Infant Died in Its Mother's Arms While Latter Walked to Baggage-Room

Pathetic Incident on Arrival of C. P. R. Express Saturday Night.

While being taken from the evening C. P. R. express to the waiting-room here on Saturday night, Roy Owen, the three-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. V. Kelly, of Ailsa Craig, died in its mother's arms.

The little one had been in a Toronto hospital for several weeks undergoing treatment for spinal trouble, and when it left Toronto in the afternoon was apparently in good health, and the hospital authorities had given permission to take the child home.

Nothing unusual was noticed during the journey, and it was not until Mrs. Kelly was out of the train and crossing the platform that she noticed anything wrong.

Died in Mother's Arms.

The child died before its mother reached the waiting-room.

Dr. Thompson was at once called, but could do nothing. Death was due in all probability to complications.

Mr. Kelly was in the city to meet his wife, but had expected her on a later train, and he was not at the depot. Mrs. Kelly's father lives in the city at 50 Regina street, and the remains were at once taken there.

Coroner Ferguson was notified, but decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The funeral was held this afternoon to Woodland Cemetery.

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY IN BUSY EAST LONDON

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Held on Sunday in the Centennial Methodist Church.

A special service for young women was held at the Centennial Methodist Church last evening when a choir of about fifty ladies supplied an excellent musical programme. The pastor, Rev. G. N. Hazen, also preached a special sermon to young women.

In the morning Rev. Mr. Hazen spoke against the inauguration of a Sunday car service, claiming that it tended to secularize the Sabbath. He also stated that there is but one minister behind the move, and that the cry of the men supporting the cars is that it will increase the church attendance. He thought that the ministers and church workers ought to know what was good for the attendance, and what was not, and they were not anxious to have Sunday cars. There is no necessity for Sunday cars, he said, as churches are numerous throughout the city. Sunday labor, he said, was always injurious to workingmen.

REV. T. B. CLARK ON SUNDAY CARS

Sermon in All Saints' Anglican Church on Sunday

Rev. T. B. Clark, rector of All Saints' Church, spoke against the introduction of Sunday cars, at the evening service yesterday. He based his address upon the second coming of Christ, when all will be judged according to their actions, and the treatment of fellow-men.

He stated that it would be unfair to vote for Sunday cars, as a number of men would be compelled to work, or would perhaps be given the alternative of hunting for other employment.

Mr. Clark, who recently returned from England and France, further said that in those countries the thinking people are opposed to the operation of the cars on Sundays, although they are running in the majority of cities visited by him. In some towns, however, the cars do not run until about 10:30 a.m.

MISSIONARY ADDRESS IN EGERTON ST. CHURCH

Lecture by Dr. Brown, Foreign Mission Secretary of the Baptist Church.

A missionary address was delivered at the Egerton Street Baptist Church Sunday evening by Dr. Brown, of Toronto, the foreign mission secretary of the Baptist Church, the preacher taking his text from Romans i., 14-15, "I am a debtor."

Dr. Brown pointed out that it was not an enviable position to be in debt, and stated that the Apostle Paul was not a debtor to the barbarians or the Greeks in the sense that he had received anything from them but that he had been made a trustee of the gospel of God.

Christians of today are in much the same position in that they know of God, and are therefore in debt to the heathens until they have spread the gospel throughout the world. Some people, the speaker claimed, give a dollar to missionary work and then consider that their share is completed. There must be a prayer and sympathy and love for the heathen, however.

All records for attendance were broken in the afternoon when 338 pupils turned out to a farewell to the superintendent, Miss Emma Hayward, of the cradle roll department. Miss Hayward, who has acted as superintendent of the department for two years, is leaving for the Union Missionary Institute of Brooklyn, preparatory to engaging in foreign missionary work.

Miss Hayward was presented with a beautiful writing case by Miss R. Mills. Mrs. Geo. Graham read the address on behalf of the members of the department.

MAY FORM CIVIC FEDERATION COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED

Matter Was Brought Up at a Meeting of the London Ministerial Alliance This Morning---Editor Marks Read a Paper on Labor and the Church.

A meeting of the London Ministerial Alliance was held this morning in Wesley Hall with Canon Hague in the chair.

