THE TURF.

A TALK ABOUT HORSES BY THE GAZETTE HORSEMAN.

The World Going More Crazy—The Limit of Speed not yet Reached—The Great Horse Electioneer and his Descendents.

It is not the easiest thing in the world to keep pace with the trotting horse of today, either on the turf on in the stall, and the man who attempts it is very apt to get the flag in the first heat. That the world has gone crazy must be apparent to all who are sane enough to give the matter any consideration, and that the world is gradually growing worse in this particular cannot be questioned. It cannot be denied that the horse interest is the greatest interest in America today and receives more consideration than any other. There are men in this city who are more familiar with the ancestry of the trotting horse than with that of the families to which they themselves belong and can trace the various strains of blood back through generations with great certainty. These men talk horse by the hour wherever they can get an audience and are always on the lookout for the earliest intelligence of the latest achievement. The year which is now nearly closed has been the greatest horse year the world ever saw, and while the trotting and pacing records have only been lowered a fraction of a second, this is looked upon as a wonderful achievement, especially by those who believe that the limit of speed has been about reached. There seems no good reason, however, to believe that the limit has been reached by any means, and there are many people living today who expect to see the 2 minute record made. Although the present records have been reached very slowly, and the last quarter second is a very tough thing to wipe out, it must be remembered that horse-breeding has made rapid strides during the last few years, and in fact it has only been in the past few years that breeding for speed has been intelligently and successfully applied, and the trotting world is fast beginning to reap the benefits from this intelligent breeding. The great advance which the yearlings and two year olds have made in the past season, points conclusively to what may be expected in the future, and though Sunol is now queen of the turf with a record of 2.08¼, she will surely be required to quicken her pace another season by at least half a second or be dethroned. In order to do this, and have lots to spare, Sunol has not to make her mile in anything like the proportion of her half mile, one minute 2½ seconds, the balance of her powers can be reserved for some future achievement should her sceptre be threatened. It is also worthy of note that while Maud S. stood alone in her queendom for years with no one inconveniently near her, the queen of today enjoys no such immunity, but has a string of distinguished performers so close to the crown that the hot breath from the nostrils almost scorch her queenly brow, and when next season opens there is no telling what a day may bring forth.

At the close of the season last year the great stallion, Nelson, was king and his owner was a hero. His horse is now pronounced a failure by many because he is no longer king, even though he has taken ⅔ of a second from his record of last year. Nelson is yet only in his prime, has a better record then he had last year, has great possibilities still before him but is not half so much thought of by many as he was a year ago, simply because he was their king. Poor humanity is as frail in horse circles as any where else.

Who that glances at the following records of the world, can with any degree of accuracy presage what may be expected within the next few years from the descendents of Electioneer, Nutwood and George Wilkes combined.

The yearling record, 2.26, made at Stockton, California, Nov. 24th. 1891, by Frow Frow a bay filly by Sidney. The two-year old record 2.10¾ was made at the same place Nov. 10th 1891 by Senator Stanford's bay stallion, Arion by Electioneer, dam Manette, by Nutwood. It is worthy of note that Manette, the dam of Arion, could not be made to trot a little bit and was used as a running pace-maker for trotters.

The three and four year old records, each 2.10¾, and the world's record of 2.08¼ are held by the bay mare Sunol, by Electioneer, dam Waxana by General Benton, foaled April 14th, 1886.

The world's stallion record 2.08¾ was made at Stockton, Nov. 18th, 1891, by Senator Stanford's bay stallion, Palo Alto by Electioneer. He was foaled in February, 1882. Palo Alto has been a cripple ever since he was four years old but has always been able to stand up and trot, and it is said that his great achievements of this year are largely due to the great care bestowed upon him by Marvin who has full authority to do as he pleases with the horse.

Then there is Nancy Hanks by Happy Medium, dam Nancy Lee by Dictator, Nancy has a record of 2.09 and Budd Doble says she would have trotted in 2.07 if she had not taken sick in October. Right along in the same quarter of a second stands Allerton, record 2.09¾. by Jay Bird, and then we have Nelson with his 2.10

In the above list of records it will be seen that the greatest of great horses, Electioneer, enjoys a distinction never before held by any other horse living or dead—that of being the sire of both the king and queen of the turf, as well as the sire of the holder of the two three and four year old champion records.

