. weight, which he tosses to a man who stands on a ladder midway between the roof and the ground. This man deftly catches the ball, and then tosses it up to a man who stands on the roof.

Constant use of hard water is injurious to the good appearance of one's finger-nails.

In ancient times the offending hand of a suicide was burnt apart from the body, as a special mark of disgrace.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, OCTOBER 8.

Lesson II. The life-giving stream, Ezek. 47. 1-12. Golden Text, Rev. 22. 17.

Chapter 47.—This chapter belongs to the third and last great section of the latter half of the book—chapters 40-48—which set forth a vision of the final glory and peace of the redeemed people of Israel. The preceding chapters of the section give an account of the temple buildings, and of the ordinances of the temple. The two closing chapters, including the lesson, deal with the life-giving stream issuing from the temple, the boundaries of the holy land, and the disposition of the tribes.

Verse 1. Brought me back — He had been in the outer court of the house of the Lord. There the people were accustomed to worship. Now he is conducted into the temple proper again. Ezekiel, belonging to the priestly class, was minutely familiar with everything that pertained to the temple, as an examination of previous chapters will quickly show. It must be borne in mind, of course, that he is still in the land of captivity. What he describes is part of a vision.

Waters issued out—This figure evidently had its basis in the fact that there existed a fountain, in connection with the temple hill, from which the waters flowed into the valley east of the city and so made their way toward the sea. This stream had, before Ezekiel's time, supplied a beautiful figure to the prophets (compare Isa. 8: 6). The Orientals enlarged upon the blessings brought them by such streams of water. This passage was the basis of Rev. 22. 1-2.

Right side of the house — This would be the south. The stream pursued its course eastward, passing the altar on the south side, and coming forth into the open on the right hand of the outer east gate.

2. He brought me out—As both the inner and outer east gates were closed (Ezek. 44 and 46), the prophet was led from the inner court by way of the north gate, round to the outer east gate, where, from the outside, he saw the stream emerge into the open at the south side of the gate.

3. The man—He is not to be identified with Jehovah, but is an imaginary being, a symbol of the revelation of God. He has the attributes of God, being bright like brass (Ezek. 1. 7), and speaking with authority (Ezek. 40. 3-4). The line in his hand was of flax, and was used for measuring greater distances, as the reed was used for shorter. With it he proceeded a thousand cubits (about a third of a mile) from the point where the water emerged from the gate. At the beginning the stream barely "trickled forth" (margin to verse 2), but already it has become ankle deep.

4-5.—The water rapidly deepens until, a mile from the temple, it has become deep enough to reach a man's loins, and, with another thousand cubits, it becomes an impassable river, one that a man cannot pass through unless he swim. So God's blessings grow more and more abounding as they flow on from life to life. This is the first fact about the river of life—its fullness. It is a picture of the new era of restored hope and felicity in Israel. God is enthroned in the temple, so the waters are represented as issuing from the sanctuary. Whatever blessings are enjoyed in the better day will be from God, and there will be an abundance about them that will leave nothing to be desired.

7. On the one side and on the other—The river flowed down through a gorge, or valley, and, as was usual, there were trees on either side. This suggests freshness and fruitfulness. The Paradise on the first page of Scripture, as well as that on the last page, had trees on the banks of the living streams. The righteous man is like a tree planted by the river. There he is perpetually nourished. The palm tree of the East attains its full perfection only as it is planted by the water.

8. Into the Arabah—This is the depression of the Dead Sea, and southward as far as the gulf of Akabah, a distance of 105 miles. All this country, besides the eastern region, or wilderness of Judaea, and the Dead Sea, is to come within the range of this onflowing river. And whatever is touched is healed. The desert place shall blossom like the rose, the bitter waters of the sea shall be made sweet, and everything shall minister to man's good, both material and spiritual. This is the Jewish conception of the kingdom of God on earth, but it is also a picture of the life-giving properties of the unfailing grace of God in the human heart.

9. Every living creature which swarmeth—Referring to the smaller animals, especially the fish of smaller size. Even in the waters of the Dead Sea, which are destitute of moving life, there shall be a multitude of fish. Where the life of God comes to abound there can abide no death.

10. Engedi—The modern Ain Jidy ("kid's well"), situated on the west shore of the Dead Sea, about half way farther on to the north, in all probability, although it has not been actually identified, lay Eneglaim. The great sea is the Mediterranean.

11. The miry places—These are the marshes about the Dead Sea. They are to be left as salt beds. The saltness of the sea is due to the strata of salt rocks surrounding it.

12. Whose leaf shall not wither. —Compare Psalm 1, and Rev. 22. 2. The leaf is a thing of the springtime. But, with the godly man, it has a perennial freshness. The storms and frosts of the year cannot blight it, for it draws stores of hope and promise eternally from God. Moreover, it is for healing. The sympathy of the godly man is a potion of healing for the wounds and sorrows of the world.

Neither shall the fruit thereof fail.—There is a seasonable fruitfulness, as well as an undying freshness about the good man's life. The end of the good man's life, its purpose, is fruit. The freshness and beauty are a form full of promise. But the tree must ever reach forth to the bearing of fruit, as it will always under the enrichment of the divine life.

ANCIENT COINS.

Jar Full of Gold and Bronze Roman Money Discovered.

A find of gold coins was made by two workmen at the Roman excavations at Corstopitum, the old Roman city near Corbridge, Northumberland, England.

This season the excavations have been conducted in a new field to the west of the excavations made in former years. The coins were in a small bronze jar, and as Mr. Foster, the director of the works, was not present at the time, the foreman took charge of the coins. When an examination was made it was found that there was 159 gold and two bronze coins in a very good state of preservation. They ranged from the period of Nero to that of Marcus Aurolius. The largest number were of the Emperor Trajan, 51 in number.

The ancient coins found at Blackhills, Corsock, Kirkcubrightshire, some time ago have been submitted to an expert on behalf of the crown. A number have been retained for the National Museum of Antiquities and the crown propose to reward the finders for those kept, handing them back the remainder.

All the coins are silver pennies, with the exception of a silver halfpenny and a silver farthing. The pennies includes Scottish (long cross) coins of the reigns of Alexander III., John Baliol, and Robert the Bruce. The Irish pennies belong to the reigns of Edward I. and II., and had been minted at Dublin and Waterford. English pennies of the same reigns were minted in London, Durham, Canterbury, Berwick, Bristol, York and elsewhere. There are also a number of foreign "sterlings." The halfpenny is of the reign of Edward I. and was minted at Berwick, while the farthing, minted in London, is supposed to belong to the same reign or that of Edward II.

UNCLE HIRAM TO HIS NEPHEW

On the One Priceless Treasure Which all Men Share Alike.

"Stevey, my boy," said Uncle Hiram, "one man may have more talent than another or more courage or more money, but there is one thing that no man on earth can have any more of than you have, and that is time.

"Did you ever stop to think of that? Or maybe you haven't come to it yet, that of the most precious thing of all, the same being, I repeat, time, nobody, no matter who he is, can have any more than you have. There can't be any favoritism or special privilege or gouging or monopoly in time. You get what's coming to you anyway, and no man on earth can take it away from you.

"And isn't this something to be cheerful over? Why, Stevey, it's the grandest thing going to think that of the most valuable thing of all we've got as much as the man that rides by us in a $10,000 automobile. But, and now I'm getting down to the sermon, Stevey, this most precious thing of all is the thing of which we are most wasteful.

"We get our full share of it sure, but we waste it ourselves shockingly.

"Don't waste time, Stevey, please don't. As you feel now you've got a million years ahead of you, more or less, plenty of time; but time is one of those things that once lost can never be recovered. Don't waste a minute of it. When you play, play; sink the shop; forget it utterly; but when you work utilize all your time. Don't dwadle it away."

Men wouldn't have time to earn a living if they had to put their hair up as women do.

NEWS FROM SUNSET COAST

WHAT THE WESTERN PEOPLE ARE DOING.

Progress of the Great West Told In a Few Pointed Items.

A new ward was recently opened in Nanaimo hospital.

A Dutch bank is to be established in Calgary, Alberta.

A permit has been taken out for a $40,000 hotel at Edmonton.

The grain yield in Manitoba is between 17 and 30 bushels to the acre.

A large addition is to be built to the St. Eugene Hospital at Cranbrook, B. C.

During August, 1,335 criminal cases were disposed of in the Winnipeg court.

The City of Nelson, B. C., has appealed for provincial help to run down fire bugs.

It is expected that a regular street car service will soon be inaugurated in Moose Jaw.

A new incinerator is to be erected in the garbage wharf in Victoria, at a cost of $4,839.

Extra rooms were engaged in South Vancouver to provide for the influx of school children.

"Deadman's Island," off the coast, will probably soon be acquired by the City of Vancouver.

The vital statistics of Victoria for August show a total of 66 births, 50 deaths, and 86 marriages.

There is at present quite a rush of settlers to the Dog Lake district, about 125 miles north of Winnipeg.

The C. P. R. have offered prizes for the best alfalfa grown in 1912, in the irrigation block, east of Calagary.

It is said that a big find of gold, silver and copper ore, has been made in the Yellowhead (B. C.), district.

A ship carrying 7,000 tons of sulphur for chemical works along the Sound, landed at Victoria, B.C., the other day.

In future Kildman, Man., is to allow no animals the freedom of the city, as a herd by-law has recently been passed.

Congars are multiplying at a great rate in the Bayonne country, B. C. A passenger along a trail recently met on less than five. Deer and other game are being destroyed.

This year, for the first time, men were brought from the Pacific Coast to assist in harvesting operations of the central west.

Great activeity in the Revelstoke mining district is reported by experts who have recently visited that section of the province.

The first shipment of 1911 Fraser river salmon, 2,000 cases, arrived recently in Vancouver, and was shipped to Great Britain.

It is proposed to pipe natural gas from Bow Island to High River, Alta., for power and domestic purposes. The rate will be 20 and 35 cents per thousand, respectively.

Over a hundred poaching boats were seen recently taking in salmon by thousands, off the west coast of Vancouver Island. Most were operating within the 3-mile limit.

Coal has been discovered within ten miles of Fort George and it is the supply point for the great Cariboo gold district, which has produced one hundred million dollars to date.

Owing to the cancellation of the close season for salmon by the Federal Government the packers on the Fraser had been able to put up approximately 210,000 cases of all kinds of fish.

One of Elko (B. C.'s) most respected citizens, Fred Sheridan died recently from acute blood poisoning. A friend in a joke had crowned Mr. Sheridan with a cigar box, and a splinter caused a slight scalp scalp wound, with ended in death.

SCRAP-IRON CHURCH CLOCK.

Made by Villager as Coronation Memorial.

The church clock dedicated on Sunday at Wootton Rivers, a Wiltshire village near Marlborough, England, as a coronation memorial, is probably without an equal in the country.

It was made by a villager named Spratt, who, hearing that local funds were insufficient for the proposed addition of a clock to the church tower, offered to make one provided assistance was given with the heavier work and the necessary metal and other material were supplied to him.

All manner of material—including parts of old bicycles, perambulators, reaping, mowing, and threshing machines, and a chaff-cutter—was brought to Spratt, whose cottage resembled a scrap-iron store.

The two great wheels of the clock, which have 120 teeth each, were taken from disused separators, and other equally incongruous material was used.

On one of the dials are the words, "Glory be to God," instead of the usual Roman numerals.

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech. Props.

THURSDAY, OCT. 5, '11

CREDITON.

Samuel Brown has installed a modern seed-cleaning apparatus with elevators in his seedhouse. He is now prepared to handle seed of any quantity with despatch.

Quarterly services were held in the Evangelical Church last Saturday and Sunday. On account of Rev. Litt, the the presiding Elder, being absent, the Communion service was held by the resident pastor, Rev. Burn.

Joseph Lawson has completed the concrete abutments of Ford's bridge.

Nomination and election bills are out for the election of a new Reeve to occupy the vacancy for the remainder of the year caused by the death of the late Reeve, Sam'l Sweitzer. Nomination will be held next Monday in the Town Hall. The general feeling is that there should be no election and this expense might as well be spared.

Next Sunday evening the Rev. Burn will preach a sermon to men. The choir gallery will be occupied by the male chorus, who will render several selections.

Our flax-men are busy getting in their flax. On account of the wet weather they have received a set-back.

Mrs. Will Kerr of London is spending a few days in town visiting her brother Frank Taylor.

Frank Smith of Toronto spent last Thursday in town the guest of his mother Mrs. Henry Motz.

(Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Eilber are visiting their uncle Mr. Samuel Eilber of Ubly, Mich.

The special anniversary services were held in the Methodist Church last Sunday, Rev. R. W. Knowles of St. Thomas a former pastor here, occupied the pulpit morning and evening and preached to a large and interested audience. On Monday evening, a program was given which was a great delight to hear. The church was crowded to the doors Addresses were delivered by Rev. Blatchford of Centralia and Rev. Burn of the Evangelical Church. The choir rendered several inspiring anthems, Mrs. F. Young sang a beautiful solo and Miss Myrtle Clark delivered an excellent reading. The anniversary this year has proved a great success. The subscriptions alone amounting to $150.00.

GRAND BEND.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bossenberry visited in Parkhill for a few days last week.—Mrs. Tiedeman and children visited in Forest last week.—Mr. D. Baird has gone to Lucan to work.—The Harvest Home Dinner was well attended on Tuesday evening. The audience was delighted with the program provided by Paul Bros. of Kirkton. Proceeds amounted to $86.—The community was shocked Tuesday about 3 o'clock when Mr. Sweitzer was brought here after being shot. —Messrs. N. D. Hurdon and Jas Jeckell of Exeter are fishing and hunting down on the old river.

WINCHELSEA

September School Report—Below are the names of pupils absent during all or part of the examination.—Tommy Heywood, Wesley Heywood, George Johns, Percy Coward, Vera Heywood, Lewis Cornish, Dia Cornish, Hardwich Cornish Eric Coward. V.—Total 730, I. Creery 547; Sr. IV.—Total 830, E. Coward 396 Jr. IV.—Total 830, G. Duncan 708, L. Johns 636, I. Heywood 599, D.Creery 508, D. Cornish 377, H. Cornish 368; Jr. III.—Total 600, V. Bell 527, W. Routly 506, M. Washburn 479, L.Cornish 377, G. Delbridge 353, A. Creery 315, V. Coward 219. Jr. II.—Total 407. M. Camm 415, L. Johns 408, W. Shelton 404, F. Heywood 391, M.Cornish 368, M. Heywood 215; Pt. II.—Total 410, F. Skinner 351, B. Medd 343, G. Creery 340, F. Routly 333, C. Bell 331 M. Cornish 330,, J. Wilson 301, Ray Johns 262, E. Johns 224, R. Delbridge 180.—Jessie A. Hamilton, teacher.

Among those who attended the Watson Coward nuptials last week were, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Coward, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and daughter, Misses Almena and Lily Heywood of London. Earl Coward of Chatham and Miss Laura Elliott of Thedford.—E. B. Neeb of Toronto was the guest of his brother Albert over Sunday.—Mr. Wallace of Merlin is completing the contract of digging the Winchelsea ditch.

One of the most pleasing events of the season occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Coward, Winchelsea, on Wednesday, Sept. 27th, when their only daughter, Vera M. E., was united in marriage to Mr. A. N. Watson, a young farmer from near Kirkton. About 11.30 a.m. while the Sunshine choir sang, "Keep Smiling" the bride, led by her father, took her place beside the groom under a dainty evergreen arch, tastefully decorated with asters and dahlias and large floral bell. The bride was becomingly attired in cream duchess satin with pearl trimmings. She wore a dainty veil surmounted with wreath of lilies of the valley and carried on her arm a large boquet of bridal roses. Master Percy Coward acted as page, while little Adelaide Jackson of London made a dainty flower girl. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Steadman of Elimville in the presence of nearly one hundred guests. While congratulations were being extended Miss Helena Routly sang "Beautiful Garden of Roses" Good wishes having been offered by all the company then repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous dinner was served. This room was also nicely decorated in red, white and blue, with an abundance of flowers. Many good and useful presents were conferred, among them being a pretty music cabinet, the gift of Sunshine choir, of which the bride has long been a valued member. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold watch and chain, dainty engraved, to the flower girl, a pearl stick pin. About four p.m. amid showers of rice and confetti, Mr. and Mrs. Watson left in an auto for St. Marys, enroute for Toronto. The brides going away suit was of navy blue serge, with long black satin coat and large white hat mounted with heavy willow plume. Besides guests from the surrounding neighborhood, friends were present from Toronto, London, Chatham, Mitchell, St. Marys, Thedford, and Exeter.—The bride is a popular young lady in this vicinity and will be missed. Her many friends wish her and her husband much happiness and prosperity for the future.

On Monday evening, Sept. 25th, the members of the Sunday School class to which Miss Vera Coward belonged met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kerr, and bestowed upon the bride-to-be a kitchen shower. The occasion was a particularly merry one on account of it being a perfect surprise to the lady in question, and for a time excitement ran high. Upon Miss Coward's entrance a "sound of glee" was in the air, which when subsided, was followed by an appropriate address. After an hour or so music and fun, and a lunch served by the hostess, the little company journeyed homeward, each wondering, who's turn would come next.

The following is the address;—

Dear Vera.—

We your companions in S. S. class, and also in social life, desire to show in a "tiny" and "tinny" way, something of our appreciation of you, dear girl, as an associate and friend. We could say lots of nice things about you, but perhaps if we told all our hearts could say, the surprise might be too great for you, and besides, we might make you vain, and that would be too bad. We like, you, we are sorry to lose you, sorry that old ties must be broken and new ones made, but we will follow you with the most kindly feeling, and very best wishes for a long, prosperous, and happy wedded life. When you are making toast, beating your eggs, grating you lemon and nutmeg, picking up your dust, etc., etc., we hope you'll think kindly of a certain few of your Sunshine friends, and then perhaps your gifts so small and "tiny" may be the means of keeping unbroken our ties of friendship. To you and that young man, whom you have chosen for a partner in life, we extend our very heartiest wishes for your future happiness. Signed— Mrs. W. W. Kerr, Mrs. A. Francis, Mrs. C. J. Camm, Jessie A. Hamilton, Helena Routly, Maggie Clarke, Ella Robinson Almena Heywood.

DASHWOOD

When Fred Goodman, a laborer returned from work at six o'clock, Sept. 26th, he found his wife, an aged German lady, dying at the foot of the celler steps. She had a severe fracture of the skull, and just lived long enough to state that sometime during the afternoon while all alone in the house, she was coming up from the cellar, when she made a misstep and fell. Miss Goodman was 80 years of age, and had been practically a helpless invalid for some time, her husband finding it necessary to do all the housework besides dressing and undressing the lady, day after day. She attempted to do some little work this afternoon with fatal results. In this sad case there is an echo of the Farmers Bank disaster. This couple had their all in it, which was to keep them in their declining years. Since the bank failed the husband had to leave his wife alone and go out as a mason's laborer, although he is 78 years of age and getting feeble.

WOODHAM

Ernest Wilson of Baseline left for the West a few days ago.—Miss Ada McCurdy of Kirkton is visiting friends in St. Marys.—Mrs. Jonathan Shier has been on the sick list for the past week. —Armour Haines left last week week for Toronto Twhere he will attend the faculty of education.—Nurse Reice returned to London last week after two months of service in the home of Mr. Jos. Rinn.—The annual Fowl supper and Entertainment will be held in the Methodist Church Woodham on Tuesday evening Oct. 10. The Anniversary sermons will be preached on Sunday Oct. 8th.—The new Telephone directory of the St. Marys, Kirkton and Exeter lines is being placed in the hands of subscribers it contains about five hundred and twenty-five names of telephone users as well as those of Exeter and St. Marys.

KIRKTON

On Saturday last at St. Marys a court case of which Rev. B. Snell and C. Hazelwood are the plaintiff and defendant, respectively, was commenced, and a number of witnesses were examined, after which the case was adjourned to October 7th. The pastor and a number of his congregation have not been in harmony for some time, and it is stated that last fall, on Rev. Mr. Snell going to his stable in the morning, found his horse's tail docked and no clue to the perpetrator of this outrage. On several occasions on going to drive out to fill appointments, one or two nuts had been taken off the buggy wheels, which left them ready to drop off. On other occasions he found sticky fly paper placed on his buggy seat. Last month on going out one morning to his garden he found all his garden vegetables pulled up. Other offences were also committed and culminated in a charge being laid against a young man named Chester Hazelwood as being one of the accused parties.

McGILLIVRAY

The death occurred recently of George McFarlane at the residence of his son James L. 4th con. McGillivray. Mr. McFarlane was 84 years, 5 months of age was a pioneer settler in this part of the country and had been engaged in mixed farming for sixty years. He is survived by four sons; James L. of McGillivray, Ed. of Ailsa Craig, John of McGillivray and Thomas C. of Edmonton, Alta.

David Witherspoon, of Con. 7, McGillivray, lost his two automobiles by fire recently. He was using a lantern to back the auto which he had just been using in the shed when from some cause the lantern set fire to the gasoline. He endeavored to crank the engine to back the car out when the gasoline in the engine exploded stalling it. The fire spread so rapidly that he had to rush out of the shed to save his life. He was severely burned about his hands His loss is nearly $2000.

KHIVA

The old sign that has been for so many years familiar to the traveler, which read, Khiva Hotel, B. Cunningham, Prop., is to come down and a new man is to put up a new sign. When the Council of Stephen saw fit to reduce the number off licenses by two, this house was included. Mr. Cunningham has taken charge of the hotel at Ilderton. We all got to know "Barney" well. Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham were popular among all travellers, and those occasionally dropping in. They were attentive in every way, and your correspondent has never heard aught but a good word for this jovial proprietor and his wife. What they have done here they will doubtless do in Ilderton.

HENSALL

The Annual Harvest Festival Services of St. Paul's church, Hensall, will be held on Sunday next, Oct. 8th, when the Rev. F. H. Farr, B.A., rector of Blyth, will preach morning and evening.

Jack Buchanan returned to Toronto on Tuesday to resume his course at the University.—Geo. Joynt, wife and children went to Lucknow last week to attend the wedding of a relative.—Olin Hooper who has been a resident of our village for a few years, is moving to Blyth and shipped his furniture last week.—Mrs. Fred Brooks of London formerly Miss Myrtle Bengough, with her infant daughter, is visiting her grandmother Mrs. Manns.—Will Shaffer who has been working in various cities of the United States and Canada for the past few years has been spending a few days with his father.—On Thursday of last week James Bell, one of the old pioneers of this section, passed away in his 78th year. The deceased had been ailing for some months and gradually grew worse until death relieved his sufferings. Deceased who was one of the older members of the Bell family, came to this country in its early history, being born in Scotland. He is survived by several of his brothers and one sister, and leaves a grown up family to mourn his loss. —Will Cook leaves this week for Toronto where there is a wider field and fuller scope for young mechanics.—The baseball girls gave a farewell party to Miss Florence Pope, who left for Brandon on Tuesday morning, at the home of Mattie Ellis

ZURICH.

Sam'l Dietz has returned from his trip to the West.—Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Sipple of Lansing, Mich., are visiting in town.—Louis Jeffery has purchased the flour, feed and grocery business carried on for some time by Mr. W. S. Ruby. We wish the new owner every success.

Auction Sale

FARM STOCK, IMPLEMENTS, HAY and Straw, on

LOT 4, CON. 2, USBORNE, on TUESDAY, OCT. 17, at one o'clock, the following:—Horses,—2 brood mares, sup. to be in foal, agric.; 1 filly, 2-yr., agric.; 2 fillies, 1-yr. agric.; 2 filly suckers, agric.

Cattle—1 cow, due time of sale, 1 renewed cow; 5 cows due in March and April; 3 steers, 2-yr-old; 3 heifers, 2-year old; 4 steers, 1-yr-old; 4 calves.

Hogs—2 brood sows, 4 100-lb. hogs 10 shoots, 1 Berkshire boar.

A number of hens and pullets.

Implements—Lumber wagon, top buggy open buggy; pair sleighs, cutter, binder nearly new; mower, steel rake, large 2-furrow plow, walking plow, disc., cultivator, land roller, Harrows, scuffler, seed drill, fanning mill, 1200 lb. scales root pulper, grindstone, 2 set heavy harness, single harness, hay rack, gravel box, hay forks, ropes and slings, forks chains, shovels, hoes, etc.

A quantity of first-class hay, 2½ acres mangolds and turnips, a silo full of good ensilage, a lot of cut straw in barn to be fed on farm.

Cream separator, new; steel range, 2 heating stoves, 1 incubator and brooder 2 hives of bees and a number of bee boxes, glass cupboard, nearly new; extension table, new, and a lot of other articles of furniture.

Terms—$5 and under cash; over that amount 12 mos. credit on approved joint notes. 5 per cent. off for cash on the credit amounts.

THOS. BROOK, Proprietor. T. CAMERON, Auctioneer

Auction Sale

VILLAGE LOTS FOR SALE.

The undersigned auctioneer has been instructed to sell by public auction on the premises, Victoria Street, Exeter, on

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 7th, 1911

At 2 o'clock p.m., the following village property, viz,—Lots 40 to 43 inclusive, situated on Victoria street, east of Public School, and containing by admeasurement four acres, more or less. These lots will be sold separately, or in bulk to suit purchaser. This is an excellent property and well situated. There is on the premises a large number of choice fruit trees. Terms of sale made known on day of sale. For further particulars apply to the proprietor.

J. W. Taylor, Prop. T. B. Carling, Auct.

No More Dandruff

W. S. COLE KNOWS WHAT IS MAKING CLEAN SCALPS

In order to rid your scalp of filthy dandruff you must kill the germ. There is a hair dressing called Parisian Sage which is now sold in every town in Canada. It is guaranteed by W. S. Cole to eradicate dandruff, stop falling hair splitting hair and scalp itch in two weeks or money back.

If you have dandruff get a large 50c. bottle to-day and rid yourself of it. Remember that if dandruff germs are not destroyed in time, the hair will surely fall out and baldness will follow.

HOUSE FOR SALE

The undersigned is offering for sale, that desirable property on William st, being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, together with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to

MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75 cents.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

—Miss Catharine Kaercher died at the home of her brother, Mr. Michael Kaercher, on Wednesday last, at the advanced age of 80 years. The remains were interred in the Evangelical cemetery, Bronson Line.—Herbert H. Bloch has purchased the dwelling recently erected by Mr. F. W. Hess, for $950.00. It is a comfortable dwelling and is good value at the figure paid.—Miss Catherine Kaercher died at her home of her brother, Mr. Michael Kaercher on Wednesday last, at the advanced age of 80 years. The remains were interred in the Evangelical cemetery, Bronson Line.

Nervous Condition

RESULTS FROM KIDNEY TROUBLE

Sick kidneys make you feel sick in a number of ways and it is now known that a nervous condition often results from kidney trouble. When the kidneys are sick the whole nervous system becomes irritated causing headache, dizzy spells, fits of "blues," neuralgic attacks, rheumatic pains, weak eyesight, dull tired days, and a constant inclination to worry over trifles.

Booth's Kidney Pills

Booth's Kidney Pills strengthen sick kidneys, cure backache, regulate the urine and restore to normal conditions. They are guaranteed. All dealers sell 50c. box, or postpaid from The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. If you would like to test them free write for a trial box.

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

Westervelt School

Y M C A BLDG.
LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal. 15

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

HUNTERS'

RETURN TICKETS AT SINGLE FARE

OCT. 9th to NOV. 11th,

to points in Temagami, points Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, Que., inclusive, also to certain points in Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Maine.

OCT 19th to Nov. 11th

to Muskoka Lakes, Penetang, Lake of Bays, Midland, Maganetawan River, Lakefield, Madawaska to Parry Sound, Argyle to Coboconk, Lindsay to Haliburton. Points from Severn to North Bay inclusive, and certain points reached by Northern Navigation Co.

All tickets valid for return until Thursday Dec. 14th, except to points reached by steamer lines, Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Daily until Oct. 15th,

COLONIST EXCURSIONS—To Spokane, Wash.; Nelson, B.C.; Vancouver B.C.; Westminster, B.C.; Seattle, Wh, Tacoma, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Cal. and Mexico City at very low rates

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, at Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

DRAFTS ON FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Every branch of The Canadian Bank of Commerce is equipped to issue drafts on the principal cities in the following countries without delay:

Africa	Crete	Greece	New Zealand	Siberia
Arabia	Cuba	Holland	Norway	Soudan
Argentine Republic	Denmark	Iceland	Panama	South Africa
Australia	Egypt	India	Persia	Spain
Austria-Hungary	Faroe Islands	Ireland	Peru	Straits Settlements
Belgium	Finland	Italy	Philippine Islands	Sweden
Brazil	Formosa	Japan	Portugal	Switzerland
Bulgaria	France	Java	Roumania	Turkey
Ceylon	French Cochin China	Malta	Russia	United States
Chili	Germany	Manchuria	Servia	Uruguay
China	Great Britain	Mexico	Siam	West Indies, etc.

The amount of these drafts is stated in the money of the country where they are payable; that is they are drawn in sterling, francs, marks, lire, kronen, florins, yen, taels, roubles, etc., as the case may be. This ensures that the payee abroad will receive the actual amount intended. A233

Exeter Branch—W. H. Collins, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up)	$4,000,000
Rest Fund	$4,400,000
Total Assets Over	$44,000,000

Has 81 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at al Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

EXETER BRANCH

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

The Public Schools

ARE WELL STARTED NOW

And how about your School Supplies

SCRIBBLERS.—
The regular 5c. scribblers, plain or ruled. 7 for 25c.

LEAD PENCILS.—
The famous regalia pencil, worth 2 for 5c. reduced price 10c. a doz.

PAINTS.—
Water colors in neat boxes 5c. to 25c. crayons 1c. to 10c. a box.

INKS.—
Stafford's and Underwood's Black and Blue Black Inks, 8oz bottles for 5c.

SLATES.—
The famous German proof slate, wire edge or bound 5c. to 14c.

DICTIONARIES.—
Collins large type pronouncing dictionaries at 15c.

It will pay you to pay us a visit. We are in a position to save you money, and we do it.

S. Martin & Son, Exeter

CENTRALIA

Little Miss Jean Spencer has returned to her home in St. Thomas after a three weeks' visit with her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Mills.

CENTRAL Business College

STRATFORD, ONT.

Our registration greatly exceeds that of previous years. Why? Our school is the best of its kind in the west, best in courses given, best in teachers employed and best in assisting graduates to positions. Our graduates are in demand. Business men state that they are the best. In the past three years we had eleven applications for help that we could not supply. We have three departments, Commercial, Shorthand and Telegraphy. Get our free catalogue. Commence your course at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials, Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Canadian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by

Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver

and is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

ANK

DENT

$8,000,000

RIES

ssue drafts on beria udan uth Africa ain raits Settlements

eden itzerland rkey nited States uguay
'est Indies, etc.
e they are pay-
, florins, yen,
ee abroad will A233

at Crediton.

ank

ts in all the

MENT

rate.

t.

Manager,

ools

Supplies

rwood's Black ks, 3oz bottles

n proof slate,
5c. to 14c.

ronouncing dict-

in a position

ter

ries

ell establish-d we believe hority (nam-
y increasing are meeting and giving action.
r motto,—
all the time."
oduce taken

GOULD arkyte"

e to ill

the strongest ntative against necessity the part of your ls, Specified by cipalities.

s than one year.

ada by an.
Vancouver

eter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. E. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto Univeristy.
DENTIST,
teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects. Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. B. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years sident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew reet, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates o nterest
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
R. CARLING, B.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY,
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter Ont

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies. Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elliber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.
The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St. Thomas, Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

ELLIOTT Business College
TORONTO, ONT., is recognized as "CANADA'S HIGH-CLASS COMMERCIAL SCHOOL." The instruction is absolutely first-class. Write to-day for our catalogue. Enter now.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.
We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.
Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.
The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Elimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT
That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

Northwest Lands.
Unimproved Lands in Saskatchewan and Alberta for sale.
Railway fare refunded to purchasers.
MONEY TO LOAN.
ERNEST ELLIOT.
Office opposite Central Hotel, Exeter.

ZURICH FAIR, continued from 1

DAIRY PRODUCTS.
Butter in tub, W. Smith, J. Decker, sr., H. Neeb; 5 pounds of butter W. B. Battler, W. Smith, J. Decker, sr.; Butter in pound prints B. Pfile, M. Clark, A. Kaercher; Homemade cheese, J. Geiger E. Klopp; Loaf homemade bread, G. Clausius, B. Pfile; extracted honey, J. Haberer, W. Smith; honey J. Haberer, G. Clausius, honey in comb, J. Haberer; maple syrup W. B. Battler, W. Smith; Special buns, M. Clark.

GARDEN VEGETABLES.
White Elepant potatoes, G. Schroeder, W. Smith; Colorado red, A. Foster; Aural New York, A Foster, W. Smith, Snowden Bros. variety early, A. Rannie, Snowden Bros. J. Gallman; variety late A. Foster, J. Gallman, G. Clausius; American Wonder potatoes, A Foster; Empire, H. Kruger, A. Rannie, G. Schroeder; white beans, G. Clausius, M. Clark; yellow corn, H. Krueger, C. Oswald; black sweet corn, E. Klopp, W. B. Battler; Yellow corn W. B. Battler, G. Clausius; red onions, H. Rader, H. Well; yellow, A. Rannie; G. Clausius; Dutch setts, G. Clausius, B. Pfile; field carrots, G. Schroeder, W. Smith; garden carrots, G. Schroeder, swedish turnips, E. Rader, W. Smith; yellow globe mangolds, W. B. Battler, C. Schilbe; long red mangolds, W. Smith L. Wurm, long yellow mangolds, H. Krueger, C. Scelbe; oxford cabbage, H. Well, A. Reichert; Drumhead cabbage, W. B. Battler, J. Hey, sr; black Spanish radish, B. Pfile, L. Wurm; cauliflower, J. Hey, W. B. Battler; Pumpkin yellow, E. Rader, W. B. Battler; Mammoth pumpkin, C. Oswald, R. B. Johnston; Celery, T. Johnston, R. B. Johnston; Squash R. Rader, Snowden Bros.; blood beets, H. Krueger, W. Smith; rooted beets, W. B. Battler, E. Rader; water melons, W. Smith, H. Krueger; muskmelons, W. Smith, G. Clausius; red tomatoes, H. Kruger, R. Stade; yellow tomatoes, W. B. Battler, Snowden

LADIES' WORK
Emb. tea cloth, Mrs. Wickwire, Mrs. G. Hess; tray cloth, B. Pfile, Mrs. F Wickwire; centre piece, Mrs. Wickwire, T. Johnston; doylies, Mrs. Wickwire, J Decker, sr.; sideboard scarf, E. Klopp, H. Well; sofa cushion in silk, Kate Campbell; Roman, Mrs. Wickwire, Mrs. Hess; Jewel, Mrs. Wickwire, Mrs. Wickwire, T. Johnston; feather stitching, Mrs. J. Forest, H. Well; Fancy work bag, Mrs. Wickwire, T. Johnston; Embroidery on flannel, T. Johnston, B. Pfile, embroidery work, J. Decker, sr., H. Well; Honiton lace handerchief, Mrs. Wickwire, J. Johnston; Point lace collar, Mrs. Wickwire, Battenburg centre piece, Mrs. Forest, K. Campbell; doylies, Mrs. G. Hess; tray cloth, Mrs. Hess, Mrs. M. Fritz; sideboard scarf J. Decker, sr., tea cosy, Mrs. Wickwire; Collection battenburg work, Mrs. Wickwire; Teneriffe lace centre piece, H. Koehler, J. Johnston; Netting centre piece or doylie T. Johnston, Mrs. Wickwire; Drawn thread work, Mrs. Wickwire, B. Pfile; Collection drawn thread work, Mrs. Wickwire, B. Pfile; Itching, Mrs. J. Forest, Mrs. Wickwire; Bulgarian embroidery, Mrs. Wickwire, H. Well, Pillow sham, B. Pfile; Sofa cushion, J. Decker, sr., Mrs. Forest; Fancy apron, B. Pfile; Mount Melick embroidered cloth, Mrs. Wickwire, J. Decker, sr.; centre piece R. B. Johnston, Mrs. M. Fritz; Laundry bag, crochet, H. Koehler, A. Kaercher, Crochet lace cotton, T. Johnston, Mrs. G. Hess; Crochet lace silk, H. Koehler, Crochet, lace toilet mats, Mrs. G. Hess; Crochet table mats, Mrs. Wickwire, A. Mellick; Collection of tatting, Mrs. M. Fritz, T. Johnston; Hardanger centre piece or cloth, Mrs. Wickwire; Pair knitted lace curtains in cotton, M. Hader; Pair knit lace curtains in wool, W. Hader; quilt wollen coarse W. Hader; Coverlet woven wool, W. Hader, Mrs. G. Hess; Log cabin quilt cotton, J. Decker, sr., Mrs. Forest; patchwork quilt cotton, C. Oswald, T. Johnston; patchwork quilt silk, C. Elber; Crazywork quilt silk, T. Johnston; Crazywork quilt cotton, T. Johnston, A. Kaercher; Crazywork quilt wool, T. Johnston, W. B. Battler; Counterpane tufted, H. Well, W. B. Battler; Counterpane knitted, J. Geiger, H. Rader; Counterpane crochet, T. Johnston, J. Decker, sr., counterpane etching work, T. Johnston, counterpane, J. Decker; cape crochet, Mrs. Wickwire, T. Johnson; Ladies cape knitted, T. Johnson; carpet rags, T. Johnston; hearthrug wool, K. Campbell; hearthrug rags, K Campbell, T. Johnston; flannel all wool Mrs. G. Hess; wool yarn, H. Neeb, W. Hader; crocket cotton tidy, Mrs. G. Hess T. Johnston; knitted cotton tidy, H. Neeb H. Well; Afghan, A. Kaercher, J. Brown; Cotton stockings, J. Brown, M. Clark; hand sewing, B. Pfile, H. Well; woolen stockings, fine, H. Neeb, W. Hader; coarse stockings, H. Well, W. B. Battler fine mitts, H. Well, W. B. Battler; coarse mitts, Mrs. G. Hess, W. B. Battler; farmers' blankets, H. Neeb, W. Hader; quilt, H. Rader, H. Well; emb-appliqué, Mrs. Wickwire; fish net centre piece, G. Innes.; table mats, K Campbell.

FINE ARTS
Oil painting, portrait, Mrs. Wickwire, Mrs. Forest; landscape, Mrs. Forest, T Johnston; water color, landscape, Mrs. Wickwire, Mrs. Forest; portrait, Mrs. Forest; flowers, Mrs. Forest, Mrs. Wickwire; pencil drawing, Mrs. Forest, T. Johnston; pen and ink sketch and paint-on felt, same winners; painting on silk, H. Well, Mrs. Forest; photography, J. Preeter, Coronation, B. Pfile.
James Weekes, Judge.

FLOWERS
Collection, K. Campbell, R. B. Johnston; Maple Leaf, T. Johnston; bouquet K. Campbell 1 and 2; Geraniums, K. Campbell, Mrs. Forest; Cacti, T. Johnston; K. Campbell; calla lilies, K. Campbell, R. B. Johnston; also for pansies and fuchias, K. Campbell, R. B. Johnston.
J. W. Graybiel, F. Hess, Judges.

SPEEDING EVENTS
2.40 class—Roadmaster, Jr., T. Murdock 1st; Jack Hunter, C. Elber, 2nd Whitewings, of Goderich, 3rd.
Farmers' Trot—Whitewings, 1st; J. Decker 2nd; Ed. Boyce 3rd.

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

FREE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERING FROM WOMEN'S AILMENTS.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.

I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from women's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—you, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhœa or Whitish discharge, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete 10 days treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer, if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhœa, Green Sickness, and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Plumpness and health always result from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten days' treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address:

MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box 840 H - WINDSOR, ONT.

The SOUVENIR
(NEW IDEA SERIES)
certainly does eliminate furnace bothers

SOME folks dread the winter—because of the furnace troubles it brings
Antiquated heating systems are certainly a nuisance. Dust and ashes, sometimes deadly gas fumes, all over the house. Or hot air like a breeze across a desert waste—poisonous, dry, health-destroying air. All because conservative manufacturers would not consider New Ideas in heating.
The SOUVENIR furnace makes the hot air system the healthiest, cheapest and best.

Every buyer of a Souvenir Furnace is presented with a legal bond on date of purchase, guaranteeing firepot against cracks or breaks of any kind for 5 years.

It's built right—A solid, one-piece iron firepot—tested and selected iron at that—and flanges on the outer side to increase radiating surface.
The grate is simplicity itself—ashes easily dumped by a simple turn of the lever
No place for clinker troubles.
From base ring to dome every SOUVENIR furnace is perfect.
Ask for our new booklet.
The SOUVENIR Furnace is made in Hamilton, the stove centre of Canada, by
The Hamilton Stove and Heater Co. Limited
Successors to Gurney-Tilden Company
13

For Sale by W. J. Heaman

PART OF FOOT TAKEN OFF
Mr. Bonar, shoe traveller for a Toronto House, had the misfortune to lose a part of his foot while at Blyth Wednesday morning. He was going northward on the L., H. & B., and when at Blyth got off the train for a few minutes. The train started away rather sooner than he expected and in a rush to catch it, he stumbled over some express parcels, with the result that one foot was caught under one of the train wheels and was partly severed. A surgeon was called and dressed the wound and Mr. Bonar was removed to the Wingham Hospital.

DWELLING AND LAND FOR SALE.
That desirable property situated in Exeter, on the corner of William and Victoria streets, being one-half acre of land. There is on the premises a good frame house, with kitchen and woodshed, hard and soft water and a number of fruit trees. Will sell half of land separately. Price reasonable. Apply to Mrs. Peter Bawden, Exeter, opposite English church.

FARM WANTED TO RENT—50 acre farm with the usual buildings. Any person having such will leave application at this office.

FOR SALE
One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, to churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass except 1 or 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling Exeter, Ont.

GURNEY-OXFORD

Special Demonstration of the Chancellor and others of the splendid line of durable, economical, reliable and attractive

Gurney-Oxford Stoves and Ranges

now on display at our store—a demonstration that marks the 20th Century achievement in stove-making. Come and examine the special points of excellence—

The Oxford Economizer

—a marvellous device for the control of the heat. It gives a saving of 20% in fuel, besides economy of time and labor. A patent authorized only on this line.

The Divided Oven Flue Strip is a great economy of food. All danger of failure in baking is minimized with this clever arrangement for even distribution of heat. There is no better test of practical stove-work than this perfect oven control.

Another advantage lies in the Reversible Grate equipped with strong interlocking teeth that save waste, maximum heat with less fuel.

The Broiler Top—the strong oven door, are excellent features—and these all combine with attractive designs in wide variety of size and price.

You are earnestly invited to come and inspect the Gurney-Oxford line—for the good of your purse, your health, and "all the comforts of home."

W. J. Heaman, Agent.

Always the cookbook says:
"Sift Your Flour."
No lumps, you see. Aerates the flour, making it lighter.
Put FIVE ROSES in your sifter,
Never soft and sticky — never lumpy, musty, woolly.
Never coarse.
Milled superfine from Manitoba's grandest wheat.
Fine, granular, very dry.
Nothing remains in the sifter—FIVE ROSES is free, heavy.
And your bread is more porous, more yielding, more appetizing.
And more Digestible.
Because the particles are finer, easier to get at by the stomach juices.
Use this very fine flour—superfine.
FIVE ROSES. 12

Five Roses Flour
Not Bleached — Not Blended

LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, LIMITED, MONTREAL

TOLD HER TO REST BUT SHE COULDN'T

BUT MRS. CHEFF FOUND A CURE IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

She suffered from Rheumatism, Neuralgia and other symptoms of Diseased Kidneys—Dodd's Kidney Pills made her strong and healthy.

Peveril, Vaudreuil Co., Que., Oct. 2 (Special)—One more of the tired, pain-wrecked women of Canada has found relief and new life in Dodd's Kidney Pills. She is Mrs. Jos. Cheff, of this place, and she never tires of telling her neighbors of her wonderful cure or singing the praises of the good old remedy that brought it about.

"I suffered from Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Violent Headaches and Palpitation of the Heart," Mrs. Cheff states. "My back ached. I was always tired and nervous and I had weak spells. My doctor told me to just rest, but that was just what I couldn't do, till reading of the cures of others led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

From the first dose they helped me. I soon left my bed and started to do my ordinary housework.

"I took in all twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and now my health is excellent. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all suffering women."

Thousands of Canadian women will tell you that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure relief for suffering women.

FEAR AS A DISEASE.

Physicians Now Recognize Many and Strange Phobias.

Fear as a disease had not received serious attention until recent years. Now it is recognized by the medical profession that there is a whole list of phobias, as they are called, which are quite distinct from a normal and legitimate condition of fear due to some natural cause.

Thus there is the fear of open or closed places, says the Medical Record, fear of high places, fear of men or women, fear of crowds and of solitudes, fear of animals, fear of insects, fear of darkness, fear of accidents, fear of fire, fear of travel, and in fact fear of anything.

There is no end to the absurdity of acts which may be occasioned by these persistent ideas of fear. Those that possess the fear of riding on a train find no pleasure in travelling, those that have fear of closed places do not enjoy going to church, and generally always sit near the door ready to fly at the first sign of danger.

Various fears may also develop in connection with the occupation of the patient; for instance, barbers sometimes suffer these attacks whenever they see a razor, or telegraphers when they catch sight of their instruments, which finally necessitates giving up the occupation

Among women especially there occurs the fear of dirt, contagion or infection. The countless bacteria always present in the air are the chief source of annoyance. The patients are always complaining of bad air and are always throwing open the windows. Books are especially avoided as a possible source of contagion. In patients with fear of injury they will throw away all needles in the house or they will no more wash windows for fear that the glass might break and cut them.

The intellect in these cases is not only undisturbed but may be unusually good. Patients exhibit throughout a pronounced feeling of mental illness and frequently a clear insight into the morbidity of the individual symptoms.

The more common of the various phobias as classified by Beard are as follows: Claustrophobia, fear of narrow or closed places; agoraphobia, fear of open places; astraphobia, fear of lightning; monophobia, fear of being alone; pathophobia, fear of disease; mysophobia, fear of contamination; siderodromophobia, fear of railroad travel; acrophobia, fear of being at a height or looking over precipices; thanatophobia, fear of death.

It is to be emphasized that the phobias in question are not normal fears, based, as normal or natural fears are, on some reasonable and justifying experience. A reasonable and justifiable normal fear of lightning might arise after the experience of having been at some time in a house struck by lgihtning.

Other fears, such as the fear of riding in a buggy after having been in a runaway, or the fear of a voyage at sea or railway after a frightful shipwreck or railway accident, is a more or less natural or reasonable fear, as the fear of hoodoos and ghosts is among the superstitious or those accustomed to ghost stories and tradition of goblin visitation, &c.

These fears do not require a warped brain for their lodgment, though the weakened brain may be more vividly impressed by them. To be regarded as symptoms of disease these fears must be groundless so far as influences external to the brain are concerned. They must proceed from a morbid state of the brain and not from properly exciting external causes. They must be fears peculiar to the individual under peculiar circumstances of cerebral disturbance and not fear common to others and due to causes that naturally cause alarm and frighten.

THE KING TO HUNT TIGERS

FEROCIOUS BEASTS SWARM IN THE JUNGLE.

Maharajah Will Use 500 Elephants When George V. Visits India.

Already the announcement is made from Poona, British India, that the maharajah of Nepal is to use 500 elephants for the King of England's tigar hunt in his highness' dominions next December.

While King George is in Nepal Queen Mary will be sight-seeing in Rajpootana. When the king and queen visited India six years ago as Prince and Princess of Wales the maharajah invited his royal highness to Nepal and made vast preparation to provide a royal hunt in his jungle preserves, but the plan was upset by a virulent outbreak of cholera in the reigon where the hunt was to be. The disappointment was keen to the English prince, but not less to the marharajah.

HUNT ON MAMMOTH SCALE.

Next December the same royal personage will come to India in the exaited rank of king-emperor and his entertainment will be on a corresponding scale of grandeur.

No other jungles in Asia are as extensive as those of the southern footholls and marshy taral of the central and eastern Himalaya Mountains. They swarm with wild beasts, which seldom are disturbed, because foreign sportsmen are excluded except when they come at his highness' invitation. The shooting done by the maharajah and his nobles is not enough to make an impression on the game, which includes wild elephants and rhinoceroses, with many species of tigers, bears, leopards, deer and pigs.

In preparation for the king's visit a tract of this jungle, perhaps fifteen miles long and half as broad, will be selected, and all the beasts in a much wider area will be slowly and patiently driven into it by men mounted on elephants, making just noise enough to induce the game to move on without alarm.

By this means, in the course of weeks, twenty or thirty tigers, with other beasts in proportion, will be gathered into the selected area, which then will be surrounded by a ring of watchmen, with the addition of fires by night. The space being so large and well supplied with the tigers' natural prey, the beasts will not seek to escape, nor even to approach the circle of watchmen's huts and fires. This state of things will be kept up until the time for the great hunt arrives.

SHOOT FROM ELEPHANTS.

The shooting will be done from the backs of elephants. These stately pachyderms move through tangled brushwood and shrubbery as an ox walks through grass. Only a person who has seen them can credit the quickness with which they obey any word or sign of the driver seated on their neck, and he has to be on the alert to guide his beast so that the overhanging branches of trees will not sweep the sportsman to the ground.

Toronto is second largest city in Canada.

"Does your wife go to services to see what other women wear?" "No," replied Mr. Cumrox. "We are now sufficiently prosperous for her to go in order to let other women see what she wears."

A CROP BULLETIN.

Five-year-old Ella had been enthusiastically engaged in garden work all the spring. She was especially interested in planting seed, and watched anxiously for sprouts to appear above the ground.

One day, while visiting a neighbor who possessed a six-months'-old baby, Ella was delighted to see two tiny front teeth displayed when the baby smiled.

"O, Mrs. May," the little girl cried, excitedly, "the baby's teeth have come up!"

Comfort for the Dyspeptic. — There is no ailment so harassing and exhausting as dyspepsia, which arises from defective action of the stomach and liver, and the victim of it is to be pitied. Yet he can find ready relief in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, a preparation that has established itself by years of effective use. There are pills that are widely advertised as the greatest ever compounded, but not one of them can rank in value with Parmelee's.

HIS INTENTIONS.

"Are you going to start a garden next year?" "I am not," replied the luckless amateur. "Next year, instead of burying good stuff, I'm going to eat it.

LOW COLONIST FARES TO THE PACIFIC COAST.

Via the Chicago, Union Pacific and North Western Line, daily from September 15th to October 15th from all points in Canada. Pullman tourist sleeping cars daily. Personally conducted California tours in Pullman tourist sleeping cars on through trains leave Chicago Tuesday and Thursday of each week. For rates, folders and full particulars apply to R. H. Bennett, Genl. Agt., 46 Yonge St., Toronto, Ontario.

Little Turkeys.—Take pork tenderloins and cut lengthwise through the middle, being careful not to cut in half; fill with dressing you would use for turkey; sew or pin together with toothpicks; bake for twenty minutes in a pan in which there is enough water to cover the bottom when baked. Make a gravy of water left in pan. Nice to add strip of bacon over top.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

AFTER MATURE REFLECTION.

We would not care to be a steeplejack or premier of Russia.

Cholera morbus, cramps and kindred complaints annually make their appearance at the same time as the hot weather, green fruit, cucumbers, melons, etc., and many persons are debarred from eating these tempting things, but they need not abstain if they have Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and take a few drops in water. It cures the cramps and cholera in a remarkable manner and is sure to check every disturbance of the bowels.

"Binks used to be daft on the subject of buried treasure. What's he up to now?" "He's got up an expedition to Asia Minor to try to find the place where Methuselah stored his birthday presents."

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

If the drain in the sink becomes stopped up, remove all water from sink and pour in a pint or more gasoline and let stand; this will cut the cause of stoppage in a little while.

It Bids Pain Begone.—When neuralgia racks the nerves or lumbago cripples the back is the time to test the virtues of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Well rubbed in it will still the pain and produce a sensation of ease and rest. There is nothing like it as a liniment for its curative properties are great. A trial of it will establish faith in it.

Mrs. O'Flannery—"Whatever are ye doing, Pat, sitting in front av the glass with your eyes shut?" Pat—"Sure, I'm just looking to see how Oi shall look when I'm dead."

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

PADDY "IN THE INTERIM."

The habit of verbosity is a standard characteristic of human nature. We have all met people who are fond of using high-sounding speech. A gentleman said to his servant Pat: "I am going to town at 10 o'clock, and shall weed out the cucumber bed in the interim."

"Interim," thought Pat, "that's a quare name for a garden, anyhow."

"Is Mr. Smith at home?" asked a visitor who came shortly afterwards.

"Yes, sir; ye'll find him at work in his interim, there beyant," announced Pat.

Visitor (to little girl)—"And were you born in India?" "I was." "What part?" "All of me, of course!"

You can tell when a woman is growing stout by how she talks as if she were afraid of wasting away.

Stops a Cough Quickly —Even Whooping Cough

Sixteen Ounces of the Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy for 50c. Money Refunded if It Fails.

If you have an obstinate, deep-seated cough, which refuses to be cured, get a 50-cent bottle of Pinex, mix it with home-made sugar syrup and start taking it. Inside of 24 hours your cough will be gone, or very nearly so. Even whooping-cough is quickly conquered in this way.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, when mixed with home-made sugar syrup, gives you 16 ounces—a family supply—of the finest cough remedy that money could buy, at a clear saving of $2. Very easy to prepare—full directions in package.

Pinex soothes and heals the inflamed membranes with remarkable rapidity. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative, and has a pleasant taste—children take it willingly. Splendid for croup, asthma, bronchitis, throat tickle, chest pains, etc., and a thoroughly successful remedy for incipient lung troubles.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other healing pine elements. It has often been imitated, though never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a 16-ounce bottle, and it is ready for use.

Anyone who tries Pinex will quickly understand why it is used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

MEAT RECIPES.

Spanish Steak.—Take a flank of steak. Cut off all the fat and fry it brown in plenty of butter, lift out and put in a baking pan. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and fry a sliced onion brown in the butter remaining in the frying pan. Spread onions over the steak and cover it with can of tomatoes, juice and all. Cover and bake an hour in a slow oven, basting frequently. Make gravy of drippings remaining in the pan and serve piping hot.

Fried Chicken.—Cut one or two small chickens in half and dredge with flour. Heat some lard until smoking hot, then lay in the chicken. After the first few minutes cook slowly, turning so it can brown on all sides. When done take up and place on a platter, pour off all the lard excepting one tablespoonful, place this over the fire again and add a heaping tablespoonful of flour, stir until it is brown, then add slowly one cup of milk, some butter, pepper, and salt, and let cook five minutes; pour over the chicken and serve immediately.

Jellied Veal.—Buy a veal shank for 20 cents, cover with cold water, let come to a boil and skim carefully. Add one medium size onion, a bay leaf, small piece of red pepper, salt and six whole cloves. Boil slowly till meat falls off bones. Take out the meat, strain liquid and let it cool while the meat is picked into small pieces. Remove grease from the liquid, add to the meat, put into bowls to cool. Serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing. Be sure to have plenty of liquid.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.
Gents,—A customer of ours cured a very bad case of distemper in a valuable horse by the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT.
Yours truly,
VILANDIE FRERES.

NOT HE.

The "Angel" (about to give beggar a dime—Poor man! And are you married?

Beggar—Pardon me, madam! D'ye think I'd be relyn' on total strangers for support if I had a wife?

Corns cause much suffering, but Holloway's Corn Cure offers a speedy, sure, and satisfactory relief.

Avoid society if you would make a study of mankind.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

New Bags.—Make bags of some heavy material such as cretonne or denim, and place your hammocks in them. Use stout rings on the top to close it or even button one side over with a lap. Make similar ones for your summer parasols. Never make your pieces bags of anything except firm mosquito netting. You can see in and save time.

NEW IDEAS.

Gingered Rice.—Instead of raisins or other flavoring in rice pudding, use a small quantity of preserved ginger, cut in small pieces with the syrup. About a tablespoonful to a quart of milk is sufficient to give a delightful new flavor.

Screens and Porch Fittings. —In the fall when putting away our porch furniture, for which we select a clear day, the rugs are thrown on the line, the furniture and window screens are placed near by, and everything is given a thorough cleaning with a hose. When quite dry the screens are lightly brushed with raw linseed oil to prevent rusting. This oil does not evaporate. B.

School Hint.—The best way to reduce mending is to guard against it. You will find that one reason why children's clothes rip is because the seams are sewed with cotton thread which is brittle. Any dress which will be given hard wear should be made up entirely of silk. The sun and water rots cotton, but does not affect the silk.

Frost Hint.—To protect your flowers from early frost drive poles made from broom handles or other similar sticks into the ground at intervals and stretch a clothesline from one to the other. When evening comes throw pieces of cloth or paper over the line, and your flowers will be unharmed.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poison! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then, again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Company and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage). Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

NO TIME TO HURRY.

Nobody ever gets into trouble by exceeding the speed limit on his way to church.

The Best Liver Pill.—The action of the liver is easily disarranged. A sudden chill, undue exposure to the elements, over-indulgence in some favorite food, excess in drinking, are a few of the causes. But whatever may be the cause, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills can be relied upon as the best corrective that can be taken. They are the leading liver pills and they have no superiors among such preparations.

CONTRARY.

Gibbs—Your wife seems to be a contrary sort of woman.

Dibbs—Contrary! Why, whenever I ask her to darn my stockings she knits her brows.

Pain and Swelling seldom indicate internal organic trouble. They are usually the result of local cold or inflammation which can be quickly removed by Hamlins Wizard Oil.

FREQUENTLY THE CASE.

"What does your husband like for his breakfast?"

"Anything I haven't got in the house."

A pleasant medicine for children is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, and there is nothing better for driving worms from the system.

Mr. Homebody—I see you keep copies of all the letters you write to your wife. Do you do it to avoid repeating yourself? Mr. Faraway—No. To avoid contradicting myself.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

If a man's hope of a future life misses fire he has no kick coming.

H. H. NIGHTINGALE
STOCK BROKER
Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange
LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN
Correspondence invited.
33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

BANKS AND BONDS

¶ Bonds have the preference as safe and profitable investments.

¶ Formerly Banks, Insurance Companies and other financial concerns invested their cash surpluses largely in Real Estate Mortgages, to-day they are purchasing the Bond issues of established and prosperous corporations considering that they offer the greatest security and best interest returns.

¶ There is no reasonable argument to offset the fact that what is the best investment for the Bank surplus is the best investment for the individual investor.

¶ Write to-day for our booklet on Bonds, and Bond issues we recommend.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION
LIMITED
BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING
YONGE AND QUEEN STS.
TORONTO
R. M. WHITE - Manager
MONTREAL-QUEBEC-HALIFAX-LONDON(ENG.)

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE
CHATHAM, ONT.
ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST BUSINESS SCHOOLS
Over 2,000 choice positions filled in past Four Years.
Some others just filled:— I. B. HANN, from Newfoundland, placed with Sask. Milling Co., Moose Jaw, as Steno. FERN SMITH, Steno., Peabody Overall Co., Windsor. E. C. ROBINSON Bkkpr., with Bell Furniture Co., Southampton, Ont. FLOSSIE ANDERSON, Steno. and Bkkpr. Can. Wolverine Co., Chatham. MILDRED ANDERSON, Steno., with De Laval Separator Co., Winnipeg. R. J. SCOTT, teacher, with Drake College, Newark, N. J. The salaries of the three shown last week average over $700 per annum. The salaries of the six here shown average close to $700. Our students are prepared for the big positions where the big pay is offered. IT PAYS TO ATTEND THE BEST. Catalogue 32 tells of the work at Chatham. Catalogue 34 tells of our home courses. Address, D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont.

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED.—A study of other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers' Dept., 223 Albert St., Ottawa.

BOY AND GIRL AGENTS! SELL twenty-four packages of postcards for us at 10c. each and receive an Air Gun or Doll free. L. Bottomley & Co., Marshall, Sask.

START TEA ROUTE TO-DAY. Send postal for circulars or 10c for samples and terms. Alfred S. Tyler, London, Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., Wellington Street, Orillia, Ontario.

AGENTS WANTED. A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply B. C. I. Co., 223 Albert St., Ottawa.

AT ONCE—MEN TO LEARN BARBER trade, expert instruction, constant practice, tools free, always sure employment for a barber. Write for catalogue. Moler Barber College, 221 Queen East, Toronto.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co. Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

CLEANING LADIES' WALKING OR OUTING SUITS
Can be done perfectly by our French process. Try it.
British American Dyeing Co.
Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and Quebec.

$1.00 for this 18-in. PLUME

This plume is just the kind for which you would have to pay $6.00 at any retail store. It is extra wide, fully 18 inches long, in all colors, with willowy floss of great length that do not lose their curl easily. Send us $1.00 to-day, for this is an opportunity not to be missed. We offer also an extra large and handsome $7.50 plume at $2.50.
Send money by mail, express or money order. Remember that your money will be refunded if the plume is not entirely satisfactory.
New York Ostrich Feather Co., Dept. H, 313-315 B'way, N.Y.

The Soul of a Piano is the Action. Insist on the
"OTTO HIGEL"
Piano Action

Well, Well!

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.
NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 14. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

For tea
You can't beat
LIPTON'S TEA
OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

BEAVERS BUSY WITH DAMS

Have Shut Off the Water From Power Company at North Bay.

A despatch from North Bay says: North Bay was in darkness on Wednesday night, no electric current being available for illumination. The power for the local plant is generated on South River, twenty miles away, by the Nipissing Power Company, and low water is given as the reason for the failure of the power, caused, the company officials state, by beaver dams in Algonquin Park, where the head waters and reserve storage of South River are located. It is claimed that beavers are holding back water which should supply the power company, with the result that not enough water is available to supply the demand. Low water is general this season, and the busy beavers, with their dams, make a bad situation worse. As the law forbids interference with the beavers the company are helpless, and is applying to the Ontario Government for special permission to destroy the beaver dams and allow the water to reach the power plant. Unless something is speedily done, North Bay, Callendar, and Powassan will not only have to return to candles, but industries will be severely affected by the power being cut off.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—Flour—Winter wheat, 90 per cent. patents, unchanged at $3.50, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours—First patents, $5.30; second patents, $4.80, and strong bakers', $4.60, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba Wheat—New No. 1 Northern, $1.05, Bay ports; No. 2 Northern, $1.04; and No. 3, $1.02, Bay ports.

Ontario Wheat—No. 2 white, red or mixed, new, 85 to 86c, outside.

Peas—Good milling peas, 92 to 95c outside.

Oats—Ontario oats quiet and steady, with No. 2 quoted at 41 to 42c, outside, and No. 3 at 40c. No. 2 Western Canada, 45c, and No. 3, 44c, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 2 is probably worth 75c, outside.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow quoted at 70 1-2c, Bay ports.

Rye—Car lots outside, 75c west, and 77c east.

Buckwheat—No. 2 at 64 to 65c, outside.

Bran—Manitoba bran is quoted at $23 to $23.50, in bags, Toronto freight. Shorts, $25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked quoted at $2.30 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2.25 to $2.50.

Baled Hay—No. 1 at $13 to $14, on track, and No. 2 at $10 to $11.

Baled Straw—$6 to $6.50, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, at 90c.

Poultry—Prices of dressed poultry in quantities:—Chickens, 14c per lb.; fowl, 11 to 12c; ducks, 13c; turkeys, 20c. Live poultry, about 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER, EGGS, CHEESE.

Butter—Dairy prints, 21 to 23c; inferior, 16 to 17c. Creamery quoted at 26 to 27c per lb. for rolls, and at 23 to 24c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid quoted at 23 to 24c, and fresh at 20 to 21c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—Large quoted at 15c per lb., and twins at 15 1-4c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon—Long clear, 12 to 12 1-2c per lb in case lots. Pork, short cut, $23; do. mess, $20 to $21. Hams, medium to light, 17 to 17 1-2c; do., heavy, 15 to 15 1-2c; rolls 11 to 11 1-2c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; backs, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2c; tubs, 10 3-4c; pails 11c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—Oats—Canadian Western, No. 2, 47c, car lots ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 46 1-2c; No. 3 C. W., 46c; No. 2 local white, 45 1-2c; No. 3 local white, 45c; No. 4 local white, 44 1-2c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; do., seconds, $4.90; Winter wheat patents, $4.75 to $5; strong bakers', $4.70; straight rollers, $4.25 to $4.40; do., in bags, $1.90 to $2. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $5.25; bag of 90 lbs., $2.50. Corn—American No. 3 yellow, 74 to 74 1-2c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23 to $24; Manitoba, $23; middlings, Ontario, $27 to $28; shorts, Manitoba, $25; mouillie, $26 to $32. Eggs—Selected, 24 to 25c; No. 1 stock, 20 to 22c. Cheese—Westerns, 14 1-2 to 14 3-4c; easterns, 14 to 14 1-4c. Butter—Choicest, 24 3-4 to 25c; seconds, 24 1-4 to 24 1-2.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Buffalo, Oct. 3.—Spring wheat—No. 1 Northern, carloads, store $1.12 1-2; Winter, No. 2 red, 97c; No. 3 red, 95c; No. 2 white, 95c. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 73 3-4c; No. 4 yellow, 73 1-2c; No. 3 corn, 71 3-4c, all on track, through billed. Oats—No. 2 white, 50 3-4c; No. 3 white, 60c; No. 4 white, 49c. Barley—Malting, $1.16 to $1.25.

Minneapolis, Oct. 3.—Wheat—September, $1.05 1-2; December, $1.07 3-4; May, $1.11 3-4; No. 1 hard, $1.08 3-4; No. 1 Northern, $1.07 1-4 to $1.08 1-4; No. 2 Northern, $1.03 3-4 to $1.06 1-4; No. 3 wheat, 98 3-4c to $1.01 3-4. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 67 to 67 1-2c. Oats—No. 3 white, 45 to 45 1-2c. Rye—No. 2, 90 1-2 to 91c. Bran—$21.50 to $22. Flour—First patents, $5.30 to $5.60; second patents, $4.90 to $5.20; first clears, $3.50 to $4.70; second clears, $2.70 to $3.10.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—North-West cattle, $5.50 to $5.70; no choice Eastern steers; good steers, one lot sold at $5.25 to $5.50; fair, $4.75 to $5. Bulls are of slightly better quality, and for heavy bulls $3.50 was asked, but only $3 to $3.25 bid; light bulls, $2.50 to $2.75; cows, no good cows on offer; demand poor; poor to medium, $4.50 to $4.75; canners, $2.50 to $3.25. One load of heifers sold by one shipper for $5. Milkers, $25 to $70; Springers, $40 to $60 each. Select hogs, $6.75; underweights (under 140 pounds), $6.50; sows $5.25; stags, $3.75 per cwt., off cars.

Toronto, Oct. 3.—The general run of medium butcher steady at $5.50 to $5.80, and common mixed at $3.75 to $4.50. Cows, easier at $4.25 to $4.80; extra choice, $5; bulls, $3.50 to $5; canners, $1.50 to $2.75. Feeders, choice steers, 850 to 1,050 pounds, $5 to $5.25; good heifers, $4.50 to $4.85; bulls, $3.50 to $4. Sheep market easier; light ewes, $3.50 to $4; heavy, $3 to $3.35; bucks, $3. Lambs; market easier at $5 to $5.50. Calves, $3.50 to $8. Hogs, market weak, with prospects lower.

letters of a son

DEATH REVEALS DUAL LIFE.

St. Louis Lawyer Fled From Canada Twenty Years Ago.

A despatch from St. Louis, Mo., says: The remarkable story of the hidden life of James M. Sutherland for twenty years a lawyer in St Louis, has been revealed through a visit to this city of his son, J. Sinclair Sutherland, of Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. Sutherland was buried several days ago in St. Peter's Cemetery beside the beautiful woman who for more than fifteen years had held a high place in St. Louis as his wife. She died three years ago. She was the daughter of a clergyman and the wife of Sutherland's law partner when he was a Queen's Counselor in Canada. She came to the United States after her husband had died suddenly and Sutherland followed her. Sutherland's widow and four children are in Canada.

CHOLERA IN TUNIS.

Thirty-Six Deaths Reported Among Arabs in One Day.

A despatch from Paris says: Cholera is epidemic in Tunis, a regency and French protectorate of northern Africa, and the colonial office has decided to enforce strict sanitary measures. The French resident-general of Tunis, G. F. Alapetite, has cut shore his holiday in France and will return to Tunis to direct the health measures. Thirty-six deaths are reported to have occurred on Tuesday in the Arab quarter of the capital, and ro new cases

ITALY DECLARES WAR ON TURKEY

Italian Cruisers Destroy Turkish Torpedo Boats at Prevesa and Land a Force.

A despatch from Rome says: Italy declared war on Turkey beginning at 2.30 on Friday afternoon, following a session of the Cabinet, at which the Turkish reply to Italy's ultimatum was read. An official statement from the Foreign Office says that Turkey's reply to Italy's ultimatum is not peremptory as was demanded, but is evasive and dilatory. In consequence of that fact the Government declared war against Turkey. After the reception of the Turkish reply there was a conference between the Premier and the Foreign Minister and the Cabinet. It was decided to occupy Tripoli without delay. The Turkish Charge d-Affaires has received his passports to the frontier and started for home on Friday evening.

REFUSED TO SURRENDER.

A despatch from Tripoli says: The Italian destroyer that entered the port under the white flag this afternoon brought a summons for the surrender of the Turkish garrison. The Turkish authorities refused. All Europeans have taken refuge in the Italian Consulate, and are awaiting the first shot. The Italian colony is preparing for defence. As soon as the ultimatum was delivered to the Turkish Government the Italian fleet established a blockade off the coast of Tripoli, and no Turkish steamer is now able to enter.

The present mission of the fleet is to prepare everything for landing the Army Corps, which is commanded by General Caneva. If the Italian subjects are molested by Turkey the fleet will extend its area of operations. If the Turkish warships attempt action a strong Italian squadron will be sent to deal with it immediately. No disembarkation of sailors and marines at Tripoli is to be expected, as the force would not be sufficient to sustain an attack by the garrison of Tripoli.

The Turkish fortifications are armed only with small calibre Krupp guns, and cannot injure the Italian warships, which will be able to destroy the forts without difficulty. The cruisers Marco Polo and Vetter Pisani left Taranto with the squadron of torpedo boats and destroyers under the command of the Duke of Abruzzi. General Caneva, with the expeditionary forces, will be accompanied by General Bricola and the Count Giraldi. The first force is made up of 25,000 men. There will be 40,000 men altogether when the entire force is landed. Regiments are departing daily from the chief Italian towns for Palermo, Naples, Brindisi, Syracuse, Catania, Taranto, Genea Acona and Venice, where they will embark aboard transports. The force will be established at Tripoli by Oct. 10.

Old ships, with ammunition, guns, and telegraphic apparatus, will follow the transports. Aeroplanes and probably other airships will be despatched later.

The warships blockading Tripoli are the Pisa, Amalfi, Sardegna, Napoli, and Marese. In addition there are six destroyers.

TURKISH SHIPS DAMAGED.

A despatch from Paris says: The Matin's Athens correspondent, says the telegraph official at Vonitza, Greece, wires to the Government that a naval battle occurred off Prevesa at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon. Italian warships belonging to the Ionian squadron encountered a flotilla of Turkish destroyers cruising off the coast of Epirus. The Italians promptly attacked the flotilla, and two Turkish ships were badly damaged by shells. They have gone ashore in the Gulf of Arta.

Prevesa is the southernmost point of Albania. The object of Italy is evidently to encourage the revolt of Albania, which is smarting under the recent cruelties practised by the Turkish General during the rising.

FIGHTING AT TRIPOLI.

A despatch from Constantinople says: The Turkish War Ministry, according to the reports current here on Friday night, has received a despatch from the late Turkish Military Attache at Paris, who has assumed command of the forces at Tripoli, stating that the Italians began to disembark Friday afternoon, but the Turks succeeded in sinking the first two barges. It is rumored also that Italian forces have landed both at Tripoli and Benghazi.

INSULTED ITALIAN FLAG.

A despatch from Salonica says: Immense crowds gathered before the Italian Consulate here on Saturday night. The Governor of the town and the Director of Police tore down the flagstaff and the Italian arms, which they trampled under foot to the accompaniment of angry howls and the vilest epithets. The Italian Consul and Vice-Consul surveyed the scene from the steps of the Consulate, courageously running the risk of at any moment falling victims to the bullets of some fanatical Mussulman. The Italian postoffice and other establishments afterwards receiver similar treatment. Grave news has been received from Albania, where the authorities are apprehensive of untoward developments.

BOMBARDED RESCHADIE.

A despatch from Constantinople says: It is announced from Janina that two Italian warships on Saturday bombarded the port of Reschadie and torpedo boats lying in that harbor, one of which was damaged and landed its crew. The Italian ships entered the port and shelled the town, several houses being struck. After taking soundings they left and later entered Port Musto, taking the Captain of the port and three boatmen prisoners.

HUNDREDS MEET DEATH

Dam Bursts at Austin, Penn., and Practically Destroys the Town.

A despatch from Austin, Penn., says: Three hundred or more persons met their death through the bursting of a dam above this town on Saturday. Fire followed and completed the work of destruction. The curtain of night, which was rung down on the flood scarcely before its victims had all been claimed, and its surviving spectators fully realized how great a tragedy the elements of water and fire had enacted in the natural amphitheatre of the Allegheny Mounttains here, was lifted by dawn on Sunday, revealing a ghastly scene of death and devastation.

Austin itself, on Saturday a busy mill town of 3,000 people, many of whom were enjoying a fine autumn afternoon as a Saturday half holiday, is now only a ghost of a town. Torn to pieces by water and eaten by fire, the wet and charred remnants of its buildings, believed to hold the remains of 300 or more persons, were strewn along the valley edge, piled in winrows where the Main street business section was, or swept in scattered masses far down the ravine.

The greatest loss of life by fire occurred at a sharp turn of the valley just below Main street, where the debris was caught and compressed with terrific power by the circling sweep of the flood. The wreckage of the busiest portion of the town was carried to that point and from upset stoves and lamps caught fire. It is believed that scores of persons are buried under from ten to twenty feet of wreckage there, and the task of recovering them will necessarily be a difficult one.

MOTHER AND SON DIE.

Because Latter Was Charged With Crime, Causing Heart Break.

A despatch from East Brookfield, Mass., says: Bound together by straps about their wrists, the bodies of Mrs. Mary Lacey and her son, J. B. Lacey of Fitchburg, were found in Lake Lashway on Wednesday. Grief over a charge on which the son had been arrested is supposed to have led them to suicide. Mrs. Lacey was 53 years old and her son 30.

FOR RUSSIA'S NAVY.

Estimates for 1912 Call for an Expenditure of $82,108,078.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says: The naval estimates for 1912, which were submitted to the Douma on Thursday, provide for an expenditure of $82,108,078, an increase of $27,979,778 over 1911.

REINDEER FOR FAR NORTH

Shipment From Newfoundland to Fort Smith Arrives at Edmonton.

A despatch from Edmonton says: Three carloads of reindeer from northern Newfoundland arrived in Edmonton on Wednesday on the Canadian Northern Railway from the east. There were 43 reindeer in three cars, and a fourth car was stocked with reindeer food, moss and grass. The Department of the Interior has planned to stock the district of Mackenzie, and the animals are to be used for carrying purposes in long reaches of the north in place of dogs. The consignment of reindeer left Newfoundland Sept. 8, and passed through Quebec on Sept. 18 to reach Edmonton a week later. The reindeer will be taken by rail as far as Stony Creek, sixty miles north of Edmonton, and from that point they will be taken overland to Athabasca Landing. Some that have been well broken will be led and the others will be conveyed in waggons. At Athabasca Landing the animals will be placed in scows and floated down the Athabasca River to Fort Smith, which is their destination. They will have travelled fully five thousand miles by the time their journey is at an end.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

HOW THE PRICE OF MONEY AFFECTS PRICE OF SECURITIES.

In Good Times and in Bad Times—How the Future of the Investment Market is Tending—Offset by Easy Money Conditions in London.

The articles contributed by "Investor" are for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and, if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-cat" enterprises. The impartial and reliable character of the information may be relied upon. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve in connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

The other day an investor asked the writer if the present was a good time to buy securities. This was a very simple question to ask, but rather a large order to answer. It involved carefully scrutinizing the influences controlling the price movements of securities, comparing them with conditions in the past and forecasting the future. This is a most important question in connection with the investing of money, and almost absolutely essential to successful speculation.

Of course in investment a man need not estimate the future of general conditions in order to insure a steady income and safety. But by so doing he can occasionally quite easily choose a time when he can get a better rate of income with equal security, or even the same security at a lower cost than at some other not remote time, and so it is quite worth while to attempt this, for while failure to do so correctly involves the speculator in difficulties it merely affects the investor by causing him some disgust at not waiting longer, or at not purchasing sooner. Of course, the true investor need not worry over this feature, but even if you should intend never to sell your investment, it is always a source of satisfaction to realize that you bought it at a lower price than it would bring at present.

There are two things that affect the market for negotiable securities—that is securities which are readily bought and sold. One is the loaning price of money, and the other is the general condition of business. Sometimes these work together, sometimes in opposition. When working together their power is irresistable. Usually, however, they are in opposition; money generally being low when business is bad and high when business is good.

The effect of these conditions is this. When money rates are low and business bad and likely to get worse, high-grade bonds such as good municipal debentures will advance. The reason is, of course, that municipal bonds are practically unaffected by adverse business conditions and, therefore, their price is influenced almost entirely by the money market. When money is cheap, that is loaning at 3 1-2 and four per cent. on good security in Canada—it has been many years since this occurred, and will probably be many more before we see it again—bonds yielding 4 1-2 and 5 per cent. are eagerly sought by banks and insurance companies, as they present a return—some run to 1 1-2 points above what could be obtained in loaning on the market—and at the same time the safety of which is not affected by conditions of general business. This fact causes the price of the bonds to advance and the yield to fall until the loaning price of money and the return on bonds are approximately equal. But middle grade bonds will remain stationary for bad business conditions, tending to depress prices of all but best bonds; are offset by the effect of cheap money. Speculative bonds whose safety depend very largely on the condition of business will weaken in market price, as their safety is in danger to such an extent as to offset any effect of cheap money. On the other hand, when business is good and money dear there is a tendency for high-grade bonds to decline; for the banks can sell them as they only yield a low rate of 4 to 4 1-2 per cent at such a time, and loan the money at a better rate. Other bonds, yielding a higher rate, and becoming the more secure the better the business outlook is, will tend to advance.

The present tendency is this. Money is dear and business very good, indeed, in Canada. Therefore high-grade bonds should ease off. They will not do so to any appreciable extent because high-grade municipal bonds are not handled on the Canadian markets, but are dealt in wholly by private sale. But you will notice that the prices which good municipalities get for their bonds are less this year than last. In fact, from all appearances, the prices are getting down to a level where they yield a return approaching that on free money. Excellent business conditions, however, are causing securities of a lower grade to advance, because their safety is improving and because, yielding a higher rate, the money market is not yet too high to influence them seriously.

CUTTING DOWN YUKON MAIL.

Only Lighter Forms Forwarded and Other Restrictions Imposed.

A despatch from Ottawa says: After the first of October restrictions were placed on the kind of mail to the Yukon to be sent onward from White Horse. This is owing to the closing of navigation. All letters, postcards, single-wrapped newspapers, periodicals, etc., will be forwarded; but newspapers and periodicals sent to newsdealers for trade in bulk, books and merchandise, circulars, patterns, and samples are excluded. The parcels may be sent to White Horse by mail to be transferred there to the express companies, and the department will transfer them to these forwarding agencies there, but assumes no responsibility.

BOMBS IN A CHURCH.

Four Killed and Fifteen Injured in Mexican Town.

A despatch from Guadalajaru, Mexico, says: A terrific explosion of rockets and bombs in a crowded church here, resulting in four deaths and fifteen seriously injured, cast a shadow of gloom over the merrymaking attending the coming of Madero on Wednesday. Of the wounded many were so seriously burned or trampled in the panic which followed that they are believed to have been fatally injured.

RESTRICTIONS REMOVED.

British Live Stock May Now be Imported Into Canada.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The British Government has notified Canada that the restrictions prohibiting the importation of cattle, sheep and other ruminants and swine from the United Kingdom to Canada, on account of the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease in the former, have been removed. The restrictions have been in force since July 6

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

W. W. TAMAN

Merchant Tailor,

Exeter, Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	85	85
Barley	60	70
Buckwheat	48	50
Oats	40	40
Peas	70	75
Potatoes, per bag	1 00	1 00
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 50	1 50
Butter	20	21
Eggs	22	23
Live hogs, per cwt		6 40
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chichen	alive	10c.	dry picked	12c
Hens	"	8c.	"	00
Roosters	"	6c.	"	00
Turkey	"	12c.	"	14c
Ducks	"	0c	"	11c

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

Our wedding stationery is of the latest, types of the best, workmanship unsurpassed and prices right. Prospective brides should call at the Advocate and see for themselves.

The past few weeks we have added many new Dinner and Toilet Sets. Surpassing anything we have ever shown. You will like them.—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Heaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

Men's Overcoats in the seasons latest Styles and Colorings. These Coats are exceptional values at $10.00 to $14. —Stewart's

100 Girls Wanted for Factory. $5.00 per week to start with for girls eighteen and over. Address immediately D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

For Stylish up-to-date and Serviceable Coats for Girls and Misses. See—Stewart's

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on boys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

Sweater Coats for Girls, Boys Men and Women in a great variety 50c to $5.00—Stewart's

CISTERN AND WELL CLEANING. — Those having cisterns or wells that need cleaning will do well to have the work done at once. We do it to your satisfaction.—ALBERT GOWER, Exeter N.

WANTED.—A good girl for general housework. Must be experienced and capable. No washing. Good wages to right person, none other need apply. Apply personally or by letter to

MRS. J. J. CALLAGHAN,
613 Wellington St., London.

MANSION HOUSE PROPERTY FOR SALE OR TO RENT

The undersigned is offering for sale or to rent that desirable Hotel property in Exeter, known as the Mansion House situated on the corner of Main and Huron st. The property is in good condition and affords an excellent opportunity to open a Temperance or Boarding House. It is well equipped with all necessary furniture to commence business, and there is also good stabling and shed accommodation and other conveniences. There are also good prospects of the House being again granted a license. Will be sold privately on reasonable terms and conditions. For particulars apply to R. Leathern or to Messrs. Dickson & Carling, Exeter.

LITTLE PIGS FOR SALE.—The undersigned has a number of small pigs for sale.—J. A. BOLLINS, London Road South.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Monday, Oct. 30th, is Thanksgiving Day in Canada.

The framework of the skating rink has been commenced.

Mr. J. D. Atkinson has rented his house on Andrew Street to Mr. S. Hardy.

The dance on Friday evening in McDonell's Hall was largely attended.

The West Huron Teacher's Association will hold their convention in Exeter on Oct. 12 and 13.

Mr. M. M. Doyle shipped a number of registered mares to Mr. A. A. Pipe of Berlin on Wednesday.

If a man is unable to govern himself it is up to him to invest in a marriage license and sublet the job.

The wheat crop of 1911 is estimated to be one-twentieth of one per cent. more than last year, the world over.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hockey arrived here from Brantford on Friday. They will reside in Mr. T. Bissett's house on Gidley Street.

The Queen's Hotel stables, Seaforth, were destroyed by fire last week. Cause unknown; loss about $1700; insurance $1000.

Probably the largest sugar beet on record was taken up by Mr. John Pedler of town on Mr. Geo. Cudmore's field it measuring 37 inches in length. Zurich Fair 16 t.

Mrs. Wm. Cudmore, of Exeter, Ont., who has been visiting friends in Vancouver and points west arrived Tuesday on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Stewart.—Crystal City Courier.

Mack Vincent, Entertainer, Miss Jean Walker, Elocutionist of London, and R. Phillips, A. L. C. M., and other talent will furnish a rare treat in the Opera House, Exeter, on Monday, Oct. 16th.

Rev. D. W. Collins, will conduct Harvest Thanksgiving services at Wardsville, a former charge, on Sunday next while Rev. J. Edmonds, rector of Leamington and Wardsville, will fill the vacancy in the Trivitt Memorial Church.

Fire—Fire—Mr. Halstead will be here for another week in the renovating of feather beds and pillows. He wishes any person or persons who have such will avail themselves of the privilege by bringing them in. He will not be here any more. Satisfaction guaranteed or no pay.

Rev. George W. Dewey, pastor of Empress Avenue Methodist Church, has received a unanimous call from the congregation of Wesley Church, Winnipeg, but as he has already accepted a call to Exeter he was compelled to refuse the Winnipeg invitation.— London Advertiser.

The annual convention of the W. C. T. U. for Huron County will be held in the Temperance Hall, Goderich, on Oct. 10 and 11, and will be attended by delegates from all over the county. At the public meeting on the evening of the 10th Rev. Mr. Dewey, of London will be the speaker, and his address will be one of such interest as should ensure a crowded house.

Mr. Robert Leathorn went to London Monday to attend the funeral of his son-in-law, Mr. Geo. W. Heard, who died on Sunday in his 35rd year, after an illness of several years. Deceased for many years travelled through this district for D. S. Perrin & Co., and was well known to many Exeter people. Besides the widow he is survived by one son and one daughter. The funeral was held on Wednesday.

The marriage took place on Sept. 26th at the home of the bride's father Mr. Thos. Russell, Exeter, of his daughter, Robertha F., to Oscar A. Cannon, M. D. of Stratford. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fletcher of Thames Road in the presence of the immediate relatives. Miss Russell had been superintendent of nurses at the Midland hospital. Among those present from a distance were Mr. Thomas A. Russell and family of Toronto, Mrs. G. A. Ransden of Midland, Mr. J. Brown and Miss Jessie Russell of Toronto.

The funeral of Mrs. I. R. Bissett took place from the Exeter station on Thursday morning and was largely attended. Deceased was a member of Exeter Court of the Independent Order of Foresters and the members attended the funeral in a body. Besides those in attendance from Exeter, Centralia, Biddulph and Lucan, the following were among those present from a distance,—Mr. I. R. Bissett and two daughters, and sister, Miss Ethel of Strathroy, Mr. and Mrs. E. Irwin of Norwich, Mrs. Mulcahy and son of Stratford, Mr. and Mrs. R. McFalls and son Stanley of London, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McFalls of Detroit. The floral tributes were very beautiful.

EXETER BOY SUCCESSFUL — Mr. Barton Hooper of Regina, formerly of Exeter, recently passed his final examination in Law in that city, securing the Gold Medal and a prize of books valued at $40. We congratulate Bart. on his success.

CANADIAN GOLD COINS.—The new Canadian gold coins will be issued from the royal mint in a few weeks. The head of King George V. will be on one side and the Canadian coat-of-arms on the other, and the five and ten dollar pieces being about identical in design. The department has not entertained suggestions that the coins should show a maple leaf, beaver or some other characteristic emblem. The $5 pieces will likely be known as "George" as the ten will be known as ..."Double George."

A regular storm period is at its centre, with full Moon on the equator on the 7th. This is one of the most decided storm periods of this month. Violent disturbances should be watched against, both in the Lake and Gulf regions. Rain, wind and thunder will visit most parts of the 11th, central on the 7th, constitutes a grave seismic period. Snow, northward, rising barometer and much colder, will wind up this period. A reactionary storm period falls at the closing of the Venus period, on the 13th, 14th and 15th. Fierce, autumnal thunder storms will visit many sections, with high gales over lake regions. High barometer, snow squalls and change to much colder at the culmination of these storms.

Miss Elma Mack has been ill during the past week.

Mrs. Jas. E. Smith is at present in a very low state of health.

Miss Risden of St. Thomas is the guest of Mrs. W. J. Heaman

Mr. McGillicuddy of Detroit visited his brother, Dr. McGillicuddy part of last week.

Mr. Moses Amy of Stephen is having a sale of farm stock and implements on Saturday, Oct. 21st, B. Phillips, auct. See list of articles next week.

Jos. Braid of Exeter North got a badly scratched face and split lip by falling off the handle bars of a bicycle ridden by another boy on Monday.

Reserved seat tickets will be on sale at Cole's Drug Store, Saturday, Oct. 7th, for Entertainment to be held in the Opera House, Oct. 16th, Prices 15c., 25c. and Reserved seats 35c.

Exeter School will celebrate their Field Day on Friday, Oct. 6. Come and enjoy yourself with the boys and girls. Our school will exchange visits again with Lucan H. S. as last year.

Invitations are out for the marriage on Tuesday, Oct. 10th, of Richard H. Dyer Hurdon of Buffalo, son of Mr. N. D. Hurdon of Exeter, to Miss Sarah D., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Groff of Buffalo. The event is to take place at the home of the bride's parents, Parkdale Avenue, Buffalo.

The remains of the late Mary Baillie of Newbury were brought here by by train on Tuesday evening and were taken to the home of Mr. John Bell, nephew of the deceased, from where the funeral took place to Kirkton cemetery on Wednesday. Mrs. Baillie was a sister of the late Archibald Hodgert, and was aged 91 years.

SUCCESSFUL HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL.—The James Street Methodist Church was beautifully decorated with fruits, vegetables, grains, greens and flowers for the Harvest Home Festival on Sunday and Monday. A very heavy rain caused the attendance to be small on Sunday morning, when Rev. Hicks of Crediton preached, but the evening congregation was very large when Rev. Millyard of Hensall occupied the pulpit. Both are preachers of exceptional ability and their sermons were highly appreciated. The tea-meeting on Monday evening attracted the usual large attendance and the supper was of such an order as to please everybody. The Boston Male Quartette, owing to the illness of some members, was not present, but Rev. Mr. Steadman of Elimville, one of the members, sang pleasing solos, Miss Delight Hobbs gave delightful violin selections, the choir sang choice anthems, and resident and neighboring ministers spoke briefly and interestingly.

DEATH OF MRS. KNIGHT—After a long and tedious illness there passed to her reward Wednesday another of Exeter's oldest and most esteemed residents in the person of Caroline Wiltshire, widow of the late Chas. Knight, aged 81 years. Deceased was operated on about two years ago, and while the operation was a success it only furnished temporary relief. Since then she has suffered much and death must have come as a happy release. Born in Wiltshire, Eng., in 1830 she came to Canada with her late husband first settling in London, where her husband was for many years station agent. From London they moved to St. Thomas and in 1878 to Exeter, where she has continuously resided since. The deceased was of a bright, cheerful disposition, and was one of the most kind hearted of women, and will be much missed in the home. Her husband predeceased her about two years. She is survived by four sons and one daughter,—Charles of St. Thomas, George of Ilderton, Fred of Jansen, Sask., John J., station agent at Exeter, and Miss Carrie at home. The funeral will take place on Friday at 2.30 o'clock.

APPLES

Those wanting good NO. 1 Winter Apples call at the store.

Jones & May

Mr. S. A. Popplestone of Blyth was in town this week.

Revs. Sharp and Powell were in Toronto this week.

Mrs. Stanbury of Bayfield is visiting her son, J. G.

Mr. Fred Elliot of Haileybury is visiting his home here.

Mr. A. Hastings was in Thamesville this week on business.

Mrs. C. Southcott is expected home from Guelph this week.

Mrs. Thos. Bissett returned from Strathroy last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Case of Sarnia are visiting relatives here.

Mr. John Torrance, License Inspector, of Clinton, was here on Tuesday.

Miss Edna Brock left Tuesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Davis, at Chatham.

Mrs. Chas. Randall of London visited Mrs. Chas. Box of Stephen last week.

Miss McConnell of London was the guest of Mrs. I. Armstrong Tuesday.

Misses Annie and Hazel Powell of Wingham visited this week with Miss Maud Davis.

Miss Penhale of Vancouver, B. C., is visiting her brother, Mr. W. H. Penhale, Huron Street.

Mr. Fowell and Messrs. W. W. Taman and W. May accompanied Mr. E. Fowell to Detroit Thursday.

Messrs. Geo. Knight of Ilderton and Chas. Knight of St. Thomas were here this week to see their mother.

Messrs. Thos. Russell and E. Christie were judges of cattle and horses, respectively at Thamesville Fair Tuesday.

Messrs Garnet and Clarence Heywood left on Monday for Ingersoll to do several jobs of decorating and painting.

Mrs. E. H. Vrooman and child left Friday for Copetown after a visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dearing and wife of Marlette, Mich., arrived here last week on a visit to relatives, the former returning Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Mack and little daughter Hazel of Winnipeg are the guests of Mr. David Mack this week. Mr. Mack has come east for his health.

Mr. I. R. Bissett and daughters, and Miss Ethel Bissett returned to Strathroy Friday, while Miss Edna Bissett went to the same place this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. G. Handford of Palmyra, Wis., are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Handford. Mr. A. L. Handford of Renfrew is expected here the latter part of the week

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Partland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Bus, Dray and Teaming Business

Your orders in our line will be attended to quickly and satisfactorily. We are here to please the public needing anything in our line, and we ask a trial from you. Orders left by phone or otherwise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will receive prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

3 Weeks Reduction Sale

Commencing to-morrow, Friday Money Saving Prices on all China and Graniteware Etc. We want the room for Christmas Goods.

Come Early

Powell's Bazaar

THE TORONTO NEWS

DAILY

$1.50 —— A YEAR —— $1.50

ORDERS TAKEN AT THIS OFFICE

THE NEWS WILL BE SENT DAILY BY MAIL TO ANY ADDRESS IN CANADA FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A-HALF A YEAR.

OUR WATCH AND Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter

Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers

And

Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a

For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON

The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 82

Big Showing of Winter Coats

In all The Leading Cloths

We have all the leading styles in Ladies Misses and Children's Coats in the very best of cloths. Fancy Tweeds are theyery newest in the coat line and we are also showing the good staple lines of Blacks and Blues. Try one on and be convinced Prices right.

LADIES & CHILDRENS FURS

BUY EARLY AND GET THE BEST

This will be a good fur season and we are well prepared for it with a big assortment.

LADIES FURS

Ruffs, Stoles, Muffs in Marmot, Sable; Seal, Fox, Persian, Lamb and Wolf. See them before you buy.

CHILDREN'S FURS

Little Muffs and Neck Furs in White Fox, Chin Chillian, Hare, Lamb and Stone Martin. All little beauties.

LADIES FUR LINED COATS

We have the best values this year we have ever shown. Muskrat Lining with genuine Sable or Isabella collars.

FUR COLLAR COATS

With quilted or plush Linings, We have a very large lot of these coats to show you at $20 to $25 each.

FALL DRESS GOODS

Fancy Tweeds are very very Strong and will be found here in all wears. Plain Serges in all colors come next, also a good showing of all colored and Black Dress Goods.

NEW WAISTINGS

New Fancy Delainns in all patterns, New Silk striped, Taffeta Cloths, and the New Silks in all the leading shades also Velours and Velvets.

Gents Furnishing For Fall

New Shirts	New Underwear	New Over Coats
" Collars	New Sweaters	" Rain Coats
" Ties	New Sweaters Coats	" Fall Suits
" Gloves	New Fancy Vests	" Hats&Caps
" Sox	New Suitings	" Shoes

JONES & MAY

Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

Local Items

Many a man's handshake is less sincere than the wag of his dog's tail.

Hear Miss Walker Monday, Oct. 16th in Opera House, Exeter.

Miss Parish, who has been visiting with Mrs. Taman, left Tuesday evening for London.

The farmers are being considerably hampered in their root harvest by the almost continuous wet weather. It has rained nearly every day for two or three weeks.

On Monday last while Mr. Gill of Grand Bend was driving between the new Bank of Commerce building and Mr. A. Walter's shoe shop with a team of horses and a wagon with a rack on it the rack collided with the shop window, tearing considerable of the building asunder.

A meeting of the publishers of Huron County will be held in the Council Room in Clinton on Friday, October 27th, at 11.15 a.m. This meeting will be under the auspices of the Canadian Press Association and the first in a series of county conferences that will be held throughout Ontario this winter.

The fellow who stops his paper because he gets offended at something that does not suit his fancy, always imagines he is getting even with the publisher, but he is never missed. This only happens occassionally, for there are only a few people in any community who imagine a paper should contain nothing but what they approve of.

An exchange says: Small men with small purposes do not help to make a town lively and progressive. The man who never contributes to public enterprise or voluntarily assists in supporting any of the public enterprises is not worth coaxing to remain in town, and should he decide to move out it is always a matter of congratulation. It's units and not mere ciphers that counts for something. "Be a unit."

Our home merchant takes the farmer's produce. With them he finds a ready market for his butter and eggs, his potatoes and apples. These department stores take only his money. Our home merchants, not for profit, but for accommodation and to assist the farmers, buy his produce. They sell it in a majority of cases for less than they pay for it and often handle it at a loss, yet some farmers do not appreciate this and take this very same money and send it to a department store where they could get better bargains right at home.

15c. pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1

Nearly everyone of us is figuring on having a fine time just ahead when we get all fixed, and this vision is just ahead of us when we fall asleep. To live in the now and enjoy the present is the work of a philosopher.

MANSION HOUSE—On Tuesday Mr. Robert Leathorn disposed of the Mansion House Property by private sale to Mr. Wesley Snell. The latter has not yet given out what use he will make of the property.

ON TRIAL.—Constable W. J. Bissett was in London Tuesday and arrested Mr. C. W. Cross, formerly caretdker at the Exeter cemetery, on the charge of appropriating to his own use funds taken in at the cemetery. The trial commenced at the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, just as we go to press.

CHILDREN'S DAY.—Next Sunday will be observed as Children's Day in the Trivitt Memorial Church and will also be observed in the Anglican churches world-wide. The rector, Rev. D. W. Collins, will deliver a special address to the children and the service will be made especially attractive and interesting. The object of these special services is to create a deeper interest in parental teaching and the religious training of the young. Parents should attend this service next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

A RARE TREAT—Exeter people will have a chance to hear something extra good in James st. church on Monday evening, Oct. 23, when there appears one of the greatest harpists of the age, Aptommas, for years harpist to Her Late Majesty Queen Victoria, assisted by Miss Grace Merry, Entertainer and Miss E. Alexandra Bradley, Soprano. Tickets 25c., at Cole's Drug Store and at the Church door. Do not miss this event. It is expected to be equal to the Welsh singers of last year.

PRIZE WINNING—Mr. R. D. Hunter of Usborne was a heavy prize winner at Kirkton Fair in the cattle line and it was one of the best cattle shows ever held in Kirkton. In the Durhams he got 1st and 2nd for aged cow, 1st for 2 year-old heifer, 1st for yearling heifer 1st for heifer calf; in grades he got first for fat ox or steer, fat cow or heifer, 2 year-old steer, 1 yr-old steer, and steer calf, as well as diploma for best in the class; in Holsteins he got 1st for calf, 2nd for cow. He also secured the diploma for best Shorthorn. Mr. Wm. Brock, also of Usborne, won first for heavy draught 3-year-old horse, 1st for heavydraught foal, and diploma for the best in the class.

Mrs. Piper has gone to London to visit.

Mr. Robt. Sanders returned last week from a fishing and shooting trip on the St. Clair Flats, Mich.

Mrs. John Willis of Mariette, Mich., who has been visiting at Mooresville is now spending a few days with friends in town.

Mr. N. D. Hurdon and son Gerald went to Buffalo Monday to attend the wedding of the former's son, Richard H. Dyer Hurdon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Seldon and family went to Ingersoll Wednesday to attend the marriage of Mr. Seldon's brother, Arthur, to Miss Dundas of Ingersoll The wedding took place on Thursday.

"Mrs. Wm Greenway, who we regret to say is seriously ill, was taken to the Winnipeg General Hospital on Thursday last."—Crystal City Courier. Mrs. Greenway was formerly Mrs. Elliott of Exeter.

Rev. J. Edmonds of Wardsville occupied the pulpit of the Trivitt Memorial Church on Sunday, preaching two excellent sermons. The rector, Rev. D. W. Collins preached Harvest Thanksgiving services at Wardsville.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows in session at Indianapolis by a vote of 169 to 15 decided to debar hotel keepers licensed to sell intoxicating liquors from membership in the order. Hotel and saloon keepers, barkeepers and gamblers are now ineligible for membership.

Rev. D. W. and Mrs. Collins left yesterday (Wednesday) morning for Toronto, where their infant daughter will undergo treatment for the removal of a growth on its forehead. It is to be hoped that the operation will be a success and it may result in the complete recovery of the child.

In the Canadian West the Harvest season of 1911 will go on record as one of the worst seasons in the history of the country. Cutting was completed early but the weather has been so wet that few machines have got in more than ten days threshing in the past month.

Mr and Mrs. George Powell on Tuesday morning received the sad news of the death of their son, W. J. Powell of Mounds, Ill. No particulars have come to hand as to the cause of his cause of his death. The telegram simply stated he had passed away that morning. He leaves behind to mourn his loss a wife and two children, besides his parents, three brothers and one sister. He was well and favorably known in and around Winchelsea, having spent his boyhood days there. Much sympathy is felt for the parents in this their sad bereavement.

The exportation of pulp wood in a raw form from Canada into United States is increasing yearly, and by just so much as this is so does Canada lose the benefits to be derived from manufacture and the increased value of raw products. Statistics show that over a million and a half cords of pulpwood were cut in Canada during 1910, worth nearly $9,800,000.00. Over 60 per cent. of this amount was sent out of Canada without further labor being spent on it. Canada did not get one half the amount she would have received if all pulpwood were converted into pulp on Canadian soil. As the United States does not export two per cent. of what it imports a certain and steady market would be found for all the wood pulp of Canadian production.

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

Fall Has Reached us

We are prepared to show you Dress Goods in all Wool, Venetian, Ottoman Cords, Poplin, Serges, Plaids, Etc.

Sweater Coats

We have them in White, Red, Brown and Grey from 2.50 to 4.50 also for children from 50 to 85c.

We have a few Sweater Coats for men at only 1.25 in Grey an Navy Blue.

Wool Shawls

Some fine wool shawls in Plain White, Grey Red, Black and colored from 65c. to $3.00 also some heavy grey shawls $3.00.

Young Men

If you want a nice neat soft Felt Hat in Grey Brown and Green just come in and let us have the pleasure of showing them to you.

Stanfields Underwear

This is the only Unshrinkable underwear that Ladies and Gents should wear. We have the Ladies in all sizes. Pricee from 75c to $1.15 and Gents in Red and Blue Labels; Prices from $1.25 to $1.75 a garments.

We also handle Penman's natural wool underwear for men and Ladies.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

EX-REEVE HENRY WILLERT ELECTED REEVE OF STEPHEN BY ACCLAMATION

At the nomination meeting held in the Town Hall, Crediton, on Monday last, for the nomination of a reeve for the the township to complete the unexpired term of the late Reeve, Mr. Samuel Sweitzer, two nominations were made those of Mr. Henry Willert, ex-Reeve, and Mr. William Anderson, ex-Deputy Reeve. The latter however resigned and Mr. Willert was declared elected. This looks like a graceful act on the part of the people of Stephen when it is considered that Mr. Willert and Mr. Sweitzer were old opponents and the former declined to contest an election against Mr. Sweitzer in January of the present year.

CENTRALIA

Mr. C. J. Pink, tenor, of London, who is so well and favorably known here, will sing at both morning and evening services of Sunday, Oct. 15th.

The postponed anniversary services will be held on Sunday next. Rev. Blatchford will preach in the morning and George Stanley of Lucan in the evening Special music by the choir assisted by C. J. Pink of London

Death.—The death occurred on Sunday last of Mr. Robert Trothan, at the age of 70 years and 11 months. The funeral took place on Tuesday to the Birr cemetery. Mr. Trothan had been failing for the past year and his death was looked for several weeks before. He was of a very retiring disposition and had many friends. He was widely known, having been one of the toll gate keepers on the Proof Line for 27 years. He is survived by his wife and four sons—two in London, one in Detroit and one in the west.

The sugar beet season is on and those that have them are busy those days delivering them to the station.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson returned on Saturday after spending a week with their daughter at Strathroy.

Mr. John English is still confined to his bed from the results of a fall he had a couple weeks ago.

Messrs. John Blair and Dan Austin each wear a new smile, for a new girl has arrived at the home of the former and a boy at the home of the latter.

The School Field Day

Most unfavorable weather was handed out on the last two Fridays—the occasions of the Lucan and Exeter School Field Days. Rain fell nearly all day long on both occasions. However, the visits were made and thoroughly enjoyed. A few of the events were omitted, but the most of them were run off either in the drill shed on the agricultural grounds, or in the James-St. Methodist church shed. The baseball match had to be omitted, but the basketball match was an interesting feature and resulted in favor of the visitors, the score being Lucan 6, Exeter 4. The following are the results of the contested events.—

EVENTS	WINNERS
CHILDREN'S EVENTS
1—50 yd. race, Boys 8 years and under	E. Doyle, N. Hardy, L. Harness
2—50 yd. race, Girls 8 years and under	M. Houlden, G. Harness, M. Webster
3—50 yd. race, Boys 10 yrs. and under	H. Boyle, —. Andrews, P. Collins
4—50 yd. race, Girls 10 yrs. and under	M. Marchand, I. Zuefle, B. Gould
5—Obstacle race, all boys under 12	W. Harness, H. Parsons, W. Manson
6—75 yd. race, Boys 12 yrs. and under	H. Parsons, D. Harness, G. Ortwein
7—75 yd. race, Girls 12 yrs. and under	F. Bowle, M. Mallett, —, Welsh
8—75 yd. race, Boys 15 yrs. and under	H. Parsons, D. Harness, G. Davis
9—75 yd. race, Girls 15 yrs. and under	F. Bowle, M. Knott, J. Brickwood
GIRLS' EVENTS
1—Walking Race, 100 yards	E. Hunkin, N. Amy, S. Petty
2—Spike Driving Race (Open)	E. Hunkin, N. Amy
3—Potato race, (Open)	E. Hunkin, N. Amy, R. Topping
5—Book race, (Open)	E. Hunkin, R. Topping, L. Boyle
6—Obstacle race, (Open)	E. Hunkin, R. Topping, L. Taylor
8—Throwing basket-ball	E. Hunkin, M. Acheson, S. Petty
9—Thimble Race, (Open)	E. Hunkin, S. Mobray, M. Glavin
11—Throwing base ball	E. Hunkin, R. Topping, M. Acheson
BOYS' EVENTS
1—100 yard dash, Sr.	L. Grieve, H. Glenn, F. McPherson
2—100 yard dash, Jr. (Open)	L. Kennedy, C. Wood, G. Morley
3—Three-legged race, Sr., (Open)	McPherson and Glenn
4—Three-legged race, Jr., (Open)	Glavin & Cronyn, Henry & Robinson, Wood and Morley
7—Leap frog race, (Open)	McIlhargey & O'Neil, Stanley & Hall Henry and Robinson
8—Running broad jump, Sr., (Open)	K. O'Neil, L. Grieve, R. Dearing
9—Running broad jump, Jr., (Open)	L. Kennedy, G. Morley, C. Wood
10—Standing broad jump, Sr., (Open)	R. Dearing, L. Grieve, G. Blatchford
11—Standing broad jump, Jr., (Open)	C. Wood, L. Kennedy, G. Morley
12—Running hop, step and jump, Sr.	L. Grieve, R. Dearing, F. McPherson
13—Running hop, step and jump, Jr.	J. Davis, E. Harvey, C. Wood
16—Pole Vault, Sr.	F. McPherson, G. Blatchford, R. Bissett
18—440 yard race, (Open)	W. Hall, H. Stanley, A. McIlhargey
19—½ mile relay, Sr., 3 to team, (Open)	L. Grieve, H. Glenn & C. Wood
23—Throwing baseball	R. Bissett, K. O'Neil, H. Sweet.

At 6.15 all assembled at the Town Hall, where a fine banquet had been prepared by the Exeter High School pupils for the Lucan H. S. pupils and teachers. After a splendid sociable time spent over the banquet, the following programme was rendered.—

1. Toast to His Majesty King George V.; 2, Chairman's Address, Rev. D. W. Collins; 3, Instrumental duet, H. & B. Quackenbush; 4, Speech, Mr. Geddes, Captain Lucan baseball team; 5, Instrumental, L. Grieve; 6, Speech, Mr. T. B. Carling; 7, Vocal Duet, Misses L Boyle and M. Acheson; 9, Speech, Mr. G W. Hofferd, B. A., Prin. Lucan H. S.; 9, Speech, Mr. W. R. Weldenhammer, B. A., Prin. Exeter H. S. Dept.; 10, Distribution of Prizes, Miss Robb and Mr. Weldenhammer.

THE EXETER COUNCIL

The Council met at the Town Hall Friday evening, Oct. 7th. All members present. Previous minutes read and approved. Messrs. Beavers and Ford presented a petition asking to have old crossing at Grigg's that was ordered to be taken up, replaced with a new cement crossing. Levett—Rivers—That the petition be granted.—Carried.

Tenders for coal were received from W. J. Heaman and G. Mantle at $7 a ton. Tender prices being the same it was moved by Day and seconded by Rivers that Mr. Heaman supply the Town Hall and Mr. Mantle the pump house and North End Fire Hall.—Carried Rivers—Levett—That the clerk write to Seaforth and Goderich re supplying water for skating rink, as to how they base their rates.—Carried.

