STAKES DOT BUCKE TOWNSHIP BUT MAY NOT PASS INSPECTOR

"Snowshoe Prospectors" Have Been Busy—Story of the Drummer From Toronto and His Mineral Discoveries in the Cobalt District.

Cobalt, May 10.—(Staff Special.)—"Is the country all staked out?" is a question frequently asked by newcomers. Your correspondent has frequently had the query put to him, and has invariably answered that, while the Township of Coleman was pretty well taken up, there were adjoining townships in which it was confidently expected good working properties lay undeveloped, and that these townships afforded the prospector ample scope for this season's work.

A trip thru the Township of Bucke discloses that there is very little left for the incoming prospector there. This statement is, of course, made with the proviso that the inspectors pass all the claims now staked out which have not yet passed inspection. It is confidently expected by many that fully 60 per cent. of these will be turned down. The wish may be the father of the thought. Certainly the snowshoe stakers have been in evidence during the past six months. Nevertheless much genuine work has been done, especially during the past six weeks.

Driving from Haileybury, as soon as the town limits are passed, one can see the stakes and the blazed trails leading to the respective discovery posts, as required by the mining regulations. Thruout the drive good-sized clearings are found, and in some cases substantial farm buildings have been erected.

It was to the Township of Bucke that William Fleming moved seven years ago, when he and his seven sons came up from Huntsville to hew out homes for themselves in the forests of the great Temiskaming country, little dreaming that the land which they hoped, by years of hard labor, to convert into grain-producing farms, contained a greater hidden wealth than the roots and grasses which they hoped to live to see growing there.

The Messenger of Fortune.

By hard and patient plodding they had cleared 125 of their 1200 acres; had built houses, barns and stables, and had done several miles of fencing, and in the summer of 1905 were looking forward to the harvesting of their oats, peas and fall wheat when their bucolic dreams and hopes received a knock by the appearance in their midst of a hustling young drummer from a Toronto wholesale house. He came not to sell but to buy. He pointed out to the seven sons that a similar formation existed in Bucke to that in Coleman, which even then was attracting the attention of the world, by reason of its great mineral wealth, and showed these men that immediate wealth might be theirs. He fired their imagination, but still the crops had to be looked after, so prospecting by themselves had to be postponed.

D'Alton McCarthy Gilpin was the Toronto drummer, and he is the pioneer prospector of Bucke. The "drummer of Bucke" bids fair to become as famous as the "blacksmith of Coleman," and he claims the "Gilpin" of Bucke to be the "La Rose" of Coleman. He and a chum started in to look for the Cobalt bloom or any other mineral indication. They spent two weeks in careful search. Starting each morning at the base of what then looked to them like nothing but a huge boulder of moss-covered rock, they worked away, gradually getting farther into the bush and meeting with no success, but ever hopeful. Returning in the mornings, the old rock possessed a fascination they could not resist, and at last on one of its ledges they struck a mass of cobalt bloom and calcite that gave the impetus to prospecting which has resulted in the entire township being staked out. Young Gilpin returned to Toronto and gave up his position with the Wm. Croft & Sons Co., and returned to work his claim. The inspector, when he paid his official visit to this claim, was greatly surprised at the size and number of calcite veins. The wall-rock presented a mass of calcite and bloom.

Pleasant Prospects.

The formation in this part of Bucke is of the same series as Coleman, and it is in this series that the cobalt-nickel-arsenic-silver veins occur which make the camp so famous.

A company was promoted and is known as The Gilpin-Cobalt Silver Mining Company, and its shares are on the market. It is because of Mr. Gilpin being the pioneer prospector of Bucke that it was visited by The World correspondent. It is not a mine as yet, but considerable development has been done. Sufficient trenching has been done to disclose seven veins, and work has been done to a depth of some 15 feet. It is said that at this depth the smaltite was found.

There are said to have been located on this property over thirty calcite veins, and the company handling it have a superintendent in George Foster, formerly of the Soo, who is well spoken of by the Soo and Sudbury men where he formerly worked. Six men are employed, and buildings are being erected, and the management says it is proposed to give investors a show for their money.

