ONTARIO'S GOLD FIELDS.

United States Capitalists Coming Over to Develop The Sudbury Mines.

The Vermillion Mining Co. of Ontario is the name of a company the letters patent for which were granted on 21st of last month. The company's property is about twenty-two miles from Sudbury, and consists of lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 in the 4th concession of Dennison, and lot 12 in the 3rd, and lot 12 in the 4th of Graham. It is claimed that in these localities gold can be mined at enormous profit, and silver and copper produced in paying quantities.

The president and the treasurer are business men of Chicago; the former, Volney W. Foster, lumber dealer; the latter, Robert Hill, wholesale dry goods merchant. The other officers are these Canadians: Vice-President, A. G. Duncan of Marksville, St. Joseph's Island; Secretary, Robert J. Tough, Sudbury Junction.

The American half of the company have been in Ontario since Thursday last. They passed through Toronto yesterday on their way home. According to them there is any amount of wealth to be got from the mines, and active operations are to be begun at once to develop the resources. There are at present on the property some small prospecting mills, and other preliminary machinery will be on the ground within thirty days. The more expensive machinery necessary in reducing the ore will not be ready for six months. A sixty stamp mill will be on the ground by Sept. 1. When the work is in full swing it is expected 200 men will be employed. There is a force of men on the ground just now. The company are going into the business on a somewhat large scale. They have purchased a town site on the Algoma branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Doyle of Sault Ste. Marie is about to erect an hotel in the new town, which the directors have officially christened Ranger, the name of one of the original discoverers of the property.

Mr. Hill and Mr. Foster are confident they have struck a big thing in gold. "In fact," said one of them, "I think you will hear of the richest discoveries up there that have ever come up east of the Rocky Mountains."

Canadian v. Georgian Iron Ore.

Editor World: I regret exceedingly that Mr. Ledyard in his letter published in your edition of Saturday should call my nationality into question. I do not know that being a Briton detracts from the weight of an opinion given in an open discussion, especially when the opinion was asked and an invitation tendered me by Mr. Ledyard to attend the meeting.

Prior to my giving an opinion Mr. Gordon invited general discussion as to whether the United States would be the great market for Canadian iron ores. I, in reply, said that even with the duty off iron I was not of opinion that Canada could compete with the Southern States in an iron supply for the Northern States.

I gave my reasons before the meeting upon what grounds my opinions were based, and they met with no question, although no less than four practical mining engineers were present. So far as my ability goes to criticise any interested opinion adverse to my own, I may say I have spent some time on the River Nervion, near Bilbao, in Spain, where the enormous proportions the iron deposits assume have been appreciated all the world over; and I have had practical experience in Lancashire and Yorkshire, not only among the iron mines, but in practical connection with the furnaces of Redcar and Middlesboro. I have seen Canadian iron deposits, notably the iron of Belmont, from which Mr. Ledyard quotes his assays, and which by-the-by belong to him. I saw the property two years ago and do not profess to know that with which I am unacquainted. I have given a deal of study to the occurrence and chemistry of hematites, limonites, magnetite, manganese, chromite and iron generally, and during my recent visit to the Southern States to examine iron properties I formed the opinions I laid before the meeting of the Commercial Union Club on Thursday evening. I accordingly think that I do not express "off-hand views" and I am not presumptuous in expressing opinions antagonistic to Mr. Ledyard and Mr. Mills. My opinion was asked or I should never have ventured one, and is not biassed or interested, and I feel confident that Mr. Ledyard's views lean rightly in the interested direction.

Mr. Ledyard's paper was an admirable one and contained facts carefully and ably compiled, and I do not differ from him as to the quality of Canadian iron, especially for Bessemer purposes, but the quantity to my mind at present is speculative, whereas in the Southern States, especially Georgia, the iron is equally as good, equally low in phosphorus and sulphur, the average red hematite determining 0.01 of phosphorus, and the labor is three times as cheap. The quality thus proved, the quantity is undoubted, for the iron industry of Georgia was at its best when the war broke out and one has only to travel between Chattanooga, Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga., to see the old workings and the many blast furnaces that General Sherman destroyed during his campaign between the above cities. The iron industry lay dormant after the war until a few years ago and now the capitalists of Northern States have to go South for their iron supply, and the result is that the old furnaces along the Western and Atlantic Railway are being rebuilt. Chattanooga has several alight; Atlanta is building them for the treatment of the enormous output of iron ores of the vicinity, which is gradually increasing.