Levett—Day—That the Reeve and Mr. Rivers interview Mr Scott re supplying water for the creamery, and to make what arrangements they deem proper.—Carried.

A deputation of ladies representing the Women's Institute waited on the council at the last meeting, asking permission to plant trees on the land adjorning the pump house, with a view of making a park. Levett—Rivers—That their request be granted.—Carried.

Day—Levett—That a light be placed on Lake Road as arranged for by the committee, and that the Exeter Electric Light Co. be requested to attend to the matter at once.—Carried.

Levett—Day—That the solicitor be instructed to write the Exeter Electric Light Co. to take the necessary action to compel them to comply with the request of the council as per motion of June 30th—Carried.

Levett—Rivers—That the Reeve and Treasurer borrow fifteen hundred dollars for current expenses.—Carried.

Day—Rivers—That the following accounts be paid.—

Exeter Electric Light Co., lighting, 112.52; T. M. Kay, refund of fines, $3 Jas. Connor, salary as librarian $25; T. B. Carling, part salary 21.75; John Ford, part salary 31.25; W. J. Bissett part salary $33; W. J. Bissett, exp. to London re Waterwork, 2.25; Gutta Percha Rubber Co., acct. fire department., 63.25; G. Crawley, livery town inspection, 2.00; W. S. Car Pipe and Foundry Co., piping, $715.29; Canadian Fairbanks Co., water guage 10.20 I. Hall, labor waterworks, 10.68; Wm Welsh 19.24; Jas. Willis 88c; Thomas Webster 88, J. Kydd 88c; Geo. Orange 26.32; Nelson Vale 11.37; T. Sanders 1.75; R. Horn 16.11; R. Davis, team, 20.12; W. Westcott 6.75; S. Handford team 1.75; J. Gloucher, labor 88c; W. Hatter 4.37; R. Robbins 2.63; A. Gloucher 88c.; F. Bloomfield 88c; F. Hector 17.86; T. Houlden $4; R. Quance 2.62; T. Creech, street watering 700; John Bell 30.00; John Norry 7.50, Eli Snell 9.85.—Total 1224.68

T. B. Carling, Clerk.

ANOTHER CANTIN FAILURE.

The King Edward Park Co., Montreal, was placed in liquidation recently, the winding up order being granted at the request of O. T. R. Laurendeau, the president. This is a company which N M. Cantin, formerly of St. Joseph, and once promoter of an electric railway to Stratford, had promoted and was identified with. The president of the King Edward Park Co., says the company owes him $19,732.64, and is insolvent, and cannot meet its liabilities.

PREMIER BORDEN'S CABINET

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—At one o'clock this morning Premier Robert Laird Borden announced his cabinet as follows:

Premier and President of the council—R. L. Borden.

Minister of agriculture—Martin Burrell, British Columbia.

Minister of customs—Dr. J. D. Reid, Ontario.

Minister of finance—W. L. White, Ontario.

Minister of inland revenue—W. B. Nantel, Quebec.

Minister of interior—Robert Rogers, Manitoba.

Minister of Justice—C. J. Doherty, Quebec.

Minister of Labor—T. W. Crothers, Ontario.

Minister of marine and fisheries—J. D. Hazen, New Brunswick.

Minister of militia—Col. Sam Hughes, Ontario.

Minister of public works—F D. Monk, Quebec.

Minister of railways—Frank Cochrane, Ontario.

Minister of trade and commerce—Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Ontario.

Postmaster general—L. P. Pettetier, Quebec.

Secretary of state—Dr. W. J. Roche, Manitoba.

Without portfollio.

A. E. Kemp, Ontario.

George Perley, Quebec.

Senator Loughead, Alberta.

BIRTHS

Blair—In Centralia, Oct. 4, to Mr. and Mrs. J. Blair, a daughter.

Austin—In Centralia, Oct. 8, to Mr. and Mrs. D. Austin, a son.

Mittleholtz.—At Zurich, on Oct. 2, to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mittleholtz, a daughter.

Isaac—In Stephen, Oct. 3rd, to Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Isaac, a daughter.

Ginter—In Crediton, Oct 2, to Mr. and Mrs. Ginter, a son.

MARRIAGES

Hurdon—Groff—In Buffalo, on Oct. 10, Richard H. Dyer Hurdon of Buffalo, son of Mr. N. Dyer Hurdon of Exeter, to Miss Sarah D., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Groff, Buffalo.

Patrick—Sherritt—At Lucan, Sept 27th, Elizabeth Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Patrick of Lucan, to Mr. John Roy Sherritt of Stephen.

Walkey—Rufles—In Seaforth, Oct. 4th, Emily Rufles of Seaforth to Charles A Walkey of Toronto.

Johns—Stonehouse—At Clinton, Oct. 4th Miss Julia Sophia Stonehouse of Clinton to Harvey Robert Johns of Tuckersmith.

DEATHS

Trothan—In Centralia, Oct. 8th, Robert Trothan, aged 70 years, 11 months.

McArthur—In St. Marys, on Oct. 4th, James McArthur, aged 88 years, 4 months and 1 day.

Grant—At Granton, on Oct. 4, James Grant, aged 94 years, 3 months.

Wells—In St. Marys, on Oct. 4, Jonathan Wells, aged 81 years, 4 months and 4 days.

The Best Chance Ever Offered To Men

To put in a supply of clothing, Underwear, Shoes, Hats and Caps, Sox, Ties.

Everything a man wears.

At a price guaranteed to be below the Actual

Cost Price

Boys Clothing Sacrificed

This sale may be ended any day. And you will certainly regret it if you do not buy now.

Men's and Boys' Furnishings

Quitting Business

Cash Only

S. G. Bawden

The Clothier Exeter

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER V.—(Cont'd)

"There is no use, sir, in fighting against facts," said the detective, with dogged insistence. "This time you are dead wrong. Mr. Talbot was recognized at Calais by a Foreign Office messenger returning from France. Seeing him with a lady, and knowing that he was not married, the messenger—Captain Gaultier by name—did not speak to him, especially as Mr. Talbot seemed rather to avoid recognition. Captain Gaultier thought nothing of the matter until this morning, when he visited the Foreign Office on duty and heard something of the affair. He then saw the Under-Secretary, the same gentleman who sent the Earl of Fairholme to you, and told him what had happened. The Under-Secretary could hardly refuse to believe such a credible witness, so telegrams were despatched to the embassy in Paris and the police at Dover. From Dover came the information that exactly such a couple as described by Captain Gaultier had crossed to France on Tuesday morning; and a few hours later a wire from Paris announced the discovery of the registered names at the Grand Hotel. The Paris telegram went on to say that the gentleman had told the manager his luggage was following from the Gare du Nord, and that his wife and himself were going out for half an hour, but would return in time to dress for dinner. When his traps arrived they were to be taken to his room. No luggage ever came, nor was either of the pair seen again; but we will lay hands on them, never fear."

Brett took a hasty stride or two up and down the room.

"So you think," he burst forth at last, "that Mr. Talbot has not only taken part in some vulgar intrigue with a woman, but that he has also bolted with the Sultan's diamonds, sacrificing his whole career to a momentary impulse and imperilling his neck for the sake of a few gems, which he cannot even convert into money?"

"Why not? It is not the first time in the history of the world that a man has made a fool of himself over a woman, or even committed a murder in order to steal diamonds."

"My dear Winter, do be reasonable. Where is the market for diamonds such as these are supposed to be? You know, even better than I do, that the slightest attempt to dispose of them at any figure remotely approaching their value will lead to the immediate detection and arrest of the person rash enough to make the experiment. Don't you see, man, that the Foreign Office and its messenger, its Under-Secretary, your Commissioner, and the Embassy officials in Paris have been completely and abjectly fooled—fooled, too, in a particularly silly fashion by the needless registration of names at the hotel?"

"No, I do not see it. One cannot go against facts, but this time the evidence looks so strong that I shall be mightily mistaken if Mr. Talbot does not swing for his share in the matter. Anyhow, I have done my duty in letting you know what has happened, so I must be off."

"To arrest somebody, of course?" cried Brett, with an irritating laugh; but Mr. Winter was already hurrying down the stairs.

The more Brett thought out the complexities of the affair, the more excited he became, and the longer and more rapid were his strides up and down the length of his spacious sitting-room. This was his only outward sign of agitation. When thinking deeply on any all-absorbing topic, he could not remain still. He felt obliged to cast away physical as well as mental restriction on the play of his imagination, and he would at times pace back and forth during unrecorded hours, in the solitude of his apartments, finally awakening to a sense of his surroundings by reason of sheer exhaustion.

He was not destined to reach this ultimate stage on the present occasion. With a preliminary cough—for the discreet Smith was well versed in his master's peculiarities—his servant announced the appearance of the Earl of Fairholme.

Brett looked at his watch, and was caught in the act by his visitor. "Yes, I know we fixed on seven o'clock," cried the impetuous young peer, "but I was simply dying to hear the result of your inquiries thus far, and I ventured to call an hour earlier."

The barrister explained that he sought to learn the time as a matter of mere curiosity. "Indeed," he added, "your appearance at this juncture is particularly welcome. I want to ask you many things concerning Mr. Talbot."

"Fire away," said Fairholme, "but no good at spinning a yard, but I can answer questions like a prize boy in a Sunday-school."

"Well, in the first instance, have you known him many years?"

"We were at school together at Harrow. Then I entered the Army whilst he had a University career. My trustees made me give up the Service when I succeeded to the estates, and about the same time Jack entered the Foreign Office. That is three years ago. We have seen each other constantly since, and, of course, when I became engaged to his sister our friendship became, if anything, stronger."

"Nothing could be more admirably expressed. Do you know anything about his private affairs?"

"Financially, do you mean?"

"Well, yes, to begin with."

"He got a salary, I suppose, from Government, but he has a private income of some thousands a year."

"Then he is not likely to be embarrassed for money?"

"Most unlikely. He is a particularly steady chap—full of eagerness to follow a diplomatic career and that sort of thing."

"If you were told that he had bolted with a nondescript young woman, what would you say?"

"Say!" vociferated Fairholme, springing up from the seat into which he had subsided, "I would tell the man who said so that he was a liar!"

"Exactly. Of course you would. Yet here are all kinds of people—Foreign Office officials, policemen, and hangers-on of the British Embassy in Paris—ready to swear, perhaps to prove, if necessary, that Talbot and some smartly dressed female went to Paris quite openly by the day service yesterday, and even took care to announce ostentatiously their arrival in the French capital."

For a moment the two men faced each other silently, the one amused by the news he was imparting, the other staggered by its seeming absurdity. Then Fairholme flung himself back into his chair.

"Look here, Mr. Brett," he went on, "if Jack himself stood there and told me that what you have said is true I would hardly believe it." A note of agony came into his voice, as he added: "Do you know what this means to his sister? My God, man, it will kill her!"

"It will do nothing of the sort," cried Brett. "Surely you understand Miss Talbot better. She will be the first to proclaim to the world what you and I believe, namely, that her brother is innocent, no matter how black appearances may be. I have no knowledge of him save what I have learned within the last few hours, yet I stake my reputation on the certainty that he is in no way connected with this terrible occurrence save by compulsion."

"If gives one renewed courage to hear you speak so confidently," said the earl, his face lighting with enthusiasm as he looked eagerly at the other, whose earnestness had, for an instant, lifted the veil from features usually calm and impassive, betraying the strength of character and masterful purpose that lay beneath the outward mask.

"Is there anything else I can tell you?" asked Fairholme.

"You are quite sure that his was a nature that could not stoop to a vulgar intrigue?" said Brett. "Remember that in this relation the finest natures are prone to err. From long experience, I have learnt to place such slips in quite another category than mere lapses of criminality."

"Of course, any man who knows the world must appreciate your reasons fully, but from what I know of Jack I am persuaded the thing is quite impossible. Even if it were otherwise, he would never be so mad as to go off when he knew that something very unusual and important was about to occur with reference to a special mission for the successful conclusion of which he had been specially selected by the Foreign Office."

"Ah, there you touch on the strange happenings of coincidence. Circumstantial evidence convicts many offenders, and it has hanged many an innocent man before today. I could tell you a very remarkable case in point. Once——"

But Smith appeared to announce dinner, and Brett not only insisted that his new acquaintance should dine heartily, but also contrived to divert him from present anxieties by drawing upon the rich storehouse of his varied experiences.

The meal, therefore, passed pleasantly enough. Both men arranged to visit Sir Hubert Fitzjames during the evening and decide on a definite course of action which would receive the approval of the authorities. Armed with a mandate from the Foreign Office, Brett could enter upon his task without fear of interference from officialdom. Nothing further could be done that night, as the private inquiry agent could not possibly complete any portion of his house-to-house scrutiny in the vicinity of the Carlton until the following morning at the earliest.

They smoked and chatted quietly until 7.30 p.m., when Inspector Winter again put in an appearance, to announce that the coroner's jury had brought in a verdict of "Wilful murder by some two or more persons unknown."

The detective was somewhat quieter in manner now that the sensational turn of events in Paris had assimilated with the other remarkable features of the crime. Moreover, the presence of a peer of the realm had a subduing influence upon him, and he had the good taste not to insist too strenuously that Lord Fairholme's prospective brother-in-law was not only an accessory to a foul murder, but also a fugitive thief.

One new fact was established by the post-mortem examination of the victims. Considerable violence had been used to overcome the struggles of the servant, Hussein. His neck was almost dislocated, and there was a large bruise on his back which might have been caused by the knee of an assailant endeavoring to garrotte him.

They were discussing this discovery and its possible significance when Smith entered, bearing a lady's visiting-card, which he silently handed to his master.

Brett read the name inscribed thereon. He merely said, "Show the lady in." Then he turned to the Earl of Fairholme, electrifying the latter by the words: "Miss Edith Talbot is here."

An instant later Miss Talbot came into the room. The three men knew that she brought momentous, perchance direful, intelligence. She was deathly pale. Her eyes were unnaturally brilliant, her mouth set in tense resolution.

"Mr. Brett," she said, after a single glance at her lover, "we have received a letter from my brother."

"A letter from Jack!" cried Fairholme.

"Well, I never did!" ejaculated Mr. Winter.

But Brett only said—

"Have you brought it with you, Miss Talbot?"

"Yes; it is here. My uncle, who was too ill to accompany me, thought you ought to see it at once," and she handed a torn envelope to him.

He glanced at the post-mark.

"It was posted in Paris last evening," he said, his cool utterance sending a thrill through the listeners. "Is the address written by him?" he added.

"Oh yes. It is undoubtedly from Jack."

Here was a woman moulded on the same inscrutable lines as the man whom she faced. Seldom, indeed, would either of these betray the feelings which agitated them. Then he took out the folded letter. It contained but three lines, and was undated.

"My dear Uncle and Sister," it ran. "I am in a position of some difficulty, but am quite safe personally.—Ever yours, Jack."

Mr. Winter was the first to recover his equanimity. He could not control the note of trumph in his voice.

"What do you think of it now, Mr. Brett?"

The barrister ignored him, save for a glance which seemed to express philosophical doubt as to whether Mr. Winter's head contained brains or sawdust.

"You are quite positive that both letter and envelope are in your brother's handwriting?" he said.

"Absolutely positive."

"There can be no doubt about it," chimed in Fairholme, to whom, in response to a gesture, Brett had passed the damning document.

"Then this letter simplifies matters considerably," said Brett.

Miss Talbot looked at him unflinchingly as she uttered the next question:

"Do you mean that it serves to clear my brother from any suspicion?"

"Most certainly."

"I thank you for your words from the bottom of my heart. Somehow, I knew you would say that. Will you please come and help to explain matters to my uncle? Harry you will come, too, will you not?"

The sweet, gentle voice, with its sad mingling of hope and despair, sounded so pathetic that the impetuous peer had some difficulty in restraining a wild impulse to clasp her to his heart then and there.

Even Mr. Winter was moved not to proclaim his disbelief.

"I will see you in the morning, sir," he muttered.

Brett nodded, and the detective went out, saying to himself as he reached the street—

"Nerve! Of course he has nerve. It's in the family. Just look at that girl! Still, it did require some grit to sign his name in the hotel register and then calmly sit down to write a letter telling his people not to worry about him. I've known a few rum cases in my time, but this one——"

The remainder of Mr. Winter's soliloquy was lost in the spasmodic excitement of boarding a passing omnibus, for this latest item of news must be conveyed to the Yard with all speed.

(To be continued.)

LETTERS OF A SON IN THE MAKING TO HIS DAD.

—By REX McEVOY

[Mr. McEvoy will write for this paper a series of letters from the west. They will appear from time to time under the above heading, and will give a picture of the great Canadian west from the standpoint of a young Ontario man going out there to make his way. These letters should be full of interest for every Ontario father.]

No. 6.

Vancouver, Sept. 21st, 1911.

My Dear Dad:—

Here I am at the end of my journey, though not as far west as I intend to go before returning east. It is only four and a half hours by boat from here to Victoria, the capital of the Province, so I shall try and get there for a day or two before starting for home. Uncle John met me at the station when I got in and took me right up to their home in Fairview for breakfast. Aunty and the cousins were there, of course, and gave me a great welcome. They certainly have been good to me, and they have given me the best bedroom in the house, with an outlook over the city to the mountains beyond.

I didn't see anything of the Fraser Valley coming here, as we passed through it at night. I am told that it is one of the best parts of the trip, so I shall arrange to go home by the Toronto Express, which leaves the C. P. R. station here at nine o'clock in the morning and goes through the valley by daylight. By taking this train I shall have seen all the mountains, as what I shall miss on this train I shall have seen coming out on the Imperial Limited.

I like Vancouver fine, what I have seen of it. The business portion of the town is well paved and has some fine, solid buildings. It has more prosperous stores for its size than any place I have been in, and they have the art of making their windows attractive down to the last word. There are one or two hills and steep streets in the down-town section, but for the most part it is level. Quite a large portion of the up-town part is cut off from down-town by False Creek, an arm of the sea which reaches inland for over two miles. At high tide there is twelve feet of water in the creek, which is crossed by three long bridges. At low tide there is practically no water in the creek at all, and the mud flats are exposed, with only puddles of water here and there. The first time I saw it, it looked quite like a harbor, for there were small boats with rafts of logs lying close to the sawmills, which line the banks of False Creek. The mills all have their piles of lumber characteristic of this lumber country, and all have great furnaces, as big as houses, where the waste from the mills is burned. Flames are constantly leaping out of the open tops of these furnaces, which are fed from a sort of spout which projects over them. There is a constant stream of splinters and lath-like pieces of wood falling from the spout to feed the flames.

To the south of Vancouver on quite a hill are the residential districts known as Grandview, Fairview, and Shaughnessy Heights. From the latter place you get a magnificent view all over Vancouver, and beyond Burrard Inlet, the harbor, to North Vancouver and the mountains.

We have heard of the Yellow Peril in the East, and you realize what is meant by it when you get to Vancouver, where there are 11,000 Asiatics out of a total population of 110,000. Chinamen are here in great numbers. They are employed quite a lot as house servants. Often when going through a good residential district, I have seen a Chinaman come out of the kitchen door on to the side verandah, busy on some domestic duty. They go about, some of them, as charwomen do in the East, and they get $2 a day for such work. They are liked better than the Japanese, as they seem to be better workers. The Jap boy knows the minimum work he can do and the maximum wage he can get, so they say. The Chinese are great market gardeners, too, and all the vegetable peddlers I have seen out here have been Chinese. Some of them are very well off, and own fine horses and waggons, while there are many who carry their goods in baskets swung one at each end of a bamboo pole, just as you see in pictures of Chinese coolies. Of course there are merchant Chinese here who are very well off. Uncle John took me to dinner with one of them who goes home to China every year. He came to Vancouver twenty-eight years ago, and was here when the place was called Gastown. He has taken advantage of his opportunities, and must be worth a great amount.

Another section of the yellow peril is formed by our fellow subjects the Hindoos. These you see everywhere, and they are easily distinguishable by their turbans, which are of all colors, some pink, some red, some white, some yellow—I don't know what color I have not seen. There were ten of these chaps in the trolley coming home from New Westminster yesterday. They seemed quite at home and were laughing and jabbering away among themselves the whole way back to Vancouver. I am told that the different colored turbans indicate different castes, and that the men work for the most part in the saw mills. They are very swarthy, and for the most part are black-bearded men.

Coming home from New Westminster I saw something that would surprise anyone from the East. Passing Hastings townsite, I saw the way they clear the land here when they are in a hurry. They have a powerful donkey engine, and by a system of pulleys they hitch cables to the trees as they stand and drag them holus-bolus to a pile in the centre of the spot they are clearing. If the tree is too large it is cut into logs, and the logs are hauled on to the pile. I saw some logs two to three feet through. Some of the piles are forty to fifty feet high. When the pile is as high as they are going to make it they start another, and so get all the timber into piles. These piles are then set on fire. There was one of these piles on Shaughnessy heights, only a few blocks from Uncle John's house, and this was set on fire one night. The spectacle was immense. The flames in a solid sheet leaped about forty feet into the air, and the glare illumined the whole district.

Good-bye for the present,

JIM.

P. S.—I have opened this to explain that I have carried this letter around in my pocket for a week. You see, I wrote it on election day, and in the excitement down town that night I completely forgot to post it, and it has been in my pocket ever since.—J.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

BONDS

Safe investments having broad markets are available for any individual desirous of placing surplus funds to obtain a satisfactory return of interest—4½ per cent. to 6 per cent.

There is every advantage in buying standard bonds which are readily marketable and on which income is regularly received

This company offers Bonds of such character. The prospective investor may be thoroughly informed and may personally investigate these securities by having our Statistical Department submit the results of our own investigations.

Lists of Bonds for special purposes furnished.

DOMINION SECURITIES CORPORATION-LIMITED

TORONTO . MONTREAL . LONDON, ENG.

SOUND SLEEP Can Easily be Secured.

"Up to 2 years ago," a woman writes, "I was in the habit of using both tea and coffee regularly.

"I found that my health was beginning to fail, strange nervous attacks would come suddenly upon me, making me tremble so excessively that I could not do my work while they lasted; my sleep left me and I passed long nights in restless discomfort. I was filled with a nervous dread as to the future.

"A friend suggested that possibly tea and coffee were to blame, and I decided to give them up, and in casting about for a hot table beverage, which I felt was an absolute necessity, I was led by good fortune to try Postum.

"For more than a year I have used it three times a day and expect, so much good has it done me, to continue its use during the rest of my life.

"Soon after beginning the use of Postum, I found, to my surprise, that, instead of tossing on a sleepless bed through the long, dreary night, I dropped into a sound, dreamless sleep the moment my head touched the pillow.

"Then I suddenly realized that all my nervousness had left me, and my appetite, which had fallen off before, had all at once been restored so that I ate my food with a keen relish.

"All the nervous dread has gone. I walk a mile and a half each way to my work every day and enjoy it. I find an interest in everything that goes on about me that makes life a pleasure. All this I owe to leaving off tea and coffee and the use of Postum, for I have taken no medicine." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Free Sample of Cuticura Ointment Cured Baby's Skin Humor.

That the Cuticura treatment is the most successful and economical for torturing, disfiguring affections of the skin and scalp could receive no more striking proof than the remarkable statement made by William Whyle, 325 Tudor road, Leicester, England.

"A sample of Cuticura Ointment cured my baby's face. She had the measles when one year old, and it left her with a very scurfy forehead and face. It was very irritating and would bleed when she scratched herself. I took her to the doctor and he gave her some ointment. I tried it and it did no good. One night I said to my wife: 'How would it be to send for a sample of Cuticura ointment?' I did so, used it and my baby's face grew better. She has now a lovely skin, and I can safely say that Cuticura cured her."

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, those wishing to try for themselves without cost their efficacy in the treatment of eczema, rashes, itchings, burnings, scalings and crustings, from infancy to age, may send to the Potter Drug and Chemical Corp., Dept. 2W, Boston, U.S.A., for a liberal trial of each, with 32-page Cuticura Book, an authority on skin and scalp affections.

Toronto is second largest city in Canada.

"You seem to be rather fond of Swiss cheese," remarked the dyspeptic. "I always thought cheese with holes in it was indigestible." "The holes are," rejoined the man who had just finished his fourth sandwich, "but I never eat the holes."

THE BEST PRESERVES

DURING THE PRESERVING SEASON

Redpath Extra Granulated Sugar

IS DAILY WINNING FRESH LAURELS.

Its uniform high quality commends itself to all good housekeepers.

"BEST FRUIT, BEST SUGAR, BEST PRESERVES."

Ask your Grocer for Redpath Extra Granuated Sugar

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal

Established in 1854 by John Redpath.

NA-DRU-CO
HEADACHE WAFERS
relieve the worst headache in 20 minutes or less. Absolutely harmless. 25 cents a box at all druggists.
NATIONAL DRUG & CHEMICAL CO. OF CANADA, LIMITED

Mrs. Grouch—Oh, is there anything I haven't been through since I married you? Grouch (calmly)—Nothing in the shape of a pocket, certainly.

Man wants but little here below the standard.

Everybody gets a rake-off but the consumer. Moral—Don't be a consumer.

The Buying Price of Hogs

THE WILLIAM DAVIES COMPANY, LIMITED

IT is probable that the practice of sending out weekly the price which packers will pay for hogs the following week, has been the chief cause for the widespread impression that the price named is fixed through arrangement and understanding between the packers. In view of the recent attack made upon packers, a statement which will explain why a price is thus sent out, and the conditions associated with it, may serve a useful purpose.

For the most part the cattle and small stock (sheep, lambs and calves) which come to the Cattle Markets in Toronto are bargained for on arrival. If the market is favorable, the drovers make a profit. If the market is unfavorable, they suffer a loss. The price of cattle and small stock, therefore, is determined each market day by the ordinary competitive conditions prevailing upon public markets. The price which the drover pays in the country the next week is determined by his view of what he hopes to receive when the stock is offered for sale by him upon either of the markets in this city or in Montreal.

The hog situation is entirely different. After the manner of well recognized market conditions, there has been no public market in Ontario upon which hogs have been offered for sale. For thirty years 80 to 90 per cent. of the hogs on the Toronto Cattle Market have been delivered on the market for one buyer, and at a price agreed upon before the hogs were shipped. Five-sixths of the packing houses in Ontario have not only not bought hogs upon the Toronto Cattle Market, but they have not bought hogs upon any public market, because there have been no markets upon which hogs have been offered for sale. The Union Stock Yards Company at Toronto Junction are now endeavoring to establish a competitive open market upon which hogs will be offered for sale. Time only will determine the success or failure of this effort.

As, therefore, there has been no open market for hogs, the price which the packer pays for his hogs has had to be determined by a different method, and under different circumstances than the open market conditions have established for cattle and small stock.

The pressure of these circumstances has developed the practice which causes each packing establishment to depend chiefly for its supply of hogs weekly upon drovers who ship regularly to it. To establish this regularity, the respective houses have found it necessary, at the end of each week, to advise drovers the price they would pay for hogs shipped to them the following week. This custom is followed in Denmark and Ireland, the weekly price, however, being sent to farmers in place of drovers.

In accordance with these conditions, the officers of this Company determine on Friday afternoon of each week the price they will name to drovers for shipment the following week. This advice covers a price free on cars at the shipping point, or delivered into the yards at our factory, or fed and watered hogs delivered on the Toronto Cattle Market. In reaching this determination we are governed by our reading of the domestic and exports markets, by cable advices covering Danish and Irish killings, and cable advices telling of the quantity of American products which have been landed at the various ports in Great Britain. We also have to interpret from these conditions, which are common to the trade, how the judgment of our competitors will be affected by them, and what conclusions they will likely reach as to the buying price they will name for the following week.

Having decided the price we will name, we communicate it to drovers by telephone or telegram, to points East as far as Montreal, West as far as Chatham, and North as far as hogs are raised in sufficient quantities to give weekly deliveries.

In all the foregoing we have neither conference, understanding nor arrangement, directly or indirectly, with any other packer, nor have we had any such connection at any time during the past twenty years.

If other packers offer a higher price, we learn of it through telegraph or telephone communications from drovers in various parts of the country, who advise they are unable to buy at the price we have named because drovers from competitive houses are paying a higher price. Each packer in the trade doubtless has similar advices when the circumstances warrant it.

When such advices reach us, we determine our conduct by a variety of considerations, and we will, as will other packers similarly placed, refuse to follow the lead set by others, or accept such lead as inevitable, as we may have a favorable or unfavorable view of the market.

The effect of the decision either way is reflected in the volume of deliveries. If we or others similarly placed refuse to advance, while other packers are active, there will be a shrinkage of from 10 to 50 per cent. from the normal receipts of hogs. If we follow the advance, we will secure our normal quantity, with possibly some surplus added.

It is alleged that the trade generally await information as to the buying price named by this Company before sending out their own advices. On reflection it will be recognized that this is not an unnatural course to follow. By reason of the extent of our operations, the price named by this Company is known in every part of the Province, and authoritatively establishes the minimum price which can be paid. For necessitous reasons no other house can buy at a lower price. Inasmuch, however, as the aggregate purchases by other packers represent 70 per cent. of the total deliveries of hogs in Ontario and Quebec, there is no reason why, after our price is known, a higher price should not be named by some or all of our competitors, if their reading of the market differs from ours. As a matter of fact, this is precisely what occurs, and probably there are as many weeks in the year when our price is exceeded and we must follow others, as when our price is accepted and others follow us.

We would welcome conditions which would establish the purchase of hogs upon public markets on an openly competitive basis. If packers could buy hogs after the same manner as cattle are now bought, they would always have the measure of their competitors, whereas under existing conditions we have to guess at their measurement. Moreover, when we desired to take hogs freely, we could do so, and when we desired to step aside from the market, we could do so. Under existing conditions no packer can afford to break with his regular shippers, and frequently has to take stock when he would prefer to leave it alone.

The tendency under the present method is for packers weekly to estimate how high a price they dare pay, rather than how low a price they will name, for it must be borne in mind that the aggregate capacity of the houses greatly exceeds the supply of hogs, and that practically the profit or loss of the operations of a packing house are determined by the volume of business secured. Therefore, when we are seeking to determine each Friday evening the buying price we will name for the following week, back of all else is the pressure which demands quantity of hogs, and the anxiety felt that if we do not name a price high enough to command quantity, we may find our supplies cut off.

The popular view of commercial sagacity would suggest that the remedy for such difficulties would be found in an understanding being reached by agreement between the packers. The significant fact is that the packers have refused to do so. Probably no business in Canada is more completely free from either the letter or the spirit of what is known as a Trust, than this much-abused packing business. The real relation of the packers to the hog industry has been an honorable one of high merit.

The William Davies Company, Limited
TORONTO.

HOME

DAINTY DISHES.

Green Tomato Pie.—Line a pie tin with a rich pie crust, then peel and slice thin three good sized tomatoes in the tin, sprinkle with sugar, then grate nutmeg on it, then sprinkle with flour, and lastly add little more sugar; then place on the top layer of pie crust and bake in a moderate oven. Very delicious.

French Cream Pie.—Two eggs well beaten, three-quarters cup sugar, one cup sour cream, two cups raisins chopped fine. Mix all together and bake with top crust. Served with whipped cream is delicious.

Potato Forte.—Two cups white sugar, one cup butter, four eggs, one-half cup milk, one cup cold potatoes, grated, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and cloves, one-half cup chocolate, two cups flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, one cup almonds. Blanche and chop almonds, beat eggs separately, adding whites last. Bake in shallow pans in a moderate oven and cover with frosting.

Shaker Dried Corn.—Far better than canned corn and easily made in any home. Also, it is not necessary to eat more than you wish to "save it," as is done when a can is opened. Cut the tops of the kernels first and then scrape both, that no chaff from the cob be in the corn and that all corn may be used, especially the germs. Now spread the corn upon earthen or enamel plates and place in a hot oven, stirring and keeping the heat just below the browning point. In less than an hour the corn on two plates can be placed on one. Continue filling plates and drying until as many are placed in the oven as can be managed in a day. If convenient, spread in the sun next day and then place in cotton cloth bags and hang near the range, and later place in some dry closet or storeroom. The corn should not be boiled at all but cut directly from the cob as soon as convenient after being taken from the stalks. This is convenient to handle and is far more delicious than canned corn.

Apple Dumplings.—Three apples, rather tart, pare, halve and core. Crust: Two cups of flour, one heaping teaspoon baking powder, pinch of salt, two heaping tablespoons fresh lard or butter, sweet milk to make a dough. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together, cut in shortening, and with a mixing spoon stir in the milk. Roll to about one-fourth inch thickness and wrap each half of apple and place in rather deep pan. Take four cups of sugar, one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon butter, and nutmeg to flavor; mix together and add one quart boiling water, stirring while adding, then pour over dumplings in pan and bake one-half to three-quarters of an hour in rather hot oven. Baste with the sauce around dumplings when half done and let bake a nice brown. Serve with cream, either whipped or plain. These are splendid.

SPECIAL DISHES.

Stuffed Figs.—Steam for one hour dried pulled figs, remove one at a time, clip off the stem end, open, and press in a marshmallow. Roll in powdered sugar.

Chili Beans.—Soak pink beans over night in water, to which is added a teaspoonful of soda to a quart of the water. In the morning pour off soda water and wash well, then boil in clear water until tender, then add salt, a pint or more of tomatoes, an onion cut fine, a teaspoonful of chili powder, and a generous slice of butter. Cook all together slowly for an hour or more.

Shad Roe Salad.—Boil the roe in salted water for twenty minutes and set it aside to cool. When it is cold carefully remove the skin and cut the roe into thin slices. Arrange a bed of lettuce leaves in a salad bowl, lay upon it the slices of roe, which should be disposed to overlap each other, pour over them a mayonnaise dressing, and serve.

Stuffed Cabbage Head. — Pull off about half a dozen of the outer leaves of a medicore sized cabbage and put aside. Chop half of the head of cabbage and mix with two slices of bread which has been soaked in water and squeezed out, one onion chopped, one-half pound pork sausage meat, one egg, salt and pepper. Put cloth in deep kettle, lay the outer leaves in cloth, and fill with above mixture. Tie cloth and boil one and one-half hours in salted water. This has the appearance of a boiled cabbage and is appetizing.

FAVORITE DISHES.

In cooking corned beef, select the day before you want to use it; cover it with cold water; let it remain until next morning. Boil and serve and you will never cook any other way.

Mock Angel Food.—One cup milk, one cup flour, one cup sugar, two teaspoons baking powder, pinch salt, whites of two eggs, beaten stiff. Heat the milk to boiling point, stir other ingredients together several times (four or five) and stir into hot milk, then fold into this the whites of two eggs, already beaten. Do not flavor cake or grease pan, but flavor icing. This cannot be told from a real angel food.

Cleaning Fish.—Cut all fins, slit and draw, insert finger in opening and rub up and down on a potato grater; no sore fingers or flying scales. To skin large perch cut all fins, slit down back, cut head across the back of neck, and draw down; takes entrails and all; quick and simple. To fry, dip in seasoned flour and fry in smoking hot fat.

Custard Cake.—Custard part: Three-quarters cup grated chocolate, three-quarters cup brown sugar, one-half cup milk, yolk of an egg, mix all together, cook in a double boiler, let cool. Cake part: One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, two and one-half cups flour, one-half cup milk, three eggs, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon vanilla, bake in layers. Filling: One cup powdered sugar, two tablespoons butter creamed, two tablespoons hot coffee, two tablespoons chocolate, one spoonful vanilla.

Southern Graham Bread —Two-thirds of a cup of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of New Orleans molasses, one and one-half cup of sour milk, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one level teaspoonful of soda, one level teaspoonful of salt, two cups of graham flour, one-half cup of seeded raisins. Bake in a slow oven for one hour.

CARAMEL CAKE.

Beat one-half cup butter to a cream, add gradually one and one-half cups sugar, the yolks of two eggs, and one cup water. Add two cups flour and beat for five minutes, then add three teaspoons of caramel syrup, one teaspoon vanilla, and another half cup flour. Beat again thoroughly and then stir in carefully two teaspoons of baking powder and well beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in three layers in a moderate oven.

Caramel Syrup.—One-half cup granulated sugar in an iron or granite pan, stir until sugar first softens, then melts, and finally becomes liquid and throws off intense smoke. It really must burn. Have ready one-half cup boiling water, remove pan from fire, add hot water, stir rapidly and boil until you have syrup. This is enough for three or four cakes.

Caramel Filling.—Boil one cup granulated sugar and one-half cup of water until it forms a soft ball in a cup of cold water. Pour this into the well beaten whites of two eggs, add one teaspoon caramel syrup and one teaspoon vanilla; beat until cool

USEFUL HINTS.

Winter squash should be soaked for two or three hours before cooking. Always put it into boiling water, salted slightly.

Sweetbreads parboiled, rolled in seasoned crumbs and toasted over the coals, are delicious served with a mushroom sauce.

The addition of a generous pinch of sugar to all boiling vegetables, except potatoes, gives a flavor which once tried will be repeated.

Noodles cooked in boiling salted water and then drained are delicious if served with a sauce made of brown butter in which a generous amount of very fine bread crumbs have been cooked.

In making fondant for candy, if it grains, you have boiled it too long. The difficulty may be remedied by adding a little more water and boiling it again. It is a wise plan to make fondant the day before you make the candy.

If bread crumbs are to be kept for any length of time, put them in tightly corked wide-necked bottles or in tin cans, taking care to have the crumbs perfectly cold and dry when put away; otherwise they will grow musty, if not mouldy.

There is nothing better for a cold than castor oil, and a very simple way to give it to children is to make a pan of molasses candy and add plenty of castor oil to it just before removing from the fire. The taste of oil in it cannot be detected.

A delicious appetizer is a cheese canape. Remove the crust from nicely toasted bread, and cut in triangles or strips, sprinkled generously with grated cheese, seasoned with cayenne and salt, and put in the oven till the cheese is melted. Serve immediately.

Constipation is the root of many forms of sickness and of an endless amount of human misery.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills,

thoroughly tested by over fifty years of use, have been proved a safe and certain cure for constipation and all kindred troubles. Try them. 25c. a box.

Has the "Black Knight" come to your home?

Let him show you the quick and easy way to shine the stoves.

"Black Knight" takes all the hard work and dirty work out of stove polishing.

It's a paste—so there is no watery mixture to be prepared.

Just a few rubs with cloth or brush brings a mirror-like shine that "you can see your face in". And the shine lasts!

Most dealers handle and recommend "Black Knight" Stove Polish. If your dealer cannot supply it, send 10c. for a big can—sent postpaid.

THE F. F. DALLEY CO. LIMITED, Hamilton, Ont. 18

Makers of the famous "2 in 1" Shoe Polish.

THE STANDARD ARTICLE · SOLD EVERYWHERE

For making soap softening water removing paint, disinfecting sinks, closets, drains, and for many other purposes

E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED TORONTO, ONT.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

FARM MORTGAGES AS INVESTMENTS HAVE SOME VERY WEAK FEATURES.

The Personal Element Which Investors Often overlook Makes the Payment of Interest Sometimes of Doubtful Certainty—The Danger of Having a Conscience.

The articles contributed by "Investor" are for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and, if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-cat" enterprises. The impartial and reliable character of the information may be relied upon. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve in connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

Turning from generalities to the application of the principles of investment laid down in the earlier articles of this series to classes of securities we will take up in turn the chief points to be considered in connection with the various forms of "promise-to-pay" investments.

Readers will remember that investments are divided into two general classes — equities and promises to pay. Equities consist in shares and stocks of various companies. These are never repayable. Promises to pay, on the other hand, are securities which represent a sum of money borrowed by the person, municipality, state or company issuing them, and are repayable after a definite period of time. Under this head are bonds, debentures, mortgages, etc.

In this class, the most important in Canada are real estate mortgages, municipal, industrial company bonds and railroad equipment bonds, and provincial and Dominion loans.

The best known, of course, are real estate mortgages. It is quite superfluous to enlarge here on the details of the form of a real estate mortgage. Its usual form consists of a promise to pay the amount of the loan at maturity together with a certain amount of interest on certain dates. It includes also a transfer of the property mortgaged, which, however, is non-effective, unless some detail of the conditions of the mortgage is not fulfilled—such, for instance, as the payment of the interest.

The question of real estate mortgages as investments, however, is a matter which relatively very few investors have approached in a full enlightened manner. The average man figures in some such way as this: "Will Smith wants me to lend him $1,000. His farm is worth $3,000 as it now stands and the interest at 7 per cent. comes to such a small amount that there is no danger that he will not be able to pay it. I certainly don't stand to lose anything," and makes the investment.

Now, probably his estimation of the matter is quite correct. He did not, however, look on the matter in a broad manner. First, as to the safety of a mortgage. Like everything else, it depends on the amount of margin between the sum loaned and the value of the property. Almost as important, it depends on the character of the person making the mortgage.

It must always be borne in mind that a mortgage to be of any real value requires that the property be kept up to its value by the work, as a rule, of the individual to whom the money is loaned. If he is a careful, progressive man, who has borrowed, perhaps to improve his farm in a manner which will make it more productive, this question need not be enquired into further. If, however, he is a man whose carelessness has got him into financial difficulties, he may let his farm run down, in a few years, to such an extent that, even if one were to foreclose the mortgage, there would be a very small value, and even that might not be got in the event of a forced sale.

The safety of interest does not depend altogether on this point. A bad year may result in the farm being run at a net loss and the farmer may find it difficult, or impossible, to meet the interest. This point is where the rural "note shaver" makes his money. The average investor, however, is not eager to profit by forcing a man to the wall. Perhaps he is a personal friend. At all events it is a cold-blooded thing to do to foreclose a mortgage just because a year's interest is in arrears. And so, perhaps, you find it easier on your conscience to forego the interest until next year, when in all probability the mortagee will be able to catch up his arrears. Perhaps the man comes to you personally and puts his case in a strong way, persuades you to let him drop his payments for several years. You probably will come out all right in the long run, but the certainty of your interest is in this way sometimes doubtful.

INVESTOR.

Next week Investor will deal with other points in connection with mortgage investments.

EQUIVOCAL.

"My good man, are you impressed with this talk about the effects of whisky?"

"Yes, sir. I just drink it in."

In making bread rolls of any kind, roll the dough into a ball and then between the hands until it is about three inches long. Some cooks make bread sticks by pressing the bread dough through the closed palm and cutting it off the right length with scissors.

Some men are born great, some shrink, and others never find out how small they really are.

The World's Favorite is

LIPTON'S TEA

OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

Westervelt School

Y. M. C. A. BLDG.
LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal. 15

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech, Props.

THURSDAY, OCT. 12, '11

Increasing difficulty is being found in obtaining an adequate supply of hardwood lumber for the industries of Canada. The hardwood tracts of the eastern provinces for a long time have not been able to meet the demand, and in 1910 60 per cent of the hardwood used in Canada was imported from the United States. The United States, altho with a much larger supply of hardwood on hand is also seeing that the annual consumption far exceeds the annual growth, and that the virgin supply is being rapidly reduced. By practical demonstration it has been proven that waste land if planted in young hardwoods, will prove a profitable investment at the end of 25 years or more, and will improve the productiveness of the surrounding farm land. In the eastern provinces of Canada and in Ontario particularly are large tracts of such land, covered at present with an unprofitable tree growth, which through being sandy, rocky or low lying, cannot be treated as agricultural lands. The Forestry Branch of the Department of the Interior is taking a practical interest in the farmer's woodlots of Ontario, in an effort to make otherwise useless land supply hardwood lumber to an eager market, with profitable returns to the wood lot owner. Parties interested in this matter should correspond with the Department at Ottawa, which is already giving practical assistance on important tracts. Foresters will be supplied by the Department to look over tracts of timbered land, estimate the quantity of timber, advise as to what species to encourage or plant, according to the locality and general conditions, and suggest a general working plan. Such scientific knowledge, the result of former investigations, will be of great benefit to private owners and should be sought after at once.

Canada's fifth census, begun in June has been completed, and the official figures will be made public as soon as the returns are in from Yukon and North-West districts. The total population will be well under eight millions. Toronto and Montreal have made the largest gains in population, the former having the greatest percentage of gain in numbers. The Maritime Provinces, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia have not grown as have Quebec and the other provinces, but that they have more than held their own is about as strong as the census officials will put it. In Ontario the population of the rural districts has fallen off, notably in Western Ontario, from which there has been a large migration to the West since the last census. This has been partly offset by a great increase of population in Northern Ontario in the four districts of Nipissing, East and West Algoma, and Rainy River and Thunder Bay, where the population has more than doubled. All the Western provinces show great gains, the largest percentage of gain being credited to Alberta. The cities of Winnipeg and Calgary show the largest gains of any of the Western cities.

Sir James Whitney laid the corner stone of the administration building at the Provincial prison farm at Guelph last week. There are now 225 prisoners at work quarrying stone, working in the lime plant and on roads, acting as builders, laborers, and engaged in farm work. There are 100 cattle on the farm, and considering the dry weather there was a good crop harvested.

During the fall and winter months farmers have more time for reading and forming plans for future work. To plan successfully for the future the farmer should make a study of past methods,—wherein he has succeeded and wherein he has failed. By studying what he has done he is in shape to do better in the future.

Reciprocity seems to have entered largely into the life of the new Premier of Canada, Hon. R. L. Borden. He was born in the Reciprocity year of 1854; left the Liberals over Unrestricted Reciprocity in 1891; and defeated the Liberals over Reciprocity in 1911.

It is a pleasure to note that there is some slight criticism of Premier Borden's Cabinet. A selection of men that would not rouse the Globe and Advertiser would be poor indeed.

President Taft has expressed himself as being very sorry for Canada, but his first expression of sorrow seems to have been the real thing.

Premier R. L. Borden is the recipient of two momentoes of the late Sir John A. Macdonald—his arm chair and a blackthorn walking stick.

Hair Grows Thin

USE PARISIAN SAGE IN TIME AND PREVENT BALDNESS

If your hair is growing thinner and thinner and causing you anxiety go to W. S. Cole to-day and get a large bottle of Parisian Sage for only 50 cents. It is such a delightful and refreshing dressing that you will like to use it regularly.

Parisian Sage is guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching scalp, to eradicate dandruff and make the hair lustrous and radiant, or money back.

There is nothing just as good as Parisian Sage. See you get the package with centaine the girl with the Auburn hair.

CREDITON.

The following is the report of S. S. No. 4, Stephen, for the month of September the names being in order of merit. Sr. IV, Edna Amy, Ella Elber, Lavina Smith Jr. IV, Joseph Schwartz, Clinton Morlock. Sr. III, Clarence Schroeder, C. Morlock, Jr. III, Mary Wild, Andeline Wein. Jr. II, Doris Schroeder, Earl Schwartz, Elgin Elber, Melvin Wein, Clifford Brokenshire. Pt. II, Fern Schroeder, Lily Elber, Gordon Morlock, Alma Smith. Pt. I, Clarence Wild. No. on Roll 31, Average attendance 16

J. E. Truemner, Teacher.

At the nomination meeting on Monday last for the Reeveship Mr. Henry Willert was elected reeve by acclamation to complete late Reeve Sweitzer's unexpired term. Mr. Wm. Anderson was also nominated, but resigned in favor of Mr. Willert.

On Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Parn preached an appropriate sermon on "Young Men" and next Sunday will preach on "Young Women.

The Misses Faist of Michigan sang a very pleasing duet and have promised to sing again next Sunday evening.

Misses Tily and Martha Wind have gone to Detroit to visit for a time.

Rev. Mr. Hicks is attending the Methodist Conference at Toronto.

The Coroner's jury ordered by Crown Attorney Seager of Goderich, met on Tuesday and returned a verdict of accidental death on the case of the late Reeve Sweitzer.

The wet weather of the last few weeks is delaying the farmers in harvesting their clover and root crops.

LONDON'S HISTORIC TOWER.

And the Egg From Which Was Hatched the Great Charter.

Richard Davey in "The Tower of London" connects the historic edifice with the wrestling of the great charter from King John King John, it would seem, though legally married to Isabella of Angouleme, fell desperately in love in 1214 with "Matilda" or "Maud," "the Fair," the beautiful daughter of Robert, Lord Fitzwalter. This lady, remaining deaf to his entreaties, was treacherously abducted from her father's seat at Dunmow by the king's order and shut up in the round turret of the White tower. On this Fitzwalter made a vain attempt to rouse the people to revolt, but was forced to fly to France with his wife and remaining children. Maud once safe in the tower, King John renewed his suit, but only succeeded in driving her to utter silence, which so infuriated him that he sent her a poisoned egg for her breakfast, and she died early in 1215. A year later her remains were translated to the family vault at Dunmow.

When the news of this crafty murder came to the ears of Fitzwalter he forthwith returned to England and discovered to his joy that the barons were on the point of declaring war against John. He at once placed himself at their head, hoping, it is said, to combine his personal revenge with his duty as an English peer and is indeed supposed to have forced the king to sign the great charter for the express purpose of humiliating his daughter's murderer. Thus from an egg was hatched the great charter. Whether the story be true or false, it is a certified historical fact that the barons held the tower in pledge till John consented to accept the charter and affixed his reluctant signature to the deed.

About a year later, when the war with the barons was at its height and John once more a power, the tower again fell into his hands, and, though the barons laid siege to it, they were repulsed by the king's men. To complete its strange vicissitudes during this strenuous reign the tower became on Nov. 1, 1215, the temporary court of King Louis of France, whom the rebellious barons had summoned to assist in the adjustment of their grievances. Appearing before the gates with a large body of men, he so completely awed the officials that they handed over the keys without striking a blow for their rightful monarch.

FREAKS OF A RIVER.

A Stream So Crooked That It Double Crosses Itself.

There is a stream in Massachusetts called the North river. It starts in a pond near Hanson and runs to the sea at Scituate. It is ten miles by air line from Hanson to Scituate, and the river is forty miles long.

This river is probably the most remarkable body of water, barring the Dead sea, on this footstool and has stood more abuse and bad language than the Chicago river. When the tide is coming in the river runs upstream, and not only that, but the upper part of it, which is fresh water, also runs up, and the spectacle of a fresh water river beating it uphill is alone enough to call attention to itself. But there is much more to it than that.

The North river is noted for being the scene of the last Indian raid on the coast settlements. It is notable for having given birth to the ship Columbia, whose captain discovered and named the Columbia river, and was the first American vessel to circumnavigate the world. It is notorious for having suddenly changed its mind on its course on the night of Nov. 27, 1898, when it moved its mouth three miles to the northward, presented the town of Marshfield with a deep harbor, killed three men and converted about 200,000 acres of prime meadow land into a salt marsh.

But the chief thing about this river is its crookedness. This river is so crooked that it double crosses itself. If you don't believe it go and see. There is one place in Hanover where by making three loops the river moves toward the sea for a distance of almost fifty feet and meanders about for fifteen miles in doing it.—Boston Traveler.

KIRKTON

KIRKTON FAIR.—The Kirkton Agricultural Society did not receive a favorable deal at the hands of the weatner man this year, it having rained nearly all day Friday, the second day of the Fair, consequently the sight-seeing crowd was very small. The showing of stock was exceptionally good, however, considering the weather. The indoor exhibits, which were brought in the previous day, were well up to the average, and in some respects better. The weather prevented "ye editor" attending the fair this year, consequently the prize list is not being published this week, as is our custom.

Accident.—Gordon, the little 7-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Gilfillan while picking beech nuts on Saturday, fell from the tree into the creek beneath and struck his head upon a stone, bruising him considerably and rendering him unconscious for several hours. Medical aid was at once summoned and the little fellow is now doing as nicely as can be expected.

Dr. Roche, the new Secretary of State in the Borden Cabinet, was the first graduate of the Western University at London.

McGILLIVRAY COUNCIL—This council met on Oct. 2, with all the members present. A large number of accounts were passed after which adjournment was made to Nov. 6th.

SEAFORTH.—After an illness of several weeks, the death of O. C. Willson a former well-known resident of this town, occurred at his home in Detroit on Monday. For many years Mr. Willson was a prominent business man of Seaforth, being engaged in the seed and feed business and latterly dealing extensively in implement and farm machinery. About ten years ago he moved to Detroit.

Sure Signs

THAT YOU HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE

If your back is constantly aching and if you experience dull shooting pains, if your urine is thick and cloudy or your passages frequent, scanty and painful, your Kidneys and Bladder are out of order. Neglect quickly brings on rheumatism, diabetes, lumbago, sciatica, etc.

Booth's Kidney Pills

Booth's Kidney Pills are guaranteed to relieve or your money back. They are the world's greatest specific for kidney and bladder trouble. All druggists 50c.box, or postpaid from the proprietors, The R. T. Booth Co., Limited, Fort Erie, Ont. Free trial on application.

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

Auction Sale

FARM STOCK AND IMPLEMENTS, Etc on LOT 23, CON. 9, STEPHEN, on SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, at 1 p.m.

Horses—1 aged horse, 1 general purpose colt, 3-yr-old; 1 2-yr-old filly, sired by Indian Chief, 1 sucking filly, sired by Bob.

Cattle—2 cows in calf to thoroughbred bull, 2 cows lately calved, 1 two-year old steer; 4 one-year-old steers; One 1-yr-old heifer; 5 steer calves.

Pigs—4 store hogs weighing about 140 lbs; 1 brood sow, due to farrow Nov. 1st. Hens—About 40 hens.

Implements—McCormick Binder, 6-ft., in good working order; 5 foot Dearing mower; 10-hoe combined Sylvester drill; Massey-Harris cultivator; Massey-Harris corn cultivator, with bean puller and field cultivator combined; Clinton Fanning mill, Massey-Harris scuffler; turnip drill; Frost & Wood gang plow; set of diamond harrows, walking plow; land roller; set scales, 2000 lbs., nearly new pair bobsleighs, nearly new; lumber wagon, covered buggy; hay rack; pulper gravel box; Frost and Wood hay rake; DeLaval separator, nearly new; set of double harness; disc harrows; cook stove, heating stove and other articles too numerous to mention.

Terms—All sums of $5 and under cash; over that amount 12 months' credit will be given on furnishing approved joint notes. 5 per cent. per annum off for cash on credit amounts.

MOSES AMY, Proprietor. B. S. PHILLIPS, Auctioneer

EXTENSIVE AUCTION SALE

FARM STOCK AND IMPLEMENTS.
LOT 6, AUX SAUBLE, STEPHEN ON WEDNESDAY, OCT. 18, 1911

At 1 o'clock sharp, the following valuable farm stock and implements, viz.—

Horses—Percheron mare 10 yrs. old, in foal to College Chum; Draught horse 7 years old; draught filly, 3 yrs. old, in foal to College Chum; road mare 11 yrs. old in foal to Dr. Smolatt; driving mare 3 yrs. old, in foal to Dr. Smolatt.

Cattle—3 cows supposed to be in calf; 3 2-year old heifers, supposed to be in calf; 2 steers 1 yr. old; 1 heifer, 1 yr. old; spring calf.

Pigs.—Sow with litter.

Implements.—Massey-Harris binder, 6 foot cut; Massey-Harris mower, 6-foot cut, new; 2 walking plows; 2 2-furrow plows; set diamond harrows; disk harrow; Wisner seed drill; Massey-Harris cultivator, combined large size horse rake; steel land roller; 2 scufflers; Clinton fanningmill, root pulper, 2 buggies, 1 nearly new; cutter, 2 farm wagons, 2 sets sleighs, hay rack, new; 2 sugar kettles; set scales 2000 lbs.; wheelbarrow; 2 sets double harness; 2 sets single harness, 1 new; Threshing outfit, comprising 17 horsepower Sawyer-Massey compound traction engine; new Challenge separator; Wilkinson cutting box; rapid easy grinder, buzz saw; water tank; with wagon ropes and pulleys, Daisy churn; Chatham incubator, a large number of poultry; forks; shovels, chains and other articles, too numerous to mention.

Terms—All sums of $5.00 and under cash; over that amount 12 months' credit will be given on furnishing approved joint notes. 5 per cent. per annum off for cash on credit amounts.

JOHN STATTON, Proprietor. E. BOSSENBERRY, Auctioneer

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by all Druggists, 75 cents.
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

TUCKERSMITH—The farm of Robert Carnochan on the 3rd con. was sold to Mr. Wm. Martin, a neighbor, for about $6000. It contains 100 acres and is one of the best in the Township.

A WINDSOR LADY'S APPEAL

To All Women—I will send free with full instructions, my home treatment which positively cures Leucorrhoea, Ulceration, Displacements, Falling of the womb, Painfull or Irregular Periods, Uterine and Ovarian Tumors or growths also Hot Flushes, Nervousness, Melancholy, Pains in the Head, Back or Bowels, and Bladder troubles, where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex You can continue treatment at home at a cost of only about 12 cents a week My book, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser," also sent free on request. Write to-day. Address, Mrs. M. Summers Box. H. 840 Windsor, Ont.

Auction Sale

FARM STOCK, IMPLEMENTS, HAY and Straw, on

LOT 4, CON. 2, USBORNE, on TUESDAY, OCT. 17, at one o'clock, the following.—Horses,—2 brood mares, sup. to be in foal, agric.; 1 filly, 2-yr., agric.; 2 fillies, 1-yr. agric.; 2 filly suckers, agric.

Cattle—1 cow, due time of sale, 1 renewed cow; 5 cows due in March and April; 3 steers, 2-yr-old; 3 heifers, 2-year old; 4 steers, 1-yr-old; 4 calves.

Hogs—2 brood sows, 4 100-lb. hogs 10 shoats, 1 Berkshire boar.

A number of hens and pullets.

Implements—Lumber wagon, top buggy open buggy; pair sleighs, cutter, binder nearly new; mower, steel rake, large 2-furrow plow, walking plow, disc., cultivator, land roller, hiarrows, scuffler, seed drill, fanning mill, 1200 lb. scales root pulper, grindstone, 2 set heavy harness, single harness, hay rack, gravel box, hay forks, ropes and slings, forks chains, shovels, hoes, etc.

A quantity of first class hay, 2½ acres mangolds and turnips, a silo full of good ensilage, a lot of cut straw in barn to be fed on farm.

Cream separator, new; steel range, 2 heating stoves, 1 incubator and brooder 2 hives of bees and a number of bee boxes, glass cupboard, nearly new; extension table, new, and a lot of other articles of furniture.

Terms—$5 and under cash; over that amount 12 mos. credit on approved joint notes. 5 per cent. off for cash on the credit amounts.

THOS. BROOK, Proprietor. T. CAMERON, Auctioneer

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

HUNTERS'

RETURN TICKETS AT SINGLE FARE OCT. 9th to NOV. 11th.

to points in Temagami, points Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, Que., inclusive, also to certain points in Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Maine.

OCT 19th to Nov. 11th

to Muskoka Lakes, Penetang, Lake of Bays, Midland, Maganetawan River, Lakefield, Madawaska to Parry Sound, Argyle to Coboconk, Lindsay to Haliburton. Points from Severn to North Bay inclusive, and certain points reached by Northern Navigation Co.

All tickets valid for return until Thursday Dec. 14th, except to points reached by steamer lines, Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Daily until Oct. 15th,

COLONIST EXCURSIONS—To Spokane, Wash.; Nelson, B.C.; Vancouver B.C.; Westminster, B.C.; Seattle, Wh. Tacoma, Wash.; Portland, Ore.; San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Cal. and Mexico City at very low rates

Literature and full information from my Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, at Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

THE SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

of The Canadian Bank of Commerce will receive deposits of $1 and upwards, on which interest is allowed at current rates. There is no delay in withdrawing the whole or any portion of the deposit. Small deposits are welcomed. A234

Accounts may be opened in the names of two or more persons, to be operated by any one of the number or by the survivor. A joint account of this kind saves expense in establishing the ownership of the money after death, and is especially useful when a man desires to provide for his wife, or for others depending upon him, in the event of his death.

Exeter Branch—W. H. Collins, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up) - $4,000,000
Rest Fund - - - $4,400,000
Total Assets Over - $44,000,000

Has 81 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at al Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

The Public Schools

ARE WELL STARTED NOW

And how about your School Supplies

SCRIBBLERS.—
The regular 5c. scribblers, plain or ruled. 7 for 25c.

LEAD PENCILS.—
The famous regalia pencil, worth 2 for 5c. reduced price 10c. a doz.

PAINTS.—
Water colors in neat boxes 5c. to 25c. crayons 1c. to 10c. a box.

INKS.—
Stafford's and Underwood's Black and Blue Black Inks, 3oz bottles for 5c.

SLATES.—
The famous German proof slate, wire edge or bound 5c. to 14c.

DICTIONARIES.—
Collins large type pronouncing dictionaries at 15c.

It will pay you to pay us a visit. We are in a position to save you money, and we do it.

S. Martin & Son, Exeter

ST. MARYS.—Thomas D. Stanley, magistrate, died on Oct. 6th, after a few days' illness. Deceased was a leading citizen, identified with every important measure in the late history of the town. He held every position in the gift of the town, to the best interests of the municipality. He had a very large insurance business. He presided as magistrate on an important case the previous Saturday. A widow and five children survive Deceased was born in Biddulph Township on May 22, 1849.

CENTRAL Business College

Our registration greatly exceeds that of previous years. Why? Our school is the best of its kind in the west, best in courses given, best in teachers employed and best in assisting graduates to positions. Our graduates are in demand. Business men state that they are the best. In the past three years we had eleven applications for help that we could not supply. We have three departments, Commercial, Shorthand and Telegraphy. Get our free catalogue. Commence your course at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials. Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Cananian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.
Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver
ard is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

ANK

DENT

$8,000,000

MENT

s of $1 and
There is no
osit. Small
A234

ersons, to be joint account
f the money provide for his death.

at Crediton.

ank

tain all the

MENT

rate.

Manager,

ools

Supplies

rwood's Black
ks, 3oz bottles

n proof slate,
5c. to 14c.

ronouncing dict-

in a position

ter

Biddulph Town-

ries ll establish-l we believe hority (nam-increasing are meeting and giving action.

r motto,—
all the time."
oduce taken

GOULD arkyte"

e to ill

the strongest tative against necessity the part of your s, Specified by dipalities.

than one year.

da by n.

Vancouver

eter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. E. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S. Honor graduate of Toronto University.
DENTIST.
Teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects. Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. E. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years resident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew street, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates of interest
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
E. CARLING, B.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter Ont

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies.
Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elliber's Office, Credition.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies COLLEGE St. Thomas, Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

ELLIOTT Business College
TORONTO, ONT., is recognized as "CANADA'S HIGH-CLASS COMMERCIAL SCHOOL." The instruction is absolutely first-class. Write to-day for our catalogue. Enter now.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.
We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.
Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Ellimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

Northwest Lands.

Unimproved Lands in Saskatchewan and Alberta for sale.
Railway fare refunded to purchasers.
MONEY TO LOAN.
ERNEST ELLIOT.
Office opposite Central Hotel, Exeter.

CLINTON—A quiet wedding took place at the Ontario Street paraonage Oct. 4 when Miss Sophia Stonehouse of town was united in marriage with Mr. Harvey Johns of Tuckersmith. The ceremony was witnessed by only a few intimate friends.

Order the Guaranteed Flour Next Time You Bake Bread

If rightly used Cream of the West Flour will make the lightest, flakiest, most nutritious bread you have ever tasted. If you haven't tested it order a bag next time you go to the grocer's.

Cream of the West Flour

the hard wheat flour guaranteed for bread

Guarantee

WE hereby affirm and declare that Cream of the West Flour is a superior bread flour, and as such is subject to our absolute guarantee—money back if not satisfactory after a fair trial. Any dealer is hereby authorized to return price paid by customer, on return of unused portion of bag if flour is not as represented.

The Campbell Milling Co. Limited, Toronto.
Archibald Campbell, President

104

SOUVENIR FURNACE
(New Idea Series)

Keeps the house warm and cosy in the severest winter weather, and heats all rooms equally well.
It is very simple to operate—just touch the lever and you dump the ashes; there never can be dead coals at the sides of the firepot; the ashes are readily removed.
It is easy to control the heat and regulate the fuel consumption, which means a saving of 25% to 50% in fuel bills.
It is a clean and healthful furnace—gas and dust cannot get into the hot air chamber and then into the living or sleeping rooms. It forces pure air through the whole house.
The Souvenir Furnace is made in Hamilton, the stove centre of Canada, by

Every buyer of a Souvenir Furnace is presented with a legal bond on date of purchase, guaranteeing firepot against cracks or breaks of any kind for 5 years.

THE HAMILTON STOVE & HEATER COMPANY, Limited
Successors to Gurney-Tilden Co.

I Can Run The SOUVENIR Just as well as papa

For Sale by W. J. Heaman

An average woman requires but nine-tenths as much nourishment as an average man.

Our wedding stationery is of the latest types of the best workmanship unsurpassed and prices right. Prospective brides should call at the Advocate and see for themselves.

HOUSE FOR SALE

The undersigned is offering for sale, that desirable property on William st, being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, to-gether with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

DWELLING AND LAND FOR SALE.

That desirable property situated in Exeter, on the corner of William and Victoria streets, being one-half acre of land. There is on the premises a good frame house, with kitchen and woodshed, hard and soft water and a number of fruit trees. Will sell half of land separately. Price reasonable. Apply to Mr. Peter Bawden, Exeter, opposite English church.

FARM WANTED TO RENT—50 acre farm with the usual buildings. Any person having such will leave application at this office.

FOR SALE

One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass excepting 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont, James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont, or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

ZURICH.

Miss Matilda Johnson is visiting in Buffalo.—Horace Schilbe left on Tuesday for Waterloo, where he has secured a position.—Mrs. McTaggart of South Bend Ind., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Hess, sr., and other relatives. —Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Neeb of Bornholm visited relatives and friends in town.—Miss Alvada Weseloh of London is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Weseloh, for a few weeks.—Mr. Ab. Shetler, who has been at London for some time, has accepted a position as harnessmaker in C. Hartleib's harness department.

HARPLEY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Patrick of Lucan was the scene of a very pleasant event on Sept 27th, when their youngest daughter, Elizabeth Gertrude, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to John Roy Sherritt, of Stephen. At high noon, the groom, supported by his cousin, Mr. Wm. Neal of Walton, entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin Wedding March, played by Miss Irene Guest of London and stood under a canopy of white bunting and evergreens, and waiting for the bride, who was given away by her father, and was attired in a pretty gown of cream satin with lace robe, set with pearls and wearing the usual veil caught up with orange blossoms and carrying a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by Miss Gertrude Patrick of Yorkton, Sask., who was gowned in lavender crepe silk and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Little Miss Eleta Middleton, niece of the bride, made a sweet little flower girl, wearing a pretty frock of white silk and carried a basket of pink carnations. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Kerr of Lucan. After receiving the congratulations of a host of friends the bridal party repaired to the dining room where a splendid wedding dinner was served by the caterers of London. After all had done justice to the good things toasts were rendered to the bride, groom bridesmaid, etc., which were ably responded to by the groom, the groom's father, Mr. John Sherritt, W. G. Neal of Walton, Mr. Robt. Hobbs of Birr and Mr. J. L. Amos of Brinsley. They received many beautiful and costly presents, among which were a cut glass berry set and and a cut glass water set from her brothers in Yorkton, a book of poems from the Institute in Lucan and $80 in gold. The happy couple left on the 5.20 train for London Toronto, Niagara Falls and Hamilton. The bride's going away suit was navy broadcloth, with hat to match. They have the best wishes of this community for a long, happy and prosperous life in which the Advocate joins.

HENSALL

Rev. Mr. Moorehouse of Monkton occupied the Methodist church pulpit on Sunday.—Dr. Will Geiger is likely to locate in Waterloo County near Berlin. —John Welsh leaves town shortly for Vermillion, Alta., where he has been offered a good position as electrician.—Jas. Johnston returned home last week after spending a few weeks in the west, principally around Edmonton.—Hal. White left on Saturday to resume his studies at the Chicago College of Dental Surgery.—J. Passmore has purchased the residence owned and just vacated by Olin Hooper for $1650.—Mervin Brown is home for a few days prior to starting into business for himself in Toronto.—Thos. Sharp, who had charge of Colin Hudson's blacksmithing for several months, left town on Monday with his family and household effects.—Mrs. Brandt, daughter, May, and son, Roy, left for Elmira on Friday, Miss Gladys following on Saturday. They will reside there in future. Their departure from town after ten years residence is sincerely regretted.—Dr. Arthur McAllister has purchased the practice of Dr. Elliott of Georgetown, and with his mother left for that place this week.—Simon Dow has returned from the West where he was doing work for the Frost & Wood Co.

We Told You So!
LABATT'S LAGER
Now Perfected—The Best on the Market!
TRY IT
John Labatt, Ltd.
LONDON, ONT

Try the flour that holds the confidence of thousands of home-cooks

THE present huge demand for PURITY FLOUR shows the confidence in which it is held by thousands of home-cooks.

Those who have used PURITY FLOUR have come to believe in it. They look on PURITY as a friend. They feel they can trust it implicitly, because each and every lot of PURITY FLOUR has always been uniform—always up to the high standard of quality that has made it famous.

Wouldn't you, too, like to use a flour you could always rely on? Wouldn't you like to feel certain that your bread, cakes, and pies were going to turn out exactly right? That's just how you'll feel when you become a user of PURITY FLOUR — the confidence-creating flour.

PURITY FLOUR gives high-class results, because it consists exclusively of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat.

On account of the extra strength of PURITY FLOUR please remember, when making pastry, to add more shortening than an ordinary flour requires.

And when making bread add more water, and PURITY FLOUR will expand into more loaves than the same weight of ordinary flour can produce, thus making "more bread and better bread."

PURITY FLOUR
"More bread and better bread"

Make your next flour order spell P-U-R-I-T-Y F-L-O-U-R. It costs slightly more, but it's worth the difference. Add PURITY FLOUR to grocery list right now.

104

Sold by R. G. Seldon

Why don't some flours behave? Why don't they keep good?
Because they contain too much of the branny particles, too much of the inferior portions of the wheat — may be little pieces of the oily germ.
Which act on one another—that's why some flours "work" in the sack.
FIVE ROSES is the purest extract of Manitoba spring wheat berries.
Free from branny particles and such like.
Twill keep sound, and sweet longer than necessary.
Keep it in a dry place, and when needed you find it even healthier, sounder, fresher, drier than the day you bought it.
Buy lots of FIVE ROSES.
It keeps.

18

Five Roses Flour

Not Bleached — Not Blended

LAKE OF THE WOODS MILLING COMPANY, LIMITED, MONTREAL

THE DUKE OF SUTHERLAND

Will Send 5,000 People to Canada to Colonize Vast Tracts.

A despatch from Tacoma, Washington, says: For the purpose of inaugurating a big colonization project the Duke of Sutherland has acquired a substantial interest in 12,000 acres of land near White's Landing, on the west side of the Fraser River, twenty miles below Fort George, British Columbia. He intends to sell 160-acre farms on easy terms to any of his Scottish tenants who desire to emigrate to Canada. The first colony will be established next spring. The Duke has also in view who acquisition of larger tracts in the same district, and will not restrict settlement to his own tenants, but intends to offer liberal inducements for emigration from Scotland. His agents are now examining various land propositions. Before leaving British Columbia the Duke expressed his belief that he would be the means of sending 5,000 people to British Columbia next year. He has also acquired 50,000 acres of prairie land along the line of the Canadian Northern Railway in Saskatchewan and will colonize this in the same manner. He owns farm lands in Okanogan Valley, as well as real estate in Edmonton, Battleford, Lloyd Minister and Prince Albert.

THE NEWS IN A PARAGRAPH

HAPPENINGS FROM ALL OVER THE GLOBE IN A NUTSHELL.

Canada, the Empire and the World in General Before Your Eyes.

CANADA.

The Portuguese Government admits that there is a Royalist incursion in the north.

The C.P.R. directors decided to build the new shops at Calgary.

The Women's Hospital Aid of Brantford has secured over $14,000 for the new nurses' home.

Earl and Countess Grey and family have booked their passage for England on October 13.

Hamilton police have a clue to the express robbery in a sample of handwriting found in the building.

The Winnipeg Council has decided to drop negotiations for the purchase of the street railway and allied interests.

Three young children of Alex. Lachance of Fereol, Quebec, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the family dwelling.

Hamilton's assessment returns show a population of 82,005, and property value of over fifty-two millions, large increases in both cases.

The Dominion Wreck Commissioner, Captain Demers, has suspended the certificate of Captain Phelix of the steamer Chieftain III. for two years in connection with the collision between his boat and the steamer Hero.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. Winston Churchill predicts a time when the play of international economic forces will make war impossible.

GENERAL.

The Labor party has won in the elections in West Australia.

Fighting between Monarchists and Republicans is reported from Portugal.

ELEPHANT PULLS TOOTH.

Unusual Operation Witnessed by Visitors to Riverdale Zoo.

A despatch from Toronto says: The elephant at the Riverdale Zoo acts as his own dentist. A few days ago it pulled a tooth which had been bothering it, the operation being witnessed by a number of persons who were watching the animal at the time. It appeared to be in pain, and worked its trunk round in its mouth as though to dislodge something unpleasant. At last, after moving its trunk frantically, the animal drew something from its mouth. It cast the tooth thus extracted out of the enclosure. The molar was large, and had evidently broken off in the gum, as all the root did not come out. The crown was in a good state of preservation, but there were signs of decay lower down.

LOAN COMPANIES' BUSINESS.

An Increase of $15,000,000 in the West During Last Year.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: Regular loan companies operating in the three western Provinces increased their investments in this field by $15,006,821 during the year 1910, according to carefully compiled statements. The statements cover the operations of 75 companies, and show that at December 31, 1910, there was loaned on real estate mortgages $71,322,556, as against $56,315,735 at December 31, 1909, the increase for the year being equal to 26 per cent. The increase in Manitoba was $5,806,241, or 39.8 per cent.; in Saskatchewan $6,648,211, or 17.3 per cent., and in Alberta $2,552,369, or 42 per cent. Last year was exceptionally active from a loaning standpoint, and while large sums have been loaned by all regular companies this year, the best authorities doubt if the increase will be as great as during 1910.

CONTROL OF SUBMARINES.

Successful Experiments by the British Admiralty.

A despatch from Portmouth, England, says: Successful experiments with the wireless control of submarine boats have been made, but the details are kept secret. It is known, however, that a submarine was taken to shallow water off Selsey, while the Hertzian waves were worked by the cruiser Furious. The submarine, which was on the surface, was manned and was found to be entirely under the control of the cruiser. Then the crew was taken out, and the experiment was equally successful when the boat was submerged. Similar experiments are being made with torpedoes.

IRISH STRIKE SETTLED.

Companies Agree to Reinstate 90 Per Cent. of the Men Out.

A despatch from Dublin says: The strike declared on the Irish railroads by the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, September 21, has been settled. The strikers abandoned their original grievance, which was their objection to handling lumber shipped by a firm which was having trouble with its employes. By the final arrangement the companies agree to reinstate 90 per cent. of the strikers at once, and the remaining 10 per cent. when vacancies occur. They will not dismiss the new men who were taken on during the strike.

BURY SUCCEEDS WHYTE.

New Vice-President and General Manager of Western Lines.

A despatch from Montreal, says: It was definitely announced from the Canadian Pacific Railway headquarters on Thursday morning that Mr. George Bury, General Manager of western lines, had been appointed Vice-President and General Manager of the western lines, in succession to Sir William Whyte, recently retired.

GRAIN IS BEING SMUGGLED

Alleged Extensive Operations Between Canada and Dakota Discovered.

A despatch from Minot, North Dakota, says: In the arrest at Norma, near here, of Walter Jackson, wheat buyer for the Atlantic Grain Company, and A. M. Magnie, a farmer, by United States Customs Agent George W. Foulkes, Federal officers believe they have unearthed an extensive scheme of grain smuggling from Canada to the flour mills at Minneapolis. Confessions, it is understood, are in the possession of Mr. Foulkes. It is alleged that the smugglers brought the grain across the border at night, disposing of it to American farmers, who in turn would take the grain to the elevators near the border. In smuggling barley there is a gain of about forty cents a bushel to the producer, that being the difference in price between the United States and Canada. It is alleged that the profits were divided among the producing farmers, the American farmer, and the grain buyer.

PEPPER ADULTERATED.

For 33 Years It Has Been 40 Per Cent. Impure, Says Analyst.

A despatch from Ottawa says: That the pepper used throughout Canada has been 40 per cent. adulterated for the past 33 years has been shown by a pamphlet issued by Mr. A. McGill, chief analyst of the Department of Inland Revenue. Perhaps the commonest adulterant is ground olive stones, which is so common an adulterant that it is called "poivrette" or "little pepper," by the authorities. Just lately two carloads of this poivrette have been sent into Canada, obviously for the purpose of adulterating pepper. As the ground olive stones have other uses the authorities cannot prohibit their coming into the country.

JUST A LITTLE INDISPOSED.

Visitors Found Jim's Family Droopy and Languid.

An eloquent lesson in the philosophy of the wilderness, which recommends the traveller to "stick to the trail," comes from "The Log of the North Shore Club," a recent book by Mr. Kirkland B. Alexander.

While the Indian guides portaged round the falls at Frenchman's Rapid, which is on one of the hundred rivers that take their source in lakes deep buried in the unknown wild, and flow down through rocky gorges and plunge over falls, and roll at last into Lake Superior, Mr. Alexander and a companion struck an intersecting trail that looked fresh. They were simultaneously seized with a desire to leave the portage trail and see where the new trail led to. It looked as if it might lead to a lake—the contour of the country indicated it.

It did lead to a lake, and to their surprise they saw an Indian teepee on the far side of it. They walked round the lake,—still on the trail,—and found an Indian patching a birch-bark canoe in front of the teepee. Mr. Alexander recognized him as Jim Radigeau, or something like that. Anyway, it was Jim.

Jim said he had his "woman" and "kids" in the teepee. Mr. Alexander and his friend went in to call and take some pictures. There squatted a squaw and four half or three-quarter naked youngsters in the teepee. Nobody seemed to be enjoying the call. The visitors stayed just long enough to exchange a few half-Chippewa commonplaces and observe that all the members of Jim's family looked droopy and languid. Mr. Alexander tried to draw one little papoose into conversation, but without success. When they came out, he said:

"Jim, the wife and the kids don't seem to be well."

Jim said, "Naw," and went right on putting pitch on the canoe seams.

"Been sick long?" asked Mr. Alexander's friend, sympathetically.

"Two, t'ree day—mebbe week or two."

"What's the matter with them?" Mr. Alexander asked. "Do you know, Jim?"

"Not much—just leetle seek, I guess. Smallpox, man at post, he say."

THE REST HABIT.

Hard to Break, but It Can Be Done, Says Amiable Mr. Glimmerton.

"For that don't feel like work feeling, with which," said Mr. Glimmerton, "I fancy we are all of a more or less likely to be afflicted, I would in some cases prescribe rest, though in most cases no doubt the proper prescription would be exertion.

"The trouble with the rest cure is that it is like taking opiates; the more you take the more you want. The rest habit is easy to acquire and hard to break.

"The habit of exertion, on the contrary, is one that commonly we do no take to so kindly; it does not, as it were, spontaneously permeate us as the rest habit does; it may in fact requires assiduous cultivation, and it takes quite a man to acquire this habit in a completely saturating and permanent form so that he is proof against attacks of he rest habit, which, if he has a trace of it left in him, is sure to develop on the slighest provocation.

"Exertion is the only real cure. It may be hard to take at first, but you'll come to like it. Persist and you'll find it vastly strengthening and then delightful, and then, while in taking the rest cure you are all the time paying money out, in taking this one you have money all the time coming in.

"Try work, continuous, steady, hard work. Once get the habit of work embedded in your system and you won't be troubled any more by that tired feeling."

Captain Allen of the Belleville Salvation Army was attacked and seriously injured by a young man suddenly seized with dementia.

About two thousand five hundred years ago, the first taxes were levied on the Athenian people by the legislator Solon.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Flour—Winter wheat, 90 per cent. patents, $3.50 to $3.53, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours — First patents, $5.30; second patents, $4.80, and strong bakers', $4.60, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba Wheat—New No. 1 Northern, $1.04 1-2, Bay ports; No. 2 Northern, $1.-03 1-2, and No. 3, $1.01 1-2, Bay ports.

Ontario Wheat—No. 2 white, red or mixed, new, 85 to 86c, outside.

Peas—Good milling peas, 92 to 95c, outside.

Oats—Ontario, No. 2, at 41 1-2 to 42c, outside, and No. 3 at 40c. No. 2 Western Canada, 46 1-2c, and No. 3, 45 1-2c, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 2, 80 to 85c, outside.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow, 72 1-2c, Bay ports.

Rye—Car lots outside, 75c west, and 77c east.

Buckwheat—No. 2 at 54 to 55c, outside.

Bran—Manitoba bran, $23 to $23.50, in bags, Toronto freight. Shorts, $25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked, $2.30 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2.25 to $2.50.

Baled Hay—No. 1 at $12 to $14, on track, and No. 2 at $10 to $11.

Baled Straw—$6 to $6.50, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, 85 to 90c.

Poultry—Prices of dressed poultry, in quantities:—Chickens, 14 to 15c per lb.; fowl, 11 to 12c; ducks, 13c; turkeys, 20c. Live poultry, about 2c lower than the above.

DAIRY PRODUCTS.

Butter—Dairy prints, 21 to 22c; inferior, 16 to 17c. Creamery, 26 to 27c per lb. for rolls, and 23 to 24c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid, 23 to 24c, and fresh at 20 to 21c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—Large at 15c per lb., and twins at 15 1-4c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon—Long clear, 12 to 12 1-2c per lb., in case lots. Pork, short cut, $23; do., mess, $20 to $21. Hams, medium to light, 17 to 17 1-2c; do., heavy, 15 to 15 1-2c; rolls, 11 to 11 1-2c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; backs, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2c; tubs, 10 3-4c; pails, 11c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—Oats—Canadian Western, No. 2, 47 1-2c, car lots ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 47c; No. 3 C. W., 46 1-2c; No. 2 local white, 46c; No. 3 local white, 45 1-2c; No. 4 local white, 45c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; do., seconds, $4.90; Winter wheat patents, $4.-75 to $5; strong bakers', $4.70; straight rollers, $4.25 to $4.40; do., in bags, $1.95 to $2.05. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $5.25; bag of 90 lbs., $2.50. Corn—American No. 3 yellow, 74 to 74 1-2c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23 to $24; Manitoba, $23; middlings, Ontario, $27 to $28; shorts, Manitoba, $25; mouillie, $26 to $32. Eggs—Selected, 26 to 27c; No. 1 stock, 21 1-2 to 22c. Cheese—Westerns, 14 5-8 to 14 3-4c; easterns, 14 3-8 to 14 1-2c. Butter—Choicest, 25 1-2 to 27c; seconds, 25 to 25 1-2c.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Minneapolis, Oct. 10.—Wheat — May, $1.12 1-8; No. 1 hard, $1.08 1-4; No. 1 Northern, $1.06 3-4 to $1.07 3-4; No. 2 Northern, $1.03 3-4 to $1.05 3-4; No. 3 wheat, 98 3-4c to $1.01 3-4. No. 3 yellow corn, 65 1-2 to 66c; No. 3 white oats, 45 1-2 to 46c. No. 2 rye, 91 1-2 to 92c. Bran, $21.50 to $22. Flour—first patents, $5.30 to $5.60; second patents, $4.90 to $5.20; first clears, $3.80 to $4.15; second clears, $2.70 to $3.10.

Buffalo, Oct. 10.—Spring wheat, No. 1 Northern, carloads, store, $1.11 1-2; Winter, No. 2 red, 99c; No. 3 red, 97c; No. 2 white, 97c. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 75c; No. 4 yellow, 73 1-2c; No. 3 corn, 73c, all on track through billed. Oats firm. Barley, malting, $1.16 to $1.23.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—North-Western steers $5.75 to $6.25; do., cows, $4.75 to $5. Eastern and Ontario steers, choice, $6 to $6.-15; good, $5.50 to $5.75; fair, $5 to $5.25; few rough at shade lower. Bulls heavy $3 to $3.15; few extra good, shade up; light bulls, $2.35 to $2.75; butcher cows, best, $4.50 to $5; good, $4 to $4.25; poor to medium, $3.50 to $3.75; canners, $2 to $3. Old sheep, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $5.50 to $5.-65 (one small lot extra selects, $6.60 to a packing firm); underweights, $6 (highest bid); sows, $5; stags, $2.50 to $2.75.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Among the receipts were a few loads of very choice cattle offering, and these sold at from $5.65 to $6.25. Common to medium butchers' from $4 to $5.40, and fair to medium choice butchers' at $5.40 to $5.75. Good quality feeding steers from 950 to 1,050 lbs., firm at $4.50 to $5. Light yearling stockers, 500 to 600 lbs., $3.50 to $5; 600 to 800 lbs., $3.75 to $4.40; 900 to 1,000 lbs., $4.65 to $4.85. Lambs, $5 to $5.50. Milch cows and springers—Good quality in good demand. Hogs—$6.50 f.o.b., and $6.75 to $6.85, fed and watered. If weighed off cars, $7 to $7.70.

There is a growing antagonism in Turkey against the tyrannical sway of the Committee of Union and Progress.

THE ITALIAN FLAG FLIES

Tripoli Forts Taken, But the Garrison Entrenches Inland.

A despatch from Rome, says: After the shelling of Tripoli on Tuesday operations were resumed on Wednesday morning, but the Italian warships again directed the fire only against the outer forts. It was feared that if the inner forts were shelled damage would be done to the town. The shore batteries in Sultanie and in Hamidie forts were dismantled. Then the cruiser entered the harbor, and two officers with a detchment of marines disembarked and made their way to Hamidie fort. Upon reaching the place they found it evacuated, and carried away with them the sights of the guns, and the bodies of three Turkisn artillerymen, which lay in the fort.

Up to the present, despite the bombardment, and despite the Italian excursion ashore, there is no sign of surrender on the part of the Turks. The bombardment will, therefore, continue until the town capitulates, or until all the Turkish troops have left Tripoli for the interior. Even if Tripoli capitulates there will be intervals of several days more before the arrival and disembarkation of the army of occupation. When the army has been landed the offer of mediation by Germany or some other power is expected to follow immediately.

Tripoli lighthouse having been destroyed by some of the first shots fired, Admiral Faravelli has given orders for its immediate reconstruction, as it is of the greatest utility to the Italian fleet.

BOYCOTT ITALIAN GOODS.

A despatch from Constantinople, says: The embargo on coal and petroleum has been raised. An anti-Italian boycott has commenced, and Custom-house porters on Thursday refused to discharge Italian goods from a British steamer. The Grand Vizier opposes the expulsion of Italians. The newspapers are pessimistic over the situation, declaring that it is hopeless to expect anything from the powers. The Sultan has ordered prayers in the mosques, invoking the aid and protection of the prophet against Italy.

MOSLEM APPEAL TO THE KING

A despatch from Constantinople says: At a meeting held on Friday in the Mosque of St. Sophia a telegram of protest against Italy's declaration of war on Turkey was formulated and sent to all the Parliaments of the world, peace and arbitration societies, universities, Socialist organizations and The Hague Peace Tribunal. The telegram says the occupation of Tripoli is unjustified, and that Italy is unworthy of a place among the great powers. It asks whether western civilization has considered the effect upon the eastern mind of Italy's brigandage.

The meeting also sent the following message to King George:—

"How can a power like England, ruling between eighty millions and ninety millions of Moslems, regard with complaisant silence the declaration of war against the Ottoman nation and the blockade of Tripoli? Is such policy in harmony with the present and the future interests of England?"

MOVING STAIRWAY.

London Underground Installs First One in Britain.

A despatch from London, England, says: The first moving stairway introduced into England is in operation at the Earl's Court station on the underground railway. It will carry ten thousand passengers hourly and do more work than six ordinary lifts. The traffic by the deep-level tube is so heavy at the busiest hours of the day that the lifts are overstrained and passengers are delayed. If the experiment succeeds, similar double stairways, moving up and down simultaneously, will be constructed at other stations of the underground system.

CANADIAN GRETNA GREEN.

914 Marriages Performed in Windsor During Past Three Months.

A despatch from Windsor, Ont., says: Marriages, as usual, head the list in vital statistics of Windsor for the three months ending Sept. 30, according to the figures given out by City Clerk Lusted. During the quarter there were 914 nuptial knots tied within the city limits, and Windsor's reputation as a Gretna Green is sustained. In these marriages 97 per cent. of couples were non-resident, most of them living in the United States. Births during this period totalled 115, and deaths numbered 79.

SUICIDE AT PORT ARTHUR.

Finn Shot Himself Dead in Newspaper Office.

A despatch from Port Arthur, Ont., says: Charles Johnson, a Finn, entered the office of the Finnish newspaper here on Thursday afternoon, and, in the presence of Editor Hehi, whipped out a revolver, sending the bullet into his stomach. He died in a few minutes. Johnson was 30 years of age. He had been drinking heavily.

DUKE BUYING UP MILES.

His Grace of Sutherland Has Options on Vast Tract in West.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: If certain negotiations now pending reach a successful conclusion, the Duke of Sutherland, who recently visited Vancouver, will own larger land holdings in British Columbia than he does in Great Britain. It is understood that his agent has obtained options on nearly thirty miles of agricultural lands on both sides of the South Thompson River, extending eastward from near Kamloops. A great deal of this area is under cultivation. The major portion will not be productive until an irrigation system is installed. The purchase price will probably exceed $500,000.

6,000 MILES WIRELESS TALK.

Messages Exchanged Between San Francisco and Japan.

A despatch from San Francisco, says: Wireless messages flashed from San Francisco to Japan, spanning 6,000 miles of ocean, for the first time, at 2.15 o'clock Thursday morning. Greetings were exchanged between the San Francisco operator in the United Wireless station at Hillcrest and the Japanese operator at the Joi station on the Island of Hokushu, the most northern station in Japan. After fifteen minutes' "talk," sound ceased, and it was impossible to get into communication again.

GREAT FIRE IN ENGLAND.

Church and Three Factories Destroyed at Leicester.

A despatch from Leicester, Eng., says; St. George's Church and three large hosiery factories were destroyed by fire here on Thursday night. The loss is estimated at $1,250,000. The fire is said to have been the most disastrous in the history of Leicester.

OUR SAVINGS AVERAGE $82

Canadian People Have a Great Deal of Money Earning Interest.

A despatch from Toronto says: In spite of the evidences that money is being expended fairly freely in this country Bradstreet's, the commercial agency, has computed the average savings of the people, on a basis of population of eight million at $82 each. Bradstreet's point out that at the end of August savings deposits in the various chartered banks of Canada totalled $575,740,956, thus showing an increase since a year ago of about $30,000,000. While the great bulk of the readily available savings of the people is to be found in the chartered banks, there were on August 30 deposits in other financial institutions totalling $86,037,-166. Of this amount $14,677,872 was in the Government savings bank at the end of 1910, while $43,-386,357 was in the Postoffice Savings Bank and $27,772,937 was in the loan companies and building societies. This brings the known total up to $661,778,122, making an average of over $82 per head of population, presuming the population to be eight million.

No doubt this average is estimated too low, as the figures other than those for the chartered banks are for the end of the year 1910, since when deposits in other institutions must have increased appreciably.

AFTER EFFECTS OF FEVER

How to Build Up Health and Strength After Wasting Diseases.

When the system is run down following attacks of fever, la grippe, or other wasting diseases, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are of special value. They make new, rich blood, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body, and in this way restore the patient to active health and strength. In proof of this we give the case of Mrs. James Randall, Silverstream, Sask., who says:—"I feel that if there is anyone who ought to testify to the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills it is myself. About four years ago I was taken down with typhoid fever, which left me in a very weak state, and my stomach so impaired that even a drink of milk would cause me pain. To make matters worse the change of life followed, and although I was under the care of one of our best doctors, I was steadily growing worse. Before I was sick I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but thought no more about them. But now when I was sick and helpless and almost hopeless, and with no benefit coming from medical treatment, I kept thinking of the Pills and finally decided to try them. I did so and I am thankful to be able to say that they restored me to health and strength, and enabled me to pass through that trying period, from which so many poor women emerge with shattered health. I hope that many other poor sufferers may read this statement and take fresh courage from it, as I am sure that what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, they will do for others. I may add that I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the home, and feel that they are better than a doctor."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A BRETON BARBER SHOP.

A Traveller's Comical Experience While Being Shaved.

The old woman who lived in a shoe really knew very well what to do with her many children. She "spanked them all soundly and sent them to bed." Mrs. Frances M. Gostling, in "The Bretons at Home," describes a barber shop where the same expedient had, in part, at least, been employed. It should be explained that in Brittany the beds are set in little recesses in the wall, and the people lie as on a closet shelf.

I had gone with my husband to find a barber. It was dusk when we entered the one room of the tiny cottage, and work was over for the day. The last customer sat idly in a corner, gossiping with the barber's wife, while the man of razors himself was idly glancing over last week's newspaper. It was too dark to see the details of the room, but I managed to find an oak chest in front of a bed, and sat down to watch proceedings.

It was a curious sight. In the middle of the room sat my Englishman in his light tweed suit, a towel round his neck, his face covered with ghostly, gleaming lather. In front of him stood the barber's wife, a lighted candle in her hand, to guide her husband in his work. Finally, his thin, cadaverous face almost touching that of his victim, the barber himself, his left hand holding my husband now by the nose, now by the chin.

Suddenly, behind me, I heard a movement and felt a warm little hand on the back of my neck. There was a smothered laugh, and I turned to see a pair of eyes twinkling at me from the black depths of the cupboard bed against which I was sitting.

"Taisez-vous donc!" growled the barber, mildly, still intent on his work. But the laugh had broken the charm. From every corner came rustlings, giggles, little voices, and shining merry eyes. And everywhere there were beds—beds full of boys and girls.

"Why, however many children have you?" I asked, as soon as the bewilderment of finding myself surrounded by the crowd of onlookers allowed me to speak.

"Fourteen, madame," replied the woman.

"The house is so small that we console ourselves by the size of our family." remarked the barber, jocosely; at which there was much merriment in the cupboard beds.

Saves Worry Time and Trouble

Post Toasties

Can be served instantly with cream or milk.

It makes a breakfast or lunch so superior to the ordinary, that it has become a welcome pantry necessity in thousands of homes, and adds to the comfort and pleasure of life.

"The Memory Lingers"

Sold by Grocers.

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

WISE SAYINGS.

Never intimate that a woman is dull. Just for that she might cut you.

It's better to be up and doing than to be down and being done.

About the hardest thing in the world to climb is the stool of repentance.

Some people feel they owe so much to themselves that they never pay anybody else.

It is quite possible for a man to be hotheaded and still get cold feet.

The only way to make some dull children smart is with a switch.

Sometimes a fellow doesn't marry because he is lacking in will, and sometimes because the girl has a superabundance of won't.

When a man is a slave to money there are lots of us willing to emancipate him.

A woman may only kiss her husband when she wants money, and still not be stingy with her kisses.

Nothing short of a surgical operation would amputate some men from their money.

It isn't the farsighted man who is always looking for trouble.

It generally requires a lot of backing to put up a good front.

CONSTIPATED CHILDREN

Constipation in children is the surest sign of danger—the most convincing signal that baby is going to be ill. Constipation leads to and actually causes more suffering in little ones than any other trouble. To keep baby well his little stomach must be kept sweet and his bowels regular—Baby's Own Tablets will do that—they will do it safely, surely and without pain or griping. Concerning them Mrs. S. O. Braaten, Bergland, Ont., says:—"My baby was bothered almost continually with his stomach and bowels and was greatly constipated. Baby's Own Tablets quickly relieved him and I would not now use any other medicine." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE USUAL WAY.

"I dreamed last night that I had perfected an airship."

"And when you awoke?"

"I was out on the floor."

Complete in itself, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator does not require the assistance of any other medicine to make it effective. It does not fail to do its work.

If a man's mind is fully occupied he has no time to be miserable.

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

SCOTCHMAN AND THE SNUFF.

During a railway journey between Carlisle and Edinburgh a brawny Scotsman entered the train. Being in Highland garb, he attracted the attention of the other occupants, and more so when he took snuff freely from a large box and offered it to others, "Tae, help their ain sels." At Newcastle a Tynesider entered the compartment whom Nature had lavishly gifted with an extremely large nose. He seated himself opposite the Scot, who beamed with pleasure, and at once offered his snuff box. This was declined, when the astonished Scot said: "Dinna ye snuff?" He was answered "No." "Man," replied the Scot, "it is a great peety, for ye hae a wunnerfu' accommodation for 't."

THEN THE COURT LAUGHED.

Robert was an honor to the force. He did not make the acquaintance of cooks, nor did he fall asleep while on duty. He was ambitious and yearned for the time when he would be able to prefix the words "Chief Constable" to his name.

The other day he arrested a man for assault. The magistrate enquired as to who made the allegation against the prisoner.

Forward stepped the zealous Robert, who, with a sweeping salute, replied: "Me, your worship; I'm the alligator!"

If at first you don't succeed, don't succumb.

DID NOT HAVE TO CALL THE DOCTOR

BECAUSE SHE TRIED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS FIRST.

One box of them cured Mrs. Mary A. Cook's Rheumatism from which she had suffered for fourteen years.

Mannheim, Ont., Oct. 9.—Special).—How quickly and easily Rheumatism can be cured when you use the right means is shown in the case of Mrs. Mary A. Cook, well known and highly respected here. In an interview regarding her cure, of which all the village knows, Mrs. Cook says:

"I had Rheumatism so bad that sometimes I would sit up nearly all night.

"I first thought I would try the doctors, but luckily I decided to first try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"They cured me, and I didn't have to try the doctors. And just to think that after fourteen years of suffering one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills should cure!- I will recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to anyone who suffers from Rheumatism."

Yes, it is easy to cure Rheumatism when you go the right way about it. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. If the Kidneys are working right they will strain all the uric acid out of the blood and there can be no Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills always make the Kidneys work right.

THE CONSEQUENCE.

"That young fellow has been sowing his wild oats."

"I suppose that is why he looks so seedy."

Cholera and all summer complaints are so quick in their action that the cold hand of death is upon the victims before they are aware that danger is near. If attacked do not delay in getting the proper medicine. Try a dose of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, and you will get immediate relief. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to effect a cure.

FEW CAN.

Wigg—"Why do you think he is rich? He looks as though he hadn't a cent in the world."

Wagg—"Only a rich man can afford to look as though he hadn't a cent in the world."

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

For Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail.

Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

FEW HAVE THE EXPERIENCE.

"Ever notice how rich a fellow feels when he's got a few dollars his wife doesn't know about?"

"Yes, by George, and how clever too!"

For over fifty years Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and other painful ailments have been cured by Hamlins Wizard Oil. It is a good honest remedy and you will not regret having a bottle ready for use.

LIVE FOREVER.

"She is very proud of her ancestors. Aren't you proud of yours?"

"I don't dare to be; too many of them are alive yet."

Warts will render the prettiest hands unsightly. Clear the excrescences away by using Holloway's Corn Cure, which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

It's a question which are worse—shortcomings or long stayings.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

THE USUAL PROGRAMME.

"So you had a nice time in Punkville?"

"Oh, very. They showed me the almshouse, the jail and the fine new insane asylum. They certainly made my visit as pleasant as possible."

Every time a man looks in a mirror he imagines that he sees a hero.

Well, Well!

I used DY-O-LA

ONE DYE FOR ALL KINDS OF GOODS

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 15. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

PORCUPINE GOLD FIELDS

Fortunes Are Being Made

Let us send you particulars FREE.

WATERS-HARRIS SYNDICATE

43 Victoria St., Toronto, Canada

ONE CONSOLATION.

"Elmer, my boy," said the fond mother, "don't you think you have eaten enough of that chicken salad?"

"Well, mamma," replied Elmer, as he helped himself to another dishful, "if I get sick you'll know what's the matter with me, anyway."

A Remedy for Bilious Headache.—To those subject to bilious headache, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are recommended as the way to speedy relief. Taken according to directions they will subdue irregularities of the stomach and so act upon the nerves and blood vessels that the pains in the head will cease. There are few who are not at sometime subject to biliousness and familiar with its attendant evils. Yet none need suffer with these pills at hand.

'TWAS EVER THUS.

"Uncle Henry, you've made your pile; why don't you retire from business?"

(With a groan)—"Retire? Good land, boy! The business won't let me!"

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 11, 1903.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Sirs,—I came across a bottle of your MINARD'S LINIMENT in the hands of one of the students at the University of Maryland, and he being so kind as to let me use it for a very bad sprain, which I obtained in training for foot races, and to say that it helped me would be putting it very mildly, and I therefore ask if you would let me know of one of your agents that is closest to Baltimore so that I may obtain some of it. Thanking you in advance I remain, Yours truly, W. C. McCUEAN.

14 St. Paul street,
Care Oliver Typewriter Co.
P. S.—Kindly answer at once.

TORTURE.

He—"And did you suffer much when you had appendicitis?"

She—"Suffer? I thought I should never live to tell the tale."

He—"Ah, that must have been suffering indeed."

To Men Who Live Inactive Lives.—Exercise in the open air is the best tonic for the stomach and system generally; but there are those who are compelled to follow sedentary occupations and the inactivity tends to restrict the healthy action of the digestive organs and sickness follows. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills regulate the stomach and liver and restore healthy action. It is wise to have a packet of the pills always on hand.

YOU SEE IT, OF COURSE.

"I think," remarked Biggs, "one of the funniest signs I ever saw was this: 'Teeth Extracted While You Wait.'"

Higgs laughed long and loudly at this, and shortly afterward he tried it on Jiggs.

"A friend of mine," he said, "told me of a funny sign he had seen: 'Teeth Extracted While You Wait.'"

Jiggs reflected.

"What is there funny about that?" he asked; "I don't quite catch the point."

"Can't you see? The man who put up that sign used five words, when one would have been enough. The word 'dentist' covers the whole ground. Every dentist is supposed to pull teeth, isn't he?"

"Oh, yes; I see. Ha! Ha! Ha!"

It takes a lot of Christianity to drive the chilly feeling out of the average church.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

When Finished It will Revolutionise World's Traffic Routes.

At last the biggest piece of engineering in the world is within sight of completion. In two years' time the Panama Canal will be open to traffic.

All the figures about the Canal are record-breakers. The six locks are each 1,000 ft. long, and 110 ft. wide. The water will be 41 ft. deep, as against 29 ft. in the Suez Canal. It will, accordingly, hold steamers bigger than any yet afloat or planned. The Suez Canal cost $80,000,000 to cut. The new-comer will have cost nearly $500,000,000 before it is opened.

There were tremendous difficulties in the way. A hill over 300 ft. high had to be cut through. A foaming torrent which in rainy weather sometimes rises 35ft. a day has been circumvented by being turned into a lake the size of London. Thirty of the forty miles steaming from Atlantic to Pacific will be along this lake. The huge dam which holds the lake in check is of the tremendous thickness of half a mile.

The Panama Canal will revolutionise the world's great traffic routes. The stormy Cape Horn will cease to be the sailor's dread. The Canal will make the Pacific much busier, for New York's trade with the Orient will go across that ocean, as well as much of Britain's. Japan will be 4,000 miles nearer New York and Australia the same.

'Tis a Marvellous Thing. — When the cures effected by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil are considered, the speedy and permanent relief it has brought to the suffering wherever it has been used, it must be regarded as a marvellous thing that so potent a medicine should result from the six ingredients which enter into its composition. A trial will convince the most skeptical of its healing virtues.

Don't lose sight of the fact that it is just as important to know when to quit as when to begin.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

A BALD FACT.

"Poor old Alf!" sighed Mrs. Crump, as the form of her husband vanished down the road. "He's growin' shocking bald!"

"Yes, I've noticed it," assented her neighbor. "Ever since his last illness he's been moltin' as you might say. I hope he ain't worrying over it, Mrs. Crump?"

"Well, it do bother him a bit," she admitted.

"And well it might," said her neighbor. "When my old man lost his hair, he felt the cold somethin' terrible."

"Oh, it ain't the cold that worries Alf," replied Mrs. Crump. "It's the bother he has when he's washin' himself. If he doesn't keep his hat on, poor dear, he can't tell where his face finishes."

Many a fellow never lays anything by for a rainy day so long as he can borrow an umbrella.

MOTHERS! DO YOU KNOW—

That when you put a salve onto your child's skin, it passes through the pores and enters the blood, just as surely as if you put it into the child's stomach?

You would not put a coarse mass of animal fat, colored by various mineral poisons (such as many crude salves are) into your child's blood by way of the stomach? Then why do so by way of the pores?

Take no risk. Use always the pure herbal essences provided in Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal oil or fat, and no poisonous mineral coloring matter. From start to finish it is purely herbal.

It will heal sores, ulcers, abscesses, eruptions, varicose ulcers, cuts, burns and bruises more quickly than any other known preparation. It is antiseptic, quickly stops the smarting of a sore or cut, cures piles, inflamed sores and blood-poisoning. It is a combination of healing power and scientific purity. Ask those who have proved it.

All druggists and stores 50c box or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

ZAM-BUK SHOULD BE IN YOUR HOME

BANKS AND BONDS

¶ Bonds have the preference as safe and profitable investments.

¶ Formerly Banks, Insurance Companies and other financial concerns invested their cash surpluses largely in Real Estate Mortgages, to-day they are purchasing the Bond issues of established and prosperous corporations considering that they offer the greatest security and best interest returns.

¶ There is no reasonable argument to offset the fact that what is the best investment for the Bank surplus is the best investment for the individual investor.

¶ Write to-day for our booklet on Bonds, and Bond issues we recommend.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION LIMITED

BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING YONGE AND QUEEN STS. TORONTO

R. M. WHITE - Manager

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-HALIFAX-LONDON(ENG.)

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE CHATHAM, ONT.

ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST BUSINESS SCHOOLS

Over 2,000 choice positions filled in past Four Years.

Some others just filled:—I. B. HANN, from Newfoundland, placed with Sask. Milling Co., Moose Jaw, as Steno. FERN SMITH, Steno., Peabody Overall Co., Windsor. E. C. ROBINSON Bkkpr., with Bell Furniture Co., Southampton, Ont. FLOSSIE ANDERSON, Steno. and Bkpr, Can. Wolverine Co., Chatham. MILDRED ANDERSON, Steno., with De Laval Separator Co., Winnipeg. R. J. SCOTT, teacher, with Drake College, Newark, N. J. The salaries of the three shown last week average over $700 per annum. The salaries of the six here shown average close to $700. Our students are prepared for the big positions where the big pay is offered. IT PAYS TO ATTEND THE BEST. Catalogue 33 tells of the work at Chatham. Catalogue 34 tells of our home courses. Address, D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont.

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

UNEMPLOYED MEN OR WOMEN, DO you wish to make Five Dollars day for balance of year? If so, consult J. L. Nichols Co., Limited, Toronto.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., West Street, Orillia, Ontario.

TWENTY TO FIFTY BARBERS ADVERtised for in Toronto papers alone, almost every day; let us teach you barber trade; expert instruction; constant practice; tools free. Write for catalogue. Moler Barber College, 221 Queen East, Toronto.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

FEATHER DYEING

Cleaning and Curling and Kid Gloves cleaned. These can be sent by post, 1c per oz. The best place is

BRITISH AMERICAN DYEING CO. MONTREAL.

H. H. NIGHTINGALE

STOCK BROKER

Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange

LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN

Correspondence invited.

33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

BOYS and GIRLS

The Christmas Globe

WILL PAY YOU

A Commission of FIFTEEN CENTS for each copy of this beautiful Christmas publication you sell. It is one of the best Christmas Holiday Numbers in the world. It has three large Separate Colored pictures. Send at once for advertising matter and full particulars. ADDRESS The Christmas Globe TORONTO, CANADA.

Our Course in NURSING is the Best

Home Study Course

Good Weekly Income
Wonderful Opportunity
Constant Employment
Diplomas Granted

Royal College Of Science

358 Queen St. West Toronto, Canada

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

V. W. TAMAN
Merchant Tailor,
Exeter, Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	85	85
Barley	70	80
Buckwheat	48	50
Oats	40	40
Peas	70	75
Potatoes, per bag	75	90
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 50	1 50
Butter	21	22
Eggs	22	23
Live hogs, per cwt		6 05
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chichen	alive	9c.	dry picked	11c
Hens	"	7c.	"	9
Roosters	"	6c.	"	00
Geese	"	8c.	"	10
Turkey	"	12c.	"	14c
Ducks	"	9c	"	11c

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

MAID WANTED

For General Housework. No Washing. Apply to Mrs. John B. Tanton, 531 Waterloo Street, London, Ont.

Underwear—Penmans, Watson's, Ellis', and Stanfield's, underwear in all weights and sizes at a garment 50c. to $1.75.—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Hoaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

100 Girls Wanted for Factory. $5.00 per week to start with for girls eighteen and over. Address immediately D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

Ladies' Cape Gloves for Fall wear guaranteed, in tan only at per pair $1.00—Stewart's

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on boys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

Fur Collared Coats with quilted or curl linings, interlined with rubber. Very stylish an serviceable at $17.00 to $25.00—Stewart's.

LADY'S RAIN COAT FOUND.—On Saturday, Oct. 7th. Owner call at this office.

CISTERN AND WELL CLEANING. —Those having cisterns or wells that need cleaning will do well to have the work done at once. We do it to your satisfaction.—ALBERT GOWER, Exeter N.

Worsted Hose made from strong yarns, very suitable for school wear. Special at 25c.—Stewart's.

