Members of London C. of C. Leave Tomorrow Morning on District Auto Tour

MEMBERS TO FEEL BUSINESS PULSE

C. of C. Auto Tour of Western Ontario Towns Starts Tomorrow.

ONE-DAY TRIP

The members of the London Chamber of Commerce, to the number of between 50 and 60, will leave via motor at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow morning, for a tour of Western Ontario towns. The delegation, which will travel in twelve or fifteen motor cars, will be accompanied by Sergt. McDonald's Pipers.

The party will be headed by President Gordon Ingram, Vice-President R. H. Dowler, Secretary Gordon Philip, Mayor G. A. Wenige, J. H. Saunders, president of the Western Fair Board, Dean Fox, Professor Morrow and Professor Freeman of the University of Western Ontario, and a number of the directors of the chamber.

The proposed tour, which will conclude with the return to the city at about 7 p.m., includes Mitchell, Listowel, Wingham, Clinton, Exeter and Lucan. A stop of half an hour will be made in each place, with an hour and a half at Listowel for dinner, as the guests of the Listowel Chamber of Commerce. The latter courtesy is being extended the party by way of return for the good time shown the Listowel Club on its visit to London on June 18 last.

Some years ago the local chamber made a rail trip extending over a period of three days, taking in Windsor and Detroit and other points on the M. C. R. and Pere Marquette Railroad.

This is the first auto trip, however, that the chamber has ever planned. Its purpose is to meet the businessmen of each and every community visited. The party is being met by the municipal council of each municipality where a call is being made, and also by the boards of trade in the towns where such organizations exist.

MASON SURRENDERS TO ONTARIO POLICE

a statement, revising the evidence he had given previously.

He came in and took the stand again, and said he had been told that former Assistant Treasurer Charles A. Matthews, Jr. had received a "split" on the $11,500 profits Hart and Ross had made on the sale. Ross corroborated Hart's story, saying that the "tip" came from the Parliament Buildings—"the tip came from Mr. Matthews." Another party in the deal, L. C. Mason, who had married Matthew's stepdaughter, was said by Ross to have received $6,600 profits, and Ross understood that Mason was to give half this sum to Matthews. These disclosures came at midnight while Matthews was sitting listening.

Advised To Take Advice.

Hon. W. H. Price provincial treasurer, counselled Matthews to take legal advice before saying anything which might incriminate him, so Matthews was not called to the stand. That night Matthews was suspended from his position by the provincial treasurer.

Mr. Corley was asked last night if there had been any further developments during the day in respect to his client, and whether bail had yet been granted.

"Is Mr. Matthews willing to answer any questions which may be put to him as to events during his time at Queen's Park?" Mr Corley was asked.

"Indeed he is," said Mr. Corley. "He is willing to answer every question put to him, fully and frankly."

GREY'S FAILING EYESIGHT CAUSES RESIGNATION

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Aug. 20.—In response to inquiries at Falloden regarding the retirement of Viscount Grey from the leadership of the Liberal party, in the House of Lords, it was stated today that Lord Grey undertook the position in the first place because of difficulties between the sections of the Liberal party. He made it clear at that time that he was unable to give his full attention to parliamentary work, or to take the lead on every question which might arise in the House of Lords.

Despite reports to the contrary, it was stated, there has been no improvement in his sight, which has been practically unchanged for the last six years. This condition, therefore, continues to impose some limitations on his political activity.

Foreign Eating Is Mystery Average Canadian Tourist Battles Vainly To Solve Disposing of Eels in Denmark Proves Problem For Bravest.

WATER NOT WANTED

Hunt For French Pastry Ends in Disposal of Wafer.

(This is the third of several articles resulting from a summer spent in Europe by Rex of Rarebit fame.)

Eating in several different languages has been the pastime of thousands of Canadians who visited Europe this summer. And those who have returned will agree that eating in a foreign language is much more of an art than conversing in one.

Each nation has its national food. Each is famed for certain specific dishes. Each looks askance on the gastronomical habits of foreigners. Canadians, in fact, are just as ridiculous from the European's point of view as the European is from ours.

In Denmark, for instance, a native will smile derisively at the spectacle of a Canadian putting cream and sugar in his tea. And Canadians will return the compliment every time he sees a Dane devouring a raw eel. Once, at a certain dinner, the writer, like Caesar eating his gristle, was compelled to demolish half a dozen raw eels in order not to offend his host. Only Canadians who have partaken of these delectable dainties can appreciate the courage such an action involves.