It was moved by Rev. J. G. Inkster and seconded by Rev. D. S. Hamilton, that the members of the alliance make a point, together with a member of their congregation, to be present at the next meeting of the Charities' Organization of the city, to be held immediately after the New Year. This resolution was carried unanimously.

Mr. Marks' Paper.

The paper of the morning was then read by Mr. J. T. Marks, the editor of the Industrial aBnner, on the subject of "Trade Unionism and Its Relation to the Church."

Mr. Marks began by speaking of the way the churches of the United States and Canada were taking up the question of the relations of labor and the church. The Presbyterian Church, the Protestant Episcopalian, and Methodist Church of the United States were all working hand-in-hand with the labor movements. While in Canada both Methodist and Presbyterian churches have their department of moral reform, which seeks to improve the relations between the churches and the labor interests.

Mr. Marks spoke of the relation of organized labor to organized capital, and showed how, in his mind, a better understanding could be reached between the two.

Union Shops.

Mr. Marks spoke very strongly in favor of union shops, and showed the many advantages that trade nionism had gained for the workingmen; how it had destroyed child labor, had secured better conditions for women workers, had improved the sanitary conditions of the workshops, and lessened the hours of labor.

Trade unionism demanded a minimum wage, not that all should have the same wage, the competent man secured his just wage, but no man shall have less than a certain wage, for the union holds that if a man is not worth a certain figure he is not worthy of belonging to the union.

About Strikes.

Strikes, said the speaker, while they undoubtedl often occasioned much suffering among the workingmen, were yet of an undoubted gain to them, for conditions were nearly always inspired thereby. Strikes were not entered into unadvisably. They were not started by paid organizers. They could not be entered upon without a two-thirds vote of the members, given by secret ballot, and no strike was ever entered upon save when conditions were such as to render it a wrong to make no attempt to have them righted.

The Open Shop.

The reasons for objecting to an open shop was because in these circumstances the workingman had to deal with their employers directly, and these employers were practically a corporation, and whenever an individual deals with a corporation it is always to the former's disadvantage. Under the union the men deal with this corporation as a collective group—corporation against corporation, and hence the ends of justice are farthered.

The reason unionists objected to men remaining outside the union was that they shared in the advantage gained by the work of the trade unions and gave nothing in return, and had added no strength to the cause of the workingman.

Besides its usual work the union was in the habit of discussing questions of economic importance, and so become conversant with the question of the day.

In conclusion, Mr. Marks suggested that the church and the labor unions and the employers should meet together, and so by careful discussion come to a better understanding of one another's viewpoint. This, he thought, would do much to promote a better relation between these great bodies.

A Resolution.

At the conclusion of the address the following resolution was moved by Rev. Mr. Rollins, and seconded by Rev. E. B. Lanceley, "That the Ministerial Alliance take the iniciative in asking the Trades and Labor Council, and the board of trade, to appoint two members from each organization with two from the Ministerial Alliance to discuss the possibility and advisability of forming a civic federation, and if such federation be deemed advisable and possible, that this committee be empowered to take the necessary steps to organize such a federation, and to draw up a constitution and rules for the same."

The Discussion.

The discussion on the paper was led by Rev. Mr. Hamilton. He commented favorably on the paper, and commended the union for their careful discussion of economic questions. It was a lamentable fact, he said, that that when the Conservative or Liberal Clubs meet, it is a meeting for whist or similar games, and no discussion of matters of importance is indulged in save on the eve of a campaign, when men's minds are too inflamed to treat the matter deliberately and fairly.

Rev. Mr. Ross, Mr. Lanceley, Mr. Walker, Mr. Birks, Mr. Rutledge, Mr. Inkster, Mr. Hazen and Canon Hague took part in the discussion.

Both sides of the question being favored, Sanon Hague took issue with Mr. Marks' regarding his remarks on strikes and the opened and closed shops. But Mr. Marks' visit was greatly enjoyed by the alliance, as he showed himself a very competent exponent of the view of trade unionism and answered with great clearnes sand understanding the many questions put to him.

In Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Silcox, of Toronto, spoke of an organization in Toronto of which he was secretary when the ministers and workmen met to discuss questions of mutual interest.

Rev. T. Albert Moore spoke of the assistance the Labor interests had given in the work of the Lord's Day Alliance and said that without their aid it is doubtful if the Lord's Day act could have been passed.

