HEARST INVESTORS OF LONDON MAY GO TO WINNIPEG TRIAL

Citizens Sank Nearly $50,000 in Western Bubble—Were Fooled by Auditors' Reports, One Stockholder Declares.

PROMOTER OF SCHEME WAS FAST WORKER

London stockholders in the defunct Hearst Music Publishing Company may be called to Winnipeg to give evidence against the president of the concern, Joseph X. Hearst, who gave himself up to Winnipeg police yesterday on his return from Germany, whence he fled last December.

Local men invested close to $50,000 in the concern last year and do not expect to get back a cent, they stated this morning. Hearst was in London last November selling stock and "hooked" a number of citizens who relied on signed auditors' reports as to the amount of business the firm was doing and the amount held in the banks.

DENNIS BARNES,
9-year-old London boy, who succumbed to lockjaw in Victoria hospital.

"I'm quite sure we won't get back a dollar," stated one of the shareholders this afternoon. "Hearst was here last November and went back to Winnipeg. He was in Chicago when his wife phoned him from Winnipeg that the police were on his trail."

"Hearst worked fast. He telephoned Toronto from Chicago, and had a telegram sent from Toronto to Winnipeg ordering a stockholders' meeting right away, and stating that he would be back to clear the decks for all concerned."

"His wife then joined him in Chicago and with a check for $5,000 given him by a big Chicago real estate man, Hearst left for New York, cashed the check and disappeared. We know now that he went to Germany, but at the time the police could not uncover his trail."

"What made him come back to give himself up? My opinion is that he simply couldn't stay alone with his thoughts any longer, especially after his wife left him and went back to Winnipeg.

"A man of his temperament would work himself into a state almost bordering on frenzy waiting every hour of the day and night for an official police knock on his door.

"He sold his stock in London on the strength of his auditor's report. That's the reason I bought."

HID IN GERMANY.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, July 29.—While police of Canada, the United States, Great Britain and Germany searched for Joseph Xavier Hearst, former president and organizer of the $1,000,000 Hearst Music Publishing Company of Canada, who surrendered to local authorities Tuesday, the "financial-jazz wizard" was hiding, for the greater part of the seven months he has been a fugitive from justice, in Germany, according to information obtained here yesterday.

A short time before the collapse of the publishing house, which brought a loss of $750,000 to shareholders throughout Canada and the United States, Hearst left Winnipeg, presumably on a business trip to Toronto, and later went on to New York. From there no trace of him could be found, but today it was learned that he had sailed on December 6, 1924, for Europe on the steamship Vaterland.

When he walked into the police headquarters here, Hearst told authorities that he had just reached the city from eastern Canada a few hours prior to the time that he gave himself up and that his action had been taken owing to the solicitation of friends and relatives. The once head of the $1,000,000 corporation declared himself to be without "a penny" today and denied that he had benefitted by the failure of the company.

Bail was set at $10,000, but early this morning he was still at the police station, no bondsmen being forthcoming.

BAXTER QUITS SEAT IN FEDERAL HOUSE

Will Be Premier of New Brunswick If Party Wins Election.

By E. C. BUCHANAN.
Special to The Advertiser by Staff Correspondent.

Ottawa, July 29.—Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, leading member of the New Brunswick group in the Conservative party in the house of commons, today resigned his seat. His resignation was necessitated by his return to provincial politics.

He is now leader of the Conservative provincial party in New Brunswick, and the event of the party victory at the polls on Aug. 10 will be premier of the province. Mr. Baxter's political career has been mostly in the provincial field. He was taken into the Meighen cabinet shortly before the defeat of the ministry in the election of 1921.

Boys of Canada Now Valued By 150 Girls

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, July 29.—A party of 180 Canadian girl students, in connection with the overseas education league, were honored here last night by being special guests at a grand ball in the palatial former residence of Solomon Rothschild, now used for the purposes of the Rothschilds foundation. Regret was expressed that Major Ney, of Winnipeg, conductor of the party, was ill in a hospital in London.

The girls, who are unable to speak French, relate many interesting experiences they are having in Paris, especially with regard to shopping and chauffeurs. They say that previous to their trip to Europe they had idealized European men, but now they are satisfied that the boys in Canada are better than the Europeans.

