Long Years Ago.

Near the banks of that lone river,
Where the water lillies grow,
Breathed the fairest flowers that ever
Bloomed and faded, years ago.

air, on the rock, while I was in the snow to my shoulders, with my face buried and suffocation only a question of moments. I knew that if I stirred matters up in the air it would be worse. The gentlemen came speedily and put me on my feet, burning with mortification. "We saw your signals of distress," my girl friend whispered, tantalizingly. "I would rather have died than been rescued," was all I said; and I meant it.—Clara Belle.
