TUESDAY, MAY 8, 1888.

ANOTHER LIBERAL VICTORY.

Russell has fallen into line with Kent, Missisquoi, L'Assomption and Dorchester. It crowns a series of brilliant Liberal victories. It completes an unbroken record of Liberal triumphs since unrestricted reciprocity was made the chief plank in the Liberal platform.

The victory in Russell is more surprising than those in the other counties because of its peculiar location and reputation. Until the last general elections, the county of Russell had never elected a federal Liberal in a straight party fight and only once by a minority vote as against two conservatives. The county had the reputation of being a conservative stronghold, and it rolled up enormous conservative majorities. At the last elections the Liberals stormed and carried this stronghold; and yesterday they retained it by a majority increased nearly one hundred.

Russell county stretches from Ottawa city, of which for Dominion electoral purposes, it includes one ward—that of New Edinburgh in which Rideau Hall is situated—for a considerable distance both inwards and down the Ottawa river. Several suburban districts of Ottawa are also in the county: and in these suburban districts, such as Billings Bridge, as well as in New Edinburgh ward, scores of Dominion Tory civil servants live. The influence of this Tory civil service vote is shown in New Edinburgh ward, where the Tory candidate had 68 majority yesterday as against a Liberal majority nearly as large in the same polling sub-division in 1878.

Russell county is mixed in its character. There is a large urban and suburban residential vote belonging to Ottawa city, and the balance of the electors are farmers and men engaged in lumbering, besides small traders. Outside of Ottawa city there are very few villages of any size or importance in the county. The unrestricted reciprocity cry has manifestly captivated the farmers; and even the French-Canadians, who were said by the tories to be opposed to unrestricted reciprocity, gave the liberal candidate nearly one hundred more majority when he declared boldly and unequivocally for unrestricted reciprocity than they did in the former contest when the issue was not so distinct. The adoption of this policy would benefit the lumbermen and farmers enormously, and they voted where their interests lay.

The victory in Russell, following so closely those preceding in the other counties named, shows that the liberal party is gaining strength in the country, and that "the unrestricted reciprocity" issue is a potent one. Already there are signs that those who have been trimmers in the hours of liberal disappointment, are now plucking up courage to stand by principle; but the staunch liberals now know where the weak timber is to be found.

The tide of liberal reaction is setting in. At the general elections it was not quite strong enough to storm the citadel, and after the contest there was a slight ebb. But now it is flowing onward again; and by a steady adherence to principle, by a bold aggressive policy; by standing firm to the men who have been staunch and aggressive in the hours of despondency, the liberal cause and liberal principles will soon triumph all over the dominion.

COALITION WITH PRINCIPLE.

Premier Mercier's example in Quebec should be imitated elsewhere. Mr. Mercier was a few years ago the leader of the opposition in the Quebec legislature. He, however, subsequently took office with a wing of the conservatives supporting him. This was not blameworthy; because a partially liberal administration was preferable to a wholly conservative one. But Mr. Mercier stood by principle and he refused to allow the conservative wing of his supporters to obtain more than their proportionate share of representation in the cabinet and in the distribution of patronage. By standing firm and insisting that his administration should be mainly liberal, Mr. Mercier has actually won strength. The liberals, instead of being alienated and sending him remonstrances from every county, are firmly attached to his government. The liberal press, instead of being neutral, is actively loyal. Liberal editors, instead of being driven by senseless persecution and injustice into a passive attitude, or even hostility, are his heartiest allies and supporters. In other words Mr. Mercier has insisted throughout, that inasmuch as the liberals form the majority of his supporters, they must be considered and respected as such. In dominion politics Mr. Mercier, though leading a coalition, will have no relations, secret or otherwise, with the dominion tory philistines. He defies them and uses all his influence to secure the defeat of their candidates in federal bye-elections; and in spite of his opposition to federal rule, his government appears to thrive instead of daily growing weaker and weaker. Mr. Mercier has not only doubled his majority in the legislature since last session, but he has actually obtained a majority in the legislative council within the same period, notwithstanding that his minority appeared hopeless. Mr. Mercier has done all this by standing firm to principle; by not betraying his friends; by a bold aggressive policy; and by not being afraid to squarely oppose the dominion government when it is wrong instead of trimming and hedging when he looks Ottawaward! His success in pursuing a bold policy should be a hint to any politicians who desire to trim.

MR. HALE'S TREACHERY.

Our demand that Mr. Hale, M. P. for Carleton county, should be honorable enough to resign and consult his constituents as to his altered course, appears to have met with the unanimous approval of liberals in his constituency.

It may be interesting, therefore, to explain precisely what it was Mr Hale declared by his vote in parliament he wished to see continued.

