Not to be Bluffed.

Another Characteristic Speech by Ambassador Bayard.

A French Squadron to Cruise in British Waters.

Dervish Attacks Repulsed by Italian and Native Troops.

The Egyptian Difficulty Between France and Britain Likely to be Soon and Amicably Settled.

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

Rome, March 25.—The Pope has recovered from his recent indisposition. He held a reception yesterday, and today the feast of the Annunciation will be celebrated.

ITALY'S AFRICAN CREDITS.

Rome, March 25.—The Italian Senate yesterday debated the African credits, amounting to 140,000,000 lire, which were recently approved by the Chamber of Deputies. When Prime Minister Rudini arose to speak in favor of the Government's demands he was loudly applauded. He emphatically denied that King Menelek had demanded the payment of a large indemnity as a condition of peace, and declared that the report was an insult to Italy.

NEW ZEALAND NEEDS A NAVY.

London, March 25.—Hon. J. G. Ward, who holds several offices in New Zealand, including those of Colonial Treasurer and Minister of Marine, delivered a speech at Winter yesterday, in the course of which he declared that New Zealand must shortly expect to have its debt largely increased. The colony, he added, could not expect that Great Britain would always protect it, and soon it would be necessary to obtain millions of pounds to provide a fleet of warships.

THE ENEMY DEFEATED.

Rome, March 25.—A dispatch from Massowah says: "A force of 600 Dervishes attacked Sabdaret Pass on March 8. It was defended by 80 native troops, and the enemy were defeated, and fled, leaving 41 killed. The Italian loss was three killed. On March 18, 1,500 Dervishes renewed the attack, but they were repulsed four times with heavy loss."

Three thousand Dervishes are still threatening the Pass, and reinforcements have been dispatched from Kassala.

JAMESON'S TRIAL.

London, March 25.—At the trial of Dr. Jameson, the leader of the Rand raid, Bower, a clerk in the office of Gen. Joubert, the commander-in-chief of the forces of the South African Republic, deposed to having delivered the message of Sir J. A. Dewet, the British agent at Pretoria, to the commanders of the Jameson expedition, and he stated that the reply to it, which was read in court, stated that the supplies of the column were exhausted and that it must proceed to Krugersdorp or Johannesburg. The case was again adjourned.

DISAVOWED.

Madrid, March 25.—The Government paper, El Nacional, disavows the unfriendly articles of the United States which had appeared in the Epoca, and which were supposed to reflect the views of the Spanish Cabinet. One of these articles challenges the United States to show its colors, and declares that Spain is ready to face America with dignity if the latter country desires war. The other reviews possible European alliances, finding fault with all of them, but inclines to those countries whose interests are equally opposed to the American-Japanese claims.

WILLIAM AND HUMBERT.

Genoa, March 25.—Emperor William and Empress Victoria arrived here at 6 o'clock last evening. The Duke of Genoa and a number of high officials received them at the railway station, and as their majesties were driven from the station they were enthusiastically acclaimed by the crowds that lined their route. A meeting between the Emperor and King Humbert has been fixed to take place on April 12 at Venice. Prime Minister Di Rudini and Signor Sermoneta, Minister of Foreign Affairs will be present.

THE CATTLE TRADE.

London, March 25.—A Parliamentary paper embodying the correspondence in the subject of the exportation of Canadian cattle into England concludes with a statement from the President of the Board of Agriculture, that it would be to the interests of both Canada and the mother country to close the controversy. Trade, he says, had been developed on the lines of the bill now before Parliament, providing that Canadian cattle shall be slaughtered at their ports of landing, and the board calls attention to the growth of trade in cattle imported from the United States, which have been slaughtered at their port of landing for the past seventeen years, as proof that the bill will not act to the prejudice of Canadian cattle.

BAYARD NOT TO BE BLUFFED.