Yet eels are a staple dish in all Scandinavian countries. They slither down your throat like a log flowing over a waterfall. This slithering process plays havoc with the digestion, for eels should really be well masticated. But the benighted foreigner never learns to masticate eels correctly because it is an art of which Scandinavians are seemingly the exclusive masters.

Wonderful Folk.

The Danes are a wonderful folk; wonderful for their intensive agricultural methods, wonderful for their courtesy, but most of all, wonderful for their capacity to eat. Six meals, including heavy cheeses, cooked and uncooked fish, black bread, sugared potatoes and olive oil are partaken of each day. The protein content of this diet is enormous, yet you seldom see a fat Dane; and their complexions are as clear as peach skins.

Every tourist visiting the continent has the same experiences, so far as food is concerned. In Hamburg he discovers, as the writer did, the persons who drink water are mollycoddles. No real German would think of taking anything but wine or beer at and between meals. Many drink a tumbler of "Snaps" each day. This beverage is indigenous to the country, and a teaspoonful of the fluid is guaranteed to put the average Englishman or Canadian to sleep. A smell of the liquor has been known to paralyze a rabbit.

Before "doing" the continent, Mr. Tourist is invariably furnished with an inexhaustible supply of advice in connection with things to eat. After assimilating the suggestions and carefully picking the gold from the dross, he usually has the following notations tucked away in his mind:

"I must try some of that delicious French pastry and French fried potatoes."

"I must have some of that famous Danish horse-meat.

"I must order a meal of sausages in Berlin."

"I need not tip the French waiters very much. For a small tip they will do anything."

Not in France.

People who put these notions into the craniums of prospective voyagers are either demented or deliberate bluffers. For, on arriving in Europe the tourist discovers that the only place in the world where you cannot get French pastry and French fried potatoes is France. The writer, after making desperate inquiries for French pastry, was finally rewarded with a Nabisco wafer made in America. He gave up hope of ever tasting Danish horse-meat when he was informed that the only way to get it was to buy a horse. He toured Hamburg and Berlin restuarants for prewar weinerwursters without success.

But the greatest libel is that which characterizes the French waiter as polite and willing. If politeness means spilling soup on your lap, throwing buns in your face, and bringing you dishes which only the man who first ate an oyster would have the nerve to try, then the French waiters are polite. But even this measure of service will not be given a second time unless the unhappy victim leaves a ten-franc tip. In fact, the chap who said French garcons were courteous must have been the same man who said the moon was made of Vermilion Rockefort.

There are some edibles, of course, for which certain countries are justifiably proud. Denmark, for instance, is proud of its bananas. These are imported from California, but they are choicer and larger than any sold this side of the water. Germany is noted for its asparagus which is tinned in New Orleans. Holland is known for its fragrant German hamburg steaks. France is famous for the South American candies.

The only country that seems to maintain its reputation in regard to foodstuffs is China. At the Hong Kong exhibition building in Wembley the writer sat in a Chinese restaurant, listened to the cat-calls of an alleged Chinese orchestra, and ate a real Chinese meal. He started off with bird's nest soup, made from authentic birds' nests, and tasting like it. Then he tried shark's fin and fried mice. The mice were a revelation, but if anyone invites him to a meal of shark's fin again the invitation will be politely but firmly refused.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT WILL HOLD AVERAGE

Large Number Will Enter the Primary Classes, Inspector States.

In spite of the fact that 575 public school pupils received their entrance standing in June, the enrollment for this coming September term will be up to the average, states Senior School Inspector V. K. Greer.

Mr. Greer says that there are about the same number coming into the primary and kindergarten classes this term as left at the end of June. The schools in London will reopen this year on Tuesday, Sept. 3. In some other cities Sept. 4 is set as the opening day.

Figures in the inspector's office for June show that 7,888 pupils attended the schools, and the enrollment was 8,511.

AUSTRALIA'S TRADE WITH EAST INCREASES

Sydney, Australia, Aug. 19.—A feature of the recent development of Australian exports is the increasing demand from the Far East for the products of this country. DECREASE SHOWN, CANADA'S IMPORTS

More Than $40,000,000 Decline in First Four Months of Year.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Ottawa, Aug. 19. — A decrease of more than $40,000,000 in the value of goods imported into Canada for consumption in the Dominion during the first four months of the fiscal year, as compared with the same period in 1923-24, is shown in the trade statement issued through the customs department this morning.

Total importations during the four months ending July 31 were to the value of $271,288,585, while a year ago they amounted to $314,153,440.