The Roggies of Detroit, brass founders, are working a property adjoining the Gilpin-Cobalt, where, it is claimed, gold to the value of $7.50 per ton has been found. They have reached a depth where the smaltite is being found. Of the 1200 acres owned by the Flemings, 1040 acres have been staked out as mining claims. Thomas is the only one whose land has been prospected without results.

Lively Scenes.

At Haileybury and Latchford great activity prevails. The prospectors are strongly in evidence at both places. The real estate fever is also at its height at Haileybury, but the present growth of the town and surrounding country warrants the faith which all classes of residents and visitors possess as regards its future.

The T. & N. O. Railway trains are now crowded daily. For a few days there was a noticeable decrease in the number of daily arrivals, but the old-time jams and crams at the railway stations have now come painfully in evidence. Coming up from North Bay yesterday, the coaches were so crowded that a seat could not be secured by many. Many of the new arrivals are getting supplies and going up the Montreal River. The Temagami Reserve will also be filled with prospectors this summer, and it will be absolutely necessary for the government to send in ten times as many fire-rangers this year as were here in 1905.

An Ottawa trio came up last Saturday, returning on Monday with a somewhat severe attack of the cobalt fever. While not strictly a parliamentary trio, there were two members, and the third happened to be the son of an M.P., so the appellation is not entirely undeserved. They were Messrs. Archie Campbell, A. Sinclair of Guysboro, N.S., and George Ross of Sydney. A Marathon cross-country run was taken and a visit paid to the group of mines clustering around Cross Lake. The tramp thru the woods was a rough one, and it was painfully evident that "good roads to the mines" should be one of the watchwords for Coleman Township, but the opportunity to see such properties as the Nova Scotia, the "Macleod and Glendenning," the Jacobs, the Lawson, the White-Hargreaves, the University or Glendenning, the Foster and the Drummond amply repaid the visitors for any discomforts or hardships on the trail. Under the guidance of Mr. McCormack, a visit was also made to the McCormack-Cobalt Company's property.

To See Is to Believe.

These Cross Lake propositions are all shippers and will be described by The World correspondent in a later letter, as they rank with the best. Messrs. Campbell and Ross were both very enthusiastic from the moment of their arrival in the camp. Mr. Sinclair was at first inclined to play the role of "Doubting Thomas," but before he left on Monday was as optimistic as the genuine Cobalter. Cobalt is not like the west. It cannot be seen from the car window. Public rumor says that a distinguished party came in from Toronto last week and attempted to see the camp without leaving the dignified seclusion and grandeur of a private car. It will not go at Cobalt. Forty-eight hours spent in their club will give visitors who will not leave their car just as clear an insight and as true a knowledge of the camp. Fortified with the accounts sent out by Toronto correspondents, more knowledge can be gained, is the opinion expressed by more than one unprejudiced observer. At last the new theatre looks like an immediate possibility. Architect William Graham of the Soo has a large staff of men at work, and a handsome building will be erected. Mr. Graham has also been awarded the task of drawing plans for a new Roman Catholic church and feels quite proud of having, to this extent, the onus of providing for the amusement and religious edification of the people of this section.

The tenderfoot was apt to smile when told by the old inhabitant that we still had a snowstorm coming to us before the fly season. If he lived in a tent last night he was quite prepared to realize that the prediction of the aforesaid old inhabitant was apt to be correct. An inch or two of snow met his gaze this morning, and Cobalt was once more the home of "silver, sunshine and snow." This is doubtless the last of the season, and now for summer.

F. B. M.

For Finlky Feminine Fancy.

