LABATT'S PORTER!

Undoubtedly the BEST brewed on the continent. PROVED to be so by Analyses of four Chemists, and by awards of the World's Great Exhibitions, especially Chicago, 1893, where it received 96 points out of a hundred—much higher than any other Porter in United States or Canada.

Woman's World...

Devoted Specially to the Interests of our Women Readers.

Conducted by Katherine Leslie.

How curious is that utter distaste for the daily round of work, that disinclination to bestir ourselves, which seizes upon us—even the most energetic of us—every now and then! How the monotony and labor of our lives weary us almost beyond endurance! How we long to let things go and let come what will! It is as though the spirit of the Lotus Eaters had come upon us in our sleep and filled us with questioning discontent of our busy lives.

"Why are we weighed upon with heaviness,
And utterly consumed with sharp distress,
While all things else have rest from weariness?
All things have rest; why should we toil alone?
We only toil, who are the first of things,
And make perpetual moan,
Still from one sorrow to another thrown;
Nor ever fold our wings,
And cease from wanderings,
Nor steep our brows in slumber's holy balm,
Nor hearken what the inner spirit says;
'There is no joy but calm.'
Why should we only toil, the roof and crown of things?"

And it is all because we have been brought up to believe that work and rush are the only things that life was given us for, and that rest and recreation really mean laziness. We go on paying out everything that is in us mentally and physically, never pausing to realize that if we do not take in and store up, we must sooner or later come to the end of that with which we started out. How else should we do? We learn as children to lisp about the busy bee that improves each shining hour, and are made to emulate it, but we are not told that the busy bee is uncommonly like the greedy millionaire who goes on storing and hoarding what he can never hope to use, blind to everything but his storing and hoarding; and that if the busy bee were to consider the flowers from an aesthetic standpoint as well as from the utilitarian one of receptacles for honey, his days might be prolonged and life have a deeper meaning for him.

Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep, so shall thy poverty come as one that traveleth, and thy want as an armed man, said the wise and observant old collector of proverbs; but it is also true that poverty of the mind and soul come from the perpetual grind of incessant work. It has been just as wisely said in our own day that though life without industry is guilt, industry without art is brutality. The trouble, as we all know too well, is that the workers have too much work, and the idlers too much idleness. When the happy time comes, when play, recreation, time for thought, and enjoyment of the beautiful aspects of life shall be thought quite as necessary to human existence and development as work—and there is no doubt about its coming—and when the long day shall be divided so that both body and mind shall have their just share, how much brighter and more alert we shall all be! We shall no longer wake up soul-sick of the daily grind and monotony of our lives, or sink perpetually into enervating pessimism, asking ourselves, What is the good? And as for the example of the bees and the ants—why—we are neither bees nor ants, but human beings.

I do not know whether any of our women painters have taken to dog portraiture, but there seems to be profit and reputation in this special line of art. Miss Maud Earl of London, England, has already won distinction through her fine portraits of famous dogs, and incidentally, an extremely good income. A year or two ago she held a most successful exhibition in London. The exhibition included 70 portraits, representing, I believe, 48 varieties, and was the work of less than 12 months. These dogs were nearly all champions, for every dog breeder in England sends his finest dogs to be painted by this young lady, who is as conversant with every point and line and curve of the best dogs as a fancier himself. She has painted favorite dogs for the Queen, who is a great lover of these animals, and for the Prince and Princess of Wales. Miss Earl's ability as a painter, and her love of dogs is not far to trace; her father, Mr. George Earl, was both a painter of merit and a celebrated breeder of dogs. So between the art atmosphere of his studio and the constant companionship of fine dogs, Miss Earl soon found the most congenial work in expressing her ideas on canvas. It is said that lately Miss Earl has begun to paint portraits of the owners of dogs, with their dogs, but in these cases the dog is the principal figure of the picture, while the owner is a mere accessory. A real dog lover is Miss Earl.

O, let me now consider and be wise!
Ere summer goes,
Drink in the sunlight of these cloudless skies,
And learn by heart the fragrance of this rose,
The sweetness of the smile within your eyes,
Ere summer flies!

