Nova Scotia Wins.

A Tiverton Miracle.

Twenty-five years of intense suffering which baffled the combined skill and treatment of six of the best doctors in this province completely cured by

DOCK BLOOD PURIFIER,
THE KING OF REMEDIES.

From Ross C. C. Handspiker, Esq., of Tiverton, N.S.:—

"I have been afflicted with fearful running sores on my legs for 25 years. Have employed at different times, six of the best doctors I could get. But all of their skill and treatment did me no good, and I was left sometimes unable to walk. Last year my legs became so bad after an attack of la grippe that I never expected to walk again. In this condition I concluded to try Dock Blood Purifier, and before the first bottle was half gone I felt a great change. I continued on to use the medicine, and applied to the sores Norton's Healing Balm. Before I had finished the third bottle my sores were all healed up and my health better than for years, and would highly recommend Dr. Norton's Dock Blood Purifier to all afflicted with sores of any kind.

SURELY IF WE ACCEPT THE TRUTH
FROM ANYONE
It Must be the Clergy!
The Rev. J. E. Warner, Rector, of Middleton, says:—
"For more than twenty years I have been afflicted with Chronic Constipation. Have been treated by several physicians here and in the States, and have tried many of the cures advertised through the press without receiving any permanent benefit.
In consequence of the complications arising from this disease I have been obliged to undergo a painful surgical operation, and was compelled last year to give up work. About six months ago I consulted Dr. Miller, who gave me a box of his DINNER PILLS, and I can cheerfully testify that their effect in my case has been little less than magical. Since then I have recommended them to some of my friends, who have experienced like good results from their use and returned me their warmest thanks, and I confidently give them a public recommendation, as I have found them, by far, the best medicine I have ever used."
(Signed.) REV. J. E. WARNER,
The Rectory, Middleton.
Use Dr. Miller's Compound Syrup Tar Cough Mixture for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and all diseases of Mucous Membranes throughout the body.
Rev. John L. Sponagle, Methodist Clergyman, Middleton, says:—
"Suffering from Bronchial affection—aggravated by cold—and having heard of the healing properties of your "Tar Cough Mixture" I was induced to make trial of it, and I am glad to inform you that I received much benefit from its use. In my case it soothed and allayed irritation, and aided expectoration. I keep it constantly at my home."

Poetry.

The Grandsire.

I loved him so; his voice had grown
Into my heart, and now to hear
The pretty song he sung so long
Die on the lips to me so dear!
He just a child with golden curls,
And I with head as white as snow—
I knelt down there
And made this prayer:
"God, let me be the first to go!"

How often I recall it now—
My darling tossing on his bed,
I sitting there in mute despair,
Smoothing the curls that crowned his head;
They did not to speak to me of death—
A feeling here had told me so—
What could I say
Or do, but pray
That I might be the first to go?

Yet, thinking of him standing there—
Out yonder, as the years go by—
Waiting for me to come, I see
Twas better he should wait, not I;
For, when I walk the vale of death,
Above the wall of Jordan's flow
Shall rise a song
That shall make me strong—
The call of the child that was first to go!

Buttercups.

Jennie was watching the cows home,
Down by the meadow bars alone,
And her eyes were as blue as her bonnet—
Jennie was only a farmer's lass,
And she let down the bars so the cows could pass
Out of the waving, blue-eyed grass,
With buttercups sprinkled upon it.

Jennie was watching young Farmer Payne
Picking a buttercup out of the lane;
Stephen was strong and merry.
"Jennie!" she heard her mother call,
But there at her side stood the farmer tall,
And her cheeks grew as red as a cherry.

"I'm coming, mother!" she turned to go,
But Stephen stood at the path below,
And there went Daisy and Bess and Flo over into the clover.
His arms were strong as her waist was slim,
"I'll keep you till every cow gets in,
Or tell me the name of your lover."

"Jennie, Jennie! 'tis getting late,"
Came mother's voice from the farmhouse gate,
But Jennie was slender and could not mate
With the tender strength of a lover.
And who could do a single thing
With a yellow buttercup under their chin,
But nestle the great strong arms within
And grow as red as the clover.
"Maybe 'tis Ben," then she blushed again,
"And maybe 'tis only Stephen Payne"—
Then the dark crept over the meadow lane
And buttercups a-sprinkle
Not a single sound in the dusky dell
Save the tinkle of Daisy's silver bell,
"Tink-a-link a-tinkle!"

For mother's voice and the bars forgot
The cows are into the meadow lot
Knee deep in the dewy clover.
Jennie and Steve came slowly up,
Her soft chin yellow with buttercup,
His handsome face flushed over.

"Where are you, Jennie' 'tis late and cold."
"We're comin', mother," said Stephen bold,
"The cows got into the meadow,
We stopped to drive them slowly up,"
Then he slyly hid the buttercup
And kissed her again in the shadow.

A Curse That Came Home.

Farmer Leslie sat smoking in his doorway in the most contented frame of mind possible to a man, for he was at that moment basking in the warm sunshine of prosperity. It gave him a great content, but it was purely an animal content—no chord of his higher nature was touched. As far as the eye could see, the hills and the flocks on the hills were his. The excellent woman attending to his corporeal comfort, within the dwelling, was his. The bright girl sewing at an upper window, and the handsome boy galloping along the valley on his new pony, were his children. The great barn filled with harvested grain was his. He did not look up and claim the sky, but all else about him was of value as a part of his domain. "Me and mine," was the refrain of his song.

At that moment something came around the corner of the house that did not belong to him, and it gave him a shock—a very disagreeable thrill, that was mostly disgust and no quality of fear in it. The something was a tramp. The name is synonymous with oblnquy, and this specimen did not belie the name. He shivered in the sunlight as if he had the ague. His rags stood out like splinters of distress, telling of a long friction with time. His limbs had that flaccid, relaxed motion which is typical of the drunken vagabond. His eyes were bloodshot. The only redeeming features were his voice which was musical and pathetic, and his manner, which was that of a man who had not always tramped the thoroughfares of the world.

"Sir," he said, touching the rim of a despoiled hat, "will you be so kind as to give me a bite to eat—I am very hungry?"

One would suppose that sitting there in the sunlight of his own happiness Farmer Leslie, the prosperous man, would have given a generous meal to this off-scouring of humanity but he did nothing of the kind.

"Be off," he said, "or I'll set the dog on you!"

"I will work——" began the tramp.

"Oh, you will? I don't need your help. I have men to work for me, not such cattle as you."

Ah, it cut to the quick, as he intended it should. The tramp made a savage spring forward, and a look of vindictive rage crossed his features—then he stopped, swung round and walked away.

"Cattle!" He flung the words out with bitterness. "You're right, friend, only—cattle that are made in God's image, and human!"

"So the fellow's had a schooling," was all the comment the farmer made. He did not see a humanitarian episode that was transacted at his back door when his good wife, who had overheard the dialogue, handed out some bread and meat to the tramp.

No, Farmer Leslie knew nothing of that. He was watching a speck far down in the valley that was a whole world to him, his boy galloping about from farmhouse to farmhouse, where his playfellows lived, showing them his new possession, the pony his father had given him for a birthday present.

Farmer Leslie did have soft spots in his heart, but as I have said, they were for "me and mine." He gave no further thought to the wretched, disheartened man he had repulsed. He did not stop to gently scan his brother man, and he did not believe that to step aside is human. So he put the object out of his mind and gave himself up to the contemplation of pleasanter themes.

The tramp lay on the side of a hill far enough from the house to be unrecognizable and ate Mrs. Leslie's bounty in a semi-savage mood. These were not his real table manners—he had not forgotten them, but if each mouthful he devoured had been the head of an enemy, he could not have been more ghastly or vicious. Every few moments he would burst into anathemas of speech:

"Cattle! Curse him! What is he? I'd like to make—yes, I would. Oh, I could die happy just to see that man in my place."

He lay and watched the man he hated, but he divided his attention. His bloodshot agonized eyes were fixed now on the splendid barn that had cost the farmer so many thousands of dollars, and was the pride of the surrounding country. The fellow writhed with impatience.

"I hope he'll read the writing on the wall and recognize the tramp's hand. I hope he'll—ha—it's working!"

He saw a thin spiral of smoke rising like a crooked forefinger from the roof of the barn. The farmer sitting now with his back turned did not see it.

The tramp watched it and smiled as Cain might have smiled when he slew Abel. He gesticulated fiercely as if to sustain himself in some awful deed; then another look came into his face as he saw a boy ride gaily up to the barn, turn his horse loose, and carrying the saddle on his arm, disappear inside.

One—two—three minutes passed. Nothing had changed except the aspect of that thin spiral of smoke. It was now a column cut off from the roof by a blaze that the sunlight shielded. Farmer Leslie was asleep in his chair.

The tramp rose to his feet. His expression and the evil purpose that had possessed him changed to a look of disreputable virtue. His form expanded and grew taller, but he stood as if rooted to the hills.

Farmer Leslie was aroused now. His wife and daughter were running here and there, shrieking fire, and he was wildly calling for help, to which summons his men working in the field responded. But there was no help that could save the smouldering mass, and no man that could enter that fiery furnace.

"Let it burn," shouted the farmer; "thank God, we are all here."

And at that moment his eye fell on his son's pony grazing in the field near by.

"Alfred!" he shouted, "is he in the house?

"Where is Alfred?"

A man dashed past him and disappeared in that seething mass of flame and smoke. The group paid no attention to him, but ran distractedly about, calling the name of the boy who was the pride of their lives.

Then there was a cry from within, a smothered cry, taken up and re-echoed by those outside as they recognized his voice.

"It is my boy—let me get to him," shouted Farmer Leslie, struggling in the hands of his men, "I will save him or die with him."

But they could see the shadow of a man who walked like Shadrach of old in the fiery furnace, but unlike him there was the smell of fire on his garments, and if the Saviour of men walked with him, their eyes were hidden that they could not see. He carried a burden that he had covered with his tattered coat The fire fought for him and wound its long tendrels around him. It put out the light in those bloodshot eyes forever. He was literally burning when he gathered up the last remnant of his strength and threw his burden to those who met him half way. Then there was a roar and a crash, and never had man a more magnificent funeral pyre than this would have made. But he stumbled just outside, and a fallen beam pinned him to the earth.

