"slowly Music should flow," was sung as a duett by the Misses Watson in beautiful style and was loudly encored. Miss McKenzie gave "The May Deer," in a very pleasing style. Her voice, though not very full or powerful, is remarkably sweet and expressive. The capital comic Irish songs by Mr. Benedict would have been better with a p. violin accompaniment, his voice being too weak to cope with the tones of the piano. In the second part the gentlemen of the Glee Club gave "Row, Row" and "Brother's fainting at the door" in their usual dashing style, and were vociferously applauded and encored. Mrs. Charlesworth and Miss Lizars gave a piano and guitar duett, which was warmly received. Miss L's guitar playing, for an amateur, is very good indeed. "The Merry days of Old," a good old song, was sung by Mr. Pinkerton in a good, old hearty fashion, well calculated to call to mind the days of yule logs and wassail bowl. The performance, a very pleasing one on the whole, wound up with "God Save the Queen!"

The grand piano used on the occasion was kindly lent by H. McDermott, Esq.

MEAN ROBBERY.—On Saturday night last some mean scamp broke into the School House in section 1, Goderich township, by climbing through a window, and stole a clock, slates, testaments, and all the school books on which he could lay hands. A more paltry theft could not have been committed.

MORRIS.

Clark's Bridge was swept away by the recent freshet.

TO THE FRONT.

The Huron Rifles are furbishing up their arms and calling in recruits with a view of going to the front on the first of May, to relieve some of the returning companies. It would do the corps good to get a few months of camp life and daily drill.

SEAFORTH.

Mrs. Dix, who, according to my last, had eloped, has thought better of it. She returned on the 26th, and is now, I hear, living with her injured husband. The wicked boys talk of a chirivari, but it is to be hoped will think better of it also.

WAWANOSH.

DUNKIN'S BILL.—Dan. Sloban has been fined $40.00 with costs for selling liquor.—Proctor, was hauled up also, but the prosecution failed. The witnesses drank something bearing the name of coal oil, and although they could swear it was not petroleum, they either could not or would not say whether it was of an alcoholic nature. Either these parties have already lost the power of distinguishing whiskey from water, or they are laying themselves open to actions for perjury.

PAISLEY.

We have had a rapid thaw during the last few days. The snow, which was very deep, has almost disappeared, except in the woods. The rivers are very high. Sleighing is done, and there is every prospect of an early spring. There is an appearance of a snow storm, however, at present. Farmers will rejoice at the departure of the snow, as cattle feed is exceedingly scarce in this part.

☞ The sons and daughters of Prince Albert are decorating the interior of the Wolsey Chapel in Windsor Castle as a memorial of that singularly excellent Prince. The small edifice is to be entirely inlaid with mosaic work, and the work is making great progress. These decorations are estimated to cost when completed, over one hundred thousand dollars.

☞ The owl says that the Empress Eugenie has written to the Queen and other sovereigns of Europe proposing that, without distinction of creed, all shall join at once for the purpose of effecting a suitable restoration of the Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem, which is now in a state of utter disrepair.

☞ Prince Aurther left London a few weeks since for a tour in Egypt and the Holy Land. The tour will probably occupy two months, and will be over almost the same route as was followed by the Prince of Wales.

In Hartford, Conn., a Co operative Association has been formed, with a capital of $5000, for the sale of butcher's meat. It is expected that present extortionate prices will be reduced about 25 per cent.

The Manchester N. H. Mirror says that a fireman on the Northern Railroad went to sleep while the train was before Franklin, and upon the engineer's touching him to wake him up, jumped from the engine down a high bank supposing the train was meeting another. The train was stopped, and he made his appearance with no injury except a severe fright.

Mr. Harlan, the new Secretary of the Interior, recommended to the President the selection of some person from the Society of Friends as Commissioner of Indian affairs.

