THE TORONTO WORLD.

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 2 1886.

Sandwich Politics.

At the meetings held during the campaign just drawing to a close it was frequently alleged and denied that there was "politics in it." Both the allegations and the denials are half truths. There is politics in this campaign for some people, and there is no politics in it for others. People generally find what they are looking for, and when a man is looking for the candidate most akin in politics to himself he can generally find him. Many electors will vote for Mr. Manning because he is a consistent conservative, many others will vote against him upon the same ground. Another class will not vote at all, because they are such positive grits that they will not support a tory, while they revolt at the idea of endorsing Mr. Howland's "good-Lord-good-devil" policy. They will attend strictly to their own business. Among them will be numbered not a few of the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie's ardent friends and admirers. They fail to understand that Mr. Howland's support of Mr. Mowat in his time of strength atones for Mr. Howland's desertion of Mr. Mackenzie in his hour of need. It is this idea that has kept the Globe from openly supporting Mr. Howland from the first. It has covertly supported him all along.

The above are the classes for whom there is "politics in it." For the independent press and that large body of electors who are not tied to either party, this is in no sense a political fight. They support or oppose upon various grounds, some from personal grounds, and others because of their sympathy with the views of one or other of the candidates upon the Scott act. Such sympathies will sway thousands of electors upon Monday.

The "politics in it" for Mr. Howland can only be described as sandwich politics. The "sandwich man" is, in street parlance, a man who walks about between two signs. On the board in front you may read an advertisement of a teamenting, and upon the board behind you may see announcement of a play at the theatre. On the sign which Mr. Howland carries in front is this legend: "I support Sir John at Ottawa, and therefore solicit the conservative vote." The board on his back is thus inscribed: "I support Mr. Mowat in Toronto, therefore I should receive the reform vote."

It is not likely that the Howland sandwich will prove appetizing to either whig or tory.

The Parties in the Case.

It is with a feeling of pain not easily expressed that we refer to the case of suicide reported in our news columns of yesterday and to-day. All may read the lesson for themselves. It requires no explanation. It is written in letters of blood, and it tells a story of the consequences of wrong doing, not merely to the wrong doers, but to their innocent relatives and friends that every young man and woman should lay to heart. It is customary upon such occasions to dismiss the victim as one who is merely

"One more unfortunate,
Rashly importunate,"

But she is not alone to blame, nor shall she be the only sufferer. In this case there have been blasted the lives of not a few who are in no way responsible for the initial sin that has been the cause of all this misery. May heaven help them to bear the burden laid upon them! They have the heartfelt sympathy of every person who reads these lines.

We assume nothing concerning the parties implicated by the dead girl's letter. Concerning them human judgment should be suspended.

It is quite apparent that the young man, Sutherland, has been guilty of foolish and wicked association, but of nothing worse. Otherwise his conduct appears to have been human. He has learned a lesson that will last him through life. Other young men may profit by it, too. Aye, and elderly ones likewise. The evidence in the case enforces anew the old, old truth, that "Cæsar's wife should be above suspicion." Conduct that begets suspicion is apt to be misconduct.

Domville's Defeat.

The return of the minister of marine for King's, N.B., was almost a foregone conclusion. It possesses no political significance, except so far as it indicates that the government has not lost the confidence of its English speaking friends, which it is not likely to do so long as the French continue to threaten it for enforcing the law. The English speaking reformers were not, as a party, in the fight. It is to be presumed that their support was more or less equally divided between the two conservative candidates, and that Mr. Foster polled a majority of his party, thereby winning.

The feature of the contest was Mr. Domville's sudden conversion to prohibition views. King's is a Scott act county; owing, largely, to Mr. Foster's efforts, and it was the prohibition vote that enabled him to oust Mr. Domville in 1882, and to beat him by an increased majority in the interim election which followed. Believing that it was Mr. Foster's consistent advocacy of prohibition that gave him his strength, Mr. Domville, upon this occasion announced that he, too, had become a prohibitionist. The bait was not bitten at. There was no gudgeon to rise to it. The prohibitionists of King's have no faith in such sudden abnegations of principle. Mr. Domville has the humiliation of knowing that he abandoned his principles in vain, and that he no longer enjoys the confidence of either the prohibitionists or the anti-prohibitionists.

We need hardly say that we have no faith in prohibition, but we respect an honest, consistent prohibitionist, and recognize his sincerity, just as we demand that he shall recognize ours. The trimmer is unworthy of the respect of either party. The man or the newspaper that supports the Scott act to-day as the one thing needful to the moral elevation of the masses, and upon the morrow declares that the same act is a dead issue, may snatch a temporary success, but the end of such a career must be failure and humiliation. Such a man may make what he considers new friends but they will be the friends of a day, and when it so suits them will [illegible] readily as they [illegible] comes he [illegible] and over-ambitious public man must learn it, soon or late. The walks of public life are strewn with the remains of the victims of inconsistency and inconstancy.

We can stand a good deal from the the cable crank, because we are accustomed to standing it, but when he asks us to believe that Lord Randolph Churchill proposes to head a rebellion of Orangemen in case of a coalition between Gladstone and Parnell, he tries to impose upon our youth and innocence. If he has no respect for us he ought to have some for our readers, whose intelligence he insults.

Our friend Rip Van Winkle assures us that yesterday didn't count, but that today is really and truly a dry day. We trust that Rip means it, and that there will be no more rips or tears this year.

Howland's advocate says that that gentleman's supporters are animated by principles as "immutable as the Almighty." The cool familiarity with the Creator and the sacred things appertaining to Him displayed by these people, is shocking to the publicans and sinners who venture to think that Mr. Howland is not perfection's self perfected.

It is announced that parliament has been further prorogued until Feb. 13, and that the session will not commence until early in March.

The Genuine Piano, Manufactured by Rainer & Co., Guelph, Ont.

The undersigned respectfully announce that on the 9th day of April, 1884, Joseph F. Rainer dissolved partnership with Frank Sweetnam and John Hazelton as Piano Manufacturers and that said Joseph F. Rainer with his Son will continue to manufacture the original Cross Scale Pianos, of which the said JOSEPH R. RAINER IS THE SOLE INVENTOR. Since the above dissolution the undersigned have commenced to manufacture in connection with their Cross Scale Pianos a new improved Harp Scale Piano of which Joseph F. Rainer is the Patentee of many improvements in Piano Structure and is acknowledged to be the Pioneer Piano Builder of Canada. Joseph R. Rainer's Harp Scale Pianos have been before the public for more than 25 years and have acquired a reputation for excellence far surpassing any other Pianos manufactured in Canada. They and almost unbroken list of Prizes, Medals and Diplomas received at the principal Provincial and Industrial Fairs from 1858 to 1885, being an indisputable evidence of such superiority and are celebrated for quality of tone, great power and durability of action, prompt elastic touch, fine finish and elegant style of Case combined with every known improvement. The great favor with which our Cross Scale Pianos have been received and the reputation they bear has induced others to imitate them. We, therefore, caution intending purchasers and dealers wishing to obtain the original Cross Scale Piano to see that the name of Rainer & Co. is on each instrument. Intending purchasers and dealers will also please take notice that when writing to us for prices they will please state what kind of a Piano they want as the Harp Scale Piano comes a good deal cheaper than the Cross Scale Piano. We also make the Upright and Square Grand Pianos. For further particulars, price lists, &c., &c. Address, RAINER & CO., Guelph, Ont. 3m 6

PARTNERSHIP NOTICE.