"He saved me, father—I was asleep and he just caught me up in his arms and ran with, and, oh, father, you will give him money and clothes, and he shall have my pony and everything."

"Yes, yes, please God I will make a man of him," said the farmer as he bent anxiously over the tramp, who, blind and broken was coming back to consciousness.

"Father—mother, he murmured, "are—you—you—both—here? Take—my—hand."

Mrs. Leslie and her husband sank sobbing on their knees, and each took a hand of the poor outcast.

"It's—getting—light," he said, "I—must—get—up."

He tried to rise but the effort was useless. His poor head refused to move.

"I know," he said in a clear voice, "it's—the—boy. Is—he—safe?"

"Safe, and it is you who saved him. Live, my friend, that we may show you how grateful we are," said the farmer, suddenly humanized.

"Yes—I—saved—him—and lost myself. Perhaps God will know, and take this into account. Forgive me."

"What? For saving my boy's life?"

"No." There was a brief death agony, then a look of peace as life's latest breath drifted with the words: "I would have been a murderer if I had let him die in the flames—that—my—hand—kindled!"—Mrs. M. L. Rayne, in Detroit Free Press.

The Pitfalls of "Remedies."

"It would be amusing," remarked a physician lately, "if it were not so often disastrous, to watch the pell-mell fashion in which persons go at remedies and supposedly beneficial health suggestions. They go to the springs, and because some mineral spring water is advised in some case, they jump at the conclusion that all spring waters are good for any case. They drink them wholesale and indiscriminately, often with serious ill effects. Exactly the same thing is true of sea bathing. This is a needed tonic and stimulant to some persons and the direct reverse to others. I have seen delicate women come out of the surf with teeth chattering and faces blue and pinched in the chill they have received. That effect of their plunge is a distinct evil, and they really need a remedy to recover from the consequences of one so-called. It is the same with Turkish baths, bicycling, exercise of any sort.

"Reckless and unneeded use of a good thing makes it a bad thing. I am trying now to recover the vitality of a little child of four years, which has been lost through his mother's ignorant treatment. She has almost bathed her child to death. In her zeal for his cleanliness, and because she thought frequent baths the proper thing she has given him two a day right along, and she has simply washed his strength away. This is especially true of the present time when every separate individual may advance a new notion, and because it is new, get a hearing and perhaps a following. It would be a grand thing for the race if the therapeutical world could develop a solution of common sense, and have it ladled out every morning like Mrs. Squeer's treacle to about two-thirds of the civilized race."

PRAISING CANADA.

A United States paper on our Exhibits.

LAUDATIONS WHICH SHOW THAT CANADIAN SATISFACTION IS NOT UNFOUNDED—A LEADING CHICAGO PAPER'S COMPLIMENTS—IN ALL LEADING DEPARTMENTS HAS A "FINE SHOW."

From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

When Mayor Harrison wanted to have Canada annexed to the United States a few days ago, whether the Canadians wished it or not, Commissioner G. R. R. Cockburn took the mayor's wishes in the matter as a great compliment, for knowing the mayor's unerring judgment, as to good things, Mr. Cockburn argued that Mayor Harrison would not go in for Canada unless he was quite sure it would be a good thing to have her.

An examination of Canada's exhibits in many departments of the Fair grounds will bear out Mr. Cockburn's theory. In no department has the sister country failed to attract attention for general excellence. It would seem that the entire exhibit had been arranged with an eye single to the purpose of furnishing ocular proof that Canada excels in many lines and equals in all into which she appears as a competitor.

First, as showing the great diversity of Canadian soil and climate, the horticultural exhibit of Canada is probably entitled to first consideration. Strange as it may appear in the light of the general belief that Canada is an exceedingly bleak, inhospitable country, her display of tropical plants and flowers is, if not the very finest, certainly equal to any in the Horticultural building. The plants are, of course, the products of public and private conservatories, still they bear out the character for general excellence borne by all of Canada's exhibit.

CANADA'S FRUIT DISPLAY.

Canada's fruit exhibit is also a source of wonder to those who are not well informed on the capabilities of our sister country in this line. In the line of small fruits particularly there is no exhibit in the building which can excel or even equal the exhibit of Canada. Here are currants, gooseberries, raspberries, cherries and strawberries of the finest grade, both in the matter of size and flavor. The fresh fruit is just beginning to come in now and this year's crop in all these lines appears to excel even the choice bottled exhibits of former years. In this line the province of Ontario has an unusually fine exhibit. The apple exhibit alone from this province would entitle it to a high rank as a fruit growing section, even if there were no other fine specimens of fruit growing ability on exhibition.

When it comes to Canada's cereals more is known in the United States of her wide expanse of territory, which seems to be the natural home of all the small grains. Here, too, Ontario seems to have carried off the first place in the matter of a general exhibit, for not only has this province an unusually fine exhibit of cereals, but her dairy products also seem as if she has started to carry off all honors in this direction. Not satisfied with having the biggest cheese ever made on exhibition, Canada stepped in for 126 of the 135 prizes to be awarded in this line.

THE BUTTER PRODUCTION.

In the matter of butter Ontario again bobs up into prominence. Her six short-horn cows, now on a test of butter-making capacity, have so far taken the lead; two of them having on more than one occasion given over 50 pounds of milk in a day, which breaks the record in that line.

Around the big cheese individual exhibitors have splendid samples of nearly all the good things to eat and drink which earth can produce or the ingenuity of man preserve after it has come forth. All kinds of dried fruits and vegetables are on exhibition here, and the general character for excellence seems to be preserved in all the several exhibits.

Of course everybody has heard of the celebrated No. 1 hard Scotch Fyfe wheat which nearly all of Canada excels in the growth of, but not everybody knows that Canada also produces a splendid variety of white winter wheat which makes a flour remarkable for its whiteness and the amount of starch it contains. This winter wheat flour is sought for particularly by London pastry bakers, who think there is no flour on earth equal to this Canadian product for that purpose.

Up in the east end of the Agricultural building, under charge of the Superintendent Allen Pringle, there is an exhibit which makes the heart of the small boy sigh for cold weather and buckwheat cakes. This is the Ontario honey exhibit, and here again excellence seems to have been the rule in selecting the exhibit. An experienced grower of honey himself, Mr. Pringle takes more than ordinary interest in the product of these industrious little workers. The various grades are all set apart and labelled. For instance, this dark honey down on the lower shelf of the cabinet Mr. Pringle says is made from the buckwheat blossom and does not rank in flavor with the honey made from the Linden tree flowers or from the thistle. The honey taken from the clover blossom is regarded as about the best, both in color and flavor.

GUELPH AGRICULTURE.

In the Agricultural building is the Guelph Agricultural College exhibit which is exceptionally fine, both in the exhibits of the experimental work, which is illustrated by photographs, and the actual exhibit of grain and other products raised by the young farmer.

Of course no description of Canada's agricultural exhibit would be complete without something on her incomparable root crop exhibits. This department is under the charge of Mr. James Barclay, a successful farmer of Ontario. For want of space in the Agricultural building Mr. Barclay has installed his exhibit in the north annex to the Horticultural building. Here, although it is nearly time for a new crop of all these roots to come around, the exhibit of last year's crop is still sound and healthy-looking. Here are potatoes, rutabagas, carrots, beets, onions, in fact almost every sort of vegetable which grows in the ground and of a size and quality which necessitates their being seen to be fully appreciated. Mr. Barclay can give facts about the fattening qualities of these root crops which seem wonderful to the farmer who has always relied upon corn as the only material which would add flesh to animals during the winter.

ORES OF THE CANADIAN MINES.

In the Mines building Canada also has a fine exhibit of the ores of the precious metals, as well as the more generally useful baser metals. In some lines the exhibits are of ores peculiar to this section of country. As an instance, the nickel and platinum ores from the Sadbury mines of Ontario. There is one ingot of nickel in this exhibit weighing 4,500 pounds. Here, too, are fine specimens of asbestos and mica from the province of Quebec. There is a very fine exhibit of plumbago or graphite, which comes from Buckingham county, near Ottawa. From these deposits comes nearly all the plumbago used by American manufacturers of lead pencils and other articles in which plumbago is used.

British Columbia has a rich and valuable gold exhibit, and Commissioner Charles F. Law, from this province, is enthusiastic in his praises of this great resource of the province he represents. Mr. Law believes that now that silver seems to have lost favor as a medium of circulation the attention of capitalists will again be attracted to gold mining.

A pyramid in the Canadian section of this building shows the amount of gold which has been taken from British Columbia as 551,000 ounces, and, according to Mr. Law, nearly all of this has been taken from placer diggings, little or no attention ever having been paid to the subject of lode mining.

In this exhibit the North-west Territory comes in with a fine exhibit of lignite, bituminous and anthracite coals. Specimens of tar taken from the Athabasca river encourage the belief that this section of country also abounds in oil, and some attempts are being made to prospect for this useful article.

THE FISHERIES EXHIBIT.

In the fisheries building Canada again comes to the front with a fine display of both salt and fresh water fish. Of these the leading specimens are of the salmon on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and the cod fishery of the Pacific, which is an industry just beginning to receive attention in British Columbia. Of the fish of the inland waters there are some fine specimens from all parts of the Dominion.

In the forestry building, too, Canada also has a fine exhibit. Indeed, British Columbia which is the main exhibitor, has some specimens here which cannot be equalled in the world. There are pine trees there which will square four feet. The finest specimens of spruce, pine and cedar are credited to this province which has such a wealth of forest.

In the manufacturers building Canada is represented in almost every line of manufactured article. One exhibit in this building which is of more than usual interest is the industrial Indian schools' exhibit. Here are shown all the various lines in which these young men and women are taught to be self-supporting. They have a workshop on the main floor of the building, where they daily engage in the manufacture of all sorts of useful articles. They are taught blacksmithing, carpenter work, working in leather, etc., in all of which they show a great deal of patience and ingenuity.

CREDITABLE IN MANUFACTURES.

In the Manufactures building, to, the Canadian women's exhibit is installed, they having failed to secure space in the Woman's building. This exhibit is also an exceedingly creditable one. The specimen's of lace work, painting, fine needlework and the like are very tasteful in design and finely executed.