At a family gathering in Danbury, Massachusetts not long since, a great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Irene Taylor, held in her lap, a child, a grand-child, a great-grand-child, a great-great-grand-child, in all, five generations.

☞ Governor Brough, of Ohio, in his late message, states this startling fact, illustrating the terrors of the draft in that State:—It is estimated that the number of men who fled from this State as the recent draft approached and during its execution, exceeded twenty thousand. To such an extent has emigration gone that in some cases there were not men enough left in the townships to fill the quotas.

HOW THE CHINESE VOTED.—In the recent election in Australia, many of the voters were naturalized Chinese, and being free from political prejudices, sold their votes to the highest bidder. In one town, about thirty of them were bought at eight shillings each, and tutored to answer "yes" to every question asked them at the polls. The opposite party had a hint of this, however, and the first question proposed was, "Have you voted before at this election?" An affirmative answer secured for the would be voter an uncere, monious packing off. Two or three who got through this ordeal had been instructed to scratch the first three names on the printed ballot. Like genuine Chinamen as they were, they took the paper upside down, and erased the very names they were paid to vote for.

Attention—Pay to her assiduously and respectfully.

Right Face—Popping the question, like a man, and she accepts you.

Quick March—To the parents and ask their consent.

Right Turn—With her to the Church, and go through the service of holy matrimony.

Halt—And reflect seriously for a few moments; then determine to devote yourself entirely to your wife.

Right about Face—From the haunts that you have frequented when single, and prefer your own home.

Advance Arms—To your young wife when out walking with her, and don't let her walk three or four yards behind you.

Break Off—Billiard playing, betting, and staying out at night, if you wish to have a happy home.

Expulsion from the House.

The Quebec correspondent of the London Free Press says that among those present in the gallery at the prorogation of the House, was a lady of public fame—a fame not redolent, though of the Penelopean fragrance—who had managed to obtain a card of admission from one of her votaries; but the fates were cruel to her. The Speaker of the Legislative Council espied her through a corner of his weather eye, and quietly instructed the head messenger to take with him a blue-coated gentleman of the class vulgarly called "beaks" in Cockneydom, and they both proceeded to the gallery where the frail one had established herself in a front seat, among a hundred or so of the wives and daughters of Quebec. She had apparently noticed the interest she was exciting, and receving a very gentle beck of the courteous messenger's forefinger, departed in peace, but possibly not without a sense of disgust at having been so publicy reminded that she was a pestiferous outcast, whose presence could not be permitted to taint the sacred halls of Legislation, or insult the virtuous woman among whom she had had the impudence to intrude her meretricious charms. Whether her expulsion from a public building was a strictly legal act I shall not debate, but extra-judicial proceedings are sometimes deemed necessary for the vindication of moral rights. This little scene occurred just before the entrance of his Excellency, and all was perfectly serene when the representative of Majesty, attired, as is his wont upon State occasions, in the gorgeous Windsor uniform, and attended by that permanent institution, "a brilliant Staff," ascended the Throne steps, and seated himself under the magnificent canopy which casts its gold and crimson folds over the resplendent chair. On this occasion his Excellency had, as a supporter on his right, the brave soldier who reposes upon the grand laurels he plucked from the tree of immortality by his heroic defence of Kars—Sir Fenwick Williams, the Commander of the Forces.

Crimps Arrested.

STRATFORD, March 25, 1865.

John McCulloch and James Watson, residents of this place, were arrested to-day for taking men to Detroit to enlist in the Federal army. McCulloch was tried before the Mayor and committed for trial at the assizes. The case of Watson was adjourned till Monday. The evidence is quite conclusive, and there is no doubt of the conviction of the prisoners.

Mercantile Frauds.

Two cases of interest to the mercantile community were disposed of at the last Quarter Sessions. The first was that of Pothier, of Three Rivers, who was convicted, after a tedious trial, of obtaining goods with intent to defraud, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. This punishment carries with it a wholesome warning to other traders of a like stamp. There have hitherto been but few convictions for this offence; but it is to be hoped that the merchants of Montreal in all similar cases will not fail to prosecute; so as to teach the rascals, that with all their cleverness, they may "be sure their sins will find them out." It is high time for the trader to learn that the creditor in Lower Canada has some say in the manner in which their debtors dispose of their assets. Previous to the Insolvency Act, all the dishonest trader had to do was to get his wife to sue out a separation of property, which was allowed to go by default, and the stock was sold out to realize enough to pay the lawyer urging the separation suit. The creditors in time obtained judgment, issued execution, and found their debtor carrying on business as agent of his wife, by which manœuvre he was able to et all their efforts at defiance to collect their claims. But in a great measure this has since been remedied by the Insolvency Act. The other case to which we refer was that of De La Mar, who was found guilty of counterfeiting a trade mark; but as this gentleman decamped previous to conviction, the punishment will fall on the securities.—[Trade Review.

The British Iron Trade Stopped

The great "lock out" in the iron making districts of England has begun. It was computed that if the measure was persevered in all over the country in accordance with the compact which the iron masters had entered into with each other, seventy thousand men would be thrown out of employment, and they and their families deprived of the means of subsistence. The London News, commenting upon this affair, says: "The North Staffordshire puddlers—by that name are called the men who stir molten pig iron about in the bed of a furnace until it becomes mallable iron—struck work rather than submit to a reduction of ten per cent on their wages, resolved on by the employers some ago. In the ordinary course of things the men would have remained out supported by the Union until the employers, tired of losing the profits of trade, conceded their terms.—Aware of this, a meeting of ironmasters was held at Birmingham three weeks ago, at which seventy six firms were represented, and the National Association of Ironmasters was formed. It was then resolved that the North Staffordshire masters should not be left to fight their battle alone; but that, in order to strike at the source from which the men who stood out were supplied, the ironworks every where should be closed."

THE FRENCH MISSION.—The Tribune announced, two or three days ago, that the President had tendered the French mission to James Gordon Bennett. The announcement was received at first with great incredulity, but it seems now to be quite generally accredited. The Tribune's Washington correspondent says the statement was received with a "broad grin" at the capital, where some persons claim that the "appointment was tendered more than three years ago."—The World's correspondent says that "the tender was made about the first of March, in requital for service done in the Presidential campaign." The Times correspondent says that the appointment "was made partly on the strength of a strong letter of recommendation from Horace Greeley." It adds, "The statement that it has been declined is premature." The Washington Republican says "the appointment was made before the Senate adjourned. Mr. Bennett, probably not wishing to be defeated in the Senate, declined to accept the post." If this tender of the mission to France has actually been made in the direction indicated, there is surely more than one instance of official "incoherence" at Washington.—[N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

How Dunkin's Bill Works.

Terry Finnegan, in his last letter to Mr. McGee, among other things, gives the following:

"Howsomdiver, perhaps it's not right to begin at you so airly; so I'll jest ax you 'how is Misther Dunkin?' Bad luck to him and his ginger wine, I say; but he played a nice caper on me, as well as a dozen others out in Manvers, the day. 'There's twinty minutes for shuntin cars,' sez the conductor, stopping the thrain and lookin' in upon us where we were all saited. 'Is there, Sir,' sez I, jumpin up wid a cobweb in my throat, and followin a whole sthring, like a funeral, over to the first intilligent edifis that caught my eye. 'A dhrop of somethin hot,' sez I, addressin a very dacent lookin man behind a bar that had a most forlorn look in the absince of anythin like a glass or a decanther. 'Ginger wine,' sez he—'Dunkin,' sez I. 'Of coorse,' sez he, 'we can't sell anythin like sperrits; taste it.' 'Yes,' sez I, layin my nose over it, and closin my left eye a little at the same time. 'There's the mug that cheers but doesn't stother you—a regular jorum of morality and pathriotism,' sez he. 'Beautiful,' sez I. 'Is there more where that was?' 'Oshens of it,' sez he, 'and I can give it to you chape; bekase devil a hapenny license I have to pay.' 'Success to Dunkin,' sez I, makin a spyglass of the tumbler, as I dhrained it. 'And the rivinue,' sez he, wid a short laff. 'Will you take another?' 'Blur and turf,' sez I 'what is it at all at all?' 'Ginger wine,' sez he; 'and you needn't let on by your thryin to catch your breath, that we're brakin the law.' 'I won't have time, I'm afeerd,' sez I. 'You will,' sez he; 'for don't you see thim all at it about you.'