And now the cool calculating matter of fact Englishman has taken hold of the trotting horse. The trotting service of Great Britain has instituted a stud book for trotters, to stimulate breeders and interest in trotting is gaining ground, the Alexandria stakes last year being £1,625 against £590 the year before. The champion two year old trotter of Europe is Aspasia by the American bred horse Hambleton out of a Russian bred mare. With Europe and America breeding trotting horses intelligently, from the stock at their command there is no good reason to suppose that the speed limit has been nearly or quite reached. Oh, no! many of us now living will see the 2 minute trotting record and will still be expecting something more

Some men would not stop doing a foolish thing because if he did it would be an admission on their part that it was foolish.—Atchison Globe.

MILL GIRL POISONED.

SHE EATS FRUIT STUFFED WITH PARIS GREEN.

Received in a Box, With a Note, to Which Was Signed a Former Landlady's Name—Life Saved by Physicians—Two Anonymous Letters Which Gave warning of Danger.

LOWELL, Dec. 8.—Some one, at present unknown, tried today to poison Katie Morrissey, a pretty mill girl, 22 years old, who lived with her friend, Annie Gray, at No. 42 Howard street.

Katie came home at noon from her work in one of the Hamilton company's spinning mill rooms not feeling very well. She found a package awaiting her, which her landlady said, had just been left at the door by two boys.

The package contained half a dozen oranges, a quantity of figs and a note.

The latter stated that the fruit was from Mrs. McNeil. Mrs. McNeil is the name of a lady with whom Miss Morrissey and her friend formerly boarded.

Miss Morrissey ate of the fruit without examining it. In the early part of the afternoon she was taken ill with violent vomiting. Her landlady called in Dr. Sullivan. He thought it looked like poisoning and summoned Dr. Eaton. They worked over their patient a long time, and finally got her out of danger, but when they examined the fruit they found every orange and fig stuffed with paris green.

In a Herald reporter's investigation of the case, a couple of letters were produced. They were not signed or dated. One was left at the door three weeks ago last Sunday.

Its purport was to warn Miss Morrissey against a certain young man who wanted to marry her. Miss Morrissey claims that the previous evening she was struck in the back by a man she did not know, as she was going home in the evening.

The letter alludes to the incident, and says the writer witnessed it. The second letter is apparently from the author of the first. It repeats the warning given.

It was shoved under the door of her boarding place a week ago Sunday night. When it was discovered, Miss Morrissey went out on the street to discover the writer. She was met, she says, by a man muffled up, who tried to persuade her to go to walk, and when she refused assaulted her, and tore her clothing.

She escaped him and ran into her house.

Miss Morrissey and her friends, and all concerned, deny all knowledge of who the author of the outrage can be. Her assailant and her would-be poisoner are evidently one.

She and her friends claim that she knows no young man, and never received any man's attentions.

The affair is involved in mystery, but it probably will be unravelled when the police get hold of certain parties who apparently know the young ladies involved in the affair.

DISAVOWED BY THE POPE.

RECENT ACTION OF THE FRENCH BISHOPS FINDS A REBUKE.

Government Said Not to Be Satisfied and Wants an Explicit Order.

ROME, Dec. 8.—The Pope has instructed the papal nuncio at Paris, Mons. Tratti, to disavow the recent action of the French bishops in arraying themselves in opposition to the French government, and particularly to the minister of public worship, M. Fallieres. It is understood that this action was taken as a result of the semi-official warning from France that the French ambassador at the Vatican would be withdrawn should the French archbishops and bishops continue their aggravating conduct, directly or indirectly, as a result of the archbishop of Aix incident.

Behind this threat from France, it will be remembered, was another more important one, to the effect that, in case of further revolt upon the part of the French prelates, the French government would not oppose or protest against any action the Italian government might take regarding the Vatican, its powers and possessions.

DIVISION OF CHURCH AND STATE.

Sentiment Said to Have Powerful Advocates in France.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—It is said that the French government is not entirely satisfied with the papal disavowal of the action of the French bishops in the matter of the archbishop of Aix, and wants an explicit direction to the bishops to recognize their responsibility to the state.

Unless something of this kind is assured, it is still possible that the French embassy to the Vatican may be abolished at an early date, although the government may for the present accept the disavowal which the Pope has instructed the nuncio to offer.

There is a powerful sentiment in France in favor of ceasing formal diplomatic relations with the Holy See, but the government hesitates to take such a step. On the pretext of the difficulty with the archbishop of Aix, the government is also strongly urged to introduce a measure for the abolition of the connection between the church and state. Many Catholics favor this, being convinced that the church would flourish even more than now if the connection was severed. England and the United States are pointed to as examples of the growth of Catholicism without state aid or fostering.

