☞ In the garden of a restaurateur at Vienna there had existed since 1853 an enormous beer barrel, the capacity being such that the interior had been converted into a room for dancing. Recently a ball took place there, which visitors did not leave till three in the morning. At half-past four when all was quiet, an alarm of fire was given, and the barrel was found to be in flames. In the course of two hours, in spite of all the efforts of the proprietors, it was reduced to ashes. The loss is estimated at 40,000 francs.

☞ The brothers Davenport performed before the Emperor and Empress, at St. Cloud, on the 28th. On the following day Robert Houdin, their scientific rival, was likewise summoned to the palace. He imitated the court into the mysterious manœuvres of his predecessors with such perfect success that "both their Imperial Majesties," it is said, thanked him for having with so much adroitness, unveiled this piece of charlatanism.

LAWYERS AT FISTICUFFS!—The Globe's special say: New York, Nov. 21.—In the Superior Court this morning, Mr. Whittaker, jr., and Mr. D. McGregor were opponent counsel in a case. A statement was made by Mr. McGregor, to which the he was given by Mr. Whittaker. Mr. McGregor dragged his opponent at once from the room, and proceeded to administer pugilistic punishment. The court directed Mr. Whittaker to make formal application to punish McGregor for contempt.

The Prince of Wales walks about, without pomp or ceremony, like any other English gentleman. He passes now in and out the House of Commons unnoticed, and may be seen at times chatting in the inner lobby with a friend so familiarly that, if you were told that the Prince was there and did not know him, you would never guess which was the heir to the throne, and which the mere subject.—[Illustrated Times.

It is intimated in the National Intelligencer of Thursday, that President Johnson will, before the meeting of Congress, issue a proclamation recognizing the reconstructed States as again in practical relations with the National Government, and that it will consequently be the duty of Mr. Clerk McPherson to place the names of the Representatives from these States on his initial roll.

RECEPTION OF GEN. GRANT IN NEW YORK.—The reception of Gen. Grant at Fifth Avenue Hotel last night, (21st) was most brilliant; over two thousand guests were present, including some of the most prominent men of the United States. The party sat down to supper prepared for only a few distinguished personages. In reply to a toast, Gen. Grant said: I am greatly indebted to the citizens, ladies and gentlemen of New York city, for the great kindness I have received during the ten days that I have been with them. It is not my habit to make speeches, and I hope you will excuse me from saying more, but I do thank them from the bottom of my heart. Gen. Grant takes departure for Washington at 4 p.m.

A respectable man, residing in Paris, had received from a nephew a present of half a pound of snuff, and had placed it on the shelf of a cupboard by the side of a similar quantity of coffee just purchased. His wife, in preparing their breakfast, took the wrong packet, and without perceiving her error, made a beverage, of which they each partook, supposing it to be coffee, although they at the same time observed that it had a very bitter, disagreeable taste. They were both shortly afterwards seized with symptoms of poisoning, and then only discovered the mistake. Medical assistance was obtained, but the husband shortly afterwards expired; the wife, however, ultimately recovered.

☞ At the Lord Mayor's banquet at Guildhall, the Lord Mayor gave the health of their Excellencies the Foreign Ministers, coupled with the name of the minister for St. Salvador. The toast was duly honored. The Minister of St. Salvador rose, and in good English, though with a strong Spanish accent, said curtly: My Lord Mayor, ladies and gentlemen, God save the Queen! This brief speech was received with loud cheers and some laughter.

"Burleigh," the nom de plume under which Rev. Matthew Hale Smith writes to the Boston Journal, tells of a remarkable robbery in New York. He says: "The broker was inside the counter, near the safe. A man came in without a hat, and with a pen behind his ear. He walked round to the spot where the banker stood, who was talking with a gentleman, and said to him, 'Please to move, sir, and the banker did. The fellow coolly took out of the safe several thousand U. S. bonds, and coolly walked away, and has never been seen from that time to this. Near the closing hours of business the bonds were sought for and could not be found. The banker turned to one of the clerks and asking him for them, stating that he saw him remove them from the drawer. Fortunately the clerk was able to prove an abili, and then the audacity of the thief was made apparent."

RUFFIANLY ASSAULT IN HAMILTON.—Yesterday forenoon, Mr. Wm. Gillespy, the Hamilton correspondent of the Leader, was brutally assaulted by Mr. Hugh McKinnon, lately Deputy Chief of Police, for some strictures that had been printed in the Leader. The magistrate very properly gave McKinnon six months in jail, and in addition fined him $100 and costs. The applause which greeted this verdict shows that the freedom of the Press is still dear to the hearts of Britons.