CIVIC BUILDING PROGRAM URGED

"Let's Get Ahead With Needed Structures," Plea of Col. Coles.

Early construction of a new city hall and other much needed downtown buildings is advocated today by Col. W. G. Coles, a former city alderman. Col. Coles draws attention to the development in the suburbs where university and other buildings of a laudable, modern type are going up. He believes that the central part of the city should not be neglected in this development and that the time is right for city hall construction.

Discussing the latest hotel project, Col. Coles sees in that venture opportunity for a welcome addition to London's downtown utilitarian and show places.

Public Willing.

"What is the sense of holding back from building a new city hall?" asks Col. Coles. "The public, in my opinion, does not object to spending money as long as the people can see something for their money. This is the finest city on the continent. Why go on year after year without building the buildings that are required?

"Look at the buildings that are going up in the suburbs—the university and so on. We can't let the heart of the city go backward while such institutions as this are really coming to us. There's a big program, but let us get at it!"

Error In Figures.

Col. Coles, who was a member of the council in 1912, points out that the Spencer block cost the city $45,000 and not $75,000, as has been stated.

"We mustn't forget that McCormick sold their Dundas street property to the city on the agreement that the corner should be used for city hall purposes," declares Col. Coles. "The first thing to do is to find what legality there is to such a contract. We would need consent from the McCormick company to use the property for other purposes."

According to the former alderman there is a difference of $45,000 in the value of Richmond and Dundas street sites, of which an exchange is desired by promoters of the new hotel project, but he is not opposing a trade.

Egyptian Official Seeks Farm In Ontario As Haven When Driven from Country

Joseph C. Psaila, Victim of Nationalist Move in Egypt, Arrives Here.

TO PURCHASE HOME

Declares Trouble in Egypt Is Strictly Political and Not Religious At All.

The withdrawal of the British forces from Egypt would be a national calamity, declared Joseph C. Psaila last night to The Advertiser. Mr. Psaila is an interesting visitor to the city. For 27 years he was connected with the postal service in Egypt, as superintendent of the savings bank department in the city of Alexandria. In 1923, on the advent of Zagloul Pasha to office as premier, he was compelled as a foreigner, to relinquish his position in the postal service. He was one of the many British civil service officials who were removed from office when an intense wave of nationalism swept over Turkey, culminating in the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, sirdar of Egypt.

He refuted the idea that religion was at the bottom of Egyptian unrest, and declared it was purely political. In Egypt, he claims, the exercise of any religion is unhampered by law. Toleration is everywhere, though at times the uneducated masses may display animosity to foreigners at the end of some religious festival. Mr. Psaila is himself a Presbyterian.

The real solution of Egypt's troubles, he believes, lies in the making of school attendance compulsory. The majority of parents who are devout Mohammedans refuse to permit their children to attend school, fearing they will learn things calculated to undermine their faith in their religion. As long as they had that fear, the condition of the masses in Egypt would remain on a low plane.

Aversion to Britain.

The intensity of the nationalist feeling is demonstrated by the aversion which is now demonstrated towards Britain. Formerly the postage

Minister Sheds Generous Wife

Associated Press Despatch.

Kalamazoo, July 29.—A divorce was granted today by Judge George V. Weimer to Fred Wheelock, an itinerant minister, from Nina Wheelock. The husband charged his wife with giving away clothing he could ill afford to spare and that she often abandoned him for periods ranging from a few days to six months. At such times, he said, he could not find where she was, except by calling on the minister of the local church or some other intimate friends in the congregation.

RUGBY STAR FOR POSITION AT "Y"

Fred Warren May Be Made Assistant Physical Director.

Fred Warren, well known rugby star here, will likely be made assistant physical director of the Y. M. C. A. this fall. Several changes in the ranks of the secretarial positions in the local branch indicate that Mr. Warren will be given a promotion.

E. J. Jenkins said today that Mr. Warren would in all probability be given a more attractive position this fall. At present he is assistant boys' secretary. This position is being taken by Hiles Templin. It is understood that Mr. Warren will go into the physical department under the new director, Roy Begg.