Through winter snows,
My memories shall be these perfect skies,
The subtle fragrance of this crimson rose,
And, more than all, the smile that lights your eyes;
Ere summer goes,
Ah! let me well consider and be wise.

—H. A. G.

Miss Jessie Alexander is sure to bring a large audience to Association Hall on Tuesday evening, when she makes her pretty annual bow to Torontonians. Miss Alexander is always a favorite with Toronto folk who love good elocution; indeed, they long ago adopted the charming little lady, and their interest in her work has never flagged—that is, if big houses are a sign of interest. Mr. Harold Jarvis will be an added attraction to the recital on Tuesday evening.

Dainty cards, decorated with tiny autumn leaves, in compliment to the season, announce that the first At Home of the Woman's Literary Society of Toronto University will be held in Student's Union Hall this afternoon from 4.30 till 7 o'clock.

The Spanish turbans, which were worn last year, and are again popular, look well made of fur, in chinchilla, Persian lamb or marten. A girl who is clever at sewing fur can buy the shape, making herself one at much less expense than it can be bought. These turbans are especially worn with a fur coat, either trimmed or made of the same fur.

There is one King-street store that knows how to capture the feminine eye and incidentally the feminine purse. Such exquisite fabrics as they cunningly dispose in that window! Hats, the smartest in town, dainty muffs, flower and ribbon decked, such as women adore, filmy laces artfully draped over shimmering silk, the newest things in spangled and embroidered nets, latest neck garniture, feather boas of exquisite shades, and every sort of toilet accessory that ever tempted the heart of women, easily tempted where pretty dresses and millinery are spread before them, and I do not know who arranges that window, but it is someone who knows just what is beautiful, and just how to dispose the various things to make them most attractive.

The opening of the Private View of the Ceramic Exhibition of the Woman's Art Association of Canada by Miss Mowat will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Roberts' galleries, 79 King-street West. It is to be hoped that the patronesses and all members and friends of the association will be present, as the exhibition promises to be one of unusual interest. The committees have been working for a long time past, and no effort has been spared to make this exhibition a great success, both in the Ceramic and Wood-carving Departments.

The galleries will be open until 10 p.m. in order to enable all the members and their friends to have an opportunity of seeing this exhibit.

The exhibition will continue until the 21st inst., and after Saturday the regular admission will be 25c. Members are particularly requested to remember that no invitations will be issued, except through the press, and all are cordially invited to avail themselves of this invitation.

X-RAYS WORK WONDERS.

Blind and Paralyzed Child Restored Through the Agency of Roentgen's Invention.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Harriett Hellbuth, 5 years old, and for two years blind and a paralytic, has had her sight and the use of her limbs restored through the agency of the X-rays. Two years ago the child, while playing, fell from a porch to the sidewalk, a distance of 16 feet, striking on her head. The fall left her totally blind and with her right side paralyzed. A few days ago the X-rays were applied and revealed a tumor the size of an egg pressing on the brain. The skull was trepanned directly over the cyst, as shown in a skiagraph, and the tumor removed. The child was able to move her limbs on recovering consciousness and is now gradually recovering her sight.

Another Far-Seeing Statesman In Sight.

From Citizen and Country.

The Toronto World has for months been conducting an aggressive campaign for the Government ownership of railroads and the immediate establishment of a national continental railroad. Last week it commenced a series of editorials demanding the nationalization of the telegraph and telephone systems and their operation in connection with the postoffice. If it will only take one more step forward and protest against the re-issue of the bank charter in 1901 and declare for a national currency, its platform will be a grand one. The World is the most radical and the most popular daily in Canada and its circulation is rapidly extending. Its publisher, W. F. Maclean, M.P., is a far-seeing statesman and his future will be a bright one, as the barnacles that now impede the progress of both parties will be swept away by the rising generation of voters, who are becoming educated to the principles The World advocates.

Speed the Parting.

