

RECOMMENDATION 6 (page 51)

The Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples should immediately undertake to ensure that the unique perspective of Aboriginal people with disabilities is an integral part of its overall work and final recommendations. The Royal Commission should consider the issue of disability within the full scope of its mandate, and not simply from a health care perspective. The final recommendations made by the Royal Commission to improve the lives of Aboriginal people should deal with disability where relevant.