Fairweather's store is noted for much that's nice and exclusive in things to wear for men and women, and in singling out from the many departments one special section to talk about, the millinery showrooms to-day deserve a large share of the eloquence, for, keeping in mind that the O. J. C. race meeting—the 24th of May—and June weddings are amongst the early events on the social calender, the firm is showing to-day a very exquisite collection of early summer millinery. These two hundred and odd pieces are not a part of an overstock of last month's styles, which should have been sold Easter week, but "tit-bits" of fashion—originals, adaptations and copies of the sweetest of Paris picture hats—stunning styles in costume hats that smack of New York—to-day's lovely millinery ideas which show, right up to the minute, all the fads, fancies, quirks, kinks and caprices of fashion, in shapes, shades, straws, weaves, ribbons, foliage, flower and feather.

Styles come and go so rapidly at Fairweather's, 84-86 Yonge-street, that almost any day could be called a special opening day, and the breezy freshness of the millinery showrooms is always an inspiration to lovers of the beautiful and artistic in headdress.

"The Imperial Limited."

This famous cross-continent flyer left Montreal Sunday last for its first westward trip this season, and will continue running probably for the balance of the year, forming with the "Pacific Express" a fast double daily service to the northwest and coast. The equipment is up-to-date in every respect, and nothing conducive to safety, speed and comfort has been overlooked. The 1.45 p. m. daily train from Toronto connects with the "Imperial Limited" at North Bay, and the 11.30 p. m. with the "Pacific Express." There are daily palace and tourist sleepers, Toronto to Vancouver without change.

Open Saturday Night.

"You never saw a tailor-made suit with the style and quality of these $12 United Tailoring tweed suits," said the manager of the new store, at 472 West Queen-street. "I will present any man with a suit if he can show me a garment that has more of that distinctive style which marks the well-groomed man. We are open until 10.30 Saturday nights."

A Piano That Leads.

Why not possess a piano that has an undisputed lead—that is recognized by the great artists at home and abroad as the art piano of Canada? This piano is the one made by the olde firme of Heintzman & Co., whose handsome warerooms are at 115-117 King-street West, Toronto.

Loving Cup to Soldiers.

Victoria, B. C., May 10.—At a farewell concert to the imperial troops on behalf of the citizens, Lieutenant-Governor Sir Henry Joly presented a magnificent silver loving cup standing three feet high, to the officer commanding the troops. The cup is engraved with the coats of arms of the various branches of the service represented by the garrison.

Windson, May 10.—Secretary Haugh of the Builders' Exchange denies that the contractors met the demands of the Carpenters' Union for an increase of wages and closed shop.

ONLY KNOWN PROCESS TO SUCCESSFULLY TREAT COBALT ORES

"Silverland" Development Co. of Toronto Acquires Famous German "Schneeberg" Process, and Will Establish Great Ore Refinery Works.

Cobalt has reached that stage of development where it is necessary to establish cobalt-silver refining works, and many schemes have been talked of for the past year for the creation of such a works, but as a matter of fact, none of the heretofore proposed schemes has had a method which has been proved successful. By the completion of negotiations, which have been secretly under way for some time, it is now a matter of only a short time before the famous camp is supplied with cobalt-silver refinery works necessary for any amount of ore the district can produce. The great difficulty with the Cobalt ores heretofore has been the problem of how to treat them and secure all the cobalt-silver, nickel and arsenic contained in them. It is said that the American refiners, who have heretofore been purchasing the cobalt ore, have over a million dollars' worth on their hands which even they have been unable to successfully treat. The only known process by which all the metals contained in the cobalt ore could be saved is known as the German Schneeberg process, and has up to the present been kept a profound secret by German authorities. Under stringent regulations, however, the "Silverland" Development Company, formed by prominent Toronto capitalists, have succeeded in acquiring from Germany the rights to use this famous process and are the only people on the North American continent who have the right to use it. The acquisition of this invaluable asset means a big thing to the "Silverland" people, and to the mining industry of Ontario. In addition to establishing the silver-cobalt smelting works between North Bay and Cobalt, the company possesses other valuable assets in silver mines situated in the heart of the Cobalt district, now being developed. Judging from present development it is anticipated that strenuous efforts will be made to secure control of the company by outside parties, and great activity and higher prices for "Silverland" shares are expected.

WERE FISHERMEN JUSTIFIED?