The position will be a part time one. Mr. Warren is a science student at the University of Western Ontario. He has always been keenly interested in sport and more than once has saved the day for local rugby teams. At present he is life guard at Thames park.

Speaking to The Advertiser today he said that he could not make any definite statement regarding the fall program as there would be more than one position open.

When Allan Devenney left this summer to take over a church near Ottawa this left a vacancy for an office secretary to fill. Up to the present this has not been done as a saving was made during the dull summer months.

DEAN FOX ON LEAVE TILL FIRST OF YEAR

Head of Arts Faculty Will Not Return For Term Opening.

Dean W. Sherwood Fox, M.A., Ph.D., F.R.S.C., university of Western Ontario college of arts, will not return to the city for the opening of the academic year in September.

Although it was expected that the dean would be away in Europe for the summer only, it was learned today that his leave of absence will not terminate until January.

The trip to the continent was taken chiefly because the dean needed a rest following his strenuous duties of the last year.

While abroad, Dr. Fox will have no official duties, though it is intimated that he might pick up some art treasures and some rare books for the university, should he come across anything that he believes would be advantageous for the university to possess.

Dr. K. P. R. Neville, M.A., F.A.G.S., registrar, will continue as acting dean until Dr. Fox returns.

Western Braves Take Woes To "Big Chief" King George

White Man Makes New Laws Without Consulting Indians, They Charge.

3 LAND IN LONDON

Associated Press Despatch.

London, July 29.—Three Indian chiefs who carry a mandate for 28 other Indian leaders in British Columbia arrived in London yesterday. They have come all the way from their reservations near Shuswap to appeal to the "biggest chief of all," King George, for justice concerning alleged infringement of their rights.

New regulations have been made by the white man without consulting the original natives of British Columbia, they charge, and after a powwow of all the chiefs concerned it was decided to send Chiefs William Pierrish, Basil David and Johnnie Chillicheitsa to the grand chief where the wigwam is Buckingham palace.

Mercury at 47; Low for July

The mercury sank to a low level last night, and recorded the lowest temperature for this July. The highest temperature reached during the night was 66, and the lowest 47. The temperature yesterday afternoon was rather low, the highest being 69.

A slight rise in the barometer indicates a likely spell of fair weather.

MAYOR NOT IN RUNNING FOR HOUSE

Hat Is Withdrawn From Larger Political Arena by Wenige.

SMITH IS OUT

Gives "Business Reasons" For Refusal To Contest the Mayoralty.

A solitary hat is today in the mayoralty ring for 1926, with municipal election day just four months distant.

The lonely headgear is a missionary of militant prepardness and is decorated promiscuously with the name of London's present chief magistrate, who is priming his guns to defend the job he has held down for three terms already.

Mr. Wenige is conspicuous today by his apparently unopposed presence in the mayoralty field and by his intended absence, for the time, from the provincial political ring. The mayor is known to be definitely out of the provincial field, but this afternoon he declared, "It is too soon to talk."

Many Candidates.

Coincident with the mayor's decision to remain in the municipal field comes a scramble of Tory entries for the next provincial election. With two London ridings promised, and with the mayor ready to stand aside, a small army of left wing Tories are out for honors.

Yesterday the mayor's On to Ottawa via Toronto party held a lengthy pow-wow.

Following the conference, it was found that the mayor's hat had been carefully and completely removed from the provincial ring and an understanding secured that he will not be an independent Conservative candidate in the next provincial election.

The mayor gives his support to Tory candidates in the coming provincial contests and in return receives a leg-up in the municipal election next December.

Smith Stays Out.

Edwin Smith, ward four alderman and former chairman of the board of education, has withdrawn from the mayoralty field and will likely run as an alderman. Business reasons are given for his refusal to listen to requests of many supporters for him as mayor.

Developments of this week leave the mayor unopposed, as yet, in the mayoralty contest and provide much scope for Tory candidates in the provincial campaign.

Ernie R. Dennis, president of the Western Ontario Liberal-Conservative association, and John A. Braden are mentioned as potential Tory candidates. A prominent worker in the ranks of the women members of the London Conservative party is also a possible candidate.

"I have had quite a number of people in to see me about the mayoralty," Ald. Smith stated today. "It's a long time till election yet, but I don't think my business can stand the extra time the mayoralty position would demand. Next year will be a big year for the council and aldermen will have much to do."

