WHAT CLOSING DAYS OF WORLD'S CONTEST MEAN TO SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES

HERE ARE THE REMARKABLE PRIZES WHO WILL BE FORTUNATE WINNERS?

TWO DAYS STILL REMAIN

Who first reached the North Pole may forever remain shrouded in doubt and mystery, but within a few short hours the name will be proclaimed from the Atlantic to the Pacific of the triumphant victor in the greatest popular contest ever held in the Dominion of Canada. To-morrow the marvelous struggle for supremacy in The World's Fifteen Thousand Dollar Prize Contest will be brought to a close. The time has flown with lightning speed, this busy, bristling summer, for the active, hustling, enterprising, industrious people of Canada.

Less Than Two Years Back.

Less than two years ago the heart of American finance almost ceased to pulsate, and every artery of finance and commerce momentarily suffered temporary paralysis when the astounding news was flashed north, south, east and west, and to all the nations of the civilized world, that the greatest trust company on this continent had suspended.

Ex-President Roosevelt of the United States had waved his big stick, and capital, ever timid, virtually panic-stricken on Wall-street, was in immediate rout. New York City and the nation, whose prosperity or reverses it anticipates, shuddered with affright. The president of the vast trust company whose credit had been assailed, and the manager of one of the greatest New York banks, committed suicide. The head of another big New York trust company died from the effects of shock thru his arrest on a flimsy charge of alleged fraud.

Foundation of Prosperity.

When our American cousins calmed down and the excitement subsided, they discovered that their fears were but the outcome of the killing pace with which the feverish rate set by Wall-street had been followed by millions. Also that their property had the bed-rock solidity of immeasurable natural resources, and the industry of a people characterized in a large measure by the sterling attributes of the Anglo-Saxon race.

In the international rivalry for trade the interwoven interests of the Dominion and the United States were more or less affected by the disastrous outcome of the Wall-street scare, but in Canada a marked contrast was presented by the demeanor and conduct of her magnates of finance, captains of industry and people at large. Canadians, keen to the situation, prudently took in sail, weathered the financial gale and maintained the even tenor of their way.

How Canada Emerged.

One of the marked features of this episode in the fluctuations of national progress and development was the promptitude with which the managers of great Canadian institutions and enterprises initiated new and important plans of wide-extending importance and outstanding significance for the inauguration of another era of national prosperity. They realized that Canada possessed not only inexhaustible resources, but far more important, when vast enterprises of human endeavor are to be launched, a people second to none in the fundamental virtues of persistence, energy, personal initiative, self-reliance and push.

Important Enterprise Launched.

An appreciation of the foregoing conditions enabled The Toronto World in the early spring of the present year to announce the arrangements for a popular contest, on conditions of such democracy, liberality and gigantic scale that incredulity as to the possibility of its acomplishment was in some quarters quite natural. But the people for whom it was evolved, who will themselves be its beneficiaries, as they are its sole arbiters, welcomed the proclamation of The World's Fifteen Thousand Dollar Prize Contest with enthusiasm. The victors will ere they can realize that the strenuous struggle is over, soon learn of their well-earned success. They will wear their laurels with just pride, and be the recipients of the congratulations of their friends and supporters. Better than all for the conquerors, they will become the fortunate recipients of their valuable awards.

How Contest Began.

Four months ago the exciting contest began. At midnight to-morrow, when Big Ben at the city hall tolls twelve o'clock the battle will have been fought and won. From outset to finish no competition known in Canadian journalistic history has vied with it in vigor and interest. The moment the wonderful prize contest became known, the thousands of readers of The Toronto World made the competition a daily topic. Candidates sprang into nomination and their scores or hundreds of friends began to identify themselves with the competitors' individual interests. Not an hour was wasted by many of the contestants, who secured the necessary equipment of subscription books and sallied forth to enrol subscribers for the newspaper which had placed the golden opportunity to acquire comparative affluence, or a valuable prize as the return for their devotion, for a few brief months of spare moments to the promotion of its circulation. The meritorious features of the contest compelled acknowledgement. Not only was it open to all, irrespective of social position, sex or age, but the awards themselves were in the gift of the people.

All for the People.

The Toronto World had no vote or voice in the awards. No one directly or indirectly connected with The Toronto World was eligible as a contestant. The manager of the contest simply and gladly served the public by conducting the contest on conditions of absolute frankness, fairness and impartiality. At midnight to-morrow, Friday, Sept. 10, their task, too, will reach accomplishment.

Nine o'clock on the morning of May 10 was memorable in the history of the contest. That was the eventful hour when the voting began. On and from that date, morning, noon and night, packages of votes for the popular contestants have steadily poured in. The thousands of votes, accumulated rapidly, rose to hundreds of thousands, and the hundreds of thousands in the cases of the leading contenders finally attained the amazing proportions of millions of ballots in their favor.

Millions of Votes.

The franchise was so full and free thousands naturally shared in casting in a ballot. The purchase of a single copy of The Toronto World containing a blank coupon, in due proportion with a new subscription, entitled the reader of the newspaper to cast a vote, which in the last analysis might designate the possessor of the beautiful four thousand dollar house and lot to form the first grand capital prize.