Windsor, May, 10.—The question of whether the fishermen along Lake St. Clair had the right to catch the fish which were seized by the government inspectors at Niagara is to be decided by a government investigation.

The fishermen allege that the pickerel seized was of a kind that they can legally take even during the closed season.

A monopoly of the fishing privileges on Lake Nipissing and French River by Americans is the cause of a warm protest on the part of Windsor fish dealers. They say the rights were given to Canadians about five years ago and then turned over to fishing firms operating in the States. It is claimed that Canadians have been recently refused licenses by the department.

KETTLEBY'S POSTMASTER.

Ottawa, May 10.—(Special.)—Mr. Bennett (East Simcoe) will ask the government on Friday whether it is informed of the fact that J. M. Walton, postmaster of Kettleby, resides at Aurora, York County, where he conducts the business of a private banker.

Magistrate Roasts Police Chief.

New York, May 10.—Victor E. Freeman and Rufus A Evans, New York merchants, who were arrested recently for the Chicago police, were to-day released upon receipt of a telegram from Chief Collins, saying that there was not enough evidence to prosecute. They were charged with failing to account for $13,000 given them to invest.

Police Magistrate Wahle, in discharging the prisoners, said, concerning their arrest: It was a damnable outrage. I shall lay the matter before the full board of magistrates. This is not the first case of the kind we have had from Chicago. I am sorry for the part I have been obliged to play in holding these men."

Double Murder by Employe.

New York, May 10.—James Muccho and his wife Celesti were found murdered in their rooms in the rear of a boot blacking stand, which Mucchio conducted in Court-street, Brooklyn to-day. The skulls had been crushed with a hatchet and their throats cut. The police believe that robbery was the motive of the crime.

Later the police arrested Alfonso Poletto, an employe of the murdered couple, on a charge of causing their death.

Absconder Posed as Detective.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 10.—The Syracuse police to-day announced the apprehension at Christiania, Norway, of Charles H. Paine, absconding teller of the Onondaga County Savings Bank. Paine took $18,500. He left February 20. He shaved off his moustache and presented himself as a detective connected with the New York insurance investigation.

Broken Rail Ditched Car.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 10.—The New York Limited train on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, which left Cincinnati last night, was derailed 100 miles east of Cincinnati early to-day. The sleeping car was ditched, but of the sixteen passengers on it, only four women were injured, one seriously. Three trainmen were badly injured. A broken rail caused the accident.

An Ancient Mariner.

Utica, N. Y., May 10.—Daniel Slowmaker died to-day at his home in Frankfort, aged 105 years. He was captain of the first boat which navigated the waters of the old Chenango Canal, long since abandoned.

Mrs. Jeff Davis Ill.

New York, May 10.—Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the president of the Southern Confederacy, is dangerously ill of the grippe. She is nearly eighty years old.

HELD UP ON HIS OWN FARM.

Egg Buyer Robbed of $325 and Trussed Up in His Barn.

Kemptville, May 10.—About 4.30 o'clock this morning, Wm. Jackson, egg buyer, of this town, went to his egg barn to get ready for an early start on the road.

He was met by two toughs, who came out of the hay loft and demanded money. When Mr. Jackson was not willing to gratify them, they made him go, at the point of a revolver, into the loft, where they relieved him of about $325.

They then gagged him and securely tied him with ropes, and, after throwing buffalo robes and an oil cloth over him, took their departure.

He managed to get the gag out of his mouth and called for help. John Davison heard the call and hurried to his assistance.

BURTON BILL ENDANGERED.

Differences of Opinion as to Depletion of Water of Lake Michigan

Washington, May 10.—After two days of executive session on the Burton bill for the preservation of Niagara Falls, the house committee on rivers and harbors to-day appointed a sub committee to take the bill in hand and report May 21 to the entire committee. The differences which have made this step necessary concern the amount of water which the measure shall state may be taken from Lake Michigan for the use of the Chicago Drainage Canal.

The delay caused by this action is regarded by some as endangering its passage at the present session.