In the Liberal Arts department Canada has shown in how great esteem education is held in the Dominion by an unusually fine exhibit of the workings of her schools.

The many photographs of school buildings and colleges give an idea of the support extended to education by the Government and the fine exhibitions of individual work on the part of the students show that the care of the government has been appreciated by the pupil.

In the art departments, particularly of several of the schools, the exhibits possess more than usual merit.

In the transportation building Canada has a very creditable exhibit in a locomotive and train of passenger cars from the Canadian Pacific railroad.

In Machinery hall Canada has also made a creditable display and her exhibit in this line has already brought forth good results in bringing orders to the individual exhibitors from old European countries where it would naturally be supposed it would be next to impossible for a new country to find a market for manufactured goods.

MOUNTED SAMPLES OF GAME.

Canada also has a full exhibit in the archæological and anthropological departments. Along with her agricultural exhibits Canada also has a fine collection of stuffed birds and mounted heads of all the wild animals peculiar to the country. The buffalo, the elk, the mountain sheep, the deer, the moose, are all represented by fine specimens of their kind. Probably the finest buffalo robe now in existence is among the exhibits from the North-west Territory. This robe is unusually large and of the finest grade of hair. It is valued at $500.

All the provinces will have fine displays of live stock when that exhibit is formally opened to the public in August.

This sketch would be incomplete without some account of the Canadian pavillion on the east side of the grounds. Here the Dominion Government has erected a very cozy home for visiting Canadians, and the representatives of the various provinces have fitted up rooms for special use. Here C. W. Young, official reporter for Ontario, and Mr. Smith, the Dominion press agent have their offices and take pleasure in furnishing information respecting their several departments.

Altogether the Canadian exhibit is exceptionally good in all the departments at the WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 23rd, 1893.

—THE Behring Sea tribunal of arbitration has at last handed down its written decision on the various matters submitted to it, and as stated in a previous issue, the result is favorable to Great Britain on every point. By this verdict it is decided that the United States do not possess any exclusive previleges in Behring Sea or the seal fisheries thereof, and that the jurisdiction of that nation in the sealing waters of the North Pacific extends to three miles from the shore, and no more. Under this decision all the seizures of Canadian vessels by United States cruisers are illegal and unwarranted, and the owners of the sealers will be entitled to compensation for the vessels seized, and the damage incurred by being prevented from pursuing their lawful vocation. These claims for direct and indirect losses are likely to be quite large, which, however, without doubt, Uncle Sam will promptly pay up like a man, as England did in the case of the Geneva arbitration.

In prescribing regulations for the preservation of seal life the arbitrators have given the United States rather the best of the bargain. At any rate these regulations are likely to prove a serious blow to the Canadian sealing interest as carried on under present methods. Briefly stated these regulations are:

"A close season is established from May 1 to August 1 of each year;

"All seal fishing is prohibited within sixty miles of the seal islands;

"The use of guns is prohibited in seal fishing; and sealing is allowed only after August 1st outside the sixty mile zone."

Hitherto all Canadian sealing has been done with fire arms, the animals being shot and then captured. This is objectionable inasmuch as many sink after being killed before they can be reached. Under these regulations spears only can be used and none but Indians are sufficiently skilled with this weapon to make sealing a success. American newspapers are claiming that these regulations will put an end entirely to all deep sea sealing, and there seems some probability that such may be the case. So the sealskin jacket is likely to be more expensive now than ever.

—THE Baptist Convention of the maritime provinces which is meeting this week at St. Martin's, N. B., will be called upon to consider the question of a separate convention for our sister province, which question has been occupying the attention of the Baptists of these provinces for some time. From the opposition which has recently manifested itself to the separation movement in many of the leading churches of New Brunswick itself, there seems little likelihood of the movement for a separate convention succeeding. Indeed, it would be rather surprising if such an agitation should succeed, as separation or disintegration appears to be opposed to the spirit and tendency of the age. Since the provinces were united in 1867, the various religious bodies of these provinces have gradually been drawing closer and closer together. Both the Presbyterian and the Methodist bodies of the Dominion have formed unions, and each of these bodies has doubtless been strengthened and better organized for carrying on its various interests by so doing. A few years ago the Baptists of these maritime provinces decided to give up the attempt to maintain a separate theological institution, and to unite with their brethren of the other provinces in patronizing McMaster university at Toronto. In fact, the tendency of modern times is entirely in the direction of consolidation. The present century has seen many instances of this, both political and religious, and of the many attempts made in the direction of separation scarcely one has yet succeeded. The latest notable undertaking in this direction is the attempt to give Ireland a separate parliament, and we see what a herculean undertaking it has proved to be.

—SPEAKING in the United States senate one day last week Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, one of the senators from the state of Massachusetts, said:

"The mills of New England are closed now I am sorry to say. At this moment, with the exception of two small mills, there is not a spindle turning in the city of Lawrence, where 12,000 hands are usually employed. There are 30,000 people out of employment in the two cities of Lawrence and Lowell. Multiply that by ten and you get some idea of the distress which rests on the state of Massachusetts. Multiply it by 100 and you get some idea of the distress pervading all New England."

These statements give us an idea of the industrial depression which has settled down like a blight upon the neighbouring republic. It is now quite as serious in the manufacturing centres of the east as in the silver-producing states of the west. The 300,000 people now out of employment in the one state of Massachusetts, if we can believe Senator Lodge's statement, include as many as two-thirds of the entire population of this province. To remove all this distress and to restore confidence to the various business interests of the nation once more, is an undertaking which will tax the wisdom of the ablest men in congress of all parties. At such a time it would be well if all party politics could be laid aside and such action taken as would remove the present distrust in the shortest time possible, if such is within the power of congress.

—WHATEVER effect the harrassing cares and anxieties of his responsible position may have had upon President Cleveland mentally, they certainly have not produced any serious results physically, as he now weighs over 300 lbs. In fact so big and unwieldly has he become that he is now undergoing a course of treatment to reduce his flesh down to 225 or thereabouts, if possible. He evidently now knows how to appreciate the position of that other individual who desired that "this too, too solid flesh would melt," as he seems to be anxious to get rid of 75 or 100 lbs. of his surplus flesh or fat.

—THE contest for the governorship of Ohio this fall will be the most interesting and significant election of the year. Mr. McKinley, author of the United States tariff and the present incumbent of the office, will again be the republican candidate, while the democrats have placed in the field Mr. Neal, author of the tariff plank in the platform adopted by the democratic national convention last year. The Ohio fight will, therefore, be made principally upon the tariff issue, and the result will be watched with interest as determining to some extent whether the public still holds to its demand for tariff reform.

—THE Judicial Committee of the Privy Council of England has just given a decision in a case originating in Pictou county, in this province, to the effect that a municipality is not liable for damages in the case of accidents resulting from the non-repair of roads or bridges, but only in the case of wilful negligence to make necessary repairs, on the part of the municipal authorities. This verdict is of special importance to the various municipalities of this province, as it reverses the construction hitherto placed upon our statutes by our courts. Heretofore when any accident occurred to a horse, a carriage or an individual, through some defect in a bridge or highway, the person injured brought an action against the municipality and generally recovered damages for any loss or injury caused by such accident. The courts of this province and the supreme court of Canada have given decisions to that effect. Now a case has been appealed to the Privy Council, the highest court in the empire, and the decisions of our courts are reversed. In order to obtain damages in the future, for such accidents, it will be necessary to show that there has been wilful negligence on the part of the municipal authorities in making the necessary repairs. As it will be next to impossible to prove such a thing, this decision will doubtless put an end to all actions for damages against municipalities. The municipal council of Pictou county, which appealed this case to the Privy Council, after losing it in all the courts on this side of the Atlantic has laid the various municipalities of the province under deep obligations to it.

Important to Trustees.

At the request of the Inspector of Schools we publish the subjoined section of the school law together with the Regulation of the C. P. I., bearing upon the same subject. As a violation of this provision of the law may entail pecuniary loss upon the section and also upon the teacher employed, it is essential that it should not be overlooked by Teachers or Trustees. Attention is also called to the fact that some Trustees fail to forward to the Inspector a copy of the minutes of the annual and special School Meetings as required by law. These minutes are in the nature of a School Return, and if they are not sent to the Inspector as required it will become his duty to withhold payment of the County Grant.

Section 31 of Chap. 29, Revised Statutes, Fifth Series: Sub Section 1.—"It shall further be the duty of the Trustees to contract with and employ a licensed teacher or teachers for the section, and when necessary licensed (or unlicensed) assistants for a period not less than one year, or if the section be poor, not less than three months. Provided however, that for special cause, with the consent of the Inspector, Trustees may employ a teacher for a term less than one year.

Regulation 2 of the Council of Public Instruction. The Inspector shall report to the Superintendent of Education every case of engagement between a Teacher and Trustees for less than one year to which he consents, on the same day on which he gives consent, with the special cause for giving such consent. Under no circumstances shall public moneys be paid either Teacher or Trustees for any days taught prior to such date of consent.

MARSHALL—HENDREY.

Although Wednesday, 16th inst., was not a very fine day, there were many happy hearts about North Brookfield, if we can judge from the smiling faces of the large number of guests who assembled at the residence of Mr. Barton Hendrey to witness the marriage of his charming daughter May to Charles R. Marshall of Falkland Ridge. All were in a flutter of excitement when the bride—looking as sweet as the water lilies strewn about her path—stepped from the house, leaning on the arm of her father, and took her stand beside her future partner on the lawn under the spreading branches of sweet-scented locust-trees, where the officiating clergyman, Rev. Mr. Powell, stood waiting ready to tie the matrimonial knot. After congratulations the dining-room was visited, where justice was done to the bountiful repast there prepared. About two o'clock the happy couple, accompanied by a few of their most intimate friends, started under a shower of rice, old shoes and fond farewells for Bridgewater, en route for their home at Falkland Ridge. Thursday evening the firing of guns announced their approach to their homes where, during the evening, half the neighborhood assembled to do them honors, some as invited guests to enjoy a social evening, and others as a brilliant substitute for a brass band with musical instruments of various kinds noted particularly for their loud sound and especially prepared for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall begin their married life under very favorable circumstances, and it is earnestly to be hoped that they may long enjoy all the pleasures that married life may bring. The presents from their many friends were numerous and costly.