Several of the bishops are said to have expressed themselves in favor of the severance of state relations, on the ground that they would enjoy greater liberty and not, as now, be at the mercy of a civil offical, the minister of worship' able to send them to trial, with the risk of imprisonment, every time they dare to disobey his orders in the performance of religious duties.

The discussion of the subject is growing in the church itself, and there is a high clerical authority for the statement that, should separation be proposed it would not receive the unanimous opposition of the church.

THE FRENCH NAVY.

Eighty-One New Warships to be Built Within Ten Years.

PARIS, Dec. 8, In the debate on the naval estimates in the Chamber of Deputies today. M. Barbey, minister of marine, said that within 10 years 81 ships would be built, including six ironclads and 50 swift cruisers. Next year the navy would have over 200 torpedo boats.

France, he said, was the only nation that had solved the problem of submarine navigation, and she would soon possess a submarine navy that would give results as yet unattained.

New quick firing-guns with an effectiveness superior to anything ever before achieved, had also been added to the armaments of the republic. In view of the extent of her preparations and her readiness for war, France ought to feel secure.

Famous Musician.

Professor W. C. Kaine of Yarmouth N. S. is at the Royal Hotel en route to Oshawa, Ontario, where he has accepted a fine position as band master of the military band and overseer of the tuning department in the Williams' piano factory.

Mr. Kaine is noted for his musical talents and has gained great fame in the Maritime Provinces. He was lately the band master of the Milton and Yarmouth brass bands, and when he left Yarmouth last night the wharf was black with his friends to see him off.

The City Cornet band in this city when they were without a band master tried o get him to come and teach them; they offered him a salary of $800 per year, but they could not induce him.

Mr. Kaine has passed through four schools of music and received his diploma certifying that he was capable to teach any band of any kind in the Dominion.

The many friends of Mr. Kaine wish him success and happiness in his new home.

Stealing Newspapers.

For some time past the publishers of the Telegraph have been annoyed by reports that bundles of their newspapers had not been delivered to customers. As the bundles were sent out regularly by carriers it was thought that they were stolen, and enquiry showed that the stealing was done in a systematic manner. A bundle would be taken from one store one day and from the next another, and so on.

This morning Thomas Murphy, the mailing clerk of the Telegraph saw Geo. Cavanagh, a boy of between 12 and 14 years of age, lifting a bundle out of Watson & Co's. store door. He took the lad in charge and walked him down to the Telegraph office where he was handed over to the police. This was about 6.30 o'clock.

At 2 o'clock the case came up before Magistrate Ritchie. W. C. McFeters, representing the Telegraph Publishing company stated that the object of the complaint was to prevent the stealing of papers in the future and while he would not withdraw the charge the company did not wish to press it to the extremity of the law.

The father of the boy was also present. He said his son was 12 years old and as he had not attended school he could neither read nor write. He knew nothing of the stealing.

Magistrate Ritchie expressed surprise and indignation that in this age of free schools, a boy should be allowed to grow up in ignorance. He further said that should another case of newspaper stealing be brought before him he would not allow it to be withdrawn but would go on with the hearing. However as there was no desire to push the present case he would suspend judgment on condition that the boy be sent to school and he warned the father that the certificate must be forthcoming in court on Monday next. Under these conditions he would allow the boy to go.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.

BATHURST, Dec. 10. — The protest against the return of Kennedy F. Burns, M. P., came up before Judges King and Tuck, to-day. The objections taken by Mr. Currey were sustained but the amendments to the particulars allowed, the petitioner to pay cost. The court then adjourned.

From A Future Novel.

Hero—Have you no pity in your heart? Is there no tenderness in your nature? Are you wholly made up of brutal cruelty

Villain—Ha! Ha! You appeal to a heart of stone. (Hissing.) I was once the centre rush of a foot ball team.

Hero—Then Heaven help us all! There is no hope.

Kingston has won $114,682 for Mike Dwyer. Only Hanover, Salvator, Miss Woodford and Firenzi lead the great horse in the total winning list.

C. W. Williams, the man who owns Allerton, has six yearling trotters running in a paddock on his farm that, in addition to the pasture, are given all the oats they will eat.

Some people give their confidence as others give peanuts—for the sake of what secrets they will be told in turn.

It is all wellenough to tell a man when he is in trouble to look on the bright side; the rub is to find the bright side to look at.

If you find a man who knows just where his business ends and yours begins, you have found a man who is worth cultivating.

The best loved man is he who gives the most, he is also the one least regarded when he stops giving.