London, March 25.—The anniversary dinner of the London General Pension Society was given last night. Among the guests was Hon. Thos. F. Bayard, the American Ambassador, who responded to the toast, "Our Kin Beyond the Seas." He remarked upon the strong family likeness of the kin beyond the seas to the people of England. They were, he said, as like as two peas, and they resembled each other in their patriotism and pluck. There was another similarity between them, namely, helping the poor and weak. He was inclined to believe that therein lay the strength of the English-speaking system. Mr. Bayard dwelt upon the difference of opinion among his own countrymen and upon the value of inividual opinion. He said that since he came to England he had never found occasion to change his tone, and there was nothing he would say here that he would not say at home and vice versa. (Cheers.) He did not expect unanimity, and would also say God forbid it. An American should not be expected to say anything that would suit everybody. He rejoiced in the system of government that originated here and that had been carried beyond the Atlantic. There was something that enabled a man to speak according to his own conscience. (Cheers.) Therein, too, lay the strength of both countries. When the time came when a man dare not speak the thoughts swelling within him for the public good, God help him and the country. He quoted Tennyson, voicing the sentiment, and said he believed the poet's words echoed as strongly in the country where he had been born and where his best hopes lay as they did in Great Britain. In conclusion, Mr. Bayard said: "Herein lies that which shall keep both countries moving onwards and upwards in the cause of civilization, and we will never suppress the truth for fear of evil consequences. We will tell it whether we live or whether we have to die."

THE FRANCO-BRITISH DIFFICULTY.

Paris, March 25.—M. Lockey, the Minister of Marine, announced that the French northern squadron would not go to its usual cruising grounds, but would shortly proceed to the English Channel and the Bay of Biscay.

London, March 25.—It is understood that France and Great Britain will settle their Egyptian difficulty before the meeting of the Egyptian Debt Commission, on Thursday next. Explanations of a satisfactory nature are proceeding. The Baron de Courcel, the French ambassador here, who was suddenly recalled to London after he had left this city on leave of absence, will return to France on Saturday, and the Marquis of Salisbury has arranged to start for Beaulieu on Thursday.

A Good Old Man

Was the Author of "Tom Brown's School Days."

Sketch of His Career—He Wrote the Most Celebrated Book of Its Kind.

London, March 25.—"Tom" Hughes, the author of "Tom Brown's School Days," who died at Brighton Sunday, was one of those charming men who never forget that they have been schoolboys. He was a schoolboy in his old age—he was born nearly 73 years ago—and up to the time of his death delighted in the society of schoolboys, and made schoolboys delight in his company. He could be stern, and often was so, but he always remembered that he had been a boy himself, and his great sympathy with the joys and sorrows of the schoolboy found expression in that classic, "Tom Brown's School Days."

When young Hughes went to Rugby, Dr. Arnold, father of the late Matthew Arnold, was its head master. It was Dr. Arnold who made Rugby the famous school it became. It was "Tom" Hughes who told the public what manner of school it was. Arnold and Hughes together placed Rugby side by side with Eton, Harrow and Winchester.

"Tom Brown's School Days" had a great influence in the United States, and helped to cultivate a chivalrous spirit among American boys toward one another, and a feeling of affection toward the school in which they were being educated. The book was translated into French and German, and had a good effect in France and Germany by arousing an interest among boys in out-of-doors sport.

When "Tom Brown" left Rugby he went to Oriol College, Oxford. His "Tom Brown at Oxford" did not have the success of its Rugby predecessor. He was graduated in 1845, and was at Oxford during the celebrated Tractarian movement, when Oxford had men who have been since placed in the world's Pantheon.

Mr. Hughes studied equity, "ate his dinners" at Lincoln's Inn and was called to the equity bar in 1848. He went to Parliament, but made no name as a debater. The public had accepted him as the one who could write "Tom Brown's School Days"—which was published in 1857—and would give him no credit for anything else.

Mr. Hughes, who was made a judge in 1882, became imbued with the idea that a co-operative colony of Englishmen in America would be a success. The colony was formally opened on Oct. 5, 1880, in Tennessee, and was known as the Rugby colony. The colonists were principally young Englishmen of birth, who could play lawn tennis well, and had been brought up to a B. and S. three or four times a day. The colony was a failure, and Mr. Hughes, who was the most unpractically honest man that ever lived, could never understand the reason of its failure.