In reply, Mr. Marks said he wished to recognize the assistance that the Lord's Day Alliance had done for the cause of Labor, and was glad that there were so many phases of work in which these two organizations could work together.

FOUND GUILTY OF BIGAMY

But Magistrate Thinks It Is a Case for Leniency.

NELSON BLACKWELL IN COURT

Some Interesting Evidence Adduced at Trial This Morning.

In the police court this morning Nelson Blackwell was found guilty of bigamy, but from the evidence adduced it is likely that he will be allowed to go on suspended sentence. Magistrate Love decided to consider the case until Thursday.

In the box Charlotte Burnette stated that she was married to Blackwell in St. Thomas on Sept. 18, 1908. He had told her he was a married man and was getting a divorce from his wife.

Blackwell, in the box, stated that he had repeatedly told Miss Burnette that he had not yet got a divorce from his wife. She said she would marry him any way, and wanted to be married as soon as possible. He told her it would be advisable to wait, but she would not, he said.

Blackwell's mother had also told the girl that he had a wife.

Case for Leniency.

"I think this is a case where the greatest leniency should be shown," said Mr. Graydon, who appeared for Blackwell. "This woman was 'chasing' Blackwell all the time, even when she knew he was married and didn't want to have anything to do with her until he had secured a divorce. She deliberately 'set her cap' for him."

"She certainly acted in a most improper manner," said Magistrate Love, "and is very much to blame in the matter. I will consider the case until Thursday, and give my decision then."

J. H. Kemp, a farmer from near Granton, who used insulting language to Market Clerk Maker, apologized, and was fined $1 and $2 60 costs. Kemp refused to move a load of hay when ordered to do so.

A Hard-Luck Story.

William Galoden and Robt. Butts had a hard-luck Christmas story. The young men claimed that their home is in Toronto. They were arrested last night in a C. P. R. box car, where they were waiting until the train pulled out for Toronto. They spent the previous night at the police station, where they came on their way through from Detroit.

Both were absolutely "broke' 'and in court said they didn't even have a stamp to communicate with their relatives. They begged hard to be allowed to go to Toronto in time for Christmas dinner.

Magistrate Love, however, thought otherwise, and fined them $1 and $3.60 costs, or a week in jail. Messrs. Galaden and Butts will dine on Christmas Day with Governor Carter.

Case Adjourned.

The case of Gavin Monaghan, charged by J. E. Thompson with assaulting him by hitting him with a stone, was adjourned until next week.

Lord Pearce, the young man who stole $10 from a fellow-boarder a year ago, and returned it recently, pleaded guilty and was remanded until Thursday for sentence.

MIXES GIANT COCKTAIL

White Plains Officer Uses the Gutter for Punch Bowl.

New York, Dec. 21.—The following named amounts of "Christmas joy" were lost to the world forever and ever yesterday in the town of White Plains:

Twenty kegs of beer.
Several cases of champagne.
Five casks of rum.
Five cases of Chianti wine.
Ten cases of whisky, some good, some better, some best.
Three hundred bottles of beer.
Two hundred bottles of gin.
Many bottles of cocktails, sherry and rock and rye.
Two kegs of applejack.
Five cases of Rhine wine.
Ten bottles of cordials and liquers.

As the beer, champagne, rum win, whisky, cocktails, gin, sherry and applejack—all of which had been seized in Bedford, Katonah and Mount Kisco "speak-easies"—gurgled out into the gutter of Railroad avenue and flowed in a warm and fragrant stream through the town, the air was rent with sighs and sad remarks.

Under Sheriff Henry Scherp was aided by several prisoners from the Westchester County Jail in emptying the liquid gladness out of its various receptacles.

LATEST STOCK MARKET REPORTS

(Special to H. C. Becher & Co., From Harris, Winthrop & Co.)

New York, Dec. 21—Noon.—There has been steady liquidation, accompanied by heavy short selling, all morning here, with special weakness in the Harriman Pacifics, on a rumor of Mr. Harriman being unwell, which, as far as we can learn, is a bilious attack. Union Pacific is now where it sold previous to Taft's election. We attribute a great deal of the selling to a opwerful bull pool formed early in the year, when stocks were at an extremely low level. Pennsylvania, Smelters, Wabash and the Tractions are holding firm. Sales to noon, 629,500 shares.