WANTED.—A good girl for general housework. Must be experienced and capable. No washing. Good wages to right person, none other need apply. Apply personally or by letter to

MRS. J. J. CALLAGHAN,
613 Wellington St., London.

MANSION HOUSE PROPERTY FOR SALE OR TO RENT

The undersigned is offering for sale or to rent that desirable Hotel property in Exeter, known as the Mansion House situated on the corner of Main and Huron st. The property is in good condition and affords an excellent opportunity to open a Temperance or Boarding House. It is well equipped with all necessary furniture to commence business, and there is also good stabling and shed accommodation and other conveniences. There are also good prospects of the House being again granted a license. Will be sold privately on reasonable terms and conditions. For particulars apply to R. Leathorn or to Messrs. Dickson & Carling, Exeter.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Hear R. Phillips, Oct. 16th, at Opera House, Exeter.

Mr. Thos. Fisher of Usborne lost a valuable horse on Saturday.

What a man doesn't know about his neighbors his wife tells him.

The fellow who is fond of using the capital I fan't always capitalized.

Mr. S. Baskerville has purchased the late Mrs. Airth's house on Station-st.

There's nothing like the knife of candor for severing the bonds of friendship.

There is no time like the present simply because the present is the only time.

Hear C. J. Pink, London's famous tenor, Monday, Oct. 16, Opera House, Exeter.

If a man hasn't opinions, he's a nonentity; and if he has them he's a nuisance.

Fat folks are built for sitting down and should be excused if they waddle when they walk.

Mrs. Wm. Taylor, Albert Street, unfortunately fell and sprained her arm one day last week.

The Smart Set Sewing Circle met for the first time this season at Miss Carrie Moir's on Monday evening, Oct. 9.

Ollie Hooper, who has been residing at Hensall, has purchased the baggage and express business at Blyth, and has moved there.

The band held their first practice on Monday evening, the new and the repaired instruments having arrived from Toronto last week.

It is claimed that there are as many microbes on a dollar bill as on a fly. But the dollar does not make such desperate and continuous efforts to light on you.

Mr. W. L. Clark is conducting special services in the Methodist churches this week. He occupied Main street pulpit Sunday morning last and James-st. pulpit Sunday evening.

Rev. John Kennedy of Ailsa Craig occupied the James Street pulpit on Sunday morning, and the two Methodist congregations worshipped together in the James Street church in the evening.

Any business is more respectable than what is termed loafing. A young man had better sell clams by the pailful than hang around public resorts, murdering time and his own reputation.

Hear Mack Vincent Monday Oct. 16, at Opera House, Exeter.

Any person destroying or injuring, even tying a horse to, a street tree is liable to a fine not to exceed $25 and costs, or imprisonment for not more than thirty days, half of the fine to go to the informant.

Farmers in Ontario are preparing for a hard and long winter, because the red squirrels and chipmonks have been very busy laying in their winter's store of food, even going to the extent of collecting green chestnut burrs.

U ALL NO.—And don't forget the concert in the Exeter Opera House Monday October 16th. Plan of Hall at Cole's Drug Store. Reserved Seats 35 cents; adults 25c., Children 15c. Doors open at 7 o'clock; concert at 8.

The engagement is announced of Miss M. Grace E. Wilson, daughter of the late Rev. Jasper Wilson, M. A., to Mr. Lorne A. Eedy, B. A., St. Marys. The marriage will take place at the home of Mrs. J. F. Reycraft, Gesto, Ont. late in October.

Mr. A. R. Angle, who has had charge of the freight department of the G. T. R. here for some time, will move with his family to Dunnville shortly, where he will fill a similar position on the same road. The best wishes of their friends here will accompany them.

Mr. Henry Rundle of Usborne disposed of his 100 acre farm in that township, on Thursday last, to Mr. Ed. Knight of near Exeter, being lot 11, South Thames Road. The price paid was $6000. This is an excellent farm and it has fallen into good hands.

Mr. Jos. Yellow had his bank barn raising on Oct. 4. The building is on the site of the barn burned last summer and is 66x42 feet. Mr. Yellow desires to thank the many friends and neighbors for their kindness in assisting him in the building of the new barn.

When you pull down the town in which is your home, you are pulling down yourself, and when you build up you are building up yourself and your neighborhood. Try to banish from your mind the mistaken idea that all good things are away off in some other locality. Give your town all the praise it can legitimately bear. It will certainly do you no harm and will cost you nothing; and above all patronize your home institutions.

HICKS' FORECASTS—A regular storm period, covered by the Autumnal and Mercury periods, extends from the 17 to the 22. The crisis of this period will fall on the 20, 21 and 22. Fierce autumnal storms, with lightning and thunder during the first stages, will mark this period. Autumn rains will occur generally at this time, attended by dangerous gales, especially on and about the great lakes. Early snow to the north and west, with mercury sleet storms that will hamper and endanger wires and agricultural interests, need not surprise those concerned. Another very decided sclamic period reaches from the 18 to 24, central on 21. High northwest winds and cold, fair weather will follow this period.

A reactionary storm period will bring in storm changes—low barometer, cloudiness and autumnal rain and wind, on the 24th, 25th, and 26th. Stubborn cloudiness, persistent tendency to drizzle and sleet, snow and cold will attend and follow these dates. Those who will be forewarned of disagreeable weather and autumnal storms, and make haste with all possible outdoor work, will be winners at this time.

A regular storm period is central on the 30th, and extends from the 28th of October to the 3rd of November. The month will end with weather growing warmer, falling barometer, and cloudiness increasing and advancing from the west. Rains turning to snow in western extremes, will be in sight to all as we enter November.

Mr. W. T. Acheson was in London on Monday.

Mr. W. H. Levett was in Toronto on business this week.

Mrs. J. C. Snell visited in Lucknow part of last week.

Mr. W. Sagler spent Sunday at his home in Clinton.

Mr. Wm. Blatchford was in Seaforth part of last week.

Mr. I. R. Carling was in London over Sunday and Monday.

Mr. David Cobbledick was in Toronto a few days this week.

Mr. John Wood acted as judge at Comber Fair this week.

Mr. Mervin Huston of Ashcroft, B. C. is here visiting his parents.

Mr. Robert Leathorn returned from London on Saturday morning.

Mrs. John Down and daughter went to St. Marys Friday to visit for a time.

Mrs. F. W. Gladman left Friday to visit for a time with relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. Geo. Parker returned to London last week, after visiting her mother, Mrs Piper.

Mr Burke, with his daughter of Brussels visited his son W. D. Burke over Sunday.

Mrs. Jos. McTavish of Shakespeare is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor.

Mrs. J A. Stewart was in London on Tuesday attending the funeral of Mrs. (Dr.) Burdon.

Mr. Norman Hodgert, who has been in the West for sometime, is visiting at his home here.

Mr. Richard Atkinson returned Monday evening, after spending the summer in the West.

Mrs. R. R. Rogers returned here from Chicago last week, and has since gone to Toronto to reside.

Mrs. Ed. Roberts of Toronto visited with friends in Exeter last week, returning home Saturday.

Mrs. Southcott returned from Guelph Friday, and is, we are pleased to say, much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Thornton and Silas Reid of London, and Mr. A. L. Handford of Renfrew visited at Mr. Silas Handford's this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boyle spent Tuesday in London. We understand that they will move to London, Mr. Boyle having secured a situation in the city.

Mrs. Ed. Tomlinson and Miss Frayne of London were here the latter part of last week, and while here Miss Frayne disposed of her cottage on James Street to Mr. Samuel Martin.

APPLES

Those wanting good NO. 1 Winter Apples call at the store.

Jones & May

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Partland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Bus, Dray and Teaming Business

Your orders in our line will be attended to quickly and satisfactorily. We are here to please the public needing anything in our line, and we ask a trial from you. Orders left by phone or otherwise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will receive prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

Powell's Bazaar

WATCH this store for bargains the rest of the month.

BIG ASSORTMENT of Hallowe'en and Thanksgiving Post Cards

Keep your eye on our windows for specials.

POWELL'S BAZAAR

A Gurney-Oxford is as prompt as young Appetites

There is no delay; the children never have to wait for meals when you have a Gurney-Oxford in the kitchen. With this range dinner is on the dot. Your fire is absolutely reliable, the heat regulated and controlled by an exclusive device, the wonderful little OXFORD ECONOMIZER. This patent damper enables you to forget the fire until the hour to start dinner. And the saving of coal will astonish you; 20% reduction on your bills is an easy record for this little regulator.

GURNEY-OXFORD

Another advantage is in its splendid oven facilities. No more soggy or over-done baking. The oven heat is controlled and guided equally over front, back and sides by means of the DIVIDED FLUE STRIP.

The Reversible Grate, the Broiler Top, the patent Lift-up Hearth are more reasons for owning a Gurney-Oxford, and to these advantages are added a shining appearance, artistic design and perfect ease of operation.

You are invited to come and see this and others of the Gurney line.

W. J. Heaman, Agent.

OUR WATCH AND Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter
Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers
And
Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a
For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON
The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

New Fall Suitings

In all the Latest Fabrics

We are showing something new every day in our Dress Goods Department. New Serges, New Tweeds New Plain cloths, New Tartans in all the season's best colors. Come along and see what we are doing in the Dress Goods line and select your New Fall Suit or Dress.

SOMETHING NEW IN WINTER COATS

We are receiving something New every day in the coat line and have a fine selection of Fancy Tweeds which are good this year. Plain Cloths in Blacks or Blues in a variety of styles, Coat Collars, Shawl Collars or Military Collars.

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

All the best and latest novelties in headgear are shown by our milliners. Drop in and see the new ones. They are interesting.

CARPETS & RUGS

Have you bought your New Rug. We have some beauties in all sizes. Rugs, Carpets, Curtains, Linoleums in abundance.

Men's and Boys' Clothing

We are making a big display of Men,s and Boy,s Fall and Winter Suits and Overcoats. The real nifty stuff is here for you to see and we feel sure you will like them. Call and see them and have an early choice. The new shoes are also here in the swell styles.

JONES & MAY
Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

Local Items

Partridge shooting commenced October 15th.

It is better to be loved and lost than not to have been noticed at all.

Mr. Samuel Coppin, Hibbert, has sold his 50 acre farm to Mr. Con. Thiel, of Fullarton. Price $3,700.

Miss Gertie Stewart of Farquhar has returned home after an illness of some months in London Hospital. Miss Stewart underwent two operations, both of which were successful. She is now doing nicely.

The ratepayers of Clinton passed the by-law last week by a vote of 282 to 10 to sell a partially equipped plant to the Clinton Motor Car Company for the manufacture of automobiles. The company is capitalized at $100,000.

The depositors of the defunct Farmers Bank are appointing delegates in the various districts to attend a meeting in Toronto, to arrange plans and details of action, in regard to their proposal to seek relief from the government.

One of the season's prettiest weddings took place at three o'clock Oct. 12 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dundass, Ingersoll, when their second daughter, Edith, was united in marriage to Arthur Russell Seldon, son of Richard Seldon, of North Oxford, formerly of of Exeter. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard Whiting, B A., of London, uncle of the bride. About 70 guests were present, among them being Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Seldon of Exeter.

The concert on Monday evening under the auspices of the Junior Baseball club was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed. The artists were Mr. Mack Vincent, comedian, whose ability is so well-known that it needs no comment from us. Miss Jean Walker, a popular elocutionist of London and formerly of Exeter; Mr. C. J. Pink, tenor of London, always a favorite in Exeter; and Mr. R Phillips, accompanist, of Exeter. That it was one of the best concerts we have had in Exeter for some time, is the general opinion.

AUCTION SALES—Farmers and others having auction sales will do well to have their bills printed here and have their sales advertised in the Advocate. It reaches all the people.

15c. pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1

CURLERS—All interested in Curling are requested to meet in W. Taman's Tailor shop at Friday evening next at 8 o'clock.

ODDFELLOWS FRATERNIZE.—The Oddfellows of Hensall and Exeter Lodges spent a pleasant evening together on Tuesday, when the first degree team of Hensall visited their Exeter brethren and exemplified the work of the First Degree upon eight local candidates. The work of the degree was magnificently performed and proved very pleasing and instructive to the Exeter brethren. At the conclusion of the degree work a number of interesting addresses were given by the visitors and local members of the order, after which the Hensall brethren were entertained at Bro. W. J. Statham's restaurant. The friendly visit was greatly appreciated by the Exeter brethren, and we believe also enjoyed by the visiting brethren.

CHILDREN'S DAY.—The Sunday morning service at the Trivitt Memorial Church was a bright and happy one for the Sunday School children of the church, being Children's Day. The little ones lined up at the Sunday School and marched in pairs to the church, each wearing a badge, bearing the crest of the church and the words, "Trivitt Memorial Church S. S. Review Day, Sunday, Oct. 15th, 1911,—For God and the Church." The weather was ideal for such an occasion and a large number of both children and adults were in attendance. The rector, Rev. D. W. Collins delivered a very impressive and interesting address to both parents and children, pointing out the imperative duty of the parents in the training of their children and religious teaching, and that parents should not be indifferent to the amount of religious training their children should receive, and that it should begin in the home.

South Huron Liberal-Conservatives Convene

The Liberal-Conservative Association of South Huron will hold a convention in the

TOWN HALL, ZURICH

on THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26th, 1911

Commencing at 1.30 o'clock, for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the said South Riding of Huron for the Legislature. Addresses will be delivered by J. J. MERNER, M.P., and HENRY EILBER, M.P.P., and others.

Ernie Taylor is home from London for a few days.

Mr. C K. Bluett of London spent part of last week in town.

Carling Bros.' St. Bernard dog, King has been sold to a St. Thomas man.

The spire of the James Street church which has presented a very rusty appearance for many years, has been painted with aluminum and shows a decided improvement.

HURON COUNTY W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

The fourteenth annual convention opened in Temperance Hall, October 10th. About 50 delegates were present from the seven different unions doing work throughout the county. Mrs. E. A. Follick of Exeter, county president, was in the chair.

The morning and afternoon sessions were taken up principally in receiving reports from the superintendents of departments of work, all of which were adopted. The different reports were, Evangelistic, temperance in Sunday schools, law enforcement, systematic giving, anti-narcotics, purity, and mothers' meetings, work among lumbermen, flower mission work, county press and work among sailors.

Officers were elected as follows,—

President, Mrs. Follick, re-elected, Exeter; vice-president, Mrs. Rands, Brussels; corresponding secretary, Miss Murray, Exeter; recording secretary, Mrs. Fear, Blyth; treasurer, Mrs Sharp, Exeter; delegate to Provincial convention, Mrs. Follick.

The action of the Goderich union in discountenancing the Sunday band concert was endorsed. A resolution of sympathy was passed respecting the illness of Mrs. May Thornley of London, provincial president. The action of certain agricultural societies in offering prizes for home-made wines, known to be fermented, was deprecated. Regret was expressed that Mrs Acheson, the corresponding secretary, was removing to Toronto, as her labors were greatly appreciated. The next county convention will be held at Blyth.

There are eight adherents of the Church of England in the Borden cabinet five Methodists, four Roman Catholics, and one Baptist. The Church of England men are Hon. Messrs. Borden, Hazen, Perley, Rogers, Roche, Burrell, White and Lougheed. The Methodists are Hon. Messrs. Cochrane, Crothers, Kemp, Hughes and Reid. The Roman Catholics are Messrs. Monk, Pelletier, Nantel and Doherty, while Mr. Foster is the Baptist

ST. MARYS.—Thos. Timms, a highly respected pioneer settler of the Stone Town, passed away on Sunday evening at the advanced age of 89 years, 6 months and 20 days. Deceased was a widower.

Notice to Creditors

Of MRS. MARGARET AIRTH, Late of the Villate of Exeter, in the County of Huron, Widow, Deceased.

Pursuant to Chapter 129 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897, notice is hereby given that all creditors and others having claims against estate of above named deceased who died on or about the 27th day of June, 1911 are on or about the 10th day of November, A.D. 1911, to send by post prepaid, to the undersigned Solicitors for the administrator of the estate of the said deceased their christian names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them, and that after the day last aforesaid the said administrator will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to such claims of which notice shall have been given as above required, and the said administrator will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose claim or claims notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Exeter this 17th day of October, A. D. 1911.

DICKSON & CARLING,
Solicitors for Administrator

Notice to Creditors

Of JOHN W. HORNEY, Late of the Township of Usborne, in the County of Huron, Yeoman, Deceased.

Pursuant to Chapter 129 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897 notice is hereby given that all creditors and others having claims against estate of above named deceased who died on or about the 15th day of July, 1911 are on or about the 10th day of November, A.D. 1911, to send by post prepaid to the undersigned solicitors for Robert K. Horney, the Executor of the last will and testament of the said deceased, their christian names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities, if any, held by them, and that after the day last aforesaid the said Executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to such claims of which notice shall have been given as above required, and the said Executor will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose claim or claims notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Exeter this 17th day of October, A. D. 1911.

DICKSON & CARLING,
Solicitors for Executor

West Huron Teachers' Convene

The Thirty-Thirt Annual Meeting of the West Huron Teachers' Association was held in the Public School, Exeter, on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 12 and 13, 1911.

Thursday Forenoon

The chair in the absence of the president, Mr. C. K. Bluett, was taken by Mr. G. S. Howard.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Mr. W. P. Weidenhammer.

The minutes of the last session in Goderich were read and adopted.

The first subject, Methods in Geography was introduced by Mr. W. B Rydall of Hurondale, who read a good paper. He held that teachers should have a true conception of geogyaphy as a study of the earth's relation to man. Each succeeding year of the child's life should bring on a new set of important topics. A few topics in each grade should be exhaustively taught, while some topics need treatment through all the grades. Map drawing should consist chiefly of sketches but correct in detail.

Mr. W. McKay gave a good address advocating observation of home surroundings first, afterwards branching out into other fields and topics. He attaches great importance to studying the map, and map drawing. Geography and history should be taught in illustration of each other.

Miss J. A. Hamilton of Winchelsea read an excellent paper on the Bible in the Public Schools, in which she claimed every teacher should be a christian, who should teach the Bible to his or her pupils.

Her reasons for doing so were that this teaching links school, church and home, it reaches some children who do not attend Sunday schools, it interests pupils, helps teachers and dissipates an ignorance which is very common.

Discussed by Mr. Tom, in which he paid a splendid compliment to Miss Hamilton's teaching of the Bible in her own school.

Mr. S. J. Radcliffe, B. A., Principal of the London Normal School, was introduced to the Convention and spoke in a delightfully convincing way on the Study of English, using very apt illustrations in explanation of his ideas.

He felt there was a real need to give attention to this subject, because the child's knowledge of English is generally deficient and should be taught well on account of its utility along business lines, in the social world and to enable people to speak well.

The best way to improve our English is to break off at once all slang terms, hold conversation with the users of good English, read good literature, etc., but one shouldn't imitate others too much—one should be ones self.

Discussed by Messrs. Tom and Weidenhammer and Johnston.

Mr. Geo. Mawson read the report of the committee on How to Improve the appearance of West Huron, which was left over for discussion in the afternoon Following is the report,—

In view of the opportunities for improvement and the manifest advantages to be derived therefrom your committee submits the following resolutions,—

That in the Rural Municipalities shade trees be planted along the road sides at least three rods apart. These trees to consist of sugar maples, white ash, walnuts, hickory, oaks, and other useful varieties on the south and west sides of the road, and evergreens on the north and east sides if owners object to the hardwood varieties. Such trees as silver maples, poplars, willows and beeches should not be planted.

That the portion of road allowance between the roads and fences be ploughed and levelled.

That weeds should be cut along roadsides and in the fields.

That each farmer place his name on his gate and that he be encouraged to prune his orchard, and improve his fences and buildings.

That in towns and villages shade trees be planted, parks opened and cared for, grass cut on the sides of streets, reeds and rubbish removed from vacant lots, old fences removed, owners encouraged to improve the appearance of their property, and the council recommended to create one or more beauty spots in the town and where at all possible to erect one or more statutes of prominent persons.

That in order to accomplish this a strong committee of teachers in each municipality be appointed by this association to interview their respective municipal councils and urge upon them the propriety of making provision for the accomplishment of these recommendations; also a committee be appointed to interview the county council at their December session and urge that they take some action in the matter.

That these committees urge each Municipal Council to offer substantial rewards to each school section that accomplishes work along the lines indicated up to a certain standard, and that very much better work should be better rewarded. No awards to be made sooner than five years hence.

That under the teachers' directions a map of each school section be prepared showing where trees, grading, etc., are needed, and some standard be adopted such as one mark for each tree needed, five marks for each road graded, twenty marks for each sixty on which are cut, etc., a basis may readily be laid upon which awards may be made and this commendable work encouraged.

Thursday Afternoon

The above report was adopted on motion of Messrs Tom and Tigert, and the following committee as mentioned in the resolutions appointed, Messrs. Horton, Tom, Tigert, McGregor and Mawson.

Some school children sang very sweetly under the leadership of Miss Kinsman

Mr. Radcliffe spoke on oral composition. He thought it a very important subject. Formerly it was scarcely taught, but now it is sometimes taught to the exclusion of written composition. He commended the ease with which some children in United States schools make offhand speeches. Children should be taught to speak fluently and accurately as a fixed mental habit. Teachers should avoid two mistakes, one of criticising a timid child while speaking and the of allowing a talkative child to pass without due criticism. Material for the teaching of oral composition is to be found in pictures, pets, games, farm operations, nature study lessons, stories.

Mr. Tigert read a good paper on the treatment of weak minded children. It is foolish to try to teach them book-learning if unable to learn, but they may be helped by manual training or music. They should be placed in an institution.

A comprehensive report by J. H. Lowery, North Bay, on the O. E. A. Convention was read and a motion of thanks passed to Mr Lowery.

Miss Winona Howard of the Exeter school staff taught very nicely a reading lesson to a first class.

Inspector Tom then took up the subject of Primary Reading and Spelling.

He advocated the teaching of reading from print rather than from script, using the alphabet and combinations of letters to get the sounds. He wouldn't expect first class pupils to read very expressively, but would get the expression in the higher classes. In teaching spelling he would ask the pupils to copy words having similar sounds to impress the correct spelling.

Miss J. Murray exemplified her method, using the spelling book in teaching pronunciation and spelling with a class of girls who were quite alert and responsive to their teacher's bright and intelligent teaching.

Evening Session

A pleasant and profitable entertainment was held in the Opera House during the evening. The President, C. K. Bluett of London, formerly principal of the Credition Public School, presided and gave the annual president's address, choosing for subject the school yard as an educator. It was an able effort given with Mr. Bluett's well known earnestness. In it he advocated the teacher's supervision of the school grounds and games during playhours helping pupils to play their games with honesty so as to fit them to play the games of life nobly.

Mr. S. J. Radcliffe, B. A. gave an able address on Visual Imagery in Poetry. He showed by using Gray's Elegy and Bryon's Waterloo how to see the pictures suggested and the sounds mentioned in the poems. This he considered, a live way of teaching, while that of asking meanings of words a comparatively dead treatment.

Mr. R. D. Cameron of Lucknow a former successful West Huron Teacher, spoke eloquently on Government Annuities showing convincingly their many advantages to young and old.

The solos sung by Misses Follick, Kinsman and Moncur and the instrumentals given by R. Phillips delighted every one.

A flag drill and patriotic song by a class of girls trained by Miss J. Murray of the Exeter School staff was executed with spirit and precision and gave great pleasure to everyone

(Continued on Page 5)

CENTRALIA

The anniversary services on Sunday last were largely attended and excellent sermons were preached by the Pastor and Mr. Geo A. Stanley of Lucan. Special music was provided by the choir, assisted by Mr. C. J. Pink, who also sang four solos. Mr. Pink is a general favorite with the Centralia people. The collections of the day amounted to about $230.—Mrs. McFalls of London is on the sick list here and is staying with her son, Mr. Wes. Hodgins.—Mr. John English passed away on Monday evening, after only a few days illness caused by having a fall several weeks ago, when he fractured several ribs. He had apparently recovered and was able to be out, but was taken suddenly ill on Sunday. Two doctors were called on Monday morning, but nothing could be done to save his life. He is survived by his wife, who will have the sympathy of her many friends in Centralia. The remains will be interred at the Grand Bend cemetery to-day (Thursday.)

WHALEN.

Barn Burned.—The barn of Mr. Thos. Hern, Lot 2, Con. 8, Usborne, on Wednesday night, was totally destroyed by fire, together with the contents, including a quantity of hay, implements, etc. The fire was discovered about 12 o'clock but at that time was beyond control. The origin of the fire was a mystery. The contents was insured for $500 and the barn $1000.

BIRTHS

Ferguson—At Anderson, Oct 6, to Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ferguson, a son.

MARRIAGES

Aldrich—Tweed—At the Manse, Thames Road, Oct. 17th, by Rev. C Fletcher, Mr. Harry B Aldrich to Miss Annie Tweed, both late of Essex, Eng.

Van Egmond—Aikens—In Hullett on Oct. 11, Bertha, youngest daughter of Mr. Thos. Aikens of Boise City, Idaho, to Anthony Van Egmond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Van Egmond, Hullett.

Southcott—Duncan—At Grand Bend, on Oct. 10, John Southcott to Mrs. Duncan.

DEATHS

McFadden—In Lucan, on Oct. 7th, Mrs. Mary McFadden, aged 87 years.

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

DRESS GOODS DRESS GOODS

We are having a two weeks sale of all Dress Goods in black and colored. We therefore quote a few of the prices to show you that we mean what we say. These Dress Goods are in nearly all the shades that are worn this fall. Dress Goods that was

Regular $1.25 for $1.12 — Regular $1.35 for $1.08
Regular $1.50 for 98c. — Regular $1.00 for 88c.
Regular 75c. for 58c. — Regular 50c. for 42c.

All these prices hold good only for two weeks so come in and secure your dress for the coming season.

READY MADE SKIRTS

We have a few ready made skirts in Black, Green Red, Blues, Brown, and Old Rose which we will clear out at a discount of 33⅓ per cent. off. Come and purchase early because this is a bargain.

WALL PAPERS

House cleaning time is come again so buy your Fall Wall Paper now while we are offering a discount of 25 per cent. on all papers.

You may need a new Carpet or Rug this fall, if you do just come in and purchase at a discount of 15 per cent. These are exceptional bargains.

DINNER SETS

Just a few left to clear regular $10.00 for $8.00 Regular $8.00 for $6.00.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY

You will need a

New Suit or Overcoat

We have a very large line of Samples of Cloth for

Our Made-to-Measure Suits and Overcoats

Nearly One Thousand Kinds of Different Cloths.

40 New Styles

We guarantee a

Perfect Fit and Entire Satisfaction

Do not wait until the last minute.

Order Now

We save you 25 per cent. on your Tailored Clothes.

Cash Only

S. G. Bawden

The Clothier Exeter

Honest tea is the best policy

LIPTON'S TEA

OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

A SAFE INVESTMENT

An opportunity for investment that may never come to you again; an established company (incorporated under the Ontario companies act), manufacturing trade marked goods of proven quality has issued a limited amount of 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock in ten dollar shares; for a short time only they will give a 25 per cent. common stock bonus; the goods have shown over one hundred per cent. profit in less than one year on the only ground covered, and a permanent sale is established; the additional capital is required only to cover new territory and the cost of introducing the goods is almost met by the sales from the start; an American company doing a similar business has a paid-up capital of one hundred and twenty million dollars, all made on this one article; this is a gilt-edged proposition, made by a well-known, responsible company, and will stand investigation.

STANDISH MANUFACTURING CO. LIMITED,
11 COLBORNE ST., TORONTO

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

MORTGAGES CANNOT APPRECIATE IN VALUE LIKE OTHER SECURITIES.

Moreover are Extremely Difficult to Realize On in Case Should be Necessary—Forced Sale May Cause Severe Loss of Principal—Of Course, Have Good Features—High Yield One.

The articles contributed by "Investor" are for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and, if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-cat" enterprises. The impartial and reliable character of the information may be relied upon. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve in connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

Undoubtedly mortgages possess several points of advantage as mediums for investment. Farm mortgages, as a rule, possess these in a higher degree than most other real estate securities, for the reason that a well tilled and fertile farm is almost always readily saleable, although they have their off periods. So, if one is careful not to overvalue the property being mortgaged, and is also wise enough to loan not more than 50 per cent. of such valuation, there is no reason to fear that the principal invested is not safe.

As we saw last week, however, there is no great confidence felt in the certainty of interest payments being promptly met in the general run of farm mortgages. And this is an important feature for the private investor. This is, of course, speaking comparatively, for in many cases this feature is not contingent, owing to the relatively small amount of the mortgage, and therefore of the interest payments.

We have learned in the general talks on investment which have appeared in this column that, other things being equal, a high return on an investment implies weakness in some of the other four points. In the case of farm mortgages the safety of principal is sure; but that of interest is doubtful. But this is not alone enough to cause the high yield of 8 per cent., which they usually return.

There is absolutely no prospect of a mortgage appreciating in value. Its face value is fixed and the amount loaned is always the par value of the mortgage. In case of a bond, however, or shares in a sound company there is always a chance for the investment to increase in value during the time the investor holds it. In this way he may increase his capital. For instance, several sound issues of public utility bonds could have been bought within the last ten years at a price around 90, which may now be sold at par, giving investors an increase of ten per cent. in their capital during that time in addition to their regular interest. In the case of a mortgage this is not possible. So, as there must be some reward for lack of this feature there is necessarily a higher return on the amount invested.

There is another feature, however, that most investors would consider more of a drawback, if they took the trouble to go into the matter—when investing in mortgages of any kind—in an enlightened way. Most people, when investing, place their money in a security with the feeling that some day—perhaps before its maturity, when a bond or a mortgage—they may require to realize on the amount so invested. In the case of a mortgage, however, this can be done only with the greatest difficulty, and then only with luck. Few people are willing to buy a "second hand" mortgage except at a substantial discount from its face value. And even then there is often no one looking for that sort of an investment, and so its sale may require a very long time to effect.

So the element of weak marketability is an important feature to be considered in the case of mortgages. In the case of most negotiable securities—that is shares and bonds that can be transferred without trouble—there is almost always a market for the investor to sell such of his holdings as he desires, or is forced to dispose of. The reasons for this require more space than are available this week and will be treated further later.

FIVE MEN WERE SUFFOCATED

Lives of Twenty Others in Danger at West Toronto Hotel.

A despatch from Toronto says: Five men were killed by escaping gas, and the lives of twenty others were endangered early on Sunday morning, in the Occidental Hotel, a temperance house, at 1620 Dundas street. Four of the victims, Samuel Eadie, George H. Knowles, George Williams and William Downs, were found in one room, and the fifth, William Allen, occupied an adjoining room. Whether the men had been drinking is not known, but a bottle partly filled with brandy and an empty beer bottle were found in the room occupied by the four men. When the tragedy was discovered at 7.20 o'clock Allen showed signs of life, and three doctors worked over him for nearly two hours without avail. The other victims appeared to have been dead for several hours. All the men except Downs lived at the hotel. They received their pay envelopes on Friday, and after that had not been seen in the neighborhood of the hotel.

A NEW INVENTION.

The attention of our readers is called to an advertisement, in another column, of the Aladdin Mantle Lamp, which burns ordinary coal oil and gives a more brilliant light than either gas or electricity. It is another triumph for modern inventive genius that must be seen to be fully appreciated.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

Dominion Revenue Increases Nearly Eight Millions in Six Months.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The financial statement of the Dominion to the 30th of September shows that for the six months of the current fiscal year the revenue amounted to $64,069,524, an increase of $7,921,331; the ordinary expenditure to $35,933,456, an increase of $824,784, and the capital expenditure to $12,318,027, a decrease of $112,109.

Unilke our own, the Chinese week consists of only five days, which are named after iron, wood, water, feathers, and earth.

Stops a Deep-Seated Cough in a Hurry

A Family Supply of Unequaled Cough Remedy for 50c—Money Refunded if it Fails.

Cough medicines, as a rule, contain a large proportion of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one that anyone can make. A pint of granulated sugar, with ½ pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, mixed in a 16-oz. bottle with home-made sugar syrup, gives you 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-mixed for $1.50. There's a clear saving of $1.00. Full directions in package.

And money couldn't buy a quicker, better remedy. Takes hold at once, gives almost instant relief, and usually stops the most obstinate, deep-seated cough in 24 hours. It stimulates the appetite, is slightly laxative and has a pleasant taste—children take it willingly. Splendid for hoarseness, asthma, chest pains, and other throat troubles, and unequaled for prompt results in whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of imported Norway White Pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix it as directed with sugar syrup or strained honey, and it is ready for use.

Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

LETTERS OF A SON IN THE MAKING TO HIS DAD.

—By REX McEVOY

[Mr. McEvoy will write for this paper a series of letters from the west. They will appear from time to time under the above heading, and will give a picture of the great Canadian west from the standpoint of a young Ontario man going out there to make his way. These letters should be full of interest for every Ontario father.]

No. 7.

Vancouver, Oct. 13th, 1911.

My dear Dad,—

I am pretty near ready now to turn my face home. It has been an eye-opening trip for me, and when I get back home again I shall probably never get through telling you of the places where I have been and of what I have seen. In letters, only the fringe of things can be touched.

Vancouver is growing wonderfully. While I write this I hear every now and then the boom of a blast where workmen are clearing away stumps or rocks either getting ready for building operations or in clearing and grading streets. The smoke of burning wood is generally between us and the mountains, and the scent of it hangs heavy in the air, like that of peat. Vancouver is rapidly eating its way out into the country that surrounds it, and waste land and frost is disappearing before the labors of the builders.

Uncle John and I went over to Victoria, as I said we were going to. We went by the C. P. R. steamer, "The Charmer," to Nanaimo. We had a fine view of the harbor and the shipping. Steamers from China, Japan and Australia come in to the wharves from which we started and unload their foreign burdens there. I noticed the Empress of Japan lying at the wharf with sheet metal disks hung over her hawsers to prevent the rats coming ashore from her, and bringing the bubonic plague with them. One of the things which I was surprised to learn comes in by boat from Australia is hardwood, as that is almost as scarce as hen's teeth in this province. They might import potato bugs, too, as I am told there are none here at all.

On our way to Nanaimo we passed tugs towing barges deeply laden with coal from the mines at Nanaimo. This stuff is dear in Vancouver. Though they say it costs only $2.50 a ton to raise it to the pit's mouth, it is sold for $7.50 a ton in Vancouver, and it is soft coal at that. Hard coal is $10 a ton.

We stayed over night in Nanaimo. It is as ugly a place in brick and mortar as you can very well imagine, though there are one or two pretty spots. One of these was a rugged hill reflected in a placid pool. On the brow of the hill were growing gnarled arbutus trees, with their smooth red limbs. The bark of this tree sloughs off, and leaves the red underbark exposed to view. Altogether it made quite a picture. At night we visited a moving picture show, and found that this place is in the "thriller" age as regards moving pictures.

Next morning we ran down by rail to Victoria, and we saw a good deal of bush along the way. We were at Victoria shortly after noon, and directly after dinner took the street car out to Esquimalt, about twenty minutes, or half an hour, away. Here, in a beautiful land-locked basin among the rocks we found H. M. C. S. Rainbow. There is a dry-dock here, and a marine railway on which great boats can be drawn out of the water for repairs to their bottoms. There were quite a number of boats lying there at the time of our visit. We took a boat and rowed about the harbor, circling the Rainbow. We were very interested to see it because it is the only Canadian man-o'-war, which is still in commission, the Niobe having gone ashore. Another very interesting ship that was lying in the harbor was the "Restorer." The duty of this vessel is the repair of submarine telegraph cables. We were told that it has not been out of the harbor in three years, but it is always kept there with steam up ready to leave on a moment's notice if anything happens to any of the cables in the Pacific.

Next day we spent in and about the capital of British Columbia. I was very much impressed by the Legislative buildings, which are of noble proportions and are built of white stone. Their architect was a young fellow in his early twenties. They are on the marge of James Bay, and the C. P. R. boats tie up at the edge of the water that you always see in pictures of this pile. With the new Empress Hotel in park-like settings they make a notable group of buildings.

Victoria, as everybody says, has not the bustle of Vancouver, but it has a delightful charm as a place of residence. Its business streets are very fine, a couple of them being a hundred feet in width and flanked by modern structures. The Chinese quarter in Victoria is on a much better scale than in Vancouver, and while passing down the street that is lined with Chinese dwellings and stores, with Chinese things in the windows and strange Chinese vegetables in baskets on the sidewalk just at the doors, I saw quite a Chinese curiosity. This was a Chinaman with a white pig-tail. I had never seen a Chinaman with white hair before; neither had Uncle John.

Up towards the park in the residential section, there is a high cliff called Beacon Hill, from which a beautiful view out over the strait is to be had. There was a big bush fire in progress over on the United States side while we were there, and the sight with its pillar of smoke was exceedingly grand.

Next day we took the Princess Charlotte, the C. P. R. steamer, and had a picturesque trip back to Vancouver. The first part of the voyage is through an archipelago of islands, densely wooded, then we came out into the open water of the Gulf of Georgia, and made a beeline for Vancouver. Just before we rounded Stanley Park into the harbor we passed the fishing town of Steveson, and saw the fisher fleet setting out to work. There are great canneries here, and we will see them some time.

Farewell,

JIM.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—Flour—Winter wheat, 90 per cent. patents, $3.50 to $3.55, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours—First patents, $5.50; second patents, $4.80, and strong bakers', $4.60, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba Wheat—New No. 1 Northern, $1.04 1-2, Bay ports; No. 2 Northern, $1.03, and No. 3, $1.00 1-2, Bay ports.

Ontario Wheat—No. 2 white, red and mixed, new, 86c, outside.

Peas—Good milling peas, 92 to 95c, outside.

Oats—Ontario No. 2 at 41 1-2 to 42c, outside, and No. 3 at 40c. No. 2 Western Canada, 46 1-2c, and No. 3, 45 1-2c, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 2 would bring 80 to 85c, outside.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow quoted at 73c, Bay ports.

Rye—Car lots, outside, 75c west, and 77c east.

Buckwheat—No. 2 at 54 to 55c, outside.

Bran—Manitoba bran sold at $23, in bags, Toronto freight. Shorts, $25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked, $2.-25 to $2.30 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2.25 to $2.50.

Baled hay—No. 1 at $15 to $15.50, on track, and No. 2 at $12 to $13.

Baled straw—$6.50 to $7, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, at 85 to 90c.

Poultry—Wholesale prices of dressed poultry:—Chickens, 12 to 13c per lb.; ducks, 11 to 12c; turkeys, 17c. Live poultry about 1 to 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

Butter—Dairy prints, 21 to 22c; do., choice, in wrappers, 24 to 25c; inferior dairy, tub, 18 to 19c. Creamery quoted at 25 to 28c per lb. for rolls, and 24 to 25c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid quoted at 26c, and fresh at 22c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—15c per lb., and twins at 15 1-4c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon—Long, clear, 12 to 12 1-2c per lb., in case lots. Pork, short cut, $22.50; do., mess, $20 to $20.50. Hams, medium to light, 17 to 17 1-2c; do., heavy, 15 to 15 1-2c; rolls, 11 to 11 1-2c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; backs, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2c; tubs, 10 3-4c; pails, 11c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Oct. 17.—Oats—Canadian Western, No. 2, 48c, car lots, ex-store; extra No. 1 feed, 47 1-2c; No. 3 C. W., 47c; No. 2 local white, 46 1-2c; No. 3 local white, 46 1-2c; No. 4 local white, 45 1-2c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; seconds, $4.90; Winter wheat patents, $4.75 to $5.00; strong bakers', $4.70 straight rollers, $4.25 to $4.40; in bags, $1.95 to $2.05. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $5.25; bag of 90 lbs., $2.50. Corn—American No. 3 yellow, 76 1-2 to 77c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23 to $24; Manitoba, $23; middlings, Ontario, $27 to $28; shorts, Manitoba, $25; mouillie, $26 to $32. Eggs—Selected, 26c; No. 1 stock, 21 1-2 to 23c. Cheese—Westerns, 14 5-8 to 14 3-4c; easterns, 14 3-8 to 14 1-2c. Butter—Choicest, 26 1-2 to 27c; seconds, 25 to 26 1-2c.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Minneapolis, Oct. 17.—Wheat—December, $1.08 7-8; May, $1.13; No. 1 hard, $1.09 7-8; No. 1 Northern, $1.09 to $1.09 3-8; No. 2 Northern, $1.05 7-8 to $1.07 3-8; No. 3 wheat, $1.01 7-8 to $1.03 7-8. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 68c. Oats—No. 3 white, 46 to 46 1-2c. Rye—No. 2, 92c. Bran—$21.50 to $22. Flour—First patents, $5.30 to $5.60; do., seconds, $4.90 to $5.20; first clears, $3.80 to $4.15; do., seconds, $2.70 to $3.10.

Buffalo, Oct. 17.—Spring wheat—No. 1 Northern, carloads store, $1.13; winter, No. 2 red, $1.01; No. 3 red, 99c; No. 2 white, 99c. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 76 1-4c, on track, through billed. Oats—Steady.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

MADE IN CANADA
CONTAINS NO ALUM
CONFORMS TO THE HIGH STANDARD OF GILLETT'S GOODS.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

CANADA'S ROYAL GOVERNOR

Arrival of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at Quebec

A despatch from Quebec says: His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught is Governor-General of Canada. In this capacity he and the Duchess were on Friday welcomed officially by representatives of the Dominion, of the Province of Quebec, and by the city of Quebec. It was a great day in the city of Quebec. Demonstration after demonstration of popular feeling followed each other during the whole day on every occasion when the Duke and Duchess made their successive appearances in public.

It has been a day of events, not only of the utmost significance to themselves and to the people of Quebec, but to the whole of Canada, and to the Empire itself. This began to happen in the morning, when the Duke and his party first set foot on Canadian soil at the King's Wharf. The Duke and Duchess were but Royal visitors to Canada at this hour, and as such they were welcomed by the two leading men of the country, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Deputy Governor-General, and Hon. R. L. Borden, Prime Minister.

A SIMPLE CEREMONY.

Within an hour after they had landed they were no longer visitors. Canada is now their home, and they occupy the highest positions which man and woman can hold in the country. The ceremony of installation, which was performed at the Parliament Buildings in the Legislative Council chambers, was exceedingly simple, but was none the less fraught with great meaning and impressiveness. Three oaths of not more than fifteen words each were all his Royal Highness had to subscribe to. They were administered by Sir Louis Davies, senior Judge of the Supreme Court. The oath of allegiance to his Majesty the King, the oath that he would well and truly exercise his office as Governor-General to the best of his knowledge and ability, and the oath that he would safely keep the Great Seal of Canada — these were all, and after each was read to him his Royal Highness reverently kissed a copy of the Holy Scriptures.

THE SOCIAL SIDE.

A luncheon given at the Chateau Frontenac by the Dominion Government, a dinner at Spencerwood, the residence of Sir Francois Langelier, Lieut.-Governor of Quebec, and a reception in the Parliament Buildings later in the evening by Sir Francois Langelier, were the chief of the brilliant events of the day.

THE DUKE'S MESSAGE.

"For myself personally I have only one wish, and that is to serve Canada, to make myself at home in this country, and to do all I can to promote its best interests, and also to promote that connection to the Empire which I think of such importance to Canada."

These were the words of H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, Governor General of Canada, on the occasion of the first public event after his installation. It was his first message to the Canadian people as their Governor-General.

WARM GREETING AT OTTAWA.

A despatch from Ottawa says: One-half of the population of Ottawa turned out on Saturday afternoon to welcome to the capital the new Governor-General of Canada and the Duchess of Connaught. Between forty and fifty thousand people must have gathered at the station, along the streets, and on Parliament Hill, and it was the greatest demonstration of enthusiasm the city has seen since the visit of the present King some years ago.

Wherever the Vice-Regal party was there was a din of tremendous cheering. From the time they arrived in the Union Station from their special train, during their procession through the streets, and at the civic reception in front of the Parliament buildings, until they had entered the portals of Rideau Hall, there was quietness for not more than a minute or two at a time, except during the reading of the addresses to the Duke and while his Royal Highness was replying.

A more truly representative civic reception than that on Parliament Hill there could not have been, for not only did Mayor Hopewell welcome the Duke and Duchess on behalf of the citizens of Ottawa, but addresses were also presented by the societies of four races of people dwelling in the city—namely, St. George's Society, St. Andrew's Society, St. Patrick's Literary and Scientific Association, and St. Jean Baptiste Association. To all of these the Duke of Connaught made graceful and fitting replies.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Oct. 17.—Choice steers sold at 5 3-4c, good at 5 1-2c, fairly good at 5 1-4, fair at 5c, common at 4 1-2 to 4 3-4c, and inferior at 3 3-4 to 4 1-2c per pound. Cows brought from 3 to 4 1-2c and bulls from 2 3-4 to 3 1-4c per pound. Sales of lambs at 5 to 5 1-2c, and sheep at 3 to 3 1-2c per pound. The trade in calves was fairly active at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each, as to size and quality. The weak feeling in the market for hogs continues, and prices have scored a further decline of 25 to 50c per hundred pounds.

Toronto, Oct. 17.—Good feeding steers were in demand, and brought from $4.50 to $5.10. Rough stockers were not wanted. Butcher cows and bulls ranged from $3 to $4.85, according to quality, and feeding bulls fetched $3.50 to $4. Small stock was slightly off all round. Lambs were about 25c lower. Hogs were steady and perhaps 5c higher. Light hogs were not wanted.

The Famous Rayo Lamp

The Rayo Lamp is the best and most serviceable lamp you can find for any part of your home.

It is in use in millions of families. Its strong white light has made it famous. And it never flickers.

In the dining-room or the parlor the Rayo gives just the light that is most effective. It is a becoming lamp—in itself and to you. Just the lamp, too, for bedroom or library, where a clear, steady light is needed.

The Rayo is made of solid brass, nickel-plated; also in numerous other styles and finishes. Easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick.

Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of

The Queen City Oil Company, Limited

ST. VITUS DANCE

Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Chorea, or as it is more generally known, St. Vitus dance, is a disease that usually attacks the young children, though older persons may be afflicted with it. Its most common symptoms are a twitching of the muscles of the face and limbs. As the disease progresses this twitching takes the form of spasms in which the jerking motion may be confined to the head, or all the limbs may be affected. The patient is frequently unable to hold anything in the hands or to walk steadily, and in severe cases even the speech is affected. The disease is due to debility of the nerves and is always cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich the blood, tone and strengthen the nerves and thus restore the sufferer to good health. The following is a striking instance of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do in this trouble. Mrs. Chas. Phipps, Pelee Island, Ont., says:—"At the age of fourteen my eldest daughter, Edith, became much run down, and the trouble developed into St. Vitus dance. First her left arm became affected, then the left leg and entire left side. She grew so bad that she actually could not hold anything in her hand, and could only go about with a sliding, jerking motion. Notwithstanding that we were giving her medicine, she seemed to be growing worse, and finally her speech became much affected. We became so much alarmed about her that finally her father got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and we began giving her these. In the course of a few weeks she was much better, and before all the pills were gone she was again enjoying perfect health. This was in 1908, and as she has not had a symptom of the trouble since I feel justified in saying the cure is permanent."

Be sure you get the genuine pills which are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DENMARK'S HARVEST.

According to all reports, the harvest in 1911 in Denmark will surpass all records since 1868. Not in 43 years have weather, labor and other conditions proven so auspicious to the farmer, and hereafter when the agriculturist wishes to point to an ideal harvest, he will refer to 1911. There is only one discordant note, that of the turnip and grass growers, who have suffered on account of the long drought. It was feared that labor would be scarce, but the employment agencies did their work so well that no shortage was felt and, with the exception of the large farms, harvest was completed within three weeks.

IT IS COMING.

September soft—
  October gay
With leaves aloft
  In bright array—
November—stop!
  The rhyme must pause.
It's time to shop
  For Santa Claus!

Diphtheria, Quinsy and Tonsilitis begin with sore throat. How much better to cure a sore throat in a day or two than to be in bed for weeks with Diphtheria. Just keep Hamlin's Wizard Oil in the house.

Laughter at the family table beats all the dyspepsia tablets in the world as a promoter of digestion.

A Remedy for Earache.—To have the earache is to endure torture. The ear is a delicate organ and few care to deal with it, considering it work for a doctor. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil offers a simple remedy. A few drops upon a piece of lint or medicated cotton and placed in the ear will work wonders in relieving pain.

UNCLE JERRY.

"Far as I am concerned," said Uncle Jerry Peebles, "you girls can go around with your arms bare clear up to the vaccination mark—if that's where the mark is nowadays—but if you've got arms that look like Esau's, as some of 'em do, you ort to wear long sleeves for your own sakes."

Send for free sample to Dept. W. I. National Drug and Chemical Co., Toronto.

WHAT SMOKING DID FOR HIM.

Use of Cigarettes Caused This Boy to Have a Poor School Record.

Miss S., a teacher in a Western high school, became much interested in one of her pupils, not because of his intelligence, but because of his apathy and dulness. She knew that he came from a good family, and that his brothers and sisters, who had preceded him in the high school, had ranked high. She could not understand why this boy, with all his advantages, should do such poor work. To solve the problem, she went to the office of the city superintendent, where are kept filed the records of every child in the public schools year by year. She found that for the first five years of his school life he had ranked "Excellent" in every study. The next year a few "G's" had replaced the "E's" in some studies. The next year there was but one "G" and many "F's." The following years "F's" and "P's" struggled for supremacy, showing a steady downward course year after year. The next day she had a private interview with the boy, and electrified him by saying:

"George, you began to smoke cigarettes when you were in the 6B grade, didn't you?"

"Who told you?" gasped the astonished boy.

"Nobody."

"Then how did you find out?"

"Was I right? Did you?"

"Yes," confessed the boy. "I began when I was in Miss H.'s room. The boy who sat behind me gave me a package. But how did you find out?"

Miss S. then told of her visit to the superintendent's office, where his whole miserable record of deterioration was filed against him.

The boy seemed roused from his usual apathy, and said, "Well, if that is so, I'll never smoke another cigarette as long as I live."

That was several years ago. He kept his word, and his report-cards showed a steady improvement, although he never received an "E" during his high-school course, because his faculties had become irretrievably dulled.

Last year he wrote to Miss S.; "I have kept my word, and have never smoked since the day you showed me my record. I am working in a good position, and am glad to say I am a decent man, thanks to you."

TEETHING TIME WORRY.

Baby's teething time was once a source of worry to all mothers—it is yet a time of worry to many, though there are thousands of mothers who have learned the secret which banishes this worry. Mothers who worry, who see their little ones suffering from difficult teething; who are worn out by day and kept awake at night by the cries of the baby in distress, should follow the example of the thousands and give their little ones Baby's Own Tablets—the remedy for worry—the never failing banisher of baby's pains. Concerning them Mrs. H. Monette, Jr., Rapide de l'Orignal, Que., says:—"My baby cried day and night and suffered from his teeth. A few doses of Baby's Own Tablets made him healthy and happy and his teething easy and painless. I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GOOD REASON.

Howell—"How well you look!"

Powell—"Yes; I haven't had my vacation yet."

A Sensible Merchant

Bear Island, Aug. 26, 1903.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,—Your traveller is here to-day and we are getting a large quantity of your MINARD'S LINIMENT. We find it the best Liniment on the market, making no exception. We have been in business 15 years and have handled all kinds, but have dropped them all but yours; that sells itself; the others have to be pushed to get rid of.

W. A. HAGERMAN.

Mrs. Finefeather—Are you taking your husband abroad this year? Mrs. Bonton—No. I decided last year when he insisted upon speaking of the Venetian gondolas as canal boats that the real charm of Europe is lost upon him.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

A RISK.

The doctor looked at Miss Cambridge with his most professional glance; then he made her exhibit her tongue, gazed down her throat, felt her pulse and sounded her lungs.

"You've taken a severe cold," he said. "Were you exposed to any draft yesterday, or were you careless in any way that you can remember, which might account for it?"

"I don't know," said Miss Cambridge, thoughtfully, "unless my going out to drive yesterday afternoon without my spectacles would do it. I felt at the time it was a slight risk, doctor."

SAVED HERSELF YEARS OF PAIN

IF SHE HAD USED DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS FIRST.

Mrs. McRae suffered for over two years, then two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new woman of her.

Previl, Gaspe Co., Que., Oct. 23 (Special)—That she might have escaped two years and seven months of suffering had she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills in the first place is the firm conviction of Mrs. John McRea, an old and respected resident of this place. And this is the reason she gives for believing so:

"For two years and seven months I was a sufferer from Kidney Disease brought on by a strain and a cold. My eyes were puffed and swollen, my muscles cramped and I suffered from neuralgia and Rheumatism. My back ached and I had pains in my joints.

"For two years I was under the doctor's care, but he never seemed to do me any lasting good. Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new woman of me."

To save yourself suffering cure your Kidneys at the first sign of trouble. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure cure.

LOSE THEIR FREEDOM.

"All men are born free and equal," said the philosopher.

"I know," said the matter-of-fact person. "But some of 'em get married afterwards."

Revive the Jaded Condition.—When energy flags and the cares of business become irksome; when the whole system is out of sorts and there is general depression, try Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They will regulate the action of a deranged stomach and a disordered liver, and make you feel like a new man. No one need suffer a day from debilitated digestion when so simple and effective a pill can be got at any drug store.

PERFECT AFTER MARRIAGE.

Mrs. Jawback—John, you're a perfect fool!

Mr. Jawback—I knew something like that would happen when marriage made you and me one.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

LAST YEAR'S OVERCOAT.

Once more I sadly take it down,
And musingly I gaze upon it,
I choke my pride, and then decide
'Twill do with a new collar on it.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

For Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Timber is becoming scarce, but the family tree continues to flourish.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

Many a man's deficiency in dollars is due to his deficiency in sense.

Recognized as the leading specific for the destruction of worms, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has proved a boon to suffering children everywhere. It seldom fails.

NOT COMPLAINING.

"Horse sick?" asked the man in the buggy.

"Yep," replied the man with a spring-wagon.

"Hard luck, ain't it?"

"Oh, I dunno. It's getting so medicine is cheaper than hay!"

Well, Well!

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 16. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

AN IMPROVSED PILLOW.

When Beds Were at a Premium at An Irish Hotel.

Sleeping on a mat under the moon in a cannibal country is a pale adventure compared with a lodge in an old-time Irish inn at the height of the tourist season. A certain Master of the Galway Hunt, says a contributor to Cornhill, arrived at a small inn where all the beds were already taken.

A kitchen table was requisitioned, a heterogeneous collection of bedclothes was arranged upon it,—into the exact nature of which it was perhaps not well to inquire too closely, as it seemed to be composed of contributions from the wardrobes of the hotel help,—and the sportsman turned in.

The pillow was an odd-shaped substance, emitting a faint and strangely familiar odor; but the Master of the Galway Blazers was too weary to concern himself over such trifles, and he slept as soundly on his makeshift couch as if it had been a canopied bed of state.

He was awakened in the morning by a gentle fumbling at the wrappings beside his head, and started up to see a gleaming knife suspended above his head.

"I'm sorry to be disturbin' ye, sir," said an apologetic voice, "but sure th' house was out iv pillows intirely, an' we put th' side iv bacon undher y'r honor's head. I was just conthrivin' to get a few rashers off for th' quality's breakfast without disturbin' ye, whin y'r honor woke up."

PLAUSABLE THEORY.

"It's the honest men in this world who need watching."

"How's that?"

"Oh, the dishonest one will cheat you, anyhow, whether you watch them or not."

There is plenty of room at the top. This is due to the fact that most people want to get in on the ground floor.

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

First Diner—How do you know whether that is chicken or veal you are eating? Second Diner—I don't. All I know is that it's chicken I'm paying for.

Hope for the Chronic Dyspeptic.—Through lack of consideration of the body's needs many persons allow disorders of the digestive apparatus to endure until they become chronic, filling days and nights with suffering. To these a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended as a sure and speedy way to regain health. These pills are specially compounded to combat dyspepsia and the many ills that follow in its train, and they are successful always.

"My husband has never spoken a cross word to me." "You lucky woman! How long have you been married?" "Nearly two weeks!"

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

"LUXURINE"

Of DR. PROSSE, Paris, France

Gives Back the natural color to grey hair without any dye, and makes it grow, and

We Can Prove It, not only by testimonials of unknown persons, as is so often seen in advertisements, but by an experiment on your own head of hair. Let us give you absolutely free one treatment of "LUXURINE", only for the sake of proving to you what it can do on your own hair, and what it has done on thousands of others. All there is to do to get the treatment is—Send us the cost of mailing and packing, which is 10 cts., with your address, and we will send you one right away. Write to-day, address

DR. PROSSE, Dept. 2, Montreal

HUNTING CANNIBALS.

University Expedition Will Visit a South Sea Island.

An expedition has set out from Oxford University with its objective a cannibal isle in the South seas, where it expects to spend a year in studying the habits of the natives.

The party of scientists is headed by David Jenness, the anthropological expert of Balliol college. The explorers will locate on Goodenough Island, which is situated in the extreme southeasterly corner of British New Guinea. Little is known of the interior of this island, but it has been asserted that cannibalism is practiced there on an extensive scale.

Occasionally a government official pays a visit to the isle, but, being unwilling to provide the natives with a banquet, wisely confines his investigations to the coast line. For this reason the interior remains unexplored. One or two attempts have been made to map the inland, but the explorers have never returned.

Goodenough Island, which is of volcanic formation, is believed to be the highest island of its size in the world. It is 40 miles long and 30 miles across, and its highest mountain extends 8,000 feet above sea level.

HAD BAD SORE FOUR YEARS

Zam-Buk Has Healed It!

Mrs. Wilson, 110 Wickson Ave., Toronto, says: "About four years ago a sore spot appeared on the right side of my face. This spot increased in size until it became about half an inch in diameter and very painful. I went to a doctor, but the ointment he gave me did not have any good effect. The sore continued to discharge freely, and was most painful. I had it cauterized, tried poultices and all kinds of salves, but it was no good, and I continued to suffer from it for four years!

"A sample of Zam-Buk was one day given to me, and I used it. Although the quantity was so small, it seemed to do me some good, so I purchased a further supply.

"Each box did me more and more good, and, to my delight, before I had been using Zam-Buk three weeks, I saw that it was going to heal the sore. In less than a month it was healed!

"I know a lady in the east of the city, whose husband suffered for years with an open sore on his leg. On my recommendation, Zam-Buk was tried in that case. The other day, when I saw her, she told me that it had healed the sore completely."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for eczema, piles, abscesses, ulcers, scalp sores, ringworm, cuts, burns, scalds, bruises and all skin injuries and diseases. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. In case of skin disease use also Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.

A man doesn't have to know much to know how little he knows.

Only the uninformed endure the agony of corns. The knowing ones apply Holloway's Corn Cure and get relief.

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE
CHATHAM, ONT.

ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST BUSINESS SCHOOLS

Over 2,000 choice positions filled in past Four Years.

Some others just filled:—L. B. HANN, from Newfoundland, placed with Sask. Milling Co., Moose Jaw, as Steno. FERN SMITH, Steno., Peabody Overall Co., Windsor. E. C. ROBINSON Bkkpr., with Bell Furniture Co., Southampton, Ont. FLOSSIE ANDERSON, Steno. and Bkkpr, Can. Wolverine Co., Chatham. MILDRED ANDERSON, Steno., with De Laval Separator Co., Winnipeg. R. J. SCOTT, teacher, with Drake College, Newark, N. J. The salaries of the three shown last week average over $700 per annum. The salaries of the six here shown average close to $700. Our students are prepared for the big positions where the big pay is offered. IT PAYS TO ATTEND THE BEST. Catalogue 58 tells of the work at Chatham. Catalogue 54 tells of our home courses. Address, D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont.

Our Course in NURSING Is The Best

HOME COURSE

Good Weekly Income
Wonderful Opportunity
Constant Employment
Diplomas Granted

ROYAL COLLEGE OF SCIENCE
358 Queen St. West
Toronto, Canada

BOYS AND GIRLS

SEND FOR PARTICULARS ABOUT THE

CHRISTMAS GLOBE

YOU CAN MAKE 15 CENTS ON EACH COPY YOU SELL.

ADDRESS:

THE CHRISTMAS GLOBE
TORONTO, CANADA

SECURITY IN BUYING BONDS

¶ Bonds are the safest investment a person can make because they are secured by first mortgage on the whole assets of the Corporation issuing them.

¶ Bonds are the best investment a person can make because no other investment offering the same security pays as high a rate of interest.

¶ Bonds offered by us are thoroughly investigated as to their safety before being offered to our clients.

¶ Write us to-day for literature on Bond Investments and a list of those we recommend.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION
LIMITED
BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING
YONGE AND QUEEN STS.
TORONTO
R. M. WHITE - Manager
MONTREAL-QUEBEC-HALIFAX-LONDON(ENG.)

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

UNEMPLOYED MEN OR WOMEN, DO you wish to make Five Dollars daily for balance of year? If so, consult Nichols Co., Limited, Toronto.

$2 DAY SALARY AND UP... commission—for local representatives; immediately; permanent position; experience unnecessary; rapid advancement; spare time accepted. N..., Limited, Publishers, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply C. I. Co., 238 Albert St., Ottawa.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., West Street, Orillia, Ontario.

LEARN THE BARBER TRADE RIGHT—The Moler Barber College is the original college; founded in 1895; graduates are now successful barbers all over the world; you get expert instruction; constant practice; write for catalogue. Moler Barber College, 221 Queen East, Toronto.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A STUDY OF other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers' Dept., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

When buying your Piano insist on having an "OTTO HIGEL" Piano Action

CLEANING LADIES' WALKING OR OUTING SUITS

Can be done perfectly by our French process. Try it.

British American Dyeing Co.

Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and Quebec.

H. H. NIGHTINGALE
STOCK BROKER
Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange
LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN
Correspondence Invited.
33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

ALEXANDOR'S FURS

Prepare yourselves for the cold weather. We are offering for a few weeks only

Ladies' Muskrat Lined Coats $50
Gent's Muskrat Lined Coats $50

The ladies lining is 38 inches long and trimmed with Genuine Alaska Sable Collar and Lapels.

The Gents coats are trimmed with Otter or Persian Lamb Collars.

Upon receipt of the money we will ship to any part of Canada.

If not satisfactory return at our expense.

Coats made to your own measurements, same price.

A. J. ALEXANDOR

504-506 St. Paul St., Montreal

Bear in mind that you are dealing with Wholesalers.

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech, Props.

THURSDAY, OCT. 19, '11

CREDITON.

The Sunday-school convention of the South Huron district was held in this village yesterday. The after-noon session was held in the Methodist church and the evening one in the Evangelical Church. More particulars will be given next week.

Mr. and Mrs. August Ewald and Mr. and Mrs. Gottfried Mangnus visited Mr. and Mrs. William Bassow of Zurich last Sunday.

Last Sunday many of our people took advantage oft he beautiful day and went driving through the country. Chas. Zwicker and wife, Elmer Gower and Everett Fahner motored to London and spent the day

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Taylor and little son of Washington, D. C. are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Morlock.

We are pleased to see Thomas Trevethick on the streets again after recent illness brought on by rheumatism We hope it will be but a short time before he can resume his work in the shop.

A number of our young people attended the concert in Exeter on Monday evening.

The Post-office Inspector was in town last Saturday inspecting the local office

Needless to say Postmaster Brown had had everything in good shape.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bilber have returned home after a week's visit with relatives in Ubly, Mich.

Mrs. Chas Bilber and Mrs. Albert Morlock returned home from Manitoba last week, where they spent a month visiting relatives.—Last Sunday evening Rev. Burn preached a very acceptable sermon in the Evangelical church to the young ladies. There was a large congregation present, who thoroughly appreciated the discourse. A special feature of the evening was a duett by the Misses Faist of Kilmanagh, Mich., and a solo by Rev. Burn. Next Sunday morning special sermon will be delivered to the elderly people. These special services are proving very interesting and the church is usually well filled.—Miss Gladys Bluett of London spent last Friday in town visiting her friend, Miss Muriel Nicholson.—On Tuesday evening a number of our villagers met at the home of Mrs. Mary Smith in honor of her 75th birthday and spent a pleasant time.

BRINSLEY.

The many friends of Mrs. Frank Cunningham will be sorry to learn that she is again confined to her bed with illness, and at present there is little hope for her recovery. The accident that recently befel her little daughter which was the cause of her death, has had much to do with retarding improvement of Mrs. Cunningham's health, she having taken it very hard.—Miss Mabel Cunningham has been called home to nurse her sick friend.—The Rev. Conors of the Brinsley parish is doing a great work in his new field of labor.—The annual harvest home festival was held at St. Mary's English church on Wednesday, Oct. 18th.

HENSALL

Death of James Sparks.—There passed away at the family residence here on Saturday last one of Hensall's most esteemed and respected residents, in the person of Mr. James Sparks. The deceased has been a long and patient sufferer from internal cancer, hence his death was not in the least unexpected. Besides the sorrowing wife he leaves two daughters—Belle and Mabel—and one son, James. In politics deceased was a reformer and was a member of the Methodist church. The funeral took place Tuesday.

Mrs. Yungblut returned to Waterloo last week.—Miss Swan, nurse, is home for holidays.—Mrs. Dick left last week for Tavistock to visit her daughter, Mrs. Cawthorp.—Mrs. T. Cameron has returned home, after spending some weeks with her son John.—J. Weismiller has the postoffice out at Beverley, Sask, and is thinking of fitting it up after the Hensall model.—Jack Welsh, wife and child started for the West last week —Mr. Connelly and wife of Winnipeg, who have been visiting the parental home of the latter, W. McEwen's, have returned home.

Women Read This

PARISIAN SAGE PUTS LUSTER INTO DULL, FADED HAIR

Every woman reader of the Advocate who desires radiant hair that everyone admires, should go to W. S. Cole today and get a large 50 cent bottle of Parisian Sage.

It is not only a delightful and refreshing hair dressing and beautifier, but it is sold under a rigid guarantee to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, or money back.

Parisian Sage is the best hair tonic known. It is the only one that will cure dandruff, cleanse the scalp and make the hair grow long and beautiful.

In Any Walk

of life our Classified Want Ads. will help you.

If you want a position, you can reach the best employers.

If you want help you can get the most efficient.

Money to loan or money to borrow Want Ads. cover the entire field.

Nature Stops

WHEN THE KIDNEYS GIVE OUT.

Do you feel that you simply can't go any farther—that you must have rest for that lame and aching back — relief from that constant dead-tired feeling—freedom from those stabbing, darting pains?

Booth's Kidney Pills

It is nature's warning that the kidneys are giving out and you need the help of Booth's Kidney Pills, the guaranteed kidney remedy. In every machine there is one part that works the hardest and gives out first. The kidneys work night and day, and naturally a life of unusual activity doubles the duties of the kidneys and in time the strain tells. The kidneys give out and nature cries "stop." Booth's Kidney Pills are sold by all dealers, 50c. per box paid from The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. There is no pill just as good. Send for a Free box. The test will prove the truth of our statement.

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

MOUNT CARMEL.

Dr. and Mrs. Tillmann of London are visiting friends in neighborhood.—Mr. Ed. Ryan has bought the McKeever homestead for the sum of $8,550. Mr. Ryan has sold fifty acres of his land on the town line to Dave Sheppard for $2,500.—Carroll Bros. shipped a car cattle to Toronto Saturday.—Miss Mae Morrison of Detroit is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Lane.—Mrs. Nett, accompanied by her family, is visiting her sister, Miss K. Campbell.—Miss Nettie Carty is visiting friends in Detroit the past two weeks.—Mr. Arthur O'Neil of the Town line has sold his fine farm to James Hodgins for the handsome sum of $7,000. Mr. Hodgins will take possession in about a month. We are sorry to lose Mr. O'Neil from our midst. —Mr. Thos. Line's sale was very successful here on Thursday.—Dennis Quarry of London was home over Sunday. —Jos. Sullivan of Parkhill spent Sunday at his home here.—Mr. J. Crowley of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., is visiting friends in this neighborhood.—Mr. T. Coughlin shipped a car cattle to Toronto last week.—Frank Ryan called on friends here Sunday.

WHALEN.

Messrs. Hector and Clarence Millson spent Sunday with friends in McGillivray.—Quite a number took in the fowl supper at Granton on Monday evening and report a good time.—Next Sunday the Rev. S. F. Sharp, pastor of Caven Presbyterian church, Exeter, will preach anniversary services in this church at 10.30 a. m. and 7 p. m. The choir will furnish the music, assisted by friends from Winchelsea.—Mr. Wm. Lingard of Sarnia is visiting friends here this week.

(Too late for last week.)

Mr. J. Wright is home from the West —Mr. and Mrs. John Morley spent a pleasant week with friends at Wiarton and other places.—Hector Millson, who broke his arm while in the act of pulling the drive belt off a threshing engine some three weeks ago, is improving nicely, and Wm. Brooks, who had his hand badly smashed in the cog wheels of the dog power, is also feeling much better, and we hope to see him soon able to work again.

Skin a Mass of Fire

Horrible torture—pain unendurable — days when the whole body seems to be burning up—long nights of sleepless agony—Then—

INSTANT RELIEF—The skin cooled and refreshed—all burning and itching gone.

Thousands testify to this—thousands who suffered from Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles, until they heard of that simple cooling wash of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients known as D. D. D. Prescription.

J. Samuel Lewis, writes,—"I used three bottles of D.D.D. Prescription, and now my skin, once a mass of fire and irritation, is as smooth and soft as a child's."

Of all remedies for the skin that we know we can especially recommend the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema. Just a mild, soothing wash—but it cleanses and cools the skin as nothing else can. And it takes away the itch instantly.

We would like to tell you more about D.D.D Prescription if you will call, or write the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. E. A., 49 Colborne St., Toronto, and get a free trial bottle.

W. S. HOWEY, Exeter

DASHWOOD

Miss Ethel Kellerman is attending the Normal School at Toronto.—Master Graham Fenn who was visiting here with his father, was struck by an auto on the street one day. The lamp on the machine cut a deep gash in his forehead, and it is surprising that he was not more severely hurt. — A shooting match is to be held to-day in connection with the Commercial Hotel. There are several events and a fine time is expected.—The new auto bus for Mr. Guenther's livery is expected this week It is to be used for the carrying of passengers and freight during the rush season to Grand Bend.—Herman Eidt has moved his household effects to Forest, where he has a position milling.—P. McIsaac is busy extending his telephone lines for the Hay Company thru Stephen Township.—Graham Goetz of the Traders Bank, Elm'ra, is home for a holiday.—Alonzo Foster of Hay Township had an unpleasant experience recently, and narrowly escaped with his life. While sitting in the wagon on the bridge at Ehlers' mill, an auto went by, and the horses becoming frightened ran down and turning sharply at the bottom threw Mr. Foster out against a post and the heavy wagon box on top of him, pinning him there. He had several cuts in the head and was unconscious when he was picked up, but it is expected he will soon be well again.

HARPLEY

Miss M. D. MacArthur of Ferrihill, East Williams, is visiting friends Harpley and Brewster for a few weeks. —Miss Edith Taylor, teacher in S. S. No. 12, A. B. Line, attended the Teachers' Convention in Exeter on Thursday and Friday of last week.—Mr. William Baker has sold his farm to Mr. Peter Murray of Grand Bend, receiving the sum of $7,500 for it. Possession to be given at once. Mr. Baker intends making his future home in Washington, U. S. A.

What Damp Means.

Learn to know what damp means, especially when used upon polished woodwork. Think it means wet and you will be reviling valuable information as "newspaper rubbish." Dip a cloth in hot water, wring it as hard as you can, then shake it in the air and it should have about the right amount of moisture.—Exchange.

The Silver Lining.

"Oh, John," exclaimed Mrs. Shortcash, who was reading a letter, "our son has been expelled from college. Isn't it awful?"

"Oh, I don't know," answered Mr. Shortcash. "Perhaps I can pull through without making an assignment now."—Chicago News.

Getting On.

"How is your daughter getting along with her vocal lessons?"

"Splendidly, splendidly! She's got so now that she can say 'I can't sing without my music' just beautifully.—Detroit Free Press.

The Open Fire.

The open fire is a primitive, elemental thing It cheers with more than mere heat; it is a bit of the red heart of nature laid bare; it is a dragon of the prince doolie and friendly there in the corner. What pictures, what activity, how social, how it keeps up the talk! You are not permitted to forget it for a moment. How it responds when you nudge it! How it rejoices when you feed it! Why, an open fire in your room is a whole literature. It supplements your library as nothing else in the room does or can.—John Burroughs in Country Life in America.

Out or In.

"What's that noise?" asked the visitor in the apartment house

"Probably some one in the dentist's apartments on the floor below getting a tooth out."

"But this seemed to come from the floor above."

"Ah, then it's probably the Poplers' baby getting a tooth in!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

Dolly and Doris.

Nurse—Come, Doris It is time for you and dolly to go to bed

Doris—What's the use? Dolly's so tired she can't sleep, and I've got a touch of insomnia.—London Punch.

The best of us lack more'n wings to be angels.—Thomas B. Aldrich.

Clearing Auction Sale

OF CHOICE FEEDING STEERS, FARM STOCK, IMPLEMENTS and HAY, On LOT 11, S. THAMES RD. USBORNE

On TUESDAY, OCT. 31st at 12 p.m. sharp, the following,—

Horses—1 mare 3-yr-old, sup to be with foal, draft; 1 mare 2-yr-old, agric, 1 hackney driver, 4-yr.; 1 aged roadster; 1 roadster sucking colt; 1 agricultural sucking colt.

Cattle—2 cows, newly calved; 1 cow, due time of sale; 2 heifers due in January 2 cows, due in February; 2 fat cows; 18 choice short keep feeders, 1050 lbs; 10 choice feeders 950 to 1000 lbs; 5 fat heifers, 3-yr-old; 6 yearling steers and heifers, 3 calves.

Hogs—Sow with litter at foot; sow due in December.

Hens—About 150 barred rocks.

Implements—lumber wagon, and box, complete; top buggy, new; open buggy; pair sleighs, binder nearly new; mower nearly new; 12-ft. rake, new; loader pea-harvester new; seeder and drill; 3-horse cultivator, scuffler; disc new; land roller; pulper; large straw cutter with carriers, belts and all complete; single plow; 2-furrow plow; set harrows; platform scales 2000 lbs; gravel box new; hay rack, fanning mill; grindstone, extension ladder, 32 ft.; short ladder, step ladder; stoneboat, wheelbarrow, 2 set double harness, 1 nearly new; 2 sets single harness; horse blankets; barrels; grain bags; chains; hay knife, forks, hoes, whiffletrees, saw quantity first-class hay, and numerous other articles.

Household Furniture—bedstead, combined dresser and wash stand; bed couch, 2 rocking chairs, milk cans, pails buckets, pans, dishes, etc.

Positively no reserve as the proprietor has sold his farm and is retiring.

Terms—$5 and under cash; over that amount 12 mos. credit on approved joint notes. 5 per cent. off for cash on the credit amounts.

For feeders and fat heifers—5 per cent interest on notes.

H. RUNDLE, Proprietor — T. CAMERON, Auctioneer

Westervelt School

Y. M. C. A. BLDG., LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal. 13

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease the science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75 cents.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

ZURICH.

Mrs. Whitesides of Kemptville is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Williams.—Mr. Henry Fleischauer attended the funeral of a relative at Tavistock last week.—Mr. and Mrs. G. Holtzman were in Mildmay last week attending the funeral of the former's mother.—Mr. Henry Kalbfleisch has sold his 50 acres on the 7th con. to Messrs. Simon Greb and Louis Debus.—Henry Ortwein is able to be out again after four weeks confinement owing to cutting a bad gash in his foot. He is over 80 years of age but the wound healed rapidly.—Miss P. Wurtz is visiting relatives and friends in Listowel for a few weeks.—Rev. O.G. Hallman of Benmiller preached in the Evangelical church last Sunday.— Our baseball boys had an easy victory over Clinton at Clinton the other day, 6-2.

CLEARING

Auction Sale

AT HIS WAREROOMS, MAIN STREET EXETER,

On SATURDAY, OCT. 28, at 1 p.m. the following new and second hand articles.—

1 buggy with top, new; buggy with top; 4 new cutters; 3 second hand cutters. Lumber wagon; Diamond Harrows, new; Fleury riding plow, new 1 furrow; 2 Fleury 2-furrow plows.; 3 No. 21 Fleury walking plows, new; one-horse Fleury plow, new; Fleury grinder, new; Wilkinson sod plow, new; 3 washing machines, new; 4 wheelbarrows, new; 3 stepladders, new; 3 steel pig troughs, new; "Dairy Maid" cream separator, new; pair wagon bolster springs, new; safe; Wilkinson ditching plow, new; bag truck, new; 2 scufflers; 3 hay carriers car, new; 3 heating stoves, stove drum; 2 iron grain feed boxes, new; sickle grinder, new; 3 set of sling ropes, new; 2 dozen hay fork pulleys, new; roll of fence wire, new, spring seat for lumber wagon, new; 5 large pictures; 1 beet puller; writing desk. A lot of other articles too numerous to mention including plowshares, landsides, sole plates and a lot of repairs for different kinds of machines. This is a rare chance to buy new machines at your own price at the proprietor is giving up business.

TERMS.—All sums of $5 and under, cash; over that amount 7 months' credit on furnishing approved joint notes.

B. S. PHILLIPS, Auctioneer. W. G. BISSETT, Proprietor.

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

Thanksgiving Day

SINGLE FARE between all stations in Canada, also to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y., Port Huron and Detroit, Mich. Good going October 27, 28, 29, 30 Return limit November 1st, 1911.

HUNTERS'

RETURN TICKETS AT SINGLE FARE OCT. 9th to NOV. 11th, to points in Temagami, points Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, Que., inclusive, also to certain points in Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Maine. OCT 19th to Nov. 11th to Muskoka Lakes, Penetang, Lake of Bays, Midland, Maganetawan River, Lakefield, Madawaska to Parry Sound, Argyle to Coboconk, Lindsay to Haliburton. Points from Severn to North Bay inclusive, and certain points reached by Northern Navigation Co.

All tickets valid for return until Thursday Dec. 14th, except to points reached by steamer lines, Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, at Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES

Issued by The Canadian Bank of Commerce are the most convenient form in which to carry money when travelling. They are negotiable everywhere, self-identifying, and the exact amount payable in the principal foreign countries is printed on the face of every cheque. The cheques are issued in denominations of and may be obtained on application at the Bank.

$10, $20, $50, $100 and $200, A235

In connection with its Travellers' Cheques The Canadian Bank of Commerce has issued a booklet entitled "Information of Interest to those about to travel", which will be sent free to anyone applying for it.

Exeter Branch—W. H. Collins, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up)	-	$4,000,000
Rest Fund - -	-	$4,600,000
Total Assets Over	-	$44,000,000

Has 88 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at al Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

The Public Schools

ARE WELL STARTED NOW

And how about your School Supplies

SCRIBBLERS.— The regular 5c. scribblers, plain or ruled. 7 for 25c.

LEAD PENCILS.— The famous regalia pencil, worth 2 for 5c. reduced price 10c. a doz.

PAINTS.— Water colors in neat boxes 5c. to 25c. crayons 1c. to 10c. a box.

INKS.— Stafford's and Underwood's Black and Blue Black Inks, 3oz bottles for 5c.

SLATES.— The famous German proof slate, wire edge or bound 5c. to 14c.

DICTIONARIES.— Collins large type pronouncing dictionaries at 15c.

It will pay you to pay us a visit. We are in a position to save you money, and we do it.

S. Martin & Son, Exeter

MITCHELL—Mrs. John Cameron, the mother of A. D. Cameron, town clerk, was stricken with paralysis. She did not regain consciousness, and passed away on Tuesday afternoon at the age of 78 years. She was born in Mull, Scotland, and came to Canada with her husband in 1873.

CENTRAL Business College

STRATFORD, ONT.

Is to the front as the best school of its kind in the province. Our courses are beyond those of the ordinary business college. This school has a continental reputation for high grade work. We have three departments, Commercial Shorthand and Telegraphy, and the demand for trained help greatly exceeds the supply. Students are entering every week, and the sooner you enter the better for yourself.

Get our free catalogue at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,— "Fresh Groceries all tne time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials, Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Canadian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver

and is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. E. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto Univeristy.
DENTIST,
teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects. Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

R. R. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years sident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew est, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates o nterest
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
E. Carling, B.A., L. H. Dickson

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies. Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 185 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St. Thomas, Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

ELLIOTT Business College
TORONTO, ONT., is recognized as "CANADA'S HIGH-CLASS COMMERCIAL SCHOOL." The instruction is absolutely first-class. Write to-day for our catalogue. Enter now.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.

We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.

Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Hart, Elimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

HOUSE FOR SALE

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable property on William st, being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, together with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

TUCKERSMITH

The death of Mrs. Wm. Oke occurred at her home on the Kippen road, Tuckersmith, on Oct. 11. The deceased whose maiden name was Caroline Louise Mills, was a daughter of the late John Mills, of Hullett, and was just in the prime of life, being only 41 years of age. She is survived by her husband and one daughter.

FULLARTON—On Monday morning of last week Gordon Tuer of Fullarton, fell out of a beech tree, lighting on his head and shoulders, and when his companions reached him they thought that he was dead. Blood was streaming from his nose and mouth. On examination it was found that the young man had received a fracture at the base of the skull, and that he was in a very critical condition. Hopes are held out for his recovery.

ESTRAY STEER

There came onto the premises of the undersigned a 2-yr-old steer. Owner can have same by proving property and paying expenses.
JAS. WILLIS, Lot 13, Con. 3, Stephen

FOR SALE

One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass excepting 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

EXTENSIVE AUCTION SALE

FARM STOCK, ETC.
LOT 5, AUX SAUBLE, STEPHEN
About 1 mile South Methodist Church
THURSDAY, OCT. 26, 1911,
At 1 o'clock sharp, the following valuable property, viz.—

Horses—2 aged mares in foal to College Chum; mare rising 5, in foal to Nateby Grant; gelding 5 yrs. old sired by Albion; mare 11 yrs. old in foal to Parole; gelding rising 3, sired by Jardineer; mare rising 3 sired by Albion; mare rising 2 yrs. sired by Jardineer; sucking colt, sired by Jardineer sucking colt, sired by Non Parole.

Cows—2 cows to calve in Jan.; 7 cows to calve in April and May; fat cow; bull rising 3 years; yearling bull 5 steers rising 3 yrs.; heifer rising 3 yrs.; 8 steers rising 2 yrs.; 5 heifers rising 2 yrs.

1 wagon.

Terms—All sums of $5.00 and under cash; over that amount 12 months' credit will be given on furnishing approved joint notes, 5 per cent. per annum off for cash on credit amounts.
Henry Willert, Proprietor. Ed. Bossenberry, Auctioneer.

UNRESERVED
Auction Sale
OF HOUSEHOLD EFFECTS, ETC.,
At the MANSION HOUSE, EXETER,
On FRIDAY, OCT. 27, 1911,

from 10 to 12 a.m. and re-commencing at 1 p.m. the following property,—

15 bedsteads, 12 washstands, 12 dressing cases, 12 mattresses, 12 bed springs, 24 feather pillows, 18 bed spreads, 18 bed covers, 2 extension tables, 3 Kitchen tables, 2 fall-leaf tables, 4 small tables, sideboard, refrigerator, Happy Thought range, double heater, 2 heating stoves; coal heater with oven; looking glass for bar, 3x7 feet; sideboard for bar, 8½ ft. long; 6 beer pumps, 8 spittons; counter 13 ft. long, and other barroom fixtures; ½ dozen looking-glasses, 3 doz. pictures, washing machine, cellar cupboard, two clothes ringers, 2 centre tables, 1 hair cloth parlor suit 7 pieces, easel, whatnot lounge, 30 pair curtains, case of birds, 24 window blinds, 200 yds. carpet, 100 yds. oilcloth; ½ doz. arm-chairs; ½ doz. cane-bottom chairs, 3 doz. kitchen chairs, clothes drier; 2 doz. table napkins, 2 cruet stands, 2 clocks, 2 set of china dishes, 3 doz. tumblers, ½ doz. trays, mowing machine, 4 vegetable covers; 2 wash boilers, 2 wash tubs, 7 lamps, 1 sewing machine, 300 qt. gems, also knives, forks, spoons, glassware, shovels, manure forks, wheel-barrow and other articles too numerous to mention.

Also 3 buggies and 1 cutter.

Terms—Cash.
R. LEATHORN, Proprietor. B. S. PHILLIPS, Auctioneer

Auction Sale

FARM STOCK AND IMPLEMENTS, Etc
on LOT 23, CON. 9, STEPHEN, on SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, at 1 p.m.

Horses—1 aged horse, 1 general purpose colt, 3-yr-old; 1 2-yr-old filly, sired by Indian Chief, 1 sucking filly, sired by Bob.

Cattle—2 cows in calf to thoroughbred bull, 2 cows lately calved, 1 two-year old steer; 4 one-year-old steers; One 1-yr-old heifer; 5 steer calves.

Pigs—4 store hogs weighing about 140 lbs; 1 brood sow, due to farrow Nov. 1st. Hens—About 40 hens.

Implements—McCormick Binder, 6-ft. in good working order; 5 foot Dearing mower; 10-hoe combined Sylvester drill; Massey-Harris cultivator; Massey-Harris corn cultivator, with bean puller and field cultivator combined; Clinton Fanning mill, Massey-Harris scuffler; turnip drill; Frost & Wood gang plow; set of diamond harrows, walking plow; land roller; set scales, 2000 lbs., nearly new pair bobsleighs, nearly new; lumber wagon, covered buggy; hay rack; pulper gravel box; Frost and Wood hay rake; DeLaval separator, nearly new; set of double harnesses; disc harrows; cook stove, heating stove and other articles too numerous to mention.

Terms—All sums of $5 and under cash; over that amount 12 months' credit will be given on furnishing approved joint notes, 5 per cent. per annum off for cash on credit amounts.
MOSES AMY, Proprietor. B. S. PHILLIPS, Auctioneer

PILES CURED at HOME
by New Absorption Method.

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind or protruding Piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality if requested. Immediate relief and permanent cure assured. Send no money, but tell others of this offer. Write to-day to Mrs. M. Summers, Box 840 Windsor, Ont.

OPEN SORE BAFFLES DOCTORS.
Morriscy's No. 4 Eczema Ointment Healed Like Magic.

Nauwigewauk, N.B., Oct. 3, 1910
"I can gladly recommend dear Dr. Morriscy's Eczema Ointment because it cured me of a sore which I had on my ear for over 8 years. I did everything to have it cured, and had the most skillful doctors treating it, but it would not heal up. I went under treatment with Father Morriscy's Ointment, and in a short while it was cured. That was 3 years ago, and I am sure the cure is permanent. When I think how quickly No. 4 Eczema Ointment cured me it seems wonderful indeed, because you know I doctored with several skilled physicians who could not help me. You surely must have a big demand for this wonderful Salve. My only regret is that I did not use it at first, as it would have saved me over 8 years of pain, to say nothing of an unsightly ear and expensive doctor bills." John Ryan.

The above prescription is not a "Cure-All" or so-called patent medicine. Dr. Morriscy prescribed it for 44 years, and it cured thousands after other doctors failed.

Price, 50c. per box at your dealers, or Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited, Montreal. 200

WEST HURON TEACHERS' CONVENTION

(Continued from Page 1)

Friday Forenoon

A class of primary pupils trained by Miss W. Howard sang some school songs very pleasantly and little Miss Dorthy Balkwill recited so as to receive well merited applause.

The Resolution Committee brought in their report advising that the following numbers of the resolutions passed by the public school department of of the O. E. A. by adopted.

Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6 on the Public School Curriculum; Nos. 2 and 3 on School Text Books; Nos. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, on the Public School Curriculum; Nos 1 on the Superanuational of teachers No. 1 on the Ontario Educational Gazette. Nos. 1,2,3, of the general Resolutions; No. 3 and 4 on the Departmental Regulations; Nos. 1 and 2 on the Advisory Council and No. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.

That we respectfully request the Department that we be permitted to have Institute meetings in the spring instead of the fall.

That the Bible history be taught in the publis school. The report was adopted with the exceptions of No. 2 which was ammended by substituting the first week in September instead of spring.

The report of the auditing committee showing receipts amounting to $168.93 and Expenditures amounting to $93.80 leaving the balance of $75.13 on hand was received and adopted.

The election of officers was deferred and a nominating committee consisting of Messrs Tom. Tigert and Weidenhammer and Misses Consitt and Vosper.

Mr. McLachlan Principal of Chatham Business College introduced the subject of writing. He formed the Association into a writing class and in a practial manner set them to work practising exercises. He laid down as the real secrets for making goodwriting that the arm must balance on the muscle of the fore-arm the fingers must not bend and the practising should be done with absolute freedom making the cross movement or natural inclination of the hand the most important thing. The lesson taught was instructive and interesting.

Mr. Radcliffe took up the subject of Written Composition with his usual thoroughness and enthusiasm, advocating that written composition should be preceded by oral composition. Mr. Radcliffe's subjects were taken in a delightfully free and easy manner and were full of information and profit.

Mr. H. Horton introduced the subject of Teaching Patriotism in the Public School, and in a fluent and happy manner gave the reasons for teaching the subject in this country with its people from many lands. In teaching he would use the maple leaf, our prosperity, our liberties, our greatness in natural resources, transportation facilities, etc., as subjects for lessons.

Eighty nine teachers have been present at the session. There were 70 changes of teachers in the schools of W. Huron since April 1, 1911. Of the 134 teachers in the schools in December last only 62 are now teaching in the inspectorate.

Friday Afternoon

The report of the nominating committee that the following officers be elected was adopted.—Pres., Miss I.E. Sharman, Goderich; Vice., W. B. Weidenhammer of Exeter; Sec.-Treas., W. H. Johnston, Kippen. Councillors, J.P. Hume, B. A., Goderich; H. Horton, Lumley; G. S. Howard, Blake; Miss H. Kinsman, Exeter; Miss M. Baillie, Nile. Auditing Committee, Geo. Mawson, Hay; C. J. MacGregor, Hay. Resolution Committee, W. McKay, Hensall; W. G. Beaton, Zurich; J. Elgin Tom, Goderich; Miss W. Howard, Exeter; Miss A. E. Consitt, Hensall; Miss T. Johnston, Carlow.

Mr. G. S. Howard read a thoughtful paper on Teaching of Morals in the Public Schools. The teacher should be morally right. He should set before the pupils high ideals of noble things, and show the three essential principles, truthfulness, obedience and reverence.

Inspector Tom gave an interesting address on difficulties in teaching and management observed during inspection.

Mr. W. B. Weidenhammer took up the subject of Technical Education and the Public School, and ably showed the great need for technical education. Some of the needs for such training he mentioned as the general wastefulness of children and older people, the lack of skilled workmen in the various trades, and the tendency of children who receive fair education to enter the professional walks of life rather than farming and other occupations. He thought teachers should help to mould public opinion in favor of education.

Where possible he would use the subjects taught in the school to turn pupils attention to practical subjects and useful phases of mechanical pursuits. He would teach agriculture as it is one of the most interesting subjects for the child mind. He thought every school should have a work bench and necessary tools. He would teaching something of Domestic Science. He thought each school should co-operate with the Children's Gardening Section of the O.A.C.

If these things were done he thought the beneficial results would justify it.

Mr. Strang answered in a lucid and convincing manner the questions submitted through the question drawer.

The following report of the committee appointed to nominate the committees to interview the municipal councils, was adopted.—

Ashfield—Mr. C. J. McGregor, Mr. Fred Ward. Miss McMillian. Colborne—Mr. Geo. S. Woods, Miss L. Young, Miss E. Hess Goderich—Mr. E. Elliott, Miss Tichborne, Mrs. Snyder. Hay—Mr. Mawson. Hensall—Mr. Beaton, Mr. McKay, Stanley—Mr. Johnston Bayfield Mr. Howard, Mr. Beatty. Stephen—Mr. Shore Mr. Durr, Mr Grayham. Usborne—Mr. Weidenhammer, Mr. Horton Miss Hamilton, Mr. Brintnell, E. Wawanosh—Mr Shackleton, Miss Rands, Miss Cunningham, W. W.—Miss Baillie, Miss Graham, Miss Taylor. Goderich—Mr. Tigert, Mr. Hume, Dr. Strang. Exeter—Mr. W. B. Weidenhammer, Miss Vosper, Miss Kinsman.

County Council—Mr. Tom, Mr. Tigert, Mr. W. H. Johnston.

Votes of thanks were tendered to all who contributed to last night's entertainment to Messrs Radcliffe and McLachlan, who did so much to help to make the Institute a success to Mr. Bluett who came up from London to be present with us and preside and to the Trustees and Teachers of the Exeter School for their kindness in giving the use of their school and for other assistance.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the Institute to a close.

Be Fair. Buy a sack or barrel before judging PURITY FLOUR

SOME people have attempted to judge PURITY FLOUR before knowing the facts about it—before using it. So we ask you to be fair and to buy a sack or barrel of PURITY FLOUR and give it a thorough try-out before attempting to arrive at a judgment.

Look at the beauty and loftiness of the golden-crusted, snowy-crumbed loaves, fit for a king. Count them and see how many more of them PURITY yields to the barrel than ordinary flour does.

Taste the creamy, flaky pie crust, and the deliciously light cakes PURITY FLOUR rewards you with. My! How they make your mouth water!

Such high-class results can only be obtained when using a flour consisting exclusively of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat berries.

And remember, that, on account of its extra strength and extra quality, PURITY FLOUR requires more water when making bread and more shortening when making pastry, than you are accustomed to use with ordinary flour.

PURITY FLOUR

"More bread and better bread"

Buy a bag or barrel of PURITY FLOUR. Test it for a week. Then pass judgment.

Add PURITY FLOUR to the grocery list right now.

105

Sold by R. G. Seldon

The "Woman Question—Three Meals a Day"

This is the problem confronting the average housewife—a problem of vital importance to the home, and one best solved by a trip to our store and the purchase of

GURNEY-OXFORD

For the Woman Question is not only what to eat, but how to cook it, and you find the answer in Gurney-Oxford—first in construction, as well as convenience; first in facilities for control and readiness. The Divided Oven Flue Strip assures perfect baking because of its even heat-distribution, and in every detail the perfect construction of this Chancellor Range assures satisfactory cooking results.

Another phase of the question is economy, and we invite a visit to our store expressly that you may examine the marvellous fuel-saving device the

Oxford Economizer

Gurney-Oxfords are the only stoves licensed to sell with this wonderful patent. It needs only to be set at a proper angle to hold heat for hours without attention. No fuel is wasted—a saving of 20 per cent.

The Grate is Reversible with strong teeth that save accumulation of clinkers and waste.

In point of appearance—nickel trimmings, beauty of design, etc.—the Gurney-Oxford has not a rival. Come to our store and find the best answer to the Woman Question—a Gurney-Oxford stove.

W. J. Heaman, Agent.

Afraid to Eat?

Does the fear of indigestion spoil the enjoyment of your meals? It needn't. Just take

NA-DRU-CO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

and you won't know you have a stomach. They will see to it that your food is properly digested. They are among the best of the NA-DRU-CO preparations, compounded by expert chemists and guaranteed by the largest wholesale druggists in Canada. 50c. a box. If your druggist has not stocked them yet, send us 50c. and we will mail you a box. 36

NATIONAL DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO. OF CANADA LIMITED. MONTREAL.

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER VI.

The sight of Talbot's letter seemed to fire Brett's imagination. He radiated electric energy. Both Lord Fairholme and Miss Talbot felt that in his presence all doubts vanished. They realized, without knowledge why, that this man of power, this human dynamo, would quickly dispel the clouds which now rendered the outlook so forbidding. For the moment, heedless of their presence, he began to pace the room in the strenuous concentration of his thoughts. Once he halted in front of the small bust of Edgar Allan Poe, whose pedestal still imprisoned the two cuttings of a newspaper which formed the barrister's first links with the tragedy. His ideas suddenly reverted to the paragraph describing the efforts of the Porte to obtain from the French Government the extradition of a fugitive relative of the Sultan. At that instant, too, a tiny clock on the mantelpiece chimed forth the hour of eight.

"That settles it," said Brett aloud. "Smith," he vociferated.

And Smith appeared.

"Pack up sufficient belongings for a short trip to the Continent. Don't forget a rug and a great-coat. Have the portmanteau on a cab at the door within three minutes."

"I am sorry, Miss Talbot," he continued, with his charming smile and a manner as free from perplexity as if he was announcing a formal visit to his grandmother. "I have just decided to go to Paris at once. The train leaves Victoria at 8.15. Lord Fairholme will take you home, and you will both, I am sure, be able to convince Sir Hubert that to yield too greatly to anxiety just now is to suffer needless pain."

He rattled on so pleasantly that Edith, absorbed by the agony of her brother's disappearance and possible disgrace, could not conceal an expression of blank amazement at his levity.

Brett instantly became apologetic.

"Pray forgive my apparent flippancy, Miss Talbot," he said. "I am really in earnest. I believe that a flying visit to Paris just now must unquestionably advance us an important stage in this inquiry. Let me explain exactly what I mean. Here is a letter from your brother, in handwriting which you and others best qualified to judge declare to be undeniably his. It also bears post-marks which would demonstrate to a court of law that it was posted in Paris last night and received here to-day. But it does not follow that it was written in Paris; it might have been written anywhere. Now, according to the police, there is no entry in the visitors' book at the Grand Hotel which appears to prove that your brother wrote his name therein on Tuesday night. If the handwriting in the Grand Hotel register corresponds beyond all doubt with that in this letter and envelope, then your brother must be in Paris. If it does not, he is not there. I am convinced that the latter hypothesis is correct, but to make doubly sure I will go and see with my own eyes. There now—I owed you an explanation, and I have barely time to catch my train. Good-bye. I will wire you in the morning."

He placed the mysterious letter in his notebook, gave them a parting smile, and was gone.

He managed to catch the 8.15, which started punctually, the sole remnant of railway virtue possessed by the Chatham and South Eastern line. A restful porter, quickened into active life by a half-crown tip, found him a vacant seat in a first-class smoking carriage, and Brett's hasty glance round the compartment revealed that his travelling companions, as far as Dover, at any rate, were severely respectable Britons bound for the Riviera.

The harbor station at Dover wore its unusual aspect of dejected misery.

A stiff breeze had brought up a moderate sea, and the barrister bumped down his bag and flung himself into a chair on what a novice would regard as the weather side of the charthouse. He bore the discomfort for a few minutes, and was rewarded for his foresight by possessing the most sequestered nook on deck when the vessel turned her head seawards and began one of the shortest, but perhaps the most disagreeable, voyages in the world.

Having retained his seat long enough to establish a proprietory right therein, Brett rose and made a short tour of the ship. To distinguish any one on deck was almost out of the question. The passengers were huddled up in indefinable shapes, and there was hardly light sufficient to effect a stumbling progress over the multitude of hand-baggage. So the barrister dived down the companion-way and cannoned against a burley individual who had propped himself against a bulkhead on the main deck saloon.

Something hard in the man's pockets gave Brett a sharp rap, and when they separated with mutual apologies, he laughed silently.

"Handcuffs!" he murmured. "Scotland Yard is always prepared for emergencies. I will wager a considerable sum that as soon as Winters reached headquarters his story about the letter caused a telegram to be dispatched to Dover. Here's a detective bound for Paris and prepared to manacle Talbot the moment he sees him. What a fearful and wonderful thing is the English police system. A crime, obviously clever in its conception and treatment, can be handled by a sharp policeman wearing regulation boots and armed with handcuffs. Really. I must have a drink."

Clinging to the hand-rails and executing some crude but effective balancing feats, he reached the dining saloon.

Near the bar, solemnly digesting a liqueur, stood a man to whom the choppy sea evidently gave no concern. He had the square shoulders, neat-fitting clothes and closely clipped appearance at the back of the neck which mark the British officer; but he also stood square on his feet and swayed with unconscious ease whether the vessel pitched or rolled or executed the combined movement.

"Now, I wonder," said Brett, "if that is Captain Gaultier. He must be. Gaultier, from his name, should be a Jersey man, hence his facility in foreign languages and his employment as a Foreign Office messenger. It's worth trying. I will make the experiment."

He reached the bar and ordered a whiskey and soda. Turning affably to the stranger, he remarked:

"Nasty night, isn't it? I hope we shan't be much behind time."

The stranger glanced at him with sharp and inquisitive eyes, but the glance evidently reassured him, for he replied quite pleasantly:

'Oh, no. A matter of a few minutes, perhaps. They usually manage to make up any delay after we leave Calais."

"That's good," said Brett, "because I want to be in Paris at the earliest possible moment."

The other man smiled.

"We are due there at 5.38," he said. "Rather an early hour for business, isn't it?"

"Well, yes," assented the barrister, "under ordinary circumstances, but as my only business in Paris is to examine an hotel register and then get something to eat before I return, I do not wish to waste time unnecessarily on the road."

The other man nodded affably, but gave no sign of further interest.

"So," communed Brett, "if it be Gaultier, he has not heard the latest developments. I must try a frontal attack."

"Does your name happen to be Gaultier?" he went on.

The stranger arrested his liqueur glass in the final tilt.

"It does," he said; "but I do not think I have the pleasure of knowing you."

"No," said Brett, "you haven't."

"Well?" said the other man.

"The fact is," said Brett, "I heard you had been in London. I guessed from your appearance that you might be a King's messenger, and it was just possible that the Captain Gaultier in whom I was interested might start back to the Continent to-night, so I put two and two together, don't you see, with the result that they make four, a thing which doesn't always happen in deduction if in mathematics."

Captain Gaultier eyed his questioner with some degree of stern suspicion as he said from behind his cigar—

"May I ask who you are?"

"Certainly," replied Brett, producing his card.

After a quick glance at the pasteboard, Gaultier continued—

"I suppose, Mr. Brett, you have some motive in addressing me? What is it?"

"I am interested in the fate of a man named Talbot," was the straightforward reply, "and as you told the Under-Secretary that you had seen Talbot crossing to Paris in company with a lady last Tuesday, I hoped that perhaps you would not mind discussing the matter with me."

Captain Gaultier was evidently puzzled. Private conversations with Under-Secretaries of State are not, as a rule, public property, and his momentary intention to decline further conversation with this good-looking and fascinating stranger was checked by remembrance of the fact.

"Really, Mr. Brett," he said, "although I do not question the accuracy of your statement, you will readily understand that I can hardly discuss the matter with you under the circumstances."

Gaultier clearly hesitated, but did not refuse to accept the Under-Secretary's letter which Brett handed to him, with the words—

"You know the handwriting, no doubt?"

"That speaks for itself." The King's messenger smiled when he returned the note. "It is an odd coincidence," he added, "and still more curious that you should spot me so readily. However, Mr. Brett, we have now cleared the air. What can I do for you?"

"Simply this," said the barrister; "do you mind telling me how you came to recognize Mr. Talbot?"

"Well, for one thing," was the thoughtful reply, "I knew his overcoat. I often met Talbot in the Foreign Office, and one day he drove me to his club wearing a very handsome coat lined with astrachan. It struck me as a peculiarly comfortable and well-fitting one, and although there are plenty of men about town who may possess astrachan coats, it is a reasonable assumption that this was the identical garment when it happened to be worn by the man himself."

"Then you are quite certain it was Talbot?" went on the barrister.

"Quite certain."

"Would you swear it was he, though his life depended on your—"

"No, no," interrupted the other. "I rather had a good look at his coat—and the lady. Who ever the man was, he appeared to be wrapped up in both of them, and he certainly did not court observation. I naturally thought that the feminine attachment accounted for this, and for the same reason, I did not even seek to scrutinize him too closely. To put the thing in a nutshell, I saw a man whom I believed to be Jack Talbot—and who certainly resembled him in face and figure—attired in Talbot's clothes, and wearing a coat which I had noted so particularly as to be able to describe it to my tailor when ordering a similar one. Add to that the appearance of an attractive lady, young and unknown, and you have my soul laid bare to you in the matter."

"Thank you," said Brett. "I am much obliged."

(To be continued.)

A FINE NIGHT-CAP.

The Best Thing in the World to go to Bed and Sleep on.

"My wife and I find that 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and a cup of hot milk, or some cream, with it, makes the finest night-cap in the world," says an Alleghany, Pa., man.

"We go to sleep as soon as we strike the bed, and slumber like babies till rising time in the morning.

"It is about 3 years now since we began to use Grape-Nuts food, and we always have it for breakfast and before retiring and sometimes for lunch. I was so sick from what the doctors called acute indigestion and brain fag before I began to use Grape-Nuts that I could neither eat, sleep nor work with any comfort.

"I was afflicted at the same time with the most intense pains, accompanied by a racking headache and backache, every time I tried to eat anything. Notwithstanding an unusual pressure from my professional duties, I was compelled for a time to give up my work altogether.

"Then I put myself on a diet of Grape-Nuts and cream alone, with an occasional cup of Postum as a runner-up, and sometimes a little dry toast. I assure you that in less than a week I felt like a new man; I had gained six pounds in weight, could sleep well and think well.

"The good work went on, and I was soon ready to return to business, and have been hard at it, and enjoying it ever since.

"Command me at any time any one enquires as to the merits of Grape-Nuts. You will find me always ready to testify." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Read to Wellville," in pkgs. There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

BONDS

Are you contemplating a permanent investment of your surplus funds? If so, we should like you to have a copy of our list of Canadian Bond Quotations just issued.

A security may be had of satisfactory maturity—of $100, $500 or $1,000 denomination. The range of income is from 4 per cent. to 6 per cent.

Government Bonds to yield 4 per cent.
Municipal Debentures to yield 4 per cent. to 6 per cent.
Railroad Bonds to yield 5 per cent. to 5.30 per cent.
Public Utility Bonds to yield 5 per cent.
Proven Industrial Bonds to yield 5⅜ per cent. to 6 per cent.

DOMINION SECURITIES CORPORATION-LIMITED
TORONTO . MONTREAL . LONDON, ENG.

"THE BEST HOME PRESERVES"

These are made by rightly combining luscious fresh fruits with

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR

The best results are then assured.

Ask your grocer for Redpath Extra Granulated Sugar. He knows then that you want the best.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal
Established in 1854 by John Redpath.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment Entirely Cured Him of Itch

MR. J. E. HOOPER, TORONTO

"I just want to say a good word for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Four or five years ago I was in Port Arthur, and I had an attack of the itch. It certainly was an intolerable nuisance. The itching was principally at nights before I went to bed. The thighs were especially affected.

"I went to two doctors about it, and tried more than one remedy. I was beginning to think the complaint was incurable, when I was telling my trouble to a barber, and he said that he would guarantee to cure me. He told me to take a hot bath, use Cuticura Soap, and then apply Cuticura Ointment. I took his advice, and sure enough, the itch vanished. I had probably been troubled with the itch for two or three months before I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and they completely cured me of that intolerable nuisance. After one warm bath with Cuticura Soap and use of the Cuticura Ointment I was never troubled with the itching again. Anything in this testimonial I would be prepared to swear to in a court of law." (Signed) J. E. Hooper, 268 Parliament Street, Toronto, Jan. 10, 1911.

His Skin Eruption Cured in Ten Days

MR. T. WILLIAMS, WINNIPEG

"The Cuticura Remedies certainly did work finely, and I am thankful that there is such a remedy, and that I tried it. About three months ago a terrible itching commenced on my body. I could not understand it. It gradually grew worse and covered a large portion of my body. There was also a slight eruption of the skin, sort of a rash. I suffered greatly with the itching and at night time I had little sleep. I tried one or two remedies which did no good, and then I tried Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent. In about ten days I was completely cured." (Signed) T. Williams, 115 Pacific Ave., Winnipeg, Jan. 14, 1911.

You Can Try Cuticura Soap and Ointment Without Cost

For more than a generation, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have afforded the speediest, surest and most economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring skin and scalp eruptions, from infancy to age. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but in order that skin-sufferers may prove their efficacy without cost, the Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 5S, Boston, U. S. A., will send post-free to any address, a liberal sample of each, with a 32-page book on skin health. Write for a set to-day, even though you have suffered long and hopelessly and have lost faith in everything, for, as Mr. Hooper's letter shows, the first use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment may be sufficient to give instant relief when all else has failed.

AMONG the prizes we are offering in our big Prize Contest is one of $100.00 (Prize "C") for the farmer in each Province who furnishes us with a photograph showing the best of any particular kind of work done on his farm during 1911 with "CANADA" Cement. For this prize, work of every description is included.

Now just as soon as you finish that new silo, barn, feeding floor or dairy, that you've been thinking of building, why not photograph it and send the picture to us? The photograph doesn't necessarily have to be taken by a professional or an expert. In fact, your son's or your daughter's camera will do nicely. Or, failing this, you might use the kodak of your neighbor's son nearby. In any event, don't let the idea of having a photograph made deter you from entering the competition. Particularly as we have requested your local dealer to help in cases where it is not convenient for the farmer to procure a camera in the neighborhood. By this means you are placed on an equal footing with every other contestant. Get the circular, which gives you full particulars of the conditions and of the other three prizes. Every dealer who sells "CANADA" Cement will have on hand a supply of these circulars—and he'll give you one if you just ask for it. Or if you prefer, you can use the attached coupon—or a postcard will do—send it to us and you'll receive the complete details of the contest by return mail.

If you haven't received your copy of "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete," write for that, too. It's a finely illustrated book of 160 pages full of useful and practical information of the uses of concrete.

