A Pointer.

ONLY a few days more to the reason of Cheerfulness when all mankind forget the strife of business and try to make others happy and be happy themselves. This is the time of merry-making, of giving and of receiving. What will you give the loved ones, the wife, the mother, sister or friend, as a remembrance, to make for them a season of rejoicing—a Merry Christmas? Have you thought of it? For usefulness, for comfort and for enjoyment there is nothing like a good, keen cutting Carving Knife, a pair of good Scissors, or a good Cooking Range, Clothes Wringer or Carpet Sweeper.

Interesting and Spicy Gossip from Our Active Correspondents.

GLEANINGS FROM YORK.

Canterbury Station.

MAY 13.—James H. Carr & Sons are busy getting in the first crop on their new farm on Carrol Ridge. They have ready for crop between forty and fifty acres and propose to cut and get ready about the same amount this year. They have about completed two fine bars, forty feet wide, with a manure shed between, of a total length of 100 feet.

E. Lundon has placed in front of his store a fine street lamp which, as the sidewalks are in a very bad condition, will be appreciated in dark and muddy weather. The example should be followed by the other business men of the village.

The ladies of Canterbury should make an effort to raise funds to complete a side walk through the village. Why not arrange to have a picnic or concert? Very few places of this size have as many clever intelligent young ladies who could get up a concert that would be well patronized. We would be pleased to see a move in this direction made by the teachers.

L. A. Hopper, one of our most popular young men, is about to leave here to do a commission business in St. John. His many friends wish him success. Mr. Hopper was an active temperance and religious worker; took a special interest in Sabbath school work and assisted in organizing several schools here.

H. N. Grant has sold his buildings, etc., to Peter Fleming, who intends running a hotel and also carrying on a grocery business.

James Walsh and family have moved to Bangor, Me, where Mr. Walsh has got a situation with the M. C. railway company. Mr. Walsh was employed here as telegraph operator and station agent for the past seventeen years and gave perfect satisfaction to the C. P. R. and to the people doing business with him. He was always ready to oblige and to cheerfully give any information connected with his business. The people in order to show that they appreciate his many acts of kindness and his good character, presented him with a very fine dressing case and grip, and to make the presentation more pleasant, gave in his honor an oyster supper which was by far the most pleasant and agreeable gathering ever held here. In order to still further show Mr. Walsh respect, his pastor, Rev. Father Carney, was requested to make the presentation and read the address. Before doing this, he made a few remarks in his usually good style. The party then sat down to a first class oyster stew, after which dancing was indulged in for some time.

Brockway.

MAY 13.—The weather has been exceedingly warm the past week.

The grain that was sowed early is all up, and the fields and trees have donned beautiful robes of green, reminding us that spring is here in all its beauty.

Wm. Gaynor, of Fredericton, passed through last week; he succeeded in selling several wagons in Chariotte county.

The pulpit of our church was occupied a week ago Sunday by Rev. E. W. Johnston, Presbyterian. We expect to have him with us during the summer.

On Wednesday evening service was conducted in the church by Rev. Mr. Hardy.

Irwin Gilmore, of St. George, paid us a flying visit last week. He was selling carriages for a St. John firm. John Brockway, jr., purchased a fine top buggy.

Last Friday was Arbor Day. Miss McLay, our teacher, and the children observed it in due form, planting trees and cleaning up around the school yard. A number of ladies gathered together the same day and cleaned the church.

Our Sabbath School is making excellent progress.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Downes are happy over the arrival of a little son.

Zealand Station.

APRIL 29.—The sad accident, which cost Mr. Samuel Allan his life while streamdriving, has cast a gloom over the people at Stone Ridge.

J. D. Brewer passed by here a few days ago with his drive, and now has it in safe waters.

A. T. Burtt has taken A. Hawkins' farm to work for the coming summer, and has already begun operations.

Miss May Burtt intends having a birthday party next Saturday. Several juveniles are invited.

Our local taxidermist, Avery Morehouse, shot a very fine specimen of wild goose a few days ago. He has it mounted in the highest style of the art.

Times seem to be booming in this place this spring; lots of building going on, and masons and carpenters are in great demand.

George Wilson, from Fredericton, paid his friends a short visit in this place last Wednesday.

The small boy, with his fishing pole, is now frequently seen, and some fine catches have been made.

Bear Island.

MAY 10.—Farming and gardening operations are being carried on rapidly here now.

Most of the lumber cut along the shores has been rafted and run to Springhill.

The population of this place was increased yesterday by the arrival, by boat, of a family of eight, who are located at present in a house belonging to the late C. S. Ingraham.

T. Sinnott, who was seized with paralysis, near Springhill, last week, returned by boat yesterday somewhat improved in health.