The staffs of the National Trust Company and the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company gave a theatre party and a banquet in honor of Mr. James Watt, who has quite recently severed his connection with the former company, to take a position in the office of Messrs. Miller & Richard, typefounders, in this city. In the course of the evening the toast of "Our Guest" was given and received with acclamation. In proposing Mr. Watt's health Mr. Merson, the accountant of the National Trust Company bore eloquent testimony to his appreciation of Mr. Watt's business and personal qualities and wished him all success in his new situation.

THE BALLOON FELL.

Lady Aeronaut Had a Miraculous Escape from Death—Fell 500 Feet and a Tree Saved Her.

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 6.—One of the features at the Danbury Fair yesterday was a balloon ascension by Miss Laura Hasbrook, a young woman from Newark, Del. She made the ascension clinging to a trapeze, which swung from a parachute attached to the balloon. She expected to cut the parachute from the balloon at the height of a thousand feet, but was unable to use her knife. She was carried to the height of a mile, and then the balloon drifted toward Danbury, two miles away, with the helpless woman appearing a mere speck to the observers. As it passed over the city the balloon dropped a considerable distance, and half the population rushed into the streets, expecting to see the young woman fall. Men in wagons and on bicycles followed the balloon across the city. At Prospect-street it collapsed at a height of 500 feet and fell rapidly, carrying the woman with it. Suddenly a gust of wind swept the balloon toward a tree. The parachute ropes caught in the branches, holding it fast. The woman clung to the ropes until she was rescued by means of ladders. Then she lost consciousness.

MRS. TODD MUST GO.

She Is a Leper and Has to Be Exiled to the Lonely Island of Molokai.

Washington, Oct. 6.—The Commissioner of Immigration is in communication with General Shafter at San Francisco, with a view to securing passage on a transport for Mrs. L. M. Todd, a leper, whom it is intended to deport to the Island of Molokai. The British Consul-General at San Francisco, W. O. Pikersgill, became interested in Mrs. Todd's case, and protested against deporting her to Molokai. He was asked to make provision for her care and isolation in Canada or elsewhere, but declined to do so, and the Treasury Department today directed Immigration Commissioner Schell at San Francisco to proceed under his previous instructions to secure passage for Mrs. Todd on some army transport.

An Example of Manitoba Enterprise

Our reporter on his rounds to-day noticed a new sign being put up on the windows of the Janes Block, corner of King and Yonge-streets. On enquiry he ascertained that the Canadian Fire Insurance Company of Winnipeg were about to occupy the corner rooms on the first floor of this block.

The advent of a western company into the Ontario field of fire insurance aroused his curiosity, and he sought an interview with the secretary of the company, Mr. F. K. Foster, who was superintending the fitting up of the offices.

The Canadian, it was learned, is a Manitoba company, with its head office in Winnipeg, is of some six years' standing, and has as its stockholders the leading business men of the west.

It has been operating principally from Manitoba to the Pacific coast, since its inception extending itself gradually. That ground being now well covered, it is starting to work eastward, the first step being the establishment of an office in this city from which the Ontario business will be controlled. Mr. Foster will assume the local management of the company, with as his Ontario lieutenant resident director of the Great West Life Insurance Company, S. R. Parsons, president of the Consolidated Stationery Company of Winnipeg, now resident in Toronto, and W. Sanford Alley, manager of the Oak Hall clothing stores, as a Local Board of Directors.

With these gentlemen at the head of affairs, it is a guarantee to the Ontario policy holders of this company that their interests will be well looked after.

As our business men look to that great western country for the extension of their trade, and our relations are so closely connected, it is to be hoped that this enterprising company will receive the hearty and practical support of our citizens.

DEAR SIR,—I have been a great sufferer from Piles. The last attack was the most severe I have experienced. For ten days I could neither sit nor stand, and walking was out of the question, so great was my suffering. I could find no relief anywhere until your Pile Ointment was recommended to me. I got a box. I was relieved by the first application. In two days I was able to resume work and felt perfectly cured within a week. I volunteer this testimonial. I desire that people who suffer as I have done may know where to get such prompt relief as I found in the use of Orien's Pile Ointment. [Signed] ANDREW JENKINS, Sept. 4th, 1897.