Write us to-night, and you'll receive the book and the circular promptly.

Do not delay—sit right down—take your pen or pencil, and fill out the coupon NOW.

Canada Cement Company, Limited,
National Bank Building, Montreal

Please send Contest Circular and book.
Name.....
.....
Address.....
.....

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

CAKE.

Chocolate Sponge Cake. — Cook to a syrup one and one-half cupfuls of sugar and five tablespoonfuls of boiling water. Separate six eggs, beat whites ten minutes, then beat yolks very light, add and beat together five minutes. Add syrup a little at the time and beat all ten minutes. Add slowly two cupfuls of pastry flour, pinch of salt, teaspoonful of vanilla, and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Bake forty-five minutes in moderate oven. Do not look in oven for twenty minutes. Icing—Melt over teakettle two squares of bitter chocolate, add cupful of sugar and add boiling water, one tablespoonful at a time until dissolved, but do not add more than three tablespoonfuls. Spread on cake while icing is warm.

Orange Cake.—Cream half a cup butter with one cup sugar, add yolks of two eggs, half cup milk, and half cup of orange juice, and a little of the grated rind, 2 small teaspoons baking powder sifted with two scant cups flour, then the stiffly beaten whites of the two eggs. Bake in layers and spread with orange icing made as follows: Boil one cup sugar with one-quarter cup water until it threads, then add gradually to stiffly beaten white of one egg and whip, slowly adding one-quarter cup orange juice, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and a little of the grated orange rind. Beat until thick and cream.

Ice Cream Cake.—One cup butter, two cups sugar, one cup milk, three and one-half cups flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, whites of eight eggs, one-quarter teaspoonful salt. Mix dry ingredients, cream, butter, and sugar, add milk then flour, and beat. Add whipped whites and beat again. Flavor with almond extract. Bake in three jelly tins in hot oven and when cold put together with boiled icing flavored with almond extract.

Devil's Food Cake.—Butter, one heaping teaspoon; sugar, one cup; beat to a good cream, then add yolks of two eggs. Cut up one-fourth bar of chocolate, put in saucepan, add one-half cup of cold water, let come to boil, then pour over above. Next add one and one-half cups of flour scant, with one teaspoon baking powder. Lastly add one-half teaspoon scant baking soda to half cup boiling water, then add to above contents. The secret in making this cake is to have the batter thin. Take the whites of the two eggs for boiled icing.

Lightning Cake.—One scant cup sugar, one full cup flour, one teaspoonful baking powder; stir these together in the mixing dish. One-third of a cupful of soft butter, break into the cup on top of the butter two eggs, fill the cup with milk; stir this for an instant, enough to break the eggs, and pour the contents of the cup into the flour, sugar, and baking powder. Add one teaspoonful vanilla and stir all together for a moment. Then bake in two layers or one larger sheet for from twenty minutes to half an hour. This is easily made and a light cake. It makes a good dessert by cutting into squares and covering each piece with a generous portion of maple or white sugar boiled frosting.

ICED DISHES.

Violet Sherbet.—Boil together for five minutes a pound of sugar and a pint of water; add the juice of two lemons. When icy cold add one pint of grape juice and free. When frozen stir in a meringue made from the white of one egg and a tablespoon of powdered sugar and repack. Let this stand one or two hours to ripen. Serve in punch or wine glasses, garnished with fresh violets, or they may be garnished with candied violets.

Mint Punch.—Remove the leaves from twelve large stalks of mint; chop fine; put them in a mortar with four or five tablespoons of sugar and grind to a paste; or you may rub them in a bowl with a spoon. Boil together for five minutes a pound of sugar and a quart of water; add the juice of three lemons and the mint; when the mixture is icy cold, freeze. Serve in punch glasses.

Iced Fruit Salad.—Boil together a pound of sugar and quart of water five minutes; add grated rind of an orange and two lemons; when cold, strain. Add the juice of three lemons and the orange; strain again. When cold, freeze, turning slowly at first, rapidly at the last. Put this in a border mold, cover the joints in a border of muslin dipped in melted paraffin; pack in salt and ice two hours. Cut three oranges in half, take out the pulp, add half pound white grapes cut in halves, one banana cut in tiny blocks, a grated pineapple, and a half bottle Maraschino cherries. Dust with half cup powdered sugar, put in tin kettle and pack in salt and ice. They must not be frozen, but must be icy cold. At serving time plunge mold in hot water, turn the water ice on a high compote dish; garnish outside with fresh flowers; head fruit in center and send at once to the table.

FAVORITE DISHES.

Canned Peaches—Peaches canned without cooking when opened are like fresh peaches, especially if served with cream. Allow one pint of water and one cupful of sugar for each can and boil this mixture five minutes. Pare the peaches and pack in cans whole; leaving the pits in gives more of a peach flavor. In each filled can put one tablespoonful of pure alcohol, then pour the hot syrup over all till the cans are brimful, and seal. These will keep perfectly two years or more.

Pineapple Help.—Pare and cut out eyes of ripe pineapples, strip all pulp from core with silver fork. To a pint of this add a pound of granulated sugar. Stir constantly until sugar is dissolved. Put into fruit jars. This will keep a long time.

Brown Sugar Pie.—Two-thirds cup brown sugar, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons milk, cook until waxy looking; then take yolks of two eggs, one heaping tablespoon flour, one and one-half cups milk; mix all together, smooth, add to the above ingredients, cook until thick; add vanilla; have a baked crust; use the whites beaten stiff for top; return to the oven for a minute or two.

TESTED RECIPES.

Eggless Fruit Cake.—Two cupfuls sugar, two cupfuls buttermilk, one pound seedless raisins chopped fine, four cupfuls flour, one-half cupful butter, one tablespoonful soda dissolved in a little hot water; spices to taste; a cupful of rich preserves of pears or strawberry jam adds to the good fruit taste so well liked by many. Bake in a slow oven.

Sea Foam Candy.—Cook three cupfuls brown sugar and one tablespoonful of vinegar until the syrup forms a hard ball when dropped in cold water; pour it slowly over the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, beating continually until the candy is stiff enough to hold its shape. Then, if liked, work in a cup of chopped nuts and half a teaspoonful of vanilla. Drop in small pieces on waxed paper.

Muskmelon Frappe.—Remove the tops of small nutmeg melons so as to form a cover. Take out all the seeds and membrane and scoop out as much of the soft pulp as can easily be removed. Cut this latter into small pieces. Place the seeds and membrane in a sieve to drain the juice, then add the latter to one quart of whipped cream, sweetened; turn this into an ice cream freezer and turn until stiff. When ready to serve take the shells, which should have been chilled on ice, place the frappe cream in alternate layers with the melon pulp. Fasten a narrow ribbon looped bow on the lids with long pins; set the melons on lace paper doilies and serve with cake. An excellent company dessert.

Deviled Crackers. — Deviled crackers are very nice to serve with salads. Cover the top of the crackers with finely grated cheese, using a mixture of plain and Parmesan. Put in the centre of each cracker a teaspoon of tomato catsup and a dusting of salt and pepper. Place in a baking dish in a hot oven until the cheese is melted and the crackers are crisp. They should be served hot.

Homemade Corn Beef.—Make a brine of three quarts of water, one cup of coarse salt, one-half cup brown sugar, and saltpetre size of a hazlenut. Boil all together and let cool. Select the piece of meat you prefer, put it into a crock, and turn the brine over. Let stand about six days with a weight on to keep under the brine, when it is ready for use. Cover with cold water and cook over a slow fire. You will think it the best you ever ate.

THE PRESERVE CLOSET.

Much of the success of the canning of fruits depends upon the arrangement of the preserve closet.

The position is a serious matter. If possible the closet should face a north or west wall, never a south or east window, for low temperature maintained without special refrigeration is essential.

The shelves of a model closet for preserves are not deeper than six or eight inches—just wide enough for one row of jars. When two or three rows are placed on the shelf it necessitates constant moving. No one needs to be told that preserves should be moved as little as possible after the covers have been tightened for the last time. All shelves should be adjustable instead of fixed. In this way one may economize space and utilize all there is without crowding.

DOMESTIC HINTS.

When a pie-dish or anything used in the oven becomes burned or discolored, rub with a piece of waste emery-cloth or with powdered bathbrick.

Rancid butter can be restored to freshness if broken up into small pieces and put into a bowl of new milk. Let it remain there for about an hour, then drain it, wash in cold salted water, and form into pats again.

To remove finger marks from paint, rub them with a soft damp cloth dipped in prepared chalk. Never use soda in cleaning paint; it injures the color and dries it, making it liable to crack and peel off.

Small children need no meat whatever. Their dietary should consist of milk, cereals, fruit, and vegetables. Eggs are good for children, but should not be fried for them, but simply boiled or poached, or eaten in the form of custards.

To remove iron-mould or rust, the best way is to stretch the spots over a bowl and moisten with salts of lemon until the spots disappear. Then the soiled part should be thoroughly rinsed in warm water to remove the acid.

Articles of food that are damp or juicy should never be left in paper. Paper is merely a compound of rags, glue, lime, and similar substances, with acids and chemicals intermixed, and, when damp, is unfit to touch things that are to be eaten.

Irons require to be kept very clean, but in case of their becoming rusty through long disuse, the following will be found a good way of cleaning them: Make the iron fairly hot, and then rub it over with a little beeswax tied up in a piece of rag or cloth. When the rust has been removed by this application, wipe the iron over with a clean cloth.

Holes in walls, caused by nails which have been taken out, are exceedingly unsightly, and it is not always possible to conceal them by means of pictures or ornaments. They may, however, be rendered hardly noticeable by filling them with fine sawdust mixed into a thick paste with glue. Apply this while it is wet, and when dry it may, if liked, be painted over with the same color as that used in the room.

There is nothing to equal milk, especially stale milk, as a remedy for an ink-stained carpet. It must, however, be applied the moment the ink has been spilt, before it is left to dry in, as is often done. Blotting-paper or an old rag should be used to soak up the milk and ink, a little more of the former being added until the mark has disappeared. Finally, the spot must be gone over with a cloth wrung out in hot water to remove the mark of the milk.

To Stiffen Starch.—Dissolve five cents' worth of gum arabic in eight ounces of water. Bottle up. When wanted for use, add one tablespoonful to the pan of starch while hot. The clothes will remain stiff in damp weather. This is especially nice for shirt waists and colored clothes, but will do equally well for white clothes.

A Frying Help.—When frying veal, either steaks or chops, first dip the meat in a little sweet milk. Then place it in a frying pan containing hot butter or a mixture of hot butter and lard. Fry over a good fire and see the results. The milk causes the meat to brown beautifully and imparts to it a delicious flavor and unusual tenderness. Veal fried in this way browns quickly and the juice of the meat is retained, which is not the case when frying is continued for a long time.

COURTSHIP IN SARDINIA.

Wooing is a slightly more complicated matted in Sardinia than it is here, says the Gentlewoman. The marriage customs are very curious. If a father has a marriageable daughter the would-be suitor applies to him for permission to see her as she goes to church, or in the event of her not wishing to be seen he communicates with her by means of a species of telephone which has been in use since time immemorial. It is a long string with a wooden knob at each end. The father's permission having been given, the lady drops one knob out of the window and, the shutters being closed, places the other knob to the ear, while down below her would-be lover pours his protestations into the knob she has thrown into the street. Sometimes this curious form of courtship continues for two or three years, the man never seeing the face of his innamorata.

Lady—"Why should I buy an egg-beater?" Peddler—"Well, the lady next door thought you might return hers if you did!"

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, OCTOBER 22.

Lesson IV.—The foundation of the second temple laid. Ezra 3. 1 to 4. 5 Golden Text, Psa. 100. 4.

Verses 1-3.—Building the great altar of burnt-offerings.

1. The seventh month was come—Of course several months had elapsed since the start from Babylon, for a long stretch of desert eight hundred miles wide lay between. Of that nothing is said. The important thing is the work to be done. And no more favorable month could be chosen than Tisri (our October), which was the month of the great feasts of Trumpets and Tabernacles, and Atonement.

The people . . . as one man—It was a popular movement, in which the multitude was in full co-operation with priests and aristocracy. The first temple was the work of a king; this undertaking was the humbler work of returned exiles. They assembled apparently almost on the ruins of the old temple.

2. Jeshua—He was the son of one of the exiles (1 Chron. 6. 15), and was now high-priest. Since the work about to be accomplished was a sacrificial work, he and his brethren, the leading men of families. The order is reversed in other places. In such a ceremonious act as the building of the altar, these chief men represent the whole people. The altar, a huge, square structure of rough stone, was the all-important symbol of Jewish worship. For fifty years, sacrifices had been at a stand-still. Now they were to be resumed in full force before anything was done toward the refounding of the temple. "The worship itself is felt to be more important than the house in which it is to be celebrated."

Written in the law of Moses—The law concerning the offerings for the first day of the seventh month is found in Num. 29. 1-6. Burnt-offerings had a peculiar sacredness to the Jews, since they symbolized the self-dedication of the worshiper. Moses is several times in the Chronicles spoken of as the man of God.

3. Set the altar upon its base—Perhaps this may mean that they cleared away the accumulated rubbish and set the new altar upon the foundations of the old. The marginal reading, in its place (that is, the place it was permanently to occupy), is, however, the probable meaning. They did this in haste on account of fear of the peoples of the border countries. The erection of the altar, which was a rallying-point for the whole people, would tend to inspire confidence in themselves.

4. The feast of tabernacles—The most gladsome of the Jewish festivals, when for seven days, beginning with the fifteenth of the seventh month, the people celebrated the goodness of God in the final harvest, and the best of the vintage. It commemorated the wanderings in the desert, and from this time was to signalize the deliverance from exile. See Lev. 23. 34-44; Num. 29. 12-38. All this was a revival of ancient customs, and in careful conformity to the revealed will of God (as it is written).

By number—The passage in Numbers 29 gives a detailed list of the required sacrifices for this feast. Every day would have its own numerical requirement.

5. Afterward the continual burnt-offering—Implying that, after the feast of the tabernacles, the full sacrificial system, including these daily morning and evening sacrifices prescribed by Exod. 29. 38-42, which had been interrupted since the destruction of Jerusalem, was resumed. The new moons, although receiving no special attention in the Levitical code, was a popular day of religious practice. These burnt-offerings were also made upon the occasion of the set feasts (Lev. 23. 2-37 and 2 Chron. 8. 13), and upon the presentation of the freewill-offering on any of the great feast days by an individual, Jew or Gentile. That all this should be done before the foundation of the temple was laid (6) would seem a thing incredible to Jews of a later day, who inevitably associated sacrifices with a temple building.

7. The masons—As the stone for the altar was taken from the hill upon which the city stood, the masons probably included those who quarried the stone, as well as those who felled the trees. These were given money—apparently all that had been received from the free-will-offerings, since the timber for the temple was otherwise paid for.

Oil—It was used in the hot eastern countries for external application, and was looked upon as a necessity of life. Here it is classed with food and drink, a recompense similar to that given by Solomon to the workmen from Tyre and Sidon. It will be seen that the Jews had from the start been both diligent and deeply devoted. First, upon their arrival in the spring, they had patiently tilled the soil; then, while waiting, they proceeded with the erection of the great altar; then, with the coming of the harvest, they generously celebrated the bounty of Jehovah with the freewill-offerings of the feast days, and gave the best of the first year's produce of their fields for the purchase of fine timber for the temple.

From Lebanan to the sea, unto Joppa—The cedar-trees from the mountain of Lebanon had a world-wide fame (Jer. 22. 23). The men of Tyre and Sidon, having carried the huge trunks from the hill country to the nearest coast, loaded them upon great rafts, and then floated them to Joppa, the nearest seaport to Jerusalem, a distance of thirty miles.

The grant . . . of Cyrus — This must be understood generally, inasmuch as Cyrus had no jurisdiction over the Phoenicians. The transaction was simply carried out according to his wish and under his favor.

8. Coming unto the house—Where the old temple had stood, and where the new was to stand. Here assembled, in the second month (April) of the year B. C. 536, the people, under the direction of their leaders, both lay and ecclesiastical, began the work on the second temple by appointing the Levites to bear the chief responsibility. Zerubbabel, as the head of the royal house, and the one to whom the commission had been given, is given the place of honor in the account. The Levites were comparatively few in number (seventy-four had returned from the captivity), but they had great influence. In the book of Numbers the limits of age are fixed for them at twenty-five and fifty. But under David the lower limit fell to twenty, and now, with their numbers so impoverished, it became even more needful to keep the standard as low as possible.

9. Jeshua—Not to be confounded with Jeshua the high priest. This one was a Levite, and the verse is best understood as a designation or catalogue of the Levites. Of these there appear to be three families; that of Joshua, that of Kadmiel (the sons of Judah, or Hodaviah, being a special branch of the family), and that of the sons of Henadad (see Neh. 3. 18).

10. They set the priests—The subject must be the leaders, not the builders. Their apparel was their white priestly garments.

11. Sang one to another — This seems to be an allusion to the common practice of antiphonal singing. The refrain, he is good, is a liturgical response, frequently used at sacred feasts, not a quotation from a written psalm.

12. Seen the first house — The destruction of the temple of Solomon took place B. C. 587, and the foundation of the new house of Jehovah was laid about fifty years later.

1. The adversaries—See Introduction above.

2. Esarhaddon—Reigned over Assyria B. C. 681-668.

3. We ourselves together — The undertaking was to be the work of the united Jewish people. While it seems like a narrow exclusiveness, not to say intolerance, it was a defensive measure on the part of a homogeneous community who feared treachery from those who could not be in total sympathy.

5. Hired counsellors—This was one effective means of opposition by which the Samaritans weakened the hands of the builders and put a stop to their work. In addition to open attacks, Syrian officials were paid to make false reports at the Persian court.

Darius—Reigned B. C. 521-485.

DEW PONDS IN GREAT BRITAIN

Among the most singular archaeological remains found in Great Britatin are the ancient dew ponds, the construction of which is ascribed to the nedlithic age. The purpose of these ponds was to furnish drinking water for cattle. An exposed position where springs were absent was selected and a broad, hollowed surface was formed and covered over with straw or some other non-conducting material. Above was spread a thick layer of clay strewn with stones. During the night the cold surface of the clay caused an abundance of moisture to condense from lower layers of the air. Some of these ancient dew ponds are still working.

A SENSITIVE SPIRIT.

Mrs. Moriarty owns a goat, for which she has a warm affection. All the neighbors regard Nanny as quite as much a member of the Moriarty family as is Michael or Kathleen.

One fine morning Mrs. Riordan came running across the street with her shawl over her head, and said, "Mrs. Moriarty, what is the matter wid Nanny? Is she sick? I seen her l'anin' agin the corner of the house, and she was lookin' ill!"

"The saints bless you, Mary Ann," replied Mrs. Moriarty, "Nanny ain't sick! She climbed up on the cinter-table last night and ate the mistletoe, and it made her sentimental, that's all!"

THE IRON WILL.

Does Not Always Succeed—Where It Has Failed.

They tell us an iron will is a very fine thing. A great General rules his forces by his will. A Parliamentary leader drives recalcitrant members into the right lobby by his will, if he has it. Napoleon, they say, controlled all France by his will. I have long had doubts, writes John F. Runciman in the Saturday Review.

Napoleon never had to get an obstinate donkey out of the way of an express train, for there were no express trains, but had the task confronted him I doubt whether the iron will that conquered France would have moved the donkey. Nay, I do not doubt: I am certain it would not. And since men are a great deal more stupid and more than donkeys I am sure it was not by an iron will alone that Napoleon ruled the French.

The iron will only served to rule himself to keep him hard and incessantly at the working out of his great idea, the idea of convincing men that he was the ablest among them, that by following him they did best for themselves. A political boss does the same; there is no iron will involved: merely he shows his followers that they all gain by going with him.

And the same rule holds true in the case of band conductors. A military conductor can get his way because the men under him are punished unless they obey him; an opera or concert conductor may get his way because he can throw out of employment the men who do not obey him.

But the true born conductor, either military or civil, gets his way and fine results when his bandsmen know that by paying close attention to him and putting their backs into their work they help to secure performances of which they may all justly feel proud.

When Nikisch first came here many years ago we were told how on the Continent he was wont to magnetize his men and make them insensibly yield; they would have been dismissed if they had not; but the magnetism did not in the least work in England. The men simply paid no attention to it; there might as well have been no magnetism at all; 'twas in vain Nikisch essayed to fix them with the glittering eye of which we had read so much, too much; the inhuman rascals refused to be fixed; the performances were poor and some one must have lost a fair sum of money over the concerts.

See what happened when Nikisch returned not as master but as servant of the orchestra. The Symphony Orchestra engaged him; the glittering eye nonsense and the iron will nonsense were dropped, and at once artistic results were got. One might disapprove of many things he did, and especially of his affected readings but he gained the effects he wanted, and gained them in a legitimate manner, through the faith the men had in him.

A SELF-TRAPPED MOOSE.

Right Hind Leg Caught in a Cedar Root.

Many wild animals meet with accidents and are unable to help themselves. In a recent book, "With Gun and Guide," the author tells of an incident in his own experience in which, to his certain knowledge, a young bull moose was kept a prisoner for four days and a half, without food or water. The poor beast had suffered the misfortune of having his right hind leg caught in some manner behind a cedar root. The spot was about three feet from the shore of a lake.

With his other feet free, he was trying all this time to free himself, and was constantly digging for himself a muddy grave. The water rushed in as fast as he dug, and the result was an enveloping compound of sticky mud.

I had heard him plainly on Friday and Saturday nights, because the wind was from his quarter. Sunday night it changed, and on that night and the following night we heard no sounds.

On Tuesday morning a guide and I passed right by him without seeing him, although, as I have already said, he was but three feet from the water.

On the return trip, however, the guide, who had left me more than a mile above, again heard the noise, and soon found out the cause.

Going back to the camp, he enlisted the aid of one of our party, an expert photographer, and together they puddled up to the imprisoned moose. With an ax the cedar root was cut, and the animal's leg was freed.

The next thing was to get the beast out. They used a sapling as a lever, having placed it under his belly, with a log for a fulcrum. With one man pulling at his antlers, the other hoisting him by means of the lever, and the moose doing all he could to help them, he was at last liberated.

Both men say that with his eyes, and by turning round and looking at them at every step he took, until he waded across the thoroughfare, he thanked them as eloquently as any human being could have done.

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

N. W. TAMAN

Merchant Tailor,

Exeter, Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	85	85
Barley	70	90
Buckwheat	48	50
Oats,	40	41
Peas	70	75
Potatoes, per bag	75	90
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 50	1 50
Butter	21	22
Eggs	23	24
Live hogs, per cwt.		5 00
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chichen	alive	8c.	dry picked	10c
Hens	"	6c.	"	8
Geese	"	0c.	" heads on	9½
			heads off	10
Ducks	"	8c	" heads on	10½
			heads off	11

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

MAID WANTED

For General Housework. No Washing. Apply to Mrs. John B. Tanton, 551 Waterloo Street, London, Ont.

Underwear—Penmans, Watson's, Ellis', and Stanfield's, underwear in all weights and sizes at a garment 50c. to $1.75.—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Heaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

100 Girls Wanted for Factory. $5.00 per week to start with for girls eighteen and over. Address immediately D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

Ladies' Cape Gloves for Fall wear guaranteed, in tan only at per pair $1.00—Stewart's

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on boys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

Fur Collared Coats with quilted or curl linings, interlined with rubber. Very stylish an serviceable at $17.00 to $25.00—Stewart's.

CISTERN AND WELL CLEANING. — Those having cisterns or wells that need cleaning will do well to have the work done at once. We do it to your satisfaction.—ALBERT GOWER, Exeter N.

Worsted Hose (made from strong yarns, very suitable for school wear. Special at 25c.—Stewart's.

Mr. J. J. Spackman, general agent for the Premier Cream Separator, was in town on Monday, and appointed W. M. Blatchford and B. W. F. Beavers, selling agents for this district for this well known separator. Mr. W. Roland has been agent here for some time for the Premier.

Grease spots on walls may be removed by putting blotting paper on the spot and holding a hot iron against it.

It is stated that Canada's population will be little over 7,000,000, although before the census was taken it was expected to be about 8,000,000.

A very easy method of calculating the rate of travel on a train is to count the number of rails passed over in 20 seconds. This number is the miles per hour that the train is travelling, the calculation being based on the fact that a standard rail is 30 feet long. For instance, if 60 of the standard rails are passed over in 20 seconds, it is easily figured out that the train is travelling about 60 miles an hour.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor of Zurich have moved to Exeter North.

Messrs. McKague and Hackney shipped horses to Montreal on Tuesday.

There are 53 Sundays in 1911. This will not happen again in 109 years.

Rabbit hunting is the main occupation of those who incline toward the sport of shooting.

Miss Daisy Hodgson has secured a position as teacher in Elliott's Business College, Toronto.

Goderich and Wroxeter are to have another Local Option campaign and election this winter.

A mushroom measuring four feet and five inches in circumference was picked on Pelee Island.

The present standing of the parties in the Ontario Legislature is—Conservatives 87, Liberals 18, Labor 1.

The by-elections for the election and re-election of the cabinet ministers at Ottawa will be held on Nov. 1st.

Huron Old Boys in Toronto now number 600, according to the figures of the secretary of the Toronto Huron Old Boys' Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Rolland, who have been residing here for some years, intend removing to Watford, where Mr. Rolland will engage in farming.

Mr. S. Martin moved this week to the house he recently purchased on James Street, while Mr. Wilbur Martin is moving into the residence vacated by his father.

Mr. Helstead, feather cleaner, last week went home to Goderich, where he has a law suit on against the Goderich Organ Company for an injury done to his hand.

Rev. Mr. Yelland preaches in James Street church on Sunday. Rev. A. L. Russell will occupy the same pulpit on Sunday next, and Rev. Jackson the following Sunday.

One of the large circular girders at the skating rink now in course of erection by Mr. Wm. Leavitt was broken on Monday last, entailing a loss of nearly twenty-five dollars.

Mr. Wm. Sneath, baggageman on the Grand Trunk between Wingham and London, is ill in Wingham with blood poisoning, resulting from a scratch made by the jagged edge of a trunk.

Dr. McGillicuddy and Mr. Geo. Coward were in London on Wednesday, when prominent doctors stated that the process of grafting skin and improving the latter's arm were progressing most favorably.

The infant daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Collins was operated on at the General Hospital, Toronto, on Friday last. The operation was a complete success and there is bright prospects of the child's recovery.

Mr. Fred Witwer of Zurich, who recently purchased a dwelling in Exeter North, was in town Monday making arrangements to move here with his family shortly. We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Witwer back to our midst

MRS. JEANNETTE JEWELL KELLOGG, the well-known Elocutionist of Buffalo, has been engaged by The Young Men's Class of Caven Presbyterian Church for Nov. 8th. This is a rare treat so be sure to hear it.

C. W. Cross, former caretaker at the Exeter Cemetery, who came up before Magistrate Kay last week on the charge of misappropriation of funds, was committed for trial, and bail of $500 not being forthcoming he was taken to Goderich on Friday.

From a letter we note that Mr. E. W. Horne, a former resident of Exeter, has opened up an office in Toronto, 304 Lumsden Building, as agent for the International Securities Company, Limited, and is now devoting attention to the selling of Western Lands.

Mr. J Hind, superintendent of the Rose Taylor Company, met with an unfortunate accident on Friday last. They were engaged moving a heavy log past the corner of a building, and the horse starting unexpectedly Mr. Hind was caught between the log and the building, with the result that his leg was badly bruised and his left hand skinned to the bones. The injury, besides being very painful, will lay him off work for some time.

The census enumeration of field crops taken in June shows for the Northwest provinces, together with Ontario and the Maritime provinces an area of 9,999,021 acres wheat, 7,661,862 acres oats, 1,291,287 acres barley, 133,053 acres rye, and 1,090,615 acres flax—to which will be added the areas for two districts in Saskatchewan. For the harvest year of 1900 the corresponding figures of the census of 1901 were 4,068,328 acres wheat, 3,981,379 acres oats, 765,273 acres barley, 156,352 acres rye, and 21,202 acres flax. The increase in the production of the principal grains in the decade, computed for the present year on the estimates of correspondents, is shown to be in round numbers, 148,035,000 bushels of wheat 187,049,000 bushels oats, 21,711,000 bushels barley, 664,000 bushels rye, and 12,360,000 bushels flax. These figures are exclusive of returns for two districts in Saskatchewan.

A RARE TREAT—Exeter people will have a chance to hear something extra good in James st. church on Monday evening, Oct. 23, when there appears one of the greatest harpists of the age, Aptommas, for years harpist to Her Late Majesty Queen Victoria, assisted by Miss Grace Merry, Entertainer and Miss E. Alexandra Bradley, Soprano. Tickets 25c., at Cole's Drug Store and at the Church door. Do not miss this event. It is expected to be equal to the Welsh singers of last year.

BOUGHT BUSINESS.—Mr. S. G. Lamport, a former merchant of Clandeboye and Ilderton, has made a deal with Mr. John Campbell of Farquhar, by which Che takes over the general store business at Farquhar, and Mr. Campbell becomes owner of his house on Simcoe street, Exeter. Mr. Lamport takes possession next week, and Mr. Campbell will return to farming. The people of Farquhar and vicinity will find Mr. Lamport an excellent business man and a good citizen.

The School Field Day

The School Sports remaining over from field day were run off last week,—

Bicycle race, boys, 12 and under	O. Davis, K. Weidenhammer
75 yard dash	E Hunkin, N. Amy, L. Hardy
Button race	M. Acheson, L Boyle, S .Petty
440 yard relay race, (4 to a team)	E. Hunkin's team, S. Petty's team
220 yard race, Sr.	L. Grieve, H. Glenn, R. Dearing
220 yard race, Jr.	G. Morley, C Wood, J. Davis
Running high jump, Sr.	L. Grieve, R. Dearing, H .Glenn
Running high jump, Jr.	C. Wood, G. Morley, R. Dougall
Pole Vault, Jr.	C. Wood, H Parsons, M. Senior
Half mile dash	J. Davis, A. Brokenshire, M. Senior
Half mile bicycle race, Jr.	R. Dougall, L. Treble, C. Wood

Mrs. Latta of the West is visiting Mrs Powell.

Dr. Will. Knight of London was here over Sunday.

Mr. Harry Parsons of London was here over Sunday.

Mrs. W. Johns left Saturday to visit at St. Marys and Sarnia.

Mrs. Frank Wood is visiting friends in London for a couple weeks.

Mrs. (Dr.) Anderson of Winnipeg visited Mrs. S. Fitton this week.

Miss Matthews of Toronto is the guest of her sister, Mrs. S. Fitton.

Mr. William Verity of Brantford was the guest of relatives here over Sunday.

Mrs. Fish and daughter Miss Annie have returned from a visit in Hamilton.

Mr. Ed. Hunt of Seaforth visited with his sister Mrs. I. Armstrong, Tuesday

Miss Jennie Hardy returned last week from an extended visit in Western Canada.

Mrs. A. Holland, Exeter North, still continues quite ill and under the doctor's care.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Handford returned to Palmyra, Wis., last week after a visit here.

Mrs. Murray Miller of Edmonton is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson of town.

Messrs. Geo. Palmer, Frank Taylor and Garvey Acheson of London spent Sunday in town.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. F. Beavers spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Turnbull, Farquhar.

The Misses Alice and Bella Davis of Saintsbury were guests of Miss Flossie Sweet last week.

Mr. Wm. Gray of London was in town Tuesday buying some heavy horses for his business in that city.

Miss Dolly Dickson, who has been visiting in Montreal, Pembrook and other places returned home last week.

Miss M. E. Brown, nurse, who is holidaying at her home here, spent a few days in Wingham during the week.

Mrs. James Wanless and daughters have returned to Duluth, Minn., after a pleasant visit at the home of Mr. L. Hardy.

Mr. Glass, engineer at Harvey Bros.' grist mill, was called home to London last week owing to the illness of his mother.

Mrs. Harry Prowse of Marlette, Mich., is visiting relatives in and around Exeter, while the guest of her mother, Mrs. Wm. Dearing.

Mr. Bennett, who had the erection of the Bank of Commerce building in charge, and is now on similar duty at Porcupine, was in town Tuesday.

Mr. W. H. P. Hooper returned last week from a visit in Farmer's Valley Pa., While in Pennsylvania he went to Austin and saw the effects of the recent flood.

Mr. Chas. Lindenfeldt, who for a number of years has been head clerk in Mr. J. A. Stewart's store here, has resigned the position and will move with his family shortly to Zurich, where he will have charge of Mr. J. J. Merner's store. We are sorry to lose such worthy citizens from our midst.

APPLES

Those wanting good NO. 1 Winter Apples call at the store.

Jones & May

Another Rush

—ON—

Bankrupt Stock

—AT—

The Exeter Bargain Store

Two new stocks received last week including

BOOTS, SHOES,
GROCERIES,
DRY GOODS,
HATS,
CAPS,
ETC.

COME QUICK FOR CHOICE

We have received the agency for the well-known CREAM SEPARATOR—

THE PREMIER

and will carry the same in stock here.

To anyone buying a separator from us at the store before December 1st next we will give a PAIR OF NEW SHOES FREE—Your own choice.

B. W. F. BEAVERS

THE EXETER BARGAIN STORE

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Partland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Bus, Dray and Teaming Business

Your orders in our line will be attended to quickly and satisfactorily. We are here to please the public needing anything in our line, and we ask a trial from you. Orders left by phone or otherwise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will receive prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

Powell's Bazaar

WATCH this store for bargains the rest of the month.

BIG ASSORTMENT of Hallowe'en and Thanksgiving Post Cards

Keep your eye on our windows for specials.

POWELL'S BAZAAR

THE TORONTO NEWS

HAS GENERAL NEWS SERVICE
THE SPORTING PAGE
BEST FINANCIAL PAGE
WOMEN'S PAGE

THE NEWS WILL BE SENT DAILY BY MAIL TO ANY ADDRESS IN CANADA FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A-HALF A YEAR

OUR WATCH AND

Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter

Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers

And

Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a

For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON

The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

New Fall Suitings

In all the Latest Fabrics

We are showing something new every day in our Dress Goods Department. New Serges, New Tweeds New Plain cloths, New Tartans in all the season's best colors. Come along and see what we are doing in the Dress Goods line and select your New Fall Suit or Dress.

SOMETHING NEW IN WINTER COATS

We are receiving something New every day in the coat line and have a fine selection of Fancy Tweeds which are good this year. Plain Cloths in Blacks or Blues in a variety of styles, Coat Collars, Shawl Collars or Military Collars.

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

All the best and latest novelties in headgear are shown by our milliners. Drop in and see the new ones. They are interesting.

CARPETS & RUGS

Have you bought your New Rug. We have some beauties in all sizes. Rugs, Carpets, Curtains, Linoleums in abundance.

Men's and Boys' Clothing

We are making a big display of Men's and Boy's Fall and Winter Suits and Overcoats. The real nifty stuff is here for you to see and we feel sure you will like them. Call and see them and have an early choice. The new shoes are also here in the swell styles.

JONES & MAY

Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

Local Items

Thanksgiving Day, October 30.

The waterworks system was connected with the Central Hotel last week, and a number of bath tubs installed. In the course of a year or two we expect many of the residences will have been connected with the water system, as it is a great convenience.

DEATH OF SAMUEL BUCKINGHAM.—Another of the veteran business men and a most esteemed and respected resident of Exeter has passed to his reward, in the person of Mr. Samuel Buckingham of Huron Street, who died on Saturday morning last at the ripe old age of 81 years and 7 months. The deceased, besides being badly crippled had been in very poor health for several years and for the last two years has been an invalid and almost totally helpless. Mr. Buckingham was born in Lifton, Devonshire, England, on the 5th day of March 1830. In his native country he learned the trade of blacksmithing and some years later married his now bereft wife. In the year 1856 he emigrated to Canada with his wife, living at St. Thomas and other places in Ontario as well as in the United States. For a number of years the deceased conducted a blacksmithing business at Winchelsea and 46 years ago purchased a business in Exeter, which he conducted until 1892, when, owing to poor health, he retired. In his business career he made many warm friends and the qualities that made him popular and inspired real affection in a wide circle were those of a kind heart. In his home he was companionable and cheerful, and was a loving husband and kind father. He was a consistent member of the Methodist church and was always found in his pew when health would permit. In politics he was an ardent admirer of the principles of the Conservative party. Besides the sorrowing widow he is survived by two sons and one daughter—William of Kansas, Miss.; Harry of Bassano, Alta.; and Mrs. James Weekes of town. The funeral, which was private, took place to the Exeter cemetery on Monday.

AUCTION SALES—Farmers and others having auction sales will do well to have their bills printed here and have their sales advertised in the Advocate. It reaches all the people.

15c. pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1

EXETER CONSERVATIVES MEET TO-NIGHT.—A meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Exeter will be held in the Town Hall this Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the Convention at Zurich, to elect officers for the ensuing year and other important business. A full attendance is requested.

While shipping ashes last Tuesday Mr. James Gould got some particles in his eye, with the result that he has a very sore optic.

The Aptommas Concert in James Street Methodist Church on Monday evening drew a very large crowd, the receipts being nearly $200. The entertainment was a very pleasing one, although not just as good as "The Welsh Singers" who appeared last year under the same management, that of Miss Maude Bradley. However, the Concert was more than worth the price of admission. Aptommas, the harpist, although over 82 years of age, is a wonderfully clever musician and a master of the harp. It is marvellous that his fingers should retain their cunning at that great age. Miss Grace Merry, reader, gave some fine selections, while Miss Alexandra Bradley sang very sweetly. Each of the numbers was heartily applauded and the entertainers responded gracefully to the repeated encores.

NEW BARBER SHOP—Mr F. Boyle has opened up a new Barber Shop in the premises over T. Wilson's grocery opposite the Central Hotel, on Saturday next.

The immigration department has just announced the statistics of arrivals for the month of September, 1911. They total 29,076, as compared with 24,034 for September, 1910, or an increase of 21 per cent. Those from the United States number 11,483 as compared with 10,256 for September, of 1910, or an increase of 12 per cent., while arrivals by ocean ports were 17,593, as against 13,778 for the same month last year, or an increase of 28 per cent.

For the first half of the present fiscal year, that is April to September inclusive, the total immigration amounts to 241,930 as against 204, 382 for the same months of last year, or an increase of 18 per cent.

Of this number 83,816 were from the United States, as compared with 75,145 for a like period of last year, or an increase of 10 per cent., while 158,614 arrived via ocean ports as against 128,-937 for the same months of 1910, or an increase of 23 per cent.

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

DRESS GOODS
DRESS GOODS

We are having a two weeks sale of all Dress Goods in black and colored. We therefore quote a few of the prices to show you that we mean what we say. These Dress Goods are in nearly all the shades that are worn this fall. Dress Goods that was

Regular $1.25 for $1.12 — Regular $1.35 for $1.08
Regular $1.50 for 98c. — Regular $1.00 for 88c.
Regular 75c. for 58c. — Regular 50c. for 42c.

All these prices hold good only for two weeks so come in and secure your dress for the coming season.

READY MADE SKIRTS

We have a few ready made skirts in Black, Green Red, Blues, Brown, and Old Rose which we will clear out at a discount of 33⅓ per cent. off. Come and purchase early because this is a bargain.

WALL PAPERS

House cleaning time is come again so buy your Fall Wall Paper now while we are offering a discount of 25 per cent. on all papers.

You may need a new Carpet or Rug this fall, if you do just come in and purchase at a discount of 15 per cent. These are exceptional bargains.

DINNER SETS

Just a few left to clear regular $10.00 for $8.00 Regular $8.00 for $6.00.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

THE AGE WE LIVE IN.

What a marvellous age is this in which we live? What astonishing changes have taken place within the memory of living men?

Men there are whose eyes are not yet dim who can remember when our grain crops were cut with the cradle and bound by hand; when hay was cut with a scythe and put together with a hand rake; when horses went around for hour after hour in a weary circle, to furnish power for the threshing; when wagons sank to the hub on every road in hauling grain to market; when over a large part of Ontario the whistle of the locomotive was still unheard; when buggies were a greater curiosity than aeroplanes are now; when the cost of carrying a letter to Quebec was almost equal to the cost of a telegram to-day; when the fruit supply of the farm was confined to wild berries; when, on the farm, fresh meat was an unknown luxury in Summer; when the ordinary necessities of to-day were undreamed of luxuries. At that time every bushel of wheat produced represented over three hours of human labor, and the labor cost in all other lines was in proportion.

And now. The farm home that is not embowered in orchard is the exception the telephone keeps whole neighborhoods in constant touch; the mail comes in daily; buggies roll luxuriously over gravelled highways; music floats through the open windows along every concession line; in a short time the number of rural homes lighted by electricity will be greater than the number of city homes lighted by gas forty years ago; the country is girdlironed with railways; the binder and seed drill have reduced the time necessary to the production of a bushel of wheat to one-eighteenth the time formerly necessary, and the beef ring places fresh meat on the farm table daily during the heated months. It is only in the work of ploughing that conditions have remained comparatively unchanged, and the gasoline tractor promises an early revolution here.

In other respects an even greater change has been wrought. In other particulars the evidence of an advancing civilization is still more clearly marked. Asylums harbor mentally diseased such as formerly darkened innumerable homes. Well equipped hospitals rob physical disease of half of its suffering. Reforming agencies are taking the place of the stocks, the prison, the gallows. All life has been mellowed and human sympathy has been immeasurably broadened. It is well to have seen the light of this twentieth century. The promise is for still better things for those who will be here to see its close. —The Weekly Sun.

Notice to Creditors

Of MRS. MARGARET AIRTH, Late of the Village of Exeter, in the County of Huron, Widow, Deceased.

Pursuant to Chapter 129 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897, notice is hereby given that all creditors and others having claims against estate of above named deceased who died are on or before the 10th day of November, A.D. 1911, to send by post prepaid, to the undersigned Solicitors for the administrator of the estate of the said deceased their christian names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them, and that after the day last aforesaid the said administrator will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to such claims of which notice shall have been given as above required, and the said administrator will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose claim or claims notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Exeter this 17th day of October, A. D. 1911.

DICKSON & CARLING,
Solicitors for Administrator

Notice to Creditors

Of JOHN W. HORNEY, Late of the Township of Usborne, in the County of Huron, Yeoman, Deceased.

Pursuant to Chapter 129 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897 notice is hereby given that all creditors and others having claims against estate of above named deceased who died are on or before the 10th day of November, A.D. 1911, to send by post prepaid to the undersigned solicitors for Robert K. Horney, the Executor of the last will and testament of the said deceased, their christian names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities, if any, held by them, and that after the day last aforesaid the said Executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to such claims of which notice shall have been given as above required, and the said Executor will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose claim or claims notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Exeter this 17th day of October, A. D. 1911.

DICKSON & CARLING,
Solicitors for Executor

South Huron Liberal-Conservatives Convene

The Liberal-Conservative Association of South Huron will hold a convention in the

TOWN HALL, ZURICH

on THURSDAY, OCTOBER 26th, 1911

Commencing at 1.30 o'clock, for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest the said South Riding of Huron for the Legislature. Addresses will be delivered by J. J. MERNER, M.P., and HENRY EILBER, M.P.P., and others.

LOCAL OPTION FIGHT IN 83 MUNICIPALITIES.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—No less than 83 municipalities, including four cities, 13 towns, 20 villages and 46 townships, have made arrangements for local option campaigns next January, according to the latest list. The cities are Belleville, Chatham, Fort William and Port Arthur, and the towns, Aylmer, Berlin, Blenheim, Blind River, Forest, Goderich, Gravenhurst, Listowel, Mitchell, Petrolea, Ridgetown, Simcoe, and Uxbridge. The villages are, Alvinston, Caledonia, Cannington, Cayuga, Charlton, Chesterville, Glencoe, Hagersville, Hepworth, Jarvis, Lucknow, Madoc, Milverton, Mimico, Newsbury, Port Dover, Springfield, Thedford, Watford, and Wroxeter. The number of licenses affected totals 278, of which 71 are in the four cities, 65 in the 13 towns and 40 in the 20 villages, and 102 in the 46 townships.

PAISLEY, Ont. Oct. 21—A young farmer named Provoleake was accidentally shot and killed while hunting rabbits with a companion on the fourth concession of Elderslie, a few miles from here. He got up on a stump to get a better view of his quarrie, when the stump gave way. In falling the gun exploded and, being pointed towards himself, the bullet entered the abdomen.

IS THE GOVERNMENT TO BLAME.

Is the Government entirely to blame for the scarcity of teachers; Would it not improve conditions if the trustees were willing to pay higher salaries. How poorly paid are public school teachers in comparison with young men or young women in commercial life. The average salaries received by graduates of the Central Business College of Stratford accepting positions this term was $576 per annum. Some accepting these positions were too young to attend the Normal School while some have not had any High School education. The Business College course is shorter than the Normal School term while graduates are in demand in Commercial life, and have greater opportunities.

Some Business firms in the West are offering from $700 to $900 per annum for girls and boys right from the school. One young man who could not attend the Normal School because he was too young, took a course in the C. B. C. of Stratford and at 18 yrs. of age was earning $1200 per annum. Some of 1910 class are now earning still better salaries. The Stratford Business College registers more students each year than any of the Normal schools, and when you consider the success of its graduates you do not wonder at its large attendance.

Many teachers give up their schools each year to attend the college and prepare for commercial life, while others who have prepared for positions as commercial teachers are now receiving from $1200 to $2000 per annum. Young men with ambition make no mistake in taking a business College course, and those who desire to take such a course should attend the Stratford school for it is undoubtedly the best school of its kind in the province. You get individual attention and may enter at any time.

TENDERS FOR SUPPLIES, 1912

THE UNDERSIGNED Will receive tenders up to noon on Friday, 10th November, 1911, for supplies of butchers' meat, flour, oatmeal, potatoes, etc., for the following institutions for the year 1912, viz.:—

At the Hospital for the Insane, in Brockville, Cobourg, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Mimico, Orillia, Penetanguishene, Toronto; the Central Prison and Mercer Reformatory, Toronto, and the Hospital for Epileptics at Woodstock.

Exceptions—Tenders are not required for the supply of meat to the Hospitals in Brockville, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Mimico, and Toronto, nor for the Central Prison or Mercer Reformatory, Toronto.

A marked cheque for five per cent. of the estimated amount of the contract, payable to the order of the Honourable the Provincial Secretary, must be furnished by each tenderer as a guarantee of his bona fides, and two sufficient securities, or the bond of a guarantee company authorized to do business in the Dominion of Canada, will be required for the due fulfilment of each contract. Specifications and forms and conditions of tenders may be obtained from the Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, or from the Bursars of the respective institutions. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the department will not be paid for it.

W. J. HANNA, Provincial Secretary.
Parliament Buildings, Toronto, October 11th, 1911.

EXETER DEPOT BURNED.

The Grand Trunk passenger station was burned to the ground early Friday morning with a loss of about $2,500. The fire was discovered about two o'clock and the building was a mass of flames at that time, there being no possibility of saving anything. The fire brigade was early on the scene and did good work in saving the surroundings, among which were several cars, two, however, being partially burned—one containing potatoes and the other coal. A gun traveller, who had spent the previous day at the Dashwood shooting match, lost his supplies, valued at $500. The station house was one of the handsomest on the line and was built three years ago. Several books of record and all the tickets were destroyed. How the fire started is a mystery. There was no fire in the station at the time, and everything indicates that the fire was of incendiary origin. No trains were through after the regular Bruce train due here at 5.54.

The G. T. R. Company has sent a car here for the use of Mr Knight, station agent, as a ticket office, until the new station is built. The car has been placed on a siding to the south of the site of the burned building.

THE EXETER COUNCIL

The council met in the Town Hall Friday evening, Oct. 20. Members present, except Councillor Rivers. Previous minutes read and approved.

Mr. Wm. Bagshaw waited on the Council, asking to have a crossing on the east side of Wellington north to the creamery. On motion of Day and Walper, owing to the lateness of the season no action be taken.

Day—Walper—That the following accounts be paid,—Jones & May, acct. 45c; D. Russell, acct. 19.35; Geo Orange, cemetery, 1.75; T. Houlden, cemetery, 1.75; John Bell, waterworks and labor, 14.00; Geo. Orrange 19.00; Roy Horne 6.12; T. Houlden 8.50; Fred. Hector 13.13; R. Davis 2.50; R. Quance 2.28; Geo. Cudmore 9.25; G. Powell 1.25; 50c.; Mrs. J. White 1.50; N. Vale 3.50 R. Pickard, auditor, $4; J. Davis, do. $4.

Levett—Walper—That By-law No. 9, to raise by assessment within the Village of Exeter, the sum of $14965.26 for general and other purposes, be read a second and third time and finally passed.

Levett—Walper—That we supply the skating rink with water for the sum of $10 per season.—Carried.

Levett—Day—That the Council meet at the Town Hall Monday at 1.30 p. m. for the purpose of looking over the town with a view to extending the water mains.

Levett—Adjournment to Monday ev'g, Oct. 22nd.

T. B. Carling, Clerk.

THE VALUE OF SMALL SAVINGS

If a young man 15 years of age were determind to take three car fares a week, and to pay the 15 cents thus saved every week until he was 60 to the Canadian Government for the purchase of an Annuity, the result of his thrift would be that from and after 60 he would receive $25.18 every 3 months so long as he lived. If he died before he was 60 all that he had paid in with three per cent. compound interest would be refunded to his heirs, and if he died just before his first instalment of Annuity fell due his heirs would inherit $771.07. A postcard sent to the Superintendent of Canadian Government Annuities, Ottawa, giving your age last birthday, will secure you information as to what an Annuity will cost.

GODERICH, Oct. 22.—Mrs. W. Potts of Saltford, who was so seriously injured in a runaway collision yesterday on the hill leading from Goderich to that village, succumbed to her injuries at nine o'clock last evening. She never regained consciousness. Besides suffering concussion of the brain she was otherwise seriously hurt. Mr. Potts, who was with her in the buggy when the accident occurred was able to be about last evening, but is confined to his bed to-day. He, however, will recover.

BIRTHS

Remington—On the 2nd of Biddulph, on Oct. 16th, to Mr and Mrs. Wilbert Remington, a daughter.

Young—Corbett, October 16th, to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Young, a daughter.

Cudmore—In Unity, Sask., on Oct. 1, to Mr. and Mrs. Enos. Cudmore, formerly of Exeter, a daughter.

MARRIAGES

Dobbs—Doupe—At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Doupe, Kirkton, by Rev. J. Veale, Miss Eunice Margaret Doupe to Mr. J. Minor Dobbs of Lucan.

McEwen—Morton—At Delhi, on October 18th, Miss Edith Emily, daughter of Mrs. Robert Morton, to Mr. Albert P. McEwen, both of Aylmer.

DEATHS

Buckingham—In Exeter, Oct. 21st, Samuel Buckingham, aged 81 years. 7 months.

Brown—In Regina, Sask., Rev. S. F. Brown., formerly of Crediton, aged 45 years.

Weir—In Tuckersmith, on October 17th, George Weir, aged 55 years.

Fraser—In Stanley township, on Oct., 15th, Mrs. Fraser, aged 84 years.

Jackson—In Clinton, on Oct. 16th, Irene L., daughter of Mr. T. Jackson, Jr., aged 23 years and 5 months.

Plumsteel—In Clinton, on Oct. 18th, Sarah Wilts, relict of the late William Plumsteel, aged 90 years and 20 days.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY

You will need a

New Suit or Overcoat

We have a very large line of Samples of Cloth for

Our Made-to-Measure Suits and Overcoats

Nearly One Thousand Kinds of Different Cloths.

40 New Styles

We guarantee a

Perfect Fit and Entire Satisfaction

Do not wait until the last minute.

Order Now

We save you 25 per cent. on your Tailored Clothes.

Cash Only

S. G. Bawden

The Clothier Exeter

A TALK ON RHEUMATISM

Telling How to Cure This Painful Malady.

This article is for the man or woman who suffers from rheumatism who wants to be cured, not merely relieved—but actually cured. The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the tender, aching joint, is a little relief. No lotion or liniment ever did or ever can make a cure. The rheumatic poison is rooted in the blood. Therefore, rheumatism can only be cured when this poisonous acid is driven out of the blood. That's why rubbing and liniments and outward applications are no good—they can't reach the cause in the blood. Any doctor will tell you this is true. If you want something that will go right to the root of the trouble in the blood every time take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make new, rich blood which drives out the poisonous acid and cures rheumatism to stay cured. This is a solemn truth which has been proved in thousands of cases, and the following is a striking instance. Mrs. W. H. Elnor, Sarnia, Ont., says: "I feel it my duty to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as they completely cured me of rheumatism after I had been almost an invalid for three years. I doctored with two skilled doctors and took electric treatment, but without benefit. On going to a third doctor he recommended mineral baths as the only thing that would help me. After taking this treatment for some time I felt that I was really growing worse instead of better, and I began to think there was no cure for me and that I was doomed to be a helpless sufferer. For some months I discontinued all treatment and then I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking a few boxes I could notice a distinct improvement, and I continued taking the Pills for several months, when the cure was complete. That is some two years ago, and I have ever since been perfectly free from the trouble. I would, therefore, advise anyone afflicted with rheumatism to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they certainly made a remarkable cure in my case."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SOUTH AFRICAN NEWS FLIES.

Natives Surpass Telegraph in Their Transmission.

The rapid transmission of news among Kamrs and Hottentots is a Mystery which even Mr. Rider Haggard is unable to solve. Mr. Haggard was at Pretoria in 1879, at the time of the battle of Isandhlwana. Twelve hours after the disaster an old Hottentot washerwoman told him that Cetewayo had defeated the British troops, and gave details of the fight. So impressed was Mr. Haggard that he reported the information to his official superior.

The British official pointed out that it was impossible for the news to be true, as Isandhlwana was 192 miles from Pretoria, and no telegraph or railway communication existed between the two places. On the following day official confirmation of the message was brought by mounted messengers, who were despatched immediately after the battle and travelled at top speed all the way. Yet the natives won by twenty hours, and the washerwoman's story was true in every detail.—London Chronicle.

No woman is as truthful as her mirror.

One Mother Says

"There's only one trouble with

Post Toasties

"When I get a package or two, Father and the Boys at once have tremendous appetites."

POST TOASTIES REQUIRE NO COOKING

Serve with sugar and cream and the smiles go round the table.

"The Memory Lingers"

Sold by Grocers.

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

UNINTENTIONAL GENEROSITY

Just a Little Present for the Newly Married Couple.

Values not infrequently lie below the surface, and can be appraised only by the well-informed. A story from the French journal, Le Cri de Paris, affords a case in point. Recently, when the wealthy Mademoiselle de R. was to be married, a duchess felt under obligation to make her a present—just a little present. The duchess thought it would be useless to expend much money for a person so rich. She thought that if she should look through her vast mansion she would be able to find something—some trinket—to which the addition of her card would give sufficient glory.

She finally found in her writing-desk an insignificant cameo that she had once worn.

The followng day she received from her young friend a letter of enthusiastic thanks. "Oh, you have been very foolish! This is too beautiful!" and other expressions of the liveliest satisfaction.

"She is making sport of my little present," thought the good duchess.

Then came a second letter, this time from the husband who was to be:

"How can we thank you? We are delighted! This will spoil us!"

"The impertinent fellow!" said the duchess. "He wants me to understand that I have been niggardly."

Nevertheless, she went to make a call on the R's before the marriage. There, in the midst of the presents, exposed in a most prominent place, she saw the little cameo placed upon her card. An old gentleman approached her. He is a member of the academy of inscriptions and belles lettres.

"What a wonderful present you have given these children Madame la Duchess," he said. "For forty years we have been seeking for this very cameo. It is of the era of Trajah, and is valued at two hundred thousand francs."

WRONG DIAGNOSIS.

His Physician—Young man, if you don't quit drinking you'll ruin your digestion.

The Young Man—Doctor, it's my ruined digestion that has driven me to drink.

AS GOOD AS A DOCTOR IN THE HOUSE.

Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are little ones. They are as good as a doctor; are absolutely safe and can always be relied upon to drive away any malady arising from derangements of the stomach or bowels. Concerning them Mrs. O. A. Wheeler, Northlands, Sask., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets an invaluable medicine. I live twenty miles from town and doctor, so am glad to have so reliable a medicine at hand. I consider the Tablets a real necessity in the home and shall never be without them. They have kept my baby well and have made him a bonnie baby." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Every man is satisfied that he is worth more to his employer than his pay envelope indicates.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

For Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

It is sometimes better to have loved and lost than to be the other fellow.

Even the strongest advocate of peace does not believe in abolishing the world's navies by getting them to blow themselves up.

The dove returned to the ark. "We shall have peace," it cried; "there is no land to fight about and nobody to fight."

You may not be able to do better than others have done, but you can probably do better than you have done.

A single man is seldom as good as his sweetheart thinks he is, or a married man as bad as his wife suspects he is.

If a man smokes in the house and his wife is afraid her curtains will be ruined, he should be obliging and take them down.

Hudson—I hear Jones has a great invention. Judson—Yes, perforated bedclothes so you can breathe when you pull them over your head.

Mother—"How did you get wet and dirty?" Johnny—"I was sailing my boat in a puddle and had to go down with my ship."

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

HE COULD NOT SLEEP AT NIGHTS

TILL HE FOUND RELIEF IN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Fred. Swanson, of Saskatchewan, sends a message of cheer to those who feel the weariness and discouragement that comes from broken rest.

Macklin, Sask., Oct. 23 (Special)—Those who suffer from sleepless nights and get up in the morning feeling tired and discouraged will find renewed hope in the statement made by Fred. Swanson of this place. He could not sleep at nights. He discovered the cause. It was Kidney trouble. He discovered the cure. It is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Yes," Mr. Swanson says, in an interview regarding his case, "I was troubled with my Kidneys for over a year, so bad that I could not sleep at nights. After using one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills I found great relief. Four boxes removed all my pain and now I sleep well and I am as strong in my Kidneys as any man."

If the Kidneys are wrong the blood becomes clogged with impurities and natural rest is an impossibility. Strong, healthy Kidneys mean pure blood, new life all over the body and that delightful rest that is the sweetest thing in life. Dodd's Kidney Pills always make strong, healthy Kidneys.

A USE FOR ALL.

"Did you know that they can make shoes out of all kinds of skins?"

"How about banana skins?"

"They make slippers out of them."

Sleeplessness.—Sleep is the great restorer and to be deprived of it is vital loss. Whatever may be the cause of it, indigestion, nervous derangement or mental worry, try a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. By regulating the action of the stomach, where the trouble lies, they will restore normal conditions and healthful sleep will follow. They exert a sedative force upon the nerves and where there is unrest they bring rest.

BLOWING IT IN.

"Did he inherit his money?"

"From the way he is getting rid of it I should judge so."

A Well-known Man.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Dear Sirs,—I can recommend your MINARD'S LINIMENT for Rheumatism and Sprains, as I have used it for both with excellent results.

Yours truly,
T. B. LAVERS,
St. John.

She—But how am I to know you will be patient and forbearing when we're married? He—I can put a 14½ stand-up collar on a No. 15 shirt without saying a word.

A Safe Pill for Sufferers.—There are pills that violently purge, and fill the stomach and intestines with pain. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are mild and effective. They are purely vegetable, no mineral purgative entering into their composition and their effect is soothing and beneficial. Try them and be convinced. Thousands can attest their great curative qualities because thousands owe their health and strength to timely use of the most excellent medicine.

A considerate wife will not insist upon her husband's doing more than two-thirds of the housework.

There may be other corn cures, but Holloway's Corn Cure stands at the head of the list so far as results are concerned.

It's a surprise party if everybody there has a good time.

Wife—What a darling you are to admit that you are in the wrong! Hubby—Yes; my mother taught me that it was easier in the long run to give in to a woman than to argue.

Well, Well!

THIS is a HOME DYE that ANYONE can use

I dyed ALL these DIFFERENT KINDS of Goods with the SAME Dye.

I used DY-O-LA ONE DYE FOR ALL KINDS OF GOODS

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 14. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

EIGHTY-MILE PRECIPICE.

Capt. C. G. Rawling, a member of the British expedition that recently explored Dutch New Guinea, describes what may be the greatest unbroken precipice in the world It runs, he says, for a distance of 80 miles from Mount Carstenz westward to the Charles Louis Mountains. Its greatest sheer height is at Mount Leonard Darwin. The explorers were never in a position to measure with the theodolite a sheer height of this immense precipice exceeding 6,500 feet, but from many views obtained of it while he was climbing, Captain Rawling has no hesitation in stating that the greatest perpendicular height is not less han 10,500 feet, or almost exactly two miles.

The Mantle Lamp Company, Dept. 125, Montreal, Can., are giving away absolutely FREE one ALLADIN MANTLE LAMP in each community to introduce this wonderful lamp. It burns coal oil, and is revolutionizing lighting everywhere; is odorless, safe, economical; needed in every home. Don't fail to send them your name and address.

QUICK RECOVERY.

"Mamma," said Johnny, "if you will let me go just this one time I won't ask for anything to eat."

"All right," said his mother. "Get your hat."

Johnny, perched on the edge of a big chair, became restless as savory odors came from the region of the kitchen. At last he blurted out:

"There's lots of pie and cake in this house."

The admonishing face of his mother recalled his promise, and he added:

"But what's that to me?"

ALUM AN UNSEEN DANGER IN FOOD.

Noted food scientists have decided that alum is an unseen danger in food, and as a result of their investigations, rigorous laws have been enacted and are now being vigorously enforced in England, France and Germany, prohibiting the use of alum in foods.

Until suitable laws are passed in Canada prohibiting the use of alum baking-powders, every housewife should be careful to buy only a baking-powder that has the ingredients printed plainly on the label.

Charity Worker—You poor soul! Does your husband always hang around the house all day? Mrs. Tenement (cheerfully) — Indade, no. Half the toime he's in the lockup.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

Giving other people the best of it is a good investment. And besides it may not cost you anything.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

A girl's idea of a rose without a thorn is a handsome young man who is rich and eligible.

Won Fame on Its Merits.—The unbounded popularity that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil enjoys is not attributable to any elaborate advertising, for it has not been so advertised, but is entirely due to the merits of this Oil as a medicine. In every city, town and hamlet in the country it is sought after solely because of its good qualities.

Few of us can do more than one thing well. Many a man who has no difficulty in making money is a dismal failure as a spender.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

SHOULD PAY WIVES.

Yorkshire Women's Association Declares Itself to That Effect.

That husbands should pay wages to their wives is the newest proposition submitted to the Yorkshire Women's Liberal Association, England.

Many women made bitter complaint at a meeting of the association that wives do not even know how much their husbands earn. These women said that in the marriage service husbands promised worldly goods, yet fail to do so and do not intend to do so while they are promising to.

A delegate at the meeting proposed to substitute in the marriage service the words "the husband shall render unto the wife due benevolence and also the wife unto the husband."

The delegates generally agreed that wives should be paid. The association will ask Parliament to make a law providing how a wife's wages shall be fixed and set aside by her husband.

SUFFERERS FROM PILES!

Zam-Buk Has Cured These!

Friction on the hemorrhoid veins that are swollen, inflamed and gorged with blood, is what causes the terrible pain and stinging and smarting of piles. Zam-Buk applied at night will be found to give ease before morning.

Mr. Thomas Pearson, of Prince Albert, Sask., writes: "I must thank you for the benefit I have received from Zam-Buk. Last summer I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief, so I continued it, and after using three or four boxes it effected a complete cure."

Magistrate Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N.S., says: "I suffered long from itching piles, but Zam-Buk has now cured me."

Mr. William Kenty, of Upper Nine Mile River, Hants Co., N.S., says: "I suffered terribly from piles, the pain at times being almost unbearable. I tried various ointments, but everything I tried failed to do me the slightest good. I was tired of trying various remedies, when I heard of Zam-Buk, and thought as a last resource I would give this balm a trial. After a very short time Zam-Buk effected a complete cure."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin injuries and diseases, eczema, ulcers, varicose veins, cuts, burns, bruises, chaps, cold sores, etc. 50c box all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse imitations. Try Zam-Buk Soap, 25c. tablet.

Perhaps the most of us would be different if our neighbors were what they should be.

Sweet and palatable, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is acceptable to children, and it does its work surely and promptly.

A man may pocket his pride, but a woman has to conceal hers elsewhere.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

It is easy to appreciate the points of a sermon when they jab the other fellow.

Stiff neck! Doesn't amount to much, but mighty disagreeable. You will be surprised to see how quick-lp Hamlins Wizard Oil will drive that stiffness out. One night, that's all.

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE
CHATHAM, ONT.
ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST BUSINESS SCHOOLS
Over 2,000 choice positions filled in past Four Years.
Some others just filled:—L. B. HANN, from Newfoundland, placed with Sask. Milling Co., Moose Jaw, as Steno. FERN SMITH, Steno., Peabody Overall Co., Windsor. E. C. ROBINSON Bkkpr., with Bell Furniture Co., Southampton, Ont. FLOSSIE ANDERSON, Steno. and Bkkpr, Can. Wolverine Co., Chatham. MILDRED ANDERSON, Steno., with De Laval Separator Co., Winnipeg. R. J. SCOTT, teacher, with Drake College, Newark, N. J. The salaries of the three shown last week average over $700 per annum. The salaries of the six here shown average close to $700. Our students are prepared for the big positions where the big pay is offered. IT PAYS TO ATTEND THE BEST. Catalogue 33 tells of the work at Chatham. Catalogue 34 tells of our home courses. Address, D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont.

FREE THIS ALADDIN LAMP BURNS COAL OIL (Kerosene) FREE

Outshines city gas or electricity. Simple, noiseless, odorless, clean, safe, money-saving. Guaranteed. Write nearest office for catalogue M and learn how to get an Aladdin Mantle Lamp FREE.

AGENTS T. H. BALL SOLD 850 on money back guarantee, not one returned. Stacey sold 18 in one hour Newsom sold 12 in 10 calls. Gibson sold 45 in 5 days. Sells itself. Needed in every home. Our Sunbeam Burner fits other lamps. Complete line for homes, stores, etc. Ask for our liberal agency proposition.

Mantle Lamp Co., N.Y., Dept. 127 Montreal, Canada

H. H. NIGHTINGALE
STOCK BROKER
Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange
LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN
Correspondence invited.
33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

BONDS
FOR THE SMALL INVESTOR

¶ We continually have bond offerings in small denominations. This is of special interest to those with a limited sum to invest because it places the small investor on an equal footing with the large one so far as interest and security are concerned.

¶ If your capital, whatever the amount, is earning less than 5% you will be interested in the facilities we have for the safe and profitable investment of small sums as well as large.

¶ When you increase the earning power of your capital, without sacrificing anything in the matter of security, you have accomplished a good stroke of business.

¶ We will be glad to talk over with you the investment or re-investment of your capital, no matter how small the amount thereof.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION
LIMITED
BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING
YONGE AND QUEEN STS.
TORONTO
R. M. WHITE - Manager
MONTREAL-QUEBEC-HALIFAX-LONDON(ENG.)

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

$2 DAY SALARY AND UP—ALSO commission—for local representatives; immediately; permanent position; experience unnecessary; rapid advancement; spare time accepted. Nichols, Limited, Publishers, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply B. C. L. Co., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., West Street, Orillia, Ontario.

IF YOU HAVE $100 TO $500 TO INVEST we can show you where there is reasonable probability of trebling same inside of twelve months. Write for particulars. The Waters Harris Syndicate, 43 Victoria St., Toronto.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

AT ONCE—YOUNG MEN TO LEARN Barber Trade. Demand for barbers every day; cannot supply demands. Let us teach you trade. Write for particulars. Moler Barber College, 221 Queen East, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A STUDY OF other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers' Dept., 223 Albert St., Ottawa.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

CHENILLE CURTAINS and all kinds of house hangings, also LACE CURTAINS DYED AND CLEANED LIKE NEW.
Write to us about yours.
BRITISH AMERICAN DYEING CO., Box 168, Montreal

ALEXANDOR'S
FURS

We have in stock a large quantity of Ladies' Near-Seal Coats made in various lengths and styles. These Coats are made from the finest possible skins, and are lined with the very best soft silk lining.

LADIES' NEAR SEAL COATS

50 inches long	$75.00
44 inches long	60.00
36 inches long	50.00

Send us your bust measurement and the length of coat desired, and we will send same C. O. D. to any part in Canada, allowing privilege of examining and returning if not satisfactory at our expense. WRITE TO US TO-DAY.

A. J. ALEXANDOR,
Manufacturing Furriers,
504-508 St. Paul St., Montreal
Coats made to order, same price.

The Worlds Standard for tea is

LIPTON'S TEA

OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS SAILINGS

Allan Line Steamship Co. Ltd.

Victorian	Corsican	Scotian	Sicilian
ST. JOHN, N.B. To LIVERPOOL Sails Dec. 5	ST. JOHN, N.B. To LIVERPOOL Sails Dec. 14	BOSTON To GLASGOW Sails Dec. 7	PORTLAND To GLASGOW Sails Dec. 14
First Class, $82.50 Second Class, $2.50 Third Class, $2.50	First Class, $72.50 Second Class 50.00 Third Class $1.25	"One Class," $60.00 Third Class, $0.25	"One Class," $47.50 Third Class, $0.25

All Steamers equipped with Wireless

Apply THE ALLAN LINE 77 Yonge St. - Toronto

THE RURAL POPULATION

Last Year's Annual Report Showed a Gain the First in a Decade.

A despatch from Toronto says: The large decrease in the rural population of Ontario, indicated by an examination of the census figures issued at Ottawa, is no surprise for the officials of the Department of Agriculture, nor is it occasioning them any particular concern. The returns show that forty-seven cities and towns in the Provinces show an increase of some 344,000, while the Province generally had an increase of but 336,000. The decrease of eight thousand is probably considerably below the actual figures, since many towns under four thousand population must have shown gains. The reports to the Department of Agriculture have, until the past year, shown steady decrease in the rural population, but last year's annual report showed a gain, the first in a decade. "The increase was small—only about four thousand—but it looks like the turning point," said Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in referring to the matter

ALL-DAY FIGHT IN TRIPOLI.

Turks and Arabs Fiercely Resisted Landing of Italians.

A despatch from Tripoli, via Rome, says: The Italian troops and the Turks and Arabs had a hot all-day fight at Benghazi on Thursday, with the former coming out victorious. On the morning of Oct, 18 the second division of the Italian expeditionary force arrived off Benghazi, and Admiral Aubrey, the commander-in-chief of the naval forces, summoned the town to surrender. The Turkish authorities refused, and the Admiral then gave them until 6 o'clock on the morning of the 19th to make up their minds. The Turks paid no attention to this, and when the time limit expired without any word about capitulation from the Turks the Admiral ordered the warships to bombard the fortifications. The shelling by the ships lasted only a short time, and then the troops were landed. The moment they disembarked the Turks made a furious attack, but were repulsed, and 4,000 Italians were gradually landed on Guileania Beach, although the resistance of the Turks, who were aided by the Arabs, continued to be active.

FORTY MINERS KILLED.

Explosion in Coal Mine Caused by Fire Damp.

A despatch from Saint Etienne, France, says: An explosion occurred in a coal mine near here on Wednesday, and forty miners were killed. It is supposed that the explosion was caused by fire damp.

Italian ships reported to be threatening the occupation of Mitylene, in the Aegean Sea.

THE WARNING OF FOOD EXPERTS AGAINST THE USE OF ALUM POWDERS.

There are manp housewives that unthinkingly use alum baking-powders in making biscuits, cake and pastry, when it would only take a little precaution to avoid doing so.

Baking-powders that contain alum cause indigestion and nerve disorders. English food experts condemn alum as an injurious adulterant unfit for a baking-powder ingredient. If you are not careful you may be buying alum in your baking-powder and putting it in food. The way to be sure is to read the label on the baking-powder, and if the ingredients are not plainly printed on it, refuse to accept it.

2 MURDERERS FOUND DEAD.

The Lighthouse Keeper Killed on Pie Island.

A despatch from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., says: A party of hunters, who arrived here on Friday afternoon from the north shore, tell a strange story of what is believed to be the murder of Robert Forbes, a lighthousekeeper on Pie Island, twenty-five miles from Fort William. Forbes' body was found in his station on the Island with the head battered in. The subsequent finding of the bodies of two Indians, who had died after drinking wood alcohol, is believed to explain the murder. It has been determined that the alcohol was taken from the lighthouse, and the police believe the Indians killed Forbes to get at the liquor, which they thought was good to drink. The Indians evidently drained a gallon cask of the poisonous liquid. Both were found lying side by side with the empty cask between them.

This Food-Tonic Quickly Restores Strength

After a serious illness, ordinary food should be supplemented by a strengthening tonic. For this purpose is recommended very highly. In its preparation the disagreeable flavor of the natural Cod Liver Oil is entirely removed, while its well known nourishing and tissue-building qualities are retained. Then we add Hypophosphites to build up the nerves, Extract of Wild Cherry (for the Lungs and Bronchial Tubes), and Extract of Malt (a food itself) which aids in the assimilation of other foods.

NA-DRU-CO Tasteless Cod Liver Oil Compound

Children in particular enjoy the pleasant flavor of Na-Dru-Co Tasteless Cod Liver Oil Compound, and quickly regain health and strength when Nature is aided by this natural food-tonic. Your Druggist has it in 50c. and $1.00 Bottles.

NA-DRU-CO N D C G TRADE MARK

FOR EVERY AILMENT THERE'S A NA-DRU-CO SPECIFIC BEARING THIS TRADE MARK. SEE THAT YOU GET IT.

National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited. 105

VIOLET SMITH'S BODY FOUND

Fate of the Missing Dillon's Port School Teacher Made Plain.

A despatch from Parry Sound says: The body of Miss Violet Smith of Toronto, the nineteen-year-old school teacher at Dillon's Port, who disappeared from the home of Mr. Peter Ramsay, where she was boarding, on the morning of October 9, at 7.30 o'clock, was brought to the surface of the Shebashekong River at 11.30 o'clock Thursday morning by Captain Brock Patten of Port Arthur, brother-in-law of the deceased, after he had dragged the little river for some time.

Though the mystery as to the fate of the missing teacher has been solved, the mystery as to how her life was ended has, yet to be cleared up. Though suicide immediately suggests itself as an explanation, it is understood that no tracks leading to the place opposite the spot in the river where the body was discovered were discernible. There is then some uncertainty as to how Miss Smith got into the river. It was suggested that she jumped off the bridge over the Shebashekong River, but there is no current to carry the body midway between the bridges. Neither Captain Batten nor Mr. Beatty examined the body to find any marks of foul play or any note of explanation.

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Flour—Winter wheat, 90 per cent. patents, $3.55 to $3.60, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours—First patents, $5.40; second patents, $4.90; and strong bakers', $4.70, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba Wheat—New No. 1 Northern, $1.08, Bay ports; No. 2 Northern, $1.06 1-2; and No. 3, $1.04, Bay ports.

Ontario wheat—No. 2 white, red and mixed, new, 86 to 87c, outside.

Peas—Good milling peas, 92 to 95c, outside.

Oats—Ontario No. 2 at 43 to 44c, outside, and No. 3 at 42c; car lots of No. 2, on track here, 47c. No. 2 Western Canada, 48c, and No. 3, 47c, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 3 extra, 67 to 68c, outside, and No. 2 at 90c, outside.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow, 75c, Bay ports.

Rye—Car lots, outside, 77 to 80c for No. 2.

Buckwheat—No. 2 at 55 to 57c, outside.

Bran—Manitoba bran, $23, in bags, Toronto freight. Shorts, $25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Apples—Winter stock, $3 to $4 per barrel.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked, $2.25 to $2.60 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2.50 to $2.75.

Baled Hay—No. 1 at $15 to $16, on track, and inferior at $12 to $13.

Baled straw—$6.50 to $7, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, 95c to $1.

Poultry—Wholesale prices of dressed poultry:—Chickens, 12 to 13c per lb; hens, 11 to 12c; ducks, 12 to 13c; turkeys, 17c. Live poultry about 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER, EGGS, CHEESE.

Butter—Dairy, choice, in wrappers, 25 to 26c; do., medium grades, 22 to 23c. Creamery quoted at 27 to 28c per lb. for rolls, and 25 to 26c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid, 28c, and fresh at 24c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—Large, 15c per lb, and twins at 15 1-4c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Cured meats are quoted as follows:—Bacon, long clear, 12 to 12 1-2c per lb. in case lots. Pork, short cut, $2.50; do., mess, $20 to $20.50. Hams, medium to light, 17 to 17 1-2c; do., heavy, 15 to 15 1-2c; rolls, 11 to 11 1-2c; breakfast bacon, 17 to 18c; backs, 19 1-2 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 10 1-2c; tubs, 10 3-4c; pails, 11c.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Oots—C. W., No. 2, 48 1-2 to 49c, car lots, ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 48 to 48 1-2c; No. 3 C. W., 47 1-2 to 48c; No. 2 local white, 47 to 47 1-2c; No. 3 local white, 46 1-2 to 47c; No. 4 local white, 46 1-4 to 46 1-2c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.50; seconds, $5; Winter wheat patents, $4.75 to $5; strong bakers', $4.80; straight rollers, $4.25 to $4.40; in bags, $1.95 to $2.05. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $5.25; bag of 90 lbs., $2.50. Corn—American No. 3 yellow, 78 to 78 1-2c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23 to $24; Manitoba, $23; middlings, Ontario, $27 to $28; shorts, Manitoba, $25; mouillie, $26 to $32. Eggs—Selected, 26 to 27c; No. 1 stock, 21 1-2 to 23c. Cheese—Westerns, 14 to 14 1-2c; Easterns, 13 5-8 to 13 7-8c. Butter—Choicest, 27 1-2c; seconds, 26 1-2 to 27c.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Minneapolis, Oct. 24—Close—Wheat—December, $1.10 3-4; May, $1.14 5-8 to $1.14 3-4; No. 1 hard, $1.12 1-4; No. 1 Northern, $1.11 1-4 to $1.11 3-4; No. 2 Northern, $1.08 1-4 to $1.09 3-4; No. 3 wheat, $1.04 1-4 to $1.06 1-4. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 74c. Oats—No. 3 white, 45 3-4 to 46 1-2c. Rye—No. 2, 93c. Bran—$21.50 to $22. Flour—First patents, $5.40 to $5.70; do., seconds, $5 to $5.30; first clears, $3.90 to $4.25; do., seconds, $2.80 to $3.25.

Buffalo, Oct. 24.—Spring wheat—No. 1 Northern carloads, store, $1.15 1-2; Winter strong. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 78 3-4c; No. 4 yellow, 77 1-2c, on track through billed. Oats—Strong Barley—Malting, $1.14 to $1.22.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Oct. 24.—A few choice North-West steers sold at $5.65 to $5.75, but the bulk of the trading done in top grades was at $5.50 to $5.60, good at $5 to $5.25, medium at $4.50 to $4.75, and common at $3 to $4 per cwt. Good butchers' cows brought from $4.25 to $4.50 and medium $2 to $4 per cwt. The demand for milch cows is very good at $55 to $75 per head for good to choice milkers and at $25 to $35 for common and medium. Sheep, ewes, sold at 3 1-2 to 3 3-4c, and bucks and culls at 2 1-2 to 3 1-4c per lb. Lambs, weighing from 60 to 85 lbs., brought 5 to 5 1-2c per lb. Choice heavy calves $15 to $20 each, and the commoner ones at from $3 to $10 each. Sales of selected hogs were made at $6.25 to $6.50, and heavy lots at $5.75 to $6 per cwt., weighed off cars.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—The butcher cattle sold at from $5.50 to $5.75, but there were not many at that level. Good stock went from $4.75 to $5.25, with common as low as $3.75. Good to choice cows sold for $4.25 to $5, and common to medium at $3 to $4. Heavy feeders are still wanted at from $4.50 to as high as $5.20 for something of exceptional quality. Canners brought from $1.50 to $2.00. The market for calves is stronger. The range of prices is from $5 to $8.75 each. There is little inquiry for poor stock. Sheep are steady. Hogs, $5.90 f.o.b. and $6.15 to $6.35 fed and watered.

WHY SUFFER ALL WINTER?

Hardfield, N. B.

"It affords me great pleasure to convey not only to you, but to all sufferers from Backache and Rheumatism, the great relief I have obtained from the use of Gin Pills. I feel thankful to you. I recommend Gin Pills to everyone suffering as I did."

ROBERT M. WILSON.

Write us for free sample of Gin Pills to try. Then get the regular size boxes at your dealer's or direct from us—50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Money refunded if Gin Pills fail to cure. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited., Dept. W.L., Toronto.

TWO REVENUE INCREASES

Ontario Succession Duties Over a Million --- T. & N O. Earnings Larger.

A despatch from Toronto says: With the close of the financial year, still two weeks away, succession duties paid to the Provincial Treasurer have already passed the hoped-for million mark. The total amount received up to Thursday was $1,027,081, which means that over $75,000 has been paid in since the first of the month. Two of the largest payments this month came from the estate of the late Andrew Gunn, which returned the Treasury $15,578, and that of the late F. J. Phillips, which paid in $18,539. In two previous years the total of succession duties was over a million, but in each year exceptionally large estates were probated.

Another revenue increase is expected to come from the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway. Hon. Mr. Matheson has not received the figures, but he is looking for the earnings of the Government line to come up to the estimate. Last year the estimate was $625,000, while receipts were but $420,000. For this year the Provincial Treasurer put the estimate at $500,000, which sum, it is expected, will be turned over to the Province.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

MADE IN CANADA
CONTAINS NO ALUM
CONFORMS TO THE HIGH STANDARD OF GILLETT'S GOODS.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

SOME SIGNIFICANT CONTRASTS BETWEEN BONDS AND REAL ESTATE MORTGAGES.

Difficulty of Subdividing a Mortgage and Necessity of Examination of Property Makes Sale Difficult, if Not Impossible—All Right for Big Estates and Companies—More Suitable Investments for Those of Small Means.

The articles contributed by "Investor" are for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and, if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-cat" enterprises. The impartial and reliable character of the information may be relied upon. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve in connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

The question of distribution of risk is one that few mortgage investors bear in mind. As a rule, the average investor has but limited means, and, therefore, cannot buy more than a few mortgages at the most. These, too, are altogether likely to be in his own neighborhood. The result is that when a year like the present comes—severe drought in many places, perhaps causing a total failure of the crop in the particular district in which one has been loaning—there is a very good chance that interest, at least, will not be forthcoming. It is hard, if not impossible, for a person of small capital to get a sufficient number of small mortgages to enable him to distribute his risk properly. On the other hand, in the case of many bonds, one can buy denominations of $100 and upwards. The farmer who is willing to place a mortgage for so small a sum as that on his property in all probability is in such straitened circumstances that the security is very doubtful.

Of course, in the case of a very large estate the question of proper distribution of risk demands that a certain proportion of the money involved be put into sound mortgages.

As pointed out last week, the fact that mortgages are saleable only with difficulty, is a serious drawback in the case of many investors. The reason for this is quite obvious. In the first place, mortgages, that is, real estate mortgages, are usually made by private individuals. They are not divisable, so that it is impossible for a purchaser to buy part of a mortgage. In the case of a bond, on the contrary, the holder of a thousand dollar Wm. Davies bond, for example, can divide it into ten bonds of $100 each, each of which is equally as secure as the whole, and it is issued by a company whose shareholders, in their desire for dividends, will see that its earning power is kept up, if at all possible. Then the prospective purchaser of a mortgage will have to go to the expense of a careful search of the title of the property mortgaged; he will have to go to the expense and trouble of having the property valuated, he will have to worry about the question of insurance. In short, it is no great wonder that mortgages cannot be sold for their face value. If, on the other hand, the seller of a mortgage has to pay all these expenses when the purchaser demands it, he is that much worse off, as the expense adds to his loss.

In the case of bonds all this trouble is obviated for the reason that the legality and security of a bond issue are, as a rule, carefully examined and passed upon once for all by one or more of the most skilled lawyers in Canada. Except in the case of small municipal bond issues the issues are for large amounts and are therefore generally so well known that there is no need for more than the mere statement that one wishes to sell in order, at most times, to find a ready purchaser.

For the small private investor, then, there is no comparison between the two classes of securities.

The writer will, of course, be accused of prejudice against mortgages. That is quite true, but it is based on experience. For, many years ago I loaned a small sum on a first mortgage. The amount was small and on ample security—residential property in a part of Toronto which was rapidly growing in population and value. It so happened that I found it necessary to get some ready cash for another and much more desirable investment. I tried to sell the mortgage. The first and only offer was for an amount equal to only 80 per cent. of its face value. As this meant a substantial loss of $200 out of every thousand, it was naturally not accepted. Finally, the other investment, which proved profitable to those who "got in on it," had to be passed by.

The reason why large companies like insurance, mortgage and loan companies find mortgages so attractive is this: In the first place, they employ large staffs whose duties are so divided that all such small, but important, details of a mortgage as insurance, etc., are attended to as part of the routine of the day's work. They can afford to employ their own skilled valuators who do nothing else but pass on the security of mortgage opportunities offered them. Finally, their yearly incomes are so great and from such a diversity of districts that if John Jones and, perhaps, a score of others find it impossible to meet their interest payments they are by no means worried—they let it rest for a season, when, in the usual course of events it will be caught up.

Unless, therefore, you are willing to go to a lot of trouble and worry, not only over making your original investment, but in all the time it is current, it is best to avoid mortgages. Of course, many people have made money out of mortgages—but not in a way any self-respecting person would care to do.

INVESTOR.

SCIENCE SAYS ALUM IS UNFIT FOR USE IN FOOD.

In Great Britain no one is allowed to sell alum hidden in baking-powder, because the English law protects the people from this injurious acid.

Canada has not yet enacted a law against the use of alum, and as alum in baking-powder cannot be detected by its appearance, many manufacturers are using this condemned acid because it is a cheap adulterant.

It is a fact that alum in your stomach produces the same disagreeable results to the delicate organism as you will feel in your mouth by putting a tiny piece on your tongue. Science shows that alum reduces the flow of the gastric juices and weakens their power of assimilation, causing indigestion and the ills that follow.

No housewife should buy a baking-powder made by a manufacturer that is afraid to print the ingredients plainly on the label of each can, and the wording should state that there is no alum in disguise inside.

C. N. R. DECIDES TO TUNNEL.

Will Apply for Authority to Pierce Mount Royal.

A despatch from Toronto says: At the forthcoming session of the Dominion Parliament the Canadian Northern Tunnel and Terminal Company will apply for authority to construct and operate a railway tunnel under Mount Royal, Montreal. The cost of the undertaking is conservatively estimated at $25,000,000, and in addition the Canadian Northern Railway is likely to spend a large sum in improvement work around Montreal. It is understood that the application will be sufficiently comprehensive to allow the C.N.R. to construct and operate lines connecting its tracks with the C.N.O. and C.N.Q. railroads, and those of the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal. The tunnel will give the C.N.R. easy access to the city of Montreal and avoid the slow handling of trains around the mountain. The tunnel will be approximately three miles in length.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box.

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech. Props.

THURSDAY, OCT. 26, '11

Everybody but the merchant is wishing for about two more months of this fine fall weather.

There is considerable credence given to the belief that the Provincial election will be held not later than December 12. The exact date will soon be announced.

A Dawson despatch Tuesday night states that Dr. Thompson, Conservative, is elected in Yukon by about 400 majority over F. T. Congdon, Liberal. Congdon had 266 majority at the last election. This will make the Borden majority 50.

Every year Canada's fire waste totals $24,000,000. In four years the fire destruction, therefore, amounts to $100,000,000, which means that once every four years we burn the value of the wheat crop of the three prairie provinces.

If there are any people who think that the farmers are not satisfied with the prices they are receiving they should attend a few of the auction sales and note the prices received and the pleased expression of the farmers' faces. You will not find our farmer friends complaining.

Canadian Farm asks a few pertinent questions of the farmers in last week's issue. Read them.—Have you got your cellar cleared out for the potato crop? Is the government ditch full of old weeds and sticks, or has the bank caved in? How much time did you lose last spring cleaning up the implements left all winter, and how much money did you lose over it? Can you afford to grow your crops in the same way as you did this year? What did it cost you to grow your produce, anyway? Is the corn crib only half full? If it is then your cultivator has had rusty teeth all summer. Can you keep all that stock through the winter on your present food supply? Are you satisfied that you know everything worth knowing about farming? And lastly, wouldn't you like to be better by benefiting by other people's experiences?

There is no doubt as to the choice of the Liberal-Conservatives, who meet in convention at Zurich to-day, falling upon the late member of the Provincial Legislature, Mr. H. Eilber, who has represented South Huron for several terms. Mr. Eilber is a painstaking public servant, who looks well after the interests of his constituency and the Province at large, and his return at the forthcoming election is assured. Several of the best men of the Liberal party have been defeated by Mr. Eilber, and it is a question whether there are others who are anxious to lose time and money in contesting the riding against Mr. Eilber. Men who have been mentioned as possible Liberal standard bearers, are Dr. Sellery of Hensall, Henry Smith of Hay and E. Zeller of Zurich. In addition the record of Premier Whitney's Government is such as to make the opposition candidate in any riding reluctant to contest an election, and where the Conservative candidate is so personally popular as Mr. Eilber the chance for a Liberal's success becomes very slim. The Liberals convene in Hensall on November first.

BRUCEFIELD—We deeply regret this week being called on to record the death of Mr. George Weir, of the London road Tuckersmith, south of this place. The announcement of Mr. Weir's death took a great many by surprise, as few knew of his illness. It seems that Mr. Weir had attended the Bayfield Show on Wednesday and in some way caught cold, which developed into pneumonia, and resulted fatally Tuesday. Mr. Weir was well and favorably known in this neighborhood.

RHEUMATISM GONE, SAYS DETECTIVE KILLEN.

Morriscy's No. 7 and Liniment Cured his Knee. "Feels good as new."

St. John, N.B., April 12, 1911.

"I am glad to report that my knee is completely cured of Rheumatism—thanks to Father Morriscy's No. 7 Rheumatism & Kidney Tablets, as they alone are responsible for my cure. I was troubled for a number of years, and tried everything I heard of, and needless to say, spent quite a sum of money without any results. I have no further trouble now, and my knee feels as good as new. I was personally acquainted with the late Father Morriscy and know his remedies are good. Anyone suffering from Rheumatism and Kidney trouble should by all means try No. 7 Tablets, as I can cheerfully recommend them." PATRICK KILLEN, Provincial Detective, St. John, N.B.

The above prescription is not a "Cure All" or so-called patent medicine. Mr. Morriscy prescribed it for 44 years and cured thousands after other doctors failed.

Price, 50c. per box at your dealers or Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited, Montreal. 3-0

SHE SNUBBED MONROE.

Incident in the Later Life of Mrs Alexander Hamilton.

A striking incident in the later life of Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, who survived her husband fifty years, is told in the words of an eyewitness in Allan McLane Hamilton's "Intimate Life of Alexander Hamilton."

Mrs. Hamilton could never forget the behavior of Monroe when he, with Muhlenberg and Venables, accused Hamilton of financial irregularities at the time of the Reynolds incident. Many years afterward when they were both aged people Monroe visited her, and an interview occurred which was witnessed by a nephew, who was then a lad of fifteen. "I had," he says, "been sent to call upon my Aunt Hamilton one afternoon. I found her in her garden and was there with her talking when a maidservant came from the house with a card. It was the card of James Monroe. She read the name and stood holding the card much perturbed. Her voice sank, and she spoke very low as she always did when she was angry. 'What has that man come to see me for?' escaped from her. 'Why, Aunt Hamilton,' said I, 'don't you know it's Mr. Monroe, and he's been president, and he is visiting here now in the neighborhood and has been very much made of and invited everywhere, and so—I suppose he has come to call and pay his respects to you?' After a moment's hesitation 'I will see him,' she said.

"The maid went back to the house. My aunt followed walking rapidly after her. As she entered the parlor Monroe rose. She stood in the middle of the room facing him. She did not ask him to sit down. He bowed and addressing her formally, made, rather a set speech—that it was many years since they had met, that the lapse of time brought its softening influences, that they both were nearing the grave, when past differences could be forgiven and forgotten in short from his point of view a very amelioratory, well turned little speech. She answered, still standing and looking at him: 'Mr. Monroe, if you have come to tell me that you repent, that you are sorry, very sorry, for the misrepresentations and the slanders and the stories you circulated against my dear husband, if you have come to say this, I understand it. But otherwise no lapse of time, no nearness to the grave, makes any difference.' She stopped speaking. Monroe turned, took up his hat and left the room."

In this connection it may be said that the oft repeated story of the meeting of Mrs. Hamilton and Aaron Burr many years later on an Albany steamboat is a fiction, but it was probably suggested by the Monroe incident.

Hanged For Stealing Golf Balls.

Some sharp punishment has lately been meted out to men convicted of golf ball stealing, and one boy was sentenced to six strokes with the birch. The offenders, however, may congratulate themselves that they live in a merciful age.

In 1637 at an assize in Banff a lad of the town, having confessed to stealing a few trifles, including some golf balls, was actually hanged for the offense. The indictment ran that he was "ane lewd liver and boy of ane evill lyiff, and conversation, and ane daylie remainer fro the kirk in tyme of dyvyne worschip." The humane judges "ordanit the said Francis to be presentlie tackit and cariet to the Gallows hill of this burgh and hangit on the gallows thereof to the death."—London Graphic.

Want Advertisements, London, 1693.

"I want a young man that can read and write, mow and roll a garden, use a gun at a deer and understand country sports and to wait at table and such like.

I want a complete young man that will wear livery to wait on a very valuable gentleman, but he must know how to play on a violin or a flute.

I want a genteel footman that can play on the violin to wait on a person of honor.

If I can meet with a sober man that has a counter tenor voice I can help him to a place worth £30 the year or more.—From Sampson's "History of Advertising."

Illusions of Life.

Life is like a beautiful and winding lane—on either side bright flowers and beautiful butterflies and tempting fruits, which we scarcely pause to admire and to taste, so eager are we to hasten to an opening which we imagine will be more beautiful still. But by degrees as we advance the trees grow bleak, the flowers and butterflies fall, the fruits disappear, and we find we have arrived—to reach a desert waste.—G. A. Sala.

Knew When He Was Well Off.

Sanitarium Doctor—So Mrs. Pittsfield was here while I was away?

Nurse—Yes, sir. She wanted to take her husband home, but he said he preferred to stay here.

Doctor—I've suspected that case all along; the man is not crazy at all.—Puck.

What He Saved.

Mr. Hubb—I haven't saved a dollar since I married you.

Mrs. Hubb—Oh, what a fib! You've saved nearly half you had in the bank at that time.—Boston Transcript.

A Matter of Choice.

Maud—Miss Oldum declares that she is single from choice. Ethel—That's true. The man she expected to marry chose another.—Exchange.

We rarely confess that we deserve what we suffer.—Quesnel.

The Advocate will be sent to any address in Canada till January 1913 for $1.00.

It is estimated that 1000 tons of sugar beets will have been shipped from here by the time the last car leaves.

DASHWOOD

Mr. Herman Zimmer had a shooting match on Thursday of last week which was largely attended by all the best sports from far and near.—Mr. E. M. Brokenshire was in Crediton Saturday last on business.—Several from this place attended the Auction Sale of Mr. Moses Amy's stock and implements on on Saturday last.—Mr Henry Willert, Reeve of Stephen, will have an Auction sale of his surplus stock to-day Thursday.—Several from here will attended the Liberal Conservative Convention at Zurich on Thursday to select a candidate to contest the riding in the coming Provincial election.—Mr. Berry Cunningham of Elderton called on friends in the village on Thursday last. Several of their intimate friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Christian F. Finkbeiner on the evening of Friday last in honor of Mrs. Finkbeiner's birthday. They were royally received and spent a most pleasant evening. E. M. Brokenshire.

From another source.

Another meeting of the Farmers Bank depositors will shortly be held here. J. J. Merner, M. P., and Henry Eilber, M. P. P., will give addresses advising the best course to be adopted in connection with obtaining relief, and giving their stand on the subject.—David O'Brien of Mt. Carmel was in town Wednesday.—Miss Margaret Neuschwanger has gone to Forest for a month the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Herman Eidt.—The councils of Hay and Stephen townships are having the townline running from Exeter to Lake Huron, particularly the place from here to Exeter, graded and well gravelled. This road is used a great deal.—Simpson Ireland of Stratford visited his many relatives and friends in and near the village last week.—Mrs. Rothaermel and Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Case have returned to town, after spending the summer near Exeter.—Among the prize winners at Mr. Zimmer's annual shooting match, held here on Thursday, were, Messrs. J. E. Cantelon and Jas. Fair of Clinton; Jos. Hill of Woodstock, and Fred Kerr of Crediton.—Thos. E. Handford, who conducts a large and successful Bible class in Main Street Methodist church, Exeter, was the guest of Jacob Kellermann Sunday week and gave a very instructive address to Mr. Kellermann's class in the Evangelical church.—Mrs. Johnson of Blake has been visiting the past week with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Kellermann and Mrs. A. Birk.—Mrs. Twitchen of London was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam'l Haugh and other relatives last week.

OH HOW I ITCHED

What long nerve-racking days of constant torture—what sleepless nights of terrible agony—itch—itch—itch. CONSTANT ITCH, until it seemed that I must tear OFF MY VERY SKIN—then—INSTANT RELIEF—my skin cooled, soothed and healed. The very first drops of D. D. D. stopped that awful itch instantly, yes, the very moment D. D. D. touched my skin the torture ceased.

D. D. D. has been known for years as the only absolutely reliable Eczema cure. Just a mild, soothing, pleasant wash made of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients, but the instant relief D. D. D. gives to all kinds of skin troubles seems like a miracle, and when used with D. D. D. Soap keeps the skin in perfect condition.

If you have any kind of skin trouble—Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, no matter what it is—yes, even pimples, investigate the wonderful D. D. D. Prescription. We know what D. D. D. has done—we vouch for it. D. D. D. never fails to do exactly as is claimed.

The D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept E, A. 49 Colborne St. Toronto, will gladly send you a trial bottle if you write them, or call at our store and get a bottle. It will relieve all skin trouble at once. W. S. HOWEY, Druggist.

CLEARING

Auction Sale

AT HIS WAREROOMS, MAIN STREET EXETER,

On SATURDAY, OCT. 28, at 1 p.m. the following new and second hand articles,—

1 buggy with top, new; buggy with top; 4 new cutters; 3 second hand cutters. Lumber wagon; Diamond Harrows, new; Fleury riding plow, new 1 furrow; 2 Fleury 2-furrow plows; 3 No. 21 Fleury walking plows, new; one-horse Fleury plow, new; Fleury grinder, new; Wilkinson sod plow, new; 3 washing machines, new; 4 wheelbarrows, new; 3 stepladders, new; 8 steel pig troughs, new; "Dairy Maid" cream separator, new; pair wagon bolster springs, new; safe; Wilkinson ditching plow, new; bag truck, new; 2 scufflers; 3 hay carriers car, new; 3 heating stoves, stove drum; 2 iron grain feed boxes, new; sickle grinder, new; 3 set of sling ropes, new; 2 dozen hay fork pulleys, new; roll of fence wire, new, spring seat for lumber wagon, new; 5 large pictures; 1 beet puller; writing desk. A lot of other articles too numerous to mention including plowshares, landsides, sole plates and a lot of repairs for different kinds of machines. This is a rare chance to buy new machines at your own price at the proprietor is giving up business.

TERMS.—All sums of $5 and under, cash; over that amount 7 months' credit on furnishing approved joint notes.

B. S. PHILLIPS, Auctioneer. W. G. BISSETT, Proprietor.

Westervelt School

Y. M. C. A. BLDG., LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR., Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, President.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by all Druggists, 75 cents.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

CLINTON—Two pioneers passed to their reward last week, Mrs. H. Plumstead, mother of H. Plumstead, a dry goods merchant here, in her 90th year, also Dr. Thos. Churchill, well-known throughout this district as an old settler but for the last few years had resided at Moosejaw.—A daughter of Thos. Jackson, jr., a promising young lady in her 24th year, was buried Thursday. She was an exceptionally bright young lady and a general favorite wherever she went.

Clearing Auction Sale

OF CHOICE FEEDING STEERS, FARM STOCK, IMPLEMENTS and HAY.

On LOT 11, S. THAMES RD. USBORNE

On TUESDAY, OCT. 31st at 12 p.m. sharp, the following,—

Horses—1 mare 3-yr-old, sup to be with foal, draft; 1 mare 2-yr-old, agric. 1 hackney driver, 4-yr.; 1 aged roadster; 1 roadster sucking colt; 1 agricultural sucking colt.

Cattle—2 cows, newly calved; 1 cow, due time of sale; 2 heifers due in January 2 cows, due in February; 2 fat cows; 18 choice short keep feeders, 1050 lbs; 10 choice feeders 950 to 1000 lbs; 5 fat heifers, 3-yr-old; 6 yearling steers and heifers, 3 calves.

Hogs—Sow with litter at foot; sow due in December.

Hens—About 150 barred rocks.

Implements—lumber wagon, and box, complete; top buggy, new; open buggy; pair sleighs, binder nearly new; mower nearly new; 12-ft. rake, new; loader pea-harvester new; seeder and drill; 3-horse cultivator, scuffler; disc new; land roller; pulper; large straw cutter with carriers, belts and all complete; single plow; 2-furrow plow; set harrows; platform scales 2000 lbs; gravel box new; hay rack, fanning mill; grindstone, extension ladder, 32 ft.; short ladder, step ladder; stoneboat, wheelbarrow, 2 set double harness, 1 nearly new; 2 sets single harness; horse blankets; barrels; grain bags; chains; hay knife, forks, hoes, whiffletrees, saw quantity first-class hay, and numerous other articles.

Household Furniture—bedstead, combined dresser and wash stand; bed couch, 2 rocking chairs, milk cans, pails buckets, pans, dished, etc.

Positively no reserve as the proprietor has sold his farm and is retiring.

Terms—$5 and under cash; over that amount 12 mos. credit on approved joint notes. 5 per cent. off for cash on the credit amounts.

For feeders and fat heifers—5 per cent interest on notes.

H. RUNDLE, Proprietor. T. CAMERON Auctioneer

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

Thanksgiving Day

SINGLE FARE between all stations in Canada, also to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y., Port Huron and Detroit, Mich. Good going October 27, 28, 29, 30 Return limit November 1st, 1911.

HUNTERS'

RETURN TICKETS AT SINGLE FARE

OCT. 9th to NOV. 11th,

to points in Temagami, points Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, Que., inclusive, also to certain points in Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Maine.

OCT 19th to Nov. 11th

to Muskoka Lakes, Penetang, Lake of Bays, Midland, Maganetawan River, Lakefield, Madawaska to Parry Sound, Argyle to Coboconk, Lindsay to Haliburton. Points from Severn to North Bay inclusive, and certain points reached by Northern Navigation Co.

All tickets valid for return until Thursday, Dec. 14th, except to points reached by steamer lines, Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT

ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

COLLECTION BUSINESS

With its large number of branches, agents and correspondents, The Canadian Bank of Commerce is able to effect collections throughout the world promptly and at reasonable rates. Rates will be quoted on application.

FOREIGN BUSINESS

A230

Cheques and drafts on all countries of the world, drawn in sterling, francs, marks, lire, kronen, florins, roubles or any other foreign currency, can be negotiated at The Canadian Bank of Commerce at reasonable rates.

EXETER BRANCH—W. H. COLLINS, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up)	-	$4,000,000
Rest Fund - -	-	$4,600,000
Total Assets Over	-	$44,000,000

Has 83 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at al Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

MITCHELL—On Wednesday, George Dregal, of Logan, fell from the roof of a barn to the ground, a distance of 20 feet, and broke his arm.

Auction Sale

REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

There will be offered for sale by public auction, on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4th, 1911,

At the hour of one o'clock p.m. (sharp) on the premises, the residence of the late Reeve, Mr. William Bawden, and the land and appurtenances thereto belonging. This is one of the finest and best appointed homes in the county. The land contains about 12 acres, on which there is a good orchard of 60 or more fruit trees, all in good healthy condition.

At the same time there will be sold the following chattel property.— Buggy cutter, pony cart, side-saddle, harness robes, piano, sideboards, dining room chairs, 4 easy chairs, sofa, parlor chairs, 4 bedsteads, bureaus, washstands, parlor table, kitchen table, rocking chairs, sewing machine, carpets, rugs, pictures, dishes, lawn mower, wheelbarrow and garden tools, book case, hall rack, linoleum and a great many other articles too numerous to mention.

Inspection of real property invited.

Terms of Sale.—The real property will be sold on easy terms which will be made known on day of sale; or may be had on application to the undersigned; on purchases of chattel property of $5 and under cash; over that amount 6 months' credit will be given on approved joint notes. 5 per cent off credit amounts for cash.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors for Vendors. T. CAMERON Auctioneer.

CENTRAL Business College STRATFORD, ONT.

Is to the front as the best school of its kind in the province. Our courses are beyond those of the ordinary business college. This school has a continental reputation for high grade work. We have three departments, Commercial Shorthand and Telegraphy, and the demand for trained help greatly exceeds the supply. Students are entering every week, and the sooner you enter the better for yourself.

Get our free catalogue at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

VARENI

A pure Silver Violin G String for 25c.

A real silver string has never before been sold at such a low price.

Notwithstanding that the Vareni String is not cheap in Quality.

It is made of pure silver carefully spun on good English gut and then burnished,

As a result of good materials and good workmanship the Vareni string is wonderfully durable and possesses a marked degree the splendidly clear tone, peculiar to pure silver strings.

You should have the Vareni G String if you have a Violin.

S. MARTIN & SON

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials, Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Cananian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver

and is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

BANK
CE
President er
$8,000,000
ess rrespondents, The ctions throughout will be quoted on s A230
drawn in sterling,
r foreign currency,
t reasonable rates.
ch also at Crediton.
Bank
0,000
0,000
0,000
ndents in all the
ED.
RTMENT
rrent rate.
H -
ment.
DON Manager,
RENI
ver Violin G
for 25c.
string has never be-such a low price.
ng that the Vareni
p in Quality.
pure silver carefully
glish gut and then good materials and ip the Vareni string
urable and possesses the splendidly clear pure silver stringed ave the Vareni G
e a Violin.
TIN & SON
h ceries
w well establishs and we believe authority (nam-
daily increasing
t we are meeting
ant, and giving atisfaction.
our motto,— ries all the time."
f produce taken
S. GOULD
'Parkyte" ave to ill
ne is the strongest preventative against solute necessity the in any part of your ficials, Specified by Municipalities.
in less than one year.
es.
n Canada by g, Man.
nd Vancouver
Exeter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. S. ALNSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S.: Honor graduate of Toronto Univeristy.
DENTIST,
teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. R. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR. Graduate of Toronto University, Two years sident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amos' Old Stand, Andrew eet, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates o nterest
Offices, Main street, Exeter.
R. CARLING, K.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies.
Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elliber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St Thomas, Ont. — ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

BECOME INDEPENDENT; ATTEND ELLIOTT Business College
Toronto, Ont. Students of this year are in positions worth from $50 to $100 a month. Write for catalogue. Enter now. Superior Instructions in all Departments.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.
We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.
Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Ellimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

HOUSE FOR SALE

The undersigned is offering for sale, that desirable property on William st, being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, together with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

ESTRAY STEER

There came onto the premises of the undersigned a 2-yr-old steer. Owner can have same by proving property and paying expenses.
JAS. WILLIS, Lot 13, Con. 3, Stephen

FOR SALE

One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass excepting 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

SEAFORTH—At the E. Huron Convention of teachers the following officers were elected for the ensuing yr. President, Geo. W. Holman, first vice president, J. T. Curtis, second vice-president, Miss B. R. Hull; secretary treasurer, John Hartley; executive committee, Messrs Scott, Stalker, Higgans, and Misses Brock and Thompson.

UNRESERVED
Auction Sale
OF HOUSEHOLD EFFECTS, ETC.,
At the MANSION HOUSE, EXETER,
On FRIDAY, OCT. 27, 1911,
from 10 to 12 a.m. and re-commencing at 1 p.m. the following property.—
15 bedsteads, 12 washstands, 12 dressing cases, 12 mattresses, 12 bed springs, 24 feather pillows, 18 bed spreads, 18 bed covers, 2 extension tables, 3 Kitchen tables, 2 fall-leaf tables, 4 small tables, sideboard, refrigerator, Happy Thought range, double heater, 2 heating stoves; coal heater with oven; looking glass for bar, 3x7 feet; sideboard for bar, 8½ ft. long; 6 beer pumps, 8 spittons; counter 13 ft. long, and other barroom fixtures; ½ dozen looking-glasses, 3 doz. pictures, washing machine, celler cupboard, two clothes ringers, 2 centre tables, 1 hair cloth parlor suit 7 pieces, easel, whatnot lounge, 30 pair curtains, case of birds, 24 window blinds, 200 yds. carpet, 100 yds. oilcloth; ½ doz. arm-chairs; ½ doz. cane-bottom chairs, 3 doz. kitchen chairs, clothes drier; 2 doz. table napkins, 2 cruet stands, 2 clocks, 2 set of china dishes, 3 doz. tumblers, ½ doz. trays, mowing machine, 4 vegetable covers; 2 wash boilers, 2 wash tubs, 7 lamps, 1 sewing machine, 300 qt. gems, also knives, forks, spoons, glassware, shovels, manure forks, wheel-barrow and other articles too numerous to mention.
Also 3 buggies and 1 cutter.
Terms—Cash.
R. LEATHORN, Proprietor — B. S. PHILLIPS, Auctioneer

Look at the Wheat!