In 1845, with a population of twenty millions of people, and the necessity of maintaining an army and a navy, the United States spent $23,919,000 for all controllable services. In 1888, with less than five millions of people, and with no army or navy to maintain, Canada requires about $37,000 000 for controllable expenditure. Mr. Hale voted his approval of this excessive expenditure.

The Dominion taxes are so levied by a system of so-called protection that the poor man pays taxes out of all proportion to his earnings compared with the rich man. Mr. Hale voted approval of this state of affairs.

Canada has spent millions and millions of treasure to build up Manitoba and the Northwest territories, and the present tariff cripples the settlement of that country by placing heavy taxes upon the agricultural implements which the farmers need. Mr. Hale voted approval of that tax.

The net debt of the Dominion has increased by $88,000,000 in ten years; the total annual expenditure has increased by $13,000,000 within the same period; the increase of debt and of expenditure is altogether disproportionately in excess of the increase of population within the same period; the present taxes are in excess of the imperial taxes per head levied in Great Britain; the rich are favored by the present tariff as against the poor; and therefore a reform is needed in all of these respects, especially as the tendency of taxation is downwards in the United States. Mr. Hale voted against these propositions and their too plain deductions, and declared his satisfaction with the existing state of affairs.

Mr. Hale has chosen his position and he must abide by it. If he be an honorable man he will resign and contest his constituency under the altered circumstances.

Years ago, within the memory of the present generation, English and French men of war bombarded Chinese ports until the Chinese abandoned their policy of exclusion and opened certain ports to the outer barbarians. Hundreds of writers have dwelt with condemnation upon the policy of exclusion which governed China's relations for centuries to foreigners; but was China's policy after all the true one? The United States and Canada have both adopted legislation to exclude the Chinese, and for our part we fail to see any logical difference between the Chinese excluding the foreigners and this continent excluding the Chinese. But then the Americans and Canadians are civilized, and the Chinese are ignorant Pagans.

DON'T CODDLE TRIMMERS.

The Liberal Press Condemns the Betrayer of their Constituents.

Under the caption of "Hale, Fellow, Ill Met," the Toronto Globe says: "Mr. Hale, of Carleton, is a close friend of Mr. Baird of Queen's. Mr. Baird is an eccentric politician. So is Mr. Hale. The member for Carleton came to parliament with a liberal majority of 1,163 at his back. He instructed the Parliamentary Companion to class him as a liberal. He was received into the confidence of his liberal associates and attended the caucuses of the party. He made loud profession of his adhesion to liberal principles and liberal policy, and drew generously on his rich store of violent English for language denunciatory of the personal turpitude and political rascality of the members and supporters of the tory government. But Mr. Hale did not deceive. He was always an open book. When Mr. Hale used his warmest antitory literature in No. 6, it was assumed that the outlook for No. 1 was most encouraging. The more he asserted his high devotion to liberalism the more he yearned to vote with the majority and to distribute patronage to his county. In fact, and in brief, the louder he professed liberalism the more industriously he practiced toryism, and it must be a profound relief to the liberal parliamentary contingent that he has withdrawn from their councils and gone over openly into the camp of the enemy."

The Toronto Globe also says in another editorial: "The liberals at Ottawa should deal promptly and vigorously with all members who, elected as liberals, show any disposition to betray their constituents for the sake of government favors. One traitor in the camp is a more formidable enemy than a dozen honest foemen in the open. We never yet saw any good come of coddling a weak-kneed liberal. As soon as the wavering fit has set in, the disease almost always runs its course and the man is lost. The better policy is to let the waverers know at once that the only service they can do is to get out of the party as quickly as possible. This is an unerring rule, and is applicable to all branches of public life."

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Seven Children Burned to Death and Seventeen Houses Destroyed.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., May 6. A freight train on the Philadelphia and Reading railroad got disconnected on a long grade near here last night, and the rear section collided with the first section at the foot of the grade, exploding a carload of Dupont powder. Near the track stood two rows of seventeen houses, occupied by the Philadelphia Coal and Iron company's employes. The explosion wrecked all the houses and twelve cars. The stoves ignited the ruins which burned. John Quinn and two girls, occupants of one house, were burned up. Quinn's two boys escaped with bad burns. While Simon Keswick carried his wife from his burning dwelling his five children were consumed. Thirty persons were burned or injured, some very seriously. The money loss is $75,000.

A Christian Scientist in Trouble.

MALDEN, Mass., May 5. Mrs. Corner, the Christian scientist, of Medford, was arraigned in the district court this morning on a charge of manslaughter for causing the death of her daughter by neglecting to provide a physician for her in childbirth. Owing to the government not being prepared her case was continued till May 12th. She is under $5000 bonds.