Ald. Smith is the youngest member of the present council, notwithstanding the fact that he was for six years a member of the board of education, and is now serving his second term as alderman for Ward 4. He instituted the new method of civic elections, which will be followed in the coming December campaign.

Jap Who Tried To Betray Navy To U.S. In Jail

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Tokio, July 29.—Seijiro Suzuki, a clerk in the naval stores bureau of the navy department, today faced court - martial charges that he attempted to sell alleged secret naval papers to F. E. Jordan, an American.

Suzuki wrote Jordan asking 10,000 yen for the papers in question. Jordan immediately turned the letter over to police and Suzuki's arrest followed.

It is understood that papers dealing with naval mobilization plans are missing from the navy department.

HATHEWAY SALE RAISES $1,000

Goods, Auctioned To Make Restitution, Bring More Than Original Price.

Sale of the goods and chattels of Leslie G. Hatheway at his home, 90 Windsor avenue, yesterday realized a little over $1,000, and means that after the chattel mortgage of $400 is paid off there will be $600 to swell the sum of $2,000 necessary for restitution to the Bank of Montreal by the Thorndale bank bandit. As of the entire amount all but $800 had been raised before yesterday, there now remains but $200 to be collected by Mrs. Hatheway for the bank.

The sale was easily the largest ever held in London, over 1,000 curious individuals surging through the house all afternoon. Automobiles lined the block on both sides and it was finally necessary to have a traffic policeman to direct the crowd.

Bidding was brisk on every single article offered by Auctioneer D. H. Porter, Mrs. Hatheway stating this morning that many pieces of furniture brought considerably more than the original purchase price. She was more than pleased at the amount of money raised.

The silver and china, most of it wedding gifts, was not offered for sale, being reserved by Mrs. Hatheway for herself. She was not present at the sale.

"I never saw such a crowd in my life," declared Mr. Porter. "It was impossible to sell in the house, so we had the articles brought out on the front lawn and we sold from there. I think we got good prices for everything."

BOBBY EBOR FIGHTS KID SPARKS TO DRAW

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hamilton, July 28.—Bobby Eber and "Kid" Sparks fought 10 rounds here tonight to a draw. The decision of the referee, Hughie Hayes, was not popular with the audience, which favored Eber. Joe Harman, a new arrival in Toronto, got a decision over Tommy McDonald, Hamilton. Mickey McDonald, Hamilton, won from Johnnie Horn, also of Hamilton. Tiger Flowers, of Ottawa, was beaten by Red Campbell, of Hamilton, in three rounds.

MAYOR VISITS BOYS.

Mayor Wenige is visiting the Y. M. C. A. boys' camp at Silver Beach this afternoon. He planned to make an address to the boy campers.

AGED MAN CONFESSES SHOOTING WIFE'S LOVER

Woman's Husband, of 70, Wounds His Rival, Who May Die.

Special to The Advertiser.

Cadillac, Mich., July 28.—Henry Martin, his wearied nerves shaking beneath 70 years of life, was not too old nor too feeble to aim accurately a heavy shotgun at the body of Gordon Sickler, 50, a cemetery sexton who, the old man says, stole his wife.

The men live at Lake City, near here.

Sickler, his body punctured with gunshot, cannot live, hospital attendants reported today to jail authorities, in whose custody Martin sits longing for the moment when the prosecutor charges him with murder.

Meal and Railway Ticket Reward of Man Who Admits Theft From City Bowlers

Pleading guilty to stealing a club bag containing bowls valued at $65 yesterday afternoon, Arthur Cardinal, Montreal, who only has one arm, unwound such a tale of misfortune and hardship in this morning's police court that the two men ("Scottie Ross and Frank Brown) from whom he stole the bowls offered to pay his fare back to Montreal and to buy him a substantial breakfast before he started on his trip.

After hearing this offer, Magistrate Gladman freed the prisoner on suspended sentence on condition that he would go back to Montreal as soon as possible.

Cardinal, without the least hesitancy, elected to be tried before Magistrate Gladman and pleaded guilty without a falter.

Broke Parole.