Socially, Mr. Hughes was a great favorite.

THE FUNERAL.

London, March 25.—The remains of Mr. Thos. Hughes, Q.C., author of "Tom Brown's School Days," etc., were interred today in the presence of a crowd of friends and admirers. In accordance with the desire of the deceased, the funeral ceremony was of the simplest kind. The grave was lined with ivy, and there were many floral tributes.

BRAVE LADY BURTON.

Widow of the Translator of "The Scented Garden."

London, March 24.—Lady Burton, widow of Sir Richard Burton, the English explorer, who has just died, had a romantic and extraordinary career. She married Sir Richard against the wishes of her family and went with him to Bombay. In order to be his companion in the adventurous life he led as an officer there, she often adopted male attire and passed for his son.

Sir Richard, upon his return to England, after many years in Bombay, translated a Persian tome, attributed to the poet Saadi, called "The Scented Garden." The tone of the production was exceedingly immoral, judged by western standards. On the day the translation was completed Sir Richard died. Although the widow was offered $50,000 for the manuscript and was pressed for money she refused to sell it and burned it page by page.

SAVED BY HIS DOG.

Little Willie Gray Attacked by a Large Gray Eagle.

Bird Buries Its Talons in the Child's Flesh—His Newfoundland Saves Him.

Lexington, Ky., March 26.—But for his big Newfoundland little Willie Slone might have been converted into eagle food yesterday. He was playing in the front yard of the home of his father, W. J. Slone, whose house is at the foot of Jones' Fork Mountain, one of the highest of the Kentucky Ridge, when a large eagle alighted on him and buried his talons in his side.

Willie is only two years old, and is somewhat small for that age. Near him was his big and faithful dog, which, upon hearing the cries of the boy, ran to him just in time to catch the eagle by the leg.

The bird had made an awkward plunge and had to settle, putting one foot to the ground before it could rise.

Mr. Slone was sitting in his door and saw the eagle as it darted down from the mountain side. He ran at full speed in the direction of the child and arrived in time to assist the dog in killing the eagle and to release the talons of the bird from the boy's clothing and flesh.

One eye was cut so bad that it is believed he will lose the sight, and his left breast was torn considerably, but the injuries are not considered fatal.

The bird is of the gray eagle variety and measures seven feet from tip to tip.

"KATHLEEN MAVOURNEEN."

Little Hope for the Composer of the Famous Song.

Baltimore, March 25.—Prof. Crouch, the venerable composer of "Kathleen Mavourneen," whose serious illness has been reported, was weaker today. Whenever he feels a little better, he wants to get up and walk around, and the exertion always brings on fresh attacks. He sat in his chair for two hours today, and afterwards was taken violently ill, and lay in bed gasping for breath.

He is suffering from heart failure, and Dr. John S. Fulton, his attending physician, says that recovery is hardly possible.

PRINCIPAL GRANT'S VIEWS.

The Noted Scholar Brings Out Points to Which Heed Must be Given.

Principal Grant, in the Globe, says to settle the Manitoba school question regard must be paid:

1. To the form and spirit of the constitution, remembering that the difficulty springs from a peculiarity of our constitution, which is both federal and parliamentary.

2. To provincial self-respect, which cannot be wounded in the least province without the greatest being also wounded sooner or later.

3. To religous sentiment, for though the state is distinct from religious organizations, it cannot discharge its own functions aright if it antagonizes the religious sentiment of even ill-instructed portions of the community.

Now that the question has become complicated the ordinary methods of party government are too rough for its solution. Delay, in order to inquire, conference, and mutual concession, is imperative. Haste may involve the greatest perils. We are face to face with a question which is world wide in its significance. If, through having men who value the country more than party, we settle it wisely, great shall be our credit and our gain.