Our teacher, Miss Tripp, who has taught the school in this district for three terms, has resigned, and will leave at the close of the present term, to the regret of the trustees and scholars who highly prize her as a teacher.

It is understood the upper district has secured the services of Mr. Nelson for another term, which will, no doubt, please some of the fair sex of that place, among whom he seems to be very popular.

Scotch Settlement.

MAY 13—The weather for the past week has been very hot for May, the thermometer being about 80° or over every day. It is somewhat cooler to-day, and the rain of yesterday has made the grass and trees look very green.

The farmers are all busy putting in their crop.

W. Allen & Son have finished their spring's work of shingle sawing and have turned out a fine lot.

Arbor day was duly observed on Friday last and the children were happy.

Alex. Mitchell, who recently went to Chelmsford, Mass., to work at the carpenter trade, is doing well and likes the country.

Miss Maggie Clayton has returned home from her visit to Fredericton and vicinity.

Miss Annie Sharp has also returned from her visit to Hawkshaw.

David Pickard has been visiting his many friends in this section lately after his winter's sojourn in Maine.

THE NEWS IN QUEENS.

Macdonald's Point.

MAY 7.—The farmers have commenced their spring planting.

James E. Wetmore, of the Truro, N. S., steam laundry, made a visit to friends here.

Miss Ella and Mary Macdonald, of St. John, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Macdonald, of this place.

Miss Nettie Akerley is spending a few weeks with friends in St. John.

Rev. J. D. Wetmore has finished his revival at the temperance hall. There were four persons baptised, three of whom joined the Baptist church here.

William A. C. Belyea came home from St. John today.

Mrs. D. N. Smith is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Bailey, at St. John.

Miss Bessie Macdonald has gone to St. John to spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. N. H. Worden.

Mrs. James McCrea and Mrs. Thomas Duncan of Shannon, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Macdonald.

Richard P. Macdonald has a profitable flock of sheep, each sheep in the flock having two lambs this season.

Upper Gagetown.

MAY 13—Abraham Chase met with a serious accident on Sunday, the 5th ult. While in the stable a colt kicked him and broke his arm; his arm is doing well considering his age, 75 years.

Mrs. Joseph Coy, widow of the late Joseph Coy, died last Saturday morning. Mrs. Coy had been in ill health for some time. Deceased leaves four daughters and two sons to mourn the loss of a kind and faithful mother. She was about 75 years of age.

Rev. F. A. Currier, B. A., has gone for a short visit up river, after which he will return to Upper Gagetown.

Melvin Currier has gone to Boston to work for the summer.

Stephen Watson is quite ill.

A. R. Currier has been down to Lower Jemseg doing some carpenter work at the Elm Grove hotel. He expects to continue work on E. Currier's house again in a few days.

The Hughes Bros. expect to commence painting on Coy's hotel this week.

William Weston and James Currier have each taken a scow to St. John.

White's Cove.

MAY 13.—The weather has been the warmest ever known for the time of year.

Quite a heavy thunder shower passed over here on Wednesday last.

The grass is looking well and is earlier than usual.

Rev. Mr. Crandall, of Nova Scotia, occupied the pulpit at Mill Cove Baptist church on Sunday afternoon and at Jemseg in the evening.

Rev. R. Clements preached here in the Methodist house in the evening.

Rev, F. C. Wright is here vistiting his father.

The tug Martello has been busy towing several rafts out of the Cove.

SUNBURY ITEMS.

Lakeville Corner.

MAY 6—The recent dry weather has made the ground ready for tilling. Some of our farmers have already commenced seeding.

Mr. Camp's woodboat passed up Friday en route for Little River.

"The "Scud," owned by H. Upton, made her first trip to St. John last Monday laden with wood.

Many mats have been worked here this season. Mrs. J. S. Jewett has the honor of making the finest one.

Mrs. Alison Lunn moved here from Fredericton, Wednesday, where she joins her husband.

Mrs. James Upton, who is very low with bronchitis and pneumonia, is attended by Dr. Camp, and we hope, through his skilful treatment, that she will recover.

Miss Jennie Clark, accompanied by Miss Bessie Randall, drove to her home at Douglas Harbor, Friday night.

Miss F. L. Tapley expects to go to St. John to-morrow.

Charles Coakley and Miss Annie Cambridge, of Burton, passed through here last night on the way to the former's home at Grand Lake.

Mr. Temple Excited.

During the recent discussion in the House of Commons on the Fredericton and Saint Mary's railway bridge, our Mr. Temple appears to have become unduly excited when he arose to address the House. The Toronto Globe report says:

Mr. Temple got up, and everybody listened. "In reference to my being purchased, I can tell the hon. gentleman that I never was offered one cent, one dollar, or anything else by this government. I never was purchased by this government with one single cent, but I have been asked by one of the leading men on the opposite side to join them, and I have been told if I would do so they would buy the bridge and pay the money," (Liberal cries of "Name, name.")