It is on account of having recently seen these voluminous deposits of iron and manganese, that can be worked with colored labor so economically—where they have the coal, the limestone and Northern and English capital to back them, coupled with cheap railway transport—that I said before the Commercial Union Club that I feared Canada could never compete with the Southern States in supplying the Northern.

They can ship manganiferous iron from the Southern States into Pennsylvania at less cost than Canada could, even if her iron resources were developed and the duty off. I may be in error, but what I have submitted are facts and my disinterested opinion.

I would say in conclusion I only refer to the mining and exporting of iron ore, but my belief is that other minerals are paying.

CHAS. M. DOBSON, M.E.

Editor World: Referring to Mr. C. M. Dobson's arguments at the Commercial Union Club last week, and having noticed a letter from Mr. Ledyard respecting them, I would direct great attention to The Mail of March 6 instant. It appears The Mail correspondent has interviewed large manufacturers in the vicinity of Brockville; the manufacturers say they are getting their iron from the United States, and actually paying a duty on it. If Canada has such vast iron deposits why do not Canadian manufacturers draw their supply from Canadian resources? It appears to me at present Canada does not supply her own wants; how can it be expected, then, that she will ever supply the demand of the Northern States? Mr. Dobson's arguments appear under this heading particularly methodical.

Commercial Humbugs.

Editor World: The firm of Smith, Wiman & Co. being particularly desirous of annexing this little tract of territory, known as British North America, to the United States, have been telling the English people through the columns of The Times that the consummation of their patriotic undertaking is but a matter of time. In this instance, as in many others, the wish is father to the thought. Not 5 per cent. of the electorate of this country would, if the opportunity offered itself, record their votes in favor of Commercial Union. Besides, the inhabitants of the United States evince no desire to enter into any closer relationships, commercially or otherwise, with Canada. The Canadian people are not to be led by the nose to sacrifice their long cherished ambition to become a nation. And they but deceive themselves who imagine that because a few score men assemble to listen to their rhetorical sophistry the whole country is being swayed by such nonsense.

SALMONEUS.

Should Using an Assumed Name be Made a Crime?

Editor World: I fully concur in your suggestion, that the exact time of executions and the details except the bare fact that the requirements of the law have been carried out—is all that the public should know. Permit me, through your widely read paper, also to suggest that the use of an assumed name without legal authority be made a criminal offence, and classed as forgery in the secondary degree. In nine cases out of ten this is done with criminal intent. In most cases it is the mask that enables the bigamist and the many-sided swindler to ply their nefarious trades.

East Whitby, March 2. OBSERVER.

One o' the Excommunicated.

Editor World: Archbishop Lynch says that all Catholics who favor the ballot are bad Catholics, thereby implying that all who oppose it are good Catholics. This is a new test, and as heterodox as it is novel.

But I refuse to accept His Grace's dictum. I go farther and say that if the Archbishop has bad Catholics in his diocese (in his sense) he is the chief manufacturer, through the protection of Mr. Mowat. This is a recent development of protecting, and one not in keeping with provincial politics.

If the Archbishop thinks anybody alarmed by his sheet-iron thunder, he is more than mistaken. Jove's thunders are easily assumed by small men in big places; but know ye not that those who would be freemen must first themselves be free? Not if the Archbishop knows it, though O'Connell was wont to be free of this idea. He is a drag upon the wheels of Catholic progress, and he has likewise a "pull" upon Mr. Mowat.

Catholic laymen are disgusted with his church mismanagement, and many Protestant Reformers are tired of his political supremacy.

This discussion will do good in more ways than are now apparent. It will lower the Archbishop's opinion of his own infallibility; it will help to bring out the real sentiments of a long suffering laity, who can never hope to go to court in red stockings because they are poor.