RUSHTON—DANIELS.

"The Willows," Paradise, was the scene of a very pleasant gathering on Wednesday Aug 16th, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Hattie J. Daniels, daughter of Mr. Benj. Daniels, to Rupert G. Rushton, son of Deacon G. Rushton, of North Greenville, Cumberland Co. Rev. R. B. Kinley conducted the important ceremony in the presence of about thirty guests who had been invited to do honor to the occasion by their company. The bride was tastefully attired in cream cashmere, with ribbon and lace trimmings. After the ceremony, which took place at 1 p.m., a bountiful repast was served, after which the company departed for Lawrencetown, where amid showers of rice and good wishes Mr. and Mrs. Rushton boarded the east-bound express for their new home, North Greenville. The bride was the recipient of numerous and costly presents, in silver, glass, china, etc.

The Nova Scotia Game Laws.

A neat and convenient folder has been issued by the Game society for general distribution, containing a summary of the game laws as they stand at present.

It may be here stated that no change whatever was made in the law at the last session of the legislature, the amending act recommended by the society having been crowded out at the closing days of the session.

About Small Customs Parcels.

The attention of the Department of Customs having been called to the practice which obtains at some ports in the case of goods of small value imported by express of ignoring for the purposes of duty any parcel of a less value than 50 cents, and of charging duty on a value of $1 upon all parcels of a value of 50 cents or over, Controller Wallace has issued a circular to collectors stating that this practice is not sanctioned by law, and that for the future all parcels coming by mail or express must be entered at the exact cost to the importers for the same, and duty must be collected on such fractional parts of a dollar in each case.

Never Won a Prize.

Among the competitors at the rifle competition at Bedford is a gentleman from Annapolis county. He has not missed a meeting for the last 18 years, and strange to say never won a prize. He fires in the competitions he can get into and also the consolation matches, but the result is always the same—he never wins. Sometimes he hits the target, but that is the exception to the rule. His strong point is in missing it. Bad luck does not seem to cool his ardor nor dampen his ambition. He is the greatest enthusiast at the range and his appearance is always looked for. Without him the competition would be incomplete.—Chronicle.

Remembered by her Sunday-school.

Among the many beautiful and useful wedding gifts presented to Miss C. A. Healy, none was more appreciated than a handsome box, well filled with stationary of all kinds, the gift of her Sabbath school class, which will recall pleasant memories of happy hours in the class-room.

The family also wish to express grateful appreciation of very much kindness and attention from numbers of people in this town as well as elsewhere.

Mrs. H. Tait, the obliging central telephone operator at Middleton, spent Sunday at Windsor, the guest of Mrs. J. J. Anslow.

M. Baurs, the popular conductor on the parlor car Mayflower, was the recipient, the other day, of a fine pin from tourist friends.

Miss Stansmore, after a pleasant stay at the home of her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Prat, left for Boston on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Zwicker, of Lunenburg, accompanied by Mrs. F. Primrose, arrived on Saturday and spent the Sabbath among friends in town.

The Rev. F. M. Young, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Dixon, and Mrs. J. Huntington are attending the Baptist Convention at St. Martin's, N. B.

Capt. J. H. Chute, wife and daughter, of Middleton, were in town on Friday, en route to Lower Granville, for a short stay among relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clarke, of Chelsea, Mass., were the guests of Councillor Vidito and wife during a few days last week, and are now enjoying a visit in the upper portion of the county.

O. P. Goucher, B. A., and wife have returned from their wedding tour, and are now domiciled in their new home at Lawrencetown, where he is engaged as principal in the high school for another term.

Mrs. Dawson, wife of the Queen's printer at Ottawa, and daughter, and Mrs. Palmer, wife of Judge Palmer, of St. John, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beckwith on Friday and Saturday last.

Mr. Frank Scott, so favorably known as the cutter at A. J. Morrison's custom tailoring establishment in the past, and who for some few months has been in New York, returned home on Saturday, somewhat impaired in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ingersoll, of Boston, are on a visit among friends in town, and are staying at the Grand Central. Mrs. Ingersoll, whose maiden name was Mary Payson, will be most favorably remembered by many of our readers.

Capt. David R. Graves and wife, of Boston, arrived here on Saturday, and will, for the next few days, visit their relatives at Granville and elsewhere in the county. We understand that our genial friend has sold his restaurant business at 390 Atlantic avenue in that city, but has in view a more favorable location for conducting the same line of trade.

A Chapter of Accidents.

An ox belonging to Mr. Samuel Leslie, who resides a short distance from this town, was so badly cut while working in a mowing-machine one day last week, that he had to be destroyed.

At nearly the same time, one of a span of horses belonging to Mr. George Raffee became alarmed at a passing train, and dashing into a barbed-wire fence was so dreadfully lacerated in various parts of his body that in the dressing of the wounds some forty stitches had to be inserted to insure their uniting. In his desparate struggles the animal wrenched one of the fence posts completely out of the ground.

Again, on Thursday a valuable mare belonging to Miss Bessie Whitman, of Tupperville, was attacked in her stall by her mate, who had managed to get loose during the night, and so badly kicked about the chest and neck that the skill of a physician had to be obtained to dress the wounds.

Monday's Heavy Storm.

The heavy rain storm of Monday, noted by our exchanges of yesterday, was felt in this Valley and on the shores of the Bay of Fundy to a serious extent. During the afternoon and well on in the evening the rain came down in torrents, while the wind played havoc with the orchards, blowing large quantities of fruit from the trees and tearing up many of them by the roots. On the Bay Shore, it is said, the storm was as heavy as any experienced for years. Although the wind moderated during the late evening the rain continued the greater part of the night.

The schr. L. C. Haley, Capt. Lloyd, of Yarmouth, bound for Parrsboro in ballast, was driven ashore at Morden, and although not a total wreck, is lying full of water, and may probably be got off.

The loss of apples to our farmers will be seriously felt, as the crop is very light this year.

The Oddfellows Excursion.

The date of the Oddfellows mammoth excursion to Lunenburg and return has been changed from the 31st of August to Monday 4th of September. Unusual interest is being manifested in the pleasant trip by all members of the different lodges from Kentville to Annapolis, while Rising Sun lodge of Lunenburg is extending a most cordial welcome and a royal good time to all who avail themselves of the delightful ride along the banks of the peaceful LaHave and the scenes of Weenona's childhood days.

Sunday-school Convention.

The Union S. S. Convention for Ward No. 12 will meet with the Baptist school at Inglisville on Friday, 8th of September. As this is the annual meeting a full attendance is requested. All are cordially invited to be present to make the session an interesting and profitable one.

Do You Want a Suit?

Our Mr. F. W. Lyon will be in Bridgetown (Revere House) on or about Aug. 30th with an elegant line of Fall Cloths. Look out for him and send in your orders. T. B. DANE & SON, Victoria Block, Yarmouth.

—A fierce and determined riot occurred at North Abington, Mass., on Wednesday afternoon last between 325 workmen employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and the Rockland & Arlington Electric Street Railway Co. It lasted about an hour. Stones flew in the air, and pickaxes and shovels were used in the melee. Noone was killed. Seventeen were wounded. The trouble arose on account of an effort of the latter company to cut down a grade in order to allow the other company to cross its track.

—Revd. Ralph Brecken says: Having tried Puttner's Emulsion for coughs, influenza, etc., I am pleased to testify to its beneficial results as compared with any remedy previously used. It neither nauseates nor weakens, but pleasantly invigorates the general health.

—Bradstreet's for August 12th contains a detailed list of the National, State, Savings and Private Banks and Trust Companies that suspended during the first seven months of 1893. According to this list no less than 431 of the institutions named suspended up to July 31st, of which 113 were National banks. Since July 31st some 60 more banks have suspended, making 500 in all, or about one fourteenth of the banking institutions of the whole nation.

—Buy an appetite. You will find it in a package sold by all druggists and marked K. D. C. Free sample. K. D. C. Company, Ltd., New Glasgow, N. S., Canada, or 127 State St., Boston, Mass. 20 2i

L. C. MARSHALL,

Paradise Corner, April 25th, 1893.

Inglisville Items.

N. B. Dunn, lic., of this place, visited New Albany on Sunday the 13th and preached there morning and afternoon.

Mr. Joseph Gates had the misfortune to lose a fine cow recently by getting entangled among some rocks and breaking her leg.

Mrs. Joseph F. Bent and children, who have been visiting friends in this place, returned to their home in Springfield recently.

Mr. John H. Long and daughter Nellie, of Boston, are at present stopping at the home of A. L. Banks, Esq., a brother-in-law of Mr. Long. It is thought they will permanently reside in this place.

Mrs. G. C. Banks has returned from Clementsvale, where she has been enjoying a rest with her daughter and sister-in-law, Mrs. Arthur C. Potter and Mrs. William A. Sproule.

Mr. Wm. Dunham and family, of Lexington, Mass., who have been on a visit to the home of Mrs. Dunham's parents, returned a few days ago. Mrs. D. is a daughter of John S. Beals, Esq.

Haying is over. A fair crop has been gathered in excellent condition. The grain crops are good and are fast ripening. Roots are looking well since the rains. Potatoes are not promising a large yield, but very good quality. The beetle is a source of annoyance to our farmers and the small children. Plums are above the average. Apples under the average. Other fruits looking very well.

Mrs. H. Coward of Boston, who was on a short visit to her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Beals of this place, returned to her home in Boston last week, taking with her Harry, her little boy, who has been spending a part of the summer with his grandparents. Mrs. Coward's mother, who has been very ill for some time, is not much better yet.

School has commenced again with renewed interest. Miss Bessie M. Dunn left on Saturday for Virginia, where she is to teach the ensuing year. On Monday Miss B. Covert, of Paradise, commenced her school at West Inglisville. Miss Mary E. Banks resumed her school in this section, and Miss Maggie E. Barteaux, who was successful at the recent examination, commenced her school at Alpena.

The Baptist and Methodist Sunday-schools of this place held their annual picnic on the grounds of Mr. John F. Hutt on the afternoon of the 10th inst. About 175 parents and scholars were present and enjoyed themselves finely, with base-ball, croquet, swinging, etc. A nice tea was provided by the mothers and daughters. At the close appropriate remarks were made by Rev. J. T. Eaton, A. Dunn, H. O. Whitman, Supts., and N. B. Dunn, lic. It being a busy season many of the fathers could not be present.

Granville Ferry Gleanings.

Mr. James Groves is home on a visit after an absence of two years in Lynn, Mass.

The annual Flower Service of the Church of England will be held here next Sunday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

A garden party is to be held on the premises of Mr. Fletcher Reed this Wednesday. Proceeds for church purposes.

Mr. William Mills has his new house up. Judging from present appearances it will be something handsome when completed.

We had a quiet wedding here last week, when Miss Fannie Knowles was united in marriage to Mr. J. H. Croscup.

The Baptist churches of Granville Ferry and Stoney Beach have united in securing the services of the Rev. Mr. Jenkins, a very popular minister of that denomination.

The annual Sunday-school picnic of the three schools of this village will be held at Goat Island on Friday, 25th. The steamer Glencoe has been engaged for the occasion.

The rains of late have somewhat interfered with the progress of our water-works. Capt. Groves, however, is a hustler, and is pushing the large reservoir along as fast as possible, in order that workmen can get at the trench for laying the main pipes, some of which have arrived.

Paradise Gleams.

The pie social was the means of adding to the missionary fund about seven dollars.

Miss Mary Kinley has gone to take the school at Falkland Ridge; and Mr. H. J. Starratt to North Williamston.

The heavy rain of Monday night caused quite a freshet in brooks and river, and the accompanying wind blew off considerable many apples.

Mr. C. E. Durling, with his usual enterprise, has engaged Mr. Nixon with his threshing mill for the season at his barn near Paradise Brook, and is already being well patronized.

In the absence of the pastor, Rev. R. B. Kinley, who is in attendance at the convention being held in St. Martin's, N. B., Mr. Alfred Morse filled the pulpit on Sabbath morning last. Text, Ruth 2 chap. 16th v. After giving a brief history of the noble Gentile woman, the speaker proceeded to show, as illustrated by the text, the bountiful gifts and the great gift of God the father, and also showed the necessity of our reaching out and grasping those gifts and especially the great gift for ourselves. The sermon has been very highly spoken of, and with the years of study yet before him, Mr. Morse bids fair to make a superior preacher.

Willamston.

Miss Maggie Chesley, of St. John, is visiting at Mr. J. L. Beals.

Miss Lessie Shaffner of Granville, has been sojourning among friends here.

Quite a number from here go to Margaretville to-day to attend the tea-meeting.

Our school opened on Monday, under the management of Miss Ida Newcomb, of Lawrencetown.

Capt. West and wife, of Bridgewater, are visiting Mrs. West's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop.

Mr. W. H. Harris and wife, of Bear River, returned home on Monday, after a short visit to this place.

Messrs. Shaffner & Grant have got their threshing machine in order again, and will be prepared to handle all the grain that comes along.

Mr. A. L. Bishop left on Saturday to take charge of his school at Granville Centre; Miss H. Durling at Upper Granville; Miss L. Baker at Havelock; and Miss Ella Whitman at Port Lorne.

Round Hill Siftings

Mrs. Crowell, of Boston, is visiting relatives in this place.

Conductor D. McNutt, of the Western Counties R'y and wife, are visiting here.

Mrs. H. D. deBlois and sister arrived home on Saturday last after an extended trip through several of the States.

The teachers in our school are the same for the present term as for the last. During vacation some interior improvements have been made in the school building.

The guests at the pleasant and hospitable home of Charles Spurr, Esq., are Mrs. C. A. Spencer, Mrs. V. M. Morton and Miss Ada Carter of Worcester Mass., who are enjoying a brief vacation, and are very enthusiatic over this charmingly rural country in and around this town,—scenes delightful to behold, and of which the eye never wearies or the mind or imagination grows tired. It is rightly named the Garden of the Provinces.

Port George.

Picnics are the order of the day.

Our new pastor, Rev. Mr. Tyler, made us a call last week.

Miss Estella M. Parks is visiting friends in Inglisville.

Miss Lizzie M. Elliott is visiting friends in Brickton.

Capt. George McAndrews and sister Mrs. Hanscom, Mr. Joseph E. Parks and Mr. Willie Weaver have returned to the "Hub."

Amongst the recent arrivals in town are: Mr. W. L. Daniels of New York; Mr. S. L. Sturgess of Everett: Mrs. Israel Hines and children; Mrs. Charles Fritz and daughter of East Boston; Mr. F. Frost, Mr. Donald M. Foster, Mr. Walter E. Kelly of Lynn; Mr. G. Marshall of Springfield; Mrs. Flanders and Mrs. Loner of Malden; Mr. Robert Crawford of Waltham.

Hampton.

On Monday night last we were visited with a tremendous storm of wind and rain, causing a very heavy freshet, which so completely cleaned out the sand-bar at the break-water as to make a fine harbour.

Vititors and pleasure-seekers are very plenty. On Sunday last a large number spent the day at our shores. We are not used to quite so much noise on Sunday; and those owning boats object to having them used and left in the tide-way.

Our school has opened under the care of Miss F. Bishop, of Bear River. The selection is a wise one.

Springfield Sprinkles.

Edward H. Marshall had the misfortune to fall from the house he is building a few days ago, and hurt his foot quite badly.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, of Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Penny, of Northfield, paid a short visit to their many friends in this locality recently; also Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hendrey, of North Brookfield.

Mining News.

Mining experts note that cholera never attacks the bowels of the earth, but humanity in general finds it necessary to use Dr. Fowler's extract of Wild Strawbery for bowel complaints, dysentery, diarrhœa, etc. It is a pure cure.

Spa Spring Chips.

R. W. Elliott has commenced shipping apples to the St. John market.

Mrs. J. E. Thorne, who has been ill so long with typhoid fever, is recovering.

Miss M. R. Martin, of Boston, is stopping for a few weeks at the residence of B. Gates.

John I. Phinney has already this season shipped about sixteen hundred head of cabbage.

Master Ritchie Elliott was successful in obtaining a C certificate. Our congratulations, Ritchie.

This pleasant summer resort is daily growing in public favor. Every day last week was a gala one.

Mrs. James Cropley, accompanied by her daughter Rosalia, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Dodge.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Woodbury, with their children, of Dartmouth, gave us a call a few days ago. The Dr. is looking finely.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Drew, who have been visiting her parents, have returned to their home in Boston.

Miss Mary Gates, one of Spa Spring's fair daughters, is a graduate of the Homœpathic Hospital, Boston.

Mrs. Munroe, wife of G. Munroe, cashier of the Wolfville bank, returned to her home last week, Maggie Dodge accompanying her.

Mrs. I. H. Marshall was favored with a visit from her aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Starratt, of Lawrencetown, last week.

Miss Annie Cash and Mr. A. C. Higgins, of Marblehead, Mass., are spending a few weeks with their aunt, Mrs. P. S. Marshall.

Mr. W. Songster and wife, of Windsor, and Miss Edna Miller, of Boston, have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Phinney.

Nictaux and Middleton (Baptist) and Nictaux Falls (Methodist) Sabbath-schools passed through here last week en route to Margaretville, on their annual picnic excursion.

Avard S. Dodge has been engaged to teach at Karsdale, and has already entered upon his onerous duties. Miss Ward, of Melvern Square, is teaching here, and comes to us highly recommended.

The Pine Grove (Baptist) and Spa Spring Sabbath-schools held their annual picnic at Margaretville on Wednesday last. A very enjoyable time was had.

Among the hundred guests at the marriage of Miss Ardelice K. Dodge were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Shaw of Berwick; Mr. and Mrs. W. Baker, J. Howe Cox, wife, mother, and sister, and Mr. F. Nichols and wife of Somerset; Mrs. Woodman and daughter of Wolfville; A. Stanley Banks of Waterville; Miss McCulloch of Truro; Mr. and Mrs. Crombie and many others from a distance.

Clarence Chips.

Mr. Henry Starratt's house is beginning to look up with a new coat of paint.

Visitors are numerous in Clarence at present, and still it is flood tide.

Miss Agnes Barbidge is visiting her aunt Mrs. Norman Foster. Mrs. Gates is the guest of Mrs. Alfred Marshall and other relatives in Clarence.

Miss Nellie Roach, accompanied by Mr. Ward of Worcester, Mass., arrived on Friday's boat and intends remaining a fortnight at her parents. More guests are expected shortly.

Mr. Herbert Williams has had to walk on crutches of late, the result of a severe kick on the knee by an ox, received on board the train while taking cattle to Halifax.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Samuel Williams thinks of selling his place at Waterville and again settling in our midst. We understand he intends building in close proximity to his old home.

Our pastor being absent on Sunday, Mr. Ernest Morse (lic.) assisted by Mr. Newcomb conducted the services in the church.

A wave of sadness passed over the community on Saturday, on hearing of the death of Mr. Edwin Moore, of Rockport, Illinois, who left here a lad but a few years ago to seek his fortune in the U. S. About a month ago he was taken ill with a gathering on his throat. It became rapidly worse and he had it lanced; soon after blood-poisoning set in which resulted in his death on the 12th of August at the age of 23. The body was brought home for interment by his brother Mr. Avard Moore and wife of Boston who arrived on Friday last. The funeral took place on Saturday, the remains being buried in the Pine Grove Cemetery. A large box of flowers accompanied the casket, a tribute of respect from his many friends across the border. He leaves a mother, brother, and sister to mourn their loss.

Nictaux Falls.

Mr. D. G. Ritcey intends soon adding to his residence a bay window and probably will make other more extensive additions.

Messrs. Balcom and Parker have, on the way, a carload of flour to be delivered at this station. When last heard from it was at Bridgewater, therefore its arrival may be expected soon.

Messrs. J. E. Oakes and Edwin Berteaux, on Saturday, finished sheathing the school-room at Nictaux. We are informed that the school-room at Cleveland has recently undergone a similar improvement.

The many friends of Mrs. C. F. Steele of Melrose Highlands, Mass., were pleased to welcome her to her native village on Wednesday last. Mrs. Steele intends remaining but a short time, therefore will give to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Obadiah Berteaux, the larger share of her visit.

