PLAYS, PICTURES AND MUSIC

AT THE STAR.

The "Follies of Pleasure," the Star Theatre's own show, managed by Rube Bernstein, the Toronto boy, have the fun and frolic privilege at the Star Theatre for the week commencing with the regular matinee Monday, Feb. 26. The "Follies of Pleasure" are just about the best known burlesque, and besides they are doing "The Girl From Broadway," which is said to be the most pretentious burlesque going. Besides, while it is filled to overflowing with funmaking lines, there is a consistent plot, which at times becomes intensely dramatic, only to be turned into a roar of laughter by the merry antics of the comedians.

"The Girl From Broadway" is a conglomeration of farce, music and drama, in which Clyde J. Bates, Tom McKenna and Dot Leighton are afforded exceptional opportunities to lead the audience, with others, into the gay fields of hilarity. In the support will be Violet Hilson, Mae Mills, the Marvelous Millers and others. Thirty exquisitely gowned women, making up the chorus, are an absolute delight in their merry abandon, and they go thru their performance in a manner that rivals those seen on Broadway in New York.

A special feature of the "Follies of Pleasure" is Venus, the perfect woman, with form divine, and her diving beauties.

AT THE STRAND.

The fine double-header bill which is being presented at the Strand Theatre the first half of this week is drawing big houses. For those who like a photoplay as strong and daring as can be there is "The Devil's Pay Day," with Leah Baird and Franklin Farnum. Those who like a pleasing and wholly charming atmosphere will find themselves accommodated in "Twin Kiddies," starring "Baby" Marie Osborne.

MADISON.

Charles Chaplin appears at the Madison this evening for the last time in "Easy Street." Blanche Sweet in "The Evil Eye" is also of exceptional merit, the plot being set in Mexico. Commencing tomorrow evening House Peters and Myrtle Stedman will be co-starred in "The Happiness of Three Women," a powerful drama by Albert Payson Terhune.

GAYETY.

The next attraction at the popular Gayety Theatre will be the "$1,000,000 Dolls," who left a fine impression when they were here last season. The company is headed by Lew Hilton, a comedian who needs no introduction to this city. The entertainment is out of the ordinary in burlesque. It is on a scale of magnitude quite equal to the average Broadway musical comedy attraction, both in quality of the book and music, and the excellence of the interpreting company.

MUTT AND JEFF IN A NEW GUISE.

After five seasons of veritable triumph, Gus Hill comes back to the Grand Opera House next week with the cartoon success "Mutt and Jeff," in an entire new dress. "Their Wedding" is the title of the story that is to form a background for Bud Fisher's inimitable characters. The new production embodies the thrill of the melodrama, side-splitting farce comedy, the extravaganza and tinseled brilliancy of the burlesque and the harmonious art of musical comedy.

"HIS MAJESTY BUNKER BEAN."

The sale of seats for Taylor Holmes in "His Majesty Bunker Bean," which is to be the attraction at the Royal Alexandra next week, will go on sale at the box office tomorrow morning. This, from all accounts, will prove one of the best comedy attractions of the season. The play is a dramatization of Harry Leon Wilson's novel of the same name. Mr. Holmes will have the support of the original cast, and considering the fact that he is a favorite in this city is most sure of a hearty reception.

STAR.

Herk-Kelly and Damsel's snappy burlesque and extravaganza, "The Cabaret Girls," with an all-star cast and a brand new production from start to finish, will come to the Star next week with daily matinees. Song hits galore, startling situations and a chorus that is never idle are found in "The Cabaret Girls," and thru it all stalks Irving Gear, Joe Rose, Mike J. Kelly, Claude Lightner, Margie Catlin, Fern Melrose, Dot Barnette, Jack O'Malley and many others.

BATTLE PICTURES DRAW BIG CROWDS

Unusual Interest Taken in Canadian Army Film at Regent Theatre.

RECOGNIZES SOLDIER

Father Believes Gunner F. C. Martin is Photographed in One Scene.

Exceeding by several scores the attendance of the previous night, hundreds of people attended the Regent Theatre last night and saw the second presentation of the motion pictures entitled "The Canadians' Victory at Courcelette," being exhibited at that playhouse under the auspices of The Toronto World.

Large crowds thruout the day, beginning with the initial presentation, attended the Regent yesterday, and practically every seat in the theatre was occupied during the shows last night. The fact that the spectators are increasing daily, in the judgment of theatre attaches, speaks well for the films and is an indication that the picture will score a tremendous success.

Vigorous applause was heard time and again during the exhibition of the pictures yesterday, as the patriotism of the spectators was aroused thru some special feat of the soldiers from Canada. Enthusiastic comments of praise for the films are heard on every hand among those who have seen the production.

An instance of the unusual interest which these pictures awakened in the spectator is the case of L. L. Martin, 8 Benlamond avenue, who believes that his son is photographed in one of the scenes. Mr. Martin sat thru two or three shows last night, hoping to establish the identity of his son beyond doubt in his own mind, but was unable to do so. His son is Gunner Fred C. Martin, Second Section, Second D.A.C., who went overseas with the 34th Battalion a year ago last Christmas.

Not Quite Certain.

"I believe I saw Fred in the pictures," declared Mr. Martin, "but I am not positive. Whenever I looked hard at the young man who I believe is Fred my eyes became so moist that my sight was blurred. I plan to have his mother and aunt see the pictures. Perhaps they will be able to say for sure."

The films depicting the Canadian victory at Courcelette are the first dealing at great length with the military activities in Flanders of Canada's soldiers. The pictures were censored by the general headquarters staff official, and are authentic in every detail.

They occupy a unique place in being the first moving pictures of the now famous "tanks," those huge armored tractors which struck such terror to the German heart. A splendid idea of the "tanks" is given the spectator, because they have been photographed from every conceivable angle and showing in manoeuvres as they go forward to the enemy trenches.

While the "tanks" stand out as a feature of the films, there are other incidents in the graphic portrayal of Canada's part in the war, which awakened as much interest and hold the undivided attention of the spectator. The soldiers marching into the trenches, the attack on the enemy trenches, the artillery fire, the ascent of the observation balloon, aerial activities, signal work, the garnering of German prisoners, the burial of the dead, and many others. All of these are remarkable photographs, and some of them were recorded at the risk of the operator's life.

MASSEY HALL.

Next to actually riding a cataract in a frail canoe, perhaps the best trip to the Canadian Yukon can be made with Dr. Sugden. The lover of outdoor life the adventurer, the scientist or the lover of the beautiful in nature will be amply repaid in thrills. The pictures are the clearest ever shown and depict a thrill every moment of a life in which nature has concocted weird traps for those who try to conquer the obstacles, but Dr. Sugden has lived thru deeds never before equalled by man, and tells of them with a personal enthusiasm that becomes contagious to the listener.

VICTORIAN ORDER OF NURSES.

The Victorian Order of Nurses report for January that 622 patients, of whom 222 were medical, were cared for, 47 being surgical, 18 gynaecological, 168 mothers and 167 infants. The visits made numbered 3,249, among which 69 were night and 109 pre-natal visits.