The winner of the first grand capital prize will become the owner of a handsome, solid brick eight-roomed house of the present value of $4500. Considering the rapid appreciation of real estate in this city, with the phenomenal growth inevitable as a sequence to the establishment of the mammoth industries to be established here within the next few years, it is a conservative expectation that the grand capital prize of The Toronto World competition will in half a decade so enhance in value as to approximate the total value of the four grand prizes.

A Happy New Year.

When the victor on its completion moves into the beautiful home in picturesque Oakwood Park at New Year's, he or she may find it almost impossible to realize that no such costly possession was within the range of the victor's imagination when last January friends were wishing the coming winner in The Toronto World contest, "A Happy New Year." While it is prosaic verbiage that wonders never cease, the remarkable experience will be found to rest upon the basis of personal worth and indomitable pluck.

The $4000 prize house is a replica of No. 908 Dovercourt-Rd. and competitors desiring to look over that will on application to Messrs. Goulding and Hamilton, Richmond and Victoria-streets, be given authority to do so.

The site of the prize house would of itself form a most valuable award. Its present value, $1000, is but a tithe of what the property in the district will shortly readily command. The situation 300 feet above the lake level in the best part of Oakwood Park is ideal. No finer view of the city and surrounding territory could be desired.

The park formed the estate of W. B. Bull, one of the earliest residents of that part of York Township, who erected the first brick house in the township.

Oakwood Park is pleasantly situated on the north of Davenport-road. The park comprises 50 acres between Ossington-avenue and Dufferin-street, south of St. Clair-avenue. The prize house will in consequence be within convenient reach of the new northwest high school. It would be difficult to imagine a more desirable award than the splendid house forming the First Grand Capital Prize. It will go to the contestant receiving the largest number of votes in the entire district irrespective of districts.

Annihilation of Distance.

Distance annihilation is one of the greatest achievements of the twentieth century's first decade. A few years ago, about a hundred automobiles started from London to Brighton in a parade. Less than ten per cent reached their destination, a majority being stalled at the first hill. Last year automobiles representing several nations of Europe, and the United States started from New York and traveled the land route of both hemispheres in a race to Paris.

Last century, 80 years were required to develop the safety bicycle from the dangerous high-wheel bone-shaker.

This twentieth century invention moves faster. Speed is one of the necessities of luxurious travel. The winner of the Second Grand Award in The World Prize Contest will realize the luxury of safe, swift and inspiring travel, smoothly speeding along fine highways in the McLaughlin-Buick Model F, motor car, to be presented to the contestant receiving the second largest number of votes in the entire contest.

A Mechanical Wonder

The McLaughlin-Buick, Model F, motor car is a combination of simplicity, power, efficiency and durability. It is so economical in operation that the cost reaches the irreducible minimum. It seats five passengers. The body is of the new 1910 design, with hand-buffed leather upholstering, hair filling, easy spring backs and spring cushions. The wheel case measures 92 inches, gauge 56 inches. It has double brakes, service by foot pedal and emergency by hand lever. The springs are three-quarter elliptic in front, 40 inch full elliptic in rear. The frame is of angle-steel. The motor is double opposed, 22 horse power, cylinders 4 1-2 and 5 inches. The valve arrangement is in the head of cylinder, with cage and valve removable. Other specifications of the magnificent McLaughlin-Buick car are: Cooling—water by gear pump; ignition—jump spark; current supply—storage battery and dry cells, thru two-unit coil; lubrication—mechanical force feed, gear driven; car buretr—Schebler automatic; motor control—spark and throttle levers on top of wheel on immovable sector; transmission—planetary, two-speeds forward, one reverse; clutch—leather-faced cone, wide surface, positive action; control—foot pedals for slow speed ahead and reverse side lever for engagement of clutch; drive chain extra strong; gasoline capacity—12 imperial gallons; color—chassis, auto red; body, dark wine.

Wide-Awake Aldermen

Alderman T. W. Jutten of Hamilton is noted for his alertness as well in business as in municipal affairs. When an inkling of the important plans under consideration of The Toronto World reached his ears, no time was lost by the worthy and enterprising municipal councillor and up-to-date manufacturer, in acquiring a personal interest in the enterprise. This was by the completion of a contract to supply The Toronto World with the Fourth Grand Prize, Jutten motor boat. The T. W. Jutten motor boats have but to be seen to command immediate and spontaneous admiration. The winner of the Fourth Grand Capital Prize will have a superb example of the Jutten motor boat. It is admitted by all to be a beauty. The dimensions of the motor boat are: Length 18 feet by 4 feet 6 inches beam. It will have installed one Hildreth gasoline engine, of 3 1-2 horse power, complete ready to run, cushions on all seats, linoleum on floor, brass rails on bow and stern decks, and the usual cleats and chocks, also flag pole sockets all of brass. The model is what is known as their compromise stern model of their standard construction, and finish as follows: All inside of launch is thoroly painted before any joiner work is put in. The outside of planking is painted white to water line and below water line painted green, with anti-fouling paint. Shear strake, decks, and coaming and all inside of launch that is exposed to view is of natural finish, with best varnish rubbed to a dull finish.