Another vacation for the school children has come and gone, and the tasks of another year have actually begun. Miss Jennie Craig, of Cambridge, who is engaged to teach our school, entered upon her duties Monday. Miss Craig is a stranger to this section, but comes with satisfactory credentials.

Some evil-minded person or persons entered the workshop of Mr. Mervin Vidito at Nictaux and cut into pieces a new harness nearly completed, cut up the best part of a side of harness leather and took from the shop several pairs of men's long-legged boots. His loss is estimated at $100.

Mt. Hanley.

The boys are all getting ready to go into Camp on the 5th of September.

Miss May Daniels, of New York, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel H. Elliott.

Miss Winnie Hill, of Bridgewater, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Lendly Banks.

Charlie I. Balsor, who has been at Worcester, Mass., for the last few months, came home on Tuesday.

The Misses Reagh, of P. E. I., are guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller.

Our school began last Monday, under the supervision of Miss Lynn V. Baker, of Williamston. We wish her every success.

Mr. Wm. L. Daniels of New York, visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elliott, last week.

Mr. Joseph Miller, of Winchendon, and Mrs. Parker Brown and children, of East Boston, Mass., have been visiting here.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Balsor, after an absence of two months at the Hub, returned on Friday last.

Mr. Caleb Brown, from Uncle Sam's domains, a former resident, is visiting relatives and friends here.

We notice our enterprising farmer, Mr. Z. Elliott, has started his threshing machine, and the farmers are busy hauling their grain to his barn.

West Paradise Jottings.

Miss Nettie Daniels left for Massachusetts yesterday to make a few weeks' visit with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Hall and daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Higby and child, of Brookville, Digby Co., who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Saunders, returned last Wednesday.

Miss Maud Porter, of Yarmouth, who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott during the past and present week, returned to-day. Mr. Ralph Harris, of Milton, was a guest Saturday and Sunday.

A meeting was proposed by Mr. Nichol, of Kings County, to be held at Evergreen Hall on the evening of the 22nd for the purpose of organizing an I. O. O. G. T. lodge in this place.

Winchester Daniels and sons have placed a three-horse power threshing machine in their saw-mill which works admirably well; and as there will doubtless be a sufficient supply of water to drive it continually, they will be prepared to put through all the grain that comes to hand.

Lower Granville Notes.

The exodus from the States still continues, several more finding the old home possesses a few attractions after all.

Schr. Minnie R., Capt. Thorne, sailed for Boston on Friday, and the schr. Atwood, Capt. Holmes, for Salem on Saturday.

The heavy gale of Monday night blew off what few apples there were and broke down and tore up things generally. No one will complain of want of rain after this deluge.

The vacation, closing with last week, started the teachers on the wing on Saturday. Mr. Avard L. Dodge, of Spa Springs, takes the Karsdale school, whilst Mr. Milton Davidson leavs that section to assume charge of the Winchester school. Mr. A. G. Ruggles, of Annapolis, is engaged in Mariner section. We trust these gentlemen may have a very successful year.

—During the nine days of the Grand Circuit meeting at the Buffalo driving park, 10 heats were trotted and paced at an average of 2:14—23.50. Twenty heats were under 2:15; sixteen under 2:12, and seven better than 2:10.

Middleton.

Our farmers are busy harvesting. They report the oat crop unusually light.

School opened on Monday, after the summer vacation. The same teachers are in charge.

Dr. M. T. Hutchinson, of New Yotk, has spent the past week here as a guest of Thomas G. Stearns, Esq.

S. E. Marshall, accountant of the Commercial Bank, is away on a well-earned vacation, a part of which he is spending in Windsor.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Eaton, of the Kentville Advertiser and Dr. Benjamin Rand, of Harvard University, spent Saturday last in town.

The holiday session of the Band of Hope was heartily enjoyed by almost one hundred members and their friends. There was quite a hot breeze blowing, yet the ice cream presented the appearance of miniature icebergs. It rapidly disappeared, however, and the evening air resounded with three cheers for "The Band of Hope."

Gullivan's Hall was filled for the Presbyterian service on Sabbath night. The young pastor was at his best. His subject was one quite commonly used; but he brought out so many new thoughts for inspiration, comfort, instruction, and warning, that the discourse was listened to with unbroken attention and interest right to its close.

The W. C. T. U. Flower Mission closes its year's work this week. Some 250 boquets of flowers, 300 text cards, 30 copies of scripture, jellies, etc., have been sent here and there during the year, and many grateful messages have been received in return. At the commencement of the preserving season each member was asked to set aside one jar of jam or jelly. These will be forwarded to some institution during the coming winter.

A. J. Denton, formerly of the Halifax High School and latterly of Colorado Springs, with Mrs. Denton and son, are guests of J. A. Gates, Mrs. Denton's brother. Some four or five years ago Mr. Denton removed to Colorado Springs for the benefit of his health, but after several years' residence there he returns to his native land in a much feebler state of health than when he went away,—a fact his many friends here deeply regret to learn.

Morrison's new hall is to be occupied for the first time this Wednesday evening, when a concert in aid of the new Baptist church is to be held. It is a splendid hall 71 by 28 ft., with a platform 12 feet wide. It is seated with chairs, three hundred new ones having just been placed in it, all of which are numbered. A stairway seven feet wide leads up to it from the street, with a neat little ticket office at the head. It is, altogether, one of the finest halls in the valley, and just what the town has wanted for some time.

Port Lorne.

Mr. Parker Brown, of Boston, is visiting at his father's, Henry Brown.

Mrs. Ernest Ray, who has been on a trip to Wolfville, has returned.

Rev. Telford and wife, who have been here for a season, have returned home.

Capt. Joseph Anderson was home on a short visit, while his ship was loading at Wolfville.

The Rev. H. S. Erb has tendered his resignation of the pastorate of the Wilmot Mountain Baptist Church.

Our annual Sunday-school picnic took place on the 16th inst. Arlington and St. Croix schools were invited.

Mr. Alvin Anthony and wife are here on a visit from Boston to his father's, Capt. John Anthony.

There have been a greater number of picnics and summer visitors here this summer than ever before.

Mr. John Beardsley and Aaron Charlton are making improvements in the appearance of their houses by the use of paint.

By invitation of H. S. Erb, our pastor Rev. Mr. Freeman occupied the pulpit on Sabbath morning and spoke to a very interested congregation from II Cor. iv., 17-18.

Among late arrivals to their homes, are Aaron and Joseph Miller, sons of John Miller; also Melbourne Hall and Mrs. Israel Hall, who have been on a visit to friends in Boston.

Miss Nora Messenger, of Keene, N. H., who has been here on a visit, has returned; also her sister Mrs. Miller. They have taken their mother and two small brothers with them to reside in the U. S.

Mr. Walter Graves and Capt. Joseph Brinton are supplying a long-felt want by erecting new buildings. The one being constructed by the latter gentleman will be suitable for a hall in the upper story, which is much needed in this place.

For Ladies Only.

$250 in gold will be given to the lady making the largest list of words from letters contained in the word "BEAUTIFUL," $100 in gold for the second largest list, $50 in gold for each the third and fourth largest list, diamond ring for fifth largest list, fine lady's gold watch for the sixth largest list, solid gold necklace for seventh largest list, handsome Swiss music box for eighth largest list, banquet lamp of elegant design for ninth largest list, lady's toilet case, complete, ornamented in silver, for tenth largest list. We shall give away more than one hundred other prizes in order of merit if there shall be that number of successful contestants. If two or more lists tie the one bearing earliest postmark will receive reward. The competition is open to ladies only, and is given for the purpose of introducing Madame Le Fontaine's Parisian Beautifier, endorsed by leading singers, actresses and society belles. It is a standard preparation of exceptional purity and wonderful qualities. Every contestant must order the Parisian Beautifier, which will be sent prepaid to any address upon receipt of fifty cents (introduction price). Enclose 50 cents in stamps with list of words, and address at once, THE PARISIAN TOILET CO., MONTREAL, QUEBEC.

They All Say It.

Mr. G. W. Penniman, a well-known American journalist, who has just completed a tour of these provinces by the sea says: "Let me introduce lovers of nature and devotees of beauty, as well as those in search of health, to the enchanting section of the American Continent known as Nova Scotia. The gates of N. S. open to one all the possible pleasures of forest, lake, river and sea."

A Perfect Cook.

A perfect cook never presents us with indigestible food. There are few perfect cooks, and consequently indigestion is very prevalent. You can eat what you like and as much as you want after using Burdock Blood Bitters, the natural specific for indigestion or dyspepsia in any form.

C. C. RICHARDS & CO.:

Gentlemen,—For years I have been troubled with scrofulous sores upon my face. I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to effect a cure without any result. I am happy to say one bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT entirely cured me and I can heartily recommend it to all as the best medicine in the world.

RONALD MCINNES.

Baltimore Pennilless.

Baltimore, August 16.—After considerable trouble the treasurer raised the money today to pay the members of the fire department and the street laborers their wages. No bills are being paid of any larger amount and will not be until money is is easier, so that the city can borrow. The present plight of the municipality is due in a large measure to bad financiering.

They Don't Know What's Wrong.

BRAMPTON, Aug. 21.—A good many people in these days are evidently ignorant of what ails them. They use remedies for dropsy, rheumatism, sciatica or some such disease, and after a time find out that disordered kidneys cause all the trouble. Here are some instances. James Crisp, a telegraph operator of this place, suffered from dyspepsia for a long time and could not find a remedy that would relieve him until he found Dodd's kidney pills. They cured him, as the primary cause of his dyspepsia lay, undoubtedly, in his kidneys.

A well-known laily wrote to the Toronto paper a short time ago stating that she had been cured of a womb disorder by means of Dodd's kidney pills. She did not think, until she was cured, that disordered kidneys were the seat of the trouble. Valentine Fisher, of Collingwood, last year was cured of sciatica of fifteen years' standing, by the same remedy. He too, found out at a late day that his kidneys had all along been the cause of his suffering. These are only some of many like experiences that are daily met with.

British Sealers Captured.

Information was received at the department of marine at Ottawa last Friday of a seizure by a Russian man-of-war, near Copper Island, of the British sealers Minnie and Airoko. The vessels will be sent to Yokohoma.

He Was Convinced.