Despite this decline the decrease in the grand total of Canadian trade for the four-month period as compared with the same period a year ago, is but $22,579,852. An increase of $20,954,204 in domestic exports during the four months offset, to a certain extent, the decrease in imports which so markedly affected the grand total.

The total value of domestic goods, which left Canada during the four months under review, was $327,309,594, as compared with $306,355,390 a year ago.

The grand total of Canadian trade for the four months of April, May, June and July, was $602,666,714, as compared with $625,246,566 in 1923.

way along Picton street. Out of deference to Mrs. A. Sippi, an old-time resident who was unable to join in the trip, the motors passed her door.

The procession which left London was joined en route by other cars. The route was planned so that all who wished to go could meet the main party along the road. Others who could not get away at noon left by motor a little later. Some went on the 12:20 Canadian National train, to which was attached the official car carrying Mr. King.

Those Present.

Among those who went with the motor party were: C. C. Ferguson, Mrs. Ferguson, Miss E. Ferguson, C. Robson, John Fairbairn, Mrs. C. Norris, Peter Cameron, and Mrs. Cameron, Norris McGugan, J. M. McEvoy, J. M. McIntosh, A. M. McEvoy, A. D. Alexander, Miss Flora McCall, F. S. Emigh, R. J. Southcott, Dr. J. H. McLellan, Bob Gardener, A. Gardener, W. W. Gammage, J. McIntyre, F. Day, Mrs. M. J. O'Mara, M. J. A. Frezell and Mrs Frezell, M. J. Donohue, J. G. Steele, Mrs. P. Cemoron, Mrs. W. R. Shaw, Mrs. W. E. Watson, W. R. Shaw, J. C. Beemer, Mrs. A. Robinson, Mrs. J. Douglas, C. J. Farr, John Farr, C. Porter, J. C. MacDonald, Rev. Dr. J. McNair, Ed. Geary, Mrs. E. Geary, Mrs. J. Crawford, Winnifred Bodd, Mrs. J. J. Haskett, W. E. Dood, Mrs. Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. Collins, M. G. Hay and Mrs. Hay, Ernest Boug, H. S. Ireland, Ed. Reid, V. J. Colgan, C. RR. May, C. A. Houghtby, A. Johnston, D. Palmer, W. H. Sleeman, W. A. Martin, Gordon Ingram, G. F. Pearson, A. M. Trick, F. N. Norman, J. Pevler, A. G. McLachlin, James McCormack, John Heaman Jun., and others.

Guest in London.

Mr. King spent last evening and this morning as the guest of E. S. Little at his summer home "Belvoir, at Delaware. Mr. King arrived at Komoka at 10:30 p.m. last night via Canadian National, and went directly to Mr. Little's home.

On the telephone this morning, Mr. Little said that the prime minister was just taking a rest. He had spent the morning in getting a little rural atmosphere about the farm.

Mr. King, accompanied by Mr. Little, left for London at 11:30, and went aboard the official car. The party left on the 12:20 Canadian National train for Woodstock.

Occupy Car.

While Premier W. L. Mackenzie King was spending last night at the Delaware country home of E. S. Little, and Hon. G. P. Graham the guest at Chatham of Senator A. B. McCoig, the other members of the party occupied Mr. King's private car, No. 100, in the C. N. R. yards here. Included in the party, besides those already mentioned, were Hon James Murdock, minister of labor, his daughter, Miss Elena Murdock; W. H. Measures, secretary to the premier, and Miss McCool, secretary to Hon. Mr. Murdock.

Seen by The Advertiser in their private car this morning, the visitors discussed topics of diversified nature. Hon. Mr. Graham expressed regret concerning the passing of the late George M. Reid, who had been one of the closest of personal friends of the present minister of railways. Mr. Graham also commented upon the ill-health of Thomas Hobbs, another of his personal friends in this city.

Asked of other visits to London Hon. Mr. Murdock was prompt in his reply, explaining that he had been a brakeman out of this city on the C. P. R. for more than ten years that his wife had been a London girl and that two of his sons had been born here. "Show me a corner of the city that I don't know," was his laughing remark.

The members of the party, and particularly Miss Murdock and Miss McCool, were deeply amused with the report of the Free Press in yesterday's edition that "Premier King was accompanied by Hon. G. P. Graham and Mrs. King." The premier gets letters all the time from women who aspire to be the wife of Canada's prime minister, Miss Murdock explained. He gets as many as fifteen a day. Some of them come written on pink-colored paper and all scented. "The poor man doesn't know what to do sometimes."

Present at Luncheon.