He then told of serving two terms in Kingston penitentiary. The first term was for two years. He was released on parole, but went to the United States and broke parole. He was then sent back to Kingston for seven years and seven days. During the time he was serving the second term he had his arm caught in a machine and torn from his shoulder. After his release, he was not given any assistance by the authorities and started wandering around the country.

He came to London yesterday from Windsor in the hope that he would find work here. The first man he applied to said he was sorry for him but that he would not be able to use him because he was a cripple.

This discouraged him. Cardinal told the court, and it was while in such mood that he decided to steal the club bag with the bowls from a car in front of the Majestic theatre building.

Discarded Bowls.

He took the bag and threw the bowls in a rubbish can on the federal square. He stayed around there for several hours and was arrested.

When arrested he told the same story he told the court this morning.

His parents lived in Montreal. His father is a cripple and he does all that he can to help him.

He did not ask the court for leniency, but the men offered to pay his fare to Montreal before the court passed judgment.

OFFICERS HALE TWO TO COURT

Dorinda Street Men Fall Into Trap Laid by Provincial Spotters.

BOTH REMANDED

Arrests May Herald Renewed Drive in City of London.

Walter Giddings, taxi driver, and Arthur J. Harley, both of Dorinda street, fell into a trap laid by special provincial O. T. A. officers, or "spotters," last night, with the result that both appeared in this morning's police court charged with keeping liquor for sale. The usual subtle spotters' methods were used.

Three of the special officers, headed by R. Russell, arrived in the city last night to make a second round-up, it is believed, of a local bootlegging ring. Several months ago their activities in the city resulted in the conviction of seven Londoners on charges of selling liquor.

Giddings pleaded guilty before Deputy Magistrate Gladman this morning. He was remanded until tomorrow for sentence. Harley, through his counsel, J. W. G. Winnett, had his case adjourned for one week. Cash bail was set at $500.

The provincial O. T. A. "spotters" method of securing a conviction against Giddings was similar to that employed in the arrest of seven bootleggers last winter. By telephone they asked Harley last night where they could purchase a bottle of liquor. They were strangers in town, they said. As a favor Harley drove them to Giddings' home and there the sale was made. It was then that the officers revealed their identity. Seven bottles of liquor found in the home were confiscated.

Giddings' appearance in court this morning suggests further arrests—the fruits of the special officers' work in London. Together with the liquor seizure and imposition of a fine and jail term when Giddons appears for sentence tomorrow, Provincial Officer Russell intimates that the penalty for the offence may include confiscation of Giddings' motor car and the auto owned by Harley, should he be convicted.

DARROW REPLIES TO LAST MESSAGE

Regards Bryan's Final Challenge As Lawyer's Argument—Answer Brief.

Associated Press Despatch.

Lexington, Ky., July 29.—Clarence Darrow, Chicago lawyer who upheld the theory of evolution at the John T. Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn., has answered, very briefly, the final message of William Jennings Bryan, fundamentalist champion, and his chief opponent at the Dayton trial.

Like the message of Mr. Bryan, given out through the press yesterday by Mrs. Bryan on account of the commoner's death, Mr. Darrow also issued his answer through the press, and not in an address.

"Mr. Bryan's speech impresses me as only the argumentative statement of a lawyer," Mr. Darrow said. He refers again to the Loeb and Leopold case and the philosophy of Nietzsche. He indicates that, in his belief, such philosophy may have been responsible for their act," the Chicago attorney continued.

Leopold Knew.

"Loeb knew nothing of evolution or Nietzsche. Leopold did, it is true. But because Leopold had read Nietzsche, does that prove that this philosophy or education was responsible for the act of two crazy boys?

"Isn't it peculiar that of the millions of young men and women who have attended universities and colleges of the country and studied evolution and perhaps Nietzsche that only one of them should commit such a crime as Leopold did?

"In this world, little, if anything, is accomplished without progress. To make Christians of the Chinese you would be forced to kill many of them. Invention of the printing press was frowned upon and even cost some lives, but no one maintains that it has not done good.

Why Abandon Autos.

"The building of railroads has cost many lives, but they aided humanity. Each year automobiles kill more persons than are killed by homicides, but that is no reason they should be abandoned, pack and parcel.