A man in Nova Scotia was in doubt as to the genuineness of the reported cure of Mrs. Bernard Maguire and ex-Councillor Lingley, of Petersville, Queens Co., by a course of Hawker's Nerve and Stomach Tonic and Hawker's Liver Pills. He wrote to Squire Lingley, and that gentleman promptly assured him that the testimonials were genuine.

A CUTE CHILD.

A well-known captain, who sails out of St. John, returned home one day last week, after a year's absence. Picking up his favorite child, a bright little tot of five summers, he was surprised to find that her weight and stature had not increased as it should. Looking into her eyes, the father said, "Polly, what a little craft you are! Why don't you grow, dear, like your mother?" "Why, pupa," said the tot, "I haven't dyspepsia." Mamma uses Groder for dyspepsia.

ANNAPOLIS, N. S., sends this writing:

The Groder Dyspepsia Cure Co., Ltd.:

GENTLEMEN,—I have had indigestion or dyspepsia, accompanied with sick headache for a long time. Have tried various so-called remedies without receiving any marked relief therefrom. Recently I have tried one bottle of your Syrup and it has proved the best remedy I have ever taken. I have derived great benefit from its use and am convinced that it will make a permanent cure.

Respectfully yours,
MRS. J. SMITH.

BURGLARIZING AND ROBBERY AT MIDDLETON.

A few mornings before the robbery of Mr. Andrew's store Dr. Miller found a part of a skeleton key in his drug store lock, and the Dr. is puzzled to know what the would-be robbers wanted in his drug store, except they had read the following and wanted a supply of the goods:

Rev. T. B. Reagh, Rector of Milton Episcopal Church, P. E. Island, says: "My daughter had suffered for nearly two years from indigestion, &c., and nervous prostration. After using many remedies and consulting many physicians I was advised to try Dr. Miller's Tonic Dinner Pills, which in her case worked like a miracle."

The Rev. J. E. Warner, Rector, of Middleton, says:—

"For more than twenty years I have been afflicted with Chronic Constipation. Have been treated by several physicians here and in the States, and have tried many of the cures advertised through the press without receiving any permanent benefit.

In consequence of the complications arising from this disease I have been obliged to undergo a painful surgical operation, and was compelled last year to give up work. About six months ago I consulted Dr. Miller, who gave me a box of his DINNER PILLS, and I can cheerfully testify that their effect in my case has been little less than magical. Since then I have recommended them to some of my friends, who have experienced like good results from their use and returned me their warmest thanks, and I confidently give them a public recommendation, as I have found them, by far, the best medicine I have ever used."

(Signed.) REV. J. E. WARNER,
The Rectory, Middleton.

Use Dr. Miller's Compound Syrup Tar Cough Mixture for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and all diseases of Mucous Membranes throughout the body.

S. R. NIXON, of Nictaux Falls, says: "I have used all the so-called cures for coughs, colds and bronchitis, but found none equal to Dr. Miller's Compound Syrup Tar Cough Mixture. I believe it is the best on earth."

Rev. John L. Sponagle, Methodist Clergyman, Middleton, says:—

"Suffering from Bronchial affection—aggravated by cold—and having heard of the healing properties of your "Tar Cough Mixture" I was induced to make trial of it, and I am glad to inform you that I received much benefit from its use. In my case it soothed and allayed irritation, and aided expectoration. I keep it constantly at my home."

The Lewis Magnetic Corset

IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS.

Is mechanically constructed upon scientific principles, symmetrical in shape and unique in design.

Each section of the corset is so formed as to maintain the vertical lines of the body, and readily conforms to the figure of the wearer.

It is stayed with strips of highly-tempered spring ribbon steel, which is superior to any other boning material owing to its flexibility, smoothness and durability.

Each steel (or stay) is nickel-plated, highly polished and guaranteed not to corrode, metal tipped to prevent the ends from cutting through the fabric, and electro magnetized, thereby transfusing a mild galvanic current throughout the body, strengthening the nerves, assisting the action of the heart and imparting additional vigor and energy to both body and mind.

The steels (or stays) are incased in separate pockets and can be removed or replaced at pleasure through openings near the top of the corset, and are so distributed as to afford the necessary support to the spine, chest and abdomen, while at the same time so pliable that they yield readily to every movement of the body, thus assuring constant comfort to the wearer.

These corsets are made by experienced operators, from superior fabric, carefully examined by experts, and guaranteed not to break or roll up like inferior makes.

Ladies who, after giving them a fair trial, should not feel perfectly satisfied can return them to the merchant from whom they were purchased and get their money refunded.

See that the name "Lewis' Magnetic Corset" is stamped on each pair, without which none are genuine.

A Song of the Weather.

Don't growl about the weather, but jes' take it as it comes,
When the sky is beamin' brightly, or the thunder beats its drums!
Stop complainin' 'cos it's rainin', but be thankful for the drops
As they sprinkle, "tinkle, tinkle," on the dry and thirsty crops!

Don't growl about the weather, when the birds are singing sweet,
An' the daisies like a white cloud are a foamin' at your feet!
Don't ever growl at nothin', on the earth or up above,
It's the light that makes the shadders, an'
the light is sweet with love!

Feeding the Factory Girls.

DR. WARNER WILL BOARD HIS EMPLOYEES UNTIL THE MILL STARTS UP AGAIN.

Bridgeport, August 10.—When orders came a day or two ago that the big corset factory owned by the millionaire corset manufacturer, Dr. Warner, would only run three days a week in the future, there was consternation among the young women employed there. The question of how they were going to live, which was bothering them, has been settled, and now all are as happy as though there was an abundance of work.

Dr. Warner yesterday issued orders that any of the young women who were short of money and had no homes should be fed at the seaside institute until such time as the factory starts up again at full time.

The institute is near the factory, and is the home of hundreds of girls employed at the factory, who are furnished with board at cost of the material. This morning Manager Hawley had as his guests six hundred girls who had taken advantage of the offer of Dr. Warner. They were all girls without homes, and the pay they receive for three days' work each week would scarcely pay their board, to say nothing of room rent. They were very demure at the morning meal, but when dinner was served the fact of being the guests of the owner of the great factory had a funny effect upon them. It was given out that Dr. Warner had ordered that they be provided with the best of everything. The waiters were nearly demoralized, so fast did the orders for pie, watermelon, pickles, and ice cream come from the large dining room full of jolly girls.

There are 1,600 women employed in the factory. Many of them are married and live at home, and a still greater number have parents living in the city. The order given by Dr. Warner applies to any married or single among his employees who is in such poor circumstances that the loss of three days' work will cause hardship. Since Dr. Warner's offer has become known several wealthy women of the city have been discussing the subject of furnishing rooms to the girls free of charge until the factory is running full time.

Idea of Heaven.

No country in the world does more to entertain its children than Japan, says Miss White, a missionary lady who has spent some time in that country. Even on the street corners men stand whose sole business it is to tell stories to the boys and girls. One day she joined a group of little folks who were eagerly listening, and this was what she heard: "Once upon a time a peasant went to heaven, and the first thing he saw was a long shelf with something strange-looking upon it. 'What is that?' he asked; 'is that something to make soup of?' (The Japanese are very fond of soup). 'No,' was the reply; 'those are ears. They belonged to the persons who, when they lived on earth, heard what they ought to do in order to be good, but they did not pay any attention to it, so when they died their ears came to heaven, but their rest of the bodies could not.' After a while the peasant saw another shelf with queer things on it. 'What is that,' he asked again, 'is that something to make soup of?' 'No, he was told, those are tongues. They once belonged to men in the world who told people how to live and how to be good, but they themselves never did as they told others to do; so when they died their tongues came to heaven, but the rest of their bodies could not.' This is only a heathen idea of the beautiful land on high, but God says in his word some things which are very much like the morals of this Japanese story. The difference between hearing the Word of God and doing it, is told us in the words of our Lord Jesus Christ in the story of the man who built his house on the sand and the other who built his upon a rock.

Presence of Mind in Applying an Antidote.

An instance of rare presence of mind attended by success in the use of an antidote to poison occurred recently at Sag Harbor, New York.

Flora Sterling, the five-year-old daughter of Dr. Sterling, while playing about the house found a bottle which had formerly contained citrate of magnesia and still bore the label. The child put it up to her lips and took a long swallow.

With a scream she dropped the bottle, and began to clutch her little throat in an agony of pain. Her father, who had heard her screams, found that what the little one had taken for magnesia was oxalic acid. Seeing that not a moment was to be lost, if he wished to save the childs life, the doctor looked about for an alkaline antidote.

Seizing his penknife the doctor sprang to the white-washed wall and scraped some of the lime into his hand. This he threw into the glass partly filled with water, and poured the mixture down the almost dying child's throat. The antidote took effect at once. The intense pain caused by the burning acid was alleviated, and soothing, mucilaginous drinks to cool her blistered mouth and throat did the rest.

Interesting Ship-Building Statistics.

Out of 12,333 steamers in the world 6,861 are British, including Canada and the colonies. Germany comes next with 856. America seventh with 434. Of the gross tonnage British and colonial steamers have 9,112,307 tons out of 14,669,569. That is, while the empire has a little over half the number of steamships in the world, it has over three-fifths of the tonnage.

Out of 31,168 sailing vessels the British Empire owns 9,513 or nearly one-third.

In 1874 Canada built 496 vessels, in all 190,756 tons. This gradually fell to 265 vessels built in 1879, rose again to 387 in 1884; fell to 224 in 1887 with a measurement of 22,516 tons, and stood at 255 vessels of 28,773 tons in 1892.

Evidently the days of Canadian built spruce ships have passed away. In a few more years the building of wooden ships will be a forgotten art. In the meantime we should do all in our power to learn to build them of steel.

It is worth noting, in passing, that Nova Scotia built 105 of the 225 built in 1892, and they had a gross tonnage of 16,449 tons out of a total of 28,773 tons.

Rights of Wheelmen.

BICYCLERS HAVE THE SAME LIMITATIONS AS HAVE RIDERS ON OR IN ANY OTHER KINDS OF VEHICLES.

The question as to the rights of wheelmen on the road has again been raised.

It has been asserted that they had the right of way over all other sorts of vehicles and that they had more privileges.