The Raw, Cutting Winds

Bring to the surface every latent pain. A change of even a few degrees marks the difference between comfort and pain to many persons. Happily disease now holds less sway. Science is continually bringing forward new remedies which successfully combat disease. Polson's Nerviline—nerve pain cure—has proved the most successful pain relieving remedy known. Its application is wide, for it is equally efficient in all forms of pain, whether internal or external. Ten and 25 cents a bottle, at druggists.

As Reported by Our Active Correspondents.

Accidents, Personal Intelligence, and Things in General.

RICHMOND.

The Doings of the Parish for the Past Week.

RICHMOND, May 3rd, 1888.—The first day of May proved to be rather disagreeable here. There was snow falling all day but it did not amount to much. It was a little cold too for this time of the year.

The old snow is going away rapidly and there is not much in the fields except around the fences. The roads are very wet and muddy, and not very good for travelling; they are in such a state that neither sleds or waggons can go upon them easily.

There is a great quantity of water around, and the brooks, which had fallen since the last rain, have risen again, and are now clear of ice.

The grass is beginning to get green in some spots.

The blackbird has returned to this place again as well as the robin; and the frogs have been heard croaking in the streams.

DOUGLAS

What our Correspondent has Seen and Heard.

DOUGLAS, May 5th, 1888.—Farming is very backward in this section.

Sickness still lingers in our midst. Mr. Samuel Hallett, who has been sick in his bed for four weeks, is progressing favorably towards recovery.

Miss Maria Hallett, who has charge of the school in Haynesville, is home suffering from the sore throat.

The Douglas booms, with a few exceptions, are hung.

Mr. Edward Currie raised the frame of a new barn to-day.

Mr. Sloat and family of Millville have moved to lower Douglas.

Mrs. Robinson, of Tobique, is visiting her friends here.

St. Mary's and Douglas Agricultural Society will hold their annual sale of seeds on the 8th.

A number of barns have been erected on Sugar Island in place of those carried away by the freshet last spring.

PRINCE WILLIAM.

How the Young Folks Enjoyed a Pie Social.

PRINCE WILLIAM, May 4th. Last evening witnessed the consummation of an event, the anticipation of which aroused no greater interest throughout a large portion of country than in our quiet little village itself. The ladies in connection with St. Clement's church had arranged to hold a grand pie social and dance, and on the evening of the 3rd inst. all was bright and gay and festive within the precincts of the Prince William hall. All the "grace, the beauty, and chivalry" of five consecutive parishes assembled there and tripped the light fantastic toe until the dawn of the morning. Eleaser McLean and Fred Faren, our local violinists, discoursed the sweet strains of music, and were highly complimented upon their proficiency. Cassie Graham and Jennie Loundes, together with their assistants, had charge of the several refreshment tables. Mr. Wm. Graham acted as auctioneer, and performed the duties in connection with the office in a most creditable manner. Miss Ella Henry, of Magundy, was unanimously chosen treasurer and handled the large amount of crisp bank notes before her. The upset price of the pies were one dollar, but the prices were upset quite frequently before morning. The financial result of the sales are said to be very satisfactory, and a better time generally was seldom if ever witnessed in this vicinity.

KINGSCLEAR.

Personal Intelligence—Wedding Bells—River Notes—Building Items.

KINGSCLEAR, May 4th, 1888.—Last Tuesday's snow storm was one of the coldest that has been experienced for several years in this vicinity for the first day of May. The weather still keeps cool, with heavy frost at night, which keeps the ground in a wet condition. It will take several bright sunny days yet before the ground will be fit for planting.

Mr. Enoch Lunt launched his ferry boat in the river to-day, and is now waiting for passengers.

Mr. Chase's saw mill will be running again next week.

The work of repairing the Methodist parsonage was commenced to-day.

The Gray Brothers are erecting another very large barn in addition to their others, and, when it is finished, they will have as fine a lot of barns as can be seen in the place.

There was no damage done to the intervales and islands by the ice freshet this spring, as the water was so low that cakes of ice were seen sticking to the bars in the middle of the river for several days after most of the ice had gone.

Mr. Charles Murray has been appointed road commissioner in place of Mr. Benj. A. Everett, who resigned. Several applications were made for the office.

Mr. Alfred Everett and Miss Christina Campbell, second daughter of Mr. John A. Campbell, were united in the happy bonds of wedlock at the residence of the bride's father on Thursday the 26th of April last, the Rev. P. R. Knight officiating.

UPPER KESWICK.

Driving—Union Lodge—Bad Roads—Measles—Obituary.

UPPER KESWICK, April 30th. Mrs. Lottie Boyd, wife of John Boyd, Smith's Corner, died last Thursday night after a long illness of consumption. She was buried yesterday (Sunday). Many friends tender their sympathy toward the bereaved family.

