THE ACADIAN.
WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAR. 22, 1913

Local Happenings.

Spring, which has been elayed, now appears to be near at hand. It will not come too soon this year.

A recital by the pupils of Acadia Seminary is to be held in College Hall this afternoon at 4 30 o'clock.

Miss Sexton accompanied by Miss Thompson returned from an extended visit to the wholesale millinery openings last week.

The spring millinery opening at W. C. Dexter & Co's will be on Tuesday of next week, when an unusually pretty range of novelties will be shown.

Men who have been exempted from military service recently on the ground of being farmers, are to be watched during the coming season to see that they either farm or fight.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Johnson wish to express through THE ACADIAN their thanks for the sympathy and kindness shown by so many during the hours of their sudden affliction.

The war time supper given Wednesday evening, March 20th, in the Baptist church dining room in aid of the Red Cross and I O. D. E., was a great success. The proceeds amounted to $66 00.

We hear that Mr. R Earl Burgess has sold his fine property to Mr. Horton Phinney, of Halifax, who is coming to Wolfville to reside. Mr. Burgess, we understand, intends building in the near future.

Money to loan on mortgage security. Apply to E. S. Crowley, Wolfville.

No formal Millinery Opening will be held at Miss Saxton's this season. The store is now open for business and each day new and attractive styles will be shown, which all are cordially invited to see.

Rehearsals for the opera, Yokohama Maid, began this week. The peo- of Wolfville and vicinity have something good to look forward to when this is presented. A fine cast and splendid chorus with orchestra Watch for further announcements.

Messrs. J D. Chambers and Herbert Stairs and Miss Annie Stuart represented the Presbyterian congregation at the meeting of the Halifax Presbytery at Halifax on Tuesday, Rev. Mr. Miller has decided not to accept the call to Milford recently extended to him.

Money to loan on Real Estate security. Apply to Owen & Owen, Barristers, Annapolis Royal.

At the United Service in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, Mr. Armitage will speak on another of the great hymns of the church, Sir John Browning's hymn: 'In the Cross of Christ I Glory.' Fine choir and bright singing is a feature of these services. All are invited.

The annual Convention of Kings County W. C. T. U. will be held in Berwick, March 27th and 28th. Opening meeting after the arrival of morning express from the east. The public meeting on Wednesday evening will be addressed by Mrs. Powers, Prov. W. C. T. U. Pres., Lunenburg, and Rev. Mr. Armitage, of Wolfville

A business without customers is like a purse without money. It has the capacity, but nothing to fill it. The way to fill the store with customers is to advertise, continuously and persistently. Then live up to your promises and representations. It is the secret of successful merchandising.

Madge Kennedy Makes Her Picture Debut.

Madge Kennedy, the famous comedienne of 'Twin Beds' and 'Fair and Warmer,' makes her first appearance as a motion picture star in Margaret Mayo's rollicking farce comedy, 'Baby Mine,' which is the attraction at the Opera House, Monday and Tuesday.

This production is the first comedy offering by the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, which has arranged a long programme of big productions with such stars, in addition to Miss Kennedy, as Mae Marsh, Maxine Elliott, Jane Cowl, Mary Garden, Mable Normand.

'Baby Mine' has been elaborated or the picture presentation from a comedy that ranked as one of the most successful of recent years

The story of 'Baby Mine' is that of a young wife whose pleasure seeking inclinations cause her sober-minded husband to leave her. Madge Kennedy plays the part of the wife, Zoie, and Frank Morgan is the husband.

To entice him home again, Zoie announces the arrival of an heir in the family. Alfred, who immediately rushes home, arrives earlier than expected and complicates the scheme of Zoie and her friends, Aggie and Jimmie, to provide a baby from a foundling home. And then the fun begins.