Mr. Temple—I would not expose that man.

At this there was a great uproar.

Mr. Temple gesticulated wildly and shouted, but his voice was drowned in the din. The Liberals continued to demand the name or a withdrawal.

Mr. Charlton said that Mr. Temple must give the name, and if he refused to do so the statement must be regarded as being without foundation.

Mr. Temple—I did not say it was a member of this House, but a member of your party.

Liberal members—Name, name.

But Mr. Temple subsided into silence.

How to Cure All Skin Diseases."

RECKLESS EXPENDITURE.

It Cost Canada Nearly $21,000 Last Year to Supply the House of Commons and Senate with Stationery.

Eleven Hundred and Thirty Dollars Paid for Pocket Knives Alone.

If the tax payers of Canada desire an insight into the reckless manner in which their money is squandered at Ottawa under the Tory regime, let them turn to the last report of the Auditor General and read the expenditure in connexion with the Senate and House of Commons. We select one item alone—that under the head of "Stationery"—and the details are interesting. Think of nearly $21,000 expended for this alone for the year ending June 30th, 1894. For pocket knives for the 300 and odd legislators, it cost $1130.35, or more than $3 per head. The details are as follows:

SHE WALKS WHILE ASLEEP.

Mrs. Quintal, of Oakland, Cal., Worries Good Citizens, Who Mistake Her for a Ghost.

(From the San Francisco Examiner.)

Mrs. R. A. Quintal, a dressmaker living in Tenth street, got up in her sleep lately and, dressed only in her night-robes, wandered about the city, and finally lay down in the wet grass of the park at Seventh and Jefferson, where, still asleep, she was found shortly before midnight by Policeman Carlin. At first he thought she was dead. Her body was cold, and she seemed lifeless. When he found that she was breathing he carried her in his arms to the nearest police locker, and rang for the patrol. Mrs. Quintal was taken to the Receiving Hospital by Policeman Mackay. Through all this she slept. Nor could Steward Victory, of the Receiving Hospital, and it was not until the matron spoke to the sleeping woman, that she awoke. Then she realized immediately where she was, and what had happened, and begged to be taken home at once. She would not give her name, for she did not want her two children to know that she walked in her sleep. Mrs. Quintal was very much exhausted, and it was some time before she could be taken home.

Mrs. Quintal explained that she was a somnambulist. About a year ago, asleep and in her night-robes, she walked across the Eighth street bridge at midnight several times, and this gave rise to the rumor that the bridge was haunted.

People saw the white-robed figure gliding over the bridge, but the mystery remained insoluble until now, when Mrs. Quintal told the story of her somnambulism.

Some nights ago Mrs. Quintal was missing from her home, and notice was sent to the police. Policemen all over the city were notified, and Mrs. Quintal was found walking around in a wooded park surrounding St. John's Episcopal church on Grove street, between Seventh and Eighth. This churchyard, dark with pine and cypress, has often been frequented by Mrs. Quintal in her sleep. Policeman Sill found her there. She answered some of his questions, but did not awake. Even in her unconsciousness she carefully guarded her name, but she agreed to go home, and the policeman escorted her to the house at Tenth and Clay streets, where she led the way to the side gate. Still asleep and with her eyes shut, she walked up the steps, opened the door and went into the house. That was at one o'clock in the morning. Captain Fletcher detailed a policeman to watch the house till morning, but the somnambulist did not appear again.

Mrs. Quintal's affliction does not arise from invalidism, for in spite of the fact that unclad, she has walked about asleep in the chilling night air, she is well and strong. Nor is her mind in any way affected. She is an educated, refined woman.

So fearful is she of leaving her home at night in her sleep that she has had a contrivance made whereby she chains her ankle to the bed post. An iron ring is clasped about her ankle and locked, and the key hidden, but in spite of this Mrs. Quintal gets away. In her walking moments she cannot remember what takes place during her somnambulistic state, but she believes that she has a duplicate key hidden in some place, and with this unlocks the chain that binds her to the bed post.

Although Mrs. Quintal cannot remember the incidents that occur in the strange sleep that overtakes her, and knows about her strange adventures only by being wakened far from home at night, she does not remember in one somnambulistic state all that has occurred in another. One night when she wandered in her sleep she lost, or thought she had lost, a valuable diamond ring. The next day when she awoke and found her ring missing she knew she must have been out walking in her sleep. For several days she mourned the loss of her ring. One night after this she awoke and found herself behind a clump of trees in the park surrounding St. John's Episcopal church. She had been digging with her fingers in the ground. Her diamond ring was on her finger. She had buried her ring, she thinks, behind these trees in her walk a few nights before, and remembered in her next somnambulistic experience where she had hidden it.