Without a doubt there are some misguided wheelmen who act and conduct themselves on the road as if they had more rights than all the rest of vehicle drivers put together. But they are only misguided.

Bicyclers have just the same rights as owners of any other vehicles, are regarded as the same in the eye of the law, and if they attempt to take more rights they will find themselves in trouble.

Underwood in his road book, which is authority on such matters, says:

"It is settled that bicycles and tricyles are carriages within the meaning of the law, and their riders are entitled to the same rights and subject to like duties and liabilities as the riders and drivers of carriages and other like vehicles, and may go upon those parts of the road where other vehicles can, and on the other hand should not go where others can not. Wheelmen have their rights and their duties when travelling on the highway."

He quotes from court rulings as follows:

"The highway is established for the conveniences of travellers, and the use of it for any game or sport that actually exposes or puts to hazard the personal safety of the traveller thereon is not justifiable and subjects the party thus using the road improperly to the payment of all damages occasioned thereby to travelers."

As a bicycle is a vehicle like the others this decision applies to it:

"Persons in light carriages for the conveyance of persons only have occasion and of course a right when not expressly limited by law to travel at a high rate of speed so that they do not endanger others. But all foot passengers, including aged persons, women and children have an equal right to cross the street, and all drivers of teams and carriages are bound to respect their rights, and regulate their own speed and movements in such a manner as to not violate the rights of such passengers."

"Carriages cannot go upon the sidewalk and parts of the way especially constructed for foot passengers.

"When persons meet each other on a bridge or road travelling with carriages, wagons, carts, sleds, sleighs or other vehicles, each person shall reasonably drive his carriage or other vehicles to the left of the middle of the travelled part of the bridge or road, so that their respective carriages or other vehicles may pass each other without interfering."

—The story of Hawthorne's connection with Longfellow's poem "Evangeline," as hitherto told, is that Hawthorne found the incident recorded by the poet unavailable as the foundation of a prose romance, and then placed it at Longfellow's disposal. But the Boston Transcript had an interview with an old Salem gentleman named Horace Ingersoll, who gives a different version. He has had a notion of telling in print how Hawthorne missed writing the novel, but says he "never got round to it." As he gave the story to the Transcript, it is as follows:

"The facts of this story were originally told to Mr. Ingersoll by Mrs. Haliburton, who lived in South Boston. He told the story to Hawthorne one day while they were walking over what is now Lafayette Street, in Salem, and Hawthorne said he would write a novel about it. As time passed on, he neglected to keep his promise, and six years later Ingersoll gave the story to Longfellow at his home in Cambridge, and from this the famous poem was written. Mr. Ingersoll recalls with some amusement that at the time he gave the story to Longfellow he attempted to tell him how it should be written. His instructions were not followed very closely, but he was perfectly satisfied with the result after the work had been completed. In his library at the present time Mr. Ingersoll has the copy of 'Evangeline' presented to him by Longfellow, with an autograph inscription on the fly leaf. 'Well, after that book came out, you ought to have seen Hawthorne rave,' said Ingersoll. 'He was so mad with himself and with me because he had not written the novel that he did not get over it for some time. I do not think he ever fully forgave me for telling the story to Longfellow.'"

General Wallace's New Book.

The admirers of "Ben Hur" will be pleased to learn that a new story from the pen of General Lew Wallace will soon be issued from the press of Messrs. Harper & Bros. in the United States and England, and the Methodist Book and Publishing House in Canada. This new story is entitled, "The Prince of India; or Why Constantinople Fell" and like General Wallace's preceding work, it is an historical romance. The story begins in 1395; its continuous movement, however, is in a period from 1445 to 1453, the dates of the conquest of the Byzantine Capital by Mahommed II. The assault and sack of the city, and Mahommed's entry into Sancta Sophia (the final degradation of Christianity in the East), forms the catastrophe of the book. Speaking generally, the book is a tale of love, war and religion. The incidents are natural, rapid in occurence, astonishingly varied and from first to last subservient to the catastrophe. While minister to Turkey, General Wallace was afforded exceptional opportunities for the collection of those materials which he has woven into romance, and in the "The Prince of India," the result appears in all the realism of a style which gave to "Ben Hur" a popularity that indicates for the new book an immediate and large demand. Already 50,000 orders wait the issue of the book.

A Sure Remedy for Neuralgia

Neuralgia is one of the most common and distressing complaints incidental to this climate. It is not confined to any particular season, for whilst most general in the winter seasons, yet many suffer its excruciating agony in the heat of summer. In late years this form of disease has become better known, and consequently the means of relief have become greatly increased in numbers, as well as in efficacy. Among the most powerful and penetrating combinations, placed within the reach of the public for the relief of neuralgia, we can mention no remedy equal to or more certain than Polson's Nerviline. Its power over pain is something wonderful, and we advise a trial for neuralgia, or any other painful complaints.

What Happened to Him.

"Tommy," said the visitor, who was very properly endeavoring to impress a moral lesson on the young man's mind, "have you read the books in your Sunday school library? "Some of them," he replied, rather doubtfully. "Can you tell me what happened to the boy who went fishing on Sunday?" "Yes. He caught three catfish and an eel." "How do you know that?" "Cos I was him."

Rheumatism in the Knees.

SIRS,—About two years ago I took rheumatism in the knees, which became so bad that I could hardly go up or down stairs without help. All medicines failed until I was induced to try B. B. B. By the time I had taken the second bottle I was greatly relived, and the third bottle completely removed the pain and stiffness. AMOS BECKSTEAD, Morrisburg, Ont.

Agricultural.

Poultry Notes.

—Just think of it, chicken costs less than pork and is much better.

—Chopped clover hay scalded and mixed with bran, is a good morning food.

—The man who economizes on the feed of the fowls, never gets eggs in winter.

—Keep the drinking vessels clean. Disease often lurks in the drinking fountains.

—A little charcoal mixed with the soft feed will aid digestion, and prevent disease.

—When fattening geese, give a mixture of corn and wheat, with a cooked mess given warm daily.

—Well fed fowls never become too fat when they are compelled to scratch among a lot of litter for their grain.

—Remember a draught in the hen house will give fowls cold as quickly as you would catch one if you were similarly exposed.

—Little chicks do much better in the garden than any other place, if you can confine the hens to prevent them making trouble.

—One of the most profitable birds to raise is the Gray Call duck, a species of wild duck but easily domesticated, and very prolific.

—There'd be fewer folks with bitter mouths from swallowing life's dregs, if all the barley now in beer were fed to hens for eggs.

—It is not at all necessary to have a pond or stream for ducks or geese, a trough is all that is necessary. Ducks should be inclosed until about nine o'clock each day to prevent them laying away.

—Keep the wee chicks dry. Not a few are lost every year by carelessness in this particular during showery weather. A tight roof and a coop raised a little from the bottom so that they can run under is all that is necessary.

—The comb of the fowl is a fair index to the condition of its health. When the comb is of a bright red all is well with the fowl, but when it becomes of a whitish color or turns dark red at the ends something is seriously wrong.

—No broody hens wanted this month. Therefore discourage them at once. Keep them alone but in sight of the flock, or tie by the leg to a stake, or keep in a hen house without a nest and only roosts. Adapt the feed to egg production. That will cure her.

Horticultural Hints.

Use hardwood ashes liberally on all garden truck, small fruits and orchard trees.

Stir the soil to conserve moisture and promote plant growth, as well as to kill weeds.

Let the sheep and poultry run in the orchard to consume the wormy fruits and insects.

A good mulch keeps down weeds, and renders the soil moist and porous at all times, and that, too, with little labor of cultivation.

There is far too little mulching done. Small fruit trees and garden crops are given a most favorable opportunity for attaining the highest perfection and development when their roots are covered with a thick mat of leaves, wet straw or other suitable material.

As soon as the roses have done blooming cut them back, cutting out most of the wood that has borne flowers, then make the ground rich with good manure, something rich in ammonia, and there will be a good growth of wood for next year's blossoms, with possibly a fall bloom that will be most enjoyable.

The caution so often given not to feed the hens so that they will be too fat to lay well does not apply to growing chickens. They are not easy to fatten until they have made nearly all their growth.

Are you troubled with rats? If so daub their runs and holes with coal tar. Coal tar mixed with sand to the consistency of thick mortar is a complete stopper for rat holes. Try it if you are annoyed with the pests.

To a correspondent who asks which is the best milk preservative, the Jersey Bulletin replies, cleanliness and coolness. A large number of substances, such as salt, sugar, soda, saltpetre, salicylic acid, and boracic acid, have been recommended, and all of the so-called preservatives contain more or less of one or more of these substances: but we know of not one that will be of any use in keeping the milk from souring that is not more or less injurious, if taken into the human stomach. Therefore we know of no milk preservative which we can recommend any one to use. Really none of them will keep milk fresh for any considerable time.

A Very Good Law.

No person shall manufacture, or shall knowingly buy, sell, offer, expose, or have in his possession for sale, any cheese manufactured from or by the use of skimmed milk to which there has been added any fat which is foreign to such milk. Every person who, by himself or by any other person to his knowledge, violates the provisions of this section, shall, for each offence, upon conviction thereof before any justice or justices of the peace, be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and not less than twenty-five dollars, together with the costs of prosecution, and in default of payment of such fine and costs shall be liable to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for a term not exceeding six months, unless such fine and the costs of enforcing it are sooner paid.

—The German naturalist, Martin, relates a case he recently met of a horse which owed its life to coffee. It was in such a bad way that it was considered incurable, and the owner sold the animal for $15. The animal was then almost a skeleton and so weak that it could hardly walk. The man who bought the horse immediately began to treat it with coffee, giving infusions of roasted coffee-beans, and also coffee-beans ground and mixed with honey. In a short time the horse began to improve, and after a few months its new owner was offered $250 for it. He told Herr Martin he had brought around by the same treatment many horses which had been overworked or had lost their strength and appetite.

Ham Toast.

Boil one pint of milk and thicken with a teaspoon of flour. Add half a cup of chopped ham, boil three minutes, take from the fire and stir well. Have ready four slices of toast on a hot plate, upon which the mixture is poured.

VICTIM OF INJUSTICE.—"Goodness me, Johnny! What are you crying about now?" "Cause Tommy dreamed about eatin' pie last night, and I didn't."