There's a deal to know about wheat. If I didn't select the wheat I couldn't guarantee the flour. Cream of the West Flour comes from Cream of the West Wheat. And it certainly does make good bread!

Cream of the West Flour

the hard wheat flour guaranteed for bread

You just try it. If it doesn't give you right down satisfaction your grocer pays your money back. That's the guarantee with every bag.

The Campbell Milling Company, Limited, Toronto
ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, President — 107

Labatt's
27
ALE --- STOUT --- LAGER
PURE — PALATABLE — NUTRITIOUS — BEVERAGES
FOR SALE BY WINE AND SPIRIT MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE

LOCAL OPTION—Residents in the local option districts can legally order from this brewery whatever they require for personal or family use. Write to
JOHN LABATT, LIMITED, LONDON, CANADA

Keep Your Bath Room Spotlessly Clean with Gold Dust

Soap will not do the work properly because soap only cleans the surface—it does not dig deep after germs and hidden impurities like GOLD DUST—the greatest of all sanitary cleansers.

To keep bath tub and lavatory shiny-white and inviting—To keep metal pipes, fixtures and taps brightly burnished—To purify metal bowl—

To keep tiling and woodwork spotless and beautiful—

Simply add a heaping teaspoonful of GOLD DUST to a pail of water. You will be surprised at the ease with which it does the work. GOLD DUST sterilizes as well as cleans—and saves you one-half the labor.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

KIRKTON

Guests numbering nearly a hundred gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Doupe, Pleasant View Farm, Kirkton, to witness the marriage of their eldest daughter, Eunice Marggarette, to Mr. J. Minor Dobbs of Lucan. They were married at six o'clock by Rev. J. Veale, the groom awaiting the bride standing in a beautiful Floral Bower banked with palms and choice plants. Miss Dobbs of Lucan, sister of the groom, playing a stirring wedding march while the bride supported by her father and preceded by two dainty flower girls entered the parlor. She was very beautiful in white satin with lace and pearl trimmings and carried a boquet of carnations. She wore the usual bridal veil caught up with orange blossoms, the flowers being sent from friends in Ottawa, while the white slippers worn were those worn by her mother when she entered the matrimonial circle a quarter of a century ago. The flower girls, little Miss Dobbs, sister of the groom, and Laura Brown of Rannoch, cousin of the bride, were especially pretty in dainty creations of pink and White. After hearty congratulations Mr. J. Doupe sang.— "When dreams we love come true.' Dainty waiters served a sumptous wedding dinner. The many beautiful presents including several checks showed the high esteem in which the bride was held. The groom's gifts was a beautiful set of furs and to the flowers girls a pretty sunburst each. The bride's going away gown consisted of blue cloth with Irish green and coral pink piping and black hat with large ostrich plumes. Mr. and Mrs. Dobbs have a host of friends who wish them many years of happiness and prosperity.

ZURICH.

Mr. Calvin Williams of Buffalo is home on a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Williams.—The Liberal-Conservatives of South Huron meet in our village to-day to select a candidate for the oncoming election of members of the Ontario Legislature.—Mr H. Elliber the late member, will undoubtedly be the chosen one.—Mr and Mrs. Geo. Thiel, Jr., have moved to Seaforth, where the former has secured employment. — On October 16th Mrs. Jane Keys, widow of the late Henry McLinchey, and one of the pioneers of Stanley Township, died at her home on the Goshen Line, after a short illness, having reached the age of 77 years and 6 months. She leaves a family of grown-up sons and daughters.

GRAND BEND.

Miss Edna Dale of Lucan is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Amos.—Mr. Phil. Baker has moved into the house vacated by Mr. Tiedeman, he having moved into one of the cottages.—Mrs. C. Walper is on the sick list.—Mr. Wm. Baker Monday moved onto the farm vacated by Wm. Lovie. Mr. Statten moved to the Bend and will occupy one of Mr Heaman's houses. Mr. Lovie moved onto the farm he purchased from Mr. Statten last week.—Messrs. Wm. Dewey and Jonah Green, who have been in Amherstburg, are home for a week.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter England visited H. Baker Monday.—Zurich hunters were down on the old river last week hunting and fishing.

HOW TO LIVE LONG

With healthy kidneys one has a good chance to live long, but weak kidneys afflict old age with great discomforts. The back becomes bent and lame, rheumatism is chronic, eyesight fails or involuntary and too frequent passages of the urine cause embarrassment by day and loss of sleep at night.

Booth's Kidney Pills

Booth's Kidney Pills bring new strength to old backs and quick relief to weakened kidneys. They banish backache and rheumatic pain, regulate the bladder and urine.

Booth's Kidney Pills are for sick kidneys in old or young and are guaranteed by the proprietors, The R. T. Booth Co. Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Sold everywhere 50c. box. Free trial sent on request.

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

CLANDEBOYE

Mrs. W. Cunningham and daughter, Ellen Jane, have return after a two-months' visit with friends in Sarnia and Chatham.—Mr. W. Boyle's auction sale was a success. Horses and horned cattle sold for high prices.—Mr. McKenzie was in London last week on business.—Mr. E. Hodgson, of this place loaded a car of fancy peas the farmers have raised for a seed firm.—The Maccabee Hall, Mooreville, Wednesday saw the first dance of the season.—Miss Morley, of this place has gone to Brantford where she has a good position.—Mr. and Mrs. Millar and Mr C. Lynn have returned from the North west.

A MIS-HIT

Did you make a mis-hit the time you employed the last "help."

Don't worry. There are lots of good fish in the sea, and a sure bait to catch them is a Want Ad.

Learn why PURITY FLOUR is unlike any other brand

PURITY FLOUR is unlike any other brand of flour. No two milling companies follow exactly the same process of milling. In fact, no two different brands of flour in the world are exactly alike in quality.

And here is another fact worth knowing: Every wheat berry contains both high-grade and low-grade portions.

The process of milling PURITY flour costs more than to mill ordinary flour. The low-grade portions are separated and excluded. PURITY is an ALL HIGH-GRADE, hard wheat flour. It has greater strength, greater absorption and greater expansion. It is a thirstier, more elastic flour. It drinks more water and expands into more loaves.

Use PURITY FLOUR for your next batch of bread. Count the loaves. You'll find you have made "MORE BREAD AND BETTER BREAD" from PURITY than when you've used an equal weight of weaker and cheaper flour.

PURITY FLOUR
"More bread and better bread"

IMAGINE, if you can, how much whiter, and more toothsome, and more nutritious, the bread made from such a HIGH-GRADE flour must be.

And can you imagine yourself enjoying the flaky pie-crust and the light, delicate cake?—your reward for using PURITY flour

When making pastry, please remember to add more shortening than required with ordinary flour—for on account of its extra strength, PURITY FLOUR requires more shortening for best pastry-results

Yes, PURITY FLOUR costs slightly more than ordinary flour. But use it once and you'll say it's worth more—much more—than the difference.

Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now.

Sold by R. G. Seldon

HENSALL

Thos. Welsh went to Owen Sound last week.—Miss Lily Yungblut of Waterloo is visiting her sister Mrs. J Bonthron.—Mrs. Jos Case of Toronto, with her child is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moir.—Mr. Thomas, station agent C. N. R., Brandon, Man., visited at A. McPherson's last week.—E. Stacey, who has been at Port Carling until the end of the tourist season, has taken a position at Simcoe. He spent part of last week at his home here.—The Kippen parsonage property was offered for sale on Wednesday of this week.—The Hensall Oddfellows have invited the Exeter brethren to exemplify the work of the second degree here on November 3rd.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 840, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment with full instructions. Send no money but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

The Envy of her Neighbors

is the woman whose kitchen shines with a handsome, roomy range—whose face beams with the satisfaction afforded by a perfect cooking equipment.

For every woman wants a good stove. Whether she does her own cooking or not, she eats the meals that are prepared on it, and feels a pride in having the best. GURNEY-OXFORD satisfies that pride; justifies the neighbor's envy. Gurney-Oxford stoves and ranges carry every known feature of convenience, economy and control with some new points of excellence that are exclusive.

First of all is the lever that holds. No danger of the fire going out between meals. The Oxford Economizer will hold the heat at a low ebb till you want it; then turn the handle, and your stove is hot in a jiffy. Besides this saving of time and worry it saves in fuel to the actual extent of one ton in six.

THE DIVIDED FLUE STRIP is the envy of all women who bake. It guides the heat equally along sides, back and front of the oven.

Let us demonstrate these and other strong advantages of the Gurney-Oxford line. We have stoves for every purpose, every fuel, and a variety of prices.

W. J. Heaman, Agent.

The Old Folks

find advancing years bring an increasing tendency to constipation. The corrective they need is

"NA-DRU-CO" Laxatives

Entirely different from common laxatives. Pleasant to take, mild and painless. A tablet (or less) at bed-time regulates the bowels perfectly. Increasing doses never needed. Compounded, like all the 125 NA-DRU-CO preparations, by expert chemists. Money back if not satisfactory.

25c. a box. If your druggist has not yet stocked them, send 25c. and we will mail them.

NATIONAL DRUG & CHEMICAL COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED, MONTREAL. 22

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER VI.—(Cont'd)

He would have quitted the saloon, but Captain Gaultier laughed—

"Hold on a bit; it is my turn now. Suppose I try to pump you."

A giant wave took hold of the vessel and shook her violently, and Brett, though an average amateur sailor, felt that the saloon was no place for him.

"Between you and the ship, Captain Gaultier," he said, "the success of the operation would be certain. I have secured a quiet corner of the deck. If you wish for further talk we must adjourn there."

The transit was effected without incident, much to Brett's relief. After a minute or two he felt that a cigar was possible. He turned to his companion with a quiet observation—

"The vessel has failed. You can start now."

"Well," said Gaultier, "tell me what is the mystery attaching to Talbot's movements. I only heard the vaguest of rumors in the Department, but something very terrible appears to have happened, and, indeed, I heartily wished I had kept my mouth shut concerning my supposed meeting with him last Tuesday, as the affair was no business of mine. Moreover, you have now somewhat shaken my belief in his identity, although I can hardly tell you why that should be so."

Brett paused to make sure that no one would overhear him, and in the fewest possible words, he poured the tale into the other's wondering ear. When he had finished, Gaultier remained silent a few minutes.

Already the clear radiance of the magnificent light at Calais was sending intermittent flashes of brightness over the deck, and the long shoulder of Cape Grisnez was thrusting the force of the gale back into mid-Channel.

"I think," said Gautlier, speaking slowly and thoughtfully, "that your view is the right one, Mr. Brett. You are going on to Paris, you said?" "Yes."

"Then we can travel together. All that you have said is quite new to me. Curiously enough, I have just returned from Constantinople, and I may be able to assist you."

Brett silently thanked his stars for the gratuitous circumstance which threw him into the company of Captain Gaultier. He recognized that the King's messenger, with the precaution that might be expected from one whose daily life demanded extreme prudence, desired to mentally review the strange facts made known to him before he committed himself further. With ready tact the barrister changed the conversation to matters of the moment until they reached the pier at Calais, when both men, not encumbered with much luggage, were among the first flight of passengers to reach the station buffet.

On their way they captured a railway official and told him to reserve a coupe lit compartment. In the midst of their hasty meal the Frenchman arrived, voluble, apologetic. The train was crowded. Never had there been such a rush to the South. By the exercise of most profound care he had secured them two seats in a compartment, but the third had already taken itself. He was sorry for it; he had done his best.

When they entered their carriage the third occupant was in possession. He was French, aggressively so. The poor man had been wretchedly ill from the moment he left Dover until the vessel was tied to her berth in the harbor at Calais. He paid not the least attention to the newcomers, being apparently absorbed in contemplation of his own misery. The two Englishmen, though experienced travellers, were sufficiently insular to resent the presence of the stranger, whom Brett resolved to put to the language test forthwith.

"It is very cold in here," he said. "Shall I turn on the hot air?"

The Frenchman seemed to understand that he was addressed. He looked up with a shivering smile and explained that he only booked one seat. The remainder of the compartment was at their disposal. He was evidently guiltless of acquaintance with the English tongue, but Brett did not like his appearance.

Though well-dressed and well-spoken he was a nondescript individual, and the flash of his dark eyes was not reassuring. Yet the man was so ill that Brett forthwith dismissed him from his thoughts, though he took care to occupy the centre seat himself, thus placing Captain Gaultier on the other side of the carriage. After a visit from the ticket examiner, the Frenchman disposed himself for a nap and the train started.

Captain Gaultier by this time had made up his mind as to the information he felt he could give his new acquaintance.

"It is very odd," he said, "that those diamonds should disappear just at the moment when there is every sign of unrest in Turkey. You know, of course, the manner of the last Sultan's death?"

Brett nodded.

"And you have heard, no doubt, something of the precautions taken by the present Sultan to safeguard his life against the attacks of possible assassins?"

"Yes," said Brett.

"Well, these have been redoubled of late, and the man never goes out that he is not in the most abject state of fear. He is a pitiful sight, I assure you. I saw him less than a fortnight ago, driving to the Mosque on Friday, and his coachman evidently had orders to go at a gallop through the streets, whilst not only was the entire road protected by soldiers, but every house was examined previously by police agents. There is something in the wind of more than usual importance in the neighborhood of Yildiz Kiosk just now, I am certain. I suppose you did not chance to see any mention of the fact that Husien-ul-Mulk, the Sultan's nephew, has recently fled from Turkey, and is now under the protection of the French Government?"

"Yes, I noticed that."

"You don't seem to miss much," was Gaultier's sharp remark, pausing in his narrative to light a cigar.

"One of my few virtues is that I read the newspapers."

The train was slowing down as it neared the town station in Calais, and Gaultier's voice could be momentarily heard above its diminishing rattle.

"Well," he said, "I happen to know Hussein-ul-Mulk, and if we find out where he lives in Paris I will introduce you to him."

Brett looked at the slumbering Frenchman out of the corner of his eye. The man appeared to be dozing peacefully enough, but the alert barrister had an impression that his limbs were not sufficiently relaxed under the influence of slumber. Indeed, he felt sure that the Frenchman was wide awake and endeavoring to catch the drift of their conversation.

"I will be most pleased to meet your friend, Captain Gaultier," he said, "and lest it should slip your memory I will give you a reminder."

He opened his card-case and wrote on the back of a card: "Grand Hotel. Breakfast 11.30. No more at present."

The quick-witted King's messenger read and understood.

"It seems to me," he went on, "that he is the very man for your purpose. Though he is not in favor at Court just now he has plenty of friends in the various departments, and he would give you letters which would be certain to secure you some excellent orders. I suppose you are going to the East as the result of the rumored intention of the Turkish Government to reconstitute the navy."

Brett made a haphazard guess at Gaultier's meaning.

"Yes," he said, "we ought to place a good many thousand tons with them."

Gaultier leant forward to strike a match and glanced at their companion. For some indescribable reason he shared Brett's views concerning this gentleman, and immediately started a conversation of general significance. They soon discovered that they had several mutual acquaintances, and in this way they passed the dreary journey to Paris pleasantly enough.

At the Gare du Nord, the Frenchman, who seemed to be thoroughly revived by the air of his beloved Paris, hurried out simultaneously with themselves. He had no difficulty in hearing Brett's directions to a cabman. Gaultier entered another vehicle.

Brett was the first away from the station. He fancied he saw his French travelling companion hastily whisper something to a lounger near the exit, so he suddenly pulled up his voiture, gave the driver a two-franc piece and told him to go to the Grand Hotel and there await his arrival. The cab had haulted for the moment in the Rue Lafayette, at the corner of the Place Valenciennes, and the cabman, recognizing that his fare was an Englishman and consequently mad, drove off immediately in obedience to orders.

Though nearly six o'clock in the morning, it was quite dark, but as Brett walked rapidly back towards the station he had no difficulty in picking out Gaultier, who occupied an open vehicle. Some little distance behind came another, and herein the barrister thought he recognized the man to whom the Frenchman in the train had spoken. By this time many other cabs were dashing out of the station-yard, so Brett took the chance that he might be hopelessly wrong.

He hailed a third vehicle and told the driver to follow the other two, which were now some distance down the Rue Lafeyette. Not until the three cabs had crossed the Place de l'Opera and passed the Madeleine could Brett be certain that the occupant of the second was following his friend Gaultier. Then he chuckled to himself, for this was surely a rare stroke of luck.

Quickly reviewing the possibilities of the affair, he came to the conclusion that the travelling Frenchman readily understood little, if any English, but that he had caught the name of the fugitive from the Sultan's wrath, and had forthwith betrayed an interest in their conversation which was, to say the least, remarkable. At the exit from the Gare du Nord the stranger had readily enough ascertained Brett's destination, but he clearly regarded it as important that Gaultier—the man who claimed Hussein-ul-Mulk as a friend—should be tracked, and had given the necessary instructions to the confederate who awaited his arrival.

Although Gaultier had not said as much, Brett guessed that his destination was the British Embassy in the Rue du Faubourg St. Honore. The route followed by the cabman led straight to that well-known locality. The Frenchman in the second cab evidently thought likewise, for, at the corner of the Rue Boissy he pulled up, and Brett was just in time to give his driver instructions to go ahead and thus avoid attracting undue notice to himself.

Gaultier turned into the Embassy, and Brett himself halted a little further on. Dismissing his cocher with a liberal fare, he walked rapidly back, and saw the spy enter into conversation with the night porter on duty. The latter personage, however, was clearly a trustworthy official, for he loudly told the other to be off and attend to his own affairs.

Then followed a most exciting and perplexing chase through many streets, and it was only by the exercise of the utmost discretion that Brett finally located his man at a definite number in the Rue Barbette, a tiny thoroughfare in the Temple district.

By this time dawn was advancing over Paris, and the streets were beginning to fill with early workers. He inquired from a passer-by the most likely locality in which he could find a cab, and the man civilly conducted him to the Rue de Rivoli. Then he was not long in reaching the Grand Hotel, where he found the astonished cocher of his first vehicle still safe-guarding his bag and arguing fiercely with a porter that he had unquestionably obeyed the Englishman's instructions.

Tired though he was, Brett did not fail to scrutinize the list of arrivals at the hotel on the preceding Tuesday. He instantly found the entry he sought. The arrival of "Mr. and Mrs. John Talbot, London," was chronicled in the register with uncompromising boldness. Hastily comparing the writing in Talbot's letter with that of the visitor's book, Brett was at first staggered by their similarity, but he quickly recognizing the well-known signs which indicate that a man who himself writes a bold and confident hand has been copying the signature of another with the object of reproducing it freely and with reasonable accuracy. There are always perceptible difference in the varying pressure of the pen and the distribution of the ink.

"That is all right," said Brett wearily traversing a corridor to gain his room. "Now I wonder if there is any connexion between Hussein-ul-Mulk and the Rue Barbette."

(To be continued.)

BONDS

The Dominion Securities Corporation, Limited—established 1901—for the past ten years has successfully marketed many of the more important Bond issues of Canadian corporations and municipalities. The issues with which we have been identified represent the best in security—and command highest prices in the general trading market.

Canadian Northern Railway Company Winnipeg Terminals 4 per cent. Gold Bonds, guaranteed by the Province of Manitoba.

Canadian Northern Railway Company Equipment Bonds.

Such public utility issues as: Toronto and York Radial Railway Company first mortgage 5's, Suburban Rapid Transit Company first mortgage 5's, Provincial Light, Heat and Power Company first mortgage 5's.

Such industrial issues as: Western Canada Flour Mills Company, Limited, first mortgage 6's; P. Burns & Company, Limited, first mortgage and first and refunding mortgage 6's; William Davies Company, Limited, first mortgage 6's.

We have extensive markets for such investments both in Canada and abroad.

Our position enables us to extend to those interested in established Canadian enterprises and their securities all the facilities of an experienced and conservative house.

Safe Bonds are obtainable to give an income of from 5 per cent. to 6 per cent.

DOMINION SECURITIES CORPORATION-LIMITED

TORONTO. MONTREAL. LONDON, ENG

The Handy Heater

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

You often need some heat in early Fall, when you have not yet started the furnace.

In whatever part of the house you want it, you can get it best and quickest with a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater.

The Perfection is the most reliable heater on the market, and you can move it wherever you please.

Start it in bedroom or bathroom, and you dress in comfort on the coldest morning. Take it to the dining-room, and early breakfast becomes a pleasant, cosy meal. A touch of a match at dusk, and all is snug for the evening.

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater is beautifully finished—an ornament anywhere. Drums of plain steel or enamelled in blue; nickel trimmings.

A special automatic device makes smoking impossible. Burner body cannot become weighed. All parts easily cleaned. Damper top. Cool handle.

Dealers everywhere; or write for descriptive circular to our agency of

The Queen City Oil Company, Limited

FROM TEXAS.

Some Coffee Facts From the Lone Star State.

From a beautiful farm down in Texas, where gushing springs unite to form babbling brooks that wind their sparkling way through flowery meads, comes a note of gratitude for delivery from the coffee habit.

"When my baby boy came to me five years ago, I began to drink Postum, having a feeling that it would be better for him and me than the old kind of drug-laden coffee. I was not disappointed in it, for it enabled me, a small delicate woman, to nurse a bouncing healthy baby 14 months.

"I have since continued the use of Postum for I have grown fond of it, and have discovered to my joy that it has entirely relieved me of a bilious habit which used to prostrate me two or three times a year, causing much discomfort to my family and suffering to myself.

"My brother-in-law was cured of chronic constipation by leaving off coffee and using Postum. He has become even more fond of it than he was of the old coffee.

"In fact the entire family, from the latest arrival, (a 2-year-old who always calls for his 'potie' first thing in the morning) up to the head of the house, think there is no drink so good or so wholesome as Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

AUNT FANNY'S STORY.

It was dinner-time, but Harold was huddled in the corner of the bath-room. "I don't want a clean face!" he declared stubbornly, while Aunt Fanny waited patiently. "Some one is always trying to wash me or dress me or put on my shoes or take them off!" he complained.

"I want to tell you a nice story," said Aunt Fanny, as she took down the face-cloth and prepared the water.

Harold did like a story better than all the other entertaining things that Aunt Fanny did for him. He began to creep slowly from his hiding and then he came to her side.

"I shall have to use a little water to tell you this story," she said, as she dipped the cloth in the bowl.

"Now there was a man who owned a splendid place, but the house was getting browned by the weather, and so he decided to fix it up. He began with the roof.' Aunt Fanny ran the cloth over the yellow curls. "He washed all the chingles with the hose, and then he came along down to the windows. These he gave a lot of water, and was very careful to see that the corners of the glass were clean. Then there was a little porch on the front of the house, and this was very black. He swept and garnished this nicely." Before Harold knew it his nose was fresh and rosy.

"Next came the door," said Aunt Fanny. "This had to be scrubbed very nicely, because all the visitors who come notice this first. The walls near the door had to be freshened up a little, and next he began on the bay windows. These needed more care than anything else," and when Aunt Fanny had explained all about this, the ears were clean.

"Now there is a long lane leading to the house, and this had to be plowed again, and all the rubbish taken away."

She ran the cloth all about the neck, and Harold was as clean as his little baby sister.

"And then what happened?" he asked, as Aunt Fanny fastened his fresh collar.

"Why, the man was happy, and every one who rode by thought what a pretty change he had made."

Harold laughed. "That was a nice story, and it is nice to be clean. Tell me another."—Youth's Companion.

Free Sample of Cuticura Ointment Cured Baby's Skin Humor.

That the Cuticura treatment is the most successful and economical for torturing, disfiguring affections of the skin and scalp could receive no more striking proof than the remarkable statement made by William Whyle, 325 Tudor road, Leicester, England.

"A sample of Cuticura Ointment cured my baby's face. She had the measles when one year old, and it left her with a very scurfy forehead and face. It was very irritating and would bleed when she scratched herself. I took her to the doctor and he gave her some ointment. I tried it and it did no good. One night I said to my wife: 'How would it be to send for a sample of Cuticura ointment?' I did so, used it and my baby's face grew better. She has now a lovely skin, and I can safely say that Cuticura cured her."

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, those wishing to try for themselves without cost their efficacy in the treatment of eczema, rashes, itchings, burnings, scalings and crustings, from infancy to age, may send to the Potter Drug and Chemical Corp., Dept. 5W, Boston, U.S.A., for a liberal trial of each with 32-page Cuticura Book, an authority on skin and scalp affections.

The man who feels that he is bigger than his job is generally mistaken. If he was he would quickly get a job that would fit him.

57 YEARS EXPERIENCE

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR IS ABSOLUTELY PURE.

The first and great essential of a food product, is Purity; the Purity and Quality of our Extra Granulated have never been questioned.

Once make a comparison with other Sugars and you will not be satisfied with any but Redpath.

Dainty Tea Tables are always served with PARIS LUMPS to be had in RED SEAL dust proof cartons, and by the pound.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited
MONTREAL, CANADA.

Established in 1854 by John Redpath

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

CURING MEAT.

The methods of keeping meats the year around is well known to farmers' wives, but a mystery to most town housekeepers. A good sized piece of meat may be bought advantageously and corned, after cutting off a portion to be used in its fresh state. The rump is best to corn. Beef tongues, fresh ham, veal, or mutton are excellent when corned.

A pickle for corning meat in small quantities is made as follows: Four pounds of coarse salt, eight quarts of water, two pounds of brown sugar, one-half pound of saltpetre; stir until salt and sugar are dissolved; then boil and skim, letting the mixture become cold before pouring over the meat. Turn the meat in the pickle every day for a week, which will give it a fine color and flavor. During the summer this pickle may be boiled over with an addition of one cup of salt and one cup of brown sugar to one quart of water, when it will keep sweet for several weeks. A plate or clean flat stone must be used to keep the meat beneath the pickle.

A large beef tongue will have to be kept in the pickle fourteen days before it is ready for use.

Dried Beef.—Select a round of beef and divide in two parts through the middle, rejecting the bone. For twelve pounds of meat allow one-half pound of fine salt, one quarter ounce of pulverized saltpetre, and one-half pound of brown sugar. Rub this mixture into the meat every morning until it is all used up. At the end of this time hang up in the smokehouse for two weeks to dry. An excess of smoke will ruin the flavor.

Few town people have a smokehouse, and this method will be found a very good substitute. Drive nails around the top of a tight barrel, fill an iron pan or pail half full of ashes, build a fire on top of these. Hang the meat by a stout twine on the nails, place a board over the top of the barrel, and cover tightly with an old blanket. This method has been tried in the back yard of a city residence and found practical for smoking two hams, two pieces of beef, and two sausages.

If two or three families will club together and buy their meat wholesale they will find that their meat bills will be about one-third what it usually costs.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

Yellow Cucumbers.—Take six large yellow cucumbers, peel and cut in half, remove seeds and cut in pieces about two inches; add two and a half handfuls of salt and leave stand over night. Next morning wash off and lay pieces on cloth to dry. Put one quart of vinegar on to boil and add three cupfuls of sugar. Put in cucumbers, few at a time, have jars ready when cucumber is clear, but not soft, then put in jars; add some white mustard seed and seal.

Pickled Onions.—Take a half peck of little white onions, leave in water over night, peel and put in water again over night, adding a handful of salt. Next morning lay onions on cloth to dry. Boil three quarts of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-third handful of round alspice, four or five bay leaves, one-half handful of whole black pepper. Put onions in jar and cover with the vinegar; add a half teaspoonfgul of ground red pepper. Tie cloth over to keep steam in.

Dill Pickles.—Take one-half peck of dill pickles, ten cents' worth of dill. Wash pickles and lay a layer of dill on bottom of a one-half gallon jar, then a layer of pickles, and so on until all is used, last layer being dill. Cover with enough salt water and a stone, so as to keep pickles well under water.

Good Quince Jelly.—Take half a peck of quince, wash and cut in quarters and add enough water to cover even, boil till soft, then put in bag and let drain all night. Add a cupful of sugar to every cup of juice. Boil until a little on saucer thickens. You can do the same with grapes, crab apples, and skins of peaches and pears. Do not add water when making grape jelly.

MARMALADE.

Orange.—Select one orange and one lemon with a thin skin. Cut in slices and then in cubes. To this add six cupfuls of water. Let stand over night. Next morning boil twenty minutes, measure liquid, and to one cupful of mixture add one cupful of sugar. Boil evenly for one-half hour, or until it jells. This will make eight medium sized glasses.

Rhubarb.—Six cups rhubarb cut in small pieces, six cups of granulated sugar, two large or four small oranges cut in thin slices, skin and all. Boil all together until thick, seal in pint fruit jars. This is delicious.

Goldenrod Marmalade. — Cut green and red from rind of we watermelon. Cut white rind into squares and lay in cold water over night. Next morning put through food chopper, cover with cold water, and let come to boil; then drain. Repeat twice, then boil until tender. Put pulp through chopper and when the rinds are tender, put all into one kettle with five pounds of granulated sugar, boil for two hours, and put into jars. This marmalade is a beautiful golden color and delicious.

CELERY.

Celery and Cheese.—Stew until tender celery cut into one inch pieces. Take one cup of water left after removing the celery and add it (the water) to a rich white sauce. Stir into this sauce enough grated cheese to make in a rich yellow in color. Put the previously prepared celery into a baking dish, pour the sauce over it, and cover thickly with bread crumbs that have been browned in melted butter. Heat in oven a few minutes.

Creamed Celery and Almonds.—Drop celery cut into inch lengths into boiling water. Stew until tender. Make a rich cream sauce and stir into it one-half cup of blanched chopped almonds. Add this sauce to the drained celery. Serve hot.

Fried Celery Sticks.—Cut celery into pieces four inches in length. Steam until partly tender. Take from water, cool, roll in egg and cracker crumbs, fry in hot fat. Pile in log cabin fashion on plate and serve hot.

POPULAR RECIPES.

Quick Coffee Cake.—One tablespoonful butter, one tablespoonful lard, one pinch salt, one cupful sugar, one egg, beat all together; three and one-half cupfuls flour, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, add enough milk to make a stiff batter. Put sliced apples on top, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Sliced peaches are also nice.

Sour Cream Cookies.—Two eggs, one and one-half cupfuls sugar, three-fourths cup butter, three-fourths cup sour cream, or milk, one-half teaspoonful cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful nutmeg, one-fourth teaspoonful cloves, one teaspoonful soda, a pinch of salt, three and one-half cupfuls flour, one-half teaspoonful baking powder. This recipe will make about fifty cookies.

Apple Snow.—Boil about five apples to a pulp, sweetening to taste. When cool place in a large bowl, together with the white of one egg, juice of one lemon, and one cup of sugar. Beat the mixture about thirty minutes with a wire egg beater. The result is three times the amount you started with, enough to serve ten people.

Tomato Relish.—One peck ripe tomatoes, chopped and drained over night in a bag, two cups chopped celery, two cups chopped onions, three green peppers chopped, one quart strong vinegar, two pounds brown sugar, three tablespoonfuls salt, two tablespoonfuls cinnamon, two ounces mustard seed. Stir all together well, bottle and seal. No cooking. Keeps any length of time.

GRAPES.

Grape Juice.—To two gallons of grapes put three quarts of water; cover and let boil until grapes break. Steam, and to six quarts of juice add two pounds of granulated sugar. Let come to a boil, skim, put into bottles hot, and seal.

Grape Sherbet.—Two pounds Concord grapes, two lemons, one quart water, one pound sugar; lay a square of cheesecloth over a large bowl; put in the washed grapes and mash thoroughly; squeeze out all the juice and add an equal amount of sugar, the lemon juice. Use sugar enough to make it quite sweet, then freeze.

ATTRACTIVE RECIPES.

Pumpkin Pie.—One cup pumpkin cooked fine, one egg, one level tablespoonful of flour, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar or sweeter if desired, a pinch of salt, one-half teaspoonful ginger, one-quarter teaspoonful cinnamon or allspice, enough milk to fill one pie. Bake with lower crust only and brown slightly on top.

Tart Filling.—Lemon or orange paste for tarts: Juice of one lemon or orange and pulp, one egg, one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of melted butter. Set it in boiling water to thicken. Put on the tart crusts. If they are deep enough this can be frosted.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Scrubbing brushes, if hung in the air, will last twice as long as they would if allowed to lie in a damp place.

When sticking labels on canisters add a little honey to the flour and water paste, and then the paper will not peel off.

After trimming a lamp turn the wicks down, or else when lighted the lamp will be found to be covered with oil.

Steaming is better than boiling for fish, fowl, or poultry. All the juices of the meat are retained and nothing is wasted.

A Larder Hint.—If a ham, a piece of bacon, or some spiced beef is on hand, be sure to turn the meat daily and put it on a clean dish.

When buying apples select the heaviest, for they are the best, also take those which, when pressed with the thumb, yield to it with a slight cracking noise.

Stewing is the best and most economical way of cooking meat. It needs very little heat, and the vegetables, so necessary for the flavor, increase the bulk.

A Discolored Teapot.—If your pot is of rough china or pottery you may have some difficulty in getting rid of the stains. Stand ammonia and water in it, and then scrub well with crystal soap. Repeat till clean.

Difficulty is often met with in beating whites of eggs, when they absolutely refuse to froth. Do not be discouraged, but for every egg white add two drops of pure glycerine, then they will whip quickly to a froth light and stiff. The glycerine is harmless and merely has a drying effect, causing the evaporation of moisture from the egg. It is an excess of moisture which excludes the air from the cells of albumen. Also add the glycerine to fresh eggs and they will froth in half of the usual time required. The above has been proved by repeated experiments.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, OCTOBER 29.

Lesson V.—A psalm of deliverance, Psa. 85. Golden Text, Psa. 126. 3.

A Psalm of the sons of Korah — There are two groups of psalms in this third book of the Psalter. The sons of Korah, who were responsible for those from 84 to 89, made up a guild of singers connected with the temple, and these psalms were collected by them for the temple service. The rest of the book, Psalms 73-83, were collected by the sons of Asaph, who held a similar position.

Verse 1. Thou has been favorable —The first three verses breathe a spirit of gratitude for the mercies of Jehovah in bringing home the captive people, forgiving their iniquity, and taking away his wrath.

Thy land—Judah was in a special sense the chosen territory of God for the working out of his redemptive purpose.

The captivity of Jacob—Referring in particular to the period of seventy years in the land and under the sway of Babylon. Jacob is another name for Israel (Gen. 32. 28).

2. Selah—This word occurs 74 times in the Hebrew Bible and 71 times in the Psalter. There is no uniform tradition as to its precise meaning. The most acceptable theory makes it a kind of musical interlude, the instruments at this point sounding forth loud, while the voices of the singers ceased.

3. Taken away all thy wrath—All the prophets looked upon the calamities that befell Israel as sure signs of the displeasure of God. The smile of prosperity meant that the divine anger was averted, and had given place to favor. All these descriptions of passion in God are, of course, a human way of speaking. But they declare a great fact. The wrath of God is not a weakness in him. It indicates the intensity of his antagonism to all evil.

4. Turn us—We have here a prayer for the restoration of God's favor (verses 4-7). "Turn to us" expresses this more accurately. A discouraging hour has arrived. It may be that hour just before the building of the temple, or, it may reflect the state of things in the troublous times of Nehemiah.

5. Draw out thine anger—It seemed to the weary people, after their hard captivity that the tokens of Jehovah's displeasure ought now to cease, and not be dragged out for the coming generations.

6. Quicken us again—Ezekiel's vision of the valley of dry bones, and the wonderful reawakening of life within them, may have been in the mind of the singer. The prophecies of restoration imply a belief in the spiritual and temporal resuscitation of the nation.

7. Thy loving kindness—A prayer for that particular manifestation of it which would be at once evident in prosperity attending the efforts to re-establish the nation. Salvation, in like manner, was, in this case, a deliverance from threatening evils. But in a deeper, inner sense, these words can even now be made a prayer of any humble heart seeking the evidences of God's loving regard.

8-13.—A delightful picture of the sure results of answered prayer.

8. I will hear—He has been speaking to Jehovah; he now listens to what Jehovah has to say. It is a wise counsel that directs the worshipper not only to speak often with God, but to let God speak often to him.

He will speak peace unto his people—There is sure to be peace restored in the hearts of the forgiven. And there is certain forgiveness for those who have no disposition to turn again to folly. Sincere repentance has its fruit in a stern refusal to turn back again to the old life.

9. Salvation is nigh—He has prayed for salvation, and now he receives this message concerning it —that it is ever present to those who reverence Jehovah with becoming fear. The presence of God's salvation is like the glory of the Shekinah which abode in the tabernacle (Exod. 40. 34, 35).

10. Mercy and truth—When God brings his salvation nigh, he shows mercy, but he does not compromise his character. So the Word came to dwell among men, full of both grace and truth (John 1). These attributes of the divine life, together with the righteousness which is the fruitage of the inward salvation, and the peace which abides in the heart of the upright, are to adorn the lives of men also. A new wonder is to appear; truth, a characteristic of the life of God, is to spring up out of the soil of earth (11). And righteousness (11), which dwells alone with God, is to condescend to stoop from heaven to the lowly habitation of men's hearts. Thus a perfect harmony is to be effected between earth and heaven. This was in keeping with the most advanced ideas of the Jewish prophets. Their heaven was a rehabilitated earth.

12. Yea, Jehovah will give . . . good—Not only blessings of a lofty spiritual nature, but everyday mercies as well, such as an increase in the productiveness of the land. The psalmist speaks of our land with a peculiar and patriotic affection. The Messianic reign, to the Hebrew, meant outward conditions of peace and prosperity as a pledge of divine favor.

13. Righteousness—It is represented as a herald going before Jehovah, opening up the way for the restored nation to walk in, that a bright and safe future may be assured God's people. All the ways of Jehovah are right ways.

ELECTRIFIED CHILDREN.

Reports of Experiments in Sweden in Hastening Their Growth.

Interesting investigations into the effects of electricity upon the development of school children have recently been made in Stockholm says the Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette. The walls and ceilings of a schoolroom were lined with a coil of wires through which a high frequency current was passed. The children in the room were thus in the position of an iron core in the centre of a magnetizing coil.

Fifty children were kept in this room, while fifty others of the same average age, size and mental development were kept in an adjoining without electrical treatment. It is stated that at the end of six months the children under electrical treatment showed an average growth of two inches, while those without electricity grew only 1¼ inches.

The electrified children showed an increase in weight in proportion to their height. The electrified children also showed an average proficiency in their studies of 92 per cent., and fifteen of them showed 100 per cent. The unelectrified children, on the other hand, were only 75 per cent. proficient on the average and not one of them reached 100 per cent.

It is added that the electrified children appeared to be much brighter, quicker and more active. They were prompter in attendance and much less subject to fatigue. The teachers also showed supedior working capacity in the electrified room. While there was an odor of ozone in the room, it was held that the presence of ozone would not account for the results observed.

CONSUMPTION OF ALCOHOL.

The consumption of alcohol is diminishing in France and the bigger the city the more marked is the diminution. Dr. Jacques Bertillon has just drawn up statistics showing the consumption of alcohol since 1900 in thirty-three French cities. The main factor in causing the decrease is the application of the law of 1907, which exempted wine and beer and greatly increased the taxes on distilled beverages. Formerly the consumption of alcohol was in all cities uniform at 7 to 8 litres a head, while it was only 2 litres 84 centilitres in the country districts. Since 1901 the consumption has dropped to 6 litres in towns of from 4,000 to 10,000 inhabitants and to 4 litres 23 centilitres in cities of more than 50,000 inhabitants. In the country districts there has been no change.

GERM-PROOF HOUSE.

A doctor in Yokohama, Japan, has built himself a house that is proof against microbes. The walls are built of hollow bricks of glass, the interstices being filled up with a solution of salts and soda, which is intended to regulate the temperature of the interior. The windows are hermetically closed and air is admitted to the house only through filters.

ROYAL CITY OF RICHMOND

THE BEAUTIFUL OLD TOWN NEAR LONDON.

A Favorite Place of Residence for the Kings and Queens of England.

The fact that King Manoel has been living at Richmond reminds one of the numerous associations with royalty which the old town possesses, says the English Lady's Pictorial. King Manoel really only followed the example of early Kings of England.

Edward I. and II. resided at Sheen, as Richmond was then called, and Edward III. died there in 1377. Richard II. after the death of his Queen at the palace partially demolished the building and Henry V. restored it. In 1498 the palace was burnt, but Henry VII. rebuilt it, giving it his own name of Richmond, and died there in 1509.

It is recorded too that a foreign King was entertained there in the sixteenth century, for Philip I., King of Spain, having been driven upon the coast of England by a storm, was entertained in this palace with great magnificence in the year 1506, and in 1523 Charles V., Emperor of Germany, was lodged at Richmond.

Henry VIII. was only an occasional resident, preferring Hampton Court, and when Wolsey's palace was transferred to the King the Cardinal received permission to reside at Richmond. Being accustomed to

THE PRESENCE OF ROYALTY.

Richmond did not take kindly to the change and Hall says:

"When the common people, and exspecially such as had been servants to Henry VII., saw the Cardinal keep house in the Manor Royal of Richmond, which that monarch so highly esteemed, it was a marvel to hear how they grudged, saying, 'So a butcher's dogge doth die in the manor of Richmond.'"

Queen Elizabeth was for a short period a prisoner at Richmond during the reign of Mary, and even forcible detention there could not blind her to the charms of the place, so that in her own reign the palace was one of her favorite residences, and a royal visitor in the time of of Queen Elizabeth was Eric V., King of Sweden. Queen Elizabeth died at Richmond in 1603.

One may assume that the place was a favorite of Charles I., as he enclosed the Richmond Park. Lord Buckhurst and Edward Sackville in 1636 performed a masque before the King and Queen at Richmond, Richmond Palace suffered very greatly during the civil war; practically the whole place was pulled down and only a very small portion of the old building now remains.

Richmond, too, has many associations with the Georges, as has Twickenham, just across the river. Marble Hill, Twickenham, one of the estates in the neighborhood now devoted to public uses, was built by George II. for his favorite, Mrs. Howard, afterward and the plain looking building is hardly perhaps so magnificent as one would expect from a place of which, according to Swift, "Mr. Pope was the contriver of the gardens, Lord Herbert the architect and the Dean of St. Patrick's (himself) chief butler and keeper of the icehouse." Mrs. Fitzherbert, the beautiful morganatic wife of George IV., whom he married when Prince of Wales, also lived at Marble Hill.

COUNTESS OF SUFFOLK,

Twickenham is associated with France's royal family and Orleans House received its name when the Duke of Orleans came to reside there in 1800. York House, Twickenham, where Queen Anne was born, was for many years the residence of the Comte de Paris and is now in possession of Ratan Tata, a wealthy Indian.

Crossing the river once more we can inspect the romantic Ham House, which is full of legends of the past. In its earlier days Ham House had royal associotions until it came into possession of Sir Lionel Tollemache through his wife, Elizabeth, Countless of Dysart. Her second husband was the Duke of Lauderdale and it was at Ham House that the meeting of the Cabal took place. One of the most picturesque traditions—a tradition disproved, however—is that the iron gates have only been opened once since they were shut on Charles I.

Returning to Richmond, the shooting box of George III. is one of the evidences of how the park was used for sport from the days of Charles I. upward, and it is only in comparatively recent years that the numbers of plantations have been reduced, the opportunities for sport diminished and incidentally much of the wild life of the park has suffered.

The incidents which led to the enclosing of Richmond Park as a royal pleasure ground have resulted now in being opened to the public generally, and the views from the higher ground over the Thames Valley are matchless.

A LOVELY PARK

The chief associations of Richmond Park of recent years have been in connection with White Lodge, the residence for so many years of the Teck family, where the present Queen spent her early life and where the Prince of Wales was born.

Everything is royal at Richmond down to the ancient watermen's regatta, and even the humble cheese cake is there a "maid of honor." Remnants of royal barges quite recently lay in the boat yards and doubtless the surroundings induced a former M. P. to be discontented with ordinary modes of progression on the river and to make stately journeys upstream in a canopied barge rowed by gay coated watermen. But that has gone with the Maria Wood, last relic of ancient City processions upstream, and Richmond is now content to be modern, but not so modern as neighboring places which disfigures their roadways with useful but inelegant and unromantic trams.

Richmond has its share of waterside men, who as King's Watermen show something of the old pageantry of the river on state occasions, among them the King's Bargemaster, who in private life is the host of but on such a State occasion as a coronation fetches the regalia from the Tower and takes his place in quaint, old fashioned costume at the head of the sovereign's procession.

A RIVERSIDE INN,

If rumor that a residence for the Prince of Wales may eventually be found in Richmond proves correct the town will rejoice greatly. Meanwhile it has this year welcomed as a resident not the heir to a throne but an exiled sovereign, and one may hope that the residence in the town of King Manuel may have some effect in making Richmond once more a fashionable centre, for of late years the place has suffered through the motor car making it "too near town."

In turning over old books of the Thames one is apt to muse over old masques, fetes and pageants and compare them favorably with modern efforts at the picturesque; but one must doubt if Pepys or Evelyn saw anything so brilliant as the Thames fetes which Richmond still gives us at times or if the dandies at Ditton offered to their guests anything more charming than the modern carnivals.

TREE CISTERNS OF SUDAN.

The Natives' Method of Obtaining Water in the Dry Season.

In view of the many suggestions made for the bringing down of rain it is interesting to note that in the Gezira district to the south of Khartum whenever a drought is threatening all the children are sent into the fields and are made to clap their hands and shout vigorously, writes a Cairo correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette.

The idea is that rain will be brought down, and the little boys and girls are kept out in the open at this game until the wished for result has been obtained. This year there have been rainstorms in superabundance in the district, so the children's intercession has not been required, or perhaps the abnormal rainfall is due to their vigorous action in the past.

The latest Sudan Times gives a most interesting account of one of the means of which the inhabitants of Kordofan provide themselves with a copious water supply in that arid springless reigon. It is nothing more or less than the adansonia digitata, called by the natives homr, but commonly known as tebeldi. These tebeldi trees are from 10 to 25 feet in diameter; they grow to a considerable height, with trunks about 20 to 30 feet and fine branches, giving a vast amount of shade.

Strange to say, the trunks are naturally hollow and are thus used as cisterns for the storage of water. Should the cavities not be large enough the natives scoop them out further. An opening is made either in the side of the trunk near the top or right at the top where the branches start. In the former case the tree is filled with buckets from pools which are dug at the foot of the tree to collect the rainwater during the rainy season. In the latter case the tree is filled by nature when the rain falls, the branches acting as sort of gutters.

At times the trees cracks, but this occurs very rarely, and the trunks are no longer of any use as reservoirs. However, lately the resourceful native has adopted cement as a means of stopping up the cracks and a large number of tebedis have been repaired in this manner. Curiously enough the presence of such a large quantity of water in the trunk in nowise impedes its growth, and it is certainly one of the most ingenious devices of nature for circumventing a natural difficulty.

Every cultivator has his tebeldi tree, which is indispensable to his work. These trees are looked upon as personal property and on the death of a land owner his tebeldis pass as heirlooms to his sons.

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

W. W. TAMAN

Merchant Tailor,

Exeter, - Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	86	86
Barley	80	03
Buckwheat	55	55
Oats	42	42
Peas	85	85
Potatoes, per bag	75	90
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 50	1 50
Butter	21	22
Eggs	24	25
Live hogs, per cwt		5 00
Shorts per ton		25 00
Bran per ton		22 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chichen	alive	8c.	dry picked	10c
Hens	"	6c.	"	8
Geese	"	0c.	" heads on	9½
			heads off	10
Ducks	"	8c	" heads on	10½
			heads off	11

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

Underwear—Penmans, Watson's, Ellis', and Stanfield's, underwear in all weights and sizes at a garment 50c. to $1.75.—Stewart's.

100 Girls Wanted for Factory. $5.00 per week to start with for girls eighteen and over. Address immediately D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

Ladies' Cape Gloves for Fall wear guaranteed, in tan only at per pair $1.00—Stewart's

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

GIRLS WANTED.

Smart Girls required to work on boys clothing, either operating power machinery, or hand sewing—good clean work. Good wages and constant work the year through.

The JACKSON MAN'F'G CO., Exeter

Fur Collared Coats with quilted or curl linings, interlined with rubber. Very stylish an serviceable at $17.00 to $25.00—Stewart's.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Heaman's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

Worsted Hose made from strong yarns, very suitable for school wear. Special at 25c.—Stewart's.

HICKS' NOVEMBER FORECASTS.—A Regular Storm Period is in progress as we pass from October into November Cloudiness with rain will visit most parts on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd. Rising barometer and colder, clearing weather will follow these storms for several days. A reactionary storm period falls on the 5th, 6th and 7th, coincident with full moon on the 6th. This period will bring the regular swing of the barometer—chang to warmer, south winds, cloudiness and rain. Western sides of storm areas will bring rising barometer, snow and change to colder. Central on the 8th, and extending from the 3rd to the 8th, constitutes a regular seismic period with a possibility of much harm being done

HAIR BEAUTIFIER

REFINED WOMEN THE WORLD OVER USE IT.

Every woman knows that there is nothing so good for hair and scalp trouble as Parisian Sage. If Parisian Sage is used two or three times a week it will keep the scalp nice and clean and remove dandruff. It makes the hair lustrous and fluffy, and keeps it from falling out.

We urge every woman who loves radiant and fascinating hair to go to W. S. Cole to-day and get a large 50 cent bottle of Parisian Sage. He guarantees it to cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp, or money back.

LOCAL DOINGS.

October 31st is Hallowe'en.

Get your Heavy underwear on.

How easy it is to spend the money earned by somebody else.

Thanksgiving Day, next Monday. Single fare on all railroads.

Have you anything to be thankful for? This is a good time to show it.

If you would discover a man's sore spot, keep quiet and let him talk.

A man is never too old to learn that he knows a lot of things he should forget.

Try the new barber shop over T. Wilson's grocery. Open Saturday Oct. 28—F. Boyle.

Occasionally a man makes his mark in the world because his wife makes him toe it.

Rev. Geo. Jackson, a former pastor, will occupy the James Street pulpit on Sunday next.

Em Taylor returned from London last week and has taken a position with Mr. A. J. Ford, butcher.

Mr. Thos. Elliott is suffering from blood poisoning in his hand, originating from a scratch.

Rapid progress is now being made in the erection of the new rink. The circular girders are now in place.

For a clean and easy shave or up-to-date hair cut try F. Boyle, at the new Barber shop over T. Wilson's grocery. Open October 28th.

Constable Blasett in going over his berry bushes the other day discovered a branch of the black variety that was heavily laden with beautiful berries.

The directors of the Exeter Agricultural Society met in the Commercial Hotel on Saturday to wind up the affairs of the Society connected with the recent Fall Fair.

Mr. Geo. Pedler left Friday to visit his brother at Petrolea. Mr. Pedler feels very grateful to the many friends for the kindness shown him during his severe and lengthy illness.

The Western Ontario Men's Missionary Convention will be held in London, Nov. 6th, 7th and 8th. It is expected to be one of the most important conventions ever held in the district.

Miss Hazel Blasett, an employee of the Jackson Factory, had a needle run through the index finger of her left hand on Saturday, necessitating her laying off work for a day or two.

Rev. Blatchford of Centralia preached interesting sermons in the Presbyterian church on Sunday, Rev Mr. Sharp preaching anniversary sermons at one of the former's appointments, Whalen.

Efforts are being made to secure a special train on the L. H. & B. on November 2nd, to enable those who wish to hear Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian and entertainer, who appears in London that night.

MRS. JEANNETTE JEWELL KELLOGG, the well-known Elocutionist of Buffalo, has been engaged by The Young Men's Class of Caven Presbyterian Church for Nov. 8th. This is a rare treat so be sure to hear it.

The James Street church congregations were greatly pleased with the discourses by a former pastor, Rev. A. L. Russell, on Sunday. Mr. Russell was always, a favorite pastor, and the Exeter people were pleased to hear him again.

It was stated last week that Mr. C. Lindenfelt had accepted a position with Mr. J. J Merner of Zurich, but Mr. Lindenfelt has since reconsidered the matter and has decided to remain with Mr. J. A. Stewart of town, and will continue a resident of Exeter.

It is said that dancing makes girls' feet large. It is also said that ice-cream makes freckles. Doctors are are of the opinion that hanging on the front gate produces rheumatism. A few more opinions like these and the girls won't have any fun left them.

That automobiles are becoming very popular is instanced in the fact that up to Thursday evening last no less than 200 automobile parties had stopped at the Central Hotel alone during the season. Mr. John Mallott, the genial wine clerk, who has a special aptitude for figures says so, and Jack's word goes.

In last week's issue mention was made of the death of W. J. Powell of Monuds, Ill., son of Mr. Geo. Powell, town, and it has been learned since that the cause of death was pneumonia. He took ill on Friday and died the following Tuesday. His two brothers, J. H. Powell of Crosswell, Mich., and G. C. Powell of Detroit attended the funeral which took place at Mounds.

Mr. Wm. E. Shaw, assistant engineer of the Hydro-Electric commission, was in town on Tuesday evening, being on a tour of Huron County, discussing and investigating the needs for power at the various centres. He had visited many other points in Huron and will make a report to the Commission. Reeve Taylor and several other gentlemen met Mr. Shaw at the Town Hall and discussed the matter.

If you were going to investigate a location, wouldn't your first step be to send for copies of the local papers and for their advertisements; In no other way would you put your finger so quickly and surely on the pulse of trade. You could tell much more easily than by walking through the streets whether it was a live town or a dead one, and just what forms of business were most active. And if you judge another town in this way—how about your own.

The delivery clerk in the post-office has much to annoy him. There is a drummer who wants any letter that may come for him during the next ten days forwarded to him at London or Toronto; the man who wants to know if a letter is posted now will go before the 3 o'clock train; the boss mailed a letter without a stamp and wants it back, six men who forgot their box keys and want their mail handed out to them; the woman who knows there must be a letter for her, and asks the clerk to "look again please"; the man who gets angry and wants the postmaster to "come out on the sidewalk just two minutes," and the school boy or girl who goes in regularly four times a day to ask for mail when they do not get a letter or a paper in a week.

The Liberal Convention is to be held in Hensall on November 1st.

Gordon Wells, son of Mr. Fred Wells, broke the left arm between the elbow and wrist last Friday, while vaulting with a pole.

Exeter Oddfellows have accepted an invitation to exemplify the work of the Second degree at Hensall on Friday, November 3rd.

Mrs. F. J. Wickware is in Windsor this week attending the wedding of her nephew, Cooper White, to Miss Werner of Detroit. The event took place on Wednesday.

The following were the winners of the J. T. Carter Scholarship in Huron,—1st, J. A. McMahon of Hay, $100; 2nd, W. B. Strachan of Brussels, $60; 3rd, A. Surerus of Hay, $40.

Mr. Thos. E. Handford has disposed of his property on the corner of Andrew and North streets to Mr. John Snell. This was the residence of Dr. Rollins.—Mr. John Snell has disposed of the property in which he now resides to Mrs. Wm. Bawden.

Mr. John Leathorn, who left here some months ago for Ingersoll and who is foreman of one department of the Ingersoll Packing Co., underwent an operation the other day for the removal of a tumor. He is reported as recovering nicely.

Mr. T. Brock, sr., has gone to Forest to work

Willie Birney spent the past week in Belgrave.

Miss Winnie Huston is home from Hamilton.

Mr. John Norry was home over Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Case, of Toronto, visited here part of the week.

Mr. Wm. Heaman of London visited his son, W. J., here on Tuesday.

Mrs. Bennett of Toronto is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Stewart.

Mr. John Farmer of London spent part of last week visiting friends here

Mrs. A Bowey visited in London and St. Thomas over Sunday and Monday.

Miss Hattie Hunter returned home from her trip West on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Baker returned this week from an extended trip west.

Mr. Melville of Ohio visited his brother, Mr. Wm. Melville here, part of last week.

Mrs. D. Cobbledick of Exeter North was taken to London Hospital on Saturday.

Miss Hilda Hoskins of Kirkton is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Wm. Trebie.

Miss Mattie Finkbeiner, who has been visiting her sister at Adelaide, returned home last week.

Miss Flossie Arnold of Kincardine is visiting with friends in town, the guest of Miss Flossie Hunter.

Mrs. J. C. Tom, who has been visitting in the West for the past two months, returned home Friday evening.

Miss Penhale who has been visiting here with her brother, Mr. W. H. Penhale, returned to Vancouver, B. C., on Thursday.

Mr. A. McConnell, of London, formerly of Exeter, visited with his sister Mrs. A. Hallond, who is quite ill, the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Collins, after a pleasant visit with her son, Mr. W H Collins of the Bank of Commerce, returned to her home in Millbrook Thursday.

Mrs Bert Grigg of Montreal, after a visit at the home of Mr. John Grigg, left Tuesday for Sarnia to spend a few days prior to returning home.

Mr. F. W. Gladman left Saturday for Toronto and from there will go to Brockville as delegate from S. Huron to the Sunday School Convention.

Mrs. (Rev.) Collins and infant daughter returned from Toronto Hospital Friday evening. The little patient is recovering nicely from the recent operation.

Mrs. Fowell left Saturday for Windsor to visit for a few weeks. Her sister, Mrs. Latta, left the same morning on her return to her home in Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. Rich. Robinson, London Road South, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Murray Miller of Edmonton leave to-day (Thursday) for Thompsonville to visit relatives and friends for a few months. After a few week's visit Mrs. Miller will return.

APPLES

Those wanting good NO. 1 Winter Apples call at the store.

Jones & May

Thornton Fear of Blyth was here this week.

Mr. Gordon Manns after several years of employment as tinsmith with T. Hawkins & Son, last week severed his connection with the firm and left Saturday for Brantford where he has secured a good position We are sorry to see Good leave town. Mrs. Manns and family will remain here a few weeks.

CREDITON.

The news of the death of Rev. S. F. Brown of Regina, Sask., was received here on Wednesday morning. He had been ill of typhoid fever, and had recovered sufficiently to be taken home from the hospital, but suffered a relapse which resulted in his death. Rev. Brown was born in Crediton, is well and favorably known here, and the many friends will be greatly shocked to learn of his sudden demise. The deceased attended the session of the Evangelical church at Zurich this spring, and before his return home occupied the pulpit in the Evangelical church here. He was about 45 years of age and was a son of the late John Brown, and a brother of Mr. Bernard Brown and Mrs. Fred. Haist of Crediton. A wife and five children survive. Rev. Brown was considered one of the ablest men of the Evangelical church, and he was a pioneer of the work in the West, where he labored with eminent success.

Mr. Alvin McMurray of London is visiting friends in town. He intends going to Winnipeg next week. We wish him success.

Quite a number from here attended the entertainment given in James Street church, Exeter, on Monday evening. All appear to be delighted with the program

Herby Fahner and Emery Fahner are engaged in the office of the Star, to learn to set type and sling ink.

Mr. and Mrs. August Haist have returned home after a pleasant visit with relatives in Elkton and Sebewaing, Mich.

Last Sunday morning a special service was held in the Evangelical church for the old people. In spite of the wet weather there was a good number of the aged present. Old time hymns were sung and Rev. Burn's sermon was particularly appropriate for the occasion. The service closed with an old-time testimony meeting.

H. Elber, M.P.P., and Paul Shenk leave here on Friday for a deer hunt in Parry Sound District. We wish them all kinds of luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morlock, Mrs. Chas. Elber and Mrs. Gottfried Gaiser autoed to Blenheim last Wednesday where they attended the funeral of a relative.

We are pleased to see Robert Sweet around again after his recent illness.

John Hirtzell had a dry-house burnt to the ground one day last week. It is thought a over-heated stove caused the blaze. Fortunately it was raining at the time and no wind otherwise it might have set fire to the dwelling. Mr. Hirtzel's loss is covered by insurance.

Dr. and Mrs. Orme autoed to London last Saturday and spent the day visiting friends.

A big gang of bridge men are putting up the iron work of Haist's bridge, a mile and a quarter north of town.

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Portland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Bus, Dray and Teaming Business

Your orders in our line will be attended to quickly and satisfactorily. We are here to please the public needing anything in our line, and we ask a trial from you. Orders left by phone or otherwise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will receive prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

Phone 55

Powell's Bazaar

VARIETY STORE

We have been busy now 3 weeks marking up Xmas stock and before putting it on sale we must push out our large granite stock so on Thursday we commence, if you want a bargain come quick, don't wait. We must have the space.

Thursday Starts the Sale

SATURDAY SPECIALS—

12 Handbags, good value at 85c. only 69c.

2 Handbags good value at $3.00 only $2.39.

SPECIAL BARGAINS in the windows, watch 'em.

PICTURE POST CARDS all kinds Thanksgiving and local views.

Come with your friends to the Big Variety Store, we can save you money.

For Xmas—An Edison Phonograph, ask about them.

OUR WATCH AND Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter

Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers

And

Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a

For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON

The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

Priestleys' Wool Serges

IN BLACK NAVY

CREAM & COLOURS.

Guaranteed Fast Dye.

Do not fail to see our New Fall and Winter Dress Goods—nothing but the Season's most stylish colors. A visit to Our Dress Goods Department will convince you.

FURLINED COATS

The best we have ever shown for the prices. A. No .1 cloths. No. 1 Muskrat lining, with Alask Sable, American Sable or Isabella Sable Collars and Reveres.

WINTER COATS

Something new coming in every day. This is our big coat season Just try on one of our Swell Tweed Coats or a nice Smooth Black. They are good fitters and lookers.

Big Clothing and Overcoat Sale

$7000.00 OF NEW CLOTHING $7000.00

Just arrived $7,000.00 worth of W. E. Sandford & Co's. New Fall and Winter Clothing. Every garment bought at job prices to clear them out. Now is your time to get bargain clothing.

Men's	Good	$10	Suits	for only	$7
"	"	$15, $16	"	" "	$10
"	"	$20, $23	"	" "	$13 to $15
"	"	$5, $6	Pants	" "	$3
"	"	$2.25	"	" "	$1.50
Boys	"	$5.	Suits	" "	$3.50
"	"	$7, $8	3-piece suits	for only	$5.

Overcoats by the score for Men and Boys at Bargain Prices.

JONES & MAY

Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

South Huron Liberal-Conservatives Convene

HENRY EILBER CHOSEN

Henry Eilber, the popular member for South Huron in the last Provincial Legislature, was again the unanimous choice of the LiberalConservative party at their convention held in Zurich on Thursday afternoon last. His was the only name proposed, and the greatest enthusiasm was shown when he accepted the nomination.

The meeting opened at two o'clock with the president, Mr. J. A. Williams, in the chair. Although it was a busy season the delegates were out in large numbers, there being over 100 present, after some minor business had been transacted nominations were called for, when Mr. Eilber was duly nominated by Messrs. John Sherritt, ex-M.P., and Wm Anderson, ex-Deputy-Reeve of Stephen.

Besides Mr. Eilber the following gentlemen spoke briefly, J. J. Merner, M.P., John Sherritt and Wm Anderson of Stephen, Reeve John W. Taylor and T. B. Carling of Exeter, and Mr. Richardson of Stanley. Many high tributes were paid to the worth of the candidate as a representative of the people, and to the progressive policy of the Whitney Government.

Mr. Eilber expressed his appreciation of the confidence reposed in him by his constituents throughout his fourteen years of service, and reviewed the policies of the Whitney Government. "The Ontario Government," he said, "has been hampered in many ways by the Dominion Government, notably in the direction of the tide of immigration away from the fertile lands of New Ontario to the Western Provinces. But even under this handicap the Government has made good Under the Reform administration the University of Toronto was a struggling institution existing for the most part on promises. Under the Whitney Government it has been placed upon a solid financial basis. Then there is the wonderful work accomplished by the present Government in connection with the Agricultural College at Guelph. And in this connection let me say that we must have progress in farming. When agriculture flourishes all the others follow." The speaker touched upon the development of the hydro-electric system, giving high praise to Hon. Adam Beck, whom he referred to as "a man who will go down in history as one who has done much, if not more for his province than any other statesman, past or present. In conclusion he said he had the fullest confidence in Mr. Borden and his cabinet. "I think the premier has acted wisely in the appointment of his ministers. Mr. White, to whom some have taken exception, is a man of superior ability, and I believe he is eminently qualified for the important post of minister of finance. I believe that Mr. Borden took into consideration his wonderful work as a financier before appointing him."

HENRY EILBER
Conservative Candidate in S .Huron

On motion of Messrs. John McNaughton and L. H. Dickson the following resolution was unanimously adopted,—"That we tender to the Hon. R. L. Borden heartiest congratulations upon his election to the high and proud office of first minister and commoner of Canada, and that we at thel same time express to him our gratitude for the great sacrifice made by him as our leader in the past, and for the splendid victory achieved by him on Sept. 21st, and our fullest confidence in him to rule aright the affairs of this Dominion. We especially commend the wisdom and breadth of mind displayed by our leader in selecting as members of his cabinet men of probity and ability, each and everyone of them being peculiarly and eminently fitted for the positions they have been called upon to fill."

The meeting adjourned after three cheers for the King, the candidate, and Premier Whitney.

JOS. ELLIOTT IN CENTRE HURON.

At the convention of Conservatives of Centre Huron in Seaforth on Thursday Joseph Elliott of Goderich was chosen as the candidate for the Provincial Legislature. Mr. Elliott is a strong man and the defeat of the late member, Mr. Proudfoot, is anticipated.

In North Huron John T. Currie was tendered the unanimous nomination of the Liberals at the Convention held in Wingham on Oct. 26. The Conservative candidate in this riding is the former member, Mr. A. H. Musgrove.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS DEC. 11.

Sir James Whitney on Monday announced that the provincial elections in Ontario will take place on December 11, with nomination one week earlier.

HIS OFFICIAL TITLE

Those who have occasion to address official correspondence to the Duke of Connaught will need to leave plenty of room for the salutation. The official title as given by the Canada Gazette, runs in this order;—

Field Marshall, His Royal Highness Prince Arthur William Patrick Albert, Duke of Connaught and of Strathern, and Earl of Essex in the Peerage of the United Kingdom, Prince of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Duke of Saxony, Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha; Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter; Knight of Most Ancient and Most Noble Order of the Thistle; Knight of the Most Illustrious Order of Saint Patrick; one of His Majesty's most honorable Privy Council; First and Principal Knight Grand Cross and Great Master of the Honourable Order of the Bath; Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India; Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George Knight Grand Commander of the Most Eminent Order of the Indian Empire; Knight Grand Cross of the Royal Victorian Order; Personal Aide-de-Camp to His Majesty the King; Governor General and Commander in Chief of the Dominion of Canada.

CARD OF THANKS.

I, the undersigned, desire hereby to return my sincere thanks to all the neighbors and friends who so heartily gave their assistance and sympathy during the illness and since the death of my husband.—Mrs. English.

The Advocate will be sent to any address in Canada till January 1913 for $1.00.

Notice to Creditors

Of MRS. MARGARET AIRTH, Late of the Villate of Exeter, in the County of Huron, Widow, Deceased.

Pursuant to Chapter 129 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897, notice is hereby given that all creditors and others having claims against estate of above named deceased who died on or about the 27th day of June, 1911, are on or before the 10th day of November, A.D. 1911, to send by post prepaid, to the undersigned Solicitors for the administrator of the estate of the said deceased their christian names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities (if any) held by them, and that after the day last aforesaid the said administrator will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to such claims of which notice shall have been given as above required, and the said administrator will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose claim or claims notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Exeter this 17th day of October, A. D. 1911.

DICKSON & CARLING,
Solicitors for Administrator

Notice to Creditors

Of JOHN W. HORNEY, Late of the Township of Usborne, in the County of Huron, Yeoman, Deceased.

Pursuant to Chapter 129 of the Revised Statutes of Ontario, 1897 notice is hereby given that all creditors and others having claims against estate of above named deceased who died on or about the 15th day of July, 1911, are on or before the 10th day of November, A.D. 1911, to send by post prepaid to the undersigned solicitors for Robert K. Horney, the Executor of the last will and testament of the said deceased, their christian names and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims, a statement of their accounts and the nature of the securities, if any, held by them, and that after the day last aforesaid the said Executor will proceed to distribute the assets of the said deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to such claims of which notice shall have been given as above required, and the said Executor will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof, to any person or persons of whose claim or claims notice shall not have been received by him at the time of such distribution.

Dated at Exeter this 17th day of October, A. D. 1911.

DICKSON & CARLING,
Solicitors for Executor

Local Items

Mrs John Pedler is visiting in London

Mr. Ed. Treble is confined to his room owing to illness.

Mrs. W. H. Welsh is quite ill at her home, Mill Street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Markham were in London this week.

Miss Ethel Clark of Hensall visited Miss Dora Houlden.

Mr. John Wood took a car of cattle to Toronto this week.

Miss Ida Armstrong visited her sisters in Lucknow this week.

Wm. Hatter is visiting his sister Miss Nellie Hatter, in Toronto.

The young people enjoyed a dance in the Opera House on Tuesday evening.

Miss Reid and Miss Parkinson of London spent the holiday with friends here.

Miss Alice Welsh of London spent the week with her father, London Road North.

Mr and Mrs. Gauld and family of London were the guests of Mrs. Brooks over the holiday.

Mr and Mrs. F. W. Baker returned from the West last week, where they spent the summer.

Miss Lottie Welsh of London visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Welsh in Exeter this week.

Mrs. Clarke of Hamilton, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of London spent the holidays at W. D. Clarke's.

Mr. Alf Wilcox, an Exeter boy, who has been engaged in Detroit, at barbering, has gone to Los Angeles.

Mr. Ed. J. Nash of Wingham and Mrs. Arthur Nash of Sarnia visited Mr. and Mrs. Willis Powell this week.

Mrs. Thomas Houlden, and her sister Mrs. Wm. Jacques of Elimville visited with relatives in Clinton this week.

Miss M. E. Brown, who has been holidaying at her home here, returned to resume her duties, Detroit, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. S. Mack and Miss Margaret Saunders of Guelph spent the past week visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Thos. Gregory.

No plans or arrangements have yet been made by the Grand Trunk for the erection of a new station to take the place of the one recently destroyed by fire, and it would seem as though Exeter will be without a passenger station, other than the temporary provision made, this winter at least. This is owing to the fact that the company has so much work of a similar nature on hand at which their workmen are engaged.

ROBE FOUND—On Monday last a robe was found in Exeter, Owner can have same by proving property and paying for this advertisement.—Call at Advocate Office.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.—Mr. C. W. Cross was tried in Goderich last week for mis-appropriation of the funds of Exeter cemetery, and was let off on suspended sentence, he agreeing to pay the money back.

FURNITURE AND HOUSEHOLD EFFECTS FOR SALE.—In addition to the sale of effects, etc., of the late Reeve Bawden, there will be offered for sale on the same date, Saturday, Nov. 4th, the furniture and household effects of Mr. S. G. Bawden. Remember the date, Saturday, Nov. 4th.

SOLD BUSINESS—Mr S. G. Bawden on Saturday last sold his Men's Furnishing business to Mr. T. J. Kestle and B. W. F. Beavers, who took charge on the completion of stock-taking, which commenced on Tuesday morning. We regret to lose Mr. Bawden as a business man in Exeter, but extend a cordial welcome to his successors. Mr. and Mrs. Bawden intend spending the winter in California.

TENDERS FOR SUPPLIES, 1912

THE UNDERSIGNED Will receive tenders up to noon on Friday, 10th November, 1911, for supplies of butchers' meat, flour, oatmeal, potatoes, etc., for the following institutions for the year 1912, viz.;—

At the Hospital for the Insane in Brockville, Cobourg, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Mimico, Orillia, Penetanguishene, Toronto; the Central Prison and Mercer Reformatory, Toronto, and the Hospital for Epileptics at Woodstock.

Exceptions—Tenders are not required for the supply of meat to the Hospitals in Brockville, Hamilton, Kingston, London, Mimico, and Toronto, nor for the Central Prison or Mercer Reformatory, Toronto.

A marked cheque for five per cent. of the estimated amount of the contract, payable to the order of the Honourable the Provincial Secretary, must be furnished by each tenderer as a guarantee of his bona fides, and two sufficient securities, or the bond of a guarantee company authorized to do business in the Dominion of Canada, will be required for the due fulfilment of each contract. Specifications and forms and conditions of tenders may be obtained from the Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, or from the Bursars of the respective institutions. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted. Newspapers inserting this advertisement without authority from the department will not be paid for it.

W. J. HANNA, Provincial Secretary,
Parliament Buildings, Toronto,
October 11th, 1911.

Mrs. P. Bawden returned Saturday from a week's visit with friends in London.

Mrs. Robt. Cooper of London is visiting with relatives and friends in and around Exeter.

A number of foolish pranks were perpetrated on Tuesday night, Hallowe'en, but we have heard of nothing serious. The world does not seem to get much wiser.

LIBERAL LEADER RESIGNS.

At a caucus of Liberal candidates and members of the Legislature of Ontario held in Toronto this week the leader of the party, Hon. A. G. MacKay, tendered his resignation, which was accepted, although he was unanimously requested to remain the party's head. Mr. MacKay said that attacks on his personal character in the courts made it impossible for him to lead the party until he had proven them without foundation. N. W. Rowell, a Toronto lawyer, was chosen leader.

THE NEW SEED ACT

During the recent session of Parliament, important changes were made in the Seed Act respecting the sale of clover and timothy seed. Under the old Act the Inspector sometimes found it difficult to prove violations, though misrepresentations were being made. A dealer might offer red clover seed containing as many as 92 noxious weed seeds per ounce, and an unlimited number of other weeds such as foxtail, represent it as his best grades and charge nearly as much as his competitor asked for No. 1. He would not mark it No. 1, but he might state verbally that it was No. 1, or just as good. This has often been done, with the result that farmers, as well as retail merchants who really wanted to buy pure seed have got badly contaminated seed and paid top prices. for it Under the new Act, such representation will be impossible and both farmers and retail merchants will be able to buy their seed more intelligently. Four grades are fixed by the Act for red clover, alsike, alfalfa, and timothy seed, and all seed sold for seeding purposes by seedsmen must be plainly labelled with the grade. Any seed not grading No. 3, which is a higher standard than the old prohibitive line of five noxious weed seeds per 1000 of good seed, is prohibited for sale.

DOING THE FARMERS.

At least a score of Colborne Township farmers now have kitchen cabinets who never had kitchen cabinets before. Each and everyone cost $29, and thereby hangs a tale. A slick, sleek stranger toured the sixth concession not long ago, with a sample kitchen cabinet in the back of his wagon. Trade proving a little slow, he made the deal easy by telling each farmer that about Christmas time when work was slack in the country he would hire the farmer to drive him about collecting the payments on the cabinets he had sold. Any price at all could be charged for this service, and the agent also agreed to board at the farmer's home, paying the housewife any sum she might see fit to ask. Seeing an opportunity of a kitchen cabinet for little or nothing, some six farmers on the sixth attached their signatures to a paper "In token of good-will," and so that their names might be recorded. A dozen other farmers on the lake shore, around Nile did the same. The other day they all received notice from a bank in Wingham that notes for $29 were due, and payable there. These were the "blank papers." Then came a sad procession of duped ones to Wingham to settle.

BIDDULPH.

Mr and Mrs. Thos. Armitage are spending a few days with the former's brother, Jas. Armitage of Kincardine.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cunningham are visiting her mother this week.—Mr. O. Dobbs is engaged with Mr. W. Colwill at hay pressing. —Mr. Geo. Whiting is spending a few days on the Sauble Line.—Mr. Cobleigh has returned from the West. He intends going back in the spring.

LUCAN.—A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Howard on October 25th, when Miss Bertha Culbert of London, formerly of Forest, was married to Edward Meyers of London. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Lowe in the presence of a few friends.

The Liberals seem to be having their own troubles over a provincial leader at present. Hon. A. G. MacKay does not seem to please all. He really hasn't had a chance to win yet.

BIRTHS

Uttley—At Zurich, on Oct. 19th to Mr. and Mrs. William Uttley, a son.

MARRIAGES

Huston—Gray—In London, Oct. 30, William Mervin Huston, son of Mr. H. Huston of Exeter, to Miss Jane Mary, daughter of Mr James Gray of London.

Farquhar—Consitt—At Hillsgreen, Oct., 25th, by Rev. Mr. Richardson, Emma A, Consitt, to Chas. T. Farquhar, both of Hillsgreen.

DEATHS

Parke—In Bayfield on Oct. 25th, Geo. Parke, aged 84 years and 9 months.

Upritchard—In Clinton, on Oct. 20th, Thos. Upritchard, aged 55 years.

Lintott.—In Ailsa Craig, Oct. 24, Mrs. Wm. Lintott, aged 68 years.

15c. pays for The Advocate to Jan.1

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

DRESS GOODS
DRESS GOODS

We are having a two weeks sale of all Dress Goods in black and colored. We therefore quote a few of the prices to show you that we mean what we say. These Dress Goods are in nearly all the shades that are worn this fall. Dress Goods that was

Regular $1.25 for $1.12 — Regular $1.35 for $1.08
Regular $1.50 for 98c. — Regular $1.00 for 88c.
Regular 75c. for 58c. — Regular 50c. for 42c.

All these prices hold good only for two weeks so come in and secure your dress for the coming season.

READY MADE SKIRTS

We have a few ready made skirts in Black, Green Red, Blues, Brown, and Old Rose which we will clear out at a discount of 33⅓ per cent. off. Come and purchase early because this is a bargain.

WALL PAPERS

House cleaning time is come again so buy your Fall Wall Paper now while we are offering a discount of 25 per cent. on all papers.

You may need a new Carpet or Rug this fall, if you do just come in and purchase at a discount of 15 per cent. These are exceptional bargains.

DINNER SETS

Just a few left to clear regular $10.00 for $8.00 Regular $8.00 for $6.00.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

A Quick Cut Price Sale At Bawden's Old Stand

Beginning Thursday morning November 2nd

Having purchased the Clothing and Gents Furnishing stock of S. G. Bawden at a rate on the dollar we are enabled to make a big slash in prices to clear out the entire stock in six weeks. Come in and get a new suit or overcoat at a big discount. Every article will be slaughtered. Try one of our special order suits or overcoats.

Also at the Exeter Bargain Store you will find a bankrupt stock of boots, shoes and rubbers just opened this week besides a small dry goods stock.

You save money buying at either of our stores

Bawden's Old Stand
The Exeter Bargain Store

B. W. F. Beavers

Why let that headache spoil your day's work or pleasure? Take

NA-DRU-CO HEADACHE WAFERS

25c. a Box at your druggist's.

Guaranteed to contain no morphine, opium or other poisonous drugs, by the National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited. 30 • • • • Montreal.

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER VII.

Brett was called at ten o'clock. After reinvigorating himself with a bath and a hearty breakfast, he was ready to meet Captain Gaultier, who arrived promptly at 11.30.

"Come to my room," said Brett. "There we will be able to talk without interruption."

Once comfortably seated, Brett resumed the conversation where he had broken it off in the train overnight.

"You say you know Hussein-ul-Mulk," he commenced.

"Yes," replied the King's messenger, "and what is more, I have discovered his residence since we parted. It seems that one of the attaches at the Embassy met him recently and thought it advisable to keep in touch with the Young Turkish party, of which Hussein-ul-Mulk is a shining light. So he asked him where he lived, and as the result I have jotted down the address in my note-book." Gaultier searched through his memoranda, and speedily found what he wanted.

"Wait a minute," interrupted Brett. "Does it happen to be No. 11, Rue Barbette?"

The barrister had more than once surprised his companion during the previous night, but this time Gaultier seemed to be more annoyed than startled.

"If you know all these things," he said stiffly, "I don't see why you should bother me to get you the information."

Brett smiled.

"You mean," he said, "that Hussein-ul-Mulk does live at No. 11 Rue Barbette."

"Why, of course he does," was the irritable answer.

"That is very odd," said the barrister. "It was a mere guess on my part, I assure you."

His assurance evidently did not weigh much with Captain Gaultier, who replaced the note-book in his pocket and obviously cast about in his mind for a convenient excuse to take his departure.

Brett knew exactly what was troubling him.

"I am quite in earnest," he said, "in telling you that I simply hazarded a guess at the address. To prove that this is so, I must place you in possession of certain incidents which took place after we parted at the Gare du Nord."

Rapidly but succinctly he told the amazed King's messenger of the chase in the cab across Paris, and how he (Brett) had followed the Frenchman who was tracking Gaultier's movements so closely.

"You will understand," he concluded, "that, in view of my preconceived theory, it was not a very far-fetched assumption to connect Hussein-ul-Mulk with the house in the Rue Barbette into which your spy vanished."

"Well," gasped his astonished hearer, "I must say, Mr. Brett, that I owe you an apology, but I do not see what reason any one can have for shadowing my movements."

"I regard it as mere chance. I imagine that our fellow-passenger in the train caught the name of Hussein-ul-Mulk in our conversation and this decided him to shadow your movements, by means of the confederate who awaited his arrival at the station. As it happened, they simply hit upon the wrong person. It might have paid them much better to follow me. The outcome of the blunder is that I am in a fair way towards ascertaining all I want to know about them, whereas, up to the present, they do not even suspect my existence as an active agent in the affair."

"Well, now, in what way can I help you regarding Hussein-ul-Mulk?"

"Can you introduce me to him?"

"In what capacity?"

Brett reflected for a moment before replying.

"I might pose as a friend of yours interested in Turkish carpets, or coffee, or cigarettes, but for the purpose of my inquiry it would be well to jump preliminaries at once and make this chance acquaintance under the guise of a wire puller."

"All right," said Gaultier. "I don't see that it matters much to me, and the letter you have in your possession from the Under-Secretary is sufficient warrant for me to give you any assistance that lies in my power."

He glanced at his watch. "It is just about time for dejeuner," he continued. "What do you say if we drive to the Rue Barbette at once?"

The barrister assented, and they were soon crossing Paris with the superb disregard for other people's feelings that characterises the local cab-driver.

"By the way," inquired Gaultier, "have you learned anything else since your arrival?"

"Only this—it was not our friend Talbot who came here on Tuesday with a lady."

"You are sure?"

"Positive. I have compared the handwriting in the local register with a letter undoubtedly written by Mr. Talbot, and the two do not agree. The entry of 'Mr. and Mrs. Talbot, London,' in the visitors' book of the Grand Hotel, was a mere trick intended to amuse the police for a few hours until the conspirators had perfected their scheme for final and complete disappearance."

"It was a bold move."

"Very. Quite in keeping with the rest of the details of an uncommon crime."

At last the fiacre stopped in front of the house in the Rue Barbette which Brett had already scrutinized during the early hours of the morning.

"Here we are," said Gaultier with a laugh. "If we find Hussein-ul-Mulk at home I don't know what the deuce we are going to say to him."

"I think I will be able to interest him," said Brett calmly, and without further preliminary Gaultier ascertained from the concierge that the Turkish gentleman was within.

The two men ascended to the second story.

Gaultier rapped loudly on the first door he encountered, and the summons appeared to scatter some of the inhabitants, judging by the rapid opening and closing of doors that preceded the appearance of an elderly and solemn-looking Turk, who cautiously demanded their business.

Gaultier sent in his card, and the servitor locked the door in the faces of the two men while he went to ascertain his master's orders.

"They evidently do not mean to take many risks," said the King's messenger in a low voice.

The door was re-opened, and the elderly Turk ushered them into a spacious room on the right of the entrance hall, where they were received by a young man—a tall, dignified Mohammedan, who rose hastily from a chair, having apparently abandoned the perusal of a newspaper.

"Ah, mon brave Gaultier," he cried, "I am so pleased to see you. I did not know you were in Paris. I have been spending an idle moment over smoke and scandal." He spoke excellent French, and appeared to be quite at his ease, but Brett noticed that Hussein-ul-Mulk held the discarded newspaper upside down. He was smoking a cigarette, lighted the instant before their appearance, and notwithstanding his Oriental phlegm he seemed to be laboring under intense excitement. Nevertheless, Hussein-ul-Mulk could control his nerves.

"Have you had dejeuner, or have you time to join me in a cigarette?" he went on.

"We will be delighted," said Gaultier, taking the proffered case. "The fact is, I only heard of your presence in Paris by accident, and I mentioned the fact to my friend here, who has interested himself in the Armenian cause in London. He at once expressed a keen desire to make your acquaintance, so I ventured to bring him here and introduce him to you. This is Mr. Reginald Brett, an English barrister, and one who keenly sympathizes with the reform movement in Turkey."

"I am delighted to know you, Mr. Brett," said the suave Oriental.

"It is a greater pleasure to me," Brett replied, "to find myself talking to a reformer so distinguished as you. Your name is well known in England. Indeed, in some quarters, it has come to be feared, which in this world is one of the signs of success."

Hussein-ul-Mulk was puzzled, but he remained outwardly unperturbed.

"I was not aware," he purred, "that my poor services to my country were so appreciated by my English friends."

"Ah," said Brett, with a smile that conveyed much, "a man like you cannot long remain hidden. I have good reasons to know that at the present moment your achievements are earnestly attracting the attention of the Foreign Office."

Hussein-ul-Mulk became even more puzzled. Indeed, he exhibited some slight tokens of alarm lest Brett's vehement admiration should reach the ears of others in the adjoining room.

"Really," he said, "you flatter me. Will you not try these cigarettes? They are the best; they are made from tobacco grown especially for the Sultan's household, and it is death to export them. I understand that the cigarette habit has grown very much of recent years in England?"

"Yes," said Brett, "it certainly has developed with amazing rapidity. In trade, as in politics, this is an astounding age."

Gaultier knew that there was more behind the apparent exchange of compliments than appeared on the surface. Having fulfilled his pledge to Brett, he said hurriedly, "Both of you gentlemen will understand that I cannot very well take part in a political discussion. With your permission, Hussein, I will now leave my friend with you for a half-hour's chat, as I have an appointment at the Cafe Riche."

Although Hussein was profoundly disconcerted by Brett's manner no less than his utterances, he could not well refuse to accord him a further audience, so Gaultier quitted the apartment and the Englishman and the Mussulman were left face to face.

Brett felt that the situation demanded a bold game. Under some circumstances he knew that to throw away the scabbard and dash with naked sword into the fray was the right policy.

"I came to see you, Hussein-ul-Mulk," he said, speaking deliberately, "not only because I have an interest in the progressive policy voiced by the Young Turkish party, but on account of matters of personal interest to you, and to friends of mine in England."

The Turk bowed silent recognition of the barrister's motives.

"You are aware," said Brett, "that a large number of valuable diamonds were stolen from the special Envoy of his Majesty the Sultan, in London, last Tuesday night, and that the theft was accompanied by the murder of four of the Sultan's subjects and the abduction of a prominent official in the British Foreign Office?"

For some few seconds Hussein-ul-Mulk strove hard to regain his composure and frame a reply, but Brett, nonchalantly puffing a cloud of smoke into the intervening space, and thus helping his hearer to control his emotions, went on—

"I do not propose wasting time by describing to you the details of a crime with which you are thoroughly acquainted. Let me say, in a sentence, that my chief, perhaps my only, motive in coming here today is to secure the release of my friend Mr. Talbot from the place where he is at present confined, and at the same time to obtain from you a statement which will satisfactorily clear Mr. Talbot in the eyes of his superiors of all personal complicity in the Albert Gate incident." Again there was a breathless silence.

Hussein-ul-Mulk had regained his nerve. He was now considering how best he could dispose of this Englishman who knew so much. To purchase his silence was too hopeless. He must die as speedily and unostentatiously as possible. So he answered not, but thought hard as to ways and means.

Brett, in imminent danger of his life, disregarded all semblance of danger. He leaned back in his chair, closed his eyes in complete enjoyment of Hussein's cigarettes, which were really excellent, and said, in the even, matter-of-fact tones of one who discusses an abstract problem.

"Of course, my dear friend, you are thinking that the best answer you can give me is to strangle me or to shoot me, or adopt some other drastic remedy which finds favor in Constantinople. But let me point out to to you that this will be a serious error of judgment. I have not come here without safeguarding my movements. You are aware that Captain Gaultier, a trusted Foreign Office messenger, brought me here in person. Some members of the British Government, and several important officials of Scotland Yard know that I am in your house and discussing this matter with you. If any accident interferes with my future movements, you will simply precipitate a crisis quite lamentable in its results to yourself, to your association, and to your cause. You will see, therefore, Hussein, that to kill me cannot really be thought of. A man of your penetration and undoubted sagacity must surely admit this at once, and we can then proceed to discuss matters in a friendly and pleasant manner."

(To be continued.)

SHIFT

If Your Food Fails to Sustain You, Change.

One sort of diet may make a person despondent, depressed and blue and a change to the kind of food the body demands will change the whole thing.

A young woman from Phila. says: "For several years I kept in a rundown, miserable sort of condition, was depressed and apprehensive of trouble. I lost flesh in a distressing way and seemed in a perpetual sort of dreamy nightmare. No one serious disease showed, but the 'all-over' sickness was enough.

"Finally, between the doctor and father I was put on Grape-Nuts and cream, as it was decided I must have nourishing food that the body could make use of.

"The wonderful change that came over me was not, like Jonah's gourd, the growth of a single night, and yet it came with a rapidity that astonished me.

"During the first week I gained in weight, my spirits improved, and the world began to look brighter and more worth while.

"And this has continued steadily, till now, after the use of Grape-Nuts for only a few weeks, I am perfectly well, feel splendidly, take a lively interest in everything, and am a changed person in every way." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book. "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

BONDS

Are you satisfied with the quality of the security in which your money is now invested? Have you some Bonds secured by first mortgage as well as preferred and common stocks?

And is your average of income on these investments as good as it should be?

Of the Government, Municipal, Corporation and Industrial Bond issues offered by this organization—safety of principal is the fundamental consideration—while we endeavor always to select or aid in the selection of a security best adapted to special needs and giving the best obtainable income return. Ask us to submit a list of Bonds for your approval.

DOMINION SECURITIES CORPORATION-LIMITED

TORONTO MONTREAL LONDON, ENG.

HEALTH IN PURE SUGAR

Sugar is one of the best, and most widely used foods. Would you risk your health for the sake of a few cents on a hundred pounds of sugar? Buy only

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR

Its Purity and Quality cannot be questioned Compare it with any other and note the difference in color.

PARIS LUMPS

When buying Loaf Sugar ask for Redpath Paris Lumps sold in RED SEAL dust proof cartons, and by the pound.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co.,
MONTREAL, CANADA. Limited

Established in 1854 by John Redpath

THE WARNING OF FOOD EXPERTS AGAINST THE USE OF ALUM POWDERS.

There are manp housewives that unthinkingly use alum baking-powders in making biscuits, cake and pastry, when it would only take a little precaution to avoid doing so.

Baking-powders that contain alum cause indigestion and nerve disorders. English food experts condemn alum as an injurious adulterant unfit for a baking-powder ingredient. If you are not careful you may be buying alum in your baking-powder and putting it in food. The way to be sure is to read the label on the baking-powder, and if the ingredients are not plain-printed on it, refuse to accept it

An Innovation in Oil Heaters

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, with its drums enameled in turquoise, is an ornament to any room, whether in the country or city home.

No home is quite complete without a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a necessity in the fall and spring, when it is too warm to start the regular heating apparatus, and too cool to be without heat. In the midst of winter it is often convenient as an auxiliary heater, as there are always some cold corners in a house.

The enameled heater always presents a nice appearance, as the enamel will not tarnish or burn off. It is not an "enamel paint," but it is the same as the enamel of your cooking utensils.

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient portable heating device you can find. An automatically-locking flame spreader prevents turning the wick high enough to smoke.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Dealers everywhere. Ask yours to show you the Perfection Heater enameled; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of

The Queen City Oil Company, Limited

A Prize Contest open to the farmers of Canada

$3,600 in Cash Prizes for Farmers

READ the conditions of the Prize Contest we are conducting for the farmers of Canada. $400.00 in prizes will be awarded to each Province. These prizes will be divided into four groups, consisting of:

PRIZE "A"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who will use during 1911 the greatest number of barrels of "CANADA" Cement. PRIZE "B"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who uses "CANADA" Cement for the greatest number of purposes. PRIZE "C"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who furnishes us with the photograph showing the best of any kind of work done on his farm during 1911 with "CANADA" Cement. PRIZE "D"—$100.00 to be given to the farmer in each Province who submits the best and most complete description of how any particular piece of work (shown by photograph sent in) was done.

Every farmer in Canada is eligible. Therefore, do not be deterred from entering by any feeling that you would have little chance against your neighbor. For remember, Prizes "C" and "D" have no bearing whatever upon the quantity of cement used.

As a matter of fact, your success in this contest will depend to a great extent on your careful reading of our 160-page book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." In this book—sent free on request to any farmer, full instructions are given as to the uses of concrete, and plans for every kind of farm buildings and farm utility. You'll see the need of this book, whether you are going to try for a prize or not. If you have not got your copy yet, write for it to-night. Simply cut off the attached coupon—or a postcard will do—sign your name and address thereto and mail it to-night.

Please send Circular and Book.
Name.....
.....
Address.....
.....

Canada Cement Company, Limited
MONTREAL

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

HOT BREADS FOR WINTER.

Indian Griddle Cakes.—Sift together three coffee cupfuls of yellow cornmeal, one cupful of flour, one teaspoonful of brown sugar, half teaspoonful of salt, and a heaping tablespoonful of baking powder; then mix to a smooth batter with two eggs beaten well with a pint of sweet milk. Bake brown on a hot griddle. Serve with maple syrup and butter.

Ginger Muffins.—Into one-half cupful of New Orleans molasses stir one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of ginger, one-half cupful of granulated sugar, and one tablespoonful of melted butter. Into two and one-fourth cupfuls of sifted flour stir one and one-half teaspoonfuls of soda, then add these to the ingredients with molasses and thin to a batter with a cupful of sour milk. Beat well, fill buttered muffin tins partly full, and bake in moderate oven for twenty minutes.

Buttermilk Biscuit.—Sift a quart of flour, then stir into it a heaping tablespoonful of baking powder and a teaspoonful of salt. Melt two level tablespoonfuls of lard and mix with the flour, then moisten to a soft dough with a pint of buttermilk, into which one-half a teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved. Roll out to half an inch thickness and cut into the usual size biscuit, handling as little as possible. Bake in a quick oven.

Graham Griddle Cakes.—For these are required a pint of graham flour, one-half pint each of yellow cornmeal and flour; with these mix one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of brown sugar, two heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and after they are thoroughly stirred together mix to a batter with one-half each of milk and water and one egg, well beaten. The griddle must be hot to bake these cakes brown. Serve with cream and grated maple sugar.

Buckwheat Cakes.—This is an old and well liked recipe. For the cakes are required one and one-half pints of buckwheat, one cupful each of yellow corn meal and flour. Stir these together, then add three heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a teaspoonful of salt, and a tablespoonful of molasses, which will add to their brownness when baked. Mix to a batter with water, not too cold. The cakes should be mixed just before they are needed for baking. Serve with maple syrup and plenty of butter.

Johnny Cake.—One egg, one tablespoonful lard, one pinch of salt, one cup of sweet milk, two scant cups of flour, one teaspoonful baking powder. Mix well and bake in quick oven for twenty minutes.

IN THE SEWING ROOM.

It may surprise most women to learn that it is not conducive to good health to sit in a rocking chair while sewing if the material has to be kept on one's lap. A rocking chair throws the body out of balance by pitching it backward at an unnatural angle. In it the muscles of the front of the body—the muscles of the chest and diaphragm—are contracted, the chest is made hollow, the ribs are pulled down, and the back is rounded.

A chair with a straight back should be used, and the body should be held in the same erect position that the cutting table requires—chin and abdomen in, back straight, chest out. Of course, it is necessary when sewing on the lap to bend forward, but the bending should be done from the hips—the back should not be rounded. Sewing at the machine properly conducted is an admirable exercise. Be sure to sit erect, bending only at the hips, and you will find the rapid pedaling will be beneficial as a healthful exercise.

Correct sewing is readily governed by a few simple rules, which, if followed out, make the plying of the needle and thread an exercise which deepens the chest, improves the carriage, strengthens the back and shoulders, clears the complexion, and brightens the eyes.

In the first place the sewing room should be well ventilated. The air in it should be as fresh and pure as the air out of doors. Three operations go on in the sewing room—viz.: cutting, the seamstress standing at the table; stitching, seated at a machine; sewing, with the material in the lap. In cutting the manner in which the seamstress bends over the table is everything.

The following exercise taken two or three times a day is a wonderful help toward correct bending at the work table, that is, bending without constricting the chest or abdomen. Stand perfectly erect with the heels together, the chin and abdomen in, the chest out, the back straight. Slowly filling the lungs with air, raise the arms, held stiff, from the sides outward, until the hands meet over the head, and at the time the hands meet, the lungs should be filled to their fullest extent wit hair. Slowly exhaling the air, lower the arms to the sides again. Repeat this movement twenty times.

There is a right way and a wrong way to sew, and she who pursues the right way arises from her sewing after a day's work greatly benefited. She may be weary, but her weariness is that derived from healthful work, like the weariness which follows a game of tennis, for instance, but the woman who habitually takes the wrong position runs a great risk of developing indigestion, to say the last, if not more serious lung trouble.

CAKE.

German Apple Cake.—One pint flour, one-half teaspoonful baking powder, one-half teaspoonful salt, mixed and sifted; rub in two tablespoonfuls of butter, and one beaten egg, and milk to make thick batter. Spread one inch deep in greased shallow tin. Have ready several pared, cored, and quartered apples. Press points into dough, sprinkle thickly with sugar mixed with little cinnamon. Bake in hot oven.

Christmas Cake.—Two pounds of flour, one pound and a quarter currants, one pound and a quarter raisins, three-quarters of a pound of candied peel, two ounces of almonds, half a pound of butter, three-quarters of a pound of lard, one pound and a quarter of granulated sugar, one tablespoonful of baking powder, two teaspoonfuls of mixed spice or a few drops of essence of lemon, eight eggs, and a little milk. Stone the raisins and wash thoroughly the currants, blanch and chop the almonds; cut the peel very fine and mix all the fruit well together. In another bowl mix the flour, baking powder and spice. Take another bowl and beat the butter and lard to a cream; add the sugar, then the eggs (well beaten); next add the fruit, then last of all the flour; beat well and pour into buttered tins. Bake from two and a half to three hours. The oven must be hot at first, and then cool down. This makes an excellent cake.

SWEETS.

Date Delight—Two cupfuls of light brown sugar, one cupful granulated sugar, one cupful of milk, one cupful of chopped dates, one tablespoonful of butter, and vanilla flavoring. Mix sugar and milk together and let it come to a boil. It is done when it will form a soft ball. Take from fire and beat till creamy. Stir in dates, spread and cut.

Toothsomeness.—Stone a quantity of nice firm dates, stiff with Neufchatel cheese, roll in lemon juice, and then in powdered sugar. These make a delicious after dinner sweet.

Bonbon Balls—Chop equal quantities of figs, dates and pecans. Mix them with a little cream, roll into balls, coating the outside with sugar.

Gingerettes.—Cut preserved ginger in small pieces and pour fondant over them; before this sets lay on a strip of ginger so as to have a piece on each strip when cut into oblongs. These are especially nice for luncheons.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Cold rain water and soap will remove machine grease from washable fabrics.

The teapot should be carefully dried after washing keep it sweet.

Before turning out a pudding let it stand three or four minutes for the steam to escape.

To test the freshness of eggs drop them slowly into a bowl of water, and if the small ends come up they are fresh.

Rub the hands with celery after using onions, and the pungent, disagreeable smell will soon disappear.

Flour baked in a tin dish till it is well browned is a very good "coloring" to keep ready for use.

When making coffee in a jug, place the ground coffee in a muslin bag, heat the jug, and use perfectly boiling water.

Choose jugs for household use which are wide enough at the top to allow of a thorough cleaning with the hand or a cloth.

Frozen meat should be gradually thawed by being placed in the kitchen for several hours before it is cooked. If cooked at once it will be tough.

Moths can be prevented in carpets by scrubbing floor with hot strong salt water solution before laying the carpet and frequently sprinkling the carpet with salt besweeping.

To clean your rugs put them upside down on bed springs laid down out in the yard. Beat them thoroughly, then turn them over and sweep. This saves the dirt from the ground getting into the rugs.

To clean fruit jars that have been exposed to dust and dirt, possibly left open, just throw into them a small handful of sand and a little cold water. Shake a moment and you will be surprised at the result. They come out as clean as new.

How to get rid of rats—Get pieces of unslaked lime and scatter about the places they come from and by running over it their feet get burned and they run away and never come again and do not lie about the place dead.

Wallpaper Cleaner.—One heaping cup sifted flour, one tablespoon salt, one tablespoon coal oil, two tablespoons vinegar, two tablespoons ammonia, one-half cup warm water. Mix in a small kettle. Boil until flour is well scalded and moisture is used up. Stir continually. Remove from stove and knead with the hands until ready for use. Make into balls and rub the walls with this.

THE DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT

H. R. H. THE DUKE OF CONNAUGHT

VITALITY OF BACTERIA.

Microbes Show Remarkable Recuperative Powers.

The extraordinary vitality of bacteria is illustrated by a series of experiments undertaken by Prof. Busson, of which the German scientific review Microcosmos gives an account.

Seven years ago Prof. Busson transferred a culture of bacteria coli to a glass tube filled with chemically pure water, which is a germicide, as it affords no nourishment for the microbes. Yet that didn't kill the bacteria. In the period stated they had prospered and increased.

The explanation given is that as soon as the water became tinged, however slightly, with alkali detached from the inner wall of the test tube it lost its germicidal properties, and those bacteria that had succumbed at first provided food for the survivors.

A striking experiment was that made with bacteria of cattle disease, which seventeen years ago were preserved, baked and dried on silk threads. They were supposed to be quite dead, but after they were transferred to a slab of gelatine it was found that after this long period of inactivity they soon took nourishment and were as virulently poisonous as ever.

If a man doesn't look out for himself he will never be able to get a look-in.

You can always get a lot for your money by patronizing a real estate dealer.

BAD SCHOOL BOYS.

Disquieting State of Affairs in German Schools.

A shocking state of things has come to light in a German school. A week or two ago a pupil almost succeeded in shooting dead a French master who he thought treated him harshly, and now a conspiracy has been discovered among certain of the boys to murder the principal of the gymnasium.

The ages of the conspirators range from 13 to 15. They had bound themselves in writing; lots were to be drawn to decide who should shoot the principal, and the murder would have taken place as planned had not a teacher come across a letter in the desk of one of the conspirators which put the authorities on their guard.

What is still further disquieting is that the case has brought to light several instances showing of what the apparently innocent looking German schoolboy can be capable. At a school in Halle-on-Saale some boys made an attempt to bribe the owner of a restaurant with $80 to supply one of their teachers with a glass of liquor of their providing, such as it was his custom to drink nightly. The restauranteur pretended to consent, and it was found that the liquor supplied by the boys contained a mortal dose of arsenic.

A director of another gymnasium is reported as declaring that in his institution "none of us is sure of his life." No doubt such cases are exceptional and, as the Minister of Education says, they do not occur through any fault of the teachers. But it is disquieting that they should occur at all.

PARK LIKE STREETS OF PARIS

All wide Paris streets are in effect parks. They have rows of shade trees. Many of them have a central park strip planted with trees, grass and flowers, and benches are placed here. Along the chief streets are perhaps 100,000 trees, a large number for a city so compactly built.

"NOT PLAYIN'."

Pat, thinking to enliven the party, stated, with watch in hand: "I'll presint a box of candy to the loidy that makes the homeliest face within the next three minutes."

The time expired, Pat announced: "Ah, Mrs. McGuire, you get the prize."

"But," protested Mrs. McGuire, "go 'way wid ye! I wasn't playin' at all."

"Think of it! I just planted one can of peas and one of tomatoes.—Life.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL STUDY

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, NOVEMBER 5.

Lesson VI.—Esther pleading for people, Esth. 4. 1 to 5. 3. Golden Text, Psa. 145. 20.

Verse 1. Mordecai—His ancestry and relation to Esther are described in Esther 2. 5-7. It is interesting to trace his lineage back to Saul the son of Kish, and that of Haman back to Saul's enemy. Agag (Esther 3. 1). The unselfishness of Mordecai appears in his reporting to the king a murderous intrigue, thus proving his loyalty, though a sternly patriotic Jew, to a foreign ruler. Also he is the constant promoter of the interests of his lovely ward. Though in the end he receives highest honors, he never seeks them.

All that was done—As described in the previous chapter. His knowledge of the peril of his people plunged him into despair, which found expression in the usual outward, Oriental, symbols of grief, sackcloth and ashes. His dismay was shared by the Jews in every province (3), their mourning being accompanied, in true Eastern fashion, by loud and bitter lamentations. Their fasting is the nearest approach to anything like a religious act in the book.

5. Esther—She had been an orphan of obscure origin, reared in the home of her own cousin. After spending a year in preparation at the palace, she had been chosen as queen from among the most beautiful maidens of Persia. The new name given her, Istar, was that of a Babylonian goddess, equivalent to the Greek Aphrodite. In her ignorance of the course of events, she could not understand the meaning of Mordecai's sackcloth, and so sent fresh raiment for him, and when he refused it made further inquiries as to what it was and why. In her lofty position she never for a moment forgot her kind benefactor. From childhood she had followed his command, and even from her royal elevation she looks up to him with reverent admiration.

6. The broad place—The wide, open square of the city of Susa, or Shusan, one of the three capitals of the empire. It was situated in the province of Elam, to the north of the Persian Gulf.

7. The exact sum of money—As described in Esther 3. 9-11. Haman was a man of fierce enterprise, determined that nothing should thwart his will. When he had once formed his villainous design, he clinched his proposition to the king by the offer of a huge bribe, equal to the revenue of a kingdom.

8. Charge her that she should go—Mordecai saw that the disaster that seemed to await his people was due entirely to the affront he had offered Haman. Hence he called upon every possible resource in order to avert the calamity. The punishment for his offense was all out of proportion to his guilt, and both his fastings and the forcefulness of the entreaty he sends to Esther show that he was inspired by the highest motives.

11. The inner court—This was located just before the king's chamber or throne room. It was true that anyone, no matter how high he stood in the favor of the king, imperiled his life by going unbidden into this place of royal retirement. It was the law. But a king who cared so little for the custom of the court as to violate its seclusion for the wanton pleasure of his debauched companions and who showed himself otherwise fickle and vacillating, as well as willful, would not be balked by a rule of etiquette.

13. Think not . . . thou shalt escape—Mordecai will not let even his deep love for his kinswoman stand in the way of the execution of his plan. His words are a stern rebuke, and stir the conscience of the queen.

14. Deliverance . . from another place—It is sometimes complained that the book of Esther gives no evidence of religious faith. But it is difficult to read the story without feeling that the intervention of Providence is its key. This statement of the watchful Mordecai is nothing if not an utterance of faith. He is so thoroughly sure that a divine destiny awaits his nation, that, even, if Esther should fail them, there is still relief. But he will not surrender this conviction that she has come to the kingdom for just such a time. It is to the everlasting honor of Esther that, acting upon this impulse of her cousin's faith, she no longer hesitated. Mordecai, on the other hand, was certain that it would be to her everlasting shame to refuse. Her identity as a Jewess was unknown in the palace, but it would be discovered, and she would perish along with the other Jews.

16. If I perish, I perish — The chances of life and death hung upon the king's holding out the royal scepter, or failing to do so. She was his favorite, but another favorite before her had been hurled down to an ignominous end. The power of the king was absolute, but his subjects stood in mortal terror of it, for it was wielded, not according to justice, but caprice. In a similar instance, Nehemiah lifted up his heart in prayer. We have no intimation that Esther did so much. But the order relating to fasting among her people, and her own purpose to fast, is an index of her spirit. It is fair to conclude that her courage was supported by true faith.

1. On the third day—Of the fast. See verse 16 above. Her standing thus bravely in the prohibited inner court must excite the admiration of every reader of this story. It was a hard duty. But she recognized the fact that the favor and influence she enjoyed provided the only means of escape for her people, and that, therefore, hers was a great responsibility.

2. She obtained favor in his sight—The fact, as well as the resourcefulness and courage of Esther should not escape us. She was arrayed in all the gorgeous splendor of her royal apparel (1). Her beautiful face shone with the light of her unselfish purpose. How could the king disdain such loveliness! She had not prostrated her beauty to a silly vanity in the [illegible] of the palace, but had consecrated it to lofty uses.

Touched the top of the scepter—A mark of devotion and gratitude.

3. The half of the kingdom — A common proffer of the flattered pride of kings (compare Mark 6. 22).

Father—You mustn't cry for it; wait till you are older. Tommy—Then I'll be too old to cry.

"Gee! Now tell me, as man to man, what would you do if you were married to that woman!" "You tell me what you would do; I am married to her."

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech, Props.

THURSDAY, NOV. 2, '11

The amount of money in a gold mine depends upon how much the shareholders put in.

After a man has been married about a year he begins to wonder why his friends did not have him locked up before he did it.

It is pathetic to notice how diligently the opposition editors are striving to find something to find fault with in the Whitney administration.

For 31 years Henry Elliber has been continuously in either municipal or provincial politics as a winner, and he is still a young man, able to serve the public for many years to come, which portion will undoubtedly be his.

Alberta is looking for a million of lost population. London is searching for 1000 lost ones, and Fort William and Port Arthur find that about one-half of their people wandered away in a night.