The roads are very bad but somewhat better than they were.

The small streams in this vicinity are swelling rapidly, caused by the last few days of hot sun and without much sorrow to the lumbermen who have large drives to attend to.

Mr. Justin Burtt, our village blacksmith, is doing a thriving business at his trade, manufacturing harrows and repairing wagons. He is well liked by the community at large.

The Union Lodge, No. 234, I. O. G. T., held here in Burtt's hall, had their election of officers for the present term on Saturday evening last. The officers elected were as follows: B R Burtt, C T; Byron Brewer, V T; Alex Colter, Chap; Robert Dennison, Sec; Freddie Dunphy, F S; Justin S Burtt, Treas; Wm Hagerman, M; Richardson E Jones, G; Thos Colter, Sent; Delbert Brewer, S J T; F Bird, P C T. The A S and D M is not yet chosen, but will be next session. The district meeting will be held here in Burtt's hall the 20th day of May next. A public meeting will be held in the evening.

The measles are raging around here considerably; they are termed "German measles," the very worst kind. The family of Mr. Israel Burtt have all been sick with them, but they are coming around all right again.

GLASSVILLE.

Aberdeen Agricultural Society—Twin Calves—Change of Base—New Doctor—Stream Driving—Willie Crichton.

GLASSVILLE, May 5th. The Aberdeen Agricultural Society, which has always taken a prominent position in the importation of high bred stock, this day sold at auction 4 boar pigs—government stock—the first cross between a pure Berkshire and pure Chester. After a sharp competition, they were purchased by Mr. Alexander Scott, Esdraelon; Mr. Alexander Mackintosh, Glassville; Mr. Wm. Hemphill, Knowlesville, and Mr. Wm. Haten, Forneton. These gentlemen have all been distinguished for the deep interest they have all along taken in the prosperity of our association, and are among some of our most distinguished agriculturists. By the terms of sale they have to keep the pigs for public service till April 1st, 1889.

Mr. A. Scott, aforesaid, and Mr. M. Welsh own, each, among other superior animals, a fine Ayrshire cow thoroughbred. These cows, within a few days of each other, were both safely delivered of twin calves. Mothers and babies are all doing well. It is needless to say, that Aberdeen is jubilant over the increase and dual additions to the population.

Mr A Milberry, who for a number of years has carried on a successful and flourishing business here as blacksmith and carriage manufacturer, has, owing to the state of his health, been compelled, for a season, to retire into private life. He has sold out to Mr David Lamont, West Glassville, who is now at the anvil, wielding the hammer with all a stalwart young Scotchman's sinew, muscle and indomitable perseverance.

Doctor Bearisto, a gentleman well known in the medical profession, as a highly successful practitioner, and brother of our esteemed Presbyterian clergyman, has located himself here for the present, and will, it is hoped, remain. He has taken up his residence in the "Glassville House" (Mr Love's), right across the street from the churchyard—a fine illustration of what somebody or other calls "the eternal fitness of things."

We are glad to report that Willie Crichton, who sustained such a serious and painful accident in a compound fracture of his leg by the rolling over of a log while assisting his father in fencing, is rapidly recovering. Immediately after the accident Dr. Bearisto was in attendance. Under his skilful treatment the fracture was speedily reduced and the limb successfully set. The little fellow is doing as well as can be expected.

Mr. McIsaac, veterinary surgeon from Hartland, has been in town for the last day or two practising his professional skill upon colts with his usual success.

LOWER CANTERBURY.

Rafting Operations—Returned Home—New Wire Ferry—Hard to Beat.

LOWER CANTERBURY, May 5th. Messrs. Grant and Ritchie have commenced rafting operations, but not on a very large scale, owing to the lowness of the water in the river.

Our respected citizen Mr W C Watson and family have returned to their summer home after spending the winter in the States.

Mr Harris Akerley has his wire ferry running now between Canterbury and Southampton. This enterprise is something new in the ferrying line and a great many opinions have been passed in the last few weeks as to whether it was going to give satisfaction or not, but we are pleased to know that it works excellently and that it is far ahead of the old fashioned hand ferry which is still used to a great extent in the country. Mr Akerley deserves great credit for the manner in which he has pushed his enterprise through in the face of every obstacle.

A great many of the farmers are now busy rafting the logs that they have hauled out during the winter.

The season still remains very cold and backward. A great deal of the snow still remains on the fields and in the woods.

There is a gentleman in Queensbury, it is said, who has a maple tree so large that he taps it with seven spiles. He gathers the sap three times a day, morning, noon, and night, and gets a pail full from each spile at each gathering, making 21 pails a day. Hard to beat is Queensbury.