Tour in Europe

The climax of pleasure is afforded to Canadians by a European tour. The millionaire may regard the Atlantic as a mere ferry, and ocean greyhounds as toys to divert the fancy, but to the ordinary mortal, with limited means, the desire for a costly European trip is in most instances an impossible dream. To some one of the contestants for the grand prizes the impossible dream will become a luxurious reality, and all the splendors of the old world, the masterpieces of art and scenes illustrious in history be viewed with the delight their beauty and interest invest them.

Great Lovers of Music.

Canadians are notable for their love of music. The prosperity and importance of piano manufacturing as a leading industry has been a consequence of the demand for pianos of quality. Canada now produces pianos representing the highest achievement of the piano manufacturer's art. Twelve homes of district prize winners will each be adorned by a splendid piano. One of these pianos will be awarded to each of the contestants receiving the largest number of votes in their respective districts.

Exquisite in design and of the rarest purity are the beautiful diamond rings for the twelve winners of the second district prizes. They were completed yesterday at the Ambrose Kent & Sons, Ltd., store, 156 Yonge-street, and form a cluster of amazing beauty.

Twelve Different Styles.

While all the rings are of equal value, twelve distinct styles have been designed. When placed on view in the show window at the opening of the store this morning the public will be enabled to pass judgment upon the excellence of workmanship and the superbb quality of gems and device. The solitaire, twin and cluster styles are all shown in rare variety, and the assemblage furnishes a dazzling feast for the eye of the delighted beholder. For a long period of years Ambrose Kent has been a tower of strength to the jewelry craft in Canada. His name is unecelled and carries with it the stamp of high quality. The old established and pre-eminent company is to be congratulated for the enterprise with which it entered the field to acquire the contract for supplying The World prize contest diamond rings. Equally the winners will be able to felicitate themselves in receiving rings from such a sterling jewelry house. A secret of the firm's success has been the eagerness always manifested to please its patrons. This is manifest in a marked degree in relation to the prize rings. Of the rings now on exhibition, the choice of the winners will be, "first come first served." Should a lady or gentleman desire in place of one of the twelve prize rings, one to contain their lucky birthstone, the preference will be accorded. To the twelve winners the reminder will be of interest that the lucky birthstones to be worn as a charm are: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, bloodstone; April, diamond; May, emerald; June, pearl; July, ruby; August, sardonyx or moonstone; September, sapphire; October, opal; November, topaz; December, turquoise. The Toronto World prize contest rings will be on view in the Ambrose Kent show windows every day this week.

Jolly Vacation Trips.

A vacation trip doubles the benefit and pleasure of a holiday, especially when a well filled wallet is an accompaniment. Twelve holiday-makers will be thus happy who receive the third largest number of votes in their respective districts, and the names of the lucky dozen will soon be known.

Beautiful Gold Watches.

Pardonable pride is always evinced when a gentleman or lady is lucky enough to possess a solid gold presentation watch for the admiration of the home circle and friends. The Toronto World contest includes a dozen solid gold watches. They are the "Tisdall" non-magnetic watch, as exhibited in the Tisdall store, 159 Yonge-street.

The "Tisdall" non-magnetic watch is not only an evolution, but a revelation in watch construction—it is simply watch perfection. The movement is fully covered by U.S. patents issued May, 1904, and is made by the latest improved American automatic machinery. Combining this with the very best material and highest skilled labor in the finishing and regulating department makes it the most perfect and reliable timekeeper obtainable. It is the popular, thin model 16 size, and the shape of the movement is new and unique. This witch is fitted with a new patented ferro-nickel breguet hairspring, tested for years and found entirely satisfactory. It has been proven beyond question to be superior to the tempered steel or palladium hairspring used by other watch manufacturers. The fork, escapement wheel and balance are also made of the same metal, which forms by its own nature the only really non-magnetic movement. This movement is not affected in the slightest in its time-keeping qualities by the proximity of electric motors or electrical plants; which is a great advantage now that electricity is so generally used. Owing to there being no expansion or contraction of this metal in extreme changes of temperature, it has enabled the makers to dispense with the split balance, which is an other great improvement over other watches. These are all improvements worthy of serious consideration to intending watch purchasers, and they prove conclusively that the Tisdall watch possesses distinct advantages. In appearance it is right on the crest of fashion's wave, and will appeal to buyers who appreciate elegance of design, beauty of finish and fine workmanship.

To-morrow the curtain will fall on the last scene of the contest. Every contestant has a last chance, even tho by herculean effort, to win out. The foregoing summary of the awards once more demonstrates their sterling worth.

On Saturday morning the task of determining the names of the successful competitors will commence. The result, awaited with intense and widespread interest, will be duly announced.

All the contenders are now to be congratulated on the enthusiasm with which they have so nobly competed. The Toronto World Fifteeen Thousand Dollar Prize Contest has become everywhere recognized as one of the most remarkable and successful newspaper feats in Canadian journalism.