The redistribution bill, which will follow the taking of the census, will probably mean that Ontario will lose four members of Parliament, New Brunswick two, Nova Scotia two, Prince Edward Island one, while the western provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia, will each gain five.

Premier Whitney's pre-election statement is a most comprehensive one, reviewing the record of the Government, suggesting the appointment of a minister of power, and outlining a progressive policy for the future should his government be returned to power on December 11th, the date set for the election.

The following ministers of the Borden cabinet have been elected by acclamation,—Hon. R. L. Borden, Hon. George E. Foster, Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. J. D. Hazen, Hon. Dr. Roche, Hon. Dr. Reid, Hon. Samuel Hughes, Hon. W. B. Nantel, Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Hon. F. D. Monk, Hon. T. W. Crothers, Hon. C. J. Doherty.

FARQUHAR.

Mr. William Stewart returned on Friday from New York State where he was engaged buying apples for B S. Lang. —Mr. S. G. Lamport is now in charge of our store. Mr. Campbell has returned to his farm in Hay.—H. Rundle's sale on Tuesday brought good prices.

SCHOOL REPORTS

The following is the correct report of the standing of the pupils in S. S. No. 5, Usborne, for the month of October, names being in order of merit.—IV.—M. Moodie, Garnet McFalls. Sr. III.—F. Higgins, T. Ford, H. Moir, O. Kestle. Jr. III.—A. Boulter, R. Perkins. Sr. II.—A. Ford, G. Perkins, C. Prout. Mid. II.—M. Dayman. Jr. II.—M. Ford, C. Fisher, A. Fisher, O. Moir. Pt. II.—L. Hicks. Pt. I.—V. Radcliffe, J. Aldington, T. Yellow, G. Ford, C. Dayman.

J. Alvin Brintnell, teacher

A Bad Back

IS A WARNING THAT THE KIDNEYS ARE SICK.

A bad back turns every twenty-four hours into one dull round of pain and misery—you are lame in the morning, nagged all day by a dull throbbing back ache, can't rest in the evening or sleep well at night. It hurts to bend over straighten up, get up from a chair, or lift even a light weight. Any sudden twist, turn or awkward movement sends a searing twinge of pain through the weak spot.

Booth's Kidney Pills

Booth's Kidney Pills reach the weak spot, the kidneys and quickly restore kidney health and comfort. They are guaranteed. All dealers and druggists, 50c., or postpaid from The R. T. Booth Co. Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Send for Free Box which will be gladly sent on application.

Sold and Guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

ANOTHER LIFE SAVED.

Weak Lungs Restored by Morriscy's "No. 10."

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 17, 1910.

"I had Pleuro-Pneumonia, and was taken to the City Hospital to have my lungs tapped. After this was done I seemed to get worse, and never expected to walk again. In fact, I was given up and wanted to be taken home from the hospital. I was in a terribly rundown condition and felt that I was going right into consumption, and for six months was just a shadow. I tried every means to get well, but there was no cure for me until I began taking your No. 10 Lung Tonic, of which I used 22 bottles in all. It was not long after returning home that I surprised my neighbors by gaining in strength and health, and now I am in good health, and feel it my duty to publish it everywhere, as I am living to-day—saved from the grave by your wonderful prescription. You may publish this letter if you wish, for I am willing to let the world know what this medicine did for me, and I cannot praise it too highly."

Mrs. John S. Barker.

The above prescription is not a "Cure-All" or so-called patent medicine. Dr. Morriscy prescribed it for 44 years, and it cured thousands after other doctors failed.

Price—Small Size, 25c.; Large Size, 50c. per bottle—at your dealers or Dr. Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited, Montreal. 400

DO YOU NEED OVERALLS?

If You Do, Why Don't You Make Them Yourself?—It's Dead Easy.

Many a man says that he would be glad to do chores about the house, to trim the grass or weed the garden if he had overalls.

The trouble is that when he wishes to wear overalls the stores are closed and he cannot buy them. I wonder that men do not make them for themselves.

To provide a pattern you must have an outline or perspective plan of your contour from the belt line down to the ankles. This may be obtained by sitting in wet clay and, on arising, pouring plaster of Paris in the impression. When this hardens lift the mold, lean it against the wall and obtain measurements with a tapeline. Another way is to dust talcum powder on the carpet until it is thickly coated. Then sit down on the talcum powder and carpet, thus removing the talcum from the floor where you have been. Then cut around the outlines of that impression with a sharp knife, remove the carpet so detached, and you have a pattern for one side of the overalls.

Purchase several yards of denim and cut it into the shape indicated by either pattern you have now obtained. Make two sets of these pieces and sew them edge to edge. Pockets may be made by cutting slits in the material and sewing empty salt sacks.—Wilbur D. Nesbit in Delineator.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

Their Use on an Important Scale Dates From 1878

The first experimental philosopher to discover that electric light could be produced by a dry battery was Sir Humphry Davy who in 1810 exhibited a light three inches long, between carbon points, before the Royal society of London. But no commercial value was attached to the use of electricity as an illuminant until more than half a century later. The Centennial exhibition, held in Philadelphia in 1876, really marks the era of our present form of electric light, though electric lights had been in use abroad prior to that time. The exhibition of models and practical demonstrations of electric lights at Philadelphia in 1876 attracted the attention of scientists and capitalists in this country, and the first incandescent lamps and the first arc system were put to practical use in a small way in 1878. The Brush arc light gained favor in the beginning as the most adaptable for street lighting, and Cleveland, O., the home of Charles Francis Brush, the inventor, was the initial American city to adopt the arc system for street lighting.

Since 1878 both the Brush arc system and the Edison incandescent system have developed.—Marc M. Reynolds in Moody's Magazine.

Halcyon Days.

"Alcyone, or Halcyone, the daughter of Aeolus, married Ceyx," said the Latin professor. "Ceyx was drowned, and Alcyone on learning of his fate threw herself into the sea. The gods were moved by the tragedy of the young lovers. They brought them back to life in the form of halcyons, or kingfishers, and they decreed that for the seven days from Dec. 22 to Dec. 29 the sea should remain calm while the sea birds built their nests upon it. Those seven days, the last of the year, are therefore called halcyon days—days of tranquillity, a kind of very late Indian summer. Here in America we have no real halcyon days, but the myth of Alcyone and Ceyx comes from the Mediterranean, and in that blue and gold region it is a fact that the year is ushered out by a procession of still, mild, splendid days—silent and glittering days of halcyon weather."—Washington Post.

Lifting a Child.

"I wish," said the woman who has children of her own, "that women would understand the delicate mechanism of a child. How would they like a giant to come along and suddenly drag them from the ground by one arm, as I have seen so many people do to children? When you're lifting a child lift it evenly by both arms or from the waist. Don't yank it up by a grab at one wrist and then wonder why it cries. It makes me so angry I always want to pull the arm of that inconsiderate woman hard and see if she wouldn't cry too. It's a thing that mothers and aunts and sisters ought to learn."—Philadelphia Times.

His Expectations.

"Have you 'Great Expectations?'" asked the fluffy haired damsel as she entered the circulating library and cast her large, lustrous blue eyes upon the new assistant. And he, his mental equilibrium upset for the moment by her loveliness, stammered out:

"Well—er—no, miss. I can't say exactly that, but I believe I'm heir to my old aunt, who's got something just under a hundred pounds in the post-office savings bank."—London Telegraph.

Insult and Injury.

We are told that the invention of scissors dates back to the fourteenth century.

Just think of it! Delilah must have cut Samson's hair with a knife.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Always.

Agent—This speedometer will enable you to know how fast you are going. Otto Feend—I don't need one. My bank balance tells me just as well.—Puck.

The man who forgets to be thankful has fallen asleep in life.—Stevenson.

DASHWOOD

Mrs. Magdalena Hartleib, widow of the late Carl Hartleib, died at Dashwood early on Tuesday morning of last week, at the age of 82 years, 5 months and 23 days. The deceased had been a resident of Dashwood for many years and was highly respected by all. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon, the interment taking place in the Bronson Line cemetery.

The little son of Fred Dearing, which was severely scalded one day last week is improving nicely. The little one is but two months' old.—Reeve Willert's sale of horses and cattle near Grand Bend on Thursday was a success, and excellent prices were realized.

The following is the report of S. S. No 8 Hay for the month of October. Sr. IV.—T. Kuntz, G. Wiegand. Jr. IV. O Truemner. Sr. III.—L. Shumacher, C. Kuntz, H. Shumacher, L. Broderick, E. Messner, C Wiegand. Jr. III.—C. Becker, C. Hartman, N. Miller, B. Wiegand E. Klienfeldt, N. Klienfeldt. Sr. II.—H. Becker, H. Messner. Sr. Pt. II. T. Messner, A. Hartman, W. Ziler, E. Miller, H. Truemner, V. Becker. Jr. Pt. II.—E. Messner, Elda Messner, K. Hartman, E. Klienfeldt. Jr. Pt. I.—M. Becker, E. Broderick, W. Brokenshire, H. Wiegand.

V. Graybiel, teacher.

CREDITON.

The Thanksgiving Holidays brought a number of visitors home to our burg. The following are a few of those we noticed.—Fred Harris of St. Thomas; Fred and Chris Finkbeiner; Milton Witt ich of London; Mrs. J. A. Schundt, of Berlin; Elsie Gaiser; Lula Gaiser and Gerty Short of London; Mildred Brown and Reta Kienzle of Clinton and Clara Klinzie of Parkhill.—W. H. Wenzie and George Holtzman have returned home from Saskatchewan, where they have been working the past two months. They are both looking fine and are well pleased with the west.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Siebert of Dashwood visited Mr. and Mrs. Sam. Brown on Monday.

The following visited relatives out of town during the holidays,—Dr. and Mrs. Orme, Miss Ella Beaver, Elmer Gower and Ernest Fahner in London; Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Elber in Lucknow, Mrs. Daniel Oestreicher in Tavistock and Ira Brown in Toronto.

Miss Mary Bertrand left for Detroit on Friday to visit her brother and sisters for a few weeks.

Tuesday evening was Hallowe'en. The small boy was in his glory, hanging gates high up on the telephone poles, ringing door bells and playing tick-tack on the windows. No damage was done.

The 4 W's met in the home of Miss Clara Holtzmann on Tuesday evening. The Club called it an old time Hallowe'en party and had the house decorated accordingly. Each member was dressed in gowns of their school days and despite of the many misfits the girls looked exceedingly welcome.—On Monday evening the ladies aid gave a thanksgiving entertainment in the Evangelical Church. There was a good attendance. A splendid program was delivered consisting of quartettes, solos readings and choruses. Addresses were also delivered by Messrs J. H. Holtzman and G. K. Brown. The proceeds of the evening were donated to the sick children's hospital Toronto.

WHALEN.

Mrs. N. Ogden and daughter, Vera Hodgson spent Thanksgiving in Stratford and Berlin.

Mr. Frank Squire, who has been on an extended trip through the West returned home on Monday.—Mr. Loftus Hern, student at the Chatham Business College, spent Thanksgiving with his parents.—Mr. and Mrs. Johnston of London spent the holidays with Mrs. Sutherby.—Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Millson visited with her sister Mrs. Short of White Oak on Thanksgiving.—Rev. Mr. Rivers preached here on Sunday. —Rev. Blatchford our pastor was preaching anniversary sermons for him at Ripley. —Mr. Wm. Brooks has purchased the 50 acre farm from Joseph Mc Carthy, the latter having bought Tom. Atkinson's 100 acre farm near Mooresville —Mr. Oscar Gilbert of London visited with his sister Mrs. J. Millson, over Sunday.—A number from around here attended the fowl supper at Elimville on Monday evening.

MOUNT CARMEL.

Quite a number attended the Box Social on Monday evening.—Miss Huberta Glavin is the guest of her sister Mrs. C. Regan.—Frank Guanian of Carlsruh is spending a few days with his parents.—Mr. Denis O'Brien of Centralia called on friends here Sunday. —Mr. and Mrs. Miller of Zurich were visitors at Jacob Querrin's on Sunday.—Miss Mae Smith of London visited her uncle, Rev. F. Forster last week.

Miss Johnna Regan of Detroit is visiting at her home here.—While Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hall were driving home on Tuesday night of last week Mrs. Hall met with a very painful accident and both had a very close call with their lives. The night was quite dark and a man also driving a horse and buggy drove into Mr. Hall's rig, smashing it and throwing the occupants out, with the result that Mrs. Hall's wrist was broken. Mr. Hall escaped, except a bad shaking up. Dr. McLaughlin was called and set the fracture. Mr. and Mrs. Hall were thankful that they were not killed.—The farmers are busy getting their roots out.—Mr. Frank Glavin and son of Kelly's Siding spent Thanksgiving with their parents here.—Miss Hanna Carey of Hamilton is visiting her parents here.—Mr. Guenther of Dashwood passed through here on Saturday with his big auto.—Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Ziler and family of zurich were visitors at the home of the latter's father, Mr. Mahoney on Sunday.—Mr. M. M. Doyle of Exeter called on friends here on Monday.

CENTRALIA

Miss Marshall spent the holidays under the parental roof at Blyth.—Mr. T Mitchell spent the holiday with relatives at Hensall.—Miss Fairbairn and brother Fred who are attending the Chatham Business College spent the holiday at their home here.—Mrs. A. Brook and daughter spent the holiday with relatives at Belgrave.—Mr. George Hicks and Mr. Arthur Brooks left on Monday for the Northern Country on a Deer Hunting Expedition for a couple of weeks. They were accompanied by Mr. Chap. Sheardown of Goderich. We wish them a safe return and each a Andrew spent the holiday with relatives couple of deer.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Davis and daughter arrived home last week, after an extended visit through the West. Mr. Davis speaks in glowing terms of the possibilities of the West. They were accompanied by their niece, Miss Essery, who will spend the winter here.—Mr. Rich. Hicks has also returned from the West. He says Ontario is good enough for him.—The Parsons-Davis Produce Co. is handling large quantities of live fowl and is employing a large number of hands to get them ready for shipment.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We the undersigned have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

GOOD FOR COMPLEXION

Of all the skin beautifiers we have had in our store there is none that we can recommend more highly than the D. D. D. prescription.

D. D. D. is such a logical remedy for all kinds of skin trouble and so scientifically compounded that it clears up the complexion over night.

D. D. D. is most widely known as the most reliable treatment for Eczema, but it has also been found invaluable for all kinds of minor skin troubles. We do not hesitate to give D. D. D. our special recommendation. In fact, we are convinced that D. D. D. will give relief that no other remedy can.

Surely if you have any skin trouble you should give D. D. D. Prescription a trial.

Don't delay, for if not promptly checked, minor skin troubles often develop into serious disease, difficult even for D. D. D. to cure.

Better drop into our store anyway and get posted on this wonderful remedy. Ask also about D. D. D. Soap, which is so invaluable in keeping the skin in healthy condition.

Or write the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. E. A. 49 Colborne St., Toronto for a free trial bottle. In either case, don't put it off, but act at once.

W. S. HOWEY, Exeter.

Westervelt School

Y. M. C. A. BLDG., LONDON, ONT.

BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.

Forest City Business and Shorthand College

J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal. 15

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

HUNTERS'

RETURN TICKETS AT SINGLE FARE

OCT. 9th to NOV. 11th,

to points in Temagami, points Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, Que., inclusive, also to certain points in Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Maine.

OCT 19th to Nov. 11th

to Muskoka Lakes, Penetang, Lake of Bays, Midland, Maganetawan River, Lakefield, Madawaska to Parry Sound, Argyle to Coboconk, Lindsay to Haliburton. Points from Severn to North Bay inclusive, and certain points reached by Northern Navigation Co.

All tickets valid for return until Thursday Dec. 14th, except to points reached by steamer lines, Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

FARMERS' BUSINESS

The Canadian Bank of Commerce extends to Farmers every facility for the transaction of their banking business including the discount and collection of sales notes. Blank sales notes are supplied free of charge on application.

BANKING BY MAIL

Accounts may be opened at every branch of The Canadian Bank of Commerce to be operated by mail, and will receive the same careful attention as is given to all other departments of the Bank's business. Money may be deposited or withdrawn in this way as satisfactorily as by a personal visit to the Bank. A231

EXETER BRANCH—W. H. COLLINS, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up)	-	$4,000,000
Rest Fund - -	-	$4,600,000
Total Assets Over	-	$44,000,000

Has 83 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at al Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

Councillor J. W. Graham of St. Marys, owing to having made an assignment, has resigned, and an election is to be held on Nov. 4th.

Auction Sale

REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

There will be offered for sale by public auction, on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4th, 1911,

At the hour of one o'clock p. m. (sharp) on the premises, the residence of the late Reeve, Mr. William Bawden, and the land and appurtenances thereto belonging. This is one of the finest and best appointed homes in the county. The land contains about 12 acres, on which there is a good orchard of 60 or more fruit trees, all in good healthy condition.

At the same time there will be sold the following chattel property.—Buggy cutter, pony cart, side-saddle, harness robes, piano, sideboards, dining room chairs, 4 easy chairs, sofa, parlor chairs, 4 bedsteads, bureaus, washstands, parlor table, kitchen table, rocking chairs, sewing machine, carpets, rugs, pictures, dishes, lawn mower, wheelbarrow and garden tools, book case, hall rack, linoleum and a great many other articles too numerous to mention.

Inspection of real property invited.

Terms of Sale.—The real property will be sold on easy terms which will be made known on day of sale; or may be had on application to the undersigned; on purchases of chattel property of $5 and under cash; over that amount 6 months' credit will be given on approved joint notes. 5 per cent off credit amounts for cash.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors for Vendors. T. CAMERON Auctioneer.

CENTRAL Business College

STRATFORD, ONT.

Is to the front as the best school of its kind in the province. Our courses are beyond those of the ordinary business college. This school has a continental reputation for high grade work. We have three departments, Commercial Shorthand and Telegraphy, and the demand for trained help greatly exceeds the supply. Students are entering every week, and the sooner you enter the better for yourself.

Get our free catalogue at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

VARENI

A pure Silver Violin G String for 25c.

A real silver string has never before been sold at such a low price.

Notwithstanding that the Vareni String is not cheap in Quality.

It is made of pure silver carefully spun on good English gut and then burnished,

As a result of good materials and good workmanship the Vareni string is wonderfully durable and possesses a marked degree the splendidly clear tone, peculiar to pure silver strings.

You should have the Vareni G String if you have a Violin.

S. MARTIN & SON

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

Do you own a "Parkyte" or are you a Slave to ill health.

A "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet in your home is the strongest kind of insurance against the germs of disease. It is a preventative against epidemics and contagion in the Summer, and an absolute necessity the year round.

Requires neither Water nor Sewage; can be placed in any part of your home; cost less than a Cent a day, and lasts a lifetime.

Endorsed by the leading Physicians, and Health Officials, Specified by the most Prominent Arthitects; and adopted by whole Municipalities.

Over 15,000 have been installed in Cananian Homes in less than one year.

Ask your dealer for prices.

The "Parkyte" Sanitary Chemical Closet is made in Canada by Parker-Whyte Limited, Winnipeg, Man.

Branches—Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver

and is sold by

W. J. HEAMAN, Exeter, Ontario

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. S. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto University.
DENTIST,
teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. R. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years sident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence Dr. Amo's Old Stand, Andrew eet, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITors, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates o nterest
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
R. CARLING, B.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to can n farm and village properties at low rates of inter est.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exete On

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies. Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St. Thomas, Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

BECOME INDEPENDENT; ATTEND
ELLIOTT Business College
Toronto, Ont. Students of this year are in positions worth from $50 to $100 a month. Write for catalogue. Enter now. Superior Instructions in all Departments.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.

We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.

Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Ellimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

HOUSE FOR SALE

The undersigned is offering for sale, that desirable property on William st, being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, together with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

ESTRAY STEER

There came onto the premises of the undersigned a 2-yr-old steer. Owner can have same by proving property and paying expenses.
JAS. WILLIS, Lot 13, Con.3, Stephen

FOR SALE

One of the best farms in Huron or Middlesex, convenient to markets, churches and schools, being Lot 9, N. B. Biddulph, in the County of Middlesex, containing 164 acres. On the premises are situate a good brick house, three bank barns on stone foundations, 34x54, 40x22, and 70x40, good wells, windmill, and the property is well drained. The whole of this farm is in grass excepting 25 acres. Possession of house given immediately, and complete possession of farm given Nov. 1st 1911, and purchaser will be allowed to do fall plowing before last mentioned date. For further particulars apply to Joseph E. Kelley, Esq., Lucan P.O. Ont. James Kelley, Esq., Lucan P. O., Ont. or Dickson & Carling, Exeter, Ont.

"You'll find it's so."
Labatt's London Lager
Now Perfected—Best Bupable
TRY IT
JOHN LABATT LIMITED 28
LONDON, ONTARIO

FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER

FREE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERING FROM WOMEN'S AILMENTS.

I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.

I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from women's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—you, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhœa or Whitish discharge, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, also pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete 10 days treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer, if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhœa, Green Sickness, and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Plumpness and health always result from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten days' treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address:

MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box 840 H - WINDSOR, ONT.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you and make a man of you. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers heal up; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and mental systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. You feel yourself a man and know marriage cannot be a failure. Don't let quacks and fakirs rob you of your hard earned dollars.

☞ NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS

BEFORE TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

AFTER TREATMENT

CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY

We treat and cure VARICOSE VEINS, NERVOUS DEBILITY, BLOOD AND URINARY COMPLAINTS, KIDNEY AND BLADDER DISEASES and all Diseases peculiar to Men.

CONSULTATION FREE. BOOKS FREE. If unable to call write for a Question Blank for Home Treatment.

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY
Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:
DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.
Write for our private address.

Keep Your Bath Room Spotlessly Clean with Gold Dust

Soap will not do the work properly because soap only cleans the surface—it does not dig deep after germs and hidden impurities like GOLD DUST—the greatest of all sanitary cleansers.

To keep bath tub and lavatory shiny-white and inviting—To keep metal pipes, fixtures and taps brightly burnished—To purify metal bowl—

To keep tiling and woodwork spotless and beautiful—

Simply add a heaping teaspoonful of GOLD DUST to a pail of water. You will be surprised at the ease with which it does the work. GOLD DUST sterilizes as well as cleans—and saves you one-half the labor.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

ZURICH.

Miss Helma Koehler of Toronto is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Koehler.—Miss Maggie Stelike of Guelph, is visiting at her home here, for a few weeks.—Miss Caroline Volland has purchased two lots at the South end, from Mrs. Christina Volland for $3000.00.—Mr. James Humphreys has moved to town and is occupying Mrs. Rannie's dwelling, recently vacated by Mr. John Gallman.—Mr. Oscar Koehler has disposed of the balance of his five acres at the North end of town. To his father, Mr. Peter Koehler.—Miss Diana Richbell is visiting wth frends in Buffalo.—Miss Annie Wurm has returned from a three week's visit with relatives and friends in Detroit.—John Weido has purchased Wm. Porterfield's farm on the Parr Line for $8,900. This is the farm formerly owned by Mr. A.G. Haines and is one of the best in the township.—Mrs. Jas. Green and little daughter Vietta Pearl returned from the west last week, after two months' visit.—

PENSALL

Albert Whiteside left for Brandon Man. Thursday on official business.—Rev. J. E. Millyard preached in Stratford last Sunday—Miss Kate Bonthron, of Toronto, is visiting friends in town.—Miss Anna MacArthur is home from a two months visit to Toronto.—Rev. Walter Millson occupied the Methodist church pulpit Sunday.

WOODHAM—Among the poultry exhibitors at London last week were, Swartze Woodham, Barred Rocks, Silver Wyandottes, Rose Comb Rhode, Island Reds Black Leghorns, Andulusian, A. O. V. Turkeys, Bremen Geese, A. O. V. Geese A. O. V. Ducks. Mr. Swartze keeps a fine line of poultry.

FULLARTON.—Word was received on Thursday that Frank Francis, son of John Francis, of Fullarton, dropped dead on Wednesday near Weyborn, Sask He went West during the harvest excursion and was 25 years of age. His remains were brought here by Wilbert Nelson.

TUCKERSMITH.—The marriage of Leo Harrington, a prosperous farmer of the Township of Biddulph, to Miss Josephine Lane, a daughter of Mrs. Thomas Lane, of Tuckersmith, was solemnized in St. James' Church, Seaforth, on Oct. 25, by Rev. Father Corcoran. The groom was assisted by F. Blake, of Elginfield, and the bride by her sister, Miss Lucy Lane.

McGILLIVRAY.—George Stewart of East Williams, while out coon hunting with his brother Russell, fell from a maple tree to the ground, a distance of thirty feet, landing on the dog and killing it instantly. Although the dog made an easy spot to land on George was rendered unconscious and remained so for several hours. He has now full recovered.

KIPPEN—The death occurred in London recently of Mrs. Robert Mellis. For about fifty years Mr and Mrs. Mellis lived here and in August last they went to London to reside with their daughter Mrs. McKibbon. She had reached the good age of eighty-four years and for several months past she has been failing. For over a generation she and her husband kept the store and postoffice here.

BAYFIELD—On Wednesday morning of last week George Parke, an old resident passed away, aged eighty-four years and nine months. Deceased was born in Ireland, in 1827. Sixteen years later he came with his family to Canada Later he came to Stanley township and settled on the Goshen Line, where the the family continued to reside until a few years ago when they left a son on the homestead and moved into the village of Bayfield.

CLINTON—The town council has another proposition before them for a new factory from Toronto. The Bennewitz & Shultz company ask that Clinton loan them $6,000, of which $300 per year will be paid back with 5 per cent interest for ten years, and they guarantee to employ 20 hands the year round, if not they would then continue to pay the balance, $3,000, in annual payments. They ask no exemption from taxes. They will put up an $8,000 building.

HILLSGREEN—A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. John. H. Consitt, Hillsgreen, Oct. 25th, when their only daughter, Miss Emma A., was united in marriage to Mr. Chas. T. Farquhar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Farquhar. About one hundred were present. Rev. Mr. Richardson of Kippen performed the ceremony. The bride was charmingly gowned in soft grey silk with pearl trimmings. She wore her mother's veil and bridal wreath, and carried a boquet of white carnations. The bridal pair were unattended save by Miss Consitt, a little cousin of the the bride, who made a very sweet and dainty flower girl.

The daily papers report that five Canadians receive recognition by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission. Of these, C. J. Shaw of Goderich is one. He rescued Harry M. Videau, aged 36 years, a laborer, from a machine, at Goderich, September 14, 1908. Shaw after having failed in one attempt, pulled off a belt travelling at the rate of 4,000 feet a minute, in response to a cry from Videau, who was entangled in a rope, and who was being crushed by the machine. He receives a bronze medal and $1000.

A BEAUTIFUL PICTURE

"Home Again," is the title of one of the most beautiful pictures ever seen in this country. It is an inspiration of love and affection—a picture that will be like a member of the family. This delightful picture size 22 x 28 inches, all ready for framing, is given absolutely free to all who subscribe to the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal this season. The year's subscription, including the picture, is only one dollar. The picture alone could not be bought for the money and every one knows what a magnificent paper the Family Herald and Weekly Star is All Canada is proud of that great weekly. The publishers deserve the immense circulation the paper enjoys.

You will be proud of the bread you'll make with PURITY FLOUR

AFTER seeing a batch of big, golden-crusted, snowy white loaves, that you have baked from PURITY FLOUR, you will, indeed, be proud of your cooking-ability—and proud of your wisdom in deciding to pay the little extra it costs to procure such high-class flour. You will admit, too, that we are justified in the pride we take in milling this superb flour.

PURITY FLOUR
"More bread and better bread"

PURITY FLOUR is milled exclusively from the best Western hard wheat—the world's finest. More than that, PURITY FLOUR consists entirely of the high-grade portions of the wheat. The low-grade portions are separated and excluded during the PURITY process of milling. Such high-class flour, of course, expands more in the baking. It makes "more bread and better bread."

It makes lighter, flakier pastry, too, if you just take the precaution to add more shortening. On account of its unusual strength PURITY FLOUR, for best results, requires more shortening than ordinary flour.

Progressive dealers, everywhere, sell PURITY FLOUR and take pride in recommending it.

Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now. 106

Sold by R. G. Seldon

THE TORONTO NEWS
HAS GENERAL NEWS SERVICE
THE SPORTING PAGE
BEST FINANCIAL PAGE
WOMEN'S PAGE
THE NEWS WILL BE SENT DAILY BY MAIL TO ANY ADDRESS IN CANADA FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A-HALF A YEAR
2

The Hand That Cooks The Dinner
is the hand that rules the world.

In spite of what they say about "cradles", the stove is the all-important factor in "home-rule." A

GURNEY-OXFORD

Chancellor
is the best guarantee that the "hand" will keep your home moving in the right direction of economy and health.

Please call and see our line of GURNEY-OXFORD STOVES and RANGES that are built and sold on honor. The Chancellor and Imperial Oxford are equipped with the Oxford Economizer. Come and let us show you how this marvellous device saves time and fuel by a single touch of the lever; how it holds fire, and directs odors up the chimney.

The Dividing Oven Strip guides heat equally all over the oven—a fine baking insurance. The Reversible Grate saves time and fuel-waste. These, with other star features make us proud to show the Gurney-Oxford line. Design—finish—workmanship—all these details we want to demonstrate to your entire satisfaction.

W. J. Heaman, Agent

When at the Grocers remember

LIPTON'S TEA

OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL ONTARIO

Horticultural Exhibition

ST. LAWRENCE ARENA

TORONTO Nov. 14th to 18th

ONTARIO'S BEST FRUIT, FLOWERS, VEGETABLES, HONEY.

SINGLE FARE RATE

FROM ALL POINTS IN ONTARIO

ASK YOUR LOCAL RAILWAY AGENT FOR PARTICULARS

KEEP YOUR STOCK WELL AND THRIVING ALL WINTER

With "INTERNATIONAL STOCK FOOD"—The best known and most reliable Stock Food on the market.

Farmers, Stockmen and Breeders all use it and praise it because it gives animals new strength and endurance—purifies the blood—improves their appearance—and at the same time, saves corn and oats, and only costs you

3 FEEDS For ONE CENT

For sale by Dealers everywhere, and the price will be refunded if it don't save you money.

Write for copy of our "$3,000 Stock Book"—the most helpful Book ever published for the Farmer and Stockman. Sent free.

INTERNATIONAL STOCK FOOD CO., LIMITED. • TORONTO.

Here Is What One Stock Raiser Says

DALHOUSIE, Que.

The International Stock Food Co., Toronto, Ont.

Gentlemen:—Please find enclosed postal notes for $15.00, the amount of my account. I have found International Stock Food excellent for my horses and cattle, and pigs. It has given me every satisfaction, and I would not be without it. As soon as my present supply is finished I shall send a further order.

(Signed) J. V. SMITH.

59

ARABS DECLARE HOLY WAR

Losses of Italians in Two Days' Fighting Greater Than Officially Reported.

A despatch from London says: Four hundred Italians were killed or wounded in the fighting around Tripoli on Monday and Tuesday, but all newspaper correspondents were forbidden to communicate the extent of the casualties, according to a news agency despatch received here on Thursday from Tripoli which escaped Italian censorship by being filed at Valetta. The situation at Tripoli, the despatch adds, is serious. European residents fear a massacre, as a holy war has been proclaimed by the natives of Tripoli and Benghaz. At Sharashett the left line of the Italian defence is reported as being hard pressed by the Arabs.

The Arabs who attacked the Italians' rear on Monday had entered Tripoli in disguise, and their outbreak caused a terrible panic. Firing in the streets was general. Non-combatant men, women and children were mixed up with the combatants. Crowds flocked to the shore and embarked in small boats. The Consulates were packed with terrified Europeans. The situation is described as precarious, and the Italian outposts are nervous. The military arrangements are bad. The whole force occupies a semi-circle, whose ends rest on the seashore. There are no reserves in the town and only two warships remain off the city. The left wing is still hard pressed, and if it be broken the situation will be as grave as possible. The Consuls are realizing the possibility of the breaking of the left wing and fear that a massacre will follow. They are arranging for Europeans to board ships if it becomes necessary.

Fresh troops to the number of 1,100 with thirty guns arrived on Wednesday and landed near Sharzet to strengthen the left. It is reported that 5,000 Tuareg tribesmen are advancing on Tripoli and another battle is expected.

The Arabs on Thursday made a violent attack against the Italian positions between El Mesri and Boumeliana. They were repulsed with heavy loss. The Italian casualties were only a few wounded.

THE NEWS IN A PARAGRAPH

HAPPENINGS FROM ALL OVER THE GLOBE IN A NUTSHELL.

Canada, the Empire and the World in General Before Your Eyes.

CANADA.

Thorold is to have a million-dollar pulp mill.

King's College, at Windsor, N. S., is raising $125,000 for extension purposes.

Hamilton hears that the C. N. R. may put up a two million dollar hotel there.

Madison avenue school in Montreal West, has been closed, owing to diphtheria.

The will of the late Thos. Douglas Smith, of Winnipeg, leaves $75,000 to charities.

Farmers' Bank depositors meeting at Belleville, decided to petition the Government for relief.

A. Colville, patent medicine vendor, was fined $50 at Hamilton for prescribing for a patent.

The C. P. R. has bought a turbine vessel from the Clyde Passenger Service for Pacific coast use.

Mr. Leonard, the new Chairman of the N. T. Railway Commission, took charge of his office at Ottawa on Thursday.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Speaking at Baltinglass, Wicklow, John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, said that the home rule bill was almost completed and would satisfy the Nationalists.

UNITED STATES.

The United States Government have instituted a suit under the Sherman anti-trust law, against the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Because his wife presented him with twins, the second set in less than two years, Lee Hay, 30 years old, of Maysville, Ky., committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid.

A train struck an auto and killed Dr. and Mrs. James Glass, of Sheffield, Pa., and caused their eight-year-old dumb boy, who escaped injury, to gain the power of speech.

GENERAL.

"Do as you judge best, but there must be no war," is a remark to the German Chancellor reported to have been made by the Kaiser when discussing the Moroccan negotiations some time ago.

The German Chancellor addressed the Reichstag for two hours on the cost of living, and scouted the suggestion of abrogating the present protective tariff. He expressed the opinion that even a temporary suspension would be a dangerous experiment.

MUCH GRAIN SHIPPED.

Output From West This Season Over Forty-seven Millions.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: The total grain marketed at Canadian Pacific points this year has passed the 30,000,000-bushel mark. The Canadian Northern has marketed 17,000,000 bushels, which brings the total shipments of both companies up to 47,000,000 bushels.

The Rayo Lamp

It Never Flickers

The long winter evenings give a woman a splendid chance for sewing or embroidery; but her eyes suffer from the strain unless she has a good light.

The Rayo is the best lamp made.

It gives a strong, diffused light that is remarkably easy to the eyes. There is no glare to it; no flicker. It lights up a whole room. The Rayo is an economical lamp, too.

You get the most possible light-value for the oil burned; and the Rayo itself is a low-priced lamp. Yet it is a handsome lamp—an ornament to any room in the house.

The Rayo Lamp is easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated; also in numerous other styles and finishes.

Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of

The Queen City Oil Company, Limited

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Oct. 31.—Wheat was dull here, with the feeling easier. The offerings of ungraded Western wheat are large, and much of it will be fed to stock. Coarse grains in Ontario continue firm. Cables are lower.

Flour—Winter wheat, 90 per cent. patents, $3.60, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours—First patents, $5.40; second patents, $4.00; and strong bakers', $4.70, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba wheat—New No. 1 Northern, $1.07 1-2, Bay ports; No. 2 Northern, $1.05 1-2, and No. 3, $1.03, Bay ports.

Ontario wheat—No. 2 white, red and mixed, new, 86 to 87c, outside.

Peas—Good milling peas, 98c to $1.00, outside.

Oats—Ontario, No. 2 quoted at 43 1-2 to 44c, outside, and No. 3 at 42c; car lots of No. 2, on track, Toronto, 47 to 48c; No. 2 Western Canada, 48 1-2c, and No. 3, 47c, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 3 extra, 92 to 94c, outside; feed barley, 80 to 85c.

Corn—No. 2 American yellow, 78 1-2c, and No. 2 mixed at 77 1-2c, Bay ports; No. 2 American yellow, 83c, on track, Toronto, for old.

Rye—Car lots, outside, 87 to 88c, for No. 2.

Buckwheat—Prices nominal at 60c.

Bran—Manitoba bran, $23 to $23.50, in bags, Toronto freight. Shorts, $25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Apples—Winter stock, $3 to $4 per barrel.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked, $2.25 to $2.30 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2.50 to $2.75.

Baled Hay—No. 1 at $15 to $16, on track, and inferior at $12 to $13.

Baled straw—$6.50 to $7, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, at 95c to $1.

Poultry—Wholesale prices of dressed poultry:—Chickens, 12 to 13c per lb.; hens, 11 to 12c; ducks, 12 to 13c; turkeys, 19 to 21c. Live poultry about 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER, EGGS, CHEESE.

Butter—Dairy, choice, in wrappers, 25 to 26c; do., medium grades, 22 to 23c. Creamery, 28 to 29c per lb. for rolls, and 25 to 26c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid 28c, and fresh at 24c per dozen in case lots.

Cheese—Large, 14 3-4c per lb., and twins at 15c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon, long clear, 12 to 12 1-2c per lb., in case lots. Pork, short cut, $22.50; do., mess, $19.50 to $20. Hams, medium to light, 16 to 16 1-2c; do., heavy, 14 to 14 1-2c; rolls, 10 3-4 to 11c; breakfast bacon, 16 to 17c; backs, 19 to 20c.

Lard—The market is quiet and firm. Tierces, 11c; tubs, 11 1-4c; pails, 11 1-2c.

BUSINESS AT MONTREAL.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—Oats—Canadian Western, No. 2, 49 1-2 to 50c, car lots, ex-store; extra No. 1 feed, 49 to 49 1-2c; No. 3 C.W., 48 1-2 to 49c; No. 2 local white, 48 to 48 1-2c; No. 3 do., 47 1-2 to 48c; No. 4 do., 47 to 47 1-2c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.50; seconds, $5.00; Winter wheat patents, $4.75 to $5.00; strong bakers', $4.60; straight rollers, $4.25 to $4.40; in bags, $1.95 to $2.05. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $5.25; bag of 90 lbs., $2.50. Corn—American, No. 3 yellow, 81 1-2 to 81 3-4c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23 to $24; Manitoba, $23; middlings, Ontario, $27 to $28; shorts, Manitoba, $25; moullie, $26 to $32. Eggs—Selected, 25 1-2 to 26c; do., fresh, 32 to 34c; No. 1 stock, 22 1-2 to 24c. Cheese—Westerns, 14 to 14 1-4c; easterns, 13 5-8 to 13 7-8c. Butter—Choicest, 27 1-2c; seconds, 26 1-2 to 27c.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Minneapolis, Oct. 31.—Close—Wheat—December, $1.09 3-8; May, $1.13 1-2 to $1.13 5-8; July, $1.14 3-8, nominal; No. 1 hard, $1.07 7-8; No. 1 Northern, $1.10 to $1.10 3-8; No. 3 Northern, $1.07 3-8; No. 3 wheat, $1.03 3-8 to $1.04 7-8. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 72 1-2 to 73c. Oats—No. 3 white, 46 to 46 1-2c. Rye—No. 2, 43 1-2c. Bran—$21.50 to $22. Flour—First patents, $5.30 to $5.60; second patents, $4.90 to $5.20; first clears, $3.80 to $4.15; second clears, $2.70 to $3.10.

Buffalo, Oct. 31.—Spring wheat—No. 1 Northern, carloads store, $1.14 3-4; Winter—Steady. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 80 1-4c; No. 4 yellow, 79 1-4c, on track, through billed. Oats—No. 2 white, 50 3-4c; No. 3 white, 50 1-4c; No. 4 white, 49 1-4c. Barley—Malting, $1.15 to $1.25.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—North-West steers, good, $5.40 to $5.50; Eastern steers, good, $5 to $5.75; fair, $5.25 to $5.50; bulls, heavy, 1,000 lbs., $3.40 to $3.50; light, 900 lbs., $3 to $3.20; North-West cows and heifers, $5 to $5.25; Eastern cows, good, $4 to $4.25; poor to medium, $3.25 to $3.75; canners, $2.50 to $2.75. Hogs—Selects, $6.25 to $6.50; underweights, $5; sows, $4.50; stags, $3.50; and rough stags, $3. Grass calves, 5 1-4 to 5 3-4c by the pound, and suckers, 3 1-4 to 3 1-2c by the pound.

INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY.

The Canadian Northern May Get Lease of It.

A despatch from Ottawa says: It is stated in railway circles here that the Canadian Northern Railway is likely to submit a proposition to the new Government, having reference to the Intercolonial Railway system. The Canadian Northern Railway is gradually linking up its transcontinental line, which will be completed in 1913 to Quebec. Connection between Quebec and the Atlantic seaboard has yet to be determined, and the idea prevails that, in lieu of constructing an independent line, or at least before deciding upon it, the Mackenzie and Mann interests will endeavor to lease the Intercolonial. Otherwise there may be four lines, three of them through roads paralleling each other in practically the same territory. As yet, however, no propostion has been submitted for the Government's consideration.

Try This Pinex "Sixteen Ounces of Cough Syrup"

A Family Supply for 50c, Saving $2. The Surest, Quickest Remedy You Ever Used or Money Refunded.

A cough remedy that saves you $2, and is guaranteed to give quicker, better results than anything else, is surely worth trying. And one trial will show you why Pinex is used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

You will be pleasantly surprised by the way it takes right hold of a cough, giving almost instant relief. It will usually stop the most obstinate, deep-seated cough in 24 hours, and is unequalled for prompt results in whooping cough.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, when mixed with home-made sugar syrup, makes sixteen ounces of the best cough remedy ever used. Easily prepared in five minutes—directions in package.

The taste is pleasant—children take it willingly. Stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both excellent features. Splendid for croup, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, and a highly successful remedy for incipient lung troubles.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a 16-oz. bottle, and it is ready for use.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

ROYAL YEAST

MADE IN CANADA

LOOK FOR THE BLUE PACKAGE

BE CAREFUL TO SEE THAT LABEL ON PACKAGE IS BLUE.

NO OTHER COLOR EVER USED ON ROYAL YEAST

REMEMBER THE COLOR BLUE

E.W. GILLETT CO. LTD.

TORONTO — ONT.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

CITY MORTGAGES SAFE, BUT THIS NOT SO IN TOWNS AND VILLAGES.

Villages and Towns Often Stagnant — Small or No Demand for Property in Case of Foreclosure—A Recent Example —Guaranteed Mortgages.

The articles contributed by "Investor" are for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and, if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-cat" enterprises. The impartial and reliable character of the information may be relied upon. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve in connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

What has been said about farm mortgages is in a general way true of mortgages generally. But, of course, there are several differences which are worth noting.

While mortgages on farm land, when carefully chosen, are safe as regards principal, the same cannot be said without qualification with respect to village and town property. The great danger of investing in mortgages on property situated in a town is that there is, as a rule, no very pressing demand for land of this class. For example, if it became necessary to foreclose such a mortgage it would not be at all an easy matter to find a purchaser. Nor would it be much easier to find someone to rent the place. Then, again, there is always danger that a small town will decrease in size. Anyone who has glanced over the census returns published last week cannot fail to note that the rural and village population of many parts of this province has materially decreased in number during the decade. The result to an investor would be, of course, that there would be a very good chance that the property on which he held a mortgage would be one of the many, that one may see in almost any Ontario village, that has lain vacant for years. The very fact that the loan and mortgage companies will not accept as security mortgages based on such property is a conclusive proof that there must be something wrong with that sort of security.

Of course, if one could be sure that the town or village in which the house—or whatever the security may be—is situated is in a fair way to grow, there would not then be the same risk. Even at that, there is, however, nothing in this form of investing to attract any careful investor.

Only a short time ago a friend of the writer found it necessary to take a mortgage on some town property in payment of a bad debt. He tried to sell the mortgage. He was informed by one company that they might buy it if the rate were right. This they placed at no less than ten per cent. The rate was made ten, as suggested, but even then the manager of the company would not touch it—nor would anyone else. Then the insurance rate was also ten per cent., and, as the security, without the insurance, was very "insecure," this ten per cent. was practically a first charge on the income of the unfortunate mortgagee. And this, mind you, in a growing town. The mortgage was only for a short term and will be payable in a few months; but the chances that it will be paid off are very, very slight. And here comes in the personal element. The two parties to the mortgage are friends. The holder of the mortgage would be most unlikely, under any circumstances, to foreclose, and even if this were done, there would be no ready market for the place. Altogether, it is a very nasty situation, and one that an investor would do well to avoid.

When one turns to city property there is a very different consideration to be born in mind. In the first place, the cities of this province have been growing of a great rate during the past decade. And as a natural result of this growth the values of land of various classes has also increased.

This leaves a very substantial equity behind the security on which the mortgage is based, and so the investor in such mortgages has not stood to lose anything during the past few years. The increasing populations have also resulted not only in a steady demand for dwellings, but also as a result of the increasing number of people in the necessity for more shops and consequently a demand for property in the shopping districts. The result of this is, of course, that any property secured under a foreclosed mortgage could be readily sold.

Therefore, as mortgages go, those based on well located property in a growing city are perfectly safe. They do not, as a rule, bear as high a rate of interest as farm mortgages, but there is a greater certainty that the interest will be paid. A very great drawback to the average man who desires this form of mortgage is that those on really desirable property are usually require so great an amount of money that it is quite out of the question for him to invest therein. As a result, they usually fall to the lot of financial and mortgage institutions, and only the less desirable are open to the small investor.

Nor should it be forgotten that there is as much necessity for a careful valuation and scrupulous attention to insurance, titles, etc., in city, as there is in the case of farm mortgages.

Before leaving the subject of mortgages, the "guaranteed mortgage" should, of course, be mentioned; although it has not yet reached here the same popularity as in the States. This mortgage is one of the usual kind issued in the ordinary manner, but bearing on its face, in some form, the guarantee of a company that the interest and principal would be paid in full when due. There are many advantages in this form of mortgage. In the first place, it obviates the usual worries over the small, but important, details of insurance, valuation, collection of interest, etc. On the other hand, for their trouble and the guarantee, the company charges a certain part of the interest, usually about a quarter. As a result, therefore, the mortgage returns you scarcely more than the average industrial bond without, however, its distinct advantage in being readily saleable.

SERVICE ROUND THE WORLD.

Britain Perfecting Arrangements With Marconi Company.

A despatch from London says: An early announcement may be expected that negotiations have been concluded between the Post-office Department and the Marconi Company for the erection of a chain of wireless telegraph stations round the world, linking up the British Dominions and giving Great Britain an independent system of telegraphic communication with any part of the globe. Connection with the Western hemisphere will be effected by means of a station already existing at Glace Bay, and it is proposed to establish another station at Montreal to communicate direct with the West Indies, where all the islands will be connected by short-distance stations from Glace Bay. It will be possible to communicate direct with Vancouver, where a large power station is to be established which will provide direct communication with Hong Kong.

SHOWED BIG GAIN.

Newfoundland's Trade Exceeded Record by Over a Million.

A despatch from St. John's, Nfld., says: Exceeding last year's record by $900,000, the trade of Newfoundland for the fiscal year ending in June, set a new high mark, according to an announcement made here on Thursday. For the fiscal year the colony's trade amounted to $25,400,000, against $24,500,000 for the previous year. The total imports showed an increase of $300,000, being $13,400,000. The exports totalled nearly $12,000,000, showing a slight increase. The exports to Great Britain amounted to $2,300,000, an increase of nearly half a million dollars. This was due largely to the output of the new pulp mills.

Here's the biggest can of easy-shining stove polish on the market.

BLACK KNIGHT STOVE POLISH

It's a paste—easily applied—and gives a brilliantly black polish that is not affected by the heat. Equally good for stoves, pipes, grates and iron work.

If your dealer does not carry "Black Knight" Stove Polish, send us his name and 10c. and we will send a full size tin by return mail. 35

THE F. F. DALLEY CO., LIMITED, Hamilton, Ont.

Makers of the famous "3 in 1" Shoe Polish.

TOO LITTLE BLOOD.

The Cause of Nearly All the Everyday Ailments of Life.

Too little blood—that is what makes men and women look pale and sallow and feel languid. That is what makes them drag along, always tired, never real hungry, unable to digest their food, breathless and palpitating at the heart after slight exertion, so that it is wearisome even to go upstairs. Doctors tell them that they are "anaemic"—the plain English being too little blood. If your face is pale or sallow, if your gums are pale instead of being scarlet; if you are easily tired and frequently despondent; if you do not relish your meals, and small matters irritate you, it is a sign that your blood is thin and watery and that you are on the verge of a complete breakdown.

More weak, anaemic people have been made strong, energetic and cheerful by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than by any other means. They actually make new blood, which reaches every part of the body, braces the nerves and brings new health and new strength. The case of Miss Nellie Welch, Essex, Ont., is proof of the great curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Miss Welch says: "A few years ago I was going into what my friends believed to be a hopeless decline. I was subject to severe headaches, had no appetite, was pale and grew distressingly weak. I tried several doctors, some of whom we counted the best in this part of the country, but they failed to help me. At last my heart grew so weak and I was so nervous and thin that I had to take to my bed and the doctor held out but little hope for my recovery. Like others, I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and though the doctor opposed my taking them I determined to give them a trial, as I felt I might as well be dead as to be living in the misery I was in. In a month after beginning to take the pills I was up and around again, and steadily growing stronger until I was again enjoying the blessing of perfect health. Several years have since elapsed and my health has been the very best. It is therefore with great gratitude that I write you in the hope that my experience may be of benefit to some other sufferer."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FACTS AND FANCY.

If only there were not so many banana peels on the pathway of success!

Your skeleton will be an inch and a half shorter than yourself.

Vainty is wounded, but never killed.

Hope is the railway ticket to success.

The world annually scratches matches to the value of $150,000,000.

If a man tells you his opinion of his neighbors, you know his neighbor's opinion of him.

Flirtation might be defined as attention without intention.

In Japanese factories the average day is sixteen hours long.

Many a lovely thought, having been embalmed in verse, is buried in a waste-basket.

All mothers can put away anxiety regarding their suffering children when they have Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to give relief. Its effects are sure and lasting.

If a man hasn't any sense some woman is sure to think he is sentimental.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY
For Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

It's easier to make a break than it is to mend it.

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows.

THOUGHTFUL PAINTER.

"I see you are paying the hospital expenses of that painter who fell off the roof."

"Yes; he's too good a man to lose. As he went down he touched up two or three places which would have been very hard to reach."

DEFENCE OF BEEF TEA.

Science After Despising Broths Finds Out Why They Do Good.

From time immemorial beef tea, or a broth made in a similar manner from mutton or chicken, has been a feature of the sickroom, the pride of the housekeeper nurse, a source of comfort to the invalid, the invariable staple of the menu permitted by the physician.

When it was indisputably proved that the home made broth was in no sense a food, humanity refused credence and invalids went ahead with their consumption of millions of gallons, persisting in the exhibition of sure signs of convalescence and demanding with insistence further suppiles of the fragrant potion.

Dr. Thomas Darlington in a recent issue of the Medical Journal shows at last the reason of this unshakable faith. Broth is one of the few genuine stimulants in the armamentarium now that alcohol is known to be a narcotic. The experiments of Pawlow on dogs demonstrate that the savory liquid is powerfully stimulant to the gastric secretion and other digestive fluids, with the result that real food, given with or after the broth, is speedily and gratefully assimilated.

Milk, which disagrees with so many people, will cause no distress if administered after a cup of hot broth. The mere flavor of meat is thus shown to be necessary and valuable to digestion. What caused disgust among the troops in the Spanish war was that the preserved meat, while retaining all of its nutritive principles, had lost its aromatic constituents, gone to make the despised extract for the preparation of broths.

The physician may henceforward advise beef tea and meat broths generally with a clear conscience and scientific satisfaction; they have triumphed over their enemies and detractors and will resume their honored station upon the invalid's tray as unapproachable adjuvants to digestion and assimilation, adding one more example to the list of remedies founded in crass empiricism, but finding at last a true scientific basis for their raison d'etre.

HAD HIM ALL WAYS.

"When are ye goin' to pay me that dollar?"

"How's that?"

"I say, it's time ye paid me that dollar."

"Can't hear a word ye say."

"Wait a minit an' I'll write it down."

"'Tain't no use. Can't see without my specs."

BABY'S OWN TABLETS USED FROM BIRTH.

Mrs. H. V. Ossinger, Tiverton, N. S., says: "We have used Baby's Own Tablets since our little boy was three years old and know of nothing to equal them. He is now twelve months old and has always enjoyed perfect health. Baby takes the Tablets easily and we always keep them in the house." Mrs. Ossinger's experience is that of thousands of other mothers. An occasional does of the Tablets will keep the well child in excellent health, or if the baby is ill with any of the many ailments that afflict little ones, they will speedily restore him to health again and make him thrive and grow fat, rosy and strong. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A wise man is merely less of a fool than the average.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

Even with a 98 cent watch the leader of an orchestra may be able to keep good time.

Do not let a cold settle on your lungs. Resort to Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup at the first intimation of irritation in the throat and prevent disease from lodging in the pulmonary organs. Neglected colds are the cause of untold suffering throughout the country, all of which could have been prevented by the application of this simple but powerful medicine. The price, 25 cents, brings it within the reach of all.

You can form a pretty good idea of what a man hasn't done by the things he is going to do.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

LONG LIVED MUSICIANS.

A Dr. Roggers has been studying the effect of wind instruments on the life of musicians, says the London Globe. The average life of the wind instrument artist is 63, while that of other is 62. Thirty-four per cent. of the former category attain 70 years. Performers on the flute in Dr. Roggers's "echelle de longevite" reach on the average the age of 61, while the hautbois executant lives two years longer. Buglers go two years better, and the clarinet player lives till he is 65. He of the cornet only fails the allotted span by one year. The ophicleide artist beats them all. His time of life is from 75 to 80.

All things the hustler doesn't want comes to him who waits.

EVERY PLACE ON THE WIDE PRAIRIES

TELLS OF CURES MADE BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Thos. Griffin, of Peace River Landing, tells how he got rid of his Rheumatism — honestly earned popularity.

Cold Springs, Peace River Landing, Alta., Oct. 30 (Special).—Just why Dodd's Kidney Pills retain their wonderful popularity is easily shown by a trip across the prairies. Every town, village and post-office has at least one man or woman who is ready to tell of pains relieved and health restored by the great Canadian Kidney Remedy. Let Thos. Griffin of this place add his statement to the hosts already published.

"When I came to this part of the country," says Mr. Griffin, "I was troubled with a bad back and Rheumatism in my shoulders and hips. I sent for six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they gave me relief at once. I also recommended them to my eldest son, who was confined to his bed from Rheumatism.

"Now I know that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best medicine for Rheumatism and the Kidneys. I recommend them to every person I hear complaining of not feeling well."

Dodd's Kidney Pills made their popularity by curing sick Kidneys. They keep their popularity by keeping on curing sick kidneys.

GENEROUS.

"Giddings willingly gives his wife full credit for what he is."

"What is he?"

"Bankrupt."

The Real Liver Pill—A torpid liver means a disordered system, mental depression, lassitude and in the end, if care be not taken, a chronic state of debility. The very best medicine to arouse the liver to healthy action is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. They are compounded of purely vegetable substances of careful selection and no other pills have their fine qualities. They do not gripe or pain and they are agreeable to the most sensitive stomach.

EXPECTATIONS.

The man who is looking for trouble generally finds it, and the one who expects defeat usually gets a whipping.

We believe MINARD'S LINIMENT is the best:

Mathias Foley, Oil City, Ont.
Joseph Snow, Norway, Me.
Charles Whooten, Mulgrave, N. S.
Rev. E. O. Armstrong, Mulgrave, N. S.
Pierre Landers, senr., Pokemouche, N. B.
Thomas Wasson, Sheffield, N. B.

Mike (in bed, to alarm clock as it goes off)—I fooled yez that time. I was not aslape at all.

Many people have receding gums. Rub Hamlins Wizard Oil on gums and stop the decay; chase the disease germs with a mouth wash of a few drops to a spoonful of water.

HASTY.

"Have yer got de price of a shave?" asks the beggar.

"What do you want of a shave?" exclaims the victim, increduously.

"I don't want no shave. I didn't ask for no shave. I ast yer fer de price of one—ten cents. Dere's other t'ings I kin git fer dat money, ain't dere?"

"I envy the man who believes that superstition about Friday," said Mr. Groucher. "I consider it depressing." "Not at all. A man ought to be mighty comfortable who can feel sure there's only one unlucky day in the week."

The most obstinate corns and warts fail to resist Holloway's Corn Cure. Try it.

Blobbs—Scribbler says he can't compose a poem unless he is smoking. Slobbs—Isn't there some scheme we can get up to make him stop smoking?

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, &c.

"I dunno how Bill's a-goin' to vote in this election," said the campaign worker. "I've hearn tell he's on the fence." "He wuz thar," replied the neighbor; "but one o' the canderdates let fall a dollar on the off side o' the fence, and Bill got dizzy an' fell over."

Shiloh's Cure quickly stops coughs, cures colds, heals the throat and lungs - - - 25 cents.

Well, Well!

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 19. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

WINE FED FOWLS.

M. Joubert, professor at the Agricultural College at Fontainebleau, France, claims that he has discovered a new and simple method of making hens lay. He feeds them with wine in addition to their ordinary food. The professor has not allowed his discovery to be made known lightly. He has been experimenting with fowls of all kinds for several years and finds the same result in every case. In each case he experimented for the four winter months with two sets of twelve fowls of the same breed, adding bread soaked in wine to the feed of one of the two sets of twelve. In every case after six separate trials the wine fed hens laid more eggs in the proportion of twenty eggs a month or thereabout.

Shiloh's Cure quickly stops coughs, cures colds, heals the throat and lungs - - - 25 cents.

TIMELY LULLABY.

Bye O Baby Bunting,
Daddy's gone a-hunting;
If he doesn't shoot his guide
We'll have deermeat stewed and fried.

Do It Now.—Disorders of the digestive apparatus should be dealt with at once before complications arise that may be difficult to cope with. The surest remedy to this end and one that is within reach of all, is Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, the best laxative and sedative on the market. Do not delay, but try them now. One trial will convince anyone that they are the best stomach regulator that can be got.

The reason most girls want to marry is because they don't know what they want.

Stop the Cough.—Coughing is caused by irritation in the respiratory passages and is the effort to dislodge obstructions that come from inflammation of the mucous membrane. Treatment with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will allay the inflammation and in consequence the cough will cease. Try it, and you will use no other preparation for a cold.

"MUSIC HATH CHARMS."

"What on earth d'you keep clapping for? That last singer was awful!"

"I know; but I liked the style of her clothes, and I want to have another look at them!"

Send for free sample to Dept. W. L. National Drug and Chemical Co., Toronto.

$1.00 For this 18-in. PLUME

This plume is just the kind for which you would have to pay $3.00 at any retail store. It is extra wide, fully 18 inches long, in all colors, with willowy fluss of great length that do not lose their curl easily. Send us $1.00 to-day, for this is an opportunity not to be missed. We offer also an extra large and handsome $7.50 plume at $2.95.

Send money by mail, express or money order. Remember that your money will be refunded if the plume is not entirely satisfactory.

New York Ostrich Feather Co., Dept. 81, 513-515 B'way, N.Y.

The Heart of a Piano is the Action. Insist on the "OTTO HIGEL" Piano Action

ARE YOU SUPERSTITIOUS?

Most people have some superstition, although they are not always eager to admit it. Here are a few of the most popular: To stumble on going upstairs is considered a sure sign of a wedding; whilst two spoons in one saucer at the same time denotes a similar happy event. If you put on your sock or stocking the wrong side out, it is lucky; but if you change it to the right side nothing will come of the promised good fortune. If a black cat follows you, good luck will follow also; but should a feline leave the house which has been its home, look out for misfortune. If, when unfolding clean linen, you find a diamond-shaped crease, it is a sign of death within a year. And if a child looks into a mirror before it is a year old, ill-luck will follow it through life. To open an umbrella in a house is a portent of misfortune; to drop one a disappointment; but if anyone else picks it up the disappointment passes on to him or her. These superestitions are all very well, but a little common-sense will explode the lot.

Beware of the man who tries to work one friend in behalf of another.

Are your hands chapped, cracked or sore? Have you "cold cracks" which open and bleed when the skin is drawn tight? Have you a cold sore, frost bite, chilblains, or a "raw" place, which at times makes it agony for you to go about your household duties? If so, Zam-Buk will give you relief, and will heal the frost-damaged skin. Anoint the sore places at night, Zam-Buk's rich healing essences will sink into the wounds, end the smarting, and will heal quickly.

Mrs. Yellen, of Portland, says: "My hands were so sore and cracked that it was agony to put them near water. When I did so they would smart and burn as if I had scalded them. I seemed quite unable to get relief from anything I put on them until I tried Zam-Buk, and it succeeded when all else had failed. It closed the big cracks, gave me ease, soothed the inflammation, and in a very short time healed my hands."

Zam-Buk also cures chafing, rashes, winter eczema, piles, ulcers, festering sores, sore heads and backs, abscesses, pimples, ring-worm, etc., cuts, burns, bruises, scalds, sprains. Of all druggists and stores, or post free from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Price 50c a box.

Zam-Buk

Your Overcoats and faded Suits would look better dyed. If no agent of ours in your town, write direct to Montreal, Box 173. British American Dyeing Co.

H. H. NIGHTINGALE
STOCK BROKER
Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange
LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN
Correspondence invited.
33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

RAW FURS
WANTED
WRITE FOR PRICE LIST
W. C. Goffatt, Orillia, Ont.

RAW FURS
Collectors and shippers will find it to their advantage to get their names on our mailing list. This insures prompt receipt of our quotations and general information, which will be ready about the 15th of November. You can be sure of fair and liberal treatment when you ship your collections to Wagner, Brasier & Co. 86 Front St. East, Toronto, Ont.

BROWN'S NURSERIES, WELLAND COUNTY, ONT.
LARGEST GROWERS OF NURSERY STOCK IN CANADA.

BONDS

A NON-SPECULATIVE INVESTMENT

¶ There is no element of speculation in the purchase of a Bond. This does not mean that the value of your holdings cannot increase. It means that the element of risk and the chance of loss are practically eliminated.

¶ Many, in fact most, of the Bond issues we have offered our customers in the past have appreciated in value. The demand for a certain bond, paying a goodrate of interest and of unquestionable security, forces the price up in the same manner as an increasing demand forces up the price of any commodity.

¶ We would like to send literature to any one interested in this safe and profitable form of investment.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION
LIMITED
BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING
YONGE AND QUEEN STS.
TORONTO
R. M. WHITE - Manager
MONTREAL-QUEBEC-HALIFAX-LONDON(ENG.)

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE
CHATHAM, ONT.
ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST BUSINESS SCHOOLS
Over 2,000 choice positions filled in past Four Years.
Some others just filled:—L. B. HANN, from Newfoundland, placed with Sask. Milling Co., Moose Jaw, as Steno. FERN SMITH, Steno., Peabody Overall Co., Windsor. E. C. ROBINSON Bkkpr., with Bell Furniture Co., Southampton, Ont. FLOSSIE ANDERSON, Steno. and bkkpr, Can. Wolverine Co., Chatham. MILDRED ANDERSON, Steno., with De Laval Separator Co., Winnipeg. R. J. SCOTT, teacher, with Drake College, Newark, N. J. The salaries of the three shown last week average over $700 per annum. The salaries of the six here shown average close to $700. Our students are prepared for the big positions where the big pay is offered. IT PAYS TO ATTEND THE BEST. Catalogue 33 tells of the work at Chatham. Catalogue 34 tells of our home courses. Address, D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont.

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

CANVASSERS WANTED. Weekly salary paid.—Alfred S. Tyler, London, Ont.

$2 DAY SALARY AND UP—ALSO commission—for local representatives; immediately; permanent position; experience unnecessary; rapid advancement; spare time accepted. Nicholson Limited, Publishers, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply H. C. I. Co., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., West Street, Orillia, Ontario.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co. Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

6 TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

AT ONCE—MEN TO LEARN BARBER trade; expert instruction; constant practice; tools free; always sure employment for a barber. Write for catalogue. Moler Barber College, 221 Queen east, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A STUDY OF other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers' Dept., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

ALEXANDOR'S FURS

In dealing with us you are dealing with a firm of wholesale manufacturing furriers. We make only goods that are absolutely dependable and that we can fully guarantee. We have a number of

LADIES' MUSKRAT JACKETS $75.00

made in lengths from 44 to 50 inches long. Lined with the best of Satin and Silk.

Send us your bust measurement and the length of coat desired, and we will send same C.O.D. to any part in Canada, allowing privilege of examining and returning, if not satisfactory, at our expense. WRITE TO US TO-DAY.

WHOLESALE DEPT.

A. J. ALEXANDOR
Manufacturing Furriers,
504-506 St. Paul St., Montreal
Coats made to order, same price.

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

W. W. TAMAN
Merchant Tailor,
Exeter, - Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	86	86
Barley	65	65
Buckwheat	55	55
Oats	42	42
Peas	85	85
Potatoes, per bag	75	90
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 50	1 50
Butter	21	25
Eggs	25	26
Live hogs, per cwt		5 00
Shorts per ton		26 00
Bran per ton		24 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chichen	alive 7½c.	dry picked 9½c
Hens	"	5c.	"	7
Geese	"	7c.	" heads on	9½
			heads off	10
Ducks	"	8c	" heads on	10½
			heads off	11
Turkeys	"	13	"	15

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

We have 30 Dinner Sets for you to choose from. The prices range from $7.50 to $25.00. Ask to see them.—Stewart's.

100 Girls Wanted for Factory, $5.00 per week to start with for girls eighteen and over. Address immediately D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

Hanging Lamps for Halls, Dining Rooms and Kitchens. These come to us direct from the factory in Pittsburg. Prices range from $3.00 to $7.75—Stewart's.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

Fleeced Lined Underwear; Penman's make, in sizes 34 to 44. This is a leader and sells for 50c.—Stewarts.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Hoame's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

Overcoats for Men and Boys with the new Convertable Collars. The cloths are good and patterns New. $4.50 to $15.00—Stewart's.

AUCTION SALES—Farmers and others having auction sales will do well to have their bills printed here and have their sales advertised in the Advocate. It reaches all the people.

VOGELGESANGS REMEDIES

I now offer my fever remedy to the public. I guarantee to cure typhoid fever at any stage in from two to four hours, with outside application. No bad effects from treatment. Your doctor will be welcome to watch the treatment. First treatment free. For further particulars apply to WM. M. BLATCHFORD Exeter, Ont.

COLTS FOR SALE—A few foals for sale. Apply to John May, London Road South.

A rat proof house can be made by laying over the floor joists before the flooring is put on, a fine-mesh substantial wire netting. Let it extend out over the edge about a foot. After that lay the siding on, draw up the edges of the netting, fastening them with staples and you need not worry about the rats.

Itching Scalp

GOT RID OF, IN A FEW HOURS.

There is nothing made that will so quickly rid the scalp of distressing itchiness as PARISIAN SAGE the hair dresser and beautifier.

W. S. Cole guarantees Parisian Sage to cure dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair or money back, and sells it for only 50 cents a large bottle. It puts vitality into the hair and gives it a radiant luster.

It is the favorite hair dressing of refined women because it so quickly refreshes the scalp and not being sticky or greasy is delightful to use.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Miss Amy, daughter of Mr. Wellington Johns, is quite ill.

John Burke is learning the barbering with W. D. Burke here.

The usual large number of shooters spent Thanksgiving Day in the woods.

Guy Bros., Minstrels, are to appear here on Nov. 15th in the Opera House.

Several Exeter people attended the Opera in London on Monday evening.

Mr. Arthur Rollins, who has been residing in London, has moved to Detroit.

The little son of Mr. Phil Row cliffe who has been very ill for four weeks is recovering.

McLean Bros., publishers of the Seaforth Expositor, have purchased The Dundas Banner.

Mr. T. B. Carling has been appointed returning officer for South Huron at the Provincial Election.

A few of the enthusiasts had a little game of "bowling on the green" on Thanksgiving Day.

The first snow of the season fell on Oct. 27, but disappeared immediately. Last year the first snow came on the same date, and remainded for the whole winter.

Rev. Geo. Jackson's many old friends were pleased to hear him in James St. church on Sunday last. Rev. R. Hobbs the pastor, will resume the pulpit duties on Sunday next.

Mr. Al. Hastings has taken a steady position as barber with W. D. Burke. Baths at all hours at W. D. Burke's Shaving Parlor. Two towels furnished each bath, or 8 for $1.00

In the cities merchants are complaining that many "raised" $4 bills are in circulation. The new $1 and $4 bills are much alike in color and it is not hard to raise a one to a four. It would be just as well not to try it, however.

Several citizens were discussing a departed sister, who had been given to good deads, but was rather too fond of of dispensing sharper advice. "She was an excellent woman," said the deceased lady's pastor. "She was constantly in the homes of the poor and afflicted. In fact, she was the salt of the earth." She was more than that, remarked a listener, "she was the vinegar, the pepper and the mustard as well. She was a perfect cruetstand of virtues."

"Refuse notice" Every editor has received them says as exchange. The post master sends them to the editor. For instance, there is a man of we'll say, John Jones, who refused to take his paper out of the post office. He did not want it longer. We wondered what was the matter, Upon investigation of our subscription book we found John Jones owed $5.70. He has stopped his paper as an economy to us. A few evenings ago we stepped into a church and John's melodious voice rang out loud and clear in the soul stirring song, "Jesus Paid It" We might have been mistaken but his earnestness impressed us. The next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing he had made an assignment of his liabilities to the Lord.

MRS. JEANNETTE JEWELL KELLOGG, the well-known Elocutionist of Buffalo, has been engaged by The Young Men's Class of Caven Presbyterian Church for Nov. 8th. This is a rare treat so be sure to hear it.

NEW BARBER SHOP—Owing to the non-arrival of the furnishings of my barber shop through a delay in the freight, we were unable to start business as expected on Saturday last, but we will be ready to do business this week. Watch for sign. We solicit a share of patronage.—F. BOYLE.

HICKS' NOVEMBER FORECASTS.—A regular storm period extends from the 9th to the 13th being central on the 11th. While this period will bring regular changes to storm conditions, the indication are that disturbances will be normal and light. The regular change to cooler, clearing weather will follow. A reactionary storm period falling on the 16th, 17th and 18th, will bring recurrence of falling weather, cloudiness and precipitation. Electrical storms will be natural on and about the 16th. This period will be followed by only moderate change to cooler, with bright, autumnal weather.

MARRIED—The following has reference to a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huston, who has been visiting here for some weeks.—In the New St. James' Presbyterian, church, London on Monday afternoon, Irene Mary Gray eldest daughter of Mr. James Gray, became the bride of Mr. William Mervin Huston, of Ashcroft, British Columbia Rev. Thomas H. Mitchell, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister Lillian as maid of honor, and by Miss Elsie McCrimmon, as bridesmaid. Mr. Leonard Hutcheson, of Toronto, was groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. Huston left on the 5.30 C. P. R. train for the East Mrs. Huston will receive at her father's home next Monday, and will later leave for her new home in British Columbia. Exeter friends extend best wishes to the young couple.

EXETER YOUNG LADY ASSAULTED

A despatch from Wingham dated Oct. 26 gives the following particulars of an assault upon an Exeter young lady daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Davis of town.—"Last night shortly after ten o'clock, Wingham residents were treated to a sensational incident. Miss Frances Davis was walking along Main St., escorted by a Mr. Poslip, and when passing the vacant plot between Johnson's restaurant and Zubrigg's photo graph studio, Miss Davis was attacked, it is alleged, by a man named Andrew Cruikshanks, who, it is said, hurled a file at her. She managed to dodge the missile, which crashed through the plate-glass window of the photograph gallery. The police were called at once and Cruikshanks was arrested; and at the preliminary hearing was sent up for trial." Miss Davis, who was home for the holiday, received a nasty gash on the head with the weapon.

Mr. Wm. May was in London Monday.

Mr. Jos. Davis was in London Monday.

Mr. W. H. Collins was in Toronto this week.

Roy Drew of Toronto visited with Mr. S. Fitton.

Mrs. S. Hardy is visiting in Carsonville, Mich.

Mr. Orville Southcott visited in Blyth on Monday.

Mr. T. J. Wilson was to Detroit over the holiday.

Mrs. H. Parsons was in London for Thanksgiving.

Mr. Chas. Wood of London visited in town this week.

Miss Anna Dow of London spent the vacation at home.

Mr. Fred Gould of Strathroy spent the holidays here.

Mrs. Thos. Bissett, sr., visited in Windsor this week.

Garvey Acheson of London visited his parents over Sunday.

Mrs. Adolphus Evans of London holidayed here this week.

Miss Ruth Hooper, student, of London, was home this week.

Mr. Loney Heywood visited his parents here this week.

Mr. Percy Hooper of London spent the holiday in Exeter.

Mrs. T. G. Creech and children spent the holidays in Comber.

Mrs. Weidenhammer holidayed in Blyth during the week.

Miss Robb spent Thanksgiving Day at her home in Seaforth.

Mrs. Wm. Penhale of Blyth visited relatives here this week.

Miss Dora Trott of Beamsville was a visitor here this week.

Harry Triebner of Clinton Collegiate was home for the holiday.

Miss Ida Marchand was home from Stratford Normal this week.

Mrs. C. H. Horney visited this week with her daughter in Hamilton.

Mr. Peter Frayne and daughter Lily visited at Brantford this week.

Victor Sweet of Chatham Business College, spent the holidays at home.

Mr. John Floyd of Southampton spent the holiday with his mother here.

Miss Ollie Quance of Ailsa Craig visited her mother here over Sunday.

Miss Victoria Miners, teacher of Goderich, was home for the holidays.

Mrs. John McInnis has gone to New Richmond, Wis., to spend the winter.

Mr. Alfred Bowey of St. Thomas spent the holiday with the family here.

Miss Jessie Creech visited with Mrs. Shirley Bobier in Belgrave this week.

Mrs Henry Hooper has returned from a visit with her son Edward in Winnipeg.

Miss Nina Carling left Monday evening on a visit to relatives in Brantford.

Mrs. B. S. O'Neil and daughter Irene of Toronto visited friends here this week.

Miss Johnston of London was the guest of Mrs. McGillicudy over the holiday.

Mr. Ed. Harwood of Toronto spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. James Pickard.

Misses Mary and Bertha Mack of Toronto spent Thanksgiving Day with their parents.

Mr N. W. Creech of Brantford spent the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives here.

Mrs. James Murray and daughter Miss Jean and Miss Murray spent the holiday in London.

Mr. Douglas Stewart of Toronto spent the holidays with his parents Mr. and J. A. Stewart.

Mrs. John Dinney of Oshawa, with her son Wilbur and Everett Pretrie visited relatives here this week.

Mrs. Charles Rinshed of Detroit, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Hall, is visiting at their home, Exeter North.

Mr. John Sutton of London and Messrs George and William Salter of Toronto visited their parents here this week

Misses Lillian and Emma Davis of London and Roy Davis of Ailsa Craig visited at their home in Exeter North during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Robinson left Thursday for Michigan to spend the winter, Mrs. Murray Miller accompanied, them, remaining a few days.

Mr. W. J. Crooks, who has been travelling in the West all summer in the interests of a Toronto wholesale house, is renewing old friendship in town—Clinton News-Record.

Mr. and Mrs. Milligan and family of London were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sweet, Jr., this week. Master Milligan rendered a very pleasing selection in James street church Sunday evening.

Miss Miners visited in London this week.

Miss Nettie Walters spent Monday in London.

Gordon Taylor was at Shakespeare on the holiday

Miss Delight Hobbs visited in Brantford this week.

Mr. D. Evans of London holidayed here this week.

Mrs. Louis Day was in London visiting this week.

Mr. H. Spackman was in London and Guelph this week.

Mr. James Jewell visited Mr. G. K. Heaman of Toronto.

Mrs. Clifford Spackman of Guelph is visiting relatives here.

Mr. Mark Mitchell of London was up over the holiday.

Mr. Beattie Martin of London spent part of the week here.

Mr Maurice Wexler was in London on Thanksgiving Day

Miss Stella Gregory of Chatham spent the holidays at home.

Miss McDougall of Lucan visited Miss Minnie Luxton this week

Miss Ida Rowe, teacher, of Dorchester was home for the holiday.

Mr. Wm. Dignan of Lucan visited his parents here on Monday.

Mr. Richard Bissett of London spent Monday with relatives here.

Miss Maud Johns, student of London, was home for the holidays.

Mrs. Thos. Hawkins visited her daughter in Windsor this week.

Mr. Fred White and family of London were in Exeter over the holiday.

Mr. Wm. Baker of London was up over Sunday to visit his father.

Mrs. Fred Brooks of Ridgetown spent Sunday and Monday with relatives here.

Miss Mabel Walters of London spent Thanksgiving Day with relatives here.

Mrs. Denegs and Miss Stengel of Berlin visited Mrs. A. Marchand this week.

Miss La Belle Handford of Alma College, St. Thomas, was home over Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Howey and family visited in Blyth with Rev and Mrs. Fear.

Miss Edna McCallum of Toronto with a gentleman friend was home part of the week.

Mr. C. H. Sanders spent part of last week on a shooting trip north of Wingham.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Inwood and daughter of London were visitors here over Thanksgiving.

Mr and Mrs. Wm. Fraser and Mr. James Gould and daughter, Miss Lela, were in London this week.

Misses Lulu Martin, Lily Hodgert, and Gladys Keetle, students, of Clinton, spent the week end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Willis and Miss Elsie McCallum visited at Mr. T. H. McCallum's over Thanksgiving.

Mr and Mrs. John Harmer of Earlton, New Ontario, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Luxton this week.

Mr. Chas. Dyer of Hamilton spent the holiday with his parents here, as did also Mr. Case Howard of Toronto.

"Mr. and Mrs. Sam Davis and daughter Veva, left on Saturday for their home in Centralia, Ont., after spending the fall here with relatives. Little Doris Essery accompanied her uncle and aunt back to the east"—Crystal City Courier.

APPLE S

Those wanting good NO. 1 Winter Apples call at the store.

Jones & May

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham, National Partland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Bus, Dray and Teaming Business

Your orders in our line will be attended to quickly and satisfactorily. We are here to please the public needing anything in our line, and we ask a trial from you. Orders left by phone or otherwise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will receive prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

Phone 55

Powell's Bazaar

VARIETY STORE

We have been busy now 3 weeks marking up Xmas stock and before putting it on sale we must push out our large granite stock so on Thursday we commence, if you want a bargain come quick, don't wait. We must have the space.

Thursday Starts the Sale

SATURDAY SPECIALS—

In Cake plates, salad bowls, butter dishes, Etc. Don't forget the day.

SPECIAL BARGAINS in the windows, watch 'em.

PICTURE POST CARDS all kinds Thanksgiving and local views.

Come with your friends to the Big Variety Store, we can save you money.

For Xmas—An Edison Phonograph, ask about them.

OUR WATCH AND Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter
Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers
And
Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a
For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON
The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

Priestleys' Wool Serges

IN BLACK, NAVY, CREAM & COLOURS.

Guaranteed Fast Dye.

Do not fail to see our New Fall and Winter Dress Goods—nothing but the Season's most stylish colors. A visit to Our Dress Goods Department will convince you.

FURLINED COATS

The best we have ever shown for the prices. A. No .1 cloths. No. 1 Muskrat lining, with Alask Sable, American Sable or Isabella Sable Collars and Reveres.

WINTER COATS

Something new coming in every day. This is our big coat season Just try on one of our Swell Tweed Coats or a nice Smooth Black. They are good fitters and lookers.

BigClothing and Overcoat Sale

$7000.00 OF NEW CLOTHING $7000.00

Just arrived $7,000.00 worth of W. E. Sandford & Co's. New Fall and Winter Clothing. Every garment bought at job prices to clear them out. Now is your time to get bargain clothing.

Men's	Good	$10	Suits for only	$7
"	"	$15, $16	" " "	$10
"	"	$20, $23	" " "	$13 to $15
"	"	$5, $6	Pants " "	$3
"	"	$2.25	" " "	$1.50
Boys	"	$5.	Suits " "	$3.50
"	"	$7, $8	3-piece suits for only	$5.

Overcoats by the score for Men and Boys at Bargain Prices.

JONES & MAY
Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

Local Items

Black squirrel shooting will open on Nov. 15.

Mrs. Harrison, Simcoe Street, is confined to her bed owing to a severe attack of illness.

Inspector Tom of Goderich was an official duty the connection with the school here this week.

The Ladies' Guild of the Trivitt Memorial Church have decided to hold their Annual Bazar this year on December 8th next.

CAVEN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.—The anniversary services in connection with Caven Presbyterian Church were held on Sunday last and were conducted by Rev. W. L. H. Rowand, B. A., of Stratford. The weather was delightful and everything was as favorable as could be desired. Mr. Rowand preached in the morning and evening and delivered two able, logical and impressive sermons to large congregations, the church in the evening being over crowded, while a number were unable to gain admittance. Both services were particularly bright and entertaining, the choir contributing much to make them thus. The solos by Miss McDonald of London were admirably rendered and delighted all. The collections amounted to about $250.

HORSES STOLEN—Mr. A. Q. Bobier, who has been engaged on a dredging contract near Ingersoll, was in town Saturday night and remained over Sunday. He informed the Advocate that he had been in London endeavoring to trace a team of horses which had been stolen from him at Ingersoll. It was a team he had been using on the contract work and one morning on going to the stable they were missing. Up to Saturday morning he could get no trace whatever of the stolen team, any more than they were supposed to have been driven to London. While here Mr. Bobier happened to be in conversation with Mr. Thos. White, stagedriver, and he informed him that he had seen a team answering to the description of the one missing, and that they were in the neighborhood of Whalen. Mr. Bobier went out that way Sunday and located the missing team and made arrangements to have them taken back to Ingersoll.

$1 pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1, 1913

Mr. W. H. Levett was in Toronto on business last week.

The Farmers in this section are about through harvesting their root crop, with the exception of the turnips. All are a big yield this year.

Mr. Wm. Dixon underwent a surgical operation the latter part of last week for the removal of a growth on his ear. The operation was a success and Mr. Dixon is recovering nicely.

Mr. Jos. Davis received a telegram here Monday evening from Hugh River, Alta., stating that Mr. Arthur Davis who left here several months ago has suffered a stroke of paralysis and is in a very low state as a result.

Mr. J. J. Knight, Station Agent, has just received word from headquarters that a new station will be erected here on the old site. It was thought that owing to the pressure of so much work of a similar nature that a new station here could not be erected till spring, but the company has decided to go on with the work at once. This will be good news to the travelling public as under present conditions it is very inconvenient.

FRANK ADMISSION

The Goderich Signal, Liberal, commenting on Joseph Elliott, the candidate named by the Conservative party in Centre Huron, Frankly admits that the opposition will not have a ghost of a show towards turning the political situation in the coming Ontario elections. Among other things it says.—"No one supposes that the Whitney Government is in the slightest danger of being ousted from power at the coming elections."

SIR JOHN CARLING DEAD

Senator Sir John Carling, K. C. M. G. P. C., London's grand old man, died Monday afternoon at four o'clock at his residence, 564 Wellington street, after an illness of many months. The immediate cause of death was pleuro-pneumonia which developed on Friday and which he was unable because of his age—he was 83 on January 28rd last— and general weakness, to combat. Last spring Sir John was seriously ill, the result of a breakdown due to his advanced years, and for two weeks his life was despaired of. He rallied and during the summer he enjoyed fairly good health.

Messrs. Thomas B., William J., Isaac R. and Miss Lizzie Carling and sister Mrs. Thomas Bissett left Wednesday morning to attend the funeral of their uncle Sir John Carling.

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

DRESS GOODS
DRESS GOODS

We are having a two weeks sale of all Dress Goods in black and colored. We therefore quote a few of the prices to show you that we mean what we say. These Dress Goods are in nearly all the shades that are worn this fall. Dress Goods that was

Regular $1.25 for $1.12 — Regular $1.35 for $1.08
Regular $1.50 for 98c. — Regular $1.00 for 88c.
Regular 75c. for 58c. — Regular 50c. for 42c.

All these prices hold good only for two weeks so come in and secure your dress for the coming season.

READY MADE SKIRTS

We have a few ready made skirts in Black, Green Red, Blues, Brown, and Old Rose which we will clear out at a discount of 33⅓ per cent. off. Come and purchase early because this is a bargain.

WALL PAPERS

House cleaning time is come again so buy your Fall Wall Paper now while we are offering a discount of 25 per cent. on all papers.

You may need a new Carpet or Rug this fall, if you do just come in and purchase at a discount of 15 per cent. These are exceptional bargains.

DINNER SETS

Just a few left to clear regular $10.00 for $8.00 Regular $8.00 for $6.00.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

KIRKTON CHURCH CASE HEARD AT ST. MARYS

St. Marys, Nov. 3.—Chester Hazelwood the young man implicated in the charges laid by the trustees of Kirkton Methodist church, was committed for trial to-day, and will appear at the December sessions in Stratford. The evidence was heard here to-day by Magistrate O'Loane of Stratford, 12 witnesses being examined, occupying the time of the court till after 5 o'clock. R. S. Robertson of Stratford prosecuted, and Mr. Gladman of Exeter defended. Hazelwood was baled out on two sureties of $200 each. Another charge, growing out of the above case, was laid against Ernest Nixon, of intimidating a witness named Greenstreet. R. S. Robertson prosecuted and A. W. Ford of St. Marys defended. The case was adjourned for a week.

LONDON HAS BIG BLAZE.

The most destructive fire in London in a quareter of a century completely destroyed six of the largest business houses on Friday morning last—J. H. Chapman & Co., T. F. Kingsmill & Co., W. Mara & Co., Brewster's Fancy Store, Purdom's Hardware, Roome, Corbett & Co. and R. J. Young & Co. The loss is roughly estimated at three-quarters of a million dollars, and between 300 and 400 people are thrown out of employment. The fire broke out about four o'clock in J. H. Chapman's store.

Lela, the second daughter of Mr. W. Sanders of the 2nd concession of Stephen was painfully burned while at school on Thursday last. She went to stand on a small block of wood that was near the furnace and the block turning she fell against the furnace pipe with the result that her arm was considerably burned.

ST. JOSEPH ON THE RETROGRADE

Several times surveyors have staked a line for an electric road to Stratford London or St. Marys, but this was as far as it went. Docks were built by the Government, and it is a matter of regret that this money was uselessly wasted, as the dock was never used except for fishing boats, on a small scale and the dock to-day is in a sad condition.—When Mr. Canton built the hotel and other buildings, and saw his plans would not work out, it is remarkable that he didn't improve the property adjoining the lake, make some fine parks, walks and driveways and put everything in shape to draw summer tourists to a spot on the Lake Huron that would in time be as popular as Muskoka, and much easier of access.—The inhabitants of this hamlet, being of French extraction, are beginning to lose hope that St. Joseph will develop into a greater city, as Mr. N. M. Canton, well known as a promoter, had planned it to be. The Balmoral, the large hotel built by Mr. Canton, is slowly falling away. It is a large structure of the class of the Tecumseh, of London, and would have made an imposing piece of architecture had it been finished in all details. The back walls and one side have crumbled, and the rest is none to safe. The wine factory is a vacant building, and the business block also, there not being even a grocery store in this place. Mr. Canton's house, and in fact, every building put up by him or his friends, is a model of architecture, and built well. Mr. Canton bought much land from the neighboring farmers and had a city surveyed.

SOUTH HURON LIBERALS NOMINATE E. ZELLER.

Hensall., Nov. 1—At the Liberal convention here to-day, E. Zeller of zurich was chosen as Liberal candidate at the coming Ontario elections in South Huron. Other names submitted to the delegates were Dr. F. A. Sellery, Hensall; A. Mustard, Brucefield; and H. Smith Exeter. Mr. Zeller, however, polled such a large vote that others withdrew. A resolution was passed in behalf of the New Leader, Mr. N. Rowell, K. C. About a hundred delegates were present.

D. MACARTHUR, V. S., NOMINATED IN NORTH MIDDLESEX

Alisa Craig, Nov. 6.—North Middlesex sex Conservatives nominated Mr. Duncan Macarthur, of East Williams, as the Conservative candidate for this riding for the coming provincial elections at a Conservative convention held here to-day. Mr. Macarthur was nominated following the refusal of Mr. J. W. Doyle, the present member, to contest the constituency. Mr. Doyle stated that owing to ill-health he would have to retire from politics. Mr. R. R. Gamey, M. P., for Manitoulin, and Mr. George Elliott, M. P. for North Middlesex, were the speakers of the afternoon.

SHAREHOLDERS MAY NOT LOSE.

The Toronto Globe Says.—It is a reasonable possibility that not a shareholder of the defunct Sovereign Bank will loose a dollar, according to a statement made in the city yesterday by one in a position to know. The assets of the bank have been taken over by the International Assets, Limited, reorganized from the shareholders of the bank. It was stated that if the shareholders did not come in a double liability assessment was inevitable, but if they join the other they will share in whatever was realized from the assets. It was also stated that the money of the bank tied up in the Chicago & Milwaukee Railway and the Alaska Central Railway was quite possible of realization.

The Exeter Oddfellows go to Zurich Thursday to assist in instituting a lodge.

EXETER SCHOOL REPORT

For October, H. S. Department. Form III. Honors.—S. Petty, 86.; N. Amy, 83.6; C. Copeland, 80.2; H. Sweet, 75.5. Pass—E. Case, 71.6; R. Wood, 68.8; E. Hunkin, 68.8; A. Hartleib, 68.8; G. Passmore, 67.3; H. Fuke, 65; C. Wood, 64.6; R. May, 64; R. Dearing, 61.3; L. Grieve, 60. No. on roll 26. Average attendance, 25.

W. B. Weidenhammer, B. A., Prin.

Form II.—Honors—A. Willis, 79.1; L. Boyle, 76.8; Pass—I. Truebner, 74. M. Horton, 73.6; B. Cass, 72; M. Morgan, 69.8; Linden Harvey, 69.5; A. Brokenshire, 68.3; B. Quackenbush, 67.8; C. Hodgson, 65.5; M. McQueen, 65.3; J. Davis, 65.; N Carmichael, 62; G. Oke, 61.6; Laura Howey, 61.1. Number on Roll, 22. Average attendance. 21.

Miss Robb, Teacher.

Form I.—Honors.—L. Stewart, 79; A. Habkirk, 79; E. Harvey, 76;. Pass—G. Morley, 74; J. Strang, 71; I. Mc. Donell, 71; M. Case, 70; I. Sweet, 69; N. Truemner, 68; E. Brooks, 68; H. Rivers, 67; D. Hall, 66; A. Hoggarth, 65. M. Hanlon, 65; E. McArthur, 65; A. Case, 64; R. Kestle, 62; L. Taylor, 61; A. Beverley, 60; M. Blatchford, 60. Senior Commercial Honors.—B. Atkinson 81; I. Rivers, 76. Junior Commercial, Honors.—M. Acheson, 85. Pass— E. Day, 72; F. Hill, 66; C. May, 65; F. McDonell, 64; Number on the Roll, 43. Average attendance, 41.

M. M. Campbell, Teacher.

P. S. Department

Sr. IV. Honors.—Willie Manson, 84; Alberta Knight, 81; Beatrice, Hodgett, 79; Mildred Heywood, 78; Minnie May, 78. Pass—Maurice Senior, 71; A. Day, 70.—Middle IV. Honors—C. Powell, 92; O. Davis, 81; A. Mack, 79; A. Bell, 79; M. Vincent, 76; M. Huston and Harry Parsons, equal, 76.—Pass—Florence Wood and L. Zuefle, equal 73 M. Seldon, 70; E. M. Bowey, 69; O. MacDonald, 68; J. Follick, 68; G. Fixton, 66; M. Gladman, 61; Hector Rowcliffe, 60. No. on Roll 27. Average attendance, 24.

C. Vosper, teacher.

Form III, Jr. Honors—G. Harvey, 90; A. Cornish, 86; Z. Harness, 81; W. Knight, 79; V. Sweet, 78; Wm. Davis, 77; H. Boyle, 76; V. Jones, 74; Pass —C. Mallott, 74; M. Morlock, 74; B. Rivers, 72; I. Zuefle, 72; V. Marshall, 68; D. Knight, 67; D. Charlton, 64; A. Delve, 62; V. Hartleib, 61 Form II. Sr. Honors—C. Morley, 80; E. Doyle, 76; C. Sanders, 75; W. Harness, 73. Pass—C. Heaman, 71; I. Easterbrook, 69 B. Gould, 69; M. Marchand, 68; C. Ford, 67; Wm. Brown, 65; F. Collingwood, 62; Leon Dearing, 62. No. enrolled 39. Average attendance 36.

H. N. Kinsman, Teacher.

Jr. IV.—Honors, B. Horney 77, M. Knott 76; Pass, D. Kuntz 74, I. Delve 74, J. Brickwood 72, F. Bowey 67, E. Davis 64 III. Class.—Honors, M. Kydd 83, M. Pickard 82, G. Carling 77, G. Ortwein 77, E. Powell 77, D. Phillips 75, G. Wells 71, G. Moir 70, M. Hardy 67, M. Day 65, L. Hastings 65, G. Davis 63. No. on roll 33; average attendance 31.

J. S. Murray, Teacher.

Class IV.—Honors, M. Harvey 89, E. Davis 88, M. Harvey 85; Pass, P. Weidenhammer 78, J. Davis 70, I. Davis 67, T. Connor 62, B. Senior 60. Class III.—Honors, G. Harness 90, V. Rowcliffe 86; Pass, E. Magee 60. Class II.—Honors, K. Hedden 79, C. Davis 79; Pass, E. Russell 72, M. Webster 71, F. Manns 71, H. Kuntz 60. Class I.—Pass, V. Walker 72, B. Acheson 71, W. Bellwood 67, M. Norry 66. No. on roll 44; average attendance 36.

Irene Quackenbush, Teacher.

Jr. Pt. II.—G. Hind 89, M. Johns 88, D. Balkwill 86, M. Kuntz 82, I. Moir 82, P. Sanders 79, V. Vale and R. Taylor 77, H. Dignan 71, L. Harness 70, N. Hardy and W. Webster 69, C. Heywood 66. Sr. Pt. II.—G. Powell 85, G. Hedden 78, C. Jacobi 70, M. Elworthy 68, R. Davis 66, W. Ortwein 61, C. Brimacombe 55, E. Cookson 46. No. on roll 47, Average attendance 40.

F. W. Howard, teacher

EXETER COUNCIL

A special meeting of the Council was held in the Town Hall, Tuesday evening Oct. 24th. Members all present except Mr. Rivers. Levett—Walper—That the street watering be 12c. per foot, and that a by-law be prepared confirming same.—Carried. Walper—Day—That the Reeve and Treasurer borrow $700 for current expenses.

Council met at the Town Hall Friday evening, Nov. 3rd. All members present. Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed. Mr. M. Doyle waited on the council and asked to have a light placed on North street. No action was taken. Day—Rivers—That the following accounts be passed and orders issued in payment,—T. Brooks, express $1.92; H. Parsons, bal. street watering account, 52.95; Ross-Taylor Co., lumber 22.16 W. S. Howie, chemicals, 98c.; W. J. Heaman, coal, etc., 43.59; G. Orange 17.41; F. Hector 2.98; G. Cudmore 3.00 T. Houlden 5.25; R. Davis 2.50; J. Harness, bellringing, 12.75; W. J. Bisset, mattress for lockup, 2.00; T. B. Carling, pt. salary, 21.75; W. J. Bissett 33.00; John Ford 31.25. Levett—Rivers—That by-law No. 10 to water Main street from the Lake Road to the South Boundary, Wellington street from Main to G. T. R. track, and Huron street west from the corner of Carling and Huron east to the corner of Huron and Albert streets, and to levy a rate of 12c. a foot for the said watering, be read the second and third time and finally passed.—Carried. Levett—Day—That we submit a by-law for $5000, to be voted on at the municipal elections in January next for the purpose of extending the watermains, and that a by-law be prepared in accordance with same.—Carried. T. B. Carling, Clerk.

Mr. Ed. Dignan has been on the sick list during the past week, but has recovered.

Death of W. G. Bissett

There passed away at his home, Andrew street, probably the oldest pioneer and veteran business man of Exeter, in the person of William G. Bissett, who died on Tuesday evening last about eight o'clock, at the age of 70 years, 4 months and 21 days. Since last February deceased had been in very poor health from heart trouble, and while being able to be up and around the greater part of the time he was gradually failing. About a week ago his condition gave evidence of a change for the worse, and gradually sinking the curtain was wrung down on his kindly life. Mr. Bissett was born in the Township of Stephen, on the London Road, just a short distance south of the town in the year 1841, and his whole life has been spent in Exeter and the immediate vicinity. For over forty-five years he was engaged in business pursuits, first in the tin and hardware business and for nearly forty years conducted the livery business at the rear of the Central Hotel. In the year 1870 Mr. Bissett was married to his now bereft wife —Francis Hooper—who is grief stricken over the sad event. The life of deceased has been a busy and eventful one. He has probably to his credit the longest municipal career of any man in the county, having for about a quarter of a century served at the Council board of the village in the capacity of Councillor, Deputy-Reeve and Reeve, and his able and sound counsel and advice in all matters pertaining to the duty of the offices he filled were timely and valuable. In politics deceased was a staunch Conservative and the party loses in him a faithful and ardent worker. He was a member of James Street Methodist Church and was regular in attendance at divine worship The death of Mr. Bissett will be unaffectedly mourned in the community. It will touch many hearts with a sense of personal loss, for Mr. Bissett had a nature that attracted friendships and retained them. Impulsive at times, but a warm heart and manly spirit made him a man among men, and no man mingled more freely with all classes of his fellow citizens. Besides the sorrowing wife he is survived by three brothers.—Thomas of town, George H. and Edwin of Winnipeg. At the time of going to press arrangement had not been made for the funeral.

The Anniversary Services of Main Street Methodist church will be held on Sunday next, Nov. 12th, when Rev. J. E. J. Millyard of Hensall will occupy the pulpit and have charge of the services.

LUMLEY.

Mrs. Jas. Horton and Miss Nan were in Seaforth on Sunday last.—Mrs. McLinchey and sister, Miss Carrol, of Seaforth were visitors at John Glenn's on Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. Davis and Misses Davis of Staffa spent Sunday with Mrs Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Venner. The contract of completing the bridge here has been let to Gordon Bolton his being the lowest tender. —The Misses Sadler of Staffa were guests of Misses Mauds Glenn on Sabbath last—The Ladies' Aid of the Chiselhurst church met at the home of Mrs. Frank Ryckman, on Wednesday afternoon, when several interesting topics discussed.—Miss Hugh Chesney and daughter Miss Ella were week end visitors at the former's brothers', Messrs. Noah and Franklin Horton.

USBORNE.

Skinner—Hunter—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hunter, concession 4, was the scene of a happy event yesterday (Wednesday) the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ettie Pearl, to Mr. Everett Andrew Skinner of the same township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Steadman in the presence of only the immediate relatives and a few friends of the contracting parties. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride looked charming in a gown of blue silk, with the usual bridal veil and carrying a bouquet of flowers. After the ceremony and the congratulations extended to the happy couple all sat down to a bountiful repast. The bride received many handsome and useful presents. The young couple will take up their residence in Elimville, and will have the best wishes of a host of friends for their future happiness and prosperity.

BIRTHS

Bellwood—In Exeter, on Oct. 30, to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Bellwood, a daughter.

Switzer—In Blanshard, on Tuesday, Oct. 24th, to Mr. and Mrs. Whitefield Switzer, a son.

Graham—In St. Marys on Nov. 1st, to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham, a son.

MARRIAGES

Skinner—Hunter—At the home of the bride's parents, on Nov. 8, 1911, by Rev. Mr. Steadman, Mr. Everett Andrew Skinner, to Miss Ettie Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hunter, of the 4th con. of Usborne.

Doerr—Seldon.—In Ingersoll, on Nov. 8, Mr. Ralph Doerr to Miss Maria Seldon, daughter of Mr. Richard Seldon, formerly of Exeter.

Dilworth—Keys—At Varna, on Oct. 31, by Rev. T. J. Snowden, Martha youngest daughter of Mr. Thos. Keys, to Edwin Dilworth of Orillia.

Fletcher—Stone—In Exeter, on Nov. 8, by Rev. Mr. Powell, Mr. John Truman Fletcher, of Usborne, to Miss Mary Annetta, Stone daughter of Mr. Edward Stone of Usborne.

DEATHS

Bissett—In Exeter, on oNv. 7th, Wm. G. Bissett, aged 70 years, 4 months and 21 days.

Elliott—In St. Paul, Minn., on Nov. 1st D. Richie Elliott, formerly of Exeter aged 55 years.

Big Clearance Sale Of Men's Wear At Bawden's Old Stand At Greatly Reduced Prices

Stock must be sold in six weeks

Men's hats worth $2.00 to $2.50 for 1.25. Winter Caps. worth 75c. to 50c.

Overcoats and suits at one third off the regular price.

Rain coats for half price. 5 doz. umbrellas at 79c. each.

At the Exeter Bargain Store you will find shoes galore at about half the regular price. Lots of rubbers left yet.

300 yds of sateen regular 15c. for 8c. a yd. 50 doz gloves and mits at one third off the regular price.

Spices at half price.

Bawden's Old Stand

The Exeter Bargain Store

B. W. F. Beavers

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER VII.—(Cont'd)

At last Hussein found his tongue. "I have never met you before, Mr. Brett," he said, "but you will understand that it is quite impossible for me even to attempt to discuss the very interesting facts you have brought to my notice without some inquiry on my part, and on yours some proof that the events concerning which you have informed me have really happened. You see, one cannot trust newspapers. They get such garbled accounts of occurrences, particularly of State affairs; they are misleading——"

"Excuse me. I am sure you will admit that although I dispensed with details in my brief statement, the facts were undeniable. I can tell you exactly how and why Mehemet Ali and his two secretaries, together with Hussein, his confidential servant, were murdered. I can tell you how the diamonds were obtained from the Albert Gate mansion, and how they were conveyed to Paris. I have told you exactly the object of my visit, and I still await an answer."

Hussein-ul-Mulk laughed a trifle uneasily.

"I can see no harm in telling you that I am not aware of any diamonds in which I am personally interested having arrived in Paris."

"Indeed!" said Brett, leaning forward in his chair, and instantly dropping the listless air which had hitherto characterized his utterances. "That is a very curious thing, because the diamonds have been in Paris at least two days, and if they are withheld from the possession of those who employed certain agents to secure them, there must be a powerful reason to account for the delay. Speaking quite disinterestedly, monsieur, I would advise you to inquire into the matter at once."

His words evidently perturbed the Turk.

"Will you object," he said, "if I leave you alone a few minutes? I wish to consult with a friend of mine who happens to be staying here."

"Assuredly," said Brett, "but let me beg you to leave your cigarettes behind. They are exquisite."

Hussein-ul-Mulk had never before encountered such a personality as Reginald Brett. His eyebrows became perfectly oval with surprise and admiration for the man who could thus juggle with a dangerous situation.

"Here is my case," he said, "and when we have concluded this most interesting conversation I hope you will leave me your address, so that I may have the extreme pleasure of sending you a few hundreds."

Then he quitted the room. He was absent fully five minutes.

On his return he said—

"In the opinion of my friend, Mr. Brett, it is impossible for us to do anything at the present moment. We must inquire; we must verify; we must consult others. You will see that the negotiations you have undertaken require on our part some display of the extreme delicacy and tact in which you have given us so admirable a lesson. Suppose, now, we agree to meet here again to-morrow at the same hour. Am I to understand that what has transpired this morning remains, we will not say a secret, but a myth, a mere idle phantasy as between you and me?"

"That is precisely my idea," said Brett. "One hates to mention such a brutal word as 'police' in an affair demanding finesse. Personally I hate the blunderers. They rob life of its charm. They have absolutely no conception of art. Romance with them can end only in penal servitude or in the gallows. Believe me, Hussein, I am very discreet.

In another minute he was standing in the street, and inhaling generous draughts of the keen air of Paris.

"I wonder how much my life was worth during the first five minutes?" said he to himself; and then he made his way to the telegraph office, when he despatched the following message—

"To the Earl of Fairholme,
"Stanhope Gate, London.

"Have received definite intelligence which confirms my views. Expect our friend will be discovered within forty-eight hours. If possible, join me at Grand Hotel, Paris, to-night, eleven o'clock.

"BRETT."

CHAPTER VIII.

Pending Fairholme's arrival, Brett was not idle. He visited a prominent jeweller in the Rue de la Paix, and, after making some trivial purchases, led the conversation to the question of diamonds.

Brett had no special object in seeking this information. When engaged in elucidating any mystery he made it an invariable rule to post himself as accurately as possible concerning all minor details which might, by any straining of circumstances, become useful.

He retired to his hotel and jotted down some notes of this conversation. Whilst engaged in the task a telegram arrived from the Earl of Fairholme announcing that nobleman's departure from London by the afternoon train service via Boulogne.

Punctually at the time appointed the early reached the hotel. He was all eagerness to learn what had happened since they parted in London, and why Brett had so suddenly summoned him to Paris.

"I really have not much definite information," said the barrister. "Thus far I am building chiefly on surmise, but I have undoubtedly come into contact with the persons who organized and planned, if they did not actually carry out the raid on the Albert Gate mansion."

"Then you have news of Jack?" broke in Fairholme excitedly.

"Not exactly. All I can do at present is to assure you that the scent is hot, and we may run our quarry to earth some few minutes after eleven o'clock to-morrow morning."

"I am jolly glad that there is a chance of my being useful in this matter," said the early gleefully.

"Yes," replied the barrister. "I have been revolving in my mind the possibilities of to-morrow morning, and you must play an important part in what, by chance, may turn out to be a melodrama. Now, listen to me carefully. In the neighborhood of the Porte St. Martin there is a street known as the Rue Barbette. At eleven o'clock tomorrow I go to the house No. 11 in that street, and you will accompany me as far as the door. It will be your duty to stand outside and take note of all persons who enter or leave the house once I have disappeared from view in the interior. You will maintain watch until 11.30. If at that hour I have not rejoined you, make your way to the nearest policeman, and tell him that you have good reason to believe that a friend of yours has either been murdered or suffered serious personal injury in a room on the second story of the house in question. You will then, in company with the policeman, come rapidly to the apartment I have indicated and demand an immediate entrance—if necessary bursting the door open."

"And what then?" gasped the amazed earl.

"I really don't know," said Brett imperturably. "It is possible you may find my gory corpse in one of the inner rooms. The best I can hope for is that I shall be simply a prisoner, but I fully expect to be seriously injured at the very least."

"But look here, Brett; are you doing the right thing in this matter? Why on earth should you run such an awful risk, and take it alone, too? Isn't it possible to obtain some trustworthy detective to keep watch in the street, and let me go into the place with you? Don't you see, old chap, that two of us might make a reasonable show if violence is attempted? One man hasn't much chance."

The barrister cut short his friend's protestations.

"I sent for you, Lord Fairholme," he said, "because I felt that I could trust you to obey my instructions implicitly. If my visit fails, there will certainly be some shooting or stabbing, or perhaps an attempt may be made to keep me a prisoner. This latter eventuality renders the presence of the police essential. No matter what has happened to me they will, with your assistance, be able to take up the inquiry exactly where I leave off. In this notebook here, which I am placing in a locked drawer"—and he suited his action to the words—"you will find details of all that I have done up to the present moment, together with the lines along which future inquiries should proceed. In particular, you will find an elaboration of the theory which I expect tomorrow's visit to confirm. You fully understand me? All this anticipates that after 11.30 to-morrow I shall be personally able to conduct the investigation further."

"But can't you explain matters a little more clearly? Is it necessary that I should be kept in the dark as to the circumstances which have led up to this critical movement to-morrow?"

"Not in the least. It is, indeed, very important that you should comprehend all that has gone before; I only started at the end, so to speak, so as to fix accurately in your mind your part of the business, which now stands separate and distinctly outlined in your memory. What I am going to tell you simply leads up to the expected denouement."

He then recited to the wondering earl the whole of the curious events which had happened during the preceding twenty-four hours.

It was late when they got to bed, but they rested well, and, after the manner of their race, fortified themselves with a good breakfast against the trials of the day, whatever these might prove to be. A few minutes before the appointed hour they quitted a fiacre in the vicinity of the Rue Barbette, and at eleven o'clock Brett passed the concierge, whilst Fairholme took up his stand outside.

The barrister was received with smiling complacence by Hussein-ul-Mulk. On this occasion he was conducted to another room of the flat, and he promptly noted that the windows looked out to the rear of the building, whereas his previous visit he could survey the street.

"This promises badly," said Brett to himself, but he betrayed not the slightest unwillingness to fall in with the arrangements made for his reception, and lounged back in a comfortable chair so easily that not even the quick-witted Turk suspected that the barrister's hip pocket contained a very serviceable revolver.

Hussein-ul-Muck commenced the conversation. "I have," he said, "a couple of friends here who are interested in the matter you were good enough to mention to me yesterday. With your permission I will introduce them," and he threw open another door with a single Turkish word which Brett imagined was an invitation to enter.