The sleep walker who has been abroad so much at night wears nothing on her head. Sometimes, in addition to her night robes she wears a light skirt. Sometimes she walks in her bare feet, but at other times she wears a pair of knitted woollen slippers.

BIGGEST MAN ON EARTH.

Leonard Whitton, of Brighton, Ont., is without doubt the largest man living, weighing 714 pounds. He is exceedingly large of girth, but only 5 feet, 10 inches in height. Mr. Whitton was born and brought up at Brighton, Ont., and came from English stock. His parents were both large of stature and corpulent besides, each weighing over 300 pounds. Mr. Whitton is 40 years old. For many years he conducted a lucrative meat business at Brighton. He began to gain flesh rapidly about ten years ago, up to which time he did not weigh more than half what he does now. Within the past two years he has been exhibiting himself in numerous museums about the country. Mr. Whitton says that history records but one man more corpulent than he, an Englishman, who lived about half a century ago, and who weighed only fifteen pounds more. A faint idea of his enormous avoirdupois can be gathered from the following dimensions of his build: neck, 28 inches around; muscles of arms, 28½ inches; breast, six feet; waist, seven feet; thigh, 49 inches; calf of leg, 25 inches.

In compliance with the agreement under which the British men-of-war withdrew from Nicaragua on condition that the smart money amounting to $75,000 demanded by Great Britain for the expulsion of Consul Hatch be paid in London within fifteen days, that amount of money was on Thursday deposited in the treasury of Great Britain on behalf of Nicaragua.

Indictments have been returned by the grand jury against a large number of Illinois politicians, for accepting money during the last campaign for their votes and influence. The law, which is a new one, makes the punishment imprisonment in the county gaol and disfranchisement for from one to three years. Some of those indicted are holding important offices.

Wm. O'Brien, member of parliament for Cork city and formerly editor of United Ireland, has been served with a notice in bankruptcy for the amount of judgment £407, recently awarded Patrick Chance, an Irish lawyer who had acted as counsel for Mr. O'Brien for some eight or nine years, and who brought the action against Lord Salisbury which resulted in a verdict for the ex-premier. Mr. O'Brien will resign his seat in parliament.

THE Newfoundland and Manitoba legislatures appear to be playing a game of hide-and-go-seek with the Dominion Parliament. The former met Thursday to hear the terms of union proposed at Ottawa, but adjourned for a week, because no answer had been received from the Canadian Government. The same day the Manitoba legislature met to give its decision on the remedial order, but adjourned till June 13th for further consideration. At Winnipeg, St. John's and Ottawa it seems to be a case of "You speak first."

In Sunbury Circuit court at Burton last week, Judge VanWart presiding, two civil cases were tried, Eagers vs McNamara, and Shields vs Quigley. The first was a trespass case and the trial resulted in a disagreement of the jury. F. St. J. Bliss for plantiff and C. E. Duffy for defendant. The other case was a trover for the conversion of a quantity of personal property at Grand Falls. This case was undefended. A verdict was entered for the plaintiff for $689, $614 being for the value of goods and $75 for the detention. C. E. Duffy for plaintiff.

IN the New South Wales, Australia, legislature Thursday, Premier Reed in introducing the budget, said the government proposed a great change in the country's policy. The government was pleased to abolish the customs duties imposed in 1891, to establish a tariff on a free trade basis. The government was determined to stake its existence on direct taxation. There would be a permanent tariff only on wines, spirits, beer, tobacco and opium. The old duties would be retained for a year, the sugar duties alone remaining untouched for two years.

J. T. Estes, a well-to-do farmer, was killed by Will Green, 23 years old, near Newbern, Kentucky, one day last week. Green was running away with a young daughter of Estes, and had reached the Rev. Mr. Harwell's home, intending to get the minister to perform the marriage ceremony. Just as he stepped out of the buggy he saw Estes and his son coming on the road. Green stopped, and as Estes and his son came up Green shot Estes just above the heart, killing him, and also fired twice at the son, but without result. Green then proceeded to Broughtonville, where he and Miss Estes were married.

Warning to Women.

Ladies who appreciate the high quality of Priestley's Dress Goods should make it a point to see that Priestley's name is stamped on every five yards. Instances are not unknown where Priestley's trademark—"The Varnished Board"—has been used the second time with inferior goods wrapped upon it.

Dear me! cried the nurse; the baby has swallowed my railway ticket. What shall I do?

Go and buy another right away, returned the mother. I am not going to let the conductor punch the baby.

A clock once exhibited in Brussels instead of striking the hours with a bell, fired a pistol every hour. It's ingenious, said a visitor to the exhibition; but of what use is it? Why fire a pistol? To kill time, said the witty inventor.

Mr: D.—"If you get my coat done by Saturday, I shall be forever inbebted to you." Tailor—"If that is the case, it won't be done."