JUST LIKE A WAITER.—The Grand Journal tells a little characteristic story, which may be thus Anglicised:—A gentleman going into a chop-house the other day found the room very close and warm. He called the waiter and said, "Haven't you any ventilators?" The reply was, "No, sir; they are all gone. I have just served up the last."

NEGRO MORTALITY.—The Tribune reports 19,000 blacks in the District of Columbia in great personal distress. Here is a picture of the sufferings of these people: 'The most frightful mortality exists, as many as eighty coffins per week being furnished by the Quartermaster's Department, most of which are for children. It is the opinion of physicians among them and of other close observers, that three forths of these children die from neglect and want. In the family of a soldier who lost his life in battle, five out of the ten children have died since March, 1865, from the above causes. In another, three out of seven children of a soldier drafted in December last have starved to death in the last three weeks.' In the meeting of the American Missionary Association, last week, the distressed state of the Freedmen was discussed, in the course of which it was stated that in the section of the Ogeechee river, Georgia, from one-fourth to one sixth of the entire population had died during the past summer. To us it is an astonishing fact that the physical suffering and rapid deaths of the negroes are regarded with so much indifference. Liberty is a blessed boon, but surely they are not to be left to perish simply because they are free.

A CURIOUS WAY TO SMUGGLE WHISKEY.—The telegraph brings along the following very fishy story of the most recent plan adopted to smuggle rot-gut into the States. It does not give us the name of the railway. "An ingenious scheme for smuggling whiskey from Canada into the United States has just been detected. There were thirty two woman on board one railway train, bound to the United States, who held in their arms what at first appeared to be babies, carefully wrapped up, with neat little feet exposed to the gaze of passengers. Upon investigation, it was discovered that they were tin cases, fashioned after the similitude of babies, containing from three to five gallons of whiskey. About thirty of the woman were arrested, and over one hundred gallons of whiskey secured.

A London reporter says that the Thames police have remarked, as a characteristic circumstance, that nearly every female who throws herself into the water is careful to divest herself of her bonnet and shawl, which are placed on the ground in such a manner as not to be the least damaged.

Bridal Chambers.

The New York Post learns with horror that "Bridal Chambers," and other extravagences, such as frescoed ceilings, sumptuous tapestries, etc., are about to be introduced into some of their railroad cars:—

"Bridal chambers," the editor thinks, are disgusting enough in hotels and steamboats, where they have long since been condemned by public opinion, even the least refined; but bridal chambers in a railroad car would be too shocking to be tolerated at all. The first load of decent passengers would cast their tawdry finery out of the window. The ambition of railroad managers should be turned, not to an increase of drippery in the ornamentation of cars, but of safety in their conduct. If money is to be spent, let it be spent, not in fantastic decoration, but in substantial improvements.

Does it not seem a mockery, when we have over a hundred frightful slaughters by rail each year, to be told that the cars are to be frescoed, and gilded and carpeted? Or are the managers mad, caring nothing for life or limb, and only eager to make a display? Or do they make so much money, in spite of the large sums ever and anon paid for damages, that they can afford to throw it away on this silly ostentation, in which bad taste and ill-breeding unite to produce at best only a shabby gentility.

The Confederate Privateers.

During the late war in the United States the Confederates sent out the following ships to pray upon Northern commerce.—

a. The Sumter, Savannah, Jeff Davis, Nashville, Alabama, Stonewall, Shenandoah, Florida, Georgia, Cuchamanga, Retribution, Tallahassee, Tacony, Clarence, Sallie, Winslow, Judah, Petrel, J. O. Nixon and Calhoun. From a carefully compiled statement of the Secretary of the American Shipmasters' Association, it appears that these privateers, in all twenty, burned two hundred and seventy-five vessels, having an aggregate of one million tons, and classified as follows:—Four steamers, seventy-eight ships, forty three, brigs, eighty two barks and sixty eight schooners. The Alabama inflicted the largest losses on American shipping of any of them, having captured, burned and sunk sixty nine different vessels.

AN ARECDOTE OF CARLYLE.—The London correspondent of the Boston Commonwealth, discoursing on the prospects of the cholera, tells the following anecdote of Thomas Carlyle:—When the cholera was raging at Dumfries, Scotland, a little over thirty years ago, to such an extent that every third person was seized, Mr. Carlyle, who was residing near Craigenputtock, called his domestics together and addressed them as follows:—"It is undisputable that the cholera is raging near us; it turns people blue and kills them; it may come here and kill us; it is a comfort to know that the worst it can do with us is to kill us; all we have to do is to go on, each of us doing his or her work, and avoiding those things which are conductive to cholera, chief of which is the fear of it; therefore, it my authority passes for anything, the word cholera will not again be mentioned in this household." All were made stronger by these words, and the cholera passed by them.