Two men came from an adjoining room. They were Turks—swarthy, evil-looking customers, but well dressed, and evidently persons of consequence in their own country. The new-comers eyed the barrister curiously, and with no very friendly intent.

A brief conversation in Turkish resulted in Hussein-ul-Muck addressing Brett.

"I must apologize for the fact that my friends here only speak their own native tongue. Before we proseed to business I wish to ask you a few questions."

"Certainly," said Brett; "go ahead."

"You mentioned to me yesterday that you had no desire to involke the aid of the police in prosecuting the inquiry which interests you."

"Quite right," said Brett.

"May I ask if you have adhered to that intention?"

"Absolutely."

"Well, Mr.—Mr."—Hussein-ul-Mulk consulted a visiting card—"Mr. Reginald Brett, I think is your name? It would be idle on my part to compliment you on your bravery, but it would be still more futile to attempt to conceal from you the danger of the position in which you now stand."

"Sit," corrected Brett, still smiling.

"Well," said the Turk, "we will not quibble about words. The fact remains, Mr. Brett, that you have needlessly thrust yourself into an enterprise of such a desperate character that all interlopers can be dealt with only in one way."

"You kill them," said Brett airily.

"Yes," said the Turk, "I deeply regret to inform you that you have guessed the object of my remarks with the singular skill you have already betrayed in reaching the existing position. I can only add that I am surprised that the same skill did not influence you to avoid forcing upon us the only alternative left."

"Am I to be killed at once?" said Brett, speaking with a slight affectation of boredom.

(To be continued.)

THE RIDERS.

Ephesians 6: 10-16.

When deep in the mire
They turned to enquire
If others before them had gone:
Then quickly replied
The voice of their guide
"The rock is beneath you; ride on."

The surface of peat
Might tell of defeat,
While way of escape there seemed none:
But well the guide knew
That hidden from view
Was "rock" with its call to "ride on."

The day may require
That we in the mire
Our bearings may cautiously con:
But we will not swerve
While He whom we serve
Instructs us to bravely "ride on."

Though dangers abound
A path will be found
For those who the armor will don:
The traffic at length
Shall fall by His strength
Who bids us right bravely "ride on."

The tempted shall be
From liquor set free,
And life shall be sweet to each one:
Our Leader is near
His voice we may hear:
He bids us in triumph "ride on."

T. WATSON.

Iona Station, Ont., 1911.

Too many people mistake merited punishment for persecution.

ARMORED TRAINS IN RUSSIA.

Run Between St. Petersburg and Principal Towns.

As bandits hold up trains and carry off large sums of money almost daily, the Russian Government has decided to construct armored carriages for the use of the State Bank. They will run regularly between St. Petersburg and Russia's principal towns, writes a St. Petersburg correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette.

They are to be of iron and will contain accommodation for a strong convoy of soldiers. Each wagon will be so planned that the guard can fire from it as from a fort. Each train will be under the command of an officer, who is to have full powers to open fire on all suspicious persons approaching the train.

The authorities have come to the conclusion that this is the only means of putting a stop to the prevailing lawlessness on Russian railway tracks. As the ordinary postal trains can only carry a small convoy the raiders have things all their own way and have grown so daring that they now hold up trains in broad daylight and quietly bury their booty in a neighboring forest while the panic-stircken passengers wait for them to set the engine driver free.

In future only mails and small sums of money will be sent by ordinary trains. Private banks will be able to hire accommodation in the armored trains. They will begin to run in a couple of months time.

THE TEA PENALTY.

A Strong Man's Experience.

Writing from a busy railroad town the wife of an employe of one of the great roads says:

"My husband is a railroad man who has been so much benefited by the use of Postum that he wishes me to express his thanks to you for the good it has done him. His waking hours are taken up with his work, and he has no time to write himself.

"He has been a great tea drinker all his life and has always liked it strong.

"Tea has, of late years, acted on him like morphine does upon most people. At first it soothed him, but only for an hour or so, then it began to affect his nerves to such an extent that he could not sleep at night, and he would go to his work in the morning wretched and miserable from the loss of rest. This condition grew constantly worse, until his friends persuaded him, some four months ago, to quit tea and use Postum.

"At first he used Postum only for breakfast, but as he liked the taste of it, and it somehow seemed to do him good, he added it to his evening meal. Then, as he grew better, he began to drink it for his noon meal, and now he will drink nothing else at table.

"His condition is so wonderfully improved that he could not be hired to give up Postum and go back to tea. His nerves have become steady and reliable once more, and his sleep is easy, natural and refreshing.

"He owes all this to Postum, for he has taken no medicine and made no other change in his diet.

"His brother, who was very nervous from coffee-drinking, was persuaded by us to give up the coffee and use Postum, and he, also, has recovered his health and strength." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

—conservative investors wanted

As a rule our clients get the benefit of all the "certainties" we control. To-day we are making use of "An Absolute Certainty" for the purpose of extending our clientele. Here's the proposition in a nutshell—

—a 7% profit-sharing preference stock on which dividends are paid twice a year—a stock issued by a concern with a record of 25 years' successful and progressive business experience—a concern at present controlling Natural Resources which are bound to double the value of its securities before long.

We guarantee 7% on this investment. We are practically certain that this stock will pay higher profits. It's the best industrial stock, at par, on the market.

Furthermore, we guarantee to buy it back at par, plus 7%, in one year from date of investment, if desired. Write at once to,

NATIONAL SECURITIES CORPORATION, LIMITED

Confederation Life Bldg., TORONTO 303 Board of Trade Bldg., MONTREAL

QUALITY IN SUGARS

All Sugars do not look alike, if placed alongside each other. Every Grocer knows this. We want the Consumer to know it. Insist on having

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR

You will not only have a good Sugar, but the best on the market. The clear white color proves the superiority of "Redpath" Sugar.

When buying Loaf sugar ask for REDPATH PARIS LUMPS in RED SEAL dust proof cartons, and by the pound.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited
MONTREAL, CANADA.

Established in 1854 by John Redpath

A Warm Bathroom

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Every mother should be careful that the children take their baths in a warm room. The chill of a cold room is dangerous after coming out of the hot water.

A Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater brings bathroom or bedroom to just the degree of warmth you want in five or ten minutes. All you have to do is to touch a match.

The Perfection Heater burns nine hours on one filling and is always ready for use. You can move it anywhere it is needed. There is no waste of fuel and heat warming unoccupied rooms. Just the heat you want, when and where you want it.

The Perfection is fitted with an automatic-locking flame spreader that prevents the wick being turned high enough to smoke and is easy to remove and drop back when cleaning.

Drums finished either in turquoise-blue enamel or plain steel; light and ornamental, yet strong and durable—suitable for any room in any house.

Dealers everywhere; or write to any agency of

The Queen City Oil Company, Limited

DIRECT FROM FACTORY TO KITCHEN

SAVE OVER $25 WHEN BUYING YOUR RANGE THIS FALL.

$41.00 TO $49.00 AND WE PAY THE FREIGHT

You Can Buy "DOMINION PRIDE" RANGE At Factory Price

Direct From The Largest Malleable Range Works in Canada

IF you want to save from $25 to $30, and at the same time get the most satisfactory kitchen range made, write for our Catalogue and look into the merits of the "DOMINION PRIDE," at from $41 to $49.

If we sold you identically the same range in the usual way, through a dealer, you would have to pay from $69 to $78 for it. You would be paying two extra profits—to wholesaler and retailer—which would add $25 to $30 to the cost of your range, but absolutely nothing to its value.

"The Evolution of the Cook Stove"

TELLS about cooking from the time the Cave Dwellers dropped hotstones into the pot to boil it. It also tells all about "Dominion Pride" Ranges. Whether you need a Range just now or not you will enjoy reading this book.

Write for Free Copy.

Besides costing much less than other ranges in its class, the "DOMINION PRIDE" is much more satisfactory. It is made of tough, strong, malleable iron and the best blue polished steel—materials which will not warp, crack or break.

The polished steel does not need blacking—simply rub it over with a cloth. With its cold rolled steel plate oven—sectional iron fire-box lining, with air chambers—and double-walled flues lined with asbestos—the "DOMINION PRIDE" is the most economical range you can buy. Actual tests have proved that it saves over 30% of fuel, burning either wood or coal.

WE PAY THE FREIGHT

A "DOMINION PRIDE" Range, with high closet shelf and elevated tank or flush reservoir, with zinc sheet to go under range, 8 sections blue polished steel pipe and two elbows, will be delivered to any station in Ontario, Quebec or the Maritime Provinces for $41, or to any station in the four Western Provinces for $49—$5 to be sent with order and balance to be paid when the Range is delivered at your station. If not convenient to pay cash we will arrange to accept your note.

Canada Malleable & Steel Range Mfg. Co., Limited, Oshawa, Ont.

When writing it will be a distinct favor to us if you will mention this paper. 7

Hints for Busy Housekeepers.

Recipes and Other Valuable Information of Particular Interest to Women Folks.

CHRISTMAS RECIPES.

Grapes for Christmas.—Take a large pumpkin and cut off a round piece of the top. Take out the seeds and then fill the pumpkin with large bunches of sound grapes. When filled place top back, tie carefully, and the top will seem to grow in place. Place in a cool dry place until the holidays, when you will find the grapes most delicious and sound. The pumpkin can be used as a center piece for the table filled with fruit. This is worth trying, and I can vouch for it being a very satisfactory way of keeping grapes for Christmas.—C.

Christmas Fruit Cake—Christmas fruit cake and pudding should be made now, as both improve with time, and eggs are reasonable in price to what they will be later in the season. Appended are the recipes. There are none better. One pound of flour, one pound sugar, one and one-eighth pounds of butter, one-half round candied citron, four pounds currants, four pounds raisins (stoned and chopped), nine eggs, one tablespoonful each of mace, nutmeg,, cinnamon, cloves and three gills of brandy. Beat sugar and butter to a cream, add eggs, well beaten; flour and spices well sifted together, and last the fruit, well dredged in flour. This amount will make two cakes or one large one. Can be baked in a low earthen crock lined with oil paper. For half the quantity it will take three hours in moderate oven. It will keep for years and improve with time. Wrap in oiled paper and keep in airtight box

Plum Pudding.—One pound of butter, one pound of suet freed from strings and chopped fine, one pound of sugar, two and one-half pounds of flour, two pounds of currants picked over carefully after they are washed, two pounds of raisins seeded, chopped, and dredged with flour, one-quarter of a pound of citron shredded fine, twelve eggs, white and yolks beaten separately, one pint of milk, one cup of brandy, one ounce of cloves, one-half ounce of mace, two grated nutmegs. Cream butter and sugar, beat in the yolks when you have whipped them smooth and light; next put in the milk, then the flour alternately with the beaten whites; then the brandy and spices; lastly the fruit, well dredged with flour. Mix all thoroughly, wring out your pudding cloth in hot water, flour well inside, pour in the mixture and boil five hours.

Steamed Christmas Pudding. — For the best recipe in a competition open to the world Queen Victoria gave the prize of two guineas to this recipe: One pound of seeded raisins, three-fourths of a pound of stale bread crumbs, one-fourth pound of flour, same of brown sugar, one pound of currants, one-half pound of minced candied orange peel, one pound of chopped suet, a scant teaspoonful of salt, five eggs, one-half a tumblerful of coffee or brandy, one-half nutmeg, and the grated peel of a lemon. Mix flour, fruit, and spices well, add crumbs and suet, beat the eggs, add to them the coffee or brandy, pour over the dry ingredients, and mix well. Pack into small greased molds and steam eight hours at the time of making and two hours when wanted for use. Better results are obtained by steaming than by boiling—it is more tender and better in every way. The water must be kept boiling steadfly, adding to it occasionally. This can be made weeks before Christmas and will keep indefinitely. Serve with any preferred sauce, though German sauce or currant jelly sauce are favorites.

TESTED RECIPES.

Plum Pudding.—One and a half pounds soda crackers, buttered and soaked in sweet milk over night. Mash fine, add four beaten eggs, one and one-half pounds seeded raisins, a cupful of good molasses, one-half teaspoonful ground cinnamon, half a nutmeg grated, one-eighth teaspoonful of ground cloves. The mixture must be as thick as pancake batter. Put a layer of the batter in the bottom of a baking dish, then a layer of raisins sprinkled with flour, and continue until all material is used, with a layer of batter on the top. Bake two and a half or three hours in a rather slow oven and serve either hot or cold. Sauce for the same is made as follows: One cupful of butter, two cupfuls of sugar beaten till light, then add four tablespoonfuls of thick, sweet cream. Flavor with vanilla. This is delicious for Christmas and is a tested recipe.

Beef Loaf.—Beef Loaf with Tomato-Celery Sauce—Three pounds of beef from lower round and a piece of suet the size of a lemon ground twice; two small onions choppel fine, two tablespoonfuls of parsley chopped fine, three-fourths cupful of milk, three eggs, eight soda crackers rolled into fine crumbs, one tablespoonful salt, cayenne to taste. Mix all the ingredients well together and pack firmly into a greased square bread tin. Turn upside down into a greased baking or roasting pan and bake in moderately quick oven one hour. By leaving it in a square tin the loaf retains all its moisture and has no crust. When done put away until cold and then cut in thin slices and serve with tomato-celery sauce. For the sauce take twelve large ripe tomatoes, four ripe or green peppers, two onions, three large heads of celery, two tablespoons of salt, two tablespoons of sugar, and three cupfuls of vinegar. Peel the tomatoes and onions and chop very fine. Add the other ingredients and boil one and one-half hours. If you like it hotter, add cayenne or hot pepper to taste. Put sauce away in well sealed bottles.

ORIGINAL RECIPES.

Pickled Figs.—For every pound of pulled figs allow three-fourths pound sugar and one cupful of water to each pound of sugar; boil five minutes and skim. Drop in figs and let simmer until fork will penetrate them, being careful that they are not too soft. Put in jars with a few cloves, bits of cinnamon, and very little mace. Cover well with syrup. Do not close jars for three mornings. Each day pour off syrup without removing figs; reheat to boiling point and pour over figs. On the third morning measure syrup and allow one cupful of vinegar to three cupful of syrup. Boil and pour over figs; seal while hot.

Spaghetti, Bacon and Tomatoes.—One 5 cent package of spaghetti, five slices of bacon, cut into small squares and fried crisp; one-half can of tomatoes. Empty spaghetti into two quarts of rapidly boiling salted water, add a half teaspoonful of pepper (red or black) and boil hard for twenty or thirty minutes; stir frequently to prevent scorching; drain spaghetti in a colander and rinse thoroughly in cold running water. Now add to bacon and tomatoes, season to taste, and boil thirty minutes. This will serve six persons. It is just as palatable when reheated.

Delicious Salad.—One-half head of cabbage, finely shredded. One cup of celery cut in half inch pieces. Two medium sized apples cut in small squares. Juice of half a lemon and a teaspoonful of sugar. Mix with the following dressing, while dressing is hot. Dressing — To one cup of vinegar add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of dry mustard, a generous pinch of salt, and a sprinkling of pepper. Put over to boil. Cream four tablespoonfuls of flour, add to the boiling vinegar, stirring constantly to prevent lumping, cook five minutes, and as soon as taken from the fire add two eggs well beaten. This amount will suffice for one pint of salad. Serve salad cold on a nasturtium leaf, garnished with two nasturtiums.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Onion skins should be boiled in soup, as they make the liquor a nice color.

Sweet orange peel, if dried and powdered, makes an excellent flavoring for cakes and puddings.

When stewing prunes add a handful of stoned raisins to every pound of prunes. This is a great improvement on the ordinary method.

Delicate cretonnes may be washed in a lather made of Castile soap and warm water. This soap contains nothing which will injure the colors.

Badly stained lamp chimneys may be cleaned by rubbing with methylated spirit. It the stain be very obstinate, add a little whiting.

Boots that have become hard from wearing in snow or wet weather can be softened by being rubbed with mutton fat.

To keep carpets fresh looking, wipe them over once a month with a cloth wrung out in ammonia and water. This must be done after sweeping.

After washing a teapot dry thoroughly and leave the lid off so that air may enter. Remember it is impossible to dry the spout, and if you close the pot tightly it will very likely smell musty.

To keep lemons hang them up separately, so that they do not come into contact with anything. This prevents the juice remaining in one place, which is certain to decay the fruit.

A hair-ribbon should never be ironed. Make a warm lather, wash the hair-ribbon and rinse it in warm water, then wind it round a glass bottle. When dry it will look as good as new.

When ironing, place a newspaper between the sheets of the ironing-cloth. This will prevent the article being ironed from curling up, as is very often the case if the newspaper is not employed.

To Dry-Clean Lace Collars. — Mix white flour and bran together and gently rub this mixture with a clean piece of flannel into the collar, which should be stretched out on a hard surface. Beat out the mixture with a stick. If necessary repeat the process.

For Cooking Vegetables.—All vegetables except potatoes should be put into boiling water. All except peas and beans should be boiled with salt—boil peas with sugar; beans with fat. Roots should be boiled slowly with the lid of the saucepan on. Boil green vegetables quickly with the lid off.

MISTAKES ABOUT SHARKS

EVIL REPUTATION ATTACHES TO THE WHOLE TRIBE.

Their Voracity and Digestion—Fights to Death in the Sea.

Sharks are both cowardly and cruel but it is difficult to study their ways from the deck of a ship, as they move slowly in a refractive medium such as water some twenty or thirty feet below the observer,. Hence the many erroneous deductions of seamen with respect to these unsociable denizens of the deep which appear to justify not only the statement of Le Conte that the evidence of the senses if often unreliable but also the jocular opinion of a novelist that "no story with a shark incidentally, thrown in can fail to be interesting."

Yet the shark belongs to a type which has survived the flight of time, while other more attractive species have ceased to exist. The early voyagers were wont to attribute supernatural prescience to the shark.

Often during light winds one of these sea scavengers will follow a slow sailing ship for several successive days and nights, and it was erroneously assumed that he does so because aware in some myterious way of an impending death on board which will insure for him a sumptuous repast

Heredity has similarly been put forward as an explanation of this tendency for a solitary shark to keep company with a ship, writes W. Allingham in Chambers's Magazine, although the experience of countless generations has not sufficed to impress upon him that awaits any shark who dares seize a bait that trails attractively from a ship's stern and encloses a stout hook that will not be denied. Natural history notes by illiterate seamen on imperfectly appreciated data are worse than useless, for they are misleading

DEATH BY TORTURE

Many a shark is preceded by a few shimmering companions known as pilot fish beause they are supposed to warn the shark of danger ahead, but they never prevent this hostis humani generis from swallowing the tempting morsel and its cunningly concealed hook. These irridescent pilot fish move hither and thither in close proximity to the shark's cruel mouth, and some assert that they occasonally take refuge therein should danger threaten.

Inasmuch as the shark's mouth is inconveniently placed behind his snout and underneath his body this can only be discerned from above when he turns on his back and despite travellers' tales to the contrary it is simply unbelieveable that either pilot fish or young sharks seek safety within the cavernous jaws of a mature shark, for he would never permit egress to any bonne bouche so easily obtainable.

A SHARK'S VORACITY

is not less marvellous than his digestion. Whether he be a man eater by choice (as seems the more probable) or by the compulsion of hunger (as is occasionally asserted) the fact remains that any one who happens to fall overboard in the vicinity of a shark is likely to be snapped up by the latter without ceremony. It is the evil reputation attaching to the whole shark tribe as regards indifference whence comes a meal that renders them so abhorrent of seafarers.

Old sailors never weary of enlarging upon the voracity and the digestion of sharks When in the China Seas, as related by the late Capt. Basil Hall, a large shark was caught by H. M. S. Alceste which was found to contain, among other things, a buffalo hide that had been thrown overboard the preceding day.

One of the sailors explained this in a way which seemed irresistibly logical in the opinion of his shipmates "There, my lads," said Jack, "what d'ye think if that? He swallowed the whole buffalo right enough, but he couldn't digest the hide." As a matter of fact the carcass of the buffalo, unknown to these amateur makers of history, was still on board the Alceste.

There are not wanting writers who would have us believe that men lose their lives owing to panic when in the presence of a shark in his native element, but probably the result is equally against the man did he have all his wits about him. Nevertheless circumstantial accounts are in evidence of instances where the shark has been defeated by the man.

At Jamaica a huge shark is said to have been a terror to frequenters of the harbor he affected. Once he overturned a boat carrying provisions to the shipping and devoured the wife of the boatman. The maddened widower reached the nearest ship.

SEIZED A SHARP KNIFE.

invoked the aid of his patron saint, leaped into the water, gave battle to the shark despite the awful odds and succeeded in avenging his wife by slaying her destroyer. At Barbados similarly, if we may accept the report as authentic, a seaman fought with and killed a shark that had eaten a shipmate.

Young Maoris, male and female, were once proficient in the slaying of sharks in open water. They would swim into the surf armed with a knife, dive under the nearest shark, rip open their enemy and return to the shore. During the last decade it is said the sailmaker of the American warship Alliance, then at anchor at St. Thomas, West Indies, leaped overboard and killed with a knife a huge shark which was gaining upon some of the vessel's crew who had disobeyed orders by venturing on a swim A dog which was with them was seized by the shark, but the latter did not get beyond this hors d'oeuvre.

A single female shark is quite capable of stocking a modern aquarium with young of considerable size at one birth, and were it not for the want of something to eat and the liability to be eaten, certain parts of the ocean must teem with such voracious and fecund visitors In July, 1910, on the passage from Australia to New Zealand, the crew of a sailing vessel caught a shark containing 44 young, and in 1906 a nine foot long specimen captured on the Australian coast had 27 young almost mature.

Records of catches set forth in ships logbooks show that the number of young sharks produced at one birth vary from 83 to 2. With this minimum total a doubt is pardonable, because parturition may have been nearly completed just prior to the shark's capture.

STRANGE PLAN OF SUICIDE.

Gave Instructions to Kill Poachers and Then Ran Into Danger.

Suicides often adopt ingenious methods, but the art of the felo de se seems not to have advanced materially during the centuries. The modern case of a heavily insured broker who on a feigned hunting trip stoop bare-legged in a quagmire for hours and so wilfully contracted a fatal pneumonia, is matched in cleverness by one five hundred years old. The following facts are well vouched for, and, indeed, were never questioned:

Sir William Hankford, a judge of the King's Bench in the reign of Edward III., Henry IV., Henry V. and Henry VI., and at the time of his death Chief Justice of England, was a man of melancholy temperament. He seems to have contemplated suicide the greater part of his long life, and during his later years the idea became a fixed purpose. The act was of peculiarly serious consequence in those days, for the reason the law treated it as a capital crime. The offender was buried at the cross roads, with a stake driven through his body, and all his goods and property were forfeited to the Crown, to the utter ruin of his family.

Hankford made good use of his wits and succeeded in accomplishing his purpose without incurring either unpleasant penalty. He gave open and notorious instructions to his gamekeeper, who had been troubled with poachers in the deer preserve, to challenge all trespassers in the future, and to shoot to kill if they would not stand and give an account. One dark night he purposely crossed the keeper's path, and upon challenge made motions of resistence and escape. The faithful servant, failing to recognize his master, followed instructions to the letter as was expected of him, and Sir William fell dead in his tracks.

The whole truth of the affair was common knowledge, but it was impossible to establish a case of suicide by legal proof. The servant was protected by his instructions. Hankford had honorable boy does not get his "new job." burial and his estate passed to those whose interests as heirs he had so wisely considered.

SWISS CITIES OWN FORESTS.

In Switzerland many of the best forests are owned by the cities. The city of Zurich has a highly developed forest that has been protected since 1630. It now returns a net profit of $12 an acre and supports the city, no taxes being necessary.

A soft answer may turn away wrath, but sometimes it comes hard.

Don't take advantage of the other fellow by betting on a sure thing. Besides, you are apt to lose.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

INTERNATIONAL LESSON, NOVEMBER 12.

Lesson VII.—Belshazzar's feast and fate, Dan. 5. (Temperance Sunday) Golden Text, Eccl. 12. 14.

Verse 1. A great feast to a thousand—Everything about the banquet suggests Oriental magnificence. The palace in which it took place, with its immense halls, its columns, its tapestried walls, and its statues, was one of the wonders of the world. Before his princes and the rest Belshazzar (known by the Babylonian inscription as "the Crown Prince"), seated on a raised dais at the end of the banquet chamber, and facing the guests at a separate table, drank wine. This was the customary manner of concluding a feast, wine flowing freely, and everyone becoming intoxicated in the spirit of wild revel. The unusual feature was the presence of the king, inasmuch as he ordinarily banqueted in solitary state in his own private chamber, none being present but the queen and attendants.

2. Tasted the wine—Gradually came under its powerful influence.

Commanded to bring the . . . . vessels—See on Dan. 1. 2, Word Studies for September 10. The act was one of wild and irreverent folly. The well-known example and decrees of Nebuchadnezzar ought to have been a warning. Assuming that the feast was in honor of some Babylonian deity, there could hardly be conceived a more impious insult to Jehovah than this public profanation of the sacred vessels which had been seized in the holy temple.

His father—We know that Belshazzar was the son of Nabunaid. But by marriage Nebuchadnezzar may have been his father-in-law, or his grandfather. In either of these cases the word father, according to Hebrew usage, would be permissible.

Wives . . . concubines—The presence of women was not in keeping with ancient custom. In the Septuagint these words are omitted, as if there were an inexplicable impropriety here. But there was nothing too rude or shocking in this feast.

3, 4. Drank in them—It was natural that lips which wantonly praised their heathen idols of every description, from gold to stone should also defile the holiest things with embruting wine.

5. And the king saw—It was peculiarly fitting that retribution should descend upon this heedless, riotous company in the same hour with their bestial revel. But as a sort of prelude of warning, seen at first only by the king, there appeared over against the golden chandelier, and therefore on a part of the wall conspicuously bright, the fingers of a man's hand. As the wall was either painted white, or consisted of slabs of alabaster, this would render the moving hand still more visible.

6. The king's countenance was changed—The color of youth and the flush of wine gave way to the pallor of fear. His conscience troubled him deeply, so that he lost control of himself and fell into violent trembling. The events of Nebuchadnezzar's reign were too recent for him to be ignorant of the awful power of the God whom he had trifled with.

7. Cried aloud—Not merely a forceful command, but a shrieking cry, filled with alarm. For note on Chaldeans, consult Word Studies for September 10. The whole troop of Babylonian soothsayers and astrologers, in the book of Daniel, prove themselves an inane and worthless class. But the king's recourse to them was all that was left to him in his utter godlessness. He had joined in the praise of graven images, but now he knows they can do nothing for him, and he turns to the equally impotent magi.

Clothed with purple—A sign of royalty. The chain of gold reminds us of the honor done Joseph (Gen. 41. 42). A golden necklace was sometimes given as a compliment, and was worn as a token of rank. The expression, third ruler in the kingdom, is difficult, but seems to refer to some such honor as that later enjoyed by Daniel (Dan. 6). The suggestion has been made that Nabunaid, being first ruler, and Belshazzar second, he was making room for one who with them should form a sort of triumvirate. However, the promise was empty if we accept the tehory that Cyrus had already taken the city and Belshazzar was simply holding out in the royal palace.

8. They could not read the writing—In every instance in which they are pictured in the Old Testament they ignominously fail. Their inability now fills with alarm not only the king but his lords as well (9).

10. The queen—The queen mother, who had not given her countenance to the fiendish revel. She was a woman of high rank. Many regard her as the widow of Nebuchadnezzar, as the language of verse 11 may imply.

13. Then was Daniel brought in—It seems strange that his excellent spirit, or surpassing ability (12), had been overlooked. But this was generally the case until the critical moment arrived. There is nothing Orientals esteem more highly than riddles, unless it is the man who can solve them.

17. Let thy gifts be to thyself—Compare 2 Kings 5. 16. When he has thus cleared himself of any obligation to the king he has paved the way for his fearless denunciation of the king's conduct.

18-24.—David prefaces his interpretation with a daring reference to the affliction which came upon Nebuchadnezzar for his presumption, and an arraignment of the present king for his impiety, brutishness, disobedience, and irreverence. The blackness of Belshazzar's guilt is intensified by the light in which he had sinned—thou knowest all this (22).

25. Mene, Mene, Tekel, Upharsin—Much thought has been expended in an effort to decipher these words. The theory of a Frenchman, named Clermont-Ganneau, that we have here the names of three weights, a mina, a shekel, and two peras (or a half-mina), has met with most favor. Just why Belshazzar and the magi experienced any difficulty in reading these words on the wall cannot be determined, but it seems to have been because of some peculiarity in their arrangement. The mystery of their interpretation is another matter. But the key appears to be found in rendering each word twice; thus, the first word means both "counted" or "numbered," and "handed over"; the second means "weighed" and "thou art light", while the third means "fragments," and "the Persias" or "Media and Persia." From this key it is easy to obtain the interpretation of the thing (26-28).

29. Clothed Daniel with purple—In accord with the promise made him. In view of the near approach of the army of Cyrus, the coolness with which Belshazzar gives this command is inexplicable.

VALUE OF SILENCE.

Too Much Talking as the Cause of Failures.

Many of the failures in business and professional as well as social life are due to injudicious talking. A young man of apparently very moderate ability has recently astonished his fellow workers by his noticeable success in business. "Pure luck" it has been called, but a policy or natural habit of silence is the real cause, says the Youth's Companion.

In his first position he succeeded a man of long experience and excellent judgment, a circumstance that made his youth and inexperience conspicuous by contrast. He made no apologies and asked little advice. He was courteous to his superiors, considerate of his business inferiors, but absolutely deaf to all the gossip and irresponsible talk so prevalent in every large business office.

He had held his position for a year; gossip had it that he had failed, for in that time he had not suggested a single innovation or enlarged his department in any way. But soon it became known that he had proposed a change that would result in an annual saving of $2,000. Gradually his step became firmer, his manner more assured, and he no longer outstayed the janitor at night. Slowly but surely he gained the confidence of the general manager and the heads of other departments, and it soon became their habit to come to him for advice. At the end of five years, when his former associates were wondering if they could afford to get married, he was admitted to membership in the firm.

In every establishment where a number of persons is employed there is always an undercurrent of gossip. A dissatisfied stenographer talks her troubles over with a bookkeeper. The bookkeeper confides to the telephone operator that he expects to get an increase in salary. The elevator boy explains that he is going to leave soon for a better job. These bits of news are exchanged until they become common property.

The employer, learning that the stenographer is dissatified, tells her that she may leave at her pleasure. The bookkeeper fails to get his increase in salary and the elevator Especially if you are dissatified should you refrain from discussing your position.

A man doesn't always get what is coming to him when the postman calls.

If you think the world isn't growing better, perhaps you're partly to blame.

Little Nelly told little Anita what she termed a "little fib," Anita—A fib is the same as a story, and a story is the same as a lie. Nelly—No, it's not. Anita—Yes, it is, because my father said so, and my father is a professor at the university. Nelly—I don't care if he is. My father is a real estate man and he knows more about lying than your father does.

Exeter Advocate,
Sanderr & Creech Props.
THURSDAY, NOV. 9, '11

CREDITON.

A number of our people were in London this week attending the Western Ontario Men's Missionary Convention, which was held in Wesley Hall. They report having spent a very profitable time —Valentine Ratz, senator, of New Hamburg, was in the village a few days last week on business.—Rev. Burn has commenced a series of sermons taken from the Lord's Prayer. They are very instructive and large audiences are always present to hear him preach.—The choir of the Methodist church took charge of the Anniversary services in Ebenezer last Sunday. In the evening Mr. Thos. E. Handford of Exeter occupied the pulpit in the church here. —Parsons & Davis of Centralia have purchased a large number of fowl in this neighborhood and are having them plucked in the building used by the printer. Wm. H. Wenzel is foreman and has a number of busy men under him—Colin Carmichael, who has been on the ledger in the bank here, has been transferred to Dresden. His place has been filled by Mr. Carey of Goderich. Colin left many friends here, who wish him every success.—Word was received here during the past week of the serious illness of Wesley Kerr of Winchelsea. Mr. Kerr is a Crediton boy and his many friends trust there is some hope of his recovery.—Mrs. Otto Braun leaves for her home in Sebewaing, Mich., on Thursday after a brief visit here at the home of her mother Mrs. Gottlieb Horlock.—Mr. Harry Trick of Chatham is spending a few days at home visiting his parents.—We are pleased to learn that the operation Mrs. Telfer (nee Ewald) went through in the London hospital for appendicitis, has proved successful and she is now rapidly recovering.—A number of our men who went to Croswell, Mich., to work in the sugar-beet factory, have returned home as laborers were to plentiful.—Ernest Guettinger and William Brown are working in Pt. Edward for a few weeks.—Sam Kuhn sold his house and lot in Crediton to Jas. Cockwill at the auction sale last Friday for $600.00.—Mr. Chris Eiber of Zurich spent last Sunday in town the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wenzel.

The following is the report of S. S. No. 13 Hay. Sr. III.—C. Hooper, Willie Hooper. Jr. III—N. MacDonald, A. Pfaff, E. Carrick, N. Carrick. Jr II—M. French Sr. Pt. II E. Pfaff, J. Stacey, George Smith. Jr. pt. II F. Smith, J. French, H. Green, Pt. I. R. French, L. Smith.
E. M. Hill, Teacher.

School Report of S. S. No. 1, Usborne V. class—Willie Strang, Sr. IV—E. Harvey, W. Dougal, O. Rowecliffe, John Dougal, Elgin Rowecliffe, M. Strang, C. Harris, M. Dew, H. Neil, F. Jarrott. Jr. IV—K. Sanders, V. Bell, Flossy Neal Lily Selves, R. Dick. Jr. III—C. Moir, I. Mitchell, M. Dougal, C. Neal, L. Neal, L. Oke, A. Dick, R. Moir, E. Cann. Sr. Pt. II—A. Strang. Jr. Pt. II—T. Dougal, W. Selves, E. Mitchell, P. Harris. Sr. Pt. I—G. Dew, M. Selves, H. Wood. Jr. Pt. I—E. Cudmore, A. Moir, James Oke. Average attendance, 31.
W. B. Rydall, Teacher.

A SURPRISE IN STORE.

Several subscribers to "The Family Herald and Weekly Star" in this district have received their copy of the beautiful premium picture entitled "Home Again" A copy has also reached this office. It certainly surpasses any picture ever given by that great paper before. How such a beautiful work of art, all ready for framing, can be included with such a great family paper for the small sum of one dollar a year is a mystery. "The Family Herald and Weekly Star" should add thousands of new subscribers this season. They will deserve it, for no such value has ever before been given. There is a big surprise in store for those who receive the picture "Home Again."

Westervelt School
Y. M. C. A. BLDG.,
LONDON, ONT.
BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time.
Catalogue Free.
Forest City Business and Shorthand College
J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal.
J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal.

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone
CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE
GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL
Miss B. F. Ward

SIR JAMES WHITNEY TO THE ELECTORS

What the Government Has Done Since Entrusted to Power

A MINISTER OF POWER

The Hydro-Electric Commission to Be Superseded by a New Cabinet Minister

Sir James Whitney, Prime Minister of Ontario, in announcing that the date of the elections would be December 11th, issued the following statement to the Electors of the Province:

Gentlemen: Nearly seven years have elapsed since you entrusted the government of the province to my colleagues and myself, and in June, 1908, you signified, by an overwhelming majority, your approval of the record we had made up to that time.

Shortly stated, we had, in a little more than three years:

Abolished the numbered ballot.

Taken the first step towards the creation of agricultural schools by appointing district representatives in agriculture, and largely increased the expenditure for agricultural purposes.

Reconstructed the administration and financial resources of the provincial university.

Revised the mining laws and taken a cabinet minister from New Ontario.

Restored the old law relating to county councils.

Imposed taxation upon the railways, one-half of which goes to the municipalities.

Put an end to the granting of subsidies to railways.

Created a railway and municipal board.

Reduced the price of school books by one-half and destroyed the school book ring.

Revised the public school system, created a consultative council, to which the teachers elect representatives, and provided for large grants in aid of payment of teachers' salaries.

Honestly and successfully enforced the Liquor License Law.

Extended the government railway.

Brought the Hydro-Electric scheme forward and in sight of copmletion.

Increased the expenditure for the construction of colonization roads and encouraged the development of New Ontario.

Put the provincial finances on a sound and stable footing, doubled the provincial revenue, and put upon the statute book a large amount of important and constructive legislation.

Education and Agriculture

Since then we have gone on endeavoring to discharge our duties with an eye solely to the best interests of the people, and, among the results of our policy and our administration of the finances of the province are the following:

The amount payable towards the salaries of teachers in public schools has been increased until this year such aid will amount to about $475,000.

We have devised a system for industrial training in the urban schools liberally aided by money grants.

A course in agriculture for public school teachers has been established in the Agricultural College at Guelph.

The amount to be paid to the University of Toronto this year will reach to about the sum of $488,000.

The amount appropriated this year for the construction of colonization roads is $582,000.

The amount of revenue collected by each department of the government has largely increased.

Great success has attended the work done by district representatives in agriculture attached to a number of our collegiate institutes and high schools. In several instances municipal councils have increased their remuneration and there is a general demand for them from all sections of the province.

The commissioner appointed to collect information regarding legislation affecting the compensation for injuries to workmen and to report a bill in that behalf has made good progress with the very important matter he has in charge.

The erection of the new Central Prison buildings at Guelph has been commenced. A large part of the work has been done by the prisoners and the results fully justify the experiment tried by the provincial secretary of treating the prisoners as not unworthy of trust, rather than as ordinary convicts.

The board of parole instituted by the provincial secretary has proved to be an unqualified success, and great good has already resulted from the operation of it.

The main line of the Ontario Government Railway has been completed to Cochrane on the G. T. P. Railway, a distance of 253 miles, and the Porcupine branch it is expected will be completed to Matagami River before the end of the present year, when the railway, with branches, will have about 380 miles in operation. Surveys for a possible extension of the line have been made as far north as James Bay, in case it is decided to continue the line to that point.

An engagement has been entered into with the Grand Trunk Railway for running rights of its trains over the line in consideration of which the company assumes an equitable share of the general maintenance of the road and pays the sum of $300,000 per annum as rental for such running rights, this sum representing one-half of the interest on the total cost of construction of the railway.

The Power Question

The great scheme for the utilization of electric power has, after many vicissitudes and in the face of bitter and relentless opposition, been accomplished and is now in operation and practically within reach of the farmers and other residents in the villages and rural districts, and I am glad to say that the cost of construction has been $85,000 less than the estimated cost. It should not be forgotten that this policy of the government contemplates the furnishing of electric power at cost to all sections of the province, but great efforts have been made by interested individuals to hamper and prevent the carrying out of the intentions of the government in the central and eastern parts of the province. So far have these efforts gone that in all probability we shall be compelled to use the powers given us by statute with reference to expropriation.

I cannot dismiss this subject without referring to the very patriotic and unselfish exertions of Hon. Adam Beck, chairman, and his colleagues of the Hydro-Electric Commission, Hon. J. S. Hendrie and Mr. W. K. McNaught, M.P.P. To their continuous and unselfish labors may be ascribed a large part of the credit for the success of this great enterprise, and I doubt if our history shows a similar instance of devotion to public interest without fee or reward. I may say also that, in our opinion, the time has come when, having regard to the conduct of public business under our system, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission should be discontinued and a new department of government created which should take charge of this great work, and the head of which should be a cabinet minister. For several reasons this change is desirable.

Mining Revenue

In 1904 the value of our mineral output was something over $11,000,000, while in 1910 it was more than $39,000,000, and the revenue from mining sources has increased from an average of over $70,000 per annum to an average of over $771,000 per annum.

Immigrants to the number of nearly 8,000 were brought into the province by the department of colonization and located in the year 1910, and the figures for the current year, when available, will show an increase.

What is practically a new wing of the Parliament buildings, which will provide a large increase of much-needed office accommodations, is nearly finished, as is also the new and additional wing to the north of and adjoining the main building.

A very desirable site for a new government house has been purchased and contracts for the foundation and the stone work have been let; the site of the present Government House has been sold and the purchase money will suffice to pay the cost of the new site and new building, leaving a considerable sum for maintenance of the latter.

The Central Prison and Lunatic Asylum properties have been sold for the sum of $1,025,000; the succession duties for the current year have passed the million-dollar mark, while the revenue as a whole has continued to increase, and this year will be considerably over $9,000,000, as compared with a little less than one-half that sum in 1904.

Reasons for Dissolution

The above is a hurried resume of some of the results achieved under the auspices of the government, the benefits resulting from which the province is now enjoying, and I now come to the question of dissolution of the legislative assembly.

The life of the existing assembly already exceeds in length the life of its predecessor, and there are eleven vacant seats in the house caused by the death of the esteemed late member for West Victoria, Mr. Fox; by the resignations of eight other members —seven of whom have been elected to the House of Commons—and by the resignation of Hon. Frank Cochrane, who has accepted the portfolio of railways and canals in the new government of Canada, and by whose departure the government, the Legislative Assembly, and the Province have alike suffered a serious loss.

A large expenditure—$15,000 or more—would have been incurred by holding by-elections to fill these vacancies, and the expenditure would have to be repeated within a year.

Under our system the practice favors a dissolution before the expiration of the life of the legislative assembly by effluxion of time, and the facts as stated are ample justification for a dissolution now, and, in face of the public notice given by me some weeks ago, it cannot be urged that anyone has been taken by surprise.

But there are other reasons why my colleagues and I desire to consult the electorate—reasons of great and vital importance, having regard to the development of the province and the prosperity of its people.

New Ontario

The question of the further opening up and development of New—or Northern— Ontario, is obviously of great importance and should be dealt with without delay. In this great work of development the government has been handicapped in the past. Ordinarily the provincial government spends large sums of money annually for immigration purposes resulting in large additions to the population. The Dominion Government expends money for similar purposes on a much larger scale, but so far with practically no benefit to Ontario and this for more than one reason.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY

The only result of the additions to our population in the newer districts, as far as the government of the province is concerned, is that the annual geenral provincial expenditure is increased, while the Dominion treasury receives large sums annually by reason of the increased consumption of goods paying tariff duties, and in the older sections of this province the amounts received for municipal taxation are increased.

Under these circumstances we have felt that, in the face of the facts as stated, financial aid should be afforded us by the Dominion Government in the work of immigration and development generally, and our views in this respect have been put before the public by me on several occasions.

It was, therefore, with much satisfaction that my colleagues and I took note of the announcement some time ago by Mr. Borden, now the prime minister of Canada, that if he came into power he would favor the giving of financial aid by the Dominion to the province in the work of immigration to New Ontario, the construction of permanent highways on the province, and for providing practical instruction in agriculture. We must be ready, therefore, to do whatever may be necessary on our part in order that the moneys to be appropriated by the Dominion Government for these three great purposes may be used to the best advantage. In this connection it is believed that any scheme of development, including the construction of highways, wholly or partially by means of such financial aid or in conjunction with moneys appropriated by the province, will in all probability necessitate the enactment of statutory provisions of a very important character in order that such financial aid, together with any additional appropriations by the legislative assembly, may be applied with the best results.

Bonus for T. & N. O. Railway

Further, under the rule and practice of the Dominion Government before, during and since the completion of the construction of the Ontario Government Railway, the Dominion Parliament appropriated to railways constructed by individuals and companies a bonus or subsidy of $6,400 per mile, but, although requested more than once to grant a similar subsidy to the Ontario Government Railway, the late Dominion Government steadily refused such request. In our opinion the province has in this matter not received the treatment to which it was undoubtedly entitled, and my colleagues and I are strongly of opinion that, having regard to the very great importance of these questions, the people of the province should be given the opportunity of pronouncing without delay.

(1) As to the advisability of further provincial appropriations if necessary to any scheme of development by reason of the financial aid to be given by the Dominion Government, and also of any statutory enactment which may be found to be necessary under the circumstances aforementioned;

(2) Whether the government of the province shall continue to urge upon the Dominion Government the payment of the said bonus or subsidy on account of the construction of the said T. & N. O. Railway, known as the Ontario Government Railway; and

(3) Whether a department of government shall be created, with a cabinet minister at its head, to take over and carry on the work heretofore done by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

To conclude, my colleagues and I feel that the people of the province are fairly well acquainted with the record of our efforts in the public interest. No attack worthy of notice has been made upon us for anything we have done or left undone. Our acts speak for themselves. We realize that, being mortal, we have made mistakes, but we submit that our mistakes have been few, and I conclude by expressing our earnest appreciation of the confidence heretofore reposed in us, and with a determination to deserve a continuation of it in the future should the opportunity be given us.

I remain, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
J. P. WHITNEY.

Nothing For His Successor.

Mr. Abdullah Elias, of Brooklands House, Brooklands, merchant, and Princess Street, Manchester, who left $500,000, directed that should his wife again marry within fifteen years of his decease she be given 25 cents. Testator desired to be buried in the Jewish cemetery at Didsbury, and directed that no fewer than forty coaches should attend his funeral.

Left Huge Fortune.

Mme. Morozoff, the owner of one of the largest cotton mills in Russia, died recently at the age of eighty-four, leaving a fortune of $40,000,000.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE
SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER
CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000
MONEY ORDERS
The Money Orders of The Canadian Bank of Commerce are a safe, convenient and economical method of remitting small sums of money. They are payable without charge at every branch of a chartered bank in Canada (except in the Yukon Territory) and in the principal cities of the United States.
The Orders and full information regarding them may be obtained on application at the Bank.
In the event of loss of a Money Order the Bank will, on receipt of a satisfactory guarantee, make arrangements to refund the amount of the lost Order. A232
EXETER BRANCH—W. H. COLLINS, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank
Incorporated 1855
Capital (paid up) - $4,000,000
Rest Fund - - - $4,600,000
Total Assets Over - $44,000,000
Has 83 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.
A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.
SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT
at al Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.
- EXETER BRANCH -
Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.
DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

CLINTON.—Mr. Fred. Henry of the Gravel Road just north of the town met with an accident on Sunday evening which happened in a very simple way but which proved to be painful and troublesome. He was alighting from a horse and in doing so stepped upon a loose stone which turned, giving his ankle a bad twist. In fact the ankle joint was dislocated.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM
Canada's Double Track Line
HUNTERS'
RETURN TICKETS AT SINGLE FARE
OCT. 9th to NOV. 11th.
to points in Temagami, points Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, Que., inclusive, also to certain points in Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Maine.
OCT 19th to Nov. 11th
to Muskoka Lakes, Penetang, Lake of Bays, Midland, Maganetawan River, Lakefield, Madawaska to Parry Sound, Argyle to Coboconk, Lindsay to Haliburton. Points from Severn to North Bay inclusive, and certain points reached by Northern Navigation Co.
All tickets valid for return until Thursday Dec. 14th, except to points reached by steamer lines, Tuesday, Nov. 14.
Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, at Toronto, Ont.
J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

CENTRAL Business College
STRATFORD, ONT.
Is to the front as the best school of its kind in the province. Our courses are beyond those of the ordinary business college. This school has a continental reputation for high grade work. We have three departments, Commercial Shorthand and Telegraphy, and the demand for trained help greatly exceeds the supply. Students are entering every week, and the sooner you enter the better for yourself.
Get our free catalogue at once.
D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

VARENI
A pure Silver Violin G String for 25c.
A real silver string has never before been sold at such a low price.
Notwithstanding that the Vareni String is not cheap in Quality.
It is made of pure silver carefully spun on good English gut and then burnished,
As a result of good materials and good workmanship the Vareni string is wonderfully durable and possesses a marked degree the splendidly clear tone, peculiar to pure silver strings.
You should have the Vareni G String if you have a Violin.
S. MARTIN & SON

Fresh Groceries
We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.
Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."
All kinds of produce taken in exchange.
JAS. GOULD

It Is Up To You
To protect your family from the ravages of disease and infection; and the rigors of winter; to make your home the abode of Health and Happiness.
Statistics tell us that there were over 250,000 deaths in North America last year from fever and Pneumonia; Over 90 per cent. of these cases were traceable to out-door closets, and all were the result of insanitary conditions.
Are you going to allow this terrible death rate to continue.
Why not insure Health by installing a "PARKYTE" SANITARY CHEMICAL CLOSET.
Absolutely Sanitary and Odorless carries the endorsement of Physicians and Health Officials, and our own Iron-clad guarantee, Requires no expensive water-system; no plumbing; no sewage can be installed in any part of your home at the cost of a few minutes of your spare time; lasts a lifetime and cost less than a CENT a day.
"PARKYTE" Chemical has been proven by Bacteriological test to be the most powerful Disinfectant, Deodorant and Germicide, known to Science.
The "PARKYTE" SANITARY CHEMICAL CLOSET is sold by
W. J. Heaman, Exeter, Ont.
A call there will convince you. No further argument will be necessary.
1203 McARTHUR BLDG. WINNIPEG, MAN.
Branches TORONTO EDMONTON VANCOUVER

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University.
Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. S. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor graduate of Toronto University.
DENTIST.
Teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects. Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. B. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years resident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amos' Old Stand. Andrew street, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers, Commissioners, Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates of interest
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
E. CARLING, B.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter Ont.

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies. Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elliber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St Thomas, Ont.
ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

BECOME INDEPENDENT: ATTEND ELLIOTT Business College
Toronto, Ont. Students of this year are in positions worth from $50 to $100 a month. Write for catalogue. Enter now. Superior Instructions in all Departments.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.

We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.

Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.

The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Elimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT

That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

HOUSE FOR SALE

The undersigned is offering for sale, that desirable property on William st, being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, together with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

Simple Remedy

FOR BACKACHE AND KIDNEY TROUBLE.

The simplest and most effective remedy for sick kidneys is Booth's Kidney Pills. If there is weakness, congestion inflammation or soreness, Booth's Kidney Pills quickly relieve it. They gently relieve it. They gently stimulate, tone and strength en sick kidneys, drive away backache, rheumatic pain and dizziness clear up and regulate the urine and restore a perfect filtering of the blood. Best of all this relief is permanent.

Booth's Kidney Pills

All druggists sells and guarantee Booth's Kidney Pills, 50c. box. Money back if they fail to relieve. Write to The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont., for a free trial.

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

HENSALL

On Wednesday, at high noon, a very pleasant event took place at the home of Alexander Smith, when his second daughter, Laura, was united in marriage to Alexander Smith, of Morris Township, Rev. Mc Smith officiated. The happy couple left for Toronto, where they will spend their honeymoon and on their return will take up their abode on the groom's splendid farm in Morris.—Miss Beatrice Cudmore entertained a number of girl friends on Monday night in honor of her guest Miss Kathleen Blackall.—The building gang of the G. T. R. now at work at Kincardine will be here and at Exeter within a week or two and will erect the two passenger stations at the same time. Had Exeter station not been burned Hensall would likely have had to wait a considerably time longer, but the officials saw the advantage of erecting the structures at the same time. Both stations will be very handsome and commodious.—Our council have received a car of crushed stone and are putting it on Wellington and King street.

A WINDSOR LADY'S APPEAL

To All Women—I will send free with full instructions, my home treatment which positively cures Leucorrhoea, Ulceration, Displacements, Falling of the womb, Painfull or Irregular Periods, Uterine and Ovarian Tumors or growths also Hot Flushes, Nervousness, Melancholy, Pains in the Head, Back or Bowels, and Bladder troubles, where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex You can continue treatment at home at a cost of only about 12 cents a week My book, "Woman's Own Medical Adviser," also sent free on request. Write to-day. Address, Mrs. M. Summers Box. H. 840 Windsor, Ont.

Auction Sale

OF
TIMBER AND HORSE

The undersigned auctioneer has received instructions to sell by public auction, on
LOT 1, CONCESSION, 8, USBORNE, on FRIDAY NOVEMBER, 17th, 1911, At 2 p. m. the following property viz:—That desirable unculled timber growing on above lot, consisting of soft elm, hardwood, basswood, etc., which will be sold by the acre, and which is situated on corner Lot, 3½ miles from Centralia Station. Also 1 general purpose mare, 7 years old, supposed to be in foal.

TERMS OF SALE—4 Months' credit will be given on furnishing approved joint notes. 4 per cent. discount off for cash. Two years for removal of timber will be allowed purchaser. Brush to be properly piled.

B. S. PHILLIPS, Auctioneer. WM. WHITEFORD, Proprietor

Dairy Cow Sale

The undersigned auctioneer has been instructed to sell by public auction at the METROPOLITAN HOTEL, EXETER on SATURDAY, NOV. 18th, 1911, at one o'clock, p. m. A carload of choice Dairy Cows. These cattle are of an exceptionally good class and every person wanting such will do well to attend this sale.

TERMS—Time will be given to suit purchaser on furnishing approved joint notes.

M. J. WILLIAMS, Proprietorp. T. BROWN Auctioneer

ESTRAY STEER

There came onto the premises of the undersigned a 2-yr-old steer. Owner can have same by proving property and paying expenses.

JAS. WILLIS, Lot 13, Con. 3, Stephen

USBORNE

An Usborne Old Boy Honored.—The following despatch from Virden, Manitoba, will be read with interest by Mr. Strang's numerous old friends in this district. The citizens of Virden and congregation of Carmel Presbyterian church were out en masse last night, it being the anniversary gathering, and also a farewell service for Rev. Peter Strang who has been minister of the church for fourteen years. H. J. Hugh, Esq., of the Union Bank, read an address off appreciation, and presented Mr. and Mrs. Strang with a purse of gold on behalf of the congregation. Mayor Mullins performed a similar act on behalf of the citizens, board of trade, school board, and hospital board. Rev. W. McInnis, of Two Creeks, on behalf of the missionaries in Brandon presbytery, presented Mr. Strang with a study chair and roll top desk. Fraternal addresses were made by the pastors of the Anglican and Methodist churches, and one of the Presbyterian churches at Lenore and Hargrave. Mr. Strang has been appointed to the position of mission superintendent in southern Saskatchewan. He leaves on Wednesday for Regina, where he will reside. During his pastorate the church has greatly prospered, the membership from 141 to 261, and four new charges started. Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, Brandon, preached the anniversary sermons yesterday. It is rumored that the congregation would like to extend a call to him to be minister.

SHARON

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Amy left for their future home in Exeter on Thursday last but before they left the neighborhood in which they have so long lived, and were so highly esteemed, the young people in the neighborhood gathered at their home and spent a social time together. The evening was spent in social chat and all made merry. Songs were sung, games were played and many entertaining selections were given on the phonograph. Lunch was served and not until the small hours did the happy party disperse. The young people will always entertain a warm spot in their hearts for Mr. and Mrs. Amy.

USBORNE COUNCIL

Council met Nov. 4th, all present, except F. Etherington. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. After investigating the case of Mrs. Garnet of Kirkton the council, by resolution approved of her committal to the London General Hospital, and guaranteed payment for the necessary treatment. The collector's Securities were considered Satisfactory and his Bond accepted. A few accounts were passed and orders issued in payment. Council then adjourned to meet Dec. 2nd, at 10 o'clock.

F. MORLEY, Clerk.

MOORESVILLE.

Rain seems to have been the last order of the farmers, at least it is the most prominent at present.—The many friends of Miss Angela McIlhargey will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from her recent illness.—The funeral of the late John Gilmour took place on Friday morning from the residence of his son J. Gilmore to Prospect Hill.—Our popular store-keeper W. R. Simpson is kept very busy these days shipping fowl.—Mr. Grey Harrison returned from the West Saturday eve, and can sing with heart and voice, "There's no place like Home.—Mrs. P. Simpson is recovering from a severe cold.—The farmers of this vicinity are very busy.

Skin a Mass of Fire

Horrible torture—pain unendurable—days when the whole body seems to be burning up—long nights of sleepless agony—Then—

INSTANT RELIEF—The skin cooled and refreshed—all burning and itching gone.

Thousands testify to this—thousands who suffered from Eczema, Psoriasis and other skin troubles, until they heard of that simple cooling wash of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients known as D. D. D. Prescription.

J. Samuel Lewis, writes,—"I used three bottles of D.D.D. Prescription, and now my skin, once a mass of fire and irritation, is as smooth and soft as a child's."

Of all remedies for the skin that we know we can especially recommend the D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema. Just a mild, soothing wash—but it cleanses and cools the skin as nothing else can. And it takes away the itch instantly.

We would like to tell you more about D.D.D. Prescription if you will call, or write the D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept. E. A., 49 Colborne St., Toronto, and get a free trial bottle.

W. S. HOWEY, Exeter

ROSS' Limited, LONDON and EDMONTON
Manufacturing Furriers
In the manufacture of our Fur Garments the utmost care is exercised in the selection of all material, and strict attention to every detail in workmanship and finish is attended to by expert furriers. The workmanship in all Ross garments is the acme of perfection and confers upon the wearer the greatest degree of comfort, smartness and individuality, Satisfaction goes with every order placed with us.
ROSS' Limited
Furs and Cloaks
195 Dundas Street
London Ontario. 1

How's This?
We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
We the undersigned have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists
Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

DASHWOOD

Mr. Frank Case, has accepted a position as foreman of boilers with The Standard Oil Company, and has already entered upon his duties at the Sarnia branch.—E. E. Koehler, who was very recently transferred from the local branch of the Molsons Bank to London, has been promoted to a position in the Waterloo branch of the bank and left London.—Rev. Mr. Kellerman of the Evangelical Church, Walkerton, conducted the services in the Evangelical Church here Sunday. Mr. Kellerman is a Dashwood boy, being a son of George Kellerman, and when he consents to conduct services here is greeted by large congregations.—George Merner, who has resided in Dashwood for the past few years, last week moved to the farm of his brother, J. J. Merner, M. P., which he will have charge of in future.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonah Sims of Crediton East spent Sunday with Mr. E. M. Brokenshire.—Mr. and Mrs. Percy Humble of Sarnia spend Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Finkbeiner.—Mr. Ed. Wild has purchased the 25 acre farm on the 13th con. of Stephen, formerly owned by Mr. Mark Wild.—Mr. Robt. Ryan's sale which was to have been held on Monday was postponed until Friday the 10th, on account of the very wet weather.—Mr. John Eckstein and sister of Zurich were in the village Sunday.—Mr. Geo. Kellermann's new block is nearly completed.—Mr. Henry Guenther has sold his farm south of the village to Mr. John Edt.

GRAND BEND.

Rev. Mr. Carriere, of the Presbyterian church here has completely recovered from his recent attack of paralysis, and is now able to perform his duties in his satisfactory manner, much to the gratification of his many adherents.—The woods to the South of the village are well filled with rabbits, partridge and other small game. There are, too, many hunting parties, who all seem to bring outa fair reward for the time spent.—Mr. Phillip Baker who recently sold his farm at Brewster to Mr. William Schartz, has purchased the comfortable home adjoining the manse, and has already moved in. Mr. Schartz, who bought Mr. Bakers farm, sold his to Mr. George Schroeder, Jr., of near Dashwood.

ZURICH.

Mrs. Wurtz of Pigeon, Mich., is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Melick.—Mrs. George Campbell was called to Berlin to attend the funeral of her uncle, the late Sheriff Motz.—Miss Katie Cook has disposed of her dwelling near the Lutheran church, to Mr. William Meidinger, for $700.00 The new owner will take possession in about a month.—On Sunday the 5th of November the anniversary of Reformation day was celebrated in St. Peter's Lutheran church. The evening service, which was conducted in English, was devoted to a meditation on the Augsburg Confession this being the Confession of the Lutheran church.

WHALEN.

(Too late for last week.)

Mrs. Stewart McQueen was in London over the holidays.—Miss Nan Horton spent Thanksgiving with her sister, Margaret, at Harrow.—Mrs. O'Hara of St. Thomas returned to her home on Friday, after visiting her cousin, Miss Maude Glenn.—Misses Ryckman and Hobkirk spent Thanksgiving day at Mrs. John Mc. Lean's near Chselhurst.—Messrs Wm. and John Glenn, with their wives visited at the home of J. D. Wilson near Zurich on Monday.—Several of our local sports spent Monday shooting.—Mr. Wilbert Parker has finished the season with George Hobkirk and has returned to his home.

W. D. McLean, of the Seaforth Expositor, has acquired an interest in the Dundas Banner, and has assumed editorial and business control of that journal. He will remove his family to Dundas at an early date. The Banner is one of the oldest local papers in the Province, and is the only Liberal journal in the county of Wentworth outside the city of Hamilton. Mr. McLean has been connected with the Expositor since boyhood, and for the past four years has had the principal editorial and business management.

VARNA.—A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. Thos. Keys on Tuesday morning, Oct 31st., when his youngest daughter, Martha, was united in marriage to Mr. Edwin Dilworth of Orillia. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Snowden, pastor of the Methodist church. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Frank Keys, looked lovely in a dainty frock of embroidered net over silk and carried a boquet of chrysanthemums and smilax. The bridal couple were unattended.

CLINTON.—On Monday evening after an illness extending over several weeks, Annie Ryan, wife of Mr. Mr. David Cook slipped away into the spiritual world The deceased lady was in her seventy-fifth year. Some few weeks ago she had the misfortune to fall down some steps at her home breaking one bone of her arm. The accident of itself did not seem to be a very serious one, but the shock to her nervous system was great and no doubt was a factor in bringing on the illness which terminated in her death.

THE GOVERNOR GENERAL'S INCOME.

There are only a few wealthier men in the Dominion at the present time than His Royal Highness, the new Governor General. In addition to the salary Canada will pay him the Duke enjoys a yearly income of $125,000, which was settled on him for life by the British Parliament because of his being one of the younger sons of the late Queen Victoria. Nor does this exhaust the amount of his income from official sources, for he also draws some $25,000 annually as Field Marshal in the British Army. Besides his revenue from official sources, the Duke of Connaught enjoys the return from his share of the estate left by his mother, Queen Victoria, the total value which has never become known to the general public. That the whole estate was very large is common belief, rumor estimating the Duke's share at varying amounts from five to fifteen-million dollars. It is said in well-informed circles that his total income is greater than that of King George.

BRUCEFIELD.—The anniversary services in connection with the Union church here will be held on the first Sunday in December and the anniversary tea meeting on the following Monday evening. Fuller particulars will be given later.

You've thought about trying PURITY FLOUR Now Act!!
FOR some time there has dwelt in your mind the thought of trying PURITY FLOUR—the flour that consists wholly of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat.
That's a good thought. It indicates a desire for improvement in your baking-talent—an ambition to increase the deliciousness of your bread and pastry.
Don't let that good thought perish. Turn on your will power. ACT!!
PURITY FLOUR
"More bread and better bread"
REMINDER: On account of the extra strength and extra quality of PURITY FLOUR, best pastry-results are obtained by adding more shortening than is necessary when using the ordinary Ontario or blended flours. Also add more water when making bread.
Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now
108
Sold by R. G. Seldon

LABATT'S STOUT
The very best for use in ill-health and convalescence
Awarded Medal and Highest Points in America at World's Fair, 1893
PURE—SOUND—WHOLESOME
JOHN LABATT, LIMITED, LONDON, CANADA 29

THREE COOKS AND THREE REASONS
These three cooks differ widely in ability and experience, but all are agreed that the prime essential in good cooking is the stove on which to cook, and all concede that every stove necessity is met in a
GURNEY-OXFORD RANGE
For no matter how much or how little cooking is done; no matter what the experience given or required, there are certain prime requisites for every kitchen range. Whether the cook be a professional chef or the young bride with only "him" to please, the stove must furnish these three essentials—steadiness and control of heat, even baking facilities, and a grate that gives plenty of air to the fire with a saving of fuel and convenience in handling.
For these three problems—on which all cooks are agreed—the GURNEY-OXFORD RANGE has three answers, three good reasons why.
THE OXFORD ECONOMIZER is a small lever for the steady maintenance of heat, licensed for use only on Gurney-Oxfords. It effects a remarkable saving in fuel as well as labor. Nothing can go up the chimney but smoke and odor.
The Divided Flue Strip distributes the heat evenly, front as well as back of oven, thus securing against failure in baking. There is no better test of practical stove work than this oven control.
Are you always dusting? The Gurney-Oxford Reversible Grate saves dirt and labor; one-half turn and the ashes are out, while the interlocking teeth grind the hardest clinker.
There are plenty of other "reasons" for the advantage of the Gurney-Oxford, so a call on us will convince you. Come in and see our varied line, and we will demonstrate all these features to your entire satisfaction.
W. J. Heaman, Agent, Exeter.

For tea you can't beat
LIPTON'S TEA
OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

BROWN'S NURSERIES, WELLAND COUNTY, ONT.
LARGEST GROWERS OF NURSERY STOCK IN CANADA.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

LAND AS A MEDIUM IN WHICH TO INVEST.

Too Speculative for Those of Small Capital Depending on Their Income—Many Good Features, However, for Those Who Use Care—Not Readily Saleable—Income Usually Small.

The articles contributed by "Investor" are for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and, if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-cat" enterprises. The impartial and reliable character of the information may be relied upon. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve in connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

Next to real estate mortgages, probably, real estate itself forms the best known medium of investment in Canada. While mortgages are never purchased for their speculative possibilities—as was noted in a recent issue, they lack this feature altogether—real estate is, unfortunately, too often bought for no other purpose than the hope of making a quick profit. Of course, land may be purchased on the outskirts of growing cities with a reasonable prospect of making a profit; but real estate so purchased can no longer claim the title of investment; it is a pure speculation, although often a reasonably safe one.

Land purchased for investment must be land capable of returning an income to the purchaser over and above a moderate allowance for repairs, renewals and contingencies. Such land must, therefore, be capable of producing crops, or must have buildings erected on it which are sufficiently desirable to be rented at a rate which produces the return above mentioned.

Now, such investment has not only reasonable safety, but—in Canada—great prospects of appreciating in value. But, just as in the case of mortgages, the purchaser must use great care to choose a place that is growing and has good prospects of continuing to grow.

It seems superfluous to discuss this form of investment at great length, as practically everyone has at one time so interested; perhaps for the sake of the rental, or perhaps to obtain a farm or house for his own use. People who buy properties to use invest for the reason that, while it does not return a regular income, it saves a regular expenditure, which amount to the same thing. Few people realize, however, that, as a rule, real estate investments return a very small net revenue. Few large properties return more than 5 per cent.—and probably less—on the investment when all proper allowances are deducted from gross income. In Toronto at present there is a dearth of medium-priced houses for rent. As a result rentals are not only high but constitute a large return on the original cost. But there is always the chance that new building will cause the supply to exceed the demand and rentals will fall as a result.

Many people, too, reckon their rate of income from a real estate investment on the amount invested. It is a better method, and will save many false impressions, if the returns are figured on the market price. If, despite large advances in the price of real estate, the return on the value of a property is reasonably good, when reckoned on the market price, there is no occasion to disturb the investment. If, on the other hand, the return is too low to give a reasonable return, sell the property and reinvest.

Granting that care is exercised, land, producing a regular revenue, is fairly safe, both in regard to principal and interest; it stands a fair chance of appreciating in value; the market price is stable; but the rate of income is often small, when proper reductions are made for repairs, renewals, maintenance, etc; and finally, land is not readily saleable in the sense that a good bond is. No one who has limited means can afford to invest in real estate for the last two reasons. Moreover, many of the drawbacks attached to mortgage investments exist also in the case of real estate.

ALEXANDOR'S FURS

In dealing with us you are doing business with one of Canada's largest manufacturers, and anything you may purchase from us is absolutely dependable, that is to say we guarantee to use nothing but sound, solid skins, soft and very pliable, cutting the garments by expert workmen and using the very finest of trimmings throughout.

We have in stock a limited quantity of

Ladies' Caracul Coats at
44 INCHES LONG $55.00
50 " " 65.00

Send us your bust measurement and length of coat required and we will ship to any part in Canada, C.O.D., allowing you to examine same and return if unsatisfactory.

We do not compel you to keep anything we ship you.

Money refunded if you are not entirely satisfied.

Write for our catalogue.

A. J. ALEXANDOR
Manufacturing Furriers,
504-506 St. Paul St., Montreal
Coats made to order, same price.

Shiloh's Cure
STOPS COUGHS HEALS THE LUNGS PRICE, 25 CENTS

LABOR MADE GAINS.

In the British Municipal Elections Held Wednesday.

A despatch from London says: The municipal elections in England on Wednesday were noteworthy for the large gains of the Laborites and Socialists, especially in the big provincial cities, such as Bradford, Liverpool, Leeds, Southport, and Manchester.

Ate Unwisely? Sometimes people do, and suffer, because the stomach balks.
NA-DRU-CO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS
relieve the discomfort at once, and help digest the overload. The lover of good things may feel quite safe with a box of NA-DRU-CO Dyspepsia Tablets at hand. 50c. a box. If your druggist has not stocked them yet send 50c. and we will mail them. 34
National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited. Montreal.

ANNUAL MEETING
OF ONTARIO FRUIT GROWERS
November 15, 16, and 17
In the New Foresters' Hall, 22 College St., near Yonge, TORONTO
Practical Addresses on Apple and Peach Orcharding, Leasing of Orchards, Box Packing, etc.
APPLE SHOW
In the St. Lawrence Arena, King St., East, Nov. 14th to 18th. Over 2,000 Boxes of Apples on display.
SINGLE FARE ON ALL RAILWAYS

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS

REPORTS FROM THE LEADING TRADE CENTRES OF AMERICA.

Prices of Cattle, Grain, Cheese and Other Produce at Home and Abroad.

BREADSTUFFS.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—Flour—Winter wheat, 90 per cent. patents, $3.60, Montreal freight. Manitoba flours—First patents, $5.50; second patents, $5, and strong bakers', $4.80, on track, Toronto.

Manitoba Wheat—New No. 1 Northern, $1.05 1-2, Bay ports; No. 2 Northern, $1.03, and No. 3, $1, Bay ports.

Ontario wheat—No. 2 white, red and mixed, new, 67 to 68c, outside.

Peas—Good milling peas, 90c to $1.02, outside.

Oats—Ontario oats, No. 2, at 44 to 44 1-2c, outside, and No. 3 at 43c; car lots of No. 2, on track, Toronto, 47 1-2 to 48c. Western Canada oats, 44 1-2c for No. 2 and at 43 1-2c for No. 3, Bay ports.

Barley—No. 3 extra, 92 to 95c, outside; feed barley, 60 to 65c.

Corn—Old, No. 2 American yellow, 76 1-2c, and No. 2 mixed, 75 1-2c, Bay ports; No. 2 American yellow, 81c, on track, Toronto, for old.

Rye—Car lots, outside, 87 to 88c, for No. 2.

Buckwheat—Prices nominal at 60c.

Bran—Manitoba bran, $23 to $23.50, in bags, Toronto freight. Shorts, $25.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

Apples—Winter stock, $3 to $4 per barrel.

Beans—Small lots of hand-picked, $2.25 to $2.30 per bushel.

Honey—Extracted, in tins, 10 to 11c per lb. Combs, $2.50 to $2.75.

Baled Hay—No. 1 at $15 to $16, on track, and inferior at $12 to $13.

Baled Straw—$6.50 to $7, on track, Toronto.

Potatoes—Car lots, in bags, quoted at 95c to $1, and out of store, $1.15.

Poultry—Chickens, 12 to 13c per lb.; hens, 11 to 12c; ducks, 12 to 13c; turkeys, 19 to 21c. Live poultry about 2c lower than the above.

BUTTER, EGGS, CHEESE.

Butter—Dairy, choice, in wrappers, 25 to 26c; do., medium grades, 22 to 23c. Creamery quoted at 28 to 29c per lb. for rolls, and 25 to 26c for solids.

Eggs—Strictly new-laid, 28c, and fresh at 24c per dozen, in case lots.

Cheese—Large quoted at 14 3-4c per lb., and twins at 15c.

HOG PRODUCTS.

Bacon, long clear, 12 to 12 1-2c per lb., in case lots. Pork, short cut, $22.50; do., mess, $19.50 to $20. Hams, medium to light, 16 to 16 1-2c; do., heavy, 14 to 14 1-2c; rolls, 10 3-4 to 11c; breakfast bacon, 16 to 17c; backs, 19 to 20c.

Lard—Tierces, 11c; tubs, 11 1-4c; pails, 11 1-2c.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—Oats — Canadian Western, No. 2, 48 1-2 to 49c, car lots, ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 48 to 48 1-2c; No. 3 C. W., 47 1-2 to 48c; No. 2 local white, 47 to 47 1-2c; No. 3 do., 46 1-2 to 47c; No. 4 do., 46 to 46 1-2c. Flour—Manitoba Spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.50; seconds, $5.10; Winter wheat patents, $4.75 to $5; strong bakers', $4.90; straight rollers, $4.25 to $4.50; in bags, $1.95 to $2.05. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $5.25; bag of 90 lbs., $2.50 Corn—American No. 3 yellow, 81c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $23 to $24; Manitoba, $23; middlings, Ontario, $27 to $28; shorts, Manitoba, $25; mouillie, $26 to $32. Eggs—Selected, 26 1-2 to 28c; do., fresh, 32 to 34c; No. 1 stock, 22 1-2 to 24c. Cheese — Westerns, 14 to 14 1-8c; easterns, 13 5-8 to 13 7-8c. Butter — Choicest, 27 to 27 1-4c; seconds, 26 1-4 to 26 3-4c.

UNITED STATES MARKETS.

Minneapolis, Nov. 7.—Wheat—December, $1.05 1-2, May, $1.09 3-4 to $1.09 7-8; July, $1.10 7-8; No. 1 hard, $1.07; No. 1 Northern, $1.06 to $1.06 3-8; No. 2 Northern, $1.03 1-2 to $1.04 3-8; No. 3 wheat, 99c to $1.01 3-8. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 69 to 70c. Oats—No. 3 white, 45 to 45 1-2c. Rye—No. 2, 91 1-2c. Bran—$22 to $22.25. Flour—First patents, $5.10 to $5.40; second patents, $4.70 to $5; first clears, $3.60 to $3.95; second clears, $2.50 to $2.90.

Buffalo, Nov. 7.—Spring wheat—No. 1 Northern, carloads store, $1.10; Winter, No. 2 red, $1.01; No. 3 red, 99c; No. 2 white, $1.00. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 78 1-2c; No. 4 yellow, 77c, all on track, through billed. Oats—No. 2 white, 50 1-4c; No. 3 white, 49 3-4c; No. 4 white, 48 3-4c. Barley—Malting, $1.17 to $1.26.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Montreal, Nov. 7.—Choice steers sold at 5 3-4c, good at 5 1-2c, fairly good at 5 to 5 1-4c, fair at 4 1-2 to 4 3-4c, and common at 4 to 4 1-2c per lb. The market for good cows and bulls was stronger, and prices ruled higher, with sales of the former at 4 1-2 to 5c, and the lower grades at 3 1-4 to 4c, while bulls brought from 3 to 5c per lb., as to quality. Sales of selected lots of hogs were made at $6.25 to $6.50 per cwt., weighed off cars. Sheep were firmer at 3 to 3 3-4c, and lambs were easier at 5 to 5 1-4c per lb. The demand for calves was good, at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each, as to size and quality.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—Choice butcher steers and heifers, $5.75 to $6.85; medium, $5 to $5.25; mixed loads, $3.50 to $4.50; cows, $2 to $4.75, and a few extra choice cows at $5. Bulls, choice, $4 to $5; small bulls, $2 to $3; canners, $1.50 to $2.75. Feeding steers, 900 to 1,100 lbs., $4.50 to $5.10; bulls, $3.25 to $4.25. Sheep, steady at $3 to $3.75. Lambs, 15c easier, at $5 to $5.50. Hogs, 15c higher, and market firm. Selects, $5.90 f.o.b., and $6.45 to $6.35, fed and watered.

GILLETT'S PERFUMED LYE
CAUTION.
Put a strong glass on the label and examine it closely every time. Always look for the name "Gillett's."
Like all good articles, which are extensively advertised, Gillett's Lye is frequently and very closely imitated. In some instances the imitators have actually copied directions and other printed matter from our label word for word. Be wise, and refuse to purchase imitation articles for they are never satisfactory.
Insist On Getting Gillett's Lye
and decline to accept anything that looks to be an imitation or that is represented to be "just as good" or "better," or "the same thing." In our experience of over fifty years in business we have never known of an imitation article that has been a success, for imitators are not reliable people. At the best the "just as good" kinds are only trashy imitations, so decline them with thanks every time.

E.W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED
WINNIPEG. TORONTO, ONT. MONTREAL.

THE NEWS IN A PARAGRAPH

HAPPENINGS FROM ALL OVER THE GLOBE IN A NUTSHELL.

Canada, the Empire and the World in General Before Your Eyes.

CANADA.

Toronto will raise another $1-250,000 for the General Hospital.

The season for fishing on the lakes has been extended to November 10.

Succession duties reached more than one million dollars in Ontario in the fiscal year.

George A. Scott of Montreal was drowned while on a shooting trip to the Laurentain Mountains.

North Bay may join the Hydro-electric Union, as the franchise of the local electric light company has expired.

Hum Quom, an Ottawa merchant, has been elected representative of Canadian Chinamen in the Imperial Parliament of China.

The twelve-pounder gun which was so heroically defended at Lillefontein, has been presented to the city of Ottawa, and will be placed on the City Hall Square.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Great indignation has been aroused in Britain over alleged Italian atrocities at Tripoli.

The financial clauses of the Irish home rule measure are engaging the attention of the Cabinet.

UNITED STATES.

President Taft reviewed the U.S. fleet comprising ninety-nine vessels.

GENERAL.

Yuan Shi Kai has been appointed Premier of China and summoned to Pekin. This, it is hoped, will end hostilities and lead to successful negotiations with the revolutionary leader.

NEW PEAT PLANT.

Government Will Withdraw From the Field.

A despatch from Ottawa says: The establishment of a 15,000-ton peat plant near Ottawa will be followed by the closing down of the Government peat plant at Alfred. "We built and operated the Alfred plant merely to demonstrate what could be done in the matter of economical production of peat," said Dr. Haanel, Superintendent of the mines branch. "Now that sufficient interest has been awakened to result in the erection of such a large plant as will be built, there is no further object in running our plant, which will accordingly be shut down. The mines branch had some trouble securing cars to transport its peat, but this has now been settled."

DR. PIRT KILLED.

Carman Physician Found Dead Beside His Broken Auto.

A despatch from Carman, Manitoba, says: Dr. W. L. Pirt was found dead beside his auto two miles west of the town on Tuesday afternoon. The hind wheel of the machine was broken and the car was a wreck. It is supposed that the doctor was returning from a visit to one of his farms when he was the victim of an accident to the machine.

$845,000 FIRE IN LONDON

Nine Stores on Dundas Street Wiped Out on Friday Morning.

A despatch from London, Ont., says: Nearly one million dollars was lost in London's big fire on Friday morning. Nine stores, occupied by four of the largest retail houses in the city, were completely wiped out, while five other stores were damaged to a great extent. The fire was discovered at 4 o'clock, and for two hours threatened the whole business section of London. When it was finally overcome a great gap had been burned in the mercantile section, and in addition to the heavy losses sustained by the merchants, over 400 employees were temporarily put out of work. That the fire was confined within limits is the fortunate side of it, besides the fact that not a life was lost nor a person injured. A well-built wall, an unexcelled water system and a fighting fire department were what saved the rest of the downtown section. As far as can be estimated, the losses amount to $845,000, with insurance aggregating $480,000. The merchants are looking forward now to rebuilding, and in the meantime securing temporary quarters.

Chapman & Co., who are the largest losers, and in whose building the fire originated, secured the store at 248 Dundas street, next to Rowat's. Brewster's announced that the store formerly occupied by the Scandretts, near Richmond street, had been secured, while Mara's will open in a few days in Morgan's old store. Kingsmill, the fourth firm to be completely wiped out, have a carpet warehouse on Carling street, which they can utilize. Only the walls are left standing of Roome & Corbett's boot and shoe store, and they are looking for a place. The Purdom Hardware Co., and R. J. Young & Co., dry goods, may be compelled to seek new quarters while the damaged portions of their stores are rebuilt.

THE REVOLULION IN CHINA

Massacre of Men, Women and Children by Imperials at Hankow.

A despatch from Hankow, says: In the fighting at Hanyang Sunday night the Imperialists were victorious and entered the native city. Looting was permitted and there were many incendiary fires. Late at night the Imperialists withdrew to their camp, and the rebels, reinforced, reoccupied the city. It is reported that they numbered 6,000. On Monday morning an artillery engagement began, but it was not decisive.

The rebels at Hankow have beheaded Colonel Sin Yang, who commanded in the battle on Friday, when the rebels met with a reverse. Other officers in the revolutionary cause also suspected of treachery have met a like fate. A foreigner reports that he saw the rebels kill twenty Imperialist prisoners and a thousand of the wounded.

Shasi, in Hupeh province, and Yochow, in Hunan, are flying the revolutionary flag.

A despatch from Pekin, says: German Legation Thursday received a wireless message from the vicinity of Hankow, stating that the Imperial forces are now burning the native city of Hankow, and that the Imperial troops massacred men, women and children during several days' fighting. It is evident that the Manchu soldiers are infuriated over earlier Chinese successes, and they have gotten out of hand of their officers.

Letters from a correspondent a Sinyangchow, written some days ago, declare that General Yin Tchang's troops were beyond control. They are described as insubordinate and as having looted the village north of Hankow.

Montreal has the largest birth rate of any of the large cities of the world, and St. Petersburg is the only city whose death rate exceeds that of Montreal.
add canada

NA-DRU-CO Tasteless
Cod Liver Oil Compound
THE "building-up" value of Cod Liver Oil is well known, but its drawbacks have been its nasty taste and indigestibility.
Na-Dru-Co Tasteless Cod Liver Oil Compound has the nutritious qualities of the Cod Liver Oil, without the slightest disagreeable flavor. In it the Oil is skilfully combined with Extract of Malt, Extract of Wild Cherry, and Hypophosphites, making a splendid tonic as well as a valuable food.
Na-Dru-Co Tasteless Cod Liver Oil Compound is particularly good for growing children who are puny or run-down.
In 50c. and $1.00 bottles, at your druggist's. 106

100 Na-Dru-Co Specifics—one for every ill.
NATIONAL DRUG & CHEMICAL CO. OF CANADA, LIMITED.

ARE YOU AS WELL AS A YEAR AGO?

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Point the Way to Health and Strength.

Ask yourself the important question whether you are as strong as you were a year ago, as bodily fit as you should be. Many a reader has to confess "No." Some weakening ailment has during the past year laid hold of the system, unfitting you for the duties of life and seriously clouding the outlook of the coming days. It may be rheumatism with its sharp twinges of pain, indigestion, headache, nervous debility, depression and lack of energy, or the pains and ailments which only common folk know. It is well to know that all these weakening disorders arise from an impoverished condition of the blood. Renew and enrich your blood and all your troubles will cease. This is a strong statement, but it is made on the testimony of thousands who once suffered, but who have gained health and strength by the aid of the new, rich blood supplied by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. We can quote thousands of cases similar to the following: Mr. Jos. Grandmaison is a young man well known in the town of St. Jerome, Que. He says: "For a couple of years I began to find my strength failing, but did not dream that the trouble was serious. As I grew weaker I began to doctor, but it did not help me. The least exertion made my heart palpitate violently, my stomach seemed out of order and my whole system became so run down that I was finally forced to quit work. I had now been doctoring for almost six months and was very naturally growing discouraged. At this juncture I read of a case similar to mine, cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. I took the Pills faithfully for about two months, gradually growing stronger and at the end of that time I was as well as any man could be. I shall always praise the medicine that raised me from despair to the blessing of good health."

Sold by medicine dealers everywhere or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A WONDERFUL KITCHEN.

William A. Clark's Palace, Fifth Avenue, New York.

The "kitchen wonderful" in the costliest palace in America is now ready to produce food for its millionaire owner, his wife and his guests.

Much has been written of the vast mansion built by ex-Senator William A. Clark of Montana on Fifth-ave., New York, at a cost of $5,00,000—a flamboyant monstrosity of art, or an architectural gem—depending on how you look at it.

But little has been told of the kitchen—for it is only just completed. It is a laboratory of gleaming white, where housekeeping becomes a wonderful mechanical game. Over it all presides the young wife who once knew direst poverty.

Every foot of space, even on the ceiling, is tiled in spotless white. The working tables are white enameled, with either glass or marble tops. The rest of the kitchen furniture is also of washable white enamel.

The great culinary apartment is cut into a series of six alcoves. Each alcove has its own especially adopted oven, range, or electrical apparatus. There is an electric pastry mixer, an electrically turned spit for roasting fowls and great joints, and even a little automatic mayonnaise tosser. In each apartment is a clever arrangement of shelves and drawers. Some of the shelves swing around like a dentist's cabinet, holding needed utensils Little drawers, all labeled carefully, pop open at the touch, holding sugar and spice, and other nice things.

Swinging from the walls are hundreds of cooking utensils, pots and pans galore, no two alike, many of them the invention of the chef who rules the Clark kitchens. An inventory of all these things, as well as of all other supplies, is kept by "the chef of the domestic department."

The pantries off the kitchens are electric contrivances which are really weired. A little electric railway brings in supplies from the storerooms; china, silver, and cut glass are cleaned and polished by electricity, fowls are singed by it, even coal and ashes are dumped by its means.

Sixty tons of ice are frozen at one time in the ice vaults; there are automatic dumb waiters, which may be set like a clock to stop at a certain floor or room, and an air plant furnishes perfectly fumigated and lifegiving air to every part of the mansion.

Besides the kitchen wonderful there are five kitchens attached to separate suites in the house. There is a beautiful nursery kitchen in which trained nurses prepare food for the two little girls of the house. Another is part of the "quarantine suitt," supplied with all the apparatus for cooking for the sick.

To Be Pleasant In the Morning

Have some

Post Toasties

with cream for breakfast.

The rest of the day will take care of itself.

Post Toasties are thin bits of White Indian corn—cooked and toasted until deliciously crisp and appetizing.

"The Memory Lingers"

Sold by Grocers.

Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE SWEET THING.

Clara—"He says he thinks I am the nicest girl in town. Shall I ask him to call?"

Sarah—"No, dear; let him keep on thinking so."

A MOTHER'S PRAISE OF BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. B. S. Baker, East Margaretville, N. S., writes: "No mother would recommend for her baby any medicine of which she was not absolutely sure. A baby's life is too precious. A mother is always pleased to recommend to other mothers something that has been valuable in restoring the health of her own child. That is why I can highly recommend Baby's Own Tablets. They cured my baby who was suffering from constipation and I feel that I cannot praise them enough. I would advise all mothers with sickly babies to give them a trial, well knowing what the result will be." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THAT'S WHEN HE STARTED.

"Is your child in bed by eight every evening?" "Technically, yes. We begin arguing about that time."

WOMEN NEED GIN PILLS.

Port Dufferin, N. S.

"I was troubled with Kidney Disease for several years. My back was weak. I had terrible headaches, and was so restless that I could not sleep at night.—At last a friend told me about Gin Pills. I, at once, got a box and after taking them, I felt better—after three boxes I was cured.

"ETHEL BALCOMBE."

Write us for free sample of Gin Pills to try. Then get the regular size boxes at your dealer's, or direct from us—50c. a box, 6 for $2.50. Money refunded if Gin Pills fail to cure. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Dept. W. L. Toronto.

Stella—If the third finger is for the wedding ring, which is for divorce? Bella—The finger of scorn.

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

For Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

SOME HUMAN BOATS.

How Some Men Enjoyed a Sail in England.

When you throw a piece of wood into the water and watch how nicely it floats, has it ever occurred to you to make yourself into a boat, and to go floating about as easily and coolly as a real boat does?

This may sound very queer, but to one who has confidence in himself it is quite practicable, as was proved many years ago by Dr. Bedale, of Manchester. This gentleman, a noted long distance swimmer, was often to be seen floating about the River Mersey for hours at a time. He used to fasten a strong belt around his waist, and attach to it a light mast and sail, which he would furl or unfurl as he lay comfortably on his back, and no doubt it was very enjoyable.

This was carried a step further by another noted swimmer, Captain Boyton, who used to think nothing of sailing up and down the English Channel, clad in a dress inflated with air, and with a sail fixed to his feet. Once, indeed he actually crossed the Channel from Dover to Calais, but on this occasion he used a paddle with which to steer himself.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

RELIEF IS QUICK; BUT CURE IS SURE

NAPOLEON VAILLANCOURT SPEAKS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

They soon cured his Kidney troubles, and in six months there is no sign of their coming back.

St. Anne des Monts, Gaspe Co., Que., Nov. 6 (Special).—"It is six months since I was cured, and I have had no return of my trouble," in these words, Napoleon Vaillancourt, a well known resident of this place, gives evidence that Dodd's Kidney Pills not only give quick relief to sufferers from Kidney Disease, but clean that disease out, root and branch, and cure it permanently.

That Mr. Vaillancourt had Kidney Disease everyone here knows. That he is cured is also established beyond a doubt. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it.

"My back bothered me, also my heart and my kidneys, and my limbs would cramp," Mr. Vaillancourt states in giving his experience. Now all that is gone and he is a sound, healthy man. Do you wonder that he recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills?

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure quickly and permanently because they go right to the root of the trouble. They act directly on the Kidneys. They never fail to cure.

LIGHTNING'S QUEER WAYS.

As everyone knows, it is dangerous to stand near a tree during a thunderstorm, but, if anyone is so foolish as to do it, he will do well to learn against the tree. If he does this, the charge goes in at his shoulder, burning it, and then passes down the skin along the middle of his back. Arrived at the legs, it may run along one or both. It will seriously burn the knees and other prominent parts, get out through the stockings, or bore a hole through the boots, or destroy the boots altogether. But if he stands near a tree or wall without being in contract, the stream of lightning may jump to the head bones, and cause instant death. If it doesn't do this, it will probably burn the hair and travel over the skin of the head, going down the front of the body, or getting inside it, and doing terrible damage.

Shiloh's Cure

QUICKLY STOPS COUGHS, CURES COLDS, HEALS THE THROAT AND LUNGS. 25 CENTS

HAD TIRED OF IT.

Bates—"Are you taking anything for your hay fever?"

Yates—"Yes, I am taking physical culture to wallop the man who offers free advice."

A Pill That is Prized.—There have been many pills put upon the market and pressed upon public attention, but none has endured so long or met with so much favor as Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Widespread use of them has attested their great value, and they need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public esteem, they now rank without a peer in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

People would never know you had a temper if you didn't lose it occasionally.

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows.

Mrs. Coogan—An' the little thing is the image of his father. Mrs. Slattery—Yis, but I don't moind that so much so long as he kapes hilthy.

If one be troubled with corns and warts, he will find in Holloway's Corn Cure an application that will entirely relieve suffering.

MUST BE.

Mrs. Knowall (reprovingly)—Mrs. Nag told me to-day that her husband always keeps her photograph on his office desk.

Mr. Knowall—I suppose that explains why he's always late getting home to dinner.

Well, Well!

THIS is a HOME DYE that ANYONE can use

I dyed ALL these DIFFERENT KINDS of Goods with the SAME Dye. I used

DY-O-LA

ONE DYE FOR ALL KINDS OF GOODS

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 16. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

GETTING A START.

"Seven years ago I landed in this town with only $1, but that dollar gave me my start."

"You must have invested it very profitably."

"I did. I telegraphed home for money."

Pills That Have Benefited Thousands.—Known far and near as a sure remedy in the treatment of indigestion and all derangements of the stomach, liver and kidneys, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills have brought relief to thousands when other specifics have failed. Innumerable testimonials can be produced to establish the truth of this assertion. Once tried they will be found superior to all other pills in the treatment of the ailments for which they are prescribed.

A druggist can obtain an imitation of MINARD'S LINIMENT from a Toronto house at a very low price, and have it labeled his own product.

This greasy imitation is the poorest one we have yet seen of the many that every Tom, Dick and Harry has tried to introduce.

Ask for MINARD'S and you will get it.

AIRY RAIMENT.

Since little Paul wrote his composition on snow, his mother hopes that he may be a poet.

"I don't really know what snow is," he began, "but I think it may be air with clothes on."

Do not let a cold settle on your lungs. Resort to Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup at the first intimation of irritation in the throat and prevent disease from lodging in the pulmonary organs. Neglected colds are the cause of untold suffering throughout the country, all of which could have been prevented by the application of this simple but powerful medicine. The price, 25 cents, brings it within the reach of all.

SUPERIOR GIFT.

Knicker—They say a criminal always returns to the scene of his crime.

Bocker—Well, it isn't every one who can come back.

A Prime Dressing for Wounds.—In some factories and workshops carbolic acid is kept for use in cauterizing wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not scar the skin or burn the flesh. There is no other Oil that has its curative qualities.

THE ETERNAL QUESTION.

Willie—"Pa!"

Pa—"Yes."

Willie—"Teacher says we're here to help others."

Pa—"Of course we are."

Willie—"Well, what are the others here for?"

WISE JOHNNY.

Teacher—"Now, Johnny, suppose I should borrow $100 from your father and should pay him $10 a month for ten months, how much would I then owe him?"

Johnny—"About $3 interest."

MIGHT THINK IT.

Irate Gentleman (to his gardener)—"What do you mean, sir, by telling people in the village that I'm a stingy master?"

Gardener—"No fear o' me a-doin' the likes o' that, guv-nor, I allus keeps my thoughts to myself."

Lawyer for Defendant—Now, sir, you say that my client disappeared in the darkness after knocking you down. What time of night was this? Complainant—I can't say exactly. Your client had my watch.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, &c.

ORIGIN OF LACE MAKING.

A romantic legend is still current among the peasants of Europe concerning the origin of lace. As the story goes, a lover who could offer his betrothed no costly gift one day brought to her a leaf which he had plucked in the forest. She accepted it as a true token of love and preserved it with care. In time the lover went away—to the wars perhaps—and never returned. The maiden prized the leaf then as a sacred treasure, and when she found only the delicate veining left of her keepsake she took needle and thread and tried to copy the fairlylike web. And thus was made the first bit of real lace.

NEW TO THE "BEAT."

The New Girl—"An' may me intended visit me every Sunday afternoon, ma'am?"

Mistress—"Who is your intended, Delia?"

The New Girl—"I don't know yet, ma'am. I'm a stranger in town."

FOR HOUSEHOLD ACCIDENTS

Zam-Buk is so Very Useful.

Read how beneficial it proved here!

Mrs. H. Sawyer, of Keene, Ont., writes:—"My husband is engaged on a farm, and one day, while chopping wood, the top of the axe broke and fell upon his foot, cutting a nasty gash. The wound was so bad that we first thought we should have to get a doctor, but we finally decided to use Zam-Buk.

"Well, the Zam-Buk treatment proved a great success. It not only eased the pain, but it prevented any inflammation; and right from first applying Zam-Buk, the cut began to heal. It is now completely healed and my husband says he will never be without a box of Zam-Buk in the house."

Over and over again Zam-Buk has been proved to be the worker's best remedy. As soon as applied to a cut, a burn, a scald, or any skin injury, it relieves the pain and it sets up healing. It also prevents blood-poisoning or inflammation. It is a sure cure, too, for eczema, piles, ulcers, old wounds, bad leg, ringworm, scalp sores, festering, running sores, eruptions, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. Its absolute purity, also, makes it the ideal balm for babies.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse substitutes.

HOW SHE KNEW.

He—"You refuse me, then. Oh, well, there are others!"

She—"I know there are. I accepted one of them this afternoon."

Protect the child from the ravages of worms by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. It is a standard remedy, and years of use have enhanced its reputation.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

A man who looks like a sinner to other men may look like a saint to some woman.

Tightness across the chest means a cold on the lungs. That's the danger signal. Cure that cold with Hamlin's Wizard Oil before it runs into Consumption or Pneumonia.

SO THERE YOU ARE.

She—If a man loves his wife as much as she loves him, he will stop wasting his money on cigars if she asks him.

He—Yes, but if his wife loves him as much as she ought to love a man who loves her enough to stop it if she asks him, she won't ask him.

Love may be blind, but a woman is seldom blind to her own charms.

Used in Canada for over half a century—used in every corner of the world where people suffer from Constipation and its resulting troubles—stand higher in public estimation than any others, and their ever-increasing sales prove their merit. Physicians prescribe them.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills,

25c. a box.

CLEANING LADIES' WALKING OR OUTING SUITS

Can be done perfectly by our French process. Try it.

British American Dyeing Co.

Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and Quebec.

BANKS and INSURANCE COMPANIES BUY BONDS

¶ One very good reason why you should consider seriously a Bond investment is this; Canadian chartered Banks, Insurance Companies, and all financial institutions which continually have funds to invest and are in the best position to know safe and profitable investments, are large purchasers of bonds.

¶ Much of the money you deposit in Banks, Trust Companies and Insurance, is invested in bonds, at a considerably higher rate of interest than you receive.

¶ We want to get in touch with those who from time to time have money to invest, whether in large or small sums.

¶ Literature giving full description of Bond investment will be sent on request.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION

LIMITED

BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING

YONGE AND QUEEN STS.

TORONTO

R. M. WHITE - Manager

MONTREAL-QUEBEC-HALIFAX-LONDON(ENG.)

CANADA BUSINESS COLLEGE CHATHAM, ONT.

ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST BUSINESS SCHOOLS

Over 2,000 choice positions filled in past Four Years.

Some others just filled:—L. B. HANN, from Newfoundland, placed with Mask Milling Co., Moose Jaw, as Steno. FERN SMITH, Steno., Peabody Overall Co., Windsor. E. C. ROBINSON Bkkpr., with Bell Furniture Co., Southampton, Ont. FLOSSIE ANDERSON, Steno. and Bkkpr, Can. Wolverine Co., Chatham. MILDRED ANDERSON, Steno., with De Laval Separator Co., Winnipeg. R. J. SCOTT, teacher, with Drake College, Newark, N. J. The salaries of the three shown last week average over $700 per annum. The salaries of the six here shown average close to $700. Our students are prepared for the big positions where the big pay is offered. IT PAYS TO ATTEND THE BEST. Catalogue 33 tells of the work at Chatham Catalogue 34 tells of our home courses. Address, D. McLACHLAN & CO., C. B. College, Chatham, Ont.

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

$2 DAY SALARY AND UP—ALSO commission—for local representatives; immediately; permanent position; experience unnecessary; rapid advancement; spare time accepted. Nichols, Limited, Publishers, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice list of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply D. U. I. Co., 223 Albert St., Ottawa.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., West Street, Orillia, Ontario.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

TWENTY TO FIFTY BARBERS ADVERTised for in Toronto papers alone almost every day; let us teach you barber trade; expert instruction; constant practice; tools free. Write for catalogue. Moler Barber College, 221 Queen East, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A STUDY OF other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret it if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers' Dept., 225 Albert St., Ottawa.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write to-day for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

FURS

Trappers, Hunters and Dealers in any kind of Raw Furs, cannot afford to dispose of their collections without first obtaining our quotations, which we cheerfully furnish upon request. We specialize in the following:—RIGHT PRICES. LIBERAL ASSORTMENT. And remittance forwarded same day goods received, express and mail charges on all shipments paid by us, no shipment too large or too small. Canada's Largest Fur Operator. "There's a Reason." Your business and correspondence solicited. DEPT. R

John Hallam - TORONTO

RAW FURS WANTED

WRITE FOR PRICE LIST

W. C. Goffatt, Orillia, Ont.

RAW FURS

Collectors and shippers will find it to their advantage to get their names on our mailing list. This insures prompt receipt of our quotations and general information, which will be ready about the 15th of November. You can be sure of fair and liberal treatment when you ship your collections to Wagner, Brasler & Co. 88 Front St. East, Toronto, Ont.

H. H. NIGHTINGALE

STOCK BROKER

Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange

LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN

Correspondence Invited.

33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

Fall and Winter Clothing

It is time you were thinking about your cold weather clothing.

We are prepaid to supply you with a nice Fall or Winter suit of the best material, the latest style and finish at a price that cannot be beaten.

Try us and we will give you satisfaction.

W. W. TAMAN
Merchant Tailor,
Exeter, Ontario

EXETER MARKETS.

CHANGED EACH WEDNESDAY

Wheat	86	86
Barley	80	85
Buckwheat	55	55
Oats	42	42
Peas	85	85
Potatoes, per bag	75	90
Hay, per ton	9 50	10 00
Flour, per cwt., family		2 50
Flour, low grade per cw	1 50	1 50
Butter	22	23
Eggs	25	26
Live hogs, per cwt		6 00
Shorts per ton		26 00
Bran per ton		24 00

Poultry

We will pay till advised the following for poultry in trade.

Chichen	alive 7½c.	dry picked 9½c
Hens	" 5½c.	" 7½
Geese	" 0c.	" heads on 9½	heads off 10
Ducks	" 0c	" heads on 10½	heads off 11
Turkeys	" 15	" 17

One cent per pound less in each case for cash.

JONES & MAY

We have 30 Dinner Sets for you to choose from. The prices range from $7.50 to $25.00. Ask to see them.—Stewart's.

100 Girls Wanted for Factory. $5.00 per week to start with for girls eighteen and over. Address immediately D. S. Perrin & Company, Limited, London, Ont.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—Get your marriage license at the Advocate Office.

Hanging Lamps for Halls, Dining Rooms and Kitchens. These come to us direct from the factory in Pittsburg. Prices range from $3.00 to $7.75—Stewart's.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED —At once for work in your locality. Will guarantee $2. to $3. per day. Opportunity to advance rapidly. Will pay liberally for spare time. Work not difficult. Experience not required. apply to International Bible Press, Toronto, Ont.

Fleeced Lined Underwear, Penman's make, in sizes 34 to 44. This is a leader and sells for 50c.—Stewarts.

FLOUR AND FEED.—Having put in a stock of Flour and Feed I solicit your patronage. Stand one door north of Hoame's Hardware—Rivers' old stand. Jos. Davis.

Overcoats for Men and Boys with the new Convertable Collars. The cloths are good and patterns New. $4.50 to $15.00—Stewart's.

AUCTION SALES—Farmers and others having auction sales will do well to have their bills printed here and have their sales advertised in the Advocate. It reaches all the people.

VOGELGESANGS REMEDIES

I now offer my fever remedy to the public. I guarantee to cure typhoid fever at any stage in from two to four hours, with outside application. No bad effects from treatment. Your doctor will be welcome to watch the treatment. First treatment free. For further particulars apply to WM. M. BLATCHFORD Exeter, Ont.

The Advocate will be sent to any address in Canada till January 1913 for $1.00.

MISS J J ALLAN, eye sight specialist will be at the Commercial Hotel, Exeter, on SATURDAY, NOV. 18th. ONE DAY ONLY.

It Grows Hair

BUT NOT AFTER THE HAIR ROOT IS DEAD.

W. S. Cole will tell you that he sells a great many bottles of Parisian Sage because it gives satisfaction.

He guarantees it to eradicate dandruff stop falling and splitting hair and itching scalp, or money back.

Parisian Sage will make hair grow if the hair root is not dead; it puts life and luster into dull and faded hair, and is the most delightful hair dressing in the world. Only 50 cents a large bottle.

Parisian Sage is the best hair grower and beautifier, dandruff cure and scalp cleaner known. Try it on our money back plan.

LOCAL DOINGS.

Only six weeks to Christmas.

Mr. Mulk conductor on the L. H) & B. is holidaying.

Constable Bissett is recovering from a series of Job's comforters.

Succession Duties added nearly $300,000 to the Provincial treasury last year.

The plasterers and decorators on the New Bank of Commerce completed their work last week and have left town.

Look out for another great treat in James street church. The Canadian Jubilee Singers are booked for Dec. 18.

Wm. Birney and Gordon Sanders, left on Wednesday of last week for Chatham, where they will enter on a course in the Business College.

Mr. Wm. Cornish, who has been living in Hay Township has moved with his family on the farm recently vacated by Mr. Henry Statham on the London R'd South.

To-day David Wilson, of Grand Bend, will appear in the County Court, at Goderich to answer to a charge of criminal assault, alleged to have been committed a few months ago.

Mr. Jas. Bawden, teller at the Molsons Bank here has resigned the position and will leave the service of the Bank. Mr. Earl Spackman of the Ottawa branch fills the vacancy and commenced duty Monday.

Mr. A. J. Rollins, who has been residing in London for several years, removed with his family to Detroit last week. Mr. Rollins formerly resided in Detroit before moving to the neighborhood of London.

Luther Burbank, the naturalist, announced that he has produced a blackberry bush that has no thorns. Burbank said he had worked ten years on the blackberry bush in the endeavor to remove its thorns.

Mr. Samuel Rowe of Wallaceburg was in town Saturday disposing of his fine brick residence on Elizabeth street, occupied by Mr. W. H. Collins, to his brother, Mr. John Rowe, of Hay. Mr. Collins will continue to reside therein.

Bailiff Cameron of Goderich was in town Tuesday for the purpose of serving Miss Francis Davis with papers to appear at Goderich as a witness against Cruickshanks, who attempted to assault her. Miss Davis however, had returned to Wingham.

The Oddfellows drove to Hensall Friday night and spent a very pleasant time with their Hensall brethern. After conferring the 2nd Degree, at the Lodge room they adjourned to Brother Palmer's restaurant, where they participated in an oyster supper.

Mrs. R. G. Seldon left Monday to attend the wedding at Ingersoll of Miss Maria Seldon, daughter of Mr. Richard Seldon, to Mr. Ralph Doerr. Miss Seldon is a sister of Mr. R. G. Seldon of town and is well-known to many here who will wish for her a long and happy wedded life.

Earl, the young son of Rev. R. G. Powell, was painfully injured while playing on the school grounds Thursday last. He made a quick turn and in so doing ran against a tree, inflicting an ugly wound on his forhead and rendering him unconscious for an hour or more. He was at once removed to his home and he has since recovered.

The daughter of Miss Margaret Grace Wilson, daughter of the late Rev. Jasper Wilson, M. A. and Lorne Alden Bedy B. A., of the St. Marys Journal, was quietly celebrated at the Methodist Church, Gesto, Ont. on Tuesday, October, 31st. Miss Wilson formerly resided in Exeter, and will have the hearty congratulations of her friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Bedy are spending their honeymoon in New York.

Word has just been received here from Winnipeg, Man., that Mrs. Geo. H. Bissett of that city, a former well-known resident of Exeter, was confined to the the Hospital, where she underwent a critical surgical operation for the removal of an internal tumor on Wednesday of last week. The operation was successful and at the time of writing she was resting easily. Her many friends here will wish for her a speedy and complete recovery.

Mr. Wm. Burke, who has been conducting the Central Barber shop here for the past two years, has disposed of the business to Mr. Frank Boyle, who has been engaged with Mr. Burke for some time. Mr. Burke has enjoyed a large patronage during his stay here and we bespeak for Mr. Boyle a continuance of that liberal patronage. Mr. Boyle took possession on Thursday, Mr. Burke left Saturday for Berlin where he has accepted a position as barber.

Printers are not always to blame for the mistakes that appear in type. If the public could only see the mistakes in copy that comes to the local editor they would be quite lenient with him when as occasionally happens an error slips through. The reporter for a young people's society in a certain town learned this lesson at his own expertence. Miss Alice Trotter, who furnished the local paper with news concerning the young people's meetings, good naturedly, but earnestly took the editor to task for changing her news articles. When the program for the next Sunday evening meeting came to the editor he printed it just as it was written. It happened that the reporter herself was to be leader, and the announcement of subject and leader read,—"Look up and lift up Allie Trotter."

HICKS' NOVEMBER FORECASTS.—A regular storm period covers the 20 to 25th. The new Moon on the 20th will precipitate low barometer, change to warmer, cloudiness and rain, at the beginning of this period. During Tuesday the 21st, to Friday the 25th, autumnal rains will pass eastwardly over the country, but the western flanks of storm areas will bring rising barometer, change to westerly winds, and very decided squalls of snow and sleet— All followed by an early blast of boreal weather out of the northwest. A seismic period is central on the 20th, covering the 17th to the 23rd. During this period there will be a maximum strain that will result in earthquakes in many parts of the earth. Watch telegraphic reports and see.

Mr. Thos. Elliott is nursing a sore hand these days, the result of blood-poisoning caused by the stub of a feather penetrating the skin while picking fowl.

Mr. Ed. Treble has been confined to his bed for several days through an attack of lead poisoning Dr. Gregor of London was called on consultation Sunday.

The many friends here of Rev. A. H. Going of Hamilton, a former popular pastor of James street church, will be pleased to hear that he is recovering from his recent attack of typhoid fever and in the course of a few weeks is expected to be able to resume his pulpit duties.

Andrew Cruickshanks of Wingham, arrested for assault on Miss Frances Davis, of which mention was made last week, was arraigned before Judge Doyle and pleaded not guilty. Cruickshanks was remanded to jail to stand trial on Nov. 20. Bail was not asked. Cruickshanks, it appears, served a three-year term in Kingston in 1901 for a similar charge.

BUSINESS CHANGE.—Having purchased the barbering business of Mr. W. Burke I solicit a continuance of the patronage accorded the late proprietor and any new customers who may wish to give me a call. I have secured the services of Mr. A. Hastings, who for many years conducted the shop, therefore customers can rely on getting the very best of satisfaction and attention. Hot and cold baths. Frank Boyle.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS.—There is good news for High School students, who look forward with dread to the prospect of writing their matriculation examinations in a frizzling temperature of 104, as happened last July. The amended regulations of the Department of Education provide that next year the matriculation examination must be completed by the 30th of June.

HEYWOOD—PARSONS— The Central Methodist Church parsonage, London, was the scene of an interesting event on Wednesday of last week, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. Hector Heywood, son of Mr. Caleb Heywood of town, to Miss Edith Annie Parsons of 72 Rectory street, London. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Hazen, while the groom was supported by his brother, A. J. Heywood of Iona, and the bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Ella Parsons. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The young couple will have the best wishes of their many friends for their future happiness and prosperity.