For Wednesday and Thursday the feature will be 'The Desire of the Moth, $500 Reward—Colonel Vorhis will pay this sum to any person who delivers Christopher Foy, dead or alive, to the sheriff of Magdalene county.' That was the sign that greeted the eyes of the men of the countryside; $500 was a lot of money, and the men were all trying to 'cash in,' with a secret desire to get the money for a corpse. But Stella has the man at her mercy, and yet she couldn't shoot him. Was it love or simply the way of a woman that stayed her hand. See for yourself in this beautiful production by Rupert Julian, with pretty Ruth Clifford in the leading role The most beautiful scenery that could be found in the majestic Sierra Nevadas was used to frame these exciting episodes.

Friday and Saturday, 5th chapter of the Grey Ghost, 'Plunder.' This fifth episode concerns the attack on the jeweler, Arabin, by Williams, his secretary, the securing of the necklace, and the subsequent holding up of the entire detective force of the store, while the Gray Ghost's men, in the guise of detectives from headquarters, loot the vaults and the Gray Ghost himself embarks in a launch for his yacht. On board are Hildreth and Morn Light. She is in a faint, and Hildreth is helpless. The Grey Ghost taunts Hildreth with the fact that the two million dollar necklace will soon belong to him.

DIED

TRENHOLM—At Grand Pre, N. S., on March 18th, Williard Merle, the week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Trenholm passed away. (Premature birth)

The Late W. F. Parker.

A PERSONAL APPRECIATION.

In the untimely death of Mr. W F. Parker, who was scarcely past middle life, Wolfville loses one of its most distinguished citizens, whose departure creates a perceptible gap that will not be soon or easily filled A man far above the average in natural ability and general acquirements, he was only prevented by his bodily infirmities from rising to the top of his profession.

There can be no reasonable doubt that had his health not failed him at the critical period of early middle life he would have reached the Bench. And for such a position he was eminently fitted, possessing as he did, in a very marked degree, the judicial and analytical mind. One of the best read men I have ever met, with an inexhaustable fund of anecdotes and gifted with a strong sense of humor and a keen discriminating judgement of character, he was a delightful companion for, to use an expression Hibernian, "He never opened his mouth but he said something." As I once heard it said of someone else, "You always left him a little wiser than when you met him." In the very best sense of that sadly abused and much perverted term he had a "cultured" mind. He had not only studied deeply and read widely and wisely, but he had assimilated and re adapted and therefore possessed that rare power of reproduction which is a far more valuable gift than that thing which people commonly call "originality." He had the gift of transmuting widely gathered material into new and striking forms. He was no pedantic retailer of unassorted and undigested information picked up at random here and there. One meets such people occasionally. But he was not of that type. He reckoned all that passed through his hands. It is to be deeply regretted that his health prevented him from engaging more extensively in literary work. One book he has bequeathed to us, the life of his distinguished father, the late D. McNeil Parker, of Halifax, in his day the acknowledged head of his profession in the Province. This book which I only read a short time ago was to me a revelation of his literary skill and power. The writing of a biography is one of the easiest and at the same time one of the most difficult kinds of literary work. There is a sort of biographic writing which simply consists in throwing together certain hastily gathered material and putting in shape for the press. Almost any decently educated person is competent for this sort of thing Again there is the biography which is more or less a work of art, which, like a great picture, creates and reveals. Mr. Parker undoubtedly possessed this power to a very marked degree. I should place his life of his father in the very front rank of Canadian biographies. Necessarily, of course, somewhat voluminous, written as it was mainly for relatives and descendents, portions of it are truly worthy of the man of literature. All through it is written in that easy flexible style characteristic of the born author and master of words. Or like the skilled craftsman he works with a sure hand. Some of us had hoped that he might have further utilized these gifts in giving us other biographies of Canadian publicists. However, it was otherwise ordered.

To the memory of a valued personal friend, whose loss I shall ever deplore on this side of eternity, a Christian gentleman and a scholar, I inscribe with respectful sympathy to bereaved and mourning relatives this imperfect tribute of my affection and respect.