Can the Archbishop tell us why a Catholic should be treated in a manner different from the manner in which Protestants are treated under the law? The good old man seems to think that the two classes are made out of different sorts of clay. I see in them a common humanity.

When St. Michael's was under Carbonnel how different! So different that one mourns to miss the presence which then pervaded.

If the Archbishop objects to these comparisons it will be because he himself has done it. The diocese has not gone to pieces under his management, because its cohesive powers are above vanity and will outlive vanity.

The Archbishop may strike but he cannot silence. ONE OF THE EXCOMMUNICATED.

THE JEWELERS' COMBINATION.

What the Committee of the House is Going to Enquire Into.

"What is the combine that is disturbing the jewelry trade at present," asked a World reporter of a man in the business yesterday.

The gentleman replied that it was a fight between Charles Stark on the one side and the combination of the Watch Jobbers' Association of Canada on the other. The latter association has the support of the American Watch Manufacturers' Association and the National Association of Jobbers (U.S.) It is plucky on the part of Mr. Stark to challenge in the way he has this powerful combination. Up to 1885 he dealt directly with the manufacturers of cases and movements, both here and in the United States. At that time the Canadian jobbers formed their association, ostensibly to regulate prices and credit, but they went beyond this and secured control of the production of both watch cases and movements. Mr. Stark refused to enter the combination, and was therefore cut off as a jobber. Rather than pay two prices and buy through his old competitors he began to manufacture cases on his own account. To meet this move and force Mr. Stark into the combine the jobbers, at a meeting early in January, passed the following resolution:

"That this association enter into no contract with any Canadian manufacturer or manufacturing association of watch cases until such manufacturer or association shall have become affiliated in membership with either the American Association of Manufacturers or with this association."

This failed to bring Mr. Stark into line, but rather drove him into fiercer competition.

Following in the footsteps of the American combine in boycotting a member who had withdrawn from the ring, the Canadian Jobbers' Association called a special meeting on March 1 to pass a bylaw providing that no dealer should be allowed to sell any American movements without cases, and that at least as many cases as movements must be sold in each bill. This was clearly aimed at Mr. Stark's factory, which is the only one out of the ring. It was while they were debating this resolution that an injunction was served upon the members forbidding them to pass such a bylaw. They, of course, had to obey the court and postpone proceedings. Under an order of court Mr. Stark will be examined to-day in the matter. He has also been summoned by writ to appear before the Parliamentary Committee on trade combination at Ottawa on Friday.

From The Montreal Gazette, March 2.

A lady friend sends in a request which can best be voiced by using her own language, which is as follows:

Mr. Editor,—A lady wants to say a few words to the grocery merchants, and really it is a delicate subject to handle. You know it is near the time when our grocerymen set their vegetables outside on the pavement, and do you know there are many tall dogs in town, and—and it operates as though they drank from Saratoga medical springs. Now, Mr. Editor, you must know what I mean to say, and if you will help me out you will do the public a great favor. What we want is the vegetables in boxes, or, in other words, "above high water mark." For the good of the women and mankind, the grocers will please attend to it. Those wire screens they use over baskets and barrels are not "water tight." This is a delicate matter, but, you know, when a lady goes shopping for cabbage and beets she doesn't like to be obliged to get peas also. Please put it in shape so as to offend nobody. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia. x

How the Modern Girl Becomes Lopsided.

From Woman for March.

It is distressing to see young and growing children carrying day after day a heavy pile of books to and from school. Usually this weight rests wholly upon the left arm, and young ladies attending our high and normal schools are frequently obliged to stand thus overloaded in crowded horsecars. The use of a bag is only a variation of the trouble, reminding one of the experience of the sick man we read about in the old hymn, who "changed the place but kept the pain." This daily transportation of piles of books inevitably produces more or less one-sidedness, with one shoulder higher than the other, one hip higher and larger than the other. But worst of all, it is responsible for many cases of curvature of the spine and the countless evils which accompany it.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING
EPPS'S COCOA.
BREAKFAST.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets, by grocers, labelled thus:
