AGAIN THE FARMER BROWN

His Two-Base Hit in the Tenth Won the Game for Buffalo.

Reisling Pitched in Winning Form, but Careless Baserunning Made It a Tie in Nine Innings—Rochester Beat Syracuse — Springfield Here To-Day.

The Buffalo series ended disastrously. Carelessness on the bases lost the game. Reisling pitched in winning form, and the game should have ben finished with Toronto ahead in nine innings. The defeat sends the Islanders down a piece, but so well are the clubs bunched that it is only a matter of a few games before we are back among the leaders. The standing.

Bisons Won in Ten Innings.

Farmer Brown was again in evidence at the Island yesterday. Diggins batted for Mitchell in the ninth and helped to tie the score. Brown took the slab in the 10th and held the Torontos down to 1 run. Then, with first and second occupied, he cracked out a two-bagger that sent home two runs and won the game.

Mitchell and Reisling were the opposing twirlers, and honors were pretty evenly divided, with the Islander having the advantage of holding the Bisons down to a few scattered hits, while Toronto rung in a couple of doubles. Dopey base running lost the Torontos at least two runs.

A base on balls, Reisling's double and Wise's wild throw yielded two for Toronto at the outset. Another base on balls, Carney's sacrifice and Gatins' safe hit produced another in the third. Casey's single, Gray's scratch hit, a double steal and a long fly to Griffin sent in another in the fourth, while all the Bisons could count was one in the third from White's single, a passed ball and Wise's hit. Thus they romped along until the 8th, with Toronto ahead 4 to 1. Two single and an out gave the Bisons their second run that Capt. Taylor was content to let cross the plate. To start the ninth Urquhart sent a bad one to Fox, who made a nice stop, but threw the runner round to third. Diggins stepped up and singled a run in with no one gone. Two grounders that were outs at first sent him round to third, and everything looked rosy for the fans. Sandy Griffin sent a wicked one that Gatins stopped, but the throw took Carney off the bag, and the score was tied.

Brown got Carney out on a fly to Greminger, but Gatins banged a double to the fence. Taylor singled him home, but was caught trying to make second. Fox retired third to first and Toronto was only one ahead.

Reisling stuck to his guns and retired the first man up on a foul fly. Greminger drew four wide ones and Toman made a hit. Grem getting no farther than second. Urquhart sent a short fly to Grey, and Brown stepped up for what looked like a 10 to 1 shot. But he won out in the easiest sort of a romp. He soaked the first ball pitched to the bicycle track in right centre and it was all over. Score:

THE FAVORITES FARE BETTER

Three of Them Finished in Front on the Third Day at Hamilton.

Earl Fanso, a 40 to 1 Shot, Won, but Was Disqualified, Being Short of Weight—Miss Meade and Term Day Beat Out the Favorite Ergo—Red Pat's Rider Changed and a Game Spoiled.

Hamilton June 2.—(Special.)—The card at Hamilton was much better to-day than on Wednesday, and it was better for the favorites, as three out of five landed first money. The fourth race was a repetition of yesterday, the prime favorite, Ergo, being beaten by a long shot. The fields were all good ones, and most of the starts were from the first break. The finishes were fairly close. For foul riding in the last race, Williams, who rode Hannigan, was suspended for the rest of the meeting. The judges were evidently not satisfied in the steeplechase, as they took Moxley off the favorite, Red Pat, and Huston was put up in his place. In the second race Earl Fonso, a long shot, that was well tipped and heavily backed, finished first, but was disqualified, as the rider was found short of weight when he weighed in after the race.

In the first race the favorite won only by a nose, beating Asterling out in the last eighth, all out. Disorder secured third place by three good lengths. The start in the second race was a good one, the horses running well together for the first part, when Earl Fonso got away and finished first, Olney outrunning the favorite. Dumbarton tired for the place, Fratelo being fourth, and when it was found that Earl Fonso's weight was shy, Olney was given first money, Dumbarton second and Fratelo third.

There were only five starters in the steeplechase. The favorite, Red Pat, went away first and was never headed, finishing in front easily, out-jumping the others, Prince Mark getting the place easily, King Kenn being third by a good distance. Prize fell at the eleventh jump and Brown was badly shaken up.

The field went away on a straggling start in the fourth race, Miss Meade getting lengths the best of it, and she kept the lead all the way, winning easily, while Term Day beat the favorite, Ergo, out for the place under a hard drive in the last eighth.

Ten horses faced the starter in the last race, Hartford Boy getting away first to a good start, but he was soon passed by Forum, who led to the stretch, where the favorite, Dinsmore, went out and won handily, Kenosha getting second, and Frank Jaubert, who was coming strong, beat Dinsmore for third place.

If anything the books again had the better of it, as the favorites that landed were short-priced, and outsiders were well backed. In the first race the favorite received a lot of money, Disorder and Asterling being played for the place and to show. The second race was a good one for the books as the money was put on the favorites in chunks, the winner being played for the place and lightly to win, while a tip on Earl Fonso caused him to carry considerable money at long odds. The favorite was heavily backed in the third race, as was, Prince Mark for the place, the others being only nibbled at by a few. The fourth race was another good one for the books, as Ergo, the favorite, was heavily backed, the winner, a long shot, only being guessed at, while Term Day and Flying Belle carried a lot of place and show money. In the last race the favorite carried a good deal of money, the others, all long shots, being played for place and third, while Distant Shot was taken by some to win and Frank Jaubert carried a heap of second place coin.
