SOCIABLE.—Although the weather was quite unfavorable and the roads badly drifted on Thursday evening last, the attendance at the Sociable held in the commodious residence of Mr. Fred Thompson was encouragingly large. A pleasant evening was spent in social converse, singing, humorous recitations, and in the enjoyment of a generous repast. The Sackville Bank kindly favored the gathering with some of their best selections of music. About eighteen dollars came into the church treasury in this way.

BEAR CAPTURED.—On Friday last while William Finney, George Finney and Daniel Hicks were at work in the woods at Midgic they came upon a bear hidden in a hollow tree. Clubs were secured and while one member of the party stirred Bruin up, the others waited at the end for his appearance. When he came out which he soon did, a few blows on the snout dispatched him. The animal was a large one and very fat. It measured 9 feet in length and 2 feet across. The skin was an exceptionally fine one and worth about $40.00.

LECTURE.—A goodly gathering assembled at the Baptist place of worship, Wood Point, on Tuesday evening to listen to Rev. Mr. Warren's lecture on "John B. Gough, the Temperance Hero." The audience gave close attention throughout to the thrillingly interesting story of the downfall and reclamation of the distinguished man whose name has so long been enrolled among the heroes of temperance. Suitable music was rendered by the choir and some first-class ice cream was fully enjoyed. The proceeds of the evening amounted to about fifteen dollars.

—The many friends of Hon. Senator Botsford, will be pleased to learn that he has recovered from his recent illness. He was able to drive out on Tuesday, but will not go to Ottawa unless the session should be prolonged.

DEATH OF MRS. DR. STEWART.—Mrs. Stewart, wife of Rev. Dr. Stewart, professor of theology at Mount Allison, died very suddenly at her home, York St. on Sunday evening. During the past two years the deceased lady has not been favoured with good health, but on Saturday beyond a slight cold was as well as usual. On Sunday morning she was able to be around the house but towards night she showed signs of suffering, and shortly after the physician arrived, at 11 o'clock she passed away. The immediate cause of death was asthsmatic grip followed by congestion. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, the remains being followed to the grave by a large circle of friends, including the students of Mt. Allison College, who attended in a body.

Mrs. Stewart was a daughter of the late David Starr, of Halifax. She leaves two daughters, Lavinia M. and Hattie S. of Sackville, and two sons William H. now in China, and Chas. D., of Manchester, Robertson and Allison, St. John.

Local Matters

A bear was shot at Humphrey's Mills on Tuesday.

Ellsworth Brownell cut his foot badly while working in the woods at Westmorland Point last week.

A destructive fire occurred at Petitcodiac Tuesday morning by which Chas. A. McGee lost his house and all its contents. No insurance. Loss $1,200.

Rev. Mr. Hinson has resigned the pastorate of the Baptist church, Moncton to occupy a position in Montreal. It has been decided to call Rev. W W Weeks, of Brockville to the pastorate.

While coupling cars at Berry's Mills, Tuesday morning, brakeman John Thompson, of McDougall's special had his left hand badly jammed. He will probably lose one or two of his fingers.

Rev C. Lefebvre, C. S. C. of St. Joseph's, left on Tuesday for Montreal. While away he will attend the consecration of the coadjutor bishop of St. Hyacinthe. He is expected back in a couple of weeks.

The Maple Leaf says: "Joseph Mahar, of Hopewell Hill, 18 year-old son of the late William Mahar, while out duck shooting on Monday met with an accident by the gun exploding, seriously disabling his left hand. Dr. Murray, who attended the case found it necessary to amputate one of the fingers and two of the other fingers are badly bruised.

At Painsec Jct on Saturday, as the family of Mr. Jacob Trites, son of Reuben Trites, was at their dinner they noticed smoke and discovered that the upper part of the house was in flames. All efforts to stop the progress of the fire were unavailing, and the building (which was a new one) was totally destroyed with a lot of furniture, and seed for the coming year. There was no insurance and the loss is heavy.—Transcript.