Mr. Murdock told The Advertiser that he had been present at the luncheon in Calgary last Friday noon at which Sir Henry Thornton was reported to have said that the deficit on the C. N. R. this year would be $30,000,000, but that what Sir Henry had said and what he meant was that there would possibly be a decrease this year in the operating surplus as compared with that of last year of approximately $10,000,000.

Reading from a newspaper, Miss McCool remarked that the wearing of a man's hat on the right side meant rowdyism, and on the left side that he was a pure nut. "Don't continue this conversation too personally," interjected Mr. Graham, "I wear mine on both sides. But, seriously, a Toronto Star reporter told me that I could wear my hat at more angles on my head than any other man he knew of. That's something to be proud of anyway."

governor of Nebraska, who has formally accepted the honor of running as Democratic candidate for the vice-presidency.

ARRIVES IN WOODSTOCK.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Woodstock, Aug. 20.—Premier King arrived in this city at noon today, having stopped overnight in London after attending Tuesday's picnic at Chatham. The premier was accompanied by Hon. George P. Graham and Hon. James Murdock, and was met on his arrival here by Dr. Rankin, M. P. for North Perth, and Dr. Sinclair, federal member for North Oxford. The party at once motored to Southside Park, where it is expected a record-breaking crowd will witness the afternoon's program. Large delegations were present from the Liberal Associations of Middlesex, Perth, Norfolk, Brant and South Waterloo.

The weather, which was threatening earlier in the day, cleared before noon and everything was in order for a most successful picnic. Ingersoll, Tillsonburg and London Liberals assembled in Ingersoll, and came in a procession to Woodstock, headed by the Ingersoll band.

SEVERE STORMS DAMAGE WESTERN GRAIN CROPS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Aug. 20—Meagre reports up to an early hour this morning indicated that the severe electrical storms which have been passing over Manitoba during the past two days have played havoc with the crops in a number of sections of the province. Especially is this true of the Fox Warren district where, it is reported, a storm which broke over northwestern Manitoba on Monday night brought hail which ruined the crops on ten thousand acres, fifty farmers suffering losses estimated as averaging eighty per cent. The electrical storm was also accompanied by a violent wind and torrential rains.

Yesterday afternoon the storm which swept over the north central part of the province laid to waste between three and four thousand acres in the Carberry district. C number of farmers are said to have been completely hailed out, while many others report partial losses.

While Neepawa escaped the force of yesterday's storm, a considerable area three miles northwest of Brookdale suffered waht is estimated as a 35 per cent loss by hail.

EARLY APPROVAL IS NOW EXPECTED

Believe Both French Houses Will Agree To Pact After Short Debate.

LETTER IRRITATES

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Aug. 19.—The lobbies of the Chamber of Deputies were seething with irritation today because of Premier MacDonald's letter to Premier Herriot urging an earlier evacuation of the Ruhr than agreed upon at the London conference. The French supporters qualified the British prime minister's letter as a "back-handed trick," until they learned that it had been published with M. Herriot's consent.

The opposition, which normally would be eager to use the British document against Premier Herriot, apparently decided it would not be wise at this juncture. The chances are that the minority action in the forthcoming debate in the chamber will be limited to the reading of the declaration of principles and criticisms which will put members on record before the country.

The only opposition is likely to come from the Communist deputy, M. Cachin, who is planning an interpellation on the recognition of the Soviet government. The reluctance of vacationing deputies to give notice of interpellations—only one new member being reported today, bringing the total to nine—gives government supporters ample grounds for belief that the forthcoming passage-at-arms will be of short duration, and will culminate in a satisfactory though not overwhelming majority on a vote of confidence.

The Senate is not expected to be much more difficult for the premier, as it is no wunderstood M. Poincare's widely-heralded interpellation will be mainly for the purpose of getting on record, and will not be designed as an anti-government onslaught along the lines made famous by M. Clemenceau, known as the "overthrower of cabinets." The probabilities now are for a short session of parliament.

Criticize MacDonald.

The letter of the British prime minister, Ramsay MacDonald, urging France and Belgium to take every possible step to evacuate the Ruhr in less time than the one year period agreed upon at the international conference is called everything in the Parisian press from "eleventh hour blackmail" by the Figaro, down to politer forms of the same thought. The letter, dated Saturday, was a complete surprise to the newspapers.

The Temps is the mildest in its comments on Mr. MacDonald's communication, saying its effect in France is not desirable. The Debats declares "The least that can be said is that it is extraordinary." This newspaper adds, "The British cabinet is in a poor position to give anyone a lesson in legality on this point, for England is on record as having approved the threat to occupy the Ruhr and only changed her opinion later to suit her convenience."