Shortly afther this I knew nothin more, till I was awakened about the middle of the night, by a very old and paceable man, who I tuk for a prachet durin the day, bawlin out on the bar-room flure, where we were all left behind:—

"Arrah Dermot, get along wid your gosther,
You might as well pray to a jig,
Or tache an old cow pather nosther,
Or whistle Moll Rowe to a pig.
Arrah, man d'ye think I'm a fool,
And not the right son of my mother,
To put nothing——"

Here he was cut short, by a slap in the mouth from some fellow behind him, that shouted out, without a moment's notice, 'Who's a fool? Take that!' And thin we all got through aich other; very little respect bein paid to one or another as they came in the way. So you see, Dunkin, me darlin, is doin well for the rivinue and the morals of the people; and that's more than can be said of the most of yez, at this present moment."

☞ An experiment has been made on the New York Central Railroad by using peat instead of coal. The result was highly satisfactory. The usual amount of fuel consumed by coal burning engines is a ton to every twenty miles, but in this instance only half a ton was used.

The first brick of the tunnel, intended to pass under Hampstead, and to form a portion of the Midland extension into London, was lately laid. The tunnel will be 1,800 yards long, and in one, part, 30 yards below the surface.

☞ A young man named Sullivan lately killed his mother, by chopping her head open with an axe, in Iowa.

It was thought in Paris, at the latest date, that peace would eventually result in America from the late conference in Hampton Roads.

☞ On the 14th instant, a man named Frederick Davis came to his death by the falling of a tree in the neighborhood of the village of Buxton. Deceased and another man were chopping togeather, and that the tree which they were chopping fell, it struck another tree, one of the pieces of which in its course to the ground struck Davis on the back of the head, fracturing the skull and producing instant death.—Chatham Planet.

TERRIBLE FEVERS IN NEW YORK.—A letter writer states that the scourge of small-pox and scarlet fever is raging fearfully in New York. Many streets are barricaded and patrolled to warn pedestrians of their proximity to the pestilence. Streets are blocked to vehicles, and the police stand as sentinels near infected blocks. The presence of the pestilence is attributed to the crowded condition of the tenement houses. Over 25,000 people live underground in New York. In eighty five apartments in a tenement house near the St. Nicholas are 310 persons—four persons to each room, eight by ten. In another there are ninety-six rooms and 577 persons. It is estimated that there are twenty-five hundred cases of small-pox in New York.

☞ On Tuesday, 21st, about 1 p. m., the ice broke from the dam above town, and for four hours great anxiety was felt for our bridges, the water having risen several feet higher than was ever known before. The bridge over the Grand River between Preston and Berlin is carried away. We have heard of no other damages.

$5,000 has been appropriated by the Canadian government to secure a representation of Canadian products at the Dublin exhibition this summer.

☞ The Rochester Union says the men in the employ of the New York Central Railroad, at Suspension Bridge, have suspended work on a demand for higher wages, and large quantities of freight have accumulated there, awaiting transfer from the Great Western cars.

Died at Brockville, on the evening of the 16th March, Janet McNab, wife of Mr. D. Wylie, Editor of the Recorder, aged 54 years.

We deeply sympathise with friend Wylie in the irreparable loss he has sustained, after thirty-one years of happy married life.—Ed. S