A BLACK CAT ON A RAMPAGE.—Some of the more superstitious people who cling to the idea that a black cat around the house bodes evil, would have had their belief in such things verified had they seen the antics cut up by one of those creatures on Monday evening and Tuesday in a house in this town. Monday evening no less than five scuttles of coal and a wash boiler filled with water were upset in the kitchen in a most mysterious manner. At each time the folk of the house hastened to learn the cause of the noise. Nothing appeared near the scene except the form of a large black John Thomas cat, and on each particular occasion he seemed to glide away from the disaster in a most mysterious manner. Tuesday morning the same state of affairs happened, and not only the coal scuttles were empty and their contents on the floor, but the ashes had been scraped as it were out of the front of the stove on the newly cleaned floor and the sight was a deplorable one indeed. This aroused the inmates of the house to action, and each one armed themselves with a club ready to do battle with the black cat. Things passed off quietly till about ten o'clock when a noise in the front hal upstairs called for decisive action. On a table near the window stood a table containing about twenty pots filled with house plants. The plants had all been torn out and scattered on the floor the earth strewn around and the pots on their beam ends,—and as usual the cat was noticed leaving the scene of his revelry—but this time in a hurry. The people got mad, and no wonder, so the hired man, who by the way has seen considerable active service and is used to scenes of carnage, was called in to do duty, and armed with a gun. The hired man and gun kept faithful watch in the upstairs hall, thinking the cat had not left that portion of the house—out the cat did not think so—for while the man and gun paced upstairs, Mr. cat was in the parlor down stairs performing feat of ledgerdemain. Again the mysterious noises were heard, an investigation took place, and lo! No Dakota blizzard could have completed its work more effectual, for there on the floor lay table covers, books, music, trinkets of all kinds, that generally adorn the tables of a parlor, the book case completely gutted, the family Bible on the floor, the cover pulled off the organ another scuttle of coal overboard and last but not least the ashes clawed from the stove and on the floor, and as usual a large black masculine cat emerged from the ruins and started at a very rapid pace, no one could tell where. Confusion reigned supreme, but this was not all, for half an hour later the mysterious cat was doing more fine work in the parlor bedroom. His work there was performed in the same finished manner as in the parlor. Everything was scattered in confusion and glassware broken. After supper the dining room was entered, and large pies had been torn in strips and deposited around. About nine in the evening and while the inmates were discussing the next point of attack, a crash was heard in the bedroom not four feet away, the mystery glided past them but not before he had stripped the cover off the bureau and its contents lay on the floor. Five stalwart men were called in, those who had hitherto laughed at superstitious notions began to grow pale. They were armed with clubs and the cat's whereabouts eagerly sought after. The cat was traced to the kitchen and the work of killing began. Fur flew and so did clubs. The cat was equal to the occasion and died game. When struck fairly on the head with a club he would mysteriously wink his left eye and invite attack. The cat was a mystery from the start, and it seems increditable that it could work such destruction—but, "treas the cat."

Killed at Moncton.

ANOTHER RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

On Thursday afternoon a special carrying the English mail struck and killed George L. Edgett a short distance out of Moncton. Mr. Edgett was the teacher of the school at Humphrey's Mills and walked in and out to the school from Moncton each day. On the day in which he met his death he had taken the track to walk in and as the storm was raging it was impossible for him to hear the approach of the train. Neither fireman nor engineer of the train were aware that anyone had been struck untill told of the fact at the round house. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death attaching no blame to anyone. It is a strange coincidence that Edgett was coroner's clerk at the inquest held at the death of Gould which occurred about 100 feet from where he was killed a short time ago.

Deanery Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the Deanery of Shediac, was held in Sackville on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. There were in attendance Rural Dean Rev. J. Roy Campbell of Dorchester, Revs. E. B. Hooper, rector of Moncton, Donald Bliss, Westmorland, Rural Dean V. E. Harris, vicar of Amherst, and Cecil Wiggins rector of Sackville. The chapter met on Tuesday afternoon at the Rectory and the usual business of the quarter was transacted. In the evening, service was held in St. Pauls when addresses upon the proper observance of Lent were delivered by Rev. Hooper and Deans Campbell and Harris. Mr. Hooper spoke on Lenten Duties, and Mr. Campbell on Use and Intention of Lent. Dean Harris spoke on the religious observance of Friday. There was a fair attendence at the meeting and the addresses were very interesting.

On Wednesday morning The Holy Communion was celebrated in St. Pauls at 9 o'clock, after which the chapter assembled at the Rectory, and having finished the business of the meeting were formally dismissed. The next meeting will be held at Moncton in May.

Featherbone Corsets.

Featherbone Corsets are filled entirely with quills (featherbone). The word featherbone is not only a trade mark, but a substance of such durability and elasticity, that corsets made with it keep their shape better and last longer than any other known corset.

Featherbone is made entirely from the quill of turkey feathers, the process briefly thus: the feather is first stripped of its plumage, the quill is then taken and split up the middle and all the soft substance ground out, leaving only the pure quill. It is then split into fibre which is spun into a cord with thread, the only substance except quill that is used being thread to wrap around the fibre. This then is the cord that is used in the manufacture of Featherbone Corsets. The extraordinary toughness and elasticiay of quills is known to everyone and requires no recommendation from us, neither does "featherbone" for it is simply quills. It is therefore quite apparent to anyone that corsets filled entirely with "featherbone" must be superior to others filled with inferior materials, for as yet there is no other substance known that has all the qualities possessed by featherbone as a corset filler.

These goods can be had from any first class retail Dry Goods House in Canada, or may be had from the Wholesale Dry Goods Houses through whom these goods are entirely marketed. Made only by the