The Debats considers Mr. MacDonald's "unheard-of procedure" is the beginning of a campaign "which will be followed up by the bankers at the moment the loan is launched in order to put strong pressure on France to abandon that which she unwillingly conceded at London."

The Temps voices the same view, concluding that the warning to France will mean that the bankers will insist upon a speedier evacuation of the Ruhr.

APPROVE OF PACT.

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, Aug. 19.—The premiers of the federal states of Germany assembled under the presidency of Chancellor Marx today, and discussed the outcome of the London conference. It can be safely said that on the whole they approve the pact, although their expectations regarding military evacuation of the Ruhr were not fulfilled.

The chances in favor of the bills for the Dawes plan being adopted by the Reichstag are improving. The Nationalists, who thus far have declared that the bills must be rejected, now say that their attitude will be determined at a party meeting Thursday, and as the Nationalists do not want new elections on a Dawes report platform, it is expected that a sufficient number of them will vote in favor of the bills.

GERMANS EXPRESS JOY.

Associated Press Despatch.

Offenbourg, Baden, Germany, Aug. 19.—Popular rejoicing over departure of the French occupation troops from here, Appenweier and a number of neighboring villages, finds mute expression in the liberal display of the German Republican colors, which are flying from almost every house and public building in the places affected by the troop movement.

The evacuation proceeded in an orderly fashion, the French avoiding every display of ostentation which might prove offensive to the German citizens, who also refrained from demonstrations which might have nettled the departing forces.

The movement of French troops in the direction of the Kehl bridgehead began at 9 o'clock last night after all the contingents had been ordered to remain inside their barracks, the commanding general having ordered that no French uniform should be seen on the streets after 6 o'clock yesterday evening.

A large contingent of French civilians and their families followed in the wake of the departing cavalry and infantry, and their exodus made available for occupation by the townsfolk no less than 60 dwellings from which the Germans had been evicted when the French occupied the area in February, 1923.

Many households find a distinct advantage in being posted regarding Advertiser "Want" Ad opportunities.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS AFTER EARTHQUAKE

London, Aug. 20.—An earthquake near Osh, in the province of Semiryechensk, Russian Turkestan, has caused the death of 41 persons in three villages and rendered 8,000 people homeless, says a despatch to the Evening News from Allahabad, India, quoting advices to the newspaper Pioneer.

More than 4,000 houses were destroyed.

The rest of the meeting will be devoted to the routine work of No. 2 committee.

Wheat Yield Is 54 to the Acre

Stratford, Aug. 20.—Fifty-four bushels of fall wheat to the acre taken off a field on the farm of W. W. Ballantyne, second concession of Downie Township, is believed to be the record yield for Perth County. The average yield of fall wheat for the province is about 22 bushels to the acre. Some good yields are reported from the Bruce Peninsula this year where some fields have threshed as high as 44 bushels to the acre.

ASKS FOR ARREST OF FARM WORKER

Raleigh Township Woman Robbed of Money and Watch by Employee.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Aug. 19.—A warrant was issued today for the arrest of William Moore, employed on the farm of Mrs. James Newham, Raleigh township, charging him with the theft of a silver watch and fifteen dollars in cash. The woman says Moore left the place yesterday afternoon, and shortly afterwards she missed the watch and the money. The Toronto police have been notified to keep a lookout for Moore, as it is thought he went to that city last night.

Pioneer Dies.

William R. Clark, a pioneer resident of South Harwich township, died in the Public General Hospital here today, following an illness of two months. The late Mr. Clark was born in York State 87 years ago, and settled with his parents on the fourth concession, Harwich, at a very young age. He resided on his farm until three years ago, when he moved to this city with his son James B., now county registrar. He is survived by three daughters and two sons, one sister and two brothers. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon, interment being made at Blenheim.

Crops Are Good.

The crops in the county of Kent compare very favorably with those of the other counties of the province, in the opinion of Ralph E. White, Kent representative for the department of agriculture. Mr. White has just returned from a motor trip to the eastern counties, and says the only places that can be compared with Kent are Oxford and Middlesex.

Motorist Sentenced.

Henry Roose drew a twenty-day sentence in the county police court this morning from Magistrate Arnold on the charge of driving a motor car while intoxicated. Roose, it appears, was driving a car which collided with one driven by Ernest Powell of Blenheim on the Gravel road last Sunday night.
