THE COURIER.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1850.

The Industrial Exhibition.

We understand that several protests have been made, by parties exhibiting, against the decisions of the Judges, whose list of awarded prizes will be found in our paper to-day. Certainly some of their awards do appear to us of the most extraordinary character, though we do not think it expedient to enter into any details. However, great allowances must be made; this is the first Exhibition of the kind we have had, and gentlemen may be presumed not to have quite so much experience as they may hereafter attain; of one thing we are satisfied, which is, that the Judges have acted with perfect honour and rectitude of intention, and though they may have erred in some instances, we are convinced that if a clear case of error is made out, and laid before them, they will be quite ready to reconsider such decision. We should not be too ready to blame men who have acted according to the best of their judgment.

In our hurried enumeration of the various articles sent to this Exhibition, we believe that we quite forgot to notice the works of various fair contributors, in the shape of fancy work, embroidery, Berlin work, and various other elegant productions of the needle. There was a screen on which was most beautifully worked "some strange bright bird, with starry wings," surrounded by a wreath of exquisite flowers, which we understood to be the work of a young lady in the Congregational Nunnery. We saw also a very fine chair, worked, we believe, by Mrs. Walton, and in a glass-case there were some pretty things of this kind, but we could not learn the names of the ladies who sent them. A table, intended for the centre of a drawing-room, ornamented with flowers, by Miss Emeline Warren, attracted great attention.

We had almost forgotten to notice an exquisite litho[illegible] which exhibit result in silver on a gold ground,—the work of our neighbor, Mr. [illegible], but the only wonder is that we saw it at all, for, although one of the prettiest things in the room, it was hung in such a place that one had to go down on one's knees to look at it.
