TORNADO IN THE WEST.—CHICAGO, June 5, 1860.—From telegraphic messages received here last night and this morning, we learn the following further particulars in regard to the tornado of Sunday morning.

The first that was heard of it was between Marion and Ceder Rapids, in Lynn county, Iowa, going north west and south-west, in three different currents, crossing the track of the Chicago, Iowa and Nebraska Railroad, several times.

At Lisbon station the depot buildings and all the warehouses in the village were completely demolished.

A train of ten freight cars, heavely loaded, was lifted from the track bodily and dashed to pieces.

Before the tornado reached Lisbon it had killed sixteen persons. From there one current of the storm passed north through Mechanicsville, demolished everything in its course and killed sixteen persons more.

Another current took in its course Onion Grove, killing in that vicinity seventeen persons. It then passed south of the railroad near DeWitt, killing twenty-seven persons, sixteen of whom belonged to the family of Thomas Hatfield. The current then passed south of Rowmersa and Low-Moor, destroyed the house of David Willard, killing him and a portion of his family.

It them struck the town of Camanche, on the Mississippi river, at which point the loss of life is much greater than was at first stated. From all accounts there cannot be less than fifty killed at this place. Some reports state even a larger number, but the bodies cannot be found. There are also 125 wounded, some fatally aaq ten missing.

A large lumber raft from the Chippewa river, manned by a crew of twenty-four men, with two women on board, which was tied up opposite Camanche at the time of the tornado, was completely scattered, and twenty one of the men and both women were lost.

The tornado is known to have traversed a distance of ninety miles in Iowa, and seventy miles in Itlinois, dowing incalculable pamages to property. The loss of life cannot be less than one hundred and fifty. During the entire day yesterday, two trains were run every hour from Glinton to the scene of destruction, and through the aid of efficient committees much relief has been rendered.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP—A correspondent of The London Morning Post says;

"If Sayers were equal to maintain ing the position of Champion he ought to have upheld it, as he has led the puplick to expect he would. If however, he finds that his arm is permanently injured or that from and other cause it is desirable that he should give up the belt, he should have done so at once and openly —stating his reasons—and he might have retired with honour to himself and satisaction to his countrymen. As it is at this moment, Heenan is Champion of England. Sayers has retired, and Heenan defends the belt against all comers. This is tantamount to an acknowledgement of defeat by Sayers. If he had made it a little earlier, the people of England—lords and ladies, tinkers and tailors—would not have subscribed £5,000 for the pelted hero of the prize ring"

INTRODUCTION OF CATTLE INTO NEW England. The first cattle imported into New England, and probaly the first introduced into America, were brought by Winslow, who went to England in 1623 to procure supplies for the infant Plymouth colony. He returned in the Charity in 1624, bringing three heifers and a bull, "the first beginning," says Bradford, "of any cattle of that kind in the land." According to Cap. John Smith in his account of New England, there were at Plymouth in 1625 "some cattle and goats, but many swine and poultry." —When the Pilgrim colonists dissolved partnership with the London adventures under whose auspices the colony was planted, in 1621, there was a division of the stock and land, hitherto the joint property of their associates on the soil. One cow and two goats were assigned by lot to every six persons on shares, and swine though more in number, yet by the same rule."

The ex postmaster General has again entered the arena of political controversy with his late colleagues, by addressing a lengthy communication to the Lieutenant Governor. The members of Council have condescended to reply; and the correspondence is published by authority in the Royal Gazette. We have only space today for the reply. Mr. Connell's letter has been published in several of the City papers. Mr. Connell has already been weighed in the balance of public opinion and found wanting. He has a second time exposed himself to derision and contempt as his allegations have been promptly met and manfully refuted. We would in al charity recommend him to withdraw from a discussion which so far has conferred all honors on his opponents. We do not admire a paper war under any circumstances; and in this particular instance we deem it infra dig. in any Government, thus to place itself on a par with a reckless disappointed partizan politician, by playing a game of recrimination.—St. John Courier.

THE TWO SEXES.—Thers is nearly always something of nature's own gentility in all young women, except, indeed when they get together and fall a giggling. It shames us men to see how much sooner they are polished into couventional shape than our rough masculine angels. A vulgar boy requires, heaven knows, what assiduity to move three steps—I do not say like a gentleman, but like a boy, with a soul in him; but gave the least advantage of society or tuition to a pleasant girl and a hundred to one but she will glide into refinement before the boy can make a bow without upsetting the table.—Their is sentiment in all women, and it gives delicacy to thought and taste to manner; with men it is generally acquired as an offspring of the intellectual quality, not as with the other sex of the moral. [Bulwer Lytton.

THE CATTLE DISEASE IN ENGLAND.—A London letter in the New York Commercial says;

"The American provision trade is likely to be benefitted, not only by a great dearth of fodder which now prevails in this country owing to the backwardness of the season, but also by a serious disease which has manifested itself among the cattle, especially in the midland counties. It attacks the lungs, and they die in a few hours."

The disease alluded to, is the same as that which now prevails in some parts of Massachusetts, and has existed in England to a greater or less extent for the past twenty years.

LIBERAL.—We understand that R. S. Locke Esq., of this village has given to the sufferers by the fire, about three hundred dollars in building materials, an instance of true hearted generosity, which we are happy to record.—A. Pioneer

Two immense oxen have been imported by Mr. Lynam of this city, for good living among our fellow-townsmen. For size and quality we believe they are superior to any St. John has ever seen. One of them weighs over three thousand pounds. They were raised in Westmorland by Mr. Jas. Lawrence.—Albion.

It is the sense of the Methodist Conference now in session at Buffalo, N. Y. as expressed in a resolution adopted that the marriage relation could only be dissolved by a violation of the seventh commandment or by death; and that a subsequent marriage by either party, while both are living is contrary to the teachings of the holy Scriptures.—Ex.

The New York Journal of Commerce has received by Adams's Express a splendid ear of Indian corn, of this year' growth, quite mature enough for roasting or boiling, in four days from New Orleans In this part of the country Indian Corn is just out of the ground, or perchance not yet planted.

DIED.

At South Richmond, on the 19th May, in the forty-second year of her age, Jane, the beloved wife of Mr. Thomas Kirkpatrick, leaving a husband, six children, and a large circle of friends, to mourn their sad bereavement. She died, trusting in her Saviour, in full confidence of a glorious immortality.