DIED IN ST. PAUL.—The sad news was received here Thursday of last week of the death of Mr D. Richie Elliott, of St. Paul, Minn., a former resident of Exeter. The deceased had been in very poor health for a year or more from a growth on the brain and all possible means of relief known to medical science was sought, but all proved futile and the end came gradual. Mr Elliott was a native of Stephen being born at Fairfield in the year 1856 and was a son of the late David Elliott. After acquiring a good public school education he went to learn the hardware business with the late James Pickard, of Exeter, and about 35 years ago, went West, where he remainded about 10 years. About 25 years ago he went to St. Paul, and has since continuously resided in that city being engaged in the wholesale hardware and cuttlery business. Mr. Elliott was a man of keen business ability, a jovial companion, a true friend and was much esteemed and respected by all who knew him. He is survived by a sorrowing widow, one son and one daughter. The remains were brought here for burial, the funeral taking place from the residence of his brother, Mr. W. R. Elliott, of Stephen to the Fairfield cemetery on Saturday. Deceased was aged 55 years.

EYE SIGHT SPECIALIST—Miss J. J. Allan, will be at the Commercial Hotel Exeter, on SATURDAY, NOV. 18th. ONE DAY ONLY.

THE SAME OLD STORY.—I was prejudiced against your flour, but tried a bag with the result I find that I have thrown away money buying some of the more expensive flour. MODEL is the best of the lot, I will buy no other. Call at the mill for the customer's name and investigate.

APPLES

Those wanting good NO. 1 Winter Apples call at the store.

Jones & May

Geo. Coleman of London visited with friends here last week.

Mr. Geo. Moir, jr., returned from the West Tuesday morning.

Miss Kate Bonthron of Toronto is visiting friends in town.

Mr and Mrs. R. N. Creech visited in Brantford the past week

Mrs. F. W. Gladman returned last week from a visit in Toronto.

Mrs. Wm. Morrison of Owen Sound is the guest of Mrs. S. Pitton.

Mr. John Elliott left Thursday last to visit with friends in Marlette Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Holmes of Egmondville were visiting in town Saturday.

Mr. Caleb Heywood left Tuesday to spend a few days shooting near Wingham.

Mr. Robt. Sanders left Wednesday for Wingham where he will remain for a time shooting.

Mr. and Mrs. Chesney of Seaforth were visitors with relatives and friends in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Merv. Huston arrived here on Tuesday evening to visit the former's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos Seldon of Ingersoll visited with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Seldon over Sunday.

Mrs. Thos. Bawden and daughter Miss Ila of Clinton, were guests of Mrs. Dickson over Sunday.

Mrs. Murray Miller has returned to town after a short visit with relatives at Thompsonville, Mich.,

Mr. Geo. Armstrong of Paris visited with his brother, Mr. I. Armstrong the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Moir and two children returned from an extended visit in the West Tuesday evening.

Miss Edna Bissett has returned from a five weeks' visit with her brother, I. R. Bissett in Strathroy.

Mr. Reg. Elliott and daughter Madeline (Gay) of Norwich visited for several days with relatives in town.

Mrs. Bence and child, of Buffalo, N. Y. is spending a few days with relatives prior to leaving for her new home in Providence, R. I.

Mr. W. J. Crooks, traveller, of Toronto was shaking hands with old friends in town Wednesday of last week, The Advocate acknowledges a pleasant call.

Mr. R. N. W. Page, who has been on the Molsons Bank Staff here for some time, has been moved to St. Thomas branch. He left for that place on Saturday.

Rev. Hobbs and Rev. Collins of town, Rev. Fletcher of Thames Road, and Messrs W. Moody Chas. Monteith and a number of others are attending the Missionary Conference in London this week.

"Mrs. Thomas Hollaway, accompanied her daughter, Mrs. R. N. Rowe and Miss Reta Rowe to Exeter and will probably spend the winter there. Mrs. Rowe and daughter have been visiting here for the past three weeks or so.—Clinton New. Era.

Flour

Several Brands. Manitoba a specialty.

Lime

A good stock always on hand.

Cement

Durham National Partland Cement is the best.

R. G. Seldon, Exeter

Bus, Dray and Teaming Business

Your orders in our line will be attended to quickly and satisfactorily. We are here to please the public needing anything in our line, and we ask a trial from you. Orders left by phone or otherwise at THE ADVOCATE OFFICE, PHONE 25, will receive prompt attention.

T. G. Creech

Phone 55

Powell's Bazaar

5c. 10c. 15c. 25c.

VARIETY STORE

Our store is attracting attention. Lots of new customers, getting lots of bargains from our several departments. We have landed hundreds of dollars worth of China, Toys, Fancy Goods, Postcards, Etc. Etc., the past few weeks, and have marked the stuff at prices to sell it. It wont pay you to buy elsewhere. Our assortment is large and prices very low. We want everyone who reads this to come and see them. See what you are buying and compare our prices with others At this store prices range from a few cents upwards, and the exhibition is free to all.

A FEW REMEMBERS.—
Remember we sell Nameless Cold Cure.
Remember we sell Enjoyme Face Cream.
Remember we sell Enjoyme Tooth Paste.
Remember we sell Enjoyme Perfumes.
Remember we sell Talcum Powders.
And give premiums FREE to all patrons of 2nd department. Remember an Edison Phonograph for Xmas is a good investment.

HOME OF GREAT BARGAINS.

OUR WATCH AND

Jewelry Business

is steadily on the increase. Our stock is one of the largest in the County and equal to that of any city store. You cannot possibly make a mistake by calling on us and examining our stock.

Our prices are right. Prove it for yourself by comparison with others. Our selections are large, giving you a large variety to choose from—again the proof is by comparison. Our goods are of fine quality. We back this statement with our guarantee. Don't these things give us a right to expect from you a fair consideration of our goods.

A. Marchand, Exeter
Jeweller & Optician

Rowe & Atkinson

Undertakers
And
Furniture Dealers

We carry a complete stock in all lines.

Phone for Store 20a
For Sundays and nights 20b

ROWE & ATKINSON
The Leading Home Furnishers and Funeral Directors.

JONES & MAY

PHONE NO. 32

Another Big Shipment

Of Mens and Boys Clothing

All bought at job prices to make a noise

Men's and Boys' Overcoats
Men's and Boys' Suits
Men's and Boys' Pants
Men's and Boys' Fur Coats
Fur Lined
Fur Collar Coats
all at big snaps.

Warm Wearables for Ladies

WINTER FURS
We are showing all the new things in Furs for this Winter. Be sure and see them.

SWEATER COATS
For Ladies, Men, and children all colors, all styles at 75c. to $5.00

FUR LINED COATS

Best shells with A. No. I. Muskrat lining and Alaska or America Sable Collars also Fur Collar Coats.

LADIES FANCY WAISTS

Net Waists in Black While or Ecru Silk waists in Black, Colors and Fancy.

Ladies' Misses' and Children's Coats

We are still making a big noise with our Winter Coats. Some very nice styles and cloths are coming in every week and we are sure to fit and please you with one of our Popular Priced Coats.

JONES & MAY

Headquarters for the celebrated W. E. Sanford Clothing

Exeter Advocate.

TWENTY-FOURTH YEAR. EXETER, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1911. SANDERS & CREECH

Local Items

Rev. Powell took Rev. Millyard's work in Hensall on Sunday morning.

DIED IN LONDON.—Dorothy Manning, wife of Thomas Werry, of London, died on Thursday, Nov. 9th, in her 61st year, after a very short illness of only a few hours. She was born in Usborne where the family lived until they moved to London seven years ago. The fact of her husband being ill for the past three months without hope of recovery, makes it sad indeed for those who survive. They have the sympathy of the entire community.

In a letter from Mr. A. Bagshaw of Morrin, Alta., formerly of Exeter, he tells us that he was among the unfortunate ones this year who lost their crop by hail. His many friends regret to hear of the unfortunate occurrence. Abe is one of those who look on the bright side, however, and he hopes for better luck next year. We trust he may get it, too. He reports that they had sleighing for several days after October 22nd. The storm started the wild fowl south and Abe succeeded in bringing down seven geese out of one flock. One of the geese measured 62 inches from tip to tip of the wings and 36 inches from bill to tail. Mr. Bagshaw wished to be remembered to his old friends.

ROSS—RIVERS—A pleasing event took place at high noon on Thursday last, Nov. 9th, at the home of Councillor W. C. and Mrs. Rivers, Simcoe St., when their daughter, Miss May, became the bride of Mr. David J. Ross of Winnipeg, son of the late Hugh Ross, formerly of Exeter. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Richard Hobbs in the presence of a number of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. They were unattended. The ceremony and congratulations over a dainty wedding dinner was served. The young couple took the 5 o'clock train for Winnipeg, where they will make their future home. The Advocate unites with the many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Ross a prosperous and happy life.—The previous Monday evening a miscellaneous shower was tendered the bride by her young friends at the home of Miss Louise Caring.

$1 pays for The Advocate to Jan. 1, 1913

When a married woman dies without leaving a will, the husband takes one-third of the estate if there be issue and one-half of the estate if no issue.

DOERR-SELDON.—The home of Richard Seldon, Ingersoll, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when his second daughter, Maria, was united in marriage to Mr. Ralph Doerr, of the firm of C. B. Doerr & Co., Berlin. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about 40 guests, by Rev. H. B. Christie. The bride was attended by her sister, Emma, and the groom was assisted by his cousin Mr. Weyburn of Berlin, while Masters Harry and Willie Seldon, nephews of the bride, acted as pages. Guests were in attendance from Toronto, Detroit, Buffalo, London, St. Thomas, Berlin, Exeter and other places.

DIED IN AILSA CRAIG.—A very sad and somewhat unexpected death occurred in Ailsa Craig on Nov. 6, when Mr. David Gilbert, who has been ill but a short time passed away. Mr. Gilbert, although not enjoying the best of health for some few months past, was able to be around, to his friends was apparently in the best of health until Friday, when he was taken suddenly worse and continued to sink until the end came. Deceased for several years resided near Exeter, having lived on Mr. Robert Leathorn's farm in Stephen, and during his residence there as well as every other place he lived he made many warm friends who will deeply regret to hear of his death. He leaves to mourn his loss three daughters and one son, his wife having predeceased him some years.

DEATH OF MISS SNELL.—The home of Mr. and Mrs Eli Snell was saddened on Monday morning last by the death of their daughter, Mary Alberta, at the youthful age of 22 years, 6 months, 2 days. Deceased had been declining in health for three or four years from lung trouble, and had gradually grown worse until the sudden change in the weather on Saturday which was too much for the enfeebled constitution, and she rapidly sank, until relieved of her suffering on Monday morning. Miss Snell was a particularly bright and clever young woman and beloved by all who knew her. With her young companion before her illness she was a general favorite. Her suffering she had borne with a quiet patience and gentle uncomplaining spirit which was pathetic and touching to all. She is survived by her parents two sisters and three brothers, Mrs. J. Norry, Miss Martha, Edward and Willie at home and J. C. Snell of Usborne; all of whom have the sincere sympathy of the entire community. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ford of Woodham celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday, Dec. 19th.

POPULATION.—According to the census figures the following are the populations of the towns and villages in Huron.—Wingham 2288, Blyth 805, Brussells 902, Wroxeter 366, Seaforth 1983, Bayfield 499, Exeter 1554, Hensall 792, Clinton 2251, Goderich 4552. Goderich is probably the only place that has made any material increase in the past ten years. Other surrounding places have.—Forest 1444, Mitchell 1766, St. Marys 3393, Tavistock 991, Parkhill 1280, Ailsa Craig 568, Lucan 709.

GUILTY—Andrew Cruickshank was found guilty at Goderich on Friday last of assaulting with intent to do grievous bodily harm to an Exeter young lady, Miss Frances Davis, at Wingham. Judge Holt remanded him until Monday and again until next Saturday for sentence. The file thrown by Cruickshank was 18 inches long, and an inch and half in width. The prisoner is an "Indian linter," but claims that he has been supplied with a fifty-cent flask every day for two months. This story is to be referred to the license commissioners. The prisoner admitted having thrown the file, but claimed that he had not intended to, but says it slipped out of the handle. He had already spent three years in penitentiary on the charge of shooting a man ten years ago.

EXETER SCHOOL BOARD

Minutes of meeting held in the Town Hall, Monday, Nov. 13. Absent T. B. Carling. The following is the order of business duly submitted and approved. Per chair—Minutes of previous meeting; Reports of Committees—Wood, 50 cord purchased at $5 per cord, cutting and storing of old supply done; Repairs—Furnace not yet inspected, leakage in roof not repaired; Floral—Tulips received and planted, the work being well done by janitor; Teachers' supply—Miss Lulu Edmonds of Huntsville secured at an initial salary of $700, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Robb; Principal——H. S. enrolment 95.6 work being well gripped with a sensible improvement month by month; Supplies required, Miss Howard thermometer, Miss Kinsman, a supply of plasticene, and Form I., a desk bell; Physical exercises given limited attention, out-door drill very desirable. Deficit on account of Field Day Exercises 18.60. Per F. W. Wood and H. Huston that the Principals report be adopted. Per F. W. Gladman and S. Martin—That the engagement of Miss Edmonds be confirmed. Ped H. Huston and S. Martin that a cheque be issued by the Board to cover the deficit in the field day receipts, amount 18.60. Per F. Wood and S. Martin—That Miss Robb be furnished with a suitable recommendation, accompanied by the best wishes of the board. Per H. Huston and S. Martin—That the principal and F. W. Gladman be added to the Agricultural committee. Per S. Martin and F. W. Gladman—That the following accounts be accepted and paid,—W. S Cole 1.35; S. Sanders, Globe ads. 1.26; W. J. Heaman, dust bane 6.65; United Type Writer Co., carbon, 80c.; Thos. Crewes, bulb beds, 5.00; J Grigg, books and telegrams, 22.51; T. Houlden, fertilizer, 1.00. Per S Martin and H. Huston—That F. W. Gladmman and F. Wood be a committee to wait on Sergeant-Major Hector in reference to physical drill for the advanced classes. Per H Huston, adjournment.—J. Grigg, Sec.

Mr Ed. Treble is able to be out again after his recent severe illness.

Workmen are busily engaged preparing for the erection of the new station.

The first sleighs appeared on the streets Wednesday, and the slipping was good.

John Grieve of Parkhill has been chosen as the Liberal candidate in the north riding of Middlesex.

Mr. Joseph Stacey sold his farm in Hay last week, and has purchased the farm of Mr. Rich. Terry in Usborne.

The roof and end boarding has been placed on the rink, and it gives the appearance of an excellent structure for the purpose.

W. H. Kerr, editor of the Brussels Post, has accepted the Liberal nomination in North Huron. A. H. Musgrove is the Conservative candidate.

The Western Fair, London, will have a deficit this year of from $1500 to $2000. This is due to unfavorable weather and extra lighting expense.

Mrs. George Etherington of Usborne received word Tuesday that her daughter, Mrs. John Newcombe, of Stratford was very ill. She left the same evening for that city.

Rev. J. E. J. Millyard of Hensall will deliver his address on "The Shamrock, Rose and Thistle" in Caven Presbyterian Church on Friday evening, 24th inst. The address will be illustrated by lime light views. Everyone should hear this treat. Silver collection taken.

FUNERAL OF LATE W. G. BISSETT

The funeral of the late Wm. G. Bissett took place from his late residence, Andrew street, on Saturday morning last, to the Exeter Cemetery, the service being conducted by Rev. Richard Hobbs. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Silas, James and Thomas Handford and Messrs. Eli, Charles and George Snell, cousins of deceased. The town Council and officials attended in a body. Among those present from a distance were, Ed. Bissett of Winnipeg, Rev. Rigsby of Sarnia, Henry Taylor of Wyoming, Frank Taylor, Thos. Oke and Mr. Rose of London, and Miss Westland of Wyoming.

MAIN ST. CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

Despite the heavy wind and snow storm of Sunday the Anniversary services of Main street Methodist church were largely attended. Rev. J. E. J. Millyard of Hensall preached interesting sermons, both morning and evening. In the evening he was assisted by the pastor, Rev. Sharp of Caven Presbyterian church, the service in that church having been suspended. A mass meeting of the Sunday School was held in the afternoon, when interesting addresses were made to the scholars.

INSTITUTED ODDFELLOWS LODGE

Grand Master S. A. Poplestone, of Blyth and District Deputy W. J. Murray of Exeter, assisted by Organizer Anderson, and Hensall and Exeter Lodges of Oddfellows instituted a lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows at Zurich on Thursday night of last week.

Organizer Anderson, who has been securing the applicants for the last two weeks, had rounded up a goodly list of applicants, consisting of such well-known citizens as the newly elected M. P., Mr. J. J. Meiner, the Liberal candidate for the Legislature, Mr. E. Zeller, Messrs John Williams, John Graybell, Dr. Campbell, Dr. Wilson, etc., to the number of fifteen, and they were made acquainted with the mysteries of the Initatory, First, Second and Third Degrees. The Initatory and Second Degrees were conferred by Exeter Lodge and the First and Third Degrees by Hensall Lodge, the work being done in a manner which was a credit to both lodges. It was daylight when the work was completed. The members of the new lodge served a pleasant lunch between the first and second degrees.

HAY TOWNSHIP WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Mrs Truemner, wife of Daniel Truemner, a farmer, living on the Babylon line, Hay Township, near Dashwood committed suicide between 10 and 11 o'clock Tuesday morning by hanging.

She left the house during the forenoon none of the family taking particular notice, as nothing was suspected. An hour or so later, her absence being noticed, a search was made in the stable, and she was found hanging to a beam quite dead.

Mrs. Truemner, who was a middle-age woman, had been ill for several months, besides being hard of hearing, and was lately subject to fits of melancholy. No one had any suspicion however, that she contemplated suicide.

Besides her husband she is survived by a family of seven children, the youngest being about three years of age. The Truemner families, of which there are several in the neighborhood are highly respected and will have the sympathy of the whole community.

GRAND BEND MAN GOT SIX MONTHS.

Goderich, Nov. 9.—David Wilson, a young man from the southern part of the county, appeared in the county court to-day to answer a charge of indecent assault alleged to have been scommitted against a young girl, 15 years of age, at Grand Bend in August last. He was found guilty of the offence by Judge Holt and sentenced to a term of six months' imprisonment in the county jail. The judge ruled that in spite of the young man's previous good record the ends of justice would not be met if an example were not made of the accused in this case. He also stated that the sentence imposed should serve as a warning to all young men who would hear of the nature of the case.

ELIMVILLE

Winter certainly came with a vengeance on Sunday, after the warm day on Saturday.—Mr. John Hicks has the stable that he bought at the Mansion House in Exeter moved home and intends putting a lean to his barn with it.—The Elimville and Winchelsea beef ring people held their annual meeting in the Town Hall on Saturday evening last to wind up the business for the year.—We are sorry to hear that Mr. Robt. Wilcox is down with a stroke. One day last week while tying up bushes he was stricken down without any warning and had to be carried into the house, his left side being helpless. Medical aid was summoned and it was found that he was suffering from a hemorrhage of the brain, causing paralysis. His friends hope he will soon be around again.—Mr. Bryan Rowcliffe has purchased a farm on the London Road, two and a half miles south of Clinton, and takes possession on the 1st of January. Success By.—Mrs. Wes Horn and family visited her sister, Mrs. Jim McFalls of Hay.—Miss Beatrice Wilcox of London is home waiting on her father.—Mr. Joshua Johns has his house completed and has moved into it again after an absence of three years. After all there is no place like the farm.—Mr. and Mrs. Michael Elford and Mrs. Isaac Johns went to London on Saturday to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Thos. Werry, who used to be an old resident of Elimville. Mr. Werry is also very ill and and not expected to recover.—Mr. and Mrs. Elford went on to St. Thomas and spent Sunday and Monday with Mrs Elford's father and mother and Mrs. Johns visited in London.—The young ladies of Elimville sewing circle on Friday evening last gave Miss Ada Tucker, their president, a kitchen shower prior to her marriage to Mr. Geo. Wright.

A BARGAIN INDEED

Two cents a week is exactly what it cost to guarantee you the greatest treat you ever enjoyed. That small amount per week, or one dollar a year will secure you the greatest amount of newspaper reading to be had on this continent. We refer to The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, by long odds the best family and farm paper printed. In addition to the paper a most beautiful premium picture is included. It is entitled "Home Again" and is well worth a dollar alone. No home in Canada, be it ever so rich or ever so poor, can afford to be without this bargain.

BIRTHS

Jennings.—At Fair Mount Cottage, Forest Hill, Toronto, on Nov. 8th, to Mr. and Mrs. H. Jennings, a son.

MARRIAGES

Ross—Rivers—In Exeter, on Nov. 9th, by Rev. R. Hobbs, David J. Ross of Winnipeg, to Miss May, daughter of Councillor W. C. Rivers and Mrs. Rivers of Exeter.

Stoneman—Ross—In Clinton, on November 16, Fred Stoneman of Montlach, Sask., to Miss Christina Ross, of Clinton.

Spear—McEwan—In Stanley, Nov. 15 Mr. Will, Spear of Highgate to Miss Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McEwan of Stanley.

DEATHS

Snell—In Exeter, Nov. 13, Mary Alberta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Snell, aged 22 years, 6 months, 2 days.

Werry—In London, Nov. 9, Dorothy Manning, wife of Thomas Werry, in her 61st year.

Foster.—In Clinton, on Nov. 4, John Foster.

WILKEN.—In Clinton, on Nov. 6, Jane Wilson, wife of Mr. A. Wilken, in her 52nd year.

Willey.—In Stanley, on Nov. 2, Mrs. Thomas Willey, aged 57 years.

Staph—In Tuckersmith, on Tuesday, Nov 2nd, John Staph, aged 81 years.

Gilbert—Ailsa Craig, on Nov. 6th David Gilbert, formerly of McGillivray.

CARLING'S

PHONE 18

DRESS GOODS DRESS GOODS

We are having a two weeks sale of all Dress Goods in black and colored. We therefore quote a few of the prices to show you that we mean what we say. These Dress Goods are in nearly all the shades that are worn this fall. Dress Goods that was

Regular $1.25 for $1.12 — Regular $1.35 for $1.08
Regular $1.50 for 98c. — Regular $1.00 for 88c.
Regular 75c. for 58c. — Regular 50c. for 42c.

All these prices hold good only for two weeks so come in and secure your dress for the coming season.

READY MADE SKIRTS

We have a few ready made skirts in Black, Green Red, Blues, Brown, and Old Rose which we will clear out at a discount of 33⅓ per cent. off. Come and purchase early because this is a bargain.

WALL PAPERS

House cleaning time is come again so buy your Fall Wall Paper now while we are offering a discount of 25 per cent. on all papers.

You may need a new Carpet or Rug this fall, if you do just come in and purchase at a discount of 15 per cent. These are exceptional bargains.

DINNER SETS

Just a few left to clear regular $10.00 for $8.00 Regular $8.00 for $6.00.

Highest prices paid for all kinds of Produce.

W. J. CARLING

ONTARIO

Provincial Loan of $1,000,000

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, under the authority of Chapter 4, of the Statutes of Ontario, 1911, invites subscriptions from the public for a loan of $1,000,000 on bonds of the Province of Ontario, or Ontario Government Stock

The bonds will be dated 1st November, 1911, and payable on the 1st November, 1941, in denominations of $1,000 each with coupons attached for interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly on the 1st May and 1st November in each year, at the office of the Provincial Treasurer, Toronto, or at the offices of the Bank of Montreal in Montreal, Canada, and in New York N. Y. at the holder's option. Bonds will be made payable to bearer, but on request will be registered in the office of the Provincial Treasurer and endorsed as payable only to the order of certain persons or corporations, and on request of holders will be exchanged for "Ontario Government Stock" at any time

The issue price during the month of November, 1911, will be 102 for each $1000, and after the 30th day of November, 1911, the issue price will be 102 and interest accrued from the 1st November, 1911.

ALL BONDS AND INSCRIBED STOCK ISSUED UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE SAID ACT ARE FREE FROM ALL ONTARIO PROVINCIAL TAXES CHARGES SUCCESSION DUTY AND IMPOSITIONS WHATSOEVER.

Purchasers of Stock or Bonds will be required to send certified cheque with the application, payable to the order of the "Provincial Treasurer of Ontario." This loan is raised upon the credit of the consolidated Revenue Fund of Ontario, and is chargeable thereupon.

A. J. MATHESON,
Provincial Treasurer.

Treasurer Department, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, 1st November, 1911

Newspapers inserting this advertisement with out authority from the Department will not be paid for it.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Wharf at Goderich, Ont., will be received at this office until 4.00 P. M. on Monday, December 11, 1911, for the construction of a wharf at Goderich, Huron County, Ont.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department and at the offices of J. G. Sing., Esq., District Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont. H. J. Lamb, Esq., District Engineer, Windsor, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Goderich, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and place of residence. In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary

Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, November 13, 1911.

Newspapers will not be paid for this advertisement if they insert it without authority from the Department.

Look

You Have A Chance To Buy Men's And Boys' Furnishings And Clothing

At one third off the regular price for the next four weeks at BAWDEN'S Old Stand.

Underwear, Gloves Mits, Ties, Mufflers, Pajamas, Suits Overcoats, Collars Etc.

$2.00 hats for $1.25
75c. caps for 50c.
Men's Sweater Coats $1.50
Boy's Sweater Coats 75c.
A self opening umbrella for only 79c.

At the Exeter Bargain Store you can get for half price dress trimmings, ribbons laces, children's hose and a lot of other lines

Plenty of shoes, rubbers, and overshoes at slaughter prices. Come to-day don't wait.

Bawden's Old Stand
The Exeter Bargain Store

B. W. F. Beavers

The World's Favorite is

LIPTON'S TEA

OVER 2 MILLION PACKAGES SOLD WEEKLY

KEEP YOUR STOCK WELL AND THRIVING ALL WINTER

With "INTERNATIONAL STOCK FOOD"—
The best known and most reliable Stock Food on the market.

Farmers, Stockmen and Breeders all use it and praise it because it gives animals new strength and endurance—purifies the blood—improves their appearance—and at the same time, saves corn and oats, and only costs you

3 FEEDS For ONE CENT

For sale by Dealers everywhere, and the price will be refunded if it don't save you money.

Write for copy of our "$3,000 Stock Book"—the most helpful Book ever published for the Farmer and Stockman. Sent free.

Here Is What One Stock Raiser Says

DALESVILLE, QUE.
The International Stock Food Co., Toronto, Ont.

Gentlemen:—Please find enclosed postal notes for $15.00, the amount of my account. I have found International Stock Food excellent for my horses and cattle, and pigs. It has given me every satisfaction, and I would not be without it. As soon as my present supply is finished I shall send a further order.
(Signed) J. V. SMITH.

INTERNATIONAL STOCK FOOD CO., LIMITED. - TORONTO. 59

The Rayo Lamp

The Lamp That Saves The Eyes

Children naturally never think of possible strain on their eyesight when poring over a fascinating book.

It is up to you to see they do not ruin their young eyes these long evenings by reading under a poor light.

The Rayo Lamp is an insurance against eye troubles, alike for young and old.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp, but it is constructed on the soundest scientific principles, and there is not a better lamp made at any price.

It is easy on the eye because its light is so soft and white and widely diffused. And a Rayo Lamp never flickers.

Easily lighted without removing shade or chimney; easy to clean and rewick. Solid brass throughout, with handsome nickel finish; also in many other styles and finishes.

Ask your dealer to show you his line of Rayo lamps; or write for descriptive circular to any agency of

The Queen City Oil Company, Limited

The Home

Notes of Particular Interest to Women Folks

TESTED RECIPES.

Minced Turkey in Potato Cups.—Mince fine some slices of cold roast turkey, add a little dressing to give flavor and moisten with gravy. Prepare some nicely seasoned mashed potato, stir in a beaten egg, and form into small balls. Hollow out the centers with a spoon. Fill with turkey mixture and set in oven till heated through. Garnish with parsley and serve with giblet loaf.

Cranberry Pie—Mix well together two level tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, one cupful of sugar, a pinch of salt, moisten with a little cold water and cook five minutes. Add one-half cupful of raisins, seeded and chopped, and one and a half cupfuls of chopped cranberries. Simmer for fifteen minutes, pour into a baked crust, cover with the white of an egg beaten stiff with one tablespoonful of sugar, and brown lightly in the oven. This pie has the flavor of cherries.

Fig and Prune Pudding.—One-fourth pound of well washed dried figs chopped fine, one dozen cooked prunes drained from their syrup and stones removed, the rind and juice of one lemon or one tart orange, one-quarter of a grated nutmeg, one-quarter pound of suet (chopped fine), one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of brown sugar, two cupfuls of bread crumbs, one tablespoonful of flour, two eggs. Steam three hours in a well greased, tightly covered mold. Serve with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla. Decorate the pudding with a few cooked prunes. Dip half lumps of sugar in brandy—one for each guest—arrange on top of pudding, and light just before placing on table. Let each guest choose one and make a wish. The lump of sugar burning longest will indicate success.

Stuffed Beef Heart—In these days of high priced meats one can make many savory dishes of inexpensive bits. Take a beef heart, clean it carefully, fill with a dressing made as for chicken or turkey. Use an equal amount of mashed potatoes and bread crumbs, seasoned with sage, summer savory, pepper, and salt, and moistened with beef drippings or butter, and add one or two chopped onions. Fasten together with skewers or twine, steam four hours and bake one hour and a half, basting well. Make a thickened gravy of the drippings.

LARGEST GROWERS OF NURSERY STOCK IN CANADA.

CRANBERRIES.

Jellied Cranberry—Wash and look over one quart of berries. Sprinkle over them one pint of sugar and one-half pint of water. Cook slowly. When they begin to boil cover over a few moments and cook until tender, but do not allow skins to break. Pour into a mold. The juice will be firm, inclosing the berries, which makes an attractive and delicious dinner accompaniment.

Candied Cranberries—This is one of the most delicious and prettiest ways of using the cranberry, and especially good to serve with fowl. Take one quart of berries and select baking pan that will hold them evenly on the bottom so that the berries will not be on top of each other. Cover with ten cups of sugar and water enough to come about one-third the height of the berry and bake slowly until the berries are tender, and they must retain their shape. Pile on a glass dish. They should look like candied cherries, with a small amount of thick syrup, and should be a scarlet color.

Spiced Cranberries—One pint of berries, one cup of sugar, one-half cup of water, one half cup of raisins, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, two teaspoons vinegar. Cook slowly and when nearly done add one-half cup of chopped walnuts. A splendid relish for meats.

New York Cranberry Sauce—Put in kettle with one pint of water and four sliced tart apples. Cover and cook twenty minutes. Press through a colander, add one pound of sugar (or two cups) and boil five minutes longer.

Thick Cranberry Jelly—Wash one quart of berries, add one pint of water, and boil five minutes. Press through a sieve, return to kettle, and add one pound of sugar. Stir until sugar has dissolved, boil for a minute, and turn into a mold. Stand over night in a cool place before serving.

UNUSUAL RECIPES

Butter Scotch Pie.—Melt thoroughly together two cupfuls of light brown sugar and one large tablespoonful of butter, to this add one cupful hot water or milk and yolks of two or three eggs, four tablespoonfuls of flour and a pinch of salt. Beat the whites of the eggs with a little powdered sugar and spread over the tops.

To Crystalize Grapes.—Take one-half cup of sugar and one-fourth cup of hot water and boil slowly until syrup is nearly evaporated, then carefully dip the bunch of grapes into it, roll them in coarse granulated sugar, and set them on a buttered paper to dry.

Grape Fruit Salad.—Remove the pulp of a grapefruit, lay it on lettuce, add a few malaga grapes which have been seeded and a few English walnuts, and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

CAKES.

Coffee Cake—One cupful of sugar, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of coffee, one-half cupful of butter, one cupful of raisins, one-half cupful of currants, four cupfuls of flour, one egg, one teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of soda.

Crumb Cake.—One-half cupful of molasses, one-half cupful of cream, one-half cupful of milk, four eggs, yolks and whites beaten together, one cupful of sugar, three good cupfuls of crumbs, one teaspoonful of baking powder, cinnamon and cloves to taste.

Mocha Layer Cake.—The yolks of five eggs, one cupful of powdered sugar, two tablespoonfuls of mocha essence, two tablespoonfuls of strong, hot coffee, one cupful of flour and one teaspoonful of baking powder. Add the beaten whites of the eggs and bake in three layers for fifteen or twenty minutes. Fill with whipped cream.

It will be economy to finish your sheets with the same width hem at each end. By so doing they can be used either side up, and gain much wear.

"THE FORT GARRY" HOTEL, WINNIPEG.

Adjacent to the ruins of that historic monument "Old Fort Garry," memorable in the early history of Canada's now Western metropolis is being erected "The Fort Garry," truly representative of greater Winnipeg—a magnificent edifice — to rank with the world's finest hotels, embodying in its construction the most advanced, scientific and architectural ideals. Located in the very heart of the city, to which all lines of traffic converge, it is readily accessible to the railroads and electric car lines and within a radius of a few minutes' walk will place one among the largest and most pretentious of the great stores in the center of the shopping districts, or enable one to reach the great new terminal station of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

"The Fort Garry" to be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific will be built of the finest of Canadian granite and buff lime stone, in the style of the old French Chateaux of Normandy and Touraine and will rear its stately heights to fourteen stories. The building is to have approximately three hundred and fifty sleeping chambers and will be richly furnished in faultless taste. All its bedrooms are to be equipped with every approved modern appointment. Nothing that would in any way contribute to the comfort and welfare of its guests has been overlooked in the preparation of the plans and interior arrangements.

The main entrance of the hotel faces on Winnipeg's most beautiful thoroughfare, "Broadway," and opens upon a spacious and imposing rotunda, which will suggest in its decoration and refinement the cheer and comfort provided within its walls, and from which one may enter the spacious dining, tea rooms and cafe. The central feature of the main floor is the circular tea room of impressive and beautiful design, unbroken by column, lofty in heighth, and finely lighted by broad windows and circular domed ceiling.

The ball room, banquet hall and foyer have been located on the seventh floor. These rooms are of the richest of the public rooms, and have been so arranged with separate kitchen service, reception and dressing rooms, so as to in no way interfere with the privileges of the guests of the hotel. The ball room is designed in the Louis Quartorize period, and will be beyond all question one of the most striking of its kind in Canada.

The building, as a whole, will form a fine example of what modern science can do in the elimination of fire risk. Every girder, beam and rafter is to be of non-expansive steel, every partition of terra cotta, every floor of marble tile or cement, and the stairways of iron. It is to be absolutely fireproof, and while every precaution has been taken to insure absolute protection to life and property, an equal measure of attention has been devoted to its sanitation and the safeguarding of health.

The bathrooms are to be models of sanitation and simplicity and are to be equipped with porcelain fittings and finished in exquisite tile work. They are of comfortable size, and so placed as to be in direct communication with every bedchamber in the hotel.

There is not to be a dark or uninviting chamber in the entire building, and comfort and spaciousness have not been sacrificed to secure a maximum of accommodation. Large closets have been provided in every bedchamber, and in the suites there are commodious clothes presses equipped throughout with every modern device.

MAKING SAFE INVESTMENTS

SOME FEATURES OF INVESTING IN MUNICIPAL BONDS.

Safety of This Form of Security, Deservedly Popular in Canada, is very High Class—Danger only in Communities Where Population is Decreasing—Legal Investigation Necessary, But This Always Done by Purchasing Bond House—Western School Issues are Safe.

The articles contributed by "Investor are for the sole purpose of guiding prospective investors, and, if possible of saving them from losing money through placing it in "wild-cat" enterprises. The impartial and reliable character of the information may be relied upon. The writer of these articles and the publisher of this paper have no interests to serve in connection with this matter other than those of the reader.

By those who value safety above all other investment qualities, Canadian municipal bonds are held in very (and deservedly) high esteem. In all the history of Canada there have been so few cases of repudiation of municipal obligations that this danger—always present in the case of United States cities—may be entirely ignored.

The great safety of municipal bonds has naturally resulted in these returning a small yield, and so we have the securities of the City of Toronto selling to yield the investor less than four per cent—a price well above that at which New York city bonds sell.

A municipal bond, however, cannot be purchased with safety by one entirely unacquainted with the bond business. The primary investigation into an issue of any municipality is, of course, to see whether or not the town or city has power to issue such bonds, and then it is necessary to determine whether all the necessary legal formulae have been followed in passing the necessary by-laws, etc. These investigations are usually carried on on behalf of the purchasers by a lawyer skilled in this sort of work, and are a very necessary feature in order to prevent loss; for were the bonds issued illegally it is quite possible that by the time they were due the mistake would have been discovered and then it would be illegal for the municipality to redeem them. Of course, in most instances, the necessary legal machinery would be operated to overcome this difficulty, but it might happen that in some cases the citizens would be glad of an excuse for not paying the bill. Hence the care always exercised. It is for this reason that in all circular advertisements of municipal bonds you will note, under each issue advertised, the words, "Legal opinion of a Lawyer," which means that the said lawyer has passed on the legality of the issue.

Municipal bonds are secured by the taxable property in the municipality — they are, in fact, an indirect first lien upon such property. The interest and final repayment is met out of taxes, and the obligation of the municipal bond is legally enforcible before all other mortgages or other liens. It is this that makes the bond so safe, for it is only in the case of the utter destruction of a municipality, or its diminution in population to a vanishing point, that there is danger of loss. The only recent cases of this sort occurred when Campbellton, N. B., and Cochrane, Ont., were wiped out by fire. But the respective Provincial Governments stepped in and prevented loss to the bond holders by guaranteeing the interest for a sufficient time to enable these towns to get on their feet once more.

Therefore, as regards safety, the Canadian municipal bond that is legally issued, and, of course, for a proper purpose, stands in an exceptionally high plane, provided, of course, it is not issued by a community that is rapidly declining in population or—as in the case of a mining town—one in which this may occur at any time.

In the case of some western rural communities and growing towns and villages there is a strong tendency to over-estimate the town's future, so that there is possible a danger of over-valuing the property of the town, and so "boosting" the assessment. Moreover, many of these towns are in the mining camp stage—in danger of being vacated by the population if something more promising turns up elsewhere. These issues, however, are small and seldom handled by reputable bond dealers, as bond dealers are very jealous of their reputations.

In the case of Western Canadian school districts the security is in no such possible danger. The security is farm land and the issue, like all municipal issues, is limited to a small proportion of the value of the taxable property. In the case of the school district bonds the limit of taxation is usually but a few cents an acre.

INVESTOR.

(Next week Investor will deal with other features of municipal bonds.)

Makes a Bad Cough Vanish Quickly--or Money Back

The Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy You Ever Used. Family Supply for 50c. Saves You $2.

You have never used anything which takes hold of a bad cough and conquers it so quickly as Pinex Cough Syrup. Gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate, deep-seated cough in 24 hours. Guaranteed to give prompt and positive results even in croup and whooping cough.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in guaiacol and other healing pine elements. A 50-cent bottle makes 16 ounces—a family supply—of the best cough remedy that money can buy, at a saving of $2. Simply mix with home-made sugar syrup or strained honey, in a 16-oz. bottle, and it is ready for use. Easily prepared in 5 minutes—directions in package.

Children like Pinex Cough Syrup—it tastes good, and is a prompt, safe remedy for old or young. Stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both good features. A handy household medicine for hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, etc., and unusually effective for incipient lung troubles. Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE WHITEST, LIGHTEST

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

NEW STYLE LABEL

NEVER ANY FAILURE OR DISAPPOINTMENT WHEN MAGIC BAKING POWDER IS USED.

CONTAINS NO ALUM.

COSTS NO MORE THAN THE ORDINARY KINDS.

MADE IN CANADA

APPLE JELLY.

Apple and Mint Jelly.—Two pounds of "greening" apples, green color paste, two bunches of garden mint, one-half cup sugar to each cup of juice, juice of one lemon. Cut the apples in small pieces and add a little water; when partly cooked add the mint leaves which have been washed, dried, and chopped fine. Strain when soft, keeping the juice that runs through first separate from that which is pressed through, as the first juice makes the clearer jelly. Measure the juice and add equal parts of sugar in the proportion stated; boil to the jelly state. A short time before it is done add the lemon juice and color paste.

Quince and Apple Jelly.—Cut the apple in large pieces, the quince very small, as it takes longer cooking than the apple if otherwise prepared. Cook with a little water until soft. Strain, add equal proportions of sugar and cook to the jelly state, skimming frequently.

Shiloh's Cure
STOPS COUGHS HEALS THE LUNGS PRICE, 25 CENTS

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

When oilcloth is dull and shows sign of wear it will be greatly improved by a thin coat of varnish.

If your iron sticks rub it on brown paper which has been previously rubbed with yellow soap.

Your starch will not stick if you stir it with a wax candle directly it is made.

When blacking a kitchen range mix the blacklead with vinegar, if you want it to have a really good polish.

Select lamp wicks which are soft and loosely woven. Soak them in vinegar, and dry in a cool oven before using.

When boiling rice add lemon juice to the water to make the grains white, and prevent them sticking together.

Finely chopped cabbage scattered over carpets before sweeping is a wonderful cleanser, and to be preferred to tea leaves.

Slices of cold pork, seasoned with pepper and salt, fried on both sides, and served with apple sauce, will make a tasty dish.

Grated cheese is more digestible than plain cheese, moreover, it makes a prettier dish. Serve a small dish of it for the cheese course and see how it will be appreciated.

Save the water that meat, fish, haricot beans, or rice have been boiled in. It contains nourishment, and is an excellent foundation for soups.

Dusting, or rather good dusting, is an art! A slightly moistened duster in the left hand and a dry duster in the right, if well used, will collect the dust, and leave a perfectly clean surface.

NEURALGIA CURED

This Painful Trouble is Due to Poverty of Blood.

Neuralgia is one of the most painful maladies that afflicts humanity. The trouble is usually seated in the face and head, following the course of some nerve, but it attacks other parts of the system as well. It is characterized by acute pains, sometimes steady, at others spasmodic and darting, headaches and a feeling as though the forehead was a band of iron. Medical authorities agree that neuralgia is a cry of the nerves for better food, and that if the blood is purified and enriched the trouble will disappear. This is the reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure even the most severe cases of neuralgia They actually make new, rich blood which feeds the tired, starved nerves and thus cure the trouble, at the same time leaving the sufferer in better health in every way than was formerly enjoyed. In proof we give the case of Mr. G. Brooks, of Aurora, Ont., who says: "About two years ago, while working in Collingwood I was attacked with neuralgia, which became so bad that I was frequently unable to go to work. The pain would start over my right eye and would then spread to the whole face and caused me the greatest agony. I was under the care of a good doctor, but his treatment did not do more than give me temporary relief, and I was therefore an almost constant sufferer. Acting on the advice of my wife I finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and I am profoundly thankful that I did so, as in the course of a few weeks I began to improve, and after a further use of the Pills the trouble disappeared and I have not since had any trace of it. I may also add that while taking the Pills my weight increased by nine pounds, which shows that the Pills are a body builder as well as a nerve restorer."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE TOLL OF THE JUNGLE.

Loss of Life by Wild Beasts in India Caused by Floods.

India still pays its annual tribute of human life to the jungle. In fact, the number of deaths from snake-bite or the attacks of wild animals has steadily increased during the last three years—a fact which the London Times attributes to the great floods. The rising waters have driven the serpents out of the lowlands, up into the villages, and have diminished, through drowning, the natural food-supply of the larger wild beasts.

In 1910 fifty-five persons were killed by elephants, twenty-five by hyenas, one hundred and nine by bears, three hundred and fifty-one by leopards, three hundred and ninteen by wolves, eight hundred and fifty-three by tigers, and six hundred and eighty-eight by other animals, including wild pigs. No less than twenty-two thousand four hundred and seventy-eight died from the bite of poisonous snakes. The grand total of mortality is twenty-four thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight

During the same year ninety-three thousand cattle were also killed by wild beasts or snakes.

The losses on the part of the inhabitants of the jungle were nearly but not quite as great as those of their human enemies and the domesticated animals combined. Ninety-one thousand one hundred and four snakes and over nineteen thousand wild beasts of various kinds were killed.

The Times also reports that a great many cases of snake-bite were successfully treated with the Brunton lancet and permangenate of potash, but that it is, nevertheless, impossible to assert the value of this treatment, since no one knows whether all—or even a very large number—of the cases treated were caused by the bites of really venomous snakes.

ANVIL SPARKS.

Kind words breed their kind also.

Intention is a poor thing without attention.

The lazy man considers all toil slavery.

He who breaks his word smashes himself.

It doesn't require brilliancy to cast reflections

You can't butter it when you have to swallow pride.

The word always looks brighter from a smile.

People who take too much liberty lose it all sooner or later.

When you trip up, fall forward, and get up further along.

The best amen to a prayer is going ahead to carry it out.

Fasting from the word is not the proper way to develop a hunger for it.

Many a champion who has conquered himself is unsung in this world.

It is easier to be miserable than to be happy, and many follow the handier way.

The sincere prayer must always come from a heart that feels dependence and need.

The way to get ahead of the devil is to move on; he doesn't run very fast upward.

Flowers of speech are not acceptable praise, save they exhale the sweet fragrance of love.

Treated properly, a broken resolution may be mended, and so made almost as good as new.

Pertinacity is getting a grip on a purpose and clinging to it; stubbornness is lying down on a proposition and refusing to move.

SICKLY BABIES CRY HEALTHY BABIES SMILE

Baby's cry indicates distress—his smile health and contentment. The mother may be sure there never was a baby who cried for the fun of it. Baby's disposition is naturally a happy one and it is only distress such as may be brought on by a disordered condition of the stomach or bowels that can change this. So, mothers, to keep your baby happy you must keep him well—Baby's Own Tablets will do this. Concerning them Mrs. Chas. Potvin, Causapatcia, N. S., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets have proved an excellent remedy for my baby. I had been using syrups, but they failed to help him and he cried constantly. The Tablets cured him and now he is a fat, healthy child." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CLEVER.

"She's a clever conversationalist."

"Very. She can even make a man who is talking about himself stop to listen."

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

KNIGHTHOOD FOR WOMEN.

It is not at all well known that knighthood has constantly been conferred upon women, says the London Graphic. Many English ladies received the accolade, and many more were members of such knightly orders as the Garter and St. John. When Mary Cholmondeley, "the bold lady of Cheshire," was knighted by Elizabeth for "her valiant address" on the Queen taking command at the threatened invasion by Spain, did she know that a whole city of Spanish women, the gallant women of Tortosa, had been knighted for saving that city from the Moors? Mary and Elizabeth had both been knighted at their coronation; but by the time Anne, the second Mary, and Victoria ascended the throne it had been quite forgotten that according to English law and use a woman who filled a man's office acquired all its privileges and was immune from none of its duties

BRIGHT LITTLE EMILY.

The good, old-fashioned way of getting rid of unwelcome visitors was to breakfast before the guest came down stairs. Later, some genius furnished a national button that read, "Here's Your Hat; What's Your Hurry?" A little Buffalo girl, who is the third member of a three-piece family, does it even better. The other day when the unwelcome guest was at the table, Emily said: "I hate everybody in this house except papa, mamma and myself."

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, &c.

CURED HIS WIFE SO HE TRIED THEM

LEON SERGENT FOUND NEW HEALTH IN DDDD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Suffered with his Kidneys and was very feeble, but now he is feeling fine.

Saint Walburg, Sask., Nov. 13 (Special).—One healthy, happy family in this neighborhood are always ready to speak a good word for Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sergent, and here is the reason in Mr. Sergent's own words:

"I suffered with my Kidneys and I was very feeble. My urine was thick and had a brick-dust sediment. As Dodd's Kidney Pills had already cured my wife I bought three boxes. Now my urine is normal and I feel fine."

It is statements such as these that give Dodd's Kidney Pills their popularity. They are no cure-all. They simply cure diseased Kidneys and the ills that come from diseased Kidneys. But no matter what neighborhood you visit you find some man or woman who has been sick and in pain and has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. For a score of years this work has been going on and to-day in every part of Canada Dodd's Kidney Pills are known as the one sure cure for Kidney Disease, Urinary Troubles, Backache, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Diabetes and Bright's Disease.

A TWO DAYS AFFAIR.

"Where were you day before yesterday?" "I was helping my wife to move." "And yesterday?" "Had the doctor helping me to."

These Pills Cure Rheumatism.—To the many who suffer from rheumatism a trial of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended. They have pronounced action upon the liver and kidneys and by regulating the action of these organs act as an alternative in preventing the admixture of the uric acid and blood that causes this painful disorder. They must be taken according to directions and used steadily and they will speedily give evidence of their beneficial effects.

A MATTER OF HABIT.

He (nervously)—"What will your father say when I tell him we're engaged?"

She—"He'll be delighted, dear. He always has been."

TRY MURINE EYE REMEDY

for Red, Weak, Weary, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Murine Doesn't Smart—Soothes Eye Pain. Druggists Sell Murine Eye Remedy, Liquid, 25c, 50c, $1.00. Murine Eye Salve in Aseptic Tubes, 25c, $1.00. Eye Books and Eye Advice Free by Mail. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

THE OTHER.

"Is the doctor in?"

"No, sir, but won't you please come in? He'll be right back. He's gone to see his other patient."

A cough is often the forerunner of serious pulmonary afflictions, yet there is a simple cure within the reach of all in Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, an old-time and widely recognized remedy, which, if resorted to at the inception of a cold, will invariably give relief, and by overcoming the trouble, guard the system from any serious consequences. Price 25 cents, at all dealers.

MORE TO PICK FROM.

"It isn't always the prettiest girl who gets the best husband."

"Maybe not, but she has the most chances to."

The Chicago Fire could have been prevented with one pail of water, but the water was not handy. Keep a bottle of Hamlins Wizard Oil handy and prevent the fiery pains of inflammation.

LOOKING AHEAD.

"If we quarrel like this now, what will we do after marriage?"

"Well, if you think I'm going to rush blindly into marriage without finding out who's boss, you're mistaken."

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOR ALL KIDNEY DISEASES
CURES RHEUMATISM BRIGHT'S DISEASE BACKACHE DIABETES
NUMBER 23 THE PROPRIETARY

ED. 7 ISSUE 46—11

Well, Well!

DYO-LA
ONE DYE FOR ALL KINDS OF GOODS

CLEAN and SIMPLE to Use.

NO chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color. All colors from your Druggist or Dealer. FREE Color Card and STORY Booklet 16. The Johnson-Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal.

FAR-TRAVELLED NAMES.

Familiar Everyday Words Have Come Long Distances.

Calico takes its name from Calicut, a city in India. Satin is from Zaytoun, in China. Damask was first made at Damascus, in Syria. Gauze is from Gaza, in Palestine; and baize from Baza, in Spain. Dimity is called after Damietta, in Egypt. Cambric was first made at Cambria, in France, and muslin at Mosul, in Asia.

Serge got its name from Xerga, a Spanish word. Velvet is our equivalent of the Italian word velluta; and gingham is from Gingamp, a town in Brittany, where the cloth was first used for umbrella covers.

Cashmere gets its name from the valley of Cashmere, in the Himalayas, buckram from Bokhara, lawn from Laon in France, and khaki is the Indian word for earth.

But we have many home-made names of fabrics. Tweed was originally the product of the weavers of the Tweed, melton was first made at the town of that name in Leicestershire. Worsted is from Worstead, famed for its fine wool yarns. Cheviot was originally a cloth made from the wool of the Cheviot Hills; and blankets got their name from their original English manufacturer — Thomas Blanket.

Shiloh's Cure

QUICKLY STOPS COUGHS, CURES COLDS, HEALS THE THROAT AND LUNGS. 25 CENTS

NOT MUCH OF A SHOW.

"Did you enjoy the play?"

"Not much. The leading lady only changed her gown three times."

Muscular Rheumatism Subsided.—When one is a sufferer from muscular rheumatism he cannot do better than to have the region rubbed with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. There is no oil that so speedily shows its effect in subduing pain. Let the rubbing be brisk and continue until ease is secured. There is more virtue in a bottle of it than can be fully estimated.

Mary—Mrs. Talkem detained me for fifteen minutes at the telephone just as I was starting out. Alice—What did she want? Mary—She didn't say.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Gentlemen,—I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT on my vessel and in my family for years, and for the every day ills and accidents of life I consider it has no equal. I would not start on a voyage without it, if it cost a dollar a bottle.

CAPT. F. R. DESJARDIN,

She—You know, George, that during all my girlhood I have never known care. He (absent-mindedly)—When we are married, darling, you shall never be without it.

Why suffer from corns when they can be painlessly rooted out by using Holloway's Corn Cure.

GERMAN SAVANT ON SLEEP.

New distinctions between sleep and the stupor induced by narcotics were given by Professor Max Verworn, the eminent physiologist of the University of Bonn, Germany, at a recent address at the New York Academy. Professor Verworn spoke of narcotics as making tissues and cells incapable of carrying oxygen. In sleep, he said, restoration of the worn tissues occurs and fatigue is dispelled by the beneficent action of oxygen. Drawing illustrations from a wide and varied knowledge of his subject, Professor Verworn gave a scholarly demonstration of his theories.

The ring of friendship is less expensive than an engagement ring.

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows.

WHY FRENCH ARE POLITEST.

Acquire Their Good Breeding From Earliest Childhood.

The reason that the French people enjoy the well earned reputation of being the politest people in the world is because "la politesse," or good breeding, is an accomplishment they always acquire at home and in childhood. A Frenchman, his wife, and a couple of children will observe all the most exquisite social amenities in the privacy of their own home, and the family life presents all the social advantages they require. A French boy of even the humblest parentage does not wait to go out in the world to learn how to offer a woman a chair, give an elderly gentleman his arm, invite you to dine, or discover the topics of conversation that engage your interest. He has lived from his babyhood in an atmosphere of family deference and cheerful unselfish consideration, and he is charmingly polite by precept and example wherever he may find himself.

BEWARE OF BLOOD-POISON

Zam-Buk Is A Sure Cure.

Mr. Jas. Davey, of 786 Ellice Avenue, Winnipeg, says:—"A few months since I was cured of a poisoned finger through the timely use of Zam-Buk.

"I cut a deep gash across the knuckle on the first finger of my right hand in opening a lobster can. I suffered at the time with the soreness and pain, but had no idea it would become a serious wound. However, in about two days my whole hand and arm to the elbow became inflamed, and the finger was much discolored, showing signs of blood-poisoning.

"I then decided to start the Zam-Buk treatment, and having first bathed the cut, I applied the healing balm. It soothed the pain almost instantly.

"In a week's time, through perseverance with Zam-Buk, a complete cure was brought about."

Zam-Buk is just as good for eczema, ulcers, scalp sores, abscesses, piles, ringworm, boils, varicose ulcers, running sores, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. Use it, too, for cuts, burns, bruises and all skin injuries. Zam-Buk Soap should be used in conjunction to the balm for washing wounds and sore places. Excellent too for baby's bath.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet. Post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Toronto.

HE KNEW HER.

"John, do you love your little wife?" "Yes." "Do you love me very much?" Oh, yes." "Will you always love me?" "Yes—say, woman, what have you gone and ordered sent home now?"

Trial is Inexpensive.—To those who suffer from dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism or any ailment arising from derangement of the digestive system, a trial of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended, should the sufferer be unacquainted with them. The trial will be inexpensive and the result will be another customer for this excellent medicine. So effective is their action that many cures can certainly be traced to their use where other pills have proved ineffective.

Some lucky men find it as difficult to borrow as they do to pay back.

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper.

A girl usually thinks that her voice harmonizes with the piano—and the chances are that the piano needs tuning.

Nearly all children are subject to worms, and many are born with them. Spare them suffering by using Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, the best remedy of the kind that can be had.

SAME THING EXACTLY.

Mrs. Guggenheim—Flora wants one of those new sheath gowns.

Mr. Guggenheim—Like the one you showed me in the picture?

Mrs. Guggenheim—Yes.

Mr. Guggenheim—Tell her to crawl into an umbrella cover.

Send for free sample to Dept. W. L. National Drug and Chemical Co., Toronto.

FEATHER DYEING

Cleaning and Curling and Kid Gloves cleaned. These can be sent by post, 10 per oz. The best place is

BRITISH AMERICAN DYEING CO. MONTREAL.

A BOND

IS A FIRST MORTGAGE

¶ A bond is a first mortgage split up into denominations of one hundred dollars and upwards. Bonds are a comparatively modern form of investment. Previously a corporation or undertaking desiring to raise money against their assets was required to place it in one or several large mortgages.

¶ Nowadays an issue of bonds is made instead.

¶ Bonds are a convenient form of mortgage, and those bonds which we offer are thoroughly investigated to determine that the payment of interest and principal is absolutely assured.

¶ We have literature more fully describing bonds in general as well as specific issues, which we will be glad to send upon application. Send for it.

ROYAL SECURITIES CORPORATION

LIMITED
BANK OF MONTREAL BUILDING
YONGE AND QUEEN STS.
TORONTO
R. M. WHITE - Manager
MONTREAL-QUEBEC-HALIFAX-LONDON(ENG.)

FARMS FOR RENT AND SALE.

ASK DAWSON, HE KNOWS.

IF you want to sell a farm, consult me.

IF you want to buy a farm, consult me.

I HAVE some of the best Fruit, Stock, Grain or Dairy Farms in Ontario, and prices right.

H. W. DAWSON, Ninety Colborne Street, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED. — A LINE FOR every home. Write us for our choice line of agents supplies. We have the greatest agency proposition in Canada to-day. No outlay necessary. Apply E. C. I. Co., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

HELP WANTED.

SALESMEN—$50 PER WEEK SELLING one hand egg-beater. Sample and terms 25c. Money refunded if unsatisfactory. Collette Mfg. Company, Collingwood, Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HAY and FARM SCALES. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

SAWMILL MACHINERY, PORTABLE or heavy Lathe Mills, Shingle Mills, Engines and Boilers, Mill Supplies. The E. Long Manufacturing Co., Ltd., West Street, Orillia, Ontario.

CANCER, TUMORS, LUMPS, etc. Internal and external, cured without pain by our home treatment. Write us before too late. Dr. Bellman Medical Co., Limited, Collingwood, Ont.

TON SCALE GUARANTEED. Wilson's Scale Works, 9 Esplanade, Toronto.

DELHI TANNERY—CUSTOM ROBE and Fur tanning. Cattle and horse hides make best Robes and Coats when properly tanned. Send them to me and have them dressed right. You will be well satisfied. S. F. Bell, Delhi, Ont.

LEARN THE BARBER TRADE RIGHT—The Moler Barber College is the original college, founded in 1894; graduates are now successful barbers all over the world; you get expert instruction; constant practice. Write for catalogue. Moler Barber College, 221 Queen East, Toronto.

AGENTS WANTED. — A STUDY OF other Agency propositions convinces us that none can equal ours. You will always regret if you don't apply for particulars to Travellers' Dept., 228 Albert St., Ottawa.

SPECIALISTS ADVICE FREE. Consult us in regard to any disease. Lowest prices in drugs of all kinds. Trusses fitted by mail. Send measurement. Glasses fitted by age. Write today for anything sold in first-class drug stores to Dr. Bellman, Collingwood, Ont.

The Soul of a Piano is the Action. Insist on the

"OTTO HIGEL"

Piano Action

H. H. NIGHTINGALE

STOCK BROKER

Member Standard Stock and Mining Exchange

LISTED STOCKS CARRIED ON MARGIN

Correspondence Invited.

33 MELINDA ST., TORONTO

RAW FURS

WANTED

WRITE FOR PRICE LIST

W. C. Goffatt, Orillia, Ont.

RAW FURS

Collectors and shippers will find it to their advantage to get their names on our mailing list. This insures prompt receipt of our quotations and general information, which will be ready about the 15th of November. You can be sure of fair and liberal treatment when you ship your collections to Wagner, Brassler & Co. 86 Front St. East, Toronto, Ont.

FREE REMEDY

To Color Gray Hair and Make It Grow.

Nothing Quite So Nice As a Beautiful Head of Hair.

Let us send you absolutely free one treatment of Luxarine, if it is only to prove to you that it colors gray hair and makes it grow, stops itching, removes dandruff and makes the hair of man or woman or child heavy and beautifully glossy. You have only to send us your address, with 10c enclosed for mailing and packing, and will send you anywhere our treatment, at our own expense. Write to-day. Address

DR. PROSSE, Dept. 2, 215 Commissioners St., Montreal.

BLACK KNIGHT

Shines Stoves So They Stay Shined

"Black Knight" is a joy to every woman who takes pride in her home.

It enables her to have the stoves always clean, freshly polished and brilliantly black.

"Black Knight" is ready to use—easily applied—and a few rubs brings a mirror-like polish.

"Black Knight" does away with all the hard work and dirty work of stove polishing.

If your dealer should not have "Black Knight", we will send you a large can, postpaid, for 25c.

The F. F. Dalley Co. Limited, HAMILTON, Ont. 24

Makers of the famous "2 in 1" Shoe Polish.

Exeter Advocate,

Sanders & Creech, Props.

THURSDAY, NOV. 16, '11

The great Unionist party of Great Britain has chosen a Canadian, Andrew Bonar Law, as leader of the party, which in all probability means that in the course of time he will become the prime minister of the British Empire. The election of Mr. Law to the leadership of the party became necessary owing to the resignation of the former leader, Mr. Balfour.

The Ontario Government has been blamed for the scarcity of qualified teachers, but the records of the Department show that there has been an increase in the number of certificates issued during the past five years. The numbers are as follows:—

In 1904.....1533 certificates.
In 1907.....1630 certificates.
In 1910.....1784 certificates.
In 1911.....2053 certificates.

Canadian stamps bearing the effigy of King George will be put on sale by the postoffice department within a short time. The Dominion postal authorities were not satisfied with the portrait of the King, which was adopted for the British stamps and which has been so severely critized. It was decided to obtain a design for Canada, and this has been done. The new series is said to be an especially handsome one.

If we would win in the race here set before us, our better choice is to let go of those things that hinder—the loveless word, the thoughtless deed, the trivial thought, the thankless spirit; satisfaction with material things; neglect of things spiritual. To strive after the things that abide rather than those that perish with the using—A large heart rather than a large purse; a trained will rather than a overcrowded brain, worth rather than fame; undying deeds rather than fleeting words; power to win souls for Him rather than to win friends for myself; faith rather than doctrines, hope rather than satisfaction, love rather than achievements.

A $21,000 ADVERTISEMENT

One of the most striking illustrations of the part the newspaper is playing in the successful retail advertising is the advertisement of The Fair, one of the Chicago's largest retail concerns in the last Sunday's edition of the Chicago Examiner. Newspaper readers in Exeter have been appealed to in full page announcements of progressive merchants, but this advertisement of The Fair, occupies no less than 20 pages and constituted a complete section of the Examiner which on that date consisted of close upon 100 pages. This record-making advertisement marked the 35th anniversary of the store, and its twenty pages were given up to listing the offerings of the store's twenty departments for its anniversary sale. Not the least interesting part of this advertisement to the average newspaper reader was its cost, which represented an expenditure for a single issue in one paper of more than $21,000. More and more successful retailers are concentrating their store news in the daily and weekly newspapers, often to the exclusion of all other forms of publicity.

OH HOW I ITCHED

What long nerve-racking days of constant torture—what sleepless nights of terrible agony—itch—itch—itch. CONSTANT ITCH, until it seemed that I must tear OFF MY VERY SKIN—then—INSTANT RELIEF—my skin cooled, soothed and healed. The very first drops of D. D. D. stopped that awful itch instantly, yes, the very moment D. D. D. touched my skin the torture ceased.

D. D. D. has been known for years as the only absolutely reliable Eczema cure. Just a mild, soothing, pleasant wash made of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients, but the instant relief D. D. D. gives to all kinds of skin troubles seems like a miracle, and when used with D. D. D. Soap keeps the skin in perfect condition.

If you have any kind of skin trouble—Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, no matter what it is—yes, even pimples, investigate the wonderful D. D. D. Prescription. We know what D. D. D. has done—we vouch for it. D. D. D. never fails to do exactly as is claimed.

The D. D. D. Laboratories, Dept E. A. 49 Colborne St., Toronto, will gladly send you a trial bottle if you write them.

It will relieve all skin trouble at once. W. S. HOWEY, Druggist.

THIRTY YEARS

Our Seven Colleges have been established during the past 30 years. The largest trainers in Canada. Owing to our connection all over Ontario, we do better for our graduates than any other School. You may study all at home or partly at home and finish at the College. Affiliated with The Commercial Educators' Association of Canada. It would be well for you to investigate before choosing. Exclusive right for Ontario of the world-famous Bliss Bookkeeping System, which is unequalled. It is Actual Business from Start to Finish, and the Students keeps same books as Chartered Banks and Wholesale Houses. Enter any time. Individual instruction

Fall Term From Aug. 28

Write, call or phone

CLINTON BUSINESS COLLEGE

GEO. SPOTTON PRINCIPAL

Miss B. F. Ward

No Appetite

THIS REMEDY WILL RESTORE IT.

If you have no appetite for meals, can't work, can't rest and are annoyed with too frequent urination and a burning, scalding pain in making passages.

If at night you retire, hoping for sleep that either does not come, or is troubled and fitful, you may rest assured your kidneys trouble you and need Booth's Kidney Pills the guaranteed remedy for all kidney and bladder troubles. A few doses of Booth's Kidney Pills will wake up the sluggish kidneys and regulate the urine. Continued treatment will cure and heal the weakened kidneys and restore the appetite in the natural way. Sold everywhere 50 cents box, or postpaid from The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. Free trial sent on application.

Booth's Kidney Pills

Sold and guaranteed in Exeter by W. S. Cole.

CENTRALIA

The auction sale of Mrs. J. English on Tuesday was largely attended and good prices were realized. Mrs. English will remove to Blake to reside with her father and brothers, Mr. Leo Foster having taken over the lease of the farm not completed by Mrs. English.—Messrs. Geo. Hicks and Arthur Brooks arrived home on Tuesday evening, after a few weeks hunting trip in New Ontario. They were successful in bagging several deer and other smaller game, and report having a fine time.—Mr. Wm. and Wesley Baker arrived home from the West on Tuesday evening and report it very cold in the West, and many acres of grain yet to be threshed.—It looks as though we are going to have winter. How is the coal bin?—The painters are busy putting on the finish touches on the residence of Mr. Thos Mitchell.—The W. F. M. met at the parsonage and transacted the usual run of business.—Mr. E. Colwill has built a new hen house and will no doubt be raising some choice poultry in the future.—Several of the farmers in this section have not yet got their sugar beets harvested and are hoping for a few more fine days in which to complete the job. Owing to the wet season it has been a difficult matter to make very rapid headway with the job.

More than five hundred tons of sugar beets grown in this district have already been shipped from here and more than that many more have yet to be hoeing in and sent away. The season has been a record-breaker in this industry and the growers are greatly pleased with the returns.—Mrs. McFall is recovering steadily after a long illness with typhoid fever.—The mother of Mr. John Colwill is laid up with a broken arm. While visiting her son she fell and fractured her arm at the wrist.

CREDITON.

Sunday's blizzard came as a great surprise to us after the mild weather on Saturday. The attendance in the churches was small. It happened to be the Temperance Field Day in Huron County. Rev. Silcox and Rev. McNevin of Toronto occupied the pulpits in the Methodist and Evangelical pulpits respectively. Both gentlemen proved to be excellent speakers and their discourses were listened to with great attention.

The many friends of the late Mrs. Daniel Truemner of Hay Township were shocked to learn of her sudden death on Tuesday. The deceased had been ailing for some time, but her illness was not considered very serious. A husband and six children survive her. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community.

H. Elber, M. P. P., and Paul Shenk returned home on Friday with two splendid deer. They were the finest specimens that ever reached here.

Rev. Yelland of Exeter will occupy the pulpit in the Evangelical Church next Sunday evening.

Walter Clark is busy these days taking orders for nursery stock. He represents a good company.

Godfrey Nicholson has bought the house and lot he now occupies from Robert Walker.

Wm. B. Battler of Zurich paid our town a visit on Saturday.

Rev. Burn conducted a funeral service in Seberingville last Saturday.

The Methodist and Evangelical churches are busy making final arrangements for their Christmas Festivals. Special efforts will be made this year to make the programs a brilliant success.

The flax mill commenced the season's threshing on Tuesday.

Large quantities of live fowl are being shipped to the cities these days by our general merchants. The seed trade is also brisk.

Gottfreid Gaiser has bought the old building formerly owned by Chris. Beaver, which is situated north of the Evangelical parsonage. He is taking it down in sections.

THE REV. IRI. R. HICKS 1912 ALMANAC

Before the great drouth of 1901, the HICKS Almanac gave timely warning For over TWO years prior to 1911, the Hicks Almanac again sounded a warning of drouth danger, And so for forty years this same friend of all the people has steadfastly refused the offers of speculators and continued to warn the public of the coming dangers of storm and weather. As they should have done, the people have nobly stood by Professor Hicks, their faithful public servant, who has grown old in their service. Send only one dollar to WORD AND WORKS PUBLISHING COMPANY 3401 Franklin Avenue, St. Louis Missouri, and get the magazine and Almanac both for one year. The Almanac alone, a fine book of 150 pages, is only 35c. by mail. Let everybody respond and receive the warnings of our National Seer for the coming year.

ESTRAY STEER

There strayed from the premises of the undersigned, Lot 4, Con. 7, Hay Township, about Nov. 5th, a one-year-old, red, dehorned steer, with hole punched in left ear. Reward to the person who leaves information at this office or to WESLEY DEARING, Exeter P. O.

WHALEN.

Mrs. J. V. Millson attended the W. M. S. convention in Stratford last week.—Mr. Harvey Sutherby of London is visiting here with his mother.—Mr. N. Ogden is seriously ill and at the time of writing is under the doctor's care.—A number of the older folks took in the fowl supper at Centralia on Tuesday night, while the young people went to the oyster supper at Woodham Wednesday night.—Rev. McNabbon of Toronto preached here on Sunday in behalf of Temperance and Moral Reform, delivering an eloquent and logical address.—Although winter has made its appearance quite a lot of work remains to be done on the farm.—Mr. George Squire had a plowing bee on the farm lately purchased by his son-in-law, who is yet at Lions Head, and 21 teams responded and turned over a fine amount of land.

MOUNT CARMEL.

Wedding bells will soon ring in this neighborhood.—The Box Social on Thursday evening was well attended, about one hundred being present.—Carroll Bros shipped a car load of cattle to Toronto on Saturday.—Mr. John Donohue and daughter of Sarnia attended the Golden wedding here on Thursday.—Mr. Jos. Glavin was in London last week on business.—Mr. Dennis O'Connell has invested in a beautiful piano for his home.—Dr. and Mrs. Tillman left for their home in London last week, after spending several weeks visiting friends and relatives in this neighborhood.—The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Regan has recovered after its serious illness.—Our popular teacher, Miss Dunn, is on the sick list.

Golden Wedding.—On Thursday morning the R. C. Church was the scene of pleasant occasion, it being the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carey. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Forster, assisted by Fr. Kelly of London and Fr. O'Neil of Parkhill. Mr. Carey was married at the age of 27 years and Mrs. 19 years. Their union was blessed with a family of eleven children—five boys and six girls—and eleven grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs Carey are hale and hearty and as smart as most people much their junior. Their many friends here wish them many more anniversaries.

CLANDEBOYE

Clandeboye, Nov. 10.—Dr. Jones has gone to Ottawa, where he intends to remain, as he has obtained a Government position.—Mr. T. Smith and family have moved from Lucan to Clandeboye to reside.—Mr. A. Patton, county constable, has been confined to the house the past few days through illness.—Mr. Trevethick, of Brinsley, is shipping large quantities of cloverseed from this station.—Mrs. Hodgins has gone to Cleveland to visit her daughter and intends to remain with her for the winter.—Miss Angeline McIlhargey, who had a severe attack of pneumonia, is recovering at her father's home in McGillivray.—Mrs. Taylor, of Parkhill, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Hodgins g'ns, here, the past few days.—Mr. Milton Hodgins, Wisconsin, was home to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr Lossan.—Mr. B. F. Marr, of McGillivray, is ill.—The old school property was sold Saturday. The new school will be occupied immediately.—Farmers around here are very busy threshing clover.—Mr. W. Colwell is loading hay and straw at the Huron and Bruce station here in large quantities.—W. F. Abbott left for the Northwest on Tuesday last where he will spend the winter.—Milton Brown of London spent a few days with friends here.—The funeral of Mr. Gilmore took place on Wednesday last from the residence of his son John Gilmore to Prospect Hill for interment. Mr. Gilmore had been in poor health for some time. He was 82 years of age and is survived by five sons and two daughters.—William John Hodgins has returned home after spending a few weeks with relatives at Ripley.—Burley Hodgins, while hauling wood, had a horse drop dead.

THE FEEDING OF CATTLE

The Toronto Weekly Sun of December 6th will contain a talk with Simpson Rennie on cattle feeding with special reference to the market and feed conditions in this exceptional year. Mr. Rennie is full of practical information on cattle feeding. No man can speak with greater authority as to the market end. This one copy will be worth a year's subscription to any practical feeder. You cannot afford to be without the information given in this talk. The Sun will be sent free for the balance of 1911 to all who subscribe now. A post-card will bring you our clubbing list and special premium offer.

"The Brew that Grew"

Labatt's London Lager

Selling fast because made right

THE TRUE FLAVOR—AND PURE. TRY IT!

LABATT'S INDIA PALE ALE

XXX STOUT

Made and matured in the old way

THE IDEAL BEVERAGES

JOHN LABATT LIMITED

LONDON, CANADA

30

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

We the undersigned have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by his firm.

WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN,
Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Testimonials sent free. Price 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

McGILLIVRAY COUNCIL.—The council met on Nov. 6 with all the members present. A large number of accounts were passed and adjournment was made to Nov. 27th at one o'clock.

PILES CURED at HOME by New Absorption Method.

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind or protruding Piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality if requested. Immediate relief and permanent cure assured. Send no money, but tell others of this offer. Write to-day to Mrs. M. Summers, Box 840 Windsor, Ont.

ROSS' Limited

LONDON AND EDMONTON

Manufacturing Furriers

Everything in Furs obtained of us will be found of the highest quality, perfect in fit, and right up-to-date. As manufacturers selling direct, middle profits are eliminated, and you may come to us with confidence in our ability to please you.

All kinds of new Fur Garments made to special measure, quality, workmanship, and fit guaranteed.

ROSS' Limited

FURS and CLOAKS

196 Dundas Street London Ontario

2

DYSPEPSIA CLAIMS MANY LIVES.

But John Mitchell's Life was saved by Morriscy's No. 11 Dyspepsia Cure.

Woodstock, N.B., Aug. 10, 1910.

"I had a very severe case of stomach trouble which caused me great pain, and a lot of distress. I tried several doctors, but could get no relief. I also tried about all the patent medicines that are recommended for stomach trouble, and still I was getting worse—in fact, I felt like dying, and had to stop work. My friends thought my days on earth were few, and I thought so myself. I had heard a great deal about the wonderful skill of Father Morriscy, and thought I would go and see him. He prescribed his No. 11 Dyspepsia Cure for me, and I took his medicine as he directed and soon began to feel relieved, and to-day I am a very well man; have gained in flesh—have no pain in my stomach, and am feeling first-rate. There is no doubt but that he saved my life, and I only wish I could find words to express my great thanks. I hope all who suffer as I did will use this marvelous No. 11 Stomach Remedy.

John H. Mitchell

The above prescription is not a "Cure All" or so-called patent medicine. Dr. Morriscy prescribed it for 44 years, and cured thousands after other doctors failed.

Price, 50c. per box at your dealers or Father Morriscy Medicine Co., Limited, Montreal.

500

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

SIR EDMUND WALKER, C.V.O., LL.D., D.C.L., PRESIDENT
ALEXANDER LAIRD, GENERAL MANAGER

CAPITAL, - $10,000,000 REST, - $8,000,000

DRAFTS ON FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Every branch of The Canadian Bank of Commerce is equipped to issue drafts on the principal cities in the following countries without delay:

Africa	Crete	Greece	New Zealand	Siberia
Arabia	Cuba	Holland	Norway	Soudan
Argentine Republic	Denmark	Iceland	Panama	South Africa
Australia	Egypt	India	Persia	Spain
Austria-Hungary	Faroe Islands	Ireland	Peru	Straits Settlements
Belgium	Finland	Italy	Philippine Islands	Sweden
Brazil	Formosa	Japan	Portugal	Switzerland
Bulgaria	France	Java	Roumania	Turkey
Ceylon	French Cochin China	Malta	Russia	United States
Chili	Germany	Manchuria	Servia	Uruguay
China	Great Britain	Mexico	Siam	West Indies, etc.

The amount of these drafts is stated in the money of the country where they are payable; that is they are drawn in sterling, francs, marks, lire, kronen, florins, yen, taels, roubles, etc., as the case may be. This ensures that the payee abroad will receive the actual amount intended. A233

EXETER BRANCH—W. H. COLLINS, Manager. Branch also at Crediton.

The Molsons Bank

Incorporated 1855

Capital (paid up) - $4,000,000
Rest Fund - - - $4,600,000
Total Assets Over - $44,000,000

Has 83 Branches in Canada, and Agents and Correspondents in all the Principal Cities in the World.

A GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

SAVINGS BANK DEPARTMENT

at al Branches. Interest allowed at highest current rate.

- EXETER BRANCH -

Agents at Exeter for the Dominion Government.

DICKSON & CARLING, Solicitors. N. D. HURDON Manager,

RUSSELDALE—Mr. John Cole, "Orchard Grove," has had a streak of bad luck with his equine stock within the past few months. In the early spring he lost a valuable colt from the results of an accident at Mt. Peasant farm. On Oct. 5th, one of his working horses died, and on Thursday last a promising and highly valued suckling colt went under from pneumonia. Rather hard lines.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM — Canada's Double Track Line

HUNTERS'

RETURN TICKETS AT SINGLE FARE

OCT. 9th to NOV. 11th,
to points in Temagami, points Mattawa to Temiskaming and Kipawa, Que., inclusive, also to certain points in Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Maine.

OCT 19th to Nov. 11th
to Muskoka Lakes, Penetang, Lake of Bays, Midland, Maganetawan River, Lakefield, Madawaska to Parry Sound, Argyle to Coboconk, Lindsay to Haliburton. Points from Severn to North Bay inclusive, and certain points reached by Northern Navigation Co.

All tickets valid for return until Thursday Dec. 14th, except to points reached by steamer lines, Tuesday, Nov. 14.

Literature and full information from any Grand Trunk Agent, or address A. E. DUFF, District Passenger Agent, at Toronto, Ont.

J. J. KNIGHT, Agent, Exeter.

CENTRAL Business College STRATFORD, ONT.

Is to the front as the best school of its kind in the province. Our courses are beyond those of the ordinary business college. This school has a continental reputation for high grade work. We have three departments, Commercial Shorthand and Telegraphy, and the demand for trained help greatly exceeds the supply. Students are entering every week, and the sooner you enter the better for yourself.

Get our free catalogue at once.

D. A. McLACHLAN, Principal.

VARENI

A pure Silver Violin G String for 25c.

A real silver string has never before been sold at such a low price.

Notwithstanding that the Vareni String is not cheap in Quality.

It is made of pure silver carefully spun on good English gut and then burnished.

As a result of good materials and good workmanship the Vareni string is wonderfully durable and possesses a marked degree the splendidly clear tone, peculiar to pure silver strings.

You should have the Vareni G String if you have a Violin.

S. MARTIN & SON

Fresh Groceries

We are now well established in business and we believe on the best of authority (namely that of a daily increasing business) that we are meeting a long felt want, and giving the best of satisfaction.

Remember our motto,—"Fresh Groceries all the time."

All kinds of produce taken in exchange.

JAS. GOULD

It Is Up To You

To protect your family from the ravages of disease and infection; and the rigors of winter; to make your home the abode of Health and Happiness.

Statistics tell us that there were over 250,000 deaths in North America last year from fever and Pneumonia; Over 90 per cent. of these cases were traceable to out-door closets, and all were the result of insanitary conditions.

Are you going to allow this terrible death rate to continue.

Why not insure Health by installing a "PARKYTE" SANITARY CHEMICAL CLOSET.

Absolutely Sanitary and Odorless carries the endorsement of Physicians and Health Officials, and our own Iron-clad guarantee, Requires no expensive water-system; no plumbing; no sewage can be installed in any part of your home at the cost of a few minutes of your spare time; lasts a life-time and cost less than a CENT a day.

"PARKYTE" Chemical has been proven by Bacteriological test to be the most powerful Disinfectant, Deodorant and Germicide, known to Science.

The "PARKYTE" SANITARY CHEMICAL CLOSET is sold by

W. J. Heaman, Exeter, Ont.

A call there will convince you. No further argument will be necessary.

1203 McARTHUR BLDG. WINNIPEG, MAN.

Branches TORONTO EDMONTON VANCOUVER

Professional Cards.

Dr. G. F. ROULSTON, L.D.S., D.D.S.
DENTIST
Member of the R.C.D.S. of Ontario and Honor Graduate of Toronto University. Office—Over Dickson & Carling's law office. Closed Wednesday afternoons.

DR. A. E. KINSMAN, L. D. S., D. D. S., Honor Graduate of Toronto University.
DENTIST,
Teeth extracted without any pain, or any bad effects. Office over Gladman & Stanbury's office, Main street Exeter

Medical

H. R. BRIGHT, M. D., M. C. P. & S., HONOR Graduate of Toronto University, Two years resident physician Royal Alexandra Hospital, etc. Office and Residence, Dr. Amm's Old Stand, Andrew street, EXETER

Legal

DICKSON & CARLING, BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS, Notaries, Conveyancers Commissioners Solicitors for Molsons Bank, etc
Money to Loan at lowest rates o nterest
Offices, Main street, Exeter,
E. CARLING, B.A., L. H. DICKSON

MONEY TO LOAN.
We have a large amount of private funds to loan on farm and village properties at low rates of interest.
GLADMAN & STANBURY
Barristers, Solicitors, Main st., Exeter On

J. SENIOR
Agent Confederation Life Assurance Company, also Fire Insurance in leading Canadian and British Companies. Main-St., Exeter.

MISS LILLIAN ELLIOTT
CONCERT SOPRANO
PUPILS ACCEPTED.
ADDRESS—CENTRALIA, ONT.

LICENSED AUCTIONEER
WM. ANDERSON, Licensed Auctioneer for Huron County. Terms reasonable. Dates can be made at the Advocate, Exeter, or Henry Elber's Office, Crediton.

T. B. CARLING
Life, Fire, Accident and Plate Glass Insurance, Collecting accounts, and conducting auction sales. — Exeter, Ont.

C. A. HOUZE, V. S.
Graduate of Ontario, Veterinary College; member Ontario Veterinary Medical Society; treats all diseases of domesticated animals on scientific principles; modern surgery a specialty. Operations on Lump Jaw guaranteed satisfactory. Calls by day or night promptly attended to. Office—Main-st., Exeter, Dr. Ramsay's old stand. Phone in connection.

FARM FOR SALE.
The undersigned offers his fine farm, consisting of about 135 acres, adjoining the town of Clinton, for sale. The farm is in a good state of cultivation, and has good buildings, brick house, bank barn, driving house, pig pen, etc. all comparatively new. A first-class young orchard, containing all kinds of fruits and also small fruits. The farm is well fenced and drained and is a very desirable home. For further particulars apply on the premises or address JOHN TORRANCE, Clinton.

ALMA Ladies' COLLEGE St Thomas Ont. ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE FREE ON REQUEST

BECOME INDEPENDENT; ATTEND ELLIOTT Business College
Toronto, Ont. Students of this year are in positions worth from $50 to $100 a month. Write for catalogue. Enter now. Superior Instructions in all Departments.

Horses for Sale

I have a number of first-class horses for sale. Call at the stables and see them.
We are also purchasing horses that are sound and in good condition from 4 to 10 years of age.
Parties having horses for sale will do well to call or write the undersigned. Phone 41. M. M. DOYLE, Exeter.

FARM FOR SALE.
The undersigned is offering for sale that desirable 50-acre farm in Usborne, being the South half Lot 10, Con. 7. There is on the premises a good frame house, bank barn and out buildings; two good wells water and an ever running spring at back of farm. This farm is in splendid condition and is nearly all seeded down. Will be sold reasonable and on easy terms. For particulars apply at Advocate Office or to Jas. Earl, Ellimville.

FOR SALE OR TO RENT
That most desirable farm property being Lot 15, Con. 2, Stephen, in the County of Huron, on which is situate two good bank barns and a commodious frame house. This land is well drained and fenced, has two good wells and a spring creek, and is convenient to churches, school and markets. Outgoing tenant leaves 10 acres sown with fall wheat, 15 acres of new meadow and does all necessary gang plowing and deep plowing. For further particulars apply to R. LEATHORN, Esq., Exeter; or DICKSON & CARLING, Barristers, etc., Exeter.

HOUSE FOR SALE
The undersigned is offering for sale, that desirable property on William st, being a one and half storey brick house in excellent condition, together with two lots of land. Also two vacant lots on Huron Street. Apply to MISS POLLY FISHER, Exeter.

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.
HENRY C. LOCUST.

HAS YOUR BLOOD BEEN DISEASED?

BLOOD POISONS are the most prevalent and most serious diseases. They sap the very life blood of the victim and unless entirely eradicated from the system will cause serious complications. Beware of Mercury. It may suppress the symptoms—our NEW METHOD cures all blood diseases.

YOUNG OR MIDDLE AGED MEN.—Imprudent acts or later excesses have broken down your system. You feel the symptoms stealing over you. Mentally, physically and vitally you are not the man you used to be or should be. Will you heed the danger signals?

READER Are you a victim? Have you lost hope? Are you intending to marry? Has your blood been diseased? Have you any weakness? Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure you. What it has done for others it will do for you. Consultation Free. No matter who has treated you, write for an honest opinion Free of Charge. Books Free—"Boyhood, Manhood, Fatherhood." (Illustrated) on Diseases of Men.

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT. PRIVATE. No names on boxes or envelopes. Everything Confidential. Question List and Cost of Treatment FREE FOR HOME TREATMENT.

DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY
Cor. Michigan Ave. and Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

NOTICE All letters from Canada must be addressed to our Canadian Correspondence Department in Windsor, Ont. If you desire to see us personally call at our Medical Institute in Detroit as we see and treat no patients in our Windsor offices which are for Correspondence and Laboratory for Canadian business only. Address all letters as follows:
DRS. KENNEDY & KENNEDY, Windsor, Ont.
Write for our private address.

Keep Your Bath Room
Spotlessly Clean with Gold Dust

Soap will not do the work properly because soap only cleans the surface—it does not dig deep after germs and hidden impurities like GOLD DUST—the greatest of all sanitary cleansers.

To keep bath tub and lavatory shiny-white and inviting—To keep metal pipes, fixtures and taps brightly burnished—To purify metal bowl—

To keep tiling and woodwork spotless and beautiful—

Simply add a heaping teaspoonful of GOLD DUST to a pail of water. You will be surprised at the ease with which it does the work. GOLD DUST sterilizes as well as cleans—and saves you one-half the labor.

"Let the GOLD DUST TWINS do your work"

GOLD DUST is sold in 50 size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Made by THE N. K. FAIRBANK COMPANY, - - Montreal
Makers of FAIRY SOAP, the oval cake.

Westervelt School
Y. M. C. A. BLDG.,
LONDON, ONT.
BUSINESS and SHORTHAND SUBJECTS. Registered last season upwards of 300 students and placed every graduate. Seven specially qualified regular teachers. One hundred and fifty London firms employ our trained help. College in session from Sept. 5 to June 30. Enter any time. Catalogue Free.
Forest City Business and Shorthand College
J. W. WESTERVELT, JR. Chartered Accountant, Vice Principal. J. W. WESTERVELT, Principal. 15

Auction Sale
OF
TIMBER AND HORSE

The undersigned auctioneer has received instructions to sell by public auction, on
LOT 1, CONCESSION, 6, USBORNE, on FRIDAY NOVEMBER, 17th, 1911, At 2 p. m. the following property viz;—That desirable unculled timber growing on above lot, consisting of soft elm, hardwood, basswood, etc., which will be sold by the acre, and which is situated on corner Lot, 3½ miles from Centralia Station. Also 1 general purpose mare, 7 years old, supposed to be in foal.
TERMS OF SALE—4 Months' credit will be given on furnishing approved joint notes. 4 per cent. discount off for cash. Two years for removal of timber will be allowed purchaser. Brush to be properly piled.
B. S. PHILLIPS, Auctioneer. WM. WHITEFORD, Proprietor

Dairy Cow Sale

The undersigned auctioneer has been instructed to sell by public auction at the METROPOLITAN HOTEL, EXETER on SATURDAY, NOV. 18th, 1911, at one o'clock, p. m. A carload of choice Dairy Cows. These cattle are of an exceptionally good class and every person wanting such will do well to attend this sale.
TERMS—Time will be given to suit purchaser on furnishing approved joint notes.
M. J. WILLIAMS, Proprietor. T. BROWN Auctioneer

WINCHELSEA
The following is the report of the Examination held in S. S. No. Usborne, in the month of November, 1911.—Sr. IV. Class—Total 830—E. Coward 640. Jr. IV.—total 830—G. Duncan 748, I. Heywood 672, L. Johns 580, D. Creery 569, D. Cornish 543. Jr. III.—total 665—V. Bell 602, M. Washburn 584, W. Routly 559, G. Delbridge 457, V. Heywood 418, A. Creery 385, L. Cornish 373. II. Class.—total 575—M. Camm 496, G. Johns 493, L. Johns 477, W. Skelton 465, F. Heywood 460, M. Cornish 381, R. Smale 379, M. Heywood 319 P. Coward 309. Pt. II.—total 420—G. Creery and B. Medd 375, F. Skinner 371, F. Routly 357, C. Bell 354, J. Wilson 344, R. Johns 339, M. Cornish 321, W. Heywood 308, T. Heywood 259 E. Johns 250, R. Delbridge 215.
Jessie A. Hamilton, Teacher.

ZURICH.
Mr. Harry Weber of Berlin was in town last week visiting his family.—Mrs. Whiteside left on Tuesday morning for home at Kemptville.—Miss I. Prang of London, arrived in town on Tuesday evening, for a visit with relatives.—Mr. Joseph Papineau has purchased the property near St. Joseph, owned by the late Mr. Disjardine.—Mr. Napoleon has purchased a fine 230 acre farm near Clinton for $12100.00. It is said to be one of the finest farms in Huron.—Mrs. Flaxbard had the misfortune of breaking her leg, while returning from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Howald. She made a misstep in some way, with the above unfortunate result.

BAYFIELD—Mrs. George Castle received sad news the past week of the death of her brother, Mr. Richard Heard of Osnabrook, North Dakota, at the age of 42 years. He died on Sunday the 29th of October. Mr. Heard was born in this village on Oct. 30th, 1869 and went west twenty-one years ago, settling in Dakota. He leaves a wife and five children, three girls and two boys. His father is still living in the village and three brothers and three sisters are living. Mrs. Elliott, Seeleys Bay,; Mrs. Good Castle, Bayfield Mrs. W. Howard, Goderich; William and John, Bayfield, and Thomas in Thessalon.

HENSALL
On Sunday Nov. 14h, about 4 o-clock Mrs. James Moore had a close call from being asphyxiated by coal gas. Fortunately her husband awoke and found her unconscious. He bore her out into the open air and procured a doctor who worked with her for hours before she was out of danger.—At Pittsburg Penn, to Mr. and Mrs. Hall, formerly Miss Rose Yungblutt, a son.—A Whiteside returned from his trip to Brandon, Man., last week.—John Buchanan and wife of Bow Park Farm, Brantford, are visiting his parents here.—The council intend completing a by-law at the next meeting, to make the act of putting Ashes in the ditches or even on the travelled part of the streets, punishable with a fine.—The death of Andrew Hall one of the pioneer settlers of this section took place at his home, at Kippen Nov. 8 after a long illness. His brother James died Sep. 21st, so that the older members of this well known and much esteemed family are passing away—H. J. D. Cooke, of Toronto, was in town last week.—On Thursday, Mrs. T. Wiley, of near Varna, departed this life, aged 57 years. Her maiden name was Jennie McNaughton, and she had been a resident of Stanley for many years. The funeral took place to Baird's Cemetery.

GRAND BEND.
(Too late for last week.)
Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, who have been visiting around here, returned to their home in Sarnia.—Mr. H. Zapfe and daughter, Pearl, of Stanley visited at C. Zapfe's Sunday.—Some hunters from Alisa Craig are down on the old river hunting.—Frankie Austin, who has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs—Clarkson, has returned to her home Goderich.—Rev. Carriere preached for the first time since his illness on Sunday.—Mrs. C. Walper, who has been sick, is improving.—Mrs. Wm. Buchanan is expected home from the hospital.—Mr. Dewey and Jonah Green, who have been home for the past week, returned to Amherstburg.

KIRKTON
Mr. Maurice Racey left last week to resume his studies in Toronto.—Mrs. W. Leigh and children left last week for their home in Regina.—Mr. Thos. Crews has moved into the house lately vacated by Mr. A. Shier.—There died in the village Friday evening Mrs. Jane Robinson relict of the late Robt. Robinson, who died about 17 years ago. Mrs. Robinson came from Ireland to this country when quite a girl, and is amongst the oldest residents of this neighborhood. She was a strong hearty woman all her life until the last few years. She was in her 80th year. All the family were at the funeral which took place on Sunday to St. Paul's Cemetery, conducted by Rev. G. W. Racey. The members of the family living are one son, Archie J. of Blanshard, Mrs. D. Kemp of Blanshard, Mrs. J. Semple of Parkhill, Mrs. G. L. Money of Stratford, Mrs. W. G. Hart of Winthrop and Miss Jennie at home. The pall-bearers were nephews of the deceased.

WINGHAM—An accident occurred at the Western Foundry last week when Pete Matthias was fixing a belt attached to the lift in connection with the cupola. The engineer, not aware of his being up there, started the machinery and Matthias was caught in the belting, but fortunately there was not room for his body. Every stitch of clothing was torn from body except his shoes, but although badly bruised, no bones were found to be broken.

CURIOSITY Prompted Many Women To Try PURITY FLOUR

THEY were curious to see exactly what results would be produced by flour consisting entirely of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat.

They were curious to know more about a flour that contained none of the low-grade portions, which are found in every wheat berry, but which are separated and excluded from the high-grade in the process of milling PURITY FLOUR.

THEY were curious to know whether an ALL HIGH-GRADE hard wheat flour was really superior to a mixed hard and soft wheat flour.

They were curious to see and taste the kind of bread, buns, biscuits, cakes and pies PURITY FLOUR would make.

Curiosity prompts you to seek the knowledge they discovered. It's urging you to try PURITY FLOUR.

REMINDER: On account of the extra strength and extra quality of PURITY FLOUR it is necessary, for best pastry-results, to add more shortening than you are accustomed to use with an ordinary flour. Add more water when making bread.

Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now

PURITY FLOUR

"More bread and better bread"

Sold by R. G. Seldon

THE TORONTO NEWS
DAILY
$1.50 — A YEAR — $1.50
ORDERS TAKEN AT THIS OFFICE
THE NEWS WILL BE SENT DAILY BY MAIL TO ANY ADDRESS IN CANADA FOR ONE DOLLAR AND A-HALF A YEAR.

The "Woman Question—Three Meals a Day"

This is the problem confronting the average housewife—a problem of vital importance to the home, and one best solved by a trip to our store and the purchase of

GURNEY-OXFORD

For the Woman Question is not only what to eat, but how to cook it, and you find the answer in Gurney-Oxford—first in construction, as well as convenience; first in facilities for control and readiness. The Divided Oven Flue Strip assures perfect baking because of its even heat-distribution, and in every detail the perfect construction of this Chancellor Range assures satisfactory cooking results.

Another phase of the question is economy, and we invite a visit to our store expressly that you may examine the marvellous fuel-saving device the

Oxford Economizer

Gurney-Oxfords are the only stoves licensed to sell with this wonderful patent. It needs only to be set at a proper angle to hold heat for hours without attention. No fuel is wasted—a saving of 20 per cent.

The Grate is Reversible with strong teeth that save accumulation of clinkers and waste.

In point of appearance—nickel trimmings, beauty of design, etc.—the Gurney-Oxford has not a rival. Come to our store and find the best answer to the Woman Question—a Gurney-Oxford stove.

W. J. Heaman, Agent, Exeter

7% GUARANTEED 7%

And a Share in the Profits

As a rule our clients get the benefit of all the "certainties" we control. To-day we are making use of "An Absolute Certainty" for the purpose of extending our clientele. Here's the proposition in a nut shell—

—a 7% profit-sharing preference stock on which dividends are paid twice a year—a stock issued by a concern with a record of 25 years' successful and progressive business experience—a concern at present controlling Natural Resources which are bound to double the value of its securities before long.

We guarantee 7% on this investment. We are practically certain that this stock will pay higher profits. It's the best industrial stock, at par, on the market.

Furthermore, we guarantee to buy it back at par, plus 7%, in one year from date of investment, if desired. Write at once to,

NATIONAL SECURITIES CORPORATION, LIMITED

Confederation Life Bldg., TORONTO 303 Board of Trade Bldg., MONTREAL

In the New Home

You want the best when starting in the new home. Above all, you want that home to be snug and warm and comfortable.

You are sure of warmth and comfort with a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater.

The Perfection is the best and most reliable heater made.

It is a sort of portable fireplace.

It is ready night and day. Just strike a match and light the wick. The Perfection is all aglow in a minute.

The Perfection Oil Heater does not smell nor smoke—a patent automatic device prevents that. It can be carried easily from room to room and is equally suitable for any room in the house. Handsomely finished, with nickel trimmings; drums of either turquoise-blue enamel or plain steel.

PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER

Ask your dealer to show you a Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, or write for descriptive circular direct to any agency of

The Queen City Oil Company, Limited

CLOSE QUARTERS;

OR, THE HOUSE IN THE RUE BARBETTE

CHAPTER VIII.—(Cont'd)

Even the self-possessed Turk could not conceal his amazement at the manner in which his strange visitor conducted himself.

"That is a point we have not yet decided," he said. "We are strangely unwilling to take the life of such a brave man as yourself. If we were assured of your silence, we would even be disposed to permit you to escape this time, with a solemn warning not to cross our path again. But we feel that clemency is out of the question. There is one hope—a slight one, it is true—which may permit us to gag you and tie you securely in this room, where you will be left in peace for at least forty-eight hours, after which time a telegram can be dispatched to any address you choose to supply us with. But really, owing to unforeseen circumstances, this chance of a reprieve is remote. It wholly depends upon the arrival, or otherwise, at this house, of a gentleman whom we expect at 11.15."

Brett leaned forward in his chair and took out his watch. The other misunderstood his movement, and each of the other three promptly produced a revolver.

Brett laughed quite heartily. "Really, gentlemen," he cried, "your nervousness is ludicrous."

He saw that he yet had five minutes' grace before his self-constituted judges would proceed to execute their sentence. As for the Turks, they were manifestly ashamed of having betrayed such trepidation, and they replaced the weapons so readily staged.

"That is a point in my favor," thought Brett. "Next time, if I do wish to reach my revolver, I may be able to get the draw on them first."

"During the interval" said Hussein-ul-Mulk suavely, "is there anything you wish to do—any letters to write or that sort of thing?"

"No," said Brett, "I do not think so; it seems to me that you have thoroughly misunderstood the purpose of this meeting. I came here in order to obtain from you particulars which will lead to the release of Mr. Talbot and redeem his character in the eyes of his superiors. I did not come here to be killed, Hussein-ul-Mulk. I am not going to be killed. If you touch a hair of my head you will only leave this house for a prison, and subsequently for the gallows. And so, you see, you are talking childishly when you dangle these threats and preliminaries to immediate execution before my eyes. It is not you, but I, who will dictate the terms on which we part. It may perhaps interest you to explain this new phase of the situation to your fellow-countrymen, and the matter will also serve to dissipate the few minutes yet that have to elapse before 11.15."

Hussein-ul-Mulk made no direct reply to this remarkable speech. That it impressed him was quite evident from his manner. Forthwith an animated but subdued conversation took place between the triumvirate.

While it was in progress a peculiar knock was heard on the outside door of the apartment.

"Ah! he come," said Hussein-ul-Mulk in French. He left the room in order to meet the new arrival. He returned without delay, bringing with him a man very different from those whom Brett had encountered thus far in connection with the crime. This was a dapper little Frenchman, wizened, yellow-skinned, black-haired, and dressed almost in the extreme of fashion. He at once addressed himself to the barrister.

"They tell me, my friend," he said, "that you have thrust your finger into the pie which the friends of his Majesty the Sultan are preparing for him. It is a bad business. You are too soon for the banquet. The result is that your poor little finger may get burnt, as the pie is still being cooked."

The man smiled maliciously at his feeble witticism, and Brett instantly took his measure as a member of the gang of flash thieves which infest Paris. He knew that such a ruffian was both pitiless and cowardly. Whatever the outcome of the situation which faced him, he would not stoop to conciliatory methods with this despicable rascal.

"I suppose," he said, "that the only part of the affair which concerns you is the robbery."

"Well, and what if it is?"

"I can only say that your political friends will be well advised to keep a close eye on you, for you would rob them just as soon as the persons against whom they have employed you."

The little thief laughed cynically. "You are right, mon vieux, I would be delighted to have the chance. But this time it is impossible. The stones are too big. They are worth—pouf!—millions of francs, so I must be content to receive my pay, which is good."

"Have you intrusted the Sultan's diamonds to the care of a scamp like this?" said Brett, addressing himself to Hussein, and inwardly resolving that unless the conversation by chance took a turn favorable to himself, he would forthwith open fire on the gang and endeavor to escape.

"Yes," cried the conspirator with a savage laugh. "You have never seen them, Mr. Brett? Here they are. To many men the sight would be a pleasant one. To you it should be terrible, for the arrival of these diamonds at this moment means that you must die."

So saying, he produced from an inner pocket of his frock-coat a large, plain morocco case. The pressure of a spring caused the lid to fly back, revealing to the eyes of those in the room a collection of diamonds marvelous by reason of the size and magnificence of each stone.

In the center reposed the Imperial diamond itself. For an instant Brett reflected that whilst the other men were fascinated by the spectacle he would have a good opportunity to shoot some of them without mercy and make a dash for liberty.

But at the same moment there came to him an odd thought. His friend the jeweller of the Rue de la Paix had not given him a lesson in vain during the previous afternoon.

The barrister suspected—in fact, he was almost sure—that the gems now flaunting their half-revealed glories in the light of the day—for not one of them had undergone the final process peculiar to the diamond cutters trade—were not the real stones stolen from Albert Gate but well-fabricated substitutes.

(To be continued.)

A MARTYR TO HEADACHES?

NA-DRU-CO HEADACHE WAFERS

25c. a Box at your druggist's.

will make life comfortable for you again.

They relieve the worst headache in 30 minutes or less. 31

National Drug and Chemical Company of Canada, Limited, • • • • Montreal.

RED.

It's the Red Blood Corpuscles that Proper Food Makes.

An Ohio woman says Grape-Nuts food gave her good red blood and restored the roses of youth to a complexion that had been muddy and blotchy. She says:

"For 10 years I had stomach trouble which produced a breaking out on my face. The doctors gave it a long Latin name, but their medicines failed to cure it. Along with this I had frequent headaches, nervousness and usually pain in my stomach after meals.

"I got disgusted with the drugs, stopped them and coffee off short, and quit eating everything but fruit and Grape-Nuts, with Postum for my table beverage.

"The headaches, stomach trouble and nervous weakness disappeared almost like magic, which showed that when the cause was removed and good food and drink used nature was ready to help.

"My blood was purified and my complexion became like a young girl's, while my weight was increased from 90 to 120 pounds in a few months—good, solid, firm flesh, where it used to be soft and flabby.

"I recommended Grape-Nuts and Postum to one of my friends, who was afflicted as I had been. She followed my advice, and in a short time was restored to complete health, and in about 8 months her weight increased from 100 to 148 pounds.

"Our doctor, observing the effect of Grape-Nuts and Postum in our cases, declared, the other day, that he would hereafter prescribe these food products for gastritis." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

Young Wife—Arthur, dearest, how do they arrange these pickles in the bottle so nicely? Young Husband—They pile the pickles up, Petay, and then blow the bottle around them.

Paste this in your bonnet, girls: You can never tell what sort of husband a man will make by the brand of love letters he writes.

One Hundred Dollars in Gold given away

For completing the known name of a person prominent in Canada whose name consists of 9 letters, the first of which is "C" and the last "T" as—
C.....T

The above amount will be divided into 18 prizes as follows:—

First Prize	$25.00	in Gold
Second Prize	15.00	" "
Third Prize	10.00	" "
Fourth Prize	5.00	" "

and the next twelve will each receive $2.50 in gold.

The first person sending in the correct name will receive the first prize, and others sending in correct answers will receive the other prizes in the order in which their answers are received, also to the party sending in the correct answer next to last one received we will give $5.00, and to the last $10.00.

CONTEST COMMENCES NOV. 13TH, 1911, AND ENDS DEC. 30th, 1911, BOTH DAYS INCLUSIVE. LETTERS RECEIVED AT THE OFFICE EITHER BEFORE 13TH NOV., 1911, OR AFTER 30TH DEC., 1911, WILL NOT BE COUNTED.

CONDITIONS GOVERNING CONTEST:

You have one answer with each ONE POUND PACKAGE or TWO HALF POUND PACKAGES OF "MELAGAMA" TEA or COFFEE you buy. All you have to do is to steam label off the Tea Lead or from the Coffee tins, send the two end pieces of the Tea Labels, or the portion of the Coffee Labels with picture of children on it, along with your answer, giving name and address in full, and send to "MELAGAMA," Dept. "B," 45 Front St. E., Toronto, Ont. (Answers unlimited, try early and often).

NO EMPLOYEES OR IMMEDIATE RELATIVES WILL BE ALLOWED TO ENTER CONTEST.

Answers will be numbered in consecutive order as they are received, and at the expiration of the contest, the prizes will be awarded by a committee of disinterested persons, and the list of prize winners will be given in this paper.

MELAGAMA TEA and COFFEE PACKED AND BLENDED BY THE OLD ESTABLISHED FIRM OF MINTO BROS. TORONTO.

PUGGINS AND POPPETT.

"Well, well, what's the matter, Tiddle Toddle Toddlekins?" said big brother Dick, as he saw his small sister sitting in the big arm-chair looking very disconsolate.

"O Dick," said the little girl, whose name was really Gertrude, but who was called "Trudie" for short, and "Tiddle Toddle Toddlekins" when Dick wanted to tease a little, "I'm so worried about Puggins and Poppett, the little kittens Mrs. Spencer gave me. Their mother died, and the poor little things are too young to drink milk themselves. We must find some way to feed them, but I've tried all sorts of things, and I can't teach them to drink. They are getting so thin I don't know what to do."

Dick thought a minute, and then he said, "Come on, Trudie; I know the very thing." He ran up-stairs to his room, and pretty soon came back with something in his hand. "Now," he said, "come out where the kittens are, and let's see if I can get them to drink."

First they went to the kitchen and heated a cup of milk, not really hot, but just nice and warm. Then Dick and Trudie went out to the shed, where the two little motherless kittens were in their box. Really, they were very thin, for, as Trudie said, they had eaten nothing for two days. Dick took one of the little kittens up, and then Trudie saw that what he had in his hand was a nice, new, clean fountain-pen filler or medicine-dropper. He filled the dropper with the warm milk and put one end in kitty's mouth. He then pressed the rubber end of the dropper, and kitty tasted the warm milk in her mouth. How she did claw and struggle to get more milk!

Trudie held her in her arms and Dick fed her milk until she was satisfied. Then Trudie put her back in the box, and the other kitten was fed in the same way. Trudie fed them milk in this way for several days, until they learned to drink milk out of a saucer.

The kittens are sleek, grown-up cats now, and well able to take care of themselves. They have forgotten all about how they used to take milk out of a medicine-dropper, but Trudie has not forgotten, and she thinks Dick is the nicest brother in the world. I rather think that Puggins and Poppett think so, too.

57 YEARS EXPERIENCE

Redpath

EXTRA GRANULATED SUGAR IS ABSOLUTELY PURE.

The first and great essential of a food product, is Purity; the Purity and Quality of our Extra Granulated have never been questioned.

Once make a comparison with other Sugars and you will not be satisfied with any but Redpath.

Dainty Tea Tables are always served with PARIS LUMPS to be had in RED SEAL dust proof cartons, and by the pound.

The Canada Sugar Refining Co., Limited
MONTREAL, CANADA.

Established in 1854 by John Redpath

$3,600 in Cash Prizes for Farmers

WHEN you enter the Canada Cement Prize Contest, your dealer will assist you. Consult him in reference to conditions of the contest. Refer all questions of doubt to him to decide. Confer with him when his experience and advice and his knowledge of our plan would seem helpful.

Don't hesitate about doing this. We have requested him to assist to the best of his ability any farmer in his locality competing in this contest—whether it's a matter involving the application of cement, or how to go about winning one of the prizes offered in this contest. Do you realize that you have as good a chance as the next man to win one of these prizes? There are four for each Province, as follows:

